Enormous Crowds at Burial of the Body of Terence MacSwiney in Cork Cemetery.

TWO HUNDRED PRIESTS IN LINE

Republican Flag Covers Casket and Irish Volunteers Much in Evidence.

Cork, Oct. 31.—In the presence of surprised church dignitaries, scores of his former comrades volunteers and thousands of his countrymen, the body of Terence MacSwiney, late Lord Mayor of Cork, was lowered to its resting place in the "Republican plot" in St. Finbarr's cemetery, just outside Cork, this afternoon. Despite the splendor lent the scene by the attendance of the high churchmen, there was a simplicity marking the ceremonies that was impressive.

Outside the ceremony, hidden by the enormous crush of townspeople, two armed cars, their machine guns ready and a half dozen lorries filled with full equipped soldiers, were drawn up at the roadside, imparting a sinister air to the otherwise solemn proceedings.

All Was Orderly

But during the transfer of the body from City Hall through streets lined with crowds to St. Mary's Cathedral and during the procession from the cathedral to the cemetery there was not an incident of violence or disturbance.

The City of Cork and the whole countryside paid tribute to the memory of their "newest martyr." The body was buried beside that of former Lord Mayor MacCurran, who was assassinated. A few yards away are the graves of Joseph Murphy, who, like MacSwiney, died a hunger striker, and of two other Irish Republican soldiers.

Archbishop of Harty of Cashel, on behalf of the clergy in presiding over the solemn requiem mass in St. Mary's Cathedral. Monsignor Coahan, Bishop of Cork, was the celebrant. The clergy assisting included Archbishop of Perth, Australia, and Barry of Hobart, Tasmania, and Bishops Browne of O'Connell, O'Sullivan of Kerry, Foley of Ballarat, Australia, and Fogarty of Killarney.

Flag Covered Casket

The coffin, draped with an Irish Republican flag, rested at catafalque, covered with a pall with a skull and crossbones on either side, such as is used at the obsequies of high churchmen.

The cathedral was filled, and thousands of persons were massed in the adjacent streets. The transfer of the casket from the City Hall was without incident. Two armored cars and five lorries of troops kept in the background as the cortege continued to the church.

The two mile route of the procession from the cathedral to the cemetery was solidly flanked by thousands of persons who bared their heads in salute to the flag-draped casket, borne on the shoulders of the mayor's brothers and intimate friends, passed by.

VICKERS LAUNCH ELEVENTH VESSEL FOR CANADA'S FLEET

Mrs. C. C. Ballantyne, Sponsor for the Ship, Presented With a Diamond Bracelet.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—The Canadian Commander, 8,350 deadweight tons, the eleventh vessel built by the Canadian Vickers Limited for the Canadian Government as part of the fleet, was successfully launched Saturday afternoon from the company's yards at Maisonneuve by Mrs. C. C. Ballantyne, wife of the Minister of Marine, before a notable array of guests.

Sir Frederic Orr-Lewis, president of the Canadian Vickers, speaking after the launching, said conditions were not quite as rosy as they had been.

Fewer Employees Now

His company now employed only 2,200 men as against 3,500 in 1918, the difference being due to the lack of orders from Great Britain largely by reason of the depreciation of the pound sterling. Sir Frederic urged the need of a subsidy for the Canadian shipbuilding industry in Canada and pointed out that if one were not forthcoming, prospects for the industry would be none too bright.

Mrs. Ballantyne as sponsor for the Canadian Commander was presented by him on behalf of his company with a diamond bracelet as a memento of the occasion.

Raided Templemore

Templemore, Oct. 31.—Templemore Friday night was the scene of five hours of terrorism, when military forces raided the town, armed with gas, hatchets and other implements. They fired shot and burned premises, but no casualties have been reported. Several jewelry and clothing stores were broken into and looted, and after being sprayed with petrol, were set on fire. Windows in more than fifty houses were smashed, but the occupants escaped without injury. The proprietor of the burned shop asserted it was not the first time his premises had been looted.

Fled the Town

Many people left the town, fearing further reprisals; others took refuge in the police barracks. Tribute has been paid in some quarters to the policemen and the "Black and Tans" police for their assistance and behavior during the rioting.

The raid is believed to have been in reprisal for the attack on an army lorry at Tipperary Thursday, when three soldiers were killed and five wounded.

FALLS 276 FEET AND DISAPPEARS IN MINE SHAFT

Party Paddles Through Abandoned Workings With Torch Looking for the Body.

Peekskill, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Three men in a small skiff, guided by flashlight, paddled their way tonight through the labyrinth of "The Manlion," an abandoned water-logged copper mine near here, searching for the body of Professor H. C. Schmidt, who stumbled and fell down the 276-foot shaft yesterday.

Schmidt, a geologist, with a class of ten students, was engaged in studying peculiar formations about the mine. Holding a lantern over his head to light the way, he proceeded the party through a tunnel, which leads to the mouth of the shaft. The students saw the lantern fly in the air, heard a gasp, a cry for help, then a faraway splash.

Water Very Deep

Helpless, the party returned to the school. Early this morning police were notified. A diver, with full apparatus, was employed, and lowered into the mine. He worked at intervals throughout the day, but his search was unsuccessful. He said, when brought to the surface, that the water at the base of the shaft for thirty feet deep.

Believing that by some strange movement of the water in the mine the body may have been washed into one of the many sub-passages leading from the shaft, three men volunteered tonight to continue the search.

OFFICIAL FIGHT FOR PRESIDENCY ENDED SATURDAY

Cox and Harding Spend Quiet Sunday After Strenuous Campaigning.

LAST MINUTE WORDS OF THE CANDIDATES

Fight Ends Tomorrow When United States Will Pick Its New Leaders.

New York, Oct. 31.—Leaders of the two great parties in the National Campaign, today in anticipation of the final effort at vote-getting tomorrow, after which the people will decide at the polls Tuesday. Officially the campaign ended last night, but there will still be a few furries.

Though it had been announced that there would be no campaign activities on account of the Sabbath, the chairman of both Republican and Democratic national committees spent a portion of the day at their headquarters. Each reiterated predictions that the candidate of their party would be elected president.

Nothing to Say

No pre-election statement was issued by the other contending parties—Socialist, Farmer-Labor, Prohibition and Social-Labor.

Senator Harding has closed his campaign of speech-making and returned to his Marion home to await the result of Tuesday's balloting. Governor Cox has one more appeal to his constituents of his own State. This he will do in Toledo tomorrow evening.

Senator Stedman, Socialist candidate for Vice president, is in the West leading the fight for his party in the absence of his principal, Eugene V. Debs, who is a prisoner in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta serving sentence for violation of the espionage laws.

The Case For Harding

Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, summed up the case for Senator Harding in a statement in which he defined the issues of the campaign. According to Mr. Hays, the Democrats offer the country "internationalism, Wilsonian, unpleasant campaign methods and James M. Cox." The Republicans, on the other hand, present "Americanism, comprehension of domestic problems and a campaign of dignity and honor."

Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge. Of the issue Mr. Hays proposed to have no doubt.

Roosevelt's View

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic vice-president nominee, offered a statement with diametrically opposite claims and findings. He declared the fight will be one of progressivism against reaction, a League of Nations against no League, and saw nothing to the contest but Democratic victory.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, re-entered the fight today, issuing a statement directed against Senator Harding based on the latter's duplicity in relation to his claims of friendship for the working people.

Mr. Gompers said that an investigation recently conducted by labor in this had shown that the Republican candidate was an "intimate and guiding participant in the industrial life of Marion, Ohio, where there are no trade union agreements and wages are low." The statement charged that through a system established by the Marion Employers' Association, which Senator Harding is a leading member, workers who are active in the unions are discharged and unable to obtain employment in any of the other factories.

EXPLOSION IN POWER PLANT KILLS TWELVE

Victims Were Watching Two Newly Installed Transformers.

FLASH OF FIRE EXPLODED OILS

Blazing Liquid Scattered Over Men, Killing Four; Others Dying in Hospital.

North Tonawanda, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Twelve men were killed early this morning in an explosion and fire at the distributing tower of the Niagara Falls Power Company here. The explosion occurred a few minutes after two new transformers had been cut in at the distributing tower of the company's plant. Thirteen men were crowded in the room, watching the work of the new machinery, when there was an explosion, apparently caused by a short circuit.

The force of the blast burst a steel barrel of lubricating oil, which formed part of the new equipment, and the flash of the electricity ignited this oil, which was thrown over the men in the room.

Four killed instantly. Four men were instantly killed, apparently. One escaped serious burns by jumping through a window. The other eight managed to escape from the flame-filled room, but all were so badly burned that they died in the hospital today and tonight.

As a result of the accident, North Tonawanda, Tonawanda and a part of Buffalo were without electric lights and power today. Surgeons who attended the injured men at the hospital here had to work by candle light.

IRISH BISHOPS GIVE EVIDENCE ON CONDITIONS

Miss Jane Addams Declares Conditions Are a Menace to World's Peace.

Washington, Oct. 31.—A delegation of Irish Bishops, to be selected by Cardinal Logue, has been asked to appear here next month to testify as to conditions in Ireland before the commission of five on Ireland, the commission announced last night after a preliminary conference. It was decided to begin the public hearings November 17, the announcement said, and in addition to the Irish League asking appointment of the bishops, the commission expects to hear mayors of several Irish cities and other Irish witnesses as well as United States citizens who have recently visited Ireland.

Miss Addams Presides

Jane Addams, of Chicago, presided over the preliminary meeting of the commission, which made public a formal declaration that it accepted its task "with the sincerest desire to improve the relations between the United States, Great Britain and Ireland to obtain facts as to what is actually happening on Irish soil and to find ways and means of offering continuing mediation if such ways exist."

"Firmly believing," she declared, "that the present situation, if long continued will menace the peace of the world, and realizing that it is already becoming a domestic political issue in the United States, the commission seeks to shed light upon what is happening in consequence of the recent departure of the Irish to the people of the United States, so with this background, constructive suggestions may arise as to a way out."

FOUR ARE KILLED BY ESCAPING GAS IN NEW YORK HOME

Two Were Sailors off the Battleship "Florida" on Shore Leave for a Day.

New York, Oct. 31.—Four persons were found dead from gas poisoning today in a rooming house on East 53rd street. The accidental detachment of a rubber hose, which connected a gas jet with a small radiator, is believed to have been responsible. Apparently all four persons had been awakened by the fumes, because their bodies were found close to a window which they had been unable to open.

Two Were Sailors

The victims are Mr. and Mrs. John Harold, 40 and 25 years old, respectively, and H. F. Lambert and E. Perkins, members of the crew of the battleship "Florida."

A surgeon from the battleship who identified the bodies, said that Lambert came from Midway, Texas, and Perkins from Mechanic Falls, Me. The two youths were wireless operators, and had been on shore leave.

PRINCE PAUL AWAITS CALL

Young Prince Declares He Considers Throne Belongs to His Father, Constantine.

Athens, Oct. 31.—King Alexander's body was Friday evening placed in the Royal Mausoleum at Tatoi, following funeral services in the cathedral here. Queen Mother Olga and other members of the Greek Royal Family: Mme. Manos, the widow of the late king; the Crown Prince of Sweden, the Prince Regent of Serbia, representatives of King George of Great Britain, and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, members of the diplomatic corps and government officials crowded the cathedral to the exclusion of the public.

Throngs lined the streets as the funeral procession, headed by the casket on a gun carriage drawn by sailors, passed through Athens toward Tatoi. On each of the streets were lines of British, French and Italian naval detachments, which saluted as the coffin passed.

Paul Awaits the People

Lucerne, Oct. 31.—Acceptance of the Greek throne by Prince Paul depended entirely upon the wishes of the Greek people, the Prince told the Greek minister to Switzerland yesterday, when he returned from his tour of the country. Prince Paul, said the Greek government considers him called to assume the duties of sovereignty. He declared only in the event the Greek people did not wish the return of King Constantine and excluded Prince George, the Duke of Sparta, he would accept the offer made by the government.

Prince Paul said, however, that he considered the throne belonged to King Constantine, and that Prince George had the first call to the honor. The minister, in extending the offer to Prince Paul, said the Greek government desired to know in advance whether King Constantine and Prince George would recognize the accession of the younger prince.

DUFF RETURNS TO ATTACK UPON HON. MR. BALLANTYNE

Claims Public Should Know About Minister's Alleged Relations to Big Companies

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—The Canadian public are more anxious to have Mr. Ballantyne answer the questions which I put to him a few days ago, than they are to hear an expression of my opinion on the matters to which the minister of marine and fisheries referred at Toronto," said William Duff, M. P., for Lunenburg, N. S., when he asked here today if he has any reply to make to Mr. Ballantyne's speech at the Navy League.

Some of Tre Charges

"The Canadian public wants to know what Mr. Ballantyne has to say about the sugar monopoly, the expenditure of the Roumanian and the Greek loan, the money paid to a certain Montreal repair and engineering firm, Mr. Ballantyne's connection with this firm, and several other matters regarding which the minister of marine should provide satisfactory answers, or else his resignation should be requested by the Prime Minister."

PREMIER HAD LIVELY TIME IN VICTORIA

Hon. Mr. Meighen Denies All Charges Made in 'Four by Hon. Mackenzie King.

HON. MR. CALDER HECKLED GREATLY

'King Wants Government to Obey the Minority' Declares Premier.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 31.—Two meetings were addressed in Victoria on Saturday night by Premier Meighen and Hon. J. A. Calder, in the main the Premier dealt on charges made against the government by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King when he spoke here. He spoke at length on the tariff, the soldiers' settlement, the national home building programme and the sugar question.

Both meetings were crowded and the doors had to be closed on hundreds who stood in line, and who consequently were unable to gain admittance. There were numerous interruptions, questions, and comments being shouted at the speakers at various times. So serious became the disturbance when Mr. Calder was speaking that he said he would ask the chairman, Mayor R. J. Porter, to close the meeting if it were continued. "Do you want it to be said that some thirty persons so conducted themselves as to stop this meeting?" he asked. The heckling thereafter was of a minor nature.

Denies King Charges

Premier Meighen criticized Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's charges that the government was autocratic as without foundation for no man in Canada, he said, could defy parliament. No move would be made by the government without parliament's consent. "Mr. King wants the government to obey the minority and not the behests of the majority," he asserted.

Referring to Mr. King's statement that the government had spent $70,000,000 on shipbuilding programme without approval of parliament, the Premier said that a contract had been let without the consent of parliament. No member of the opposition, indeed, no member of parliament had objected to the appropriations.

Praised by Liberals

Hon. Boniface Lacombe had applauded the Department of Marine for the programme and had assured full support for carrying on such work. Of sixty ships that had been laid down, forty were in the water and the Canadian flag went into all the important harbors of the world, Canada should be proud of her merchant marine.

After a brief reference to the Grand Trunk acquisition, the Premier said Canada's part in the war was not any mere formality, but a part in the peace negotiations. "Does the opposition think," he asked, "that Canada should have told Great Britain to go ahead and make any sort of a treaty and don't bother us?"

PREMIER HAD LIVELY TIME IN VICTORIA

Hon. Mr. Meighen Denies All Charges Made in Tour by Hon. Mackenzie King.

HON. MR. CALDER HECKLED GREATLY

"King Wants Government to Obey the Minority" Declares Premier.

(Continued from page 1.) When repeating a statement made in Vancouver with regard to soldier's place on the land, the premier was interrupted, and he remarked that some of the soldiers had succeeded better than his critics.

"Tell us about Winnipeg," shouted a voice. "We talked about Winnipeg when we were in Winnipeg," retorted the premier. "I don't believe in going three thousand miles away to talk about people."

Forty thousand men had been trained for new vocations, he continued. "It was the wish of the government to improve the vocational training system, and it would be improved as time went on. Everything that the government could do to help the returned man to help himself would be done."

Major Redman speaking on returned soldiers' problems, said the government had been making and would continue to make every effort to take care of returned men. Canada had the greatest gratuity in the world.

At this there were many shouts of "What did you get and similar remarks. Forty thousand men, went on Major Redman, had been trained and a large proportion, eighty per cent, had made good."

A voice shouted—"I deny that statement not more than five per cent."

Continuing, Major Redman said 175,000 soldiers had been placed in positions and 375,000 had received benefits. After a few minutes, during which the interruptions made it impossible for the speaker to proceed, the major said there was a very small percentage of returned men who by their conduct did the rank and file of returned men more harm than good.

Changed Fortunes Of Mde. Deschanel

Pathos of An Ex-President's Wife Since Departure from the Elysee.

(By Rosemary Carr) (Staff Correspondent, Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service, Inc.)

Paris, Oct. 31.—While the gilded salons of the Elysee were agitated with the shining decorations of diplomats and the rich costumes and flashing jewels of all fashionable Paris, gathered to honor France's new president and his family, Mme. Paul Deschanel, a few hours the first lady of the land, was alone with her children in a second-rate hotel in a remote, unfashionable quarter.

Paris is occupied in shouting "Viv Millerand!" that no one notices the change in the fortunes of the Deschanel. While out at Versailles, troops were marching, aeroplanes flying and crowds cheering the name of Millerand as he was being elected, M. Deschanel was being taken in a closed automobile to a private hospital.

The former President's health has taken a turn for the worse, but so far as appearances go Mme. Deschanel seems to have changed more than he. Instead of the proud, confident, superbly-dressed figure she presented when mistress of the Elysee she now appears in simple black, her figure bent and her face lined and aged. The sudden departure from the Elysee was a tremendous blow to her. She has always been intensely ambitious. Her husband's political success was always her principal thought and from the earliest days of his career it was she who urged him on to higher offices.

The hope that he might one day be come President of France, vaguely formulated at first, later became an obsession with her. She aided him to that office with the grasp of social-politics which only French women seem to acquire and with her hope fulfilled, she presided at the Elysee functions with such consummate grace and tact that she soon had all of diplomatic Paris at her feet.

She was perhaps the first to realize the seriousness of her husband's physical condition and, realizing what his collapse would mean, she endeavored to persuade him to take a complete rest long before he was ordered by his physicians to relinquish the cares and duties of his office. During his stay at the summer Elysee at Rambouillet, Mme. Deschanel was her husband's constant companion and nurse, and despite the trying nature of his illness she rendered him irrefragable and difficult to please, and never left his side.

Visits Her Husband.

And the only times when Mme. Deschanel has left her retreat in the quiet, unpretentious hotel near the Latin quarter since she arrived there has been to visit her husband at the little private hospital at Malmont. She slips out of the lobby, her face veiled, and hurriedly enters, not the luxurious limousine with the hired footmen of the Elysee, but any cutting taxi cab happens to be at her disposal. She dismisses the cab before the hospital is reached and finishes the journey on foot. No one notices her as she comes and goes.

ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF POPULAR MUSEUM OF MDE. TUSSAUD'S

Wax Exhibition in London Has World-wide Reputation and Historical Importance.

(By Rosemary Carr) (Staff Correspondent, Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service, Inc.)

On the Marylebone Road in London not a stone's throw from Regent's Park, and just around the corner from Baker street, where Sherlock Holmes lived, stands a large brick building which is known to all Londoners and is one of the first places sought by the myriads of travellers from all parts of the world. It is the building that contains Madame Tussaud's Wax Works Exhibition, and after wanderings which began in France with the modeling of wax figures in the latter years of the eighteenth century, continuing with travels in England for many years, it finally reached its present abiding place in March, 1835.

Moved to England.

Who was Madame Tussaud, and how did it come about that so characteristic a French name should be so closely associated with London and Great Britain? She appears to have been of German extraction, for her maiden name was Groschitz, but she was born in Switzerland, her mother being the daughter of a clergyman. Her birth year was 1760, and in 1785 she married Francois Tussaud, who was seven years her junior. The marriage does not appear to have been a happy one, for five years later they separated.

Through an uncle who was an expert modeller in wax, she became interested in that art, and having brought together figures one by one, most troublesome epochs in French history a remarkable assortment of figures, she took them to England in 1802 and lived in that country for nearly fifty years, dying in 1850 in her home attached to her exhibition room. She had two sons, Joseph and Francis, and from them are many descendants who bear the name of Tussaud. Seven of these are in the British army in the Great War. Her great-grandson, John Theodore Tussaud, is the author of a descriptive memorial volume on his life, which is published with an introduction by Hilaire Belloc.

Of Historical Significance

Added to this value for purposes of recreation and entertainment, such as exhibited at Madame Tussaud's is, of course, of great historical significance, in his introduction, Mr. Belloc emphasizes the important fact with relation to a collection of figures that was at its inception nothing more than a wax-work show created merely for business purposes. "The exhibits were intended to satisfy no more than a curiosity to see the figures of the great men of the past, whatever their picture and their names, and they were often of a very inferior quality, in some other way untrue, the physical impression of him never so full and so exact as in the case of an effigy made by a competent artist, and whose real life, he knew him, and whose whole motive was exactitude in reproduction.

Here there does indeed arise the question of the medium in which wax, of a better medium than can be made of any other material, but wax is not perfect. And it is precisely because the likeness is so great, precisely because the effect is so parallel to that of reality, that we note the minor details in which illusion is not achieved. When a man's face is of marble he does not expect to find a reproduction of a figure such as this one can never be more that a symbol.

Aims at Exact Reproduction.

"But the wax effigy aims at exact reproduction. It put it in extreme terms, the ideal of the modeller in wax would be to reproduce a figure such as this, knowing the original could be deceived and think he had found again his friend dead or sleeping. When a wax effigy reproduces a known and real person, especially a person who our ourselves have come across, the discrepancy between reality and wax copy is not so great. It is a witness to history, and as I have said, one increasingly valuable as time proceeds."

The romance of Madame Tussaud's life is scarcely less than the romance of her exhibition. "It was an astonishing life," says Mr. Belloc. "There lies behind it the story of her uncle, Cuparis, a Swiss who left medical practice in the middle of the 18th century and took to modelling in wax. It was a test which had grown upon him from his habit of modelling parts of the human body for the purposes of his profession. He extended it to portraits and at last he abandoned medicine for his new art."

BISHOP TALKS OF BIRD LIFE IN THE ARCTIC

KILLED TURKEY WITH A STICK

Bishop Ate 36 Gulls' Eggs in One Day While Guide Ate Whale.

Special to The Standard.

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—Bishop I. O. Stringer, of Yukon, was guest of honor at the Natural History Society of Manitoba at the University building. Bishop Stringer gave an address on "Birds of the North." Many slides on the work of the northern missionary and the privations suffered were given in the address.

In the far north land the sentimental is frequently overcome by the purely utilitarian, the bishop said. Bird life became more than a subject for study and a hobby. It was often a means of sustaining life under severe privations. He told of one case where when the food had been exhausted and his companion and himself were weak from hunger; they espied in the snow the tiny tracks of a little bird. They stood still until they found a snow bird unable to fly because of an injured wing. That little bird, plucked and boiled, divided between the two men, was the biggest feed that they had for several days.

On this occasion, Bishop Stringer said, his companion and himself had belted and oiled their sealskin boots with walrus sole. "It takes seven or eight hours to make sealskin boots edible," was the information given. "Then this leather is treated so that it will have a burnt taste rather than the leather taste."

Whiskey Jack

The whiskey jack was a very valuable bird in the Yukon, Bishop Stringer said. He had seen this bird nest and hatch out its young at 30 or 40 degrees below zero. He said it nests on bushes three or four feet above ground.

The ptarmigan on another occasion was the means of sustaining life in Bishop Stringer and his companion when he underwent one of the hardest experiences of his northern life. This bird was their only food, and their ammunition was short. The ptarmigan frequents the low bushes of the Arctic region. When it finds itself pursued by man or beast it will drop into the snow and burrow underneath till it finds a place to rest for the night. It is white in winter and brown in summer.

Scouting the Yukon on one occasion, Bishop Stringer said, a searchlight was thrown on a yellow sand bar. There it stood a flock of cranes or wild turkeys. They stood still until one of the crew went out and killed several with a stick. He had seen a man coming into Dawson City with 60 of these birds, which he had killed in a similar manner.

Gulls are a valuable asset in the Yukon, the speaker said. Once when

RAGGED STRANGER STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Collapse of Alleged Recognition as a Canadian War Veteran Last Night.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Identification of the "ragged stranger" whom Carl Wanderer confessed and later denied having hired to stage a fake hold-up in which Wanderer's wife and unborn child and the stranger were killed collapsed again today.

Robert Potter, a Canadian, Friday night identified the body which has been lying unclaimed in the morgue since June 21, as John Barrett, a former Canadian soldier. Detectives learned today that Barrett was 50 years old. The "ragged stranger" was not more than 21 years.

TO BE DYSPEPTIC IS TO BE MISERABLE

The poor dyspeptic suffers untold agony after every meal, and any one who has dyspepsia knows what joy it would give to eat three square meals a day and not be punished for it after. Nearly everything that enters the weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes much trouble and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach into such a condition that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For over forty years Burdock Blood Bitters has been toning up and restoring weak stomachs to a normal healthy condition, so that the food no longer causes distress, but is thoroughly digested and assimilated, and enables one to partake of all the wholesome food required without fear of any unpleasant after effects.

Mrs. Alice Beckwith, Fesserton, Ont., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from indigestion and dyspepsia for several years. I could not eat anything without almost dying from the pain in the pit of my stomach. The Gosling Burdock Blood Bitters highly recommended. I tried a bottle, and can gladly say it relieved me. I can eat anything now, and am in perfect health."

AMERICAN COWS SPLITTING GERMAN REPUBLIC NOW

Berlin Fears Incoming of Alleged "Vast Herds" Will Destroy the Trade at Home

By VIGGO TOEPFER. (Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.) Berlin, Oct. 22.—Ask any German politician what he considers the most difficult problem to be solved today, and he will declare without a moment's hesitation that of cows; it is the question of the American milk cows.

Little did the humanitarian American Dairy Society suspect that when some time ago they offered to the German people as a free gift 2,500 milk cows they hopelessly divided an entire nation.

Great Herds Coming. Pressure was brought to bear upon the Berlin Government and all kinds of pretexts were found to prevent the acceptance of the gift. For many weeks a furious battle has been fought between the socialist organ, "Vorwaerts" and the reactionary agrarian "Deutsche Tageszeitung," the former maintaining that the offer should be accepted at once, while the latter disapproved that American cows are suffering from all kinds of diseases from tuberculosis to Texas fever, which they would inevitably give to all the cows of Germany.

The 2,500 cows that had been promised became 100,000 in the agrarian papers and if the country were to be suddenly invaded by that enormous number of aggressive Yankee cows the milk must inevitably go down, and the farmers of Germany would be ruined.

Public opinion, however, was strongly in favor of accepting the American gift, and about a week ago the German food ministry had to announce that no difficulties would be placed in the way of the importation of the cows.

In the meantime a demand had been made on the part of the entente powers that, according to the peace treaty, a further instalment of German cows must be sent to Belgium to make up for those carried away from that country during the war, and a cry went up in the agrarian press that if the German farmers were now to be compelled to give up these cows ruin was staring them in the face.

In his usual clever, sarcastic way, Maximilian Harden now suggests a way out of the difficulty. Why not let the American gift go to Belgium, he says. Then the German farmers will not see the country swamped by an influx of diseased American cows, and the Belgians will surely offer no objections as to the quality of the milk. It is sure to be superior to the cows the German farmers would pick if compelled to live up to the conditions of the Peace Treaty.

The Ex-Kaiser's Book. "If any doubt still remained in Germany as to the chronic megalomania of the ex-Kaiser during the war, it must surely be dispelled by the revelations made in the memoirs which have just been published by Maximilian Harden, the unknown village teacher from Hohenberg who rose to be leader of the powerful Centre Party in the Reichstag and subsequently German Minister of Finance.

One of the most interesting episodes in the book is a meeting of Wilhelm with the party leaders in the Reichstag in the royal palace on July 20, 1918. The Kaiser did not give the politicians a chance to open their mouths, but immediately began to give his own views of the situation, based, he said, on absolute facts which had come to his knowledge. England and the United States had entered into a secret alliance for the purpose of crushing Japan immediately the war was over, but why Japan had not been crushed had secured a valid promise of Russia's powerful assistance.

"England will not go out of the present war utterly defeated," he went on, "but I have made arrangements for a great Franco-German alliance after the war, and then before England has had a chance to recover, the entire European continent under my command will declare the real great war—the war against England."

These words caused the greatest consternation among all those present, and the Kaiser, noticing it, began to speak of the glorious victory his son Fritz had won a few days before over the Russians in Galicia.

BIG BARN BURNED WITH SEASON'S CROP

Special to The Standard. Gagetown, Oct. 31.—Fire of an unknown origin completely destroyed two barns and their contents at Lawfield last night, and when their owner, William Graham, got up this morning only the smoking ruins remained. The two buildings were situated across the yard from the house, and had the wind not been in a favorable direction, the house would undoubtedly have been in flames before Mr. and Mrs. Graham were aware of their danger.

The cattle, poultry, pigs, hay and farming implements contained in the barns were all burned, as well as a quantity of grain. The loss, which amounted to nearly $2,000, was not covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham, who are elderly people, retired early, and at the time no sign of fire was to be seen. It is thought that a tramp must have been using the barn as a place to spend the night, and while smoking set fire to the hay.

Walter McKinnon is recovering from injuries sustained last Saturday, when the express to St. John struck the wagonload of lumber which he was driving, throwing him several yards and rendering him unconscious. The injured man, who is working at Queensdown, in the lumber mill owned by Fred W. Cameron, was driving a heavy wagonload of lumber across the track, and did not notice the approaching express, which struck the wagon, breaking it to pieces and scattering the lumber.

RUSSIAN PEASANT IS REAL MASTER OF THE COUNTRY

He is Hostile to Reds and Their Overthrow Must Come Through His Aid.

By B. F. KOSPOTH. (Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.) Aleksandrovsk, Southern Russia, Oct. 27.—Russia's salvation rests with the peasants—this is an axiom on which all experts have long been agreed. No army will ever take Moscow unless it can count on the support of the peasants in the territory throughout which it advances. No government will ever be possible in Russia if the peasants lack confidence in it.

Wandering from village to village on both banks of the Dnieper river, between Aleksandrovsk and Ekaterinograd, I made an extended investigation of the political mentality and the economic conditions of the peasants of southern Russia. All this district had been evacuated by the Bolsheviks quite recently after an occupation lasting ten months; in many cases the Reds had left but 24 hours before, and some of the visited villages were still in "No Man's Land," deserted alike by Reds and Whites and left entirely to their own devices. With the exception of Novocopolovka, the headquarters of General Turkin, the brilliant 27-year-old commander of the Draxoid division, there were no troops in any of the villages, and the inhabitants were not cowed nor influenced in any way.

Peasants Hostile to Reds. As the result of my investigation, I am able to state positively that the peasants of southern Russia are without exception intensely hostile to bolshevism, and its supporters. All villages are armed against the Reds, but this does not yet mean that they are all for General Wrangel. They know nothing of Wrangel; they are ignorant of what he has done in the Crimea; only vague reports of his land reform have reached them and the old fear that the volunteer army is coming to rob and oppress them is still in the same way as the Red army, still lives in their suspicious, narrow minds. I distinctly they desire the coming of a strong leader to rule over them and restore law and order. "Nieto hasina," "there is no master," is the phrase heard over and over again, but the master they want is one who will continue them in their privileges and protect them against revengeful landlords and the depredations of militarism. Hatred of bolshevism, mixed with suspicious egoism of the Russian peasants today, in districts where General Wrangel's administration has already been working for some months this feeling of suspicion is fast disappearing.

Enlightenment Very Slow. As soon as the peasants realize that the soldiers of the volunteer army do not plunder and see the partition of the land is really being carried out, their distrust gives place to confidence. But this process of enlightenment is very gradual, and that is why, as General Wrangel himself told me at Melitopol, the advance of the volunteer army northward must be gradual too, for it dare not march faster than the knowledge of the order and liberties it is bringing spread among the country folk.

Doubtless there is something revolting in the primitive egoism of the Russian peasants, in their utter lack of patriotism. In spite of six years of war and civil war they are rich and growing richer all the time. Signs of their wealth are everywhere in this region along the Dnieper, which has been fought over again and again. Well built villages unscathed by fire or sword, barns bursting with grain, herds of two and three hundred head of cattle grazing on the plains—all testify that even the Red commissary does not dare interfere with the ownership of the Russian peasant in his lawful pursuits. Who ever will not establish his right to grab ever more land and get ever richer is his enemy. He will not fight on either side in the mortal struggle that is convulsing his country; he lets others do the fighting and waits for the fruits of victory to be poured into his lap.

He is ignorant, obstinate, superstitious; as a farmer he is inefficient, lazy and barbarously distrustful of every instrument or method not used by his fathers before him.

Yet he is today, by virtue of his very selfishness and overwhelming majority, the real master of Russia's fate. Upon his responsibility will depend the future of the country and it were again a car come to rule over Russia he will have to be "a peasants' czar."

REDS LAUNCHING GREAT DRIVE ON BARON WRANGLER

Bolsheviki Cross Dnieper River in Two Places With Troops from Poland.

GENERAL WRANGLER IS OUT-NUMBERED

But Anti-Red Leader Has Shortened His Front to Prepare for Expected Blow.

Schastopol, Crimea, Oct. 31.—Russian Bolsheviki forces have begun a violent offensive to wipe out the armies commanded by General Baron Wrangel, head of the South Russian Government. The Bolsheviki have attacked the Dnieper River opposite Mikopol and branching out from Kharkov.

Troops from the Polish front, as well as masses of Siberian soldiers are being used in the offensive, and heavy reinforcements are being rushed up in the effort to break through General Wrangel's lines. This is the first time General Wrangel has been out-numbered and excelled in artillery and supplies. He has been shortening his front to create reserve forces in preparation for the offensive, which he has expected for the last few days.

Windmill Barbados Super-Fancy Molasses

It is the fruit juice of ripe, Golden Ribbon sugar cane—not crushed by steel, nor cooked by steam,—but, as in days of old, it goes through wooden rolls with windmills' aid, and is cooked over the open fire in open kettle.

It takes 100 lbs. of this Gold Ribbon Cane to make one gallon of "Windmill" Barbados. Nature alone gives it its sweetness, flavour and colour.

Nothing added—nothing extracted. Full of the food elements that give heat, energy, and endurance, and well balanced with minerals, fruit salts, that give health to the block and strength to the body frame.

Yet costs no more than common molasses, or compounds in which there is practically no food value.

No fancy cans to raise the cost—Sold in bulk only. Be sure you get the good, old-process, "Windmill" Barbados—it savors of fruits and flowers of sunny Barbados.

We guarantee Windmill to be absolutely pure and highest grade Barbados Molasses.

Rothsay And St. John High Tie

Neither Side Able to Score in Football Match Saturday Afternoon.

Rothsay Intercollegiate and St. John High School played a tie game at Rothsay Saturday afternoon when neither team was able to score after two periods of hard playing as has been witnessed in the intercollegiate league this year.

Very little wind and good grounds were favorable factors in Saturday's game. Considerable open play, good kicking, clean tackling and a good following up of the ball made the game an interesting one.

The Rothsay boys deserve much credit for the clean and hard fought game they have played. Despite their hard work they have been unable to lift the intercollegiate trophy and duplicate their work of last season.

The cup must be won six times before any team may become its possessor. At present St. John has three wins to its credit, Rothsay and Fredericton both two.

In a game between the second teams of the two schools, the game went to Rothsay with a score of 7 to 0. The juniors put up a very good exhibition and several will have no difficulty in making the first team next year.

What is there is no lack of football talent amongst the juniors of St. John. It is greatly to be regretted that suitable grounds are lacking in which the game can really be played under proper conditions.

On the Victoria alley Thursday evening the Dominion Rubber team defeated the Railway Men's Clerics taking three out of the four points.

Ottawa Wins Over Montreal. Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Ottawa defeated Montreal in the big four football game here Saturday.

First Defeat For Toronto Argos. Hamilton, Oct. 31.—Toronto Argos were beaten for the first time this year when on Saturday the Tigers plastered an 8 to 6 defeat on the city men, and upset their rush for the big four title.

McGill Univ. Defeats Queens. Montreal, Oct. 31.—McGill defeated Queens by 16 to 0 in an inter-collegiate rugby union game here on Saturday.

Dalhousie Wins Game. Halifax, N. S., Oct. 31.—Dalhousie defeated the Wanderers on Saturday by a score of three to nothing, and won the senior rugby football championship.

Suggest Pedigree Test For Humans. Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 21.—A plan to have perfect human beings registered and pedigreed, the same as birth class "thoroughbreds" of the lower animals, was advocated here recently at the annual convention of the International Alliance of Physicians and Surgeons, the National Association of Progressive Medicine and two other allied bodies.

Dr. Chas. E. Conrad, chairman of the convention stated that a woman or a man, if they have their own will, the world's interest at heart, would prefer to select a life mate in whom they have some degree of assurance "is at least as near perfect as a pedigree" which they would not buy, he added, unless the dog had a pedigree.

WHAT IS BETTER THAN PUMPKIN PIE?

Pumpkins are among the fruit of the earth plentiful in the market at this time, and what is better than pumpkin pie? The recipes for pumpkin pie vary in detail, some using more seasoning than others, some made with molasses and some without. The foundation of all pumpkin pies is, of course, the stewed pumpkin. Cut the pumpkin into slices, pare, and cut in small pieces. Put it on with very little water to stew until tender, then drain in a colander. Mash the pumpkin and put it through the colander. Then put the strained pulp back and let it remain till all the water is drained away.

Old-Fashioned Pumpkin Pie.

This recipe is from a New England cook. Put a quart of stewed and well drained pumpkin into a mixing bowl, and a teaspoon of salt, and a teaspoon each of ground cinnamon and ground ginger, one cup of sugar, and half a cup of molasses, together with four small soda biscuits rolled fine. Make a custard of four eggs and a quart of milk, and add this to the pumpkin mixture. Mix all together until you have a perfectly smooth batter. The above quantity will make two large or three small pies. To make the crust, take three cups of flour measured by a level cup, one teaspoon of salt and one cup of lard. Work the flour and lard together until the salt, then pour in a little water as will suffice in order to make the mass adhere. Rub the pie plates with a crust, fill up at once with the pumpkin custard and put in a hot oven to bake for about half an hour, cooling the oven after the pie has been in for fifteen minutes. The upper crust should be baked quickly, in order that it may not become soggy. It may be partly baked before adding the pumpkin. In order that the molasses may not be absorbed by the paste.

Stewed Pumpkin Pie. Pare and cut the pumpkin small, and cook it in a steamer, then put through a sieve. With a cup and a half of the pumpkin, mix two-thirds of a cup of brown sugar, a teaspoon of ground cinnamon, a half teaspoon of ginger and the same amount of salt, two well-beaten eggs; a cup and a half of milk, and half a cup of dried cream. Bake in a flaky crust. This will give a generous-sized pie.

AMERICAN SCHOONER ROMPED AWAY WITH SATURDAY'S RACE

Gloucester Boat on All Points of Sailing Had More Than the Edge on Canadian Boat—Best Boat in the Weather Won—Canadian Too Heavily Ballasted—All Hoping for "Rip Snorter" Breeze Today.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 31.—Captain Marty Welch and his Gloucester boat, sailing the fast schooner Esperanto, have notched a hold on the trophy emblematic of the championship of the fishing fleets of the North Atlantic, and need but one more win to carry home the cup and the $4,000 prize money that goes therewith. In the first race of the international series, held off Halifax harbor on Saturday, the American vessel defeated the Lunenburg schooner Delawana. Captain Thomas Himmelman, Canadian contender for the blue ribbon honors with the utmost ease. On all points of sailing, reaching, running and dead to windward, Marty's craft had more than the edge on the Canadian schooner and romped home a winner by eighteen minutes and twenty-five seconds, getting the gun when the Delawana was still three miles off more from the finish line.

Best Boat Won. The best boat in the weather of the day won. There can be no question of that. Himmelman sailed his schooner for every inch of speed there was in her. He and his brother, Albert, veteran of the banks, tried to drive Delawana for all she was worth, but, in the moderate south-wester, she was not in it with the Gloucester boat. What Delawana could do in a heavy blow may be a different story, and Captain Tommy and all his crew are hoping with might and main that old Asolus will send along a "regular rip snorter" that will send their own ship surging over the sea under her four lowers in a smother of foam and "bury" the Yankee schooner. Just at the present the Gloucester ship is far from "buried." She is not as stiff as the Lunenburg boat, and on Saturday heeled sharply in the squalls, but, though on sharper lines, she is built for the deep sea, and Captain Marty can be counted upon to "carry sail till the co's come home."

Too Much Ballast. The Canadian was too heavily ballasted on Saturday. Tacit admission of this was made yesterday when Captain Tommy ordered most of the 100 tons of rock taken out, and had his ship towed up to the dockyard, there to receive 75 tons or so of iron chain. Iron ballast, taking less space than rock for the same weight, placed the centre of resistance deeper and so reduces the amount of ballast required to give equal stability. The Esperanto carries approximately 80 tons of ballast. The change in Delawana's ballast is expected to give her more speed tomorrow, but had it been made Saturday it could not have made any difference. In fact, the schooner's victory in that weather was too decisive altogether to raise any question on that score.

Spectacular Features. The best part of Saturday's race, from a spectacular point of view, was the start and the close reach out to the inner automatic, the first mark of the course. Captain Tommy crossed first, only forty seconds behind the gun, with his rival 27 seconds later and about five schooner lengths behind. Both ships carried full sail, and in the fresh breeze by well over Delawana kept her lead for a minute or so, and then the American began to gain. Off Point Pleasant she was close behind, and as the gusts came out of the foam she nosed up to a position which Captain Marty thought might enable him to pass to weather in the Canadian. But Captain Tommy "want" having any. He headed Delawana up, too, and there the two schooners were racing up and tuck and close-hauled, heading in towards York Head.

The luffing match lasted ten minutes or so, and then the two skippers gave it up, with Delawana still leading by a very scant margin. Sometimes she would be a half length ahead, some times a length—never more. So the two raced along, their bows throwing up cresting white water as the squalls, then topping 15 knots, drove them down. The American lay over almost to her fall, the Canadian only to her scruple. It was a grand race, and the white-capped waters, with the two strong vessels speeding on with every stitch of canvas set, presented a magnificent seascape.

Delawana Headed. Delawana was never headed and, as the two boats raced for the "blower" she nosed out a bare length, passing the buoy twelve seconds ahead of the American. That was the end. A scant minute later the Gloucester craft passed to weather of the Delawana, "like a house on fire," as one of the American fishermen said. Thereafter, Captain Marty had things all his own way and the race lost much of its interest. On the reach from inner automatic to the southeast buoy, the second mark, Esperanto gained a lot and rounded it three minutes and 4 seconds ahead of the Canadian. On the run to shut-in bell buoy she added to her lead, rounding the third mark 5 minutes and 53 seconds ahead. On the final mark she added another 23 seconds. The "inner blower" she slipped along through the top and, pointing higher and footing faster in a falling wind, established a lead of 21 minutes and 25 seconds. On the reach home to the finish line the Delawana made the only gain of the whole course. On this final leg she cut down the American's lead by three minutes.

Summary. Start—DeWiwana, 9:00.40; Esperanto, 9:01.07. Inner automatic—Delawana, 9:35.10; Esperanto, 9:35.23. Southeast automatic—Esperanto, 10:14.50; Delawana, 10:17.54. Shut-in Island buoy—Esperanto, 11:01.40; Delawana, 11:07.32. Inner automatic—Esperanto, 2:17.35; Delawana, 2:39.90. Finish—Esperanto, 3:01.03; Delawana, 3:19.23. Esperanto won by 18 minutes and 25 seconds. Actual elapsed time (including difference between the schooner's start, which is not recorded in the official record)—Esperanto, 5:59.56; Delawana, 6:18.48.

HANNA DECLARES C. N. R. POSITION ON CANDIDATURES

Employees Automatically Sever Connection With Line by Entering Political Arena.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—A news item sent out from Winnipeg stating that Canadian National Railway shippers forming part of division four of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees were contemplating a strike in view of the edict of President D. B. Hanna, prohibiting employees of the railway taking part in politics, is denied by the boardman of the Canadian Brotherhood in Ottawa. M. M. McLean, secretary of the organization stated this morning that the C. N. R. had not at any time considered that an employee of the railway should have expressed strong disapproval of the management of the Canadian National Railway to have it recorded.

Automatically Quits. Toronto, Oct. 27.—President D. B. Hanna, of the C. N. R., said today that an employee of the system who entered the political arena as a candidate for any political party would automatically sever his connection with the C. N. R. "We have no desire with the intention of interfering with a man's right of citizenship," he continued. "He can vote for any party or candidate he wants to, but when a party nomination he is injecting the system into politics and must therefore leave it."

One Egg Pumpkin Pie. Strain one cup of pumpkin to make one and one-half cups, add to it one-fourth cup of molasses, one-half teaspoon salt, one-third teaspoon of nutmeg and cinnamon. Beat one egg very light. Add one-fourth cup of light brown sugar, beat thoroughly. Add to the pumpkin mixture. Lastly add two cups of rich milk, blend thoroughly and turn into a pie plate lined with rich crust. Pumpkin should always be put into a hot oven. Allow the fire to be brisk for five minutes, then lower the heat and bake slowly to allow the filling to become rich and brown.

Eggless Pumpkin Pie. Cook and mash the pumpkin, squeeze through a colander and dry out in the oven. To one quart of sifted pumpkin add three cups of boiling milk. Sweeten with two-thirds cup of molasses and one-half cup of brown sugar, add half a teaspoon of salt, vanilla. Turn into a tin lined with rich crust, and put into a hot oven. Allow the fire to be brisk for five minutes, then lower the heat and bake slowly to allow the filling to become rich and brown.

GOOD OPINION. These are the lasting joys of earth—A home which shelters honest mirth, A few good friends who will remain, And yet for truth will give no pain. Who take delight in all you do, Clean hands which know no secret And, first of all, a spotless name.

There are a few great treasures here—A kindly heart, a conscience clear, A mind which knows no bigot's chain, And yet for truth will give no pain. And yet for truth will give no pain, And yet for truth will give no pain.

He shall be glad who walks erect And wins and keeps all men's respect, Though lacking wealth and fame and skill, No man shall seek to do him ill, He shall find happiness and friends, He shall find happiness and friends.

Pools waste their hard-earned bit of fame, They fling away at Poles' smile, The treasures that are most worth while, And lose, one may say, hour to find, The good opinion of mankind.

He shall be happiest here who clings Unto the joys which home brings, Who lives his life so he can be Head high in any company, Who tries to serve some useful ends, And seems to disappoint his friends.

PLANNING TO AID STARVING OF EUROPE

Methodist Sunday Schools to Devote Their Christmas Offering to This End.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press)—The Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church is sending out an appeal to its 4,500,000 Sunday school members to devote their Christmas offerings this year to sending food, clothing, medicine and shelter to the suffering children of Europe. Announcement is made from headquarters in Chicago.

Bishop John L. Nuelson, a member of the International Committee for the Relief of Children, who recently returned to the country from Zurich, Switzerland, says the outlook for this coming winter in the needier sections of Europe is dark. "Those countries before the war could not support their own populations, but were depending upon large imports of provisions," he said. "South Russia which supplied large sections of Europe with grain, is not in a position to supply its own population. Those countries have no gold to buy grain from Australia or America. They cannot manufacture goods for export because they do not have enough raw material or coal and they have no credit."

"If you draw a line north through the devastated areas of Belgium and then travel east through Dalmatia, Albania, Montenegro, Slovakia, Macedonia, and Greece into Turkey, and then travel north through Serbia, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Rumania, South Germany and on through North Germany, Poland, Lithuania and Estonia into Russia, through Russia to Serbia and south into Asia Minor and Syria, Armenia and Mesopotamia, you will find that vast territory badly over-crowded in a thousand which is not under normal either physically, mentally or morally."

Bishop Nuelson added that through out all the war-swept and famine-stricken sections of Europe the "teachers in the schools find that the children are so under-nourished that it is a physical impossibility for many of them to concentrate their attention upon school work for even three hours per day."

IDOL OF INDIANS MARRIES ONCE MORE

Stanley, B. C., Oct. 28.—Mrs. John McKenzie, the "Snow Widow" and idol of the Cree Indians, again is to become a bride at the age of ninety. Rumor has it that every evening at dusk a redman makes his way to the "Snow Widow's" door. He will become her fourth husband.

Among those famed rivers that go tumbling north of the Arctic the weird tragic tale of the "Snow Widow" is still whispered at night in the glow of the campfires. Around the adventures of the aged Indian woman members of the Hudson Bay Company are weaving new tales. But in the records of the Hudson Bay company, which is now closing out its prairie lands to farm settlers may be found the true story.

The Crees say the "Snow Widow" represents the great soul of the Far North, which can be found only among redmen and their squaws. Mrs. McKenzie lost three husbands, all trappers. Two were frozen to death. The third died of starvation. Mrs. McKenzie's tragic adventure took place. They were camped 100 miles north of Stanley Mission. In the dead winter game became so scarce that with their two babies they faced starvation. Then the husband fell ill. Only food would save him.

With the two babies, one morning Mrs. McKenzie started the hundred mile trip with a famished dog team. After thirty miles the dog died. Tuckling the babies into the sled, she fastened the harness about her own waist and continued ten miles. Then one babe fell ill and died. She wrapped the other in the tin body, placed it deep in the snow and out of the twigs of a pine tree fashioned a pitfall little cross which was placed over the spot. Then she continued the journey. On her arrival food was hurried to her husband, but he was dead. She became the "Snow Widow."

These are the lasting joys of earth—A home which shelters honest mirth, A few good friends who will remain, And yet for truth will give no pain. Who take delight in all you do, Clean hands which know no secret And, first of all, a spotless name.

There are a few great treasures here—A kindly heart, a conscience clear, A mind which knows no bigot's chain, And yet for truth will give no pain. And yet for truth will give no pain, And yet for truth will give no pain.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1920.

CANADA AND THE HARVEST.
 If anyone is concerned about the business position and prospect of Canada, he might find comfort in considering this year's harvest.

Canada's wheat crop alone this year is worth double her wheat crop of last year, and while a good deal of it will be used in Canada, the greater part will be sold abroad. Other chief crops are nearly all larger than last year's—oats tremendously so.

The Dominion Department of Trade and Commerce estimates that the wheat crop in Canada this year will be 289,485,000 bushels as against 193,200,000 bushels for last season. (Canada received $360,573,000 for her 1919 wheat yield. It is estimated that she will receive $700,000,000 for her 1920 wheat yield.)

But wheat is not by any means the only grain Canada is producing in large quantities this year. Her crop of oats is almost twice as large as her crop of wheat, and the figures for barley, rye and flaxseed, as for wheat, are all way in excess of last year. Here are the figures to speak for themselves:

Kind of Grain	Yield for 1920		Yield for 1919
	Bushels	Value	Bushels	Value
Wheat	289,485,000	$326,400,000	193,200,000	$273,561,900
Oats	556,719,000	$24,387,000	284,387,000	$12,589,400
Barley	64,257,000	$6,359,400	36,359,400	$3,635,400
Rye	12,915,000	$1,907,400	10,907,400	$1,635,400
Flaxseed	11,099,000	$4,722,800	4,722,800	$1,907,400

These large increases in crop yields come on top of an already large wealth of the people.

Apart altogether from the money that will come into Canada this fall through these large crop yields, consider these two basic factors of purchasing power to which that money will shortly be added.

Canada's bank deposits on September 30 were $1,947,481,002, or over $211 per capita—an average of over $1,000 per family, taking the population at nine millions, and the average family at five persons.

Canadian Government War Bonds—the great bulk held by the people of Canada—amount to $2,072,351,900, or $230.23 per capita—an average of $1,150 per family.

Thus the purchasing power of Canadians as represented by bank deposits and Government War Bonds alone is $446 per head, or at the rate of $2,230 per family. On top of this comes the value of this year's crop of wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed, which will amount to at least $145 per capita, or $725 per family.

This country of ours is probably the richest country in the world materially, all things considered. At the same time, we concede that a whole lot of it seems to be quite discontented.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.
 It is said that there are two thousand schools in Ontario without teachers, because the salaries offered are not sufficient to induce men and women to undertake the work. Conditions are not quite so bad in this province; but they appear to be bad enough. The impression appears to be abroad that a school teacher can live and keep up a respectable appearance on less than other people can; at least one must infer that such an impression exists, because that is what they are expected to do. Why it should be so is not quite apparent.

At the best a school teacher is rather a "dumb" existence. It is monotonous in the extreme; the same thing year in and year out, the only change being in the personnel of the scholars. In fact one wonders why any person should want to take up the life considering all things. However, in view of the fact that somebody must undertake the work, it should be made reasonably attractive, to say the least. And in the matter of attraction, that of salary is not the least important.

Those who take up the task of teaching as a life work naturally give the best years of their lives to it. With the small salaries paid them they are unable, with the cost of living what it is today, to save anything; and although in certain circumstances they may become entitled to a pension after so many years' service, the amount of this pension is quite inadequate to maintain them in decent comfort. This is not as it should be, by any means. But, putting the matter of pensions on one side, any teacher who is doing satisfactory work should be adequately paid, while at work, and not left to keep up a genteel appearance on less than a street laborer is paid.

We understand that an application is before the St. John School Board from the city teachers for a general raise in the scale of teachers' salaries. The present maximum salary to which an ordinary teacher can rise is, we are informed, $980, and this can only be reached after several years' teaching. On the face of things, this is too

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Causes of Weariness.
 (Financial America.)
 Lots of people in this old world get weary of well-doing, while others just get weary of being well gone.

Two Parties.
 (Montreal Herald.)
 "Our two-party system has lasted longer in the United States than any other political system now existent under any constitutional government. It is being adopted in the United Kingdom."

Thus speaks Senator Harding, candidate for the United States presidency, in a written communication to Republican women voters.

As a matter of history the two-party system existed in Great Britain before the United States was born.

According to Every Man's Encyclopedia, it "was evolved from the historical accident of the division into Whigs and Tories in the Stuart period, a division which, long after its cause had been forgotten, had become stereotyped into a tradition that it corresponded to a real division of political outlook."

English political life presents the spectacle of two principal national parties, really or apparently divided in a number of important issues; each, whether in power or in opposition appealing to the people for what it believes to be the general good of the country.

ECONOMISTS OF THE FARMERS' PARTY.
 Discussing the attitude of the economists of the Farmers' Party regarding some of the prominent questions of the day, the Mail and Empire says they trust more to waiting than to reasoning. Their favorite lamentation is that the rural districts have been stripped of population to build up the towns and cities. For this they blame the National Policy. They ignore the fact that the drift to towns and cities is greater from rural England than it is from rural Canada. Yes, England is a Free Trade country. But how would congestion of population in the rural districts benefit the farmers? It is assumed that with more people living on the land there would be greater production there. The yield per acre and the number of yielding acres would, it is held, be greatly increased. That is probable. But where would the surplus be disposed of if there were not towns and cities sufficiently populous and industrial to provide a market for that surplus? It is only to consumers who are not themselves agriculturists that the agriculturists can sell the produce they have to dispose of. Are the urban populations now too large for the farmers to feed? If they are, how is it that organized farmers in this country are asking the Government to establish a Wheat Board for the purpose of protecting the wheat growers against a heavy fall in the market price of wheat? If the people living and working in towns and cities are too numerous for the good of the agricultural industry, how does it come that the farmers are able to supply more wheat than the numerous dwellers in the towns and cities want at prices the farmers consider to be adequate? Why is it that the farmers in the Southwestern States of the country beside us are being asked by the Wheat Growers' Association there to join in a strike to lift the price of wheat to $3 a bushel?

A BIT OF VERSE

UNCLE SAM.
 "Toll me," the other night, said he,
 "Just who my Uncle Sam can be?
 I've never seen his face at all,
 Except that one with hat and tail;
 The papers print, and long gaiters;
 Why does he never call on me?
 Or write to ask me how I am,
 If he's my really Uncle Sam?"

And then I said: "From start to end,
 Your Uncle Sam's your truest friend—
 Except your mother, and maybe
 He loves you just as much as she;
 He guards you when you sleep at night,
 Teaches you what is wrong and right,
 And by the wisdom of his rule,
 Goes with you every day to school."

"Your Uncle Sam has said that you
 Shall work at what you like to do,
 Shall live your life, and no one here
 Will you should dare to interfere.
 So long as you his laws obey
 It is your Uncle Sam, in truth,
 And play the man, let come what may,
 Who gives you all the joys of youth."

"He's builded roads and bridged the streams
 That you may realize your dreams;
 The doors of schools are opened wide
 For every boy to step inside,
 And learn from him the many things
 Which used to be the boast of kings;
 He guards you when you sleep at night,
 He sends you to the teachers' wait
 His boys and girls to educate."

"The starry flag which flies above
 Is his to guard, and his to love,
 You'll never see his kindly face,
 Or of his footsteps find one trace,
 But every good shall come to you,
 If you are true, and true to true,
 Serve him in every way you can,
 And you shall be a happy man."

THE LAUGH LINE

"If your hat blows off, never run after it. Somebody will always run after it for you."

Opportunity.
 He—My dear, I have just paid off the mortgage on our home.
 She—I'm so glad. Now you can put on another and buy a motor car.
 He—San Francisco Chronicle.

On Strike.
 "Hallo! On strike again? What for this time?"
 "Shorter hours!"
 "Ah, I suppose you do find sixty minutes too long!"

Sincere.
 "He's running for office."
 "Would he make a good man?"
 "I think so. So far in none of his speeches has he referred to his army record."

Quite Right.
 First Shopper: "It's so hard to find just what you want."
 Second Shopper: "Yes, especially when you don't know what it is."

Teddy's Symmetry.
 Little Teddy's father invariably takes his firstborn with him when he visits the barber. A week or so back Teddy was watching the gleaming scissors darting among his father's locks.
 "Daddy," he hapod, "may Teddy have one of your curls?"
 "The barber whisked away a tear with the solitary clean corner of the shop towel.
 "Dear little fellow!" he said. "Ow touching that affection!" he continued, as he fetched off a wiry bunch. "Do you wish to keep it, so that in years to come you may say: 'He'd a lock of air from my dear parnter's head?'"
 "Not much," cried Teddy. "I want it for a new tail for my rocking horse."

Brothers in Business.
 An advertising manager was going home one night in a trolley. It was late, and the man who sat next to him began to talk.
 "What business are you in?" he asked.
 "The advertising business."
 "Is that so? I need to be in the advertising business myself. I gave it up, though, and went into the rag-and-odd-bottle business. I was a sandwich man for a theatre for six months. Say," and he bent over confidentially, "ain't it hard work when the wind blows?"

The Three R's as They Rn't.
 At school my children learn to take deep breaths;
 They learn to clean their teeth and what to eat;
 They learn that water should be drunk before their meals,
 To wash their hands and keep their garments neat.
 They learn to weigh themselves at every turn;
 To be examined once at least a year;
 To watch for symptoms, but I want to know
 When Education symptoms will appear!

Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

I woke up this morning and I heard pop moving around getting dressed and turning the water on in the bathroom and off again, me thinking, G. e's almost dressed and he hasn't called me for school yet.

And I kept on laying there waiting for him to. With he dident, and I thawt, G. I wonder: if he's forgot all about me? Well heck, I aint going to get up without being called, I aint going to take the responsibility.

And I kept on laying there waiting to be thinking, Gosh, you wouldn't think he would forget all about his only son, if he had about $ instead of just me it would be different.

And pop kept on moving around without calling me and I kept on laying there hoping he wouldn't and wondering why he dident, and after a while I thawt, O well if he aint going to call me I'm going back to sleep, sleep does you mors good than skool anyway.

And I turned over on the other side and then turned back on the first side and then I went to sleep again, and the next time I woke up I herd the fellows wisseling outside and ma was calling up stairs, Benny, Benny, its 10 o'clock and you're not up yet, this is a fine way to waste your Saturday, I must say.

Aw G. ma, gosh, holy smooaks, is this Saturday? I sod.

Poohah question number $989, sod ma, Meening coterney it was Saturday, and I quick jumped out of bed, thinking, Heck, gosh hang it.

And the fellows kept on wisseling for me and I got dressed quicker than any day since skool started, thinking, Jimmy krismas, I mite of knew he'd never forget to call me for skool. Wich he probably never would.

Robinson-McLeod.
 Penobscot, Oct. 28.—A quiet, but pretty wedding took place tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron McLeod when their daughter, Mary Ella, became the bride of Everett William Robinson. The bride who was very becomingly dressed in her travelling suit of brown tulle with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of roses was given in marriage by her father. While Miss Annie McLeod played the wedding march. The rooms were tastefully decorated with evergreen and carnations while in the drawing-room an arch of evergreen and autumn leaves made an excellent background for the tying of the nuptial knot.

The Rev. Abram Perry officiated in the presence of about 30 guests. After a dainty supper had been served the happy couple left on the Quebec Express for a trip to Toronto, Ottawa and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Sussex, where the groom holds a position as night operator with the C. N. R.

Fish Prices Bound To Remain High

Trawlers Operating Under Increased Expenses—Coal Prices Reviewed.

"It is almost impossible for any fisherman to make a profit in the way of reducing the price of fish," stated Walter F. Leonard, president of Leonard Fisheries, Ltd., when asked on Saturday whether or not he considered there was any possibility of a recession of prices in that particular line. "Fishing material is as high as ever, and gasoline, which is one of the main items, is somewhat increased in price. There are four steam trawlers operating in Canada at the present time and the cost in connection with their operation has never yet reached the present high level. Judging from reports, it is quite possible that there will be a higher price demanded for fish in the near future. In fact, possibly this increase may become effective within two weeks, and as coal is another essential in the working of a trawler, this means a further increase in the cost of operations."

"Roughly speaking, a trawler uses about forty tons of coal per week when on her trips, although this amount depends on the size of the trawler, but you will appreciate from this rough estimate why, in view of the present cost of gasoline and the present and possible higher price for coal, among other things, that it is out of the question to reasonably expect a reduction in the price of fish. The demand for fish is so great, however, and our volume of business in that line has increased."

HALLOWE'EN PASSED OFF QUIETLY HERE

No Damage Done and Only Kiddies Out for Celebration.

Hallowe'en passed off very quietly in the city. In some sections of the town the kiddies went around in masks and groups, and "trick-tacks" and devil's ladders brought fear to the hearts of the more timid within doors.

A very feminine-looking soldier, accompanied by a Red Cross Nurse of a very juvenile appearance was seen on King street.

The older generation gave up the pastime of adjusting signs and similar amusements for the pleasures of the dance or the picture show.

SOCIAL HOUR

At St. David's church last evening a social hour of song service was instituted which was attended by one hundred and fifty persons. It was held in the school-room, to which the congregation adjourned after the regular service. The choir rendered an anthem, and Miss Erminie Climo sang a solo. Familiar hymns, old favorites were then sung, and a social half-hour spent. A number of strangers were present, who had an opportunity of meeting the pastor, Rev. J. A. MacKenna, and of being introduced to other members of the church. Robert Reid presided. It is proposed to make this song service a regular custom at St. David's during the winter season.

RECONCILIATION PLEA AROUSES ENGLAND

Oxford Professors' "Make-up" Note to Former Enemies Leads to Controversy.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.)

London, Oct. 25.—A heated controversy has arisen in England during the last week over a letter signed by 51 members of the faculty of Oxford University to educators in Germany and Austria, urging them to assist in the restoration of peace in Europe, and to end the "barbaric" and "inhuman" war which civilization demands. The Very Rev. Ralph W. Inge, the dean of St. Paul's, in a speech before the Church Congress, supported the peace note with the statement that "I don't think any impartial verdict in history will acquit our late enemies of waging the war atrociously, but they think we are wrong if we are not equally atrociously and I am terribly afraid they are right. It is absurd to treat every one living between the Rhine, the Danube and the Vistula as if he were a criminal, and responsible for sinking the Lusitania. Is it our policy to heal the wounds of war or keep them rankling?"

Oxford students and professors who refused to endorse the letter denounced it as unrepresentative of the general opinion there.

The Times declares the action was "unfortunate and inadvisable" and recalls the sons of Oxford of the manifesto of 1914, signed by 63 representatives of German science and art, denouncing the violation of Belgium as necessary for the protection of culture.

The step may lead to unexpected international complications, as it is considered by the French press as an attempt to influence the League of Nations, and likely to have a detrimental influence on Anglo-French relations. The common desire to re-establish pre-war friendships on the part of former enemies was anticipated by English educators, who urge in a letter that since there are many of you who fully share our sorrow and regret for the breach the war has occasioned in our friendly intercourse, and since we cannot doubt the sincerity which engendered your old friendships, you must, we feel, share our desire to see the speedy re-establishment of these friendships.

We, therefore, now approach you with a desire to dispel the embitterment of the animosities that under the impetus of loyal patriotism may have passed between us.

October Record Weather Month

Interesting Figures Given Out Regarding Weather of Month Just Ended.

It will come as no surprise to those who enjoyed the mild weather of last month with its days and nights of bright sunshine, and skies which October alone can give, to state that only once since 1873 has the temperature of the last month been exceeded in mildness. The mean temperature for last month was 51.7 degrees, the average temperature for October, 1913, the month which broke this year's record, was 49.7 degrees.

The days of bright sunshine last month exceeded those of September by 17 per cent, and those of October, 1919, by 14 per cent. There were twenty-two days of fine weather, and the total rainfall of the month was but 3.27 inches. Practically all the rain fell on the 1st, 21st, 28th and 29th of the month. The amount of it which exceeded two inches, falling on the last three days.

In October, 1919, the total precipitation amounted to 3.88 inches, while on the 21st of that month two and a half inches of snow fell.

The highest temperature for last month was registered on the 1st, when the mercury ascended to 67 degrees. The lowest temperature was registered yesterday, the last day of the month, when the cold wave established the low mark at 35 degrees. The mean temperature for the month was 54.9, which gives a good idea of its mildness, as compared to the other years, as according to the records of the Dominion Observatory, the average temperature for October is 45 degrees. Every one is now looking for a spell of bad weather to succeed the marvelous period of good. The majority are inclined to be rather resigned to whatever may come and will still give thanks for what will go down as "the ideal Indian summer of October, 1920."

According to those who are in the know about the weather, the mildness of October will be continued throughout the months of the coming winter. Of late the mild winters have been falling on every third year, and as this coming winter is the third, it too, may follow the example of its predecessors.

VETERAN OF TWO WARS AND ARCTIC COMES HOME AT 89

Thirty Years at Sea Follows Stirring Experiences in Civil War and Explorations.

Special to The Standard.

Sackville, Mo., Oct. 28.—Richard E. Allen, 89 years old, who served in the Confederate army during the Civil war, returned to Sackville Saturday to make his home after thirty years at sea, and to find, if possible, some of the relatives he left here and at Arrow Rock, Saline county, before he enlisted in General Braxton's command. He is in excellent health.

Allen recently returned to the United States from Odessa on the White Star liner Mesopotamia. He served as a member of crews on oil tankers, whalers, liners and freighters. He spent eighteen years in the navy, serving one enlistment during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, and was on the battleship Ohio, one of the fleet which made the trip around the world.

Years ago Allen made a trip into the Polar regions as a member of the crew of the "Bear," which with the "Alert" and the "Thetis" was outfitting and sent to the rescue of Lieutenant Nivelle and his force of men who were on an Arctic expedition in the "Franklin" and became icebound. The rescuers found Lieutenant Nivelle and seven surviving members of his crew. During the world war Allen was cook on the oil tanker "Gulf Light," which was torpedoed off King's Head light-house early in the war. The crew was rescued by the Rotterdam and carried to Brest, France, and later sent to Jamaica.

Allen was born in Norfolk, Va., October 10, 1931. His father, Dr. D. Allen, was captain of a seagoing ship, but died when Richard Allen was young, and he was brought to Missouri by an uncle with whom he resided until the Civil war broke out.

Ladies' Secret To Darken Gray Hair

Bring Back its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-made preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just wash with a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years young.

Inside and outside the Government we find those who persist in telling John Bull that he is still very sick, and they still want to treat him accordingly. The medicine with which they spoon-feed him is called "beat-reauocracy." Control still clings round our trade, our food, our cupboards, and even our personal liberties, and yet it is wondered that the patient does not regain confidence in himself and once more "feel the use of his legs."

Larry Semon, the Vitagraph comedian, is going still further in his forthcoming comedy to get startling comedy effects. He is going to introduce no less a novelty than the difficult "triple exposure." In other words, in some scenes, there will be three Larry Semons on the screen at once. This is only fitting, as Semon has a three-fold personality. He is the author, star and director of every comedy in which he appears.

THE STANDARD'S FINANCIAL SECTION

WALL STREET IS STRONGER AT THE END OF SESSION

Southern Pacific Firmer on Receipt of Better News Regarding Mexican Situation.

New York, Oct. 31.—Stocks were firm to strong in the early stages of Saturday's brief session, a moderate inquiry for the more representative rails, shippings and oils, imparting stability to related issues.

The latest turn of events in the Mexican situation contributed measurably to the strength of Southern Pacific and one of its important subsidiaries, associated oil, American Smelting also benefitting for similar reason.

Further buying of United Fruit at a substantial advance evidently had its basis in the belief that action upon its dividend is to be taken at next week's meeting of the directors.

There was little interest in the day's news to change sentiment from the recent pessimism. Comment on business prospects by the commercial agencies referred to an expansion of the retrograde movement and foreign exchange was weak, reflecting disturbing industrial advices from France and Belgium.

The clearing house statement was favorable in that an increase of almost $28,000,000 in actual cash reserves effected last week's large deficit and left an excess of $14,000,000.

Another constructive item was the further reduction of actual loans and discounts by almost $62,000,000, a total of about $152,000,000 in the past fortnight.

CUSTOMS INCREASE FOR SEVEN MONTHS

Gain is Over $22,000,000 in First Seven Months of Fiscal Year.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—An increase of $22,721,904 in the customs receipts for the seven months of the fiscal year ending yesterday as compared with the same period last year is shown in the monthly statement of the Department of Customs.

The total customs receipts were $121,209,795; last year they were $98,487,872. Customs receipts for the month of October alone, however, are $1,084,112 less than in October, 1919.

During the present month, the receipts totalled $15,124,568, while in October, 1919, they were $18,218,639.

Domestic issues were steady. In the foreign division Mexican five's were the strong feature. European issues showed little alteration. Total sales, par value, aggregated $6,675,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call for the week.

LAKE OF THE WOODS DROPS 17 POINTS ON MONTREAL EXCH.

Sugar Sold as Low as 74 But Rallied Two Points Before Closing.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—Saturday's market reflected neglect without any of the interest so prominent at the close of Friday's trading. The few offerings were sufficient to cause a loss in most cases of the advantage won on Friday at the close. The Spanish Rivers moved against the common general trend with the common selling as high as 88 and closing at a net gain of 1-1/4 points at 97-3/4, and the pre-ferred up a point at 102. In the remaining papers, Brompton closed a small fraction higher at 69-1/2, but Abitibi and Wayamack lost a fraction each and Laurentide a point. Among the stronger stocks in the list were Asbestos, which moved up a point to 92-1/2; Cement preferred, a fraction higher at 89-1/2; Steamship common up a point at 77-1/2; Dominion Steel up 1-1/2 to 51-1/2; and National Breweries up a fraction to 61-3/4.

DROPS 17 POINTS

The largest decline was made by Lake of the Woods, which on sale of 30 shares lost 17 points to 133. The previous last sale was on October 3, 1920. Cement preferred, a fraction higher at 89-1/2; Steamship common up a point at 77-1/2; Dominion Steel up 1-1/2 to 51-1/2; and National Breweries up a fraction to 61-3/4.

MECCA FOR ALL FOUND IN FRANCE ASTHMATICS IS

Springs at Mont Dore-les-Bains Sovereign Cure for This Troublesome Malady.

(Copyright, London Daily Mail; Cross-Atlantic) Mont Dore, France, Oct. 31.—Mont Dore cures asthma, are being reported from Mont Dore-les-Bains, where thousands of Europe and America are taking the treatments afforded in the mineral springs.

One asthmatic whose prominence increases the authoritative nature of his statements, but whose name is withheld, writes as follows: "Mont Dore-les-Bains, in village of Auvergne, a south central district of France, set amid mild mountains 3,412 feet above sea-level, is another Lourdes, but a Lourdes which works unemotionally with the cold stricture of science."

"The Romans, as usual found it out first the Empire the different volcanic springs of hot and cold waters and the fashioning of them into spas and resorts and a yearly cure, and at every step you come across traces of their business-like handling establishments."

"One of the most powerful springs is called Caesar to this day. He is a terrible fellow, is Caesar, and is prescribed only for the more robust patients. "This scalding waters come out of an iron-coated rock into a shallow tank in which the sufferer sits submerged to his chest, and becomes parboiled. Only a few minutes of Caesar's hearty embraces are enough to embrace the most congested countenance to an interesting pallor."

"There are twenty-two brilliant doctors here of different nationalities. They spend every summer of their lives at Mont Dore studying asthma and nothing but asthma. Not one of them knows what causes asthma or why Mont Dore cures it, and Mont Dore cures. An one of these came to me recently. "If I knew what caused asthma, or why Mont Dore cures asthma, I should be the richest man in the world."

SHOES WAGES DROP WITH PRICES DOWN

Montreal Firm Will Cut Pay-roll Thirteen Per Cent. or Close Shop.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—If the employees of the firm of Daoust, Lalonde & Co., shoe manufacturers, decline to accept a reduction of 13 per cent. in their wages, the factory will be closed for an indefinite period. This was what Joseph Daoust, head of the firm, told the employees yesterday. The reason he gave them was because the price of shoes will be substantially reduced in the spring. To make a profit under these conditions it will be necessary to reduce wages, Mr. Daoust explained.

FISH PRODUCTION IN CANADA FOR 1919

Total Value of Fish Marketed $56,485,579 Against $60,250,544 in 1918.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics today issued a preliminary statement of the Fisheries Production of Canada, prepared from the compilation of returns collected by the Bureau in co-operation with the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The total value of fish marketed fresh and of fish products is given as $56,485,579, compared with a value of $60,250,544 for 1918. Sardines and herring showed the largest decreases both in value marketed and quantity caught. The catch of haddock, halibut and cod was greater in 1919 than in 1918, while the value marketed was less. Salmon, lobsters and mackerel showed increases both in quantity caught and in value marketed. British Columbia fisheries had a value of $25,301,597, which is a decrease from 1918 of nearly two million dollars. Nova Scotia fisheries were valued at $15,171,929, a slight increase over 1918. Prince Edward Island, Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta showed increases in value, while New Brunswick, Quebec, Manitoba and Yukon showed decreases.

FRENCH BOYCOTT OUTSIDE ACTORS

English and American Artists Not Wanted in France — Threaten Reprisals.

(Copyright 1920 by Cross-Atlantic) London, Oct. 31.—There is a boycott against American theatrical and vaudeville performers in France, and English actors are included, said Monty Raylay, head of the British Variety Artists' Association, who has just returned from Paris where he went to investigate a report that plays or vaudeville sketches to be staged in France must have at least ninety per cent. of Frenchmen. "The boycott is not so much pro-German and pro-Austrian as it is anti-English and anti-American. Representatives of the French entertainment unions frankly avowed that they are committed to a pledge of "France for the French." They didn't shout during the war, but it is different now. "This unfair ruling against artists can mean nothing but a theatrical war. I gave the union leaders to understand that any attempt to interfere with American or British artists would result in reprisals."

Black Beauty. The horse that will play the title role in Vitaphone's special production of "Black Beauty," based on Anna Sewall's famous story of that name has been insured for $50,000. Although the horse probably is not valued at more than one-fiftieth of that amount, his death, or even serious injury, would necessitate the retaking of many scenes.

Interest is Challenged by a Question—Daily Problems for Standard Readers.

Answers to Saturday's Questions

1. No, the presiding officer does not usually engage in the debate and votes only when the meeting is equally divided. When a member "opposes for the decision of the chair" and the question is put by presiding officer to the meeting if his decision shall stand, the presiding officer is allowed to take part in the debate which on ordinary occasions, he is prohibited from doing.
2. No, often extensions, modifications and additions have been made from time to time thought necessary and thus the system of parliamentary rules differs in localities, notwithstanding this all the essential rules of the common parliamentary law is the foundation of all constitutions.
3. A quorum secures the fairness of proceeding by preventing matters from being concluded in a hasty manner by too small a number of members. If no rule is established on the subject a majority of the members composing the society is the required number.
4. No presiding officer should take the chair until it is ascertained that a quorum is present, but if this has been done and during the meeting it is discovered that there is not a quorum the meeting must be adjourned immediately.
5. When it is said that the "general consent" of a meeting is necessary to the adoption of a measure, it means that if the question is proposed informally no objection must be made to it, or if proposed in a formal manner, the vote in its favour must be unanimous.
6. No, the presiding officer is not independent of the members of a society, he is to represent and stand for the society, declaring its will, and in all things obeying implicitly its commands.
7. The presiding officer may read editing, but should rise to state a motion, or put a question to the assembly. It is a mistake for a presiding officer to get into the way of thinking order is better kept if he stand all the time.

Today's Questions

1. When does a Vice-President become the presiding officer?
2. Does a recording officer (secretary) take notes of every word spoken in a meeting of a society?
3. What is the correct application of the term "amendment" and how far does this agree with the usual treatment of an amendment?
4. Do you think that a motion is ever so changed that its mover is quite unable to recognize it, and how is such a difficulty overcome?
5. What are "privileged questions"?
6. Are you clear on the subject of privileged questions?

TWO HUNDRED BOYS AT Y. M. C. I.

Enjoyed a Jolly Halloween Party With Fun and Refreshments.

Hobgoblins, and witches scudding to the moon on a broom, had no terror for the jolly crowd of over two hundred boys who held their annual Halloween treat and rally at the Y. M. C. I. Saturday night.

The boys assembled promptly at 7:30 and, under the leadership of their physical director, Ernest Stirling, went through a number of interesting drills on the gym floor. The drills were followed by a number of Halloween games, and the boys then adjourned to the swimming pool. After the showers and the pleasures of the pool had been enjoyed to their utmost, the

Many American Women At Oxford

British Universities Will Have Many Students from the United States Next Term.

Copyright, 1920, By London Daily Mail. Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.

London, Oct. 29.—A remarkable feature of next term at British universities will be the number of women students from abroad, and residents in university towns are now continually receiving requests to take in foreign guests.

Ever since the war great numbers of women from Scandinavia have attended lectures at Oxford. They will soon be much outnumbered by women students from the United States, who are anxious to enjoy the atmosphere of the older universities. There is no room in the residential college, which are refusing up to 90 per cent of the applicants; and most of these very intellectual and already resident women do not desire a full three years' course.

So they become home students; and their quality is so high and their zeal so great that it is becoming the duty of the universities to cater for them by special lectures and to take steps to find them congenial homes.

They are immensely popular, with their hosts as with their fellow students. "Their influence," said a woman lecturer at Oxford, "is of the best possible sort. They widen our outlook and vitalize our intellectual life."

As there is every sign that their coming is no spasmodic fashion, but that rather more will come each year, it is held by many that the more definite steps should be taken to put the home students in touch with university life and to make it easier to find homes for them.

An immediate difficulty is the overcrowding of the universities and the want of space in many lecture rooms, especially in laboratories. But the movement, which is a great compliment to our universities, should be recognized and encouraged by full official sympathy.

"The U. S. women students at present here," said Dr. Maclean, of the American University Union, "are taking, chiefly, courses in history, literature, economics, and social science. Of those subjects which are studied better over here than in America, history is one, because of the archives, shrines, records, art treasures and libraries which the older countries possess."

"A certain amount of exchange of students is taking place; some British girls hold travelling scholarships tenable at American universities."

TEA AND APRON SALE SUCCESS

Lend-A-Hand Circle of King's Daughters Had Profitable Afternoon.

A tea and sale of aprons and candy was held by the Lend-A-Hand Circle of the King's Daughters on Saturday at the residence of Mrs. Frost, 23 Sydney street. Mrs. J. S. Frost was general convener, Mrs. W. H. Gedding being in charge of the dining room, while Mrs. Ward was convener of the candy table. At the tea table Mrs. Edith Stevens, president of the Circle, and Mrs. Wilfred Campbell presided. The proceeds are for the work of the Circle, and a substantial sum was realized, as the attendance was large.

Some of the refreshments left over were given to those in whom the members of the Order are interested.

cheery gathering proceeded to the assembly hall, where apples, cakes and seasonable refreshments were followed by an interesting programme of musical selections and rollicking choruses in which all joined with a will. When the good time at last drew to an end, the boys departed for their homes with the pronouncement that the treat was the best yet.

TODAY'S TALK

"For He Had Great Possessions."

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS (Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

There is no more inspiring character in history than that of Jesus. The manner of His birth, the way He worked, and the things he said, all are a matter of two thousand years—each day become more imperishable.

It is entirely natural that the most eminent and distinguished men of His day were sincerely attracted to Him.

One day a very accomplished young man came to talk with Him. This was the aristocrat, of fine birth, and with an education that was the product of the best schools of that time.

Jesus was very much taken with this young man and talked with him for a long time. It must have been a most interesting meeting.

But it wasn't a one-sided liking. The young man liked Jesus very much—so much so that he impulsively and enthusiastically declared: "I want to become your pupil! I want to help you in your great work of helping people."

It was here that the penetrating mind of Jesus sought to make his friend truly great, so He said: "All right, sell all that you have and come with me."

At these words, however, the young man—who was a rich young ruler—became very sad and went away, "for he had great possessions."

It is an undying law of life that he who would have most must give away all that he has. Jesus left nothing at His death—but all that He was!

Identify Babies By Footprints

Hospital Will Keep Record of Both Feet and Give Mother a Copy.

Hospitals are adopting a plan for the identification of babies by footprints in order to avoid "mixing them up," as occurred in the classic case narrated in Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore."

Says E. Bennett, obstetrical superintendent at the Columbia Hospital, Milwaukee, Wis., writing in Hospital Management, Chicago:

"At Columbia Hospital, Milwaukee, this method of identification has been followed for about three years. Prints of both feet are made and filed and a print is given to the mother. The materials used at Columbia Hospital include: One tube printers' ink, one printers' roller, gasoline, soap and water, two pieces of plate glass four by ten inches, one footprint blank, gauze sponges. A small amount of ink is rolled out smooth on a glass plate and the roller then passed over the second plate, leaving a thin coating of ink against which the infant's foot is pressed. The print is obtained by pressing the foot, coated with ink, against the footprint blank. The ink must be applied very thinly to obtain a good print. It is important that footprints be taken immediately after birth and before there is the slightest opportunity for the infants to be 'mixed up.' The footprints may be made on the history sheet or on any other plain white paper. During their stay in Columbia Hospital the infants also are tagged with a bracelet. The footprints are filed with the chart and form a permanent record which should settle any dispute, no matter how long after the birth of the infant."

MASQUERADE AT RECREATION CENTRE

Young Ladies of Y. W. C. A. Enjoyed Most Successful Halloween Party.

A most successful Halloween Masquerade was given by the Y. W. C. A. at Recreation Centre, King street east, Saturday evening, over 350 young ladies being present in grotesque costumes.

The feature of the evening was The Witches' Dance, which was held around an artificial fire, the witches uttering passages from Macbeth as they danced. The lights were lowered for the occasion. Other features were the gymnasium dances, folk dances and other events, such as characterize a Halloween Masquerade.

"There is no effort on my brow— I do not strive, I do not weep; I rush with the swift spheres and glow. In joy, and when I will, I sleep, Yet that severe, that earnest air, I saw, I felt it once—but where?"

Famous Paintings At Tate Gallery

Hogarth, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Romney and Hoppner Represented by Canvases.

By MARK ZANGWILL (Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service)

London, Oct. 29.—Among the many important works transferred from the National Gallery are some fine examples of Hogarth, including the famous "Marriage a la Mode" series. They are all here, from "The Signing of the Marriage Contract" to "The Death of the Earl" in a duel, followed by "The Death of the Conqueror" from whose dying hand the rings are being stolen. Though eminent as a satirist, Hogarth was a fine portrait painter too, witness his "Miss Lavinia Penton as 'Polly Peachum,'" the portraits of himself and his elder sister, and of "Dr. Hoareley," a cherubic cleric in full canonicals. These are all works of the first rank.

Fine Portraits. Sir Joshua Reynolds is represented by some of his finest canvases. Here is his "Dr. Johnson" clad in sober brown, with the short-sighted gaze that won him the sobriquet of "Blinking Sam" among his contemporaries. He seems about to speak, and one almost awaits his usual preliminary, "Sir!" It is a great portrait of a great personality. Here too is the gallant "Admiral Keppel," holding his sword, also the large equestrian portrait of "Lord Ligonier." Other works by Sir Joshua include those two delicious pictures of childhood, "Robinetta," with the bird on her shoulder, and "The Infant Samuel," kneeling in prayer. Also, "Mrs. Hartley and Child," that charming red-haired young mother, with her naked baby perched on her shoulder, and the "Snake in the Grass" a bashful Venus coyly with Cupid. Gainsborough is represented by the lightly draped "Maidora" bathing her feet, who never looked so well as in her new surroundings, "The Parish Clerk" and two of his finest landscapes, "Sunset" with its rustic inn and horses drinking, and the dark drama "Watering Place." The sketch for this picture is also shown, it is practically identical with the finished work.

Romney's divine Emma (and Nelson's) is here in one of her most fascinating attitudes, glancing over her shoulder, also the beautiful "Lady Craven" and that splendid presentation of handsome young manhood "William Pitt, the younger." Here, too, is the charming "Mrs. Mark Currier" in her simple white frock with pink sash and ribbons, while the dignified "Mr. and Mrs. Lindow" both on the same canvas, look as sleek and span as though painted yesterday.

Quaint Children. Hoppner is seen to much advantage in three portraits of children, very simply painted, "Miss Harriet Cholmondeley" (pronounced Chumley, the classic example) and "Master and Miss Van Dusen." The boy is a quaint figure in his little white ruff, and the puer is portrayed in the most appropriate to the boyhood of the period; the long pants reaching above the waist, and buttoned on exteriorly to the locket, the same jacket with its triple rows of buttons, which is still common to the page boy or "button" of today. Sir Thomas Lawrence is represented by the stately "Mrs. Francis Robertson" a typical example of this suave painter. Less well-known is Opie's portrait of his mother, a delicate old Scotch woman, similarly attired, and that splendid presentation of "Mrs. Michael Gully" by J. S. Copley. Nothing finer than this was ever painted even by the old Dutch masters.

MISSIONARY SERVICE. Missionary Sunday was celebrated in all Methodist churches yesterday, many of the pastors exchanging pulpits and speaking upon the preaching of the Gospel in foreign lands and at home.

LITTLE ONES HAD ENJOYABLE TIME

Seventy-five little ones, dressed in various gay costumes, made a very pretty sight on Saturday morning at the Y. W. C. A. Recreation Centre, King street East. They were nearly all members of the Gym classes taught by Miss Littlefield, Y. W. C. A. physical director, and this was their first experience at the Recreation Centre.

A feature was the witch, represented by Miss Myrtle Paterson, who sat in the middle of the floor and gathered the children around her and told them a fairy story. The children were called on to render an impromptu programme, and they showed considerable training, some giving dances, others recited, and some sang Hallowe'en songs. Prizes were awarded as follows: Prizes for the best costume, Mrs. Evans, representing yellow fairy; original costume, Constance Mullin, representing a pumpkin; most beautiful costume, little Evelyn Cowan, as a Red Cross nurse. Photographs of the children were taken.

Refreshments were served, and the surplus was taken to the Protestant Orphan's Home, where it was gratefully accepted. Miss C. F. Littlefield, physical director of the Y. W. C. A. at Recreation Centre, presided, and Miss Phyllis Woods, girls' work secretary, acted as hostess.

NATURE AND SELF-CONTROL. We cannot idle when we will. The fire which in the heart resides; The spirit bloweth and is still, In mystery our soul abides, But in the hours of insight willed Can be through hours of gloom fulfilled.

With aching hands and bleeding feet We dig and heap, lay stone on stone; We bear the burden and the heat Of the long day, and wish 'twere done. Not till the hours of light return All we have built do we discern.

Then, when the clouds are off the soul When thou dost bask in Nature's eye, Thou viewest thy self-control, Thy struggling, tasked morality. Nature, whose free light, cheerful air, Oft made thee, in thy gloom, despair.

And she, whose answer thou dost dread, Whose eye thou wast afraid to seek, See, on thy face a glow is spread, A strong emotion on her cheek! "As, child," she cries, "that strife divine, Whence was it, for it is not mine?"

"I do not strive, I do not weep; I rush with the swift spheres and glow. In joy, and when I will, I sleep, Yet that severe, that earnest air, I saw, I felt it once—but where?"

"I knew not yet the gage of time, Nor worse the manacles of space; I felt it in some other clime, I saw it in some other place. 'Twas when the heavenly house, I trod, And lay upon the breast of God." —Matthew Arnold.

DOUBLE WEDDING AT FREDERICTON

Fredericton, Oct. 31.—A pleasant event took place at the Reformed Baptist parsonage here on Wednesday, October 27th, when a double marriage was solemnized. The parties interested were: Fred Charles Gray, of Somerville, Carleton county, and Beulah Beatrice, daughter of Colby Gray, Carleton county, Carleton county, Charles Raymond Todde, of Lower Brighton, and Grace Viola, daughter of Beecher Brown, of the same place. The double ring service was read with each contracting party, Rev. Percy J. Trafton officiating. Mr. Todde and Miss Brown attending Mr. Gray and Miss Greer, then Mr. and Mrs. Gray attending Mr. Todde and Miss Brown. The parties came to Fredericton in Mr. Gray's new McLaughlin special touring car. After the ceremonies, the happy couples left for St. John and other sections of the province on a honeymoon trip. Mr. Todde and Mr. Gray are prosperous young farmers in Carleton county. Mr. and Mrs. Gray will reside at Somerville, while Mr. and Mrs. Todde take up their residence at Lower Brighton.

ARMIES OF PEACE. After the tea things are put away, After the noise and the cares of day, And the youngsters are abed; After the prayers and the good-night kiss, She by the fire and I, And the winds may blow, but I'm glad for this, And the dreams that go smiting by.

After the children's time for play, After the hours of care Have echoed in distance and died away.

And night with its peace is fair, After the lullabies are told, And the fit of the lullaby, The day seems drowsy by the evening's gold.

And the joys that go laughing by, After the games and the goblets drift, After the sleepy sea; After the hearth fire mutes life, Songs of the joys to be; After the workday world's asleep, She by the fire and I, In the dream a while time, when fairies peep.

And gladness goes dancing by, And this is the strength that the nation boasts, And this is the nation's pride, And those are grander than panoplied hosts.

The lullabies and the hearth fires bright, And the cribs where the children lie, And the dreams of love that hallow the night, And the faith that goes smiting by. —J. W. Foley.

IMPERIAL'S BIG EXTRA!

Contract Signed Sat. Night THE GREATEST HORSE RACE OF THE AGE 'Man O'War'

—VERSUS— 'Sir Barton' AT WINDSOR, ONT.

About a fortnight ago the sporting world was thrilled with the wonderful speed test between the greatest running horses of the decade, if not of the century, 'Man O'War', an American-owned animal and 'Sir Barton' the property of Commodore J. L. K. Ross, Montreal. The event was for a $75,000 purse and a $5,000 gold cup. Tens of thousands saw the race and D. W. Griffiths, picture impresario, secured the exclusive rights to film the classic at a $10,000 price. So today we are going to show this marvelous sporting picture in two thrilling reels. Every detail, every side-light, every prior and ensuing item of interest. The horse in training, close-up and slow-motion analysis of the animals; the crowds, the actual race taken by a swivel telescopic camera throughout the whole course.

OUR PATRONS ARE VERY FOND of this type of photoplay. The atmosphere of the drawing room, the gowns and exclusive surroundings invariably hold special interest for those who enjoy the fashionable, the latest and up-to-date things of life. Contrary to the title of the picture it is not a warlike picture, rather it is removed from such sordid conditions though punctuated with surprising climaxes and tense situations.

GREAT BRITISH EXPEDITION TO THE ANTARCTIC

Will Spend Six Years in Surveys Around the South Pole.

AIRPLANES AND SLEDGES EMPLOYED

In Work of Exploring This Practically Unknown Continent.

New York, Oct. 31.—The British Imperial Polar expedition, which will take a six years' geographical, geological and meteorological survey of the ice-bound continent of the South Pole, with a view to commercial development of the big frozen tract, sailed on Friday from Norfolk, Va., on the first stage of the enterprise.

The enterprise, Commander Cope who is in command, would be the biggest exploration expedition that had ever left England. More than 100 men, four ships, thirty dogs, several aeroplanes and an extensive wireless system will be employed.

Not After the Pole. Pole-reaching or exploration is not the purpose of the expedition. Its objects, as described by Commander Cope, are threefold: The gathering of meteorological data over extended periods of time, and particularly studies of the influence of Antarctic conditions on Australia and South Africa.

Several innovations will be attempted by the party in addition to the use of aeroplanes and the employment of sledges continuously—even during the four months of winter—the long Antarctic night. Another is the use of tents and snow houses, instead of huts.

Canadian Huskies. The advance party will include the Commander, Cope, N. C. Lester, R. N. B. navigator, George H. W. Wilkins, 2nd, photographer and surveyor; Thomas W. Bagshawe, geologist; and another man, undecided upon, who will join the expedition at Montevideo. The ship will carry thirty dogs, Canadian huskies, obtained from the Hudson Bay Company.

After our arrival at Deception Island, in the Antarctic region, we will leave the whalers for the catcher, which will take us to Hope Bay, Graham Land, on the fringe of the Antarctic continent. Then we will take the dogs and sledge westward across Weddell Sea as far as Coatsland, on the eastern side of the continent. The journey to Coatsland and return will be about 1,200 miles over a hitherto untried route.

MEN AND BUSINESS (By Richard Spillane)

There is a shameful waste of meat through the overcrowding of cattle, sheep and hogs in transporting them to market or by the burnt or stupid mauling of them.

In 1919 there were 10,089,584 cattle slaughtered under federal inspection.

From the records of fifty-three markets in which hogs were slaughtered last year, it appears that there was an average loss, owing to bruises received in transit, of one-half pound per hog in the 30,512,000 hogs killed.

When is this to end? Of course, some of the injuries sustained by animals on the railroads are unavoidable, but overcrowding, rough handling, and shooting brutally are the cause of most of the injuries.

Nat Parks, livestock agent of the Southern Pacific, said in a report to the Institute of American Meat Packers: "Down in our country lots of men go along with stock just to make the trip (without paying fare). We find lawyers, doctors, hotel men and everybody else going with livestock. They ride back in the caboose and they don't go near the cattle."

It is not to be expected that in the transportation of millions of animals some will not be injured, some killed through accident. Some fall, some are kicked by other animals. But the vast majority of those injured come to their deaths through overcrowding, through beatings while being loaded or unloaded, for their so-called caretakers use clubs, poles with spiked ends, even pitchforks.

And there is another phase of cruelty—neglect. "I recall," says Everett C. Brown, president of the National Livestock Exchange, "that one day a road brought 160 dead hogs into one of the Missouri River markets simply because they had ordered the crews not to water them."

A Rare Bird. "He's one of our best after-dinner speakers."

"That so?"

"Yes. Never has much to say and always knows when he's said it."

But Who Gives the Embrace? And $200 is left to her daughter, Elision, who is also to receive her piano and a hug as compensation for services.—Tiffin (O.), Tribune.

Physician Resents Slur On Hospital

Regards Recent Published Statement as Damaging and Insulting to Staff.

For some time past it has been known that matters at the General Public Hospital are not up to the standard and many questions have been asked as to the reasons for certain things. In an account of a meeting of the Board of Commissioners, published in a morning paper, the following paragraphs occur:

The doctors in their report expressed the opinion that a larger staff of doctors would be required and more laboratory facilities would be necessary if the requirements of the standardization programme were carried out. The Board is desirous of having the hospital standardized but it was said at the meeting that what was required was not more accommodation in the hospital but more intensive study on the part of the staff, and a higher class of work.

Physician's View. Questioned regarding the above paragraph by a prominent St. John physician and one long connected with the hospital said:

"The statement that a more intensive study on the part of the staff and a higher class of work is what is required at the hospital is damaging to the hospital and insulting to the staff. It is quite true that the hospital to be standardized must be a large institution but it is necessary that there should be laboratory facilities for which there is no room in the present building. The medical board, at a meeting requested of the commissioners that the increased accommodation be provided, but their request was not complied with and, until such is done, it will be impossible to place the General Hospital upon the professional map."

Character of Work High. Although we have been handicapped for many years by lack of space and lack of equipment, statistics will show that the character of the work performed is of the highest order...

Time to Act. "The time, I believe, is rapidly approaching when the citizens of St. John will refuse to allow hospital matters to be treated as they have been in the past. A city of the size and importance of St. John should possess a large, modern, well equipped and well officered hospital. It should not such an institution at the present time, and it would appear that nothing short of a revolution can accomplish it. Would a careful inquiry into the whole situation by a Commission of broad-minded, progressive and public spirited citizens provide a remedy for the existing situation?"
