ST. GEORGE'S WON FROM ST. DAVID'S

Hamilton Cricketers Did Well at Toronto.

The St. George's Cricket Club scored an easy victory at Toronto over the St. David's team, winning by an inning and 18 runs.

Captain Reid won the toss and sent the Toronto men to bat against the bowling of Risebro and Stewart, and all were retired for the small total of 32, not a batsman reaching double figures.

After luncheon the St. George's commenced their inning, and in short order lost three of their best bats for four runs. Reid then partnered Stewart, and before they had separated they had made the runs necessary to win the game, the former getting 18 and the latter 20.

Rastrick put on top score of the inning, getting 21 by sterling cricket. A. Back, jun., played a nice inning for 14, and Alf. Tribbeck, one of the colts of the team, hit up 11 in quick style, carrying out his bat.

The local men did better in their second inning, getting a total of 50, of which Morley got 22 by good cricket, and Muckleston 11.

In the first inning Stewart took six wickets for 15 runs, and Risebro three for eleven, while in the second Risebro Reid, b. Back, sen., b. Stewart, 7. Gardner, run out, 10. Muckleston, b. Risebro, 10. Crossley, b. Risebro, 10. Thymington, not out, 0. Smith, std. Walker, b. Stewart, 0.

EARLY SHOPPING

There is an inestimable advantage given to the early customers of Stanley Mills & Company, Limited, over those who do not come in until late in the day. The reason for that state of affairs is that the early shopper has an opportunity of a better selection in whatever he or she may be buying. Then again, it is the time to snap up the good bargains. Get moral of that advice: Well then shop early and be a wise one.

DOMINION DAY

Dominion Day passed quietly yesterday, without any accidents of any kind, and although there were no special attractions, such as military displays, immense crowds of visitors arrived from the neighboring towns and cities. Early in the morning boat loads of pleasure seekers arrived from Toronto, and the suburban lines were kept running at full capacity to accommodate the large number of passengers. It is estimated by the steamship companies that nearly ten thousand people were carried from Toronto to Hamilton by the three boats yesterday, and the traffic the other way was almost as heavy. Superintendent Jack Gibson said that never in the history of the Cataract Power Company had the traffic been as heavy on the suburban lines as it was yesterday. Many thousands visited the Beach, and spent the day picnicking. At Maple Leaf Park the grounds were crowded to capacity all day long, and the numerous attractions there did a land office business. On the mountain top, both at Summers' Theatre and Bessie's Park, the spectators were large. Yesterday was an ideal day, and visitors could not have seen Hamilton under more favorable conditions. At the Jockey Club nearly ten thousand people attended the races. The street car traffic was unusually large and considering the conditions on Barton street the Traffic Railway Company handled the traffic well. The road was at no time tied up, and there were no delays. Dundurn Park was filled with picnic groups—mostly family parties with the children out for a good time.

TRIAL FLIGHTS

Calais, July 2.—Herbert Latham, the French monoplane flyer, has decided to undertake a series of trial flights before attempting to cross the channel. These will delay his long flight for at least a fortnight.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1909.

AN IDEAL DAY.

He who would be dissatisfied with the Dominion Day weather must indeed be a hard man to please. The day was an ideal one for a holiday, and it may occur to the older people that it was very much such a day as that of the first Dominion Day 42 years ago.

VICTORY FOR THE BOYS.

The Y. M. C. A. campaign committee is to be complimented and congratulated on the splendid success which marked its work culminating in securing about $5,000 for the new boys' building.

VERY WELL SAID.

Discussing the statement of one of the delegates to the Press Conference, Sir Hugh Graham being the one referred to, the Canadian Courier enters a vigorous protest against his intimation that Canada had not pursued a self-respecting policy in regard to naval contributions.

This answer to the charge of niggardliness may be further enlarged by pointing to our military expenditures. Australia and New Zealand being island nations and having no international boundaries to consider, have paid little attention to their land forces.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

June customs receipts at Toronto are the heaviest for the month ever recorded. We are on the up grade. The London suffragettes seem to be ambitious to demonstrate that their sex can furnish as undesirable a lot of hoodlums as ever wore breeches.

It is being more and more recognized that the true Imperial cement is that sentiment which binds us together, while scrupulously respecting the autonomous rights of every British state interested.

RETURNING CALM.

It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that there has existed something in the nature of a conspiracy to stampee the nations of the British Empire into an altogether unnecessary and wasteful policy of reckless naval expenditure.

For such a malady time and calm thought do much, and their effects are now becoming visible. As the public becomes better informed on the actual situation, the war terror dissipates.

The speech delivered by Lord Charles Beresford on Wednesday must have been a distinct disappointment to the Jingo party. The promoters of the war scare counted much upon Lord Charles to forward their cause.

The result of Lord Charles' efforts, while disappointing to those engaged in seeking to keep alive the war scare, cannot but be gratifying to patriotic Britons of the world over who place the good of their country first.

The assassination of Lieut. Colonel Wylie by an Indian student at an "at home" at the Imperial Institute, in London, last night, bears every appearance of a carefully planned political crime.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

June customs receipts at Toronto are the heaviest for the month ever recorded. We are on the up grade. The London suffragettes seem to be ambitious to demonstrate that their sex can furnish as undesirable a lot of hoodlums as ever wore breeches.

Winnipeg wants to hold a big fair, and she is asking for a grant of $2,500,000 from the Dominion Government to ward it. That is quite an item.

This is Sir Charles Tupper's 88th birthday. The Times wishes the veteran statesman all the possible happiness in the evening of his long and busy life.

The Manchester Guardian cordially approves of that Canadian spirit which opposes the centralization policy of some Imperialists. It expresses the opinion that attempts to scare the younger British nations into centralization are calculated to make us doubt whether Englishmen are not losing their old-time steadfastness and sense of humor.

A strike against the introduction of machines for aligning the letters on the type bars of typewriters has led to the closing down of the Remington works at Alton, New York.

A Toronto female physician told the delegates to the International Council of Women that one-half the women in the insane asylums were there because of their husbands, while half of those who died perished as the result of unhappy marital relations.

Wonder how many of the taxpayers of Hamilton realize what an expensive thing the Hydro conspirators are making this power question to them? What with legal and electrical experts, fees to Solomon and other engineers, and the cost of municipal voting, and attendant expenses of the campaign to deoy them into the scheme, all of which they have to pay, it makes it quite costly for the taxpayers.

Hon. Mr. Fielding is being highly complimented on the success of his loan floated in London the other day. It was an unprecedentedly large one, the total being over thirty million dollars.

Messina, which six months ago was desolated by an earthquake, which caused great loss of life, was again subjected to a number of shocks, which caused much damage to the remaining buildings, but which, fortunately, does not appear to have occasioned loss of life.

Magistrate Kingsford, of Toronto, will have to deal with a Lord's Day Act case next week in which it is contended that a cigar is a drug. Certainly some of the cigars smoked in the presence of suffering humanity are well fitted to be classed with arsenic, sulphuretted hydrogen, bisulphide of carbon and other antiseptics of atar of roses.

Samuel Barker, M. P., is one of the distinguished leaders of the loyal opposition. He hails from Hamilton, whence so many other bright politicians have arisen.

Our Exchanges

PEKING'S EASIER. (London Free Press.) It seems as easy in New York as in Hamilton for murderers to get away.

LONDON, TOO. (London Free Press.) Hamilton expects a million-dollar union station. London should have a union station beyond a doubt.

SHOP EARLY. (Stratford Beacon.) Do your shopping early next Saturday night and help make a shorter work day for the merchants and their staffs.

HEADING FOR THE POOR HOUSE. (Montreal Gazette.) The United States Government in the year that closed yesterday spent some $82,000,000 more than it received in revenue.

THAT SCARE. (Kingston Standard.) We don't believe England distrusts herself or the ability to hold her own, quite as much as the scare-mongers would have us believe.

KEEP OUT. (Galt Reformer.) The daily record of drownings from canoes emphasizes the fact that any person who cannot swim has no business in such dangerous craft.

THE FAMILY WASHING. (Toronto News.) When the Chinese are being individually taught English and Christianity by the girls, why could they not show some appreciation by teaching the girls how to do family washing?

FOOL TALK. (Toronto Telegram.) Conservatism should request its own Mail and Empire to stop making the party ridiculous with fool talk about Sir Wilfrid Laurier's impending retirement from the Premiership of Canada.

KNOWS HIM. (Belleville Intelligencer.) McLean, of the Toronto World, who has his knife in every one who differs from him on the question of Government Ownership, has fallen foul of the Mayor of Hamilton by insinuating that His Worship is a corporation tool.

THE TERROR PASSING. (J. A. Macdonald in The Sphere.) Frankly—and the editor of the Sphere charges me to be frank—the war scare is not half so impressive when looked at in London as it was when seen in Toronto in the lurid light of the despatches of two months ago.

IS JIM A JUDGE? (Grimby Independent.) If there are no better looking women at the Quinquennial Congress than those of whom pictures have appeared in the Toronto papers, then I move that they all be disfranchised for life—perhaps the rule is that when a woman gets too homely for any other purpose she joins the suffragettes.

POOR PAY. (Galt Reporter.) Toronto storekeepers require to be told that they are doing that which encourages the transgressor and provides pitfalls for young women. A "living wage" is not $2, $3, $4 or $5 a week. Yet thousands of girls receive such a wage, out of which street car fare must be paid and board provided for.

MAYOR STOPPED STRIKE. (Montreal Witness.) The Mayor of Pittsburgh has been summary in his dealing with an acute labor quarrel. Instead of waiting for the submission of their differences to mediation by voluntary agreement as our law provides for, he summoned both parties to his office and told them the public would not stand hold up and riot, and they would have to come to terms. And they did. It was all moral suasion, though of an imperative sort.

BOY TORTURED BY AWFUL HUMOR

Almost Covered with Eczema—No Night's Rest for Nearly a Year—Feared Lifelong Disfigurement—All Treatments Failed and Limit of Endurance Seemed Near.

PERFECT RECOVERY IS DUE TO CUTICURA

"With the exception of his hands and feet, my son Clyde (thirteen years old) was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. While they were very kind and did all in their power, nothing seemed to relieve him. And I had tried many remedies sent to me by kind friends but they all failed. His head, face, and neck were covered with large sores which he would rub until they fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Many a time he looked as if his ears would drop off. Friends coming to see him said that if he got well he would be disgraced for life.

"When it seemed as if he could possibly stand it no longer, I decided to try Cuticura. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. I used them in the evening and that was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. This may sound exaggerated, but it is true. In the morning there was a great change for the better. In about six weeks you could not have told that he had ever had anything wrong with him. I treated him twice a day for six months and at present he has a fine complexion and not a scar on his body. This story may seem overdrawn, but neither words nor pen can describe Clyde's suffering and how he looked. Our leading physician, Dr. J. C. Reynolds, recommends the Cuticura Remedies for eczema. Mrs. Algy Cockburn, Shiloh, O., June 11, 1907.

Frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap and weekly dressings with Cuticura stop falling hair, remove crusts, scales, and dandruff, destroy hair parasites, soothe the irritated, itching surfaces, stimulate the hair follicles, supply the roots with nourishment, loosen the scalp skin, and make the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp, when all other remedies fail.

There is one religion of toil and another of talk. The easy-chair is an ideal pulpit for a lazy man. It is pleasant to feel that we are regenerating the world whilst we are taking our ease. It is pleasant and useless. The easy-chair seems to breed wisdom. The man who never fired a gun or marched a mile can tell just where Napoleon and Wellington blundered. The man who never drove a spike, or pulled a lever, or handled a brake, can tell the world just now a railway ought to be run. And the man whose voice is seldom heard in prayer, whose hand has forgotten how to give,

FINCH BROS.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN A GREAT SUCCESS.

Citizens Contributed $54,628 For the Benefit of the Boys of This City.

Great Rejoicing When the Final Reports Were Handed In on Wednesday.

The staff of the Y. M. C. A. and business men of the city who took an active part in the recent campaign for the new building fund met in their committee rooms on Wednesday evening, at 6.15 o'clock, to report the amount subscribed, and the work done by the various committees. Before they proceeded to business all sat down to an excellent supper provided by Crawford the caterer, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

After partaking of the meal Mr. Alfred Powis, President of the Y. M. C. A., and chairman of the committee, took charge of the meeting.

The reports of the business men's ten committees and of the special committee were called for and, while they could not close their collections, it was clear that they had several thousand dollars to the good.

As soon as this was announced Mr. Powis called up all to stand and sing, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," and this was done heartily.

Mr. Powis then announced that the competition between the teams would close at 10 that night, and when he was able to say that the amount already subscribed, $54,628, a deafening cheer rose from the assembled body. He then addressed a few words to the audience, dealing with the nature of the campaign and work done by the committees.

The captains of the different committees were then called upon to give an account of their canvass, which they did to the entire satisfaction of all. Their reports showed that the work had been carried on by men who held the motto of victory ever before them and into whose minds the thought of failure never came. Each one thanked the members of his committee for the faithful support given and for the untiring energy with which they had pursued the work.

Some rather peculiar instances were related and some worthy of special mention. Mr. F. C. McIlroy, captain of No. 6 committee, told of a certain member of his group who met with an accident while going down King street. He was carried to a doctor's office, and between his groans he appealed to the professional gentleman for a subscription. He was promised fifteen dollars, but threatened to die on the doctor's hands and ruin his practice if he didn't give $25. His threat had the desired effect, but the mean part of it was that the doctor's name was not on his card, and when the doctor called at an office up town he was approached by a canvasser who had his name, and there paid in the $25.

so that the original applicant didn't land his subscription.

Mr. J. H. Horning, captain of No. 7 Committee, told of two small boys who were so enthusiastic in the success of the campaign that they went out picking strawberries and contributed $1 each to the fund. Mr. Horning will never forget this noble work on the part of the boys. He also spoke of a doctor who reluctantly consented to a very detrimental to the financial welfare of the medical men.

Mr. Geo. H. Lees told of a call upon a wealthy man, one able to contribute handsomely. No amount of persuasion, however, could break the crust that had formed over this man. He positively refused to give a cent, but as the collectors withdrew the servant maid gave them $2 as her contribution.

Another captain told of calling upon an old citizen, a retired wholesale merchant whose wealth is so great that he will probably go to his grave without knowing its extent, and yet he refused to give one cent.

At the 6.30 report F. R. Smith's team was still well in the lead, but in the last two hours Russell T. Kelley made a garnish finish and landed in first place. The final report was:

A CHILD FOR ME
And can it be,
A gift so great,
A child for me,
A little being of mine own,
To kiss and cuddle close,
To make this heart a home!
To sing to it soft lullabies,
To croon for it old melodies,
To teach it to love me,
As I love it, not having to be taught,
Mine own, not having to be bought,
Oh, priceless gift, more rich than all earth's gold,
A child! Such wealth! The half can never be told!
The preparation for the coming. The And darks of despairing int'rest, the strange amaze
And wonder of it all. That time you seem to dwell
Not quite on earth, but tiptoe near, just looking through,
To hear Heaven's music, till it seems to enter your,
Your heart is vast; it breaks all religious bars—
God's plan! Your part! You understand the stars!
'Tis well the still, small voice is heard.
Within the whirlwind. The joy that sound has stirred
Might kill if it were otherwise. For lo!
Here is theapture such as the angels heard.
For joy like this what can I'er repay,
Had I but owned the child for one brief day?
In love like this nor time nor separation
Aught but a living, glowing immortal.

That thought was born
When first a mother lent her child back to its God,
And knew it was not gone!
—Eloise.

A pretty house wedding took place on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, being that of Miss Sarah E. Boyle and Mr. Archibald McGilvray Morison, of Markham, formerly of Dundas. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. S. H. Gray, of Knox Church, took place at the bride's residence, King street west, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. The bride's costume was a pearl grey silk eolienne, made in princess style, with trimming of silk embroidery lace. She carried a beautiful bouquet of cream roses and wore a pendant brooch of pearls and a large amethyst, the gift of the groom. The bride and groom, being unattended, stood beneath a pretty arch of white lilies and white peonies, while bouquets of pink carnations were given to the bridesmaids. In the dining room, the tables looked lovely, with many bouquets of deep red roses and carnations, the bride's table being decorated with white satin ribbons and vines, from the corners to the chandeliers above the wedding cake, which was a fine and greatly appreciated. In another room three large tables were filled with beautiful wedding gifts, among which was a brooch, in the form of a laurel, set with whole pearls, from the teachers and officers of Knox Sunday school. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Morison were seated at a two weeks' wedding trip to Montreal by boat, the bride traveling in a tailored suit of blue worsted cloth, with blue hat. Mr. and Mrs. Morison will return for a few days to Dundas, after their trip, before leaving for their future home at Markham. Both are well known and highly esteemed in Dundas, the bride being a teacher in Knox Sunday school and the groom, during his residence in Dundas, having been superintendent of the same school. The best wishes of a host of friends will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Morison to their home at Markham.

TWO DEATHS.
An old and highly-esteemed resident of Dundas passed away on Tuesday, June 29th, in the person of Mrs. McCoubrie, widow of the late Wm. McCoubrie, at her home, Hatfield street west. She had been a resident of Dundas for about forty years, her birthplace having been in the north of Ireland. The deceased, who was sixty-nine years of age, was a most estimable lady, and was a faithful member of Knox Church. The only surviving member of her family is her daughter, Mrs. Howard Bulmer, King street west, to whom the sympathy of a wide circle of friends is extended. The funeral took place from her residence this afternoon, to Grove Cemetery.

The death took place on Monday at the family residence, Ancaster, of Robt. Edward, son of Frederick Holstiein, in his 20th year. Deceased was ill only about three weeks, and his death will be regretted by a host of young friends, with whom he was very popular. The funeral took place at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to the family burying ground.

On Tuesday evening a very pleasant event took place at Orchard Hill, the home of Mrs. Dennis McElroy, in honor of Miss M. Parker, teacher of Victoria School, Governor's Road. About seventy pupils, parents and friends gathered for the farewell evening. A most graceful program was rendered by the pupils and an address was given by Miss Lillian Pringle, while Miss Goodbrand presented her with a handsome gold watch chain. The address referred to the high esteem in which she was held by the community and to the pupils' appreciation of her sterling worth and her many acts of kindness that had endeared her to both pupils and parents. Miss Parker made a suitable reply at the unexpected pleasure of receiving such a handsome as well as unusual gift. Light refreshments were served, and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. W. H. Bookling acted as chairman.

CHAUFFEUR TO BLAME.
To the Editor of the Times:
Sir,—In your issue of Wednesday's paper in the report of Police Court proceedings, you state that W. A. Holton was fined for speeding his automobile. In justice to myself and family, I wish you would publish the facts of the case.

The automobile was taken from the garage without our knowledge or consent and no member of our family was in it at the time the offence was committed. The driver is not now in my employ. We feel there should be a law making it a criminal offence for a chauffeur to take out an automobile without the knowledge of his employer. If there was such a law, we would not have so many complaints in regard to speeding and careless driving of automobiles.

Thinking you, I remain, yours very truly,
July 2, 1909.
W. A. Holton.

Col. Wylie's Murderer Arraigned and Remanded for a Week.

Indian Terrorists Introducing Political Agitation Into Britain.

Lord Morley May be the Next Victim of Assassins.

London, July 2.—Madar Leloff Dhinagri, the Indian student who last night shot and killed Lieut.-Col. Sir William Hutt Curzon Wylie and Dr. Cawas Lalca, of Shanghai, at the conclusion of a public gathering in the Imperial Institute, was arraigned in the Westminster police court this morning, and remanded for one week, after being formally charged with wilful murder.

In the dock the prisoner appeared quite unconcerned. He stood with his hands in his pockets, and shook his head negatively when asked if he wished to say anything. Subsequently, however, he said that he had not wilfully killed Dr. Lalca.

"I saw him advance, and then he caught hold of me; I fired in self-defence," he declared.

The proceedings lasted only a few minutes, and the Hindu prisoner was removed to jail under a strong guard.

This is the first time the methods of the terrorists have been introduced into political agitation in England, and the country has been awakened to the fact in an ugly temper. The prisoner, whose age is given as 26, is said to have relatives in good standing in Calcutta.

In the India Office the murder of Col. Wylie, who was a political aide de camp to Lord Morley, Secretary of State for India, is held to be entirely political.

The dead official, so far as is known, had had no personal dealings with Dhinagri, and the India Office's view is that the outrage was due to some imaginary grievance against the system of Government.

The National Indian Association, under whose auspices the gathering in the Imperial Institute was held, was formed for the purpose of establishing relations between the peoples of Great Britain and India. Sir Alfred and Lady Lyall received the guests, who numbered some 300 Anglo-Indian officers, officials and students. The scene was a brilliant one.

There was present many native Indians and women, in picturesque native costumes, and with the exception of the assassin, everybody was in evening dress. Dhinagri was attired in ordinary morning dress, and wore a turban. The tickets to the junction were placed with great care, in order that they should get into the hands only of reliable per-

R. H. Y. C. RACES FOR

CONGRESS OF WOMEN OVER.

Social and Moral Reform Work Attracted Attention.

A Land Where Breach of Promise Suits are Rare.

What Elementary Education Has Done For Scotland.

Toronto, July 1.—With the session yesterday afternoon the International Congress of Women practically came to a conclusion after one of the most successful gatherings since these quinquennial assemblings of the women of the nations have been organized.

It is an interesting fact that of all the sections that devoted to social and moral reform has always attracted the largest attendance. Yesterday the theatre of the Medical building was crowded when a series of vigorous speeches against the double standard of morals was delivered by Dr. Martindale, Mrs. K. W. Barrett, Dr. Sylvanus Stall and others.

Mrs. Carlaw Martin, in pleading for the teaching of domestic economy in the Education Section, said that the legislator had relieved the family of some of its more active duties, as they were understood in the past, on the plea that in a large number of cases the institution of the home had wholly, or partly, broken down already, and that it had to be reconstructed for the next generation by putting public bodies in loco parentis.

Mrs. MacIntosh, Montreal, thought that if they were to make the domestic training part of the school curriculum the present generation of girls growing up to be mothers would shift responsibility entirely on to the schools.

Speaking on the relation of education and democracy, Mrs. Maud Muff, Great Britain, said that the nearer the approach was made to pure democracy the greater was the part played in civic life by the men and women of the working classes, and the more essential that they should be educated. The spread of elementary education in Scotland had raised that country to a position of importance by breaking down class barriers and giving to the poorest opportunities of rising such as were unknown in England.

Breach of promise suits are rare in Norway, said Fru Drewson in her paper, before the Section of Laws, and were not looked upon with sympathy. In Norway, imprisonment was never, a term of imprisonment was imposed, and if the girl abandoned her child and the man had deserted her during the last few months of pregnancy he could be indicted as an accessory to the murder of the child.

From these rooms occasionally white women came out, sleepy, clad in half-Chinese, half-English costumes, some of them beautiful women, and watched the play for a while, and then went back into the mysterious side rooms. Over all was a strong smell of opium smoke which was almost overpowering, and caused a severe headache.

The same reporter was speaking to Acting Detective Montgomery this morning with regard to the Chinese resorts. "What you saw is quite true," said he. "The white women, for some reason or other, seem to be fascinated by Chinese, and there are hundreds of them who frequent Chinese resorts in this city. It may sound strange, but the class of women who seem drawn to these Chinese are of a refined character, and most of them come from good families. I can give no reason for it. I have talked with some of these women, and they say that Chinese are gentlemen, and treat them very generously."

"Yes, there are some young girls in these resorts, too, I am sorry to say. They are girls from shops and factories. Most of them are very pretty, and are even more fascinated than the older women. We have often taken them from these places. Sometimes they have gone home, but more often they return and practically spend their lives in the resorts. Many of them live there all the time, while others make a practice of visiting them every evening. If you wish to see what traffic is done in these places, stand in front of one of these restaurants and watch the crowds that go in."

The granting of the suffrage would do much to relieve the condition in the opinion of Miss Chrystal MacMillan, while Mrs. Lewis thanked God that she had not a daughter. If she had, and a man made her so unhappy as she had been, she would shoot him on sight.

DOG KILLED.

Lightning Brings Death to Pet Dog, But Spares Its Mistress.

Danbury, Conn., June 30.—Miss Sadie Williams, of New Fairfield, escaped unharmed when a bolt of lightning killed a dog that lay in her lap. Miss Williams, the daughter of Oscar B. Williams, who has a country home near Newerick Pond, was sitting on the veranda when the storm came. The dog, alarmed at the thunder and lightning, ran to her to seek protection.

Miss Williams took him in her lap and was trying to calm him when there came a flash of lightning and a ball of fire which traversed the veranda from end to end. Miss Williams was dazed by the flash. The dog, unmarked by the lightning, lay dead at her feet.

FARMER KILLED.

Napanee, Ont., June 30.—Murney Parks, a wealthy farmer of this vicinity, was instantly killed this morning. He was assisting at a barn raising when a heavy timber fell on his head.

Guests were dangerously injured. Within a few feet from the spot where Elizabeth Ranshaw, the nurse, was to descend from the Glen road bridge, Toronto, a month ago, Albert, aged thirty, rooming on Mutual street, early on Thursday morning, the iron railing, and just as a beam reached out to catch him into the ravine, 125 feet below, he fell. Robinson, the veteran explorer, was taken seriously ill at Sharrow cottage at Sharrow, critical condition.

BRITAIN'S NAVY.

Lord Berezford on Britain's Defencelessness.

London, June 30.—Admiral Charles Berezford appeared before the London Chamber of Commerce this afternoon in his favorite role of a candid critic of the naval administration. The effect of his speech, however, was to a certain extent discounted by the apparently authoritative announcement that the Admiralty had failed to establish docks, and before a committee of the Cabinet and experts appointed at his own request which has been sitting for some weeks past. Nevertheless the Admiral again declared that the situation in the navy was more serious than was generally known, and he said that in order to put the Empire in a state of safety by March, 1914, Great Britain would have to build ten battleships, eighteen second-class cruisers, eighteen cruisers for the protection of commerce, twenty-four vessels of a new type larger than torpedo boat destroyers, and four floating docks, as well as replenish the depleted stores of ammunition, coal, etc., and add 16,000 men to the personnel. This programme would necessitate an expenditure of from $275,000,000 to $300,000,000.

CHINESE DENS.

Many White Women Frequent Toronto Houses.

Women Fascinated by Chinese—What a Reporter Saw.

(Toronto News.)

It was found that almost every Toronto Chinese restaurant was but a rendezvous for Chinese and white women. These restaurants, with their innocent-looking store fronts, conceal much that would surprise a number of the citizens of Toronto, were they to wander through. However, unless in charge of a guide, this would be impossible, as strangers are admitted only to the outer court, so to speak, of these places.

A reporter of the News recently paid a visit to several of the restaurants. Downstairs a large, square room, lighted by electric lights, shaded by Chinese silks, blazed out after the darkness, and it was as if one had gone to sleep and awakened in another country. The two ends of the large room were honey-combed with bunks built to hold two persons. Some were occupied. They were built so that the persons occupying the bunk lay facing each other, with their feet to the room. Between them was a slightly elevated square wooden table on which was spread out a complete opium outfit. One person filled the pipe while the other slept. The sleeper was roused, was given the pipe, which he smoked and proceeded to fill for the other, who in some of the bunks while women occupied one-half, while a Chinese occupied the other.

The centre of the room was crowded with tables of strange gambling devices over which sleepy-eyed Orientals chattered monotonously, breaking away from the game to hit the pipe or to retire to a series of smaller and evidently more private rooms opening on the side of the room.

From these rooms occasionally white women came out, sleepy, clad in half-Chinese, half-English costumes, some of them beautiful women, and watched the play for a while, and then went back into the mysterious side rooms. Over all was a strong smell of opium smoke which was almost overpowering, and caused a severe headache.

BRUTAL DEED.

Policeman Killed by Blow on the Head With His Own Club.

Frederick, Md., June 30.—While on his way to the magistrate's office late last night with Frank Cahill, 15 years old, Policeman Wm. Orrison, jun., of Brunswick was intercepted by friends of the lad and dealt a terrific blow on the head with his club, and killed. Young Cahill had been arrested on a complaint that he had been stealing rides on a merry-go-round in the park.

Good Short Stories

A well-known scientist was lecturing on the sun's heat, and in the course of his remarks said: "It is an established fact that the sun is gradually but surely losing its heat, and in the course of some twenty millions of years it will be exhausted; consequently this world of ours will be dead and like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

At this juncture a member of his audience rose, in an excited manner, and said: "Pardon me, professor, but how many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?" The professor—Seventy millions, sir. "Thank God," was the reply. "I thought you said seven millions." Success Magazine.

Small boys are not always as sympathetic as their relatives wish, but, on the other hand, they are seldom as heartless as they sometimes appear. "Why are you crying so, Tommy?" inquired one of the boy's aunts, who found her small nephew seated on the doorstep, lifting up his voice in loud wails.

"The baby fell d-downstairs!" blubbered Tommy. "Oh, that's too bad," said the aunt, stepping over him and opening the door. "I do hope the little dear wasn't hurt much?" "She's only hurt a little!" wailed Tommy. "But Dorothy saw her fall, while I'd gone to the grocery! I never saw anything!"—Youth's Companion.

General Staves was a martinet, a stickler for etiquette, a man with a prodigious sense of his own dignity, and when Private S. Weigh, the bugler, one day failed to honor him in passing with the customary salute, he flew—inter-nally—into a towering rage.

"Knutt," he said that afternoon, to the colonel, "Private Weigh failed to salute me this morning. A breach of etiquette, sir! A piece of impertinence—my dignity—haw! See that the man is severely reprimanded!" Colonel Knutt trembled and nodded, and next day he spoke to the captain. "Bisket," he said, "Private Weigh failed to salute the general yesterday. Please see that he is severely reprimanded."

"Right, sir," said Captain Bisket, and next day he spoke to the sergeant. "Sergeant," he said, "Weigh didn't salute the general. See that he is severely reprimanded."

"Look here, Binks," said the sergeant next day to the corporal bugler, "give Weigh a good talking to, will you? He didn't salute the old general the other day."

Finally the corporal bugler communicated with Private Weigh. "Look here, funny face," said he, "if you don't salute old Pookerback next time you meet him, what-ho, young feller, you'll get a blooming clout on the ear 'ole.—London Tit-Bits.

While William and James Smith, of Flos Township, were yesterday committed at Barrie by a magistrate to stand trial for the murder of Michael Kelly, this charge will be reduced to manslaughter. The brothers were locked up in Barrie jail, but they will be released when they provide bail of $3,200 each, provided $800 by accused and the same amount by three other sureties.

THE FARM

PROFITABLE SHEEP FARMING. (Farmers' Advocate.)

If sheep husbandry was a profitable business in Canada fifty years ago, as there is good reason to believe it was, it is difficult to understand why this industry is so largely neglected as it is now in many districts of the older Provinces, in which the number of sheep kept by farmers has for many years been steadily decreasing. The conditions, so far as one can see on the surface, are as suitable as ever for sheep-raising. The climate has not changed, the foods necessary for successful feeding of sheep can be quite as plentifully grown, and prices for mutton and lambs are as high as ever, wool being the only product of the flock that has ruled low in price in recent years, and this is a crop yielded by no other class of farm stock. The common complaint or excuse that dogs make the industry unprofitable has no more foundation than it had half a hundred years ago, when the rural population was, in many districts, much greater per mile than now, and when there were more dogs kept than when wild animals were plentiful, and live stock was allowed to run at large.

An article in the Canadian Agriculturist, published in Toronto, sixty years ago, pointed out the profits of sheep-farming as an auxiliary to successful grain-growing in Ontario at that date. From the article referred to, we quote the following:

"At the present time there is, about five miles from the village of Bancroft, in Hastings county, a sheep farm, which the owner, Dr. Leavitt, has still, and which shows that the sheep industry is profitable, having developed into a thriving business. It consists of 1,200 acres, is nearly square, and encloses three small lakes, which Dr. Leavitt has plentifully stocked with trout and black bass.

"The acquisition of so large a property, it is stated, is the sequel to a chance investment in a flock of twenty ewes about twelve years ago. In November of that year, two settlers each took ten of the ewes, under an agreement to care for the manure returned at the end of three years double the number of ewes, either who take a flock to double in three years, but well-to-do farmers also find the venture profitable.

"By giving the necessary care, a farmer taking twenty sheep on this plan, finds it an easy matter to become the owner of forty ewes, besides returning forty to the owner at the expiration of three years. The scheme has been found to work well, and has done much to develop the sheep industry of the district, and might, no doubt, be profitably carried on in other places."

THEY GOT INSIDE.

Preparations were being made in the Criminal Court to sentence a negro who had been convicted of murder in the second degree. Two little negro boys peeped through the main doorway of the Criminal Court room and addressed one of the stern deputies, according to the Kansas City Journal.

"Do you let boys in?" said the larger of the two. "No boys allowed," said the deputy, disinterested.

The little negroes strolled half way down the stairs leading to the street, held a conference and then returned and again opened the door.

"Mister," said the larger, addressing the same deputy, "does it make a difference if we is the sons of the man what's goin' to jail?"

The boys were sons of the negro who was awaiting the murder sentence. Mr. Friedberg and other court attaches that they all went to Judge Latham and asked him to reduce the sentence.

And the boys got inside the court room, too.

MURDERED BY INDIAN.

Political Assassination at Imperial Institute, London.

Indian Student Kills Col. Wyllie and Physician.

Murderer Captured While Trying to Commit Suicide.

London, July 1.—Lieut.-Col. Sir William Hart Curzon Wyllie was murdered late to-night at a reception at the Imperial Institute by an Indian student, who shot him with a revolver. Dr. Lalacaca, another guest, was fatally wounded, dying later.

Col. Wyllie was regarded as one of the most distinguished political agents that India has developed. His long, varied and successful career led to his selection as political aide-de-camp to Viscount Morley, Secretary of state for India, in 1901.

Col. Wyllie was standing talking with Dr. Lalacaca, a Parsee and a practising physician at Shanghai, when the student suddenly approached and fired five shots from a revolver point blank at Wyllie's head, all the shots penetrating his skull. Almost simultaneously he shot Dr. Lalacaca in the breast. All happened before the bystanders were able to interfere. The student tried to shoot himself with the remaining cartridge in his revolver, but he was seized by the on-lookers and prevented.

Dr. Lalacaca died while being conveyed to a hospital. Another revolver and a dagger were found in the murderer's pockets.

The murderer is named Dhenegri, and is about 20 years old. He has been living in Baywater since Easter, and has been studying at University College, London. He is well educated and well dressed in English fashion, except that he wears a turban.

He struggled desperately with his captors until his concealed weapons were taken from him. He was apparently determined to free himself for the purpose of committing suicide. As soon, however, as his weapons were gone he became the calmest man in the room. He mildly asked his captors to replace his spectacles, which had become dislodged in the struggle. Otherwise he did not speak.

He sat back in a chair with his eyes closed, trying to sleep, but occasionally smiling with calm satisfaction.

After the police searched his pockets they perused closely a written three-sheet document, which apparently disclosed the motive for the crime. They gave out that the murder was undoubtedly political.

It is now evident that Dr. Lalacaca was shot accidentally.

Most of the guests at the reception were Indians and women. Indian costumes were largely worn. Indeed, the whole setting was Oriental. The room in which the reception was held was erected by the generosity of a rich Parsee, and was decorated in Indian style throughout. Many of the guests had left, or were leaving, when Dhenegri fired. Some, hearing the shots, returned to see what had happened. Among these was a stately Englishwoman, in dark evening dress, who immediately knelt beside Wyllie, not knowing he was dead, and exclaimed: "Poor fellow, can I do anything for him?"

Then, as she gazed at the disfigured face, a look of horror leaped into her eyes, and in a quiet, trembling voice she said: "It's my husband; oh! why was not I with him?" It was Lady Wyllie. A few moments earlier she had left him chatting with a friend, while she went to the cloak-room to get her wraps. He was just moving to join her when Dhenegri stopped him. Many of the Indians, on hearing the victim's name, broke into sobs.

"He was one of the best friends India ever had," exclaimed one.

"It's a sorry day for India," said another. "We will have to share the blame for this."

The reception was held in connection with the National Indian Association, held for the purpose of establishing an entente cordiale between the peoples of Great Britain and India. The guests included many prominent men of both nations identified with the association's aim.

Is Flying as Dangerous as Motoring?

Of course, there is a certain element of danger in flying, as there is in every sport. But granting that, it is still a question in the minds of those who have tried both flying and motoring, whether the aeroplane, at its average gait of thirty-eight miles an hour, is not a safer vehicle than the automobile when it goes tearing up a road at the same rate of speed. And as between riding in an aeroplane and in a Vanderbilt cup race, ask any one who has tried which he believes the safer. Farmer, who has given up cup racing to go into aviation, smiles when you put the question and promptly chooses the flying machine. Furthermore, "I'm told you couldn't get the Wrights into a racing auto unless you dragged them into it, and then set on fire."

Because, as the two respectfully and earnestly submit, they have an extremely anxious regard for both life and limb.

One of the usual questions put to Orville Wright, at the Fort Myer tests, was whether flying is hard to learn or "that depends," he answered always, "Some persons learn to run a motor car without any trouble at all. It takes others longer. Some never learn."

Pinning him to the fact, I asked whether this was the case with the aeroplane.

"It seems so," he answered, after a moment's cautious reflection.

But this question, asked by so many in a spirit of idle curiosity, is of first importance to any one considering flying as a sport. If you are a motorist, the flying machine, with its engine, levers, rudders and supporting surfaces, will be more or less easy to understand—much easier, in fact, than the involved mechanism of a motor car. But in running your auto, the road is in plain sight before you, its hills and vales and running your auto, the road is in plain obstruction visible before you come to it. Furthermore, you can nearly always tell at a glance where your auto is likely to skid or bore or crimp its forward wheels. In the air, however, sight will aid you very little. It is all a matter of sensation—of feel. Still further, the road through the air is a highway among hills and hollows, a path filled with innumerable grades and pitches, cliffs, gulfs and precipices, all invisible and all in a state of chaotic, violent unrest. You must keep this in mind if you wish to fly. In motoring, you see your road; in flying, you know it only by the feel.—From "The Sport of Flying," by Maxmillian Foster, in The Outing Magazine for May.

CARE OF RAILWAY CAR.

To care for its rolling stock the railroad creates two distinct functions of its business. Its tracks, tunnels, bridges, all the care of its permanent way department. Similarly, the mechanical department assumes control of the cars and engines, sees to it that these are maintained to their fullest capacity, both by care in daily service and by certain visits to the shops at regular intervals, for repairs, reconstruction and repainting.

To do all of this requires a large plant, both in building and machinery. It is distributed at every important point along the railroad. At terminal and operating points, roundhouse facilities of greater or less extent are provided and at the headquarters of each division these are generally expanded into shops for the making of light repairs and to avoid handling crippled equipment for any great distance. One large shop plant is apt to suffice the average railroad for the heavy repair work. If the road stretch to any extraordinary length, even this feature is apt to be duplicated in order to concentrate this repair work as far as possible.

All this concerns the care and repairs of the locomotives—which the railroad quickly groups under the title of " motive power." To care for the engines while they are in use upon the line, to see to it that engineers and firemen alike handle these mechanisms with economy and skill is a responsibility that is placed upon the road foreman of engines of each division. He has supervision over smaller roundhouses, but at any of the larger of these structures there is a roundhouse foreman in direct charge. The railroad long ago learned that its best economy rested in having a plenty of executive control. That has come to be one of the maxims of the business.

There is a master mechanic in charge of the division shops and in many cases he has authority over the road foreman of engines and the roundhouse foreman. Then under him he has his various assistants, forming a working force not at all unlike that of the average iron working shop. All of this organization is gathered together under a superintendent of motive power, who, in turn, may report

House of Memories.

There's a little house in a little street, A little way from the sea, And, oh, when I'm weary of all the world, It's there that I find would be.

For the world is full of sorrow and care And the darkness lies before; And the little house is full of the dreams That were ours, but are ours no more.

In the little street, in the long ago, In the little house by the sea, We dreamed of the days that have had no dawn, Of the years that shall never be.

Dominion Day Celebration a Notable Function.

Premier Laurier Telegraphs Warmest Greetings.

Question of Moment to Colonies and Empire Discussed.

London, July 1.—(C. A. P.)—The celebration of Dominion Day in London took the form of a banquet at the White City. Lord Strathcona presided over an unusually representative and distinguished gathering, including Prince Francis of Teck, the Duke of Argyll, Etrils Grey, Crewe and Aberdeen; Lords Milner and Northcliffe; Messrs. W. S. Fielding, F. Oliver, A. B. Aylesworth, R. L. Borden, T. J. Macnamara, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty; the Norwegian Minister, Lieut. Shackleton and four members of his crew, and others.

Lord Strathcona and Hon. A. B. Aylesworth proposed loyal toasts, and the former as chairman for the fourteenth time consecutively proposed the toast to Canada. He eloquently dealt with Canada's future. "The Dominion's territory," he said, "could in every respect vie with that of the United States." "Canada's Potentialities" and "Canada's Certainties" were received with great applause.

Earl Grey responded and was enthusiastically received. He declared that although other Canadians might be more eloquent he would not allow a single one to claim a deeper affection for or greater belief in Canada than he himself possessed. (Cheers.) Referring to the American immigration, he declared that the Americans entering Canada became enthusiastic and patriotic Canadians. He anticipated with assurance the time when Canada would become the predominant factor in the Empire. "What Canadian can shrink from such a destiny?"

Hon. W. S. Fielding, in a speech full of national fervor, said as Earl Grey had done, that if Canada were true to herself and true to British traditions she would build up a nation whereof she would be proud, and the Empire could be proud as well. He echoed Earl Grey's remark, that an "American will make a good Canadian." Mr. Fielding claimed that Canada had made progress in wholesome Imperialism. "Good, enthusiastic friends will produce statistics showing how many shillings British citizens pay for the defence of the Empire, and how many half-pennies Canadians pay. Before you enter into comparisons of that kind you must consider not only what we have to do for defence, but also for other things hardly less important than defence."

(Hear, hear.) Canada has a great continent to develop, and her development and means of communication nothing to the Empire, he did not say that Canada should do nothing more, but it was not necessary that everyone should think alike in these great movements that, coming upon us, grant us recognition of the fact that the maintenance and the upbuilding of the Empire is essential to the welfare of its people and the peace of the colonies to co-operate in working out the details. (Cheers.) When the honor of the Empire is called in question then the people of Canada will respond as they have done in the past."

Hon. F. Oliver proposed in eloquent terms the toasts to the guests, referring to their number, and distinguished positions, in the happiest fashion.

Mr. Borden followed, and referred to the harmonious relations between the Empire and the mother country. He said that the Dominion of Canada and Britain on the fisheries question wherein it was indeed necessary that the closest co-operation should exist. (Hear, hear.) He was glad to hear of the interest being taken in Imperial defence, and referring to the Defence Committee, he said we were not meeting together to tell each other what fine fellows we are. "It is our duty," he said, "to lay down principles, to make, as far as we can, positive proposals, but let me not be misunderstood. We do not desire to force upon any Dominion a system of defence or an amount of defence to which they are not absolutely prepared to agree. We could not, if we would, we would not, if we could; at the same time we are confident that out of this Conference some real results may be hoped for which will make the defence of the Empire a reality and will enable us in time of danger to face any risks we may be called on to meet."

Lieutenant Shackleton also responded in a brief, manly speech. He said that Canada holds the key to the Imperial problem, and added: "We say deliberately, whatever form the proposed national measures to be taken by the Dominion may assume, this step on the part of Canada may prove years hence to have been the turning point as important for Imperial defence as is preference for Imperial trade."

ITALY AGAIN IN TERROR.

Messina and Other Cities Shaken by Quake.

Several Persons Killed and Much Damage Done.

Panic in the South and Soldiers Sent to Keep Order.

Rome, July 1.—Information has reached here that Messina, Rigo and other places in Southern Italy have been wiped out by earthquake. There have been thirteen shocks there, varying in intensity, but mostly slight, during the past twenty-four hours, in the earthquake area, Reggio, Villa San Giovanni, Mileto and some other towns feeling them equally with Messina. It is officially announced that the total casualties at Messina were ten killed and seven injured, including a lieutenant, two carabinieri and two soldiers, who were hurt while engaged in rescue work. A mother and child were also slain. The woman was standing at a door when a quake occurred. She ran into the house to get her child, when the walls fell. When the bodies were found the mother's arms were round the child, whose face was crushed.

The usual panic prevails at Messina, and the people are abandoning their temporary shelters among the partly standing masonry of buildings. They have invaded the ruins that have been built of American lumber, which had not been assigned. The soldiers have been ordered not to oppose any invasion lest rioting occur, and they are assisting the people to take possession of the ruins.

The earthquake would doubtless have had a sensational effect at Messina if the original town had been standing. The results, perhaps, would have equalled the shock of December. The director of the local observatory says if the town had been rebuilt of stone it would have been destroyed again. As it was there was nothing to destroy but ruins. The collapse of the half-demolished walls raised huge clouds of dust, which temporarily hid the place from the ships in the harbor. The sea was greatly agitated. The quays sank considerably, and are now in some places two feet lower than their previous depressed level.

The earth shocks have been becoming more intense recently, and last night they were sufficiently severe to cause alarm. The shocks of this morning were accompanied by deep roaring sounds. The first one was followed by an explosion like the roar of cannon and lasted between eight and ten seconds, which seemed an eternity to the terrified population. It is said that this quake was of greater severity than the fatal one of the night of Dec. 28. The wooden houses and huts erected for the accommodation of the people seemed to be thrown from one side to another. Cries filled the air as the people fled in horror.

As on the night of Dec. 28, the first shock was followed by a circular movement of the ground. Five minutes later there came another quake, accompanied by further roaring sounds. This completed the destruction. The remains of the devastated houses collapsed, and the entire district was covered by a dense cloud of dust.

News that has reached Messina from the provinces shows that damage has been wrought there, but it is as yet impossible to estimate the extent of the disaster. Sailors, soldiers and policemen have been sent out through the district to prevent looting and give courage to the people.

A strong earth shock was experienced at Reggio. Many walls were thrown down, but up to the present time no casualties have been reported.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena were deeply grieved to learn of the second earthquake at Messina, and they were anxiously awaiting details. Her Majesty was gratified to estimate the village of Reggio Elena, built on the outskirts of Messina, under her auspices, had escaped uninjured. The houses in this village are all of wood.

LARGE PAY FOR GERMAN COMIC ARTISTS.

The pay sheet of Simplicissimus is a very convincing argument that Germany wants good humor and brilliant drawings. Its yearly salaries make it not only possible but essential that their artists do little else besides the work for them. And they have the names of some of Germany's most talented men—men who have it in them to become great painters, but are too well paid by them to risk the madness of more dignified distinction in exchange for the comfortable assured life of making coarse, though brilliant, drawings for Germany's greatest comic journal.

Occasionally one comes upon a fine landscape or genre picture in the Munich art galleries bearing the name of some artist familiar to the public as a line man on Simplicissimus, and when questioned he merely smiles somewhat cynically and says: "I must live, and this sort of thing does not pay while the other does, and pays well." So it is that many of Germany's most talented men gradually come to forget their early dreams and passions for "Art for Art's sake," and go down beneath the modern Juggernaut of comic journalism. From "The Comic Journals of Europe" in the July Bohemian.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

(By Harold Carter.)

Nathanson, the storekeeper who bought illicit diamonds and sold illicit liquor in Kimberley as a side issue to his business, sat in front of his wrecked store holding his head and groaning in bitterness of soul.

It was not that trade had fallen off, or that he was in danger of arrest for his diamond dealings. Universally known as the most audacious of diamond purchasers from natives employed in the mines, he had never rendered himself liable to conviction.

"What's the news, Alf?" asked Nathanson wearily. "Man, I'm ruined," broke out Van Meyer excitedly. "The excise has seized all my ostriches because I've been exporting feathers without paying the duty, and I'm ruined."

DANCING AND FIGHTING.

In Montenegro They Have Their Own Way of Doing Each.

The national dance of Montenegro is the kolo, somewhat similar to the horo of Bulgaria, both sexes taking part, crossing hands and forming an unjoined circle, the music they supply themselves, each end of the horn alternately singing a verse in honor of the Prince and his warlike deeds.

The Plymouth Brethren were proud of their new Dutch convert. It was not many weeks before Van Meyer and the Rev. Abel Jones were bosom companions. Van Meyer saved from the devices of Satan, Van Meyer swearing drink, Van Meyer cutting Nathanson, his old enemy, in the street ostentatiously; Van Meyer in soberest black, leading the congregation in the psalms, was an interesting joy.

wouldn't let him be held, seeing as he's no use for feathers?"

The pastor nodded. Then Van Meyer bent down and whispered in the pastor's ear, causing that gentleman to start violently.

"Not a word of this, not a word," said the Dutchman, as he hurried away. But before nightfall each of the congregation knew, and thought himself the sole depository of the fact that Bill the old ostrich, was a walking diamond mine.

Also that Van Meyer, moved by remorse, was about to sell the bird at auction for what it would fetch, giving the proceeds to the chapel, leaving the diamonds, which, as tainted wealth, could not be donated, to remain undisclosed forever.

Kimberley has seen extravagant bids, but never such as were offered for that ostrich in the market place the next morning. The bidders were not of the flock, though members of the prayerfully upon the outskirts of the throng. Bill finally fell to a man representing an unknown syndicate, who paid £7,100 for him in cold, hard cash.

Van Meyer, in boots and spurs, sat upon his horse in front of Nathanson's store. Suddenly there came a mob came faintly from the market place, Nathanson rose.

"By-by, Alf," he said, gripping his friend's hand. "Ride for your life over the boundary."

And as his friend disappeared in a cloud of dust he chuckled and slapped his thighs. "Eight hundred and fifty pounds," he mused. "Which pays for the brandy they wasted and leaves a little something over for interest."

the Turkish soldier particularly abominable.

"I was told once how a certain man whom I know well saved his hand from destruction. They were fairly cornered, and the Turks closing in, when the bomb thrower stood up amid the hail of bullets, lit the fuse with his cigarettes, and rushed toward the soldiers, who, seeing his intention, promptly made tracks.

"It was of course lucky that the Mohammedan soldier, who does not much mind being sent to Paradise with a bullet, thinks his chance of eternal bliss very doubtful if he is blown up with dynamite. The nerve required to be a bomb thrower is worthy of a little reflection. He must absolutely expose himself, and as the fuse is very short the ignition must be coolly considered.

"If premature it means the destruction of himself and comrades, and when it is fairly alight the bomb must be thrown with mathematical exactitude. In other words, the man must leave his cover and charge, an overwhelming force alone and not throw till he is close up to it."

NO GOLDEN SPIKES IN THIS.

Yet It Was a Record Breaking Piece of Railroad All the Same.

Just forty years had elapsed on May 10 since the rails of the Union Pacific moving westward met the rails of the Central Pacific moving eastward at Promontory Point near Ogden, Utah, and the first transcontinental railway was completed.

When Thomas Durant, of the Union Pacific, and Gov. Leland Stanford, of California, drove the last spikes in the first continent gridding line on May 10, 1869, the whole country, says Leslie's Weekly, was metaphorically looking on.

Things were very different forty years later, when, without any golden spike, without the presence of any of the principal officers of the company, the last rail on the Pacific Coast extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, now known as the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railway, was laid at a point two miles east of Missoula, Mont., just before the 5 o'clock whistle blew on March 31 last.

There was no celebration of any kind, and the only speech was the remark of the contractor to the foreman: "Bill, that's a good job." The length of the extension just completed from the Missouri River to Seattle and Tacoma is a trifle over 1,400 miles and brings the total mileage of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway up to 9,000 miles. The completion of the new line was turned April 15, 1909. No Pacific Coast line of any railway and no line of equal length crossing three mountain ranges has ever been constructed within the short period of three years.

During this period 60,000,000 cubic yards of material have been excavated, 200,000 yards of tunnel driven, twenty miles of bridges erected, and 200,000 tons of eighty-five pound rails laid at a total cost of $85,000,000. The ballasting of the new transcontinental line will be completed about June 1, 1909, and regular freight and local passenger service will be established thereafter. The new line as far west as the city of Butte, Mont., has been in regular operation since September, 1908.

James Ingram, an employee of the Ottawa Electric Railway Company, died on Dominion Day as a result of injuries sustained by a fall through the collapse of a floor at the power station.

CONFESSION OF A TRUSTED EMPLOYEE

"Yes." "What did you do with that money?" "Well, I spent the most of it foolishly."

"I was taking quite a few trips just about then." "Where to?" "I went to Rochester, Buffalo, Detroit, Niagara Falls and Cleveland."

"Did you have a bank account?" "Yes." "Did any of that $700 go in there?" "No."

"How much did you get from your employers?" "Sixty dollars per month." "Well, what did you do with all that money?"

Morden was unable to give any account of it other than that it had just been "blown in."

Chris Connolly testified that he was the regular weighmaster, but Morden had weighed several loads of scrap on June 23.

Philip Lambie, private detective, said that he was at the scales on June 23, when Morden weighed two loads of scrap, delivered by Frank. The company was suspicious that something was wrong, and had decided to investigate.

When the second load was weighed he heard Morden call out the weight as 6,200 pounds. The real weight was 1,200 pounds.

Daniel Cohen, Thiel detective, corroborated the evidence of Lambie.

W. M. Nielson, employee of the company, said that in the fall of 1907 Frank approached him and said it would be an easy matter to make some money by falsifying the weights. He thought he was joking and paid no attention. The matter was never spoken of after that.

W. H. Champ, Secretary-Treasurer of the company, swore that in a conversation he had with Frank he had told him that the two loads weighed on June 23 were about 6,000 pounds each. The witness said that Morden had been questioned about the weights being wrong, but had strenuously denied it. Some time after the officials of the company went to Morden and asked him to make a clean breast of the matter, as they had had an investigation. Morden then made a complete confession, which was taken down in writing and shown to Frank, who denied that it was true. Morden made the following remark to him: "You might as well tell the truth, the game is up."

"Did not Mr. Frank make a return of some money on one occasion when the company had been overcharged?" asked Mr. Champ.

The witness admitted that he had. "Did you ever have to do goods which he delivered?" "Mr. Champ said that the goods were all right."

Frank was committed and bail fixed at $2,000.

DEATHS IN THE COUNTY.

Mr. A. W. Fisher, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of West Flamboro, died yesterday at the age of 79 years.
