Naylor-Leyland, who married Miss Jennie Chamberlain, a sister of the bride, in 1889. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the service was full choral, HONDURAS NEXT.

London, April 29.—Representatives of Quaternala, who are acting also for Honduras, have been informed by the authorities of the latter country that Great Britain is preparing to take aggressive action for the collection of the interest on Hondurian bonds negotiated in England, upon which that republic defaulted two years ago. The interest and principal in arrears now will amount to between £20,000 and £30,000 per annum, and the proposition is to col-lect the revenues of several ports until some portion of the overdue interest, at least is paid.

GRAND TRUNK AFFAIRS.

The Montreal Star's cable from London says: The annual meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, which will be held tomorrow, s being awaited with the keenest interest. The committee of the dissatisfied shareholders, who are attempting to oust Sir Henry Tyler from the presidency of the company, have ever yconfidence that they will be successful in defeating him and placing Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson at the head of affairs. The committee now claim to have proxies representing stock to the amount of $10,000,000. This is $3,500,000 more than was claimed a week ago. They also claim to have command of 620,000 votes. It is pointed out that at the half-yearly meeting in October last the board commanded only 286,681 votes. It is claimed, however, by some that Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson is only a financial expert, and that he would require the aid of an authority high up In railway markets to manage the road in case he is successful in displacing Sir Henry Tyler.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR NICAR-AGUA.

London, April 29.-A Managua dis-patch says at a late hour this evening President Zelaya received a telegram from Washington stating that Great Britain would withdraw her ships from corinto and give Nicaragua fifteen lays in which to pay the $75,000 "smart noney" if such a proposition were acepted by Nicaragua. It is understood hat these positions are the result of he efforts of the United States to ring about a settlement of the didiulty in a manner alike honorable to countries. Upon the receipt of he dispatch President Zelaya at once eld an audience with his principal idvisers, and a reply will probably be nade within a few hours. President elaya, it is believed, will be disposed o accept the terms outlined in the dis-

THE WILDE CASE.

London, April 29.—It is announced that Mrs. Oscar Wilde has filed a suit for a divorce. In today's examination of Wilde and his companion the case for the prosecution was closed.

London, April 30.-At the opening of today's sitting of the trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor. Mr. Gill stated that the prosecution would withdraw the charge of conspiracy. Sir Ed-ward Clarke, on behalf of his clients, said that if this charge had been withdrawn at the outset he would have hade application to have the prisoners ied separately. He asked for a vericte of not guilty on those counts.

The judge refused to listen to such a erdict, saying that he would simply cede to the application of Mr. Gill have the charges of conspiracy

Sir Edward Clarke then began his pening address to the jury for the de-He intended, he said, to put Vilde in the witness box, where he could make an unqualified denial of the

came so eloquent as to evoke a burst of applause, causing the judge to threaten to clear the court room unless silence was observed. Taylor, Wilde's fellow-prisoner, was called to the stand and told of his career. He was educated at Mariborough College, he said, and became an officer in the militia, but abandoned military life upon coming into an inheritance of £50,000. He absolutely denied the charges against him.

TURKEY'S GREAT NAVY. The programme of the ceremonies attending the opening of the Baltic and North Sea Canal are now virtually settled. About 22 war ships, German and foreign, are expected to take part in the procession through the canal. The troubles of Turkey in connection with the dispatch of a vessel to Kiel to take part in the ceremonies are affording amusing reading. The Turkish Government at first refused to take part in the naval celebration on account of the poor state of its finances. The German Emperor then wrote an autograph letter to the Sultan asking him to send a war ship to Kiel The Sultan sum-moned the Minister of Marine, Hassan Pasha, and asked him if it was absolutely impossible to comply with Germany's wishes. The Minister of Marine carefully considered the formidable list on paper of the Turkish war ships, and found that he had only three frigates at his disposal which were suitable, and these, too, needed refitting, which would cost a great deal of time and Suddenly Hassan Pasha remoney. membered that the Turkish Government had ordered a large torpedo boat from the Germania shipbuilding yard at Kiel. This vessel is already built, but has not been paid for, oh account of lack of funds. The brilliant idea struck Hassan Pasha to send a crew to Kiel and hire this boat for the few days of the festivities. Difficulties, however, supervened to prevent the execution of this scheme, and it was finally decided to order the Turkish cruiser Heyblenuma to Kiel.

GERMAN ARMY MANEUVERS. The German Emperor has signed an order giving for the first time in the history of the German army a new complexion to the big imperial maneuvers, which is exciting deep interest in army circles. Instead of the usual evolutions regular army maneuvers will take place, the Emperor having fixed the number of troops to take part in them at 110,000. The scene of the maneuvers will be on the plains west of the upper course of the Oder. The guard du corps and the second army corps will contend against the third and ninth army Orangemen Threaten to Oppose the Gov-ernment if Remedial Legislation is Enforced.

Halifax, N. S., April 29.—Orange Grand Master Kelly stated today that in case the Government passed remedial legislation the Orangemen would put up candidates in every constituency. In St. Johns he says Dr. Stockton and Mayor Armstrong will be Orange candidates. In Albert, H. A. McKeown, of this city, will run. In Nova Scotia he says the same thing will be done, and Grand Master Gass wil oppose Tupper. Printed pedges are now being circulated and signed promising to support no candidate who favors remedial legislation. Kelly says the Orangemen mean business and to be consistent, and they can do nothing else.

The Directors of the Grand Trunk Railway Resign.

Sir Henry Tyler's Sensational Announcement at London.

The Sharehold is Secure a Majority by Unfair Means, He Says-The Financial Outlook-Rigid Economy.

London, April 30.-There was a large attendance at the meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway, which was hel dhere today, Sir Henry Tyler, president of the company, presided, and announced that the board of directors had adopted today a resolution that as it had been reported to them that the committee had obtained a majority of the proxies, they had decided to resign their seats and were prepared to hold themselves at the disposal of the shareholders. This announcement was received with prolonged cheers.

For a long time past, he said, there had been a great stampede for proxies against the proprietors of shares, and it was his duty to announce that the committee of shareholders had now obtained a majority of them. He would not hesitate to say that many of these proxies had been obtained by

UNFAIR AND MISLEADING circulars. However, the directors only awaited the appointment of their sucessors. A poll would be needless, as the committee themselves must decide the method of procedure. It was absolutely necessary, first, that efforts should be made to reduce the expenses of the company, in consequence of the great losses incurred by the passenger and freight accounts. Under great stress and by rigid economy, the expenses had been reduced by cutting the train service. This alone had saved £172,750, and during the whole year the expenses had been reduced about £315,000, against a loss of receipts of £418,000. These extraordinary savings had been made in the expenses of a railway that had always been conducted under a system of great economy. It would have been impossible to have obtained such a reduction unless there had been the high state of efficiency to which the line had always kept up. After surveying the conditions of the lines, Sir Henry Tyler said he thought the results were more satisfactory to the owners than they might have anticipated. The adverse results, he said, were due to the continuous

DECLINE IN RATES since 1883, the competition of numer-cus railways, including the Canadian Pacific, the general paralysis of business and the lower prices in Europe. The resignation of the directors was accepted, with few dissenting voices, and the meeting adjourned until May 7.

ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST. The chief topic of discussion at the vestry meeting at the Church of St John the Evangelist was how to make both ends meet. The wardens found a deficit of about $200 at the end of the year, and the question was whether the expenditure should be reduced or the receipts increased. It was decided that the latter course should be adopted, and the wardens will try and inaugurate a system of systematic giving of regular weekly subscriptions by envelope. Judge Edward Elliott argued in favor of free pews, and trusting en-tirely to the subscription system. As the congregation lately decided against free pews, the rector pointed out that this could not be done. The plan adopted is a compromise, and the pewholders will be given an opportunity to contribute a regular sum in lieu of rent. The churchwardens' report was presented by Mr. C. J. N. Shanly. It placed the receipts at $3,289 34, including $1,-177 60 raised by pew rents, $1,052 02 by Sunday offertories, $279 81 by endowment fund, and $342 25, proceeds of bills payable. I have another word on the subject of housecleaning, and that is for those women who turn their homes upside down and make everybody uncomfortable. Why do you do it? A thoroughly good housekeeper has assured me that this is entirely unnecessary. "One room a day" is her motto for spring and housecleaning time. Don't rip up all your carpets at once, leaving the house looking like some dreary sort of barracks. When the dining-room is under way, let the sitting-room or library be a "shelter in a time of storm," an unmolested spot, where the weary may take refuge. I have observed this comfortable and sane method of cleaning house in a domicile which presents a clean and cosy appearance in all parts, unless you should stumble upon the particular room which happens to be turned upside down for that day. "Why," I demanded of this housekeeper, 'do not all women adopt your method. It is very sensible, and you seem to get through a little ahead of the others." "Oh, because they don't think," was the terse reply. But why don't they? I like to see brains in everything that brains can be put into, and surely

A blue breakfast that Edward Russell tells about is both suggestive and amusing. It was in summer time, of course. He says: "In a city where I was lecturing a society dame asked a number of friends to a little breakfast They found their hostess exquisitely gowned in blue, presiding over a beautiful breakfast table, the center of which up to the plate line, was one mass of lovely blue morning glories—bloom and tendril. This artistic effect was pro-duced by fine wire netting adjusted over graduated glasses of water, in which of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Biliousness. But what excited the most interest and admiration was a Sick Headache, Foul Stomach, Biliousness, will set of pale blue open dessert plates, just the tint of the blue morning glories. When asked about these unique dessert plates, the hostess touched with her slender, turquoise-decked hand, her plates which seemed almost as rare and fine as her jewels, and said: "Yes, I purchased these on my last trip abroad; they were my greatest extravagance, and are said to be literally unique. I could secure but nine, so when I wish to use them I have to limit my guests to that number." These unique blue plates were for a number of days the Are you opposed to Romish talk of society. A few weeks after the little blue breakfast one of the guests. visiting an unfrequented part of the city on an errand of charity, discovered on the pavement before a small, shabby china store six baskets of the identical pale blue china plates-marked 12 1-2 cents each. freshness in a very short time. The New York World has several young ladies on its staff who are continually surprising people by their courage and enterprise. "Nelly Bly" and "Meg Merrilies," the two principal girl reporters, have secured an international reputation. The latter lately per-suaded Nikola Tesla, the scientist, to pass a current of a million volts of electricity through her. A current of between one and two thousand volts is considered sufficient to electrocute criminals, but it is thought that a much higher current would prove harmless. To test this Miss "Meg Merrilies" had the experiment made on herself. She survived, and wrote four or five columns describing her feelings during the critical moments. The Oddfellows of this town celebrated the 76th anniversary of Oddfellowship in America by attending divine service in a body at St. Paul's Church on Friday evening. There was a large turnout of the brethren, about 100 being in procession, headed by their excellent band. The pastor of the church, Rev. Bro. E. R. Hutt. preached the sermon on the occasion, and he prefaced his remarks by expressing his appreciation of the action of the brethren in choosing a week night rather than the Sabbath day for their annual church parade.

The chief of police has issued notices warning bicyclists against riding on the sidewalk. There will be an advertisement in Monday's paper calling for applications for organist and choristers. As may be imagined, the affair was all the talk today, overshadowing for the time the school question.

Large Gathering—Past Grand Sire Dr. Campbell Makes a Few Timely Remarks-The Programme.

Just received per special import, a new line of Fancy Swiss Curtain Muslin embroidered border brated last night by the members of the four city lodges and their friends in a right royal manner with an "At Home" in the Oddfellows' Hall, and the occasion was a success beyond measure. The attendance was large, a fine programme of music and song was carried out, and choice refresiments were served. The latter item was first on the list. Long tables were stretched from end to end of the lodge room, and besides beautiful foliage and flowers, were laden with all the dainties necessary to please the most fastidious. It was an excellent repast and was great-

This part of the proceedings over, the past grand sire, Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, called the assemblage to order, and, in introducing the programme, he referred to the pleasure which such a large gathering afforded the committee. "But," he said, "our pleasure has been seriously marred by the absence from our midst of a brother who in past years was one of the ever-active members in this city, one who figured in anniversary services in the hall and in the church. I refer to our esteemed Black, Cream, White, Brown and Imented district deputy, Jesse M. Symonds. We all regret his loss. It is a loss from which, I am sure, the order in this city will take many years to recover.'

The programme was a long one, and Dr. Campbell stated that he was not expected to make a speech, beyond simply referring to the fact that tonight and last night, and for the last two or three days, the members of the order had been gathered together to celebrate their 76th anniversary-not only in London, not only in Ontario, not only in the Dominion of Canada, but in nearly every part of the civilized world—in Germany, Sweden, Denmark, South America, Australia, the Sandwich Islands—expressing thanks to God for the success achieved, and consulting together with a view to devising new plans for the future and encouraging each other for work. The success of the order had been unparalleled in the history of fraternal organizations. During its 76 years of life, 2,000,000 men had been initiated into Oddfellowship. Relief had been extended to something like 1,800,000 members, and over $70,000,-000 had been expended by the lodges to relieve distress. "The membership is nearly 900,000 now," continued Dr. Campbell, "and then there are 100,000 Only 25c Each women working in conjunction with us. We are extending relief, between our lodges and auxiliary associations, to the extent of $4,500,000 each yearmore than $12,000 every day. Think of it! The programme was furnished ex-clusively by Mesrss. H. R. McDonald, H. R. Hollinshead and W. Thorn, Miss Evelyn Allen and Miss Marie Jex. The former three are soloists of a high rank, and every number received deserved applause. Miss Allen, in violin selections, displayed her great ability to a decided advantage, and Miss Marie Jex recited and pleased her hearers. The orchestra of the Askin Street Methodist Sunday school gave a number of selections, which reflected credit on themselves and their leader, Mr.

A SPECIAL WILL CASE

London Brethren Celebrate the Order's Before Mr. Justice Street at the Weekly High Court.

> Timothy Shay Died in Colchester in 1851 -Construction of His Will-Other Cases.

At the weekly sitting of the High Court for London this morning, a special case was brought before Mr. Justice Street, asking for the proper construction of the will of Timothy Shay, a fairly-wealthy farmer, who resided in Colchester, Essex county, and who died in 1851. By his last will Shay gave to his wife, Elizabeth Shay, part of lot No. 2, on the east side of Dunn street, in the town of Colchester. To his son Timothy, his heirs and assigns, part lots Nos. 2 and 3, on Daly street, and part lot No. 3, on the east side of Dunn street. At the decease of his wife, Shay left to his son lot No. 2 on the east side of Dunn street, but in case the son should die without "heirs of his body," then the daughter Elizabeth was to have lot No. 2 on the east side of Dunn street, and lot No. 2 on Daly street, to be by her freely possessed and enjoyed; part lot No. 3 on Dunn street, and part lot No. 3 on Daly street, to be sold and equally divided between his daughters, Catharine, Mary, Susan and Nancy, or their children. In case the daughter Elizabeth died without heirs, then part lots No. 2 on Dunn street and Daly street were to be sold and equally divided between the four mentioned daughters or their children. Edward Shay was appointed executor. Elizabeth Shay, wife of testator, died in December, 1882. Catharine, Mary and Nancy, daughters of the testator, have also died since the death of their father, leaving issue. Timothy married after the death of his father, and has living issue of the marriage. Shay contended that under the devise to him in the will he was entitled (subject to certain mortgages) to an estate in fee entail in the lands, but owing to doubts raised regarding this point, he was unable to deal with the lands as freely and fully as he otherwise might He asked the court to construe the will so far as it related to the lands and to declare the rights and interests of all parties thereunto.

Hume Cronyn for the plaintiff. Mr. A. Greenlees, for the defendants, contended that in order to carry out the intention of the testator, the will should be construed as giving the devizee an estate in fee simple, with an executary gift over in default of children or issue at the death of the de-vizee, relying on the words "to be by her freely possessed and enjoyed," as showing that the testator intended his daughter to take a personal and not a mere transmissable interest in the land. He urged that the context should qualify the strict technical meaning of the words "die without heirs of body," and that these words should be read as equivalent to "die without leaving children."

Judge Street ruled with the plaintiff. Telfer vs. Stuart-Motion for an order vesting certain rights in the purchase of an estate. Adjourned for a London Shoe Company vs. Side-

WILL A NEW OIL FIELD BE FOUND IN THE CANADIAN NORTH-WEST?

The recent unusual flurry in the United States petroleum market, and the declaration that the yield of oil from the chief source of the world's oil supply is steadily on the decrease, makes specially interesting the latest report of the Geological Survey of Canada. This report deals at some length with the boring for oil at Athabasca Landing, N. W. T., during the past year. The experiments are not yet completed, but so far they are of more than passing moment to the oil men of Western Ontario, and will be studied by many other readers not directly concerned in petroleum production.

Dr. Dawson mentions that the occurrence of great quantities of bitumen or maltha along a portion of the Athabasca River has long been known, having been noticed and commented upon by the very earliest travelers in the region. Beds of sand or very soft ing the recent Legislative match at sandstone of cretaceous age, varying Toronto prompted the suggestion. from 140 to 225 feet in thickness, are there found to be more or less completely saturated with bitumen, for a distance of some 90 miles along the river. These beds are known as "tar sands." More recently a number of smaller occurrences of bitumen in the form of "tar springs," as well as sources of combustible gas, have been his wild, impassioned desire to resign. extensive district. All these circumstances point to the probable existence of a great petroleum field, of which possibly some parts have already exhausted themselves in saturating the lowest cretaceous sands, but of which probably the greater portion is still effectually sealed by the thick covering of overlying rocks. The importance of actually ascertaining by means of boring operations the existence or otherwise of economically valuable bodies of petroleum in the Athabasca region has been recognized for many years, but the remoteness of the region and the apparent impossibility of immediately utilizing any discoveries which might be made, have hitherto prevented the necessary experiments. The recent completion of a line of railway to Edmonton, has, however, considerably changed the conditions in these respects, and some time since Parliament made a grant for the purpose of securing a thorough examination of the strata. Mr. A. W. Fraser, an expert well known in the Petrolea region, who had previous experience in boring for petroleum in Burmah and Beloochistan as well, was chosen for the work, and on the 1st of August last year he broke ground. The results of the boring are given in detail in the ties? What better avenue to the doreport of the department. The indications are decidedly favorable. Down to 245 feet soft and hard slate were met with alternately. At the depth named a hard flow of gas was met with. It threw the water in the bore-hole over the top of the derrick. At 334 feet another large flow of gas was struck. The roaring of the gas could be heard Survey, informs us that the brook trout half a mile away from the works, and found in that northern water are probit was considered unsafe to work with the boiler in its former position, so it was removed 55 feet. It is not probable that pe-troleum, if found in Northern Alberta or in Athabasca would seriously compete in the east with the already established petroleum industry of Ontario; but the considerable and yearly increasing demands of British Columbia and the Northwest Territories would afford a local market which might be large, as, if the oil could be furnished at a low price, it would undoubtedly be employed as a liquid fuel for railways in many parts of the country. The comparative proximity of the Athabasca region to the Pacific further indicates that an enormous foreign demand, coextensive with the shores of that ocean, might be most profitably supplied from this re-gion. The extent of this market may be in part realized when it is stated that

Then came the submission of the estimates of the moneys required for the conduct of the business of the Dominion for the year from 30th of June with last year. But the supplementary estimates are to come yet, and no one knows how much is kept back till they are submitted in the dying days of the session. Here is a comparative summary of the amounts required in the several branches of the service:

The same will happen this year. The amount will depend on the pressure of needy

The public debt keeps mounting up, as is shown by the increase of interest payable from $10,141,193 80 last year to $10,579,348 68 this year. For the expense of the coming general election the Government provides $1(0),000. Then $30,000 additional is asked for the Royal Whiskey Commission, and the end is not yet. Some $667 50 is cut off the vote for London letter carriers, and $1,600 of salaries in the London customs house.

The House today transacted a good deal of miscellaneous business. Mr. to the House of Commons. It provides that when the House is in session the Government and not the Speaker shall have power to issue a writ to fill vacancies. Between sessions, if the Government neglects for so many days to issue a writ for a necessary byeelection, the clerk of the crown must send the writ to the sheriff, as in England. This will prevent a repetition of scandalous delays in filling vacant a year.

An interesting discusssion took place regarding the delay in bringing down the reports of the departments at Uttawa, raised by a motion for papers by Mr. Charlton. Mr. Charlton pointed out that it is now nearly twelve months since the financial year closed, and some of the reports are not yet before the House. He charged that the ministers had not intended to meet the House, and had been on a campaign tour instead of finishing their reports.

Dr. Landerkin inquired why the return asked for last year showing the articles imported from the United States for use in the departments, had not been brought down. Mr. McMillen said the rival factions in the Cabinet who were quarreling over their policy regarding a general election really could not find time to obey the orders of the House.

Mr. Foster retorted that if the Government had election in one eye as suggested, the Opposition had the election n two eyes. "We are ready for it, too," piped up

Dr. Landerkin.
Mr. Foster said: "Of course we have to prepare for election at all times." "It is unfortunate for you, is it not?" merrily queried Hon. D. Mills.

"When will the major-general of the militia report, and where is he now?" asked Dr. Landerkin. "I do not know, and I am in total ignorance of his present whereabouts," was the extraordinary answer of the Government leader.

Dr. Macdonald, Mr. Mulock and Mr. Edgar each gave instances of the utter disregard of duty by Ministers, it being pointed out that while the Government printers and even outsiders were rushed beyond precedent to get ready the voters' lists upon which the elections were to be held, the reports necessary to show the misdeeds of the Administration were kept back, and were even now not before Parliament.

The rights of the owners of Anticosti came up on a motion by Mr. Forbes for a return asking for their names and the exclusive privileges they had. Mr. Forbes and Mr. Fraser, two Nova Scotian members, said the owners claimed under the rights ceded with the island when it was given up by France certain privileges as to the control of the fisheries that should be defined. The Canadian fishermen might suffer. Mr. Laurier rather thought that these feudal seignoral rights had been wiped out, but the question should be investi-

Mr. Foster promised attention. Little is known about the island, it seems, except that it is owned by an English syndicate, who are trying to sell out.

A motion for census returns of alleged factories discovered by census enumerators in Queens and Shelburne counties, N. S., a lively discussion took place. Mr. Forbes said many of the supposed factories could not be found. He desired to see how the census men figured it out, and complained of the failure of the Government to bring down the papers asked over a year ago. When he applied at the Department he was told it was because there was no money. He and Hon. David Mills pointed out the worthless character of the census, and instanced London, with its alleged 800 factories. He was given to understand that every seamstress

Dr. Macdonald said he would like to have shown him the 53 factories alleged by the census to exist in Wingham. The reports were promised.

Mr. McMillan made an impromptu speech in moving for a return of copies of all correspondence between the Canadian Government and the United States authorities with regard to permission to transport Canadian cattle over United States territory for ship-ment to Great Britain from United States ports. He pointed out that it was to the G. T. R. and not to the Government of Canada that the farmers

What is now wanted is the further privilege of shipping from New York and Boston. Mr. McMillan scored the Administration for their inattention to the farmers' interests. Dr. Montague was rising to reply, but Mr. Foster motioned him to keep still -a wise suggestion.

Mr. Edgar moved for a statement showing the items on which duties have been increased by the Canadian tariff from 1878 to date, the date of the increase, and the amount of the increase on each item.

Mr. Clark Wallace said the preparation of the return would entail great labor and cost. Mr. Edgar said that the return would be much more easily prepared than the return moved for by Mr. Amyot sever-

Mr. Mulock ridiculed the excuses of the Comptroller, and Dr. Landerkin caused much merriment by suggesting that with the largely-increased Cabinet the work could easily be done withcut calling in outside help. LONDON CLUB RUN. The London Bicycle Club will hold a club run this (Tuesday) evening to Pond Mills and return, leaving the club house at 7 o'clock sharp. All are invited to be present.
A progressive whist party will be held on the return to the club house, and a suitable prize will be awarded to the party making the highest number of points. The club is now booming, and every evening sees a large gathering of enthusiastic members taking a spin around the streets, country roads, shady lanes (and dusty thoroughfares), and after dusk they all naturally gravitate toward their light and airy club house, where they spend a few pleasant hours with music, cards and fish stories. On Thursday evening the regular monthly meeting will be held, and all members are requested to be present, as there is a great deal of important business to be transacted.

Captain Beltz says there will be no "scorching" in the run this evening, unless they have to race with an approaching rain storm as they did last Monday night. But they beat the rain by a neck on the home stretch, and landed at the club house good and dry, as "Shorty" knows. The only mishap which occurred was occasioned by one of the boys preferring the ditch to the wooden bridge. The boys will all remember the initial run of the season of '95.

Upon the vast assemblage fell; and then
"Strike one!" rolled out in accents loud and clear, While from the bleachers sullen murmurs rose.
"Strike two!" "Strike three and out!" A

And yells of "Mob the umpire!" "Put him

The first annual ball of the Chatham Cricket Club was held Friday night in Wm. Glay & Son's repository, and proved the most brilliant social event ever witnessed in Chatham. The pecuniary result of the ball will be an addition to the club's funds of some $300.

Valentine Roth, aged 73, an old and respected resident of Brantford, committed suicide by hanging himself in a woodshed Sunday. The old gentleman retired Saturday night in the best of health and spirits, and rose about 6:30 a.m., dressed and went out. Not returning to breakfast alarm was felt. A search was instituted, when he was rear of the house, hanging by a rope to a joist, quite dead. The deed had been effected by the use of a box, which was kicked away, leaving the body suspended about eighteen inches from the floor. No cause is known for the act, as the deceased was in good health and comfortable financially.

KILLED BY THEIR ARMOR.

It Weighed Too Much for the Stoutest Russian Soldiers.

One of the most interesting features of the late Czar's funeral was, as usual. the two men clad in medieval armor, one on horseback and the other on foot. The mounted knight had his visor open, and his armor was of burnished gold, which glittered in the sun. He symbolized life.

The other was on foot; his armor was coal-black steel; his visor was closed, and in his hand he bore a drawn two-handed sword, the edge of which was shrouded in crape. He symbolized

The weight of those two suits of armor is so great that, notwithstanding the most gigantic men of the imperial guard being selected to don them, the one on foot at the obsequies of Emperor Nicholas I. fell dead from exhaustion on reaching the church of Saints Peter and Paul, where the imperial mausoleum is situated; while at the funeral of Alexander II. the black knight fainted during the march from the winter pal-ace to the place of interment, and was carried to the hospital, where he died the same night.

A similar fate overtook the black knight at the recent Czar's funeral. It was observed that he could scarce y drag himself along during the latter part of the procession through the cap ital, and on reaching the fortress he sank unconscious to the ground, and has since died.

The similar wonderful cure of Dr. A. G. It is also proving itself invaluable in the milder forms of sickness which appear during the spring.

"I wish to publicly acknowledge the fact that I am indebted to your Paine's Celery Compound for health, strength and life. PUBLIC HONORS TO A NAG.

It was the 33rd anniversary of the birth of Old Daddy, the veteran horse used nineteen years in transport-in mail in this city. The procession formed at the engine house at 1:20. Mr. Hughes, Daddy's owner, accompanied by Postmaster Perry, rode at the head in the mail wagon, which was drown by Daddy. Then came the band, in regular order, followed by express, delivery and other wagons in great numbers, all of which, with the horses drawing them, were profusely decorated with flags, bunting and banners. The outfit covered eight or nine squares in length and traversed the principal streets, finally disbanding at the starting point. The entire city turned out and many houses were decorated in honor of Old Daddy, who seemed to take a placid enjoyment of the honors paid

Chicago, April 29.—The bulls are intoxicated with their success, and will probably continue to boost the market as long as it responds readily. Armour appears to be at the bottom of the manipulation. He is said to have bought in his May wheat the week before last, and is trying to make a market on which to sell from 8,000,000 to 12 000,000 bu for July. The visible decreased 2,850,000 bu, all of which was exported but 400,000 bu, which represents the domestic consumption. Russian and Argentine exports last week were nearly 6,250,000 bu. It is pertinent to inquire how long it will take for the domestic consumption to absorb our big surplus if prices here are advanced so as to double the exports of other countries and cut our own in two. Primary receipts, 40,000 bu; exports, 308,000 bu.

Abundant rains have fallen in the northwest, with indications that they will become general tomorrow. The market is nervous, and so easily manipulated. In the present temper of the trade it is useless to guess as to what it will do, but when the fever subsides it will be found that the situation is not very different from what it was a fortnight ago.

Corn and oats were dragged up at the opening by wheat, but the offerings were so free that prices soon sold under where they closed Saturday.

Provisions opened easier on more liberal receipts of hogs and lower prices at the yards.

The product has been in liberal supply on the little rallies, and if hog receipts should keep up a few days it is probable prices may rule easier.

COURT OPENED.

Cases Heard Before Mr. Justice Street at the Non-Jury Sittings,

Which Opened This Morning-A Loan Company Worsted.

Immediately after the Single Court was concluded this morning, Mr. Justice Street gazed on the long docket for the spring non-jury sittings of the Chancery Court, at which he is to preside, and called on the first case. It was that of the Bow River (Manitoba) Ranch Company against Thomas D. Hodgens, of this city, and arose through a deal in horses. Mr. Fraser, for the defense, asked that the case be passed over, as a settlement was being arranged by telegraph between the parties. The court consented.

Tarratt vs. Johnston—This was an action to recover possession of a house and lot on Blackfriars street, London West, under a mortgage made to plaintiff by Sarah Ann Johnston, wife of the defendant. Mrs. Johnston died in 1892, leaving several children. Mr. Bartram, counsel for defendant, argued that this action would not be against the defendant above, because the children were in possession of the property as well as the defendant, and further, that no notice provided by the mort-gage had been given after default. Mr. Love, for plaintiff, contended that no notice was necessary, in which his Lordship agreed, and gave judgment declaring plaintiff entitled to possession as against the defendant, which could not affect the possession of the children, against whom another action might be necessary.

The Agricultural Savings and Loan Company of this city brought suit against Wm. Angle, of Southwold township, Elgin county, to compel him to execute an agreement. The company, it appears, loaned Angle money on lot No. 1, on the south side of the Lake road, in Southwold, but as default was made, in payment the mortgage was foreclosed. Since then the company claimed Angle had offered the company claimed angle had offered the company claimed angle had offered to be company to the company claimed angle had offered to the company claimed angle had offered to the company claimed to the company cl them $3,200 for the place, $600 to be paid down and the balance in yearly installments of $500. The offer was accepted, but Angle never executed it. Angle deried ever having made the offer, but stated that if he ever did it was upon the understanding and representation that the lands were to be delivered to him as they stood, where-as a large quantity of timber had been cut down and removed. And the Bicycle Track May Not Be Built.

Wheelmen and Citizens Are Not Subscribing in Proportion to Their Bicyclic Enthusiasm.

From present indications it looks as though the proposed bicycle track for Queen's Park may fall through for lack of subscriptions. The Fair Board will not allow work to be commenced until the whole of the requisite amount has been subscribed, and Mr. Percy Carroll, the chairman of the track committee, spring. states that the response up to the present time has been rather discouraging. Several tenders were received up to last night by Messrs. McBride & Farncombe for the construction of the track and they will be opened this afternoon. ably in the middle of the summer a hue and cry will be raised by wheeling enthusiasts because London is not up to date and provided with a first-class track. St. Thomas, Sarnia and other smaller places have bicycle tracks, and a year ago London was clamoring for one. But the near prospect of the track, with the possible accompaniment of a $10 subscription has apparently dampened the ardor of the London enthusi-

It appears that the track can be built for about $1,500, which is considerably less than was thought possible at first. The idea of the promoters is to have a six-inch surface of clay, with a finishing surface of brick dust and cement. If London wheelmen want a track they will have to bestir themselves.

An Exciting Time. A man stepped hurriedly out of a Richmond street store shortly after noon to-day and walked rapidly towards Dundas street. There was nothing strange about his appearance; he was dressed in the height of fashion, and apparently was cool and col-lected. He increased his gait perceptibly as he neared the corner, and more than one pedestrian turned to look again at the fleeting figure. A policeman was standing at the intersection of Dundas and Richmond streets, and coming down the street was a watering cart, sending forth its shower of tem (without allotment) was introduced | Springbank aqua pura. MOUNET-SULLY.

The Celebrated French Actos,

The features of Mounet-Sully are familiar to Canadians, as the great actor, during his American tour, played to delighted au-diences in this country. Mounet-Sully mimics the passions to the life, and there is a subtlety, an intellectuality in his delineations which places him in the front rank of great players. Mounet-Sully is a patron of the famous "Vin Mariani," and it is thus that great actor speaks of it:-" When we drink it, we sing, are gay, we love, we dream of the future, of glory, of the infinite. In fact, nothing can be better for strength-ening than 'Vin Mariani.'" And this is the universal testimony, that this famous tonic coca wine nourishes and strengthens when all else fails, building up the nervous and debilitated system, driving away the blues and all despondency, and giving a new lease of life to those who were disposed to cultivate a morbid pessimism. If you desire to know something about the celebrated persons who have spoken admiringly of "Vin Mariani," send your name to Lawrence A. Wilson & Co., Montreal, and they will send you an album containing their portraits, free.

A Lost Gem

Hannington threw back his head scornfully. "Your good faith is so very much to be relied upon! Don't you suppose I have heard the stories current at Homburg and Monte Carlo? Don't I know that there are places in London where you daren't show the tip of your nose? What reason have I to pin my trust on you, I should like to know? Why, it is one of the greatest drawbacks Molly will have to contend with when she goes into the world-if it is ever known -that she is Ralph Kingscot's niece." "Don't try me too far, Hannington." Even in the dim light it could be seen that Kingscot's lips were white, and that his pale cheek was twitching with anger or agitation. "No need to rake up old stories. They were mostly lies-and they have been forgotten long ago. Besides—you are not blameless yourself."

"I may have played high, and lost a good bit on the turf at one time or another," said Hannington, sharply, "but I swear I never cheated at cards.

Kingscot made a passionate gesture, as if he would have struck the man that taunted him; then he drew back his hand, with a look of almost inconceivable malignity. No," he muttered, more to himself than to his companion; "no-not yet. Some other way." Then, aloud, and with recovered dignity, he said, calmly-

"Your insulting language is only pardonable when I consider that you are in a difficulty, and in trouble of mind, Hannington. On that ground I am ready to over-look it, and to continue the offer of my services in your little love affair. Remember that without me you are helpless."

"Bertie is on my side, I believe. He has brought his sister here several times." "Bertie is on the side that I tell him to take. Bertie is under my thumb. He is too much afraid of some of his little money transactions coming to his father's ears to disobey me. He will ask my permission for anything he does."

"And is Molly obedient?"
"Molly is not obedient at all. You will find that out if you marry her. Do you want me to do anything for you, or do you Hannington smoked steadily for some moments without answering. But when he "Yes," he said, "I do."

"Letters, I suppose?"

"Letters, of course." "And-any other arrangement?" Again Hannington was silent. There was evidently some doubt, some struggle going on in his mind. "Leek here, Kingscot," he said at length. You excuse me if I spoke hastily Lam-as you guessed-in some trouble—some perplexity; the fact is, I hardly know what to say or do next. I'm regularly done for—up a tree—this time; and one is naturally a bit short-tempered at such a conjuncture. "Oh, of course. Don't think of it, old fellow. What's wrong?'

"You don't suppose," said Hannington, who seemed incapable that evening of pursuing a conversation in any connected "that Moncrieff would give his conseat to his daughter's early marriage?" "No, I do not."

I cannot afford to wait," said the young man, almost as if he were ashamed of the confession. "Then don't wait," returned Kingscot,

"What-make a bolt of it?" "Why not?"

"Molly would never consent."

"You don't know much of girls if you really think so. The romance of the thing would delight her.' "And what would Moncrieff say?"

"He would storm and rave, no doubt But he would give in.' "And even if he did not give in, there is no mistake about Molly's money, I suppose? I could touch it at once? I don't want to make ducks and drakes of it: but it would be a convenience to get a few hundreds into one's own hands just now." "I have no doubt it would," said Kingscot to himself, and his mouth expanded in such a malicious grin, that, if Hannington could have seen it in the darkness, it might have startled him. But he could not see his companion's face for the shadows that had fallen fast about them. And after a pause, Ralph answered in a tone of suave conviction. "There is no mistake that I am aware of. Molly's fortune will come into her hands and her husband's hands on her marriage, if that takes place before she is twenty-one. So long as she is in a good temper and a generous mood, you never need fear poverty. The world will have its say in the matter; it will call you a fortune-hunter: but I suppose you don't mind that?"

"Not in the least," said Hannington, with a laugh. "Nothing succeeds like

"If you have a clear conscience," continued Ralph, in a tone of affected simplicity, "you can afford to defy the sneers of worldlings base. Of course I trust in your love for my dear little niece, and do not wish her to be sacrificed to your pecuniary necessities -

"Come, Kingscot, that will do," said John Hannington, decidedly. "I don't like that sort of thing. You know you don't care a rap what becomes of your niece, and you need not set up to be virtuous and affectionate all of a sudden!" "Exactly," said Kingscot, changing his tone; "but at the same time I should like to know, as a matter of curiosity, whether you are fond of Molly or not?" "Molly's a nice little girl, and uncommonly fond of me. A man must marry some

"That's all, is it?" "Isn't it enough?" exlaimed Hannington, almost savagely. "I like her—she likes me—what more can you want? A man never marries his first love—seldom his second or his third. There is nothing unco mmon in my mode of proceeding, is there?"

"Nothing at all. I am only surprised to hear that you ever had a first love, Jack. Where is she, then? Was she rich too?"

"No, worse luck," said Jack, so sullenly that Kingscot felt surprised, for he had not imagined that there was any seriousness in his companion's remark. "Poor as a church mouse, confound it! Else I wouldn't have played the fool with Stella Raeburn and Molly Moncrieff—you can take your oath of that. She was worth the whole of them put together; but we couldn't afford to marry each other, and so we agreed to part."

"No. You needn't think you're going to worm her name out of me. Let the subject drop, if you please," said Hannington, flinging away the end of his cigar, and turning as if to go. "I don't care to talk of it. Are you ready? It is abominably cold here." "Is she married?"

"You have no message for Molly?" "I will write, if you will take the letter to her. I'll see you in Dunkeld to-morrow

"You will have to be quick with your arrangements," said Kingscot, slowly.
"You have silenced the fair Stella for a week; only for a week. You have a week's chance—that is all."

"It will be enough," said Hannington, striding away. His voice was rough and hoarse; there was no inducement in his manner for Ralph to follow him, and accordingly that gentleman looked after him with a smile, and did not attempt to track his footsteps. Jack went blundering along the rough road, stumbling now and then over stones half buried in the rank grass, growling to himself at the darkness of the night. Kingscot listened intently until the noises died away. Then he smiled, and ensconced himself snugly in an angle of the wall where he was protected from the wind. Presently he lighted a cigarette and began to smoke. He was not cold—he liked the feeling of the fresh air upon his face, and he wanted a little quiet time in which to review the situation, which was by no means so clear to him as he would have liked it to be. If his thoughts had been translated into words they would have run something after this

"It seems to me that I have a chance at last of doing what I have tried to do all these years. Success is near me now, I

"What is it that I have been trying to get ever since Marie died? A hold on that fool Moncrieff, with his antiquated notions of truth and honor and honestly; a hold on him, a place in his household—why? Not for his benefit, of course. For mine. Because I wan't a competency. I look forward to a time when I shall call myself master of a a time when I shall call myself master of a good round sum, and spend my days as I choose. For this I have wasted years of my life in courting Alan, and frightening his wretched son—alienating the man's heart from his children, and steadily laying up a hoard for myself. But the gains have been few; it is a slow progress. I have not made nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet, and I was nearly enough for myself as yet and a sentinel pacing up and down at just devising ways and means of increasing the spoil, when he must needs go and marry this wretched slip of a girl-ay, and if I am not mistaken, fall in love with her, too. I never was more astonished in my life.

He trusts his accounts into my hands. He writes checks without inquiring why they are wanted. He accepts my stories of what is needed on the estate without a murmur. In short, he acts like a fool. And yet--it is an odd thing-I never feel safe with him; I never feel sure that he will not wake up some day and ask awkward questions-and where should I be then? It is just that dread which has made me so moderate; which has kept me from plundering wholesale (as people would call it) -- that is, which has made me content with so small a percentage on my transactions with him. Why, confound the man! does he think that I shall do the work for nothing? or for the beggarly pittance that he pays me for drilling Bertie in his Latin grammer? I'm not such a fool.

NOW IS THE TIME.

"Seek Ye the Lord While He May Be Found."

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage Discourses of the Theme of "Salvation."

New York, April 28 .- lev. Dr. Talmage today again preached to a great audience in the Academy of Music. As usual, many were turned away from lack of seats. The sermon was on "Salation," the text selected being Isaiah, lv., 6, "Seek ye the Lord while he may found."

Isaiah stands head and shoulders above the Old Testament authors in vivid descriptiveness of Christ. Other prophets give an outline of our Saviour's features. Some of them present, as it were, the side face of Christ; thers a bust of Christ; but Isaiah gives us his full length portrait. Isaiah was not a man picked up out of insigni-cance by inspiration. He was known and honored. Josephus, and Philo, and Strach extolled him in their writings. What Paul was among the Apostles, Isaiah was among the Prophets. My text finds him standing on the mountain of inspiration, looking out into the future, beholding Christ advancing, and anxious that all men might know him; his voice rings down the ages: Seek ye the Lord while he may be found.

I come, today, with no hair-spun theories of religion, with no nice distinctions; with no elaborate disquisition; but with an urgent call to personal religion. The Gospel of Christ is a powerful medicine; it either kills Gr cures. There are those who say, would like to become a Christian. have been waiting a good while for the right kind of influences to come"; and still you are waiting. You are wiser in worldly things than you are in 123ligious things. If you want to get to Albany, you go to the Grand Central depot, or to the steamboat wharf, and, having got your ticket, you do not sit down on the wharf or sit in the depot; you get aboard the boat or train. And yet there are men who say they are waiting to get to heaven-waiting, waiting, but not with intelligent waiting, or they would get on board the line of Christian influences that would bear them into the kingdom of God. Now you know very well that to seek a thing is to search for it with earnest endeavor. If you want to see a certain man in this city, and there is a matter of $10,000 connected with your seeing him, and you cannot at first find him, you do not give up the search. You keep on searching for weeks and for fancy; fresh complications crowd on me on all sides. I can hardly miss my aim.

"What is it that I have been trying to one-half that persistence you would long ago have found him who is the joy of the forgiven spirit. We may pay our debts, we may attend church, we may relieve the poor, we may be public benefactors, and yet all our life disobey the text, never seek God, never gain heaven. Oh, that the spirit of God would help me, while I try to show you, > and a sentinel pacing up and down at the foot of the throne. God is a father seated in a bower, waiting for his children to come and climb on his knee, and get a kiss and his benediction. Prayer is the cup with which we go to the "fountain of living water" and dip up refreshment for our thirsty souls. Grace does not come to the heart as we set a cask at the corner of the house to catch the rain in the shower. It is a pulley fastened to the throne of God, which we pull, bringing the blessing. But praying must be believing, earnest, loving. Prayer is a warm, ardent, pulsating exercise. It is an electric battery, which, touched, thrills to the throne of God. It is the diving-bell in which we go down into the depths of God's mercy, and bring up "pearls of great price." There was an instance where prayer made the waves of the Genesaret solid as stone pavement. Oh, how many wonderful things prayer has accomplished! Have you ever tried it? In the days when the Scotch Covenanters were persecuted, and the enemies were after them, one of the head men among the Covenanters prayed, Oh, Lord, we be as dead men unless thou shalt help us! Oh, Lord, throw the lap of thy cloak over these poor things!" And instantly a Scotch mist enveloped and hid the persecuted from their persecutors—the promise literally fulfilled: "While they are yet spaking I will hear." Have you ever tried the power of prayer? God says: "He is loving and faithful and patient." Do you believe that? You are told that Christ came to save sinners. Do you believe that? You are told that all you have to do to get the pardon of the gospel is to ask for it. Do you believe that? Then come to him and say: "Oh, Lord! and I could get it. I come, Lord. Keep thy promise, and liberate my captive soul." If your physical health failed, and you had the means, you would go and spend the summer in Germany and the winter in Italy, and you would think it a very cheap outlay if you had to go all round the earth to get back your physical health. Have you made any effort, any expenditure, any exertion for your immortal and spiritual health? Some of you have been working for years and years for the support of your families. Have you given one half day to the working out of your salvation with fear and trembling? You came here with an earnest purpose, I take it, as I have come hither with an earnest purpose, and we meet face to face, and I tell you, first of all, if you want to find the Lord you must pray, and pray and pray.

I remark again, you must seek the Lord through Bible study. There are many people to whom the Bible does not amount to much. If they merely look at the outside beauty, why it will no more lead them to Christ than Washington's farewell address or the Koran of Mohammed, or the Shaster of the Hindoos. It is the inward light of God's Word you must get. If you merely want to study the laws of language, do not go to the Bible. It was not made for that. Take "Howe's Elements of Criticism"—it will be better than the Bible for that. If you want to study metaphysics, better than the Bible will be the writings of William Hamilton. But if you want to know how to have sin pardoned, and at last to gain the blessedness of heaven. search the Scriptures, "for in them ye have eternal life."

When people are anxious about their souls, there are those who recommend good books. That is right. But I want to tell you that the Bible is the best book under such circumstances. Baxter wrote "A Call to the Unconverted," but the Bible is the best call to the unconverted. Philip Doddridge wrote "The Rise and Progress of the Religion of the Soul," but the Bible is the best rise and progress. John Angell James wrote "Advice to the Anxious Inquirer," but the Bible is the best advice to the anxious inquirer, O. A CUP OF DELICIOUS

B. B. B. removes every trace of Scrofulous poison, and every vestige of Bad Blood, which is the fountain-head o nearly all disease. It has cured terrible cases of Scrofula of 25 years' standing, and all Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Rashes, Sores, Ulcers, Abcesses, etc., yield readily to its specific healing powers, acting through the blood upon the entire system.

the Bible is the very book you need, anxious and inquiring soul! I remark, again, we must seek God through church ordinances. "What," say you, "can't a man be saved with-out going to church?" I reply, there are men, I suppose, in glory, who have never seen a church; but the church is the ordained means by which we are to be brought to God; and if truth affects us when we are alone, it affects us more mightily when we are in assembly—the feelings of others emphasizing our own feelings. The great law of sympathy comes into play, and a truth that would take hold only with the grasp of a sick man beats mightily

agains the soul with a thousand heart

But I come now to the last part of my text. It tells us when we are to seek the Lord: "While he may be found." When is that? Old age? You may not see old age. Tomorrow? You may not see tomorrow. Tonight? fou may not see tonight. Now! Oh, if I could only write on every heart, in three capital letters, that word N-O-W -Now! Sin is an awful disease. It is leprosy. It is dropsy. It is consumption. It is all moral disorders in one Now, you know there is a crisis in a disease. Perhaps you have had some illustration of it in your family. Sometimes the physician has called, and he has looked at the patient and said:
"That case was simple enough; but the crisis has passed. If you had called me yesterday, or this morning, I could have cured the patient. It is too late now. The crisis has passed." Just so it is in the spiritual treatment of the soul—here is a crisis. There is a time which mercy has set for leaving port. I know that Thou canst not lie. If you are on board before that, you Thou hast told me to come for pardon, will get a passage for heaven. If you are not on board you miss your passage for heaven. As in law courts, a case is sometimes adjourned from term to term, and from year to year, till the bills of costs eat up the entire estate; so there are men who are adjourning the matter of re-ligion from time to time, and from year to year, until heavenly bliss is the bill of costs the man will have to pay for it. "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found."
