The flames were met by water as tast is they arose from the cargo, and were anable to spread to the wood-work of the steerage. The men soon began to beat back the fire inch by inch. Occasional bursts of flame would make t difficult for them to hold their posiions, but no one flinched. The fire vas finally checked, and following up heir advantage, the men completely x'inguished it soon after midnight. Toward morning the captain and nis officers persuaded the passengers to retire to their berths, assuring them har the danger was past. The provisions and water were removed from the life-boats, and they were again securely lasted. The steamer was soon going again at full speed, and the work of pumping out the water which had been thrown into the hold was begun. It was found that the fire had originated among the silk and cotton ods which had been taken on board at Southampton. Many cases of goods were partly burned, and others were lamaged by the water. ### The Anti-Rent Boom.

Mr. Parnell's anti-rent agitation, ays the London Telegraph, is having carious effect on the Irish ciergy. he more they about it, the less I'hey see clearly that, in spite of Mr. Sha v's soothing speecies, there is no keeping the movement from developof property—into a wild fight between the well-ted and the hungry. We all know which side in such a struggle he priesthood, who never starve in reland, are bound to take, and much ias bee expected from their influence on the masses. Yet, from certain do-ngs in the West, it is to be feared that the pitests have not the same power over their flocks when these have dangled before their eyes as the reward of their support of the movement what virtually amounts to a seizure of their landlord's land. One priest has ocen obliged to express disapproval of he anti-tent meetings, and the result has been that, so far from gaining the upport of his people, he has roused their animosity. They take suce a close interest in his doings and movements since he has dared to differ from them that, whenever he goes abroad ne has to be armed to the teeth and whenever he lies down to rest at night an escort of constabulary have to count guard over him. Hitherto, under the mask of Nationalism, the priesthood have been able to serve the Government as a sort of Piæt rian Guard of order whenever the party of ction become dangerous. But signs are not wanting that we may not be able to count upon much help from their alliance in future.

GAMES FOR CHILDREN.

Now that the long evenings are approach

Now that the long evenings are approaching it is advisable to it the children should be provided with useful recreation. The following Games are both instructive and amusing, and are very fascinating.

The first two are quite an assistance to the School course, the first exercising the young in the correct spelling of words, and the second teaching them to count quickly and coursely.

"LOGOMACHE,

War of Words."

PRICE 60 CEN.S.

This Game is easily learned being accompanied with concise directions, and in a short time not only the young folks, but also the old folks are equally interested in it.
