Premier Oliver said some 35 Dukhobers were summoned for not sending children to school, a few days ago and were fined $100 each. They refused to take cognizance of the court sentence and now the police are carrying out the law and seizing their goods in order to raise the money with which to pay the court fines. ment upon the issues at stake in the mining industry until the conference is concluded. The step taken by the Premier is a logical and constructive act, and its wisdom will be appreciated by the people of the Province who are affected by this unfortunate industrial struggle. I consider that the Premier is approaching the question of a possible settlement from the standpoint of fairness to both sides and that his actions reflect sound public policy. Representatives of the Mine Workers will attend the conference, hopeful that an honourable settlement may be effected."

Baby Week Competition

The National Baby Week Council of Great Britain has organized another Baby Competition to include children from 6 to 12 months, 12 months to 2 years, 2 to 5 years, twins of 5 years of age, triplets of 4 years of age, and even quadruplets up to the age of 3.

On the forms sent in by competitors particulars must be given this year regarding both Mother and Baby, and prizes and certificates of merit will be awarded on the joint totals of marks of credit won by both.

The success achieved last year is the best indication of the popularity of the competition, and no doubt the number of entries on this occasion will be far in excess of that of 1924.

Newfoundland, it will be remembered, was well represented among the prize winners by Baby John Strang, who carried off one of the £100 awards and thereby set a high standard for his country. It is now up to us to maintain it, and as the time is short—the closing date locally is May 15th—it will be necessary to shape the forms and attend to the other preliminaries as soon as possible.

The object of this Competition is of course to call attention to the benefits which result to children from proper care, and indirectly to the state, by improving the general standard of health. Various social organizations and in particular the Child Welfare Association are accomplishing wonders in this direction, and with the full cooperation of the public, there will be even less cause in the future for anyone to assert that the British race has an excessive number of C.3's in the ranks.

One other great object is accomplished by this Competition. Millions of people last year gazed with admiration at Bonny Baby Strang in the illustrated papers in which he was prominently displayed, and unconsciously, but none the less most effectively, he became a "booster" for Newfoundland, and perhaps did more than any other person to dispel the illusions that people abroad hold of the Oldest Colony and the conditions which are believed to exist here. It is not suggested that we should make use of our babies as advertisements, but when everyone is trying to place Newfoundland in a more prominent position on the map, we feel certain that neither Terra Nova babies nor Terra Nova Mothers will offer any objection to their doing their bit to speed the cause. The only pity is that these lusty youngsters cannot be presented in person at this competition, so that they might be heard as well as seen to their best advantage.

Will Appear Tomorrow

The address given by the Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath before the Rotary Club and the Holy Cross Institute, unavoidably held over last week, will be published in tomorrow's issue of the Telegram. The speech is really the first clear and comprehensive review of the whole question, and the information given makes it a document well worth preserving for future reference.

"Monchy '17"

To-day is the anniversary of the battle of Monchy in which the Royal Newfoundland Regiment played so glorious a part; and like the ever memorable 1st of July, 1916, the Regiment, although it did not capture any trenches—advanced as it can parade.

Society Wedding

To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock the marriage will take place in the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist, the Managing Director of Messrs. G. Browning & Son and Miss Dorothy Thetis this morning, in conversation with Capt. Whiteley the Telegram representative learned the following particulars concerning the loss of the ship.

The Loss of the Stella Maris

Capt. George Whiteley and twenty-eight men of the crew of the ill-fated Stella Maris arrived by the steamer St. John's this morning. In conversation with Capt. Whiteley the Telegram representative learned the following particulars concerning the loss of the ship. The Stella Maris after leaving home on the 9th of March made splendid progress during the first two days and on Tuesday night she was made fair headway despite a strong breeze from the N.W. Late that night she burnt down in the ice in the midst of a fine spot of hoards, several families of which were taken on board. Everything was working well on the following morning when the captain decided to shape a course for a good location of seals. The ship had steamed a few miles when she became crushed between two big sheets of ice. The impact was so great that it damaged the cross bulkhead, causing a bad leak. The rush of water caused the ship to sink rapidly by the head and the captain ordered the operator to send out the S.O.S. call. They then pulled the ship at full speed ahead towards a large pan of ice which was some 200 yards distant. Just as the ship had got there, the engine room filled with water, extinguishing the fires.

While the ship was gradually sinking, the officers and crew stood by their posts and several cases of kerosene oil, all the loose wood that could be found and also the pellets that had been secured on the previous night. This was to be set on fire and used for the purpose of attracting attention. By the time this had been accomplished the crew had no time to gather up their belongings when the order was given for every man to get over her side. From the time the ship got the squeeze until she went down only twenty-two minutes elapsed. Once landed safely on a solid pan of ice, they felt more hopeful that the S.O.S. call would be picked up, and in a few hours that a ship would have in sight. The crew kept a careful watch all morning and it was not until 2 o'clock that the smoke of a steamer was sighted some twelve miles distant. Snow fell during the afternoon, and in a few hours it developed into a blinding storm, making it impossible for the men to see anything. However, at 6 o'clock the good ship Prospero, which had responded to the rescue bore down and was successful in taking all the men off.

Capt. Whiteley stated that had the accident happened to his ship two hours earlier than it did, the chances for their rescue would have been very doubtful, as at that time, the dynamo fuse in the wireless set blew out, and no power was available until repairs were made which was just before the mishap. Capt. Whiteley lost all his nautical instruments. It was a miraculous escape, and all are thankful that they escaped with their lives.

Supreme Court

(Before the Full Bench.)

Richard Squires Plainiff vs. Joseph Tucker, Defendant.

This is an application to commit the defendant to imprisonment for contempt of court in that he did not obey the order of Mr. Justice Kent in an action for trespass on land near St. Phillips or the alternative of an order for an attachment.

Mr. Bradley appeared on behalf of the plaintiff and read a number of affidavits, purporting to show that the defendant had been in possession of the land on which judgment was given was not the property set forth in the affidavit. Counsel submitted a Crown Lands grant to show that these lands were owned by the defendant, and were not the lands disputed in the action.

Mr. Bradley admitted that there clearly had been a clerical error and asked leave to amend the affidavit by putting in the correct description. Leave was granted to file corrected affidavits.

In the matter of the British-American Trading Co., Ltd. vs. The Government of Newfoundland. Mr. J. G. Higgins appeared for the petitioner; Mr. Hunt and Mr. H. A. Winter for the Government.

The action is taken to recover damages to the amount of $150,000. The Government has a counter claim for $50,000 alleging that the company failed to take delivery of 11,500 cords of wood.

The first contract, Mr. Higgins explained, was made in May, 1922, between Mr. Rogers and Sir William Coaker on behalf of the Government. The Company claims that some of the wood was not rosted, or clean peely as agreed, that quantities were not ready for shipment and the steamers chartered by the Company were thereby delayed in loading. That a large quantity of the pit props was not delivered by the Government within a hundred feet of highwater mark as agreed and that a quantity of the wood had been sold and delivered by the Government to parties other than Mr. Rogers. The contract stipulated 70,000 cords of wood at $5.00 for hand peeled and $7.00 for rosted, with a rebate to Rogers of $1.00 per cord for wood not properly peeled. Rogers had to pay $25,000 as a guarantee of fulfilment of his obligations. In April, 1923, the contract was cancelled by the Government on the grounds that no wood had been taken delivery of during 1922. In June, 1923, negotiations between Rogers and the Government and a second contract was entered into in which the Government was to deliver 18,000 cords cleaned peeled at $5.00 per cord to be delivered between July and October. Rogers claims that only eleven thousand cords of the greater part not rosted, was delivered. A company to whom Rodgers had a contract to deliver the wood, has sued him for $19,000, and $2,000 was stopped by another customer on account of the bad condition of the wood. The petitioner's claim is made up of demurrage, dead freight as well as cost of removing wood to tide water, as well as loss of profit totalling $150,000. Under the second contract the petitioner claims the Government was to deliver all the wood in its possession, but instead had sold some to other parties. Mr. R. G. Ross, of the Import and Export Department of Bowring Bros., was the first witness called. Examined by Mr. Higgins, he said that in October, 1922, his firm made some purchases of wood from the Government. Mr. Winter objected that the evidence was not relevant and Mr. Higgins pointed out that it had reference to the quantities of wood availed of by the Government's counter-claim. Mr. Winter then called Mr. Higgins to the witness stand. Examined by Mr. Winter he said that he had reference to the quantities of wood availed of by the Government's counter-claim. BRIAND'S CHANCES HOPELESS.

HISTORIC MANSIONS MAY BE DEMOLISHED.

LONDON, April 14. Two of London's famous old houses, No. 10 and 11 Downing Street, respectively the official homes of the Premier and Chancellor of the Exchequer are now in such a state of decay that the Government is considering whether it is desirable to pull them down and rebuild instead of making further repairs. The buildings were constructed 200 years ago.

BRIAND STILL HOPES TO SUCCEED.

PARIS, April 14. M. Briand after seeing President Doumergue to-day, said he would have to await the decision of the Socialist conference before giving final answer to the President as regards the formation of a ministry. M. Briand however indicated that he has not abandoned all hope that the Socialist answer will be favorable to their taking part in the Government despite the hostile declarations of M. Blum and other Socialist leaders.

Last evening, Edward, the 11-year-old son of Mrs. Wm. Martin, Simms Street was removed to the General Hospital to undergo examination and treatment of injuries to his head. On Sunday afternoon the lad was playing with four companions, who it is alleged, beat him. Young Martin returned home complaining that he was hurt. His condition did not improve yesterday, and Dr. Cowperthwaite who was called, ordered the lad to be taken to the General Hospital. As yet the doctors have made no pronouncement. It is feared, however, that his skull has been fractured. The matter has been reported to the police.

Easter at St. Patrick's
The Holy Week ceremonies were carried out with great eclat at St. Patrick's Church, St. John's West. On Palm Sunday an impressive and eloquent sermon on our Lord's triumphal entry into Jerusalem was preached by the Rev. Robt. St. John. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the Office of Tenebrae was recited. At each of the evening services the singing of the choir under the leadership of Mr. P. J. McCarthy was of an exceptionally high order. The preacher on Holy Thursday night was Rev. Fr. Sheehan, whose discourse on the institution of the Blessed Sacrament was replete with solid proof of the Catholic Doctrine of transubstantiation. On Good Friday the pastor, Rev. Dr. Kitchin, delivered a masterly discourse on our Lord's Passion and Death. Solemn High Mass on Easter Day was followed by a sermon from Dr. Kitchin in which the consoling doctrine of the Resurrection was vividly and most eloquently expounded and brought home with telling effect to the minds and hearts of a congregation which completely filled the sacred edifice. St. Patrick's has always been noted on festive occasions for the beauty and chasteness of its sanctuary appointments on festivals of the church. The altars during Easter Day were decorated with a profusion of choice cut flowers in which Easter lilies and white lilies, the gift of the parishioners, were so arranged under an electrical display as to produce a charming effect.

Prominent Citizen
COMPLETES HALF A CENTURY IN BUSINESS.
One of the most familiar figures on Water St., is our respected fellow townsman, Mr. John Jackson who, on the 10th, of April, completed his half century of residence in our midst. Mr. Jackson is well known throughout the whole colony, through his association with those who came to the capital during his business career. He made his introduction here in business through the firm of Messrs. Walter Grieve and Co, and his sterling character soon won for himself the confidence of those who had business dealings in general merchandise. About twenty-five years ago he severed his connections with that old and respected firm and went into business for himself. That the evening of his life may be an extended and happy one, is the fervent wish of his many friends throughout the country.

The Arizona Express at the Majestic
The Arizona Express is certainly a feature of thrills and intense situations. Those who saw it at the Majestic Theatre last night were not prepared for such a round of excitement. It will be repeated to-night. During last week the management made some very important improvements to the interior of the theatre one in particular is the elevation of the seats which are now raised to a comfortable angle. The special orchestra last night evoked popular comment, and it is to be hoped they will be engaged next week when the celebrated picture "Mary Queen of Scots" will be exhibited. Owing to the theatre being engaged for outside attractions, regular picture programs will be discontinued until Monday.

SHARKEY BESTS RENAULT.
BOSTON, April 6.—Jack Sharkey (186½ pounds) was awarded the judges decision at the end of his ten rounds with Renault (198 pounds) at the Commercial Club to-night.
Renault was slow in starting, and points piled up by Sharkey in the early rounds proved sufficient to give the Boston boxer the decision, which however, was close.
The Canadian heavyweight was content to stand off the attacks of Sharkey during the first four rounds. In the fifth round for the first time he used his right to advantage. He showed to advantage in the in-fighting in subsequent rounds.

Easter Entertainments

B. I. S. DANCE.

Upwards of 200 couples were present at the B. I. S. Club rooms last night and enjoyed the first Easter dance of the season, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The Prince's Orchestra provided a special programme of dance music which began at 9 o'clock and did not conclude until after midnight. The prizes for the Elimination Dance went to Mr. Pushe and Miss Tracey, and the second, a ladies' privilege, was also won by Mr. Pushe, with his partner Miss Vetch. During the interval the ladies served supper.

AT THE STAR HALL.

The first of the spring programmes, under the auspices of the Star Ladies' Auxiliary, took place last night in the Star Club rooms, before a large attendance. The affair took the form for a card party, supper and dance, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the 150 couples present. The prize winners in the card tournament were announced as Mrs. Moore and Mr. S. Russell. Following supper the floor was cleared away for the dance. The music was supplied by the Society's own Orchestra. The Elimination Dance was won by Mr. Crotty and Miss Flynn. The affair was voted as one of the Society's best entertainments, and the gathering dispersed at an early hour this morning feeling tired though happy. The annual sale, under the auspices of the Ladies' Association, takes place next Tuesday.

MASONIC DANCE.

At the Masonic Club rooms last night, an enjoyable dance was held under the auspices of the Society's Ladies' Auxiliary. The spacious banquet hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and the scene as the dancers glided over the floor to the music of the Society's orchestra, was very animated. The Elimination Dance was joined in by the entire gathering, and the prize winners were Miss Edith Cleary and Mr. Robert Furlong. Before the close Mrs. J. R. Bennett, President of the Auxiliary, was presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Written under date of April 5th, the writer stated that he had celebrated his 81st birthday and was feeling splendid. He wished to be remembered to old friends. Mr. Preston visited here some years ago and erected a Pottor Stereo outfit for the Daily News. A press builder by trade, he served his time with the well known firm of Howe & Co., with whom he was connected up to about 18 years ago, when he severed connections to engage in business with his son who is a manufacturer of tinware. Mr. Preston, according to the letter, is hale and hearty, and daily attends work.

"LITTLE ROBINSON CRUSOE" PROVIDES EVENING OF CONTINUAL LAUGHTER.

A motherless boy rendered still more forlorn by the death of his father, a gallant member of San Francisco's police force; an aunt, in far off Australia, bidding the boy come to her; weeks of adventure on a tramp steamer bound for the Antipodes; a frightful typhoon rising black and swift in the path of the ship; a wreck in the "sundering floods"; an escape as miraculous as that of Robinson Crusoe; an island of the South Seas, wave-washed and jungle clad.

Also a tribe of maniacal savages lustful for the lives of cruel overseers; an intrepid boy, transformed in the superstitious imagination of the cannibals into a little white god of waters; a rescue, almost miraculous in its timeliness; a voyage back to his home town aboard a speeding destroyer of the United States Navy, and a welcome at the hands of the San Francisco police force such as was never before seen in the city famed for its hospitality and enthusiasms. These are some of the elemental qualities and incidents of Jackie Coogan's newest and most active and appealing Metro-Goldwyn picture as presented yesterday at the Nickel Theatre.

Workman Had Narrow Escape

James Lahey, an employee of the Mfd. Boot & Shoe Factory, met with an accident at the plant yesterday morning, which almost cost him his life. Lahey, while working at his bench lit a match in front of a tin of gasoline, causing an explosion, and before he had time to move from his position, the flames had shot upwards and taken every bit of hair off his head, besides receiving minor burns about the forehead and scalp. Luckily Lahey had the presence of mind to stoop his head slightly when the explosion took place or otherwise he would have received the full force in his face. Wiping hands rushed to his aid while others managed to beat out the fire before it had done any further damage. Dr. Arch Tait was called to the scene and found the man suffering from shock. After his burns had been dressed he was conveyed to his home, Plank Road, where he is doing as well as can be expected.

LIFE INSURANCE With PROFITS

LIFE INSURANCE Without PROFITS

90% with Profits

"The improvement in mortality will go to increase the surplus of the companies, thus making possible larger returns to the policyholders, of whom approximately 90% are insured on the participating plan."

Mr. G. D. Fisher, Dominion Government Superintendent of Insurance, in Toronto Globe Financial Survey, January 1st, 1925.

The above statement referring to the combined business of all companies doing business in Canada, made with authority by the Dominion Government Superintendent of Insurance, would indicate that Canadian policyholders prefer the with-profits plan of insurance. There must be a reason.

They buy what experience teaches them is best in the long run

The Confederation Life Association issues policies "with profits" and "without profits" and also with Guaranteed Dividend.

Good profits on policies are earned, because risks are selected with care; because the Company's investments are carefully made and yield good interest returns; and because the Company is efficiently managed.

Rummer's Release "Aggrieves" U.S.

Federal Authorities Appeal Boston Court Decision—Interesting Angle. Boston, March 3.—(Star Special.)—United States Attorney Harold P. Williams, by Assistant United States Attorney Laurence Curtis 2d, has filed in the Federal Court here an appeal in the Supreme Court from Judge Morton's recent decision dismissing the Government's libels against the British rum ship Marjorie E. Bachman, and her cargo. Attorneys William H. Lewis and Matthew L. McGrath, represent the vessel's owners. The petition for appeal says the United States feels "aggrieved" by Judge Morton's decree.

The Bachman was seized more than 20 miles at sea last October, under a pre-arranged plan, by the revenue cutter Tampa, after a sea-sled, capable of 40 knots speed, had made a trip to the vessel and purchased liquor for purposes of entrapment under the provisions of the British treaty, in which the speed of the purchasing vessels is the controlling factor under which seizures of rum-runners may be made.

Judge Morton found that the sea-sled expedition was not within the intent of the treaty makers, and he ruled that the expedition was in intent and accomplishment an entrapment. The vessel was illegally seized, he ruled. He criticized the treatment of the Bachman's captive crew as outrageous and declared that members of the crew of the Tampa misadvised themselves while on board the Bachman as a prize crew.

The Bachman and her cargo are held in Federal custody at the Army base, where they have been kept since October. Attorneys Lewis and McGrath have made claim upon the Government for $25,000 for demurrage, compensation for articles alleged to have been stolen, 250 cases of champagne and liquors alleged to have been stolen, and other items. The demurrage claim will increase at the rate of $200 daily as long as the boat is held. If the Government finally loses its case, the defense bill will be a huge one it is predicted by the vessel's counsel.

The Marvel of the Telephone

PROBLEM SOLVED BY AN ACCIDENT.

Today either from your own home or from a public call office you can get up any one of about 1,200 subscribers to the telephone service and have a conversation with him even though he may be hundreds of miles away. Millions upon millions of wire subscribers with exchanges, and other exchanges over junction or trunk systems.

The whole of this vast system has been up in the short space of forty years. It was in 1877 that Alexander Graham Bell brought to the world the first pair of practical telephones. The wonderful power of the telephone is told by F. G. Bell in "The History of the Telephone in the United Kingdom."

Problem Solved by Accident. It is a fact that the greater part of his work in America, was a Scotchman. His father devoted his life to the study of the elements of speech, and young Bell began to carry on his work by experimenting in his father's workshop. In 1872 the idea of the telephone came to him, and for the next two years he was engaged in ceaseless trials and experiments.

One time it seemed that his quest for success was hopeless. Then quite suddenly a spark of fortune showed him the way. Two instruments were in use in his workshop, one in a room about sixty feet apart. Between the two rooms Bell and his assistant endeavoured to establish communication. The sending instrument contained springs which had to be pressed.

Bell engaged in this business the next time he broke one of the springs in the instrument. Next moment Bell was rushing into the room, crying, "What did you do then? Don't change anything. Let me see!" That accidental leakage had solved the problem. In a short time Bell was able to produce a working telephone instrument.

Nottingham's Two Subscribers! The greatest difficulty in early days in the sending part of the instrument. In 1878 David Hughes, an Englishman, invented the microphone; not realizing the importance of his discovery he did not patent it. The inventors saw that there was solution of the greatest of telephone difficulties, and they, not Hughes, patented various forms of the microphone, an instrument now used in all telephone sets.

Bell's invention was demonstrated in Queen Victoria's connection being made between Osborne House in the Isle of Wight and various places on the mainland. The invention was offered to the Post Office, whose chief engineer reported against it.

In 1879 the Bell Telephone Company opened its first exchange in London. It had seven or eight subscribers. These were large numbers compared with those of the Nottingham exchange, which opened two years later with only two! A little later a company was launched.

The First Automatic Exchange.

Some Facts Concerning Capital

The two companies continued in rivalry for some time. Then they amalgamated. Meantime an enormous number of small companies sprang up all over the country to work local telephone systems. Then came the National Telephone Company, which gradually absorbed them, and enabled trunk calls to be sent between subscribers connected to the various scattered exchanges. The Post Office subsequently took over the trunk lines, leaving the local working to the company. The last step towards expansion and unification was in 1912, when the Post Office bought the entire system of the National Telephone Company.

By 1912 one London exchange—"Central"—had nearly 14,000 lines, whilst "Gerrard" numbered about 9,000 and "Mayfair" over 6,000. The first automatic exchange, by which a subscriber puts himself through to the number he requires without the help of an operator, was established in 1912. There are now twenty-three of these in use and twenty-five more are being constructed.

Used By Millions Of Mothers For Croup and Colds

"Capital in this country is much more concentrated than income, and much more concentrated than it is in any other country. This concentration is connected with the fact that agriculture and other economic activities in which small-scale enterprise predominates is a smaller part of the country's economic activity than it is anywhere else," said Professor Henry Clay in his presidential address to the members of the Statistical Society, reported in the Manchester Guardian.

"Moreover, this country is unique. I think, in having the tenant-farmer rather than the owner-occupier as the predominant class in agriculture. Ireland in this respect is Continental in character rather than British.

"The wage-earning proletariat, which is much the largest economic class in the country, has little capital, although its standard of life is high compared with that of most Continental wage-earners and peasant proprietors. It has some accumulations of capital; these are mainly in the form of mutual insurance funds. If I were a capitalist, I should feel a little insecure about my capital, since a capital levy on all estates over £1,000 would leave 95 per cent. of the electorate untouched.

"I must not, however, be understood as advocating such a levy. I had no contemporary problems of party politics in mind when I selected this investigation for my presidential address to you; my sole purpose was to discover how far in this country we had forgotten the principle that Bacon expressed in a pithy phrase; 'Property is liked much; it is good only if it be spread.' My figures suggest that we have completely forgotten that principle."

The Way to Test Seeds

PRECAUTIONS TO PROTECT OUR CROPS.

England was the last of the seed-growing countries to install a Government seed-testing station. Yet of all the branches of agriculture, surely none is more important than that dealing with the proper testing of seed?

Some years ago an attempt was made to ascertain the quality of seeds sold in market towns where irresponsible dealers were known to carry on their business. More than sixty per cent. of the seed was proved to be worthless. Some was dead—that is, would not germinate at all; much was foul and damaged.

WOMEN!

When you buy Lantic Sugar in packages you get your full weight of cleanest, whitest, purest, sweetest, granulated sugar. Lantic Sugar in packages is safe from contamination through germ-bearing dust and flies, which are invariably disease carriers.

The first step in seed testing is simple enough. You take, say, a hundred seeds from the packet to be tested; soak them, lay them out on a piece of blotting paper kept at a certain degree of moisture and warmth, and note how many sprout. That gives you germination percentage, but it does not disclose the real quality of the seed itself.

Marvels of Rapid Growth. Sugar-beet seed will usually show high germination; but that is no guarantee that the root, when grown, will contain a high percentage of sugar. In order to make sure of this, it is necessary to grow plants from the seed in question and test the roots later. The collection of sugar-beet seed is an arduous task. The roots of great numbers of growing beet are tested with an instrument like a small cheese scoop, and only roots which show the highest percentage of sugar

Mining for Soap

Most people have seen crosses or other ornaments carved out of bog-oak. The stuff is black as coral and almost as hard as stone, but is actually oak timber dug out of peat bogs in the North of Ireland.

There is more than one place in the world where timber-mining goes on. One is a swamp near Chicago, where white oak logs are dug up. Seven or eight thousand years ago a terrible storm flattened out a whole forest, and in course of centuries the timber was buried but preserved by some chemical agent in the soil. While the outer layers are decayed, the timber is very hard and of an exquisite colour. It is worked up into hair-brush backs and ornaments which fetch very high prices.

At Charlotte Plains, in Australia, a deposit of timber has been found in the hidden bed of an ancient river, and the strange thing is that some of the logs, which were originally found by gold diggers, have every appearance of having been cut and shaped by man. The trunks are those of the tree known as the she-oak. In New Zealand many men make a living by digging for kawri-gum, an amber-like substance used for making fine varnish. In North Germany and Jutland there are pits sunk solely for the purpose of finding amber, which is, of course, merely a fossilized gum. Asberoft, in British Columbia, has a soap mine. How Nature made it is a mystery, but it is a mixture of borax with some fatty substance.

PART THREE.
EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

We have previously shown the method used in adjusting the neutralizing or stabilizing condensers.

The coils can be mounted vertically on the baseboard. They should be at least an inch and a half or two inches apart and preferably more, to prevent any reaction between them. You will note the peculiar appearance of the coils in the diagram. This is drawn to indicate the fact that the fields of each coil are so neutralized that there is little external field about the coil.

The circuit itself is the standard one-stage tuned radio-frequency. There is nothing unusual about it. But by using these "figure 8" coils once and for all you can forget the "correct neutralizing angle," you can tune exactly on the wave of your station and you will have no oscillation squeals due to coil feed-back.

As regards the breaking of these oaths and obligations, this does not apply to those made with man, but to those which man in his temerity has made with God, and has been unable to fulfil, that is, beyond all human possibility to fulfil, and the prayer absolutes all who make these rash vows.

The composition of the Kol Nidrei is a reflex of many ages. It was written in Aramaic with the exception of one Hebrew phrase, some of the words denoting vows tell of the hoary past, when the Temple stood in its glory, and the vow was consecrated on the altar in Jerusalem.

Kol Nidrei

"All vows (Kol Nidrei), bonds, devotions, promises, obligations, penalties and oaths, whosoever we have vowed, sworn, devoted and bound ourselves: from this Day of Atonement unto the next Day of Atonement may it come unto us for good: Lo, all these, we repent us in them.

The above is a word for word translation out of the original Hebrew of perhaps what is the most solemn part of the Day of Atonement service (Lyon Kipper). Of course there is more of it, but the first sentence reveals the gist of the remainder, which in the main consists of repetition.

The Hebrew service calls for the Kol Nidrei to be chanted, by the Hosan (Cantor or Extoller), a word from which the familiar one Hosannah is derived, to the tune which the Hebrew people throughout countless generations have sung it or have been used to hearing it chanted. This tune is perhaps the oldest in existence, and for sheer beauty and soulfulness surely can boast no rivals, the voice which can sing the Kol Nidrei must be extraordinarily flexible, and must be able to reach high notes and low with equal ease. Nothing in the service produces such feeling as this chant. Old and young, rich and poor alike, from Russia to Spain, from America to Eretz Jisroel (Palestine) itself are chanting the same tune, on the same day, at the same hour.

As regards the breaking of these oaths and obligations, this does not apply to those made with man, but to those which man in his temerity has made with God, and has been unable to fulfil, that is, beyond all human possibility to fulfil, and the prayer absolutes all who make these rash vows.

The composition of the Kol Nidrei is a reflex of many ages. It was written in Aramaic with the exception of one Hebrew phrase, some of the words denoting vows tell of the hoary past, when the Temple stood in its glory, and the vow was consecrated on the altar in Jerusalem.

Ship Building Danger

Canard Official on Foreign Output.

The new Canard liner Garinthia (19,500 tons) was christened and launched from Messrs. Vickers' Naval Construction Yard at Barrow by Mrs. Lister, wife of the joint managing director of the Canard Steam Ship Company.

The vessel is being fitted for a tour of the world next October, but, when desired, she can be converted for use on the transatlantic service.

Mr. A. C. F. Henderson, of the Canard Company, said that unless something was done the shipbuilding industry was in great danger. We had the finest shipbuilding and engineering firms in the world, as well as the best workers, and, given equal conditions, they need fear nothing.

But they could not compete with the exchanges against them and with longer hours and greater output on the part of Continental workmen.

Ban on Dancing Urged at Quebec

REV. FATHER PIERRE TRUDEL ALSO RENOUNCES IMMODEST DRESS OF WOMEN.

Quebec, March 9.—Dancing and immodest dress came in for a measure of strong criticism yesterday in the Pro-Cathedral when Rev. Father Pierre Trudel, who is conducting a novena, chose these topics as his subject. The preacher described all dancing as an occasion of sin and asserted that it should be forbidden.

In a previous sermon the eloquent speaker advocated the practice of moderation in all things, and he followed this yesterday with the statement that moderation would not do in the case of dancing because dancing was immoral in itself.

"These dances," Father Trudel said, "either by their movements or their significance, arouse the passions and offend modesty. All the Sovereign Pontiffs, the Bishops and clergy have spoken against them. Benedict the Fifteenth, for example, at various times asked that exotic dances be banned by society on the ground that nothing so quickly destroyed modesty."

"Why are modern dances an occasion of sin?" the preacher asked, and proceeded to reply: "Because of the passions they arouse, because they pave the way to greater sins, because of the voluptuous music that accompanes them."
