THE low birth rate is worrying all the belligerent countries. And also a few are troubled over the high death rate.

THE situation between the United States and Germany is again regarded as "serious." This is getting to be a chestnut.

ALL Grand Trunk Railway employees will be assessed one per cent of their wages as a patriotic tax until the end of the war.

IT is eighteen years this month since the Maine was sunk. There have been a lot of vessels sunk since then and little said about them.

ANOTHER prosecution for failure to affix a war stamp to a cheque was heard in the Toronto police court last week when Fred J. Macklin was fined $5 and costs for this offense.

THE peculiar colored smoke seen at the fire on Parliament Hill is now said to have arisen from some left-over campaign cigars. Likely these also were responsible for the disagreeable odor noticed.

TOMMY: "Talking of riddles, uncle, do you know the difference between an apple and an elephant?" Uncle (benignly): "No, my lad, I don't." Tommy: "You'd be a smart chap to send out to buy apples, wouldn't you?"

LADIES' SUITS made to order. Strictly tailor made. There is style in our suits, SWIFT'S.

AT a meeting of the Huron and Perth Publishers on Friday last, it was decided to raise the subscription price of all weekly papers in those counties to $1.50 a year. Lambton is still among the few counties where the old rate of $1.00 is in force.

BANDMASTER HODDER is getting the 149th Battalion band into shape. The boys are practicing twice a day. About eighteen have signed up so far, and the band will make its first parade appearance as soon as the new instruments arrive.

NO MAN who is within the ages of 18 and 45 has a right to make a recruiting or patriotic speech, he politician, professional man, minister of the gospel, layman or laborer. The only effective speech is to "enlist." As one of the boys said after listening to a speech from a man within these ages recently, "that's all right, but why don't he enlist himself."

MARCH certainly came in like a tame lamb.

WATFORD COUNCIL will meet next Monday evening.

WE believe it runs something like this nowadays: Official, Semi-official. Special Correspondent. List.

SOLDIER twice wounded, seriously ill in hospital, says a headline. Do they expect to find him at a hockey match?

WHAT'S left of those German African colonies after the British get through won't worry the German Colonial Office any.

"The Home Edition of the London Advertiser," the latest issue of that paper, is placed in the Public Library each evening at 7 o'clock.

THE most striking feature of the letters in print from the boys at the front is the optimistic vein noticeable all through. No matter how the folk at home feel, the boys in the danger zone are not at all doubtful as to the result.

Fuller, happens to be one of these, and Tuesday last she was the recipient of many unique and beautiful remembrances from friends far and near. Miss Fuller fully appreciates the thoughtfulness and well-wishes of her numerous friends.

THE employees of The Andrews Wire Works were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Miller on Friday evening last. The gathering was to bid farewell to Mr. Earl McCormick who leaves shortly for the west. A nicely worded address was read and a beautifully engraved silver ring presented him. We wish him every success.

HEREAFTER the road for advancement will be open to every private in the Canadian army who shows ability and is ambitious. There may not be a field marshal's baton in any of the knapsacks worn by the soldiers of the Dominion, but there surely must be any amount of sergeants sticks and officers' canes. Canada's is a most democratic army, as it should be.

THERE is now little doubt that prohibition legislation will be enacted by the Ontario Legislature early this year. In the speech from the throne on Tuesday appear the following words:—"Legislation will be submitted relating to the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors within the province and for the submission of the same to the electors."

A WRITER in the Sun, Toronto, condemns the English sparrow as a pest that should be destroyed. He advocates shooting, trapping and poisoning. The bird is accused of distributing San Jose scale and hog cholera. He advises trapping them as the best method of lessening their numbers as the birds can then be used for food. They destroy the nesting places of other song birds and eat vast quantities of garden stuff and fruit.

In letters to Miss Vera A. M. Swift, from Pte. Thomas Lamb and Cpl. M. Cunningham they wished her to convey their thanks to the other young ladies of the town who sent them parcels at Christmas and to the ladies of the Orange Lodge for the fine shirts and socks, which were so much appreciated.

THE first report of the Dominion analyst on the inspection of maple syrup and maple sugar under the new law, shows that 293 samples out of 293 are genuine, while 42 are adulterated, according to the standard laid down by the new act. A number of others are doubtful. It is illegal now to offer for sale any product under a name including the word "maple" unless it is a product of the maple sap. The question of purity is fixed by the amount of water and other constituents.

AMONG the names of the new recruits this week is that of John Lamb, youngest son of Mr. Wm. Lamb, Watford. This is the third section he has that has joined the colors, and no doubt William would go to the front himself if he were not too old. He certainly has done his duty for King and country in parting with his boys for the good of the cause, as he is now left entirely alone, being a widower and his only daughter married and living in the west.

DR. BRATHWAITE, President of Western University will deliver an address at the next meeting of the Reading Club which will be held in the Public Library on Friday March 3rd at 8 p. m. The subject is an interesting one and all who are free to attend the meeting are invited to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing Dr. Brathwaite.

IN ORDER to try and clear up the tremendous jam of freight traffic at border points, which is congesting the whole London district, every regular G. T. R. wayfreight out of London was cancelled Saturday and the crews sent to Sarnia to work special on trains. The situation is one that is unprecedented in local railway history. For weeks the railway has been taking on additional men to handle the ever-growing business, but shipments to the allies, which have the right-of-way over everything else, have been coming in in such huge quantities that the railway is swamped.

THE Citizens' Committee of One Hundred have arranged for an excursion at single fare plus 25c to Toronto—good for 4 days—good going on Tuesday 7th or Friday 10th, and returning up to the end of the month. A MEETING of all the officers of the 149th Lambton Battalion was held in the Armory on Tuesday. Several matters of importance were discussed, but the general idea of the meeting was to get the officers acquainted so that they would be able to carry on the work with greater success. It is thought that these meetings will take the form of efficiency meetings that have been very successful in other manufacturing corporations throughout the country if they are conducted in the right spirit. The next meeting will be held in Sarnia in all probability in two weeks' time.

I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

WATFORD, MARCH 3, 1916

NOTE AND COMMENT

The New Zealand Government has recommended that 50 per cent. extra duty be levied on all German goods after the war.

A Detroit paper says:—"The Government predicts 50-cent beef unless more beef cattle are raised. Michigan feeders have depended upon the west for their young cattle and can buy now only at prohibitive prices. Our native dairy stock will not fatten for the good dairyman has made a practice of culling out the cows that have a tendency to fatten, and it is a waste of feed to try to fatten a dairy bred steer."

That many brands of salad dressing containing cottonseed oil are being sold as olive oil, contrary to the regulations governing the sale of this article, is the report of Dominion Analyst McGill in a bulletin just issued. Out of 159 samples of oil examined, 45 were found to contain cottonseed oil. Only 35 samples contained the word "cotton" in very small type, on the label, whereas the regulations require that they be labeled in conspicuous characters. The bulletin describes this condition of things as unsatisfactory.

Will the price of meat ever stop climbing? Wholly aside from any trusts or trade combinations there are many influences that are forcing prices upward. The vast armies that are eating meat rations are not only rapidly depleting the supply of the world, but they are forming a taste and getting a habit that will persist when peace comes. As population of the world increases and social intercourse among nations becomes more common, the demand for meat grows greater and greater. In Japan, for example, rice is being displaced by meat as an article of diet. On the other hand, the flocks and herds of the world in general, and of our own country in particular, are not keeping pace with the demand. The lands with vast grazing areas—Brazil, Argentina, Australia and Mongolia—are not large enough to offer much relief. Unless our farmers raise more live stock, we shall have to eat more fish.

That a Conscription Act is on the Statute books of Canada, and only needed to be put in force will be a surprise to a great many. But such is the case. The law on the subject is found in the Militia and Defence Act Chapter 14 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, in Sec. 26, in which it is provided "that when men are required to organize or complete a corps at any time, either by training or an emergency and enough men do not volunteer to complete the quota required the men liable to serve shall be drafted by ballot." The first to be liable for service are men who are from 18 to 30, unmarried, or widowers without children, the second class, unmarried men or childless widowers between 30 and 45 years; the third class married men or widowers with children between 18 and 45 years and the fourth class all men between 45 and 60 years. Those who are drafted are liable for overseas service.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Patriotic Giving

From the point of view of the individual the value of the gift is in the sacrifice. The man who has nothing but his life, and freely offers that, offers all. No other sacrifice can be greater. The man who gives of his superfluous millions does well; the man who contributes the fifty cents that he needs makes the greater sacrifice. We must all learn to give; to give freely; to give to the point of sacrifice. The saving of our common civilization at this time is the greatest task ever imposed upon the people of Canada. We should accept it as a proud privilege as well as a sacred duty. When the task is accomplished, as we all believe it will be accomplished in time, it will be well for us to be able to say that we had some share in the work, that it was our privilege to make sacrifices, and to endure them bravely.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Germany's One Hope

(London Daily Chronicle)
At the present moment Germany, at the top of her military achievement, desires nothing so much as to see the Allies disheartened into concluding peace. All she can do against us is to score harassing successes which wound, but cannot cripple, her principal opponents. Her hope and her interest are that these incidents, each in its turn, should be magnified among us beyond their real importance, so that a general atmosphere of discouragement, distrust, and destructive criticism may prevail in and between the Allied countries. If she can get the Allies sufficiently discouraged she will win; if she cannot, she is doomed.

A Bright Scholar

The Sunday School teacher put to her class a number of questions touching the history of the cities mentioned in the Bible.

"What happened to Babylon?" was the first query.
"It fell," said one boy.
"And what became of Nineveh?"
"It was destroyed."
"And what of Tyre?"
"Punctured!"

Lieut.-Col. Robson, of the 135th Battalion, is in receipt of a letter from Dr. C. S. McVicar, an old McGillivray Township man now with No. 4 Canadian General Hospital at Saloniki, in which he mentions that German aviators had recently dropped bombs on the Canadian camp and that a number of dugouts had to be built to protect against the explosions.

Circumlocution.

"Just what is meant by circumlocution?" asked the seeker after knowledge.

"I haven't a definition on the tip of my tongue," replied the busy man, "but if you will look in the paper I dare say, you will find a very good example of it under the general heading of 'Diplomatic Correspondence.'"

John Kendrick Bangs was one day calling up his wife on the telephone. The maid at the other end did not recognize her "master's voice," and, after Bangs had told her whom he wanted the maid asked:

"Do you wish to speak with Mrs. Bangs?"

"No, indeed," replied the humorist; "I want to kiss her."

Poor Timper!

"I have just made a valuable discovery," announced Timpers.

"What is it?" asked Twiggs.

"I'm a fool."

"Ah, the joke is on your friends."

"How is that?"

"You know something they don't think you know."

Possible.

The tall, fidgety man hurriedly entered the depot and, addressing a bystander, asked, "Do you think I can catch the flier for Chicago?" The man addressed casually surveyed the other's long legs and, slowly removing the cigar from between his lips, replied, "Well, it looks like you ought to, but you'd better hurry, for she's been gone half an hour."

Just So.

"What brought you to housebreaking, my man?"

"Lost my job as a baseball pitcher, judge."

"Well, you are foolish to go into burglary if you are poor at locating the plate."

And So Forth.

"Willie," said the teacher of the juvenile class, "what is the term 'etc.' used for?"

"It is used to make people believe that we know a lot more than we really do," replied the bright youngster.—Chicago News.

Can Little Girls Help?

Can little girls help in patriotic work? Here is an incident which occurred the other day in Montreal. One of the Chapters of the Daughters of the Empire was meeting when two little girls arrived and shyly looked about the room where the women were at work. Some thought that they had come to look for their mothers who might be at the meeting. But, no! They had some more weighty reason. In a few minutes the story came out. They had five dollars which they had brought to give for soldiers' socks. Five dollars seemed a lot for two wee girls to give, until the fact was divulged that they had gone without any Christmas goods or Christmas goodies, and had saved every cent until now they had five dollars between them, to give to the soldiers.

An Impossible Ideal?

Perhaps, after all, the real danger is not that women will ever forget the value of the home and their obligation to it, but that men will never entirely learn them.

We are indebted to that gifted and charming essayist, Elizabeth Woodbridge, for the following: "To say that it is woman's task to make the home is to miss its most exquisite meaning. No one of the group can make the home, though any one can mar it. It must be made by all for the uses of all."

Well, if it is one thing for all to use the home, it is another thing for all—and by that we mean every one under the roof-tree—to help make the home.

And we will probably never learn the true significance of this difference unless we first distinctly understand that making a home is more, far more, than a matter of cooking food and making beds, of fetching and carrying and running the vacuum cleaner.

There can be no quarrel with that division of labor which makes household tasks very largely a woman's business and breadwinning outside the home a man's business.

But after both men and women have accomplished this much there still remains the finest part of the task of homemaking.

It lies in heart interest, in love for the home as an institution and in a thorough belief in its sacredness. A woman once said, "I can conceive of such a fine interpretation of the meaning and value of home that in case of difficulty or disagreement between two people the very ideal of the home itself would outweigh the personal element and conserve unity."

Interesting Hints About Easy Ways to Do Things.

Little daughter's pretty hand embroidered dress fitted in every way but length. Two daisies were embroidered on this yoke, and the dress is more attractive than it was in the first place.

Many cooks wonder why there usually are a few grains of sand in spinach, beet tops, etc., no matter how carefully washed. If the spinach is lifted gently out of the water with a large spoon or fork, care being taken not to stir or touch the bottom of the saucepan, instead of draining it through the colander, it will be entirely free from grit.

To take an ink spot out of fine linen pour a little persic acid on the spot and hold it over the steam of the kettle and the stain will at once come out.

Is Your Child Feverish? Young children often become feverish from very slight causes. The excitement caused by some coming pleasure, for instance, may send up the temperature several degrees in a high strung but otherwise quite healthy child. Indigestion and improper food may cause a rise to fever point, although nothing is seriously wrong.

On the other hand, a child may be seriously ill while the temperature chart records but little variation from the normal. The temperature changes of children are, in fact, very puzzling at times.

A mother need not be alarmed by feverishness, as a rule, because in most cases it is due to slight causes which would produce no effect on a grown person. But if it does not pass away in the course of a few hours or during the night she should call in a doctor.

Emotional excitement and a thundery atmosphere are two causes of feverishness; also poisonous matters arising from contaminated food and, in the case of infants, improper feeding. The milk, for instance, may contain too much fat or sugar or starch.

about a quarter of an inch thick, toast on both sides and butter well. Take half a pound of cheddar cheese, grate it and put it into a small pan with two tablespoonfuls of cream, a teaspoonful of mustard, a dust of pepper, and stir these all together over the fire till the mixture is like cream. Cut the toast into square pieces and place them on a hot dish. Pour the cheese mixture over them and serve at once.

LUNCHEON DISHES.

Three Appetizing Ways to Serve Rice, Cheese and Eggs.

Eggs Poached in Cheese.—For six eggs take six tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, one cupful of white sauce and six pieces of toast. Cut the toast with a large round cookie cutter, poach the eggs, lay them on the toast and pour over them the white sauce, to which the grated cheese has been added.

To make the white sauce, melt one tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan. Stir in one tablespoonful of flour and then pour in a cupful of sweet milk, stirring gradually until it makes a smooth paste. Let it come to a boil.

Escaloped Rice.—Scald a cupful of milk and thicken it with two tablespoonfuls of flour. To this add half a pound of grated cheese. (The cheese may be cut into small pieces without being grated.) Season it with one-half teaspoonful of salt. Have ready three cups of rice boiled in separate grains and alternate this in a casserole dish with layers of the thickened milk. Spread crumbs over the top, grate a little cheese over the crumbs and set the dish in an oven to bake until brown.

Iran Rice.—Have ready a half cupful of freshly cooked rice. Put into a steamerpan one teaspoonful each of butter and flour. Rub together until blended, add one cupful of grated cheese, a cupful and a half of hot water and a pinch of annatto. Stir rapidly and when perfectly smooth spread this sauce over the rice on a shallow serving dish. Sprinkle finely grated cheese over the whole and serve hot with a garnish of nasturtium leaves about the edges.

The Big Dipper.

In astronomy the Big Dipper, so called, is in the constellation of Ursa Major, or the Great Bear. The stars forming the tail of the bear also form the handle of the dipper. The first star in the handle is Benetnash, the second Migar, the third Alioth. The other four, which go to form the bowl of the dipper, are Megres, Phad, Merak and Durdah. The two last named are called "the pointers" because they point or guide the eye to the pole star, which is distant 29 degrees. The top bowl stars are 10 degrees and the bottom ones 8 degrees apart.

The Serpent's Venom.

A physician while talking with a group of friends remarked: "It is common to hear people speak about poisonous serpents. Serpents are never poisonous; they are venomous. A poison cannot be taken internally without bad effects; a venom can. Venoms to be effective have to be injected directly into the circulation, and this is the manner in which the snake kills. Their venom taken internally is innocuous."

An Appreciation.

An old sea captain was turning over the leaves of a friend's album when, coming to the photograph of a young lady of whose acquaintance the family was rather proud, he was asked what he thought of her. "Aweel," was the old sea rover's reply, "if I were goin' to make a rare stroke o' business I'd buy that girl for what she was worth an' sell her for what she thinks she is worth!"—London Mirror.

Learning It.

The Old Married One—You will learn, my dear, that men are most contrary creatures. The Young Married One—Oh, I know that already. The Old Married One—Indeed? The Young Married One—Yes; I cook things my husband likes and yet he doesn't like the things I cook.

Comparisons.

"A telephone is a great convenience in a suburban home. My wife often calls me up." "You're lucky. Mine always calls me down."

A Gentle Hint.

"Be—Then you are not interested in my welfare. She—No; but if the two syllables were transposed I'd not only be interested, but enthusiastic."

The sickle rests in the hand that waits for the harvest.—Persiah Proverb.

Oil for Toothache.—There is no pain so acute and distressing as toothache. When you have so unwelcome a visitor apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil according to directions and you will find immediate relief. It touches the nerve with soothing effect and the pain departs at once. That it will ease tooth-ache is another fine quality of this Oil, showing the many uses it has.

ing from contaminated food and, in the case of infants, improper feeding. The milk, for instance, may contain too much fat or sugar or starch. In the case of older children indigestible vegetables and fruits are sometimes to blame. But feverishness may also signify the commencement of tonsillitis, contagions, pneumonia, influenza or bronchitis. It is always well to have medical advice in cases of doubt. The rise of temperature may be of little significance, but often it is the first warning of a coming attack of illness.

A Common Sense Idea.

A woman's clever idea is making a fortune for her. After ruining table napkins by breaking ice in them she made herself an ice cracking bag out of the highest grade yacht duck—sail cloth, in other words—sturdy enough to stand the wear and tear, with drawing string of waterproof cord, and with a loop to hang it up by. She then made some for her friends. Now she has a great big business, for physicians, nurses, those who enjoy cooling drinks and leas have spread its fame. A whack or two upon the ice tied securely in the bag breaks it neatly for ice cap, ice cream freezers and for the numerous things for which cracked ice is used. The bag is not to be destroyed by its use, and it washes perfectly. Its time of service is two years.

Why "Anurio" is an INSURANCE Against Sudden Death.

Before an Insurance Company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test the urine and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or the twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism and gout. The urine is often cloudy, full of sediment; channels often get sore and sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. This is the time you should consult some physician of wide experience—such as Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Send him 10 cents for sample package of his new discovery, "Anurio." Write him your symptoms and send a sample of urine for test. Experience has taught Dr. Pierce that "Anurio" is the most powerful agent in dissolving uric acid, as hot water melts sugar; besides being absolutely harmless it is endowed with other properties, for it preserves the kidneys in a healthy condition by thoroughly cleansing them. Being so many times more active than lithia, it clears the heart valves of any sandy substances which may clog them and checks the degeneration of the blood-vessels, as well as regulating blood pressure. "Anurio" is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big meat eaters and those who deposit lime-salts in their joints. Ask the druggist for "Anurio" put up by Dr. Pierce, in 50-cent packages.

NEURASTHENIA THAT FOLLOWS LA GRIPPE

Rest and a Tonic Is the Proper Treatment Distinguished Medical Authority Says

There is a form of neurasthenia that follows la grippe. Doctors call it "post-grippal" neurasthenia.

One of the foremost medical authorities of New York city in a lecture in the international clinics, said:

"Broadly speaking, every victim of la grippe will suffer from post-grippal neurasthenia also. Lowering of nervous tone with increased irritability is the most striking effect of the disease, languor of mind and body, disturbed, fitful sleep and vague pains in the head and elsewhere. The treatment calls for rest and a tonic."

If you have had la grippe read those symptoms again: Languor of mind and body, disturbed, fitful sleep and vague pains in the head and elsewhere. If you have any or all of them it means that you are still suffering from the effects of la grippe and that you will not be well and free from danger of relapse until your blood is built up.

The treatment, says the distinguished physician quoted above, is rest and a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a non-alcoholic tonic, are particularly suited for building up the blood and strengthening the nerves after an attack of grippe. The rich, red blood expels the lingering germs from the system and transforms despondent grippe victims into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women.

If you have had la grippe do not wait for a relapse or for the neurasthenia that so often follows grippe, but get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment at once. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Fears are expressed by farmers that the wheat crop is suffering seriously by the extremes in temperature that have prevailed. A heaving from frost is almost inevitable through scarcity of snow covering, and a pessimistic outlook for the 1916 crop prevails in some districts.

Toronto, Feb. 29.—Receipts at the Union stockyards to-day were light. A good demand was in evidence for well-finished butcher steers and heifers. There is a good supply of green steers for feeding offering just now, but the demand was low, considering the attractive prices at which they can be bought, as compared with what the same class of cattle will cost in a month or so. Prices held good and steady with yesterday's market owing to the very light run. Sheep and lambs steady. Good veal calves firm. Hogs firm.

GETTING AN EDUCATION.

After the Age of Thirty is the Time to Start in Earnest.

According to the Saturday Evening Post, the best time to get an education—perhaps the only time—is any time after one has passed thirty. The stuff that one learns before twenty is not meant to be remembered. It is only a placing of the chutes and an arrangement of the bins for the permanent contents. From twenty to thirty one is all torn up with courting, marrying and getting a foothold in life. After that is the time for education—from then on until death or senile debility.

A man or woman past thirty is exactly at the most favorable period for mastering knowledge, training the mind, forming the taste. Some systematic effort is all that is necessary. Notice the silly and tiresome ways in which enormous numbers of people spend some of their holidays. They know what to do with their working hours, but not with their leisure.

Most of them by a little direction and a little systematic effort might develop some special interest. Boys quickly tire of mere aimless and painless play. Naturally they want a method and a goal in it. Having a goal is exactly what gives zest to the game.

And having a goal is both easy and delightful. To study anything with interest, from logarithms to caterpillars, gives one fun and profit at the same time. Try it.

PROVED ITS WORTH.

Dramatic Test That Was Made With a Bullet Proof Shirt.

"A well known war correspondent, who is a personal friend of mine," writes a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, "tells an amusing story. While in Paris at the beginning of the war in 1914 a French inventor persuaded him to obtain an opportunity for demonstrating the usefulness of a thin chain armor shirt, which he claimed would resist any bullet or bayonet.

"A sample shirt had been hung up and fired at with satisfactory results, but it was with a certain journalistic skepticism that my friend attended the official demonstration at Hendon later. Anyway, to oblige the inventor he put on one of the shirts to show its comfort and flexibility. It was then that the French inventor achieved a dramatic effect, for he whipped out a Webley automatic and blazed away straight at my friend's chest.

"He is still alive to tell the tale," adds the correspondent. "Before he had recovered breath a war office official grasped him warmly by the hand."

"Sir," he said, "you are a brave man!"

"My friend disappeared with becoming modesty. He had gone where he could get a stiff brandy and soda!"

Logical.

"What seems to be the matter, sir?" asked the clerk in the hotel. "Were you expecting some one?"

"I should say I was," said the man angrily. "My wife was to meet me here at 2 o'clock. I just got here, and now it's 4 o'clock, and she isn't here yet. Never knew a woman to be on time anyway."

A Dickens Character.

Smike, Charles Dickens' character in Nicholas Nickleby, seems to have been drawn from the life. Said the author in a letter apropos of that novel: "The casualty of those Yorkshire schoolmasters cannot be easily exaggerated. I have kept down strong truth and thrown as much comicality over it as I could rather than disgust the weary reader with its fouler aspects."

How Cripple Creek Got Its Name.

It was the cattlemen who gave Cripple Creek its name. There are a dozen traditions, but the best authenticated is the story of a cowboy whose broncho balked at the jumping of a rivulet, balked and stumbled and fell, breaking a leg for itself and one for its rider. There was no surgeon nearer than Colorado Springs, and the rough anatomical carpentry of his mates made a cripple for life of the unlucky range rider, wherefore he named the rivulet Cripple creek, and the rivulet named the region.—Exchange.

A Bloodsucking Earthworm.

South Africa is the home of a species of earthworm, a creature closely related to our common angleworm, which is not only a giant among the denizens of the soil, but which is reputed to have a taste for human blood. There are two species of this uncanny wiggler—one of a dark red color and the other almost black. They are larger than one's finger and from three to four inches in length.

A Clever Woman.

"I never deceive my wife."
"You deserve credit for that."
"No. The credit belongs to her."
"How so?"
"I am utterly unable to spin a yarn she can't see through."

The Call For Recruits

It's time to enlist. We need men and more men, there is a time for peace, and this is the time for war.

It is true that a soft word turneth away wrath, but it never yet and never will stop a bullet.

Oh! You men of Lambton! Avenge the murderous acts of that German Kaiser.

Everyone can be a soldier, whether dressed in khaki or not.

Let the little ones be recruiting officers, to shame able men into khaki.

Let us all do our duty like men.

If Germany wins—away with the liberty and responsibility we have fought for, away with Christianity.

The foundation of this war is the fight between aristocracy and democracy. Are you going to let autocracy and tyranny win?

What a Country and Empire to fight for!

Men of Lambton! get in on a man's job!

The mothers who hold their sons back are the first to give them a black eye.

Don't make the fatal mistake of holding back your son if he wants to go.

Young men! You are needed by your flag and King!

There is not a boy in the whole Dominion who can truthfully say that he is not needed.

Let us judge no man. Let every man be a judge unto himself.

Don't let fear keep you back, boys. The man who has a nervous fear, is always the best soldier.

A thousand times better it is for a young man to lose his position and retain his manhood than to lose his manhood and keep his position.

Faith! Hope! Charity! Patriotism! The greatest of these is patriotism!

Canadian soil doesn't raise slackers, shirkers and cowards. "Prove that you are a Canadian."

Are we going to give our lives to keep our beautiful country intact?

Are you going to let the call of your brothers in the trenches, who have been fighting for you, go unheeded?

It may not be generally known that anyone found guilty of hindering or preventing in any way men enlisting, is guilty of felony and is liable to two years' imprisonment.

Can You Stand For This?

The following quotation is taken verbatim from an article in "The Fatherland", a paper published by the German propagandists, New York.

"Sir Robert Laird Borden, Premier of Canada, will live in history as having been the first man on the continent of North America to treat white men as 'reconcentrados.' I shall give records of how Borden, the Butcher, is having these men starved in prison camps, bayoneted, cast into dungeons, while their wives and children roam the land, without food and shelter. I shall tell only a small part of this shocking story, I am not yet ready to make public the accusatory letters received from men in Canadian camps, who beg that not even the places where they are interned be mentioned, lest they, too, shall 'disappear' like their martyred comrades."

"Canada is as old a country as the United States in settlement, with rich mines and a fertile soil. Yet it has never flourished. The reason is not to be sought in the land or the soil, but in the Government and the people. England used it, as she used all her colonies, to inflict upon them her deported criminals and undesirables. She populated it by the cruel imprisonment of English merchants and artisans, seized in London streets; criminals from the hulks and unfortunate women from the bridewells."

Doesn't it Make Your Blood Boil?
The only way to stop this vile German propaganda is to crush the Central Empires to the wall.

The Shadow of Death

What President Lincoln
Did While It Hung
Over Him

By F. A. MITCHEL

The following narrative is given exactly as it occurred with scarcely any editing in transforming it from ordinary parlance to the story form:

One of the saddest features of the war between the states was the arraying against one another of the different members of the same family. Such cases were more especially to be found on the border line between the United States and the Confederacy. In east Tennessee the prevailing sentiment was about equally divided. Maryland was in favor of the Confederacy. All these states, however, were held for the Union by being occupied by Federal troops in the early part of the war. In Missouri, which was geographically a northern state, the institution of slavery had been planted, and both Confederates and Federals waged war for its possession, the latter gaining the day during the early part of the war.

For years the mutterings of the strife that was to come were heard in the land, and for months those who were farseeing began to fear that it was about to break forth. Then came the day of firing on Fort Sumter, and the people began to range themselves on the side with which they sympathized.

One day two brothers, Allmon and George Vaughan, bade each other good-bye in the town of Canton, Mo. Allmon's sympathies were with the north in the struggle about to take place, while George's were with the south.

"I am sorry, George," said Allmon, "that you are determined to take the Confederate side in this contest, but I grant that you are honest in your convictions. You are to be in the Confederate army; I shall fight with the Federals. I hope that we shall never meet on the field of battle."

"And I regret, Allmon, that you will not be convinced of the wrong the northern people are doing the south and that you will not join me in defending her. However, since I can't convince you, we must part."

"Goodbye, George. I hope that we will both come out of the struggle alive and shall meet again here at our home, but something tells me that the war will be a long one and before that can be we shall both be exposed to terrible dangers."

Little did either of the brothers foresee the great danger that would befall one of them and the efforts to be made by the other to save him from a fate worse than death on the battlefield or under the surgeon's knife. George Vaughan made his way to the south, while Allmon was given a position on the staff of General Mark E. Green, an old friend of the Vaughan family.

About a year after the parting of the brothers George Vaughan determined to pay a visit to his home in Canton. Being a Confederate soldier, this could only be done secretly. Disguising himself, he passed the Union lines and reached Canton without his identity being discovered. He was received with joy, mingled with fear and trembling, by the members of his family. To Mrs. General Green, on whose husband's staff his brother Allmon was serving, he bore messages from friends in the Confederacy. Quite likely the lady was a southern sympathizer, for most of the women in the border states were on the southern side, even the wives of Union officers not concealing their preference.

When George Vaughan returned from his visit he was recognized by one who had known him before the breaking out of the war, and since he was known to have gone south to enlist in the Confederate army, and caught within the Union lines in disguise he was arrested and lodged in jail at Palmyra.

The record does not state that the prisoner was bearing information concerning the Union forces or plans to the southern leaders, but it is probable that he was. Having brought messages to Mrs. Green, it is quite likely that he took messages from her and perhaps to friends in the Confederacy, and it is not unlikely that there were written messages containing the contraband information.

George Vaughan was transferred from Palmyra to St. Louis, where a charge of being a spy was preferred against him, and a court was convened to try him. His defense was that he had gone to his home for no other purpose than to visit his family, whether or no he was bearing information to the Confederates, having been caught within the Federal lines in citizen's dress was sufficient to convict him. At any rate, such was the result of the court martial, and he was sentenced to be shot.

Here was a singular case. The brother of a captain in the Union army was to be executed by the Federal officers. Allmon Vaughan heard of his brother's danger with dismay. There was but one hope for a man sentenced by a court martial, and that was in President Lincoln. John B. Henderson was then one of the senators from Missouri, and Allmon Vaughan appealed to him to use his influence with the government to help his brother out of the terrible position into which he had fallen. And yet there was but little hope, for during that war when a man was sentenced to death for being a spy he was usually executed. However, Senator Henderson began his efforts in behalf of the prisoner by laying the case before the secretary of war. Mr. Stanton made an investigation of the case and decided that the sentence of the court was deserved and must be carried out.

The senator Henderson appealed to the president.

Mr. Lincoln during the war was regarded by those high in command as a stumbling block to military discipline. So tender hearted was he that he could not refrain from interfering in the case of deserters from the Union army and such persons on the Confederate side as were caught smuggling contraband goods or information into the south. Often, where the accusations were clearly proved, the president would defeat justice by a pardon. It is related that Secretary Stanton, to whom was given great power to thwart this interference on the part of the president, on presentation of an order from Mr. Lincoln in behalf of some luckless individual would tear it up, thus declining to respect it. But in this case the president overruled the secretary and ordered a new trial for the condemned man.

The hopes that were raised in Allmon Vaughan by this interference were doomed to disappointment. The officers of the court, refusing to permit their feelings to influence them, returned a second verdict of guilty. Again the president was appealed to, again he ordered another trial, and again the same verdict was returned.

Naturally these three trials consumed a great deal of time, and when the last verdict was returned the spring of 1865 had opened, and the end of the war was in sight. Senator Henderson refused to be discouraged. There was one means of saving George Vaughan's life that had not been utilized. President Lincoln possessed the pardoning power in such cases, and the senator resolved to make an effort in that direction.

Visiting the White House, he obtained access to the kind hearted president and solicited a pardon for the condemned Confederate, urging the fact that the war was practically over and such an act of clemency would go far to bringing the Confederates of Missouri back into the Union fold.

"See Stanton," said Mr. Lincoln, "and tell him that this man must be released."

"I have seen him," replied the senator, "and he will do nothing."

"See him again," said the president, "and if he will do nothing come back to me."

Again Senator Henderson sought the iron secretary, who set his square jaws and refused to interfere with the verdict of the court martial. Had Allmon Vaughan known of this final effort to save his brother from an ignominious death and of the shadow that was then hanging over the only man who could save him he would have lost all hope.

It was the 14th of April, 1865. Senator Henderson called upon the president to report the issue of his final effort with the secretary of war. The senator was shown to Mr. Lincoln's private room, where he found him dressing for the theater.

"Mr. Stanton will do nothing," said Henderson. "There is no hope."

Mr. Lincoln shook his head; then without a word he seated himself at a desk and, taking up pen and paper, began to write.

No other such scene fraught with life and death occurred during those dark days of war. Placed on canvas by an artist it would be: The long, gaunt president, sitting at his desk about to write a pardon for one of his country's enemies, his face wearing an expression of magnanimity. Near by would stand the senator, silently wondering what the writing would be and hoping for victory. Overlooking the president is the Shadow of Death, wearing a mingled expression of disappointment and satisfaction—disappointment at being cheated out of one victim, satisfaction at the certainty of securing a far more important one in the man who was robbing him of the other.

When Mr. Lincoln had written a few lines he handed the paper to the senator. Henderson scanned it with a look of mingled pleasure and triumph. It was a pardon for George Vaughan and an order for his release.

Having expressed his gratitude to Mr. Lincoln the senator hurried to the telegraph to flash the good news to Missouri, relieving the strain on the condemned Confederate and gladdening the hearts of his brother and others who loved him.

But the president, shortly after this act of mercy, descended to a carriage and was driven to the theater and while sitting in his chair, possibly thinking rather of the life he had spared than the play, was sent to his long home by one who thought he served the same cause as the man he had pardoned.

Half a century has passed since the tender hearted president was martyred. There have been many anecdotes told of him, but none so affecting as this writing of a pardon for a Confederate officer and going directly to his death at the hands of Booth. We have Mr. Lincoln's speech at the dedication of the field of Gettysburg. Every day is advancing Mr. Lincoln in the admiration and the hearts of the civilized world. Beside his impressive words should stand this last act of his life from which the pardoner went to his own death. His words of consecration on the battlefield were long in being recognized for their true value and in finding the place among men they occupy today. Perhaps at some future date this last official act—an act of clemency—may take its place beside his words at Gettysburg.

FATAL RIDICULE.

Youths of Ancient Alexandria Paid For Their Caustic Wit.

In ancient days the impudent wit of the young Greco-Egyptian dandy was proverbial, says Arthur E. P. Brome Weigall in "The Life and Times of Cleopatra." "That was especially true in Alexandria, whose people were characterized by the Emperor Hadrian as 'light, wavering, seditious, vain and spiteful, although as a body wealthy and prosperous.'"

No sooner did a statesman assume office or a king come to the throne than the wags of the city gave him some scurrilous nickname that stuck to him throughout the remainder of his life. Thus Ptolemy IX. was called "The Bloat." Ptolemy X. "The Vetch" and Ptolemy XIII. "The Piper." Seleucus they named "Pickled Fish Peddler," and in later times Vespasian was named "Scullion."

When King Herod Agrippa passed through the city on his way to his insecure throne these young Alexandrians dressed up an unfortunate madman whom they had found in the streets, put a paper crown upon his head and a reed in his hand and led him through the town, hailing him as king of the Jews and that in spite of the fact that Agrippa was the close friend of Caligula, their emperor. Against Vespasian they told, with delight, the story of how he had pestered one of his friends for the payment of a trifling loan of 6 oboli, and some one made up a song in which that fact was recorded.

They ridiculed Caracalla for dressing himself like Alexander the Great, although his stature was below the average, but in that case they had not reckoned with their man. His frightful revenge upon them was the almost total extermination of all the well to do young men in the city, whom he collected together under a false pretense and then butchered in cold blood.

Sympathy Versus Science.

"We boast much of our advance in science, but science is naught to the sick and wounded compared with the word of comfort and assurance," says the New York Medical Journal. "It is literally true that we would rather die than be treated successfully by certain practitioners. * * * A little sympathy outweighs much science."

Inexcusable.

Said the waiter to a noisy card party in a hotel bedroom: "I've been sent to ask you to make less noise, gentlemen. The gentleman in the next room says he can't sleep."

"Tell him," was the reply of the host, "that he ought to be ashamed of himself. Why, I could read when I was five years old."

TRACED IN FIRE.

Glow Pictures Are Spectacular and Easy to Make.

To make glow pictures forty parts of salt-peter are added to twenty parts of gum arabic, and the whole is dissolved in forty parts of water. An ounce or two of this mixture will be sufficient to prepare a good many pictures. A few sheets of white paper should next be secured, and this should be rather thin, similar to that which is used for typewriting.

Now take a clean pen and draw the picture on the paper, using the solution, which should be slightly warmed by standing the bottle in hot water.
Anything may be delineated, the only essential point being that all the lines must connect. The final line should be drawn down to the corner of the sheet, and this spot may be indicated with a pencil cross. Hanging the sheets up to dry, and when the process is complete the lines are practically invisible.

To bring up the picture first of all turn down the borders of the sheet of paper in such a way that it is raised above the surface which will not be injured by the slight smoldering of the paper. Get a match and light it, placing the glowing end of the point where the pencil cross was made on the sheet.

A trail of red fire will at once start to burn out the picture, following the lines which have been drawn. No other part of the design catches on fire save that which has been treated with the solution. Finally the picture stands up in strong black lines, and the effect is very curious. There is absolutely no danger from fire in this little experiment.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

INTENSIVE WHEAT GROWING.

Startling Results Claimed For a Rus-sian's Methods.

Some years ago, says an English publication, a Russian farmer discovered a method of increasing the yield of wheat in so startling a manner that no one believed he was telling the truth.
The Russian declared that it was possible to get seventy pounds of grain from one seed and to make an acre carry forty-five tons.

That does sound like a miracle, and we do not vouch for it, but here is the method, and if any farmer has the patience to try it he will certainly be surprised at the result.

Each grain is planted separately in a sunken bed about fifteen inches deep and three and a half feet in width.

As soon as the grain sprouts the little blade is covered with a thin layer of earth about an inch and a half in depth. The result is that you get three stalks instead of one. At the end of three weeks the hoe comes into use again, and the three stalks being covered with earth, turn into nine stalks.
This process on being repeated a third time results in twenty-seven stalks, and the Russian in question reported it ten times in all, so that at last each grain produced 59,049 stalks. If the seed is first sown in the ordinary fashion and then transplanted to the pit before mentioned you get an even stronger growth, so that after only eight coverings more than 105,000 stalks have been produced from a single grain.—
Youth's Companion.

Mythical Horses.

Pegasus ("born near the source of the ocean") was the winged horse of Apollo and the Muses. Bellerophon rode this animal when he charged the Chimera.

Sleipnir ("the black horse of Odin") had eight legs and could carry his master on sea as well as land. This animal is believed to typify the wind, which blows from eight different points.

Al Borak ("the lightning") was the horse commissioned by Gabriel to carry Mohammed to the seventh heaven.
He had a human face and the wings of an eagle. Every step he took was equal to the farthest range of human vision.

According to Thessalian legend, the first horse was miraculously brought forth by Neptune striking a rock with his trident.

A Voracious Monster.

The most voracious of all marine beasts of prey is the orca, or killer whale. It reaches a length of twenty-five feet, and its jaws bristle with teeth from four to six inches long and as sharp as a dirk knife. Its digestive power is proportioned to the tremendous efficacy of its jaws. It seems also to be an atrocious glutton, as one specimen examined contained in its stomach thirteen porpoises and fourteen seals.

An Easy Pill to Take.

Some persons have repugnance to pills because of their nauseating taste. Parmelec's Vegetable Pills are so prepared as to make them agreeable to the most fastidious. The most delicate can take them without feeling the revulsion that follows the taking of ordinary pills. This is one reason for the popularity of these celebrated pills, but the main reason is their high tonical quality as a medicine for the stomach.

STUDY YOUR TONGUE.

It is a Monitor That Registers Your Physical Condition.

One of the first things a doctor does when he is called to a patient is to look into his mouth. That is because it is the quickest and easiest way to examine an internal cavity of the body and observe the signs of health or disease there displayed. The mouth is lined with mucous membrane, which is quickly affected by many disorders, and the tongue, which is simply a mass of muscle wrapped up in mucous membrane, is a veritable horizontal guide post.

Since it is a muscle its general size and shape and its susceptibility to proper control inform the physician of the muscular condition of the patient, and the state of the mucous membrane that covers it indicates the general systemic condition. A person who suffers from fever of any degree will generally show a "furred" tongue. The word graphically describes the condition, and it is not necessary to be a physician in order to recognize it.

In a long continued fever like typhoid the fur accumulates until the tongue is covered with a thick, brown mass that shades off to a lighter tint at the edges. In scarlet fever the tongue is often covered with a white fur dotted with little red points. That is called the "strawberry" tongue.

When the stomach is badly out of condition the tongue shows a thick white or brown fur, and those who are suffering from tonsillitis or from any other inflammation of the throat may show a layer of thick, creamy white fur all over the tongue. Sometimes when the patient is much exhausted the tongue will not be furred, but dry, red and raw.

"Thrush" consists of small white patches raised above the surface and,
although not serious in itself, generally shows that the constitution is weak.

One strange thing about the tongue is that, although it so often betrays the state of the stomach to the physician, yet in two of the most serious stomach troubles—cancer and gastric ulcer—the tongue is generally very clean.

The tongue in health is always under the muscular control of its owner and should be perfectly steady when it is put out. A tremulous tongue denotes weakness, and the tongue that is cooled and tremulous in the morning, but that grows steadier through the day, is generally the result of too much alcohol.—Youth's Companion.

Armenia's Lost Name.

There is no such country as Armenia.
Officially the Turks decline to recognize the name, and maps marking "Armenistan" have regularly been confiscated.
Unofficially again nobody can say exactly where "Armenia," or Kurdistan, as it is alternatively called, begins and leaves off. Nor is there properly such a people as the "Armenians." That is only a name given them by foreigners.
They call themselves Haik and their country Haikland, tracing their descendant from Haik, grandson of Japhet, whose dynasty was overthrown by Alexander of Macedon.—London Spectator.
