An Escaped Bear Mortally Wounds Three Persons.

A Woman Murdered and Horribly Mutilated Near Glasgow.

Another Foolhardy Trip.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A dispatch received here says: Capt. Wm. A. Andrews, the navigator who recently crossed the Atlantic in a fourteen foot dory from Atlantic City to Lisbon, and who arrived at Palos Oct. 4, announces that he will cross the Atlantic again in a small boat.

Escape of a Grizzly Bear.

LISBON, Oct. 12.—A grizzly bear has escaped from the bear pit in the Zoological Gardens. The garden was full of visitors, and the keeper made desperate efforts to keep the bear from them. The bear threw him down, tore open his throat and stomach, and then left him dying, to overtake the fugitives. Two visitors fell, and the bear was tearing them, when six members of the municipal guard arrived. The bear was shot three times before it was killed. The two visitors lacerated by the bear are in a critical condition. The keeper is dead.

Carried in a Cart.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Lord Tennyson often expressed his aversion to hearses, and yesterday when his body was removed from Aldworth the coffin was carried from the house by old servants and placed in a small cart waiting to receive it. When Haslemere station was reached the coffin was placed in a special saloon car. Lady Tennyson, Hallam Tennyson and the other members of the family accompanied the body. At Westminster Abbey Canon Duckworth and others of the clergy received the mourners and gave directions for the arrangement of the coffin. Mrs. Hallam Tennyson placed a handsome floral wreath on the coffin. Canon Duckworth then offered a brief prayer and the simple ceremony was ended.

Horrible Mutilation Near Glasgow.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The trunk of a woman's body was found yesterday in the garden around a villa in the outskirts of Pollokshields, a suburb of Glasgow. It has been terribly mutilated. Immediately after death, apparently, the woman had been disemboweled, her breast had been cut open and other horrible methods followed by Jack the Ripper had been attempted with evident clumsiness. The head, legs and arms had been cut off and scattered through the garden. The features of the face had been so mutilated that they were unrecognizable. The caretaker, named McEwan, is suspected of the murder. He has not yet been at his post since the discovery of the murder and the police have been unable to find him. He is a man of great muscular development and the condition of the woman's trunk shows that the body was dismembered as much by main strength as by the use of a knife. McEwan drank heavily and was eccentric, but was rarely violent while in liquor.

THE GIFT OF C. T. YERKES

Chicago to Have the Largest Telescope in the World.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Chicago is to have the largest and most powerful telescope in the world. It is the gift of Charles T. Yerkes, the street railway magnate, to the Chicago University. Prof. George E. Hale and Prof. S. W. Burnham, recently of Lick Observatory, California, the present greatest astronomical establishment in existence, were the first to agitate the matter. Mr. Yerkes became interested and yesterday afternoon the information was made public that he authorized them to build for the university the finest telescope on earth, equipped with everything to make it the best. They were explicitly told not to mind the question of cost. Alvin G. Clark, the famous telescope maker, was telegraphed to and has already undertaken to cast the glass, which will be 45 inches in diameter, just eleven inches greater than the glass at Lick. If all goes well it will probably be turned on the skies for the first time from the Chicago University in the autumn of 1895. The outlay which Mr. Yerkes will meet is estimated at a round half million dollars. He made no conditions, except that the instrument was to be the best, and when the expense was ascertained to send the bill to him.

Four Killed and Two Hurt.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 12.—A Santa Fe passenger train ran into a Fifteenth street line cable car this morning. The grip man and three passengers on the cable car were killed and it is reported two persons were hurt.

Emmet Dalton May Recover.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 12—Emmet Dalton was taken to Independence jail yesterday by Sheriff Callahan without an objection being raised by citizens. William Dalton went along. Emmet is better and it is now thought he will recover.

Crash on an Elevated Road.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Engine 217, drawing a train of five cars, crashed into another "L" train at Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street at 7:30 o'clock last night. Thirteen passengers were injured, and several, it is thought, fatally.

Relieving the Distressed.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 12.—Advices from the city of Mexico state that the board of charity there says that since its appointment one month ago it has imported $300,000 worth of corn and on an average 500 cargoes, or about 150,000 pounds, have been sold daily to the suffering poor at prices just to cover cost.

Fatally Mangled by a Thresher.

PRESTON, Ont., Oct 12.—A man named Christian Peller, while threshing with Wallace Bros., near New Dundee, was on top of a machine fixing a belt when he slipped and went into the feeder feet first and was mangled to pieces up to his hips. He lived for twenty minutes and then died. He leaves a wife and three small children.

Halifax Has a Thirty-Thousand-Dollar Blaze.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 12.—Fire yesterday destroyed the stone and brick building, 82 and 84 Barrington street. It was occupied by Anderson & Co., grocers; Harrison & Co., painters, and Stephen & Son as furniture warerooms. Murdock's nephews own the building, which is completely gutted. It was worth $12,000; insurance $7,000. Anderson & Co. lose $10,000; insurance $4,000. Harrison & Co. lose $2,500; insurance $1,000. A. Stephen & Son lose $5,000; insurance $2,000.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Fire broke out at an early hour this morning in the Chester flour mill and spread to John Little's flour and feed store adjoining, totally destroying both. Loss estimated at nearly $150,000.

IN THE LABOR WORLD.

Cut in Steel Workers' Wages—End of a Thirty-Six Week Strike—The Homestead Cases in Court.

The grand jury at Pittsburg returned true bills against the members of the Homestead advisory committee charged with treason. True bills were also returned against H. C. Frick, John G. A. Leishman, F. T. F. Lovejoy, Henry Curry, Superintendent Potter, Otis Childs and Nevin McConnell, all Carnegie officials; Henry and Fred Pinkerton, Captain Cooper, Fred P. Rimer and other Pinkerton detectives charged with murder and conspiracy.

A Pittsburg, Pa., dispatch says: Notices have been posted at the Crescent steel works announcing a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages paid to employes. The reduction will take effect Oct. 20. The company employs 800 men.

Thirty-two of the steel workers from Knoxville, Tenn., arrived at Homestead Tuesday. They are all white and claim to be thorough workmen. They said there is a general desire among steel workers who went south to get back to the northern mills.

The strike of tanners at Milwaukee which has lasted for 36 weeks has been declared off, and the men are soliciting their old places. It is reported that $50,000 has been contributed by outside unions since the strike began.

RESCUE OF CASTAWAYS.

Terrible Sufferings of a Part of the Crew of a Lost Ship.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 12.—The brig J. D. Spreckels, which has arrived from Honolulu, brings news that the ship William A. Campbell, from Port Townsend for Queenstown, was abandoned in a gale on Aug. 28. The mate, ten men and a boy arrived in a boat at Kahului on Sept. 20. The captain, his wife and child and the remaining eight of the crew in another boat are missing. The ship, which was wheat laden, had leaked for some time. Water soaked into the wheat, which became swollen and burst the vessel.

Fifteen days after abandoning the vessel the drinking water in the mate's boat gave out and the only liquid remaining was several bottles of claret. Some of this was stolen by the men, and then the mate mixed what remained with the contents of a can of kerosene, and for eight days this was used to moisten their parched lips. The boat was picked up near Hawaii by natives. The occupants had all succumbed to exposure and exhaustion and were unconscious when found. The boy was in the most serious condition, and was expected to die when the Spreckels sailed.

Triennial Congregational Council.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12.—The Triennial Congregational Council met in this city to-day and promises to be the largest ever known. Among the delegates are quite a number of colored men. The secretary's report shows that the number of churches is now 5,000.

The Borden Murder Case.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 11.—The general feeling has changed in regard to the Borden case, and the defendant's counsel is receiving encouraging telegrams from all sections condemning the alleged disclosures in the case and encouraging him to continue his work for Lizzie Borden. Directions to bring libel suits have been given to Mr. Jennings' counsel for the defense.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 12.—The Globe last evening, protesting that it was imposed upon in accepting as true what it published relative to Lizzie Borden, makes a full apology to Miss Borden and to John V. Morse.

Fond of "Ta-ra-ra."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—Henry Hepka, a dairyman living on the Shelby street road, has been arrested, charged with lunacy. It was noticed that his mind was unbalanced a couple of days ago, when he began singing "Ta-ra-ra boom-de-ay," and could not be persuaded to stop. For two days and nights he continued to sing the famous song, and when his friends could stand it no longer they had him arrested. He sung it while being taken through the streets in the patrol wagon, and during the day the jail corridors rang with it. Upon every other subject he is rational.

Skull Crushed at Field Games.

PALMYRA, N. C., Oct. 12.—At the field games here, when the event of putting the shot came on, the people crowded on to the track, leaving only a small space for the contestants, who came up one by one. The last to appear was Carl Chapman. Just as he was to deliver the shot from his hand he slipped and the shot was hurled sideways over the heads of the crowd. All fell back except a little girl named Kittie Sullivan, and in its descent the sixteen-pound shot hit her in the head, crushing in the skull. She was carried to her home and physicians were summoned. There are but slight hopes of her recovery. She is the daughter of Thomas Sullivan, who was killed by falling from a bridge in the North Woods last year.

An Ovation Spoiled.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 12.—Dr. G. S. Burroughs, the new president of the Wabash College, arrived last night accompanied by his family. They were met at the depot by the students, who hitched ropes to the cab and started to draw them down to the hotel. The procession was headed by a drum corps and had not moved far before it received a shower of stones and rotten eggs thrown by persons in ambush. Several students were badly injured, and the procession halting, the 300 students made a rush in the direction from which the missiles came. They found a large number of town roughs, and had a fight with them, coming out victorious.

WOMEN WORKERS.

The Organization's Active Work During the Year,

As Shown by the Various Reports Submitted—Election of Officers—The Evening Meeting—Interesting Information.

The annual meeting of that influential, aggressive and enterprising body, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, was held yesterday in its commodious headquarters, Somerset Hall, Dundas street. For the purpose of convenience two sessions were held—afternoon and evening. About 100 ladies were present in the afternoon, and the president, Mrs. Thornley, opened the meeting with devotional exercises.

The principal business transacted was the election of officers for the ensuing year. As to the selection of a president there was but one opinion—that Mrs. Thornley was indispensable to the position and must continue to perform its duties the coming term as she had done so ably in the past. She was unanimously re-elected and resumed the chair amidst applause.

Mrs. Carson, corresponding secretary, Miss Cosford, recording secretary, and Mrs. Darch, treasurer, were also re-elected. "One good term deserves another" was evidently the principle acted upon. The sub-executive will appoint the superintendents of the various departments on Nov. 3.

Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Scarrow, Mrs. Lintott and Mrs. Heaman were proposed for membership, and six ladies were received as members and took the pledge of the organization.

Mrs. Jarmain, of Toronto, was introduced and received with applause. Mrs. Jarmain said she was one of the first members of the union formed by Mrs. Youmans in Toronto. She complimented the London ladies on their Western Fair work, which was far ahead of that done at the Industrial by the local W. C. T. U. They had eleven unions in Toronto, and yet at their district meetings they did not have the attendance she saw before her.

It was decided to invite the Provincial convention to meet in London next year. This year's convention meets at Belleville Oct. 26, 27 and 28. Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Thornley and Miss Cosford will represent London. The Middlesex and Lambton county convention will be held Thursday and Friday at Alvinston. The London delegates appointed were: Mesdames Thornley, Hoffman, Darch, Cameron, Carson, Heaman, Perkin, Williams and Higgins, and Misses Cosford, McLeod and Cobban.

Mrs. Cameron on behalf of the lecture committee reported that the services of Miss Yates, Mrs. Lathrap (president Michigan W. C. T. U.), and Mrs. Hoffman, (president Missouri W. C. T. U.), would probably be secured to deliver addresses during the coming winter. It was thought advisable to have lectures also in East and South London, for which it was proposed to engage Miss Anna Shaw and Mrs. Hitchcock or Miss Philps.

Mrs. Jones asked that the grant towards the industrial school work be increased to $15. Carried.

Evening Session.

The public meeting, which commenced at 8 o'clock—opened by the president, Mrs. Thornley—was largely attended, every available seat being occupied. The hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," was sung, Rev. George Boyd leading in prayer.

Mrs. John Cameron gave a very instructive Bible reading on "The Status of Women in the Bible," from which it was shown that God had called women to fill the highest grades in ministerial work.

Mrs. Thornley, the president, briefly addressed the assemblage. She was gratified with the work which had been done and which was being accomplished by the W. C. T. U. During the past year the organization had been remembered in many ways by many kind friends; and if any present were desirous of contributing they would meet with the gratitude of 300 women. (Applause.) The future was fraught with hope and she believed the liquor traffic was bound to go down. A quarterly temperance bulletin was among the probabilities in the near future, and a lecture course at reasonable rates had been arranged for the winter months which would help on the temperance sentiment. But the one spot in the outlook which is particularly bright is the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the work of this organization. The speaker was sure that prayer had been answered. She expressed her thanks to the workers of the London Temperance Union for their sympathy and co-operation.

Mr. Belcher then sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," which was admirably rendered.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The annual report, replete with interesting information, was read by the secretary, Miss Ella S. Cosford. The future looked bright for the cause. They had now a membership of 300. Twenty-five regular and four special meetings had been held with an average attendance of 50, the largest attendance being 105. Papers were read (with resultant discussion and action) upon such subjects as scientific temperance, franchise, tobacco and narcotics (with earnest prayer that means might be devised to check the alarming growth of this pernicious habit), the distribution of temperance literature, the use of alcoholic liquors in cooking, the wisdom of wearing the white ribbon and Parliamentary practices. Mothers' meetings productive of much good had been held at the Colborne Street Methodist Church. The union had fifteen departments of work, each in charge of a superintendent, as follows: Scientific temperance, Mrs. Thornley; jail, Mrs. Rogers; hospital, Mrs. Williams; boys' night school, Mrs. Holmes; industrial school, Mrs. J. W. Jones; band of hope, Mrs. Carson; tobacco and narcotics, Mrs. Childs; purity in art and literature, Mrs. Beal; health and heredity Miss Wetherald; unfermented wine, Mrs. L. Scandrett; temperance in Sunday schools, Mrs. Beal; press, Miss Simpson; literature, Mrs. D. H. Williams; evangelistic, Mrs. Robertson; franchise, Miss Wetherald and Mrs. Wm. Heaman. The report alluded to the work of the W. C. T. U. ladies during the Fair. The dining hall had been enlarged at a cost of $100 and the proceeds this year had been very satisfactory. Last autumn the headquarters of the union were removed from the Nitschke block to Somerset Hall, which afforded increased accommodation. In November a convention and also a very successful school of methods were held, delegates being present from all the surrounding counties. During the winter they had two lectures, one by Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw and one by Mrs. Lathrap. An "at home" was given by the union, and proved very successful, the proceeds going to the furnishing committee. The City Council decided in conjunction with the London Temperance Union to reduce the number of hotel licenses by ten, and the W. C. T. U. and other temperance bodies united in asking the license commissioners to close the bars two hours earlier—at 10 o'clock. Their request was partially granted, and now the hour for closing was 11 p.m. instead of midnight, as before. The department of purity in art and literature circulated a petition praying the House of Commons to give attention to obscene literature that was being smuggled into the country and disseminated among the pupils of the public schools; also the objectionable posters shown by operatic and circus companies. During the Y. M. C. A. convention in London the W. C. T. U. ladies had provided entertainment and refreshments for the young men in attendance. They had endeavored, with the co-operation of the Ministerial Association, to secure the earlier closing of stores and places of business on Saturday nights. It had not been accomplished, but they were hoping for the time when a little less pressure would be laid on those who had worked so steadily all week that they might be better prepared to worship on God's holy day. The council had been petitioned to place a number af drinking fountains about the city. From the time it took to deliberate about the matter they inferred that the work would cost at least $1,000; but when the fountains were finally placed in position they were surprised and gratified to find that the outlay was only $250! It was an accepted principle that the union should at the municipal elections work for the election of those candidates who shall pledge themselves to support all temperance and moral reforms, not only in word but in deed. This method had become popular and had been blessed with good results. Until women appreciated their privileges they would never have prohibition. The report concluded with a grateful acknowledgment of the invaluable aid rendered by gentlemen friends.

The report of the treasurer, which was then read, showed the receipts for the current year to have been $2,910 75, the largest items being the proceeds of the fair work, the collections through Mrs. Beal for the building fund (some $700), and members' fees. The money was expended in necessary and useful channels, and there was a balance of $5 20 on hand after everything had been paid.

TWO-MINUTE REPORTS.

Jail—Mrs. Roger remarked that visits had been made by the ex-superintendent, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. McLay and herself—50 visits in all—each service being conducted by the reading of God's Word, singing and prayer, and quiet talks with the prisoners, who receive them gladly, and often manifesting with tears sorrow for their sins. The prisoners were also helped in many other ways through the kindness of friends in procuring articles of clothing, which are not allowed in the jail; also in communicating with their friends. There is also distributed, every other week, temperance and religious literature. One great hindrance to the work, however, is the want of a place to go to when they leave the jail until employment is found. This more especially refers to old women, many returning with the remark that "they were glad to get back." There is no remedy for this liquor traffic curse to our land but prohibition.

Hospital—Mrs. Williams stated that during the past year the city hospital had been visited weekly by two members of the committee, who have distributed religious papers or tracts to each patient at every visit. Let us hope, said the speaker, that these silent messengers have whiled away many a weary hour and brought peace to many a troubled heart. God is blessing the efforts of hospital workers. At the last visit a young girl stated she had found Christ since arriving there.

Press—Miss Simpson alluded to the courtesies of the city newspapers in reporting their meetings, referring more particularly to the ADVERTISER. The local police statistics, giving the amounts of fines during the past year, were read.

Narcotics—Mrs. Childs said she would like to be able to report a year of work accomplished, but there are times when seed has to be sown and harvest waited for—and the past year seems to have been one of those times. It had been hoped that when we had the law of the land on our side that we would have seen a marked decrease in the amount of tobacco and cigarettes used by minors in our city, but we find that we cannot yet sit down with folded hands, and the question of "How to enforce the Tobacco Act" has been under serious consideration at several of our union meetings. Knowing the power of the press we have invoked its aid, and the city editors have been most courteous in publishing promptly any anti-tobacco articles which have been sent them from this department. One meeting of the union devoted to the subject, a paper sent to Petrolea, and the distribution of anti-tobacco literature constitute the sum total of our year's efforts in this direction.

Mrs. Thornley remarked that as the boy-smoker cannot be made to say where he procures the tobacco the law is a failure. Again they would urge that the law be passed in a practical way, and the W. C. T. U. and the Y. M. C. A. would urge the attachment of the penalty.

Boys' Band of Hope (Mrs. Carson, superintendent)—Regret was made that more interest was not shown in this department. Owing to lack of room 250 were all that could be accommodated at the night school. It was the intention of the board to have three such schools this winter.

Industrial School—Mrs. J. W. Jones reported that this school had increased in numbers, the average attendance last term being about 80 girls. A class of boys is under the care of Miss Guernsey. They are anxious to sew, and it is interesting to see the little fellows at work! There were thirteen teachers and the superintendent. The girls are taught plain sewing, darning, knitting and button-hole making. The work—such as towels, aprons, etc.—is sold for the cost of the material. Temperance is made a special feature. Good literature is distributed for home reading. The last Saturday of each month is devoted to the Band of Hope. We expect to organize a Band of Mercy, the pledge being kindness to all animals. Another helpful step would be the formation of a cooking department.

Evangelistic—Mrs. G. F. Robertson expressed thanks to the Giver of All Good for his guiding hand and rich blessings granted. She also wished to record appreciation of the hearty co-operation of the chairwomen of the committees of the different wards. There were held during the year 174 meetings; visits made, 848; leaflets distributed, 2,899; papers, 70; families relieved, 79; articles of clothing distributed, 172; pledges taken, 3. In addition, during July and August Sabbath afternoon meetings were held, which were addressed by the East London pastors and others. Our meetings were very kindly noticed by the ADVERTISER in a local, particular mention being made of our mass meeting, for which we wish to express our hearty thanks.

Miss Gott then sang "Abide With Me," which received merited applause.

Woman Suffrage—Mrs. John McMechan ably referred to the condition of women in heathen lands, and stated that the present is the age of woman's opportunity. In heathen lands woman is a drudge and a slave; in Christendom she is a "helpmeet." Among the objections to woman suffrage was that she would not be a good wife and mother. Mrs. Millicent Fawcett was referred to as being both. It had also been remarked that "only bad women vote," but do not bad men vote? And would not the one neutralize the other? (Laughter and applause.) Other illustrations were given of women who wanted to vote. Queen Victoria is a good woman and she is at the head of a great empire. Then the remark is frequently made, "They will vote as their husbands do!" But the speaker did not agree with this. Women would not vote for the saloon when their husbands come from such places. Again, "All women don't want to vote." Neither do all men, and yet, the speaker claimed, all men should be compelled to vote. "Women are represented already," is also said. They want vice suppressed, and they want to vote—for God. The pen of women has purged much that has been unwholesome and vicious.

A solo, "The Midshipmite," was well rendered by Miss Daly.

Mrs. Thornley's report on "Scientific Temperance" was well received, as was "Temperance in the Sabbath School," by Mrs. Beal (read by Mrs. Dickson).

The report of the "Woman's Franchise," by Mrs. Wm. Heaman, referred to the progress of that question during the past year, and the assistance rendered by Dr. Anna H. Shaw, Mrs. John Cameron, Miss Wetherald, Miss Rowell and others.

Mrs. D. H. Williams referred to the progress made in literature, and Mrs. John Cameron announced that a course of lectures had been arranged for the coming winter months.

After another solo, "Flee as a Bird," by Miss Daly, Mrs. Thornley thanked the audience for their attendance and Mr. Birks for his kindness in presiding at the piano.

The meeting then closed with the singing of the doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Smith.

THEY SERVE THE KING.

Important Convention Being Held in London.

The Wonderful Growth of the Order of King's Daughters.

From all parts of Ontario there was gathered to-day in Wesley Hall a representative body of young Christians. The assembly is known as the annual Provincial Convention of King's Sons and Daughters, an order which has 500 members in the city of London alone.

The delegates commenced to arrive last night, but the majority came in on to-day's trains. Altogether they number between 200 and 300. The energetic local reception committee has been busy welcoming the visitors, and all have been billeted at the homes of hospitable citizens. There are some distinguished ladies in attendance at the convention. Among them was Mrs. I. C. Davis and Mrs. Mary L. Dickinson, of New York. The former is corresponding secretary and general business manager of the International Order of King's Sons and Daughters of the world; the latter is the general secretary of the same organization and editor of the Silver Cross Magazine. Their abilities are known to Londoners as they have been frequent visitors to the Forest City. Miss Von Brockdorff and Miss Simpson, deaconesses of St. George's Home, New York, were present, their regulation garb, which is very similar to that of the siters of charity, attracting some attention. The provincial secretary, Mrs. M. E. Finch, and the corresponding secretary, Miss Annie Watson, both of Toronto, are at their posts.

Mrs. Davis conducted the consecration service, which commenced at 9:30 a.m., the hall being well filled. She spoke earnestly and invoked God's blessing on their deliberations. A short testimony meeting followed, in which many delegates asked prayer for certain purposes. Rev. A. Corbett, of Paisley, gave a short Scriptural lesson and led devotional exercises.

The courtesy of the convention was extended to Mrs. Dickinson and Mrs. Drvis by a standing vote. Mrs. Dickinson was unanimously chosen to preside and an excellent executive officer she proved to be.

Mayor Spencer was called upon to deliver an address of welcome. He said that on behalf of the citizens he had great pleasure in welcoming the delegates to London and extending to them the freedom of the city. He liked their motto: "Look up, not down; look forward, not back; look out, not in; lend a hand." He referred to the wonderful growth of the King's Daughters. It was an evidence that the Lord was with them. Besides welcoming them on behalf of the city he represented the Y. M. C. A. He hoped all would be favorably impressed with London; it was his duty to advertise the city a little. (Laughter).

Mrs. Davis replied to the address. They appreciated the welcome extended by the mayor. The people of London had opened their hearts and homes to the delegates. The hospitality of Canada, and of London in particular, was known to herself and all strangers. The mayor had said that London was perhaps the best place in which to hold this convention. If there was one place better it was Toronto. The convention should be held alternately at London and Toronto, she thought. (Laughter.)

Affray Over Corbett's Breakfast.

READING, Pa., Oct. 12.—Champion Corbett ate breakfast at the Hotel Penn yesterday and among other things ordered eggs fried on both sides. The waiter, Armstead Brown, gave the order wrong, and when he served Corbett with eggs fried only on one side they were sent back. In the kitchen Brown had a row with the chief, Freeman Brown had a row with the chief, Freeman Sanford, over the mistake and had his scalp laid open with a cleaver. Brown was seriously hurt but avenged himself with a butcher knife.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 12.—At the races of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association yesterday. About 5,000 people were present. At the close of the second heat in the fourth race Sallie B., who came in eighth, fell dead just after passing the string.

Its Excellent Qualities

commend to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye, and to the taste and by gently acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

T. C. Thornhill, optician, jeweler, watch maker and engraver; lawn mower sharpened and repaired. A call solicited 402 Talbot street.

IT'S DISAGREEABLE

Disease is bad, but the remedy is often worse. Avoid sickness in your home by using C. W. C., which hunts out and destroys the germ of disease often lurking in clothes for months.

C. W. C. thoroughly purifies and disinfects everything. Washing, cleaning and all household work can now be done with the greatest ease and safety.

Cottam's New Washing Compound

leaves no bitter results but gives satisfaction to everybody. It is the cheapest and safest. Give it a trial. Your own grocer can supply a large 5c. package of C. W. C.

SUNLIGHT

Continues to rank an Easy First among the Laundry and Household Soaps of the World.

Used according to directions, it does away with all the old-fashioned drudgery of wash day. Try it and convince yourself.

Here's a "pointer," and it is true:—One tablet of "SUNLIGHT" Soap will do twice the work in half the time of two bars of ordinary soap, besides saving the cost of washing powders, and preventing injury to the clothes and hands.

It pays to use "Sunlight."

ARREST OF YOUNG WARD,

Brother of the Detroit Belle Who Married a Prince of Caraman-Chimay.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.—The arrest of an American named Ward in Brussels has caused as much of a sensation here as it appears to have done in Paris. Young Ward came into special prominence a year ago last May, when his sister Clara married the hereditary Prince Joseph de Caraman-Chimay, of the Belgian branch of the Princes de Chimay. The prince died recently.

Young Ward has been cutting a big swathe in Europe, and has been arrested at the instance of a lady that lived in a villa near Bourges. The twain got along very well until the advent in the household of the lady's niece, 16 years old, with whom he ran away to Brussels.

The arrest was made on the charge of abduction of a minor, which is punishable by five years' penal servitude.

The girl herself refused to incriminate Ward, taking all the blame upon herself. There was every prospect that Ward would be released, especially when the Caraman-Chimays interfered in order to prevent a scandal, whereupon the lady made a further charge, to the effect that, while he was living with her at Bourges, he had in May last ruined her daughter of 10.

Ward denies this charge, and says it is made by the woman out of revenge. The litttle girl herself, however, supports her mother's charge. The woman says that Ward offered her $50,000 to keep silent about the affair, but Ward himself says this was the amount she asked of him after he had left her.

BRIEF BUT BUSY.

Short Session of the Board of Education—Collegiate Institute Plans—Audit Committee's First Report.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening to consider a communication from Fred Henry, architect, who prepared the plans of the proposed addition to the Collegiate Institute. The original plans had been altered at the suggestion of Principal Merchant so as to provide more entrances. The estimated cost of erecting the addition according to the former plans was $18,000, and the altered plans incurred a further outlay of $7,000. The original plans will be used and Mr. Merchant's objection will be attended to.

No. 2 Committee recommended that the time for the construction of the addition to Princess avenue school be extended to Feb. 10. The report was adopted. The penalty will be $5 a day.

A sub-committee appointed by No. 2 recommended that a class room and the gymnasium at the Collegiate Institute be heated, and that H. J. Boyd's tender at $92 be accepted. The report was adopted.

A temporary fence will be erected around the addition to Princess avenue school.

Mr. McRobert and Dr. Campbell moved that No. 2 Committee be requested to ren rooms or provide a kindergarten school in the Waterloo north district. Carried.

In accordance with the report of No. 1 Committee Miss Hendrie was appointed kindergarten teacher at Askin street school; Miss Laidlaw was appointed to fill the vacancy at the Waterloo street school caused by the resignation of Miss Robertson; 1,000 copies of the Collegiate Institute announcement will be procured, and Miss Baxter will be transferred from Hamilton road to Talbot street school.

Mr. Jeffery, chairman of the audit committee, submitted the first report, and on motion the consideration of it was laid over until the next meeting of the board. The committee recommended that no expenditure exceeding $25 should be authorized by the board or any committee thereof until the same had been recommended and reported on by the proper committee and the report adopted by the board; that the regular standiug committee of the board should be entitled to authorize any expenditure not over $25 for any purpose within the duties of such committee, as defined by these rules. The audit committee will relieve No. 1 of a great deal of responsibility in connection with the matter of finance.

Messrs. Dewar (chairman), Jeffery, Stephenson, Anderson, Alexander, Brady, D. W. Blackwell, R. J. Blackwell, Craig, Love, Turner, Dr. Campbell, Cook, McRobert, McElheran, Vining and Allaster, Principal Merchant, Inspector Carson and Secretary Abbott were present.

CONVALESCENT HOME.

The Yearly Meeting—Interesting Annual Reports.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Convalescent Home Board was held at the home, 444 York street, yesterday afternoon. Mesdames Boomer, J. Labatt, W. J. Reid, M. G. Bremner, (Dr.) Niven, C. McCallum, Bucke, Lashbrook, J. H. Flock, W. T. Strong and O'Higgins, Misses M. E. Hamilton, E. E. Street and Fannie Labatt, Canon Richardson, Andrew Thompson, J. H. Flock and W. C. L. Gill were present.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

According to the annual report the year just passed has been one of special effort and of special blessing. The home property had been purchased at the cost of $2,200 and the board was now an incorporated body. The number of patients received at the home from June 15, 1888, until Sept. 30, 1892, was 126, 49 being cared for gratis. The health and comfort of the institution under the faithful guardianship of the Misses Stringer had been excellent. The amount of money received during the year was $1,384 78, made up as follows: Government grant, $177 30; private pay patients, $307 07; city patients, $20; private subscriptions and donations, $880 48. The balance in the bank last year was $387 13, making a total of $1,771 98. The balance in the bank now was $490 62. No friends who had previously helped the board had discontinued to do so, and city physicians had always responded willingly when called upon to visit patients. The young ladies of the sewing society had also been very liberal in contributing $50. To Mrs. Magee they wished to express their heartfelt thanks for the kind gift of $200. The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, the King's Daughters and the Ministering Children's League of the Memorial Church had also merited the thanks of the board.

CARADOC.

MOUNT BRYDGES, Oct. 11.—The Caradoc Agricultural Society held their annual fair at Mount Brydges to-day. The weather was fine and warm and about 2,000 people were present. There was a fine display of single and double carriage horses and the best show of yearlings and 2-year-old colts that have ever been here on exhibition. The display of fancy work was fine and the poultry better than ever before.

The most beautiful sight in the world is a handsome young lady walking along King street with her boots polished with P. G. French Dressing. n

ALGOMA.

W. J. Miller writes from Thessalon to the Seaforth Expositor: "We have homes for thousands in Algoma. Good land can be got for 20 cents per acre, and one man can take up 320 acres, and that will only cost $64; or you can take up 160 acres for $32, and we have as good land in this part of Algoma as can be found in Canada, and it will grow as fine crops, and we have a good market and better prices for all the produce than you get in Toronto or any market in Lower Ontario. It is a rare chance for a young man, or any man with small means. We are sure of a good crop every year if it is put in right. It is the greatest country I ever saw. Yesterday was our fall show, and it was good. I never saw a better root crop in the county of Huron, and I lived in that county for twenty years."

A writ in chancery has been issued by Franklin Smoke, barrister, of Paris, in behalf of a local firm there against one of the oldest and most respected citizens of that town, claiming $10,000 damages for fraud and misappropriation of moneys and chattels belonging to the plaintiffs, which have passed through the defendant's hands while in the plaintiffs' employ as a trusted servant, he having made false entries on their books. The trial will come up as a chancery suit most probably at the approaching assizes. No defense has as yet been entered, but it is understood a defense utterly and absolutely denying the truth contained in plaintiffs' allegations will be entered in due course.

A happy event took place last week at the residence of Christopher Barker, near Paris, when Sophia, eldest daughter of Mr. Barker, was united in marriage to Wm. R. Baker, postmaster of Paris Station. The bridesmaid was Miss Baker, sister of the bridegroom. A large circle of friends were gathered together to honor and congratulate the happy couple. Amongst those present were: Hon. James and Mrs. Young, Galt; Wm. B. Wood, M.P.P., St. George; Mr. and Mrs. Angus, Paris; Mrs. Blake and Miss Blake, Boston, Mass.; Mr. Latimer, Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Whitlaw, Paris; Mrs. Foley, Paris; Messrs. Barker and a number of other friends from the country around. The happy pair left in the afternoon for Niagara and other points to spend the honeymoon.

He was at once extricated from his position more dead than alive and medical aid summoned. The boy's arm was broken and he was otherwise injured. It is thought the unfortunate lad will recover.

He was on the front end of the car, and while the car was in motion started to get off opposite his residence in Sandwich. Cameron, ex-M.P., from Detroit, expressing contrition for the wrong he had done him, and ended by making an affidavit that he had been used as a tool by the politicians opposed to Mr. Cameron. When the libel trials were on he returned to Goderich, but hearing that a warrant was out for his arrest kept in hiding and evaded service. After the trials were over he became bolder and appeared on the public thoroughfares, but did not tarry long before he was arrested. The adjourned trial of the case was held in the Goderich Town Hall before Messrs. Horton and Williams, justices of the peace, and Mayor Butler, and the prisoner was sent up for trial as stated. The affidavit made by Gore at Windsor is of a sensational nature, and will probably appear in the reports of the trial.

R. in rear of the Firs stock farm, but in the witness box Frank denied having told this story and his brother and Herbert were acquitted.

THE TRAVELING DAIRY.

Continuation of Its Work Through the Cheese District of Oxford.

The traveling dairy has been continuing its work in the county of Oxford during the past week. The district through which they are now working is particularly a cheese factory district, but as the factories on an average work only about seven months of the year butter-making has to form a part of the work of the successful dairyman. Again, the idea of making butter in cheese factories in the winter is being deeply considered by the patrons in all the districts. This, the winter feed and care of the cow, the best methods of creaming milk and taking care of the same are questions of vital importance to all.

The meeting on Monday was held at Oxford Center in the neighborhood of the factory run as an experimental creamery last winter by Prof. Robertson. A live interest was taken in the meeting, and there was a very fair attendance. A couple of samples of skim milk tested at this meeting illustrated forcibly the difference between intelligent and careless handling. One sample from the deep pails or creamers, set immediately after milking in cold water and the water kept cold by two or three changes, only showed 3 per cent. of fat, whereas another sample set in pails without immersing in water showed 1.6 per cent.; or with good skimming, such as the other sample, showed that there was 1½ pounds of butter lost in 100 pounds of milk. The gentleman who brought the sample said they milked 200 pounds of milk from the herd per day, therefore he lost 3 pounds of butter, which, at the price paid the patrons for the butter made from the cream supplied to the creamery last winter, 21 cents per pound, meant 63 cents lost per day, or $18 90 per month—quite a serious loss if kept up for 10 months ($189), and yet some people do not know why they are not making more off their farms. It is in many cases their own fault, as they do not put enough intelligence into their work—do not do enough thinking about the various phases of the business to stop the many leaks that are running away with their profits as well as with their capital.

The Rev. Mr. Hunt gave a little of his experience with the creamery last winter. He had one cow, and as he did not want to trouble making butter during the winter and the cream gatherer passed his door he sent his cream to the factory. He started the latter part of December, sent for January, February, March and a few times in April, and received $21 as his share of the proceeds. This was a very good showing indeed for winter dairying in the factory, as it cost but one-fourth more to keep the cow working all winter than it does to keep her as she ought to be kept to do her best the next season. In the one case she is paying for her feed as she goes along, in the other the pay has to come out of the next summer's product, and the question is will she do it? Answered by the experience of scores of people even in this great dairy county of Oxford, it is not paid for. But the seed sown by the dairy missionaries in this as in other parts is not without results, and the future promises better things than was even looked for in the past.

The meeting on Tuesday was at Sweaburg. The attendance was not all that could be desired, though those present were there for a purpose. The deputation at this place had an experience, which of course they are frequently liable to have, as they every day have to handle cream, the characteristics of which they know nothing. The temperature at which they have been churning the past five weeks has been between 60 and 62 degrees F. They started to churn the cream at between 60 and 61 degrees F., and it took Mr. Hume about one hour to get the butter, and it might have taken him longer had he not warmed the cream by adding, not scalding water, but about half a pail of water 5 degrees warmer than his churning temperature. He did not guess at it, either; he used the thermometer. It was afterwards learned that Mr. Thornton, who supplied the cream, generally churned at about 65 degrees and in about twenty minutes, thus illustrating another fact of the influence of only 3 degrees on the time of churning; it multiplied the time by three. It also illustrates the folly of those who will be continually guessing at the temperature of their cream and churning for two or three hours and sometimes half a day; or, again, churn in five minutes and lose a pound or two of butter in their buttermilk.

The meeting at Ingersoll on Wednesday was on the fair grounds. The cream was a little late in coming and the day was cold for holding a meeting where there was no fire. The people were, of course, out for pleasure, and did not care to sit down and listen to a practical talk for an hour or an hour and a half, so that there were a great many moving in and out; yet Mr. Linfield managed to make himself heard, and Mr. Hume manufactured a fine article of butter.

The first meeting in the north riding of Oxford was at Thamesford on Thursday. The attendance was not large, but an interesting meeting was held. Mr. Patterson supplied the cream, from which a very nice sample of butter was made.

On Friday the deputation was at Embro on the fair grounds, but as the day was wet they had to occupy a place in the rink building with the other attractions. For some unexplained reason no cream was supplied for this meeting, so that the object lesson which the deputation has principally in view—the churning, working and printing of the butter—could not be illustrated. A great many were very much interested in the dairy meeting and were anxious to see and hear of the improved method advocated, but all admitted that the fair day was the wrong day for it—very good for the fair, but not nearly as productive of good as if the meeting had been held in a comfortable hall, where the people would have had every facility for seeing the work and asking questions.

The deputation have four more meetings in this county, and then go into Perth, where they have fourteen meetings, The separate school house, Gore of Downie, Oct. 14; St. Marys, 15th; Avonton, 18th; Kirkton, 19th; Staffa, 20th; Fullarton Corners, 21st; Mitchell, 24th; Bornholm, 25th; Rostock, 26th; Amulree, 27th; Milverton, 28th; Attwood, 31st; Listowel, Nov. 1; and Germantown the 2nd.

SENT A SHOT THROUGH HER.

A Russian Cruiser Opens Fire on the British Schooner May Bell.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 11.—The British schooner May Bell, just arrived from Copper Island, reports that on Aug. 29 she was anchored 70 miles north of Bering Island in a dense fog which lifted suddenly, revealing the Russian cruiser a short distance away. The latter made no signals and lowered no boats, but simply sent a shot across the schooner's bows, which missed the rigging only by a few feet. The Indian crew, in terror, hoisted all sails, the captain's order being unheard or unheeded in the excitement. Then came a second shot better aimed from the Russians, which pierced the schooner above the water line, going completely through her forecastle.

Still no boat left the cruiser, her commander apparently being satisfied with the bombarding of the helpless sealer. Luckily for the latter, the fog thickened and in it she escaped. The damages were patched up at the nearest beach and the schooner came home.

"August Flower"

What is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

HOW DOMINION ELECTIONS ARE WON.

The Americans are now making their voters' lists by voluntary registration. The election comes on in a month. Not much time is left for a grave-yard vote to accumulate.—[Montreal Star.

What a contrast to the Dominion Franchise Act! It has not been revised for years, and were a Dominion election to take place in London to-day hundreds of young men who have left the city for good and gone to the United States to make a living would be brought back to decide the contest. At the same time hundreds of young men, aye, and of old men, too, who have meanwhile qualified, but are prevented by the criminal neglect of the Ottawa authorities from getting on the lists, would have to stand aside and let the bogus voters and the returned pilgrims say who shall represent them! Can an intelligent man support a body of men who perpetuate a system so unfair, so demoralizing, so undemocratic?

IF MR. MEREDITH is taken into the Dominion Cabinet two elections will follow. One to fill his place in the Local Legislature and one to find him a seat in the Dominion Parliament. London Tories are preparing for whatever may happen, and Mr. Meredith and Sol White, the axnexationist, were hobnobbing together there on Saturday and laying the pipes for a probable election. Sol is as much a Tory as ever he was.—[Hamilton Times.

Yes; they grew in beauty side by side.

DISPOSAL OF SEWAGE.

In view of the fact that the question of the disposal of the sewage of this city is continually cropping up, and will be a source of trouble, expense, aye, and loss of life through filth diseases, until it is settled, the discussion of the question of sewage disposal before the British Association is interesting. The chief paper on the subject was contributed by Prof. George Forbes, who dealt with the utilization of refuse in cities, especially by means of the application of electricity. He said there was no doubt that the use of destructors for getting up steam for electric lighting purposes, would play an important part in the future, but in most towns it would be impossible to get the full advantage from the destructors, because they must be burning refuse day and night, whereas for electric lighting purposes, or the distribution of power, it was only during certain times of the day that there was a demand, so that the heat from the destructors was wasted for the greater part of the day; but by a system of hydraulic storage in Edinburgh they would be able to use destructors with the greatest advantage. The problem of utilizing the sewage of cities is being solved in some European cities by flowage on to distant lands where it is used for enriching spoils. The present system of emptying sewage into the sea or rivers, this expert truthfully concludes, is not only dangerous but wasteful.

THE United States Government last year made $700,000,000 in paper money. It has its own engraving and printing department.

ELECTRIC street railway development continues. The Common Council of Oskosh, Wis., has granted the street railway company a 50-year franchise for an electric railroad.

Ex-Mayor Howland, of Toronto, writes to the News that his remedy for "Canada's disease" is "a little less politics and a little more practical knowledge of what is recognized. Everybody knows," he goes on, "there is too much politics and too little business in this country. If in your business you were finding all your best men were escaping from you, you would go to work to find out why they were leaving, and when you ascertained that it was because others valued them more highly than you did you would pay them enough to induce them to stay at home. This country will never be a great country until you pay your good men enough to keep them here." Mr Howland is a protectionist but not a politician, and hence he is not afraid to say that we must see that our workers get a larger share of the profits.

The Empire should come off its perch. Toadyism of the lick-spittle kind becomes tiresome when persisted in to too great an extent, and a modicum of plain, common sense, mingled with truth, will, we venture to say, prove not unpalatable to its readers.

SWEET SYMPATHETIC SORROW.

Every woman is sorry for some other woman on account of something her husband told her about the other woman's husband.

DEATH OF PAUL PEEL.

A feeling of profound sorrow was created in the city yesterday when the ADVERTISER bulletined the fact that Paul Peel, the famous Canadian artist, had died that afternoon in Paris, France. The melancholy intelligence was conveyed across the Atlantic by a cablegram to his father, ex-Ald. John R. Peel, of this city, who was nearly distracted by the receipt of a message so unexpected and so heartrending in import. As the news spread, general regret was expressed that a life so great in accomplishment and in promise had gone out ere the famous artist had reached the age when many of the masters began to secure recognition.

And sincere were the words of condolence that were extended to the grief-stricken parent and brothers and sisters of the deceased.

Londoners had an opportunity of meeting their talented fellow-townsman in September and October, 1890, when his mother's last illness brought him to his native city from the sunny land of his adoption. At that time his face and figure commanded attention wherever he went. As then sketched by us, he possessed a well-knit figure a little above the middle height; dark, finely shaped head with a thick, black lock falling over the brow; sensitive clear-cut features, softly bearded; brilliant dark eyes and gentle manner—that was Paul Peel, the artist.

As a painter, Paul Peel was born, not made, for his earliest tastes and inclinations tended strongly in the direction of his chosen profession. While yet a mere lad he was associated for a short time with W. L. Judson, who had no hesitation in prophesying a brilliant future for him. In 1877, finding opportunities for study in Canada circumscribed, he began his art studies at the Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, where he remained three years. In 1880 Mr. Peel went to London, England, where he studied in the British Museum, and began to paint for the Royal Academy. The English winter proving unfavorable to his health, he remained in London only three or four months, going from there direct to Paris. He has lived in Paris ever since, with the exception of the brief period taken up in visiting the home of his boyhood and in short excursions to Britanny, where some of his most charming pictures of rural and domestic life had their inspiration. He studied under Lefevre, Boulanger, and finally Gerome. He always spoke of the training he received from Lefevre and Gerome as being particularly severe; still it was Constant, a more modern painter than either, and a better colorist, who, as Mr. Peel himself asserted, "first opened my eyes." During the four years he was under Constant he made real progress.

It was a great advantage to Mr. Peel to have sat at the feet of several of the masters; it saved him from the slightest tendency to become a mere imitator of any one of them. Paul Peel was no imitator; he did not indulge himself in a repetition with variations of the work which made him famous out of sheer repugnance to being known as "Paul Peel, the child painter." His ambition was to reach the final goal of art, which is historical painting.

Paul Peel was a hard worker, but he was not a mechanical drudge. He worked with the spirit and with the understanding also. The artist, he remarked to the writer while in London two years ago, who puts all his soul and energy into five hours of work has done enough for one day. Emotion cannot last: it wanes like an afternoon sun. The impression must be seized, held, utilized to the utmost. Herein the young master expressed truths that may well be laid to heart by the student of art to-day and ever. "After the Bath," the picture which won the gold medal at the French Salon two years ago and the immediate attention and admiration of the civilized world, was completed by Mr. Peel in two months. It was based upon a sudden inspiration. One of his own little ones, fresh from the bath, happened to take a pretty pose before the open fire. It was but a moment's work to seat the smaller child beside him. With the little hands outstretched to the blaze the picture was complete—in the beauty-loving mind of their father. The first impression was immediately set down and the last touch was given two months later. At the French Salon it was royally honored, and to this Salon 8,000 pictures were sent, of which only 2,500 were even received.

Since then the picture was purchased for their national gallery by one of the European continental governments, a large sum being paid for it. Other equally striking works came from his brush—notably two admirable pictures produced last year. One is "The Unexpected Visitor," and depicts the surprise of a small boy as he scampers along a narrow pathway and suddenly finds a toad jump at his feet. The other is titled "The Punishment," and doubtless portrays another episode in Mr. Peel's domestic life. A pretty little child, just out of the bath, having misbehaved, is sent behind a screen, where he stands thoroughly conscious of his guilt with downcast eyes, while his brother and sister make the situation harder to tolerate by peeping over the top at the culprit. It is an admirable conception.

Mr. Peel was married to a Danish lady, Miss Isaure Verdier, on Jan. 16, 1886, at Willesden, England. Like her husband, she is a noted artiste, and had won fame before her marriage. The union was an ideal one; their married life was most happy, and the terrible blow that has now fallen upon the young wife will, it is feared, be almost too hard to bear. She is left with two children, a boy and a girl.

The general impression has been that when Mr. Peel's father crossed the Atlantic this summer he visited his famous son. It was his intention to do so, but when he got to England he found cholera prevalent in France, and Paris especially threatened with a widespread outbreak, and he wisely resolved not to cross the channel. He was the more reconciled to this course inasmuch as he had his son's promise to visit him next summer, when he intended to come to the World's Fair at Chicago, where it is expected some of the works of his art will be exhibited. He knew, too, from letters which he received as late as Aug. 26 last, just before he left England to return home, that his son was in the best of health and spirits, and had brilliant prospects for the future. One can well imagine the blow which was struck this father, so justly proud of his son, when he received a cablegram from his heart-broken widow containing the laconic but terribly significant message: "Paul is dead." It is not expected that any particulars of the sad event will be received till the next mail arrives.

If the deceased had lived till the 7th of next November he would have been 32 years of age. His early death will be lamented by lovers of the beautiful wherever his name and fame are known. Canada, the world, can ill afford to lose an artist possessing merit so great and powers of so much promise.

CRUSTS AND SCALES.

Hair and Eyebrows Fell Off. Doctor and Many Remedies No Benefit. Entirely Cured and Hair Restored by Cuticura.

My wife has been troubled for years with dry crusts and scales on her head and eyebrows. After seeming to lie dormant for years in her system, it broke out over a year ago in all its fury. Her hair came out in big patches, her eyebrows all fell off and she presented a pitiable condition. We tried almost everything, but she continued to get worse. Then we tried one of our best physicians, but all to no purpose. Finally my wife believed that the CUTICURA REMEDIES would cure her. After she had used nine boxes of CUTICURA, and about a dozen cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and four bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, she was cured entirely. Her hair came on again, and to-day she has as fine a head of black, curly hair and as smooth skin as any lady in Allentown. Her eyebrows are heavier than they ever were, her scalp is free from dandruff, and her health is excellent. Now, for the benefit of those suffering with the same disease, or to those who may doubt the truthfulness of this statement, write me, inclosing a stamp, and I will cheerfully answer. I am sure that the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured my wife, for she used nothing else during the four or five months she used them.

That Tired Feeling

The marked benefit which people overcome by That Tired Feeling derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." J. B. Emerton, a well known merchant of Auburn, Maine, says: "About five years ago I began to suffer with very severe pain in my Stomach, gradually growing worse. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, being convinced that I was troubled with Dyspepsia complicated with Liver and Kidney troubles. I improved at once and am certainly very much better and feel more like working.

Your value on the trotting track
By this great deed sublime—
The reeling off of one square mile
In just two minutes' time!

ROBERT BONNER'S OFFER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Robert Bonner has written the following letter for publication: "One year ago, in discussing the question of the two-minute trotter, I took the conservative view and stated in a published letter to Gen. Tracy that I offered to give $10,000 to the owner of the horse that would trot within two years in 2:05 (to say nothing of two minutes), on any track from Hartford to Cleveland inclusive. I was careful to specify the grand circuit tracks, because I knew then what a well-informed writer stated a week ago, that the nature of the land—the prairie soil—had given Indiana and Iowa what he terms 'marvelous tracks.' My offer still holds good, but the performance must be made, of course, to one of the old regulation sulkies, the only ones that were in use at the time the offer was made. I am frequently asked the question by reporters and others, 'How much faster do you think the new ball-bearing pneumatic sulky is than the old style sulky?' From the trials I have given it and from all the information I can gather from both trainers and owners of horses I feel safe in saying it will average five seconds."

WOODSTOCK RACES—SECOND DAY.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 11.—The unfinished 2:30 trot and pace laid over from yesterday was the first event, with three starters, Tommy R., Jennie Lind and Mary E., and was won by Tommy R. in straight heats; best time, 2:29¼. Jennie Lind second, Mary E. third and Hamlet fourth.

The 2:50 trot and pace had nine starters, and owing to the heats being split up had to be postponed until to-morrow. Five heats were trotted in 2:40, 2:40¼, 2:39¼, 2:39½ and 2:39⅝. Summary:

The 2:35 trot and pace had five starters and was postponed until to-morrow owing to darkness. Four heats were trotted in 2:35½, 2:34¼, 2:35½ and 2:37. Summary:

CARROLL IS CAUGHT.

A Notorious Character Cleverly Captured at La Sallette

Charged With Having Assaulted a Girl Dying of Consumption and of Stealing a Gold Watch and $115.

For some time past Detective B. B. Allen, of this city, and Chief of Police Northgraves, of Ingersoll, have been working on a case and they have at last been rewarded. On the evening of May 2 last $115 in cash and a gold watch valued at $100 were stolen from the safe in the McMurray House, Ingersoll. On Aug. 16 Maggie Brosunhan, a girl about 19 years of age, lay dying slowly of consumption at her mother's house in the same town. She was alones alone, her mother having gone to the Daly House, where she was employed as cook. The poor girl says that a man named Tim Carroll, alias Crimmon, alias Sheehan, alias Tom Sims, entered her room and assaulted her. Carroll is about 45 years of age, weighs over 200 pounds, and is said to be a notorious character. When Mrs. Brosunhan returned her daughter informed her of what had happened, and Carroll, she says, practically admitted the charge. He was living at the house, and said he meant to spite the young man who was paying attention to the girl.

From Ingersoll he went to Detroit, where, it is alleged, he pawned the gold watch for $10 50. It has since been recovered. He denies having stolen the money, and says that he found the watch on a chair in the hotel about 6 o'clock on the morning of May 25. Chief of Police Northgraves heard that he had returned to Ingersoll, and on Monday telephoned to Detective Allen. Mr. Allen went to Ingersoll on the afternoon, and in a few hours located his man playing cards in a room on the third story of James McElbone's hotel at La Sallette, a village known as the Port Dover junction of the Michigan Central Railway, about 35 miles from Ingersoll. Mr. Allen, in company with Baliff Cuddy and County Constable J. B. Capron, drove to La Sallette, where, after some difficulty, they captured their man. While Detective Allen shook hands with him he clasped the handcuffs on him on the same time. Carroll was taken before Mayor Stephens and Magistrate Chadwick, of Ingersoll, and committed for trial on the charge of criminal assault and larceny of the watch and money.

THE MURRAY CASE.

Further Details of the Sensation at Gravenhurst.

A Prominent Physician Interviewed—Science Has Its Say—Almost a Resurrection.

[From the Toronto Mail.]

GRAVENHURST, Sept. 30.—Further investigation discloses the fact that there is hardly anything else spoken of in this town but Sam Murray's wonderful recovery. His case is considered marvelous, and no cure at the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre ever startled people like his case has this section of the community. In the hotels you hear his name mentioned, and being well known along the different towns on the Northern Railway Murray's case attracts unusual interest.

Dr. Cornell is one of the most popular men in Gravenhurst. He runs a large drug store and has a very extensive practice. He stands high in the medical profession and is Grand Trunk physician for that section. His drug business is one of the largest in Northern Ontario. He was seen at his office. He said: "I have known Murray for a long time. He was employed on the Grand Trunk Railway as brakeman for several years. His fingers were crushed, and being one of the Grand Trunk physicians I looked after his case. One night in June, 1891, he was carried into my office. He had fallen down on the street. I found that he was suffering from paralysis. He had been disabled until recently, but I don't care to talk very much of his case. I am not seeking cheap notoriety."

"But, doctor, I suppose you have no objection to answer a few queries to substantiate what Murray says?"

"Was Murray ill for a long time, and is it true that his disability claims were paid by the Grand Trunk? You attended him for some time, you say, and you should know."

"Yes, I attended him, and he was pretty low. Although I never give up hope, I thought he would never be able to get out again. After he fell the first time he kept poking about and took three or four other spells. He was then confined to his house, and later on took to his bed. Boils and eruptions broke out on his legs and arms, neck and face, and his blood was in a very bad way. He kept gradually getting worse, and everybody thought he would die. He complained of his back very much. I attributed his disease largely to overwork. I believed he would never be able to resume his duties again. He was paid his total disability claim by the Grand Trunk at that time."

"How does it come that he is about and working again?"

"Well, you see as a professional man I hardly like to say. It might look as if I were lending myself to some advertising scheme, and I would rather not say anything on that subject."

"But, doctor, that is not fair. Does Sam Murray know what cured him?"

"Well, he says, and everybody says, it was some pills he bought here that cured him."

"What pills, doctor. Do you know the name of them?"

"There you go again. Now, I said I did not want to put myself in a false position before the profession."

"But he bought the pills in your drug store. What pills were they?"

"Well, I'll tell you the truth; they were Dodd's Kidney Pills, and remember, I want you to say, if you say anything about me, this is the truth. Sam got the pills here, and he says they cured him. I have sold a lot of them to others and they all speak highly of them."

"Doctor, would you as a physician prescribe these pills in your practice for kidney troubles?"

"Yes, I would. Knowing the active principles of the pills, they are such as I would prescribe to patients suffering from kidney troubles, for they are both a tonic and a diuretic."

"Doctor, is it true that diseased kidneys poison the blood?"

"Yes, the blood gets full of uric acid."

"Will the curing of diseased kidneys cleanse the blood of uric acid and impurities?"

"Well, it is only natural to suppose that if you remove the cause of a disease you can expect a cure."

"Do you consider Sam Murray's case a remarkable one?"

"Yes, I certainly do."

A NEWSPAPER MAN.

Fred Harbridge, of the Gravenhurst Banner, was seen. He said: Sam Murray's case is causing a good deal of talk. We used to publish paragraphs that he was not expected to live over night. Every week we expected his death notice. Sam got hold of Dodd's Kidney Pills through a little book that was dropped into his house called Kidney Talk, and he took the pills and is as well as ever. When he was that bad that part of his life insurance was paid by the Grand Trunk you may judge he was pretty low. He recovered so rapidly and miraculously that everybody is talking about his case. We had something in the paper about it. There is no denying that he is cured, and that Dodd's Pills did it. Anybody in Gravenhurst will tell you that.

A GRAND TRUNK OFFICIAL.

Mr. J. T. Torrey, Grand Trunk agent at Gravenhurst, was seen. Mr. Torrey is a middle-aged man, and a great favorite in the place. He was asked if he knew Murray, and he said "Yes. I know two Murrays—Sam Murray and his brother. I put both of them to work as brakemen on the Grand Trunk. I remember when Sam was taken ill, and nobody expected he would get better."

"Did he got his total disability money from the Grand Trunk?"

"Yes, he get his sick benefits first through me, and then when it was expected he would die his total disability claim was paid through me also. I never thought Sam would recover. He says he was cured by taking Dodd's Kidney Pills."

THE PROPRIETORS.

Mr. J. A. McKee, of the firm of L. A. Smith & Co., manufacturers of Dodd's Kidney Pills, was seen at their place of business in Toronto. He was very busy, but was willing to speak of the Murray case. He said in answer to some questions: "Yes, we have heard of Murray's wonderful cure at Gravenhurst through taking our Dodd's Kidney Pills. But his case is only one of many. Here are several others just as startling," pulling a bundle of letters out of a drawer. "We have not been advertising these pills to any great extent, and we are astonished at their rapid sale. The only way to account for it is that they sell on their merits. Those who use them tell their friends about them and they are advertised in that way. These pills are a new departure in medicine. The formula has been used successfully by one of the most eminent specialists in the world for the cure of kidney diseases. But his services are only available for the wealthy, and even if the formula were known to all practitioners could not be made up by the drug stores, for special facilities have to be arranged for compounding them. Hitherto kidney remedies have been put up in liquid form. A certain percentage of alcohol has to be put in such mixtures to keep the medicine. This alcohol it has been time and again demonstrated counteracts the beneficial effects of the drugs contained in the mixture, for there is nothing worse for the kidneys than alcohol, and it defeats the objects for which the remedy is intended. We obviate this difficulty by having the active principles only of the drugs put up in concentrated form in the shape of a pill, which is easily taken. They are neatly put up in boxes with the trade mark 'Dodd's Kidney Pills' on each box, and are for sale by all druggists and dealers in medicines at 50 cents per box. We will mail them direct on receipt of price."

From these interviews with and the investigations made your correspondent has proved beyond a doubt that such a man as Sam Murray exists, and that the facts of his case as published in the Gravenhurst Banner are true in every particular. Not only does Sam Murray himself speak out, but his evidence is supported by documentary proofs and also by Dr. Cornell, a well-known physician in Gravenhurst; the mayor of the town, the station master and others. Also that Dodd's Kidney Pills effected his cure after the case had been given up as hopeless.

LOCAL MARKET.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 12.

Wheat has been unsettled this week, and closes at a gain of 2c in the range. Sales were made at $1 05 to $1 07 for red fall, and $1 08 to $1 10 for white, some odd sales being made up to $1 11. It is quite evident now that local competition was the cause of the advance, as latest advices from abroad do not show any material gains. Tuesday Chicago wheat lost 2c as compared with Monday's values. The opening was ½c higher than the close for October and May ¼c, showing near wheat as a favorite stock there. The Government crop report now gives the crop as some 40,000,000 bu more than was at first expected. The Mark Lane Express of Oct. 10 says: "Barley and oats were strong and active."

There has been very little business done in Canada barley, yet the visible supply seems to be much less than a year ago. There has been some poor and colored lots offering here and have been bought for feed, sales being about 85c per 100 lbs.

Oats have been delivered very sparingly. A strong local demand existed all week and values were about 5c higher than this time a week ago. The close of to-day's market was 35c to 37c for both black and white.

Scarcely any peas are coming forward here. Values are about the same—95c to 97c.

Rye is scarce, and the seed demand being now almost over there is not much inquiry. Sales this week were made at 90c.

There has been nothing done in white beans yet. Buyers and sellers seem to differ in their views. Sellers seem to think beans must be higher. Buyers reported that potatoes are being offered freely from the outside and that this fact, coupled with the price of flour, will go a long way toward keeping down the price of beans.

Buckwheat sold at 80c to 85c.

There was a 2c advance in eggs and 1c in butter.

Apples were easier, selling at 50c to 75c per bag.

There were large deliveries of grapes and vegetables, and prices were steady and unchanged.

General values at to-day's close were as follows:

American Markets

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 11.

WHEAT—Spring—There was a "ripping" good market this morning, when No. 1 northern was offered at 1½c over; but this did not last long, for sellers advanced limits 4c to 5c, which rather checked the demand. Millers want wheat, but in order not to disturb the market are keeping the purchases quiet. A good trade is looked for from now until the closing of navigation. The Chicago Grain Pit.

[Reported by Drummond & Goldingham.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The pit has been full of long wheat and disgusted bulls all day. Mr. Dodge's report having demoralized holders, and a great deal of long stuff is coming out on stop orders. Partridge has been a heavy buyer, and most of the local scalping shorts have probably covered. The tide of speculation has turned from the bull to the bear side, and no one can tell how far the demoralization may go.

Corn and oats followed wheat, though there is nothing in the Government report particularly bearish on either. It has been a letting-go by discouraged longs, who hope to get back their holdings at lower prices.

Provisions have been quite as strong as could be expected, considering the weakness of other markets and lower price for hogs. Very little business and no transactions of consequence.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.

The Government crop report, with some help from Europe and elsewhere, caused a 2c slump in wheat to-day. Corn was also a sufferer to the extent of 3c to 1½c, and oats 1½c. Provisions tumbled with grain, pork 25c, ribs 10c and lard 5c.

"For Love and Money."

A fair house greeted the first appearance in Hamilton of "For Love and Money," a melodrama by Robert Griffin Morris, depicting strike scenes, such as those recently enacted at Homestead. Taking it as a whole, the play may be said to be well worth sitting through. It has many good features. Harry English, as the mill-owner, does his part well, while Charles W. Sutton, as the spokesman of the strikers and a central figure in the plot, does fair justice to the character. A dashing little soubrette, a French professor, an old maid, a musical mill hand and a facetious valet each lend an interest to the play, and there are two fascinating young ladies who take leading roles and dress in excellent taste. There should be a good house at the Grand to-night, when the piece will be repeated.—[Hamilton Herald, Tuesday.

This play will be presented at the Grand in this city to-night.

Tennyson's Funeral.

To-Day's Imposing Ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

Wreaths Sent by the Queen and Mrs. Gladstone.

Many Notable Personages in Attendance.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—To-day, with all honors which the church to which he belonged could pay, the remains of the greatest poet England has produced in latter days were laid in their final resting place—beneath the walls of the historic Westminster Abbey.

Long before the hour set for the services to begin an immense crowd began to gather in the vicinity of the Abbey. A dense mass of people assembled in South Palace yard between the Abbey and the House of Parliament, while an equally large crowd packed the streets to the north and east of the Abbey. At 10 o'clock the doors of the Abbey were swung open and ticket holders were admitted. Many of those who entered the building carried wreaths, which were placed in the Jerusalem Chamber with those already deposited there. Among the tokens was a beautiful design sent by Princess Louise. Among the most noticeable floral gifts was a wreath sent by Mrs. Gladstone on behalf of her husband and herself. This was composed of sweet smelling leaves from the Gladstone gardens at Hawarden and was made by Mrs. Gladstone's own hands. Attached to the wreath was a card, upon which was written the following couplet:

An' in the vast cathedral leave him,
God accept him—Christ receive him.

The Queen sent a wreath composed of laurel leaves tied with a broad bow of white silk ribbon. A card was attached to the wreath, on which in the Queen's own handwriting were the words:

"A mark of sincere regard and admiration from VICTORIA R. I."

Her Majesty also sent an everlasting metallic wreath of laurel with the letters "V. R. I." in gilt, worked in a monogram, and bearing the words:

"A tribute of affectionate regard and true admiration from the sovereign."

Promptly at 12 o'clock the procession was formed in the Jerusalem Chapel. It was headed by two officials of the Abbey. Then came the coffin borne on the shoulders of stalwart men, while the pall-bearers, Henry White, Secretary of the American Legation, Lord Salisbury, the Very Rev. Henry Montague Butler, Sir James Paget, Lord Rosebery and Prof. Froude marched on either side. The chief mourners followed, headed by Lady Tennyson and Hallem Tennyson, Mrs. Hallam Tennyson, Mrs. Birrell, Lionel Tennyson's widow and the grand children of the dead poet followed in the order named. Included with the chief mourners was the nurse who attended Lord Tennyson in his last illness wearing the hospital uniform. Then came the household servants, representatives of the Queen, Prince of Wales and other royal personages. Among the notables in attendance were James Bryce, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, John Burns, the labor member of Parliament and Henry Irving, the actor. As the procession moved the deep toned Abbey bell began to toll, and as the mournful sound swept out over the city the coffin, followed by mourners, was carried slowly around the cloisters, which were lined with boys from Westminster School.

When the procession reached the main door of the Abbey it was received by the dean, the Very Rev. George Granville Bradley, Canon Duckworth, Canon Farrar and other members of the clergy. As the cortege passed up the aisle, along which were ranged boys in uniform from the Gordon Home, in which Lord Tennyson was always deeply interested, the solemn words, "I am the resurrection and the life," of the burial service were heard, and then the choir broke forth in the processional hymn.

Upon reaching the chancel the coffin was placed on a rest just below the altar. This rest was covered by a beautifully embroidered cloth. On it was a crown of flowers and the words of the last verse of "Crossing the Bar," one of the last poems written by Lord Tennyson. Canon Duckworth opened the service for the dead, after which the choir chanted the 19th Psalm. The lesson of the day was read and the choir sang "Crossing the Bar," which had been set to music by John Frederick Bridge, organist of Westminster Abbey. The effect was most beautiful, and many of those present were moved to tears by the words.

The choir sang the latest poem written by Lord Tennyson, "The Silent Voices," the music of which was composed by Lady Tennyson. This poem consists of only ten lines, beginning:

When the dumb hour clothed in black
Brings the dreams about my bed,
Call me not so often back
Silent voices of the dead.

Lord Tennyson dedicated this poem to his wife only ten days ago. After the singing was finished the coffin was relifted, and, followed by the choir, the procession moved to the poet's corner, where the body was deposited.

Confirmatory Evidence of His Determined Resignation.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—Notwithstanding the fact that in certain quarters denial is given to the statement of Premier Abbott's intention of resigning the Premiership of Canada at an early date before the session of Parliament, further evidence which may be considered fairly confirmatory of his determined resignation is found in the fact that he has ordered the immediate removal of his personal effects, wines, etc., to Montreal, which have gone forward to-day.

Reindeer Enterprise in Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The revenue cutter Rush from Behring Sea brought down Dr. Sheldon Jackson, who has been spending the summer in Siberia purchasing and transporting domesticated reindeer in Alaska as commissioned by the Interior Department. Dr. Jackson has successfully established a herd of 175 reindeer at Port Glacen and near Bering Straits. The starting of this herd is the beginning of an enterprise which it is contended will not only save from extinction the Esquimaux of Alaska, but assist in populating and civilizing that region. A band of sixteen reindeer turned loose in 1891 by Dr. Jackson near Ounalaska passed through last winter safely, and are increasing in numbers.

Commonplace Carrie.

By Eliza Orne White.

The poor child was tired and out of spirits, and this was a little too much to bear in silence. "I guess you wouldn't have any time to think about the æsthetic passion if you were as busy as I am," she returned, "or to stop and think what colors look best together." She rushed out of the room to hide her tears. When the professor next saw her her eyelids were red and swollen.

"My dear Miss Carrie," he said penitently, "I have been both rude and ungrateful to my faithful little nurse, who is so much better to a crusty old fellow than he deserves. Will you forgive me?" and he held out his hand with a pleading motion. Carrie did not take it. She looked at him wearily. His face had grown unusually gentle.

"It isn't so much that I am angry at what you have said," she explained in a burst of confidence. "It is that sometimes I feel as if I never did anything to suit anybody, and then I get cross and hate myself. I can't ever make a pretty picture because I am so hideous. I wish Ethel were here, perhaps she may come for a visit before you go; she is lovely, and has such pretty clothes; but after all, it isn't my fault that I am plain and stupid, and can't find time to make any more white aprons."

The professor gave one of his provoking laughs, but instantly grew grave. The pathos of the girl's life had suddenly and powerfully appealed to his sympathies. How young she was to have so much care! He saw the dull years stretching on for her in endless succession, filled with humdrum duties and unillumined by any of the light which an imaginative person throws around the future, to make the dreary present more endurable. The unselfishness of her character struck him as it had never done before.

"Come," he said, in his most persuasive manner, "you have not forgiven me yet; pray do, and let us be better friends in the future."

"I don't know that I want to be better friends. The more you knew me, the more you would laugh a me. I don't believe you ever like people for themselves alone. I will take your waiter now, please," and she held out her hand for it.

He took her hand and clasped it firmly in his. "You do me an injustice," he said. "I like you now for yourself alone, and I want you to like me for myself alone, and not because I have some reputation as an author, or—"

"I certainly shall not like you on account of your books," she interrupted playfully. She was almost charming when her face lighted up in that unexpected way. The professor still kept her hand. "Will you forgive me?" he reiterated.

"I will forgive you, but we are not the kind to be friends."

"You mean we are not 'sympatica' as the Italians say, but that is not necessary."

"If Ethel were only here!" and she gently withdrew her hand; "she is intellectual and sympathetic, and—"

"I am thankful that she is not here," he broke in impatiently. It piqued him to have his unusual advances met with such indifference. "I am sorry that you dislike me," he added coldly.

"How foolish you are! I don't dislike you, but there is a long way between not disliking a person and wishing to be friends with him. How I hate all this talk about one's feelings," she said vehemently. She had risen and was standing opposite the window, and her face suddenly became radiant.

"Uncle Frank has come back from Boston," she announced in great excitement. She left the room precipitately, and presently the professor saw her run down the street and greet her uncle with outstretched arms. "She is a good lover," he reflected; "how she would worship a husband!" No man with a spark of sentiment or imagination could fall in love with her, he told himself, but her friendship would be something worth having.

For those of us who remain in this world, spring always ends in summer, ultimately, no matter how lengthened the process may be. It was greatly protracted in Longfield, not only from climatic causes, but likewise for internal and domestic reasons. It seemed to Professor Bainbridge, who had never before experienced a New England spring, as if house-cleaning were the chief event of the season, and the delicious carols of the thrushes and cat-birds the dim, feathery sheen of the opening leaves, and the fields starred with anemones or dotted with dandelions were so many impertinent interruptions to the one important business in life. He was well enough to take long drives into the country with Carrie's uncle, the doctor, and sometimes she herself was his companion; but her mind on these occasions was apt to revert to the best method for killing moths, or to an infallible means of exterminating Buffalo beetles. In spite of her limitations, however, his friendship with Carrie grew as the weeks passed. When summer at last took the place of spring, its advent was marked with unusual festivity in the little town. The professor concluded that the industrious housewives were eager to exhibit the fruits of their labors, for they gave a series of tea-drinkings in their immaculate houses, at which all their best china figured, as well as the new gowns which had been as important a feature, in the spring, of the younger portion of the community, as the sweeping and garnishing of their dwellings had been with their elders.

The professor was not a social man; or rather, to be accurate, he never thought it worth his while to be civil to persons who bored him, and the society in Longfield was such as to elicit nothing but monosyllables from him. Genius has this privilege—it may be rude without losing any of its prestige; and whatever his reputation might be in the world at large, in Longfield Professor Bainbridge stood for Genius (spelled with a capital G).

Carrie, who knew how delightful the professor could be when he chose, was not satisfied with his behavior when in company. One evening she took him to task.

"If you go to the Peterson's lawn party to-morrow," she said, "you must be just as agreeable as you can; of course, you don't find Longfield people pleasant when you are horrid to them."

"I consider it a breach of truthfulness to appear to like persons whom I in reality detest," Mr. Bainbridge returned, with the air of supporting a very valuable moral principle.

"Really," Carrie said, throwing back her head, and putting all the sarcasm of which she was capable into her voice. "When Fanny does as you do, we say she is a very naughty little girl. That is just the difference between a little girl and a great man," she mused, "a really famous man. Mrs. Peterson asked me the other day if I did not feel it a privilege to be under the same roof with such greatness. At first I thought she meant the new parlor curtains."

"'Greatness' feels contemptibly small this evening, Miss Carrie, so please do not take him down any more than is necessary."

"What is the matter?"

"I have a furious headache. The whole top of my head seems to be coming off." He flung himself down on the parlor sofa as he spoke. "I have no doubt I am in for another fever."

"Men always think they are on the brink of the grave when they have a headache," Carrie remarked. "Mother has one almost every week, but she has never had a fever."

In spite of these unsympathetic words she was truly sorry for him. Suffering of body appealed to her as suffering of mind did not; it was something tangible and comprehensible; it was beyond the control of the patient, and within the province of the nurse.

"I can sometimes drive away mother's headaches by stroking her forehead," she said thoughtfully. "Perhaps I can cure you; may I try?"

"Indeed you may."

Carrie's touch was firm, yet gentle. It soothed the professor and carried him back, with a skip of 30 years, to the days of his childhood, when another hand with a motion as firm and gentle had put him to sleep night after night. He had been rather a pathetic little boy with a tendency to sleeplessness even in those early days. He thought of his mother's premature death, and of his lonely life; while Carrie's hand traveled across his forehead, making a running accompaniment to his reveries.

"You must tell me if you do not like this," she said anxiously.

"I do like it; I cannot tell you how much good it is doing me."

The fine side of Carrie's nature appealed to him irresistibly. He was lost in her utter unconsciousness of self. She was trying to help him as simply and unaffectedly as if she were a sister of charity and he a hospital patient.

He forgot that he had ever been vexed by her lack of appreciation and that he had once thought her commonplace. He longed to seize her hand and tell her how great a blessing her friendship might be to him. He wanted to say that her strength and unconsciousness humbled him; but he judged rightly that at the first hint of these things her hand would probably be withdrawn and the growing peace of their intercourse troubled.

At length there was the sound of the opening of the long French window opposite them. The professor moved uneasily, while the color mounted to his face. Carrie remained undisturbed. She put up her hand with a warning gesture, as her mother, accompanied by the ubiquitious Mrs. Brown, and her friend Miss Harwood, entered the room.

"Hush!" she said, "he is just going to sleep; he has a bad headache."

Mrs. Brown and Miss Harwood exchanged significent glances. The professor treacherously kept silent.

"Carrie," said Mrs. Swift gently, "will you please take my bonnet upstairs, and bring down my eyeglasses?"

Worse and Weaker.

Gentlemen,—I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint and could not get relief, but kept getting worse and worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I became very weak. Some friends advised Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and after I had taken the first dose I found much relief, and it did not fail to cure me. I do not intend to be without this valuable medicine if I can help it.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Railway Crossings.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Does the city council control the portion of the streets that are run over by the railways, or do they deliver up control of it altogether, as well as all responsibility for accidents that might occur? Are not the council (directly) and the railroad company (indirectly) responsible for any accident that might occur on that portion of the street occupied by the railroad company through negligence on the part of the company to have openings on the street properly covered, and negligence on the part of the council to compel the railroad company to attend to the same?

Does not the council have a right to protect the citizens by compelling railway companies to keep the portion of the track that is on the street in a safe condition for pedestrians?

[The corporation represented by the city council has control of streets crossed or run over by the railways, subject to the legal rights and liabilities of the railway companies, and is responsible for accidents caused by negligence, but is not necessarily directly responsible for all accidents. The railway company are responsible directly for accidents caused by their neglect, and the corporation is responsible for accidents caused by its neglect. It may happen that both are responsible to the party injured. The corporation has in such cases a remedy against the railway, if the accident was caused by the acts or neglect of the officials of the railway. The fact of the accident is prima facie evidence of negligence against the railway company for an accident caused by their neglect, but in the case of the corporation there must be evidence of knowledge of the defect or obstruction causing the accident. It is the right and duty of the city council to compel the railway companies to fulfill their legal liability.—EDITOR ADVERTISER.]

Protection and Mr. Goldwin Smith.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

At the Innerkip meeting I was taxed by an opponent with having contributed to our present commercial condition by voting for a protectional policy in 1878. I receive letters on the same subject. Neither in 1878 nor at any other time did I vote or speak in favor of a protectionist policy. Sir John Macdonald's policy up to the time of the election in 1878 was "Reciprocity of trade or reciprocity of tariffs," implying that reciprocity of trade was the thing most to be desired. For this I voted in company with other friends of reciprocity, such as the late Dr. Dixon, of Belleville, who was afterwards a leading advocate of commercial union. Up to the time of the election Sir John Macdonald not only did not avow protectionist principles, but positively disavowed them, declaring, when challenged on the subject, that his platform was not protection, but readjustment. A few days before the election I had a conversation with Sir John, in the course of which I called his attention to the fact that protectionist language was being held by some of his supporters, and warned him that whatever might be the effects of protection in the United States, a country with an unlimited range of production and an immense home market, it would certainly be ruinous to Canada. "Yes," was the reply, "and you need not be afraid that I am going to get it into that hole." When shortly afterwards Sir John embraced protection I reminded him of our conversation. He answered me with a half jocular intimation that protection having done so much for him he felt bound to do something for protection.

I am a free trader in principle, and heartily wish, for the sake of humanity as well as of commerce, that all custom houses could be abolished throughout the world. But I recognize the fact that every nation, even Great Britain, has its tariff, and I see that the fiscal policy of every nation must be framed in accordance with its circumstances and must be approved or condemned, not on any abstract principle, but by the practical result. By its practical result the policy of N. P. stands decisively and irrevocably condemned.

Yours, etc.,
GOLDWIN SMITH.

BATTLE FOR A BELLE.

Fistic Encounter Between Two Brooklyn Boys Over a Girl.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Two of the gilded youths who move in the swell society circles on "the Hill" in Brooklyn fought a brutal battle Friday evening, with all the accessories of the prize ring. The affair came off in a small barn attached to a private residence at Waverley and Park streets, and fully 100 swell sports attended. Both youths are the sons of wealthy men in the shipping business, and both are in the employ of New York steamship companies. Their names are William Smith and "Ollie" Baldwin. The fight was the outcome of a quarrel over a Prospect Heights belle. Baldwin is a member of the Arlington Athletic Club.

Two-ounce gloves were selected and the principals looked cool and collected when they entered the ring. They had been training for six weeks, seconds, referee, time-keepers, etc., were chosen, and time was called, and the men went at it hammer and tongs. Four rounds were fought, in the last of which Smith pressed Baldwin hard, and ended the fight by knocking "Ollie" into a heap with a right-hander on the jaw.

So Smith won the fight and the girl, who would not have "Ollie" now, anyhow, as his nose is broken.

IMPORTANT TO YOUNG MEN.

Young man, have you a vote in the coming bye-election?

Do you have any friends who are, like yourself, 21 years of age and citizens?

You cannot be certain of your rights unless you examine the Ontario voters' lists, now at the Young Liberal rooms, Oddfellows' block. Call and examine the lists any afternoon and evening this week. After that, though the city election may take place in a month or two, you may be too late.

Take no chances, but have your name put on the list, if you find it is not there. It costs you nothing.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—It is necessary that copy for changes of advertisements (to be sure of insertion) must be handed in on the day previous to that on which their appearance is desired.

—The main sewers of the city are being flushed by order of Dr. Hutchinson, medical health officer.

—Joseph Kelly, publisher of the Erie (Penn.) Daily Times, is in the city, the guest of his parents.

—The night schools opened last evening. Thirty pupils were in attendance at the King street school at the appointed time.

—Mr. Thomas Coffey is at Montreal attending the meeting of the Supreme Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association.

—The name of Lizzie Penny was omitted in the list of pupils who passed the last entrance examination from Lorne avenue school.

—Chief Roe, of the fire department, has returned from Louisville, Ky., where he was attending the convention of fire department chiefs.

—The following are the London delegates to the Baptist Convention in Brantford this week: H. A. Hodson, S. Shoveller, Rev. Ira Smith, Rev. H. C. Speller, Rev. W. M. Walker and J. J. Wellstead.

—A Toronto dispatch says: "To-day Chief Justice Galt, on motion of Walter Read, representing the Law Society, suspended Charles T. Glass, a well-known London lawyer, for non-payment of fees. Mr. Glass is now in the Northwest, but will be given a chance to redeem his position when he returns."

—Mr. J. B. Sutherland, of Montreal, delivered a lecture on "Peeps in Britain and the Continent" to a most appreciative audience Monday night at the Mission Sunday School building in connection with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, corner Oxford and Colborne streets. The description of his trip was highly entertaining and instructive, and well merited the hearty vote of thanks at the close.

Postoffice Conveniences.

"Shoes" writes: "From the sidewalk to the letter box at our central postoffice is 22 steps. The return trip is 44 steps. A letter box placed at the main entrance would be a great convenience. At night twice the distance must be traveled from Richmond street to the side box. Why not have a box in the main entrance? Will someone tell us why?"

The Water Commissioners.

Commissioner Jones and Mayor Spencer transacted the business of the Board of Water Commissioners last evening with the assistance of the officials. Mr. Jones on the mayor's motion took the chair. Petitions for water mains on Briscoe street, Henry street and the Pipe Line road were granted. The mayor asked if the commissioners were responsible for the low state of the river. Mr. Jones said the hydraulic pumps used most of the water. The splash boards were usually taken down on Oct. 1. Engineer Moore said the water could be raised if the steam pumps were used. The board fixed the following rates per quarter for meter rent: Half-inch, $1; ¾-inch, $1 50; 1-inch, $2; 2-inch, $2 50; 4-inch, $5; 6-inch, $7 50. Tenders for piston rods were received and the contract was awarded to Stevens & Burns at $175.

Mary and John.

Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow;
It strayed away one summer day,
Where lambs should never go.
And Mary sat her quickly down,
And tears streamed from her eyes;
She never found her lamb because
She did not advertise.
And Mary had a brother John,
Who kept a village store;
He sat him down and smoked his pipe,
And watched the open door.
And as the people passed along
And did not stop to buy,
John still sat down and smoked his pipe,
And blinked his sleepy eye.
And so the sheriff closed him out,
But still he lingered near,
And Mary came to crop with him
A sympathetic tear.
"How is it, sister, can you tell
Why other merchants here
Sell all their goods so readily,
And thrive from year to year?"
Remembering her own sad luck,
The little maid replies:
"Those other fellows get there, John,
Because they advertise."

At the Grand.

The play "For Love and Money," which is to be given at the Grand to-night, has for its hero Frank Steele, the superintendent of large iron works, who, in the absence of his millionaire employer, receives orders to cut down wages. He reasons with his employer and tries every artifice to prevent a strike, which would reduce hundreds to starvation. Spencer, the boss, persists, and Edward Maynard, whom he has brought home with him from Europe, encourages him. Steele is accused of siding with the men and is discharged, Maynard succeeding him. The latter proves to be an adventurer and not a nobleman, and his scheme is to marry Spencer's sister Charlotte, get possession of her $1,000,000 fortune and become a partner in the business. The girl has vain notions and is anxious to marry such an aristocrat, and everything is proceeding lovely when Steele overhears a conversation between Spencer's valet, Ernest Cline, and Maynard, in which the whole plot is revealed. Steele takes the case in hand and secures proofs of the Englishman's rascality. The latter is put under arrest, Steele is reinstated, and all ends happily.

As Viewed from Outside.

The London Conservatives are showing signs just now of unwonted activity. The wirepullers and managers are often to be seen in secret conclave, and the Free Press has warned the faithful to look carefully after the voters' lists, all of which doubtless indicates that at last the long-rumored appointment of Mr. Meredith to a position in the Ottawa Cabinet is about to become an accomplished fact. It is probable that Mr. Meredith will resign his present seat as soon as the party have all their arrangements made for the bye-election.—[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

That is about the size of it. The question is, "Do you wish to vote for a successor to Mr. Meredith?" If so, you cannot be certain you have your vote unless you look at the lists now being revised. You have a vote if you are 21 years of age and a citizen. See the lists at the Young Liberal rooms, any day or evening. After this week it may be too late.

Old Maids' Concert.

A very unique entertainment under the name of "Old Maids' Concert" was held last evening under the auspices of the young ladies of the London West Epworth League of Christian Endeavor. The school room was tastefully decorated with prim bric-a-brac. The young ladies donned large white neck handkerchiefs and white aprons, and indeed looked worthy of their name. Miss Manville occupied the chair with a grace that might be the envy of the sterner sex. The following programme was ably rendered.

A GOOD SHOWING.

No. 3 Committee's Estimates—A Balance on Hand—An Improvement in the Electric Lights Expected.

No. 3 committee appears to be a little better off financially than the board of works, perhaps owing to better luck than their brethren on No. 2. The following statement as to the estimates and expenditures of 1892 was submitted at a meeting last night:

	Estimates.	Expended.	Accounts due.
Market.....	$1,135	$1,161 59	$518 00
Street watering	5,000	3,776 89	493 00
Fire department.....	23,400	19,246 47	2,970 75
Totals.....	$49,835	$39,170 80	$9,081 75
Total estimates.....			49,835 00
Expended.....		$39,170 80
Outstanding accounts....		9,081 75
			48,252 55
Balance to credit.....			$1,847 45

There are future expenses that may wipe out the balance, however. The estimates this year are $1,200 less than those of 1891.

Ald. Parnell asked about the proposed test of the electric lights.

The engineer said no test had been made. The president of the Ball Company had been in the city and said that the bad lights were due to Canadian carbon. Hunt Bros. and all the electric companies had found them bad, he said. The president said they would use American carbon in the future. The lights were already much better, the engineer stated.

Ald. Hannah complained of defective lights in front of St. Andrews' Church and at the corner of Princess avenue and Colborne street.

The engineer said an animeter had been put on the Ball Company's line and the current was even greater than that called for in the contract. He thought the president's action in changing the carbons would have the desired effect.

The desirability of retaining the woodmarket clerkship was referred to the chairman, Ald. W. Heaman and Ald. Parnell to report.

Mr. Parson's letter inquiring as to whether an aerial truck would be purchased was laid over.

The hide inspector will be given six months' notice that the office will be done away with.

Lewis Clark's petition for an electric light on the corner of Dundas and Burwell street was filed. No action was taken on G. Park's application to extend his market stall. The matter of employing a detective to watch offenders on the market was left with the chairman.

E. Sutton called attention to the great annoyance caused to the citizens by the multitude of peddlers going from house to house. He asked that they be prohibited or that a heavier fee be charged them. Laid over.

The engineer and Chief Roe will call for tenders for plastering No. 3 fire hall. Gas will be connected with the lamps in the market house.

Ald. Fitzgerald (chairman), Wm. Heaman, John Heaman, Hannah, Parnell, City Engineer Graydon, Secretary, Bell Chief Rowe, Inspector Bell and Market Clerk Wilson were present.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, is ear ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are specially subject.
