CHAPTER XIV.

A STRANGE DESIGN.

'PERHAPS,' said Turl, addressing particularly Florence, 'you know already what was Murray Davenport's state of mind during the months immediately before his disappearance. Bad luck was said to attend him, and to fall on any enterprise he became as sociated with. Whatever were the reasons, either inseparable from him, or special in each case, it's certain that his affairs did not thrive, with the exception of those in which he played the merely mechanical part of a drudge under the orders, and for bad luck, the name was, in effect, equivalent to the thing itself, for it cut him out of many opportunities in the theatrical market, with people not above the superstition of their guild; also it produce him a discouragement a self-depreciation, which kept the quality of his work down to the leve of hopeless hackery. For yielding who had wronged him; for failing to iocre production, poor pay, and company inferior to him in mind, he began to detest himself.

'He had never been a conceited nan, but he could not have helped measuring his taste and intellect with those of average people, and he had valued himself accordingly. Another circumstance had forced him to think well of himself. On his trip to Europe he had met - I needn't say more but "That's because I shouldn't like to to have won the regard of a woman herself so admirable was bound to

It had made him almost forget, or rather had braced him to battle confidently with, his demon of reputed bad luck. You can imagine the effect when the stimulus, the cause of hope, the reason for striving, was-as he believed-withdrawn from him. He assumed that this calamity was due to your having learned about the supposed shadow of had luck or at least about his habitual failure. THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Linking up the Advertiser with the Dealer.

By M. S. Olds, Advertising Manager of Stein-Block

Few people can be found to-day who will dispute the power of judicious advertising. It is looked upor as a prime factor in business success. The merchant who does not advertise is considered a back number by his associates. Advertising has seized hold of the tools of civilization and wrought strongly with them. The printing press is its knight errant and the electric current its torch. Yet advertising is by no means easy to define. I think, if you should ask me to define advertising off-hand, I should say that advertising is the science of promoting

Now I am not intending in this paper to lay down for you a set of rules that will prove an infallible guide to anybody with so important a problem confronting him. That would be impossible, for the great questions of distribution require special investigation and special treatment, each according to its needs. What I do want to do is to call your attention to a few fundamental working principles that cover in a general and practical way one or two features of successful distribution. I have called my subject, "Linking Up with the Dealer," and I am going to try to tell you a few practical things that may help you in smoothing out the road. Of course, you must advertise. This can be done in most of the nationally circulated mediums that have been brought into being and continue to be fatly nourished by advertising. The newspapers can help you tremendously to achieve victory in that wonderful battle against indifference, which we call publicity.

There is no profession in which more can be learned from hard experience than advertising. Some of you may be advertising men some day and I want you to remember these little points that have come up in the course of the day's work:

First and Always-Let whatever you send or write to your customer be as safe and honest as the checks that carry vour firm's signature. Second-Answer your customer's letters the same day they are received. You will earn his respect and his Third-Be frank with him and try to write to him just as you would talk to him, as one honest man to another

Fourth-Answer his questions minutely and carefully Sometimes they may seem insignificant to you, but to him they are very important. Fifth-Do not try to get something from him for nothing. Do not permit him to expect something from you for Sixth-Remember that he is probably just as good a. fellow as you are, and that he is quick to detect a shortcoming in you and your work. Eighth. Ninth and Tenth-De on the square with him from one year's end to the other-and use Common Sense.

stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its ror lungs, there is a weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may shap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of diseases and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or discased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

To-day quite a sensation occurred long Water Street when the report went round that the principals of a large firm were investigating some supposed irregularities. We learn that for some time past certain irregularities have been suspected and the principals of the firm have been quietly on the alert. They believe they have enough to warrant them in suspending and perhaps dismissing an officer of one of the coastal boats and also the head of one of the rincipal departments. It is suspected the men acted in collusion with shipments of lobsters. &c., and that big money is involved in the transactions of which they are supposed to be guilty. Up to 12.30 p.m. the police LONDON, Aug. 3. Decision to call a strike here dock laborers has been postponed until Saturday. This action was agreed to last night in expectation that 20,000 more men would go out this morning. The Chamber of Commerce is making attempts to have the dispute arbitrated upon. Pending the outcome of such action, the general strike is held in abeyance. A number of ships that arrived in port since yesterday will be sent to convenient ports to have cargoes discharged. Dock laborers at continental ports have been advised not to handle the goods.

Doctrine is Going to Excessive Lengths-Affected Africa. London, July 28 .- The Globe frank-regrets that Asquith did not find it invenient to reply to Lord Walmer's question, asking for a definite statement anent Canada's decision regarding participation in war. The Globe says there have been significant signs that the evil of the Laurier doctrine has corrupted some South African politicians and apparently the Commonwealth Premier. It has also been put to immediate use in Canada itself as shown in Laurier's Montreal speech that he has established a free maritime zone, both on the Atlantic and Pacific, which shall be absolutely under Canada's own care. No Union Jack.

The Globe says it is further asserted that Canadian vessels will fly both | very well. the White Ensign and the special Canadian flag, the latter replacing the Union Jack. While the Jack is only a symbol, it is an extremely significant symbol. Its omission will b regarded by many with feelings we hardly care to give utterance to. It is pushing the doctrine of autonomy to excessive lengths. We know from Laurier's speech that he prides him-
