WABASH FLYER DASHED THROUGH DARK TREBLE

Thirteen Persons Killed in a Railroad Disaster Near Peru, Ind.—
A Terrible Plunge by the Locomotive

Peru, Ind., June 26.—Sixteen persons were killed, and about fifty seriously injured in a wreck of train No. 3, the west-bound Wabash limited, 9 miles west of this city, at 12:30 a. m., today. The dead are all Italian immigrants, en route to Colorado. Many of the injured will undoubtedly die.

The dead:—Sixteen Italian immigrants.

PLUNGED THROUGH A TREBLE.

Two sections of train No. 3—one coming from Detroit and the other from Toledo, were consolidated in this city into a train of eleven cars, making up the flyer for its journey to St. Louis. It consisted of a combination baggage and express, combination baggage and smoker, day coach, immigrant coach, three chair cars, three sleepers and the private car of General Superintendent Wm. Cotten, of the Iron Mountain Railway. Having left this city one hour late, the train was speeding westward at high speed, when at a point nine miles west, the engine plunged through a trestle which had been undermined by the recent heavy rains. The embankment on both sides of the little stream, dropped at a sharp degree a distance of 40 feet. Owing to the momentum of the train, the engine leaped across the abyss, plunged into the soft earth on the opposite side, and fell back to the bottom. Engineer Butler and Fireman Adams were thrown from the cab, but not seriously hurt. The express car and the chair car were telescoped. The immigrant car, followed by two chair cars went down on the left side of the track, and the first sleeper pitched forward upon the mass of wreckage. Its windows and trucks were broken out and one of the occupants was injured. The remaining cars also left their trucks, but were not badly damaged. It was in the immigrant and the day coaches that most of the deaths and injuries occurred.

THE NIGHT WAS DARK.

Heavy foliage lined the banks on both sides of the culvert, the approach to which was over a reverse curve. There was no means by which the engine crew could see the impending danger. In fact, the engine ran out upon the trestle before the structure gave way. The night was intensely dark. For a moment after the fatal plunge and dreadful roar of crashing timbers a death-like silence prevailed. Then there broke out the cries of the injured. Train men caught up their lanterns and rushed to the neighborly farm houses for assistance. The farmers and their wives and children, bearing torches, hastened to the scene, and all efforts were bent to give first aid to the injured. Telephone messages were despatched to this city, and every physician was hurriedly taken to a special train, which carried them to the scene. The injured were placed aboard the cars by daylight nearly all the dead had been removed to this city.

STEAMSHIP LUSITANIA WRECKED OFF COAST OF NEWFOUNDLAND

Scenes of Terror and Confusion on Board—Passengers Make a Wild Rush for the Boats—Desperate Struggle With the Officers and Crew.

St. John's, Nfld., June 26.—The steamer Lusitania, with 500 passengers on board, was wrecked last night off Cape Ballard which is a promontory a short distance northwest of Cape Race.

The steamer belongs to the Orient Steam Navigation Company, and was bound from Liverpool for Montreal, in charge of Captain McKay.

The Lusitania was built at Liverpool, by Laird Bros., in 1871, and is 380 feet long.

ASHORE IN DENSE FOG.

The Lusitania was bound round Cape Race for Montreal with a large cargo and a ship load of passengers. She mistook her course in a dense fog, and went ashore near the Renewa, 20 miles north of Cape Race, before daybreak. The ship ran over a reef, and hung against a cliff. The passengers, mostly immigrants, were panic-stricken. They stampeded and fought for the boats, but were overcome by the officers and crew, who secured control after a prolonged struggle with the rougher elements among the passengers, who used knives. The women and children were landed first, and the men followed. The crew stood by the ship. A heavy sea was running when these advice were received, and while the Lusitania was holding her own, it was thought likely she would prove a total wreck.

VERY MEAGRE DETAILS.

The disaster occurred miles from the nearest telegraph station, and the details obtainable at this time are meagre. A press representative has started for the scene. Several steamers are fitting out here, and will leave shortly for the scene of the wreck. It is expected that the large cargo of the Lusitania will be salvaged.

REPORTED DROWNING OF 20.

As this dispatch is being sent a report has reached here that a boat load of people from the Lusitania was upset and that 20 people were drowned. The correspondent of the Associated Press here is unable to guarantee the accuracy of this report at present.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

The passengers of the Lusitania had a terrible experience. The first knowledge which they had of the disaster was when, owing to the ship crashing over the rocks, they were all hurled from their beds by the shock. Many of them were bruised, and they all hurried on deck in their night clothes. A scene of great excitement ensued. Five hundred people were clamoring for escape, while the crew tried to pacify them and launch the boats. The male passengers, in their attempt to seize the boats, trampled the women under foot, and, as already cabled, fought the crew with knives. Some of the more clear-headed of the passengers assisted the crew in their efforts to get out the boats. One boat, it now appears, was upset, and its occupants were immersed. It is still supposed that some of these were drowned.

Twenty people, however, had not yet been definitely established. It is certain, however, that one boat, having on board twenty people, has not yet been reported. She is supposed to be adrift in the fog, and this may have given rise to the report which reached here that twenty persons were drowned by the upsetting of a boat. The women and children rescued were almost naked. Drenched with spray they were pulled up the cliffs by the coast people. Some of the boats were demolished in the surf, while attempting to land, and their half-drowned occupants held on to rocks, shivering with cold, until rescued. This morning the unhappy passengers, after shivering for hours on the hill tops, tramped over weary miles, in their endeavor to reach the houses of the fishermen, which they eventually succeeded in doing, and where they are now sheltered. Previous to reaching the cliffs the passengers passed two hours of terrible anxiety on the wreck.

BREAKING UP.

Continued fears are expressed that the Lusitania may prove a total loss, as a furious rain storm and heavy sea raged all night. The last reports received here said the steamer was breaking up; that her foreholds were full of water, and that her cargo was being salvaged. There is hope of saving the effects of the passengers, as where possible they were stowed above decks.

Six steamers are now on their way from here to the scene of the wreck. It is expected that the rescued passengers will be brought here to-night.

NO LIVES LOST.

Later reports received here show that the wreck of the Lusitania did not result in any loss of life. All the passengers escaped, though several of them were injured. The boat load of passengers reported as missing has landed safely. The Lusitania has been badly forced on the rocks, has listed to one side, and is half full of water.

She had on board 300 passengers, not 500 as at first reported.

PASSENGERS DREW THEIR KNIVES.

All sorts of rumors are current along the coast as to the details of the wreck. The entire coast population is repelling to the scene in the hope of salvaging the Lusitania's cargo. No direct statement from those who were on board as to what occurred on the wrecked steamer have yet reached St. John's. The steamer Glenora, bringing the Lusitania's passengers is due here to-night. The messenger who brought the news of the wreck to St. John's says the passengers on board the Lusitania drew their knives to cut the lashing of the boat and liberate the crew of the steamer when they thought the latter attempted to interfere with them in doing so.

NEW "CAPITAL" FOR THE BOERS

A Handful of Invaders Proclaim Jamestown as Their Headquarters.

Kruger Still Says he Believes His Country Will be Delivered Into His Hands.

Kenhardt, Cape Colony, June 26.—The German authorities of Damara-land have arrested a number of male Boers who emigrated thither after the recent fight at Naroegas. Thirty-eight families of women and children have been placed in camp at Schmidt Drift.

INVADERS SELECT A "CAPITAL."

Cape Town, June 26.—A small body of Boer invaders has ravaged Jamestown and proclaimed that village the capital of the Orange Free State. The same force is said to be indulging in considerable looting in that district. It is understood that energetic measures will be taken for the effectual clearance of the marauders.

CAPE POLICE ENGAGED.

A Boer force marched to within ten miles of Barkly West last Saturday, and engaged a patrol of the Cape Police, and a local mounted defence force from the farms of Lyndal and Orphenale. The British lost one killed, nine prisoners, three of whom were wounded, and two missing. COL. MUNRO DEFEATS BOER FORCE.

A British column under Col. Munro has defeated a force of Boers, supposed to be a portion of Krutzinger's command. The Boers were routed from the field, leaving their arms and provisions behind them.

KRUGER AT ROTTERDAM.

Rotterdam, June 26.—Mr. Kruger was welcomed at the railroad station on his arrival here to-day by the burgomaster, deputations from numerous societies and many ladies. An official reception followed. Great enthusiasm was manifested everywhere. In a speech of welcome at the town the burgomaster spoke of the similarity between the Transvaal and the Dutch struggles for liberty, and said Rotterdam wished, through Mr. Kruger, to pay homage to the little Boer nation which had shown such faith and confidence in its own strength. Mr. Kruger, in a brief reply, deplored the fact that his country was cut off from supplies and ammunition, whereas the Dutch had had their own supplies during their struggle. He was fully convinced the Lord would deliver his country in His own good time.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

Whoever is responsible for the arrangement, under which the candidates for the entrance examinations here are now sweltering in the hot hall on the upper story of the Collegiate Institute, has certainly laid himself open for severe censure.

The heat and oppressiveness upon which the sun beats with unrelenting activity, cannot, perhaps, be adequately estimated in words, but those who had an opportunity of seeing the students writing yesterday—with the perspiration actually dripping from them—can best bear testimony to the injustice and really inhuman treatment being accorded them.

No candidate can be expected to turn in his best work under existing circumstances and it is time those in authority realized it and took action.

Surely there are enough lower and cooler rooms at the Collegiate Institute which could be utilized. Or, if this be inexpedient, surely provision could be made for the holding of the examinations at the McKough or Central schools. If necessary electric fans should be provided, but something must be done.

The Planet speaks strongly—the occasion warrants it. And this journal ventures to say there are scores of parents in Chatham, and teachers, too, who feel just as strongly. The arrangement is deplorable, it is hurtful, it is inhuman.

It should be remedied at once and never occur again.

ENGLAND IN EGYPT.

There is no page in her recent history which Great Britain has so much reason to be proud of as that dealing with her administration of Egypt. Within a few years she has raised the country from the condition of wretchedness and misery into which centuries of oppression and misrule had sunk it, to a degree of prosperity and happiness possessed by no other oriental nation.

She has constructed immense public works along the Nile, which have enormously increased the production of the soil and she has transformed the nation from a race of slaves, the most abject and originating in the Old World, into a peasantry which is said to bear favorable comparison with that of almost any country in Europe.

When she took control the nation was bankrupt; to-day its finances are in excellent condition, and this notwithstanding that every improvement which has been made has been paid for by Egyptian money and that taxation has been steadily lowered year after year. The credit for this great work is due principally to Lord Cromer, who has practically been supreme ruler of Egypt since the English occupation, and who will undoubtedly be ranked as one of the very greatest of the many great administrators who have been placed over Britain's outlying dependencies. His reports are among the most important documents held before the British public, and modestly as they are worded, the story of marvellous progress they relate is as interesting as any work of fiction. In the latest one, which was published only a few weeks ago, he dwells on the efforts of the British towards the education of the natives, and the response which they are making. The Egyptians, it appears, acquire the French language more readily than any other foreign tongue, yet in the schools, where it is compulsory to study one foreign language, over three-quarters of the pupils elect to study English, and less than a quarter French. Among all classes there is the utmost eagerness to obtain an education for their children, and during the past dozen years the attendance at the Government schools has increased more than twelve-fold. Even in the Sudan the natives are showing an interest in education, wonderful in a country which a few years ago was in a state of absolute savagery. The Gordon Memorial College at Khartoum, established through the agency of Lord Kitchener, has been a perfect success, and according to those best acquainted with the people, bids fair to be one of the strongest factors in establishing the permanence of British control in that part of Africa. The College is entirely free from religious influence, and feeders to it are now being founded in all the larger towns. In fact, a complete grammar school system is being established. The pupils are drawn largely from the Moslem schools; and unless some unforeseen and revolutionary event happens to overthrow English influence the Sudan, the country which the Mahdi overpowered with his fanatical hosts only four or five years ago, will soon have an educational system which a nation

The Woodstock Express, Independent says:

The announcement of a bye-election in London is a puzzle to the political prophets. What does it mean? Col. Lys, in forwarding his resignation to the Speaker, left no alternative. The Government might have declined to accept it, but the Speaker had no option. But why has the Government sprung an election so unexpectedly? Some believe it is but a prelude to the general election. It will be remembered that at the last election legislation was adopted extending the life of the Government past its allotted time. This action has provoked a good deal of criticism, and it is hinted that the Government may have become alarmed lest it be turned into an effective battle cry in the mouth of the enemy. If the elections were brought on this fall, of course the cry would fall. But if the elections are to be brought on this fall, why hold a bye-election now? Two explanations are given. One is that the Government desires to get the "machine" in motion preparatory to the great struggle. The other is that the Government wants to disarm suspicion. What the true explanation the Express does not profess to know; but it need not surprise anyone should the call to arms be heard during the coming autumn.

They are having trouble in Windsor over the $20,000 which the millionaire presented to that city. The terms call for $2,500 for maintenance of the endowed library, and that sum cannot be raised by a half-mill rate—which is the statutory limit—on Windsor's assessment. The city will probably ask for special legislation to empower it to raise the required sum.

MEAT DIET.

London Free Press.

The question of meat-eating in summer seems to be a very debatable one, though the weight of good authority is nowadays in favor of a fairly generous meat diet, even through hot weather. The enervating effect of continued high temperature needs strength to resist it, and to deprive the system of this nutritive and building element is decided to be unwise now by experts in the matter. The meat diet should not be as generous in summer as in winter, and the meats selected should be of the digestible sort, and they should be cooked in the most wholesome ways. The greasy, fried pork and sausages offered in too many rural houses are bad and any meat fried, cooked in too much grease or overdone, is also not to be recommended. Meats broiled or roasted or in savory or well-prepared stews are not only good, but a necessity of the summer diet.

LATTER DAY SAINTS.

The conference of the Chatham district of the reorganized church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was held near St. Catharines, June 8, 9, and 10. Elder R. C. Evans, president of the Canada Mission, was chosen to preside. Elder Geo. Green, of Appleton, and Elder Arthur Leighton, of Bothwell, were elected as his associates. Elder Richard Coburn, of Blenheim was selected as secretary. Much of the time was devoted to business and prayer. Reports were read from the financial agent and fourteen different churches. All these indicated decided substantial progress. At 8 p. m. the 8th, Elder J. H. Tyrrell, of Chatham, addressed the audience on the financial law. The saints believe in paying the church one tenth of their net earnings, not compulsorily but willingly. The Bible says "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof" and one tenth is certainly reasonable rent.

The Sunday services were as follows: At 11 a. m. Elder T. A. Phillips, of St. Thomas, preached. His subject was the purity of the home. At 2:30, Elder R. C. Evans, of London, was the speaker. He claimed the gospel is a practical system and ably argued that God will reward all meritorious acts whether performed by Christians or non-professors. At 7:30, Elder A. C. Barnard, late of California, occupied the stand. His sermon was an elucidation of Acts 24:24 and 25.

Monday morning was devoted to business and prayer, after which the conference adjourned to meet with the Wabash church Oct. 12 and 13. This church has been misrepresented, ignorantly or wilfully, by some in being confounded with the Mormons of Utah. It is, however, a separate and distinct body. Of it Bishop John F. Hurst of the M. E. church says: "It is guiltless of the crimes that stain the reign of Brigham Young." On the marriage question it has expressed itself as follows: "We believe the doctrine of a plurality and community of wives are heresies, and are opposed to the law of God."

A HALF-WAY STATION

CHRIST BETWEEN THE ANIMAL MAN AND THE IDEAL MAN.

HUMANITY RIVAL TO THE BRUTE

The Era Unreached in by Jesus Will End
by Making Man Rival of Angels—Dignity and Grandeur of the Soul's Possibilities—Fettered by No Dogmas. But Love Only.

Even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect,—Matthew v. 48.

In the long past of human history there has been but one ideal man. He came; He taught the world; He disappeared. His stay was just long enough to drop a few seed principles into unwilling and barren soil, but they took root, grew into a forest of stately trees, and now our social order and progress thrive under their grateful shade. Never has a man said so little and accomplished so much. Every thought was a revelation; every word shook the earth like the blasting of rocks for the material of a new foundation.

The Christ stood at a point which was a half-way station between the animal man of the past and the ideal man of the future. Humanity began as a rival to the brute; it will end as the rival of angels. By slow degrees it has achieved an upward climb, and every step has brought it closer to heaven. The untold millions who have fallen by the wayside will continue the journey in another life. Generations have been snuffed out like a candle, only to be transferred to larger opportunities and a better environment. We also shall drop our earthly work to complete it in the immeasurable eternity toward which we are surely drifting.
Without that eternity this life would be a grim disaster, but with it we use to-day, if we are wise, as a stepping stone to an endless series of to-morrows.

The dignity and grandeur of the soul's possibilities are beyond the reach of the imagination. Every age pushes us forward into a wider development. Every experience, whether it is followed with smiles or tears, with leisure or struggle, is intended and is fitted to give us new strength for the new outlook which it yields. The divine consciousness is always present that we can do more and be more. A glowing ember from the altar of God is the soul, and though it now slumbers it will some time be fanned into a flame.
The earth may for a while enchain
our attention, for it is a fascinating novelty to be alive, as the traveler toward the mountain top may rest satisfied with the prospect which stretches before his wondering eyes; but there is an inward voice which tells us that we must keep our steady way until the summit is reached, and that the toil will be repaid by what is waiting for us there.

What you are now is as nothing to what you will be, and you can never find perfect rest until the throne of God is in sight. When, therefore, you think of the soul's capabilities,
of this earthly life as the degradation of a book to be hereafter written;
when you see that the laws of the universe, stern and implacable, are nothing more than the strong hand of a father who restrains his child from inflicting an injury upon himself, then you are in harmony with the divine order, then you get a glimpse of true religion, then you are working side by side with the Christ. To know what God wants and to discover that you can never be happy until you also want it is to learn the secret of usefulness and contentment.

We are too perfunctory in our religion. We think to buy heaven by an expedient which is often irksome.
We imagine that if we believe certain doctrines our belief will offset a selfish life. It is not belief that saves.
There are no dogmas in heaven, but love only. Creeds are well enough as a pastime, but the serious business of life is to be your better self in temptation and to grow larger and nobler with every decade that flies into the past. Growth is the watchword of the soul.

That kind of manliness which knows how to keep its cheer in adversity as well as in good fortune, which cares for nothing except its own preservation and increase, which looks on unsullied honor and integrity as the only precious jewels that can afford—that kind of manliness and womanliness is another name for godliness, and the only religion which knows no change is securely based on it. You may be rich or you may be poor, it is a mere incident. But if you are true, faithful, loyal to your destiny, seeking to be of service to the world because it is God's world, you belong to Christ and he belongs to you. You may weep or you may laugh, you may sit in the sunshine or the shadow. You have what money cannot purchase, a peace, a serene joy, a pose, a self-possession which are a foretaste of the eternal life.—From sermon by Rev. Dr. George H. Hepworth.

Good Color Schemes.

A careful study of color tones and combinations would bring much more effective results in many homes. For instance, blue and white is a favorite color scheme for bedroom furnishing and is often chosen and as often spoiled by incongruous surroundings.
Japanese rugs are the best solution of the difficulty of floor covering with blue and white furnishing schemes, or if Persian rugs are chosen, to give a touch of warmth, they should have predominating blue tones and all subdued colorings. Then confusion should be avoided and a majority of plain stuffs prevail. Plain portieres of solid oak color are restful to the eye.

Money Lenders' Paradise.

A money lending case was heard in Dublin in which the interest charged amounted to 2,800 per cent. This interest was reduced by the judge to five per cent.

The doctor sometimes passes a harder sentence than the judge. But the sentence of the doctor is more often set aside or overruled than is that of the judge. In the case of Mrs. Reynolds given below, the doctor sentenced her to about eighteen years of physical punishment and misery. But she rebelled against the sentence, and commenced
the use of Doctor

Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In a few weeks she was a well woman.
It's a peculiarity
of the cures effected by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that they are generally cures of chronic diseases.
A woman suffers

with diseases peculiar to her sex, she takes medical treatment, gets no better, and has no hope held out to her of improvement.
Then in her discouragement she turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and finds a prompt and lasting cure. "Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Four years ago my health began to fail," writes Mrs. Nellie M. Reynolds, of Glenwood, Washington Co., Oregon. "I had a very heavy dragging and weight in the region of the uterus, pain in back and loins, could not lift anything heavy, rest at night very poor, stomach deranged. One physician said I was overworked, another said I had congestion and falling of uterus. He treated me nine months and said I would not be well until I had passed the change of life. I was only twenty-seven years old then.
I became discouraged, and began using Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Took a teaspoonful three times a day; began feeling better right away. Am using my third bottle now, and feel I am in good health. I believe Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription has restored me to health. If suffering women would give it a fair trial they would give it praise."

Kent Bridge, June 25.—The Dresden football team visited Kent Bridge last Thursday night and was defeated by the strong local team by the score of 3 to 0. The game was fast from start to finish. The local team got the first goal in less than a minute after the ball started. Dresden played a good game but the combination of the home team was too much for them. After the game the boys were taken to the social and entertained in right royal style.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

Deeds are greater than words.
Deeds have such a life, mute but undeniable, and grow as living trees and fruit trees do; they people the vacuity of time, and make it green and worthy. Why should the oak prove logically that it ought to grow, and will grow? Plant it, try it; what gifts of diligent judicious assimilation and secretion it has, of progress and resistance, of force to grow, will then declare themselves.—Carlyle.

SEWING HINTS.

Always use double thread for gathering.

Always use as fine a thread and needle as the garment will allow.

When threading your needle make the knot on the end broken from the reel.

The rule for filling is one and a quarter the length of the edge to be trimmed.

In facing a sleeve, turn it, and place
the facing inside the sleeve before sewing it on.

Gathers should always be set on the right side, but never with a needle;
use a large pin.

When sewing on a button place the knot on the right side of the cloth directly under the button.

In sewing a seam, put the stitches closely together, but lightly, into the cloth, being careful not to pull the thread tight, as this causes the seam to pucker.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

Miss McGregor and Miss Samson, of Blenheim, were in the city yesterday. W. T. Piggott left today on a two weeks' business trip in the Georgian Bay district.

J. W. Couse, manager of the Creeland Bros. Typewriter Company, of London, is in the city to-day.

A deputation of the Chatham Hedge Fence Company from Essex are in the city to-day inspecting hedges.

D. Elston, who has been attending Canada Business College, has returned to his home for the vacation.

Jack McLean, of Bothwell, spent yesterday in the city. Mr. McLean is a former C. B. C. student.

Miss Thompson, who has been visiting Mrs. R. S. Dunlop, Park avenue, west, goes to Windsor this afternoon. The circus was all packed up and on their way to Port Huron by one o'clock this morning. They went by way of Glencoe.

Jesse Savage had the misfortune this morning to let a shaft fall on his foot at Parker's foundry, bruising it so badly that he will probably be laid up for while.

Manager F. D. Laurie, of the Bell Telephone Co., and Fire Chief Pritchard tested alarm box 13 on the corner of Wilson avenue and St. Clair St., this morning and found it working satisfactorily.

Sergt. William Coltart was in Wallaceburg yesterday and advertised the non-coms. excursion. He reports an excellent time. The brave Sergeant of the 24th presented a very manly appearance as he strode through the streets of Wallaceburg in full uniform.

A fight took place near the store of R. S. Dunlop sometime late Tuesday night among some rowdies while waiting for the circus to come into the city. A person who saw the fight said it was a wonder Mr. Dunlop's windows were not broken. It is quite evident that the Queen street merchants must have police protection as well as the King street merchants even if a couple of new policemen have to be put on the force.

The local cricket team went for Detroit to-day. The team consisted of Kenney, Wells, Neilson, Kniflage, Atkins, West, Horstead, Miller, Richards and Tye.

While driving home yesterday Mr. and Mrs. H. Lammigan, of 8th Con. Chatham Township, experienced a very thrilling time. The horse ran away, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Lammigan out of the rig. Both were slightly bruised but not seriously hurt.

"I see that we still have our pavement," said A. D. McCole, of The Planet, this morning. "There are some people in this city who say that it is hollow and no good, but a herd of elephants, each weighing about four tons, passed over it yesterday and there was no damage done."

GOOD NEWS

E. A. Hutchinson Writes from London That he is now Gaining Strength and Intends to Leave for the West Shortly.

Writing to the publisher of The Planet yesterday E. A. Hutchinson, the late esteemed editor of this journal, conveys the satisfactory intelligence that his health is much improved and that he is rapidly regaining strength.

Mr. Hutchinson is still in the General Hospital, at London; where he has been for the past two weeks. His condition continues to improve, will leave shortly upon his trip westward. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hutchinson and family.

Mr. Hutchinson's Maple City friends will be glad to learn of his improvement in health.

SUGGESTIONS

Dr. Thornton Submits Some Valuable Ideas as the Result of His Visit to Brantford.

Dr. Thornton and Dr. Bray, the representatives of the local Board of Health, who attended the Provincial gathering at Brantford Tuesday and yesterday, have returned home. They report a successful convention in which the interest centred on the prevention of tuberculosis, or consumption. The idea was advanced and generally established that consumption was spread largely by the public school, as the greatest percentage of disease occurs during school age or within a few years after.

"Now," said Dr. Thornton, in an interview with The Planet, "the thought struck me, what suggestions can we submit in return for the sending of the two delegates by the city. The suggestions I would submit most earnestly are that all the trustees of the county should meet at least once a year with the teachers at their conventions and discuss matters of school architecture, discipline, sanitary science, beautifying buildings and grounds, and that good practical men be secured to give interesting talks along sanitary lines."

HAS THE FLOOR

Some Citizens with Complaints Upon which they would like to Hear from the City Engineer.

"I spent four years and much money filling up a hole in front of my residence," said Hugh Macdonald, "and the city workmen came along and gouged out a hole there once more. I had the muddy hollow fixed so that there was an even grade down to the catch basin. The hole was well fixed and was a permanent improvement, but it has been spoiled again. I don't see what the Board of Works can be thinking about but I want that hole fixed again."

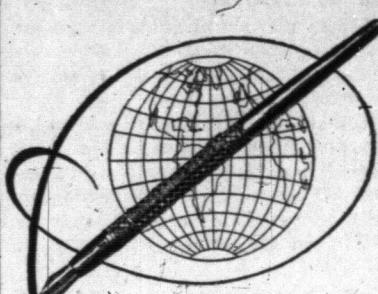

Hugh Macaulay predicts that both School and Centre Sts. will be veritable mud holes "as soon as the weather sets in, and that the cartloads of earth now being dumped on the street."

J. B. Stringer would like to know when the boxes removed for the purpose of clearing out the gutters will be replaced. Entrance to his place is blocked and other residents on the neighboring streets are in the same predicament.

Grand Trunk Railway time table changed Sunday, June 2nd. Chatham passengers going east for Toronto and points east of that will now leave at 10:32 instead of 9:02 as formerly, and the Eastern Flyer which formerly left here at 3:30 will for the future leave at 5:30, arriving in Toronto at 10 o'clock and Montreal early the following morning. This latter is the popular train which has revolutionized travel in Canada since being put on by the popular Grand Trunk Railway.

Hay Fever Can Be Prevented.

Don't seek other climes at "Hay Fever Season," don't destroy your stomach and nerves by drugs—prevent the disease. Hay Fever is caused by germs that float about in the air and finally find lodgement in your throat and lungs. Medicine won't reach them there, but Catarrhoxone will. Catarrhoxone is sure death to germs. Start now to use Catarrhoxone. Inhale it into the throat, lungs and nasal passages and bronchial tubes; it goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and it will prevent and cure Hay Fever. Endorsed by not less than one thousand doctors in Canada and U. S. Sent to any address for $1.00 forwarded to Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S., or Kingston, Ont.

—Humors feed on humors—the sooner you get rid of them the better—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to take.

Ghosts would frighten many people who are not afraid of germs. Yet the germ is a real danger. If this microscopic animal could be magnified to a size in proportion to its deadliness it would show like a giant python, or fire breathing dragon. One fact to remember is that the germ is powerless to harm the body when the blood is pure. It is far easier to keep the germ out than to drive it out after it obtains a hold in the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most powerful and perfect of blood purifying medicines. It increases the quantity as well as the quality of the blood, and enables the body to resist disease, or to throw it off if disease has obtained a footing in some weak organ. Wherever the digestion is impaired, the nutrition of the body is diminished, for the blood is made from the food which is eaten, and half digested food cannot supply the body with blood in quantity and quality adequate to its needs. For this condition the only remedy equal to "Golden Medical Discovery." It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred persons who give it a fair trial. When there is constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will promptly relieve and permanently cure.

THE PANSY PRINCESS.

Purple and gold as sunset of the north,
Thou pansy, tell what thought lies hid in thee;
Dost thou dream upon a time when knights went forth
The pomp and splendor of thy court to see?

In training robes of satin and brocade, Didst reign a queen o'er nations wild and vast,
Till ruthless time decreed their suns should fade,
Their glories be but ashes of the past?

Close to thy side, all fierce in black and gold,
A panther warrior guards thee still with care;
Dost thou recall a day when, overbold,
He wooed thee with the sunlight on his hair?

And near in shadow, pale as some sweet saint,
A snow-white pansy opens to the day—
A pious nun with pallid lips and faint,
Who bows her head the while she seems to pray.

For thee, O pagan princess of the dawn,
For thee, O warrior knight of valorous deeds,
The pale nun prays, with downcast face and wan,
While through her fingers slip the silent beads.

And is it true that all the prayers and love,
And all the wealth and worldliness of powers,
When centuries have come and gone, will prove Mere memories in thoughtful pansy flowers?

Provincial Detective Rogers Commends the Circus Management on Their Strict Integrity.

Government Detective Joseph Rogers accompanied Ringling Bros. circus through Canada, and left the show when it returned to the United States last evening.

Mr. Rogers stated while in the city that this circus was the best behaved that ever passed through Canada. The owners will put up with no thieves or rogues, and whenever any are found in the wake of the show, the detective force of Ringling Bros. are just as anxious to capture them as the local organization is the minutest that has ever been in Canada. The performances are all pure and free from everything objectionable. We ran up against a bunch of pickpockets, 11 in all, in Ontario, and they were summarily dealt with. Ottawa, Guelph, Stratford, and Barrie were the places in which the thieves were secured.

"There is no show of change work, no kick, no extra money for tickets on the outside. I may say that I was highly delighted to find one show conducted on such creditable principles."

"We didn't get any pickpockets here," concluded Mr. Rogers. "One lady did report having her purse stolen, but I picked it up where she had been standing and had dropped it."

ST. THOMAS Business COLLEGE

The growth of this institution during the last two years has been wonderful. The attendance has been doubled on account of the thorough course of training which we give. One of our young men is now drawing a salary of $1,800 a year; another $1,000; others from $400 to $500. Within the last month two of our students have gone direct from the College to positions paying $500 a year. WE QUALIFY OUR STUDENTS TO FILL THE BEST POSITIONS.

Young people are foolish to spend the best part of their lives learning Latin, French and the dead languages, when a few months spent in our Commercial or Shorthand Department will fit them to earn salaries like the above.

Eighty-seven per cent. of all our students who have written on the examinations of the Business Education Association of Canada this year have been successful.

Minard's Lintment—Lumberman's pattern.

AN HUMBLE HERO

BY THOMAS P. MONTFORT
Copyright 1907, by Thomas P. Montfort

"Right here." Melvin began to feel uneasy. He didn't like the idea of another man coming there claiming to be a prospector for minerals. It didn't have the right look, and it smacked of something wrong.

"Did he tell you his name?" he asked. "He told me a name," Turner replied. "A name? Do you think he didn't tell you his own name?"

"Lord a-massy, how can I tell? You fellows come down here an say your names is so an so, an how do I know whether you're tellin the truth or whether you ain't?"

Melvin blushed and eyed the old man keenly. Such talk made him suspicious. Then he was not easy about that newcomer. He wondered if Turner had heard something to arouse his suspicions. When one is in continual suspense, it requires but little to alarm him. Quietly enough, however, Melvin asked:

"What name did that man give you?" "Waite—W-a-i-t-e. He spelled it out for me. Said he belonged to the firm of Waite & See."

"Waite & See! Humph!" "That ain't your firm, I reckon."

"No." "Don't know nothin 'bout 'em, I guess."

"No." "Quare name for a firm, ain't it?"

"Rather." "That's what he said it was, though. I asked him his name, an he said 'Waite.' Then I asked him who he worked for, an he said 'Waite & See.'"

"Humph! What kind of looking man was he?"

"Putty slick lookin feller—sorter young, sorter tall, sorter dark, sorter slim an sorter clean shaved. I thought 'at found out more 'bout him, but you know I'm pow'ful backwards 'bout askin questions an 'peared like he didn't keer 'bout answerin what I did ask."

"How came he to tell you that he had come down here to prospect for minerals?"

"Why, we got to talkin an runnin on 'bout one thing an another, an I up an mentions 'bout you a-bein yere, an he asks all 'bout you an 'bout what you was doin yere. When I says you are yere a-smellin round for mineral, he says, 'Then I reckon I want to meet that man, seein' we're both on the same line of business.' That's jest how he come to mention his object in comin yere."

Melvin was silent a long time and deeply thoughtful. The coming of that stranger annoyed and worried him. Turner's description of the man, though vague and general, suited very much to the description of one he did not care to see, the brother of the man whose life he had taken.

The claim of the stranger that he, too, had come down here to prospect for mineral made his appearance all the more alarming to Melvin, for no one knew better than Melvin that no capitalists were going to waste money in useless prospecting in that section. That claim would do very well, he thought, to fool the natives with, but no one with ordinary business sense would believe it for a minute.

He was half inclined to leave the Ridge at once, and had it not been for Mrs. Banks he would have done so. He felt that even at the risk of his life he must remain there until he had succeeded in gaining one more interview with her. Strange how weak a man, strong in all things else, can be when it comes to woman and love! By and by Melvin broke the silence by saying, "You said that man was here today, so I presume he is not here now?"

"Lord a-massy, no! No, sir-ee! He wanted to stop, but we had no place for him 'less we put him to sleep with you, an we 'lowed wed best not do that, seein' you are so doggoned particular."

"I'm glad you came to that conclusion," Melvin replied, "for I certainly should have objected to sharing my bed with any one else."

"That's the way I figured it. You exact as the feller that stopped down to Squire Beeson's once. Ever hear 'bout that chap?"

"Guess not."

"That's what he said it was, though. I asked him his name, an he said 'Waite.' Then I asked him who he worked for, an he said 'Waite & See.'"

"Humph! What kind of looking man was he?"

"Why, we got to talkin an runnin on 'bout one thing an another, an I up an mentions 'bout you a-bein yere, an he asks all 'bout you an 'bout what you was doin yere. When I says you are yere a-smellin round for mineral, he says, 'Then I reckon I want to meet that man, seein' we're both on the same line of business.' That's jest how he come to mention his object in comin yere."

Melvin was silent a long time and deeply thoughtful. The coming of that stranger annoyed and worried him. Turner's description of the man, though vague and general, suited very much to the description of one he did not care to see, the brother of the man whose life he had taken.

The claim of the stranger that he, too, had come down here to prospect for mineral made his appearance all the more alarming to Melvin, for no one knew better than Melvin that no capitalists were going to waste money in useless prospecting in that section. That claim would do very well, he thought, to fool the natives with, but no one with ordinary business sense would believe it for a minute.

He was half inclined to leave the Ridge at once, and had it not been for Mrs. Banks he would have done so. He felt that even at the risk of his life he must remain there until he had succeeded in gaining one more interview with her. Strange how weak a man, strong in all things else, can be when it comes to woman and love! By and by Melvin broke the silence by saying, "You said that man was here today, so I presume he is not here now?"

"Lord a-massy, no! No, sir-ee! He wanted to stop, but we had no place for him 'less we put him to sleep with you, an we 'lowed wed best not do that, seein' you are so doggoned particular."

"That's the way I figured it. You exact as the feller that stopped down to Squire Beeson's once. Ever hear 'bout that chap?"

"Guess not."

"Waal, sir, he was a good un shore. Reg'lar blame crank, as the feller says. Got mad 'cause the bed fell down with him in the night an he had to sleep on the floor. Squire explained to him that it was all jest an accident, an you know accidents will happen spite of anything, but that feller was so doggoned unreasonable that squire's explanation didn't satisfy him. Next mornin he got madder 'an a wet hen 'cause while he was eatin breakfast a cat jumped on the table an snatched the meat squire's plate an run off with it."

deep and serious thoughts. Turner watched him from under his shaggy brows, and he, too, was having some thoughts far deeper and far more serious than any one knew.

After a while Melvin stopped in front of Turner and asked:

"How far is it over to Hi Jenkins' place?"

"'Bout two mile, I reckon," Turner replied, "raisin close on to that anyhow. You thinkin of goin over ther?"

"Oh, no. I have no business there," Melvin answered disinterestedly. "I was just wondering how far it was. I guess I shall have to ride over to Beckett's Mill tonight, though. I presume the store will be open?"

"Oh, yes, the store'll be open." Then Turner added to himself, "All the store you'll want, young feller."

CHAPTER XII

A BASH THREAT.

Pap Sampson, coming down the street from the store, saw a woman dressed in musty black leave his house as he approached and walk away in the opposite direction. Her head was bent, and her attitude and movement gave unmistakable evidence that she was in deep trouble.

As Pap entered the yard Mrs. Sampson appeared in the open front door, a look of troubled anxiety on her wrinkled, homely, but kind old face.

"Mirandy," Pap said eagerly, "wa'n't that the widdy Mann that jest went out?"

Mrs. Sampson nodded.

"I thought it was," Pap went on, "though I wa'n't close enough to see her face. Somethin wrong with her, ain't they?"

"The pore critter's in a peck of trouble," Mrs. Sampson answered.

"I'd say!" Pap exclaimed thoughtfully. "Humph! All along of what folks are a-sayin of her an Sim Banks, I reckon."

"Waal, it's along of that, Pap, but not 'bout that exactly. You know she's got a piece of wheat down on her farm, an it's ripe and needs cuttin."

"Waal!"

"An it 'pears lack she'd made a trade with Sim a good spell ago to cut it for her on the sheers."

"She did, Mirandy. I was a witness to the trade, an I mind it well."

"Waal, now, becus of all the talk that's a-gwine 'bout, Sim he's backed out an won't tech that wheat."

"Why, I wonder?"

"Be'cus he says if he did it'd give more color to what folks are a-sayin."

"An it would, too, Mirandy; it would shore."

"So, not havin no money to live with an not bein able to make no trade with nobody else, Mary Mann is plumb at the end of her row, an she don't know which way to turn."

"Naturally she would be, Mirandy. Yes, sir-ee!" Pap paused for quite awhile, during which time he chewed his tobacco vigorously, showing that he was engaged in earnest thought. Then he added slowly: "Yes, sir-ee! Naturally she would be; naturally she would be."

"Can't you see no way out for her, Pap?" Mrs. Sampson asked.

"I was jest a-thinkin, Mirandy. I hain't no great admiration for Mary Mann, an I guess that ain't many as has, but for all that she's a woman, an a widdy woman at that. Wonder when her wheat'll do to cut."

"Worry, she said."

"Waal, it won't nigh do to let that wheat go to waste; so, as that don't seem to be nothin else for it, I guess I better go out this evenin an gather up a handful of men an take 'em over ther tomorry an cut it for her."

Mrs. Sampson's face brightened at once. She was one of those great souled plain people who can never bear to see any one in trouble without wanting to move heaven and earth to relieve his distress.

"Are you shore you can git the men to go?" she asked.

"Lord, yes! Yes, sir-ee! That's Jason Roberts. Jason an me has it up an down sometimes, an I reckon the chief enjoyment of my life is to take sides agin me in ever'thing I say; but my land, that ain't nothin, an when it comes right down to the pinch Jason will swar by me. Yes; Jason'll go an Sam Morgan an Ebenezer Sparks an a lot of the others."

"Do you reckon they won't want to charge her for their work, though?"

"Lord, Mirandy, you don't know them fellers shore! Charge a woman, an a widdy woman at that, for helpin her out of a pinch! Land! You jest let Mary Mann give us a good dinner, an we'll have all the pay we want. We'll even go to the length of furnishin our jug of liquor if we can git a boy to go to the still after it, an I guess we shorely can."

Pap Sampson was busier that afternoon than he had been for a long time. He hunted around till he found six good men to accompany him to Mrs. Mann's farm. Then he hunted up cradles, and last, but not least, he hunted a boy to go after a jug of whiskey.

"Mought jest as well try to git 'long without cradles as without a jug of liquor," he said to himself as he pattered about getting everything in readiness. "A getherin without a jug wouldn't be no getherin at all."

Pap was in great spirits the next morning when he marshaled his force into the battlefield and got the cradles to going. He bustled about as spry as a boy and gave orders like a general. He even grasped a cradle and prepared to lead the way with the first swath, but Jason took the cradle out of his hands and wouldn't let him.

"No, Pap," Jason said, "we can't have that. That's plenty of us younger men here. You jest set down in the shade somewhere an take it easy."

Pap stared up with resentment in an instant.

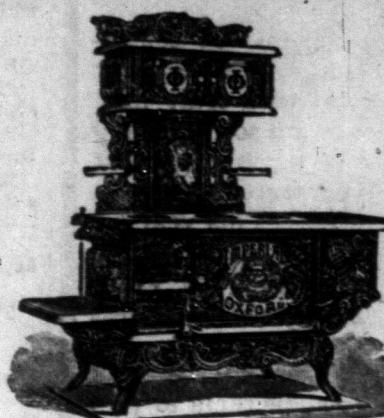

"Me set down in the shade!" he cried. "Have you got a notion, Jason Roberts,

AN INTERESTING QUESTION.

Why Man Owe More to His Wife Than His Mother.

The interesting question of whether a man owes more to his wife or to his mother comes up in a Kansas City court.

"If a man's mother is dependent upon him and his wife objects to living in the same house with her, he must provide separate homes for his mother and for himself and wife," said Judge J. H. Stover.

"If he refuses to provide separate homes she has a good excuse for leaving him and he cannot secure a divorce from her on the ground of desertion."

The evidence showed that the man's mother and sister did not get along smoothly with his wife, but that they occasionally quarrelled about household affairs. But the facts did not show that the wife was blameless or that her condition was rendered intolerable. But in spite of this the Judge decided that the wife was entitled to a separate home.

This supports the Biblical injunction for a man to "leave father and mother and cleave to his wife." In discussing this question from a modern legal point of view the Judge said: "A man owes more to his wife, of course. The Bible says so, as well as the law."

A woman has a right to demand a separate home when she marries a man. It doesn't make any difference whether the man's relatives make it unpleasant for her or not. She didn't marry his relatives. She married him.

"But a man ought not to let his mother go to the poorhouse on that account, and if he is a common laborer on $1 a day and it is impossible to support wife and mother in different homes it is hard to tell what he should do, but his wife has the prior claim."

"Wherever the husband goes the wife must follow, whether she wants to or not, but once in the home it is as much hers as his and he has no right to bring any one into it who is objectionable to her. Had a breach of promise case in the courts here a few years ago in which the man refused to marry the girl unless she would consent for his mother to live with them. She would not consent. Neither would he marry her, so she sued him for breach of promise and recovered damages. Both shed tears in court and both protested that they still loved each other."

"The reason that the man owes more to the wife than to the mother is that it is a law of nature. It is rearing his family. In the eyes of the law they are one."

The lawyers in the case have found several decisions on the point, one a Vermont case similar to this, in which the court said:

"Any man who has proper tenderness and affection for his wife would certainly not require her to reside near his relatives if her peace of mind were thereby seriously disturbed."

"As the wife alleges the vicinity of the husband's relatives as a reason why she cannot live with him, and as every one at all experienced in such matters knows that it is not uncommon for the female relatives of the husband to create, either intentionally or accidentally, disquietude in the mind of the wife, and thereby to destroy her comfort and health often, and as there is no attempt here to show that this is a simulated excuse, we must treat it as made in good faith and if so, we are prepared to say that she is liable to be divorced for acting upon it."

Uganda Geography.

Suppose an explorer actually makes his way to where the North Pole ought to be and when he gets there finds that it has moved. This is what would be likely to happen. Then, too, the pole moves in a most mysterious way. There is nothing to show the direction it takes; no trail to follow. And in order to catch up with it the man on the scene must know exactly where the pole was on such and such a date, and where it ought to be on that particular day that he hopes to overtake it. In other words, the pole is not a fixed, but a constantly varying, point on the earth's surface.

It has been discovered that the sea level is changing, and even the motion of the moon is affected by the displacement of the earth's axis and longitude and latitude of all points fluctuate. The instability of the pole and the shifting of latitude will, disconcert the surveyors, raise legal complications and controversies over deeds and descriptions of land, and may upset national boundaries to some extent, for it is proved that all artificial boundaries are constantly changing.

Determination of longitude will certainly be exceedingly awkward to make if absolute exactness be desired, as a basis of the world's longitude, the meridian of Greenwich, is not spared the uncertainty, as it is position is oscillating around the observatory at Greenwich, which is by definition the zero longitude of the world. But the odd circumstance is that points on the earth's surface may at times be east, and at other times west of the town of Greenwich.—Answers.

"Dr. James Barry," once Inspector General of Hospitals in the British army and a "C. B." This individual presented the appearance of a slightly built dark-complexioned man, bearded, but with abrupt manners. The doctor had a marked impatience with anything like contradiction, and his temper led to several duels, in which he came off best. The courage of the person was beyond question, but the voice was thin and feminine in tone.

When "James Barry" died "he" left explicit instructions that he should be buried "all standing," as he was when death came. These directions were disregarded, and it was learned that the medical school had duly qualified and the British government had decorated and pensioned a distinguished medical officer who was a woman.

TO PURIFY THE BLOOD

Nature Has Only Provided One Means and That is The Kidneys.

Every Drop of Blood Passes Through the Kidneys to be Filtered of Morbid Impurities.

The Kidneys Are One of the Most Important and the Most Vulnerable of the Body.

The blood carries nourishment to the various parts of the body, and at the same time collects the matter thrown off by the wasting process which is continually going on.

To separate the poisonous waste matter from the nutritive elements of the blood, nature has provided the kidneys, which act as filters. The kidneys, and the kidneys alone, can purify the blood. The only way to help nature is to help the kidneys—to strengthen and invigorate them.

If your blood is vitiated by the evil effects of winter life, the most effective remedy is the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which act directly on the kidneys, making them active and vigorous in their work of filtering the blood.

About the first indications of deranged kidneys and vitiated blood are backache and dizziness in the urine. The skin gets hard, yellow and dry, there are body pains, headaches, depressed and languid feelings, and stomach troubles. All these are the first symptoms of kidney disease.

Mr. Fred Meggs, general merchant, Waverton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled for five years with kidney disease, and a very lame back, and was so bad that I could not ride in a buggy. At times I could not turn over in bed, and there were brick-dust deposits in the urine. In vain I took medicines of various kinds. They seemed to do me no good. Samples of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills helped me, and two boxes completely cured me. They made my kidneys healthy and vigorous, and I am now a well man. I can recommend them as the world's greatest remedy for backache, kidney disease, and sick headache."

When the kidneys are kept healthy the blood is kept pure, the system is perfectly nourished, the waste matter is carried off, and disease finds no lodgment in the body. You can make no mistake in using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are tried, tested and prescribed of the great kidney doctor, Dr. A. W. Chase. They are purely vegetable, and of marvelous efficacy as a strengthener of the kidneys and liver. They have a record of cures unapproached by any other kidney medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HIS OWN FREE WILL.

Dear Sirs,—I cannot speak too highly of the excellence of MINARD'S LINIMENT. It is THE remedy in my household for burns, sprains, etc., and we would not be without it.

It is truly a wonderful medicine. JOHN A. MACDONALD, Publisher Arnprior Chronicle.

Beauty is only skin deep, but it answers the purpose just as well as if it were deeper.

Ghosts who frighten many people who are not afraid of germs. Yet the germ is a real danger. If this microscopic animalism could be magnified to a size in proportion to its deadlyness it would show like a giant, python, or fire breathing dragon. The one fact to remember is that the germ is powerless to harm the body when the blood is pure. It is far easier to keep the germ out than to drive it out after it obtains a hold in the system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most powerful and perfect of blood purifying medicines. It increases the quantity as well as the quality of the blood, and enables the body to resist disease, or to throw it off if disease has obtained a footing in some weak organ. Wherever the digestion is impaired, the nutrition of the body is diminished, for the blood is made from the food which is eaten, and half digested food cannot supply the body with blood in quantity and quality adequate to its needs. For this condition there is no remedy equal to "Golden Medical Discovery."

It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred persons who give it a fair trial. When there is constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will promptly relieve and permanently cure.

When a man changes his mind the other fellow is apt to get the worst of the bargain.

Hay Fever Can Be Prevented.

Don't seek other climes at "Hay Fever Season," don't destroy your stomach and nerves by drugs to prevent the disease. Hay Fever is caused by germs that float about in the air and finally find lodgment in your throat and lungs. Medicine won't reach them, but Catarrhoseos will. Catarrhoseos is sure death to germs. Start now to use Catarrhoseos. Inhale it into the throat, lungs and nasal passages and bronchial tubes; it goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and it will prevent and cure Hay Fever. You Can Cure It

A New Cure for Catarrh in Tablet Form.

The old time treatment for catarrh was in the form of douches and sprays later on, internal remedies were given with greater success, but being in liquid or powdered form, were inconvenient and were open to the same objection to all liquid remedies, that is, that they lose whatever medicinal power they may have had on exposure to the air.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medication, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted.

At this writing, however, a most excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh has been placed before the public and sold by druggists, called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicines for the cure of catarrh, and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain principally highly concentrated antiseptics, which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membranes, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, as it has been known for some years past by the ablest physicians that the most successful catarrh treatment was by inhaling or spraying antiseptics.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays, however, is a nuisance and inconvenience, and moreover cost in no wise compare with the same remedies given in tablet form, either in efficacy or convenience.

A clerk in a prominent insurance office in Pittsburgh relates his experience with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in a few words but to the point. He says, "Catarrh has been almost constantly with me for eight years; in this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. I awoke every morning stuffed up, and for the first half hour it was cough, gag, expectorate and sneeze before I could square myself for my day's work; no appetite and a foul breath which annoyed me exceedingly."

"I used Stuart's Catarrh Tablets for two months and found them not only pleasant to take but they did the business, and I can sincerely recommend them to all catarrh sufferers."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package. They can be carried in the vest pocket and used at any time and as often as necessary. Guaranteed free from cocaine, mercury or any mineral poison; absolutely safe.

Pain in the Joints

may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. Folsom's Nerviline exactly meets the requirements, for it is both powerful and penetrating. The pain is expelled as if by magic, for one drop of Nerviline equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often call the doctor if Nerviline is in the house. Price 25 cents.

CHANGE IN SIXTY-NINE YEARS.

I have just looked upon two pictures, one entitled "DeWitt Clinton and Train-1831" and the other "Empire State Express-1900." The former shows the primitive locomotive DeWitt Clinton, belonging to the New York Central Railroad, drawing a train of three old Concord stage coaches at its top speed of 15 miles an hour over the seventeen miles of which constitute the New York Central System" sixty-nine years ago. It is almost comical. The latter exhibits the Empire State Express going 65 miles an hour with its splendid train of rolling palaces on a part of the same "system," now grown from 17 miles to 10,453. The road's equipment in 1831 was one engine and three made-over stages; to-day it is 3,580 locomotives, 185 sleeping and parlor cars, 3,000 passenger baggage, mail and express cars and 150,000 freight cars. This equipment carried over 52,000,000 passengers in 1899 and more than 103,000,000 tons of freight. Something of a contrast—"On the Tip of the Tongue" in The New York Press.

GETTING FROM FAR-OFF BURMA

Former Pastor of the William St. Baptist Church Writes the Planet an Interesting Letter.

Rev. Mr. Grigg has followed the Municipal Development of Chatham—Comparison of the old home with the new.

To the Editor of the Chatham Planet.
Dear Sir.—The thoughtful, practical and very substantial kindness of our esteemed friend Alderman Mounter, of your city, has secured for us the pleasure and profit of weekly visits from your able written, bright, new paper, "The Chatham Weekly Planet."
Through the medium of this faithful mirror, we are enabled to leisurely view, even at this distance of twelve thousand miles, a panoramic representation of current doings and happenings in the well known Maple City, where we were privileged to live and work during the greater part of our furlough in Canada. Some of the friendships we formed with your citizens and certain of the experiences which became ours whilst resident among you are still to us of great worth.

Apparently the three and a half years which have passed away since we last walked your streets, have been for you years free from general and serious unhealthfulness, and, the coming into prominence of your "Mount Clemens surpassing mineral water," together with the possession of two splendid hospitals, and so many gifted, skilled physicians, should dispel anxiety on the score of healthfulness from intending residents, even though some sections of the city are so obviously low and flat. May you yet rival Detroit, and may the morale of Chatham more than keep step with its increase in size, wealth, population and influence, until it shall have become an object lesson and inspiration to scores of growing towns and cities seeking a worthy model.

It is gratifying to note the progressive spirit of many of your public minded citizens, and to mark the success which is attending efforts to increase the number and variety of your manufacturing interests. On the basis of a broad, deep principle, it seems too bad that many manufacturers seem to offer themselves for sale to the highest bidder among competing centres, to move about, drawn hither and yon by the powerful magnet of larger bonuses and greater exemptions. One might therefore be pardoned for having the largest sympathy for, and greatest faith in industries which have their birth within the town and are promoted and financed by prominent residents, such as The Chatham Binder Twine Company, Ltd., now in its infancy, and for which we heartily wish success similar to that which has been secured by other and now well established companies in your city.

The independent, original, and useful, though possibly not unvaryingly unbiased editorials in The Planet on public subjects, causes me to reflect on the vast difference between politics in Canada and in Burma. The elections held in this country, of ten millions of people, are the yearly municipal elections. All who own taxable property, both men and women, of whatever race and nationality, have the right to vote in these annual appointments of councillors, and sometimes there is considerable local excitement in the large towns and cities. In Moumein, with its 50,000 inhabitants, where we formerly lived, the municipal doings are duly reported in the tri-weekly newspaper "The Moumein Advertiser," but in this city of say 14,000 people, and destitute of a newspaper of its own, we have not yet, since our transfer here in December last, heard of a single municipal meeting though we could obtain the information by going specially to interview the secretary, who is an intelligent English-speaking Burman.

In this town of Thayetmyo there are, I should judge, ten thousand Burmans, three thousand natives from India and a thousand from other countries, including the government officials, and detachment of 100 English soldiers, besides some Chinese.

The principal roads in this city are macadamized, kept in excellent repair, because the place is a military station, and fairly well shaded by large flowering trees, but not the odorous variety. The noble Irrawaddy River flows southward in front of Thayetmyo and on its waters steamers keep up constant connection between Bhamo, Mandalay, Bagon and intermediate towns of importance. It is wonderful what an enormous traffic there is constantly on the steamboats and railways of Burma. The natives seem to be continually on the move, yet ever wearing a calm, contented, leisurely appearance. The fares are made very low to suit their extremely limited means—a half-cent per mile, 3rd class, by train, and one cent a mile, deck passage, by steamer.

Changes many and great are slow-ly but surely being carried into effect all over Upper and Lower Burma. Good roads, bridges, railways, steamboats, telegraph lines and an efficient postal system, have wrought mighty changes. Yet, if you would spend two months with me in the mission work over the field allotted to us, you would decide that "four-fifths of the roads you would travel over and all the villages you would enter (after a distance of five miles from the missionary's house) are still in their primitive wildness." This would be true on our field, but there are sections where the past and present orders are vastly different.

When Rev. Dr. Judson and wife came as a missionary to Burma in 1813, before the British occupation, they waited and prayed and labored six years before the first native of heathenism and espoused Christ as his Saviour and Lord. Since then "The American Baptist Missionary Union" has never faltered in the work of seeking to win the Buddhist and nat's (spirits) worshippers of Burma for Jesus. God's blessing has been abundantly vouchsafed and last year's table of statistics recorded, in this land of Pagodas, 168 missionaries; 1,440 native helpers (teachers preachers and Bible women); 2,113 baptized during the year, 16,787 Sabbath school scholars; 187 students for the ministry in our seminaries; a total of 18,234 under instruction in our many schools; 690 chapels; 37,928 church members and double that number of adherents. Surely the Lord God Almighty has manifestly wrought a great and growing work of grace in this land. After the British occupation, the Church of England and, later still, the Presbyterian and Wesleyan Methodist bodies began work in this land and have been honored in being made instrumental to undermine heathenism and establish God's Kingdom. I have not the figures for the apparent results achieved through these fellow workers in the gospel but, as they entered the country much later and have not sent out (as told) nearly so many workers, we would probably be giving outside figures of results to add to the statistics. I have given for the "A. B. M. U." fifty per cent more for the combined results of the three denominations mentioned.

I have already made this letter of considerable length without going into details of our own personal part in this great work. If you should judge it of interest and profit to your readers, either Mr. Grigg or I will cheerfully furnish you with a few pen pictures of our experiences in school work or touring among the China villages, or manners, customs and traditions of the China people. (In Moumein we worked among the Burmese, but now our work is among the China people).

Sometimes, when confronted with specially discouraging difficulties, or when weeks have gone by without our having seen an English speaking person, great waves of loneliness and home yearnings sweep over us and almost carry us off our feet. The natives cannot possibly realize the one thousandth part of what many missionaries have voluntarily surrendered in order that they might know Jesus Christ. How then can we realize the millionth part of what He gave up in leaving His Father's glory for our redemption?

The heat has been very great during the past two months. From 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily we are obliged to close all doors and windows to keep out the intense heat. This week, however, two or three advance showers have fallen, giving us to know that the south-west monsoon will soon be upon us to all its strength, cooling the fevered air and deluging fields, villages and people from its inexhaustible stores of rain.

We are enjoying fairly good health, considering that we are just emerging from the long hot season. The cooling rains will we expect rejuvenate us. I wonder if any readers of these lines would like to support a native preacher on this field or write us a letter of cheer or for encouragement in our work. Answers guaranteed to every Canadian letter.

Accept our united and cordial wishes for your every good and prosper in all your work. Increasingly useful life for "The Chatham Planet."

Heartily yours,
ERNEST GRIGG,

Thayetmyo, Burma.

FAR WEST

A Old School Friend Writes an Interesting Letter to Judge Hewston—Longs for the Union Jack.

Judge Houston has received a reply to his letter of invitation written to E. D. Matheson, City Clerk of the City of Billings, Montana, asking him to be the guest of the Judge here during the Old Boys' Reunion in August.

Mr. Matheson will be unable to be present owing to his having made arrangements for a trip to the western coast, but he hopes to gratify his eyes with a sight, at least of the British flag in British Columbia. He says, "I have not seen the Union Jack flying over British territory for 20 years. It is not that I am not a loyal citizen of the U. S., for I love the friends I have made on this side of the line, but it was born in the blood to like the British flag."

"I was appointed City Clerk in May and like the work very much. We are now planning a $25,000 City Hall and next month the city will have a $22,000 free library, the gift of Fred. Billings, of New York, after whose father the town was named. I am glad to hear your daughter is superintending the construction of the building, which is an elegant one. "The busy season is just beginning and the work is coming in from the sheep ranches. We shipped nearly 11,000,000 lbs. of wool from here last year and this is about the leading primary wool market in America. The wool will not bring as good prices as last year."

I am one of the committee appointed has distinguished herself in her studies and it recurred the old days when we were grinding over the dog-ings of Catefine in the old Chatham Grammar school.

"Just after I received your letter, I saw a paragraph in a paper about a convict going to kill your County Judge in Court. I am afraid Chatham must be getting more wild and woolly than Montana." Mr. Matheson was at one time a school teacher in Chatham Township.

Summery Neckwear

There's no seasoning like variety in a neckwear stock. We go on the principle that a store can hardly have too many styles.

We could keep half as many lines of neckwear and you would not consider the stock skimpy—but then we should only have half as many chances of hitting your personal taste.

It's having exactly what a man wants that makes him come again.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Poor Girl, Pity Her.

Growing! Yes, into weakness, but not strength. Studies—plenty of them. Tired, of course she is, and weak, too. Does not eat enough, and digests far less than enough. This condition is so frequent, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferrozoon, then watch her appetite improve, her cheeks and lips grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirit buoyant. All this simply the result of eating and digesting enough, making blood, and thereby strengthening the nerve and brain power. Ferrozoon gives a woman's strength to weak girls. Your daughter or wife needs Ferrozoon. Get it to-day from McCall & Co.
