Enormous Loss Entailed and the Fire Still Spreading.

Active Operations on the Indian Frontier Resumed.

Four Hundred Emigrants Poisoned by Verdigris—Minister Fielding to Attend the Lord Mayor's Banquet — Lord Wolseley Favors a Material Increase in the British Army.

MR. FIELDING AT THE BANQUET.

London, Oct. 19.—At the lord mayor's banquet to the Fruiterers' Company this evening, Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance in the Canadian cabinet, will be one of the speakers.

EXIT WEYLER.

Havana, Oct. 19.—General Weyler will sail for Spain on Saturday, Oct. 30 by the Steamer Monserrat. He will be accompanied by General, the Marquis Ahumada and other officers.

THE SPANISH CABINET.

Madrid, Oct. 19.—The Cabinet meeting has been postponed, owing to the illness of Premier Sagasta. The Heraldo says widespread disagreement exists among the Cuban autonomists.

NEW ARMS FOR THE GERMAN ARMY.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—The government, it is understood, has decided to re-arm the entire infantry with new six-millimetre rifles, said to surpass the weapons of all other states.

MRS. LANGTRY.

London, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Lily Langtry, owing to the death of Edward Langtry, who died last Friday night while confined in an asylum for the insane at Chester, has withdrawn for the present all her horses from the turf.

AUTONOMY NOT ENOUGH.

Madrid, Oct. 19.—El Imparcial says that the negotiations between the government and the chiefs of the Cuban autonomist party have not produced the expected results. The ministerial organs urge the necessity of "energetic action to crush the rebellion by force of arms."

STEAMERS COLLIDE.

London, Oct. 19.—The British steamer Ormiston, of the Allan Line (Capt. Outram), which arrived here on Oct. 16 from Montreal, was in collision with the steamer Capulet off Deptford on Sunday. The Ormiston was damaged on the starboard quarter, and the Capulet lost her stem-head.

FOUR HUNDRED EMIGRANTS POISONED.

London, Oct. 19.—Four hundred emigrants on board the Italian steamer Agordat, bound from Genoa for Santos, Brazil, have been poisoned by verdigris, which had become attached to the soup kettles in which their food was cooked. It is expected that many of the sufferers will lose their lives.

SALISBURY STRONGER.

London, Oct.19.—The Daily Telegraph gives an unqualified denial on authority to the rumors put in circulation by the Daily Chronicle that Lord Salisbury contemplated retirement from the premiership and the foreign office. It says: "Lord Salisbury is stronger and feeling better than for many years, while Lady Salisbury has almost completely recovered her health."

IMMENSE OIL FIRE.

London, Oct. 19.—A dispatch from Baku, on the Peninsula of Apsheron, on the west coast of the Caspian Sea, a center of the great oil-producing regions of European Russia, says that a petroleum spring at Romani, a suburb of Baku, caught fire last night. The fire spread quickly to other springs in the vicinity until the whole valley was a sea of fire. The losses are enormous, and the fires are still burning. Four springs and 23 bore-holes have been destroyed, as well as several magazines and houses.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD'S WEDDING.

London, Oct. 19.—The particulars obtainable concerning the marriage on Saturday of Sir Edwin Arnold to a Japanese lady, show that the ceremony took place at St. Mathias' Church, Earl's Court, this city, in the presence of Sir Edwin's brother, Sir Arthur Arnold, chairman of the London county council; the Japanese ministers and their wives, Sir Edwin and Lady Arnold will reside on Bolton Gardens, this city. The bride was brought from Japan, and was educated in England.

THE KISSING RECORD.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—The Munchener Nachrichten records the experience of a young German who undertook to establish a kissing record. He gained his sweetheart's consent, the terms being that he should take ten thousand kisses from her lips in ten hours, with a brief interval for refreshment every half-hour. Umpires were appointed to the attempt to make a record. The young man scored 2,000 kisses in the first hour, 1,000 in the second. He had reached 750 in the third hour, when his lips were paralyzed, and he became unconscious.

AGAINST THE SILVER MEN.

London, Oct. 19.—The United States monetary commissioners have received no official information regarding the action taken by the British cabinet on Saturday last. Private advices, however, convince them that the cabinet has dealt the death blow to their mission. It is learned that the only thing the cabinet officially discussed in connection with the currency question was Sir James Westland's report. Sir James is head of the financial department of India, and his voluminous report took the strongest grounds against reopening the mints.

THE BRITISH ARMY.

London, Oct. 19.—The Duke of Cambridge, in the course of a speech at Bath, said he indorsed every word that Lord Wolseley, the commander-in-chief, and the Hon. William St. John Broderick, under secretary for war, had uttered recently as to the necessity of increasing the defenses of the empire by augmenting the military arm. While in office as commander-in-chief, his mouth, he said, had been sealed to a great extent, but he had not been neglectful of his duties.

Sir Robert Finlay, the solicitor-general, speaking at Forres, Scotland, said that a large increase of expenditure was necessary in the army and navy, and that it might become necessary to resort to the ballot to provide that a certain portion of citizens should serve in the militia.

The morning papers, commenting on the statement of Sir Robert Finlay with respect to the possible necessity of resorting to the ballot in order to provide that a certain portion of the citizens should serve in the militia, ask whether is means conscription or is merely a mild threat with a view of forcing Parliament to grant the credits asked for by both defensive departments.

CABLE NOTES.

In the races held at Breslau on Monday, Lieut. Venobernitz was unhorsed and died from the injuries which he received.

Surprised!

Disaster to a Corps of Bengal Lancers.

Ambuscaded by Hostile Tribesmen—Both Sides Lose Heavily.

Major Bramley and Two Privates of the Gordon Highlanders Killed.

Simla, Oct. 19.—Two squadrons of the Ninth Bengal Lancers fell into an ambuscade yesterday, in the hills between Bara and Mamanni. A native officer and fourteen Sowaris were killed; seven Sowaris were wounded, and 27 horses were killed.

A later dispatch says: In the fighting yesterday between the brigade of troops commanded by General Sir Yoatman Biggs, and the insurgent tribesmen from Chagru, on the Samana range, Major Jennings Bramley and two privates of the Gordon Highlanders were killed. Lieut. Pears and fourteen privates of the King's Own Borderers were wounded, seven native Sowaris were killed, and 75 native soldiers were wounded. The loss of the enemy was severe.

DERVISH RAIDERS PUNISHED.

Berber, Oct. 19.—A patrol of dervish horsemen on Saturday raided a village seven miles from here, killing 11 men and capturing many women, children and cattle. A detachment of Anglo-Egyptian cavalry was sent in pursuit, overtook them and routed the enemy with heavy loss. The dervishes abandoned their booty and fled in the direction of Atbare.

FROM THE FRONTIER.

Active Operations in Progress—Rebels Dislodged—Advance on Tirah to Begin Wednesday.

Fort Lockhart, India, Oct. 19.—The advance toward Tirah, the summer headquarters of the Afridis and the Orakzais, will begin on Wednesday. Elaborate orders have been issued as to the movements of each division. The first serious fight is expected next Sunday, when Sempagha Pass will be stormed.

The brigade of Gen. Sir Bindon Blood had its first brush with the enemy yesterday, and dislodged several thousand tribesmen from Chagru, on the Samana range. Heavy firing was in progress all day, the guns from Fort Gulistan playing on the enemy's left. Two Sepoys were killed and several wounded. The enemy has retired. The British have burned several villages.

The Daily Mail this morning says it has information from a reliable source that cholera has attacked a battalion of the Shropshire Regiment, stationed at Sitapur, Northwest India, and that 40 non-commissioned officers and private have already succumbed.

Worth $10 a Bottle.

Any person who has used Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost $10 a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute, lame back at one application; headache in a few minutes, and all pains just as rapidly.

Smoking Ruins.

A Glance at Windsor After Sunday's Fire.

Three Persons Lost Their Lives in the Conflagration,

And a Number Were Injured — Total Loss at $2,500,000 - Insurance Only $500,000.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19. — Beautiful and historic Windsor, situated on the right bank of the River Avon, is today a mass of smoking ruins, devastated and almost swept out of existence by the terrific fire of Sunday. From end to end, flames swept the classic streets, devouring the beautiful shade trees, and cutting a clear swath before it, leaving not a public building or business house standing in the town. The volume of flame rushed on with the force of a tornado, licking up every building in its way. Before noon the wind had increased to such a height and the temperature had become so cold that many people who had escaped with barely enough to clothe their nakedness, stood great hardships. The wind was biting cold, with intermittent fall of snow and hail, while clouds of smoke and dust fairly blinded them as they hurried to places of safety.

ONE CHURCH SAVED.

The only church that remains to mark the religious life of the community is the picturesque and ancient Church of England, which, with the church school for girls, Edge Hill, remains unscathed. The new postoffice on Gerrish street, of which the citizens of Windsor were justly proud, melted away like wax before the scorching flames. The Methodist and Baptist Churches, which for over 30 years have stood as landmarks, have gone with the rest. Many of the homes which have been destroyed are closely identified with the history of Nova Scotia.

LIVES WERE LOST.

This morning the charred bodies of Patrick Kelley and his wife were found in the ruins of their house. They were apparently sleeping when the flames enveloped their house, and were probably suffocated without waking.

The remains of another man who lost his life were found in the ruins of Poole's hotel. No resident of the town is missing, and the body is supposed to be that of an outside man. At a late hour the finding of another body was reported from the suburbs, but the report has not been verified.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED.

Two children, a boy of twelve and a girl of nine, children of Walter Mosher, were badly burned. William Cleveland, telephone operator, was dangerously hurt, and several others were more or less injured.

A COMPLETE SWEEP.

Not only were the buildings in the congested part of the town burned like match-wood, but isolated buildings went down everywhere, catching from flying cinders, and there is scarcely a building within the town limits, and for some distance beyond, that does not bear marks of the flames. The only building untouched in the town is the Windsor cotton factory, which stands alone among the industries of the town.

The disaster will fall doubly heavy coming at this season of the year, and great suffering must result to the hundreds of homeless families.

SMOKING RUINS.

The ruins of the fire were ablaze all Sunday night. The smouldering embers were fanned into a blaze, catching the piles of coal lying all around the burning premises, and the heavens were lighted with the flames, which cast their reflection across the river as far as the eye could see on the other side. No effort was made to quench these fires, and naturally the occupants of the few houses that remained were afraid that the flames would spring up again. But the wind moderated somewhat, and there was no further disaster.

UGLY RUMORS.

Whisperings are heard everywhere which point to the dive of the colored man Fletcher as the place where the fire originated. The fact that the place did not bear a very good reputation, and that it had been the scene of recent carousals, has aroused the indignation of the citizens. Luckily, Fletcher disappeared or the disaster might have been marked by a tragedy.

INSURANCE LIABILITIES.

A well posted insurance man today made the following calculation of the insurance losses: Commercial Union, $45,000; Acadia, $55,100; Halifax, $65,000; Western, $65,000; Quebec, $42,000; Queen's, $30,000; Guardian, $21,000; Royal, $23,000; Sun, $25,000; Phoenix, of Hartford, $12,000; Aetna, $13,000; Hartford, $6,000; Caledonia, $8,950; Insurance Company of North America, $6,600; Atlas, $14,400; National, $27,500; Lancashire, $15,000; North British, $12,000; Liverpool, London and Globe, $20,000; Phoenix, of Brooklyn, $6,000; Imperial, $15,000; British America, $20,000; Phoenix, of London, $12,000; Norwich Union, $10,000; Connecticut, $6,000; Northern, $12,000; Alliance, $10,000; total, $582,050.

TOTAL LOSS.

It is finally stated that the loss at Windsor will reach $2,500,000, and that the total insurance is according to the foregoing.

At a meeting of the Windsor relief committee Dr. Haley, M.P., announced that Premier Murray had stated that the Local Government would grant a sum of money for the relief of the suffering community, a statement which was greeted with applause. Hon. M. H. Goudge said it was probable that the government would advance money at a small rate of interest to those wishing to rebuild.

CANADIAN FIRE LOSSES IN SEPTEMBER.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Canadian fire losses in September of this year totaled $565,800, against $50,680 in September, 1896; insurance losses, $368,520, in the same month, against $366,240 in September, 1896. A comparison of the losses made by the Insurance and Finance Chronicle places the total Canadian fire losses for 1897 till the end of September at $5,186,920, and the total insurance loss at $3,563,920, as against a total fire loss for the same period in 1896 of $5,017,720, and an insurance loss of $3,364,140. The total fire loss in the nine months of 1897, shows an increase of $168,200, and an increase in insurance loss of $199,780, over the losses of the corresponding period in 1896.

St. Johns, Que., Oct. 19.—The large warehouse belonging to the estate of the late F. X. Langelier, in rear of their stone block, on Richelieu street, was destroyed Monday night by fire. It was occupied as a storehouse by the tenants of the stores, and a large amount of stock was destroyed—said to be insured. The prompt action of the fire brigade, a bountiful supply of water, and the metal roof which covered the building, undoubtedly averted a serious disaster.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke and Mrs. Alfred Hampton Leave for Europe.

New York, Oct. 19.—Thomas Q. Seabrooke, the Journal says, has eloped to Europe with Mrs. Alfred Hampton, the actress. Her husband doesn't express much regret about his wife's departure, but he is anxious about his little 8-year-old son, who is also missing. Mrs. Hampton, or Jeanette Lowrie, was a member of Mr. Seabrooke's company, playing a rather obscure part. She had not lived with her husband for nearly two years. All sympathies in amusement circles turned toward Alf Hampton, who loses not only his wife but his only child. Mr. Hampton is an actor of ability.

NASHVILLE'S GIANT SEE-SAW

It Is 100 Feet High, 200 Feet Long, and Is Operated by Electricity.

[Railway Review.]

The erection of this structure has caused wide-spread interest, because of its novelty as an amusement, and also as an engineering achievement. It is the first device of the kind ever constructed on a large scale, and it bears the same relation to the Tennessee Centennial as did the Eiffel Tower to Paris or the Ferris Wheel to Chicago. It stands at a point from which a magnificent view of the Cumberland Valley can be had; in the distance the Hermitage, the home of Andrew Jackson, can be seen, while Belle Meade, the forts and battlefields of Nashville, together with the city and centennial grounds, lie in the beautiful panorama.

The tower rests on a stone foundation running down to solid rock, and is 100 feet high, while the truss beam, from either end of which a car capable of carrying 25 people, is suspended, is 200 feet long, thus giving a maximum height of nearly 200 feet. The car has a speed of 65 feet per minute. The walking beam is operated by an electric hoisting engine equipped with a ten-horse power multipolar motor direct connected, connection to the beam being had by gearing. The structure was designed and constructed by A. J. Dyer, a prominent engineer of Nashville, and the steel work was furnished by the Schultz Bridge Company, of Pittsburg, Pa. The motor and machinery were designed by Mr. John W. Chester, of Nashville. The machinery was furnished by the Central Iron Works of Quincy, Ill., while the special motor used was built by the Triumph Electrical Company, of Cincinnati, O. The factors of safety in the construction of the see-saw are nine. A novel method of illuminating is had by two enormous Rushmore search-lights, which can be seen for a distance of 30 miles.

Sparks from the Wire.

The strong gale of Saturday and Sunday had a serious effect in sending vessels along the south shore of Lake Ontario.

John Toulouse, of Dover township, was accidentally shot and killed while out quail shooting with Mr. Martin Carlisle, of Chatham.

At the Guelph assizes, Miss Florence McNiven, of Owen Sound, was given a verdict for $800 and costs against Rev. Mr. Hope, of Erin, for breach of promise of marriage.

W. E. Bessey, a prominent physician of Toronto, has been arrested on the charge of murder and performing a criminal operation. The arrest has caused a big sensation.

Sir George and Lady Kirkpatrick on Monday afternoon took possession of the speaker's chambers at the parliament buildings, Toronto, and will occupy them during the stay of Lord and Lady Aberdeen at Government House.

Detective Ross, of the C.P.R., arrested David McQuade, of Belmont township, for stealing 200 pounds of telegraph wire and 300 track washers. In taking the prisoner over to Havelock on a hand-car, McQuade jumped and took to the woods. The officer fired two shots in the air, when McQuade threw up his hands and begged for mercy. He pleaded guilty and was sent to jail for ten days.

BASEBALL

LONDON PLAYERS HEARD FROM.

Pierre Ward, captain of the Londons for 1896, put up great ball for the Cuba, N. Y. team, with which he signed when the season ended here. The Cubans won the district championship easily. Ward's playing excited the greatest admiration. In the concluding game he had 2 runs, 2 hits, 8 put outs, 3 assists and no errors.

Charley Crowe, late of London, pitched for Niles, Ohio, against the Cleveland league club recently, and held the big fellows down admirably. The Niles team was only defeated by 8 runs to 3. Crowe is willing to return to London next year.

Lute Johnson bobbed up serenely the other day at Atlanta, N. Y., playing infield for the North Cohocton and Atlanta Twin City team against Hall's Corners, wherever they are. Pierre Ward was also on deck. The Atlanta Times says: "Ward, the 'kid' shortstop from Dansville, covered his part of the pasture without an error, but Johnson, his side partner, did not do so well, having two errors chalked up against him. Never mind, Lute, we know the ground here is a little more broken than in Canada." The Times seems to have heard of Doc Sippi, or was inspired by Lute to work off a joke on the Doctor. It adds: "The first day was a walkover for the Twin Cities. Johnson says that they handled Hershey's curves with as much ease as Old Doc Sippi would handle a hot grounder. The second game, alas! was lost because Doc Sippi did not appear in a Twin City uniform. Brown, a very amateur pitcher, was in the box for the Twin Cities. He took so much exercise before delivering the ball that men would steal bases as easily as Ward swiped the grapes from the poor old lady on the corner."

MONTREAL WILL STAY.

President George Cameron, of the Montreal Baseball Club, has received a letter from President Powers, of the Eastern League, in which he emphatically denies that there was any truth in the stories that the Montreal club would not be in the league next year.

PASSED THE TURNSTILES.

In the twelve National League cities this past season 2,885,631 persons passed through the turnstiles. The eastern attendance ran ahead of the western by over 400,000. Baltimore played before the largest number of people, while Boston ranked second and New York third. New York turned out the largest number of spectators, with Cincinnati second and Boston third. The home attendance at Baltimore was very poor, the city only standing sixth in the list. The average attendance at Boston has been larger than ever before in the history of the game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE BATTERS.

According to Nick Young's official batting averages for the season, just published, the leading batters in each team for the season are: Keeler, Baltimore, .432; Clarke, Louisville, .406; Stivetts, Boston, .388; Burkett, Cleveland, .383; Delehanty, Philadelphia, .377; Davis, New York, .358; Lange, Chicago, .352; Demontreville, Washington, .349; Rothfuss, Pittsburg, .348; Anderson, Brooklyn, .332; Holliday, Cincinnati, .328; Douglas, St. Louis, .327.

There are 69 league players who have batted .300 and over. Keeler and Clarke are the only two who have reached the .400 mark. Lajoie, the Philadelphia slugger, has an average of .363; Stahl, of Boston, .359, and Sockalexis, .351. Bob Allen batted .309. The Baltimore team has the most players near the top of the batting list, while St. Louis stands lowest in this regard. Pitcher Hall, of Louisville, is at the foot of the list, with an average of .100 in 25 games.

At Montreal on Saturday—Montreal 24, McGill 13; Britannia 25, Montreal 11. 6.

At Toronto, Saturday—The second match in the first round between 'Varsity and the T. A. C. Lornes, was a draw—7 to 7—but the T.A.C. Lornes go into the second round with a majority of 12 points. Queen's II. 0, Osgoode II. 2; Osgoode thus increased their lead of last Saturday's game by 2, going into the second round with a majority of 12. Varsity II. 27, T.A.C.H. 10—this leaves 'Varsity 8 points ahead.

At Hamilton, Saturday—Y.M.C.A. 23, Hamilton Juniors 6. St. Catharines 17, Hamilton II. 7.

At Ottawa, Saturday—Ottawa College 4, Ottawa 5—the first defeat Ottawa College ever received in a league game on their own grounds.

WHEEL

CASUALTIES IN BRITAIN.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at the inquest on the wife of an alderman who was killed by a lady cyclist at Hunstanton. A lady on leaving church near her home, Melton Hall, Suffolk, was knocked down by a cyclist and dreadfully injured, the identity of the rider not being ascertained. A lad, while spinning the back wheel of his bicycle to clean it, had his thumb cut off by the chain. Four cyclists ran into a flock of sheep near Potter's Bar, and were cut and bruised; a gentleman who dashed into a pack of hounds at Riverhill received still more serious injury; a general also came to grief through running into a herd of cattle at Ebrington. Cyclists riding tandem near London Colney dashed into a trap; the occupants of the trap were thrown out by the concussion, being more hurt than the cyclists. A lad was killed near Ramsgate while riding down a hill without a brake.

BARNES GOT A PUNCTURE.

The bicycle races held at Mohawk Park, Brantford, on Saturday, caused quite an excitement among the wheelmen. The chief interest centered in the amateur ten-mile championship race. The weather turned very cold, with a high wind, but the attendance was good and the races first-class. Alf. Sherritt won the ten-mile amateur championship. He also won the half and mile open amateur in clever style. Fred Westbrook rode a good race from scratch in the mile professional handicap, winning by a wheel. T. W. Barnes, the Hamilton Crescent flyer, punctured a tire at the sixth mile, and was thrown out of the race. Results: Mile professional, handicap—Fred. Westbrook (scratch) 1, A. Boaks (30 yards) 2, F. Dunbar (75 yards) 3, E. Cooper (100 yards) 4. Time, 2:16¼.

Mile open—Sherritt 1, Richardson 2, Barnes 3. Time, 2:20½. Also started: Thompson, Davidson, McEachern, J. Robinson, Barnett, Secord, Murray.

Half-mile, amateur — Sherritt 1, Thompson 2, Barnes 3. Time, 1:03. Also started: McEachren, J. Robinson, Barnett, Secord and Murray.

Ten-mile championship—Sherritt 1, Thompson 2, Barrett 3. Time, 24:36. Also started: McEachren, J. Davidson, J. Robinson, Barnett, Secord, Murray, Muir and Barnes.

DOG DIED FOR HIS MISTRESS.

Saved Her From Wolves and Guarded Her Until She Was Rescued.

Caney, Oct. 19.—Sam Dodge, a ranchman living southwest of here, went to Vinita, I. T., on business, and shortly after he had gone Bessie, his 5-year-old child, wandered away from home in at attempt to follow him. Mrs. Dodge discovered her absence about two hours after Sam's departure. She made a thorough search of the premises, and, failing to find the child, notified the neighbors of her disappearance. They turned out in force and scoured the prairies all that day and all that night and all the next day, searching for the little wanderer.

Late Saturday evening an Indian came upon her fast asleep, just south of Post Oak Creek, in an old road known as the "whisky trail." Across her body stood a Newfoundland dog, which had always been her companion about the ranch. The dog was torn and bleeding, and near his feet lay the bodies of two wolves. Although her cheeks were stained with tears and covered with dust, Bessie was unharmed. She and her protector were taken back to her home, a distance of twelve miles from where they were found, where the dog died of his wounds that night. He was given a decent burial, and yesterday Sam Dodge ordered a marble monument, which will be placed at the head of the faithful animal's grave.

CHILD'S SAD DEATH.

Drink of Washing Soda Destroyed Her Power to Swallow Food and She Starved.

Detroit, Oct. 19.—Evelyn Rousseau, aged 3 years, was buried in Mount Elliott Cemetery on Saturday. Nine months ago Evelyn was a particularly winsome little miss. One day she saw her mother place some washing fluid, a preparation of lime, on a kitchen shelf. When no one was looking the little one took down the bowl and drank a mouthful.

The acid in the preparation burned her throat and ate its way towards her stomach. The child suffered dreadful pain during the first days. The physicians thought nature might come to the rescue after a time, as the small amount of acid the child had drank was not fatal of itself.

But the child's throat was so affected that she could not swallow food. She had a continual craving for something to eat, but nothing could be done for her. She gradually faded away, and finally death came to her relief—death from starvation.

Evelyn's mother and stepfather are grief-stricken at the loss of the child. Last week they buried a 4-months-old boy.

FASTEST LOCOMOTIVE ON EARTH.

New Style Friction-Geared Engine Makes a Mile in Thirty Seconds in a Test Between Camden and Cape May.

Cape May, N. J., Oct. 19.—The Holman friction-geared locomotive has made a remarkable run between Camden and this city, in the course of which it broke the record for the mile. The locomotive drew a train of three coaches over a course between Winslow Junction and Cape May, a distance of 54½ miles, in 52½ minutes. One mile between this city and Cape May Court House was covered in 30 seconds, thus lowering by two seconds the record for a mile made in 1893 by a train on the New York Central railroad. The Holman train for a time was, therefore, running at a speed of 120 miles an hour.

The inventor of the locomotive was in the cab. He is confident that with a solid roadbed and heavier rails this locomotive will do still more remarkable work. The locomotive would have made a much faster run for the whole distance had it not been necessary to slow down eight times.

The difference between the friction-geared locomotive and that now in use on our railroads is that instead of having the driving-rod connected directly to the driving wheels, it turns smaller wheels. By this device the number of revolutions of the wheels on the track for one stroke of the piston is greatly multiplied. It has been expected that the device would result in the attainment of increased speed, but whether it will be economical and durable is yet to be seen.

Ice Closes the Yukon.

Little Chance for Hungry Miners to Escape.

Fears That the Steamers Caught in the Ice Will Be Destroyed.

England Preparing to Send Thousands Next Spring—The Dalton Trail.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 18.—The steamer Danube has arrived, ten days from St. Michaels. She brought 82 passengers, most of them men who failed to reach the mines by the all-water route. Some got as far as Fort Yukon and had to turn back. There are twelve miners from Circle City who bring about $72,000 in gold dust.

STARVATION PREDICTED.

A lot of provisions is stored at Fort Yukon, but it is feared that if there is a rush from Dawson it will cause a shortage further down the river. It is predicted that many men will perish in the attempt to escape from starvation by coming down the river.

The steamer P. B. Weare, after being on a sandbar two days, got off and arrived at St. Michaels on Sept. 20. She started up again with a lot of freight, but it is feared that she will never get up the river. The steamer Alice arrived at St. Michaels on Sept. 24 with 120 miners, and after starting up again on the 27th, ran aground at the mouth of the river. The steamers Mare Island and Merwin tried to get up, but failed.

ON A BAR.

The Merwin and Alice at last accounts were on a bar and freezing up. The Mare Island had returned to Stebins, twelve miles from St. Michaels. Few men, with very little gold, were at St. Michaels when the Danube left, and they will all come down on the Bertha. The North American Transportation and Trading Company will build their river steamer at Unalaska on account of the schooner Huenemo having been lost in Uniak Pass. Five other river steamers are to be built at St. Michaels. The ice was in the upper river when the Weare started down, and icicles were a foot long on her when she reached St. Michaels. The steamers Bertha, Cleveland, Portland, Excelsior, Bear and Iakkame were at St. Michaels when the Danube left, also the schooner Queen.

FROZEN IN.

A party which arrived at St. Michaels from Stebbins on Oct. 3, say that the steamers Merwin, Alice and Mare Island are frozen in at the mouth of the Yukon, and fears are entertained that they will all be destroyed when the river breaks up in the spring. The passengers who started up the river on these steamers are endeavoring to get to St. Michaels overland. The steamer Healy, which, with a barge, was loaded at St. Michaels unloaded when the news came from Stebbins. The Excelsior and steamer-schooner Navarre, with a tow, arrived at St. Michaels on Oct. 3.

DIED ON THE TRAIL.

H. B. Tucker, correspondent of the Associated Press, of Troy, N. Y., died of exhaustion on the trail a few miles from Rampart City. He and a friend started out at night with little food to locate claims on Hoosier Creek. They spent two days and nights in the woods; they then turned back. Tucker fell from exhaustion. His friend went for assistance, but when it arrived Tucker was dead.

LITTLE TREASURE.

Of the men who reached St. Michaels recently most of them have been working for wages in the vicinity of Circle City. They made the trip to Fort Yukon in rowboats, and from there came down in steamers. There was not $100,000 in the whole crowd, so that the rest of the boats this fall will bring very little treasure. There is considerable talk among the men who failed to get in, of taking action against the steamship companies which took them up, particularly against the owner of the Eliza Anderson. Of a thousand odd men who started since July, not one-third are miners. Some are still at Fort Yukon hoping to get in early in the spring, but a large majority are coming south. Mayor Wood, of Seattle, and his party got their steamer built and started up the river, but they cannot go far, as they are sure to meet floating ice if they escape the sand-bars.

CAN THEY WAIT TILL SPRING?

There are now 13 steamers on the river, as against five last year, so there will be lots of food at Dawson soon after the river opens in the spring. Some of the men who reached Circle City on the steamer Hamilton will try to push on to Dawson over the Yukon. No news comes from Dawson.

A THOUSAND DEAD HORSES IN THE PASS.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The department of mounted police have received word that the body of police in advance of Major Walsh's party have got through and have left Lake Bennett for Dawson, where they probably are by this time. Mr. Lawson on Sept. 6 had heard nothing of the reported fire there. It is expected that Major Walsh will get through the pass with his party, but there are already said to be over a thousand dead horses in the pass.

LUCKY ONES.

Cleveland Leader: A Cleveland man has made a rich find in the Klondike. W. W. Misener, whose mother resided at 34 Clarkwood avenue, left here five years ago for Alaska, and has been prospecting there for the greater part of the time since then. Monday Misener wrote to his mother that he had struck a rich claim on the Klondike, and will be in comfortable surroundings while he is working it the coming winter. Misener has located paying claims for several gold-seekers. Mr. Misener is the son of George Misener, of St. Thomas, Ont. Mr. Eugene Misener, a brother, who is employed as a salesman for the Bushby Baking Company, Cleveland, will leave for the Klondike early in the spring.

Niles, Mich., Oct. 19. — Frank Phiscater, of Barrada, who took out a fortune in the Alaska gold mines, leaves this week for New York, where he will dispose of a two-thirds interest in his claims in Alaska to an English syndicate for $1,300,000. From New York he will go to Washington, where he has been summoned by Comptroller Eckels to give the state department some information regarding Alaska. In February he will return to Alaska to develop his mines.

LATE IN THE SEASON.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 19.—A party of 21 Klondikers from Los Angeles, Cal., left Calgary Thursday for Dawson City, via Edmonton. They expect to reach Peace River at least before winter sets in. They bought 60 horses and took provisions to last seven months, as they expect to reach Dawson City by June 1. If the trip turns out favorably, hundreds of men will leave Los Angeles next summer, taking the Canadian route. Capitalists in California, they say, are prepared to grub stake men by the score.

CAN'T KEEP THEM OUT.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The Canadian Pacific Railway authorities and the Dominion immigration officers look for a phenomenal rush of immigrants in the coming spring from England to the Klondike. When the news of the wonderful riches of that region reached England there was little time for preparations on a large scale and only a limited number of individuals started for the Yukon districts. Since then large companies have been organized, men have subscribed large sums of money, and in the spring they will be able to furnish men ready to start out for the gold regions.

In addition the Dominion agents report that considerable numbers of persons in all parts of the United Kingdom having small means are simply waiting for spring to join their fortunes to the thousands who will be ready to rush into the Yukon from all parts of the world. Those who have recently come here from England are full of the Klondike, and state that it is the great cry all over the country, and it will increase rather than diminish, as the spring approaches.

THE EXCITEMENT IN LONDON.

The excitement, particularly in London when some of the great finds were announced, bordered on delirium, and nothing but the insuperable difficulties of the route, at an advanced season of the year, prevented hundreds from making an immediate start. The tales of hardship which have already reached England have in no way intimidated those who have made up their minds to start in the spring.

It is the opinion of the same authorities that hundreds in the cities and throughout the Dominion will be ready in the spring to set out for the new Eldorado. Where the desire exists it is known that the utmost economy is practiced, and preparations are being made now. The Dominion authorities look forward to an unprecedented rush such as was never before witnessed in the world's history of gold mining, and all transportation lines are making special arrangements to accommodate the enormously increased traffic expected when the signal is given for the start for the Yukon in the early spring.

THE DALTON TRAIL PREFERRED.

Some interesting information is now furnished by the department of the interior in regard to the routes of the Yukon, through the report of J. J. McArthur, the surveyor and civil engineer, sent up to the Yukon by the Dominion Government last May, to make a topographical survey of the Dalton trail and the country adjoining. He condemns the Skaguay trail, and says the Dalton trail affords a first-rate road for 240 miles, namely, from the coast to Five-Finger Rapids, which is only 220 miles by unobstructed waterway from Dawson City. The first 40 miles from Chilcat Inlet is on river flat, with an easy grade, thence to the local divide, which is 3,000 feet above sea level, and 50 miles from the water. One more local divide is crossed twenty miles further on at the watershed of the Alsek and Chilcat rivers. The rest of the trail to the mouth of the Nordeskiold river, at Five-Finger Rapids, is a succession of valleys, with hardly perceptible divides. In summer a man with a saddle horse and pack animal can make 30 miles a day on the Dalton trail, reaching Dawson City in fifteen days. It can be done in 25 days with a pack train. So good is the feed along the trail that animals which were sent in this season were fattened on the way. It is expected 1,500 sheep and 400 cattle reached Dawson before the river was closed to navigation.

Severe Bronchitis Yields Promptly to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

I used your Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a severe attack of Bronchitis. I got better from the time of taking the first dose. Having a family of young children, my doctor bills have annually come to a considerable sum. I believe a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup occasionally will aid me in reducing them very materially. W. R. ALGER, insurance agent, Halifax, N. S.

The first man who discovered gold in Australia was hanged for his pains. He was one of the first convicts transported to Botany Bay, and when he learned the great secret he brought a sample to show his success, and was promptly hanged for attempted escape.

A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia.

Opening of the N. Y. Central's New Station at New York.

New Depots to be Built at Galt and Guelph—The C. P. R.'s Loss at Stittsville.

The G. T. R. is shipping more grain from Goderich than it has done for some years.

The M. C. R. is ferrying on an average 900 cars across the river every day.

It has been decided to open the new grain elevator at Owen Sound on Friday next, the 22nd inst.

Conductor A. B. Brown, of Niagara Falls, will succeed Conductor McIntosh on the Lehigh run between Niagara Falls and Port Huron.

The shareholders of the Cataract Power Company will within the next few days award the contracts for the building of the line from Welland to Hamilton.

The G. T. R. have under consideration the erection of a new station at Guelph. They require a free site, and will then build a station costing $18,000 or $20,000.

Engineer Bell is preparing plans for a steel bridge over Big Otter Creek at Tilsonburg, for the Tilsonburg, Port Burwell and Pacific Railway. It will be 600 feet long.

In connection with the hunters' excursion towards the end of the month, the G. T. R. is issuing a list of those entitled to issue game licenses in the Muskoka district.

Thomas S. Birchall, the mail clerk who was injured in the collision near Ottawa, appeared to be badly hurt, but was able to walk to the cab which was waiting to convey him to his home on Horton street.

General Manager Hays, of the G. T. R., has stated that although the Central Vermont will become an integral portion of the system, whose manager he is, yet it will have to a great extent a distinct name and management.

Traffic Manager Reeve, of the G. T. R., is considering the advisability of adding Stratford to the list of free cartage stations, which now contains Montreal, Cornwall, Kingston, Toronto, North Parkdale, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Guelph, Brantford, London, St. Thomas, Glencoe, Bothwell, Thamesville, Chatham, Sarnia and Windsor.

General Superintendent McGuigan, Superintendent Fitzhugh and Trainmaster Ferritor visited Galt the other day and inspected certain land there, afterwards intimating that it was the intention of the G. T. R. to erect a new station there in the spring, providing the business of the road continues to justify such a course.

Saturday was the most phenomenal Saturday for many years in Toronto, so far as freight on the G. T. R. is concerned. Those concerned state the number of cars handled exceeded the record for this day of the week for a long period. The company on Friday had 40 cars of hogs to the Don and 70 cars of stock from outside places.

The new station of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, at One Hundred and Twenty-Fifth street, New York, was opened this (Monday) morning. The building is 200 feet long and 40 feet wide, and cost $200,000. All the New York Central trains, except the flyers, will stop at this station. Every accommodation for passengers has been put in the station.

The loss of the C. P. R. from the railway accident at Stittsville is considerable. Two locomotives, two baggage cars and three freight cars were destroyed. A passenger engine when taken from the locomotive works would cost $9,000, which, with a 50 per cent duty added, would make the engine worth $12,000. A freight engine at the locomotive works is worth about $8,000, or with duty added, about $10,665. A baggage car costs in the neighborhood of $3,000 and freight cars about $450 each. The total cost of replacing the destroyed rolling stock might be summed up as follows: Passenger locomotive, $12,000; freight locomotive, $10,660; two baggage cars, at $3,000 each, $6,000; three freight cars, at $450 each, $1,350; total, $30,010. Operator McNish, of Stittsville, is being kept in custody at the C. P. R. station. The crown authorities have not yet decided to place him under arrest, but he is being held for the present. He is only 19 years of age, and feels very keenly over the accident.

SYMPTOMS OF GRIP.

If You Feel Any of These, Act on This Advice.

A PREVENTATIVE INDORSED AND PRESCRIBED BY PHYSICIANS.

SIMPLE, PLEASANT AND EFFECTIVE.

La Grippe, or Influenza, is described by medical authorities as an acute microbic fever, moderately contagious, sporadic, epidemic and pandemic, associated with catarrhal inflammation of the mucus membranes and with disturbance of the nervous centers and trunks; often running a short and favorable course; but apt to be attended with many serious complications and sequelae.

So varied are the phenomena of influenza that it is difficult to present a brief sketch of its symptoms. The main features in a majority of cases in most epidemics are a sudden onset with chill of moderate severity; fever, which comes on quickly, usually of four or five days' duration; bronchial catarrh, with sneezing and coughing; headache and pains in the back, with muscular pains in the trunk and limbs, and a general soreness; depression of spirits; great restlessness; general debility and weakness of the heart, and slight enlargement of the spleen. Sometimes the type is so mild that a person pays little or no attention to the attack, regarding it as an ordinary catarrhal cold. It is a dangerous thing to neglect, no matter how mild the attack.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt is the best known specific for La Grippe. It is a standard English preparation, indorsed and prescribed by eminent English and European physicians as a most effective preventative and cure for La Grippe. The daily use of Abbey's Effervescent Salt will keep you in good health the year round. As a cure for La Grippe it is absolutely without parallel. Your druggist will supply you at 60 cents a bottle. Nothing else in the world is "just as good" for the purpose.

Dissipations of the Day.

Characteristic Discourse by Rev. Dr. Talmage.

"They Came to Meet Us as Far as Appii Forum and the Three Taverns."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—In a unique way Dr. Talmage discusses the dissipations of the day, and eulogizes the great reformers of the past and present. His text is Acts 28, 15: "They came to meet us as far as Appii Forum and the three taverns."

Seventeen miles south of Rome, Italy, there was a village of unfortunate name. A tavern is a place of entertainment, and, in our time, part of the entertainment is a provision of intoxicants. One such place you would think would have been enough for that Italian village. No! There were three of them, with doors open for entertainment and obfuscation. The world has never lacked stimulating drinks. You remember the condition of Noah on one occasion, and of Abigail's husband, Nabal, and the story of Belshazzar's feast, and Benhadad, and the new wine in old bottles, and whole paragraphs on prohibition enactment thousands of years before Neal Dow was born; and no doubt there were whole shelves of inflammatory liquid in those hotels, which gave the name to the village where Paul's friends came to meet him, namely, the Three Taverns. In vain I search ancient geography for some satisfying account of that village. All we know of it is that it had a profusion of inns—the Three Taverns. Paul did not choose any one of these taverns as the place to meet his friends. He certainly was very abstemious, but they made the selection. He had enlarged about keeping the body under, though once he prescribed for a young theological student a stimulating cordial for a stomachic disorder (but he told him to take only a small dose—"a little wine for thy stomach's sake."

One of the worst things about these Three Taverns was that they had especial temptation for those who had just come ashore. People who had just landed at Actium or Puteoli were soon tempted to these three hotels. Those who are disordered by the sea (for it is a physical disorganizer), instead of waiting for the gradual return of physical equipose, are apt to take artificial means to brace up. Of the one million sailors now on the sea how few of them coming ashore will escape the Three Taverns! After surviving hurricanes, cyclones, icebergs, collisions, many of them are wrecked in harbor. I warrant that if a calculation were made of the comparative number of sailors lost at sea, and lost ashore, those drowned by the crimson wave of dissipation would far outnumber those drowned by the salt water.

Alas! that the large majority of those who go down to the sea in ships should have twice to pass the Three Taverns, namely: Before they go out, and after they come in. That fact was what aroused Father Taylor, the great sailors' preacher, at the Sailors' Bethel, Boston, and at a public meeting at Charlestown, he said, "All the machinery of the drunkard making, soul destroying business is in perfect running order, from the low grog holes on the docks, kept open to ruin my poor sailor boys, to the great establishments in Still House Square, and when we ask men what is to be done about it, they say, 'You can't help it,' and yet there is Bunker Hill! and you say you can't stop it, and up there are Lexington and Concord." We might answer Father Taylor's remark by saying: "The trouble is not that we can't stop it, but that we won't stop it." We must have more generations slain before the world will fully wake up to the evil. That which tempted the travelers of old who came up from the seaports of Actium and Puteoli, is now the ruin of seafaring men as they come up from the coasts of all the continents, namely, the Three Taverns. In the autumn, about this time, in the year 1837, the steamship Home went out from New York for Charlestown. There were about 100 passengers, some of them widely known. Some of them had been home for rest at the northern watering places, and they were on their way south, all expectant of hearty greetings by their friends on the wharves of Charlestown. But a little more than two days out the ship struck the rocks. A lifeboat was launched, but sank with all its passengers. A mother was seen standing on the deck of the steamer with her child in her arms. A wave wrenched the child from the mother's arms and rolled it into the sea, and the mother leaped after it. The sailors rushed to the bar of the boat and drank themselves drunk. Ninety-five human beings went down never to rise, or to be floated upon the beach amid the fragments of the wreck. What was the cause of the disaster? A drunken sea-captain. But not until the judgment day when the sea shall give up its dead, and the story of earthly disasters shall be fully told, will it be known how many vessels have been lost through captain and crew made incompetent by alcoholic dethronement. Admiral Farragut had proper appreciation of what the fiery stimulus was to a man in the navy. An officer of the warship said to him, "Admiral, won't you consent to give Jack a glass of grog in the morning? Not enough to make him drunk, but enough to make his fight cheerfully." The admiral answered, "I have been to sea considerably, and have seen a battle or two, but I never found that I needed rum to enable me to do my duty. I will order two cups of coffee to each man at two in the morning, and at eight o'clock I will pipe all hands to breakfast in Mobile Bay."

But notice the multiplicity. What could that Italian village, so small that history makes but one mention of it, want with more than one tavern? There were not enough travelers coming through that insignificant town to support more than one house of lodgement. That would have furnished enough pillows and enough breakfasts. Nor the world's appetite is diseased, and the subsequent draughts must be taken to slack the thirst created by the preceding draughts. Strong drink kindles the fires of thirt faster than it puts them out. That which cursed that Italian village curses all Christendom today—too many taverns. There are streets in some of our cities where there are three or four taverns in every block; aye, where every other house is a tavern. You can take the Arabic numeral of my text, the three, and put on the right-hand side of it one cipher, and two ciphers, and four ciphers, and that reinforcement of numerals will not express the statistics of American rummeries. Even if it were a good, healthy business, supplying necessity, an article superbly nutritious, it is a business mightily overdone.

The fact is, there are in another sense, Three Taverns now; the gorgeous tavern for the affluent, the medium tavern for the working classes, and the tavern of the slums, and they stand in line, and many people beginning with the first come down through the second and come out at the third.

I am glad to find in this scene of the text, that there is such a thing as declining successfully great tavernian temptations. I can see from what Paul said and did after he had traveled the following seventeen miles of his journey, that he had received no damage at the Three Taverns. How much he was tempted, I know not. Do not suppose he was superior to temptation. That particular temptation has destroyed many of the grandest, mightiest, noblest statesmen, philosophers, heroes, clergymen, apostles of law and medicine and government and religion. Paul was not physically well under any circumstances; it was not in mock depreciation that he said he was "in bodily presence weak." It seems that his eyesight was so poor that he did his writing through an amanuensis, for he mentions it as something remarkable that his shortest epistle, the one to Philemon, was in his own penmanship, saying, "I, Paul, have written it with my own hand." He had been thrown from his horse, he had been stoned, he had been endungeoned, he had had his nerves pulled on by preaching at Athens to the most scholarly audience of all the earth, and at Corinth to the most brilliantly profligate assemblage, and been howled up on by the Ephesian worshippers of Diana, tried for his life before Felix, charged by Festus with being insane, had crawled up on the beach, drenched in the shipwreck, and much of the time had an iron hand-cuff on his wrist, and if any man needed stimulus, Paul needed, but with all his physical exhaustion he got past the Three Taverns undamaged, and stepped into Rome all ready for the tremendous ordeal to which he was subjected. Oh! How many mighty men feeling that they must brace up after extraordinary service, and prepare themselves for other service, have called on the spirit of wine for inspiration, and in a few years have been sacrificed on the altar of Moloch, who sits on a throne of human carcasses. It would not be wise, or kind, or Christian to call their names in public, but you call them out of your own memory.

One of the most advantageous movements in the right direction is taking this whole subject into the education of the young. On the same school desk with the grammar, the geography, the arithmetic, are books telling the lads and lasses of ten and twelve and fifteen years of age what are the physiological effects of strong drink, what it does with the tissue of the liver and the ventricles of the brain; and whereas other generations did not realize the evil until their own bodies were blasted, we are to have a generation taught what the viper is before it stings them, what the hyena is before it rends them, how deep is the abyss before it swallows them. Oh! the boards of education, teachers in schools, professors in colleges, legislatures and congresses, widen and augment that work, and you hasten the complete overthrow of this evil. It will go down. I have the word of Almighty God for that in assured extripation of all sin.

With these thoughts I cheer Christian reformers in their work, and what rejoicing on earth and heaven there will be over the consummation. Within a few days one of the greatest of the leaders in this cause went up to enthronement. The world never had but one Neal Dow, and may never have another. He has been an illumination to the century. The stand he took has directly and indirectly saved hundreds of thousands from drunkard graves. He began the warfare against drunkenness more than half a century ago. The good he has done, the homes he has kept inviolate, the high moral sense with which he has infused ten generations, is a story that neither earth nor heaven can afford to let die. Derided, belittled, caricatured, maligned, for a quarter of a century as few men have been, he has lived on until at his decease newspaperdom speaks his praise eulogiums of his career on this side of the sea have been caught up by the cathedral organ sounding his requiem on the other. His whole life having been for God and the world's betterment, when at half past three o'clock in the afternoon of October 2nd he left his home on earth surrounded by loving ministers, and entered the gates of his eternal residence. I think there was a most unusual welcome and salutation given him. Multitudes enter heaven only because of what Christ has done for them. The welcome not at all intensified because of anything they had done for him. But all heaven knew the story of that good man's life, and the beauty of his deathbed, where he said, "I long to be free."

God let him live on for near a century, to show what good habits, and cheerfulness and faith in the final triumph of all that is good, can do for a man in this world, and to add to the number of those who would be on the other side to attend his entrance. But he will come back again! "Yes," say some of you, with Martha, about Lazarus to Jesus, "I know he will rise at the resurrection of the last day." Ah! I do not mean that. Ministering spirits are all the time coming and going between earth and heaven—the Bible teaches it—and do you suppose the old hero just ascended will not come down and help us in the battle which still goes on? He will. Into the hearts of discouraged reformers he will come to speak good cheer. When legislators are deciding how they can best stop the rum traffic of America by legal enactment, he will help them vote for the right, and rise up undismayed from temporary defeat. In this battle will Neal Dow be until the last victory be gained and the smoke of the last distillery has curled on the air, and the last tear of despoiled homesteads shall be wiped away. O departed nonagenarian! After you have taken a good rest from your struggle of 70 active years, come down again into the fight, and bring with you a host of the old Christian warriors who once mingled in the fray.

HEAD A MASS OF SCABS

COULDN'T GO NEAR THE STOVE.

Treated by Different Doctors.

CURED BY DR. CHASE.

The most intractable and distressing skin diseases which defy all manner of treatment—even the best medical skill—are readily cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

MRS. JOS. QUERIN, hotelkeeper's wife, at Ethel, Ont., was troubled with Eczema of the Head and Face for about 9 years, and was so bad at times she could not go near the hot stove to do her cooking. Her head was one mass of scabs, and although she treated with doctors it kept getting worse. On hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment, she got some, and was delighted to find the first application do her good. She used two more boxes of the Ointment, is now free from disease, can do her own cooking, and would not begrudge $200 for the good it has done her.

TO BORE FOR OIL.

A Point Edward Company to Begin Operations at Once.

A company has been formed at Point Edward who will immediately sink a test well for oil on the property at the rear of Jacob Spetz's residence property. They are also in correspondence with General Manager Hays, with a view to bonding the land north of Bayview Park and west of the track. The company at present consists of Messrs L. Kaupp, E. Phelps, James Fraser, J. F. O'Neil, and Wm. McCleister. These gentlemen held a meeting in Mr. McCleister's store on Tuesday evening last and decided to become incorporated as a company and to commence boring operations at once. The success of their undertaking is hoped for and their enterprise is certainly commendable.—Sarnia Post.

The drillers at the Peterson well have recovered the lost casing and are again pounding at the rock.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

In Manawaki, Que. — Seventy Cases and Four Deaths.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The mayor has received information of the serious outbreak of typhoid fever at Manawaki. Upwards of 70 cases have been reported, and four deaths have taken place, among the victims being Dr. Comeau and Mr. Graces. The mayor says the fever is spreading in a southerly direction along the river. It is time, he thinks, for the Quebec Board of Health to look into the matter.

A Toronto Lady Deceived.

She Bought a Dye That Was Not True to Name.

A lady living on Church street, Toronto, quite recently visited one of the city stores and bought a package of Cardinal Dye to color a small dress. She relates her experience as follows:

"I bought a packet of Cardinal Dye at a certain store here for the purpose of dyeing a cream wool dress for my little girl. I used it according to the printed directions, and was quite disappointed with my job. I got such a muddy and unpleasant color that I was forced to dye it a dark color in order to save the dress. My failure was due to the fact that I was talked into buying a common make of dye instead of the Diamond that I had always used before. You may rest assured that I shall always use the Diamond Dyes in the future, as I know from experience they are the best. The storekeeper who sold me the common dye has certainly lost my trade, as I feel he knowingly deceived me."

Shall There Be Compulsory Military Service in Britain?

There will be much comment in Great Britain on the recent speech made by Sir Robert Findlay at Forres, Scotland. Sir Robert is the Solicitor-General for Scotland, and as a member of the Government spoke with some authority. He asserted that for the safety of the nation it was necessary to increase both the army and the navy, as had been maintained by Lord Wolseley and the Duke of Cambridge, the present and past commander-in-chief of the British forces. Sir Robert even went the length of asserting that it might be necessary to resort to the ballot to provide that a certain proportion of citizens should serve in the militia.

Whether or not this statement was, as is hinted by the British newspapers today, a mild threat to Parliament that the additional expenditures will be forced through, remains to be seen. The militia is now an important force in Great Britain. In its ranks are contained nearly 150,000 men, who will contained nearly 150,000 men, who drill from 21 to 60 days a year, according to the time that they have served. They are paid for their services, and are annually subjected to rigid drill. This militia force stands apart from the British volunteers, who number over 270,000, and receive no pay whatsoever for their services in times of peace. No other country is possessed of a force so serving for purely patriotic reasons.

Though the volunteers thus give their services free of cost to the taxpayers, there are many reasons for believing that the practical introduction of conscription, hinted at by the Scottish Solicitor-General, would be unpopular. Compulsory military service has in modern times always been distasteful to the British, though the number of men who have volunteered to "fecht" in times of national straits has been very large. In the troublous days of the last century, when Britain was at war with almost every Power in the world, and compulsory military service was general, the "press gang" was let loose on the land, and there has been sent down to the present generation an ardent antipathy to anything savoring of compulsory service in either army or navy. A more popular proposal than that made by Sir Robert Findlay would be to double the volunteer force, and to ask that all young men should agree, if emergency arose, to serve abroad as well as at home. A candid appeal to the patriotism of the masses, the classes setting the example, would secure this addition to the effective volunteer force without any trouble.

Some foolish reports about probable candidates for the London mayoralty have caused a number of citizens much annoyance. The object of the circulation of these canards at this early date is well understood.

Cholera is reported to have broken out among the troops in India. The dreaded disease may cause more deaths than are effected by the agency of rebel bullets. Sanitary science has so advanced, however, that the plague is no more dreaded as it once was.

Death of Mr. Pullman

The sudden death of Mr. George M. Pullman, of Chicago, this morning, removes from business life a much-talked-about man. Mr. Pullman was a millionaire. He invented the sleeping car which bears his name, and, retaining the patent and the right to construct and to run the carriage, soon accumulated great riches. He started the town bearing his name just outside the limits of Chicago. It was made a model municipality, and while business was good the thousands of employes at the great Pullman works enjoyed life within its borders. When hard times came, however, there were disputes about rent, about acquired perquisites, about pay, and a strike and boycott of the Pullman cars on all lines was set on foot. This led to riots and fatalities in and around Chicago, and to a prolonged canvassing of Mr. Pullman's treatment of his employes. The men were, in large measure, worsted, but Pullman never seemed to fully recover from the effects of the severe attacks made on his methods. Latterly, his model town has not been exclusively retained for the use of his employes, and arrangements have been completed for its annexation to the ever-widening municipality of Chicago.

The coroner's jury which investigated the late suicide at the London Asylum, reached the conclusion that Dr. Bucke has been running the institution with too great economy. It advocates an addition to the staff of nurses, so that greater care of those inclined to suicide may be taken. Considering the number of insane persons in charge at the London Asylum, the number of casualties that have taken place have been few indeed. The record of the institution for carefulness and efficiency is excellent, but if an additional nurse or two will add to the safety of the unfortunate inmates, doubtless they will be appointed.

Ontario people are certainly improving in behavior. At Wentworth assizes, in Hamilton, there were no criminals to try, and at Wellington assizes, held in Guelph, Judge Falconbridge received a pair of white gloves as testimony to a similar record.

A Coalition Effected.

The Montreal Gazette professes alarm because it has heard that a coalition between the Liberals and a section of what was at one time a united Conservative party, is contemplated. Our contemporary raises an odd outcry. A coalition there has already been, but not of the character suggested by the Gazette. What has happened is that many former Conservatives, believing that Liberal principles would best advance the interests of their country, have become identified with and warmly support the Liberal Administration. The change is especially evident among the young men of Canada. Many earnest-minded, progressive young men, whose fathers were stalwart Conservatives, have now cast their lot with the Liberal party, and are among the staunchest of its adherents. In this city, and in every center of population, we have illustrations of the change which has been effected since the death of Sir John Macdonald. It may or may not be called a coalition; but the facts cannot be denied.

The Hamilton Spectator urges that Mr. Willison, of the Globe, should not follow the advice of the Advertiser and print in book form his impressions regarding Great Britain and Canada's relations to the motherland. Our contemporary urges that the Globe gives the utterances sufficient circulation. No doubt the Globe has many readers, but such facts and figures as Mr. Willison collected on his recent visit to Great Britain should be placed in a shape where they would be easily got at for future reference.

Toronto's mayor says that there should be a civic playground in each ward. If the boys had votes, that mayor would have a majority all along the line. For such a programme, every citizen might well vote. It is not the boy who engages in healthgiving sport, and spends his spare time playing baseball and cricket who gets into trouble. It's the corner loafer, who cares for none of these things. The boys and girls should have plenty of play ground, and should be encouraged to keep off the streets, except when duty calls them.

The Struggle in New York.

The longer the Greater New York mayoralty campaign continues, the more lively does it become. There are five candidates in the field, and leading newspapers have been taking a comprehensive census of the preferences of voters, with the object of indicating how the campaign is likely to end. The close of the World's poll shows:

R. A. Van Wyck (Tammany)	59,589
Seth Low (Citizens' Union)	40,017
Henry George (United Democracy)	34,037
Benj. F. Tracy (Republican	27,780
Patrick Gleason (Gleason Democrat)	9,044

On these percentages and registration figures the World computes that the election in New York will result as follow:

Van Wyck	178,296
Low	119,748
George	101,847
Tracy	83,130
Gleason	26,979

Henry George and his followers make no secret that they are in the field in order that they may overturn Tammany. Seth Low's followers declare that they have no love for Tammany, either; but they also assail the Republican nominee as the representative of Platt and Republican ring rule. It is probable that if all the candidates remain in the field, the Tammany nominee will be mayor. The longer the campaign lasts, the less probable does it become that the warring opponents of Van Wyck will get together in a common opposition.

No matter who triumphs a great responsibility will fall on him. He will be elected for four years and will be the chief executive officer of a city of three and a half million inhabitants, which comes into being next New Year's Day. It will be composed of five boroughs, the total area of which will be about 359 square miles. It will contain 1,200 miles of streets, exclusive of roads and public highways, and 700 miles of sewers. Its annual tax levy will be between $55,000,000 and $65,000,000. The greater city will contain about 167,000 buildings, of which 120,000 are used for residential purposes. The daily consumption of water will be about 350,000,000 gallons, and New Yorkers are not heavy drinkers, either. The legislative power of the imperial city will be vested in two houses, to be known, respectively, as the Council and the Board of Aldermen, to be together styled "The Municipal Assembly of the City of New York." The council will contain 29 members. The president of the council will be elected on a general ticket every four years and will act as mayor during the mayor's absence or disability, possessing all his powers except those of removal or appointment. His salary is $5,000 a year. The remaining 28 members of the council are to be elected by districts every four years. They will receive $1,500 a year. The city clerk, whom they elect, will receive $7,000 per annum. His term of office is six years. There will be 60 aldermen, whose term of office is two years and the salary $1,000 a year. They will choose their own president. Each head of an administrative department will be entitled to a seat in the Board of Aldermen. They may take part in all discussions, but the right to vote is denied them. Every ex-mayor of the new city will be entitled to take part in the deliberations of the council so long as he remains a citizen, but will not be permitted to vote.

While the municipal assembly will have power to supervise the water supply, regulate the height of buildings, investigate departments, enforce the ordinances, grant franchises, and so forth, there will be a local board of improvements in each of the 22 Senate districts in the greater city, as well as a local poor board. Every act of the local board must be submitted to the mayor for his approval. Presidents are to be chosen by the electors of each borough every four years, three to receive $5,000 a year and two—Queens and Richmond—$3,000. Executive control over public improvements is confided in a special board, composed of the mayor and the heads of the several departments. The effective control alike of public improvements, involving the issue of bonds, and of the current expenses of the great city, is vested in the mayor and the other administrative officers. All of these latter, except the controller, are to be appointed by the mayor, to whom is also confided the absolute power of removel, without assigned cause, during the first six months of his term. After that a public officer of the mayor's appointment may be removed by the mayor upon charges preferred, and after opportunity to be heard, subject, however, before such removal shall take effect, to the written approval of the governor. The above is but a brief summary of the provisions of the Greater New York charter. It will be noted that the making of the character of the municipal government will depend chiefly upon the kind of man who is chosen by the people to fill the position of mayor—a dignity second only in importance to the President of the United States.

Reflection on the importance of the patronage and power that will be exercised by whoever is elected mayor of Greater New York explains the motive for the struggle for power that is raging in the 359 square miles of thickly settled territory. All other elections throughout the country are thrown in the shade by this contest for the control of the great metropolis.

A long Ontario campaign will give the Opposition leader opportunity to flounder some more. He has not yet recovered from the blunders he made, (1) in attacking the new county council system, (2) in attacking the only college for farmers' sons in the Province, (3) in attacking the school system, while unable to say what he would put in its place; (4) in asserting that scores of Liberals were daily sending him letters announcing that they would support him. The last break is the more conclusive of Mr. Whitney's fake campaign, because he has been caught and exposed with a completeness that must humiliate his followers. He was stumped by a Toronto gentleman to name 20 Liberals who on any one day that he chose, offered to support him. That is weeks ago, but Mr. Whitney has not dared accept the challenge that would put $100 into the coffers of any charitable institution he chose to name if he told the truth. The Opposition leader did try at Beaverton to explain away his foolish and ill-founded assertion, but he made such a blundering exhibition that the Toronto Mail and Empire suppressed his "explanation." Again it has been shown that it is a big down-come from Sir William R. Meredith to Mr. Whitney, of Morrisburg.

Care of County Poor.

Kent county has just selected a site for a house of industry. Almost every county in the West now finds it to its advantage to establish and maintain a similar institution for the care of its indigents. Waterloo led, then followed Elgin, Middlesex, Huron, Perth, Lambton, and now Kent. The jail, to which unfortunate residents are sometimes sent for care, is no place for a man or woman whose only "crime" is poverty or ill-health, or I

Off to the Holy Land.

An Affecting Farewell to Rev. Dr. Gould, This City,

At the Memorial Church—Addresses by the Bishop of Huron and Others.

The farewell tendered to Rev. Dr. Gould in the Memorial Church school room last night, was largely attended, and was of a most impressive and interesting character. Dr. Gould will leave this afternoon en route for Palestine, with the message of life eternal to the Mohammedans.

Prof. Harrison presided, and seated on the platform with him were the Bishop of Huron, Rev. Mr. Laird, Ven. Archdeacon Davis, Rev. Canon Richardson, Rev. G. B. Sage (London West), Rev. Dr. Beaumont, Rev. Canon Smith and Rev. J. W. Ten Eyck.

Prof. Harrison expressed the pleasure he felt on the occasion. They were met to say farewell to one whose home during his boyhood days and the days of training for the work were among the people of the parish. Dr. Gould was designated to the field in Palestine by the Church Missionary Society of England, which has sent out over 1,200 workers, and whose funds have grown from a few hundred pounds to an annual income of nearly $5,000,000. The Canadian Church Missionary Association was gaining more and more the sympathy and confidence of the church people. Only eight years ago, the first missionary was sent away by it; now there were ten married and eleven unmarried missionaries supported by it.

Ven. Archdeacon Davis, one of the three trustees of the association, was next called upon, and spoke of Rev. Dr. Gould in affectionate terms.

Rev. Canon Richardson, in introducing Dr. Gould, spoke of him as a boy in the school room, and in that parish he had partaken of his first communion. Mr. Richardson referred to missionaries as men who were not the property of any church or nation, but workers for every Christian nation and denomination. He was pleased that the first medical missionary from the Canadian church branch of the missionary society had been called from that parish, and his example had been followed by no fewer than four young men belonging to the congregation, one of whom had already been ordained, while the three others were at the theological college. "I have no doubt," he continued, "that the Christian Endeavor Society has had something to do with this." Dr. Gould took a deep interest in Palestine, the land of God, the land of the crucifixion, and the land of the ascension."

Rev. Dr. Gould said that it was with mingled feelings of gratitude and regret that he had listened to the kind words spoken. It brought forcibly back the ties that bound him to that church, to home, and to his native land. He would leave with them this promise, with the hope that it would always be remembered: "In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy path." (Proverbs, iii., 6.) In answer to why he wanted to be a missionary, he said it was because he had absolute faith in the future grandeur of men, because it was in the best sense the work of God. Jesus left his salvation with his disciples, with instructions to preach to all the world. He did not wish to make any invidious distinctions between the work here and in Palestine. It was all the same work. The labor among the Mohammedans had been his special choice, because Moslemism was the chief enemy of Christianity. The doctor pointed out that it was in the most densely populated portion of the eastern hemisphere where Mohammedanism predominated, starting at the Berber States, south of Gibraltar, in Northern Africa, extending south to the equator, thence east to Arabia, Persia, into the western portions of the Chinese Empire, thence north through Central Asia to the north of the Mediterranean Sea, as far as Turkey in Europe. At first he had asked to go to Persia, but as five were already there, he was willing to go anywhere. The saving of the Mohammedan's body seemed to be the only way of saving his soul. The five missionaries in Persia during last month had attended 36,856 outside patients, besides 500 patients in the permanent hospital. These required a large number of operations. He closed by requesting the prayers of his hearers.

Bishop Baldwin referred to the doctor's call to the land, to which the disciples had received the message, and he hoped their example would be followed by many young men. It was lamentable that the land of such men as Chrysoston and Ignatius were now occupied by the Mohammedans. At Antioch, where was founded the first Christian church, and from whence went forth the first Gentile missionary to the world, scarcely a vestige of the church of Christ remained. It had been supplanted by Mohammedanism. Out of the 5,250,000 of population in Egypt 5,000,000 were Mohammedans. This land at one time contained 400 bishoprics, but all had been swept away. Turning to Dr. Gould, the bishop said: "You will have many trials; you will have many of them, but, as I said the other day, trials produce good. You will never rise early in the morning but what Christ will have arisen before you. And if there is but one soul gathered in by your ministry, it will be well."

The meeting closed with the singing of "God be with you till we meet again."

Wheat sales were mostly made at $1 25 when first-class, but $1 30 to $1 35 was the range; poor lots sold from $1 05 to $1 25; demand steady and supply moderate.

Oats were firm, at 65c for all lots of good quality; a few light-weight loads sold at 63c, and 66c was occasionally paid by private parties.

Very few lots of peas, barley, or beans came in; prices for them unchanged.

New corn made its first appearance. The price paid was 70c.

One load of rye sold at 65c.

Eggs were steady and unchanged.

Poultry, and ducks were unchanged.

The beef and lamb market was quiet and unchanged.

Dressed hogs sold at $6 for good and $5 50 for poor; the supply was much lighter and present indications look a little up.

Fruits were quiet, and a little higher, with the exception of quinces; they were easier.

Hay offered freely and sold at $6 to $7; the demand was dull and sales slow.

Treat For Art Lovers.

Water Colors and Oil Paintings by Famous Artists—Interesting Display in the China, Curio and Children's Departments.

The art loan at the Y.M.C.A. building opened this morning at 10 o'clock. Elaborate preparations have been made by the ladies of the auxiliary, who have the exhibit in charge, and in the various departments are extensive and highly interesting collections. The entire suite of rooms on the second floor of Association Hall, with the exception of the quarters occupied by the entomological society, is devoted to the display, and the rooms are artistically decorated with palms, flowers, festoons and tapestries.

The ladies were busy this morning, with final arrangements for the reception of the public. Following are the members of the different committees:

Pictures—Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. Stanley Williams and Mrs. McTaggart.

China—Mrs. R. G. Fisher, Mrs. Screaton, Mrs. Meek, and Miss Elsie Perrin.

Curios—Mrs. David Mills, Mrs. E. Reid.

Children's Room—Mrs. Sayer, Miss Gibson and Miss Burns.

Furnishings—Miss Ware

The spacious, well-lighted rooms afford excellent facilities for the large exhibition, and lovers of art have been provided with a rare treat. The pictures include water colors and oil paintings by such well known artists as Prosperi, Schafer, Maas, the world-renowned chicken painter; Paul Peel, F. M. Bell-Smith, A.R.C.A., J. Duncan, R.A., Needham, A.R.A., O'Brien, A.R.C.A., James Griffiths, R.C.A., and A. Holl, of Belgium. "The Return from School," a large oil painting by F. M. Bell-Smith, is one of unusual interest to Londoners, as it represents the old Union school, and a group of children sketched from life.

The china department contains some very valuable modern ware, and there are several pieces exhibited which are over 200 years old. These quaint relics are very highly prized.

An important feature of the exhibit is the valuable collection of the entomological society, who have consented to throw open their rooms to patrons of the art loan.

The music furnished almost continually by competent pianists adds greatly to the charm of the exhibit. This afternoon Miss Constance Cameron and Miss Beatrice Gibson presided at the piano.

The rooms are open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and the exhibit will close Friday night.

Big Blaze in Kingsville

The Western Block On Main Street Destroyed.

Names of the Losers—The Damage and the Insurance.

Special to The Advertiser via G. N. W. Line.

Kingsville, Ont., Oct. 19.—At 10:30 o'clock last night the large and beautiful Western block on Main street was totally destroyed by fire.

Among the heavy losers are: A. G. Adams, hardware; loss on stock, $4,000, insured for $2,000.

Howard Scratch, bicycle works and tin shop; loss on building, $2,500 insured for $1,000; stock total loss, no insurance.

Wm. Grenier, loss on household goods, $2,000; insured for $500; on building, loss, $3,000; insured for $1,700.

The falling of the brick walls crushed in the roof of Conklin's machine shop. By heroic work the firemen saved his building and got the fire under control.

The plate glass in the Union block windows across the street was badly shattered by the heat, and the building was somewhat shattered. Cause of the fire not known.

LIVES IN DANGER.

The Time for Action and Great Care.

Paine's Celery Compound Should Be Used This Month.

Our changeable autumn weather brings fear to the hearts of thousands of rheumatic sufferers who are unable to go to warmer climes. The present month with its wet weather and chilling northeast winds will, without doubt, increase the agonies of those who are afflicted with acute, chronic, inflammatory and sciatic rheumatism. The uric acid in the system, which the kidneys have not removed, is poison ing the blood, causing stiff and swollen joints, twisted legs, arms, fingers, and contracted cords. When it reaches the heart it generally proves fatal.

Rheumatic sufferers, why remain in agony and peril? There is a sure cure and a new life for all if the proper agency is made use of. The true agency, Paine's Celery Compound, has triumphantly met hundreds of cases far more subtile and dangerous than yours; it will surely meet your troubles. It is for you to determine whether this day you shall be free from suffering and take on a new life, or remain in a condition of helplessness and torture that may drag you to the grave at any time.

Bear in mind that Paine's Celery Compound cures all forms of rheumatism, and does the work so well that the disease never returns. Mrs. M. J. Vince, of Barrie, Ont., says:

"I am happy to say that I have taken Paine's Celery Compound with great results. I had sciatica so badly that I could not turn in bed or walk without help; and for a period of three weeks was helplessly laid up and suffered pain that at times was unbearable.

"I tried many medicines, but all in vain. I was afterwards recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. I used six bottles, and am entirely cured and enjoy good health. I take great pleasure in recommending the valuable medicine that cured me."

Freak Builder Dead.

Old "Daddy" Converse of Dime Museum Fame.

He Supplied P. T. Barnum and Among the Frauds He Pepetrated Upon the Public Were Sea Serpents, Human Faced Chickens and Ossified Men.

Old "Daddy" Converse is dead, and with him passes away all but the memory of one of the most curious occupations in which any man ever engaged for a livelihood. He was the original and for many years the only "freak builder" in the world, and the number of sea serpents, ossified giants and mummified Indians that he produced during his career would stack a building as big as the Museum of Natural History pretty near full.

He began in the early forties, and continued in business up to 1883, when the demand for peculiar productions had fallen so low that he found it more profitable to quit than to continue, and he retired from business with what the novel-writers usually describe as a comfortable competency. Daddy Converse was not his real name, nor his pseudonym, but as he left a large and eminently respectable family, and his ways were not the ways of the upright, it is not necessary to identify him further than by "Daddy."

"Daddy" may not have furnished Barnum with the woolly horse, but he certainly supplied a large majority of the inanimate curios for the famous old museum at Broadway and Ann street, and some old show men say that the horse with the sheep-like coat was at least his suggestion if it wasn't his creation. His human-faced chickens were attractions in every little show in America 20 years ago, and while they were advertised as having been discovered in the heart of a Borneo wilderness, it was well known to those in the secret that they came from the corner of a tumble-down carpenter shop on Bond street.

MAKING WAR RELICS.

It was during the war that the freak factories flourished. There were a dozen anatomical museums on the Bowery and around Chatham Square. Long's Museum in Philadelphia, where there was a room full of hangmen's nooses, and another room devoted to revolvers, dirks, sand bags and other pleasing weapons of assault, was a wonderfully good customer, with its splinters of gallows, trees and murderers' shoes.

New York ran more to stone idols from the land of the Aztecs via Bond street, and pterodactyls, from the limestone region of Arizona, by the same route, together with shells from the field of Bull Run or Antietam, and letters written in blood from Libby or Andersonville. These mementos of the great struggle appealed powerfully to the public mind at the time, and the museum that could display the greatest number of war relics did a land office business. As a consequence the freak factories were kept busy. A letter written in blood, with the signature illegible or eroded—for a discovery of the deception would result in the place being mobbed—was worth anywhere from $150 to $300.

A bit of note-paper stained with weak coffee and scrawled over with a pointed stick dipped in a preparation of vermillion and brick red, then crumpled up and soiled with a spatter of mud was the way the alleged letters from behind Captain Wirz's terrible dead line were manufactured. Shells were easy to get. The swarm of relic-hunters that overran the battlefields like vultures, months after the armies had moved, got plenty of those, so there was no need to imitate them. Swords and pistols were procurable from junk dealers. With painted bloodstains for one and a shattered stock for the other, they were readily marketable at $3 to $5 each.

Bibles and prayer-books pounded with mallet until they were soft, and then inscribed on the fly leaf "From mother to John," or "To my dearly beloved husband," were wonderful attractions, and their value was greatly increased by firing a bullet into their covers at long range. Hundreds and hundreds of people would go to see a pocket Bible which they were assured in bold lettering and by a brass-lunged announcer had been found on a dead drummer boy at Shiloh or the Wilderness. There was the hole made by the ball that plowed its way through his heart. Women would weep and men grow hot with anger as they looked.

THE DANCING TURKEYS.

It was a matter of common knowledge among show men that Daddy was the originator of the "dancing turkeys," although he would never acknowlege the doubtful honor. These terpsichorean birds first appeared in Paris in 1857, and in America in 1859. They were usually exhibited in a hall. A large wire cage is discovered on the stage as the curtain is lifted, and in it are three ordinary, barn-yard turkeys. A lecturer explains that the birds were found in Russia in charge of a number of monks, who had taught them to keep time to music.

After a little more talk the lecturer gives a signal to the fiddler seated in the orchestra pit in front of the cage, and he begins to play, slowly at first, and then faster and louder until he reaches a mad gallop. As the music increases in time and volume, the turkeys hop first on one foot and then on the other, until they get to going with the rapidity of a jig dancer. As the music dies down the motion of the turkeys becomes slower and slower, until it finally ceases with the last scrape of the fiddler's bow.

Unknown to the spectators, the floor of the cage is of sheet iron, and beneath this is a small charcoal brazier. As the musician plays he seems to keep vigorous time with his foot, but in reality he presses a lever which pumps a pair of bellows beneath the fire. The faster he plays the harder he pumps and the hotter grows the floor under the turkeys, and to escape the heat they lift their feet, and the motion soon resembles a ludicrous dance. The exhibition was stopped by the authorities in Boston, and probably in New York.

A CENT'S WORTH

His mother on the way home was finding fault with the sermon. "Well, mother he said innocently, "what could you expect for a cent?"

To Visit London.

Ladies who are interested in the care of their complexions, or who have any facial disfigurements, such as superfluous hair, moles, birthmarks, lines, wrinkles, skin or scalp diseases, undeveloped figures, etc., will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Scott (nee Moote), of the Graham Dermatological Institute, Toronto, will be at the Tecumseh House for a few days, from Friday (22nd) next, where she may be consulted free. Mrs. Scott will have with her a full line of the Princess Toilet Preparations, and Mrs. Gervaise Graham's fine cosmetics and hair preparations.

Our Neighbors.

The Curfew in Operation at Ailsa Craig—Middlesex Sabbath School Convention.

The Middlesex Sabbath school convention will be held at Dorchester on Oct. 21 and 22.

Glencoe cattle fair will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 3.

W. H. Bennett, of Parkhill, has opened a bakery and confectionery in the premises formerly occupied by Mr. J. J. McNaughton at Ailsa Craig.

West Middlesex Conservatives meet at Mount Brydges Thursday to select a candidate for the Legislature in opposition to Hon. George W. Ross.

The curfew bylaw requires all Ailsa Craig lads and lassies under 14 years to be home by 7 o'clock at night until next spring, and it is expected the bell will ring at that hour after this week.

J. H. Butler has purchased a cottage from Mr. Alex. Anderson and removed it to his lot on High street, Ailsa Craig. Mr. Butler will move into his new residence shortly.

Mr. Chas. Rosser, of Denfield, after winning laurels and the admiration of the crowds that have attended the fairs at the different localities in this section by the beauty, style, action and speed of his pair of roadster mares—more especially those that know the combined qualities necessary in the make-up of a genuine road team—has sold one of them to Dr. Routledge, of Lambeth, for $200. Mr. Rosser claims that when those qualities are combined in one team and free from the care of a veterinary, that it is not necessary to tip the judges in order to secure the red ticket.

Mr. J. D. McColl, the well-known Parkhill athlete, is a relative of the lucky John McColl referred to in the following clause of the will of a Glasgow Highlander, who died recently: "In consideration of my esteem and regard towards my friend, John McColl, champion piper, presently residing at Kilbowie Cottage, Oban, I hereby leave and bequeath to him, the said John M'Coll, the sum of £15 sterling, and I hereby express the wish and desire that he shall attend my funeral and accompany my remains to my last resting place in Duthie churchyard and play on the great bagpipes a lament, suitable and appropriate to the occasion; and therefore I express the wish and desire that my clan tartan shall be placed on my coffin."

HOWLETT.

Sneak Thieves Busy on the Fourth Concession of Delaware—The Grasshoppers Take a Rest.

Howlett, Oct. 18.—Sneak thieves have been very busy on con. 4 of Delaware recently. A few days ago the house of Mr. W. Robinson was broken into and $30 stolen. On Saturday night the premises of Mr. Wm. Bell were invaded by some experienced hand and several articles of value stolen, among them a very valuable fur. A slight clue is in the hands of the parties interested.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 21, a musical entertainment will be given in the Howlett school house. A good time is expected.

The Grasshoppers, of Delaware, after a very successful season, have decided to cease hostilities till next season. In the spring a glorious future was predicted for them, and this promise is more than fulfilled, as they have not been beaten once during the season. Football teams, look out for the Grasshoppers next year.

GRANTON.

Advertiser Agent, C. C. Grant.

Granton, Oct. 18.—Mr. James Morton, of Bryanston, has purchased the Misses Langfords' property, and takes possession today.

Harvest home services in Prospect Hill Methodist Church yesterday were well attended. Rev. Messrs. Harrison and Smith, of Granton, conducted the services afternoon and evening respectively. A festival will be held in this connection on Tuesday evening.

LAKE SHORE—BOSANQUET.

Lake Shore, Bosanquet, Oct. 18.—Duncan Watson, of Lake road east, is laid up with measles. We all hope for his speedy recovery.

The Congregational Church here has a neat and new aspect since the windows have been fresh painted, walls alabastined and other improvements made.

FOREST.

Forest, Ont., Oct. 18.—The Episcopalians here are delighted with their new pastor, who hails from Essex Center. The former discontented ones are now all regular attendants, and everything moves right along like clock-work.

The Methodists had a big crowd at their anniversary services.

[Pearsons' Weekly.]

A girl from town is staying with some country cousins who live at a farm. On the night of her arrival she finds, to her mortification, that she is ignorant of all sorts of things connected with farm life, which to her country cousins are matters of every-day life. She fancies they seem amused at her ignorance.

At breakfast the following morning she sees on the table a dish of fine honey, whereupon she thinks she has found an opportunity of retrieving her humiliating experience of the night before, and of showing her country cousins that she knows something of life, after all. So, looking at the dish of honey, she says carelessly:

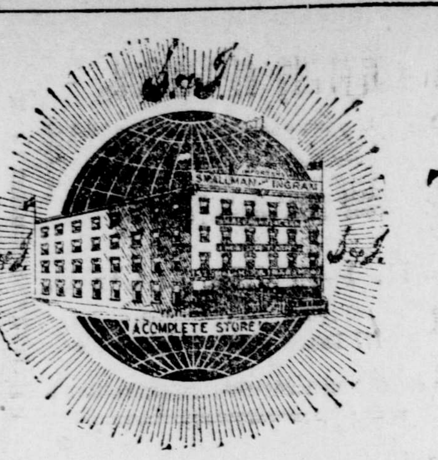

"Ah, I see you keep a bee."

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

KILLED A BIG WOLF.

Standish, Mich., Oct. 19.—Dr. Bell, a Standish dentist, shot a large gray wolf while looking up a hunting place in the northern part of Ogemaw county.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera, and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

The Prettiest Hat...

There is no disputing the fact that we make the prettiest hats in London. We admittedly lead the trade in Millinery. Ask the first well-dressed lady you meet. Ask the next, and the next, up to a hundred, and the chances are that ninety-nine out of the hundred will affirm the above assertion with a positive YES. It goes without saying that all the latest styles are here, and in such quantities and varieties that every purse can be suited and every taste pleased. Our large staff of expert milliners are working night and day, so great is the demand for our styles.

New Arrivals.

This coming Wednesday we expect to open up several shipments of New York styles, comprising Walking Hats and Trimmed Pattern Hats. In Children's Millinery we have the very latest novelties in Silk Touques at 40c, and Hoods at 35c. We invite inspection.

McKINLEY'S MAN.

The President Wants to See Tracy Elected Mayor of New York.

A special to the Detroit News from Washington says: Walter Wellman telegraphed the Chicago Times-Herald that President McKinley wants Tracy elected mayor of Greater New York, and before long is likely to say so over his own signature.

The significance of this dispatch lies in the fact that Mr. Kohlsaat's paper is generally regarded as the president's closest organ. While Mr. Wellman may be over-confident as to the president signing any declaration for Tracy, it is fully understood there that Mr. McKinley heartily approved Secretary Bliss' course in openly supporting Tracy.

New York, Oct. 19.—The indications are that approximately half a million ballots will be cast at the first election in the new municipality of New York. The events of the last 48 hours seem to indicate Gen. Tracy is gaining strength, and not a few acute politicians are recorded as believing that the contest will be between him and Van Wyck. Of money there is said to be no lack.

Quackery is always discovering remedies which will act upon the germs of disease directly and kill them. But no discovery has ever yet been approved by doctors which will cure consumption that way. Germs can only be killed by making the body strong enough to overcome them, and the early use of such a remedy as Scott's Emulsion is one of the helps. In the daily warfare man keeps up, he wins best, who is provided with the needed strength, such as Scott's Emulsion supplies.

Time Tried.

Time proves the worth of everything. It is the test of honesty. It wears off the exterior and exposes the solidity or the worthlessness beneath.

There is nothing more susceptible to time than a piano. One which has stood the test of time—which has stood well in tone, which keeps its perfect action and elastic touch—is as good as any we can offer you. But beware of judging hastily. Most pianos sound alike when they are new. We will be glad to help anyone to piano wisdom who cares to learn.

Tragedies in Dover.

John Toulouse Killed by a Gun in the Hands of His Brother-in-Law.

Suicide of a Farmer by Taking Paris Green.

Chatham, Oct. 19.—Yesterday afternoon, while out quail shooting, Martin Carlisle, hotel-keeper, of this city, accidentally shot and killed his brother-in-law, John Toulouse, 24 years of age. The fatality happened on the Toulouse farm, Dover township. Young Toulouse was carrying the gun, and in passing it over to Carlisle the weapon was discharged with fatal effects. An inquest was not deemed necessary.

SUICIDE OF A DOVER FARMER.

[Special to The Advertiser via G. N. W. Line.]

Paul Lauzon, a farmer in the vicinity of Big Point, Dover township, committed suicide yesterday by taking a dose of paris green. Some time ago Lauzon married a widow named Mrs. Joseph Myers, but some difficulty arising, the two separated. Since then Lauzon has fretted and worried, and the suicide was the result of his depressed and low spirits.

IN HIS LAST DAYS.

Lily Langtry Helped Her Husband From Her Well-Filled Purse.

London, Oct. 19.—Sir George Lewis, counsel for Mrs. Lily Langtry, has issued a statement in reference to the report that the husband of the actress when he was found wandering helplessly in the vicinity of Crewe, previous to his commitment to an asylum for the insane at Chester, had only a few copper coins in his pocket.

The lawyer says that since the separation of Mrs. Langtry from her husband, the former had paid to the latter regularly an adequate allowance, through Sir George Lewis, and that as soon as Mrs. Langtry heard of Mr. Langtry's illness she forwarded money sufficient for the immediate wants of the sufferer. The allowance paid Mr. Langtry was entirely irrespective of the income which he derived from his property in Ireland.

BRITISH STEAMER LOST.

Cape Town, Oct. 19. — The British steamer Clan Gordon, of 1,375 tons, has been wrecked off Umlazi, between Natal and Delagoa Bay. All the passengers and crew are saved.

SERVIAN CABINET CRISIS.

Belgrade, Oct. 19.—The cabinet has resigned. It is supposed that the resignation of the ministers is in connection with the return of ex-King Milan to the Servian capital.

TURNING IN THE GUNS.

Simla, Oct. 19.—The Salarzais have surrendered 157 guns and the Mamunds have completed their submission to the British authorities, and have promised to be loyal in future.

YORK HOUSE SCORCHED.

London, Oct. 19.—A fire which caused considerable damage occurred this morning at York House, Twickenham, which was recently presented to the Duke of Orleans by the Duke of Aumale.

MAIDEN TRIP OF THE ALEXANDER.

New York, Oct. 19.—The Alexander has just arrived from London. This is the first trip of this Wilson Liner of 10,000 tons.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—An eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Wilson, of Mimico, while walking on the G.T.R. tracks, was struck by a west-bound train last night and instantly killed. She became confused on the approach of two trains, one from the east and the other from the west, and to avoid one stepped right in front of the other.

At a recent meeting of the Leith (Scotland) Town Council, there was an odd and exciting discussion. It was caused by the reading of a letter from Lord Balfour of Burleigh to the provost, transmitting a medal which the Queen has conferred upon the provost on the completion of the 60th year of her reign. The provost submitted the medal, which he called a bauble, and said he was disappointed with it, its value being only 1s 6d, or 2s. He was astonished that Lord Balfour of Burleigh should send such a thing to the provost of Leith. Bailie Gibson protested against this, and said that if the provost would not have it he should return it to Lord Balfour of Burleigh. Councilor Baxter offered to move that the provost be presented with a gold replica. The provost said if Mr. Baxter carried that motion he would wear the gold medal and present the bauble to him (Mr. Baxter). An exciting scene followed, and several members withdrew. The subject was then dropped.

—Arthur Stringer, Dave Mills, Peter McKenzie and W. Hobbs are four of the old football war horses who will make their final appearance on the football field in the game between London and St. Catharines on Tecumseh Park on Saturday next. The remainder of the team will be chosen from a list of about 30 members, who are requested to turn out and participate in the vigorous practice matches which will be held every evening this week. Notwithstanding that the intermediates have been knocked out in the first round, a series of exhibition games has been arranged.

MORMONS IN THE CITY.

This afternoon a train load of Swedes passed through London on the G.T.R. en route for Salt Lake City. The Swedes had been converted to Mormonism by apostles of that faith, and were going to the promised land of Utah to dwell among the "saints." They were a neatly, though not richly, dressed lot of people, apparently industrious and sober. The majority of them were women.

THE AMALGAMATION BUSINESS.

It is understood the Westminster township ratepayers whose properties the city desires to annex have withdrawn all opposition to amalgamation, and have, in fact, signed a petition in favor of the scheme. The supporters and opponents of it are being heard before the lieutenant-governor in council today. In view of the Westminster ratepayers' decision, there is little doubt that annexation will be effected.

CLIVER TWIST GOT DRUNK.

Oliver Twist, as pictured by Dickens, went through many experiences of hard luck, but came out on top, without any recourse to alcholic stimulants. Oliver Twist, a young fellow from Lobo township, who for the past three months has been in the hospital, was before the magistrate as a drunk. Unlike his namesake, he got drunk on his first occasion away from the hospital, and sought shelter at the police station. He was allowed to go.

Joseph Morkin, James McDonald, Albert Young, Ernest Williams, and John Sutton, were up for non-payment of statute labor tax. Each was ordered to pay his dollar and half the cost of the court, which amounts to 90 cents, making $1 90 in all, or about two years' taxes for each man.

HAMILTON ROAD METHODIST CHURCH.

A free entertainment was given last evening by the Epworth League in the Hamilton Road Methodist Church. Miss Dollie Phillips provided the programme. Mrs. Fallis, president of the league, opened the meeting by calling on the choir to give a selection. Mrs. Fallis gave a short opening address, which was appreciated by all. Then followed an instrumental by Miss Cornish; recitation by Miss Rooke; a song by Frank Blood; a five-minute paper on the "Lost Ten Tribes," Mr. Corneille. Here there was an intermission and a collection taken. A mouth organ and piano selection was given by Master Heber Fallis and Miss Nettie Fallis; recitation, Miss Blundell; music by the quartet, Messrs. Ritchie, Porter, McDonald, and Miss L. Wilson. At the close Rev. Mr. Fallis, the pastor, was called on for advice, and he said the league was a factor in the church. Each one was to do a part. He said the existence and life of the league in the future depended on our work now. Mr. Mills, who is going to live in St. Thomas, gave a very friendly address.

FORMER LONDONER DROWNED

At Lansing, Mich.—Christopher Crosby, Ex-Engineer at McCormick's.

News has been received of a fatal accident to a former Londoner, Mr. Christopher Crosby, who for a number of years was engineer at McCormick's factory. He left here for Lansing, Mich., about three years ago.

Last week he went to the river near his residence to draw a pail of water. Not returning, search was made, and his body found in the river. Mr. Crosby had been subject to dizzy spells, and it is thought he was seized with one of these attacks while bending over the water, and falling in, was drowned.

The deceased was a man who had many friends here, and his widow and only son will have deep sympathy.

A SOCIETY SENSATION.

Lord Mount-Stephen To Be Married Again.

London, Oct. 19.—The Times announces the approaching marriage of Lord Mount-Stephen, formerly president of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, to Glan, daughter of the late Robert George Tufnell.

The announcement has caused much interest in Canadian circles, Lord Mount-Stephen having, in addition to the presidency of the C. P. R., been a director, vice-president and president of the Bank of Montreal, and president of the St. Paul and Manitoba.

Lady Stafford-Northcote, the adopted daughter of Lord Mount-Stephen, has hitherto been regarded as the latter's heir.

PRAISES LAURIER.

Principal Grant Deals With Interesting Topics.

Kingston, Oct. 19.—In speaking on Sunday of the development or charity among religious denominations, Principal Grant said:

"This development of charity has come about largely from our long struggle to attain denominational unity. French-speaking Canadians have been our friends, comrades, brothers-in-arms. We have seen that their faith is essentially ours; that their aims are as high, and their readiness to make sacrifices for the country as genuine. We judge a race by its elect souls, just as we judge a tree by its best fruits.

"The men who fought for what they believed the good of the commonwealth, with or against Lafontaine, Cartier, Dorion, Masson, learned to judge men on their merits. And men that we have elected are of the same race as the first servant of the state; and he has interpreted worthily our highest thought before the Queen and the statesmen of the empire. We have in him a living symbol that we are one people, and no evil force must be permitted hereafter to break the sacred words of our unity."

After speaking of imperial federation, the principal said that the next ideal which we should keep before us is that of social unity with our kinsfolk to the south. "I refuse to consider the probability of a war between Britain and the United States," were the wise words of Mr. Laurier to his English interviewers. We may believe that there is a probability of such a war, because no limit can be set to the folly and the crime of which man is capable, but to seriously consider that possibility is to show that we have lost faith in the people, who we believe could prevent such a war and almost to have lost faith in the moral government of the universe.

FIERCE FOREST FIRES

Sweeping Over Thousands of Acres in Pennsylvania.

Bradford, Pa., Oct. 19.—The forest fires on all sides of this city are raging with increasing vigor. It is estimated that 5,000 acres have been burned over in the vicinity of Rice Brook.

At Chipmunk five oil well rigs have been destroyed. The reservation between the river side and Chipmunk has been fire-swept.

All the upper Youghiogheny region was in a blaze last night, caused by the extensive mountain fires. Across the Youghiogheny from Connellsville, Limestone Hill is a slope of fire, and south of the town the fiercest fires for many years are eating up the shrubbery, endangering homes and destroying hundreds of fences and barns.

Annexation

The London and Middlesex Deputies Before the Government.

Arguments For and Against Annexing the River Front Property.

The Street Railway Company Also in the Business—A Petition Disavowed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 19.—The matter of annexing certain portions of London and Westminster townships to the city of London came before the government today.

Premier Hardy and Hon. E. J. Davis heard the deputation. City Solicitor Meredith, with numerous plans showing the location of the property, pointed out the advantages that would follow the annexation. The city owned much of the property on both sides of the river, and Mr. Meredith argued that the city could not now get the full benefit from the property. He also contended that it was necessary to have police protection at the park.

M. D. Fraser, on behalf of the township of Westminster, objected on behalf of the property owners, that they had been induced to sign a petition favoring annexation because they were led to believe that it would be forced upon them in any case, and they had wanted to get the best terms. He had, however, received a telegram that nine out of twelve had withdrawn their names. They objected to being forced into the city. It would mean increased assessment and taxation, and depriving the township of a portion of their revenue from the taxation of the property sought to be annexed.

E. R. Cameron, on behalf of the township of London, spoke strongly against the proposal. He argued that, as to the 40 acress east of Francis street, called the Glass survey, they, the lieutenant-governor-in-council, had no jurisdiction to annex that section, because it was not adjacent to the city. Adjacent, he contended, meant contiguous, and that property is contiguous to London West, which is not at present a part of the city.

The attorney-general expressed his view that, as at present advised, the objection was well taken.

As to the balance of lands, said Mr. Cameron, they were not contiguous, according to a reasonable construction of the statute.

Mr. Cameron also declared that it would be unjust to load the township property owners with a share of the city's debt, which was nearly $2,500,000. The township was not in debt, and had a surplus. In addition the city's rate was 21 mills and the township's 9.

Mr. Hellmuth, for the street railway, objected on the ground of fares. The company might have to give tickets to Springbank at city rates. He also objected on the ground of the assessment of the company's plant, its rates, and poles and wires. He preferred, if these had to be taxed, to pay the townships rate of 12½ mills, against the city rate of 21.

SUDDENLY SUMMONED.

George M. Pullman Found Dead in Bed at His Home in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—George M. Pullman died suddenly of heart disease at 5 o'clock this morning. Mr. Pullman's death occurred in his home at the corner of Prairie avenue and Eighteenth street. He was found dead in bed. Mr. Pullman retired last evening at his usual hour which was somewhat early. He was apparently in his ordinary health and there was no indication of his demise, or indeed any premonition of illness.

Mr. Pullman was at his office in the Pullman building up to 5 o'clock yesterday attending to business. Nothing unusual was noticed in his appearance.

Mrs. Pullman was in New York when her husband passed away and left immediately for Chicago this morning on receipt of the news.

HIS LAST HOURS.

While seemingly in good health, Mr. Pullman had been complaining during the last three or four days of the hot weather and of feeling rather uncomfortable. After leaving his office at 5 p.m., he remained at his residence all the evening. About 4:30 o'clock this morning he awoke, called his bodyservant to his bedside, and spoke of again feeling uncomfortable. Finally he requested that the family physician, Dr. Billings, be sent for. In the meantime, hearing through the servants of Mr. Pullman's indisposition, Rev. Dr. Charles H. Eaton, of New York, an intimate friend of the Pullman family, and who was visiting at their home, went into the sick man's bedchamber. Mr. Pullman rapidly grew worse, and a second message was sent to Dr. Billings, but before the doctor reached the house Mr. Pullman had died.

BABY BURGLAR CATCHER.

Gussie Mantel, the 8-year-old niece of Louis Steltzer, of New York, was awakened early in the morning by hearing the door opened leading from the hall. She saw a man go to a closet and take a suit of clothes, belonging to her uncle.

"Mister, what are you doing there?" she asked of the burglar.

"Shut up, or I'll choke you," replied the man. As he started to leave the room she ran after him, grabbed him by the legs, and began to scream. He tried to kick her away from him, but she got a firm grip on his trousers. He dragged her down a whole flight of stairs, where he managed to release himself. He then ran down three more flights to the hall leading to the street. Here he was met by Louis Steltzer, the child's uncle, who had been aroused by her screams. Steltzer held him until the little girl came running down and explained the cause of the trouble. Roundsman Fitzsimmons arrested the burglar, who gave the name of Samuel Bernstein, and said he lived at 56 Norfolk street.

No Decision Reached in the Case of Luetgert,

The Chicago Sausage-Maker Accused of Killing His Wife—The Jury Have Been Out for 19 Hours.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The ninth week of the famous Luetgert trial opened Monday morning with the greatest crowd yet seen at the criminal court building. Thousands of persons formed in line before the criminal court building as early as 7 o'clock in the morning. State's Attorney Deneen opened his closing argument with a defense of several of the leading witnesses for the prosecution, and said that after four or five days of oratory on the part of Judge Vincent and Attorney Phalen, there was nothing to reply to but ridicule. In concluding his address he said: "Luetgert killed his wife. All this talk and contention that the woman left her home while suffering an attack of insanity is the veriest bosh, cunningly devised and supported by perjured testimony. Mary Siemmering? Ah! there is the keynote. She is the woman for love of whom one of the darkest deeds in criminal history was done. She perjured herself and cast a blot upon her soul on the witness stand in this court."

The state's attorney closed with a glowing tribute to the memory of Mrs. Luetgert, whose last days on earth, he said, were fraught with sorrow and anxiety.

Toward the close of the address Luetgert was noticeably nervous. He turned uneasily in his chair, and a tremor shook his giant frame. His black hair, combed pompadour, trembled perceptibly, and was the subject of comment in the crowded courtroom.

The members of the jury paid the closest attention to the eloquent speech and the vast crowd that packed the courtroom listened with breathless attention.

Judge Tuthill's charge to the jury followed, and the jury retired shortly before 8 p.m. About 9:30 o'clock the tremendous crowd in the vicinity of the courthouse was augmented by over a score of men from the vicinity of Luetgert's sausage factory. They were unruly and demanded admission to the court building. This was refused them, but they were so persistent that a strong force of police was sent for. When the officers reached the building they drew their clubs, and aided by a force of deputies, drove the crowd back. The friends of Luetgert had at this time been reinforced by about 200 other persons from the crowd, but they retreated, after a few vigorous applications of the clubs.

At 1 o'clock this morning the jury was still out.

IF HE ISN'T HANGED.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Luetgert has decided on his plans if he is acquitted. Instead of exhibiting himself and the middle vat about the country, as he had contemplated, he expects to purchase an interest in a down-town saloon, or open one himself, if a prominent location can be secured, and the vat, steam pipe and the Great Dane dogs will be exhibited as a sort of side show, while Luetgert passes out beer over the bar. While getting ready to open a saloon Luetgert will exhibit himself in some local museum, if he can find a manager willing to pay his price. Luetgert is now demanding $5,000 for a month's exhibition.

NO VERDICT UP TILL NOON.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Bailiff Lattis announced at 11:30 that Judge Tuthill had sent word to the court room that he would remain at his home on the west side during the day, and would not come to the court room until he was sent for. The jury is absolutely inaccessible. Every precaution was taken early last night to prevent any possible communication with the jury room. At noon the twelve men had been out nineteen hours.

WAITING FOR THE VERDICT.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Weary and worn, the jury in the Luetgert case early this morning resumed its deliberation of the evidence, which laid piled up before it on a table in typewritten form. All discussion of the case, however, ceased shortly after 2 a.m., and the tired jurors slept.

Luetgert said today: "I slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast this morning. I could eat another in a little while. I believe I will be acquitted. Every hour the jury is out makes it better for me. But you cannot tell what a jury will do," after all," concluded the prisoner.

Neither of Luetgert's counsel was to be seen around the criminal court building in the early morning hours today. The strict orders given regarding the admission of people were well carried out, and but few gained access to the building. Outside the court the street facing it was well filled with an orderly throng waiting patiently for a verdict.

FATAL EXPLOSIONS.

Charleroi, Pa., Oct. 19.—By the explosion last night of the boiler of the steamer G. B. Force, Capt. James Ryan and Cook Wm. Patterson were killed.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 19.—By an explosion last evening at the Colma fuse works at Colma, twelve miles distant, Mary Helm was killed and a Chinaman was fatally injured.

Wm. Hillard, ex-city collector of taxes at Peoria, Ill., has been arrested. His defalcation, it is said, aggregates more than $20,000.

On Saturday night, Wm. Cole, about 50 years of age, while driving from Madoc to Crookston Quarries, was thrown from the rig and fatally hurt, death resulting shortly after.

Three of the four lepers who were said to have escaped from North Brothers Island, N. Y., last week, have been recaptured. They claim that their keeper turned them loose. While they were at large they visited many places in the city.

The White Lady

One month after this a newspaper addressed to Miss Anna Sutherland, Devonshire, England, was delivered by the carrier with the usual morning mail. Anna glanced at the handwriting, and a flush passed over her face, leaving it paler even than usual. She turned the paper over and over till her eyes caught a large blue pencil mark opposite the marriage notices; directly opposite one reading thus:

"At the embassy, on the 14th inst., Archibald Hillhouse, Esq., to Henrietta, relict of the late Patrick E. Connan, of New York."

* * * * * * * * *

It was not until after another interval of five years that Watts met Hillhouse again, and then it was on the banks of the Luggie, in the kind gray Scotch gloaming.

Both met at the entrance to the avenue which led up to the old house showing spectrally among the trees, and the new moon leaning back, peered at them curiously through the spaces between the trees.

Hillhouse was leaning over the gate with his chin between his hands, sunk in reverie, when the familiar voice roused him.

"Hello! Well, of all people, you are the last I should expect to see here."

Hillhouse started, stared, and instinctively extended his hand.

"Watts! this is indeed a surprise!"

"It is to me," said Watts, shaking hands heartily. "Why, I understood you were swelling it in New York."

"No; I am here."

The words were spoken in such a dry, quiet tone that Watts looked again at his friend.

"How is Mrs. Hillhouse—quite well, I hope?"

"I don't know; in fact, there is no Mrs. Hillhouse now—she is divorced—is Mrs. P. E. Connan, of New York, again."

"Oh, dear me! I am sorry to hear that!"

"Well, you needn't; I am well rid of her, I assure you, but it served me right. he mills of the gods grind slow, Watts, but I find they grind exceeding small. You bet they do!"

"And how goes painting—selling well?"

"Oh, yes; can't complain. How is it with yourself there?"

"Oh!—so, so. Always painting away and holding my own, at least. Sold a picture for two hundred and fifty the other day. But why were you mooning up here? Come to see the White Lady, like myself?"

"What White Lady? I only landed here this afternoon. No, this place once belonged to a friend of mine—let me see—some ten years ago, but they sold the place and went to Devonshire, in England."

"Ah!"

"Yes. And I just took an odd fancy to come up and look at the old place again."

"I see. By the way—if it be a fair question, Hillhouse—is your English Madonna still in Devonshire? Do you know, I was quite in love with that head. I am going there soon; would you mind giving me the address or a note of introduction?"

Hillhouse frowned slightly, but he answered:

"Certainly; I shall give you the address. I suppose the Madonna herself will be changed in these ten years; very likley she is married."

"Oh, that doesn't matter. Married or single, she will always have that sweet womanly look of goodness which gave the peculiar charm to that head. I shouldn't wonder if the years have only added to its loveliness. Time does in some faces, especially if sorrow has been scalping at the expression. At all events I am going to paint a Madonna for next year's exhibition at Munich, and shall try to get your Madonna to give me a sitting or two for her head."

The twilight was not yet so profound as to conceal the frown which gathered on the brow of Hillhouse.

"Ah—well—should you go—you need not mention my American experiences, you know," he said. "These English girls are very conservative in their ideas, you know."

"Very glad to think they are—but I shan't mention you at all. Besides—something else may turn up—and I may not go. But you have not yet heard of this place being haunted, have you?"

"No, not I. As I told you, I have just got here a few hours ago."

"Well, the most charming legend! It seems that a white figure is seen to glide up and down this avenue and out and in among the trees after dark. It was seen last night by my landlord, who was passing this gate here, and he swears he saw her glide and vanish behind a tree. The poor fellow hasn't got over it since."

"Bosh! Some practical joker, very likely."

"That's what I think myself, and that's what I came to watch. But if so, the joke must be getting rather stale, I should think. It is over three years, they tell me, since this ghost began walking here at night—and yet I cannot hear of any tragedy having happened on the grounds. All very commonplace and nineteenth century conventionality, so far as I can make out."

"Queer!"

"Isn't it? You are not in a hurry, are you? Let us get in behind that great chestnut there, and have a smoke while we watch."

"All right. Anything to pass the time. But come half way up the avenue. There is a hollow there in the bank, where we can lie and take a whiff—but will not the smoke frighten off the ghost?"

"Better not smoke, then," laughed Watts. "I would really like to see a bona fide White Lady."

"Come this way," Hillhouse said, stepping inside the gate. "The place is quite familiar to me. Should the owner challenge us for trespassing, I shall tell him that I was merely having a look at the old place. By the way, who lives here now, I wonder?"

"An elderly man and his wife, I hear, and the White Lady, of course."

The two walked over the grass a few steps, and laid down in the hollow of the bank, but though they lay there talking over everything until the twilight deepened into night, and the moon sank behind the encompassed hills, and only the dim starlight showed their faces, no ghost as yet appeared.

"I guess it's a fraud," said Watts. "Let us go down to the town. Where do you put up?"

"At the hotel, for the present. Yes, as you say, this haunting business is evidently a fraud. Still, the place will always be haunted for me. I passed the best and purest hours of my life in this same spot," remarked Hillhouse, getting up to his feet, and sighing audibly as he looked down the avenue.

Watts, who was already on foot, did not reply. He was peering intently through the trees.

"I could swear I saw a gleam of white just now," he said, in a whisper.

"Shows the power of imagination, my dear fellow," laughed Hillhouse, but at that moment his arm was clutched as in a vise by the hand of Watts, while the other was extended before him with a pointed forefinger.

"Is that imagination? My God! Look at that!" he whispered tensely, and gliding round the end of the house, coming straight toward them, moved a figure in white. All white save for the dark hair which hung tangled upon her shoulders and about her face.

"Woman or spirit, or whatever it is, we shall see," Watts continued. "Let us hide behind this tree."

Passively and without a word Hillhouse suffered Watts to drag him in behind the tree, and in a few minutes they were certain that it was no ghost; the crunching of her shoes upon the gravel declared her to be some human being walking leisurely along. Watts craned his neck and peeped round the trees, and swiftly drew into the shade again.

"It's a woman," he breathed; "she is quite close—sh!"

But Hillhouse looked round the other side, and as she passed within a yard of them he sprang out, and with a wild cry caught her fast in his arms.

"Anna! Anna! oh, my darling! What is this? Why are you here? Speak to me, Anna; have I startled you?"

It was Anna, but she was not startled; nothing on earth could startle her any more. It would have been natural had she fled shrieking from the sudden rude grasp in which she was so unexpectedly enfolded, but Anna had drifted into a region where there was no expectation and no disappointment, no sorrow, no joy, only a strange and visionary calm.

"Dear Archie, you know I love you always, and when you are a great and famous painter you will come for me, will you not? You will come for your little wife? You will like Auntie's husband, I know you will. Did you know Auntie married an old gentleman? Isn't it funny, at her age?" Here she paused to laugh; a low, musical, wierd-sounding laugh that made the blood curdle. "To think of old auntie being married before us, Archie! But we will be so happy. Auntie's husband has bought back the old place, and we are all going back to the Luggie side again, and you and I, Archie, will walk in—"

All this she said, with her thin face and sweet eyes full of love looking up in dimness to his, without surprise or emotion of any kind whatever, while Hillhouse stared at her with slow, comprehending horror. Watts had heard of no tragedy connected with the place. Heavens! here was the tragedy of a murdered soul looking love into the eyes of the murderer.

Suddenly she wrested herself from his slackening grasp and glanced fearfully around.

"The shadows!" she whispered, "the shadows! Where do they come from? They frighten me! the shadows, oh! the shadows!"

A muffled shriek escaped her, and she fled down toward the house and disappeared.

Watts, who had been a spellbound witness of the scene, drew a long breath and stepped forward to Hillhouse and laid his hand on his shoulder. He was still gazing at the spot where she had vanished; a cold dew glistened on his pallid face, his hands felt like ice; he shook like one in an ague fit.

"Come, old boy," said Watts, kindly; and Hillhouse, shivering, suffered himself to be led away.

In eloquent silence they walked slowly down toward the town. They were entering it when Hillhouse, under a lamp-post, stopped and turned his wan and haggard face in piteous appeal to Watts.

"Watts—you are a decent fellow, and believe in things more than I do. Do you think God will ever forgive me for that—that murder up there?"

"I don't know, Hillhouse—how should I know? Can you forgive yourself?"

SHE WAS A CRIPPLE

But Four Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills Put Her on Her Feet.

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—Public interest centers on the startlingly wonderful recovery of Mrs. A. Waddell, 178 Queen street north. She was a cripple for four years. Today, through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills, she is sound and well. Her story is short, but convincing. "For four years," she states, "I was the victim of kidney disease and lame back. I could hardly move about without the aid of a chair, on which to lean. Hearing of the great good done by Dodd's Kidney Pills, I tried them. I used four boxes, and can now get along without any help. I am cured, and you may publish this for the benefit of other sufferers."

At the court held yesterday (Thursday) to revise the Tilsonburg voters' list the Conservatives asked that 30 new voters be put on, and 26 of these were allowed. The Reformers asked that 18 be put on, and all of these were accepted. The Conservatives appealed to have 32 names already on the list struck off. All but four of these will be struck off. The Reformers appealed against 9 and 6 of the appeals were allowed.—Tilsonburg Observer.

Typhoid fever claimed a victim Friday, in the person of Ralf Storey, of Woodstock. Mr. Storey sustained a severe accident while at work in Bain's factory a few weeks ago. Two of his fingers were cut off in a shaper, and he was forced to quit work for some time. Eighteen days ago he was taken with typhoid fever, which resulted in his death. Deceased went to Woodstock from Brantford about a year ago, and had since been working in the Bain Wagon Works. He leaves a wife and four boys.

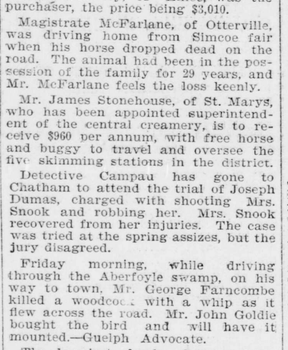

A Walkerville dispatch tells of a daring attempt at robbery about five miles from that place. Mr. Schotts, a driver for Whiteside & Cates, butchers, Walkerville, was going to that place when a stranger asked him for a ride, which was given. In a short time the stranger leaped from the wagon, taking with him the money pouch of the driver, the straps holding the pouch having been severed with a knife. Before the robber was able to flee, however, young Schotts leaped after him. A lively tussle ensued, and the plucky lad succeeded in regaining his money bag. He threw it into the wagon and started for town, his assailant having made off.

The residents along Ingersoll avenue are just now engaged in discussing a little romance which developed during the past week. On Thursday night a middle-aged and attractive widow with her two children, who had hitherto lived on the avenue, left per G. T. R. for Fort Erie. Her household goods were sent on to Buffalo, where it is said that a young man, a picture agent, is awaiting to make her his wife. Nothing is known of the young man in Woodstock other than that he was in town for some weeks enlarging photos and incidentally pressing his suit on the Ingersoll avenue widow. Prior to her departure the lady sold her house on Delatre street for $2,100, considerably less than it is reported to be worth. A relative told the Sentinel-Review this morning that the proceeds from the sale of the house were supposed to go towards educating the children, but that he was rather anxious now as to the probabilities of this taking place. No one seems to know the man's name.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Had to Stop and Rest Because of Heart Trouble.

Mrs. Eliza Cook, 169 Palmerston Ave., Toronto, says: "Seven years ago I had the grip, followed by inflammation of the lungs. I have been afflicted ever since with heart trouble. To walk anyway fast would make me gasp for breath, and many a time I have had to stop on the street to rest and regain my breath.

I had bad smothering spells at night, and my nerves were much unstrung. Anything annoying or worrying me produced extreme weakness, and would set my heart beating so fast that I thought I was dying. Sometimes I would become so nervous as to tremble like a leaf.

I began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills early last February, and have been getting better ever since. My nerves are much stronger. I can walk without difficulty, and the palpitation, fluttering of the heart, shortness of breath and nervousness trouble me no more.

I gladly recommend these pills as the best medicine I know of for heart and nerve troubles on account of the great good they have done in my case." 221

PONTON LOSES HIS PLACE.

Belleville, Ont., Oct. 19.—W. H. Ponton, the Dominion Bank teller, who was acquitted at Napanee on Saturday of the charge of robbing the bank of $32,000 in August last, was warmly welcomed in this city, and spent Sunday at his home here. He went to Napanee yesterday morning and proffered his services at the bank, but was at once dismissed by Manager Baines.

"THEY DON'T TELL THE TRUTH."

Perhaps your grocer has sold you Rolled Oats and called them "pan dried." And when you're eating them you say "those Tillson folks don't tell the truth; here's a hull—a black speck, and where's that nutty flavor that they tell about?"

You didn't ask for "Tillson's" brand, and you didn't get it if you did. Some grocers sell inferior brands under the guise of "pan dried."

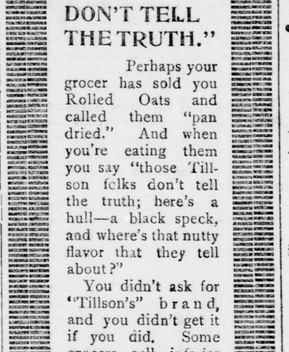

The original

Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats

are just as we advertise them, but because they meet with popular favor the words "pan dried" are used indiscriminately.

"Tillson's" is the original—"Pan Dried" is their original registered trade mark. No one but Tillson can lawfully use the words "Pan Dried" on bags or other printed matter.

JOHNSTON BROS.'
Bread IS GOOD Bread
Delivered all over the city.

In the Dining-Room.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 20.

BREAKFAST—Niagara grapes. Oatmeal, sugar and cream. Chicken pancakes. Sliced tomatoes. Hot coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cold wheat cakes. Potato salad. Bread, biscuit and butter. Stewed pears with rice. Cocoa.

DINNER—Noodle soup. Stewed shoulder of veal. Savory baked potatoes. Hot slaw. Mustard pickles. Cherry tapioca with cream. Coffee nuts. Hot coffee.

Chicken Pancakes—One pint of finely-chopped cold chicken seasoned with one-half teaspoon of salt, half saltspoon of pepper, and two tablespoons tomato catchup. Heat to boiling point one-half pint each of water and cold gravy, add one tablespoon each of butter and flour; let boil a moment and add the chicken, and set aside to keep very hot.

For the batter, beat two eggs until light, mix with one and one-half cups of sweet milk, two full cups of flour, a pinch of salt and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Hastily fry pancakes of the desired size to a light brown, spread some of the prepared chicken upon each pancake, fold once and keep hot until all are ready for serving.

Potato Salad—Cream Dressing—Chop coarsely enough cold boiled potatoes to make one quart. Chop three hard-boiled eggs and mince one large onion or use one-half teacupful of minced celery instead. Arrange in the salad bowl in layers of potatoes, eggs and minced onion, adding salt and half a teaspoonful of pepper.

For dressing, mix one beaten egg with one cupful of vinegar and stir over the fire till cooked; set aside till perfectly cold. Whip two-thirds of a teacupful of sweet cream and add to the vinegar and egg when cold. Mix lightly and pour over potatoes. Do not stir after adding to potatoes.

Noodle Soup—Three pints or more of good stock seasoned with salt and pepper. Add one-half hour before seasoning noodles made of one egg, slightly beaten with one tablespoonful of water, a saltspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper, and mixed as solid as possible with flour, rolled to paper-like thinness, dried at least one hour, and cut in pieces one-half inch square. One-quarter of an hour before serving stir in one-half cup of cold oatmeal left from breakfast.

Stewed Shoulder of Veal—Remove the bone from the shoulder and stuff the cavity left with a cupful of bread crumbs seasoned with a teaspoonful of sage, a saltspoonful of salt and one-half saltspoonful of pepper, slightly moistened with a tablespoonful of water or milk. Cover the top of the meat with thin slices of cold cooked fat bacon or salt pork, fastening them in place. Put the meat into a pot with two quarts of boiling water, a chopped onion and two stalks of celery; add a heaping teaspoonful of salt, cover and stir gently for two hours. Remove the meat to a dripping-pan, brush over with a raw egg, sift rolled cracker crumbs over it, and set in the oven for half an hour; when well browned serve on a hot dish. Strain the liquor in which it was coked, thicken with a large spoonful of browned flour, boiling briskly for five minutes, and send to table in a gravy boat.

Savory Baked Potatoes—Peel as many medium-sized potatoes as will cover the bottom of a large baking dish. Sprinkle over them a half-teaspoonful of dried sage, half a teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of pepper. Cut an onion in thin slices and spread over the top. Add a large tablespoonful of butter in small lumps and pour over all a half-cupful of milk or meat broth. Bake in moderate oven about 40 minutes.

A Local Budget

—Rev. E. B. Lanceley delivered an interesting lecture at Sarnia last night.

—Mrs. Henry Moorhead, of 449 South street, is at her home, enjoying a few days' holidays.

—No date has been fixed for Thanksgiving Day, although it will in all probability be Nov. 25.

—The city council did not meet last night, owing to the absence of the amalgamation committee in Toronto.

—Mrs. A. E. Brocke (formerly Miss M. Docker), of Pall Mall street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Otter, St. Thomas.

—Mrs. H. R. Tatham has returned home to South London, after a short visit at the residence of Mr. H. Gorman, Sarnia.

—The Seventh Battalion held a route march last night and made a creditable turnout. The battalion band, under Mr. R. Pococke, headed the column.

"A Constant Reader."—At last accounts the information telegraphed was that the Crow's Nest Pass Railway contractors had enough hands. Inquire of any C. P. R. ticket agent.

—Bishop O'Connor, of this city, conducted confirmation services in St. Joseph Church, Chatham, on Sunday morning. Afterward the bishop preached a most interesting and earnest sermon.

—The people in many sections of the township of Delaware are complaining much of the annoyance caused them by large parties of young men and even young women, who go out for the purpose of gathering nuts on Sunday.

—The Grand Trunk Railway Company will begin at once to haul the promised gravel for Campbell street. They have notified the city engineer's department that ten carloads per day will be hauled, until the 125 loads are supplied, beginning today.

—Robert McLean, who once kept the McLean Hotel on the old Governor's road, near London, Ont., is a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Eleventh avenue. Mr. McLean will visit the coast before returning east.—Regina, N. W. T., Leader.

—Among those present at the last of the series of public meetings commemorative of the fifteenth anniversary of the establishment of the Salvation Army in Canada, held in the horticultural pavilion, Toronto, on Sunday afternoon and evening, was Major Southall, of this city.

—Mrs. Henderson, wife of the Rev. John Henderson, of the Shedden Methodist Church, died at St. Joseph's Hospital at 5 o'clock this morning, where she had been brought for treatment. The deceased had been ailing for some time, and her death will be heard of with sorrow by her large circle of friends. She was much admired for her generous and affable disposition.

—Miss M. A. Harpin, of this city, sister of Mr. C. Harpin, M. C. R. conductor, St. Thomas, was married here last Wednesday night to Mr. G. E. Rose, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Ten Eyck. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Millie Harpin, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. H. Rose. Mr. and Mrs. Rose were the recipients of many handsome presents. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

—The session of the King Street Presbyterian Church last night gave a reception to the members and friends of the congregation in the basement of the church edifice. The attendance was large, and a happy time was indulged in. Throughout the evening instrumental and vocal music was provided by the Messrs. Johnston and Miss Currie. The pleasant surprise of the proceedings was a series of presentations. Mr. Grieve, on behalf of the congregation, presented the session with a handsome hymnal for the pulpit. Rev. Thomas Wilson, on behalf of the session, presented Mr. Cheesbrough, clerk of the session, with a fountain pen, and Mr. Archie Black, on behalf of the Y. P. S. C. E., presented Mr. Brown with a beautiful hymnal. Refreshments were provided by the wives and daughters of the members of the session, and were heartily appreciated.

"THE THREE GUARDSMEN."

Paul Cazeneuve and his company produced "The Three Guardsmen" at the Grand last night. Mr. Cazeneuve suffered in patronage by being sandwiched between two comic operas. Though depressed by so meager an audience, the performers bore up bravely, and furnished a good entertainment. In daring the role which the late Salvini made peculiarly his own, Mr. Cazeneuve necessarily invites comparison with the great Italian. He has not the physique, the art, or, above all, the personal magnetism of Salvini, but he plays with spirit and dash, and never allows interest to flag. Two or three of his supporters are weak, but the majority fill their roles with credit, notably Mr. Lane as Richelieu, and Miss Stuart as Anne of Austria. Mr. Cazeneuve is to be commended for his sumptuous scenic and wardrobe effects.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL.

The harvest home festival of the Colborne Street Methodist Church, held last night, was the most successful in the history of the church. The edifice was handsomely decorated with grain, fruit, flowers and all kinds of vegetables, and presented a pleasing picture, when the large audience assembled, and crowded it to the doors. Tea was served from 6 to 9 o'clock. Five large tables were spread three times, and provided with sumptuous fare, including turkey and plum pudding in abundance, and a bountiful supply of lighter delicacies. When the large gathering had done ample justice to the excellent eatables, a splendid programme was rendered. Mr. W. M. Spencer presided, and opened the programme with a happy little speech. The programme was as follows: Duet, Mrs. Wallace and Miss Hance; solo, "Mona," Miss Stuart; piano solo, Mr. Hewlett; duet, Miss Hutchinson and Mrs. Harvey; recitation, Miss Hunt; violin solo, Mr. James Cresswell; solo, "Island of Dreams," H. Ruthven McDonald; cornet solo, Mr. Irwin; solo, Mrs. Harvey, with violin obligato by James Cresswell; piano solo, Mr. Bieuthner; recitation and solo, Mr. H. R. McDonald; closing with the Delsarte class rendition of "Rock of Ages." Encores were the order of the evening. The whole entertainment reflects credit upon those who had it in charge, and speaks volumes for Mr. H. Ruthven McDonald, the musical director of the church.

A FLOURISHING SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Annual Entertainment of the Wellington Street Methodist Pupils — Programme and Reports.

Standing room was at a premium at the Wellington Street Methodist Church last night, as it usually is at the annual Sunday school entertainment. Last night's celebration has a special interest, as it marked the 21st anniversary, or the jubilee of the school. The church was prettily decorated with flags and bunting, and everything looked bright and cheerful. The programme, which was very excellent, was introduced by the chairman and superintendent, Mr. Wm. Jeffery, and was as follows: Organ solo, Mr. F. G. Simpson; greeting song, 50 kindergartners; chairman's address, Russell Collins; instrumental duet, Mabel Graham and Daisy Herrick; recitation in concert, Roy Craig, Norman Yealland and Albert Herrick; quartet, M. Robinson, W. Hornsby, Leonard Yealland and Walter Craig; physical drill, Maud and Mabel Hill, Rena Calver, Nellie, Martha and Winnie Powell, Beatrice and Lizzie Curnoe and Annie Le Seur; recitation in concert, Rena and Alice Calver and Annie Le Seur; kindergarten selection, 50 children; recitation, Gracie Toon; the school quartet, selection; recitation, Blanche Richmond; kindergarten selection; recitation, Lizzie Mortimor; dumb-bell exercise, Chester and Harry Smith, Walter Nixon, Thompson Walton, Melville Park, Willie and Leonard Yealland, Norman Woollatt and Albert Herrick; recitation in concert, Maud Bugg, Martha and Nellie Powell and Laurie Swasey; chorus, boys of the school; drill march and chorus, 24 girls; reading, Miss Alice Allin, and instrumental duet, Messrs. Watson and Miles.

The annual report showed that there were 532 scholars, 25 teachers and 10 officers on the roll, a total of 578, compared with 616 in 1896. The average attendance is 382. The average attendance of officers is 10, teachers 32, scholars 329 and visitors 10. The verses recited were 6,722 by the birls and 4,642 by the boys, or a total of 11,364. No deaths occurred during the year. The financial statement is:

The Fatherless.

Record of the Year's Work at the Protestant Orphans' Home.

Twenty-Third Annual Meeting of the Board of Management—Gratifying Reports—Mrs. Morphy Re-elected President—The Other Officers for the Coming Year.

The 23rd annual meeting of the board of managers of the Protestant Orphans' Home was held yesterday afternoon in the Women's Art Club rooms, free library building. The attendance was large, and the reports presented by the various officers showed that the work had progressed very satisfactorily during the year. Those present were: Mesdames Morphy (president), Gregsten, Thompson, Jeffrey, Edge, Shaw-Wood, Shuttleworth, Spencer, McCallum, Webster, S. Glass, J. Weld, Hodge, De La Hooke, Beardsell, Fowler, Robinson and Duffield; Messrs. Thompson, McCormick, Bowman, and Dr. Niven.

The meeting was opened at 3:30 o'clock with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Dr. Daniel.

An interesting report was presented by the secretary, Mrs. Shuttleworth. The record for the year revealed many causes for thanksgiving. On Oct. 1, 1896 there were 35 children in the home, and 38 had been admitted during the year, making a total of 73. The number discharged was 47, and of this number many were sent to good homes. Under Miss Auld's care the children enjoyed the best of health, and the home was kept in excellent condition. The school, which was now held in the infirmary, was well attended, and was doing good work. To all who have in any way manifested an interest in the work of the home the thanks of the board were tendered. Special mention was made of the services rendered by Mr. J. H. Flock, Drs. Niven and Stevenson, the city clergymen, the press, the Ministering League of Memorial Church, the Baptist Sunday school and St. George's Kindergarten.

Following is the annual report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. H. Gregsten:

Audited and found correct by the auditors, Messrs. John Wright and Andrew Thompson.

The endowment fund report was presented by Mr. A. Thompson showing a balance on hand Oct. 1, 1896, of $415 54, dividends and interest $924 28. Bequest of the late J. M. Denton $500. Total receipts $1,639 82. Disbursements: Paid treasurer of the maintenance fund, $924 28; balance on hand Oct. 1, 1897, $715 54. Assets valued at $16,685.

The medical health officer of the home, Dr. J. S. Niven, reported the number of children remaining in the home Oct. 1, 1896—Boys, 28; girls, 7; total, 35. Number admitted during the year—Boys, 25; girls, 13; total, 38. Number discharged—Boys, 32; girls, 15; total, 47. Number of children received from Children's Aid Society, 22; remaining at present in the home. There has been very little illness in the home during the year. The most notable being one case of typhoid fever. The patient was sent to the General Hospital, and is now convalescent. There were several cases of measles, but none of a serious nature. No deaths have occurred. Five children were sent to the Orillia Asylum at Dr. Niven's advice. The sanitary arrangements of the home have been well maintained. In keeping the home in a very healthy condition the matron, Miss Auld, and her staff, and Dr. Stevenson, the report stated, had rendered invaluable assistance.

Dr. Niven was called to the chair and the election of officers proceeded with. It resulted as follows:

Lady Patronesses—Mrs. Hyman, Mrs. Shaw-Wood and Mrs. Fowler.

President—Mrs. Morphy (re-elected).

Secretary—Mrs. Shuttleworth (re-elected).

Assistant Secretary—Miss McWhinney (re-elected).

Treasurer—Mrs. Gregsten (re-elected).

The trustees and committees will be chosen at the next meeting.

Special votes of thanks were passed to each of the officers of the past year, and to Drs. Woolverton and Butler.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

School Teacher Fell Out of a Tree—Has Been Unconscious for Some Days.

Norwich, Oct. 19.—Mr. Harry Corless, teacher of the public school at New Durham, met with a very serious accident Saturday morning through his foot slipping while climbing a tree. He fell about 25 feet, striking on his head and left arm. He was taken to his brother's at Bungessville, where he has lain in an unconscious state ever since. Grave doubts are felt as to his recovery. He is a brother of Mr. C. V. Corless, of this town.

Coughs, colds, pneumonia and fevers may be prevented by keeping the blood pure and the system toned up with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Dr. Bucke's Record.

His Declarations on "Mental Evolutions" Secures Much Attention.

Latest Pen Potrait of Our Interesting Fellow-Townsman.

"The Time and the Hour," a well-known Boston periodical, has the following appreciative sketch of a gentleman well known to many Advertiser readers:

"Dr. Richard Maurice Bucke, who read the widely-noticed paper on "Mental Evolution" before the recent meeting of the British Medical Society at Montreal, is one of the most interesting men in America. Few persons have had a greater variety of experience, or have touched more diverse interests. In their reports of his Montreal paper, some of the newspapers referred to him as an Englishman, but the London in which he lives is not in England, but in Ontario, Canada. There he has been settled for many years as superintendent of the great public insane asylum of that place. In his youth he was one of the original Forty-niners, and later was a member of the party which discovered the great Comstock lode. In literature pure and simple, Dr. Bucke is best known by his intimate friendship and connection with Walt Whitman. In 1883 he published a life of Whitman which will probably remain the standard biography of the poet for many years to come. Whitman appointed him in his will one of his three literary executors, with Mr. Thomas B. Harned, of Philadelphia, and Mr. Horace L. Traubel, of Camden, N. J. More recently Dr. Bucke has edited Whitman's 'Calamus' letters to Peter Doyle, and the collection of Whitman's letters to his mother from the Washington hospitals, to be published this fall under the title of 'The Wound-Dresser.' Dr. Bucke's collection of material by or relating to Whitman is the most complete in the world, running to thousands of titles and including hundreds of portraits and manuscripts. As an allenist Dr. Bucke has a wide and strongly-based reputation. He is said to have been the first to adopt the system of non-restraint of the insane; and more recently he has carried into practice (with remarkable results) the theory that the female insane (where suffering also from physical disease) may often be most effectually treated by the surgeon's knife. Dr. Bucke's theory of 'cosmic consciousness' is, briefly, that man's mind, having passed through the stages of 'simple consciousness and self-consciousness,' is now approaching the stage of cosmic consciousness, or 'a consciousness of the life and order of the universe, with which intellectual illumination comes an indescribable moral elevation, * * * a sense of immortality, * * * annihilation of the sense of sin, and an intellectual competency not simply surpassing the old, but on a new and higher plane.' The theory has been long maturing in Dr. Bucke's mind, and two or three years ago he printed a pamphlet on the subject, but it is only in the last few months that it has caught the attention of the public. Finally, Dr. Bucke is a convinced and enthusiastic Baconian—one of the few who have approached that contraband and forbidden subject with learning and good temper."

FOUND DEAD.

Duncan Gray, of Lobo, Expires Suddenly at His Lonely Home.

Duncan Gray, of the town line between Lobo and East Williams, on lot 22 of the 13th concession, was found dead in a little outhouse by his neighbors yesterday morning. He was well advanced in years and lived alone. It is alleged that his wife left him some years ago, and after this he was confined in the asylum for some years. On his discharge from that institution he lived by himself. On Sunday evening he was seen by many churchgoers wending his way towards his lonely domicile. To several neighbors he complained of violent pains in his side. He went home, and that was the last seen of him alive. His absence in the morning was noticed by the neighbors, and when no response was made to repeated knocking at his door, the house was entered, but to their surprise he was nowhere to be seen. A short search revealed his dead body in a small building at the back of his home. Heart failure is assigned as the cause of death.

MISSIONARIES IN PERIL.

Presbyterians in the Honan District Where the Rebellion Is Raging — Were Any Massacred?

The Presbyterian Church in Canada has for some years carried on a vigorous work in the Province of Honan, which is regarded as one of the most difficult to porselytize. Hence there are no less than fourteen Canadian missionaries in the province, who, it goes without saying, will be affected by any rebellion which breaks out. It is impossible to say how near any of them may be to Kuang Wang, the inhabitants of which were recently massacred by rebels. The Presbyterian missionaries in the province, with the places at which they are stationed, follow:

Chang-Ta-Fu—Rev. Jonathan Goforth, Rev. Donald McGillivray (home on furlough), Rev. James Menzie, D.D., Miss Davina G. Robb, Miss Mina A. Pyke and Mr. J. Grimth.

Hsin-Chen—Rev. James Alexander Slimmon, Mr. Wm. Malcolm, M.D., Rev. R. Alex. Mitchell, B.A.

Rev. Kenneth McLennan, B.A., B.D., returned home not long ago from Chu Wang, his place being taken by Dr. P. C. Lister.

Chu Wang—Rev. Murdock McKenzie (home on furlough), Mr. Wm. McClure, M.D., Miss Maggie J. McIntosh, Miss Jeanie J. Dow, M.B., Rev. Wm. Harvey Grant, B.A.

There are three Canadian missionaries in the Province of Honan, China, in connection with the China Inland Mission. They are J. A. Duff, Miss Effie L. Randall and Miss Emma Randall, all stationed at Chan-Ka-Kee.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly, and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc. in the market.
