

THE THINGS OF GOD.

BY ELIZABETH C. DONOVAN. Hearken to the King of kings... He will fight the whole.

WHILSOME.

BY LILLIAN. Whilsome stood in the doorway shading her eyes with her hands... Her cheeks flushed, and her eyes were very bright.

"Yes—yes—I would," was the answer, in a dolorous voice. "You are sad, today, Whilsome, I am sorry."

Mrs. Raymond knew the little romance of her life, and often tried to comfort her, and endeavored to make her forget her ideal.

A dying man was brought in weather beaten, and looking every way as if the world had dealt hardly with him.

His glazing eyes lighted a moment with a wild look of recognition, he gazed tenderly upon her, he made a last effort to fold her to his heart, there was a convulsive gasping—a husky murmuring.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

Why does a rooster always have his feathers smooth? Because he always carries his comb with him.

"I was ever thus, from childhood's hour we've seen our fondest hopes decay—The fire went out, the latter's soul—We can't have, what we want today."

A bachelor house-keeper, on giving his cook a gentle hint about what he thought her extravagance, was told: "You certainly have no cause to complain, for we never have anything very nice in the kitchen but what we send you up some of it."

The latest yarn about fast time is to the effect that on a certain American railroad a young man put his head out of a car window and sent about his neck a white handkerchief.

A schoolboy being requested to write a composition upon the subject of pineapples, he wrote the following: "Pine is very useful. They have saved the lives of a great many men, women and children—in fact whole families."

We have a call-bell on our private office. It is used to call one of our boys with. At least that is the popular legend connected with the article. When we want one of our boys to ring the bell, and then go out into the back office, he has to knock and tell him to ring the bell. It always pleases him to learn that he is being rung.

In the harbor of San Francisco a wave struck a fishing boat and overboard went two disciples of St. Vincent. Some parties went to their assistance, and rescued the half-drowned pair. On being questioned how the accident occurred, they replied: "We didn't capsize; we only went down to see how the darn fish would bite."

When I kiss thee on thy lips, 'Tis my own love that averts; For between those sweet rose-lips Lies the doorway of thy heart.

A highwayman named Boland, confined in Newgate, sent for a doctor to know how he could get out of the gaol, and was answered: "By getting a doctor to make affidavit of his illness. This was accordingly done in the following manner: The doctor was obliged to take his trial at the ensuing sessions, he will be acquitted because of his illness."

The young man peeped in, peeped in, while she was changing her teeth. While she thought of his brilliant dollars of the daddy she would be content. The old man peeped in, peeped in, while she thought of his brilliant dollars.

Spain claims the discovery of incombutible. A number of experiments have been made with the process, and the results are said to have been very satisfactory. The paper will not burn, and the intensity of the heat applied. A single sheet submitted to the direct action of a flame will carbonize, and the writing or printing being perfectly legible. Papers already written or printed upon may undergo the process without injury.

It is dangerous to strike a match in any place where there are inflammable materials and consequent danger of setting things on fire. A perfectly safe light, however, may be easily procured. Take an oblong piece of phosphorus about the size of a pea. Four small matches are placed in the hollow point, about the phosphorus, in the phial, and the phial is corked tightly. To use, allow the air to enter the phial, and then recork it. The empty phial will be found to be a perfectly safe light.

Months changed into years, the brightly blooming cheeks had faded, the soft golden hair had darkened, the light elastic step had grown heavier, but she believed in him still, and none other could take the place of Erick, during these long years.
