REPORT.

THE Executive Committee, in offering to the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society now assembled, the Report of their proceedings for the past year, will endeavour to compress the statements and observations they have to offer within as brief limits as possible.

The important Institutions committed to their charge, having, as they confidently believe, acquired a firm and acknowledged standing in public estimation for usefulness and efficiency, and being, also, as they feel fully assured, firmly established in the warm attachment to their interests of the denomination on which their more immediate support is devolved, it is unnecessary here to enter into any exposition of the principles on which they are based, or the incalculable benefits to be derived from their successful operation and progress.

It must be taken for granted, that not only every intelligent person connected with the Baptists of Nova Scotia, but all who feel truly interested in the future character and improvement of the Province, in a moral, intellectual or religious view, will also feel deeply concerned that the efforts we have already made and are still making should be crowned with the most ample success.

While the Committee regret that they cannot present the pecuniary affairs of the Society as being in so favourable a position as they could wish, it is scarcely possible under present circumstances, nor do they deem it at all desirable at any time, convinced as they are of the immense superiority of the method of sustaining important public objects like our own, by the free and voluntary action of the community, that our institutions of learning should be placed beyond the necessity of renewed appeals to the favour and liberality of the public, or be at once endowed with an income, which in too many cases have been the means of consigning such objects to inactivity and neglect.

Since the last meeting of the Society, the College and Academy have been conducted with entire satisfaction to the Executive Committee, by the Professors and other officers of the Institutions; and although the attendance of youth, in both departments, has been rather less than in some other years, yet the Committee have every reason to congratulate their friends on their continued successful operations. The whole number of students who have attended classes in the college during the year is twenty-two. They have prosecuted their studies with assiduity, and in their different examinations given very satisfactory evidence of improvement in the various branches of learning and science in which they have been engaged. Five of the number, at the public anniversary of the Institutions on the 18th instant received their first degree in arts.

In the Collegiate Academy, which has been conducted with much ability by Mr Randall and his assistant, Mr David Freeman, there have been receiving instruction during the year sixty-seven pupils, whose progress, as tested by the examination just held, has been very satisfactory.

In consequence of the Rev. Dr Crawley having accepted the important and responsible office of Theological Professor, instituted in January last under the joint endowment of the English Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, and the Baptist Denomination in Nova Scotia, the situation of Professor of Moral Philosophy, Logic and Rhetoric in Acadia College has become vacant, although Dr Crawley continues for the time being gratuitously to perform the duties hitherto so ably discharged by him, until provision shall be otherwise made for their fulfilment.

The Committee are happy to be able to state that their endeavours for the formation of a Theological class has been as successful as could well be anticipated in so short a time since the appointment of the Theological Professor. All the churches having been addressed by letters, favourable answers have been received from many of them. Classes have been instituted to a certain extent in Hebrew, in Hermeneutics, and in Biblical Theology. The whole number of students attending in these classes, or receiving earlier preparatory instruction from the Professor of Theology have been nine, and it is hoped this number will be much increased in the ensuing term. The Executive Committee now beg to recommend that as the Theological Professorship is wholly distinct from the department of secular Education which it is the object of the Collegiate Institutions to afford, the future management of this chair should be placed under the immediate superintendance and direction of the Nova Scotia Baptist Missionary Society, now constituted by the General Association of the Province, and of the Executive Board or Committee appointed by that society.

The revenues of the Institutions, arising from annual subscriptions and new contributions received since the publication of the last Report, we regret to say, have been considerably less than have been generally received during similar periods, owing to causes which will be presently adverted to.

The amount paid into the Treasury since the last published account for contributions and subscriptions, old and new, exclusive of upwards of 1000*l.* received in the beginning of 1845 from Messrs Pryor's and Bill's foreign agencies, a note of which appeared at the foot of that account, has been 447*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*

The sums received for tuition in the College and Academy during the same period has been 222*l.* 2*s.* 7½*d.* The large balance of £527 from this source, still remaining due to the society at the end of the last year.

A full and particular account of the receipts and expenditures, with the financial liabilities of the society, up to the present time, will be forthwith published, and appended to this report.

The Executive Committee feel that they owe it to the Denomination to state explicitly that the expectations they entertained from the large amounts contributed in England and the United States, and the sums subscribed in the Province on the last agency, that the heavy debt in which the society was involved, would have been nearly, if not altogether discharged, has not been realized. While the debt has been considerably diminished, they regret to say that owing to the pecuniary depression which has prevailed for some time past, by far the larger amount of the Nova Scotia subscriptions remain yet unpaid, in addition to which, the balance of tuition fees remaining due has greatly increased. A cause which more than any other has contributed to this result, has been the entire want of any permanent agency during the past year. While the large current annual expenses of the Institutions have been daily going on, such necessary expenditures have very much exceeded the regular income received from tuition fees and the Provincial grant, and consequently the deficiency has gone to increase the debt of the society.

The Committee are gratified in stating that several donations of greater or less value in books or other articles, have been made to the institutions, among which is an excellent college bell valued at 40*l.*, presented by a lady in Liverpool, England, to the Rev. J. Pryor during his late agency; and we feel it but just to Professor Chipman to state that through his persevering exertions, aided by the Rev. S. T. Rand, a number of useful publications, intended as the foundation of an Historical and Denominational Library has been collected and deposited in the College.

It is with deep regret the Committee have to state that since presenting their last Report, WILLIAM ALLAN CHIPMAN, Esquire, a zealous and active member of the Committee has been taken from them. Mr Chipman was one of the warmest and most efficient supporters of the Education Society from its commencement, and will long be remembered with sincere respect and affection, as well on account of the many excellencies of his private character, as for his public spirit and enlarged liberality.

In reviewing the results of the past year in regard to what has been effected, the Executive Committee amid all their difficulties cannot but feel much encouraged in view of what has been done towards carrying out the all important objects of diffusing the blessings of sound religious and moral instruction and the incalculable advantages of enlightened learning and science by means of their Institutions. While the population and resources of our country are yearly rapidly increasing and developing themselves, it is quite impossible that any mind, not wholly insensible to the happiness and improvement of society, can be blind to the benefits which have been already secured, and which must hereafter inevitably spring from what has been already effected in favour of education by this society.

Every possible consideration must therefore enhance the obligations incumbent on every friend of this society to press forward with renewed and unabated zeal and vigour in prosecuting the arduous duties committed to their charge. No effort like that in which we are engaged is without its difficulties, and those very frequently of the most serious nature; but who is there that is at all aware of the nature of his responsibilities to God and to his country, who would wish, or even dare to shrink from a work like the present. Whatever embarrassments may have at times surrounded our path, and tended for a short period to impede our course, and such hindrances we are aware are incident to every human undertaking, we have again and again witnessed the most manifest tokens of the divine blessing upon our labours, and we feel confidently assured that relying on the favour of Him who alone can give prosperity, and relaxing no effort needful to the success of our endeavours, we shall ere long rise above every obstacle, and achieve an object which involves the best and most vital interests of our own denomination and of the country in which we dwell.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The General Annual Meeting of the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society was held, during the Association at Bridgetown, on Tuesday, the 23rd day of June, 1846.

In consequence of the infirm health of the venerable E. Manning, the President of the Society, the Rev. Charles Tupper, Vice President, presided. The Executive Committee and a large number of the Directors and other members of the Society were present.

The Secretary read to the meeting the Report of the proceedings of the Society from the 31st December, 1844, the date of the publication of the last report, up to the present time, the reception of which was moved by the Rev. T. S. Harding and seconded by the Rev. Harris Harding, and was thereupon received and ordered to be published.

The Rev. Dr Crawley then moved the subjoined string of Resolutions, which motion having been seconded by the Rev. Joseph Dimock, and after the meeting having been addressed by several gentlemen present, the resolutions were unanimously passed.

1. Resolved, That in conformity with the recommendation of their committee, this Society do now relinquish any claim to the appointment to the office of Theological Professor, or to the direction of that department; and recommend the Association, to place the appointment in the hands of the Missionary Society, with the clear understanding, however, that no part of the proper missionary funds, shall ever be employed for the maintenance of the Theological department.

2. Resolved, That this society regard with peculiar interest, the success which has thus far attended their exertions, for the instruction of the rising ministry, and in the deep conviction that the character of the times loudly calls for mental improvement, and extended information in religious teachers, they desire earnestly and affectionately, to beg their younger brethren, who are proposing to themselves the sacred office, or who have but recently commenced it, so to regulate their arrangements, as to devote if possible, some portion of time to attendance on the Theological school now commenced at Horton.

3. Resolved, That as it is hoped the English Baptist Missionary Society, may judge it proper to continue for a longer period their aid, in the maintenance of the Theological Professorship, the friends of the measure in this Province, are earnestly requested to continue, on their part, to fulfil the condition required, by providing annually, one half of the sum requisite for this department, that is to say, the sum of £125 Currency.

4. Resolved, That as regularity in the financial concerns of this society, is exceedingly necessary to the general prosperity of all the objects of the Baptist community in this Province, this society judge it highly important that a suitable individual should be found, to superintend the collection and general management of the funds; and, as the most advantageous way of effecting this, would suggest the adoption of the plan of employing the same individual as financial, and general agent, for the several objects before the Association and this society, which require the labours of such an officer.

5. Resolved, That as one of the most effectual methods of improving the character of the institutions at Horton, is to enlarge the field of their labour; this society would earnestly call on all persons, who are friendly to their objects, to consider the importance of aiding them, by an increase in the number of pupils, pursuing the studies of the several departments.

6. Resolved, That this Society are deeply interested in hearing of the progress made by their brethren in Canada, in promoting ministerial education, and rejoice to take the occasion of the presence of their respected friend the Rev. Mr. Cramp, President of the Baptist College in Montreal, to express the deep sympathy they feel in the efforts of their Canadian brethren, and the high gratification which they have enjoyed, in commencing an acquaintance with them, through their valued representative.

7. Resolved, That the officers of the society be continued, and that Prof. I. Chipman, be appointed a member of the Executive committee, in the room of W. A. Chipman, Esq. deceased.

The meeting was rendered peculiarly interesting by the presence of the Rev. J. M. Cramp, President of the Baptist Theological College at Montreal, who delivered an exceedingly interesting address on the subject of the resolution for placing the Theological Professorship at Horton under the superintendance of the Missionary Society, and also in reference to the general interests and progress of Education among the Baptists of this province. Mr. Cramp said he was much delighted with the whole proceedings, which were precisely such as he and every English Baptist could approve. His own sentiments were well known;—as an English Baptist, he was decidedly opposed to every connection between church and state under all the forms and disguises which it had ever assumed; and from papers which had fallen into his hands in Montreal, he had been led to fear that all was not right on this score with us Baptists in Nova Scotia, but that in some way we were subjecting religion to state patronage, and state control, by allowing our Theological Professorship to be sustained by a portion of a public grant. He was most happy to find that it was not so, and that his fears were proved to be without foundation. He had carefully investigated the matter. He had sought information from the most correct sources respecting our Institutions, and that which he had received was of the most satisfactory nature. He was, however, highly satisfied with the course now taken, as it set the matter at rest before the world. He had enjoyed the pleasure, he said, of visiting the premises, and of forming an acquaint-tance with the Professors. He congratulated us upon the success of our efforts in the cause of education. Our professors were well qualified for their responsible situation, and he was pleased with their method of instruction. The examination of the students and scholars, which it was his happiness to attend, had done honour to the institution, to the teachers, and to the students. The passing of these resolutions showed the unanimous determination of the body. He was most happy to find that our views and feelings in this important matter, most fully corresponded with his own, and that of the Baptists in England. He said we were as determined as they to keep clear of connecting our Theological institutions with the state. And now he would urge upon us the importance of sustaining these institutions in general, and the Theological chair in particular. But most especially should the people take advantage of them by sending their sons thither for instruction. He hoped there was not a Baptist in Nova Scotia who had a son, and means to educate him, but would send him to Horton. No language could fully describe the importance of mental culture. He would say to every parent, if you wish well to your children, spare no pains nor expense to instruct them. You cannot adequately conceive how much their future welfare and usefulness depend upon a good education. Only give them an education and they will make their way thro' the world—and, tho' he was a stranger to the present assembly, and consequently could not tell for certain whom he was addressing—yet he doubted not he was speaking to some who were looking forward to the christian ministry, as well as to others who had already entered upon it. To such he would address himself with great earnestness. They might depend upon it, in order to discharge in a proper manner the duties of the gospel ministry, they would need information. Let them not think of being preachers without much study, and prayer, and pains. "Let no surmountable obstacle," said he, "prevent you from taking advantage of the blessing with which the Great Head of the church has favoured you, in giving you at Horton so favourable an opportunity of receiving the very instruction which is indispensable to your success. Lay every thing else aside, and go and sit down patiently and resolutely in that institution, and there study theology—that is—study the Bible! Remember, the Theology you are to learn, is the Theology of the Bible alone. I have been delighted with that division of Bible Theology into doctrinal, experimental, and practical, which I have heard from the lips of Father Manning, and others, several times since I came to this Association, and to observe the cordial approbation with which it was received by the audience. I have been accustomed to this division in England. This is just what the student of Divinity wants. The eternal truths of Divine Revelation, unfolded to his understanding, and treasured up in all their clearness extent and glory, in his mind; exercising their mighty control over his conscience and affections; and acted out in his life. This, this, is Bible Theology. This is what the minister of Jesus Christ must possess, or he is unfit for his office." He said he would impress this important fact upon the hearts of all, that the main, the only business of the minister of Jesus Christ is, to teach the Bible, by precept and example. He must learn eternal truth from that blessed Book—he must expound and enforce that truth, in all its extent and variety; and then in his own conduct, his daily walk and conversation, he must show to all around him, what the religion of Jesus is. But, he said, there was also the greatest necessity to educate the ministry, to enable them successfully to oppose infidelity and error. Without learning we should not have had the English Bible. Wycliff, one of the first English Reformers, and Tindal, the martyr, who translated the New Testament, were men of deep learning. They consecrated their learning to God, and the Reformation followed. The works of the English Puritans and Nonconformists also, were the productions of the most extensive learning, and are left for the edification of the church in this the nineteenth century. He closed with observing that he trusted our churches at their monthly concerts for prayer, would not fail to pray to God for the rising ministry. The Rev. E. Manning, T. S. Harding, Joseph Dimock and Harris Harding and others, also spoke on the subject before the Society, warmly recommending the continued and zealous co-operation of all s friends in support of its momentous objects.
