MAYOR'S STAND UNCHANGED ON FIRE HALL NO. 4

Claims Underwriters Cannot Force City To Reopen Station.

OPPOSED TO HORSES Stands Behind Council in In- terest of Economy Scheme.

If Mayor Cameron Wilson is a criterion of any consequence the city council will pay but scant attention to the report just received from the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, condemning the closing of the north end fire hall, as an economic measure.

While his worship explained that the report in question has not reached his office as yet for perusal, he was not "worrying" in the least about the matter, and was inclined to believe that his associates in the city council were of the same mind.

"If their report is as reported in the press, the first intimation that I have had of it," the mayor declared, "I believe that it will have but slight influence upon the council. In any event, of course, it will receive their consideration when it is presented through the customary channels."

Stands Behind Council

It can be safely assumed that Mayor Wilson still stands behind the action of the council, which hastened the closing of the hall north of the C. P. R. tracks, in accordance with his economic program, introduced shortly after he assumed office, and which created such a disturbance in civic circles at that period.

That his worship still considers the elimination of the hall in question as an essential, and one that did not deprive the citizens of the district affected of their fire protection, may be gathered by his reference Monday to the fact that at recent municipal conventions in the province, the delegates considered at length this action by the London city council, approved of the same, and intimated in certain instances that they would move to institute similar changes in their own communities.

It can be readily adduced after a brief consultation with Mayor Wilson that there will be absolutely no attempt on his initiative, at least, to accede to any "demand" by the underwriters' association that fire hall No. 4 be immediately reopened and equipped with a company of men.

Have No Power

"They have no power to order us to do anything," he asserted, decisively, "and I am certainly not worrying about the matter. It will be considered by the aldermen in due course."

Ald. Gordon B. Drake holds to an opinion similar to that of the mayor. As a matter of fact, the north end is receiving better service today than before the hall was closed," he said Monday. "And if we add to No. 5 hall the conditions will be much better."

We should motorize the entire department. All horse-drawn vehicles should be eliminated as speedily as possible. While horses are there eating their heads off when there is nothing to be done, it is totally different with auto trucks. When they are idle there is no gasoline used."

Alderman Drake is a stout defender of the London fire-fighting services, and places them well in the fore as contrasted with the departments of other communities in the province.

REPORT ENDS IN INVESTIGATION AT PINE LAWN

Members of Housing Commission Take Action on Matter.

NOT SPREAD ON LAND

Attorney Weekes Notifies Contractors of Objection to Representative.

Events relative to the controversy
in progress between the London Housing Commission and Hayman and Willis, contractors, as to the alleged faulty construction of the city's houses in the Pine Lawn district, are proceeding with even regularity.

Simultaneous with the announcement that Thomas Terry has been formally disassociated as the contractors' representative upon the board of arbitration, called to settle the dispute, comes the report Monday
that members of the housing commission are at this moment investigating the charge "that gravel in substantial quantities was sold without authority at Pine Lawn."

Developments in this respect are momentarily expected. It has been claimed that while surplus gravel,
used in connection with the construction of the buildings in question, was directed to be spread judiciously upon the land in the Pine Lawn district, it was carted away and sold by a certain person.

Commissioners state that it was reported to them Saturday that the contractors "had begged about the occurrence, and the sum of money that he was enabled to obtain in this manner." They promised instant action in an effort to arrive at the source of the report. "Where there is smoke
there must be fire," reason certain of the commissioners.

In the meanwhile, Major G. N.
Weekes, attorney for the London Housing Commission, has served official notice upon Hayman and Willis that Thomas Terry is not a suitable representative to sit upon the board of arbitration, by reason of the fact that he was a sub-contractor for the installation of electrical appliances
when the houses were constructed.

The contractors must select another delegate, the attorney declared,
and in the interim all negotiations
are abruptly halted.

LIPTON DECLARES HE WILL NOT RACE YACHT TILL 1924

Noted British Sportsman Arrives in U. S. for "A Little Fun."

New York, Sept. 25.—Sir Thomas Lipton, arriving yesterday on the White Star liner Baltic, declared he had no intention of challenging the United States to another yacht race
—at least not until 1924.

What he came for, he said, was to "have a little fun and, perhaps,
win a little race."

Despite his 71 years, Sir Thomas declared there was "nothing in the wind for me right now but health and happiness." Then, as proof that he hadn't given up the idea of challenging for the seventh time, he planned "first-class" flags of his "Navy" upon the breasts of his United States admirals who, led by Sir Harry Lauder, came down the bay to welcome him. Each flag was bordered with green, with a shamrock rampant.

"There is no challenge this year," said the redoubtable yachtman. "None is contemplated. I feel hale enough to lift the cup, but the wind isn't set just right."

"Economic conditions in Great Britain and America are too unsettled just now." But later, perhaps in 1924, we shall see what we shall see."

Humane Society Would Ban All Freak Animal Shows

ALLEGED CRUELTY.

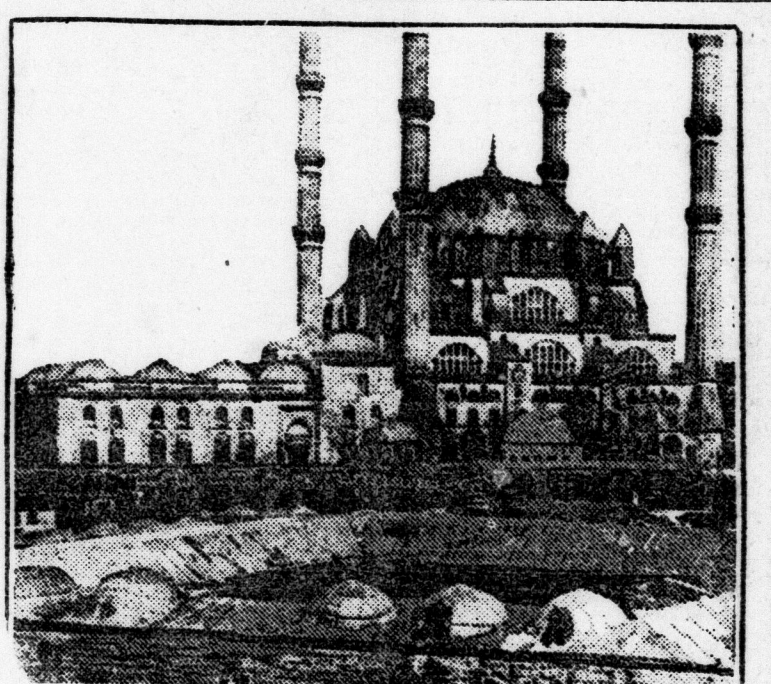

BECAUSE they failed to find any actual evidence of cruelty on which to base a charge, the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has refused to take action regarding a sideshow in which trunks and deformed animals were exhibited at the Western Fair.

Complaints against the show were made by the local Humane Society,
backed by the executives of the Elgin
and Galt societies, who also condemned the exhibition. The local society made the charge in an effort to secure the exclusion of all such shows from the province in the future.

George Tustin, inspector of the local society, claimed that it was nothing short of cruelty to keep animals on exhibition, which did not have the use of four, or at least, three legs.
He also charged that some chickens
on exhibition were sick.

Will Be Restored To Turks

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The ancient capital of Adrianople will be surrendered again to Turkish rule, according to the peace terms approved by the three great powers in conference at Paris Saturday.
The cut shows the Adrianople mosque, the city's most commanding structure.

TAKE MAYOR TO TASK ON RAILS

Labor Leaders Object to Wilson's Attitude Toward One-Man Cars.

Local political labor leaders, while explaining that they will consider seriously the advisability of placing a Labor candidate in the mayoralty race at the next civic election, take Mayor Cameron Wilson to task for his attitude respecting the London street railway situation.

Ex-Ald. John Colbert, a member of the executive committee of the London Labor Party, expressed the opinion Monday that the local Labor element should prepare now for the approaching civic contests, and added that a mayoralty candidate should be numbered among those who will seek the support of the electors.

"Mayor Wilson has spoken about the 'put-and-take' game played by the members of the Ontario Legislature, yet to my mind he has been indulging in the same tactics in connection with the street railway problems."

"Consider his attitude with respect to the company's request for one-man cars. Could that not be termed taking the money from the men and putting it in the pockets of the company?"

"The company asks for permission to operate these cars and approval is given without any guarantee from the company that the interests of the public will be safeguarded."

In the meanwhile it was reported at the last session of the Street Railway Men's Union that the order for these cars, which were to arrive within 60 days had been since cancelled.

This is again denied, however, by company officials.

Members of the labor executive gather in special session this week to consider the situation in municipal circles and outline a program for the fall campaign.

CONDITION OF W. C. KENNEDY UNCHANGED

Montreal, Sept. 25.—Doctors attending Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, who has been twice operated on for gall stones, reported that there was no change in his condition today.

DRAKE TO FIGHT FOR MOTOR BUS SERVICE IN CITY

Alderman Favors Entire Elimination of Street Car System.

URGES CIVIC OWNERSHIP

Will Forward Question at Meeting of Transportation Committee.

Will Be Restored To Turks

When the city's special transportation committee convenes Tuesday,
as anticipated by Mayor Cameron Wilson, a fight for the entire elimination of the London Street Railway, and its replacement by an up-to-date bus service will be waged by Alderman G. B. Drake.

No better step could be undertaken
by the council than the ultimate purchase of the street railway company, reasons Alderman Drake, to be followed by the inauguration of a municipal motor bus service, and he will press his scheme for earnest consideration at the next session of the transportation committee, of which he is a member.

"A commission should be appointed," he said, "in order to effect the elimination of the street railway, and
the city should own and control its
own fleet of busses, once the railway has been removed from the streets."

ed," he said, "in order to effect the
elimination of the street railway, and
own fleet of busses, once the rail-
way has been removed from the
streets."

In the meanwhile, Mayor Wilson explains that within the next two weeks he will journey to Windsor to view the street railway situation
in that center.

BRITAIN TO BUY CANADIAN CATTLE IF EMBARGO LIFTED

British Live Stock Association in the Dominion to Facilitate Trade Understanding.

Calgary, Sept. 25.—Great Britain will import most of Canada's surplus stocker cattle, to the extent of approximately 320,000 head annually, if the Canadian cattle embargo is finally removed,
it was stated by William Philip Chapman, president of the Live Stock Traders Association of Great Britain, Limited, upon his arrival here with Sir
Everett, his business associate.

"While the removal of the cattle embargo has been a long time in the House of Commons it will be some time yet before it goes through the several processes necessary for its actual removal," said Mr. Chapman. "However, we are so confident that it will be removed that we have come to Western Canada, where it is our intention to obtain an understanding with the cattle exporters regarding future trade possibilities." They are the first English traders to arrive here on this mission.

CHURCH URGES U. S. AND ALLIES STOP SLAUGHTER

New York, Sept. 25.—Resolutions
urging the United States government,
the allies and the League of Nations,
"and especially France," to take steps to prevent further atrocities, and to guarantee protection to minority populations in the Near East were adopted yesterday at a united mass meeting of churches, held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"The young men and women,
either of state or church, are chiefly distinguished in the world by the wonderful possibilities they show,"
said the speaker. "They are the future leaders of both church and state, and their possibilities cannot be comprehended. Christ has assured us that our possibilities are as big as our tasks, and further, by assuring us that we are more than conquerors. God has provided that even after completing our heaviest tasks we shall have strength to spare."

Rev. Mr. Agnew spoke to a well-filled church at both services, and was ably assisted by the choir with solos
and special anthems, under the direction of the choir leader and organist, W. Gordon Scott.

The occasion was Rally Day. All departments of the church co-operated to make each of the Sabbath

Western Art League Urges Gallery For City

MEMBERS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC.

TO HAVE an art gallery in the city of London, in the downtown district, and where the younger generation might be inspired to take up this fascinating and instructive work, is the desire of the Western Art League, according to an interview with Peter Glen of this city, president of the league.

A building of this kind would afford the local artists an opportunity of exhibiting their work, both spring
and fall, and would bring to the people the best pictures available. As it is, at the present time, local artists must hold their exhibitions in some obscure upstairs rooms, that are hard to approach, badly lighted and in no way suitable for exhibitions of this kind.

Many local artists have met with great success and some have had exhibitions in the past, and in one particular case it has been pointed out, an artist held a recent exhibition
and over a thousand persons attended in spite of the fact that the people had to climb two flights of stairs in order to see the pictures. It is a striking example of the interest that is being shown, and how eager the public is to take advantage of the opportunities afforded in viewing fine arts.

Would Land Pictures.

Loaned pictures could be brought to the city from time to time so that the best pictures of Canada could be seen, and London would not only be known as one of the most progressive cities in industry and education, but also as a city of fine art.

U. S. Old Line Parties Find It Hard To Disagree

DENVER, Col., Sept. 25.—
That the two great political parties in the United States have having difficulty to find an issue upon which they can differ materially and that the natural outcome of the situation is likely to result in the scrapping of the Republican and Democratic parties in favor of a new political line up of Conservatives and Radicals is the opinion of Lindley M. Garrison, former secretary of war.

Mr. Garrison is here to attend a hearing in the United States district court. He expressed the opinion that the new parties are not likely to make their appearances before the next presidential election.

BEGIN TRIAL OF ED. M'ULLEN

Londoner Charged With Complicity in Wyoming Bank Robbery.

Officials State Mrs. Koehler
Ready to Testify For Crown.

Sarnia, Sept. 25.—It was reported this morning that following a visit by J. M. McEvoy, K.C., of London, to Edward McMullen,
in his cell Saturday evening, a disagreement between counsel and client took place with regard to the policy of conducting the defense and substantiation of this was received this morning when Wilfred S. Hancey, local barrister, received the file of evidence and other matter relating to McMullen's case from the London office, with instruction to proceed with the defense.

Sarnia, Sept. 25.—Both prosecution and defense were ready for a spirited battle when the trial of Edward Mc-Mullen, alleged Wyoming bank robber, opened at the courthouse here this afternoon with Justice Lennox, presiding. Counsel for McMullen and for John Yohn and George Anderson, charged with complicity in the robbery, were here over the week-end conferring with their clients and completing final details of the defense.

McMullen, it is understood, will also plead not guilty to the charge of attempting to break jail on Saturday, Sept. 2. Mrs. Olive Koehler,
"mystery" woman, and star crown
witness, is in the city, and is ready to testify again, officials said.

The calling of a jury panel was the first task to be undertaken when the court opened. William Ayers, who was found guilty of complicity in the robbery at the spring assizes and was sentenced to twelve years in penitentiary, has been brought here
to testify. Crown Attorney F. W.
Wilson said that he was not a crown witness, and it is assumed that he will be called by the defense.

GERMAN PEOPLE PROTEST PEACE TREATIES OF WAR

Vienna, Sept. 25.—A great mass meeting of protest against the peace treaties concluding the Great War was held here yesterday under the auspices of various German associations. The speakers claimed the treaties were responsible for the present plight of Central Europe.

APPLAUD PEACE TERMS.

Rome, Sept. 25.—Italian press unanimously applauds the peace
terms decided upon by the Paris conference for settlement of the Turkish question, and hails the outcome as a great triumph for Italian diplomacy and a notable step towards peace in the Near East.

convicted of peddling drugs will be formally recommended by the police in the courts in the hope that this drastic action will repress the epidemic of fatal narcotic cases here. In virtually every criminal court in Montreal today dope cases figured prominently. During the past two months there have been fifteen deaths from drugs in the Montreal General Hospital.

DIBSDALE CALM FACING TRIAL ON GIRL'S DEATH

Youthful Londoner Expected to Face Judge Tuesday.

ALLEGED CONFESSION

Crowds Gather at Court To Hear Evidence in Killing Charge.

Unconcerned, although he will likely be placed on trial for his life
Monday or Tuesday, Gordon Dibsdale
is in his cell at the county jail here awaiting the summons to go in the prisoner's box and hear the story of the fatal shooting of Christine Near, his 16-year-old sweetheart, retold by eyewitnesses of the tragedy.

Charged With Murder.

The fall assizes opened at the court house Monday afternoon at two o'clock, the most important case on the docket being that of Box vs.
Dibsdale, charged with the murder of Christine Near, within a stone's throw of her home on May 31, last.
Long before the hour scheduled for court opening, crowds of curious ones gathered to hear the evidence in the case.

While the majority of these persons were men, a few women were seen in the crowd. Monday morning
several people called at the court house and inquired if the Dibsdale trial was in progress.

As the most important case to be heard before Mr. Justice Mowat, who will preside over the fall assizes
here, it is expected that the murder charge against Dibsdale will be placed in the hands of the grand jury Monday afternoon. While these twelve men are reviewing the evidence against Dibsdale, a civil case will be proceeded with, pending their decision.

On Trial For Life.

Should the grand jury find a true
bill against the young lover who shot his sweetheart to death, and it is regarded as unlikely that any other course will be followed in the face of the evidence to be presented, he will immediately be placed on trial for his life.

The case against him may not get under way until Tuesday morning.

MEN ASK REVIEW OF JUDGE'S ORDER

Shopcrafts' Counsel Indicates
Next Step in Injunction Fight.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—The drastic temporary injunction order asked by Attorney General Harry M.
Daugherty against shopcrafts
strike leaders, was put in force
today by Judge James H. Wilkerson without any of its effectiveness being modified.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Qualifying his statement with the assertion that a decision of the court and not being definitely determined, Donald F. Richberg, counsel for the railway shopcrafts, indicated today that the next step in the shopmen's fight against the Daugherty injunction would be a petition to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for a review of Judge Wilkerson's order.

To combat Attorney General
Daugherty's efforts to have the temporary writ made permanent, the unionists have been busy over a cabinet meeting at which Foreign Secretary Curzon was expected to present
a detailed report of his mission to Paris.

AWAIT TURKISH REPLY.

London, England, Sept. 25.—The British government today was awaiting the reply of the Turkish Nationalist government to the allied peace proposals, and general satisfaction was expressed in official circles at the outcome of the Paris conference,
which was hailed as a great success.
Whether the allied note has yet reached Mustafa Kemal Pasha is unknown. Prime Minister Lloyd George returned this morning from Chequers Court, his official country residence, and presided over a cabinet meeting, at which Foreign Secretary Curzon was expected to present
a detailed report of his mission to Paris.

SULTAN MAY ABDICATE.

Constantinople, Sept. 25.—The sultan's government has protested to the allies because the joint allied note was not addressed to the sublime porte. The announcement that the allies would return Thrace to Turkey and permit the ultimate occupation of Constantinople by the Kemalist, coupled with the fact that the allied note ignores the sultan's government, renews the fear that the sultan will be forced to abdicate.

Damad Ferid Pasha, the sultan's
brother-in-law, and several times
grand vizier, left hurriedly for Switzerland today. Five pashas, ten former ministers and many opposition editors also left.

It is impossible to meet the demand of the Greeks and Armenians for Turkish fees, which have increased in price from three to five dollars. A local Austrian firm has telegraphed to Vienna for 200,000.

SHOWS NEED TO BAN ORIENTALS

Rev. Dr. Schofield Points Out Menace to Canada's National Life.

Delivers Denunciatory Sermon
at St. James' Anglican Church.

Looking upon the influx of Oriental races into British Columbia as a menace to the national life of Canada, Rev. Dr. Schofield, bishop of Columbia, called upon the government to take a definite stand regarding immigration from eastern countries, in an address on British Columbia missions, at St. James' Anglican Church, Sunday morning.

As Bishop Schofield is the head of a diocese which includes Vancouver and Victoria and the islands of the coast which suffer perhaps more than any other section of Canada from the invasion of the yellow races, and because he is in actual touch at all times with the problems they present he speaks with authority on the subject.

On Pacific Coast.
Thirty thousand Chinamen and many Japs, he stated, were living in the Dominion of Canada. Of this number the vast majority was on the Pacific coast.

In the heart of Vancouver there is a Chinatown, he said, with a population of 15,000, while 6,000 more lived in the heart of Victoria. These people, he said, were quietly but insistently maintaining native characteristics.

The problem was not only one of immigration. In British Columbia alone, he said, 500 Japanese children were born each year, and although they attended English schools they also were trained in native schools so that they remained truly Japanese.

Government after government, the bishop continued, had sidestepped the question, and while generations slept British Columbia was fast becoming Oriental.

To Take Stand.

"I ask you people of London," the speaker said, "to urge your representative to take some stand on this problem. I do not care what stand he takes, as long as it is a definite one." Although the Oriental races were a menace to British Columbia, the bishop did not think that the province could get along without them, so firm had their hold become on the industrial life of the communities. If they were removed he believed that the government would be forced to replace them with immigrants from Europe.

The bishop described the work in his diocese in regard to the scattered settlers and the Indians of the coast.

Lauds Anglican Mission.
He lauded the Anglican mission schools for Indians, especially the one at Alert Bay, the work of which he described minutely. Despite much criticism, which had been passed on the Anglican system of schools, he believed they were the only way in which the church could reach the heart of the Indian tribes.

He also related thrilling adventures which church workers encounter in carrying on work among the forty islands which comprise the diocese.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling; for it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure.—Philippians ii:12-13.

HE that knows and knows not what he knows is asleep; arouse him. He that knows not and knows that he knows not is good; teach him. He that knows not and knows not that he knows not is stupid; shun him. He that knows and knows that he knows is wise; follow him.—Arabian proverb.

THREE APPLICATIONS were considered, and finally approved by the mother's allowance board of the County of Middlesex, at a meeting held in the county court building Saturday.

COLLECTIONS for the third installment of the city's general taxes are being received at the city tax office, 100 Queen street, for the last day. Collections will amount to about $300,000, it is estimated, although this sum was exceeded at the last installment.

The commissioners state emphatically that they will refrain from discussing the merits of the case, involving the Pine Lawn houses until after a final report is submitted by the arbitrator.

Other important business is the suit for no claims yet has been appointed to replace either Sgt. Thomas Fish or Sgt. J. Monaghan, who were removed from the force by death during the past few months.

P. D. HORNER, through his solicitor, J. M. McEvoy, has issued a writ against the municipal corporation of the Township of Southwold, for damages for personal injuries alleged to have been incurred by the plaintiff, and also by Margaret Horner, who was with the plaintiff at the time the accident is said to have occurred. The suit also seeks remuneration for repairs to the plaintiff's damaged car. The plaintiff alleges negligent want of care on a defective highway south of Concession 10, of the Township of Yorkmouth, and claims the accident was a result of the condition of the road.

Businessman.

C. A. Wortham, proprietor of the Wortham Shows, which formed the May day at the Western Fair, died at Cincinnati, Ohio, Sunday noon, according to word received at the office of A. M. Hunt, secretary of the Western Fair Board, Monday morning.

The news of Mr. Wortham's death was entirely unexpected. When he left London little more than a week ago he seemed to be feeling in the best of health.

Mr. Wortham was considered one of the wealthiest and most successful showmen on the continent. Officials of the fair board speak of him in the highest terms of appreciation, as a man of pleasing personality and a keen and fair businessman.

Flowers, indicative of the sympathy of the fair board, have been wired for the funeral, which will be held Wednesday in Danville, Ill., Mr. Wortham's home.

In order to create interest in the column, the Grand Opera House has donated two seats each night as a prize for the best item of the day. Your name and address must accompany the item, and it can run with only your initial attached if you desire. The contest is on. Who wants to go to the Grand?

VETERANS PLAN EXTENSION OF ASSOCIATION THIS FALL

Executive Will Inaugurate Big Membership Campaign at Meeting on Tuesday.

Enjoying one of the most prosperous years in its history the London branch of the Great War Veterans' Association have plans under way for the extension and betterment of the fall and winter program, and at a general meeting, to be held in the club rooms Tuesday night, the chief discussion will center around the winter's activities.

Although the eastern crisis had taken a turn for the better, as evidenced by the latest cable reports, and the prospects for a war are dim, it is quite probable that the question will be discussed by the members.

When the situation looked darkest and a war between Great Britain and the Turkish insurgent, Kemal Pasha, seemed probable, Col. W. G. Coles, as head of the G. W. V. A. in London, immediately announced that should Britain call to Canada for help the Great War Veterans' would recruit a full battalion of trained men in the city for duty overseas.

Declares Dirty Chicken Coops Are Insanitary and Must Be Cleaned

"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." Not so with chicken coops, as C. H. Mitchell of the board of health has pointed out. Mr. Mitchell had no bone to pick with hen owners who kept their coops clean. Dirty coops must go, however, and he is going to bring the matter before the board at its next meeting.

"There should be a law to prohibit people building chicken coops within 25 feet of any house," said Mr. Mitchell. "One man, whose complaint has just been received, says that the odor from a neighbor's coop, which is only a few feet from his house, compels him to keep his windows closed. Other complaints are much like this one, and they are going to be investigated."

WILL FINISH YEAR WITH 11 MEMBERS

Board of Education Will Appoint No Successor to Trustee William T. Clark.

The board of education will have to worry along the remainder of the term with eleven members, as no successor will be appointed to succeed Trustee William T. Clark, who recently resigned.

Edwin Smith, chairman, explained Monday that as no member could now be appointed before the next regular session of the board, Oct. 25, the members would be unable to retain his seat for a few weeks only when he would go to the polls for a mandate from the people.

It would be hardly worth while to add to the board now, the chairman believes, incidentally declining to view seriously the suggestion that ex-Ald. Adam Palmer be asked to fill the vacancy.

The chairman intimated that there would be no attempt to combat further the charges emanating at the last session of the board from the former alderman who condemned the Oliver street site for public school purposes.

"I do not care to enter into any controversy," Trustee Smith explained. "Mr. Palmer or any other citizen is entitled to his opinion, and if he can prove others similarly there is just that much more credit to him."

WILL SEEK NEW FAIR BUILDINGS

Special Committee Appointed To Deal With Improvements at Grounds.

City Engineer Prepares Plans
of Western Fair Property.

Construction of new buildings, particularly a main building and an automobile and transportation building, with possibly added provision for live stock entries, will be the objective toward which the special committee of the Fair board, appointed to consider improvement in the Western Fair, will work.

Need New Buildings.
"Undoubtedly we need new buildings, and if we had sufficient money they would be built within a very short time," Secretary A. M. Hunt of the Fair board said, "but the question is confronted with the task of raising the large sum of money which would be required for building operations."

City Engineer Brazier is at present preparing up-to-date plans of the Fair grounds, and on the completion of these, the special committee will meet to decide upon measures toward improvement.

It is believed that the plan, submitted to the association, and which the city is asked for a certain grant yearly, upon the assurance that the admission fee be cut to 25 cents, and there is every confidence that the increased attendance would more than justify the reduced rate.

Leave Center Clear.
There is also a movement to effect a change in the arrangement of the grounds, placing the midway at the Campbell street side of the grounds, thereby leaving the center driveway clear for exhibition purposes, and detracting in no way from the success of the midway.

Although the movement for improved and new buildings is welcomed by all who have any connection with the Fair and by citizens generally, Secretary Hunt is confident that the Fair has been losing ground.

"With both Monday and Tuesday of Fair week spoiled by miserable weather," he said, "the Fair board is not in the hole financially, and had those days been fine, the attendance would have established a record."

"Nevertheless, if the money can be raised, there are a great many ways in which the Fair can be improved."

Change Location.
According to Secretary Hunt, there is no inclination on the part of any members of the board to change the location of the Fair grounds, although there have been suggestions from citizens that such a change might be desirable, with the Cores mentioned as a likely place.

"If we had been in the Cores last Fair week," Mr. Hunt said, "we would have been drowned out, and if we had been anywhere on clay soil it would have been difficult to carry things out with anything approaching success. As far as I can see, and in the opinion of the members of the board, Queen's Park is a particularly suitable location. The ground is sandy, which permits of easy drainage; it is approached by a paved street, within easy reach by street car, with no danger of strangers losing their way en route, and within the reach of railroad facilities."

TO CONSIDER PLAN OF NEW SCHOOL

Trustees Have Until October 15 to Decide on Oliver
Site.

Although the members of the board of education have not yet decided what manner of school they desire at the corner of Oliver and Trafalgar streets, they have until Oct. 15 in which to purchase the property in question. A 90-day option expires at that time. The trustees at their last general session formally eliminated the Dakin street site from the reckoning, and concluded that the Oliver location was the most desirable.

It will now be necessary, trustees say, to stage a special session within the next future to consider plans for the contemplated structure, and determine just what type would be the most favorable for the district affected.

Instead of 7:15, and will leave for Detroit at 7:30, instead of 7:25.

No. 19 will leave Toronto at 6:40 p.m., instead of 7:00, will arrive in London at 9:55, instead of 10:10, and will leave for Detroit and Chicago at 10:05, instead of 10:25 p.m.

SUBMIT PROTEST PETITION ON OXFORD ST. PAVING

Residents Take Steps to Prevent Work Being Done This Fall.

With the signatures affixed of nearly every resident on the street, the petition from citizens on Oxford street west protesting against a pavement on that street, reached the city hall on Monday morning, and will receive the consideration of the board of works in regular session on Tuesday.

Ald. John Ashton, chairman, predicts that this will mean the finish of the contemplated undertaking for this fall at least. "If the people there do not want the pavement they do not have to have it," he stated, "and I believe a majority of the committee will be of that mind."

City Grocers To Continue Weekly Holiday in October

CLAIM MISTAKE IN FIRE REPORT

Utilities Officials Denounce
Statement of Insufficiency of Water.

Point Out Supply Increased Since Test When Surplus Noted.

Officials of the public utilities department take decided exception to a clause in the recent report issued by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association to the effect that "the amount of water available for daily use is slightly below the requirements."

The local authorities hold that the underwriters' report is not consistent and relate that no longer than four years ago, when a similar report was made public the city was stated to have a supply of water sufficient to last for years to come.

Since that time, they point out, the city's supply has been increased by more than a million gallons daily, with the immediate prospect of another million or two, calculated to care for the city's needs for an indefinite period.

Discounting the report practically in its entirety the local authorities question if the city is to accept as that report as just submitted, and ask that the latter statement be contrasted with former reports.

While the underwriters state that the city's output at Springbank is reduced by 50 per cent as the steam pump alone is available for action when hydro service is curtailed by reason of storms, they reply that this amount is entirely adequate as the demand is only 50 per cent as the industrial plants require no water as their activities are at a standstill until the hydro service is resumed.

It is pointed out further that the city's reserve water at Springbank is registered at 17,000,000 gallons, 5,000,000 gallons more than the amount stipulated by the underwriters as adequate for fire-fighting purposes.

IS SUCCESSFUL IN CONVICTING DRIVER

L. S. R. Motorman Gives Evidence in Court Against Bus Operator.

Hostilities in the war between the London street railway and the bus lines broke out anew one night recently, and as the skirmish resulted in a moral victory for the street car men, Harvey Johnston of the street car firm of Johnston & Hunt, was forced to pay indemnities of $3, and bear the cost of the battle, when he appeared in police court Monday.

Edgar Fowler, motorman, on an Oxford car, laid the complaint against Johnston, who was the driver of a bus, and who was charged with single-handed, he swore that on the night in question he had backed his car to Sackville street and had just let two passengers out when the bus drove past and stopped so that its rear end was even with the front door.

In defence, Johnston claimed that it was difficult to tell what a car was going to do when it was backing up. As he had already passed the rear of the street car before it came to a stop he could not help drawing near the front door.

Fowler asked him what he had said to the police when the summons was served.

"That you had said that you would get me some time," answered Johnston.

The magistrate did not believe that Johnston intentionally passed the car, but could find no other course but to levy the fine.

Difference in seasons is not due to the relatively small change in the distance between the sun and the earth, but to the variation in the slope of the earth as it travels its orbit.

Speed and Death.

A FEW days back the sport pages were carrying the picture of ROSCOE SARLES, one of the greatest auto racers this continent has ever known. The reason for printing his picture was that it went with the story from the Kansas City Speedway, where he had been swept from the steering wheel in a terrible accident, fatal in its results, at the opening of a 300-mile race. A few moments before he was king of the track, strong, mind clear and nerves all on tension for the contest, from which he had so often emerged the victor.

The list of brave lives sacrificed in the new sport of democracy lengthens ominously as the speed record each year is cut shorter and the chances of beating it rendered more difficult and dangerous. There must come a time when the chances of death will make the conquest of time and space—which the modern automobile speed race really typifies—too dangerous, not for the drivers who will always be ready to go where fame and gold are to be won, but for the public who cannot often witness many such tragic spectacles and still find the sport attractive.

The Los Angeles Times, commenting on this fatality, remarks that "after barring bull fights from the United States because of the bloodshed involved in them, we must make sure that our own national sport of motor racing does not take as great a toll of human life. A fellow-citizen burned in the wreck of a machine is not less horrible than a bull dispatched by the sword-thrust of a matador."

There is, of course, a science of safety in constructing and managing automobiles that is developed as the possibilities of more marvelous speed are increased. The motor-race game cannot afford many such accidents to take place as that which has just snuffed out the life of our brave young fellow-citizen, ROSCOE SARLES.

Who Suffers?

ATTENTION is being drawn to a case that came before the court at Montreal a few days ago. A woman, driven by starvation and want, came to court with her three children and abandoned them there, claiming as justification for her act that she had been forced to do it because the law had taken away her husband and put him in jail, and there was no person else to act as breadwinner for the family.

Investigation showed that the husband had appeared in court some time before and been convicted of operating a still. Sentence was passed and he was sent to jail for a term.

The law took the breadwinner of that household away, but the same law did not put another in his place, and the result was that the family soon came to the point of want and starvation.

This is not the first of these cases to come to the surface. Almost any court in the country can show a number of similar instances where the real punishment is heaped upon the innocent ones left at home.

The man who goes to jail does not suffer a great deal of bodily discomfort. There may be some twangs of conscience to keep him up at nights, but for the most part he comes out at the end of his term looking none the worse for the experience.

In this case the suffering had been passed on to the mother and the three children. There is a defect that calls for redress in voice so loud that no attention can be paid to the excuse that no complaint has been heard.

London's Fire Hall.

THE fire underwriters have served notice on the City of London that they want the fire hall which used to be situated at the corner of St. James and Colborne streets reopened, as there is not adequate protection for the large section of the city north of the C. P. R. tracks, a section which is constantly growing and being filled by some of the finest residences in the city.

The closing down of this hall was brought about when MAYOR WILSON set out to cut civic expenditure and determined that the estimates of the fire department should be cut by 10 per cent.

There is something strange about this affair, no matter which way it is viewed.

Did the civic officials, prior to taking this step, find out from the underwriters that they would consent to the elimination of this unit of London's fire-fighting department?

If this information was not secured and found to be satisfactory, then the council has taken a very serious obligation on its own head in depriving residents of the north end of the city of fire protection to which the underwriters now say they are entitled.

On the other hand, this step was taken some months ago, and it is only now, within about three months of the end of the year, that the sit-

H. G. WELLS' FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY

The Romance of Mother Earth

The Humble Beginning of Brains.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT—13.

ALL the innovations that come into the history of life begin very humbly. The supply of blood vessels in the swimming bladder of the mudfish in the lower Palaeozoic, the first of the great innovations that have led to the modern world of great sharks and plated fishes, sea scorpions and coral reefs and seaweeds, but it opened the narrow way by which the land vertebrates arose to predominance. The mudfish would have seemed then a poor refugee from the too crowded and aggressive life of the sea. But once lungs were launched into the world, every line of descent that had lungs went on improving them.

So, too, in the upper Palaeozoic, the fact that some of the Amphibia were losing their "amphibiousness" by a retardation of hatching of their eggs, would have appeared a mere response to the distressful dangers that threatened the young tadpole. Yet that prepared the conquest of the dry land for the triumphant multitude of the Mesozoic reptiles. It opened a new direction toward a free and vigorous land life along which all the reptilian animals moved. And this vivacious, young-tending training that the ancestral mammalia underwent during that age of inferiority and hardship for them, set going in the world a new continuity of perception, of which even man to-day only begins to appreciate the significance.

Significant Little Things. A number of types of mammals already appear in the Eocene. Some are differentiating in one direction, and some in another, some are perfecting themselves as herbivorous quadrupeds, some leap and climb among the trees, some turn back to the water to swim, but all types are unconsciously exploiting and developing the brain, which is the instrument of this new power of acquisition and educability.

In the Eocene rocks are found small early predecessors of the horse (Eohippus), tiny camels, pigs, early tapirs, early hedgehogs, monkeys and lemurs, opossums and carnivores. Now, all these were more or less ancestral to living forms, and all have brains relatively much smaller than their living representatives. There is, for instance, an early rhinoceros-like beast, Titanothereum, with a brain not one-tenth the attention of the city council is brought to the matter and a demand made that the protection given by the north end fire hall be reinstated.

There seems to have been some loose work no matter which way the question is approached.

A Good Spirit.

THE members of the Great War Veterans' Association have been busy almost continually ever since the last war was over taking up cases of their comrades which they think were not fairly dealt with by the department at Ottawa.

There is scarcely a branch of the organization which has not had some of these cases to attend to, and in many of them there has not been a satisfactory settlement yet.

These men know all about the horrors of war. There is not much in the way of suffering and hardship that they did not go through.

One might easily take it for granted that they had had enough of the whole business and would be through with wars in the future.

But as soon as the war clouds of the Near East began to take threatening form these same war veterans were ready with their offers of enlistment from all parts of the country.

It is a mighty fine spirit and one that should not be lost on those who have to deal with the requests of these men.

LITTLE TISERS

HON. W. S. FIELDING appeals at Geneva for the abolition of the submarine, and he has all humanity behind him. The one unfortunate circumstance is that humanity does not figure much in the conduct of wars.

It was no doubt a determined stand for HENRY FORD to take that he would close his plant to fight against the high prices of steel and coal. But it is much more pleasant to hear that he has decided to open up again and make cars. While Ford was fighting high prices his men were out of work.

It is interesting to note that some of the prize winners at the school fairs which are being held in the country now are very young people.

The Guelph Mercury mentions two twins at Brookville, eight years old, winning prizes for making cakes and cookies. The young men of this section should have some real honest-to-goodness wives in years to come.

The Methodists of Woodstock district passed a resolution protesting against dancing being carried on in high schools. Whether a person dances or does not dance is a matter largely for themselves or their family to decide, but it might be well to have it carried in mind that a high school is a place to get an education. It is primarily for the training of the head rather than the heels.

The principal of Chatham Collegiate intends to put a crimp in the idea of schoolgirls resorting to the use of cosmetics. It would be a fine thing if some of the parents had as much commonsense as the principal. A girl in high school does not need from perihelion around its path. These were small changes to happen to a one-inch ball, circling at a distance of 320 yards from a flaming sun nine feet across, in the course of a few million years. They were changes an immortal astronomer, in Neptune, watching the earth from age to age, would have found almost imperceptible. But from the point of view of the surviving mammalian life of the Miocene, they mattered profoundly.

The Earth's Increasing Chill. Age by age the winters grew on the whole colder and harder, and a few hours relatively to the summers in a thousand years; age by age the summers grew briefer. On an average the winter snows lay a little later in the spring each century, and the glaciers in the northern mountains gained an inch this year, receded half an inch next, came on again a few inches.

The Record of the Rocks tells of the increasing chill. The Pliocene was a temperate time, and many of the warm-loving plants and animals had gone. Then, rather less deliberately, some feet or some inches every year, the ice came on.

An arctic fauna, musk ox, woolly mammoth, woolly rhinoceros, lemmings, ushers in the Pleistocene. Over North America and Europe and Asia alike, the ice advanced. For thousands of years it advanced, and then for thousands of years it receded, to advance again.

Europe down to the Baltic shores, Britain down to the Thames, North America down to New England, and more centrally as far south as Ohio, lay for ages under the glaciers. Enormous volumes of water were withdrawn from the ocean and locked up in those stupendous ice caps so as to cause a world wide change in the relative levels of land and sea. Vast areas were exposed that are now again sea bottom.

The world today is still coming slowly out of the last of four great waves of cold. It is not growing warmer steadily. There have been fluctuations. Remains of bog oaks, for example, which grew two or three thousand years ago, are found in Scotland at latitudes in which not even a stunted oak will grow at the present time. And it is amid this crescendo and diminuendo of frost and snow that we first recognize forms that are like the forms of man. The Age of Mammals culminated in ice and hardship and man.

Through millions of simian generations the spinning world circled about the sun, slowly its orbit, which may have been nearly circular during the equable days of the early Miocene, was drawn by the attraction of the circling outer planets into a more elliptical form. Its axis of rotation, which had always heeled over to the plane of its orbit, as the mass of a yacht under sail heels over to the level of the water, heeled over by imperceptible degrees a little more and a little more. And each year its summer point shifted a little more assistance in bringing about a make-up. If she gives nature half a chance the trick will be done a hundred times better than in any other way.

Authorities who have charge of reformatories must be puzzled at times to know what course to take. A few days ago two boys were caught in a hay mow at Chesley. They had a goodly supply of bread, cheese and cigarettes with them, and it was afterwards found that they had broken into several residences in the district. They had escaped from Mimico reformatory, and instead of coming away from that place with a changed outlook on life had seized the first opportunity to plunge into crime again. Obviously the lesson is that we should reach these boys before they get to the reformatory stage, and it is equally plain that we are failing miserably to do this.

Woodstock City Council is taking action to collect damages from a company which agreed to locate in that city and later changed its mind. In all the amount of money spent by Woodstock amounted to some thousands of dollars. Apparently the city acted in perfectly good faith in preparing housing accommodation and carrying out other obligations that were part of the agreement. It is unfortunate that any city should have to proceed forward to make such collections. If the company with which Woodstock is dealing caused the city to go to the expense named it should come forward and make a settlement.

HERE is an age discoverer.

If the friend is older—

Subtract your own age from 99. Ask your friend to add this remainder to his own age without telling you the result.

Then ask him to remove the first figure in this unknown (to you) number and add it to the other figure in the number; giving you the result. This will always be the difference in your ages.

If the friend is younger—

Simply reverse the process by adding your age to 99 and having him add his age to the result.

For example, suppose your age be 27. Subtracting from 99 gives 72. Your friend adds his age, 38 let us say, making 110. He removes the first figure, 1, adds it to the other figure, 10, and gives you the answer, 11. This is the difference in your ages. You add the 11 to your age of 27, and tell him his age, 38.

Saturday's Solution: There is nothing to prevent you from subtracting 10 from 97 as many times as you like.

have the advantage mentally over the average person, but also a sign that in some respects you are at a disadvantage.

The course of wisdom is to capitalize in your business or profession the characteristics in which you excel. But it does not follow that you should push the development of these characteristics to the exclusion of the ones in which you are perhaps a bit deficient.

If you devote the strongly functioning faculties of your brain to your business, they will get all the exercise they need in the natural course of events. Danger lies in the chance that you will let your weaker faculties become stunted through non-use.

If your head is narrow, it will do you good rather than harm to cultivate an aggressive attitude at times. Don't always be too eager, especially in the less important things, to seek the easiest, most diplomatic way out of a difficulty. Even if your inclination is the opposite, make it a point to argue or fight about it a bit. And you will do yourself no harm either if occasionally you drive yourself into some form of work or recreation that demands more energy and aggressiveness, both physically and mentally, than is instinctive with you.

HERE'S A COAT.

My Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly send the inclosed letter to Tatten. I got the songs safely, and wish to thank her for same. I am so pleased with them that I inclose another shin-plaster, as I think they are worth it. Then it is to help our cot fund, so if Tatten makes the sacrifice we too should do so also. I am sure she must be a good woman to part with her boys' songs to help our cause, and I for one, will always value mine. Now, I am offering a little help. I have a girl's coat in good condition, fit girl 16, for winter wear, and will give it to anyone paying express, or if they live in the city they may get my address of phone number from Miss Grey. It is a brown corded, lined, and in no way shabby, so no one need be afraid to wear it, but please don't all speak at once; also a woman's winter coat, size 38. But it wouldn't do for city wear, but good for country or farm. It is good cloth and has seal collar and cuffs. Anyone can have same by applying to Miss Grey for address. Best wishes to everyone. Yours sincerely, ESME.

It was good of you to send another shin-plaster for our fund. So you were pleased with the songs were you? It is splendid of you to offer these clothes for the needy Boxites. Anyone wishing Esme's address may have it from the Mail-Box. There will be a regular deluge of requests. I know, so it will be first come, first served. The best plan is to send a letter to Esme, to the Mail-Box, which will be forwarded immediately.

SENDS A DOLLAR.

Dear Miss Grey,—I see in The Advertiser where you are anxious to raise enough money to endow a cot in the Sick Children's Hospital. As I have been a sufferer all my life, I know how to sympathize with anyone in pain, especially children, so I herewith inclose $1 to help on the good work. I always read the Mail-Box letters, and find them very interesting.

A SYMPATHIZER.

How good of you to send such a large donation for our hospital fund. If everyone was as generous we would soon reach our objective. But it is only those who have suffered who can really sympathize. Won't you write to us again and tell us who you are?

BABY WEIGHS THREE POUNDS.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again. I think I told you last time I wrote how sick I was. I was injured internally, by accident. I sure put in a rough time for nine days, as things were getting pretty serious by that time, but it had to be. Dear Cynthia, And then let me tell you on the first of September morn at 2 o'clock the stork arrived two months ahead of time and although the dear baby's life was despaired of before it arrived, I am pleased to say it is really living and doing well. Say, dear friend, I would just love for you to see this dear little darling of pink and white. It is really the cutest and most lively little ever saw and weighs just three pounds. Can you imagine that, I wonder?

Well, now, I would like to say a big thank you for your recent kindness in sending me the address of the boxite for the gray coat. I am going to get quite a lot of wear out of it. The giver will be pleased to know I appreciate her kindness. I also got a parcel from another person who did not give a pen-name. Maybe you know her. She will be pleased to know those wee shirts arrived just in time for my latest visitor. Now, dear, I must close this time with mite for S. C. H. fund. I did not send any the last time.

P. S.—Kind wishes to everybody. I can hardly imagine such a tiny baby, living. I am sure you will love it all the more for being so little. Is it a girl or a boy? And what do you intend to call it? I suppose as it arrived so much sooner than

Alkali In Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. For this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain Mulsified coconut oil shampoo. For this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and makes anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup of water with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure you get Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.—Adv.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

The reformed crackman, MICHAEL LANYARD, known to the police as the WOLF, is attempting to recover the stolen jewels of NE DE MONTAIGNE, the woman he loves.

Lanyard, who met Eve in Southern France, where he rescued her from robbery at the hands of the brutal Parisian Apache, REYNOLD, believes that the jewels were stolen by a motoring party, consisting of the American, HITAKER MONK; his secretary, HEINRICH, the latter's brother, ULES, and the LOUNT and COUNTESS DE LORNE.

The Lanyards are murdered by Dupont, and later on, in Paris, Lanyard finds the countess. He learns that her real name is HANE DELORME, and believes she has the jewels.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.
The Vampire and the Jewels.
LANYARD left Athens at her apartment, and immediately followed her footprints to the house of Liane.

It stood four-square and massive on the corner between the avenues de Friedland et des Champs Elysees, a solid stone pile of a town house in the most modern mode.

Heavy gates of wrought bronze guarded the front doors. The single side or service door was similarly protected if more simply. And stout grilles of bronze barred every window on the level of the street.

Tomorrow night would be too late. Tonight, if there were any warrant for his suspicions, the jewels of Eve de Montaigne lay in the dwelling of Liane Delorme; or if they were not there, the secret of their hiding was.

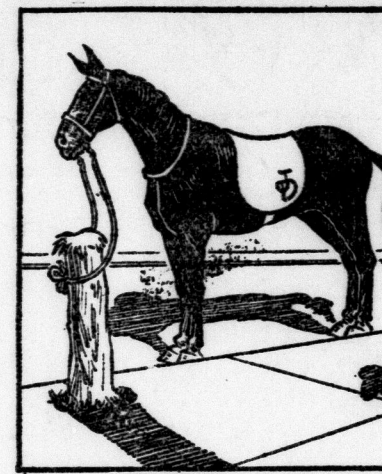

But tomorrow Liane would be on the wing, or Lanyard had been sorely mistaken in seeing in her as badly frightened woman as he had ever known.

He must adventure the consequences. Poised to leave his shelter with his point of attack selected, he checked and fell back into the shadow. Something was happening in the house across the way.

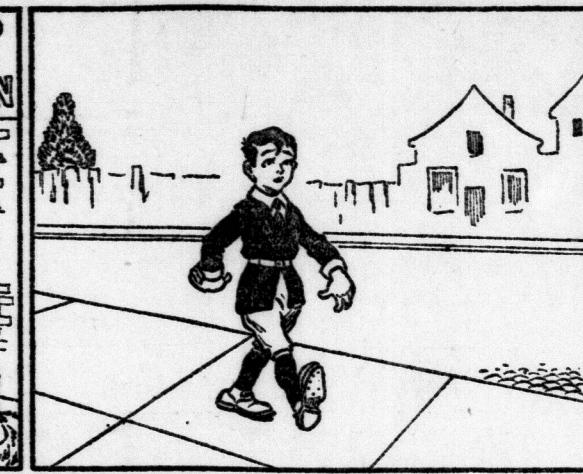

A man had opened the service door and paused behind the bronze gate.

Following a little wait, it swung slowly out, perhaps eighteen inches, the man advancing with it, and again halting to peer up and down the street.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

WHEN JACK REACHED THE LITTLE TOWN OF RIVERSIDE, HE STOPPED AT A FEED STORE AND GAVE ORDERS TO THE OWNER TO TAKE CARE OF HIS HORSE AND DOG, AND TO FEED THEM.

JACK ENJOYED THE NOVELTY OF WALKING DOWN THE PAVED STREETS OF THE LITTLE TOWN LET HIM SEE, THOUGH HE, WHAT SHALL I DO FIRST, THEN HE DECIDED TO STOP AT A RESTAURANT.

ENTERING ONE, HE SAT DOWN AND GLANCED OVER THE MENU. "I KNOW THIS IS BREAKFAST TIME," SAID JACK TO THE WAITER, "BUT I'M HUNGRY, SO BRING ME A FULL COURSE DINNER."

AFTER HE HAD EATEN, JACK WENT OVER TO THE LOCAL POST OFFICE, AND PURCHASED A MONEY ORDER FOR A LARGE AMOUNT AND SENT IT OFF TO HIS MOTHER, BY SPECIAL DELIVERY. CONTINUED IN NEXT CHAPTER.

TIMBALES

ANY kind of cooked fish may be used for making timbales. Timbales are really a custard with meat, fish or vegetable pulp added. They are baked by placing the molds or mold in hot water. When firm they are turned from the molds and served with a sauce, and often changing the usual cream sauce by adding different seasonings, a small amount of left-over peas or asparagus and sometimes cheese.

Try this recipe for halibut timbales with cheese and pimento sauce:

1 cup cooked halibut
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt, few drops onion juice if liked.

Cook milk, butter and bread crumbs together 5 minutes. Add fish and seasonings and eggs slightly beaten. Turn into buttered molds, set molds in a pan of hot water and bake 15 minutes, or until firm.

When ready to serve, loosen the custard around the top, invert and allow them to stand for a few moments; they will then be in good shape and hot.

To make the cheese and pimento sauce:

1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons (level) flour
2 pimientos rubbed through a sieve
1/2 cup soft cheese

Melt butter, add flour and seasonings. When smooth, add milk and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add cheese and pimentos and cook until cheese is melted.

Custard cups are good to use for the timbales.

Tomato pulp, one-half cup, may be used instead of pimentos.

Then quickly, as if alarmed, he withdrew.

Listening intently, Lanyard heard no click of latch, such as should have been audible in that dead hour of hush.

Evidently the fellow had neglected to make fast the gate. What was he up to? Why this furtive appearance, why the retreat so abruptly executed.

By way of answer came the soft drone of a high-powered motor.

Before the corner house it stopped. A lackey alighted with an umbrella, but Liane Delorme would not wait for him.

The car had not stopped when she threw the door open, on the instant when its wheels ceased to turn she jumped down and ran into the house.

Now, if only it were true that the man at the service door had failed to close it securely!

It proved so. The gate gave readily to Lanyard's pull. The knob of the small door turned silently. He stepped across the threshold, and shut himself into an unlighted hall.

To one side a broad flight of stairs ascended. Lanyard went up with the activity of a cat, making no more noise.

The second floor proved to be devoted mainly to a drawing-room, a lounge and a library, all furnished in a weird, inchoate sort of magnificence, with money rather than with taste, if one might judge fairly by the stiff and guarded beam of the torch.

Lights were burning on the floor above, and a rumor of feminine voices drifted down, interrupted by an occasional sibilant rustle of silk, or a brief patter of high-heeled feet, noises which bore out the conjecture that madame's maid was undressing and putting her to bed.

A change in the tenor of the talk between mistress and maid was conveyed by a sudden lift of half an octave in the latter's voice, sounding a sharp note of protest, to be answered by Liane in accents of overbearing anger.

One simply could not rest without knowing what that meant; Lanyard mounted the second flight of stairs as swiftly surely and soundlessly as he had the first. Just below a landing he paused, crouching low, his head lifted just enough to permit him to see a section of glowing, rose-pink wall—it would be rose-pink.

He could see nothing more; and Liane had already reduced the maid to responses feebly submissive.

"And why should you not go with me to that America if I wish it?" Lanyard heard her say. "Is it likely I would leave you behind to spread scandal concerning me with that gabbling tongue in your head?"

"It is well, madame. I say no more. I will go."

"Fetch my jewel case—the large one."

HER EYES BULGING FROM THEIR SOCKETS.

"Madame takes all her jewels, then?" the maid inquired, moving about the room.

"But naturally. I shall pack them tonight, before I sleep."

"(Damnation!)" from Lanyard, beneath his breath. More delay.

"And we leave tomorrow, madame, at what time?"

"It matters not, so we are in Cherbourg by midnight."

Lanyard slipped like a shadow to the floor below, and took shelter behind a jug in the wall.

The maid came down, carrying an electric candle. Its rays illumined from below one of those faces of crude comeliness. She hesitated, looking up toward the room of her mistress, as if lost in thought.

But some secret thought amused the woman, a shadow deepened in the visible corner of her full-lipped mouth. One fancied something sardonic in that covert smile.

She went on down. Lanyard came out of hiding with a fresh enterprise abroad.

Liane would be at least another half an hour busy with her jewelry, and the thought presented itself that the library, immediately beneath her room, should be worthy an investigation.

The library was furnished with bulky old Italian pieces of carved oak, but suitable enough with one exception, a ponderous buffet, completely out of place in a room of that character.

But—this drew a frowning stare—there was a key in the lock of the middle door.

"There's such a thing as too much luck," Lanyard commended. "First, the service gate and door, and now this, ready to my hand!"

He swung sharply around and searched every shadow in the room with the

Boy! Page Mr. Einstein

THE shortest distance between a seller and a buyer is a straight line. If there is any shorter, let us page Mr. Einstein and ask him about it.

In advertising, the Daily Newspaper is the most direct line possible, and the customer you seek keeps the kinks out of it. He sees that he gets his newspaper at the earliest possible moment. He is not satisfied to wait until the postman delivers something that has been "directed" to him at his home address.

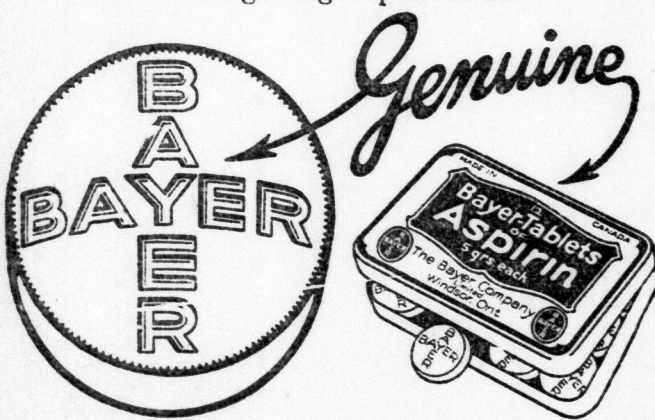

When the daily newspaper passes into the reader's hands, it is expected, welcomed and read. It has his interest before it even gets to him. He will complain loudly to the news dealer if an issue escapes him. He will stand in the heat and the cold while the newsboy fumbles for change. When the delivery brings the daily paper to a home, it is taken in eagerly by someone.

Did anyone ever telephone your office to complain that your circular or form letter had not arrived? Have you ever noticed men waiting in line for the postman to deliver your printed matter? Have you ever seen the daily newspaper flipped off the desk or the supper table while second-class mail is read to the family? Until you have, let us be honest and distinguish between "direct" advertising and printed matter "directed" to your address.

Rich Cream for the millionaire's table and for all who enjoy real thick cream

Keepsweet Milk The Safe Milk
Keepsweet Milk is sweet, fresh cows' milk, sterilized by the same process as Keepsweet Cream. It is whole milk. Not skimmed. Not "fluted." Not evaporated, condensed nor powdered. No water needs to be added. No preparation required. Just pour Keepsweet Milk from the can into a jug and use. Delicious flavor. Absolutely pure. The safe milk for children, for everybody.

Among the first to use Keepsweet Cream were some of the richest people in Toronto—people who could afford to buy the finest, richest cream, regardless of price.

For years they've wanted a cream like Keepsweet—a Cream so thick and rich and full-flavored that it is comparable only to the famous Devonshire Cream of Old England.

And so they bought Keepsweet Table Cream and found it wonderful!—

It was a real coffee cream—
Delicious on cereals and puddings—
A treat with deep apple pie—
Glorious on sliced peaches—
And surprisingly cheap.

A Great Success

Soon the news of Keepsweet Cream spread all over Toronto. Then to other cities and towns. In record-breaking time, there was a demand for Keepsweet Cream from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Keepsweet is the cream everybody has wanted for years.

Keepsweet is real cream, skimmed from fresh, sweet milk from selected dairy farms. Nothing is added. Nothing is taken away. It is sterilized by the Keepsweet process and will keep sweet, pure and fresh in the tins for months. Of course, after a tin is opened Keepsweet must be cared for just the same as ordinary fresh cream.

Not Condensed

Keepsweet Cream is not evaporated nor condensed. It is not chemically treated. It hasn't any strong taste. It's simply delicious! Its Devonshire-like flavor will make you a Keepsweet enthusiast.

Think how handy it is to have several cans of pure, sweet, thick Keepsweet Cream on the pantry shelf always ready for use. And never any chance of it spoiling!

Order a supply from your grocer. Two sizes: 6-ounce and 11-ounce cans. The price is moderate, considering the superfine quality, richness and thickness of the cream.

HEARS REPORT ON AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE TEN

Canadian Delegation To the League of Nations Interested in Issue.

FIELDING EXPLAINS STAND

Declares Dominion Was Actuated by Desire For Entrance of U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press cable).—Prof. Struycken of the Netherlands presented yesterday to the assembly of the League of Nations on behalf of the first commission on constitutional and judicial questions the long-awaited report on the amendment to article ten of the convention of the League of Nations, by which members of the league "undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league," says a Reuter dispatch from Geneva.

It will be remembered that Canada, in a spirit of reconciliation, withdrew the amendment on the subject, she originally submitted, while expressing the view that some modification of the article was necessary to avoid any doubt of its meaning and dispel misunderstanding arising out of its present wording. Canada consequently submitted two other amendments which the first commission did not think it useful to discuss in the present session on the ground that the governments concerned ought first to be consulted and a thorough study made before coming to any decision.

In the course of yesterday's discussion Delegate Barthélemy of France declared that France was in favor of the maintenance of article ten, and that the French delegation had been instructed to oppose the Canadian proposal, having been transformed into a reference of the matter to a commission. The French delegation was now able to record its agreement. M. Barthélemy, however, thought the Canadian delegation was actuated by chimerical hopes and fears, in fact, by a desire that the United States should take her place in the League of Nations.

Hon. W. S. Fielding of Canada replied that the Canadian delegation wanted to be informed exactly of the meaning of article ten, and that

Mr. Fielding added that the attitude of his delegation had been determined by circumstances arising prior to the question of the entry of the United States into the league. The assembly finally adopted the following resolution, which was proposed by the first commission: "That the assembly of the League of Nations decide that the Canadian proposal in regard to article ten of the covenant be adjourned until the fourth assembly, in order that the subject may be considered in all its bearings. The assembly agrees to the council to decide on steps to be taken to provide for a detailed study of the Canadian proposal before the meeting of the fourth assembly."

Her husband predeceased her several years ago. She is survived by one son, Grant, who is one of the city's best known merchants, and two sisters, Mrs. Dr. West of this city and Mrs. Dr. Bates of Toronto. Her brother, the late John M. Grant, a former mayor of the city, passed away in Los Angeles, California, in July last. Her father was prominent in the tannery business in this city for a number of years and was the proprietor of the first retail shoe store in Woodstock.

SCORES HIT AT GRAND THEATRE

Charles Gilpin Vividly Portrays Role of "The Emperor Jones."

Powerful Acting in Mirthless Play Greatly Impresses Audience.

Considered in the abstract, the Brutus Jones of Eugene O'Neill's play, "The Emperor Jones," which was presented to large audiences at the Grand Theatre Saturday afternoon and evening, seems an almost incomprehensible character, yet, as Charles Gilpin plays it, it is vividly real and curiously intelligible. "From stowaway to emperor in two years"—only a mind of great proportion could conceive the idea, yet the "Emperor Jones" was such a queer medley of dominating savage, blustering black, and plain familiar, Baptist colored man, that one could believe of him the most improbable things.

An ex-Pullman porter, easily imagined as the nice friendly sort of Pullman porter, an indispensable character in modern American life, Brutus Jones has, by reason of his ungovernable temper, first become a convict, then an ex-convict, and finally comes as a stowaway to a West Indian island where savagery still holds undisputed sway.

Torrid Heat Rules. But not in an atmosphere of subtle sweetness so commonly associated with the south is the scene set—rather in a place of torrid heat, under merciless sun, where the shores are not lapped by soft waves, but imprisoned by seas of hard and brilliant blue. Here the ex-Pullman porter has by sheer bluff and bluster completely enslaved the superstitious blacks and set himself up as emperor, maintaining his hold by reason of will power and incidentally the fact that he has instilled in the natives the idea that he is invulnerable to anything, with the single exception of a silver bullet.

But there is nothing more true than the homely saying that you can't fool all the people all the time, and the self-styled Emperor's bluff lasts just six months short of his anticipations.

The ominous warning of a tom-tom in the hills serves as intimation that the endurance of the blacks has been gauged to the limit, and also as a "brass band" to the emperor's departure. Abandoned by his court, and left altogether by his courage, with carefully laid plans for reaching the coast and an oceanbound vessel, Brutus, decked in the musical comedy trappings of an emperor, strikes out at once for the coast trail through dense black woods.

Tom-Tom Arouses Fear. Yet subtly and with the utmost skill, Mr. Gilpin conveys clearly the idea that the savagely weird music of the tom-tom has not been without effect upon Brutus, and the long dormant but now revived membership in the Baptist Church, which he flaunts in the face of darkness cannot entirely dispel the lurking fear of malevolent "haunts" whom the savages have invoked.

There has been, on the part of the author, no attempt to make of the emperor a heroic or romantic character, simply a black man who has used his brains and furthered his own ends by whatever luck came his way. Brutus is a negro of a familiar type, whose airs of "highness and mightiness" are not the result of the power into which he has forced himself, but rather adopted as the necessary means of maintaining that power.

But even Gilpin's superb skill in delineating the character of Brutus must stand in second place to the abandon with which he interprets Brutus as he flows through the woods, his courage gradually slipping away, leaving him a prey to superstitious fear, the maddening sound of the tom-tom in his ear, lost, and plunging every moment further into a maniacal frenzy of despair.

Victim of Remorse. Between sundown and moonrise, the emperor becomes a cringing victim of remorse, preyed upon by agonizing and supernatural remembrances of his former sins, the searing misery endured in the hold of a slave ship and the bitter humiliation of the slave for sale on the auction block.

The contents of his gun and even the silver bullet, which had been a symbol of his power, must go to dispel the "haunts," as Brutus fires desperately one moment and then the next wanders in immense desolation, calling in abject misery on the God Lord and the long-forgotten Baptist Church, seeming to advance, yet never losing the hideous thud of the tom-tom.

As Gilpin portrayed the travail of soul and agony of mind and body it was amazing. With the house plunged in darkness, only a ghostly flicker discernible from the stage, and the spirits of former misdeeds constantly recurring to the emperor, the last seven scenes of the play grip the audience in such high tension that breath comes easily only when the curtain has fallen and the outer air and light is once more reached.

Upholds Whole Play. Practically the entire weight of the play, apart from its curiously gripping plot, rests upon the shoulders of Mr. Gilpin. With the exception of the first and last scenes, he acts alone, yet with such power that any addition would rather mar than improve the scenes.

Andrew Malony, as Harry Smithers, a degenerate white trader, who admires while he fears and hates Brutus, does a certain amount of skilful acting, although his opportunity is brief. His skilfully executed accent is the one very scanty touch of humor throughout the entire play.

"The Emperor Jones" was not an enjoyable play, in that there was absolutely no mirth, but it was extremely worth while from a point of view of acting so great and plot so exceptionally dramatic that it left the audience satisfied, although far from happy.

"The Widow's Veil," a rather clever and humorous one-act play, presented as a curtain-raiser, was of a lighter and more mirthful nature.

At the Grand Tonight and Tuesday Evening

THE famous Blue Devil Orchestra is an added feature, and goes far towards making this production the universal hit which it is said to be. The scenic investiture is on a par with any production seen in London. Beautiful gowns are shown, and the many specialties which are plentifully interpolated are away from the old, routine stuff, and are distinctly fresh and entertaining. Altogether, "Moonshine" is in a class by itself, and is an attraction that will please all.

PLAY "MOONSHINE" TWICE AT GRAND

Clever Entertainers Will Present Musical Novelty Today and Tuesday.

Jazz music and plenty of it, fun galore, melodious song numbers and dancing that will attract are featured with "Moonshine," the big musical head show headed by Billy King, head of colored comedians, which opens a two-night engagement at the Grand Opera House this evening. "Moonshine" is a clean, wholesome, entertaining show and at the same time the fastest of its kind on the road. Billy King's fame as a colored comedian is continental, and "Moonshine" is just the vehicle required to give full play to his fun-making abilities. His chorus of 40 pretty Creole maidens has been specially selected for singing and dancing abilities. Moreover the girls are pretty and shapely and wear stunning gowns.

A particular attraction is the famous Blue Devil orchestra, headed by the finest jazz organization now on tour. The orchestral numbers and the musical selections, between the acts and incidental to the big show are features everywhere. Like that other popular product of prohibition, "Moonshine" has a decided kick to it, but there are no unpleasant after effects, as it is clean as well as satisfying. The London engagement is limited to two evening performances commencing tonight at 8:15.

Sentenced To Spend Rest of Life With Wife and Children.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Sentenced for life to his wife. That sentence was imposed upon Jeremiah H. Gorman of Brooklyn today by Federal Judge Thompson, sitting in the United States district court in this city. The charge was that the man had brought Grace Kelly to Philadelphia.

Gorman, a dapper fellow of about 30, pleaded guilty to the charge, adding plaintively: "My wife has already forgiven me for this and I want to go home. I want to go back to her and our three children and do what's right."

"I'll let you return to your family," replied the judge, "but rest assured of this: If I ever send for you and find you any place other than with your wife and children, you will go to jail."

"Don't worry, judge," the accused broke in, "I'll stay with them."

TIERNANS WILL NOT SEPARATE

South Bend Couple Reconciled At Trial To Prove Child's Paternity.

Accused Haberdasher Fails To Take Stand in Own Defense.

SOUTH BEND, Sept. 24.—The Tiernans are reconciled. The woman who sinned—and told the world all about it—and the man who insisted that she bare her soul, are going to keep their marriage vows "until death do us part."

Won't Divorce Wife. Prof. John P. Tiernan declared Saturday that he would not divorce his wife, who alleges that her ten-months-old baby is the son of Harry Poulin, haberdasher.

When court opened on the paternity case there were no spectators present. The gallery was closed to the public by order of the court, who said "it should have been done long ago."

The announcement that spectators would be barred was greeted with howls and hisses. A demonstration was given very much like that which has several times greeted Harry Poulin on his arrival in the courtroom.

Tears were in the eyes of Mrs. Tiernan as she spoke of the reunion.

"Of course, we haven't worked out our plans for our new home life, but the professor and I have been drawn very close together by this terrible trial," she said.

Baby to Get Name. "I don't care to speak definitely about our plans," Tiernan said. "However, there is every indication that the baby will be given a home and—a name."

Saturday attorneys hammered at evidence submitted by the defense; hammered to get witnesses to "re-member" something which might substantiate the accusations of Mrs. Tiernan.

Witnesses for Poulin insisted that he attended church on all the occasions when Mrs. Tiernan said they met in Poulin's store in passionate communion.

To other questions the defense witnesses replied: "I don't remember."

Poulin, who was expected to testify Saturday that the baby is not his, failed to take the stand. An adjournment was taken shortly after noon until Monday, when, it is expected, the defense will close its case.

As he was standing on a wooden platform he was saved from instant death, but he stumbled into the cabin of the freight engine and fell unconscious. At the hospital tonight hope is entertained for his recovery.

FORMER LONDONER DIES AT HIS HOME IN BUFFALO

SPECIAL TO LONDON ADVERTISER. BUFFALO, Sept. 24.—James Hyslop, a former resident of London, Ont., died this morning after a brief illness at his home here.

CONTRACT GIVEN TO WINDSOR FIRM

Erection of New Separate School in Chatham Will Cost $30,000.

SPECIAL TO LONDON ADVERTISER. CHATHAM, Sept. 23.—The V. H. Fearon Company of Windsor has secured the contract for the erection of the new separate school which is to be built on Victoria avenue near Forest street. The contract price is $30,000, the separate school board to supply the brick. The new school is to be completed by April 1, 1923.

A large number of farms in Essex, Kent and Lambton counties will have underdrainage systems laid this year, according to statements made here by agricultural experts. Many farmers are investing their profits on this year's crops in this manner in stead of purchasing farm implements.

With the exception of the separate schools, all the city schools have had special fire drills, and talks on "safety first" lines and fire prevention have been given by Fire Chief Pritchard. The separate schools will be visited some time next week, when the usual drill and instruction will be given.

The new pavement from Chatham to Paincourt in Dover Township is now open all the way for traffic, according to an announcement given out this morning by L. A. Pardo, county roads superintendent.

The new strip of pavement is approximately seven miles in length, and reaches into one of the most fertile farming lands in Kent County.

M'MULLEN TRIAL TO OPEN TODAY

Londoners To Face Charge of Robbing Wyoming Bank.

William Ayrs Brought From Kingston Penitentiary To Testify.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, Sept. 24.—The stage is all set for the opening of the Wyoming bank robbery trials at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon with Judge Lennox presiding, and a number of witnesses for the crown and the defense have arrived in the city tonight. The excitement which marked the trials at the June sessions of the peace is again uppermost and it is certain that only a percentage of those who wish to gain admittance to the courtroom tomorrow afternoon will be able to do so. It was learned tonight that J. M. McEvoy, K.C., will again defend McMillen and that Meredith & Newton will defend Yohn and Anderson. When court is opened Edward McMillen will be placed on trial for robbery with violence and that disposed of he will be tried on the second charge of breaking jail. The defense will fight to the bitter end in both trials, it is stated tonight. It was impossible to confirm tonight a rumor of a disagreement between McMillen and his counsel, George Anderson, will be the second man placed on trial, Yohn's case being reserved to the last.

William Ayrs, who at the last session was found guilty and sentenced to a twelve-year term at Kingston, will be a defense witness in the trial of Yohn, and he arrived at the local jail tonight under escort. Mrs. Oliver Koehler, the crown informant, is in the city and tonight at least, is not under police guard. She was in the case when she was in the city for the June trials.

"I'm not worrying any," she told The Advertiser correspondent, who spoke to her on the telephone. H. B. Gadsden, the detective of the American Trust Company with which the bank funds were insured, arrived Saturday night. He states that the prosecution has not been idle since the last trials, and that a most important witness who could not be located when wanted in June has come forward voluntarily and will be a prominent identification witness. He is a farmer residing near Wyoming.

Crown Attorney Willson, questioned tonight, stated emphatically that Ayrs was not a crown witness. It is known that Ayrs considers Yohn's defense so intertwined with his own that if the latter is found not guilty, there will be a new trial of his own case.

The general opinion is that the trials will not be so protracted as was the case in June last, and that they will be all disposed of within the week.

Special to London Advertiser. BRANTFORD, Sept. 24.—Dr. Hutton, M.O.H., announced that there are now only three cases of infantile paralysis in quarantine in the city. He stated that there might be one or two additional cases reported, but they were not expected.

St. Thomas District Annual Financial Meeting Presents Encouraging Report.

SPARTA, Sept. 24.—The financial meeting of the St. Thomas district of the Methodist Church was held yesterday in the Central Church, St. Thomas. Rev. Robert Hicks, B.D., the chairman, presided.

All the ministers in charge of circuits in the district were present except Frederick G. Robinson of Oneida, who, owing to an accident, was unable to be present.

A good representation of laymen were present also. The chairman, Rev. L. Bartlett and Mr. Holby were appointed a committee to meet the board of circuits, which were unable to meet the minimum salary of their minister. Rev. Prince E. James, B.A., B.D., of Sheldahl, was appointed statistical secretary. Mr. Murch, chairman of Alma College, and Dr. Warner addressed the meeting, presenting the claims of the college extension work. Of the $100,000 required, St. Thomas city had contributed $20,000. $2,125 is asked from the district outside the city. Prof. Johnson of Victoria College, presented the claims of the educational work of our church, dealing especially with the needs of his own college.

In the afternoon a missionary rally was held and was addressed by Dr. Crawford, a returned missionary from China, who gave a lucid account of the great needs of China and how the Methodist Church with others is trying to meet those needs. At the close Rev. N. Gould of Port Stanley, the missionary of the district, gave a map talk on the income of the district for last year and urged the need of 25 per cent increase as necessary to maintain our present efficiency.

Resolutions were adopted pledging the district to do its utmost to further the interests of Alma College, the general educational and missionary work. A resolution was also adopted urging upon the missionary board to make certain improvements on the parsonages at Muncey and Oneida.

MAKES RECORD FOR GALT FAIR

Attendance Nears 9,000 On Second Day of South Waterloo Show.

Livestock Entries Declared To Be Best in Exhibition's History.

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, Sept. 24.—Favored with the best weather in years, the 70th annual exhibition of the South Waterloo Agricultural Society proved a record-breaker in every respect. Saturday was the big day of the fair, and between 8,000 and 9,000 people were on the grounds at Dickson Park, farmers, with their families, coming for miles for their annual holiday, while the city folk turned out in large numbers.

John Wells, the oldest living member of the society, was on the grounds. He has been a continuous member of the association since its organization, and in the 70 years that the fair has been held, has missed but two shows, a remarkable record.

The second day's program this year provided one of the best entertainments ever offered. The exhibition of horses was the finest ever seen at a fair here, all classes being well filled. Owing to the few accidents, horse racing was eliminated this year, but that did not detract from the show, great interest being evidenced in what went on in the show ring. The classes for cattle, sheep and pigs also had large entries.

Special features were a rural school drill competition, won by Shantz Station, and a baby show. The Kiltie Band was in attendance. An unscheduled number of the program was a visit from an airplane, which circled over the grounds. Pickpockets were busy on the fair grounds, two men being relieved of their money.

Food prices in South Africa are only 19 per cent above those of July, 1914; and in the United States the increase is 38 per cent; in Australia 40, and in Canada 42 per cent.

DISTRICTS DECIDE TO LAUNCH REVIVAL

Methodists of Exeter, Goderich and Wingham Sections Plan Spiritual Conference.

BLUEVALE, Sept. 24.—The Wingham district met in their regular financial district meeting Friday in the Bluevale Methodist Church. Rev. C. F. Clarke of Brussels, chairman of the district, presided.

Besides the routine business, Dr. Trueman of Toronto gave an address in the forenoon and was well received. The Wingham district decided unanimously to unite with the Goderich and Exeter districts in a spiritual conference. Committees representing these three districts will meet in Blyth on Monday to draft a program and work out details of arrangement.

After the splendid supper provided by the ladies of the Bluevale Church, the meeting again convened to listen to Principal Dobson of Alma College, in his presentation of the aims and achievements of that institution, and also their plans and purposes with reference to enlargement and much-needed improvements. He was well repaid for his splendid appeal by being assured of most cordial reception on all the circuits of the district.

Rev. W. E. Millson gave a rousing address on evangelism, and interspersed it by way of illustration with many incidents from his wide and varied experiences in his work for the department of evangelism and social service.

A. J. Irwin followed with a deeply spiritual and highly inspirational address on our missionary privileges and responsibilities. He was listened to with rapt attention, which itself evidenced an intensified interest in this department of the church work.

The plans of the campaign take the shape of a general exchange of pastors throughout the district, followed by an appeal for financial support. The whole district in all its evidences earnestness, enthusiasm and hope.

B. Peters, Toronto.

The question of the cash bonus was again discussed, and the stand of the G. A. U. V. on the question was reaffirmed that a cash compensation is necessary to enable the ex-servicemen to re-establish themselves. The convention requested the federal government to establish the G. A. U. V. rehabilitation scheme by installing special handicap sections in the government employment service throughout the dominion.

The following resolution was carried: "Resolved that this convention call upon the federal government again to fulfill the pledges they made to ex-servicemen before the election."

DRIVER HURT AS CAR HITS TANK

William Smale Has Leg Broken in Crash With Threshing Outfit.

Reported Out of Danger At Amasa Wood Hospital, St. Thomas.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 24.—Severely bruised and his leg broken when a car in which he was riding ran into the tank of a threshing engine on the Gravel road, William Smale of the Sparta road was rushed to the Amasa Wood Hospital Saturday night and is now reported out of danger.

About 8 o'clock in the evening, F. Vanvelzer, also of the Sparta road, accompanied by Mr. Smale and Mr. Wilson of Union, was driving north on the Gravel road and when about one mile south of the city their car ran into the tank of a threshing outfit owned by R. Lindsay of the River road, who had gone into the home of J. Sanderson for a drink of water. The threshing engine was proceeding in the same direction.

The force of the collision threw Mr. Smale about 30 feet. His leg was broken and he was severely cut about the head and arms. The other occupants escaped serious injury, but were badly shaken up. The front axle of the car was bent double and a wheel was torn off.

DAMAGE ACTION EVOKES INTEREST

Officials of St. Thomas Court Subpoenaed As Witnesses in London Case.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 24.—Local interest has been aroused in the action for $5,000 for false imprisonment, brought in London by William McRae against Leslie D. Thompson, formerly of London, owing to the fact that among the witnesses subpoenaed to attend are County Police Magistrate Hunt and County Constable Harry Phillips of this city.

The case is an echo of the pocket-picking that occurred at Port Stanley on Dominion Day, last year. Mr. Thompson was one of the victims and Mr. McRae was arrested, on suspicion, with James Conway and H. Clarke, two Americans, who were later convicted on theft charges and sentenced to terms in Kingston. Mr. McRae was brought to this city about 10 o'clock in the evening and remanded to the county jail for a hearing by Magistrate Hunt. A few hours later, friends interceded in his behalf and he was released on bail. At the hearing, which took place before the square a few days later, it was proven that Mr. McRae was merely an innocent bystander and the charge was dismissed. The action against Mr. Thompson was instituted last spring, but the hearing was adjourned until this fall. Squire Hunt has been requested to produce all the evidence taken at the preliminary hearing and also the information in the case. It is stated that the suspicions of those responsible for Mr. McRae's arrest were aroused by utterances he is alleged to have made in regard to Mr. Thompson's loss. He told Mr. Thompson, it is alleged, that "it was lucky he hadn't lost his wife."

Faithful Dog Leads Neighbor To Body of Dead Master.

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 24.—Sutton Frizell, an old and well-known resident of the city, was found dead in his garden about noon on Saturday. Edward Bradford called at the Frizell home and was attracted to the garden by the actions of the family dog. He followed the faithful dog to the garden, where the body of its master was found, where he had fallen after being seized with a heart attack. The late Mr. Frizell lived in the city nearly all his life. He is survived by his widow and a large family of sons.

has been appointed to act as hangman at the Dent execution, according to unofficial reports.

When interviewed on the matter, Mr. Barr said, "I have not been notified whether I have been appointed or not. I would not care to discuss the matter at this stage of the game in any event."

He did not think, however, that he had been or would be appointed to act as hangman, he said.

Ex-Constable Barr was a member of the local police force for a number of years and resigned from the force just prior to the memorable police probe here some months ago.

Two months from today Harry Dent will pay the penalty for the murder of Peter Ekopian last April, unless the recommendation of Chief Justice Meredith for mercy is considered by the department of justice. It is reported that the judge sent a recommendation to the minister of justice that Dent's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

500 METHODISTS ATTEND RALLY

Special to London Advertiser.

INGERSOLL, Sept. 24.—The attendance at the Methodist Sunday school this afternoon exceeded the 500 mark, the occasion being the annual rally day. One of the features of special interest was an address by a former pastor, Rev. E. Sheppard of Thorold. The program was of more than usual interest. The oldest person present was Henry Gregg, Canterbury street, aged 85 years, while the youngest person was Billy Sage, aged seven weeks, both of whom received bouquets.

CLAIMS CANADA
CANNOT ABSORB
ITS FOREIGNERS

The Bishop of Saskatchewan
Urges That Authorities Halt Immigration.

FEARS DAMAGE DONE

Says Canadians Will Be Forced To Reduce Standards of Living.

"The foreignization of Canada and the alien influx to her shores during the past 22 years has rolled up a problem which will require a nationwide effort as its solution, and the tone and character and ideals of Canadian life are becoming contaminated and totter on the brink of submergence," said the Right Rev. George Exton Lloyd, bishop of Saskatchewan, addressing the London Rotary Club
at noon Monday. "With the drastic results of 22 years of experiments with aliens staring us in the face, it would be national lunacy to continue with a policy of bringing foreigners
into the country."

"The only safety of the Anglo-Saxon race in Canada lies in their cohesion and the fact that they speak
the one tongue, while the 800,000
who form the alien element are foreign to each other as they are to us, yet men in authority would offer as a solution for hard times on the railways, the suggestion that a million foreigners be brought in yearly from Central Europe."

"We have more aliens in Canada
now than we can assimilate. British Columbia is overladen with Orientals,
the Middle West cannot cope with their foreign population, and you will have trouble here in the east
unless you join hands with the Anglo-Saxons of the west in Canadianizing Canada."

"For the next ten years, Canada needs an absolute rest from foreign immigration, in order to digest those foreigners who are living here."

"British Columbia is being gradually turned into an Oriental country,
and I fear that the damage will be done before we are brought to realize the menace which confronts us. In the Orientalization of British Columbia continues at its present rate
before the next ten years are finished it will not be a fit country for white men to live in. We have been come to see the danger of the dominance of the white race that we don't realize the danger that must follow when industry under the control of Orientals and foreigners. White men can't compete with them. We don't want to compete with them. If they live here they must be brought up to our standards, and to compete with them in trade and in industry it would be necessary for white men to descend to their standards of living, conditions in which we couldn't allow our animals to live."

"Unless you help us to stop the for-eignization of the west, you will get it in the east. It is time you stopped letting politicians throw dust in your eyes and turn to immediate and serious consideration of a solution for the problem which confronts us."

"At present the requirement for an immigrant to certain parts of the Dominion is that a man be able to plow. You can teach any man to plow in six months, but you can't teach him the ideals and standards of Anglo-Saxon blood and the character of Canadian life in six months or even in six years."

"We need to be put on a strict diet for ten years, so that we can absorb the foreign material we already have in our midst by putting our own Canadian citizens as teachers in the public schools, and through them make genuine Canadians of our alien population."

"And furthermore, when a man takes the oath of allegiance as a British subject it should be at a public ceremony, made sufficiently impressive that he should realize that Canadians themselves value their citizenship, and that in conferring it upon an immigrant they do him the greatest honor possible."

"We don't want to import Bolshevism; we have entirely sufficient of it with us now. We want men of British blood as settlers in our land;
men to whom the richness of the land belongs, and if foreigners come, let them come with a desire to become British citizens and ready to learn the English tongue, and to absorb the ideals and characteristics of a Britisher."

Bishop Lloyd, whose statements were received with rapt attention and frequent applause by the Rotarians,
made reference to a company of Mennonites who had settled 22 years ago
in one of the richest tracts of land in the west. During that time only five men had acquired a knowledge of English, and they were now ready to leave the country and go to Mexico
rather than submit to a law requiring that their children attend a public school.

"Those men, if they leave Canada,

will leave it with more than two million dollars, but they are as foreign
now as when they entered the country, and they go having contributed absolutely nothing to the national life of the Dominion."

"We want the land they leave settled by white men, who live like white men, and who will add to the basis of Anglo-Saxon blood, upon which the security of the nation rests."

"The great problem we face now is not what Canada must do for the empire, but what Canada must do
for herself; and if the present policy of practically unrestricted immigration continues, it will be all Canada can do to save herself from complete submergence to foreign ideals and standards."

"If foreignization stops and Canadianization commences, Canada will have no difficulty in holding up her part and parcel of the empire, and in her foreign population she is confronted with a problem, the solution of which will require the concentrated effort of all the Anglo-Saxon blood in the country."

Mistakes Peace-Abiding Citizen
For Friend and Administers Blow

James Johnston of this city does not believe in waiting for preliminaries when he makes an attack, and as the result of his method of procedure
he found himself beyond the depth
in hot water in police court Monday morning. It cost him $10 and then some to get to safety again.

Seeing a chap on the street who bore all the earmarks of a friend of his, and who apparently believed in punch in the face nothing to worry about between friends, Johnston,

without warning, struck him a blow.
The hitch came, however, when he discovered the victim was not his friend. Trouble deepened when the object of his attack resented the greeting so much that he informed the police.

Roy C. Angus was the victim. He surprised the court when he told the magistrate that he had never seen Johnston before, and all his life.
Johnston pleaded guilty and proceeded to explain.

HOLD HARVEST SERVICE IN CITY

London Anglican Churches
Celebrate Thanksgiving
With Special Observance.

Thank Offering Given at St.
John's Church Totals
$375.

Harvest festival services were celebrated in a number of Anglican churches in the city Sunday morning and evening. With harvest celebrations, indicative of the plenty of the land and the goodness of God, lending a new meaning to the thank-giving services, congregations in St. John the Evangelist Church, the Church of the Redeemer, All-Saints,
St. Mark's and St. George's churches, listened to inspiring sermons, based on the necessity of remembering God as the divine giver of the bounty of an autumn harvest.

Canon Skeay of Toronto spoke at both morning and evening services in St. John's Church, emphasizing the need of joy and thankfulness
in the Christian religion. In order that it may fulfill its proper place in the lives of men. He made particular reference to the Salvation Army, which has become so great a power in winning men to God, by reason of the note of thanksgiving
to God for their redemption and His goodness, which sounds throughout all their services.

A thank offering of $500 was asked for by the wardens towards the rebuilding of the church spire, and of this amount about $375 was raised in the morning, and it is expected that the full amount will be realized
before long.

The choir, under S. G. Martin, rendered effectively the anthem, "Praise Ye the Lord for His Goodness," and a full choral communion service was a feature of the day's services.

Church of Redeemer.
Rev. Walter Jones of Chatham spoke at both services in the Church of the Redeemer, taking as his text
the story of the rich young man, and drawing from it the lesson that in all the good things of life God should be remembered as the Giver of all things, and by whom all things are made possible.

The service was made especially beautiful by solos by Mr. Wood and Miss Rapson, and special harvest festival music by the choir.

St. George's Church.
At St. George's Church, the speaker at the morning service was His Lordship the Bishop of Huron, while in the evening Rev. K. McGoun delivered a splendid inspirational address.

Rev. William Lowe spoke at All-Saints Church in the morning, with special solos by Miss G. Gore and Bernard Ledman. Children of the Sunday school celebrated harvest festival in the afternoon.

At St. Mark's Church, the special thanksgiving services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Crummer.

BOARD MUST DECIDE ON SCHOOL NURSES' UNIFORMS

Make Arrangements for Conference Between Nurses and Committee of Trustees.

Another little tangle to be unraveled by the members of the board of education involves the school nurses
and the style of uniforms that would be the most fitting for their station.

It appears that several weeks ago
the nurses were authorized to wear
the regulation uniforms as adopted by the nursing profession. Since that time, evidently, it develops that all the nurses were not of the same mind as to what particular clothes
and head dress should be worn.

Arrangements are being made for a conference between the nurses and the committee of the board when the question will be given final attention.

Society. When a veterinary surgeon
could bring no relief to the animal,
the owner asked Mr. Tustin to remove it from his suffering.

FINED $100 FOR CRUEL ASSAULT

Alex. Beresti Convicted of Kicking Charlie Drabick, Age 11.

Previous Good Record Saves Russian From Term in Prison.

Found guilty of brutally assaulting and causing actual bodily harm to Charlie Drabick, 11-year-old son of John Drabick, 649 Ottawa avenue,
Alex. Beresti, a Russian, was fined $100 and costs or one month in jail
when he appeared before Magistrate
A. H. M. Graydon in police court Monday morning.

Only his previous good record
saved the prisoner from a much heavier penalty, as the magistrate refused to believe that there was any provocation for the assault.

The boy, out of bed for the first time since he was attacked, told a clear and well-connected story of the assault, which was afterwards corroborated by J. W. Lane, who witnessed the assault from his doorway
at 523 Nelson street.

The lad said that he was sitting on a boulevard in front of the home of Mrs. Kate Boras when Beresti ordered him away. He claimed he refused to go as he had permission to stay there. With that Beresti kicked him on the leg. He seized him, tore his blouse, and threw him on the ground when he tried to run away,
and then kicked him behind the ear.

The boy claims he remembered noting more after that, because the blow rendered him unconscious. He denied throwing stones at Beresti.

J. W. Lane swore that he saw the prisoner kick the boy. When he arrived on the scene, Beresti went into the house, and the boy was in a stupor. The man, he said, apparently kicked the boy on the ear and several times on the body.

Charlie's father stated that the boy had been confined to bed since the attack, because he was too sore
to walk.

Mrs. Boras, who acted as interpreter and witness for the defence,
admitted that she gave the children
permission to sit on the boulevard.

Beresti swore that the boy threw stones at him, and that he was tripped and fell over the lad, and probably kicked him accidentally as he fell. He denied kicking him intentionally.

E. Meredith, appearing for the prisoner, endeavored to have the charge
changed to one of common assault,
but the magistrate refused, claiming that the attack was brutal and deliberate. He believed Beresti was fortunate in that the boy was not killed.

Crown Attorney J. W. Elliott prosecuted. He urged a prison sentence,
but did not insist when the magistrate pointed to the previous good record of the prisoner.

FIND DOG LICENSE
HARD TO COLLECT

City Treasurer Also Names
Statute of Labor Difficult.

The most difficult tax to collect in this city is the dog license and the statute of labor tax, according to City Treasurer James Bell, who announced Monday that a relentless campaign will be inaugurated shortly to remedy the evil.

Not many of the men escape the clutches of the tax assessors, he relates, pointing out that the greatest difficulty is experienced in ascertaining just who is responsible for dogs that may be running at large,
although they may have a place
of abode during the night.

It is much easier to keep an accounting of the young men seeming, as the moment that they are located, and the question of employment, whether permanent or otherwise, they are promptly taxed.

While there have been many inquiries as to why it is that women, who have means of employment and do not pay a cent toward the city's maintenance are exempted, the city officials point out that they have no power to levy a tax. The city council has merely the power to institute such collections as authorized by the province.

While this question has been debated at frequent intervals at conventions of municipal officials, the government has not moved to take action.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFERINGS SMALL
ON CITY MARKET

Farmers Taking Advantage of Fine Weather To Work
on Land.

The farmers are very busy on their land, and they are taking advantage of the nice weather. It is for this reason that the supply of commodities is small. The people are calling for fruits in large amounts, but the market is extraordinarily large this year.
Peaches and some varieties of plums
are being sold at 13 to 15c. Spanish peaches being unusually slow. Peaches dropped from 15c to 10c retail for a large basket, and some poorer qualities as low as 50c.

May is in good demand, but the supply is small. The price remains firm at $2.15 per ton.
There is a good demand for fresh eggs on the market, and there has been for the past week. Prices are steady.
Statisticians were plentiful but slow, at 75¢ per bushel.

DENIES CANADA WAS PARTY TO SEVRES TREATY

Premier King Replies to Statement Attributed to Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

EXPLAINS BILL PASSED

Declares Measure Which Dominion Parliament Carried, Only Enabling Act.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24. — (By Canadian Press). — "In the first place, there is no reality in no treaty of Sevres," the prime minister declared today in reply to a statement attributed to Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, opposition leader, that Canada was a party to the treaty, and that the treaty had been ratified on the motion of the prime minister.

Right Hon. Mr. King explained that the treaty in question had never been accepted by Turkey or ratified by Great Britain or Canada. The act passed last session, and to which Mr. Meighen referred, was, he stated, merely enabling legislation to enable the government in certain eventualities to deal with foreign property and debts in Turkey and Hungary.

In a statement of the question the prime minister declared: "I have observed the following statement by Right Hon. Mr. Meighen, leader of the opposition, appearing in a Canadian Press report of a public address delivered yesterday by Mr. Meighen before the Toronto Businessmen's Conservative Club: 'Mr. Meighen declared that Canada was a party to the treaty of Sevres. Not only were we a party to it, but, on the motion of the present premier, we ratified by legislation the action of our representatives in signing the treaty.'"

Denies Treaty Exists.

"In view of the significance of this statement and the inference based upon it, it is important that the public should be accurately informed with reference to any obligation on Canada's part in the connection referred to. In the first place, there is, in reality, no treaty of Sevres. On August 10, 1920, the allies formulated certain proposals to Turkey. These were embodied in the form of a treaty, which was subsequently signed by the representatives of the allied countries, but which never became operative, and by which, therefore, no obligations were created. A second and third set of proposals have since been framed, and there is now a fourth under consideration.

"On the 28th of June last the Parliament of Canada passed an act for carrying into effect the treaties of peace between his majesty and Hungary and Turkey." By this statute the governor in council was authorized to make such orders in council as appeared to him to be necessary in certain contingencies for carrying out what might become a treaty with Turkey and for giving effect to any of its provisions. This was merely an enabling act, depending for its effect upon the so-called treaty becoming such in reality through its acceptance by Turkey and its ratification by Great Britain and by Canada. It has never been accepted by Turkey. No order in council has been passed under the act referred to so that it has never

Six Killed When Bombing Plane Crashes At Mineola, N. Y.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 24. — First Lieutenant Raymond E. Davis, United States army air service, and five enlisted men were killed when a huge Martin bombing plane crashed to earth at Mitchell Field late last night.

"Soon after leaving the field," a report said, "the plane passed out of the rays of the huge searchlights which had been arranged and used in the night air manoeuvres. The plane approached a steep angle and then suddenly went into a nosedive.

been ratified by Canada. Moreover, it has never been ratified by Great Britain.

Merely Enabling Act.

"At the time the bill to which reference has been made was introduced into the House I stated distinctly that it was in the nature merely of an enabling act to permit the government in certain eventualities to deal with former enemy property and debts in Germany, Austria and Bulgaria. I stated explicitly that the treaty with Turkey had not been ratified.

"With respect to the stipulation of the so-called 'Sevres treaty' respecting Constantinople it is precisely the opposite of that which in much of the current discussion it is assumed to be. Article 36, under the title 'Constantinople,' reads as follows: 'Subject to the provisions of the present treaty the high contracting parties agree that the rights and title of the Turkish government over Constantinople shall not be affected, and that the said government and His Majesty the Sultan shall be entitled to reside there and to maintain there the capital of the Turkish state.'"

"To this clause is added a provision for its modification in the event of Turkey not observing the other provisions of the document."

COURT UPHOLDS FEDERAL WRIT

U. S. Judge J. H. Wilkinson Sustains Daugherty Injunction Against Rail Strikers.

Cites Sherman Law To Prove Labor Conspiracies Are Punishable.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. — In the most important decision ever handed down to organized labor in the federal court, United States Judge James H. Wilkinson, Saturday sustained the temporary writ of injunction secured by the government against striking rail workers.

The decision took 36 hours for argument and was read to a packed courtroom shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Attorneys for the defense who had battled vainly against the drastic injunction, and the government's attorneys who had presented a mass of affidavits to sustain their contention that a conspiracy to obstruct interstate commerce existed, leaned forward anxiously to listen to the judge read from his closely typewritten pages the decision that would leave a permanent effect upon organized labor in the United States.

Motion Denied.

"The motion to dismiss the bill must be denied," declared Judge Wilkinson. "The complainant is entitled to an injunction, prohibiting the parties to this combination from committing the unlawful acts charged, the effect of which is to obstruct interstate transportation and the carriage of mails, or to restrain interstate commerce, as well as the acts charged, which are lawful in themselves, when done in furtherance of a conspiracy to obstruct interstate transportation and the carriage of mails, or to restrain interstate commerce. The parties will be heard as to the form of an order to be entered in conformity with the views here expressed."

In sustaining the government's plea for making the injunction permanent, the law was so clearly laid down that leaders of a nation-wide strike are responsible for the acts of violence resulting from their calling of the strike.

Simultaneously with the reading of the court's decision, sustaining Attorney General Daugherty's pleas, attorneys for the defense, acting on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, started plans to carry the case through to the highest tribunal of the land, to settle definitely the righteousness of Judge Wilkinson's decision.

See Bitter Battle.

A bitter legal battle, to be carried to the United States supreme court, "in disposing of the case," read defense.

"In disposing of this case," read Judge Wilkinson in his momentous decision, "it may be well at the outset to emphasize what this case is not: it is not a case between an employer and employee, or between persons employed, or persons seeking employment, involving or growing out of a dispute concerning terms or conditions of employment. It is not a private bill to enjoin indirect injury, as one caused by a secondary boycott, to the property of the complainant."

The judge cited at length from the Debs case, quoting numerous legal authorities to sustain him in his opinion, and continued:

"Can it be said that merely because the element of a labor controversy remains in the situation, the actors may not be punished when their purpose is not only the accomplishment of something with respect to wages or conditions of employment, but also the destruction of property, the invasion of the rights of others, and the infliction of injury upon the public?"

Thousands Attend Unveiling of Soldiers' Monument At Durham

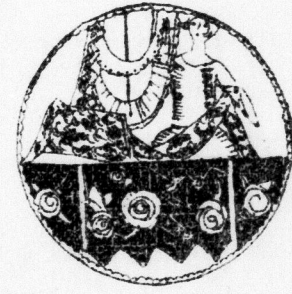

Special to London Advertiser. DURHAM, Sept. 24. — The soldiers' memorial monument was unveiled here today by Hon. Col. Carmichael, M. L. A., of East Grey. The day, though extremely cold, did not prevent several thousands from being present to honor the heroic dead. VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 24. — Fighting between the Soviet forces and troops of the White, or Vladivostok anti-Soviet government, began yesterday near Spassk, a town about 160 miles north of Vladivostok on the Usuri Railroad, near Lake Hanka. Soviet airplanes bombed Spassk.

10 PERISH WHEN WAR BOAT SINKS

LONDON, Sept. 24. — The British torpedo boat Speedy sank early today in the Sea of Marmora, as a result of a collision with a Dutch trawler, says a Reuter dispatch from Constantinople. Ten of the destroyer's crew were drowned and 50 saved. The Speedy sank within seven minutes. One reason for damp cellars in the summer is that the moist air in contact with the cool inner surface of the walls and floor is chilled below its dew point and condensation results.
