ANOTHER YOUNG MAN IN JAIL; CHARGE OF CRIMINAL ASSAULT.

William Hanlon Accused of Committing Rape on Ten Year Old Annie Baker, and of Having Twice Assaulted Her Mother.

The community will be startled on learning that another rape case has been brought to light, and a young man is under arrest on suspicion of having criminally assaulted little Annie Baker, aged 10 years.

The young man under arrest is William Hanlon, a barber, employed in the Pierce barber shop on Dock street, and he was greatly surprised shortly after noon when Acting Deputy Chief Thomas Caples and Detective Killen walked into the shop and placed him under arrest.

There are three separate charges against him on the police book. They read: "Arrested on suspicion of committing rape on Annie Baker, aged 10 years, in a vacant lot on corner of Germain and Princess streets, on the 9th inst. Also charged by Margaret Baker (the child's mother) with assaulting her in a yard off Charlotte street on the 10th inst., also assaulting her in her house on Britain street on the night of the 10th inst."

According to Mrs. Baker she and little Annie went out for a walk on the night of the 9th inst. She was walking behind and the little girl ahead of her. She claims that Hanlon got the little girl and walked down King street and disappeared. Mrs. Baker says she went home and waited up all night but the child Annie did not come home. About four o'clock the next morning she went looking for her little daughter, and meeting Hanlon on Charlotte street asked if he had seen the girl about. Hanlon, she claims, asked her to step into an alley and there assaulted her. When she returned home her little daughter was there and told her that after she went down King street and into the lot opposite the Clifton House and raped her. She said she stayed out all night.

The mother also says that on the night of the 10th Hanlon came to the house on Britain street and once more assaulted her. Hanlon is a well known young man and claims that he has nothing to do with the little girl, and that it was Mrs. Baker's invitation that he went to her house on Britain street.

WOMAN LEADER OF RIOT IS SENT TO PRISON.

Amazon of Twenty-Five Worked on Mob's Feelings and Incited Rebellion.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Elizabeth Rolph, a young woman 25 years of age, who has just been sentenced at Hamburg to three years imprisonment for revolutionary activity, is a political activist with a remarkable record. She was a maid-of-all-work with a wage of $5 per month, and her days were devoted to scrubbing floors, cleaning windows and doing the work of the household generally. At the beginning of the year a proposal was made to alter the suffrage laws of Hamburg in such a way that thousands of electors belonging to the poorer classes would be disfranchised, and a meeting of citizens was held to protest. The meeting was attended by nearly 5000 working men. A considerable difference of opinion as to the policy to be pursued had just been made clear when a female figure was seen advancing from the entrance through the crowd of workmen toward the platform. The attention of the entire audience was drawn to this surprising invasion, and dead silence prevailed. During the meeting Rolph mounted the platform and produced such an effect on those present that a committee was appointed to organize open rebellion, and she was elected president. The outbreak took place on January 17, and proved to be a most formidable revolt. Elizabeth Rolph was the soul of the whole movement. She led the mob in an attack on the wealthy quarter of the town, where dozens of shops were entered and plundered, booty to the value of many hundreds of pounds sterling being seized and carried off by the rioters. Severe street fighting took place before the combined forces of troops and police were able to subdue the revolutionary mob. Elizabeth Rolph was wounded and captured.

HORSES REST OF DAY.

LONDON, August 20.—The Westminster City Council has decided that no horse belonging to it is to be worked more than six days a week, and the gross weight of horses loaded must not exceed three tons.

MOVING A VILLAGE.

VIENNA, Aug. 20.—A Bohemian coal-mining company has bought up a village named Sobrusan, near Dox, which stood on a valuable surface coal deposit, and moved all the sixty-five houses of which it was composed to a new situation half a mile away.

ROYAL ARCANUM COUNCIL IN SESSION.

Serious Falling Off in Membership Reported.

This Is Said to Be Due to the Increase in Rates—Prominent Members Gave Addresses.

The grand council of the Royal Arcanum for the maritime provinces, held its first session in Foresters' hall at ten o'clock this morning. Grand Regent F. L. Blair, presided. Speeches were made by A. C. Trip, past supreme regent; A. D. McQuinn, supreme representative and organizer of the maritime provinces; and Wilson Taylor, deputy supreme regent for the State of Maryland.

Mr. Trip's address was listened to with marked attention. He spoke of the fraternity of the order. It was to be understood that the Royal Arcanum was for fraternity as much as for protection. Mr. Trip also spoke in defence of the supreme council in regard to the increase in rates this year.

Mr. McQuinn spoke along the same lines, dwelling for some time on the question of fraternity. Mr. Taylor said that he was present by the request of the supreme regent. If New Brunswick was to be better organized, all he asked for was the aid of the members of the Royal Arcanum in the maritime provinces. Unfortunately a decrease in the membership had taken place. This is accounted for by the radical changes in the rates. On July 31st, 1905, the membership only numbered 947, a decrease of twelve per cent.

The following representatives are attending the council: Frank Wetmore, J. C. Ferguson, J. W. Wall, F. R. Freestone, L. V. Bourque, Moncton; H. C. Carter, Amherst; Wm. Crowe, Halifax; J. C. Chapman, Bonaventure; W. W. Folkins, Sussex; John P. Chipman, Kentville; Donald Munroe, Woodstock; J. C. Ferguson, Campbellton; Hiram Goudy, Yarmouth; C. T. Bent, New Glasgow; George H. McAndrews, St. Stephen.

The officers and committees are as follows: 2—Royal Arcanum, Grand Regent—F. L. Blair, Grand Vice-Regent—J. A. McQueen, Grand Secretary—J. A. McQueen, Grand Treasurer—C. W. Burnyeat, Grand Chaplain—J. D. McKay, Grand Guide—G. Ackman, Grand Warden—Donald Munroe, Grand Sentinel—Hiram Goudy, Finance Committee—J. F. Faulkner, S. J. Huston, W. C. Greenfield, New Brunswick, W. S. Lockton, C. T. Bent, G. H. McAndrews.

Distribution of Reports—J. A. Black, T. H. Belyea, Hiram Goudy, J. C. Chapman, J. C. Ferguson, J. W. Wall, W. H. Cochran, A. Chapman, Laws—E. A. Charters, T. S. Rogers, C. A. McCallan, Mileage and Per Diem—G. D. Strong, Seth Bulmer, D. Munroe.

This morning's session adjourned at one o'clock to meet again at two.

DISTRICT MEETING.

Financial Matters Discussed Today by Methodist Delegates.

The financial district meeting of the Methodist church was opened this morning at 8.30 o'clock, the chairman, Rev. Thos. Marshall, presiding. Those present were Revs. Samuel Howard, T. J. Deinstadt, J. J. Pinkerton, W. H. Spargo, G. A. Ross, J. A. Rogers, J. A. Clarke, H. Penna, J. Crisp, J. S. Crisp, Neil McLaughlin and G. R. Willet, Westfield; Orrin Hargis, Sussex; J. B. Tait, E. M. Robertson and Alfonso Theal.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. W. H. Spargo and G. R. Willet, after which the list of delegates from the different districts was read and the roll called.

The question of the apportionment and income of the different parishes then came up. This was continued during the forenoon and will also be discussed this afternoon. This evening an open air service will be held, after which an evangelistic service will be conducted in the church. Tomorrow morning and afternoon will be set aside for the reading of papers and a round table talk. The evening will be spent in another out-door service, followed by the sacrament of the Lord's supper in the church.

SAW FREDERICTON AND DROPPED DEAD

The Tragedy of a Moose, a Sort of Skin Game.

Stallion Romies Bought by David Richards—A. W. Edgcombe Carried $40,000 Insurance.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Aug. 21.—While the residents of the upper end of Charlotte street were partaking of breakfast this morning they received a surprise at the sight of a large bull some running up the street. The animal afterwards ran to the woods back of the town and in the vicinity of Aid. Kelly's barn dropped dead. It is not known what caused the death. Game Warden Hawthorne took charge of the remains and afterwards had the body skinned.

John Johnson has sold his well known Henderson stallion, known as "A. W. Richards," of Campbellton, for $500. In the betting on the races which take place this afternoon in the 2.20 class, Beirly Chimes is a decided favorite, obtaining even money against the field with Edna Mack for second place. In the colt race General is the favorite, while in the 2.28 Burdine and Fleetfoot are the favorites.

The Church of England picnic which left here this morning was attended by a great crowd, the boat Aberdeen being filled to its capacity. It is understood that the late A. W. Edgcombe carried $40,000 insurance of which amount he placed $10,000 on a short time before his death.

ANOTHER EARTHQUAKE FELT AT VALPARAISO.

Criminals Who Escaped From Prison are Committing Many Offences.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 21.—There was another heavy earthquake shock at Valparaiso last night. According to the latest reports received here from the scene of the earthquake the town of Quillota, situated about twenty-six miles from Valparaiso and having a population of some 10,000 souls, has been completely destroyed.

At Lima this morning there was a slight shock and Huacho was shaken by an earthquake yesterday.

THE BUREAU OF AGENCIES, Aug. 21.—The Bureau today published a sensational despatch today from Lapaz, Bolivia, announcing that 2000 persons lost their lives as a result of the earthquake shocks and fires at Valparaiso, that 170 deaths from the same cause occurred at Lima, forty at Quillota, 25 at Conchali, 11 at Petaca, 9 at La Placilla, and 4 at La Calera.

On Sunday last, August 19, there was a strong convulsion at Valparaiso which produced a further panic. A despatch from Santiago today announces that the President of Chile, Señor Riesco, is proceeding to Valparaiso accompanied by his ministers of the interior and of war, in order to supervise the relief work.

Special telegrams from Santiago published here this morning announce the arrival there from Valparaiso of Charles Johnson Gana, a well known Chilean, after a terrible journey, accomplished partly on foot and partly on horse back. He confirms the reports of the fearful destruction and incalculable loss of life at Valparaiso.

The Chilean ministry of the interior reports that railroad from Tiltit to Batuco is working regularly but that the reports of the fearful destruction and incalculable loss of life at Valparaiso.

The authorities at Valparaiso are organizing distributing centres where food and medicine will be served out to the earthquake sufferers who are displaying great patriotism and courage. Large parties of convicts who escaped from the prisons have been committing robberies and other crimes at Valparaiso, Casablanca and Vina Del Mar, but the majority of them have been captured and summarily dealt with. Upwards of fifty have been publicly shot and are organizing a salutary effect of the convicts who are still at large.

It is reported that the Chile Government will introduce a bill in congress providing for the emission of $70,000,000 in paper notes. The project also proposes a new national loan to enable the Government to meet all emergencies.

At 2.30 a. m. yesterday there were three convulsions, at short intervals at Santiago, but they did no damage. Official and private correspondence arrived here yesterday from Valparaiso and other points north and south of that city.

ACCOMMODATING SHOPKEEPER.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The proprietor of an optician's shop in London, to whom whose window was broken yesterday, and a pair of gold-rimmed eyeglasses stolen last night, has posted the following notice: "If the gentleman who borrowed a pair of eyeglasses today finds they do not suit, and will not, the proprietor will be delighted to test his sight, and alter them free of charge."

BRITISH OFFICERS PUNISHED FOR LOSS OF H.M.S. MONTAGU.

Those in Authority Were Degraded, but Much Sympathy is Felt for Them—Criticism of the Naval Policy.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 21.—The court martial which tried Captain Thomas B. S. Adair and Lieut. James H. Dathan respectively the command and navigating officer of the British battleship Montagu, which went ashore off Shutter Point, Lundy Island, May 30th, has severely reprimanded Capt. Adair and dismissed him from his ship and has severely reprimanded Lieut. Dathan, dismissed him from his ship and deprived him of two years' seniority.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The verdict in the case of the loss of the battleship Montagu, is regarded as just and as having been inevitable by all the London morning newspapers, but great sympathy is extended to Captain Adair and Lieut. Dathan on account of the admittedly difficult circumstances of the case and they are considered to be the victims of ill fortune rather than of carelessness. Both were officers of excellent record, and the evidence showed that they were tired out by forty-eight hours, more or less of incessant duty.

Various suggestions are made as to the outcome of the disaster to the Montagu, the first being that the fog signal at Lundy appears to have inadequate range and into this a board of trade inquiry probably will be instituted. The second suggestion is that one navigating officer on a man-of-war is not sufficient. Capt. Adair's orders were to carry out important wireless experiments and the evidence showed that he was almost constantly engaged in the wireless. Some comment takes the shape of protest against the employment of first-class battleships in such dangerous proximity to dangerous coasts. While it is admitted that officers must obtain experience, it is contended that this might equally be obtained on board smaller vessels.

In some quarters it is suggested that the judgment is a concession to the public disappointment over the loss of the battleship, and the Standard complains that the government has taken the moment when the nation has been deprived of a first-class battleship to still further cut the naval programme.

DEATH HASTENED
BY FOREST FIRES.

Laughlan McDonald Died at His Home Last Night.

Fires Continue to Spread in Different Sections—Sent Up for Trial for Stealing from I. C. R.

(Special to the Star.)
MONTGOMERY, N. B., Aug. 21.—Amos McDougall, Alex. Sinclair and Wm. Russell, arrested at New Glasgow by Officer Dunn of Halifax for breaking into I. C. R. box cars and rifling a case of liquor, have been sent up for trial at the next session of the supreme court. Their case came up at New Glasgow yesterday.

Laughlan McDonald, whose illness was referred to in connection with the serious forest fires along the McLaughlin road, died last night. He had been ill for two or three months with stomach trouble, and while his death was not unexpected, it is believed that the heat and excitement yesterday hastened the end. The house in which he lay was threatened several times and saved only by strenuous efforts. Deceased was sixty-eight years of age. A widow and large family survive.

The fire which yesterday and last evening threatened the suburb of Sunny Bree with destruction is still burning today, but not with the same fierceness of yesterday, the blaze today being of the nature of a smoldering fire, and there seems to be no danger of any serious results. From other places come stories of bad forest fires, however, particularly in the vicinity of Petticoat. At Cornhill, a small village near Havelock, two houses are reported to be burned by forest fires, but no particulars can be ascertained. In other parts of the county, however, there seems to be no danger of any serious results. From other places come stories of bad forest fires, however, particularly in the vicinity of Petticoat. At Cornhill, a small village near Havelock, two houses are reported to be burned by forest fires, but no particulars can be ascertained.

In the case of William E. Earle vs. Stephen B. Bustin and Alice McKee, a foreclosure suit, A. A. Wilson moved to take the bill pro-confesso against the defendants for want of plea answer or defence. Order of ratification and amount assessed at $12.22.

In Bishop vs. Walsh, a foreclosure suit, H. H. Teed moved to take the bill pro-confesso against the defendant for want of an appearance. Order for ratification and amount assessed at $12.20.

In Davidson vs. Ferguson, Mr. Teed applied to have the bill amended by adding the personal representatives of one of the defendants now deceased. In Partington et al vs. Geo. S. Cushing, Mr. Barnhill moved that the bill against the defendant be dismissed the plaintiff having omitted to set down the case in the time required by the court. Messrs. Hazen, Teed and Curry contra. Affidavits were read on both sides and the matter adjourned until this afternoon.

DOG'S LESE MAJESTE.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 20.—An Englishman was found 34 yesterday because his dog barked at a public official of Parulla, in Bengal.

SWISS VILLAGE SHIBBLED.

GENEVA, Aug. 20.—The village of Cornomed, near Fribourg, has been accidentally shelled by artillery. Several sharpshooters passed over a hill, and fell in the village. Some walls and chimneys were wrecked but no one was killed.

OVERCOME BY GAS.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—Fourteen men were overcome by gas at the Eliza furnaces of the Jones & Laughlin's Steel Co. Scho. early today. They were removed to the emergency hospital where three died.

WOMEN FIGHT AGAINST MEN'S WAR ON DRESS.

Resist Municipal Law Which Imposes Fine and Imprisonment for Wearing Trains

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The women of the little town of Nordhausen have risen in revolt against the order of the municipal authorities forbidding them, for sanitary reasons, to wear dresses with trains.

All dresses which touch the ground come within the definition of "trains," and the police have received orders strictly to enforce the new decree. A fine of $2 is the penalty for the first offence, $2.50 for the second, and a day's imprisonment for the third.

The women who are resisting the law have scored one point by obtaining the opinion of eminent legal authorities to the effect that the town council has partially exceeded its rights in issuing this draconic decree. It appears that the council has a right to prevent them from wearing dresses which would touch the ground if not carried in the hand.

The council then replied that women can wear skirts varying in length if they like, but they must hold them up. One inch of skirt trailing on the ground makes the wearer liable to arrest and punishment.

A league of resistance has been formed, and the members have pledged themselves to wear long skirts and to defy the authorities. They declare that they will pay the necessary fines and even go to prison rather than sacrifice their right of arraying themselves in the most becoming costume.

SIXTEEN MUTINEERS WERE EXECUTED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 20.—Four members of parliament were arrested today, one of them in the province of Kiev and a second in the province of Taurida, and two others at Orloff.

Thirty-seven naval officials at Cronstadt have resigned owing to their indignation at what they characterize as the lenient sentences imposed on the mutineers by the court martial in session there.

Cronstadt, Aug. 20.—Sixteen men condemned for participation in the mutiny here on August 1st, were executed at daybreak this morning. Among the number were two students named Ivanoff and Makians and Dr. Gussaroff an army surgeon.

Coroner Berryman is still making inquiries into the supposed suicide of Mrs. May Stillwell. He has not yet decided whether an inquest will be held.

UNITED STATES ARE ANXIOUS TO SETTLE QUESTIONS SOON.
International Boundary Disputes May all be Dealt With at One Time
Except That of the St. John River—Reports Will be Made Early Next Year When Countries Will Take Action

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 20.—The United States authorities apparently want to settle all international boundary questions at one time, except that of the St. John River. The waterway commissions of the two countries agreed unanimously as to what should be done at Sault Ste. Marie.

The United States secretary for war endorsed the finding. The United States secretary of state, however, has recommended that the settlement of the Sault Ste. Marie question should not be agreed to and a treaty adopted until the other questions before the commission should have been reported upon by the commissioners.

The list of questions before the commission for report includes the control of water at Sault Ste. Marie and the protection of Niagara Falls, the advisability of adopting uniform marine signals, the question of controlling works to regulate the outlet of Lake Erie and the effect of such works on the St. Lawrence levels, of increasing the flow through the Chicago drainage canal, buoying international water boundaries, suppressing illegal fishing on the great lakes, location and construction of commercial channels, the diversion southward by the Minnesota Canal and Power Co. of streams in Minnesota new flowing into Canada, through the Rainy River and Lake of the Woods.

The commission has reported upon some of these questions and expects to be able to report on all of them early next year. The two countries will then be in a position to settle the remaining questions permanent effect in the form of treaties if they desire.

The questions are large ones, affecting rich interests, and it would be surprising to see them settled without the aid of the United States and some wealthy and influential quarters.

CONSOLIDATION OF LINES.

Mackenzie & Mann Welding Various Sections Into One System.

There is no longer a Great Northern Railway in the province of Quebec. The name of the line has been changed to the Canadian Northern Quebec Railway. Other Mackenzie and Mann interests, such as the Chateaugay and Northern and Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia Railways, have also taken the name of the Canadian Northern Quebec Railway.

In the province of Ontario, the James Bay Railway has had its name changed to that of the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway.

These changes will be popular with the shipping and travelling public generally, who have not the time or the disposition to keep track of the names of a large number of roads of somewhat limited extent, but who readily grasp the fact that the changes also indicate the progress of the consolidation of the Mackenzie and Mann interests into one system, a continental line to be known from one end of Canada to the other as the Canadian Northern—Montreal Star.

AGED WOMAN

BEATS BURGLARS.

BROCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 20.—A burglary case in the courts here develops that Mrs. Mary Dean, 104 years old, is probably the most active and independent centenarian in the world.

Testimony showed that when three men entered her home in an attempt to rob her of a "stocking full of gold," she threw a lighted lamp at them, then rushed to the home of a neighbor and summoned aid. When Mrs. Dean returned the men had fled, but the drawers from a desk had been overhauled and the bed torn to pieces. One of the men was arrested, and the person who told the story that Mrs. Dean had money in the house is also awaiting trial.

WIVES AND DAUGHTERS WORK IN THE FIELDS

Niagara District loses Many Men by Harvesters' Excursion—Milk Source
in St. L. U.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 20.—The scarcity of farm laborers is being more than ever felt this year in the Niagara District. So many of the young men have gone to the West every year on the harvesters' excursions and then taken up land and stayed there that it leaves the farms here but ill-manned. In some cases in order to get in the wheat it has been necessary for the wives and daughters of farmers to go out into the fields and work. About fifty left here Tuesday on the harvesters' excursion to the West, which indicates to some extent the number who go West from here each year.

There is a danger of a milk famine here, and it is entirely due to the scarcity of pasture. The hot sunshine of the past couple of months has dried up the pasture lands to an astonishing extent, until there is scarcely any grass left. As a result the cows give so little milk that the farmers who sell milk cannot get enough to supply their customers. "I only knew of the pasture to be so poor at this season of the year once before in my experience," said an old milkman today. "There is really nothing for the cows to eat. My customers are calling for milk and I can't supply it, and it is the same way with the other milk dealers."

SHOWMEN WRITE HERE

And Tell Manager Milligan What the Animals Will do at the Exhibition.

Details of the animal shows for the Exhibition are now complete. Manager C. J. Milligan and F. G. Spencer, the animal showmen, have received definite word from the different showmen just what will be put on for the entertainment of the visiting thousands. In a few words the programme in the Hippodrome will consist of:

Montague's world-renowned elephants—A herd of seven—in a bowling match, keeping their own score on a blackboard; to Mr. C. SMITH, 16 Waterloo street, in the evenings.

Wormwood's monkey theatre and animal circus consisting of twenty blinding, squeaking monkeys, twenty dogs, two bears, two lizards and one lion. Forty-five animals in all, a badly mixed up but extremely clever family. These tiny creatures will play at automobiling, "house," do incredible stunts, and perform other special character, keeping the spectators in roars of laughter.

Montague's Cockatoo Circus, or flock of feathered wonders, comes direct from Atlantic City, the great variety show. These birds, held in the Hippodrome, parallel and single bar horizons; will go through feats of balancing, roll on balls and walk high up black wires. Their grand spectacular feature is "Fighting the Flames," a regular fire brigade act.

Besides these there will be Dida, the animal created out of nothing, one of the greatest drawing cards in years at the American beaches; the Marconi telegraph in free working order; the great Siege of Gibraltar fireworks; the Boston Ladies Band; the San Francisco disaster in moving pictures; and numerous other special attractions.

All this besides the greatest agricultural, mechanical, industrial, manufacturing and natural historical show that Lower Canada has ever seen. From Sept. 1st to 8th.

UNDER SOUTHERN SKIES.

"Under Southern Skies" which will be seen here for the first time on Aug. 23, 24 and 25, at the Opera House, is from all that can be learned about it, one of the best of the season, and should not be missed by anyone who enjoys a first-class play presented in a first-class manner. The plot of "Under Southern Skies" is a very interesting one and it is told by the author with so many amusing and entertaining touches that the play never flags or loses its interest. A Halloween party with a pumpkin dance is something new to the stage, and is one of the great attractions of the stage. The costumes are very pretty and attractive, following the fashions of the period, and many beautiful gowns are worn. As there are eleven ladies in the cast, there is a variety of feminine beauty that is very pleasing, especially to the ladies in the audience. "Under Southern Skies" is a play of such marked success and possesses so much refined entertainment and beauty that none of our theatre-goers can afford to miss it.—Adv't.

NO DIFFERENCE.

No distinction is made as to the kind of Piles that Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid cures.

The names Internal, External, Bleeding, Blind, Itching, Suppurating, etc., are simply names of the different stages through which every case will pass if it continues long enough.

Piles are caused by congestion or stagnation of blood in the lower bowels and it takes an internal remedy to remove the cause.

Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally.

It is a permanent cure and no case of Piles has ever been found it failed to cure. Money back if it does.

A guarantee with every package. Price $1.00 at any druggist's, or the Wilson-Pyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

THE CARNIVAL

The carnival held in St. Andrew's Hall last evening was a big success. The floor was not overcrowded, and a good chance was given the clowns and fun-makers to perform their feats. A very large number of spectators were there and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

The judges of the carnival were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Pullen, Mr. and Mrs. Beman McLELLAN, W. A. Lockhart and Al Stevens.

The winners of the different prizes were as follows:

1. Combination ladies' and gentlemen's prize, $10, awarded to Fred Keator as Sunflower and Miss Case as Goldenrod.

2. Lady's fancy costume, $5, awarded to Miss Daley as an Indian Princess.

3. Lady's comedy costume, $5, awarded to Miss McLaughlin as the City Market.

4. Gentleman's fancy dress costume, $5, awarded to D. J. Stratton as Highlander.

5. Gentleman's comedy costume, $5, awarded to A. A. Irvin as Rubie.

6. Prize for the most artistic and graceful skater awarded to Miss Black. The costume of Miss Daley, who appeared as the Indian Princess, was probably the most artistic at the carnival, and she was well deserving of the prize.

The mirth-makers, A. A. Irvin, as "Rubie," took the cake. He kept the spectators in a continuous uproar and they provided much amusement.

Two Volunteer Organists were present and they provided much amusement.

Among the juvenile skaters Wm. Chauker, had the prettiest costume. He represented "Champion," and his dress was historically correct in every detail.

The gate receipts showed that about 700 spectators were present.

DOCTOR CALLED LATE.

Christian Science Case Under Investigation.

PETERBORO, Aug. 20.—A coroner's inquest is in progress here into the death of Arthur N. Randlett, traveller for the J. C. Ayer Company, Lowell, Mass. He has been living with R. J. Todd, reader for the Christian Scientists, Randlett died yesterday from typhoid fever. The inquest brought out the fact that Dr. Boucher was called in by Mr. Todd an hour before Randlett's death. The patient had been ill since July 18th, when his illness came, and one hour before death without medical aid.

Dr. Gray, coroner, spoke of Christian Scientists as "persons walking on the boundary of insanity, and toppling on the inside." Some interesting discussions on the merits of the science took place between Mr. Todd and some of the jury. The former declared that his method accorded with the teachings of the Bible. He declared his intention to continue in the course he had taken in spite of the result of the inquest.

VOLUNTEER ORGANIST.

A very large audience welcomed the Volunteer Organist at the Opera House last evening, and all were delighted with the show, which while not by any means a new play is one that is always warmly welcomed to this city. It is good from beginning to end.

The company has apparently not a weak member in it and it is an exceptionally strong. One of the most touching scenes in the play is the church scene, where the Volunteer Organist playing and the two little boys boys singing.

The play is full of numerous funny sketches, the part of the leading comedian being taken by William Hillman, as Alex Uter, who time after time was the recipient of hearty applause.

DEAD LOSS.

The larger portion of New Brunswick's forest wealth goes up in smoke.
The waste from various causes is considerably greater than the value of the manufactured timber, and yet this state of affairs is allowed to continue without any practical interest being shown in attempts to alter existing conditions. This is only one indication of the fact that the highly civilized people of today still exhibit traces of barbarism. It would naturally be expected of those who dwell on this earth a few thousand years ago that they would have no thought for the future, but would seize and extravagantly waste whatever came to their hands. In these enlightened days such a course is hardly warranted, yet the same policy exists, and governments as a rule are so short sighted that they prefer making use of what they have, rather than looking to the future.

One day a friend said: "How are you getting along with the thing?"
"O, I'm making progress," was the modest reply of the southwester.
"Ding pretty well, eh?"
"Yes," resumed the Congressman
gravely, "I can quit now without stopping, and soon I expect to be able to raise my hat."

HIGHER TEMPERATURE?

This is from Sir Archibald Geikie's reminders: A country doctor, who was attending a laird, had instructed the butler of the house in the art of taking and recording his master's temperature with a thermometer. On reporting to the house one morning he was met by the butler, to whom he said, "Well, John, I hope the laird's temperature is not any higher today."

The man looked puzzled for a moment and then replied:
"Well, I was just wonderin' that myself. I see he died at twa' o'clock."

EXPLANATIONS WANTED.

OBVIOUS.

(From the Cleveland Leader.)
"You're laughing at me!"
"I'm not."
"You are."
"What makes you think so?"
"I don't see anything else to laugh at."

DIDN'T HAVE TO.

Dottle-Dick's an impudent thing,
isn't he?
Lottie—Oh, I don't know.
Dottle—He'd like to kiss you?
Lottie—Not very hard.

DISGRACE ON HER HEAD.

THE EXCITEMENT IS OVER.

The exposure of conditions in the houses of packing houses created in the world of commerce an upheaval which threatened to have most serious and lasting results. There were evidences of great loss of business and for a time strong feeling existed against the packers. But in this busy world even such an event cannot be held long in memory. The great public is after all,
as easily pacified as a little child, and when the first burst of anger is subsided, the wonted calm soon returns.

Thus, although there were vehement
denunciations of President Roosevelt,
the prime mover in the investigation,
heated declarations that he had brought about irreparable injury to the commerce of the United States, the result has not been as bad as might have been expected from the prophecies of the packers. For a time contracts for meat were cancelled on all sides, sales fell off, and there was much excitement. But gradually a certain improvement in trade was noticeable and now in less than six months after the Reynolds' report was submitted, the announcement is made that the output of preserved meats from Chicago and the other western packing towns, is greater than ever. Confidence has been restored, not through any revolution in the methods of preparing meats, though
of course there is a certain improvement there, but rather through lapse of time, and forgetfulness. The packers have lost a little business, but after all they have learned their lesson cheaply.

SUMMER RAIN.

Dancin' on the hilltop,
Patterin' on the plain,
What a breezy blessing
In the fall of summer rain.

How the cornbrides rustle!
All the famished crops
Listen for its coming—Drink the beady drops.

And the rose in the garden—
They all take heart again,
And the wild flowers all seem thankful With a silver rim o' rain!
—Atlanta Constitution.

CONSIDERATE.

Mrs. Ascum—What sort of a girl is your new servant?
Mrs. Hiram Offen—Well, she's exceedingly good-natured and tender-hearted.

Mrs. Ascum—Indeed!
Mrs. Hiram Offen—Yes; while I was doing her work today she told me not to work so hard.

SYSTEMATIC CHARITY.

Clerk at poor relief office to applicant—Are you applying for relief?
Applicant (in rags and looking famished)—Yes.

"Where do you live?"
Applicant gives an address.
"Well, we will inquire into your case and the result will be made known to you as soon as possible. By the way, are you on the telephone?"

GETTING PROFICIENT.

There is a member of Congress from the southwest who had a trying experience in learning to run the big motor car he purchased last winter.
One day a friend said: "How are
you getting along with the thing?"
"O, I'm making progress," was the
modest reply of the southwester.

"Ding pretty well, eh?"
"Yes," resumed the Congressman
gravely, "I can quit now without stopping, and soon I expect to be able to raise my hat."

(From the Cleveland Leader.)
"You're laughing at me!"
"I'm not."
"You are."
"What makes you think so?"
at."

DIDN'T HAVE TO.

Dottle-Dick's an impudent thing,
isn't he?
Lottie—Oh, I don't know.
Dottle—He'd like to kiss you?
Lottie—Not very hard.

DISGRACE ON HER HEAD.

THE EXCITEMENT IS OVER.

The exposure of conditions in the houses of packing houses created in the world of commerce an upheaval which threatened to have most serious and lasting results. There were evidences
of great loss of business and for a time
strong feeling existed against the packers. But in this busy world even such an event cannot be held long in memory. The great public is after all,
as easily pacified as a little child, and
when the first burst of anger is subsided, the wonted calm soon returns.

Thus, although there were vehement
denunciations of President Roosevelt,
the prime mover in the investigation,
heated declarations that he had brought about irreparable injury to the commerce of the United States, the result has not been as bad as might have been expected from the prophecies of the packers. For a time contracts for meat were cancelled on all sides, sales
fell off, and there was much excitement. But gradually a certain improvement in trade was noticeable and now in less than six months after the Reynolds' report was submitted, the announcement is made that the output
of preserved meats from Chicago and the other western packing towns, is greater than ever. Confidence has been restored, not through any revolution in the methods of preparing meats, though
of course there is a certain improvement there, but rather through lapse
of time, and forgetfulness. The packers have lost a little business, but after all they have learned their lesson
cheaply.

FIRES IN MAINE.

Forest Conflagrations Increasing in Size and Number

Fires Along the B. & A. Near Millinocket, at Norcross, at Juk Mary, and Other Places.

(Bangor Commercial.)

Reports continue to come in of the steady increase in size and number of forest fires in Maine. Crews of men are being sent out in every direction by lumberland owners, some to fight the fires and others to maintain a constant vigil over the land owned by the men who send them out to check any fire which may start before it has gathered headway enough to be dangerous. The fires are confined to no one section of the state. They are scattered widely over the northern, eastern, and central portions. As yet no one fire is reported as having done much damage but several are large enough to be considered very dangerous.

Last week several fires were reported. One was in East Millinocket. A fire in the vicinity of the Pleasant river is thought to be under control. It is known as the farm town around the head of Chesuncook lake. John Appleton of Bangor has had a crew of men patrolling all along the river from Chesuncook to Northeast Carry but somehow this fire got a start before it was discovered. Root Sutherland and a crew of men who were in that vicinity went to fight the fire as soon as they received word of it. How this fire is now is not known since no word has been received from there since last week.

Monday a fire was reported on townships 3 and 4, the latter Lakeville plantation, on land owned by John Cassidy of Bangor and Mr. Eaton of St. Stephen, N. B. News of the fire was sent to Bangor by Charles Whittier of Passadumkeag. He has gone to the scene of the fire and a crew from Bagor's operation in that vicinity has gone to fight the fire. The fire is about 20 miles from Passadumkeag.

A despatch from Millinocket Monday states that fires have broken out all along the line of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad and have already caused much damage. The largest of these fires has been raging about three miles north of Millinocket and thus far the efforts of 100 men have been unavailing to stop the progress of the fire.

A stream separates the burning section from Millinocket village so no fears are entertained for the safety of the town.

Sunday night a gang of fire fighters was called out to fight a fire near the saw mill in East Millinocket. A fire is reported near Norcross and another said to be burning around Jo Mary lake. A fire is also reported burning the woods along the extension of the Somerset railroad north of Bingham.

A young man named James Burke, 18 years old, of New York, died of consumption on the steamer Calvin Austin on the way to Boston Sunday.
He had been on a vacation trip to Nova Scotia and was on his way home with his mother when his illness proved fatal.

The New Brunswick Press Association's semi-annual meeting will be held in afternoon, Sept. 6th, the hall in which the meeting will be held will be decided later. A meeting of the executive will be held in St. John on the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 6th. Several papers will be prepared by members for discussion.

FOREST FIRES SPREADING; SITUATION DESPERATE

Sunny Brae Near Moncton Had a Close Call Yesterday

--Fire Department of That City Fought the Flames

--Many Farms Along the North Shore Have Been Destroyed.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 20.—Only unending and strenuous efforts on the part of some two hundred men who, with buckets of water, brush and other implements, fought off the fire from the village of Sunny Brae, one of Moncton's largest suburbs, would have destroyed this afternoon by a forest fire which swept down to the borders. So close, in fact, did the fire come that the residents hung wet blankets and mats over their houses to prevent ignition from stray sparks. One barn did catch on fire, but the blaze was extinguished before very much damage was done.

It was about noon when the fire assumed a dangerous aspect in the Humphrey woods along the McLaughlin road. It had been burning more or less fiercely for the past few days, originating from some small brush fire which, it is presumed, had been carelessly allowed to spread. Shortly before noon, fanned by the fresh breeze, the blaze swept in the direction of Sunny Brae.

The latter is a village of some four or five hundred population, with a lumber mill near by and a large number of new houses going up, and the residents immediately became apprehensive for their safety.

Several prominent residents of the suburb at once summoned help from other nearby points and about five o'clock this afternoon the Moncton fire department was called out by the ringing of a general alarm and sent to aid in the combat against the flames. They were led by Fire Chief Ackman to whom a great deal of credit is due for the manner in which the fire was warded off. Two hundred men fought to keep the flames under control. Hose was stretched from a well a quarter of a mile distant from the fire, but on account of the shortness of the hose the firemen were unable to get near the flames. Every tank in the village was out and in vessels from all kinds of large water barrels down to milk cans water was carried. Finally the efforts began to tell and the flames gradually subsided, being put out within a few feet of one dwelling. Tonight the situation is greatly improved and the fire is not burning, although freshening wind may at any time fan it into renewed activity. Residents of the vicinity still feel somewhat uneasy.

The barn, which caught on fire, belonged to William McKinnon, and the damage was very slight.

Incipient blazes in other houses were also stamped out as soon as noticed. Fire also got into the rural cemetery but was quickly extinguished. Tonight a haze of smoke from the forest fires all over the surrounding district covers this city, while the burned particles float through the air borne in by wind from some large conflagration.

From Lakeville, some seven miles distant from Moncton, comes a report tonight of another very bad forest fire which is causing much apprehension among residents near by. One house is reported to be in a very dangerous position, directly in line with the fire, and two hundred men are out fighting the flames. This land is part of the Humphrey property, and the damage to timber will be very extensive.

Another fire is also raging in the woods south of Lakeville, but no houses are in danger.

At Salisbury a crowd of men were out all afternoon fighting fires which raged in the adjacent woods. At one time, Wright's mill was seriously threatened, but hard work by the fire fighters saved it from catching.

The fire department is now under control except those which are further back in the woods but no buildings are as threatened. From Pettitville comes a report that forest fires are raging in all directions. At Wheatons Settlement near Pettitville on Saturday night Henry Morton's house and barn were totally destroyed, with heavy loss. Moncton had just long fighting fire to keep the railway property from becoming ignited, and at Annapolis and vicinity more men are out fighting the flames.

FREDERICTON, Aug. 20.—Forest fires this evening are reported to be still raging, but gaining little headway. At Springhill and the vicinity there is quite a blaze, but nothing serious is anticipated.

VILLAGE DOOMED.

CHATHAM, N. B., Aug. 20.—The situation is desperate along practically the whole northern division of the I. C. R. Rain is anxiously hoped for, and deemed the only remedy. The weather was lowering this afternoon and rain was expected, but outside of one small shower last night not a drop has fallen for weeks. The temperature was very high in Chatham today, 95 in the shade, caused by the heat from the fires, which are playing on every side.

Alex. McParlane of Nelson stated today that Acadaville, lying between Rogersville and Kent Junction, was doomed. The fire was close on the village Saturday night and some barns had then gone.

Interruption to the telephone service prevents the sending of any information by the villagers, who are supposed to be fighting for their very homes.

When last heard from the people were digging trenches and laying in supplies of water, but the fire formed a ring around the village. Large quantities of bark belonging to Thomas Gill have been destroyed. Advice from Campbellton state that from Quebec down the fire are practically everywhere burning at Nouvelle and back of Dalhousie with great fierceness.

thirty years. He ran on Nos. 1 and 2 trains between Moncton and Truro from the time the train started, more than twenty years ago, until it was cancelled east of Moncton only a year ago. He never missed a run from illness, accident or vacation in twenty years, and was consequently a familiar figure along the road. He was held in high esteem by the I. C. R. men and citizens generally.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Minnie and Mabel, at home. His brothers are Fred G. I. C. R. Foreman, and W. E. I. C. R. driver, Moncton. The body will be taken to St. John Wednesday morning for interment in Fernhill cemetery, beside his parents.

Ching Gee's Closed Account.

By SAMUEL P. HALDENSTEIN.

Mr. Jeremiah Smith sipped his coffee thoughtfully. He very seldom touched coffee, and when he did so it was a decided indication that he was disturbed. This morning there was a whooping especially weighty upon his mind.

His eyes were riveted upon a "special notice," printed in the morning paper which lay spread out upon the table before him.

"Walter, another cup of coffee. Are you sure no telegram or letter has been delivered for me?"

The waiter thus addressed for the tenth time shook his head in a very decisive, negative manner in answer to Mr. Jeremiah Smith's query, and retired.

In disgust and irritation Mr. Jeremiah Smith again turned his attention to the advertisement and read slowly aloud:

"If Jeremiah Smith, formerly of Atlanta, Georgia, will call at the law offices of Williams & Williams, of this city, he will learn something to his decided advantage."

The reader paused and weighed each word. "Something to my decided advantage?" Yes, I'm not so well off that a little something wouldn't come in handy. Mine's no simple occupation. It needs a deal of common sense and circumspection." At which conclusion Mr. Smith struck his hands into his pockets and rattled merrily the coins therein.

Then the door opened and the rattling ceased.

"So the telegram did come, you simpleton!" The waiter in answer handed over the yellow envelope and set down the coffee.

"Ah, that's somewhat of a relief. Read it to me." The waiter obliged.

"To Mr. Jeremiah Smith, The Inn, Brookdale, Staten Island, N. Y. Church Shoe Bettle Street."

This, of course, meant nothing to the waiter. But to the other, who did not even make use of the code in his pocket, it read:

Clear coat. Come at once. Silver arrived. Pell Street House.

Mr. Smith, with a silent chuckle, hastily folded the newspaper informing him of the existence of "something to his decided advantage," thrust the telegram into his overcoat, drew forth a new shining quarter, tipped the waiter handsomely, and departed for Manhattan Island.

The waiter long afterward had reason to remember that generous gentleman: a tall, broadshouldered fellow, with a good crop of light curly hair, a mustache of the same color, and with a fine commanding, but still not gruff.

One would have had great difficulty in identifying the Mr. Jeremiah Smith who sat in the outer office of Williams & Williams, Attorneys-at-Law, with the gentleman of the same name who had breakfasted there same morning at The Inn at Brookdale, Staten Island, New York.

It may have been because the atmosphere of Manhattan Island had a disastrous effect upon the light curly hair of Mr. Smith's head, or it may have been for other reasons, but there he sat, bald and clean-shaven. In his hand he held the mysterious special notice.

No sign of impatience did he manifest. He gazed at the notice in a dazed way, and he did not see its bustling activity; his mind was in far-away Spain, Italy, or France, where he had magnificent castles and estates bought and maintained by the "adventurous something" he was about to receive.

"Mr. Jeremiah Smith, please," spoken in a loud, dissonant voice, castles and brought that gentleman back to Williams & Williams' outer hall with startling abruptness. Mr. Smith was ushered into the private office, where Mr. Williams, Jr., had him a most cordial good-morning.

"I've come in reference to a little advertisement," said the lawyer. "Let me introduce you to Mr. Silas Washburn, who is in charge of your affair."

And Mr. Williams left the room, carefully locking the door behind him. Mr. Silas Washburn was a most agreeable man. He gave Jeremiah Smith a flattering hand-shake and placed a chair for him.

"Ah, you are Mr. Jeremiah Smith, formerly of Atlanta, Georgia? I am very pleased to meet you, sir, I am sure. I have been looking forward to this meeting for some months. Now, shall we get right down to business? Thank you. Now, then, if you will answer my questions promptly—I need not say truthfully—I'll speedily arrive at a satisfactory conclusion."

Mr. Jeremiah Smith smilingly shook his head while the other stopped for breath. He wondered, wondered who this Washburn could be, and what the secrets were he was about to reveal: the revelation, or advice, or information of the existence of some bequest from an unknown or perhaps long-forgotten relative; or whatever the communication he was to receive amounted to; certainly it was something to his decided advantage.

Or else why had he been so cordially received by Mr. Williams, or why did Silas Washburn treat him so respectfully—more than respectfully? Mr. Smith was a smooth man himself, and he was keen; and he was always suspicious of other men who were smooth and keen. But this Washburn had impressed him differently. He had won his confidence.

Your real name is Jerome Meyer," said Washburn. "You formerly lived in the Southern States, and for a long time at Atlanta, where you were well known as Jerry Meyer."

Mr. Smith had prepared himself for surprises, but he had not counted on just such proceedings. And yet, were they not to be expected? The facts were true, and his identity must be firmly established, or else some rogue might come along, claim the unknown something, entail litigation, expense, etc.

Still, for the moment Mr. Smith had been startled. But Washburn did not notice this, or if he did, it must have been out of the very corner of his eye. For when he was not consulting his diminutive note-book he centered his attention carefully on tapping his highly shined boots with his silver-knobbed cane. One thing still troubled Mr. Smith: why did they all ways mention Atlanta? "You read North about a year ago, eleven months to be exact, and adopted the name of Jeremiah Smith. Of course you can easily prove these facts, and swear to them in case of necessity, can't you? These minor points must be settled, unfortunately, before we can approach the subject itself."

Washburn leisurely put the note-book into his pocket, leaned his cane against the desk, and looked at Smith. That gentleman was undecided. "Can't you give me some hint as to the nature of the subject itself, as you call it?" he asked.

He had almost guessed the reply: "Not until you can assure me that you are the man himself."

Again Mr. Smith weighed the matter carefully. It took him but a second—he was accustomed to think, decide, and act quickly. "Yes, I can assure you, and ready to swear that I'm the man you want," he declared.

"Then you are under arrest!" Smith sprang up and seized the cane. "Do you call my arrest 'something to my decided advantage'?" he shouted.

This was followed by a terrible oath, and there was something in his eyes as he whirled the cane about his head that would have made another man quail.

But Washburn did not move. "Be calm, sir," he said, "give me a minute more. This'll turn out better than you expect."

He stood by Washburn's chair now, the cane still raised above his head. "What have I done that I should be arrested, and who are you to arrest me?" he demanded. He knew quite well why he should be arrested, and he knew that Washburn knew.

He had been caught—caught in such a trap, and after so many years. He might have known. This fellow was too neatly to get to you, so we got you to come to us. The particular advertisement method did the trick.

"We've been looking for you a long time—the police of Atlanta have been looking for you still longer. You know just how long and just why. You've always eluded us and have done your work so neatly that we've had a hard time of it. We could not get to you, so we got you to come to us. The particular advertisement method did the trick."

"We knew you would not come to a police station, so we had you come to the lawyers, and I've waited here for you. Let me talk a little longer and you will settle this agreeably. Give us the facts that will lead to the capture of your hand, turn everything over to us, and we propose you immediately. The whole is to your decided advantage."

"If you don't fall in with this, we'll turn you over to Atlanta in authority, while your celestial confederates, in their freedom, will be laughing up their sleeves at the high sense of humor which led you to protect them."

St. Washburn leaned back, feeling he had gained the upper hand. He said: "Smith saw that he was in the other's power."

"But where is this assurance of immunity?" he asked. "I will take care of that. You must trust me."

"All right. Go ahead. I'm with you. There was no sign of hesitation in his voice."

"How many are there in your gang?" "Five."

"All Chinamen but yourself?" "Yes."

"That's what we feared. We've had some facts about the case right along, and we knew that you were the leader. Now, you understand the ways of the Chinks better than all the Bureau and Central Office men do. You know how hard it is to arrest them, and how almost impossible to convict them."

"We want to break up this band. We're departing from the usual method to do so. Instead of getting a follower to turn state's evidence and convict the leader, we've gotten you, the leader, on our side and are going to send the rest of the band to Sing Sing. Do you see more light now?"

"Yes, go on."

"Where's your retreat? Is it in Manhattan?" "No."

"Well, where? Come!" "The address is The Inn, Brookdale, Staten Island, New York."

"Oh! And the gathering place—the workshop?" "We have two. One on Pell Street, just east of Mott. The other is on Doyer Street."

"Ching Gee, a very capable and self-reliant fellow, is my foreman. He calls himself my slave, speaks English about as well as I speak Chinese—that is, just enough to get along. He is in full charge when I'm away, buys the silver, and keeps me informed. We work principally in the Pell Street house with the silver. It is a tree-storied building, through which we are informed of the approach of any one above the second story."

"The house on Doyer is for counterfeiting bills. We use the Austrian process, and the Chinks turn out handy money. As for the silver, we coin quarters and halves mostly by the iron die method. Here are a few."

Jeremiah Smith drew forth a pocketful of the same shining pieces which the colored waiter at the Inn had seen earlier in the day.

Then the government man drew from the counterfeiter all the facts needed for the capture of the four Chinamen. Washburn knew how great it really was. Smith further said that they would work next Sunday as usual; in the morning in Pell Street, at Doyer in the afternoon.

SUICIDE LAID TO

WALL STREET LOSS.

Relatives Think Thomas C. Long Killed

Himself After Being Hit by Boom

In Stocks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Relatives of Thomas C. Long, of No. 846 President street, who ended his life in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, Friday evening, yesterday said they had reason to believe that he had lost money in the upward movement in Wall street in the last few days and that his mind had been upset. It was Long's custom to make no confidences as to his business affairs, and relatives said no member of his family knew how much he was worth or what were his investments.

In a message supputing her from the Catskills, where she was spending the summer, Mrs. Long was told that her husband was ill. She collapsed when she learned, on arriving home, that he was dead, and it was several hours before she was told that he had shot himself.

Long caused a sensation in Brooklyn in December, 1897, when he suddenly disappeared after a meeting of the directors of the Dime Savings Bank, of which he was then auditor and accountant. The directors had inspected securities valued at $22,000,000, which were turned over to Long to be deposited in the vault. For three days it was not known what had become of the securities or where Long was. Owing to the peculiar combination on the vault, it could be opened only when three officials, each with a different key, were present.

After three days' work experts opened the vault and the securities were found intact. On the night the vault was opened Long returned home mentally deranged. Hard work and insomnia had caused his trouble. Since that time he has often been a victim of melancholia.

"But what right have you to insult me thus?" the other interrupted. He stood by Washburn's chair now, the cane still raised above his head. "What have I done that I should be arrested, and who are you to arrest me?" he demanded. He knew quite well why he should be arrested, and he knew that Washburn knew.

He had been caught—caught in such a trap, and after so many years. He might have known. This fellow was too neatly to get to you, so we got you to come to us. The particular advertisement method did the trick.

"We've been looking for you a long time—the police of Atlanta have been looking for you still longer. You know just how long and just why. You've always eluded us and have done your work so neatly that we've had a hard time of it. We could not get to you, so we got you to come to us. The particular advertisement method did the trick."

"We knew you would not come to a police station, so we had you come to the lawyers, and I've waited here for you. Let me talk a little longer and you will settle this agreeably. Give us the facts that will lead to the capture of your hand, turn everything over to us, and we propose you immediately. The whole is to your decided advantage."

"If you don't fall in with this, we'll turn you over to Atlanta in authority, while your celestial confederates, in their freedom, will be laughing up their sleeves at the high sense of humor which led you to protect them."

St. Washburn leaned back, feeling he had gained the upper hand. He said: "Smith saw that he was in the other's power."

"But where is this assurance of immunity?" he asked. "I will take care of that. You must trust me."

"All right. Go ahead. I'm with you. There was no sign of hesitation in his voice."

"How many are there in your gang?" "Five."

"All Chinamen but yourself?" "Yes."

"That's what we feared. We've had some facts about the case right along, and we knew that you were the leader. Now, you understand the ways of the Chinks better than all the Bureau and Central Office men do. You know how hard it is to arrest them, and how almost impossible to convict them."

"We want to break up this band. We're departing from the usual method to do so. Instead of getting a follower to turn state's evidence and convict the leader, we've gotten you, the leader, on our side and are going to send the rest of the band to Sing Sing. Do you see more light now?"

"Yes, go on."

"Where's your retreat? Is it in Manhattan?" "No."

"Well, where? Come!" "The address is The Inn, Brookdale, Staten Island, New York."

"Oh! And the gathering place—the workshop?" "We have two. One on Pell Street, just east of Mott. The other is on Doyer Street."

"Ching Gee, a very capable and self-reliant fellow, is my foreman. He calls himself my slave, speaks English about as well as I speak Chinese—that is, just enough to get along. He is in full charge when I'm away, buys the silver, and keeps me informed. We work principally in the Pell Street house with the silver. It is a tree-storied building, through which we are informed of the approach of any one above the second story."

"The house on Doyer is for counterfeiting bills. We use the Austrian process, and the Chinks turn out handy money. As for the silver, we coin quarters and halves mostly by the iron die method. Here are a few."

Jeremiah Smith drew forth a pocketful of the same shining pieces which the colored waiter at the Inn had seen earlier in the day.

Then the government man drew from the counterfeiter all the facts needed for the capture of the four Chinamen. Washburn knew how great it really was. Smith further said that they would work next Sunday as usual; in the morning in Pell Street, at Doyer in the afternoon.

A SIMPLE SHIRT WAIST AND SKIRT FOR A MISS.

4053, 4054.—The simple styles are always becoming to young girls and far more suitable than more elaborate frocks. Such a gown as the one shown while of excellent shaping and style may be trimmed in a variety of ways to make it most fetching. The shirt waist model is one which may be used for a great many purposes, being perforated for Dutch or low round or square neck and long or short sleeves. A waist for school wear may be made in the regulation high neck with round or square yoke outlined with narrow silk pleating or braid while braid put on in design would also be smart. The skirt is a seven-fold ripple one, fitting well about the hips and hanging with graceful flare the lower edge. Any reasonable materials may be used for either garment. For the medium size 3 yards of 27-inch goods are needed for the waist and 2½ yards of 44-inch for the skirt.

Two patterns: 4053, 4054.—Sizes, 13 to 17 years.

The price of these patterns is 20c, but either will be sent upon receipt of 10c.

PAINTFUL LACK OF SYMPATHY.

"I'll never go to that summer hotel again," exclaimed Gladys.

"Why not?" inquired her friends.

"Well, there was a notice on the bedroom floor requesting guests to report any lack of attention. I never had a fellow while I was there, but when I reported it to the clerk he only smiled."

The Cushing Sulphite Mill will be sold at auction at Chubb's Corner, St. John, N. B., on Saturday, the 1st day of September at 12 o'clock noon, under a decree of the Supreme Court, in equity. For particulars see advertisement.

The funeral of the late James Fisher took place at 2.30 this afternoon from his son-in-law's residence, Esmouth street. Rev. Dr. Raymond conducted the funeral service, and interment was in Cedar Hill.

The management of the Intercolonial railway have decided, on account of the scarcity of cars, to make the full time allowance on export lumber fifteen days instead of twenty-five days. This change dates from September 1st.

The ferry boat Ludlow ran around this morning on Navy Island bar, shortly before seven o'clock, and remained there till considerably after eight o'clock when the tide floated her off, the delay having caused much inconvenience to a large number of people going to work.

Long coats will be the style this fall. At Manchester's a new consignment has been received. The prices, full particulars as to styles, prices, etc., are given in the usual places of the last page. The consignment or even children who are about to take a trip to the States, or in some other direction, this announcement will have particular interest.

Much unfavorable comment has been called forth by the condition of a house on Ludlow street, West End, near the corner of Duke street. The house is in a most dilapidated state and is considered unsafe to pedestrians. It is proposed up, but general opinion is that it would not take a very high wind to blow it down. The house has not been tenanted for years, and is far from ornamental on a street of well cared for and respectable buildings.

DIRECTOR'S ORDERS DIFFER FROM THOSE OF ALDERMEN.

And Alexander Magee, of Elm St., is at a Loss to Know Where He Stands

Alex. Magee was in the police court this morning to tell why he took a stick of timber out of Elm street contrary to the order of the Director of Public Works. Mr. Magee explained to the court that while laying a walk near the St. Peter's school he telephoned to Alderman McGoldrick, chairman of the Board of Works, regarding the removing of the piece of timber. The chairman said if Alderman Rowan thought it all right to go ahead with the work, Alderman Rowan visited the work and said it was all right to remove the timber and accordingly it was taken away. The next day there was a notice to Mr. Magee from the police to attend court.

Sitting Magistrate Henderson adjourned the case until a further inquiry could be made into it. It may turn out that the alderman and director may tell the police magistrate why they disagree in giving orders regarding the street.

SNOWBALL'S MILL HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Fire Among Some Waste Wood Was With Difficulty Prevented from Reaching the Buildings.

CHATHAM, N. B., Aug. 21.—A fire in Snowball's Mill Yard yesterday afternoon gave the mill, the largest on the Miramichi, a close call from destruction. The fire was first discovered in some edgings close to the mill, and after a three hours fight the mill was saved. The town and mill apparatus was put to work and the mill was not shut down owing to the great demand for lumber, but a part of the mill crew continued working while others fought the flames.

ANOTHER POSITION.

FOUR GENERATIONS

HAD DINNER TOGETHER.

A Happy Reunion at the Appleby Homestead at McDonald's Corner.

Mr. Appleby and family, who for the past five years have resided at Melrose, (Mass.), are visiting Mr. Appleby's mother, Mrs. Judson Appleby, McDonald's Corner, Queens County. The latter's father and mother were also present on Sunday and, with those at home, making the party consist of two great grandchildren, four grand children, two fathers, three mothers, three grand parents and two great grand parents. Four generations sat down to the table and enjoyed a most happy reunion. Mrs. Appleby's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Logue of Hampton village.

TO THE TALL TIMBERS.

Lumbermen are Looking With a View to Protecting Their Property From Fire.

Forest fires are raging in the district lying between South Bay and Musquash, and already a great deal of damage has been done to the standing timber. On the Robinson property fires have been burning for several days and yesterday James Lowell went out to watch the progress of the flames in that vicinity and to make preparations for protecting his property. Mr. Lowell did not take any men along with him, but is prepared to have a crew sent out at any moment. Several other fires are reported between that place and Musquash and the Ingelwood Pulp Co. have a large number of men near the latter place fighting the flames. In the South Bay district the air is full of smoke, which makes breathing very uncomfortable. It is reported that all the section known as the back woods is on fire.

GOT DRUNK AND FELL INTO MARKET SLIP.

Terence Donovan was under the influence of liquor yesterday afternoon when he fell into the North Market wharf. He had hardly splashed into the water when he sobbed up considerably and was helped out by a few men. Fortunately George Akerley and Thos. Serim soon went to the rescue and Donovan was dragged out on the wharf very wet and also very sobered. He was taken to his home on Pond street and seems to be suffering from a few mouthfuls of dirty Market Slip water.

SAND POINT SOUNDINGS FINISHED YESTERDAY.

Great Care Was Exercised in the Work—Report Will be Made to Ottawa.

The government survey and soundings which were being carried on on the west side under the direction of J. K. Scammell, assistant engineer of the public works department, were completed yesterday. The figures are now being worked out and a report will this week be made to Ottawa. These soundings were carried on in the very same way and by the same men who were engaged for the soundings previously made by Mr. Scammell and also at a later date under the direction of Gilbert Murdoch. The utmost care was used in all the work and every effort was made to have the soundings as accurate as possible. Owing to the fact that two of D. C. Clark's crabs are sunk at berths 2 and 3, it was impossible to ascertain the depth at this section.

VAULT OF COOLING AIR.

The cool refreshing breezes that waft through Victoria Rink and across the expanse of hardwood flooring are a great treat to those who have before exhaled in stuffy badly-ventilated rinks. Roller skating, while not a strenuous pastime, is apt to heat a person on a warm day. The lofty dome-topped construction of the old Vic makes it a veritable vault of cooling air, and the patrons appreciate it greatly.—Adv.

Warning to Exhibition Visitors.

We are obliged each exhibition year to turn away hundreds who come to St. John for the sole purpose of having their teeth attended to, but who neglect the main object of their visit until a few days before returning home.

We would therefore advise all to call early and avoid the usual rush so that they may not be compelled to return home disappointed at being unable to avail themselves of our superior workmanship and attractive fees.

Parents should remember that the vacations are drawing rapidly to a close and that as they value the health and welfare of their own children and those of others they should see to it that their children's teeth are in proper condition. We can put their teeth in the condition they should be, without affording them any pain and we can do it reasonably.

FEATHERSTON—TAIT.

In the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties Rev. Samuel Howard this morning united in marriage James C. Featherston, of Waterbury & Rising's wholesale department, and Alice, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Tait, of the High School building. The bride wore a costume of cream serge with hat to match and was unattended. A dainty luncheon was partaken of after the ceremony, and the happy couple left on a trip through the provinces. On their return they will reside at a Courtenay street. That both parties are extremely popular was demonstrated by the many handsome presents received from all over the province, including a substantial check from Waterbury & Rising and a beautiful solid oak buffet from the employees of Waterbury & Rising's establishment.
