AFTER an all night's session, the United States Congress yesterday morning agreed upon a resolution along the lines of the President's message, only stronger than the message. It empowers the President of sage. It empowers the litestates the United States to demand the Government of Spain to relinquish its authority and government in the Island of Cuba, and withdraw its forces therefrom. This resolution was expected to be signed by the President yesterday. It would then have the force of law. It will readily he seen that this is tantamount to a declaration of war. It is impossi ble to conjecture what a day may bring forth; but the final outcome cannot be long delayed.

As our readers will remember, Ottawa have entered their pro tained; was indeed, almost a blank, so far as prospective legislation is concerned. Consequently the bald draft address, in reply thereto, would require to be framed by a genius, in order to give it sparkle or vivacity; to make it at all interesting. It may easily be imagined, therefore, how "stale, flat and unprofitable" a document it was under the exa document it was, under the existing circumstances. Such as it was, however, it was presented to the House and an adjournment was taken till the following day.

After Mr. Speaker had said his prayers on Thursday forenoon, and the "Strangers" had withdrawn and returned, Mr. Peters rose to move that the House go nto committee of the whole consider the draft address. As is usual on such occasions, he prefaced his motion with some remarks. His speech will not likeponents or associates in Parliament. He went a little too far in the assertion of this peculiarity on Thursday last. In the House of Commons on that date, Mr. Taylor put a question to the Postmaster Commons are senseting the dismissal to the postmaster of the post General respecting the dismissal to the paragraph relating to her of a village postmaster. But this his many friends would not permit. On Sunday last, he sang Mass at Vernon River, his native parish, and took farewell of the friends of his youth and early manhood. After Mass he was presented, on behalf of the congregation, with a complimentary address and a purse of $60. Fol-

To Rev. J. Augustine Modonald.

Rev'd Dear Sir,—Having lately learned that it is your intention to leave this your native diocese, to labor in a distant part of the Lord's Vineyard, we avail ourselves of this, your last visit to Vernon River, at least for a while, to say good bye, and to wish you success in whatever part of the world you may choose to make your future home. Being the first young man ordained to the Sacred Priesthood out of this parish, we justly take pride in being able to say that you have always borne the character of a virtuous young man and, since your ford nation, a zealous and exemplary Priest. Many of us have known you since your boyhood days, others of us have become acquainted with you more recently, but we all have much pleasure in being able to say that whether as a layman or a clergyman, you have always been the true type of a Christian gentleman.

We are sorry to be compelled to say that whether as a layman or a clergyman, you have always been the true type of a Christian gentleman. To REV. J. AUGUSTINE McDonald.

you have always been the true type of a Christian gentleman.

We are sorry to be compelled to say "Good bye" and to sever the ties that have bound us in true friendship, but since you have decided on the change, we sincerely hope that your lot may be a happy one and that you will succeed in making as many friends in your new home as you are leaving behind you in the old. We beg of you, Rev'd Father, to accept this purse as a token of our esteem and good wishes for your future happiness, and when far away we ask you to kindly remember your friends of Vernon River and grant us a share in your prayers. We have the honor to remain, Rev'd and kind Father, your friends and wellwishers, (Signed,)

The budget debate was resumed in the House of Commons, on Tuesday afternoor, 12th. inst., by Hon, Mr., Foster. He agreed with Hon Mr. In East Boston. April 2011. Fielding as to the prosperity of the country, but could not join in commending the government for the share of the ministers in it. He admitted the incorrectness of some of his own orecast of last year's finances, but pointed out that he had come nearer the right figures than the finance minister did in his last year's budget. Mr. Foster took up the pledges of the principal ministers not to increase the debt and to reduce the expenditure and the texts and showed that death of the control of taxes, and showed that during the period since the change of government the debt had increased more than the former average; that the expenditure Than any other firm on had grown by millions and taxation had increased more than equally. The ministers now in power first evaded, then broke, and now openly repudiated their pledges of economy. It was pleasant to talk of last year's trade and pro- oth & 10th of May gress, but it was worth while to notice that the chief additional exports were Ask the thousands of ladies who have recently visited on goods produced long before the ministers had announced their policy, either on the tariff or any other question. The prosperity of last year, so far as it was affected by the government policy or by the tariff, was the crowning glory of the liberal conservative rule and of the national policy. The fickle and uncertain character of the government was shown by the If you have visited our Store since the days tariff of last year, which was left on the
