Emily Crawford's Impressions of the Rennes, Aug. 18 .- Of yesterday's court proceedings, Mrs. Emily Crawford writes: Gen. Roget, M. Bertullus, the investigating magistrate; the widow of the late Lieut.-Col. Henry and Col. Picquart were on the stand yesterday. Madame Henry, after M. Bertullus had deposed, asked leave to speak. She stood up in a stagey manner, lifted her left hand, and said: "Je demande la parole." (I ask to be heard). She wanted to contradict what Bertullus had said regarding the friendship of her husband and Esterhazy. She would be a handsome woman, did not the vulgarity of the drinking house she originally came from cling to her. Subaltern officers revolve around her, but Mercier and other generals among whom she sits seem embarrassed by her presence. What she said was a tirade, learned by heart, and scarcely evidence. It however was not wide of some points that Bertullus brought out. She wanted to show that Ber-tulius could not possibly have wrung

THE TRAITOR'S NAME. The correspondents of London papers in Rennes are almost unanimous in taking a gloomy view of the prospects of Capt. Dreyfus. They seem to believe it likely that he will be found guilty. The representative of the Daily Telegraph says that unless the German Government reveals the name of the real traitor, it is quite on the cards that the same verdict will be rendered as in the previous court-martial.

an avowal from Henry that he and Esterhazy formed an association of tracers. Her story coincided with what Gen. Roget said on this subject. So far from Bertullus appearing to suspect Henry and crushing the latter with words of suspicion, she said her late husband had described that magistrate as "charming." She said Bertullus even embraced Henry when the latter was taking his leave—a circumstance which struck the wife when she heard of it as boding no good. She jumped to the conclusion that false-hood lay behind the kiss and that Bertullus was a Judas. This idea she then developed into a passionate peroration that seemed a lesson learned by heart. Madame Henry was very like the late Mademoiselle Agar, the actress, as she indulged in this piece of dramatic vengeance. Bertullus felt that it would never do to argue with her; for tears were standing in her eyes and the judges were looking symrespected, and whose angry excitement he pardoned. Gen. Roget showed extraordinary forensic ability. I do not know what the military worth is of the generals who are acting here as witnesses, but I do not wonder at the old judges of the court of cassation being jealous of their argumentative capacity, their skill in turning a point inside out, in puzzling innuendo, in casuistry, and in elegant verbal facility. Mercier is wonderful in these respects. Billot is not inferior to him, but Roget is the superior of both in forensic skill, acumen and suggestiveness. Roget is a very able man. He is the son of a gendarme in the Pyrenees, and obtained his commission by passing the examinations. gular in features, and cold and deliberate in manner. He speaks distinctly and rather slowly, but does not fall into the defect into which Madame Henry fell, of making every syllable a long one. Dreyfus was under Roget as an outsider at the general staff, and seemed tortured by his arguments and the points he made-points that went home to the military judges, and were intended to poison their minds. Finally he could stand it no longer, and, starting up, his eyes gleaming with anger, he cried: "You deal only in argumen-tations. I have listened to you for hours without hearing a single fact." There were, nevertheless, some facts today; but they were adduced to destroy the credit of Col. Picquart, who was represented, when head of the intelligence department, as playing a crooked part, and keeping back every piece of information unfavorable to Dreyfus. Maitre Demange made many happy points in putting questions to Gen. Roget, who dodged them with presence of mind and address, and when in a corner, with cool impudence. Still, Roget had the ear of the court. He knows how to speak to specialized mili-

The evidence of M. Bertullus was, on the whole, favorable to Dreyfus, in the judgment of civilian listeners. Unfortunately, his reputation is blown upon. He belonged, when at Nice, to the Southral gang, and as the magistrate sent to investigate their swindle, played into their hands. Gen. Roget alluded to this, and to other doings of Bertullus, and showed that he did not respect him. M. Bertullus is an epicurean and has rather shocked Rennes people by his rather gay relations with a former actress, who somewhat rolls in riches. Still, he seems to me a fair and truthful witness, and his deposition must affect the public.

THE COURT MARTIAL

Col. Picquart Controverts the Statements of Gen. Roget.

Rennes, Aug. 18 .- When the second trial by court-martial of Capt. Alfred and the frame of the sash through which he was looking crashed in. On Dreyfus, charged with treason, was resumed in the Lycee at 7:25 this morning, Col. Picquart, former chief of the intelligence department of the war office, was called to the witness stand and continued his deposition, which was interrupted by the adjournment of the court for the day. The colonel gave his testimony in the same loud, fearless tone of voice. He commenced by declaring he thought it necessary to immediately reply to Gen. Roget's veritable arraignment of him while the latter was on the stand.

At the outset of Col. Picquart's remarks. Roget interposed, and said he would reply to them. Continuing, Col. Picquart proceeded to discuss the secret dossier as being the mainspring of Diet, by a vote of 212 to 209, rejected ret dossier as being the mainspring of the second reading of the bill relating the condemnation of Dreyfus. He took to the Dortmund-Rhine Canal, and the up the document successively, referring up the document successively, referring to the writers, and addresses of the letters as "A" and "B." Among those present in court were Gens. Zurlinden and Billiot, formerly ministers of war. PRESS COMMENT

Editorial Views on Developments in the Dreyfus Case.

London, Aug. 18 .- A dispatch to the Morning Post from Rennes, indicates the activity of the censorship there. Gen. Mercier's insulting references to Emperor William and certain allusions to the secret dossier were suppressed while Gen. Mercier's uterances were toned down.

The correspondents of the London morning newspapers are, however, unanimous in their opinion that the tide has finally turned in favor of Dreyfus. The evidence yesterday (Thursday) was so favorable to him that even some of the anti-Dreyfusites would fain admit that the scales are falling from their eyes. Madame Henry's dramatic characterization of M. Bertullus as Judas failed of the intended effect. because he immediately handed Col. Jouaust, president of the court-martial, an anonymous letter that he had received, proving the whole scheme pre-

The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle predicts that Dreyfus will be recondemned, and that the sentence will of excitement and uprisings incidental upon an acquittal. He believes that the latitude allowed the generals in court points to submission to what in France is a sacred image, "reasons of state." The correspondent of the Times comments upon the change that came over the aspect of affairs when Maitre Demange began tentatively to cross-examine the witnesses, his questions leaving Gen. Roget utterly disconcerted. He remarks, too, upon the fact that Col. Jouanst failed to confront Roget with Bertullus, whose evidence, therefore, had its full effect. The Rennes correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "The court was hypnotized by the evidence of M. Bertullus. No more terrible or dramatic story was ever told in a court of justice, and its effect was heightened a hundredfold by the soft, sweet-toned voice and gentle manner of the witness, who recorded such infamous deeds.Gen. Roget, meanwhile, sat on pins and needles. His face grew livid, his hands clutched at his clothing convulsively, and his facial muscles quivered as if with a nervous attack. Presently, with a sound such as an adder-sting might cause, he rose to his feet, steadied himself for a moment, and then dragged himself outside. Later, when he had recovered his equanimity in the open air, he spoke to an artist who had been sketching him, and said: "You have been very unlucky today; another.

Bullet Passed Within a Few Inches of His Head-Deliberate Deed.

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 18.—Mr. James Greaves, conductor of the G. T. R train running daily between here and Coboconk, had a narrow escape from being shot while crossing Wilson's siding, three miles this side of Coboconk, Wednesday night. It is Mr. Greaves' custom to ascertain at the different points along the line on the up trip the number of cars to be taken on the down trip in the morning, and when passing Wilson's siding he was looking out of the closed window counting the cars, when he heard the report of a rifle examination it was found that the bullet passed through the frame and out of an open window on the other side of the coach, passing within a few inches of the conductor's head. Everything points to it being a deliberate attempt on Mr. Greaves' life, and yet he himself cannot account for the affair unless it was done by a tramp whom the conductor compelled to pay his fare when stealing a ride a few days ago.

Ottawa, Aug. 18 .- Private Robert L. Dunn, of No. 2 Company, R. C. R., Toronto, was drowned in the Ottawa River yesterday afternoon, near the camp, at Rockcliffe. Dunn and a fel-low-soldier, Robert Wilson, of Toronto, went into the water at 5 p.m. on a ledge. Dunn fell off into deep water and pulled Wilson with him, who could only swim a little. Dunn was unable to swim, and Wilson and Dunn, while struggling, cried for help. Corp. Harry Moodie, of St. Johns (formerly of Ottawa), and H. Stewart, of the Ottawa football club, were swimming near by. They went to the assistance of struggling men. Dunn had gone, and Wilson was about to drown when helped to shore. The rescue was a brave one, and afterwards Moodie and Stewart dived for Dunn, but could him. Wilson was much exhausted when rescued. The drowned man was 22 years old, a harness-maker, by trade.

THE ZIONISTS IN CONFERENCE

Consider Means to Establish a Jewish State in Palastine.

Basie, Switzerland, August 18 .- The Zionists, who are organized to devise means to establish a Jewish state in Palestine, held their third congress here under the presidency of Dr. Theodore Herzl, the famous Vienna author, who for years has advocated the purchase of Palestine from the Sultan of Turkey and the establishment of a new Jeru-

Three rabbis from Galicia and Roumania, who were clad in gaberdine and Kaftan, attracted attention by their earnest cheering of Dr. Herzl. The Russian delegation included or-the charter obtained from the sultan permitting the settlement of Palestine by the Zionists they will be under Turkish sovereignty.

The appearance of Max Nordau as a Less Liquor Sold in the Province Every Year.

Ottawa, August 18 .- J. K. Stewart, Ontario inspector of licenses, who is here, says there has been a remarkable diminution in the number of liquor licenses in the last few years. Last year the number was 3,000 less than years ago, when there were 6,000. Now in the whole province with its increase in population there are only 3,000 licensed establishments in operation.

The business is not as profitable as it used to be, continued Mr. Stewart. Although the provincial population has jured. gone up at a remarkable rate, licenses have decreased by 3,000 in the last 25 years. The drinking habits of the people are being reformed to a very large river. extent. As a matter of fact during the past year there were fewer commitments for drunkenness in Ontario than in the state of Maine, where a prohibitory law is being enforced.

Twenty-five years ago in the city of Ottawa, when the population was only about 25,000, there was a total of 262 licenses; this year the number is 110, notwithstanding that in that period the city has grown rapidly and the popula- and the side walls of churches built tion doubled. In Ontario ten years ago there were 4,797 commitments for standing. The poor are crying for drunkenness, last year there were but bread, but none is forthcoming, as all drunkenness, last year there were but 1,707 commitments on that charge.

"There has been a partial revolution in the interest of temperance," said Mr. Stewart. "A few years ago a man his business. WITHOUT TRIAL

Marie Dupont at Last Released From Jail-She Killed Her Babe.

Cornwall, Aug. 18. - Marie Dupont, of Alexandria, who has been a prisoner in the county jail since Jan. 16, 1896, charged with the crime of killing her newly-born baby, was released on Tuesday on an order from Justice Moss, sitting in chambers, at the request of the attorney-general of Ontario. She was bound in her own recognizance for $500 to appear at the fall assizes. The case is probably without a parallel in the history of Canadian justice, as for nearly three years the unfortunate girl has been in the county jail awaiting her trial, which was unavoidably postponed from one court to another on account of illness or absence of important witnesses. When the case came first before a jury, the medical evidence touching her sanity and mental condition was so conflicting that the jury could not agree. At the June meeting of the county council the matter was brought up by D. A. McArthur, the justice who had committed her for trial, and a resolution was passed memorializing the attorney-general to have the matter settled one way or another. The facts of the case were laid before the department of justice, with the result as stat-

The crime of which the prisoner was charged was the killing with a knife of the illegitimate child, which she had just given birth to. She carried the body, it is alleged, some distance away, and hid it in a brush heap.

NEWLY INTRODUCED.

Sensation Caused in Barnaby River New Brunswick, by Dodd's Kidney Pill-

Barnaby River, N. B., Aug. 14.—Quite a sensation has been caused here lately by the introduction of a new medicine Dodd's Kidney Pills. Although there had been many deaths in this village and surrounding district from Bright's Disease, and other Kidney troubles, yet strange to say, Dodd's Kidney Pills had never been tested. Our people had little faith in patent medicines.

Now, however, Dodd's Kidney Pills are creating a sensation. A large number of people are using them and expressing surprise and delight at the result. "From the first week I began to improve,"says Cornelius Crottie,of Barnaby River, who had been given up by the doctors. The fact seems to have surprised him, but it is always true where Dodd's Kidney Pills are used.

FISTIC. A SERIOUS KNOCK-OUT.

San Francisco, Aug. 17 .- This morning Dr. Zabel, city physician reported the condition of Pugilist Jim Francy, of Cincinnati, who was knocked out by Frank McConnell in the fourteenth round last night, as much improved. About fourteen ounces of blood has been drawn from the still unconscious fighter with good results, and it is expected that he will regain his senses. The attending physician at the city and county hospital are unable to say whether his condition is the direct result of a blow from his opponent, or whether it was caused by the contact of his head with the floor as he fell in the final round. Frank McConnell, his opponent, and several other "sports" are held pending the outcome of Franey's injuries.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

Compulsory Arbitration. Objections to compalsory arbitration can doubtless be searched out. But against what proposal on any subject whatever can objections by some skillful dialectician not be made? Smoothbore theorists very likely found many objections in advance in New Zealand against compulsory arbitration, but it was made a part of the law, and is said to work, on the whole, atisfactorily.

The settlement of a certain dispute between a corporate body of capital-1sts and those in their employ, may not reach results of absolute perfection; but, broadly speaking, it does effect a settlement in the main just and reasonable. If the true relation between capital and labor were always as obvious as the statement that two and two make four, there would be easier

Let those who magnify the defects of compulsory arbitration-and very probably, like everything human, it has its defects-tell us of some better remedy, if they are so certain they know all about it. The public have desired voluntary arbitration as the best means of settling such strikes as the people's strike in London. But so long as one of the parties to the dispute refuses voluntary arbitration, the desire of the public is but empty emotion, of no practical effect. The City Council, which could do a good deal, if it would, looks on, helplessly. The city solicitor looks on, helplessly. The city engineer, who has to do with the practical working of the service, looks on, helplessly.

What, then, is the remedy Or, is there no remedy? Must the city wait till January for a remedy?

What London and every other place whose public streets have been foolishly handed over for terms of years to private capitalists is interested in, is such legislative enactment as will, at a certain stage, bring in compulsory arbitration. To such a change in the law, as we have said, there are possibly theoretical, and there may be practical objections; but for every argument against there are fifty for.

How New Zealand is Run.

The Australian colonies are a great laboratory of social experiment, and are well worth watching. Perhaps New Zealand is the most venturesome and radical of them all. In New Zealand, as in Canada, great tracts of land had been given away by successive governments. This land was locked up by speculators, or used for grazing purposes. It remained uncultivated-a bar to the growth and progress of the colony. We have the same conditions in Canada, but Canada tolerates them, and New Zealand does not. The Legislature of the colony grappled with the problem and finally passed a land reform act, buying back the land at a price agreed upon by arbitrators. The operations of this law are described in a London journal by Hon. John McKenzie, Minister of Lands and Agriculture in New Zealand. When a number of people in any district petition for land their application is acted upon by the Government board of expert advisers, who examine the applicants and the land they want and then report to the Government. If the applicants are not satisfied with the price named by this board they can resort to arbitration. Mr. McKenzie adds:

"Under the Lands for Settlements Act we have purchased, so far, 58 estates, containing 245,534 acres, and costing £1,216,482. From them a rent is now derived of £61,497 a year. The opened up, roads are run through it, bridges are built, and the whole made easily accessible. Then it is divided up into farms, mostly of from 150 to 300 acres each. The cost of opening up is added to the original price, and a rent is fixed by the valuers that yields about 5 per cent in-terest on the total cost. Applications are invited by those who wish to be-come tenants. The board first goes over these applicants, weeding out the men of straw, and those who have farms elsewhere or are otherwise unsuitable, and then the farm is baloted for, the successful applicant being given a 999 years' lease. The government retains the right of approving of any new tenants if the lease is transferred to another."

Mr. McKenzie gave these instances of how the law works out:

"We purchased an estate, under the Land Tax Law, of 84,000 acres, known as the Cheviot estate. For it we paid £262,000 and a further £60,000 spent on roading, bridging and improving. There was a big mansion on the estate—a regular white elephant. We added 5,000 acres of land to this and sold it for £25,000. We raised a quarter of a million debentures at 3½ per cent, and the balance was borrowed from the treasury. When we took the estate over it was inhabited by eighteen shepherds and 120,000 sheep. There are now several thousands of people, prosperous farmers and their families, on it, with schools, a post office and telegraph office. We have to pay ten thousand a year as interest on the debentures, but the rents realize £14,000 year, enough to pay all interest, to have paid off what we borrowed from the treasury, and to form a sinking fund that will help to meet all the debentures as they fall due."

In New Zealand they try to meet the problem of the unemployed by placing destitute people on public land. Each is given 10 or 20 acres to work, and is advanced enough money to give him a start, the Government charging 5 per cent interest on the cash outlay. Hon. Mr. McKenzie declares that fully 75 per cent of these cases prove suc-The Government also lends money to farmers on their land at 5 per cent. By paying 6 per cent the borrower cancels the loan in 36 years. Many farmers avail themselves of this, and as the Government borrows the money at 3 per cent, it is turned over at a profit. Mr. McKenzie fur-

"Then there has been a change of the property tax to a land tax. We found that the old property tax hindered industrial development, and put the chief burden of taxation rather on the poor man than the rich. Now the land tax, on unimproved land value, has altered all that, and it is the large holder who pays. The tax is progressive, and each man is allowed to hold £500 worth of land without taxation. Along with this has gone an income tax, so that the business man now pays not on the amount of property he owns, but on the profit his property yields him. This land tax has materially helped in breaking up the great estates, for a man has the power, if he does not like the government valuation at which he is taxed, of offering the estate for sale to the Government at his own lower valuation."

From this it will be seen that there is an approximation to the single tax. When Henry George visited New Zealand some years ago, his teachings made a profound impression and to some extent affected legislation. New Zealand is in the van in another respect-all disputes between employers and employes are matters of compul-

New Zealand is eminently an agricultural country and the state gives great attention to scientific farming. Some of the best Canadian dairy instructors have been engaged by the colony. The Government provides the farmer with cold storage to the coast at lowest rates, stores his goods there free till they are exported, and then grades and classifies and brands them. With a population of 700,000, New Zealand's agricultural exports reach $50,-

Something Accomplished.

The London Spectator by no means admits the recent Peace Conference at the Hague to have been a failure. The

"The Peace Canference at the Hague ended its labors on July 29. Its president, M. de Staal, the Russian Minister in Holland, pronounced its requiem in a well-considered speech, the drift of which was that the conference had failed to reduce armaments, but it has strengthened the law of nations as against needless cruelties in war, has consecrated the principle of arbitration, and has created a machinery through which, when nations are willing, arbitration may be obtained. That is quite true, and describes a good service done to humanity; but the conference has performed another even more valuable. It has raised the notion of general and lasting peace from the dream of a few humanitarians to the ideal of sensible and practical men. Nobody can be ashamed of belonging to a school of thought which includes so many statesmen of European rank. Peace, in fact, from a counsel of perfection, has become a policy which the rulers of men defend-a considerable advance, not only in international ethics, but in the practical and immediate government of the world. It is something in a day of universal military service to have war described by delegates from all courts as a nearly insufferable nuis-

The Expenditures.

There is a good deal of discussion and some very unfair arguments regarding the expenditures of the Dominion. The Government's assailants should have the fairness to print Hon. Mr. Fielding's challenge to Mr. Clarke Wallace and his associates. In the closing days of the session of Parliament, the Finance Minister pointed out that the growing time which had set in in Canada within the past year or two, necessitates larger expenditure, but he also proved that the burden of taxation per head had not increased while these needed public works were being provided. But the Finance Minister put the whole matter to the test when he asked why, if Mr. Foster, Mr. Clarke Wallace, and those who were leading the Opposition believed that the expenditures of the Administration were not in the public interest, they did not call upon their followers to vote against them? Mr. Fielding pointed out that the entire expenditure of the Administration, with the exception of a paltry amount of $32,000, had been agreed to by the Opposition. It is true that Mr. Clarke Wallace, Mr. Sproule and one or two others grumbled at other disbursements, but they dared not call for a division of the House, knowing that the items were so much in the public interest that a large section of the Opposition would have voted with the Government in support of them. The question is not really whether the expenditures are liberal or not, but whether they are warranted by the needs and income of the country. That all parties have agreed to the entire amount, less $32,000 that the Opposition divided the House upon, proves that the money is being well spent.

Some American newspapers are commenting on the fact that at the late Epworth League convention Queen Victoria's name was cheered to the echo, while Dewey's was barely applauded. The resolution on British-American co-operation reads:

"We acknowledge again our pride in the fellowship of the great Anglo-Saxon brotherhood so noticeably aug-mented since our last biennial meeting, and reaffirm our wish and prayer for the heartiest co-operation of England and America in all lands and upon every sea. Between these two countries and in God's own time among all nations there should be a league of perpetual peace."

The Montreal Trades and Labor Council denounces the sweating system and calls on the Minister of Militia to have all militia clothing made according to the law. The law prohibiting sweating on Government contracts was passed by the present Administration. It was violated once because the militia clothing contractors had a rush order which they could not fill in the regular way. The Government affirm that they intend to stand by the anti-sweating clause. Let the Trades and Labor Councils get after those members of Parliament who upheld the sweating system in the House.

What services can the Government 'exact" from the Woodstock-Fredericton line ($188,800) which parallels another road carrying "mails, Government supplies and militia"; of the St. Remi-Stottsville line ($60,800), ditto; or the Phillipsburg, Que., a railway which is already built and has not been operated for four years; or the Meaford line ($134,000), which is about fourteen miles onger to everywhere than the existing lines?-Ottawa Citizen.

In the Woodstock-Fredericton case does the Citizen think the Government will be fool enough to keep on paying for services on the present line, when it can exact free services from the new line? The same may be said of other cases, where newly-subsidized railways will parallel old lines. Besides, a great many of the subsidies passed this year will never be earned.

Miss McGarvey, of London, Ont., who refused at the altar to accept the prospective bridegroom as her wedded lord because he hadn't kept his promise in regard to the marriage settlement, showed sound sense. BODY BLOW TO FAITH HEALERS

One Was Fined $100 by a Chicago Justice-Only Spiritual and Menta Methods Can Be Used in Treating the Sick.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—By a decision made yesterday by Justice Everett, a head blow was dealt to the methods of the faith healers. Mrs. Henrikka Blatsch, a follower of Alexander Dowie, the "Divine Healer," was charged with violating the medical practice act in administering to Mrs. Annetta Flanders, who died under the faith "divine healing," treatment of Dowie, who claims to pos sess the power of healing the sick by the laying on of hands. Mrs. Blatsch was found guilty and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed. Justice Everett held that within the law the followers of the faith healer must resort only to spiritual and mental means of treating the sick. When these means are not resorted to solely and material means are used, then the state law governing the practice of medicine has been violated. The faith healer hereafter must cure only by spiritual and mental means, even the ordinary means to assist nature being denied him and his followers, because the court held that all a physician or surgeon did was to assist nature. Chicago, Aug. 17.—September oats this morning very firm owing to large amount worked for export yesterday and day before. It also seems as if some of the large short interest is getting in; also good buying by shipping houses against cash oats.

A dispatch from Minneapolis says: "The demand for cash wheat continues good, and it looks as if the crop was going to be less than the estimate. All reports received from threshers are so far disappointing. Do not lock for a free movement of new wheat. AMUSEMENTS

"SHORE ACRES" AT THE GRAND. The greatest of the American home plays is "Shore Acres," which James A. Herne first produced in Chicago in 1892. The scenes of this charming comedy-drama are all taken from life, and the incidents portrayed are the homely happenings of the people of a small fishing village on the coast of Maine. Mr. Herne's hero in "Shore Acres" has a most homely exterior, yet his trying to live up to that greatest Cattle—There were only a few odd head of all epigrams, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," clothes him with a dignity and nobility that cannot fail to make a deep and lasting Monday are good. Calves were in light impression. There is so much to praise supply, good demand and firm; a few and admire in this play that one wants to see it again and again. Arrangements have been made to present this charming romance at the Grand on Friday, Aug. 25, opening the regular season.

Victim of Rumor.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: I have been accused of being a spotter for the street railway company and of harboring street railway detectives. Some malicious person has put these and similar cowardly lies about me in circulation, to the great annoyance of my family and myself. Although there is not an atom of truth in the stories, they have been given such wide circulation that I should like to contradict them through your columns. I am employed as a boilermaker at E. Leonard & Sons, and as my fellow-employes can testify, my sympathies have always been with the men throughout the street railway strike, and nothing could induce me to in any way help the company against the men, by riding on cars or otherwise. Walter Wellman Arrives at Tromsoe. in Norway-Successful Explorations in Franz Joseph Land.

Trompsoe, Island of Trompsoe, Norway, Aug. 18.—Walter Wellman and the sion at 3:30 o clock yesterday afternoon and remained behind closed doors until 7 in the evening. The discussion by him, arrived here last evening by the steamer Capella, having successfully completed their explorations in Franz important new lands and many islands. The expedition brings a grim story of Arctic tragedy. In the autumn of 1898 an outpost called Port McKinley was established in latitude 81. It was a house built of docks and roofed over with walrus hide. Two Norwegians. Paul, Bjoervig and Bert Bentzen, the latter of whom was with Nansen on the Fram, remained there. The main party wintered in a canvas-covered hut, called Harmsworth House, at Cape Tegethoff, on the southern point of Hall's Island, latitude 80.

About the middle of February, before the rise of the sun to its win-ter height, Mr. Wellman with three Norwegians and 45 dogs, started north, It was the earliest sledge journey on record in the high latitude On reaching Port McKinley, Mr. Wellman found Bentzen dead, but Bjoervig, acording to promise, had kept the body in a house. sleeping beside it through two months of Arctic darkness. Notwithstanding his terrible experience, the survivor was safe and cheerful. Pushing northward through rough ice and severe storms with a continuous temperature for ten days between 40 and 50 degrees below zero, the party found new lands just north of Freedom Island, where Nansen landed in 1895. By the middle of March all hands were confident of reaching latitude 87 or 88, if not the pole itself. Then began a succession of disasters. Wellman, while leading the party, fell into a snow-covered crevasse, seriousparty was roused at midnight by an In a few moments many dogs were crushed and the sledges destroyed. The members of the expedition narrowly escaped with their lives, though they managed to save their precious sleep ing bags and some dogs and provisions. On Mr. Wellman's condition becoming alarming, as inflammation set in, the brave Norwegians dragged him on a sledge by forced marches, nearly 200 miles to headquarters, arriving there early last April. Mr. Wellman is still unable to walk, and will probably be permanently crippled. After reaching headquarters other members of the expedition explored regions hitherto unknown, and important scientific work was done by Lieut. Evelyn B. Baldwin, of the United States weather bureau, Dr. Edward Hofman, of Grand Haven, Mich., and A. Harlan, of the United States coast survey. The expedition killed 47 bears and many walruses. The Capella arrived at Cape Tegethoff, in search of the exbeing swept by forest fires that have pedition, on July 27 last. On Aug. 9 she met the Stella Polar, bearing the expedition headed by Prince Luigi, Duke of Abruzzi, which had sailed from Archangel to reconnoiter morthwest Franz Josef Land and to meet, if possible. the Wellman expedition.

Mr. Wellman and his companions found no trace in Franz Josef Land of the missing aeronaut, Prof. Andree.

CHICAGO TYPOS MAY STRIKE

McLean's Hardware, Dundas St

Question Considered by the Printers' Parliament.

Detroit, Aug. 18.-The Typographical Convention went into executive session at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afterwas on a proposal to declare a general strike on the Chicago newspapers, which will be the most momentous question to come before the meeting. After a lively exchange of speeches pro and con, the matter was left undisposed of, and will come up again this morning.

James E. Scripps, in the evening.

threw open his home and grounds on Trumbull avenue to the delegates and visitors of the International Typographical Union. Between 300 and 400 availed themselves of the hospitality. STRIKE FUND.

A report from the committee on laws of the International Typographical Union favoring the levying of a special assessment of not more than 50 cents in any three months by the executive council, whenever the strike fund of the union shall fall below $20,000, was adopted. Next year's convention will be held at Milwaukee. The convention went into executive session to consider a proposition to vote $10,000 to the New York Union to enable it to carry on its fight against the New York Sun. Upon resuming open session the convention voted not to confine the sum to $10,000 and empowered the executive council to accept in addition to aid from the international body all available funds in the treasuries of local unions, provided the latter are disposed to give what they have. Railroad men say there is a possibility of an engineers' strike on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, otherwise known as the Big Four, over wages.

Reports that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad intended to cut expenses by laying off 25 train crews and work the remainder twelve hours a day with no lay-overs at ends of route is causing much uneasiness. The Brotherhood of Trainmen have notified local branches not to wait later than Aug. 25 for a deci-

DEATH DUE TO HIS LONG HAIR

Hunter Thought Him a Groundhog-· Barbers Put Up Prices.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Aug. 18.-Godfrey Transue, who was shot dead by a neighbor, Hampton Predmore, who mistook him for a ground-hog, owes his death to his long hair.

For over two years Transue had not had his hair cut. He was in a crouching position, looking for a ground-hog, when Predmore, who was himself looking for ground-hogs, shot him. The coroner's jury has found that the killing occurred while Predmore was looking for game; that Predmore, seeing only Transue's head, thought it was a ground-hog. The verdict exonerates Predmore. BARBERS PUT UP RICES.

Toronto, Aug. 18 .- The tonsorial artists in the down town barber shops have received an advance of 10 per cent in wages. This generous move on the part of the barbers is said to be due to the "growing time," and is no doubt greatly appreciated by the beneficiaries. The employing barbers, however, don't intend to have their profits reduced in proportion, and so on Sept. 1 prices for first-class hair-cuts will according ly be advanced from 15 to 20 cents.

PROF BUNSEN

The Famous German Chemist, Who Died at Heidelberg.

Berlin, Aug. 18.-Prof. Bunsen, the famous German chemist, whose death at Heidelberg was noted yesterday, was born at Gottingen, Germany, on March 31, 1811. His father was a professor of theology and of the Oriental languages and literature. Young Bunsen took the course of chemistry and physics at Gottingen, with special mathematical instruction under Gnass, and took the degree of doctor of philosophy in 1830. He continued his studies in Paris, Berlin and Vienna. In 1852 he accepted the appointment of head professor of chemistry at Heldelberg, which place he held until he died. While Bunsen was one of the world's greatest teachers of chemistry, in all its branches, his original work led him to his greatest discovery that of the spectrum analysis, and to his greatest invention, the Bunsen burner, the Bunsen battery and the spectroscope. It is said of him that, shortly after being called to Gottingen, he remarked that he considered it to be a duty to his family to become as great a man in his chosen profession as his father was in his. In fulfillment of that duty, he began at once a line of original investigation.

In 1838 he began studying the chemical changes which occur in a blast furnace. He showed that at least 42 per cent of the heat evolved from the fuel was lost, and that a great econ-omy could be effected by collecting the combustible gases which escaped and storing them for fuel. These investigations not only greatly cheapened the production of iron, but in them Bunsen devised the first accurate method of analyzing gas. In 1841 he invented the Bunsen battery, which has come into general use in the sciences and in every box of the genuine.

 telegraphy. Its chief peculiarity was the substitution of carbon for copper or platinum as the negative pole. In the years 1846 and 1847, he visited Iceland to study the phenomenon of vol-canoes, and he later continued these studies in Italy. In 1857 Bunsen returned to his studies of the spectrum analysis. He called to his assistance Kirchoff, the young professor of physics at Heidelberg, to deal with the problem of general phys-ics involved. The result of the investigations was not only the final discovery of the spectrum analysis and of the spectroscope, but also the creation of three branches of the science, spectroscopy, as a department of optics, spectroscoptic astronomy and spectroscopic chemistry. By means of the spectrum lines he discovered the metals caesium and rubidium.

In 1883 he was elected one of the eight foreign associates of the French Academy of Sciences, considered by many scientists the greatest honor to which a man of science can attain. The Bunsen burner and the Bunsen pump for accelerating filtration are now found in every laboratory.

CHAPTER V.

The Nag's Head boasted only one sitting-room for the accommodation of travelers. The tourist had hardly yet arrived to improve on, or to spoil, the simplicity of Wardale, the scenery of which was altogether outdone by its magnificent neighbors.

Whether this apartment was public or private, it was difficult to say. George was shown in upon two ladies who were finishing their supper. One was the tall girl wnom he had seen with her bicycle, the other was a smaller person, perhaps a few years older, with a round, cheerful face.

They received his apologies and offer to withdraw into the kitchen with wellbred composure, saying that they had nearly finished, and begging him to set to work on his share of the fried ham and eggs, with bitter home-made bread, which formed the Nag's Head's idea of a good supper. The ladies were drink-ing milk as thick as cream, and George the north. Nearly two years ago many ordered some for himself, in preference to the draught beer which he suspected of being sour, and the whisky which the journey to the Klondike, the Mecca the landlord recommended to him. "It's so much more interesting to eat local food, don't you think?" he said to the ladies. "One gets experience." 'One does," said the elder lady. "In-

"Yes," said the tall girl. "But you will understand the lake scenery much better if you come to it gradually through this outlying district. If you don't like this, you won't really like Keswick or Grasmere-I mean you won't like that in them which makes them differ from Scotland or Wales." "But I do like this," said George,

George was liable to impulses of confidence. He talked a little about Moss Head, and heard in return that the two ladies knew the Lakes well, but found the country unsuitable to their bicy cles, for which they were evidently experiencing fresh enthusiasm.

When they picked up their sketching tackle and their tins of wild flowers and wished him good-night, the sociable George felt on such comfortable terms with them, that it would hardly have seemed odd if they would have turned round with him to the peat fire and shared his smoke.

"Might be two fellows, and yet thorough ladies," he thought. "I shall "I shall get a better look at the tall one by daylight. She had a fine, serious voice, but I couldn't see her in this wretched light." This reflection would probably not have occurred to him if his fellow travelers had been two "fellows" like

He got up very early the next morning, breakfasted "locally" on the family porridge and milk, and set off by himself for Moss Head.

It was a lovely morning; woolly clouds were rolling away from all the hill tops, the grey rocks pushing their way here and there through the turf, shone with unsuspected steamlets. It was a green and simple place for the was a green and simple place, for the great mountains beyond were hidden by the round swelling heights nearer at hand. Many Still Stranded in the Far North -A Toronto Man's Trip.

[Toronto Globe, August 17.] The desire for gold leads men through many perils and adventures, and varying vicissitudes of fortune dog the footsteps of those who seek the precious metal in the frozen fastnesses of of Ontario's best sons ventured to make of those who would grow rich quickly. The all-Canadian route by way of Edmonton was heralded in some quarters ly, I am not a stranger here. It seems a primitive sort of place. The party went through harrowing experiences, the recital of which is sufficient to cause a thrill of horror in the listener. Notwithstanding his robust physique. Mr. Stewart was not able to survive the terrors of the journey. Up to the time his party reached the Arctic Circle he was the life of the expedition, and did much by his encouragement to keep up the spirits of his companions. Soon afterward he was stricken down with the terrible disease to which travelers in that latitude are liable. He lingered for several months, his robust constitution maintaining him in his struggle for life. With climate, diet, surroundings and every condition against him. at last succumbed. Rumors of his death have several times reached the east, but this is the first time the re-

As chief of police in Hamilton he reorganized and reformed that body, putting it on a sound footing. Shortly after he severed his connection with the police department he was elected mayor of weak spot in his physical organism, and that weak spot is the invariable attacking point of disease. No man is stronger than that weakest spot in him. We see great robust looking men go down like ninepins, at a touch of disease, and wonder at it. It is simply the wound in the weak spot, the vulnerable heel of Achilles. It is the office of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to build up the weak places, to strengthen the weak organs of the body. It does this on Nature's own plan of nourishment. Proper food properly assimilated makes a weak man strong. But the man is only an aggregation of parts, so that the strong man means strength of all parts, heart, lungs, liver, nerves, etc. "Golden Medical Discovery" puts into Nature's hands the material by which the stomach is strengthened, the blood purified, the nerves nourished, the lungs vitalized. It makes the weak strong and the sick well. It contains no alcohol or other intoxicant.

Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C., writes: "I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of 'Colden Medical Discovery' and 'Colden Medical Disc

A. D. Stewart, of Hamilton, a) the city, and served for two years in that capacity. He was the first chief game warden of Ontario, and had much to do with the establishment of game laws in the province. In ath-letics he was an enthusiast, and all branches of sport received his hearty co-operation and assistance. He was one of the most widely known men of Ontario, and his death under such distressing circumstances amid the snows of the far north will be learned with genuine regret. NEWS OF MR. STEWART'S DEATH.

The first authentic information respecting the death of Mr. Stewart reached Toronto on Tuesday. It was brought by Mr. Kendrick, who returned at noon on that day from one of the most perilous and adventurous trips which man has ever undertaken. He saw Mr. Stewart on the Peel River in the Arctic Circle last fall. This spring he received a letter from the Hudson Bay Company's factor in that region, giving a detailed account of Mr. Stewart's illness and stating that death delivered him from his awful sufferings on March 26 of this year. Mr. Kendrick was interviewed at his home yesterday and willingly gave an account of his experience during his terrible trip. He is still a powerful man, but the effects of his many privations are plainly visible. His hair has turned gray, deep lines mark his teresting food is not always wholesome. But by all accounts, whisky was a local production not long since."

"So I hear." said George. "Personalby I am not a stranger here. It some as the easiest and most direct. A Ham- forehead, and his whole appearance but they came in such rapid succession and were of such vast importance that they left him with only a vague reminiscence of his experiences. He talked quite freely yesterday, and endeavored to tell his whole story. The task was a severe one, however, and Mr. Kendrick was frequently obliged to pause in order to remember the exact circumstances connected with any particular event. The following story is made up from his recital, and includes only a bare outline of the incidents of the journey. He did not dwell upon the hardships he had undergone. That could be best understood by listening to his narrative.

THE TORONTO PARTY.

Mr. Kendrick is a married man, about 40 years of age, and his home is at 365 Shaw street, in this city. In the fall of 1897 he was seized with a desire to seek his fortune as a gold digger. He spent the winter in arranging for the trip, securing supplies sufficient to last him for eighteen months. He left Toronto on February 1, 1898, with his supplies and a fairly large sum of money. He arrived in Edmonton on February 7. There he met the other members of the party, which was called the Toronto Klondike Mining and Prospecting Company. It was made up of the following enthusiastic prospectors: Richard Battle, Joseph Montgomery, Arthur Hinboden, Frank Vineat, Edward C. Kendrick, Alfred and Frank Davison, William Henry and John Rae, of Toronto; Robert Smith, of Paris, and George Hunhol, of Portland, N.Y. The Hamilton party, under A. D. Stewart, was also encountered at Edmonton. Three weeks were spent in that town, which were devoted to obtaining horses, sleighs and other supplies for the overland journey, and to picking up information regarding their route. Mr. Kendrick consulted a man named Chalmer, whom he had known previously, and who was regarded as an authority in the various routes. He had been sent out by the Edmonton merchants to blaze a trail to Little Slave Lake, which lies about 150 miles in a direct line northwest of that town. Chalmer said that the trail was about 500 miles

TRIP TO LITTLE SLAVE LAKE. The expedition left Edmonton on March 1, when the thermometer stood at 51 below zero. The hardships of the trip to Little Slave Lake cannot well be described. Mr. Kendrick did not refer to them at any length, but they were terrible in the extreme. The party followed the trail which had been blazed by Chalmer, and it was a most disheartening trip. The snow was several feet deep, and the weather was bitterly cold. Often when they camped at night they would see smoke perhaps 200 yards away. Upon investigation it would be found that this arose from the remains of their camp on the pre- time in a perfectly healthy condition, vious night. They would then be forced and I little thought that I would never to realize that owing to the thickness of the forest and the nature of the trail they had progressed only that short distance toward their goal. They pushed on, however, and strove to bear calmly the freaks of fortune to which they were subject. Mr. Kendrick said that the journey was a constant struggle, which seemed River when the winter set in. They took to be endless. There was not much to the shore and started to walk. When variation in their troubles, and after a month had passed they became more reconciled to them. The details Some members of the party were firmly were distressing in the extreme. Stew-of the opinion that the trail was 1,200 art died on March 26." miles long, and other even declared that they had covered 2,000 miles. Mr. Kendrick believes that the journey was of Hamilton, at the head of Wind River about 700 miles in length. From Little in January last. He told Mr. Kendrick Shave Lake the party moved on to that Harris had had his leg frozen to Peace River, making a portage of 85 miles in length and arriving on June 7. It had been reported that gold was te be found on the Peace River, but this was seen to be a myth. Nothing but ice, snow and trees was visible for miles around.

ON TO PEEL RIVER. All the members of the party were full of determination, and they decided to make for Peel River, which flows into the Arctic Ocean, and which crosses the Arctic Circle. It was a vast undertaking, but under the circumstances it seemed to be the most feasible plan. A start for Fort Ver-million, on the Peace River, was made. Frequent and laborious portages were necessary, but the journey was accomplished at last. From Fort Vermillion the party went down the Peace River to Smith's Landing, or Fort Smith, a spot 300 miles away, and the Great Slave River. This trip was not devoid of difficulties, the portages being long and tedious, and the men were glad to obtain a chance to rest. Fort Smith was reached on July 2, and there the Toronto party again met A. D. Stewart and his companions from Hamilton. A baseball match was played at Fort Smith on July 4 between teams representing Toronto and Hamilton. Stewart was captain of the latter team, which won by a large margin. The Toronto party left Fort Smith on July 6 and embarked on Great Slave Lake. They engaged with the Hudson Bay Company's steamer Wrigley to tow them across the lake, which has an area of 10,000 square miles. The Hamilton party sailed across. Then began a long voyage of 1,000 miles on the Mackenzie River, that mighty waterway of the far north, which takes its rise in Great Slave Lake and flows into the Arctic Ocean. Mr. Kendrick did not specify any noteworthy features of this portion of the journey, and it was perhaps less interesting than any other. The Peel River empties into the Mackenzie River shortly before the latter reaches the ocean. Peel River House, otherwise known as Fort Mc-Pherson, the most northerly post of the Hudson Bay Company, was reached on July 26. A great many of the prospectors who had at one time or another set out from Edmonton were gathered there when the Toronto party ar- inches wide; regular price 10c a yard, rived. The place is known to prospec- at Sc. tors as being conducive to quarrels. Parties who have survived the terrors of the Edmonton route generally break up at Peel River House. A HARD JOURNEY. On July 28 Mr. Kendrick started up the Peel River, intending to reach the Macmillan River and go thence to the Yukon and down to Dawson. He made 250 miles in fourteen days, and was then forced to turn back, as the river was not navigable even for small boats further up. He returned to Peel River House in three days, reaching that place on August 14. Towards the end of that month the Toronto party, with the exception of Battle, Montgomery and Hunhol, set out from Peel River House to make a portage of 85 miles west across the Mame Mountains. They were endeavoring to reach La Pierre House, on the Bell River, also within the Arctic Circle. The hardships of this portion of the trip were the most severe of all. The horses could not climb the hills owing to the depth of the snow, and they had to be hoisted up by means of block and tackle. When they set out they expected to make nine miles a day. Each man had $400 pounds of supplies, and these had to be carried over without the aid of the horses. The plan was for each man to take 100 pounds on his back and walk nine miles. Then he would hide his burden in a tree to prevent its being stolen by wild animals and walk back for another hundredweight. This was too great a trial for even these vigorous men to endure, and when 35 miles had been covered it was decided to camp for the winter. Alf. Davidson had been accidentally shot in the hand during the trip, and Kendrick decided to take him back to Peel River House. They arrived there in safety, and as soon as Davison's hand was healed he started to rejoin the party. Kendrick made nine miles of the journey to La Pierre House by himself, leaving Peel River House towards the end of Oc-Then he was frozen in and camped there all winter. He managed to make a living by hunting with the Indians, and gathered in a good sup-ply of valuable skins. On May 1 of this year he started for La Pierre House once more, this time with a dog team, taking 400 pounds of supplies. He arrived there in about three days. Four weeks were spent there, and on June 2 Mr. Kendrick floated down the Bell River to the Porcupine River, a distance of 35 miles. The voyage of 350 miles down the Porcupine River to Fort Yukon was finished by June 8. From Fort Yukon he went to Circle City and staked a claim there, which proved worthless. He spent some time in visiting various creeks and claims, and finally started up the Yukon for Dawson, 190 miles away. . He reached that city on July 6, a little over 17 months after he left Toronto. He spent three weeks in Dawson, leaving on July 26 for this city, arriving here, as has been stated, on August 15. The extent of Mr. Kendrick's travels can be understood when it is noted that the latitude of Fort Smith is 60 degrees north, while that of Peel River House is 68 degrees. The latter is 134 degrees west of Greenwich.

MET STEWART OFTEN. Mr. Kendrick referred fellingly to the death of Mr. Stewart and said:

"I first saw Stewart during our stay in Edmonton, and knew him quite well by sight, having seen him frequently in Toronto. Our parties often passed each other on the route, but I did not become acquainted with him until we met at Fort Smith in the beginning of July. Stewart and I became quite friendly, and we had many talks together. We were at Peel River House for a long time in August, after my fruitless journey up the Peel River. He came to me one day and said that he was greatly disturbed over his chances of getting through. He asked me to tell him what I thought of the journey up the Peel River, and from there to the Macmillan. I told him that it was impracticable, but he would not see it that way. He started, along with over one hundred others, in September to go up by the Peel and Wind rivers. There were four in his party, all from Hamilton, I believe. see him again.

"In May of this year, while I was at La Pierre House, I received a letter from Mr. Firth, factor of the Hudson Bay Company. It stated that he had received a letter from one of Stewart's companions, who said that they had made about seventy miles up the Peel to the shore and started to walk. When they had gone a few miles Stewart was taken down with the scurvy. This was in November, and he lingered in their comes to human beings. The details

The party with which Mr. Kendrick left Edmonton became widely scattered. They were distributed over various parts of the Yukon district and the Northwest Territories, and there were also many remnants of other expeditions. They had made him promise faithfully that he would, if at all possible, inform their relatives of the state in which they were. Mr. Kendrick did his best to comply with their wishes, and spent yesterday and a portion of Tuesday in conveying this information to the interested parties. Some of the Toronto prospectors are stranded along Peel River, others are on the Yukon and some are in Dawson City. They are all in bad shape financially, but their Stewart was at that physical condition is first-class. They are looking eagerly for a chance to return to Toronto.

Mr. Kendrick sent an account of Mr. Stewart's death to the Hamilton Herald, but the letter was never delivered. It was carried along with much other mail on the steamer Wrigley, which left Peel River on July 29, 1898. Indians brought in a story to the effect that the steamer had foundered, but the story could not be confirmed. The hardships which Mr. Kendrick underwent did not prevent his obtaining a share of the gold in Dawson. At Fort Yukon he sold the skins which he secured at Peel River, and with the proceeds he was able to pay his way back to Toronto and have a comfortable balance left. He thinks the Klon dike a great country, and intends to go back there next spring.

Mrs. Edwards, referred to above, was a resident of Lobo for many years, and is widely known in London and Middlesex. Her children living are: Jeremiah Edwards, of Lobo; Capt. BAD DOLLARS. Toronto has been made the dumping-ground for another consignment of counterfeit one-dollar bills, the manufacture of some American firm. The bill, according to the bank officiais, is a bundle passed one of the local tellers this week. The counterfeit is of the issue of June 1, 1898, C. series, and is printed on poor paper, the lithograph payork being agreefally noticeable on work being especially noticeable on account of its indistinctness. It is believed a large amount has been put out in the leading cities of Ontario, and it is understood the agents of the counterfeiters worked successfully in the Lower Province.

Arrangements for a Presentation to the Popular Priest

On the Occasion of His Retirement as Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral-The Rev. Father Is Highly Esteemed.

A large meeting of prominent members of St. Peter's and St. Mary's congregations was held last evening at the Catholic Club rooms to make arrangements for the testimonial which is to be presented to Rev. Father Tiernan, who is on the eve of leaving the city for a three months' vacation. Mr. John Forrestal was elected chairman; Mr. James S. McDougall, secretary, and Mr. R. H. Dignan, treasurer.

It was decided to at once open subscription lists, and also to take up subscriptions at the three masses of both churches, on the next two Sundays.

There are a large number of the reverend father's Protestant friends-and he has lots of them-who are desirous of contributing to this fund. Several have already done so, and all who wish may send in their subscription to any of the above officers, who will be glad face will be greatly missed. Many of the needy poor will miss the alms which he has been in the habit of giving generously during the past 25 years He was ever ready to help anyone in want, making no distinction between color or creed; he gave to all alike, and every citizen of London will join in wishing him a very pleasant and beneficial trip, hoping that when he returns his health will be entirely restored.

Father Tiernan will preach his farewell sermon at the 10:30 mass on Sunday next, when special music will also be rendered by the choir. Next week he leaves the city for a few days, and on his return the presenta-

The Catholic Record, in this week's issue, alluding to Father Tiernan's retirement, says: "On Sunday last his Lordship Bishop McEvay made an announcement which proved to be of peculiar interest to the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral. Rev. M. J. Tiernan, who has occupied the responsible position of rector of the cathedral since his ordination-nearly a quarter of a century ago—and who has borne the burden and heat of the day, has become sorely in need of recuperation. His lordship announced that he had granted him leave of absence for a few months to enable him to regain his vigor and strength. During the long period of Father Tiernan's residence in the city, he has endeared himself to all, both old and young, and, indeed, we can justly say, to every class of the community. His never-varying kindness of heart, his ready response to duty's call-ofttimes in the face of what appeared to be little less than martyrdom—has forged the chain of love so solidly between himself and the Catholics of London that it will endure throughout the lives of the present generation. The kindly reference made to Father Tiernan by his lordship—who, we might add, even at this early day, has won the hearts of his people was appreciated to the fullest extent, and the congregation felt deeply grateful for his generous recogni-tion of the services of one who has ever proved himself faithful and true to his holy calling. It is to be hoped to his holy calling. It is to be hoped that a testimonial in some way commensurate with the Herculean work Father Tiernan has performed in this city will be offered him before his final APPROXIMATION CONTRACTOR CONTRACT

Dancing and Other Sports-Cleveland People Delighted With Their Visit to Canada,

After an enjoyable drive about the city yesterday afternoon, the visiting members of the Cleveland Builders' Exchange, accompanied by the London brethren and friends, went to Port Stanley, where everybody enjoyed an afternoon's pleasure at the lakeside. While being driven about the city, many expressions of praise for London were heard from the visitors. President A. Bradley and Secretary A. Roberts, of Cleveland, said that it compared favorably with any city of his size in America, and was one of the prettiest places they were ever in.

The special train bearing the excursionists arrived in Port about 4 o'clock, and the Anglo-American baseball match was started at once on the beach diamond. Cleveland went to bat, and started in to pite up the runs at a terrific rate, completely rattling the Canadians. Shoan started the fun with a home run, and Briggs hit for three bases. Singles, doubles and triples followed in rapid succession, and the visitors scored 11 runs before retired. The London fielders simply couldn't see the ball. The official scorer made a rash attempt to keep the errors, but they came too fast

London started in to wipe out the lead, in good style, and after 25 minutes' play had succeeded in making 10 runs, when the side was retired. Ex-Ald. Stevely made a record. He struck out twice, much to the disgust of his Cleveland's next inning was "short admirers. and sweet," only two runs being scor-ed, the London management having replaced their slab artist. The new man proved a twirler.

London made eight runs in their half of the second, which gave them a lead of seven runs. Everybody hit the ball, and hit it hard, especially President Jeffrey, of the London Exchange. Cleveland was easily blanked in the third, the locals working in a neat double play amid deafening applause from the spectators. London secured one run. In the fourth and fifth, Cleveland scored five runs and London only two in each inning. The finish was a most exciting one, London winning by one run after two men were out. Following was the line-up and offi-
