DEDICATION

Intellectual growth, which is the essence of university endeavor, in the dimensions of both expansion and intensification, finds a fitting parallel in the expansion of university facilities and the intensification of the curricular and extracurricular life of the Regina Campus of the University of Saskatchewan. The Regina campus student body is among the fastest growing in Canada. Our faculty too has grown, adding new scope to the curriculum. The Student Representative Council has suggested changes in its structure to make its guidance of student activities more effective. Plans for a new campus, undertaken by the University Board of Governors, the Senate, and the world-renowned architect, Minoru Yamasaki, anticipate a student body of five thousand within the next twenty-five years. Because the aim of this yearbook is to reflect life on Regina Campus, and because we students sense a growing around us and within us, we dedicate this book to GROWTH..

BIOLOGY CLUB

The Biology club consisted of a number of students desiring to share their interest in Biology with other students. The club had only one official meeting on Oct. 25 at which the central figure was guest speaker Dave Wade who spoke on his trip down the Churchill River and also showed pictures taken during this vacation. The main project of the club was the Biology Display for University Night. This was a fairly large display with several major themes. Students interested in Genetics showed a special film to illustrate some of the subject matter in the field of Genetics. Another theme was a series of specimens to depict members of the various phyla. There were also examples of the most common parasites which are studied under the field of Parasitology. Along with these were a number of fossils which were obtained from the Museum of Natural History for the occasion. To go with the fossils there were several pictures showing an actual excavation on site. The two principle themes were the skull display and the brain display. The skull display was a part of the skull collection of one of the club members, Bill Wright. The main attraction of the brain display was a human brain. This display was set up in order of the simpler brains such as those of the fish and cat up to the most complex human brain. Informal discussions rounded off the year's activities.

We were working in the lab late one night!

Despite a late start the psychology club enjoyed a very active and very successful year. This was possible because of the competent executive comprised of John Ursan and Ruth Crowe.

Thanks largely to these people we were able to obtain five very excellent speakers. Mr. Art McKay consented to speak on "Symbolism in Art" and Mr. J.B. Behrens discussed "Psychology in Music". Dr. Gordon Russon (from the Corrections Branch) spoke on a "Social Maturity Scale" and its application in the classification of criminal offenders. Mr. J. Sells (Embury House) described the treatment of emotionally disturbed children and Mr. G. Clelland described mental illness in terms of its symptoms.

The whole club turned out to arrange a display for University Night. Many also participated in an evening of entertainment followed by a tour of the Monroe Wing of the Regina General Hospital. The year was climaxed when over fifty members chartered a bus and toured the Mental Hospital in Weyburn.

FRATERNITAS was based on the belief that a growing University campus requires a broad meeting point for different ideas and religions. Any organization that seeks to limit itself inflexibly to a single viewpoint has no real place in a University. Inevitably, FRATERNITAS developed into a humanities group, discussing anything from the use of force in desegregation to the status of females in modern society. A minimum of restriction was placed on the expression of opinions. I cannot say that FRATERNITAS produced answers to social problems. Rather, we sought a fuller appreciation of a problem. If any belief governed our approach to prejudice and group relations, it would be this: "Justice, Justice shalt thou pursue".

Our contact with other groups and students was enhanced by participation in the "Winter Institute on Human Relations" at Brandon, and our own Regina Campus seminar on "Brotherhood of Man". Special thanks are due to the Council of Christians and Jews for assistance in many of our activities. As our staff advisor, Dr. Harvey Mitchell was a sympathetic and encouraging mentor and "father". I can only hope that future students will consider the work of FRATERNITAS worthy of being continued.

EDUCATION SOCIETY

Some of the activities included the Education Society "Get Acquainted" party in November in the cafeteria. On the weekend of November 23 there was an executive trip to Saskatoon to the Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation workshop. Guest speakers throughout the year included the president of the National Union of Teachers of Great Britain and Wales, Mr. John England. Mr. England was assisted by the secretary of the Saskatchewan Teachers Federation, Mr. Hector Trout. On November 23 Mrs. McKechney of the Saskatchewan Teachers' College of Regina spoke on the "Cuisinaire" method of mathematics or teaching math. Dr. Langley, the assistant to the Dean of the college on Education was guest speaker on February 10. A talk on "New Mathematics" was given by Mr. Cliff Promhouse, a member of the Mathematics Society of Saskatchewan Teachers on February 19. On September 25 Mr. A.G. MacBeth and Mr. Hector Trout were on hand to help organize a local of Education Students. The Education Society sold ribbons to mark Education students during Education Week, March 3 to 9. The club or society had twenty-six paid members.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club was developed to promote interest in Chemistry by means of films, lectures, demonstrations, discussions, and field trips.

The executive was elected at the beginning of the year and regular meetings were held once a month thereafter.

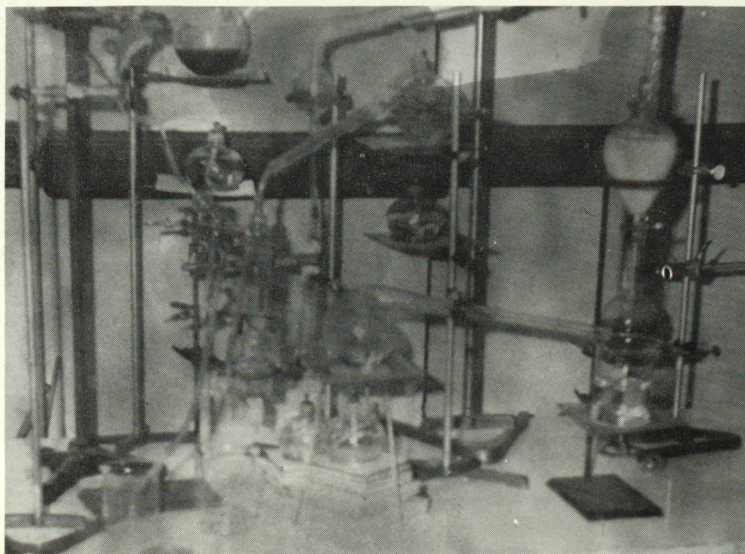

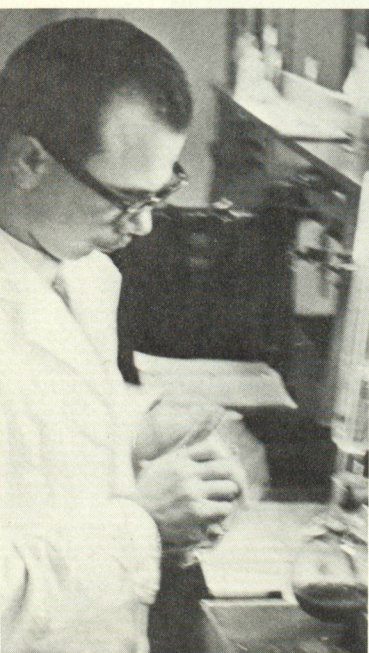

Speakers included Mr. G.M. Cairns from Imperial Oil and Mr. J.L. Reigert from the Department of Public Health.

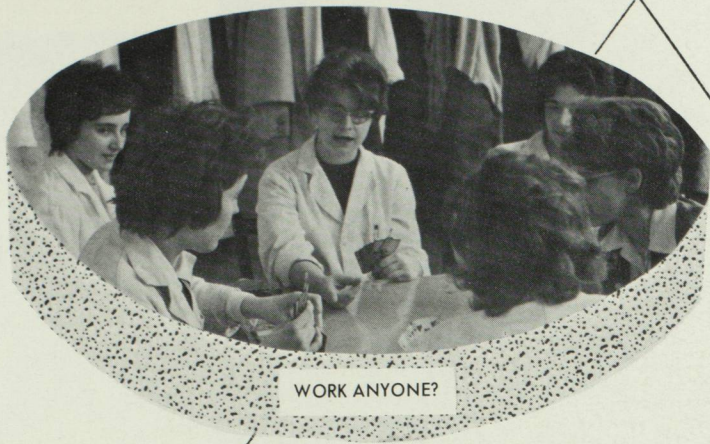

Tours of several industrial establishments were arranged.

Members organized and set up a large variety of Chemistry displays for University Night. The Alchemy Show played to a packed house for every performance.

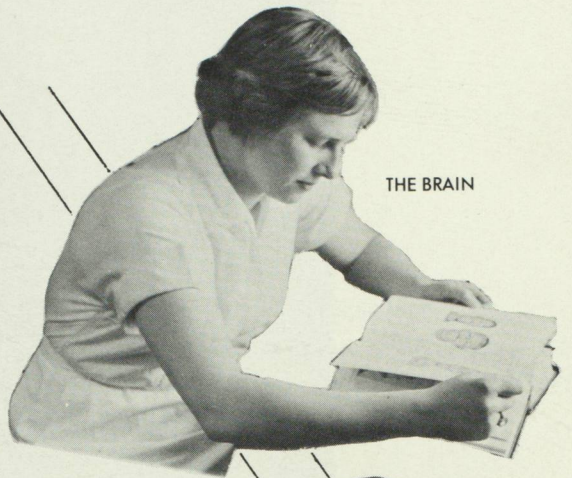

With an eye to the future, the members decided to apply to become a student chapter of the Chemical Institute of Canada. Affiliation with a national organization will aid in the advancement of student interest in Chemistry as a career on this Campus.

We wish to thank all the members of the Chemistry Department for their assistance throughout the year.

The Newtonian Society held eight meetings this year. There were four guest speakers. Mr. MacMillan gave a talk on "Turbulence" at the first meeting. Dr. Guinand came down from Saskatoon to speak on "The Evaluation of π " and "Squaring the Circle". Mr. Toews spoke on "Modern Mathematics", and Miss Duthie gave a talk on "Probability". A movie, "Exploring by Satellites" was also shown. The Newtonian Society also organized a Physics and Mathematics display at University Night, and a trip to Saskatoon to see the Physics display there. The purpose of the organization is the advancement of Mathematics and Physics on campus for students interested in this field.

MUSIC

The year's activities began with the organization of small groups, both vocal and instrumental. A limited number of Jazz shows were put on before Christmas. After Christmas all interest returned to the major musical feature of the year "On Stage 63". The theme of the show was "The 1890's". Since this theme lacked modern appeal a contrast was brought in by a prediction of music in the 1990's. In the final weeks of preparation interested students worked feverishly. Interpretations of the Limbo and Bossa Nova were part of the show. A play was presented, and also songs by "The Michaels", a folk-singing group which formed during the year. Students from the Conservatory presented "The Story of Music" or "The History of Music" with several instruments. Another attraction was a minstrel show of 1890's vintage. A large folk-singing group aided in the finale.

A series of four Jazz Concerts were held in the few weeks after "On Stage 63" sponsored by the "Carillon". The combo provided live entertainment at noon hours in the lounge and Tower Room. These were the final activities of the Music Directorate.

Skip Brooks - drums; Joe Larter - bass; Ron Brooks - trumpet; Alex Kelly - piano; Barry Whitmore - guitar; Ron Bushell - sax.

Pat Alexander started "On Stage 63" with a bang.

DRAMA

The purpose of the Drama Director is not only to help produce an audience pleasing show but also to produce a show that will give experience to those involved. I hope that the audience enjoyed the show and I know some people have benefitted by being in the show – if it only made them decide this was the last time.

The major part of the show under my Directorate was the one act comedy PASSION, POISON AND PETRIFICATION by George Bernard Shaw. He gathered into his play almost all the comic situations that have ever been used. Consequently there was never a dull moment – if someone wasn't dying the ceiling was falling in.

Many thanks to all those who helped in any way and especially to three people without whom the show wouldn't have gone on: Ron Ulrich, Pat Alexander and Barry Whitmore.

ACTIVITIES

The first activity organized under this directorate was the Treasure Van which was held November 12 to 16. The Treasure Van sale, sponsored by World University Service of Canada, offered for display and sale handicrafts from more than twenty-five different countries. It was the most successful year thus far. This tremendous show of student participation led to the decision to form a W.U.S.C. committee on Regina Campus early next year.

Following Treasure Van very closely was Model Federal Parliament which convened in the Assembly Chambers of the Legislative Buildings on the evenings and afternoons of November 26 and 27. This model Parliament was elected and conducted according to full scale electoral and parliamentary procedure. The success of this venture will probably result in making model parliament part of the annual program.

The sale of poppies also came under this slate of activities. As with Treasure Van, Regina Campus set a high sale record.

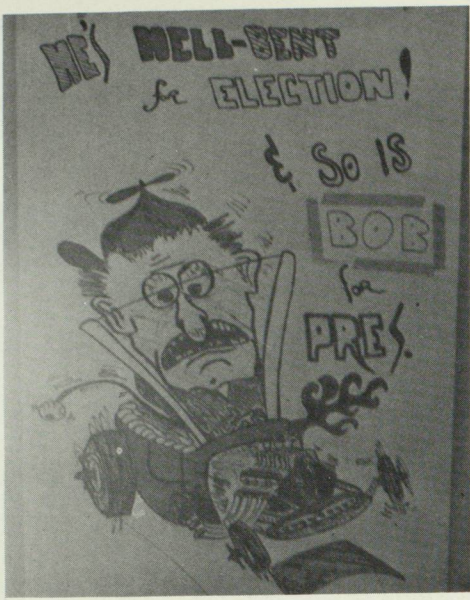

For the first time this year school sweaters were offered for sale at Regina Campus. Student enthusiasm I am sure will make the sale of these sweaters a permanent feature in the annual program of the Student Representative Council.

Pioneers of Progress —JOHN MACOUN Helped Change a Railroad's Route

John Macoun came west in 1872 with the Fleming expedition surveying a transcontinental railroad route through central Saskatchewan. For ten years he studied the flora and fauna, particularly in the southern regions of the province. He wrote enthusiastic reports of the boundless possibilities for agricultural development. So factual and convincing, so completely different to previous pessimistic reports, Macoun played a large part in the decision to change the route of Canada's first transcontinental railroad from central to southern Saskatchewan. Today, the land Macoun recognized as rich in agricultural production shows new promise as the minerals beneath the soil add a new dimension to the Saskatchewan economy.

The Saskatchewan Power Corporation now serves a new multi-million dollar industry beneath the rich agricultural land studied by John Macoun. Today, Saskatchewan is recognized as the potash capital, with greater reserves of high quality potash than anywhere in the world. As the Saskatchewan Power Corporation has been ready to serve this new industry—so is it prepared to serve other new industries establishing in Saskatchewan. As a modern Pioneer of Progress in its own field, the Saskatchewan Power Corporation is preparing for tomorrow's expanding power requirements with two hydro generating stations under construction and others envisioned for the future on the mighty Saskatchewan River system.

DEAR MOM AND DAD,

I am going to study harder to get better marks at Christmas. Every day I go into the campus library to do my work and study, but I might have to change that. Every time I go there I pick an empty table, a couple of guys sit down beside me to talk about something.

Yesterday the same thing happened. One guy said to the other one, do you have your essay done? The other one said, no he hadn't started on it yet, and wasn't it a b----- because it was due the day before. So the first guy said yeah, but what about his French assignments, they were taking two hours a day to do, and he did not have time for any other studying. So the second guy said yeah, but he had to spend all his time in the cafeteria getting votes and did not have time for any study at all.

Then the first guy said yeah again, but look at what the socialists had done to the doctors and what we should do is have a snake-dance and force the government to resign. So the second guy said that reminded him about a joke about an English doctor. I heard the joke before, so I moved to another table.

The only seat was across from a nice blonde girl who smelled like banana oil. Pretty soon along came a guy who banged her on the head with his brief-case and said hi (to her). She said oh hi, and closed her book. He said what were you doing last night, and she said nothing much, because there is nothing much you can do in Regina but ride the buses. They both laughed awhile over that, and then he says well you can always drink beer. So they both laughed about that for a while, and she says you can if you don't get caught. Well that almost brought the house down. After they had finished laughing, he said, no seriously why don't we get together some time and you know have a ball. She said yeah it sounds like a ball. He stood around a few more minutes, but she didn't say anything except yeah a few times so he left. Then she picked up her books and started studying again.

Good-bye for now.

Your Loving Son,
Mitchell K. Fantrip.

During the campaign, the Conservatives said they wanted nuclear arms for our troops overseas, so they could defend the country. The NDP want the Grey Cup game without any commercials on it. The Liberal party said if they were elected, they would have stag parties every week and pulverize creeping socialism because it does not have the confidence of the working man.

The party that wins the election gets the most seats in the mock parliament, in the same building where Ross Thatcher nearly mashed his foot last summer kicking at the door for them photographers from down East. Anyway, when they have the parliament the kids are going to decide what the country should do about under-age drinking, etc.

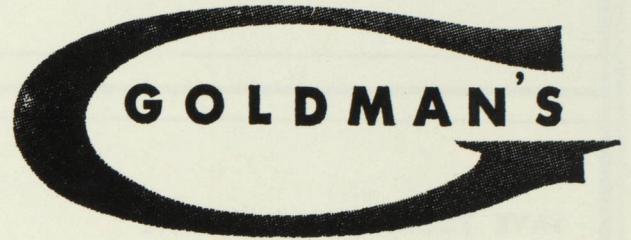

I guess they are not going to discuss whether we should sell our wheat to China, or whether we should help Kennedy when he has blockades, or whether the credit risk for farmers is a good thing. Like all the kids said, those things don't really have much effect on the campus, do they?

There was also some jazz concerts at noon, but I had to ask my friend, Hipster Rocks, about it because nobody really knows too much about it except the guys that play. Hipster said the whole mistake was putting the concerts on free, because nobody came. He said if they charged a buck admission, they could have packed the place. Which is logical enough, I guess. People get pretty suspicious of free stuff. The campus Liberals can't even give away their pamphlets now.

And all other kinds of campus groups were doing stuff all year. This sort of brotherhood group on campus had a terrific speech on sex (which you call breeding, among other things, in Sand Valley). The speaker said it should be a pleasure, not a sin, which I don't suppose will come as any great shock to you. They sure were surprised here on the campus though.

Then they had another student election a couple of weeks ago. There was a real big campaign for votes, except nobody was sure who was running for office, and which office they were running for. Even the returning officer did not know until he read it on the ballot. I thought he did a really truly wonderful job getting the election off so well, though. What happened was the Liberals got a guy to run for president, so the dirty socialists got one of their members to run, so as not to be left out. They have to get in on everything.

They announced the election results at a banquet for all the sports winners from the college. I went and got a badge for winning the intramural calf-roping tournament, although I was the only guy in it (not counting the MIAB, the coaches, the judges, four members of the SRC, a chemistry professor and the principal). It was a glorious day for Arts B. Anyway, I got this badge and a good meal and heard one of the Roughriders give a speech. He told a few stories from the Reader's Digest and gave a very sincere speech about Canadian students being so sports-conscious, and how Americans never got a chance to take sports at college. He thinks they are too academic.

I will see you in a couple of weeks so don't bother greasing the machinery until I get there.

Your Loving Son,
Mitchell.

Dear Mom and Dad;

I wanted to write just one more letter before exams start, because I'll have to shut her down then I'm getting kind of excited about finishing my first year here at the campus. I am a little worried about my exams, and have to study every night. If only I could be as confident as Milton. He says that people who study should be sent to Weyburn, because the high marks they get just raise the standard. Milton says the teachers only fail the bottom third of each class, and if everybody flunks then he will have a chance.

Milton and I got to talking the other night about what a lot of fun we have had all year, like the snake dance last fall. Milton said, do you remember the look on the cop's face when I threw the beer bottle at him? I said yes, and he said, yeah and do you remember the look on that guy's face when we jabbed all them billiard balls out of the pool hall? And do you remember the look on the theatre manager's face when we started hollering in the middle of his show? I said yeah, and Milton said it's been a ball, hasn't it? Milt is more fun than a barrel of monkeys everybody likes him.

Then we got talking about stuff like University Night and On Stage '63 and how rotten all the stuff was. Milton said he would never go to another one again. I said maybe he would feel different about it if he was working in it or something.

"I wouldn't work for one of those outfits for a case of beer," he said, "It's not worth it for a bunch of idiots that wouldn't come anyway." Milton never lets the idiots around the college get away with anything.

Personally I never saw too much wrong with any of the shows they put on. They had this bunch of cowboy singers called the Mitchells that put on a few shows, but they had to disband when one of them got a bad coffee stain on his blue shirt. They said it ruined the whole effect.

MANY THANKS

The yearbook is ready for press and last fall seems sometimes a day, sometimes a decade ago. The pleasure of working on the yearbook, especially in these last weeks when the halls of Regina Campus have been empty and deathly still, the pleasure has been this — that each picture we trimmed, each activity report we typed, nudged some memory out from the nebulous mass of recollections of the whole seven month experience. The yearbook staff hopes that this book brings you that same pleasure.

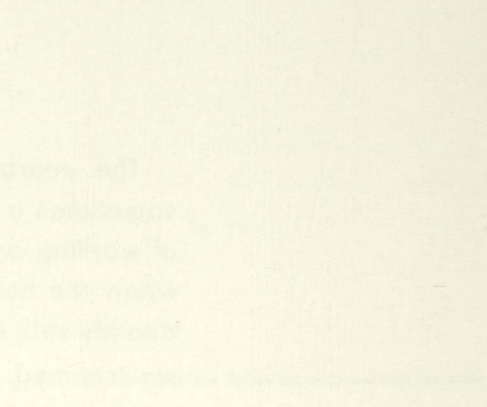

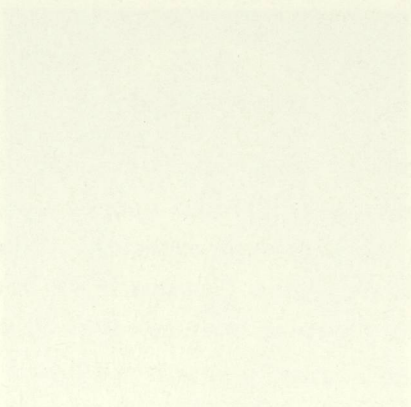

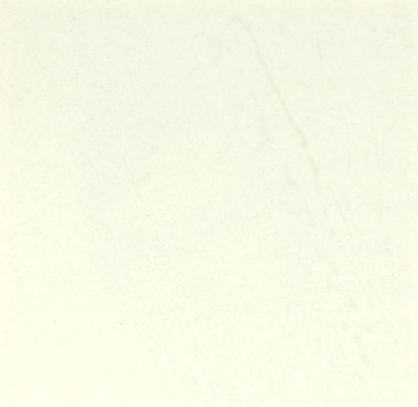

As editor may I say "Thank you students!" for supporting the staff in its work, "Thank you staff!" for slaving away so faithfully, "Thank you Mr. and Mrs. Toth" (of Vienna Studios) for recording the year for us in pictures. Thanks also to the Saskatchewan Government Photo Service, the University Photo Service, and the Leader-Post for their contributions of pictures, to our patrons, to Mrs. Beadmill of the Wascana Centre authority for her suggestions and for writing the captions for our title pages and to Minoru Yamasaki and Associates for the sketches used on those title pages. Thank you all!
