policy in the new Cabinet, in the belief that Lord Rosebery, Mr. Gladstone's Secretary for Foreign Affairs, will be easily worried into resigning. Friends of Lord Rosebery declare that Mr. Labouchere is making a big mistake, and that Lord Rosebery is able to drive Labouchere, if need be, out of public life. Lord Rosebery started the fight by sending a paragraph to the newspapers giving the lie to the assertion of Labouchere's paper (Truth) that the Queen had induced him (Lord Rosebery) to accept office.

Sir Charles Dilke has created the impression that he does not love Labouchero and is not likely to join the disappointed editor in an attempt to wreek the Liberal party. But Sir Charles said the other day: "My views in regard to Egypt to some extend accord with those of Mr. Labouchere. We agree that the interests of the empire, and the successive pledges entered into by the British Government, require the evacuation of Egypt. But in regard to advancing discussion on the subjest, I am not aware that I yet agree with Mr. Labouchere I probably attach more importance than he does to making no breach in the continuity of British policy. The negotiations with France ought to be renewed exactly at the point where Lord Salisbury dropped them. The Afghan question requires careful watching, and I, myself, attach more importance to Afghanistan and Turkestan than to Egypt. "It is a great mistake," added Sir Charles, "for France to suppose that England has any designs on Morocco. the Continent. Tracing the Origin and Track of the Dread Disease.

Results of Hamburg's Criminal Mistake and Mismanagement.

Etringent Orders Against Landing Emigrants at Montreal-More Deaths on Board the Steamers in New York Harbor.

London, Sept. 5.—Not until the past week has Europe realized the awful calamity which has befallen the old world in the cholera epidemic. Even now England is not much alarmed, although the pestilence is at her very gates and has actually crossed the insufficient barriers at more than one point. It is far too early, with the turning point of the evil, it is hoped, just passed, to make up the fatal record. Already it is the story of one of the great catastrophies of the age. An examination of the grim daily death roll of the past month has been made and the figures at the bottom of the column, inadequate as they are, make an appalling total. More than 150,000 human beings in Europe have already perished of the pestilence. That estimate probably is far too low. It is based almost solely upon the official reports from the infected districts, and those reports, there is grave reason for believing, in many cases have fallen far short of the truth. More than nine-tenths of the victims of the securge have been Russians, and about the details of its terrific work in that country we know almost nothing. The terrible story behind that grim daily bulletin from St. Petersburg announcing from 2,500 to 4,000 deaths is not to be told.

Gradually the facts are coming out about the introduction and spread of the disease in western Europe. Its track has been pretty clearly defined now, and it is very interesting to trace it.

It has been said that Russian emigrants, most of them bound to America, have introduced the disease wherever it has appeared west of the Czar's dominions. This is for the most part true, but the emigrants have come from a district where the Russian Jews who took the disease to Hamburg came from Poland. So did the emigrants who have fallen ill with it at a dozen places in Austria. Two or three from the same came from Poland. So did the emigrants who have fallen ill with it at a dozen places in Austria. Two or three from the same unhappy and benighted country have been stricken down with the plague in England this week, but from Poland itself we hear nothing. It is more difficult to get news from there than from Greenland or Central Africa. By and by there will come a frightful story of pestilence and death among a destitute and starving people.

In nearly all places where the disease has been introduced, except Hamburg, it has been promptly and efficiently combatted. Hamburg made a criminal mistake, which already has cost many hundreds of lives and which has brought the worst disaster which could have befallen the commercial interests of the city. Her authorities met the crisis with inadequate measures, and sought to conceal so long as possible the presence of the arch enemy.

An ASTOUNDING DISCLOSURE.

The people of New York may well be astonished and indignant at the avowal made by the physician of the steamship Moravia, in an interview with Health Officer Jankins. Dr. Jenkins is reported as saying:

aying:
"I asked him (the ship's physician) what "I asked him (the ship's physician) what its diagnosis of the cases was, and he said holerine. I suggested that the percentage if deaths, 22 out of 24, was very large for mything but genuine Asiatic cholera, but thought not, and explained that these mmigrants had all been crowded together n cars for several days, and had been raveling long distances before reaching Hamburg. They were then hurried immediately on board the ship, so that they left bort in a very weak and debilitated condition.

SERINGENT REGULATIONS IN QUEREC.

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—The following regulations, now binding in Quebec, were passed in a meeting of the Provincial Board of Health to-day: "It is forbidden until further orders to bring either by water or land emigrants or effects into the Province of Quebec. It is forbidden any vessel owning from a port infected with cholera to land in the Province of Quebec. It is forbidden any vessel having had during the passage any case of cholera on board to land at any place in the Province of Quebec or disembark, passengers or merchandise.

"It is resolved that inspectors under courtol of the Provincial Board be appointed at Montreal, Sorel, Three Rivers, Rimeuski and other places where deemed necessary, and at railway stations where it may be deemed necessary to enforce the bylaws of the Provincial Board of Health, respecting landing of immigrants and effects or landing of vessels having had cholera on board."

NOT MUCH DANGER FROM CANADIAN SOURCES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The international quarantine inspecting commissioner has arrived here from Quebec to hold an interstate conference. Headache and Neuralgia Disappear at the Touch of Her Wet, Cold Fingers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5 .- There is SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—There is a girl in this city who can cure headaches, and cure them without a bit of medicine. She just lays her hand on the achee's head, and that settles the whole matter. There is semething peculiar about the girl's hands. They are white and shapely and very nice to look at, but to touch—ugh! they'roms cold as ice. More than that, they are always dripping wet, these strange hands.

they'rease cold as ice. More than they are always dripping wet, these strange hands.

It's an eerie thing to see a handsome, healthy girl lift her hands and let an icy dew fail from the ends of her fingers. She can do that any time she wants to. She is a tall, handsome young woman, who has never heen ill in her life. She is rosy-cheeked and bright-eyed, and she isn't the slightest particle like the typical healer. She works in a big hot factory down town, and she can cure any girl in the place of headache or any kind of pain. She doesn't go through strange evolutions or weird incantations. She just pushes back her sleever and lays her cold, wet hands on the aching head. The patient feels a queer, creepy, shivery sensation crawling down her back. The cold hands move slowly across the hot forchead of the sufferer, the throbbing pain stops, the nervous twitching of the eyelids cases and the headache is gone.

"I don't know how [I do it," says the young woman with the strange hands, smiling pleasantly. "I am not quite sure that I care to know. If I can cure people of sickness I am very glad."

"How long have you possessed this power?"
"Only recently I met a healer, and he power?"

Only recently I met a healer, and he told me I had great power in that way. I tried it at home and I found I could help my sister and her friends. The only thing is, I find, I seem to take the pain from the patient to myself. I don't like that very well."

Detroit, was found a few miles below Amhersburg and taken to Detroit on Sunday. Materson was 28 years of age. He was born and grew up in Brantford.

"And your hands, were they always so strange."

"Always. They are never warm and they are never dry. They drip like this all the time. I have seen several physicians about them. It's rather unpleasant to have them always wet, you know."

"The physicians never explained it very clearly. Some of them said it was nervousness that made my hands drip so. Some of them said it was nervousness that made my hands drip so. Some of them said it was nervousness that made my hands drip so. Some of them said it was something abnormal in the glands of the skin. They did not know how to stop it. I am just getting interested in my power. I want to see what I can do. It may not amount to much, after all. It would be a lovely thing to be able to help the suffering, wouldn't it?"

The friends of this interesting young The friends of this interesting young woman are enthusiastic over her gift. "She is too modest about it," said a frail little woman yesterday. "She has a marvelous gift. I have suffered frightfully with neuralgia for months. Neilie has just begun to treat me, and I feel like a different woman. "How does it feel when she puts her header woman."

hand on my head? Oh, the hands are very cold and they chill me at first, but after-ward the pain goes and I feel as I used to feel before that awful neuralgia came to drive we distracted?

drive me distracted."

The strangest thing about all this strange affair is that the cures wrought by the girl with the peculiar hands are permanent, or seemingly so. The headache or the neuralseemingly so. The headach or the heuran-gia does not go away simply for the day— it goes away and does not return. The young woman's name is Nellie Barnum, and she is a quiet, modest girl, who hates the smallest shadow of notoriety.

Fire Hazard.

Prof. Charles B. Gibson, of Chicago, in his special report to the insurance companies on the "Hazard of Steam Pipes," and upon "Coverings for Steam Pipes," says: "All organic matter, such as hair felt, becomes more or less charred by constant contact with hot steam pipes, even though the temperature be but a little above the boiling point of water; and by steam of 300° F. and above, so thoroughly scorched after a time as to become very fragile and to crumble away rapidly. It is noticeable that the dust formed from this charred material is very combustible and will flash like gunpowder when thrown into the fire. When steam of high temperature is used it is by far the safest to employ a cevering wholly incombustible," Mineral Wool is the most satisfactory covering and is absolutely fire-prof. THE DANGER OF DELAY. If cholera is kept out of Canada, it will

The dilatoriness of the Minister of Agri-

They hesitate at nothing, feeling satisfied that, no matter how nefarious their methods, they are sure of being not only acquitted but rewarded." This is how it was done, according to our usually well-informed contemporary: "Mr. Savard, the unseated member, had been elected as a Liberal, but turned over to the Conservatives after taking his seat. Sir Adolphe Caron, however, would have none of him, pushed the protest against his return, which was successful, and hence the new election. case unless the Government or its friends bribe their opponents into acquiescence with the illegality, or in some way block the action of the courts. An appeal from the decision of the deputy returning officer The Advertiser to the county judge lies in such a case as this, and it is probable there will be a rethis, and it is probable there will be a recount before him, and if necessary a protest also. Unless there is another Judge Elliot on the Canadian bench, which does not seem likely, there can be no doubt as to what the decision of the court will be, for the law requiring voters' names to be on

VICE-PRESIDENT SHAUGHNESSY, of the C. P. R., says that President Van Horne and Mr. E. B. Osler have not gone to and Mr. E. B. Osfer have not gone to Europe with the intention of negotiating for a fast steamship line to ply the Atlantic, but on totally different business. The public will now be kept guessing what that business is.

No proper accommodation for the detention of suspects. 4. 5No adequate and safe water supply either for washing, bathing, drinking or other necessary purposes. Because of these defects in the quarantine arrangements, now alleged to be in the course of remedying, the United States authorities have threatened to protect their borders by establishing a vexatious quarantine of our railways at the international boundary. This would be most unfortunate. The international traffic is too valuable to be made sport of by lymphatic politicians, THE Hamilton Herald, which supported the Dominion Government at last general election, joins in the revolt against the election of Sir John Thompson as successor to Premier Abbott, who, as already foreshadowed in the ADVERTISER, may be expected to retire from public life within the next month or two. Our contemporary says: "It will hardly be argued that Sir John Thompson has turned out to be the fine, honorable man we all thought he was until the discovery was made that he was THE Hamilton Herald, which supported until the discovery was made that he was until the discovery was made that he was very strong in professions and very weak in practice. Every one admits his marked ability, but he does not hold that high place in the esteem of the public that he should hold. Still, he has proved to be less tricky than Sir Charles Tupper. Does any one imagine that the people of Canada would indorse either Thompson or Iupper at the next general election? The fact is Sir John Thompson had his chance and made ducks and drakes of it, while the made ducks and drakes of it, while the public puts as much confidence in the integrity of Tupper as it does in the stability of a pattern in a kaleidoscope." Thus doth a candid friend holds forth. says that "in spite of our stringent election law and the costly system of making up the voters' lists, scarcely an election takes

According to a medical expert, it is mistake to suppose that an attack of Asiatic cholera is accompanied with great Asiatic enoiera is accompanied with great pain. There are slight cramps in the calves of the legs, caused by reflex action, but the connection between these and the disease has not been determined. Death is disease has not been determined. Death is caused directly by asphyxia brought about in a curious way. In consequence of the almost constant vomiting and purging of the patients the blood becomes very thick and patients the blood becomes very thick and refuses to circulate. An Italian physician, Dr. Cantani, has discovered what he considers a cure for cholera, and it is said to he used effectively at Hamburg. It has been cabled to this country and will be tried at New York, and doubtless in Canada, should the disease get a foothold on our chores. The curative agent is nothing but should the disease get a foothold on our shores. The curative agent is nothing but the injection of a weak solution of salt and water into the veins in the proportion of one part of salt to 7,000 of water. The water is heated to the temperature of the human body and injected into the veins in small quantities. A solution of tannin is small quantities. A solution of tannin is also used as an enema. This tends to stop the Government, while Mr. Belley was nominated as the regular Conservative candidate. In order to place his election beyond a doubt, his friends disregarded the proclamation appointing polling places, and managed matters so that five parishes the diarrhoa and produces coma in the bacteria, while salt and water thins the blood again. Enemas of brandy and water will be used to stimulate the patients. No medicine can be given by the mouth, as the most constant vomiting renders this use-

INTERNATIONAL TROUBLES. New Plan of Retaliation Discussed in

It appears that the returning officer was advised by a prominent Conservative wirepulier that it would be necessary to establish a polling place at Pointe aux Equimanx, because there was a large vote there, and all for the Government candidate. Thereupon, "Dr. Tremblay, of Pointe aux Equimanx, was declared, whether legally or not, deputy returning officer, and herecived instructions in a telegram signed 'J. G. Bergeron' to take a little wooden box, to prepare ballots in handwriting bearing the names of the three candidates, to administer the eath to himself, and when voting was over open the box, count the ballots and telegraph the result to Returning Officer Gosselin at Chicoutimi." Even then Dr. Tremblay found himself at a loss what to de as he had no voters' lists. He applied for instructions to Mr. Gosselin, and received a telegram in reply, the authorship of which is disputed, telling him to "allow those to disputed, telling him to "allow these to tote who you think should be on the lists." Dr. Tremblay, it seems, complied with these instructions, although evidently disconting the production of the corresponding to the former has a majority discontinuous channel. Rain Brings Relief to the Famished Remnant.

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—At least two of those who sailed from Drake's Bay in the ill-fated slave brig Tahiti were saved, if the story told by Leon Martell is true. Martell arrived in San Francisco last Friday from the coast above Manzanilla, where he said he found two of the Tahiti's crew. The men were alive, but their sufferings had been horrible.

One of the men was a Russian Finn named Johansen, and the other was a Gilbert islander. The men told him that they were on board the Tahiti when she capsized, and that with four others they managed to make their escape in a small boat. The brig capsized in a heavy storm at night and was bottom up inside of five minutes after the squall struck her. The boat in which Johansen claimed to have made his escape was on top of the house and floated off when the brig capsized.

Johansen says that he was on deck at the time and sprang for the boats as the vessel went over. Four others, a woman and three men, all Gilbert Islanders, climbed into the boat. They had neither food nor water and only three oars. When daylight came they were out of sight of the brig and thought she had gone down.

On the fourth day after leaving the brig the woman died and the rest of the party were forced to eat portions of her body to keep themselves alive. The sufferings of the castaways in the little boat were terrible. For the first few days after leaving the brig it blew a hard gale and the men had all they could do to prevent the boat frem swamping.

Several heavy shewers of rain fell, but it did them little good, as what fell in the boat frem swamping.

Several heavy shewers of rain fell, but it did them little good, as what fell in the boat frem swamping.

Several heavy shewers of rain fell, but it did them little good, as what fell in the boat frem swamping.

On the tenth day one of the islanders took to drinking salt water, and soon went to thirst, the sun came out and cease down. So the unfortunate castaways with tropical force and they suffered terrible tortures from thirst.

On the tenth day one of the islanders took to drinking salt water, and soon went raving mad, and that night he ended his sufferings by plunging into the soa. They had no idea in what direction they were drifting, and during the entire time they were in the boat not a single sail was sighted. Another of the islanders was taken siek on the twelfth day, and died two days subsequently. The body was cast overboard, and the two survivors lay in the little craft waiting for the death that seemed not far off.

It rained heavily that night, and the little boat was soon half full of water and the two men drank of the precious fluid until it seemed as if they would burst. When daylight came the remains of the woman's body was thrown overboard, as the stench became unbearable, and, starving as they were, they could not satisfy their hunger with such repulsive food. On the morning of the 26th, sixteen days after leaving the Ill-fated brig, the boat was castashere, and more dead than alive the two men crawled out of her and lay down on fishermen near by, and it was there that they were found by Martell. The islander had recovered from his terrible experience, but Johanson was still sick. Whether his illness was due to his expessive in the boat or not Martell could net state.

Matell is a Mexican with little or no education, and who has no fixed residence, but this story may be true, and if so, it shows that at least two men escaped the terrible diasster that overtook the brig and sent fully 400 human beings into eternity. It will be remembered that the Tailli sailed from Drake's Bay on Sept. 8 of last yoar with a cargo of Gilbert islanders, bound for some port in Guatemala. Nothing was seen or heard of the vessel until she was signted, bottom up, near the Lizzad Point by the steamer Roseville some time in the latter part of October.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Henry M. Potter, as trustee, has brought suit in the Supreme Court against the United States National Bank, Logan C. Murray, Evan G. Sherman and John G. McCook for $4,000,000. As collateral the company pledged 200 shares of stock of the Bankers' and Merchants', 200 sinners of the stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, 200 shares of stock of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, 200 shares of stock of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, and $20,000 in first mortgage bonds of the Onio Southern Railway Company. This was considered to be ample security, and it is claimed there was no warrant for calling the trumination of the loan, or the appropriation or sale by the bank of any of the securities.

Notwithstanding this fact, it is alleged the defendants, with a view of destroying the credit of A. W. Dimock & Co. and of imparing the market value of the telegraph company's stocks and bonds and precipitating rula upon that corporation, conspired to demand the repayment of the loan and to sell the securities.

The demand was made but not met, and the stocks and bonds were sold cheaply at public auction. It is contended that this action caused the failure of A. W. Dimock & Co. and the sacrifice of the telegraph

The alleged conspiracy was not discovered by A. W. Dimock & Co. until June, 1890. A year later A. V. Dimock transferred his claim and right of action to his brother, A. W. Dimock. Subsequently the entire claim was bought by the present pointing.

Here is an incident from the South
—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and I caught that also very severely. The first annual Labor Day demonstration was held in London yesterday.
The initiative in the matter was taken by the eigarmakers a short time since, and there were many difficulties in the way of an imposing celebration. The building trades had already arranged for their annual picnic, which took place at Port Stanley, and were therefore unable to cooperate. Many establishments had also had their outings, making it impossible for the employes to secure another half-holiday. The lateness of the season, the short time in which to make preparations and other causes prevented many workingmen from participating, much to their regret.

THE DANGER OF DELAY. If cholera is kept out of Canada, it will be more by chance than good management. The dilatoriness of the Minister of Agriculture has been scandalous, and calculated to injure Canadian railway interests. Only last week the International Quarantine Commission condemned the Quarantine station at Grosse Isle as inefficient. The objections to it are: 1. No wharf adequate for the safe and speedy landing of passengers and their effects and at which vessels may be disinfected. 2. No suitable vessels may be disinfected. 2. No suitable disinfecting apparatus for either baggage, cargo or vessels. 3. No proper accommodation for the detention of suspects.

4.5No adequate and safe water supply either for washing, bathing, drinking or other necessary purposes. Because of these defects in the quarantine arrangements, now alleged to be in the course of remedying, the United States authorities have threatened to protect their borders have threatened to protect their borders have threatened to protect their borders by establishing a vexatious quarantine of our railways at the international boundary. This would be most unfortunate. The international traffic is too valuable to be made sport of by lymphatic politicians, who seem never to be able to move till public complex compels them to do their public opinion compels them to do their plainest of duties.

A COMPANION FOR MR. CARLING. The London election steal has a counterpart in the Chicoutimi and Saguenay Dominion election rascality, of which full particulars are given in the Montreal Witness Our contemporary, discussing the affair, says that "in spite of our stringent election law and the costly system of making up the voters' lists, scarcely an election takes place without flagrant trickery and corruption. The sanction given by the House of Commons to the action of Judge Elliot in the London case seems to have emboddened those who undertake to win elections for the Ministry. They hesitate at nothing, feeling satisfied that, no matter how nefarious their matheds, they are sure of feeling satisfied that, no matter how ne-farious their methods, they are sure of being not only acquitted but rewarded." This is how it was done, according to our usually well-informed contemporary: "Mr. Savard, the unseated member, had been elected as a Liberal, but turned over been elected as a Liberal, but turned over to the Conservatives after taking his seat. Sir Adolphe Caron, however, would have Sir Adolphe Caron, however, would have none of him, pushed the protest against his return, which was successful, and hence the new election. Mr. Savard again became a candidate, claiming to be a supporter of the Government, while Mr. Belley was nominated as the regular Conservative candidate. In order to place his election beyond a doubt, his friends disregarded the proclamation appointing polling places, and managed matters so that five parishes were practically disfranchised by having disfranchised by having no provision made for recording votes. At ere practically Pointe aux Esquimaux, on the Labrador coast, where the people have never before voted, and have never had their names placed on the electoral lists, and where no provisions for balloting have ever been made, voting was allowed under extroardin-

It appears that the returning officer was advised by a prominent Conservative wire-puller that it would be necessary to estab-lish a polling place at Pointe aux Esquimaux, because there was a large vote there, and all for the Government candidate. Thereupon, "Dr. Tremblay, of Pointe aux Esquimaux, was declared, whether legally or not, deputy returning officer, and he received instructions in a telegram signed J. G. Bergeron' to take a little wooden box, to prepare ballots in handwriting bearing the names of the three candidates, to administer the oath to himself, and when voting was over open the box, count the ballots and telegraph the result to Re-Officer Gosselin at Chicoutimi." Even then Dr. Tremblay found himself at a loss what to do as he had no voters' lists. He applied for instructions to Mr. Gosselin, and received a telegram in reply, the authorship of which is disjusted, teiling him to "allow those to vote who you think should be on the lists." Dr. Tremblay, it asems, complied with these instructions, although evidently illegal, and when the ballots were counted Mr. Belley had 76 to 5 cast for Mr. Savard. With these votes the former has a majority of 22 in the whole constituency; without them, his opponent goes in by 48. Of course, Mr. Belley has been declared duly elected by the returning efficer, and when the matter comes up in the House of Commons the rascalities described will be solemnly sanctioned by a vote of the party in power. To such baseness have representative institutions been degraded in Canadian. It is true, however, that at present we are dependent in a measure upon Canadian territory."

Now, suppose the Canover the targets. Now suppose the canover the targets with the termina turning Officer Gosselin at Chicou-timi." Even then Dr. Tremblay found himself at a loss what to do as he had no voters' lists. He applied for instruc-tions to Mr. Gosselin, and received a tele-gram in reply, the authorship of which is case unless the Government or its friends bribe their opponents into acquiescence with the illegality, or in some way block the action of the courts. An appeal from the decision of the deputy returning officer to the county judge lies in such a case as this, and it is probable there will be a recount before him, and if necessary a protest also. Unless there is another Judge Elliot on the Canadian bench, which does not seem likely, there can be no doubt as to what the decision of the court will be, for the law requiring voters names to be on the lists is imperative, and the appointment of the deputy returning officer, his instructions and proceedings, are all irregular and invalid, or else our franchise law is a deception and a snare. In any case, however, the determination of the Government to resort to fraud, in order to win the elections is made plain, and it seems beyond a doubt that the Carons, the Haggarts, the case unless the Government or its friends doubt that the Carons, the Haggarts, the Chapleaus and the Dewdneys are the masters of the Government, so far as the campaign methods of the Administration are concerned.

Washington, Sept. 6.—A Canadian gentleman visiting Washington, who evidently knows a great deal about the navigation of the great lakes, said that a new system of retaliation has been quietly discussed in Toronto and Ottawa, which may be carried into effect if the United States continues the embargo upon Canadian commerce passing through the Soc canal. "Navigators of the St. Mary River," said this gentleman, "are as much dependent upon the landmarks upon the Canadian side as they are upon those on the American side for steering guides. Awful Sufferings of a Portion of the Crew-Madness and Suicide-Welcome Rain Brings Relief to the Famished

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—At least two of those who sailed from Drake's Bay in the ill-fated slave brig Tahiti were saved, if the story told by Leon Martell is true. Martell arrived in San Francisco last Friday from the coast above Mauzanilla, where he said he found two of the Tahiti's crew. The men were alive, but their sufferings had been horrible.

One of the men was a Russian Finn named Johansen, and the other was a Gilbert islander. The men told him that they were on board the Tahiti when she capsized, and that with four others they managed to make their escape in a small boat. The brig capsized in a heavy storm at night and was bottom up inside of five minutes after the squall struck her. The boat in which Johansen claimed to have made his escape was on top of the house and floated off when the brig capsized.

Johansen says that he was on deek at the time and sprang for the boats as the vessel went over. Four others, a woman and three men, all Gilbert Islanders, climbed into the boat. They had neither food nor water and only three cars. When daylight came they were out of sight of the brig and thought she had gone down.

On the fourth day after leaving the brig the woman died and the rest of the party were forced to eat portions of her body to keep themselves alive. The sufferings of the castaways in the little boat were terrible. For the first few days after leaving the brig it blew a hard gale and the men had all they could do to prevent the boat from swamping.

men had all they could do to prevent the boat from swamping.
Several heavy showers of rain fell, but it did them little good, as what fell in the boat or was caught in their elething was so mixed with the spray that constantly flow over them that it was of no use to quench their thirst. After the storm abated the sun came out and beat down on the unfortunate eastaways with tropical force and they suffered terrible tortures from thirst.

THE STREET RAILWAY QUESTION.
Add. Gartshore explained when the street railway question came up again that Mr. Ivey had prepared a new clause instead of clause 25 of the former proposition, which dealt with the question of exclusive franchise.

Mr. Ivey explained that the clause implements of the growth of clause 25 of the former proposition, which dealt with the question of exclusive franchise.

Mr. Ivey explained that the clause imply meant that the city should agree to grant only one electric franchise between support two electric street railway companies. It the council proposed granting two electric franchises he and the companies. It the council proposed granting two electric franchises he and the companies in the face. In case the company would certainly street railway should accept the proposition of the new company, or in case they did not, neither company should be understood to have acquired any right to construct an electric street railway on the street railway should accept the proposition of the new company within 30 days. of All Trades This Year-A Big Time in 1893-The Procession and the Games-Officers and Committeemen.

The first annual Labor Day demonstration was held in London yesterday.

The initiative in the matter was taken by the eigarmakers a short time since, and there were many difficulties in the way of an imposing celebration. The building trades had already arranged for their annual picnic, which took place at Port Stanley, and were therefore unable to coperate. Many establishments had also had their outlings, making it impossible for the employes to secure another half-holiday. The lateness of the season, the short time in which to make preparations and other causes prevented many workingmen from participating, much to their regret.

Despite all this yesterday's celebration was a success—a great success. The fact that only a portion of the trade unions in the city were able to take part and made the showing they did emphasizes the immense importance numerically and influentially which organized labor possesses in this city. The whole affair lwas gotten up within two weeks, an indication of splendid management and enterprising qualities. Next year the combined trade unions purpose making Labor Day in London worthy of the name. They will lay plans cariy for a big feelebration—one that will be thoroughly representative of every branch of the great industrial brotherhood to which they belong.

Rain threatened to interfere with yesterday's doings. Eut it cleared up and the sun come out bright and clear. The first part of the programme was the procession, and a very creditable one it was. There were 500 or over in line, and thousands along the route witnessed it. The attendance at the park was very gratifying, the huge covered grand stand being completely filled. The demonstration in all particulars surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the promoters, and proved a most encouraging in august.

The Procession was organized in short time on the Market Square, and at 1:15

Owing to the heaviness of the track no records were broken—nor bones. Between 30 and 40 little darlings entered in the girls' race under 16, while in the married and single ladies' races there were any amount of fair contestants, who proved that athietic skill was not confined to one sex. The prolific small boy was out in force. There were so many of them in the boys' race that a second run was necessary. The sack race was very funny—to the lookers-on. One of the best everts was the bicycle race, J. F. White defeating his brother by five yards. A place greatly patronized was the Agricultural Hall, which was reserved for the dancing. It was crowded with interested spectators, and happy young people tripped the floor merrily to the strains of Carroll's string band. The games were completed about 7 p.m., so that the hall became the objective point of interest in the evening.

THE DANGER OF DELAY. If cholera is kept out of Canada, it will be more by chance than good management. The dilatoriness of the Minister of Agriculture has been scandalous, and calculated to injure Canadian railway interests. Only last week the International Quarantine Commission condemned the Quarantine station at Grosse Isle as inefficient. The objections to it are: 1. No wharf adequate for the safe and speedy landing of passengers and their effects and at which vessels may be disinfected. 2. No suitable disinfecting apparatus for either baggage, cargo or vessels. 3. No proper accommodation for the detention of suspects. sommodation for the detention of suspects.

A COMPANION FOR MR. CARLING. The London election steal has a counterpart in the Chicoutimi and Saguenay Dominion election rascality, of which full parour contemporary, discussing the affair, says that "in spite of our stringent election law and the costly system of making up the voters' lists, scarcely an election takes place without flagrant trickery and corruption. The sanction given by the House of Commons to the action of Judge Elliot in the London case seems to have emboddened those who undertake to win elections for the Ministry. They hesistate at nothing, feeling satisfied that, no matter how no indicated to represent the seems of have according to our usually well-informed contemporary; "Mr. Savard, the uneasted member, had been elected as a Liberal, but turned over to the Conservatives after taking his seat. Sir Adolpha Caron, however, would have none of him, pushed the protest egatiant his return, which was successful, and hence the new election. Mr. Savard again became a candidate. In order to place his election beyond a doubt, his friends disregarded the procealmantion appointing polling places, and managed matters so that five parishes were practically disfranchised by having no provision made for recording votes. An appeal from the decision of the deputy returning officer to the county judge lies in such a case as to the county judge lies in such a case as this, and it is probable there will be a recount before him, and if necessary a protest also. Unless there is another Judge Elliot on the Canadian bench, which does not seem likely, there can be no doubt as to what the decision of the court will be, for what the decision of the court will be, for the law requiring voters' names to be on the lists is imperative, and the appoint-ment of the deputy returning officer, his instructions and proceedings, are all irreg-ular and invalid, or else our franchise law is a deception and a snare. In any case, however, the determination of the Governhowever, the determination of the Govern-ment to resort to fraud, in order to win the elections is made plain, and it seems beyond a doubt that the Carons, the Haggarts, the Chapleaus and the Dewdneys are the mas-ters of the Government, so far as the cam-paign methods of the Administration are concerned."

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—At least two of those who sailed from Drake's Bay in the ill-fated slave brig Tainiti were saved, if the story told by Leon Martell is true. Martell arrived in San Francisco last Friday from the coast above Manzanille, where he said he found two of the Tainit's crew. The men were alive, but their sufferings had been horrible.

One of the men was a Russian Finn named Johansen, and the other was a Gilbert islander. The men told him that they were on board the Tainit when she capsized, and that with four others they managed to make their escape in a small boat. The brig capsized in a heavy storm at right and was bottom up inside of five minutes after the squall struck her. The boat in which Johansen claimed to have made his escape was on top of the house and floated off when the brig capsized.

Johansen says that he was on deek at the time and sprang for the boats as the vessel went over. Four others, a woman and three men, all Gilbert Islanders, climbed into the boat. They had neither food nor water and only three oars. When daylight came they were out of sight of the brig and thought she had gone down.

On the fourth day after leaving the brig the woman died and the rest of the party were forced to eat portions of her body to keep themselves alive. The sufferings of the castaways in the little boat tree themselves alive. The sufferings of the castaways in the little boat from swamping.

Several heavy showers of rain fell, but it did them little good, as what fell in the boat or was caught in their clething was so mixed with the spray that constantly flow over them that it was of no use to quench their thirst. After the storm abated the sun came out and beat down on the unfortunate castaways with tropical force and they suffered terrible tortures from thirst.

He asked that this defect be remedied, and also that a bylaw be passed appointing him inspector instead of Park Ranger Grant. The clause was adopted, as was also the report.

No. 1 Committee report, submitted by Ald. Gartshore, chairman, recommended:

1. That a rate of 20 mills be struck for wards 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, and 14 mills for wards 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, and 14 mills for wards 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, and 14 mills for wards 6. 2. That the tender of Geo. A. Stinson, of Torento, for local improvement debentures be excepted, it being the highest. 3. That the petition of J. Green for exemption from sewer rates be filed.

Mr. Green explained that he did not drain into the sewer and could not, as it was not deep enough.

Ald. O'Meara moved that the petition of Mr. Green be granted. Ald. Moule Reconded, and the motion carried.

Ald. Parnell spoke with reference to clause 1. He said that at the time when the council considered the estimates he was told that there would be a further chance of discussion. No chance had arisen until now and the money was spent. He thought it was rather queer that a rate should be struck after the money had been spent, and wanted to know if some of the committees had not had not a surplus that could be applied toward lowering the rate.

Next year the rate will be struck of the committees had not had not a surplus that could be applied toward lowering the rate.

THE STREET RAILWAY QUESTION.
Ald. Gartshore explained when the street railway question came up again that Mr. key had prepared a new clause instead of clause 25 of the former proposition, which dealt with the question of exclusive franchize.

Mr. Ivey explained that the clause simply meant that the city should agree to grant only one electric franchise between now and December, 1913. He said that it was undisputed that the city could not support two electric street railway companies. If the council proposed granting two electric franchises between mow and December, 1913. He said that it was undisputed that the city could not support two electric street railway companies. If the council proposed granting two electric franchises he and the company have represented were out of it. Ruin and bankruptcy would certainly stare both companies in the face, in case the congany now operating the street railway should accept the proposition of the new company, or in case they did not, neither company should be understood to have acquired any right to construct an electric street railway on the streets now operated on.

Ald. Jeffery stated that he did not think that the council had the power to grant exclusive right to any company to operate by electricity. He thought the opinion of the city solicitor (who is at present out of the city should be obtained.

Ald. O'Meara thought that Ald. Jeffery had forgotten that the cold company had the power to grant exclusive right to any company to operate by electricity. He thought the opinion of the city solicitor (who is at present out of the city solicitor (who is at present of a large that the consideration of the council was not legislating for citier company, but for the city.

It was moved by Ald. O'Meara that the new clause framed by Mr. Ivey be inserted in place of clause 25 of the preposition of the ceuncil was not legislatin the consideration of this city solicitor to the city.

Ald. Judd sent a letter stating that he would be unable to attend the meeting of the council, and expressed his views in writing. He said: "I am decidedly opposed to the preposition of the new company to give them the exclusive right for the whole city to propel their cars by electricity. Such a step, I believe, would be against the best interests of the city, and would serve only to foster a monopoly which could not aid and would not serve the interests of the citizens; and further, I do not believe that it would be in the interests of the city and compel the present company to run their cars by horses on the main streets."

Ald. O'Meara's motion carried almost unamimously.

of All Trades This Year-A Big Time in 1893-The Procession and the Games-Officers and Committeemen.

The first annual Labor Day demonstration was held in London yesterday.

The initiative in the matter was taken by the eigarmakers a short time since, and there were many difficulties in the way of an imposing celebration. The building trades had already arranged for their annual pienic, which took place at Port Stanley, and were therefore unable to coperate. Many establishments had also had their outings, making it impossible for the employes to secure another half-holiday. The lateness of the sason, the short time in which to make preparations and other causes prevented many workingmen from participating, much to their regret.

Despite all this yesterday's celebration was a success—a great success. The fact that only a portion of the trade unions in the city were able to take part and made the showing they did emphasizes the immense importance numerically and influentially which organized labor possesses in this city. The whole affair was gotten up within two weeks, an indication of splendid management and enterprising qualities. Next year the combined trade unions purpose making Labor Day in London worthy of the name. They will lay plans carry for a big (celebration—one that will be thoroughly representative of every branch of the great industrial brotherhood to which they belong.

Rain threatened to interfere with yesterday's doings. But it cleared up and the sun came out bright and clear. The first part of the programme was the procession, and a very creditable one it was. There were 500 or over in line, and thousands along the route witnessed it. The attendance at the park was very gratifying, the huge covered grand stand being completely filled. The demonstration in all particulars surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the promoters, and proved a most encouraging in august.

The procession was organized in short

Owing to the heaviness of the track no records were broken—nor bones. Between 30 and 40 little darlings entered in the girls' race under 16, while in the married and single ladies' races there were any amount of fair contestants, who proved that athietic skill was not confined to one sex. The prolific small boy was out in force. There were smany of them in the boys' race that a second run was necessary. The sack race was very funny—to the lookers-on. One of the best events was the bicycle race, J. F. White defeating his brother by five yards. A place greatly patronized was the Agricultural Hall, which was reserved for the dancing. It was crowded with interested spectators, and happy young people tripped the floor merrily to the strains of Carroll's string band. The games were completed about 7 p.m., so that the hall became the objective point of interest in the evening.

EAST MIDDLESEX SCHOOLS.

Successful Candidates at Lendon East and Lucan Leaving Examination.

Following is a list of the successful candidates at the London East and Lucan public school leaving examination for July. The examination is a new one, having been established under the last School Act. The course of study includes book-keeping and an advancement in the subjects of the high school entrance course, reaching nearly to the attainment in these subjects required for the primary grade of teachers non-professional certificate. Graded schools passing pupils at this examination receive a small extra grant.

Adam Graeme, of Mossgray. By Mrs. Oliphant.

But as the old man looked out from the prejecting turret-window, it pleased him to see where she was, and how she was empoyed—for Lilias was singing, and the sunsine stealing through the trees rested on her head. He could not catch the words, and searcely the muse of her song, but the gantle human voice mingled with the inmiliar cadence of the river, and the young head drooped in graceful meditation beneath the jovous skies of noon. He thought the could was beginning to break and disappear; he nacied that the youthful life was asserting its native elasticity, and he turned into his books with his benign spille.

outstretched hand—the ominous, mournful letter, with its border and seal of mourning. He saw her eye fall on the strange hand writing of the address; he heard the low groon with which the heart breaks; and then she turned away, groping in the noon sunshine like one blind; and Haibert stood in reverend pity, watching the tottering, rapid steps which went sheer lerward to the door of the house, leaving foot prints among the flowers, and breaking down the snowy, drooping head of one of the cheri-hed lilles of Mossgray. Like it, Islins was crushed to the ground. The honest heart of Halbert mested as he sat down on the steps of the sun-dial. Man as he was, he could have wopt for her; the shadow of sympathetic grief came over him, and Halbert sat still and mused while the shadows longthened on the dial at his head, thinkings he had never thought before. "What has become of Lilias, Halbert?" said Mossgray.

The young man started; his own face was very grave and melancholy, but the smile of good pleasute with which he had looked upon Lilias from his turret-window was still upon the lip of Adam Graeme. "Lilias has gone in," said Halbert hurriedly—"Lilias is it limiting.
"What has happened, Halbert thuriedly—"Lilias is it limiting.
"It canna tell—she has lost some friend. I brought a letter, an Indian letter to ker, from the town;—the seal was black—it somed to carry news of a death."

The face of Mossgray changed.
"My poor child!—my poor Lilias! Halbert, I trust, I hope you are wrong; but if you are not—"

The old man covered his face with his hand as he turned away. He remembered

The old man covered his face with his hand as he turned away. He remembered what it was to be made desolate.
The long, bright hours stole on, but no one in Mosegray saw the broken lily. An unexpressed understanding of some calamity fell upon the household; the blinds were drawn down in the family rooms—the voices were in allosing ray saw the broken lily. An unexpressed understanding of some calamity fell upon the household; the blinds were drawn down in the family rooms—the voices were hushed even in the kitchen, and when any went up or down-stairs, they went in silence as if death, were in the house. But the door of Lias's room was not opened, and though the old man himself lingered near it ready to catch any seund, he would permit no intrusion on her; for now there could be no hope that Halbert was wrong, and the grief of his youthful days came back to the heart of Adam Graeme, as he thought of these young hopes setting, like the sun, in the dark sea of death.

It was twilight, and he had returned to his study—self, downy masses of clouds just touched with the lingering colors of the sunset were pilled up like mountains of some dreamy fairyland on that wonderful placid sea of heaven, and long strips of coast and floating tinted islands stretched along the whole breadth of the sky. He sat sadly, looking at them, and thinking of the holy, calm land beyond, where the sun of hope and promise sets never more, when his watchful ear caught the sound of a slow step ascending the stair. He looked toward the door with painful interest. It was Lilias. She had laid asile the light summer dress which she had worn in the morning, and the old man started as he looked upon the shadowy, droowing figure in its heavy, black garments, and the perfectly pale face on which no shade of color remained. He rose to meet her; but Lilias seemed comparatively ealm.

rose to meet her; but Linas seemed comparatively sain.
"I have brought it to you, Mossgray."
She spoke very slowly, as if deliberate pain were necessary to produce each single word. She had brought it—the messenger of death.
And lying it on the table before him, Lilias sat down on Charlie's chair, and leaning her heavy head upon her hand, lifted her eyes to the old man's face as he read the

Three years ago a prominent lady of St.
John, New Brunswick, was prostrated with a severe illness. For a time her condition was critical and her friends were greatly alarmed. A wasting fever seemed to defy all the skill and exertions of an able physician. This continued for a few days, when happily the fever was broken and the hopes of relatives and friends became stronger when the good physician declared that there was now a chance for life.

He expresses himself as being much pleased with the country and the great improve.

There will be no danger of the disease doing much damage in his flock after this siegs.

—Word has been received from Fargo. North Dakota, of the sudden disappearance of Conductor W. J. Crawford, formerly of Western Ontario and weil known in this city. Mr. Crawford has been seriously ill for some days with malarial fever and took about 60 grains of quinine which seems to have affected his mind. Railroad men and police have been searching, but no clue to his whereabouts can be had. He is a man about 30 years of age, five feet ten inches high, weights about 170 pounds, dark hair, smooth face, and when last seen wore adark sack suit, dark gray overcoat and derby hat. He also had a hunting case gold watch and chain with Masonic Garm.

—A lamentable case occurred at Glencoe a day or two ago. An infant son of Mr. Robert Connelly, cattle buyer, recently of this city, was given a box of pills as a rattle. The child let the box fall over the cradle to the floor. The next morning the child was crawling on the floor when it found the box it had dropped, and the lid coming off, the pills came out. Unperceived by the parents the child put one in its mouth, and shortly afterwards became unconscious. At first the stupor was mistaken for an ordinary sleep. A doctor was called but he arrived too late. The pills were morphine. The parents are heartbroken over the calamity, this being the last survivor of a family of five.

Middlesex Arts Association. The Middlesex Arts Association held their second meeting in the Court House to consider the approaching senate electors and also to elect new officers of the association rendered necessary by the removal to Toronto of President Mr. W. R. Meredith, Q.C., Vice-President Mr. Usatice Street, and to Manitoba of the secretary, Mr. Charles Glass. Mr. Talbot Macbeth, B.A., was elected chairman. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. V. Cronyn; vice-president, Mr. Talbot Macbeth; secretary-treasurer, Mr. J. Vining. After a very full discussion upon the administration of the university affairs during the last two years, the following resolution was unanimously adopted. "Moved by Mr. Little and seconded by Mr. R. A. Grey, that this association approves of the so-called 'new policy' of university administration, and recommends Mr. E. R. Cameron, M. A., and Mr. James H. Coyne, B. A., as candidates, who will support that policy as outlined in the manifeste dated July 20, 1892, signed by Mr. A. Abbott, B.A., and others."

But as the old man looked out from the prejecting turret-window, it pleased him to see where she was, and how she was empoyed—for Lilias was singing, and the sunsine stealing through the trees rested on be head. He could not catch the words, and scarcely the muse of her song, but the justice human voice mingled with the initiar cadence of the river, and the young head drooped in graceful meditation beneath the jovous skies of noon. He thought the could was beginning to break and disappear; he fancied that the youthful life was asserting its native elasticity, and he turned into his books with his benign smile.

The was singing inset, but her voice was so low that it sarcely ever rose above the murmuring tone the accompanying water; and she had losen fit words to express the caprice of a cle heart. It was the brave Grizzel sillie's pathetic ballad. "Werena my reart licht, I wad dee"—most sad of all the iterances of endurance. Litias had never sown before that size and filekering lighter and the sillies of the strained heart. Her hands fell listlessly upon her lap; her said drooped forward—so pale it was and toubled—into the golden air; her mind was way, wandering painfully through all the litter hypotheses of care and anxious sortward, and the slow notes stole murmuring wer her lip, the unconscious plaint of her verriness. Who has not felt that contradiction? who does not know the strength ad life of pain, and how it buoys up the cable almost as hope does?—"Werena my learning the land of the semed to be doubtful whether he should hear the land to her or no, and gave a wavering lance up to the turret-window of Mossylays such as he passed. grosn with which the heart breaks; and then she turned away. She turned away, groping in the noon sunshine like one bind; and Haibert stood in reverend pity, watching the tott-ring, rapid steps which went sneer forward to the door of the house, leaving foot prints among the flowers, and breaking down the snowly, dropping head of one of the cheri-hed illies of Mossgray. Like it. Lilias was crushed to the ground. The honest heat of Halbert meited as he sat down on the steps of the sun-dial. Man as he was, he could have wept for her; the shadow of sympathetic grief came over him, and Halbert sat still and mused while the shadows lengthened on the dial at his head, think-ingsa he had never thought before.

"What has become of Lilias, Halbert?" said Mossgray.

The young ann started; his own face was very grave and melanchoiy, but the smile of good pleasuie with which he had looked upon Lilias from his turret-window wasstill upon the lip of Adam Graeme.

"Lilias has gone in." said Halbert hurriedly—"Lilias is it—I mean something has happened, Mosgray."

"What has happened, Halbert?" Mossgray was still emiling.

"I canna tell—she has lost some friend.
I brought a letter, an Indian letter to her, from the town;—the seal was black—it seemed to carry news of a death."

The face of Mosgray changed.

"My poor child!—my poor Lilias! Halbert, I trust, I hope you are wrong; but if you are not—"

The old man covered his face with his hand as he turned away. He remembered what it was to be made desolate.

The long, bright hours stole on, but no one in Mosgray saw the broken lily. An unexpressed understanding of some calamity fell upon the household; the blinds were drawn down in the family rooms—the voices were hushed even in the kitchen, and when any went up or down-stairs, they wentin silence as if death, and the reverence that belongs to death, were in the house. But the door of L lias' room was not opened, and though the old man himself lingred near it ready to catch any seund, he would permit no intrusion on her; for now there could be no hope that Halbert was wrong, and the grief of his youthful days came back to the heart of Adam Graeme, as he thought of those young hopes setting, like the sun, in the dark sea of death.

It was twilight, and he had returned to had Graemy fairyland on that wonderful placid sea of heaven, and long strips of coast and floating tinted islands stretched along the whole breadth of thesky. He sat seadly, looking at them, and thinking of the holy, calm land beyond, where the sun of some dramy fairyland on that wonderful placid sea of heaven, and long strips of coast and floating it inted islands stretched along the whole breadth of thesky. He sat seadly, look

"My mother had a maid called Barbara," said Lliias, with her fanot smile, "and, like Dasdamona's, she carried this oid, plaintive music about with her. She did not die singing it; but I think, in her homely fassion, she knew its meaning well. I had it from her. But, Halbert, you are not well—aomething has troubled you?"

A TREASURE LOST FOR THREE

Three years sgo a prominent lady of St. John, New Brunswick, was prostrated with a severe illness. For a time her condition was critical and her friends were greatly alarmed. A wasting fever seemed to defy all the skill and exertions of an able physician. This continued for a few days, when happily the fever was broken and the hopes of relatives and friends became stronger when the good physician declared that there was now a chance for life.

the Paine's Celery Compound was used, and the lady was carefully dieted. Strength returned, flesh was fast increasing, the ence pale check now commenced to show a tinge of bloom, and the eves brightened with a new lustre. The lady was able to be out in the open air, and in seven months the treasure—health—which had heen lost for three years was found through the ggency of Paine's Celery Compound. There is joy in that home, and the remedy that renewed the life of a dear wife and mother is highly praised and recommended to everyone with whom the family associate. sociate.

wWhat are you doing?" asked the convict of the reporter, who was writing up the penitentiary. "I'm taking notes." "Humph! That's what brought me here." "There is a good deal of wisdom in that line of Pope's, Man, know thyself." "Humph! It is often a great deal more convenient to have the paying teller know you."

Hermman at the Grand.

The Grand Opera House season opened last night very auspiciously. Despite wet weather the attendance was large. Herrmann and his charming wife furnished a delightful entertainment, the nature and merits of which are too well known to require description or praise. It was a mere combination of magic, mirth and mystery, such as the great Herrmann himself only is capable of producing. Mr. Fred L. Evans made his debut as leader of the orchestra. His work and that of his assistants was excellent and the audience showed its appreciation by liberal applauses after each number.

"O'Dowd's Neighbors" Coming.

Mark Murphy and Roger Dolan are the chief fun-makers in "O'Dowd's Neighbors," which will be presented at the Grand Tuesday, Sept. 9.

Miss Marle Cahill, the renowned dancer (late of the Miss Hellyet Co.), has been engaged and created a sensation. While the play makes no pretensions to be anything but farce, it has a cast as large as that of most operas. There are thirty-two people in the company, and the musical interpolations are more ambitious and massive than those usually selected by farce-comedy organizations.

The costumes used this season are all new and strikingly attractive. Stylish girls, rollicking comedians, and artists whose vocal abilities are well known, together with the farcical comedy, which of itself is productive of unflagging laughter, all go to make up an extremely entertaining combination.

Yesterday's Runaway Accident. Nesterday's Runaway Accident.

A serious runaway was narrowly averted yesterday atternoon about 5 o'clock on Clarence street. A horse and buggy owned by Mr. J. Mooney, of Albert street, was left standing in charge of a man while Mr. Mooney stepped into the Dominion Hotel to do some business with a gentleman staying there. He left his little Syear-old daughter sitting in the buggy. A passing locomotive started the horse up Clarence street, and the child was thrown out in front of McKay's eigar factory. She was picked up and carried into Dr. A. Graham's office, where it was found abe had received picked up and carried into Dr. A.
