JOHN LABATT,
LONDON.

Welcome, London Old Boys!

AND now, for the third time. London's former citizens—the London Old Boys scattered throughout the country—are here to re-visit the beautiful Forest City, and spend an all too brief holiday in the old town. They are welcome, thrice welcome. Unquestionably the Old Boys themselves have long looked forward to this re-union, this grasping of hands and this renewing of acquaintances perhaps half forgotten, but to no one is the occasion more pleasing than to the citizens of London themselves, whose hearts and homes are ever open to welcome back the comrades of a decade ago. However long they have been gone they are not forgotten.

Some of them went away long ago, when the day in London was the day of small things. The years have changed us both. Perhaps when some of them left us we were "London in the Woods"; to-day our city is the metropolis of Western Ontario. Perhaps they went empty-handed; perhaps heavy hearted; perhaps duty, not choice, sent some of them; or perhaps the germ of unrest, the throb of adventure, took others to seek their fortunes in fields unknown. They have come back to-day bringing the tokens of success and happiness; they have proved and made known their worth.

From the cold, frozen north of the Arctic Circle, south to the Panama Canal; from the bleak plateaus of Newfoundland to the sun-kissed groves of California; and even from more distant parts, come men of prominence and affairs flocking back to the little "London in the Woods."

Old Boys, once more London throws her gates open to you! To each and every one of you is given the key of the city. We are glad to have you back, and with our hearts and our voices we welcome all those of you who have returned.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR, 1903.

ON THE WAY TO THE PARK

AT THE PALISADES

What Old Boys Remember

IN COMPILING THIS SOUVENIR a number of questions were put to the Old Boys, and, among other things, they were asked to mention some incident of their boyhood that would be of interest to other Old Boys.

The things they told about were many and varied, and while space will not permit of mentioning all, it will be possible to mention a few of the most interesting. A curious thing, by the way, is that a great many's most distinct recollections are of large fires.

For instance, Oliver Goldsmith, of Chicago, speaks of the fire at the Chemical Works. William A. Rowland, Chicago, goes along the same line and refers to the first steam fire engine and the test which was given at Hunt's Mill-race. He tells how a crowd of the Old Boys were present, and how they stayed so late that when they got home they crawled into bed without allowing their parents to know at what hour the celebration was over. Thomas Fogg's most distinct recollection is of his narrow escape in the "Victoria" disaster: how he had been forbidden to go down, and how he came home on the "Forest City," in order that he might not be found out by his parents. Ralph Gibson refers lovingly to the Ivy Base Ball Club. George Rogers tells of a boiler explosion at Murray Anderson's in the year 1855. Seven men were killed. John Robertson, of Chicago, tells how he and Tom Pinch had a fondness for pigeons that did not belong to them. He also remembers Spetigue's Circus. Sam Carter remembers when he was telegraph operator at the old Grand Trunk Station, in the time of the Fenian raids, how the whole guard once turned out and advanced with charged bayonets against a rat that was rustling around among some old papers underneath the platform. Michael Powell, Ottawa, remembers having seen the boys play ball in the evening after dark on the commons beside the old Adelaide Street School, by the light of the fire in the oil refineries. Dr. Frank T. Leys, of Detroit, tells of the burning of the old barracks which stood where Victoria Park is now located. Col. Charles Sullivan remembers the building of the Union School and the first train on the Great Western, from Hamilton to London. Thomas Jones tells about how one day, when he was in Miss M. Yates' room in school, George Small and Sol. Wright put red pepper on the stove. He says, "there was a hot time while the pepper lasted."

A game of baseball played on New Year's Day on the old cricket field is John Cousins' most distinct recollection. He also looks back upon the fight in Paul's lumber yard between George Scott and Gilbert Todd, and a game of cricket between the officers of the Royal Canadian Regiment and the citizens, in which the Rev. Mr. Johnson, then a teacher in the Union School, carried his bat for over three hundred runs—his score in one inning being larger than all the others combined. Louis Waterman speaks of the big fire at the Western

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR, 1903.

Hotel, facing the river, between Hamilton Road and the river, and the excitement after "Slippery Jack." Mr. Waterman saw the last public execution in London. The most vivid of H. C. McPhillips' memories are the old Bayly School, Court House Square as a play ground, and the old Court House, into which the small boys used to steal to hear the evidence of sensational trials.

Charlie J. Cowley, of Sarnia, has in mind the burning of Cruickshank's Cigar Store, on the corner of Richmond and Dundas streets, where the Grand Trunk Ticket Office now stands. He tells how Paddy Wallace used to stop men to work on the old "Phoenix" fire engine, and how on this occasion he was going to arrest the present Police Magistrate, Mr. Frank Love. Frank evidently thought better of it and went to work pumping the engine.

J. Orval Adams tells about Rast, Hessel bringing a big frog to school in his pocket. He and Hessel occupied back seats on the girls' side, and during prayers let the frog out so that it jumped from one girl's back to another. He says that probably some of the Old Boys will remember what happened to he and Hessel a little later.

"Do I remember any incidents?" asks Charlie Campbell. "Do I remember when A. Omond spanked our dignified Principal with his scribbler, thinking it was D. Arnott? Do I remember one of our present theologians arranging a row of pen points upon our mathematical master's chair? Do I remember what happened? Do I remember when—but no, I darn't write it—but I will tell you about it when I come home in August."

"The old drill shed, where the Collegiate Institute stands, is as vivid before my mind's eye as ever it was in reality," says Wm. A. Small, of Chicago. "If I lived to be a great-grandfather I shall never forget that Monday night when Walter Bartlett, Charlie Hyman, Tom Essery, Billy Ward, Tom Weston, and Frank Cooper, had on brand new suits of regimentals, and strutted up and down, and down and up, till Duff Evans' pet bantam died with envy. As I think of old times I feel like asking you to issue an extra number, just from my own recollections of my boyhood incidents at the old orchard, 'Salter's Grove,' the 'old barracks' and the 'cricket field with the stump fence,' but I can hear you say that 'Our space is limited,' so I will have to take the hint and try to forget instead of remember. At the same time please give me another line, so I can say I still have the marks left of what old Nick Wilson taught me. No wonder so many of the Old Boys have turned out so well, seeing how they were taught with the 'black ruler.' Oh, you do remember it, boys!"

W. H. W. Morgan, of Toronto, says to ask John Gillean if he remembers Louis Farrar jumping through a school window in preference to taking a thrashing from Mr. McMillan, now Deputy Minister of Education.

These and many more are what the Old Boys remember, but doubtless during the next few days when they get together and pass around the pipe of peace there will be many more stories told that never find their way into print. And, perhaps, after all, they are the ones that would prove the most interesting.

The Morning Star Base Ball Club

The Morning Star Base Ball Club, whose picture appears above, was an organization of the early 70's which will be remembered by many of London's older citizens. The personnel of the Club was as above. Of those who appear in the picture a number are still in this city. Alex. Fraser, the star player of the team, is now senior partner of the firm of Fraser & McMillan; George Hayes, the third from the left, standing, will be recognized as Major Hayes, the City Tax Collector; in Arthur Cooper, at the right-hand side of the picture, sitting down, will be found the familiar features of Mr. A. Cooper, of Cooper & Sanders, photographers; George Winslow, sitting in the seat next, is now book-keeper for Peter Birtwistle, while R. W. Kidner, standing at the right-hand side of the top row, is now holding a similar position with the City Gas Company. Charles Kidner, Mr. Kidner's brother, is living in the North West Territories. Frank Plympton, the captain, and Tom and Alf. Webster are dead.

The Club's favorite hour for practice was 4 a.m., at which hour they used to meet on the "common," now Victoria Park. At that time the ground was all stumps, and there were no trees there.

Old players tell of many stirring incidents in connection with this speedy organization. In the very first game they put up, at a tournament which was held at the time, they walloped the "Red Stockings" and won $25. "Bob" Kidner left-fielded and made a number of extremely swift plays, his catching several hot flies in one hand being particularly noticeable.

Prominent Old Boys.

HON. GEORGE W. ROSS was born in Middlesex county, near Nairn, on Sept. 14th, 1841, and received his early education in the Public Schools of the county. In 1871 he received the appointment of Public School Inspector for Lambton county, which position he held until 1872, when he began his Parliamentary career in the House of Commons as representative for West Middlesex. In 1883 he was appointed Minister of Education for Ontario in the late Sir Oliver Mowat's Cabinet, and some years later, on the retirement of Premier Hardy, succeeded to the latter's position, which he now holds. Mr. Ross retains many pleasant memories of little "London in the Woods."

DR. WM. SAUNDERS, Director of the Experimental Farm System of Canada, came to this country from Devonshire at the age of twelve. When nineteen he was in the drug business for himself, where he stayed until 1886, when he went to Ottawa to take up the work he is now at. Mr. Saunders is particularly fitted for his present position, having taken a great interest in the study of insects, chemistry and farming for many years. His son, W. E. Saunders, still carries on an outgrowth of the business that he established here.

CHRIS. FITZGERALD was born in Brockville, but came to London at an early age. He served in the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company as an operator until a strike occurred. From there he went to New York to work on the newspapers as a "penny-a-line" man. The excellence of his work attracted attention, and he was made Sporting Editor of the New York Sun, which position he held until he started the Woodbine Track in Toronto. He is now Starter for the New York Jockey Club and also the Crescent City Jockey Club of New Orleans.

ROBERT N. GRAVES, a son of O. B. Graves, was born in the city of New York, but lived in London until he was twenty years of age. He attended the old Union School with Barney McCann, George Davis, Jack McPherson and Bob Cowan. Leaving here, he went to New York again and entered the wall-paper manufacturing business, which he is still at. He was at one time Secretary-Treasurer of the Wall Paper Trust. He visits London very frequently, and would like to come back and make this his home.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR, 1903.

JAS. WILSON, Mayor of Goderich, was born in London 42 years ago; lived here for several years, but when young moved to Goderich; has but slight recollection of the town at that time, but knows it better now, visiting here very often; ten years ago was first elected to Town Council of Goderich; in 1900 was elected Mayor, and returned by acclamation in 1901; is interested in a number of manufacturing enterprises in Goderich.

REV. DR. POTTS, now of Toronto, was at one time connected with the old First Methodist Church on Queen's Ave., being assistant to the Rev. Rich. Jones. This was his first appointment. From there he went to Hamilton, Montreal, Toronto, and other places. Such is his popularity that he has served twice in most places where he has been. In 1878 he was granted the degree of D. D.; a staunch supporter of temperance, and now head of the Missionary Department of the Methodist Church.

R. W. SCOTT, General Agent for the Grand Trunk Railway at Portland, Me., was a Londoner for twenty years, and under certain conditions would like to return here to live. He went to school with Jack McPherson and M. H. Rowland. Mr. Scott is an energetic mover in all London Old Boy affairs in his city, and will in all probability revisit the old town during the 1903 re-union. He has many friends in London. He is a very successful railroad man.

H. KEILLOR, of Toronto, was a resident here for a number of years, and formed many intimate friendships. He has several relatives living in the city, and, were it possible to make satisfactory arrangements, would like to come back here to live. Since going to Toronto he has scored well, but still thinks there is no place like the Forest City in which to make one's home. Unfortunately his affairs will not permit of his adopting such a course at the present time.

W. H. WILSON, now of New York city, came to London at a very early age, and lived here for a number of years. He received his early education in the city, and then later worked for the Greene Mfg. Co., after which he entered the employ of D. S. Perrin & Co. as city salesman. Leaving them he went to New York city to accept a position with the United Cigar Stores Co. So successful has he been that he is now manager of their largest store, in the Flatiron Building.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR. 1903.

THOMAS REID, now of the firm of Rowell, Reid & Wood, of Toronto, was born and educated in London, and studied law here for some time with Jas. Magee; later he was a partner of the late Jno. Leys in Toronto and became solicitor for the Freehold Savings and Loan Co.; when that company amalgamated with the Canada Permanent he then became solicitor for them, resigning recently to attend more closely to his own business.

W. H. FARRELL was a resident of London for a number of years, and received the greater part of his education in this city at the old Union School. He has a host of friends and relatives still in the Forest City, and were it possible for him to make satisfactory business arrangements, would like nothing better than to be able to make his home here. He is now living in Toronto. He is an enthusiastic Old Boy, and takes an active interest in all affairs concerning London.

T. S. MINTON was a resident of London for a great many years, and during the latter part of his living here being associated in the dry goods business with A. B. Powell. Mr. Minton went from here to Toronto, where he engaged in insurance work. He says he thinks that London has progressed wonderfully lately, and that if he could do as well here, he would like to come back and make it his home. He was Clerk of the Village of London West for some years.

LIEUT. E. M. HARRIS, an old London boy, is now serving in the British army. A son of Mr. Geo. B. Harris, of Ridout Street; he was born here, and received his education in this city. After graduating in London, he went to the Royal Military College in Kingston, and from there joined the forces of King Edward. He is now a lieutenant in the 2nd Middlesex Battalion stationed in India, but is at present away from there on sick leave.

C. H. HUNTER was born and received his education in London; was accountant in Hellmuth & Ivey's office for a number of years; he then went to Toronto, where he was in the Toronto General Trust Company's offices, and then later resigned that position to accept that of accountant for the Featherbone Novelty Co., which position he now holds. Mr. Hunter has many warm friends in London, and, if possible, would like to make this his home.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR, 1903.

SAMUEL BARKER, M.P., city of Hamilton: studied law in office of H. C. R. Becher, A.C.; later became member of firm of Becher, Barker & Street; is a brother of Mrs. Sharman and Mrs. Bartram, city; for ten years was solicitor and general counsel of G. W. Ry. Co.; became general manager of N. & N. W. Ry. Co; reported upon G. T. Ry. Co. for directors and malcontent shareholders; was President Board of Trade, Hamilton, for two years.

WILLIAM MCGARVEY, of Gorlice, Austria, son of late Edward McGarvey, of this city, was educated here; engaged in oil business in Petrolea, where he was Mayor several years; Conservative candidate for West Lambton for House of Commons; been in Austria 20 years oil producing and refining, and has amassed great wealth; his daughter married Count Von Zipplin; Mrs. Dr. G. P. Westland, city, is his sister; he still holds large real estate interests in London.

E. PLUMMER, son of John Plummer, of the old firm of Plummer & Pacey, was born here in 1845. He took charge of B. A. Mitchell's retail drug store, and afterwards engaged in the retail drug business for himself. His health failing, he sold out his drug business to Mr. Oliver, and a few years afterwards moved to Detroit, Mich. In 1889 he identified himself with Parke, Davis & Co., of Detroit, Mich. He is now connected with the New York office.

J. H. FLOCK, Mayor of Blair City, Neb., is engaged in lumber and grain business; went to Central School with Jack and Fred. Carling, Will Moncreif, F. Jewell, and Dr. Nelles' sons; took an interest in politics four years ago, when he was elected Mayor of the city; is a cousin of J. H. and E. W. M. Flock, city; was married 17 years ago, and has travelled extensively through the States and Territories.

GEORGE T. BELL, Montreal, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of G. T. R. System. His mother, three sisters and two brothers still live here; worked in W. W. Fitzgerald's law office; then he went to the G. W. R. mileage office, then as private secretary to Wm. Edgar, Gen. Pass. Agent G.W.R., Hamilton. On amalgamation of G. W. R. and G. T. R. Systems went to Toronto as Chief Clerk, then to Montreal, then to Chicago; appointed to his present position four years ago.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR. 1903.

HON. JAS. H. ROSS, Dominion Government Commissioner to the Yukon Territory, was born and educated here; is a brother of Mrs. J. W. McIntosh; went to Manitoba in 1872, returned in 1876; captain of old Atlantic ball team, 1876-77; returned to Manitoba in 1881; elected to the first council of the Northwest Territories in 1883 and re-elected in 1885; resigned his seat in the Regina Assembly to accept present position.

DR. J. GEO. LAYTON, Cleveland, Ohio, has been away from London for 15 years; was an apprentice on the Advertiser, went to Kingston Whig office for three years; studied medicine in Cleveland, working on Evening Press during vacation; has been in general practice of medicine and surgery in Cleveland for six years; is past president of the London Old Boys Association of Cleveland, and responsible for an Association being formed.

WM. D. GILLEAN, of Montreal, son of James and brother of Thomas, Alex. and John Gillean, city; raised and educated here; worked in his father's stationery store with L. Carrie; left here for Montreal 36 years ago; there clerked for Angus, Logan & Co., paper manufacturers, now known as Canada Paper Co.; was sent to establish Toronto branch, and after placing business in good running order was recalled to Montreal to manage the company's affairs at head office.

F. A. H. FYSH, son of Hewitt Fysh, born and educated here; was in confectionery business with his father; married Miss Ida Williams here, 1891; went to Grand Rapids, Mich., 1893; later, book-keeper for Lederer, Strauss & Co., Des Moines, Ia.; spring, 1897, went prospecting for gold at Kotzebue Sound, Alaska, through Behring Straits; 1898, crossed the Divide (1,500 miles) with two dogs to Dawson City; there took position in Gold Commissioner Sinclair's office, and still holds it.

GEORGE BENNET, of Bennet Bros., school and church furniture; went to old Union School here; in 1888 left here for Glasgow, where he has since resided; married Miss Welch, of this city, who died January, 1901; his brothers, James and Charles, were also raised and educated here; another one, ex.-Ald. R. Bennet, Peter street, city, looks after the firm's extensive business in Canada. Since taking up residence in Glasgow, George has made several visits to the old town.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR. 1903.

REV. J. A. MORISON, of St. John, N. B., is a Canadian by birth. He was educated and is a graduate in Arts of McGill College. He took his Theological Course at the Presbyterian College at Montreal. Dr. Morison is Honorary President and Chaplain of the St. John Old Boys Association. He has been a good friend of the Londoners in that city ever since it was organized, and is extremely popular with all the members.

GEO. MOREHEAD, of New York city, is a brother of Miss Lizzie Morehead, of 154 Maple Street. Mr. Morehead, after a residence of thirty years in London, went to New York city, where he is now practising law at No. 99 Nassau Street. He went to school here with Henry Strong, Wm. A. Small, Duff Evans, Geo. M. Reid, Barney McCann and others, and says that he still retains many pleasant memories of the city where he spent his boyhood days.

JAMES H. HICKSON, of Cleveland, lived here for twenty-two years. He is now in the service of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway. Asked if he often visits London Mr. Hickson replies "once in a while." He went to school with Wm. Jones, George McCormick and S. W. Wright. He says he has many pleasant recollections of London, and, if he could make satisfactory arrangements, cannot think of any other place in which he would prefer to live.

THOMAS CARNEGIE, is a son of Mr. John Carnegie, formerly manager of the Bank of British North America in this city. Born in Paris, Mr. Carnegie came to London at the age of four years, and lived here for fourteen years. He is now manager of the New York office of Frederick Stern & Co., manufacturing pharmacists, and is doing well. Like all ex-Londoners, Mr. Carnegie still looks upon the Forest City as his home, despite his living in the metropolis of the States.

WILLIAM E. MULLINS, lived in London for twelve years, leaving here in 1897. He is now Superintendent of Transportation on the Central Vermont Railway, and is a resident of St. Albans, Vt. He says he would like to come back here to live, business conditions being equal. "Old friends are best." Mr. Mullins was connected with the Grand Trunk Railway during his stay in this city, and has still a host of warm friends, who are pleased to learn of his success in his present position.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR, 1903.

WILLIAM WHITE, of the prairie city of Winnipeg, is an Old Boy of whom Londoners should be very proud. He holds the responsible position of assistant to the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. As an old timer remarked recently "he is the Whitest man who ever left London,"—a bad pun perhaps, but certainly true enough in its meaning. Mr. White is Honorary President of the Winnipeg Old Boys Association.

DR. ORONHYATEKHA is almost too well known to require comment. Born on the Grand River Indian Reserve, near Brantford. He came to London at the age of thirty-four, and for fourteen years was a valued resident of this city. While here he organized the Independent Order Foresters. He is now Supreme Chief Ranger of the Order, and makes his home in the city of Toronto, where the head offices of the Society are located, in the Temple Building, corner of Richmond and Bay Streets.

DR. ALLEN MACKENZIE CLEGHORN, was born in London in 1872. He is M. D. C. M., Trinity University, Toronto; F. T. M. C., Trinity Medical College, Toronto; L. R. C. P., L. R. C. S., Edinburgh, 1893; late Medical Supt. of Toronto Home for Incurables, and also is the bearer of a number of other honors. Dr. Cleghorn is the author of a great many well-known medical books. Is a son-in-law of Lieut.-Col. Gartshore, and visits London occasionally.

The name of J. H. HOBBS, son of the late Dr. Hobbs, will recall to many the "penny readings" which used to be held in London. Mr. Hobbs always took an active part. He was born in the city, and lived here for a number of years, during part of which he was in the employ of Messrs. Smith & Chapman, hardware merchants. He visits London occasionally, and if he could arrange it, would like nothing better than to come back here to live.

GEORGE PRIMROSE, the well-known minstrel, has a reputation that is almost international. Was born in London, and for many years was one of the boys in the lower end of the Third ward. He went to school with many of London's leading citizens, all of whom retain pleasant memories of him. Even when here he showed signs of his future career, and took part in a number of amateur performances. Now living in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where he has a handsome residence.

LONDON OLD BOYS SOUVENIR, 1903.

J. THOMPSON is the popular energetic Secretary of the London Old Boys Association of Toronto. He was born and raised in London, and for many years was book-keeper for The Hobbs Hardware Co.; is now employed by the Independent Cordage Co.; has still many friends and relatives in London, and frequently visits them. He is a hard worker, and has done much to make the home coming from the city of Toronto a great success.

T. G. DAVEY is well and favorably known in London, having resided here for many years, and was Manager of the Railroad News Co., also publisher of the Railroad Bulletin; now the organizer for the Independent Order of Foresters. He is a prominent figure in the sporting clubs, being one of Canada's "crack shots," a good curler, and a general all round sport; has a host of friends in this city; frequently comes to London. 8—J. T. COLTON, of the postal department, is brother of Mrs. J. C. McAulay, 159 John Street. He prefers living in Manitoba.

9—THOS. WM. TAYLOR, President of the J. W. Taylor Co. He says Winnipeg is good enough for him.

10—ALEX. CAMPBELL, better known as "Sandy," manufacturing chemist for Martin, Bole & Wynne Co. His family reside here.

St. Thomas and Ottawa.

1—DR. FRED. GUEST, of St. Thomas, lived seven years in London. Some of the old boys with whom he went to school are Dr. Ben Bayly, Tom Duff, and Jed Vining.

2—W. H. OKE, resided in London twenty-eight years. Five years ago he went to St. Thomas, where he is now manager of the Semi-Ready Clothing Company.

3—CHAS. H. FARMER, a passenger engineer on the Wabash, is a brother of Wm. Farmer, of the London Soap Works. Would like to live in London if he could do as well.

4—CHAS. W. REGAN, in the boot and shoe business in St. Thomas, lived in London until twenty-one. His father's family live on Central Ave. Asked if he would like to come back here to live, Mr. Regan says "Sure."

5—ARTHUR ARNUM, running on the Wabash, a brother of Mrs. Wm. Walton, of 225 Maitland Street, is another Old Boy who would like to return to London.

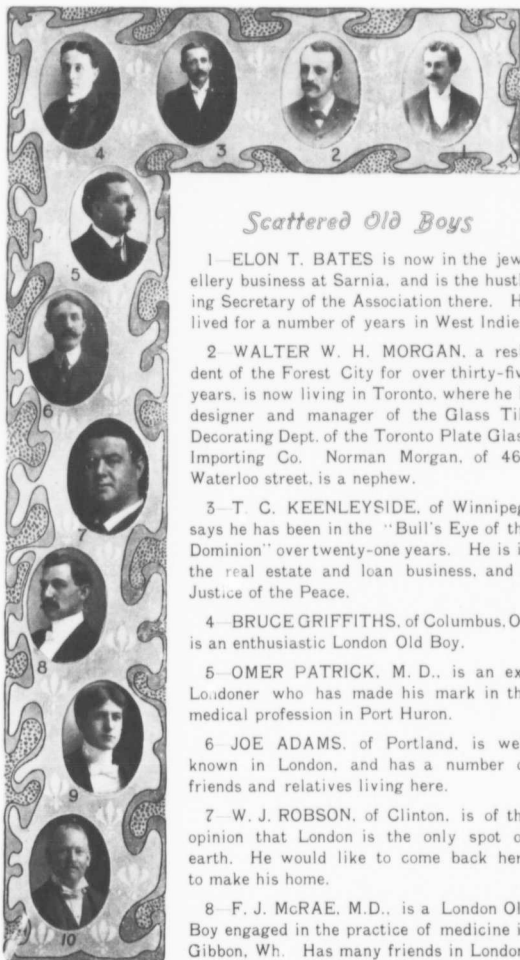

6—JAS. GILES, now running on M. C. R. as engineer, says that he would like to come back to London to live.

7—JAS. A. BLACK, also on the Wabash, lived in London for seventeen years. His family still reside here. Visits London often.

8—FRANK J. PLANT, a son-in-law of Mr. H. T. Smith, L. S. R., came to London at six years of age. Three years ago he went to Ottawa. He is in the Dept. of Labor.

9—MICHAEL POWELL, son of Michael Powell, 644 King Street. Lived here for twenty years. Working in Gov. Ptg. Bureau, Ottawa.

10—CHAS. F. COLWELL came to London in 1866. In 1898 he moved to Ottawa. Is Clerk of Routine Records in House of Commons.

Scattered Old Boys

1—ELON T. BATES is now in the jewellery business at Sarnia, and is the hustling Secretary of the Association there. He lived for a number of years in West Indies.

2—WALTER W. H. MORGAN, a resident of the Forest City for over thirty-five years, is now living in Toronto, where he is designer and manager of the Glass Tile Decorating Dept. of the Toronto Plate Glass Importing Co. Norman Morgan, of 464 Waterloo street, is a nephew.

3—T. C. KEENLEYSIDE, of Winnipeg, says he has been in the "Bull's Eye of the Dominion" over twenty-one years. He is in the real estate and loan business, and a Justice of the Peace.

4—BRUCE GRIFFITHS, of Columbus, O., is an enthusiastic London Old Boy.

5—OMER PATRICK, M. D., is an ex-Londoner who has made his mark in the medical profession in Port Huron.

6—JOE ADAMS, of Portland, is well known in London, and has a number of friends and relatives living here.

7—W. J. ROBSON, of Clinton, is of the opinion that London is the only spot on earth. He would like to come back here to make his home.

8—F. J. McRAE, M. D., is a London Old Boy engaged in the practice of medicine in Gibbon, Wh. Has many friends in London.

9—H. LYONS HUNT, M. D., is a resident of New York City. London would be good enough for him if business would permit.

10—GEORGE CLARK, of Toronto, is a London Old Boy whose genial face will be well remembered by many.

DEAR SIR,—Sorry I had no time to sit for photo. Gossett, Chicago's best cartoonist, sketched me a few minutes ago—also the cow. I send them to you under separate cover. It's only fair to say that the cow, as I remember her, flatters the picture very much.

Yours in haste,

J. B. DIGNAM.

A Letter from J. B. Dignam.

DEAR SIR,—This in reply to yours of May, the 26th, which was awaiting my return to Chicago, after an absence of a week or more.

If a short write-up of my life would in your opinion be of any interest to the readers of the 1903 Old Boys Souvenir, I am very willing to supply you with some reliable data. I regret that the blank enclosed in yours above referred to was not large enough to permit me to use it, and I will therefore answer your questions in the order in which they appear thereon.

Regarding a photograph, it is so long since I had one taken that I have almost forgotten how I look myself. True, I could send you one of those taken back in 1812, but think it a little bit out of date.

To answer your questions then, I beg to inform you my name is Dignam—D-I-G-N-A-M, Jabez Dignam; the former pronounced so as it rhymes with Suez. The "B" that I have been using for some years was only a bluff, and as there were already sufficient bluffs in Chicago, I dropped it, and am getting well used to using it in its present shape by this time.

I was born in London Township. Any early survey of Mr. Freeman Talbot will show the exact spot in red ink. I cannot give you the concession, range and lot, but can give you directions so that you and your readers will have no difficulty in finding it: Go north on Adelaide street till you come to a tamarack swamp on the left hand side of the road—there is a tall red cow standing in a corner, and during fiv time she is kept very busy; turn to the left after passing the cow and the swamp, and go about three-quarters of a mile west and you will come to a red brick cottage, very nicely situated in the centre of a large orchard. This cottage is where, I am informed, I first saw the light of day.

I was removed to London as soon after the event above referred to as it was possible to move me. It appears to me that this was along in 1866, but to be exact you had better look up some old files of the "Herald and Prototype," which I believe gave at the time considerable space in making mention of the fact.

I lived in London continuously from my arrival there until the fall that Hyman's tannery was burned, excepting one week each year which I spent at the Western Fair Grounds up on Richmond street.

Regarding my present occupation, I beg to state that I am putting in my time teliing my daughter stories of London and vicinity. I have told her of Jimmy Gibson, the liliputian grain buyer, whose lack of height did not prevent him from climbing the highest wagon-load of grain before it reached the market-place; of Prof. William Henry Moorehead, whose weather prognostications always came true, though frequently a little behind or ahead of time; of Carter Wagner, whose claim to distinction lay in a pair of immense feet and the fact that Billy Emerson, the famous minstrel performer, married his daughter; of Dummy McGeary, whose refusal to let the boys into the Lacrosse grounds without depositing the necessary admission fee with the man at the box-office did not prevent them from crawling under the fence before the game had got well along; of Old Man Barnes, whose palsied hand used to pass out taffy, in exchange for pennies, to the boys of the Old Union School; of Robert Soule, his successor, whose taffy was not nearly so good (and by the way I have tasted none since then that can compare with it); of Dan Collins, the obese ice-man, and his mammoth dining hall on the fair grounds; of old John Williams, the bell-man, who used to cry the auction sales for those who had goods to sell; of William Williams, who drove his dray as religiously as he marched in the procession of Orangemen on the Twelfth day of July; of Bouquet Benson, and the trouble he had in keeping the London girls from falling in love with him; of Peter McCue, the hump-back jeweler, who squandered what I then considered an immense fortune in drink; of Bob Manly, the irrepressible; of Tom Wastie, the greatest fire chief of his time; of Paddy Wallace, of whom I stood in awe long years after I should have known better; of John Plummer, the great ball player; of Frank Cornish, the most strenuous mayor that London ever had; of Billy Hunter and Harry Salter, and numerous other people whom I knew in my boyhood days. Notwithstanding the material I had to draw from, I am forced to admit that some time ago I ran out of facts and have been drawing on my imagination very largely since then, and I hope that in years to come she will look on the stories that I have told her as fairy tales, for a good many of them would not bear a very thorough investigation.

Have I any relations in London? Well, relations is our family's long suit. If there are any relations anywhere in London that didn't belong to us it was surely an oversight on our part. We literally had relations to burn. Go into Westminster; go into London Township; go into Delaware; go any direction from London and ask the first Methodist minister you meet if he isn't a relation of mine, and if he isn't he has become some other person's relation since I left London. If every resident of your city had as many relatives as I had, the population of Middlesex County would make Cook County, Illinois, look very small in comparison.

I presume I have forgotten but very few of the boys who went to school with me, but standing out prominently from all others I might mention Johnnie Galena, Paddy Ryan, Dan Collins, and Mike Ward, as a quartette of all-round good fellows who could take their own part against fearful odds.

I have a look at London about once a year, from the rear end of a train as it passes through. Only once have I visited there since leaving it.

Under certain conditions I would consider a proposition to return to London to reside: Reorganize the old Forest City Band; give Berk. Chadwick his yellow clarinet that was always a half a tone sharp; give Dunk Summers his brass cornet that was, to say the least, a little bit eccentric in tone ; give Jim Nicholson the big drum and the same old sticks he used to use, and it is me for London on the first train, and "I don't care if I never come back."

Regarding some incident of my boyhood that would be of interest I have but one, but it was a continuous performance, and I believe the first continuous performance show ever given.

My entire boyhood was spent in keeping track of mother's cow. This animal was the most distant creature I ever heard of ; she overcame distance in a way that makes the time of the Empire State Limited a funeral procession in comparison. To her it was but the space of a moment's time from Philips' Flat on the north branch to Hunt's Flat on the south branch of the River Thames, and at that she always had time to go by way of Jerry McDonald's Riverside Resort and the Dew Drop Inn. From June till August I always worked overtime in trying to keep up with the cow, but it was a queer summer when she didn't give me the slip and be gone for a week or ten days. When she returned, however, we were always certain to find her bringing a tall red calf with very thin legs along with her, and there was rejoicing in the house of Dignam when she came back.

I sincerely regret that I have taken up so much space in going into this subject, but my feelings got rather the best of me, and I could not deny myself the privilege of going into this matter thoroughly.

I believe that I was pretty well posted on London in general when I resided there, and if there is any subject on which I have failed to touch it is more than likely that it has happened since I left.

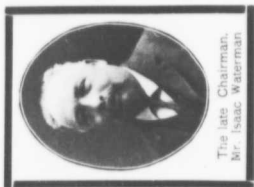

With best wishes, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly, JABEZ DIGNAM.

The Annie Pixley Mausoleum

The grandest thing in Woodland Cemetery is the Annie Pixley Mausoleum. Annie Pixley was a favorite Canadian actress. For years before her death her darling boy had slept here. It was to the sweet woman of the stage the dearest place on earth. In loving memory, her husband, Robert Fulford, raised this pile of marble and granite, and it encloses, in a costly urn, the ashes of his wife. The mausoleum is built upon a prominent knoll, surrounded by a large plot of graded lawn. The superstructure is of Stanstead granite. The inner lining is marble. Two large granite slabs are the roof. The basement is fitted with catacombs. The window openings are filled with memorial designs by European artists. Two arch niches protected by bronze grilles are provided for incinerary urns, and a marble bust of the late Master Tom Fulford occupies a central position. The tomb is surmounted in front by three lifesize statues in granite, representing Victory, Music, and Drama.

ALBION HOTEL

JACOB OBERNESSER

PROPRIETOR

ONE of the most popular places in the city wherein to regale the wants of the inner man is the one conducted by Jacob Obernesser, known as the Albion Hotel. The premises occupied at 157 Dundas Street, Phone 705, are embraced in a modern three-story building, the sample room being nicely fitted up with the most tasty and elegant appointments, and stocked with the choicest wines, liquors, imported and domestic cigars. Mr. Obernesser established his business two years ago, and at present has a patronage second to none in London. But it is not alone in the elegance of the appointments and the high quality of goods that this house excels, but more should be attributed to the high general qualities of the proprietor, Mr. Obernesser. He is very popular in the business, and has a host of friends in the social world, while personally he is regarded as an influential citizen. He well merits the esteem of his patrons for his prompt and careful attention.

The advertisement is a vertical, ornate design. At the top is a rectangular illustration of a large, leafy tree. Below this is a large circular frame containing a detailed illustration of a multi-story building with a central tower. The text 'COLLEGE' is written in an upward-curving arc above the circle, and 'FOREST CITY BUSINESS' is written in a downward-curving arc below it. On either side of the central circle are two smaller circular portraits of men. At the bottom of the advertisement are two more circular portraits of men, one on each side. The entire design is enclosed in a decorative border with floral and scrollwork motifs. The names of the individuals are printed in small boxes next to their respective portraits.
