The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Metropolitan Toronto Library Canadian History Department

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Griginal copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the lest page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▼ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Metropolitan Toronto Library Canadian History Department

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▼ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

From Andrew Alexander, Esq., L. L. D.

I certify that Mr. Charles Morrison attended the Greek Class of the United College for several Sessions; that he merited throughout my unqualified approbation by the steady propriety of his conduct, and the diligence and success with which he prosecuted his studies; that he has considerable experience in teaching, and acquaintance with the most approved methods of organizing the Classes, and conducting the educational details of a public Seminary, having been for some time employed as an assistant in the Madras College; and that I doubt not, he would discharge the important duties of a public teacher in a manner alike creditable to himself and satisfactory to the parents and guardians of his pupils.

From Edward Woodford, Esq., L. L. D.,

H. M. Inspector of Schools for Scotland, and late Classical Master in the Madras College, St. Andrews.

I have known Mr. Charles Morrison for several years. He has frequently been engaged as Tutor to pupils in my different Classes, and has acted also as assistant to me in public teaching. I have reason to be well pleased with his severions and success in both capacitie. He appears to me to possess several of the elements of a good teacher in a nigh degree, particularly temper, activity and endurance. That his Scholarship is substantial, will, I doubt not be amply testified by his University certificates, and altogether, I regard him as highly deserving of promotion and encouragement.

From William Pyper, Esq., L. L. D.,

Professor of Humanity in the University of St. Andrews.

Having already testified to the character and attainments of Mr. Charles Morrison as a Student in the Humanity Class, I have much pleasure in adding that he has since completed the course of atudy in the United College, and after strict examination obtained the Degree of A. M.

I may be permitted to state that the favourable impression produced by his exemplary conduct, and attention to study, while more immediately under my eye, has been strengthened by what I have subsequently learnt respecting him from other quarters, and that I consider him well qualified by temper and disposition, as well as by excellence of character, to undertake the duties of an instructor of youth.

From William O. Lonie, Esq., A. M.,

Teacher of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in the Madras College, St. Andrews.

I have great pleasure in bearing testimony to the merits of Mr. Charles Morrison, A. M., with reference to his application to the Teachership of the combined Parish School of Newburn, and Grammar School of Drumeldrie.

I have been intimately acquainted with him for several years, and have formed a very high opinion of his religious and moral worth, as well as of his abilities, acquirements, and gentlemanly qualities. He acted as my assistant in the Mathematical Classes of the Madras College for a considerable part of last Session, and approved himself as pre-eminently qualified in point of excellent tact, thorough self-command, and class government, combined with very extensive acquirements, easy communication and active exertion, to conduct the education of youth.

Mr. M.'s attainments are certainly beyond the mere requirements of Newburn School, being well-known, and approved in St. Andrews as a distinguished scholar—but his well regulated mind is, I am convinced, fit for the lowest as well as the highest departments of teaching—and these very attainments, combined with his energy and tact, give admirable promise, should be succeed in this application, of tuture scholastic distinction to Newburn, such as its ample endowments would warrant.

It were difficult to say, wherein as a scholar, Mr. Morrison excels, his English is correct, plain and pleasing, his Classical attainments as per common report), of the highest order, and his Arithmetical and Mathemetical attainments are such, as I from long experience, can confidently recommend to be amply sufficient for one situation. As a Teacher, I have found him temperate and mild, yet firm in duty, energeticalso, and capable of communicating his knowledge with ease and discrimination. I speak warmly and confidently of Mr. Morrison, for I have a high regard for him, and am firmly of opinion that the Heritors and Patrons of Newburn School will be fortunate in securing his services.

III.—Certificates bearing on my acquaintance with the Science of Theology.

From the Rev. Alexr. F. Mitchell, A. M.,

Professor of Hebrew in St. Mary's College, St. Andrews.

The Rev. Charles Morrison, Preacher of the Gospel, has been known to me for several years, and is regarded by me as a young man of correct deportment, good abilities, and amiable dispositions. While at College, he was a laborious and successful Student, and since he entered on the duties of his profession, he has continued to display the same qualities. I have heard him officiate in the pulpit, and can bear testimony to the earnest and impressive way in which he senducted the services, both devotional and instructional. For some months past he has been employed as an assistant in a country parish, and I believe has discharged his duties in that situation to the satisfaction of his employer, and his hearers; and from all I know and have heard of him, I cannot doubt that should he be appointed to a Church or Parish, he will prove a zealous and efficient Minister of the Gospel.

(Signed,)

ALEX. F. MITCHELL.

From Professor Jackson, D. D.

Mr. Charles Morrison has been known to me during the whole course of his Theological studies, and every thing I have seen of him, impressed me very favorably both as to his intellectual powers and as to his disposition. I considered his mental powers to be very good and well balanced, and his temper to be amiable and cheerful; and his progress in his studies appeared to me to be suitable to those excellent qualifications for the study of such a subject as Theology. Having seen little of him since he finished his studies at the University, I must leave to others to speak of him as a probationer, but I have little doubt, from what I know of him, that he will become a useful and efficient Minister of religion.

(Signed,)

T. S. JACKSON.

St. Andrew's, 26th June, 1851.

From the late Very Rev. Principal Haldane, D. D.

I have known Mr. Morrison from his earliest years, and have always entertained a very high opinion of his scholarship, talents, and principles. His sermons from the pulpit are well composed and strictly evangelical. They are calculated to edify and impress any audience whether learned or unlearned. His manner is grave and sufficiently animated indicating a heart deeply impressed with those saving truths which he powerfully enforces on others. The consequence is, that he is extremely popular in every congregation where he has officiated. He has a high sense of duty, and is capable of submitting to a great degree of labour. He possesses great prudence and gentleness of temper, and is most correct in his whole deportment. In a word, from every view that I can take of Mr. Morrison's character and qualifications, I can strongly recommend him as a young man peculiarly well fitted for the work of the Ministry,—as one who would be endeared to his flock, not merely by the excellency of his public ministrations, but also by the assiduous discharge of all the more private duties of a faithful and affectionate Pastor.

From William Wright, Esq., B.A., Ph. D.,

Professor of Oriental Languages in the University of Dublin.

I have known the Rev. C. Morrison intimately for a number of years. Possessed of great talent and industry, he distinguished himself highly throughout his academical career; and in particular devoted much attention to those departments of study, a knowledge of which is incumbent on every Clergyman, I mean Hebrew and Biblical Criticism.

Mr. Morrison will, I have no doubt prove an excellent teacher, as he has had much experience both in public and private tuition.

From the Rev. James Reid, Minister of Borthwick.

I have very great pleasure in beaving my most favorable testimony to the ability and attainments as a preacher, and the high standing as a scholar, of my railuded friend, the Rev. Charles Morrison. I have possessed the privilege of his intimate acquaintance for the last four or five years, and the candid opinion which I entertain of him is, that from his great natural talents, extensive and accurate acquirements, sound views of Scripture truth, deep piety, and knowledge of the world, he is admirably well qualified for the Professional Chair to which he is aspiring. I know him to be possessed of scholarly attainment, rarely found in so young a man. He is a good linguist, and a good biblical critic, and when he enunciates his views, he always expresses himself with clearness and precision. Should he be honored with the appointment, it is my most solemn conviction that he will discharge its duties most conscientiously and zealously, and to the entire satisfaction of his patrons.

(Signed,)

JAMES REID.

Manse, Borthwick, 24th March, 1857.

From the Revd. William H. Gray, M. A.,

Minister of Lady Yesters, Edinburgh.

I give this testimonial with very great pleasure. I have a great respect for Mr. Morrison as a man. I had every opportunity of knowing—from my residence for several years in Newington—that his services in Newington Chapel were able and acceptable, and that his other duties were most conscientiously performed. He has preached repeatedly in Lady Yester's Church. I have heard him there, and thought very highly of his manner in conducting Divine services, and of his abilities as a Preacher.

With good talents and sound sense, an excellent acquaintance with human nature, and habits of persevering industry and application; with great modesty and obligingness of disposition; with the most unexceptionable character, and thorough Christian principle, he well deserves promotion in the Church.

I do not know his special qualifications for the situation he is now applying

I do not know his special qualifications for the situation he is now applying for—but I know that he is an excellent general scholar, and has had very considerable experience in teaching, and I am quite sure he will continue to qualify himself still more fully for the important duties connected with the appointment for which he applies.

Altogether, I have a very high opinion of Mr. Morrison (for I have known him long and well) as a scholar, as a Minister, and as a man.

From the Revd. John Cook, D. D.,

Minister of St. Leonard's, St. Andrews.

Having been asked to give a testimonial to Mr. Charles Morrison, as a candidate for the Theological Professorship, vacant in Queen's College, Canada, I most willingly renew my testimony to his character and qualifications.

I have known him intimately for nearly twelve years past, and during the whole of that time, I have ever found in him the same zealous, active, obliging, and exemplary character, which I recognised in him when he was a Student at Cellogo and attending my Church.

College, and attending my Church.

Of his good abilities, his College testimonials will bear witness; he was much employed here in teaching privately and publicly, and I believe in all cases fulfilled his duties much to his credit, and to the satisfaction of those who had engaged his services. While he was resident in my parish, his conduct, as far as known to me, was always unexceptionable, and becoming his professional views; and since he was licensed, he has, I understand, given evidence of the same intelligence, and honorable principle, and assiduous application to duty, of which his carlier gaver reave promise.

of which his carlier career gave promise.

I am persuaded that his views of Christian doctrine are sound and Scriptural; and that alike by his kindly dispositions, and by his faithful instructions, he would gain and enjoy the affection and respect of young men committed to his care, and contribute to their being well prepared for the Christian ministry.

From the Revd. David Arnot, D. D.,

One of the Ministers of the High Church, Edinburgh.

I have known the Revd. Charles Morrison, A. M. for some years, and from personal knowledge, can speak very confidently of his professional character and attainments.

Mr. Morrison's mind, naturally strong and acute, has been carefully cultivated, and amply stored with theological and general literature. His views of divine truth are sound, enlightened and practical; and in his pulpit ministrations, these are illustrated and enforced with great good sense and earnestness. He has a robust constitution, and is capable of a great amount or physical labour—which I regard as a high recommendatory qualification in a Clergyman. In his present sphere of duty, Mr. Morrison is very much esteemed by the people among whom he so diligently and faithfully labours; and I have no doubt that he would prove a most useful and acceptable Minister wherever in Providence his lot may be cast. He has my hearty prayers for his advancement and success

(Signed,)

DAVID ARNOT.

In addition to what has been stated on a preceding page, I may add, that from my intimate knowledge of Mr. Morrison's peculiar mental tendencies and habits, and his solid and ample acquirements in the various branches of theological learning, I have no hesitation in stating my conviction that he is eminently fitted to occupy the vacant chair in Queen's College, Canada.

From the Revd. James Veitch, D. D.,

One of the Ministers of St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh.

The Revd. Charles Morrison has for several years officiated in Newington Chapel, in this parish, and during that period has maintained a character becoming his christian calling, and has discharged his duties both in the pulpit and as a Missionary in the district, with much fidelity and acceptance. He has repeatedly officiated in St. Cuthbert's, conducting the whole services with in-telligence and propriety, and in a way that was fitted to matruct and edify the hearers.

I consider him a man of good abilities, of sound principles, and amiable disposition, sincerely attached to his sacred profession, and anxious to devote himself to the advancement of truth. Though I cannot speak of his literary at tainments in relation to the chair of Church History, for which he is now a candidate, yet, I am persuaded that he would not undertake the duties of an office for which he did not conscientiously feel himself competent; and that were he appointed, he would discharge them with diligence and zeal, and in a way creditable to himself and beneficial to the Church.

From Clergymen who were my fellow-students at the University.

We, the undersigned, have had the pleasure of knowing the levd. Charles Morrison very intimately, for a period of thirteen years, during seven of which, we were fellow-students at St. Andrews College.

In the various classes through which we passed in our College curriculum, Mr. Morrison always held a distinguished place, and had not much of his time out of Classes been occupied in teaching, we feel satisfied from our knowledge of his talents, and habits of unwearied application, that he would have taken a place second to none.

In the Mebrew Classes, in St. Mary's College, Mr. Morrison took a very high place, and during vacation, faithfully prosecuted the study of that language, in conjunction with a few of his fellow-students, who associated themselves together for that purpose. Since leaving College, we have been much with Mr. Morrison, and have the best means of knowing that the promises of his student life have been fully re-

Mr. Morrison exhibits, on all occasions, a clear, penetrating, and inquiring mind, which will not rest satisfied without a thorough knowledge of every subject to which it may be directed; whilst his great warmth of heart, coupled with considerable powers of imagination, enables him to communicate his knowledge to others in a manner well calculated to attract and interest.

From all we know of Mr. Morrison's character and talents, we have no doubt, that if appointed to a Hebrew Professorship, he would prove a most able and successful teacher.

One of the Ministers of St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh.

The Rev. Charles Morrison has been intimately known to me for several years' and it affords me peculiar pleasure to record, that I consider him a young man of superior talents, of sound christian principles, and of irreproschable character. His views of divine truth are clear and correct, and his mode of stating and illustrating them in his discourses, every way fitted to arrest the attention, and to minister directly to the edifying of the hearers. He has been well educated for the ministry, and his faculties carefully cultivated and trained. He cated for the ministry, and his faculties carefully cultivated and trained. He has the habits of a Student, and is well read in Theology, and is a man of winning manners, most amiable dispositions, and unaffected piety.

With reference to his present application for the Chair of Hebrew, Church History, and Biblical Criticism, in Queen's College, Canada, I am glad to have it in my power to state from personal knowledge that for these departments in particular, he has all Liong shown a strong prefediction, that he distinguished himself as a scholar in the Hebrew Classes at St. Andrews University, and has all the analytics that would make a good teacher of that language being able all the qualities that would make a good teacher of that language, being able with readiness and with energy to communicate to others the knowledge which he possesses himself; that Biblical Criticism, in which he is no mean proficient, and Church History, have ever been to him congenial walks of study, and that from the acquirements which he has already made, and the pledge which his previous habits give of still greater acquirements, and the feeling sense of duty which he has upon his mind as to what he undertakes. I am persuaded that if appointed to the Chair in question, he will acquit himself of all that it lays upon him, not with zeal and faithfulness only, but with ability, prudence, and distinguished success. To the vacant office referred to, I know no young man I sould more confidently recommend, and none in whose professional promotion, on the sole grounds of his personal merits, and amiable character, I would more sincerely sympathize.

(Signed.)
