Shortly before his death, twelve unpretending Anglo-Saxons, conceived and executed a mission among their benighted brethren in Germany. Thus did the Anglo-Saxons, within two-hundred years, nobly repay their debt to Rome, by carrying the light of a new and better faith into the lands their forefathers left. Thus, Germany, Austria and many adjacant countries, first owed their knowledge of a highter dawn to the Anglo-Saxon.

rical Battles-Noteworthy Events in the Story of the Creation of the British Empire.

Alexandria, 1801.

The victory was with the English, and Alexandria was won. By eight in the morning the French were repulsed in all quarters, but its splendour was clouded by the fall of Sir Ralph Abercombie. At what precise period of the battle the fatal bullet struck him is unknown. General Stewart, of Garth, who was present, appears in his history to fix it about the time of the desperate charge made by the enemy's cavalry.

Some time after his encounter with the two dragoons, he attempted to alight from his horse. A soldier, seeing that he had a difficulty in dismounting, assisted him, and asked if he should follow with the horse; but the general replied that he would require it no more that day. Firmly and steadily, betraying no symptom of pain, the fine old soldier passed along the line of Stewart's brigade; and soon it became known that a musket-ball had entered his groin, when he was seen to lie down

Sir Ralph Abercombie was carried on board of Lord Keith's ship, the Foudroyant, where he died on the 27th of March, 1801, in the 68th year of his His remains were conveyed to Malta, and there interred, in the Commandery of the Grand Master, beneath the Castle of St. Elmo.

Thus the Gazette of the day, says "Abercrombie's memory will be recorded in the annals of his country, will be sacred to every British soldier, and be embalmed in the memory of a grateful posterity." His widow was created Baroness Abercrombie, of Aboukir. His eldest son succeed to that peerage; and another in later years, was created Lord Dunfermline.

Summing up the Result.

The total loss of the British at the battle of Alexandria was 1,306 rank and file, with 70 offiers, killed, wounded, or missing. Eight of the staff-five holding the rank of general—were in this

The loss of the French was 3,000 men, including their distingushed cavalry general also two other generals, who I not stay." were mortally wounded.

When the English captured Alexandria, it was found that the garrion of 12,000 men had been reduced to eat horse flesh.

The other division of the French "Army of the East," which was regarded with the deeped and the most watchful interest by all the nations of Europe, surrendered at Cairo. The suffered the most terrible humilation, by being beaten out of possession of any part of Egypt.

In enforcing the duty that Christian citizens should actively oppose corruption in municiple politics, and not wait for some providential and external deliverance, Dr. Parkhurst, of New York, made a new and quite unexpected application of a verse from Proverbs "The wicked flee when no man pur-sueth, but they make better time when some one is after them."

Bad Habits Have Strong Roots.

The first was just beginning to peep above the ground, the second had rooted itself pretty well into the earth, the third was a small shrnb, whilst the fourth and last was a full-size tree. Young Men's Best Opportunities For Successful Careers are to be Found in

If the young men of the present day who are starting out in life would combat the modern tendency to go to the great center of population, and cast their lines in some of the smaller cities it would be better for the country and it would be better for them, writes Edward W. Bok in the October Ladies' Home Journal. I know of no young man whom I envy more to-day than he who, having energy and ability has the wisdom and the determination to remain in one of these smaller cities, business career with any sort of prospective success. The happiest kind of a life is before him. With a more limited field before him than in a vaster and to him more meaningless city, he can concentrate his efforts and cement his connections in a way that is impossible in a large city, with honest dealing as his watchword every step he takes is noticed. Every advance counts just so much for him. He is in direct touch with the people who make up the life of his community; his acts are known of all men. He grows with the community, and in time becomes part of its best life, and the degree of his success depends entirely upon his own efforts and opportunities.

It is a very lamentable fact that, while in most civilized countries the cry "nard times" goes up, the drink bill of the people remains practically undiminished. "Oppressed Ireland" spends more in buying drink than in paying rent. An American contemporary tells a similar tale. About $400,000,000, a year go into the saloon from the hard-earned wages of the workingmen of the United States. The problem of "hard times" would be much easier of solution if workingmen boycotted the saloon.

Feeling that he must get well at any cost he had his old doctor brought from Chester to his relief, but he was un able to do anything for him. He tried many kinds of medicine hoping to receive benefit but to no avail. Being determined not to die without a struggle he had doctors summoned from Halifax, but still continued to get worse. About three years ago he took to his bed and his case developed into bone and muscle rheumatism of the worst type. It spread through all his bones, up into his neck and into his arm, causing partial peralysis of that limb, rendering it utterly useless since he could not lift it above his waist. All the strength left his muscles, and he was unable to turn in bed without aid He was able to stand upon his feet, but could not walk. Still the doctors wait ed upon him and still he took the medicines, but with no beneficial result During this time Mr. Corkum paid ou several hundred dollars in hard cash for doctor's bills and medicine, all of which did him not one particle of good. I had just taken a long look at her, and was hearing murmurs of admiration all round me, when Sir Reginald turns round and says:

"Why, hear is dear Mrs. Neighbour! Dorothy, I have told you all about her. Neighbour, I am delighted to see you say again." and he put out his hand and shook mine in a grip that did my heart good. "You see I have taken your advice and very sound advice it was. I want to intreduce you and Lady Dorothy to one another; and I hope you will be good friends. She is one of the family now, Neighbour, so I am sure you will receive her with open arms!"

For event hen they used to tease me about being so much wrapped up in the family; but I suppose it was born in me, for my father and mother had always been like it themselves.

And then to my great surprise, for thefamily, with all their kindness had a dignified way with them we all admired and liked, this lovely young creature came straight up to me, her hands out, her sweet face all in a glow of delight (for she had been enchanted by the reception they had had, and was as please do ver it as a child) and gave me a kiss before them all, crying in her clear vice, he a silver bell—

"You dear old thing, I am so glad to see you! Rex has told me such a lot about you; and I want you to wait one and do everything for me, because I know you will tell me things and help me to do what I ought in this big place."

I was quite flustered-like by being so honored, and wondered how the master would take it; but Sir Reginald he stood by smiling and he put his hand on Lady Dorothy's shoulder and said:

Verily, the doughfaces are not all dead yet, otherwise the dignity of the English and the Canadian governments would have been better safeguarded.

WEST INDIAN TRADE.

In our September issue we attempted to shew the importance of trade with the West Indies, the small share which Canada has in it, and the principles which ought to be followed in endeavouring to increase the volume of our transactions with our fellow colonists. We have now to discuss the manner of applying these principles, and draw some conclusions as to the probable results of doing so. In carrying out the policy of prefer ential trade within the Empire it is very likely that, when considering the if at the same time the prospect of the question of a reduction of the duties on our imports from the British West Indies, the conclusion would soon be reached that half measures were not desirable, and that, since no Canadian industry would be likely to suffer, the duties with few exceptions should be abolished altogether. One of the most obvious exceptions would, of course, be peded by any duties whatever. rum, which case would have to be looked at from a different standpoint. Apart from this, the free importation occasion the following losses in our importations from other countries in such articles as oranges, arrowroot, ginger, spices, etc. To this would have to be added the loss of half a cent per pound, a recently imposed duty, on 30,841,025 lbs. of raw sugar brought from British Guiana and the West Indies. This would amount to $154,-206 and the total loss of revenue might be taken at about $250,000. This deficiency might be made up by imposing duties on those free goods of tropical growth which are now imported from other countries than those of production. The following statement is given as an example of what might be done in this direction :-

Duty on 482205 bunches bananas at 2c.. $9644 10 889918 pine apples at 2c. 167752 cwt. asphaltum at 20c. 248682 lbs. cacao nibs, etc.... 90641 70 Total.....$239414 47

This sum does not quite reach what is required to make up the deficiency, and no doubt the above quantities would diminish as the direct trade increased, and the revenue above estimated be correspondingly decreased. In this case an increase of the duty on raw sugar from foreign countries would

It was with the greatest reluctance that the representatives of Jamaica, who pondence relative to the commercial arrangement negotiated in 1891-2. All this tends to strengthen the view that tariff questions in the British West Indies must at present be in a very unsettled state; that the feeling towards the United States cannot be a very favourable one, that the necessity for obtaining additional revenue is pressing, and that the raising of this by considerable duties on the products of the United States and other countries would very likely be undertaken establishment of free trade with Canada were assured. The probable result would be that a uniform tariff would be adopted in all the West Indian Colonies, that this would in the main correspond with that now in force in Canada, while commerce between all the American colonies would be unim-

We print in another column Mr. Chamberlain's recent speech on Great Britain's relations with her Colonies. It forms another link in the chain of evidence which goes to prove that that subject is now occupying the attention of the Salisbury Government. To Imperial Federationists Mr. Chamberlain's utterances must be very gratifying. At a time when proposals have been made to abandon altogether the distinctive name of "Imperial Federation," it is revived by a leading member of the Imperial cabinet and characterized as on the English-speaking race, and lowing lodges were represented: Wollast Friday evening and is visiting his as the "sort of dream" which some how or other eventually becomes real-7460 46 ised.

At a recent meeting of representatives from the Winnipeg lodges, held in that city, it was not deemed expedient to offer any recommendation for a change in the present constitution. CORRESPONDENCE.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the ANGLO-SAXON: DEAR SIR,-Kindly allow me space to correct a report referring to Grosvenor Lodge in "Rambler's Notes" of October issue. Your correspondent charges the lodge not to be selfish, etc. Owing to the smallness of our lodge room we are unable to send a general invitation to all the lodges at one time, because our room and not our hearts would be unable to give the necessary accommodation. As a matter of fact we had visitors from Brittanic, Excelsior and Monarch, also sailors from H. M. S. Canada, and any brother whe visits Grosvenor can always be assured of a hearty welcome.

I may say we are busy at work arranging to have a dinner on the 12th of December, to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the establishing of the Order in Quebec, also the 21st anniversary of the founding of the Order in Canada. We hope to make a big suecess of the undertaking. With best wishes for the prosperity of the paper, I am, fraternally,

Owing to the prevalence of typhoid fever and other sickness during this summer the demands upon the funds of the lodge have been greater than usual, but I am also happy to state that our financial standing is better than ever. After putting in a week on shore enjoying the fruits and scenery of the tropical region of the island of Madeira, the good ship Nautilas weighed her anchor, and proceeded on her mission, which was looking out

FOR SLAVERS.

Passing Cape Coast Castle, the good ship stood steadily on down the the Gulf of Guinea, heading for the Bight of Benin. Her captain's orders were to cruise about here, keeping a sharp look-out for anything in the shape of suspicious craft. The plan for obtaining the 'black ivory' was for the slaver's skipper to contract with either one of the native chiefs or tribal kings of Dahomey or Ashantee, or else with some of the Arab slave-dealers. The rascals acted as middlemen in the transaction, bringing together the skipper and the African potentate, and taking care, meanwhile, to get the greater part of the profit on such dealings for themselves.

Two or three weeks passed slowly by. The heat was tremendous, though as yet there was, fortunately, no sign of sickness amongst the officers or crew. One or two small schooners had been carefully watched, and a brig forced to heave to. This latter had undergone a rigorous search, but all in vain. Not a vestige of slave 'sign' had been discovered.

The wearyness and inactivity of the of the crew were broken by abserving a native being paddled off to the ship containing in the stern sheets an extraordinary individual, whose dress, one way and another, showed all the varied hues of the rainbow. A straw pagodashaped hat, such as is commonly worn on the Malays, was jauntily perched on this gentleman's wool; an ordinary blue necktie, like those worn by Europeans, adorned his throat; a discarded military tunic, with nearly all the buttons off, covered his body and practically completed his attire, for, with the exception of a small waist-cloth, his lower limbs were bare of everything except two brass rings around his ankles. He was evidently, at least in his own eyes, a person of some importance, and he tried to show it by yelling commands, more or less ridiculous, at his rowers directly he thought himself within earshot of the ship.

When his boat got alongside, he informing the Lieutenant that he wished thsee the Captain, he introduced himself to the group of officers in whose midst he found himself. He said that he was General the Reverend Doctor Colonel Williams, the latter evidently being a name he had picked up somewhere amongst the English colony, and added that he was 'the Reverend' of all the African troops—he meant the 'General,' but, having so many titles, he got a little mixed up with them. He also said that he 'much had berry big news if the ship-master would buy from him,' a remark which excited the eager interest of all his listeners, but he declined to afford the slightest hint of what that news might be about. Then word his Reverence the General Colonel and Doctor all rolled into one.

Speculation was rife as to what business it was that had brought the coloured gentleman on board, and many were the guesses given on the subject.

In a quarter of an hour's time the owner of the multifarious titles again appeared on deck, and was escorted to the ship's side. Without condescending to anything more in the shape of farewell than a patronising nod to the little group of officers through which he strode, 'the Reverend Ebony,' as they had nicknamed him, went down the gangway steps to get into his boat again. At the foot of them stood one of the quartermasters, respectfully holding the great man's boat for him. As 'Ebony' stooped down to get in, it must be admitted that he presented a most enticing target from the ship, and at that critical moment the deftlyaimed missile, discharged from a peashooter, stung him up so sharply that, without stopping to think who the real offender could be, he struck the astonished quartermaster a tremendous crack over the head. The next moment, forgetful of the many and highsounding titles, and exalted rank of the Shakespeare. striker, all the blood of the British seaman boiling within him, the bronzed and bearded quartermaster let out his fist, and catching the Reverend General Colonel and Doctor full on the nose, knocked him backwards, and souse into the water beside his own boat.

Although the whole affair had occupied far less time than it takes in the relation, Master O'Connor had been the art of God. Sir Thomas Browne.

able, after his well-aimed shot, to put into a safe hiding-place in his coat pocket the pea-shooter, and then mix with the others, who, looking over the ship's side, had witnessed what all thought to be the unprovoked assault upon the quartermaster, and that worthy's sharp retaliation. Three or four of them ran down the steps, and, assisted by the boat-paddlers, the spluttering and indignant Ebony' was hauled out of the water and placed in his own craft. Gesticulating like a mad monkey, and thumping his rowers on the head more furiously than ever, he was rapidly taken away towards the shore.

Of course the occurrence had to be reported to the captain, and although, in his heart he fully sympathised with the quartermaster, still for the sake of example and maintenance of that discipline without which the safety of every ship would be in jeopardy, he ordered him to be put under arrestbut a few hours afterwards he found a pretext for releasing and returning him to his duty.

After this matter had been disposed of, the captain held a council of war in his cabin, with the first and second lieutenants. To them he unfolded the story told him by his African visitor.

It seemed that this fellow had been in the slave-trade himself: that some dispute had arisen between himself and his fellow-scoundrels-for there were about half a dozen of them in partner-is what you say, you can have your price as soon as you like-but not a brass button till then.

So, after a slight demur, Mr. Ebony had told him all he knew himself, and he left the cabin saying that he would come on board again to claim his reward in three or four days, or so soon as he saw the slaver had been taken.

After a long discussion between the Captain and officers, it was settled that we should drop quietly down to Lagos, and there await the progress of events. They got up steam and proceeded at about half-speed down to their point of destination, arriving there soon after

It was a little after midnight. A refreshing breeze was coming off the land. The officer of the watch was leaning lazily over the bulwarks and looking shorewards, when something caught his eye and made him hastily snatch up his night-glasses and caze earnestly through them. By their aid he could just make out a dark-looking schooner coming from the shelter of the shore and sailing very fast, with was passed from below that Captain every stitch of canvas spread to catch Smart would see the African potentate the fair wind she had with her. In less in his cabin at once, and down went than two minutes the Captain had been apprised, and in very light attire he appeared on deck. Str c; silence was enjoined on everybody, but orders were quietly issued to the chief engineer, at the same time to be in readiness.

'We must give this fellow a bit of start,' mutterd the Captain. 'If we alarm him before he is well out to sea, he will run into shallow water, or back again to where he came from, and then we shall lose him as sure as eggs are eggs. All right, my beauty,' he continued, looking after the dark schooner as she glided through the water, 'keep your course, just as you're going now, and I'll wring your neck for you by the morning.'

After waiting impatiently for wha he considered the requisite time, Captain Smart shut up his glasses with a snap, and gave the orders to 'turn her ahead.'

The Biggest Dollar's Worth in Canada.

The biggest dollar's worth in Canada certainly is the FAMILY HERALD AND WEEKLY STAR, of Montreal. There has not been a day during the past twenty vears when this could not be said; but it is doubly true now for this magnificent paper has been enlarged to sixteen pages of eight columns each and new features have been added, making it incomparably the biggest and best weekly in the world. Sixteen pages of eight columns each means 128 columns a week or nearly seven thousand columns a year—equal to the contents of about one hundred large volumes, and every column is jammed full from the first line to the last with reading that is intensely interesting and from the first line to the last with reading that is intensely interesting and valuable. Farmers, dairymen and stock-growers, for instance, who read it, say that the 'Family Herald' of Montreal repays its cost one hundred fold every year; the housewives say the same thing and so on with all its readers. To take it once is to take it always. Everybody should see the 'Family Herald' in its enlarged form; it is a credit to the country and Canadians should be proud of it.

Every subscriber to the 'Family Herald' is insured for five hundred dollars against railway accidents free of cost.

TORONTO BRETHREN FULL OF ACTIVITY.

PERSONAL.

Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, D. D., Centre Toronto, was united in marriage on Saturday, October 12th, by the Revd. W. Johnston, to Elizabeth B., fourth daughter of the late W. T. Salter, St. John's, Newfoundland. We wish the doctor and his wife long life and every happiness.

THE 21ST ANNIVERSARY.

The celebration of the coming of age of the Sons of England, on December 12th, promises to be a great success, as far as Toronto is concerned. After much cogitation and numerous committee meetings of the delegates from served during the evening. Bro. H. the various city lodges, all of which are represented and are working heartily and amicably for one end-the success of the undertaking. The various sub-committees have made all due arrangements, and the cost of the entertainment has been laid down in a most satisfactory manner, it now rests with the members to push the sale of tickets and make the function a great success The programme arranged is a and conversazione, the concert to be held in the auditorium, Shaftesbury Hall. A large array of talent has already been engaged. The afternoon will be devoted to the Juveniles, when stereoscopic views will be displayed, entitled a "Trip to England," concluding with Punch and Judy as given at the late Toronto Exhibition. All the juvenile lodges will be invited; members' children also will be admitted upon pre sentation of ticket. The entertainment will be free to juniors. The whole of the Shaftesbury Hall will be devoted to the occasion in the evening; the Parlor will be reserved for refreshments. Dancing will be indulged in in the St. James' Hall, under the auditorium, to the strains of Bro. Wellwood's string band. The whole of the lodge rooms will be thrown open for promenade, card parties and various other games.

WEST TORONTO JUNCTION.

The twenty-first anniversary will be celebrated by Worcester Lodge, No. 47, on Monday, November 25th, in Kilburn Hall, West Toronto Junction, when a grand |concert will be held, with Bro. Geo. Clatworthy, S.G.P., in the chair. Amongst the large array of talent engaged we notice W. E. Ramsay, the celebrated humorist, who is a host in himself. The concert will commence at 8 o'clock, and tickets can be had from Bros. J. Jolly, W. Wilcox, W. Harris, E. Ward, J. Penrice, Geo. Winkworth, C. Toppin, T. Bloor, E. Blundall, J. Raybould, A. Lawr, P. Langhton, Geo. Howarth and G. H. Kimmis, sec. of com. A plan of the hall is at J. F. Holden's Medical Hall, Dundas street, where seats can be re

ATTRACTIVE AND SOCIABLE.

Several of the Toronto lodges propose, during the coming winter, making the meetings more attractive and sociable. York Lodge inaugurated the eason on Thursday, October 17th when Commercial Lodge paid a fraternal visit. The members, numbering some twenty-five, were headed by Bro. H. Perks, W.P., and received a most hearty greeting by Bro. H. Aisthorpe, acting president, on behalf of the lodge. The programme was under the direction of Bro. H. T. Lane, which position he most worthily filled. The music, which was of a high class, was rendered by Bros. J. F. Race, (The British Lion); J. Baylis, (Sailing); H. Perks, (Tommy Atkins); Bro. Bullock, (Three Beggars). Bros. J. Vorke Brown and Sam Jones, gave a scene from Julius Cæsar, which was much applauded.

A BRILLIANT ADDRESS.

Bro. Dr. J. S. King, P.S.G.P., who was the guest of the evening, in re sponse to an invitation from the chairman for a speech, said that he was proud to have sprung from an old English stock, and he was also proud to be a member of the S. O. E. society. The meeting to-night showed a feeling between sister lodges which should be largely cultivated. After listening to the song "Jolly Jack," rendered by Bro. Fred Warrington, and noticing the auspices of Lodge Prince Albert, re-kindling eyes and enthusiasm displayed cently. Bro. J. W. Cuddlipp, D.D.,

ENGLAND WOULD ALWAYS BE SUPREME on the briny ocean. The sentiment of the song was one of the noblest he had ever heard, ittended to the uplifting of humanity, and no man could listen to it without feeling a deep and loyal love for his country, which had done so much for freedom. The Englishman is cosmopolitan, if he is a good true man. All will honor an English heritage which is better than any other heritage. There is one thing we can all unite upon, loyalty for our country and the reign under which we live-Queen Victoria, the noblest of women. The worth y doctor thanked the brethren for their kind invitation and the opportunity of meeting them.

Bro. T. R. Skippon, P.S.G.P., acted as chairman in his usual happy manner. Bro. H. T. Lane, (York Lodge) had the management of the proceed irgs, which he carried out in a most admirable manner, to the satisfaction of all present. Refreshments were a hearty invitation to the members to God Save the Queen.

LODGE GATHERINGS.

Lodge Commercial, No. 200, held their usual meeting on Saturday, Nov. 2nd, in Shaftesbury Hall, Bro. H. Perks, W.P., in the chair. Two new members were admitted. An important amendment to the constitution was moved and carried re Beneficiary Department, page 132, clause 36, fourth line, after the word department, to insert the following words, "after the expiration of 30 days."

A large number of members of York Lodge returned the fraternal visit mentioned in a previous paragraph, and at the conclusion of business an agreeable evening was spent in song and recitation, to which Bro. J. F. Race, Bullock, J. F. Scott, H. Perks, J. Yaske, Brown, Jones, (Middlesex) and others contributed. A fife band enlivened the proceedings with several selections. Bro. T. R. Skippon, P.S.G.P., who was one of the invited, acted as chairman for the after meeting, which goes without saying that he made an exceptional chairman. Refreshments were served during the evening, and gratification was expressed on all sides at the great success of the entertainment.

Bro. J. Pitman, W. P., Brighton Lodge, who has been in the General Hospital for the last eight weeks suffering from a serious case of typhoid, is slowly recovering; we trust to soon see him around again.

The annual concert and social held by Bristol Lodge took place on Tuesday, October 29th, in the Parlor of Shaftesbury Hall. Bro. Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, D.D., Centre Toronto, occupied the chair. The occasion was graced with the presence of the doctor's young bride, who expressed her great pleasure at being present, and was pleased that the Sons of England held such intellectual and social evenings, and hoped to have the privilege of attending others. The programme was rendered by Mr. Stevens, piano soloist, F. Wilks, (song); Bro. H. Brown, (humorist); Master H. C. Corner, (violin solo); C. Mcl (elocutionist); Miss Blair, (elocutionist); and Bros. Cashmore and Broomhall, (duett). The room was well filled. During the recess light refreshments were served. The committee of management are to be congratulated on having scored another successful "annual."

Hammersmith Lodge, No. 183, are determined to keep to the front; in the by them in Bro. Small's grounds, and had not been changed in the new coning, Nov. 11th, a concert and dance was given by the lodge in Dingman's Hall, Queen street E, to open the winter season. The concert was a great success the enjoyment was kept up to a late or

PROCRESS OF THE ORDER.

SUGGESTIONS WHICH WILL BE TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF.

OUR 21ST ANNIVERSARY.

Editor ANGLO-SAXON: The suggestion made, in the last issue of the ANGLO-SAXON, that our coming of age should be fittingly celebrated, is one which I trust will be carried out in the best manner possible by every lodge in the Order. Many will do so, doubtless, in the good old English way, a dinner, followed by the typical toast list, with its accompaniment of English speech and song; and no better means could be taken to recall memories of the dear old land, and to still further strengthen the bonds of fraternal feeling among ourselves than this. In some instances, however, the national mode of celebration may not be con-Perks, W.P., Commercial Lodge, gave venient or advisable; if so, let me sug gest that an open meeting, specially visit them at Shaftesbury Hall. The arranged for; during which the best meeting closed by the members singing available talent should be secured to give an "English evening" of music, readings and recitations—all by English authors—would, if properly carried out, prove not only enjoyable, but beneficial as well. Invite everybody, including the ladies, and it is just possible that many of our countrymen who are not yet members of our Order would feel themselves impelled to enter our ranks. I know many worthy our ranks. I know many worthy members to-day who feet the spark of patriotism in their breasts fanned to a flame by hearing the "Death of Nelson," "The Englishman," or the "Charge of the Light Brigade," or the "Wreck of the Birkenhead," well sung or recited. With our wealth of national authorship in song and prose—the only difficulty in making up a good programme would be the abundance of material from which to select.

SURELY A GREAT SUCCESS. Editor ANGLO-SAXON:

Victoria Jubilee Lodge, No. 41, held its regular meeting, at Fraternity Hall, on Friday, 25th October, a large number of members being present. Among the visitors were Bro. Palmer, Grosvenor Lodge, also the V. P. of Victoria Lodge, No. 12, Cornwall. After the usual routine business had been gone through, the committee reported that there were no sick members on the funds and the secretary reported that there were no sick checks or accounts to be passed at this meeting. The worthy officer also stated it was customary, in the civil courts, when there is a clear sheet, to present the presiding judge with a pair of white kid gloves; he saw no reason why we should not adopt the same custom.

Bro. J. A. Edwards, P.S.G.P., was called upon to perform the duty, which was done in one of his usual neat and appropriate speeches. He congratulated the lodge and its officers, and presented a pair of white gloves to the presiding officer, Bro. J. T. Woodall, V.P., who responded by wishing the lodge a continuance of good health and prosperity-a very rare occurrence out of 200 members.

There were two candidates initiated and one prop were admitted during the quarter, five of these being transfers from the Juvenile Branch. This is a clear case of the advantages resulting from look ing after the juveniles. The auditors' report was submitted and showed the funds to credit of the lodge to be over $1,500, five hundred dollars of this amount being out on summer a "Gypsy Party" was held first mortgage at six per cent. If it was a great success. On Monday even-stitution, limiting the amount from 75 to 50 per cent to be invested, our lodge would have had $1,000 out at 6 p. c. We trust the next Grand Lodge meeting will change it to the old sum of 75 In Ottawa the enjoyment was kept up to a late or rather early hour, when the younger portion tripped the light fantastic toe to the splendid string band in attendance. Bro. C. Carr, Sec., was most indefatigable in his attention to the guests.

The officers are well up in their ritualistic work, and can safely say that no lodge can go through the initiation ceremony in both degrees better.

We are of opinion that this is the banner lodge, outside of the city of Toronto, notwithstanding Rambler's opinion to the contrary, which will also include Primrose Lodge.

WINNIPEG, MANITOBA.

Editor ANGLO-SAXON: At a meeting of delegates from various lodges of the Sons of England in the Winnipeg District, held in Sons of England Hall, it was the general consensus of opinion that as no complaints had been heard by the delegates from members of their respective Lodges

Furthermore, in the matter of District Grand Lodges, that owing to the stringency of the times it would not be advisable at the present to make any change or alteration which could increase the cost of membership in the Order.

Another matter discussed, though no resolution was formulated, simply because it was thought to be useless to do so considering the overwhelming num bers in eastern lodges who would like ly oppose it, was the conferring upon visiting delegates from these remote regions to S. G. L. annual session the power of exercising a proxy vote for each lodge in the district from whence he was sent.
