CROWN OF SORROW

Rests on the Heads of Two St. John Families.

Two Young Lives Lost While Celebrating the Crowning of King Edward.

By the Sinking in a Squall of the Yacht They Were Handing in Saturday's Loch Lomond Race—Both Bodies Recovered.

(From Monday's Daily Sun.) The joy of the coronation celebration received a terrible setback Saturday afternoon when word reached the city that two of St. John's brightest and most promising young men had met a watery grave beneath the treacherous waves of Loch Lomond.

The sad news spread like wildfire, and all sad news does, and cast a damper in many a gathering where even the victims of the yachting tragedy were not present.

There were yachting races, so called, at Loch Lomond on Saturday. One of the boats, the Alexander, owned by Chas. W. Wright, who is summing up the season's work, had on board two young men who were sailing, Chester H. McCleaskey and Walter G. Pyne, were drowned.

There are conflicting stories as to how the accident occurred. People who were on Mr. McCleaskey's steam launch, which was following the yachts on the course, say that the Alexander had just come in sight when a squall struck her so hard that she filled with water and sank immediately.

The young men were seen by those on the launch swimming away from the place where the yacht disappeared and in the direction of the launch, which was pushed at full speed towards that point.

NEITHER BODY WAS IN ANY WAY DISGUISED

Neither body was in any way disguised when the grappling hooks had taken hold.

Undertaker Fitzpatrick brought the remains of Wm. Pyne to town shortly after noon. Those of Mr. McCleaskey were conveyed to the city by Undertaker Chamberlain last night.

J. A. Dawson said he saw both of the young men swimming in the water after the yacht went down. The yacht was thrown overboard by the Alexander and went down head foremost.

He thought Mr. McCleaskey kept afloat five minutes. A pole was thrown overboard from the launch to Mr. Pyne, but he was unable to grasp it or the pole extended to him.

The Alexander was an open boat 18 feet over all and four and a half feet beam. She was built by E. Rankin in this city about last night.

Mr. Wright purchased her for R. A. Watson. She was sailed in a race at Loch Lomond by A. F. Johnston, and was recently put on board. She carried a large mainsail for a yacht of her dimensions and a jib of ordinary size.

Mr. Wright considered his boat a safe one, but others do not agree with him in this belief. It is said an experienced yachtsman who handled her recently told Mr. Wright she was not a boat which he should allow everybody to sail.

The accident occurred about four o'clock in the afternoon. The yacht was watched stopped at five minutes past four.

Among those on board the steam launch were Chas. Wright, J. A. Dawson, J. A. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Selinger of Massachusetts, Mr. Straus, Miss McLaughlin, A. F. Johnston, Walter G. Pyne, a 21 year old son of Chas. W. Wright, and a son of Broad street. His father is now at Grand Manan. The deceased worked in McAvilly's foundry and was well liked by all who knew him.

Mr. Pyne enjoyed quite a reputation as a singer and took part in many minstrel shows. Chester H. McCleaskey, who was the second son of A. A. McCleaskey, the well known yachtsman, was 24 years of age. He was born at St. Stephen. When the Mounted Police went to South Africa he joined that body and served there several months.

Since his return to St. John he has worked along the harbor front as a checker. He was a most estimable young man and was generally respected. His remains will be interred at St. Stephen.

Coroner Berryman visited Loch Lomond yesterday morning, and after making careful inquiries into the circumstances of the case, Sunday morning an inquest unnecessary. He thereupon gave permission for the removal of the bodies to the city.

The death took place in the Church of St. John the Baptist, Sunday morning, Rev. Father Gaylor referred in touching terms to the sudden taking off of young Pyne, a member of the congregation, and one of the choir boys in the church. The pastor, after paying a deserved tribute to his manly worth, and expressing sorrow for the blow that had fallen on the household, made a practical application of the incident as a pertinent illustration of the uncertainty of life and the duty of man to be ever prepared for death, not knowing what a day or an hour may bring.

George Ross, chief superintendent of the post office department, has been in Charlottetown, for a few days considering proposed changes in the interior of the post office here. of St. Joachim's church at Vernon River will be held on Sunday August 17th. In addition to the jubilee services the new pipe organ constructed by the Conservatory of St. Hyacinthe will be blessed and dedicated.

Archbishop O'Brien of Halifax will preside. Bishop McDonald of Charlottetown, Rt. Rev. Mr. Milnes of Jamaica's Parish, Mass., Rev. G. C. Conolly and Flattery of the Boston Archdiocese, and Rev. M. J. Sheehan, C. S. S. R. will also assist in the services.

The death took place in the Church of St. John the Baptist, Sunday morning, Rev. Father Gaylor referred in touching terms to the sudden taking off of young Pyne, a member of the congregation, and one of the choir boys in the church. The pastor, after paying a deserved tribute to his manly worth, and expressing sorrow for the blow that had fallen on the household, made a practical application of the incident as a pertinent illustration of the uncertainty of life and the duty of man to be ever prepared for death, not knowing what a day or an hour may bring.

George Ross, chief superintendent of the post office department, has been in Charlottetown, for a few days considering proposed changes in the interior of the post office here. An addition will be built to provide room for the receiving and sorting of the mail. More room will thus be increased. D. K. Dolle, city editor of the Guardian, has gone to Halifax to take a position on the Herald.

MYSTERIOUS MURDERS.

The Undiscovered Slayers of Timothy McCarthy—Other Cases. The Men Who Killed Doherty and Oulton Are Still at Large.

In the history of the city and province there have not been many established cases of murder where the criminals have remained undetected and unpunished. I do not include in this cases of mysterious disappearance, and which there have been a number, and in some of which there have been every reason to suspect foul play, nor of sudden deaths by poison, etc., where there has been an unvoluntary suicide should not have been homicide. By an established case of murder is meant one where there has been no doubt of death by the act of unlawful killing with malice aforethought.

The most notable of these cases was that known as the McCarthy murder in Shelburne in 1871. My personal opinion, based on information obtained at the time and since then, is that it was not a case of murder, but one of killing without such intent, and in which those involved were acting in a vindictive spirit both by their own efforts and the repeated blunders of some of those who undertook to investigate the mystery. Timothy McCarthy, a well known resident of Moncton, was undoubtedly killed in Shelburne on the night of the 12th of April, 1871, and his body was found in the Shelburne river on the 12th of April in the following year. In the meantime John Osborne and members of his family had been accused of murder on the evidence of one Annie Parker, whose story, both at the outset and in the subsequent trial, was a mass of improbabilities and contradictions. She was afterwards held for perjury, but the prosecution was not pressed to a conviction. The Osbornes were tried twice for the murder, but the jury in both instances failed to convict. The cost, both to the crown and the county of Westmorland, was enormous.

A cardinal blunder by those who undertook to investigate the McCarthy case was one which is frequently made by men who are charged with inquiries by reason of their official position, but who are fitted neither by training nor temperament for this class of work. Their first step is to construct one or more theories, and claim these theories to the public and devote their energies to trying to find facts to fit them. The better way would seem to be to start with the facts, and by other means than sending out men with oars behind their necks, figuratively speaking, and to let the facts shape themselves out of the facts. Any preconceived theory is usually a wrong theory which wholly frustrate the object of the search.

The most notable instance of an unsolved murder mystery in St. John is that of a young man, who was killed in the city about fifty years ago. The name of the victim has not been ascertained to this day, nor was anybody arrested for the crime. It was a young man, who was killed in the city about fifty years ago. SEES HIS SON.

John C. Best, Convicted Murderer, Visited by His Father from Sackville, N. B.

SALEM, Aug. 7.—John C. Best and his aged father met in the guard room of Salem jail at 8.50 a. m. today. The witnesses were emulous of the jail, all of whom were deeply moved, while Best, to all appearances, was as stoical as ever. The elder Best is 83 years old. He had not seen his son before for many years.

At the close of the conversation Best returned to his cell, and the aged father went to the home of Rev. M. M. Smith, with whom he will stay during his visit to Salem. The elder Best is a shoemaker and has been employed 32 consecutive years with one concern in Sackville, N. B. Acting under advice of counsel, Best continues to refuse to talk with reporters, and he says nothing to anybody else in regard to his position. Though he preserves the exterior that characterized him through the trial there are times when he seems to be having serious thought. It is possible, and no notice will be given of the day or hour he leaves the jail for his last earthly place of refuge.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

So many people there are who though not exactly sick, are not strong and healthy. As a result of some lingering disease or some extra tax on the system, their vitality has been exhausted, and they feel weak. If you are one of these it is worth your while to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Mrs. D. Scott, Cobourg, Ont., states: "After recovering from typhoid fever I was left in a very low state of health and my system was very much run down. I was very weak, nervous and in fact was not fit to do any work at all and began to fear that I was of little use in the world. "A friend of mine, Mrs. G. M. Brown, had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and told me that it benefited her wonderfully. I took a course and began the use of this medicine. After taking the first box I began to feel an improvement in my health, and now after using four boxes I am completely cured. I now feel like myself once more and believe that I can attribute the cure to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

He had Kidney Trouble, which developed until he was absolutely unable to leave his bed.

HALIFAX CELEBRATED.

Captain Colahan of the U. S. Battleship Indiana, a Prominent Figure. HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 8.—Captain Colahan of the battleship Indiana was a principal figure in all the ceremonies in this city in honor of the coronation of King Edward. All day on the battleship Indiana the Union Jack was at the main mast and bunting hung in long lines in different directions aboard ship. Captain Colahan, this forenoon attended service at the Garrison chapel in company with General Sir Charles Parsons and other imperial officers. The church was filled with a congregation of worshipping soldiers. An hour after the service was over the guns of the citadel, the British fleet and the Indiana complimented in a royal salute, and the troops massed on the common were discharging feu de joie. Captain Colahan had a post of honor at the saluting flag during the review, with him being Vice-Admiral Douglas, commanding the British squadron. In the afternoon the captain and his officers attended a brilliant garden party given by Admiral and Lady Douglas, and they also visited the coronation regatta at the North West Arm. At night the British war vessels were the most brilliant ever seen in these waters. The American officers attended an official reception given by Gov. Jones at government house tonight.

WEDDED AT MASCARENE.

A pretty wedding took place at Mascarene on Tuesday evening last at the home of the bride, when Mrs. Flora A. Leonard was united in marriage to Capt. William H. Hilyard of Eastport, Maine. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Levesque, George N. B. Quite a large number of friends and relatives were present. The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of grey.

Well Made.

Pure flour and pure yeast do not necessarily mean good bread. It may be spoiled in the making. Just so material is not everything. Prof. W. Hodson, M.A., Official Analyst to the Dominion Government, after a number of analyses, reports that "Sunlight Soap is a pure and well-made soap." "Well made" means more than you think. Try Sunlight Soap—Octagon Bar—next wash day, and you will enjoy the benefits of a well-made soap and will see that Prof. Hodson is right. No one should know better than he.

A DIVORCE CASE.

That is of interest to Many St. John. The St. John friends of Capt. William Lockhart, the stalwart commander of the Dominion Atlantic str. Prince Edward, which ran on the Bay service between this port and Digby whenever the Prince Rupert was laid up for repairs, will be interested in the following from the New York Sun of Thursday last: That Gertrude M. Leighton used to go to different ports for which Capt. William Lockhart's steamship Prince Edward was making in order to see him is part of the charges made against her by her husband, Dr. John A. Leighton, in the suit he has pending against her in the supreme court for absolute divorce. Dr. Leighton is a professor at the American Veterinary College in West Fifty-fourth street. He has a city contract to examine all the horses used in the police department, and passes upon the horses purchased by the city in the different boroughs; also, his wife says, he has a large veterinary practice among "the 400" and an income of $13,000 to $14,000.

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 8.—Robert Webster, 15-year-old son of W. E. Webster, jeweler of Kentville, was drowned this afternoon near Hantsport, in saving the lives of two children, aged 11 and 12, sons of R. W. Eaton of Kentville. It was at a picnic and the two children were bathing on the beach, when they got beyond their depth. Webster saw their danger, and though himself unable to swim and without waiting to take off his clothes, plunged in to save them. This he succeeded in doing, but he was drawn beyond his own depth and was drowned. His body had not been found at dark. Webster was a clerk in the store of the children's father.

Letters of administration of the estate of the late Edward Sargent were granted to his widow, Elizabeth. The estate consists of $750 personally. C. J. Coster, proctor. Letters of administration of the estate of the late Anne Barlow were granted to her sister, Jane R. Barlow. The estate consists of $100 real and $150 personal property. E. G. Kaye, proctor.

RAISE OF PAY ON I. C. R.

The workmen of the I. C. R. are good workers and give full value for every dollar they receive. It will please their friends and the public generally to hear that they wages have been advanced from $15 to $13.25 a day, for men to get $1.75, except at important centres, where they will get $2. The foreman of working trains and bosses of all outside work will get from $3 to $3.50, and section men when taken away from home will hereafter be paid from the time they leave until their return, with 25c. extra for each meal and 25c. for night's lodging. Heretofore they only got an ordinary day's pay, and had to grub for themselves. Trackmen and section men get better rates for Sunday work. All this goes to show that the Trackmen's organization is a power. This is the second increase it has effected, and while the personal rate of advance in wages is small, the two increases amount to a total of over $5,000 a year on the I. C. R. and P. E. I. systems. While talking to a railway man Saturday night, the Sun was told that Manager Russell put on 30 trills and would bear the hump. J. C. ST. STEPHEN.

Sudden Death of Charles F. Beard, a Prominent Young Citizen. ST. STEPHEN, Aug. 10.—The community was saddened this morning by the death of Chas. F. Beard, one of its prominent young citizens. Mr. Beard was the only son of the late Hon. Allison W. Beard, recently a factor of the port of Boston, and a wealthy resident of Massachusetts. He came here about ten years ago, where he met and married Miss Nettie Smith, daughter of the late Capt. E. J. Smith, and sister of Mrs. Fred C. Jones of St. John. He was of a weak constitution and spent much of his time in the open air, being greatly devoted to hunting and fishing, and an ardent woodsman. Kindly in disposition, he made friends rapidly. Yesterday he was in his usual health and talked with the Sun's correspondent after the races, which he attended. In the evening he met some friends who arrived by C. P. R., and on reaching his home complained of smothering sensations, which had bothered him for some days. Medical attendance was quickly summoned, but he passed away two hours later. He was thirty-five years of age, and leaves besides his wife and mother, a young son about a year old. Interment will be made here.

BOSTON LETTER.

The Stock Exchanges Were Closed on Coronation Day.

From Our Own Correspondent. BOSTON, Aug. 10.—While it may seem strange to the world at large, it is nevertheless a fact that the coronation of King Edward was observed in this country by persons outside of the circle of those who are natives of Canada or the British Isles.
