ANOTHER BACK-DOWN

In almost as large type as that in which it had announced Mr. Fleming's Valley Railway policy, the Standard yesterday announced its abandonment.

It is an interesting coincidence that on the very evening on which Mr. Fleming's letter to Dr. Pugsley was sent to the Standard, a meeting was held in Andover, called at the instance of Senator Baird.

NEW ENGLAND FARM VALUES

It is stated that during the last ten years the average value of the farm lands of New England increased over a thousand dollars. This rapid advance in value in these six states is chiefly during the last few years of the decade.

There is a large amount of prosperity among the Canadian farmers that will be revealed when the present census figures are available, but the difference in value of farms similarly situated in Maine and New Brunswick is very marked.

the midst of this difficult labor, is approached by a stranger who says: "If you had that cow in London, you would get fifty pounds for it. Yes, replied the Highlander, "and if I had Loch Lomond in hell, I would get still more than that for it."

With a free interchange of the natural products of the two countries the first result would be an immediate and very large increase in farm values in the Maritime Provinces. Already it is said that the prospect of this interchange is increasing the value of property along the St. John river and the American border.

There are many conditions that should be improved if the farmer is to take full advantage of the new conditions which free trade in natural products will introduce. For instance, there is no reason why white clover seed at present should be retailing at Woodstock, in the very heart of the farming district, at 45 cents per pound when seed of the same quality can be bought in St. John for very much less.

THE TRUSTS

The agitation against the exactions of the trusts is growing so on every hand and in unexpected quarters that it does look as if the long-suffering consumer was at last within hailing distance of relief.

STAY IN THE EAST

A former resident of the east, who is living in the west and who has done well in the west, was asked by the Sussex Record for a frank statement concerning western life and conditions. He states that the fact above all others which he would emphasize is that the west is a country where capital is necessary to success, and that it takes more money each year to get into the game.

DR. PUGSLEY'S FIRST LETTER

The Telegraph on Saturday published Hon. Dr. Pugsley's letter replying to Acting-Premier Fleming's communication on June 5, relating to the Valley Railway.

WHO'LL TURN THE GRINDSTONE?

Charles Miner suggested the question just a century ago. He tells us that when he was a little boy he was accosted one cold winter morning by a man with an axe on his shoulder. "My pretty boy," he said, "has your father a grindstone?"

RELIGIOUS PROGRESS

The sermon of Dr. Forrest, the Moderator of the General Assembly, condemns very strongly some modern tendencies in religion and particularly in preaching. He says in effect that preachers should not

THE VALLEY RAILWAY

As will be seen by our Ottawa despatches, Hon. Mr. Pugsley has written Acting Premier Fleming, informing the latter that he will endeavor to arrange as soon as possible for a conference between the provincial ministers and Hon. Mr. Graham and himself.

THE OTHER SIDE

The St. John Standard yesterday asserted in its headlines over a London cable that "Loyal Laurier queried plan of conference." This heading appeared over a cable in which it was stated that the conference could not agree on the British government's proposal to establish a standing committee of the Imperial Conference, consisting of the Colonial Secretary, the commissioners of the overseas states and other prominent officials.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier puts his finger upon the weak spot in the proposal when he says that the new body would be responsible to none of the parliaments of the Empire and might tend to a semblance of independence and the lessening of full ministerial responsibility. The end of the discussion will probably be the withdrawal of the proposal, to which no one here outside of the ministry seems to attach much importance.

FOREST FIRES

This season has already witnessed a wholly unusual amount of destruction of our forests through fires. It should have the effect of crystallizing public sentiment for adequate protection and preservation. The laying waste of the forests is a sufficiently melancholy thing, but when the economic loss is considered, and the ruin which cannot be repaired for generations, the need for resolute and definite action will be apparent.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Ottawa they are discussing the question of employing a city architect. In a growing city there should be a definite plan of expansion, so that as the city grows ample provision may be made to insure a harmonious effect, and healthy surroundings for the homes of the people.

THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF THRIFT

"There is nothing more admirable than thrift, and there is nothing more pitiable than when the accumulations of thrift are pocketed by the rapacious hordes who prey upon the small investor," says the London (Eng.) Economist. Thrift is both a private and a public virtue, and as a private virtue it gives that feeling of independence and courage which springs from the sense of security, and which are not only virtues in themselves, but are an almost indispensable basis of character.

Farnworth & Jardine's wood circular for the current month contains the following on the situation of the spruce market in the west of England:

concern themselves with conditions, sociology and concrete social conditions among the people to whom they preach. Dr. Forrest is representing the official voice of the Presbyterian church in Canada. He speaks perhaps for a majority of the clergy, yet a very strong and effective minority will dissent most emphatically from his conclusions.

There are many voices in the church other than the official, and none of them is without significance, but indeed the official voice of the Protestant churches of America is out of accord with Dr. Forrest's conclusions. Thirty-three denominations, representing eighteen million church members, and nearly forty million adherents, spoke officially with reference to the church's attitude toward labor, at the meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, held in Philadelphia two years ago.

But to a very large extent these resolutions are but the work of some men who dared to challenge the church, and the church not caring to oppose, simply accepted the resolutions with perhaps little thought that anything would ever be done with them.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE THE EVIL OF CIVIL WAR

By Henry John Temple, (Lord Palmerston)

From a speech in the English house of commons on the Roman Catholic relief bill, March 18, 1829.

THEN come we to the last remedy—civil war. Some gentlemen say that, sooner or later, we must fight for it, and the sword must decide. They tell us that, if blood were shed, the sword would decide. They tell us that, if blood were shed, the sword would decide.

But, that gentlemen from unfortunate and ill-starred Ireland, who have never seen with their own eyes, and heard with their own ears, the miseries which civil war produces, who have never known, by their own experience the barbarism, ay, the barbarity, which it engenders—that such persons should look upon civil war as anything short of the last and greatest of national calamities, it is to me a matter of the deepest and most unmixt astonishment.

But to a very large extent these resolutions are but the work of some men who dared to challenge the church, and the church not caring to oppose, simply accepted the resolutions with perhaps little thought that anything would ever be done with them.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

The roses and the lilies have had a heap of praise from barbs and other wits, in prose and soulful lays. The lilies and the roses are surely good as what, and in their graceful poses they simply can't be beat.

INTERIOR HORTICULTURE LANDSCAPE GARDENING

The Sixth of a Series of Home Adornment. In garden and lawn planting contributes so much to the natural effect as vines, but creeping. They are particularly small lots as they give a small space. They do not creep. On large places also they may be employed for hiding unsightly outbuildings, barnyards, etc. Stone fences and walls. They may be used to relieve all spots that are not eye. For the making of a wood or other material the verandah up and over the house may be made. Not only for ornament but also for shade. Vines have a place in a dening. By growing them on the back of the house, they may be made to appear as if they were an old stone building with their vines and creepers. They make a very fine effect. They give an air of wildness that no other class of plants can give. They are always a place for climbing vines.

WOODY CLIMBERS

An excellent vine for a porch and one that is not so rapid in its growth as the grape. It is graceful and its fruit is excellent. It is a very fine climber, and its fruit is excellent. It is a very fine climber, and its fruit is excellent. It is a very fine climber, and its fruit is excellent.

THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF THRIFT

"There is nothing more admirable than thrift, and there is nothing more pitiable than when the accumulations of thrift are pocketed by the rapacious hordes who prey upon the small investor," says the London (Eng.) Economist. Thrift is both a private and a public virtue, and as a private virtue it gives that feeling of independence and courage which springs from the sense of security, and which are not only virtues in themselves, but are an almost indispensable basis of character.

WOODSTOCK DISTRICT METHODIST MEETING

Pass Unanimous Resolutions Favoring Church Union and Against the "No Temere" Decree.

The Woodstock district of the Methodist church met in annual session at Debevoise Junction on Tuesday and Wednesday last, under the chairmanship of the Rev. R. W. Weddell.

The district extended from Grand Falls and Plaster Rock to Canterbury, including nine circuits with ten members. Satisfactory reports of the year's work were rendered from all these charges.

The district pronounced itself in an emphatic manner upon the questions of church union and the sacredness of the marriage tie by the following resolutions carried unanimously:

"Resolved, that we the members of the Woodstock district of the Methodist church have been greatly interested in the inception and progress so far made towards the union of the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist churches of this Dominion, and believe that the movement has been inspired by the Spirit of God and that it will greatly tend towards the advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom, and for the moral and spiritual uplifting of this great country.

We therefore express our hearty approval of the union and hope for its early consummation. Resolved, that inasmuch as certain proceedings have taken place within this dominion in regard to the annulment of the sacred obligations involved in the marriage contract, thereby threatening the home life of our nation, and inasmuch as the enforcement of the 'No Temere' decree must necessarily prove detrimental and destructive to the national life, wrecking homes, causing separations and imposing the awful burden of disgrace upon innocent women and children, we the members of the Woodstock district, gathered in annual session, most emphatically utter our protest against the annulment of the marriage tie in this dominion and call for its immediate withdrawal and furthermore ask for legislation enactment to grant a uniform marriage law for use in the entire Dominion."
