At the Mouth of the Treacherous Pit

STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XXIX.

"Who are you?" she cried, "that you treat my pretty child as though she were the dust under your feet?"

She had placed herself so completely before the haughty lady that she could not take another step forward.

"Your child is nothing to me, let me pass," madame said haughtily, and the mother almost forgot the injured little one in her anger.

"Who are you?" she repeated, in a shrill, angry voice, "who have a woman's shape and not a woman's heart?"

The dark face, lowered slightly now flashed defiance at her.

"A woman's heart!" she replied, with bitterest scorn. "A woman's heart should always be made of stone! Mine is, thank Heaven!"

The fierce words and fierce look so completely startled the woman that she stepped aside and picked up her injured child without saying another word; but all day long she could not forget what madame had said—"A woman's heart should always be made of stone! Mine is, thank Heaven!"

"Pain!" laughed Mme. St. Ange to herself. "She calls that pain—a broken limb, a wounded arm, a few bruises! Ah, Heaven, what do they know of pain! I would endure the most terrible physical suffering if it would but raise me from my living death."

After that people hated her; they had heard the story of how she had passed the injured child without even deigning to look at it.

One morning some books of poetry lay upon the reading-table, and she took up one. As a rule, she never read poetry or romance; but the page opened at words so beautiful that she read them again and again—

"Nothing is better, I well think,
Than love; the hidden well-water
Is not so delicate to drink."

She closed the volume quickly, as though an arrow had suddenly pierced her heart.

"The hidden well-water is not so delicate to drink."

"Am I mad," she cried to herself, "that I should seek to pain myself?"

Why can I not be like other women, she thought,—"love for a year, a month, a day, love and grow old, as they do? Of all fates, a life-long love is surely the hardest."

Alas for the love that lives always! She wished with all heart that she had never opened the book. Of what avail to read anything of the sweetness of life or love?

"No hidden well-water for me," she said, "no amber in cold seas, no gathered berries in snow. Ah, Heaven, if I could but live my life over again!"

She walked up and down the long empty room. "How foolish I am!" she muttered. "Why should I do this? I will never look into a book of poems again while I live—never again."

"I have suffered enough for one day," she thought. "Who knows what may be in those papers?"

Yet she took up the "Times"; it was lying there in piles, every number for some weeks past. The first thing she saw was the advertisement alluding to herself. One hundred pounds reward was offered to any one who could give certain information as to Lola de Ferras' death; or, if it could be proved that she was still living, the amount would be doubled. The color of her face changed as she read.

"Living or dead—what can they want with me in either case?" she said to herself. "It is, it must be Dolores!" she cried.

Then she looked eagerly at the address—Lord Feilden, or Mr. Shaw, Waterloo Road, London.

"What can it mean? What can have happened?" she asked herself. "What can Lord Feilden have to do with me. And who is Mr. Shaw?"

She looked through the files of the "Times" and saw that every copy contained the same advertisement; then she examined the other English newspapers, and found to her surprise that there was a similar announcement in each. She put her hand to her head with a bewildered air. "It's a ruse of Dolores," she thought. And yet she knew that Lady Allamore had left England long years before.

The first idea that occurred to her was that some one who had known her in the olden days had died and left her some money.

"I do not want it," she murmured; "all the money in the world would not be of the least use to me."

Yet, she reflected, it could hardly be that. "Living or dead?" What could it mean? If Dolores had had anything to say to her she would have sought her long since. Perhaps she was dead. Dolores' dead! Her face flushed hotly and her eyes gleamed fiercely.

"But the dead," she said to herself, "suffer no longer."

She looked carefully through the list of "Deaths," but she did not find Dolores' name there.

"I must have learned it in some way had she died," she thought.

She took out her note-book and copied the advertisement. The tumult in her mind was so great that she determined to go home at once and think over the matter at her leisure. Curiosity had never been a failing of hers; but now the very fever of wonder seemed to have taken hold of her. Why was search being made for her after more than sixteen years had elapsed?

CHAPTER XXX.

Mme. St. Ange decided rapidly, and she lost no time in carrying out her plans. It was many years since she had left England, and one would have imagined there would be but little danger of her being recognized. Yet, when she stood before a glass that more than sixteen years before had reflected her superb beauty, it seemed to her that she was but little changed. It was true that the bloom of her youth was dimmed, and that sorrow had left its traces on her face and somewhat marred its loveliness. The light, too, of the dark eyes had grown fierce, and the lines round the lips were cold and cruel; indeed the whole expression was one of bitterness, defiance, pride and sullen gloom. But nothing could rob her of her distinguished bearing, of the proud, graceful carriage of the head, the beautiful curves of the neck, shoulders and figure; and her magnificent hair had lost none of its dusky beauty. Those who had known her in her youth would know her now.

There was nothing for it but disguise. She could see that, although her proud heart revolted against it; she hated the very thought of going back to her old home, the place over which she had reigned as queen, in an assumed character.

"I shall have to sacrifice my beauty," she thought; "but that need not alarm me. It has not done much for me."

Having come to this decision, Mme. St. Ange made the necessary purchases to effect a disguise; and when after two hours' seclusion, she emerged from her room, the transformation was complete. In her place stood a white-haired old woman, whose face was lined and pale. It had been no small sacrifice to madame to cut off some of her luxuriant, shining locks, but in no other way could she conceal her dark tresses beneath the white wig that she now wore.

She had been somewhat scared and bewildered at her own reflection in the glass. Of what use was beauty after all? There was no trace of it left with her white hair and eyebrows. The shape of the forehead was hidden by the low, white front, the expression of her face totally altered by the pallid, gray coloring with skillful lines upon it.

"Shall I ever look like that really, I wonder?" she said. "Shall I grow ugly, white and withered as I appear to be now? What will it matter? I have lived but for one object, and that object I have gained."

She dressed herself quite plainly in black, and drew a deep, black veil over her face; then she called the surly Belgian to her. Be what he might to others, he was a devoted slave to her.

"I am going on a visit," she said. "I cannot tell how long I may be away. You will remain here, and keep the house exactly as it is until I return. I may be absent weeks or months. I do not know the precise limit."

The man was aware that there was some mystery connected with her. He saw plainly that she was disguised. Even through the thick veil he detected that face, but he said never a word.

"The most beautiful woman in the wide world," he muttered to himself—"the most mysterious and the most stubborn, too. Still, I will remain here as she has told me, and think no more harm than I can help."

Meanwhile Mme. St. Ange leaned back in the comfortable compartment of a first-class carriage and closed her eyes. She would not look at the beautiful country through which she was passing—the vineyards, the hills crowned with myrtles, the laughing streams, the quaint old towns with gray church-towers. No beauty of land or sky should touch her heart. She hardened herself against it. What if the birds sang, the flowers bloomed, and the golden sunlight flashed upon green meadows and silver streams? It was all less than nothing to her—a woman whose heart was hardened.

Westclox

They glow the time at night

BIG BEN and Baby Ben time telling quite easy. Equipped with black dials show the time at night. The numerals and hands are coated with a radium-luminous compound that makes them glow in the dark and makes it possible to see these clocks even on the darkest night. The glow lasts for the full life of the clock. Westclox on the dial and tag.

SPEED.

Now and then I meet disaster as I drive my choo-choo, and the surgeon's sticking plaster may be seen upon my brow—the result of going faster than the traffic laws allow. Now and then my speed increases as I scorch along the lanes, and the laws are shot to pieces, with their penalties and pains, and my loving suns and nieces gather up my torn remains. Nothing happens when I saunterly travel at a lawful gait, when my choo-choo is platingly keeping the commandments straight, but there's trouble when I vainly bust the statutes of the state. When I send the old bus rolling fifty-seven miles an hour, I can hear the deathbells tolling in the ivy-mantled tower, and the pharmacist, condoling, rubs me with his ointment sour. I go spitting in the ditches when so merrily I spin, and the surgeon sews some stitches in my forehead and my chin, and the undertaker liches for a chance to chop some tin. If we all would drive steadily where the stream of traffic flows, going forward, slow and stately, as the truly wise man roars, it would surely lessen greatly heavy tasks the sexton knows. But the long white road's before us, we have gasoline galore, and the speed laws only bore us, weary us and make us sore; and the mourners sing in chorus: "They're not lost, but gone before."

"Sheik" Hero of the Screen GIVES WAY TO AMERICAN TYPE.

LOS ANGELES, July 23—(A.P.)—The day of the "sheik" in motion pictures is gone, killed by the "American type," according to leading stars and directors of Hollywood.

The foreign-looking heroes have lost their vogue, and fall styles in leading men for the films demand plain Americans.

The women who have to play opposite the male stars of the screen are said to have had a great deal to do with the passing of the sheik.

Said one, "See America first, is my slogan, and that goes for leading men as well as for the Grand Canyon."

"Patent leather hair and passionate black eyes—worn half closed—are all right in their places, but they are not part of the make-up of a real American," declared another star.

Office oil may be substituted for butter when deviling eggs. A little neatly-chopped parsley is attractive in the stuffing.

Events Take a More Promising Turn at Inter-Allied Conference.

No word to be obtained of MacLaren— Judge declares contracting to obtain titles illegal—Deputy Provincial Treasurer of Ontario arrested in California.

AGREEMENT REACHED AT LAST.

LONDON, July 31. Members of the Experts Committee of the inter-Allied Conference, after examining the proposals submitted by French experts yesterday as a compromise plan to end the conference deadlock over security for the Daves plan German loan, declared their belief to-day that the French proposals, with minor alterations, would probably be acceptable to the Conference. The French proposals were accepted unanimously by committee members one of the Conference while the amendment put forth by the British members this morning was withdrawn. Both French and British delegates are congratulating each other on the happy turn of events. One delegate said "The great difficulty is now over."

PERSIA BROUGHT TO BOOK.

WASHINGTON, July 31. The Persian Government has assured the State Department it will take steps with regard to the Imbrie incident that will leave no grounds whatever for any anxiety on the part of the United States Government. Replying to the United States communication demanding full protection for United States citizens in Persia and threatening to break off diplomatic relations as a result of the killing of Vice Consul Robert Imbrie and the subsequent attack upon his widow, the Persian Government declared it would repair the incident and fulfil the points that are suggested by the United States.

20 INJURED WHEN BUILDING COLLAPSES.

WOONSOCKET, R.I., July 31. The collapse of the main building of the one million dollar group under construction for the Branch River Wool Combing Company, yesterday caused injury to thirty persons, twelve of whom were taken to hospitals. It was said one laborer might die. There were fifty men in and about the structure when the steel frame and the supports of the saw tooth roof buckled, dropping a large portion of the roof to the ground.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER PUZZLED.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 31. Premier S. M. Bruce stated yesterday he failed to understand the intention of J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Colonies, in convening a conference of Dominions in October. Last June, he said, Great Britain had suggested a minor meeting of junior representatives to discuss matters already definitely settled at the Imperial Conference. He then replied that the Commonwealth could not send representatives and as no further cables were exchanged he assumed the question had been dropped.

SLIGHT EARTHQUAKE IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, July 31. A slight earthquake to-day caused considerable alarm in the mining country near Malby, and caused officials of the Malby main colliery, near Rotherham, to withdraw for the time one thousand miners, but there were no casualties. It was at first believed the earth tremor had been caused by an explosion in the colliery.

NEW ADMIRAL OF THE FLEET.

LONDON, July 31. Admiral Sir Charles E. Madden, a flag officer of the Royal Navy, who was commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet from 1919 to 1922 has been appointed Admiral of the fleet, the chief position in the British navy. He was Fourth Sea Lord of the Admiralty 1910-1911. Rear Admiral commanding third and second cruiser squadrons in the home fleet 1912-1915. Vice-Admiral Bank 1916 and was mentioned in despatches, chief of the staff to Admiral in Chief 1914-1916. Second in command of the Grand Fleet 1917. Since 1922, when he retired from the position of Commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet, he has been first and principal naval A.D.C. to his Majesty the King.

FATTING FOR FLIERS.

Aboard United States Coast Guard Cutter Algonquin, via St. Paul Island, July 31.—After giving medical and dental attention yesterday to eight Alaskan Island Indians, at Hasen Harbor Atka Island, Andreanof group, the Algonquin to-day was en route to Kiska Island, of the Rat Island Group, between Atka and Attu Island where aid will be given to any crews in need. The present schedule calls for arrival on Saturday, of the Algonquin at Atka Island, the furthest westerly point of the Aleutians where a stop of two or three and a mail clerk was wounded twice when he frustrated the attempts of a mail robbery at Lackawanna railroad station at five o'clock this morning.

CANADIAN CRIME RECORDS.

OTTAWA, July 31. Crime in the more serious categories is somewhat on the decrease in Canada, while offenses that are less grave are on the increase, according to statistics covering the year 1923. Convictions for murder declined from 19 to 15, while for manslaughter convictions last year were 38 compared with 45 in 1922. Shooting, stabbing, and wounding convictions, totalling 237 in 1922, show an increase of 35 over the previous year; offenses against liquor laws have increased, while for drunkenness they are about stationary. Taking the Dominion as a whole there were 47 murder charges during the year, compared with 56 in 1922. Convictions were secured in 15 cases as against 19 the year before. There were five cases but no convictions in the three Maritime Provinces.

M. P. DIES.

OTTAWA, July 31. John Morrissey, M.P. for Northumberland, N.B., died at Newcastle this morning, according to advices received here.

ARCTIC OFF GREENLAND.

MONTREAL, July 31. Advice from the Canadian Government exploration steamer Arctic to-day to G. Wendt, of the Westinghouse Company here, intimated that a keen lookout was being kept by this vessel for the United States world fliers. Full particulars of the fliers have been sent by Mr. Wendt to the Arctic, via the Radio Station KDKA at Pittsburgh, and advices received to-day announce they had been received with other broadcasts from this station. The Arctic Radio operator also stated in his message that the ship and its company had suffered no ill effects from the great storm that waves put the fliers out for a while.

NO REPORT FOR MACLAREN.

Aboard United States Coast Guard Cutter Algonquin at Atka Island, July 31.—Repeated efforts by wireless in all directions have failed to obtain any word of Major A. Stuart MacLaren since the party under his command arrived at Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, last Thursday.

PARKINSON LOSES HIS MONEY ALSO.

LONDON, July 31. The action brought by George Parkinson, a well known contractor of Blackpool, Lancashire, against the College of Ambulance and the Secretary to the college, for damages for alleged violation of a contract to obtain for him a Knighthood for twenty thousand pounds, of which amount he alleged that he had advanced three thousand pounds, was to-day dismissed by Justice Lush. The Judge ruled that a contract to obtain a title was an illegal transaction.

HOT WAVE ENCOURAGES WIFE DESEPTION.

MONTREAL, July 31. The Society for the Protection of Women and Children, reports the recent hot wave seems to have encouraged wife desertion. During May there were only twelve cases of desertion in this city. In June there were eighteen, and this month so far there have been 33 cases.

KU KLUX KLAN CLASHES.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 31. Four men are in hospital suffering from gunshot wounds and twenty-three others are under arrest here as a result of disorders this morning, after members of the Ku Klux Klan, numbering between three and five thousand, had held initiation ceremonies in Grove Land, near here. Clashes with crowds of onlookers followed a break-up of the meeting after the conclusion of the ceremonies early to-day.

STEAMER IN DISTRESS.

MANILA, July 31. The steamer Stanley, operated by the Admiral Line, is sending out S.O. S. calls, from a point off the Island of Palawan, one of the more southerly of the Philippine Archipelago.

UNDER ARREST.

TORONTO, July 31. Charles Matthews Jr., former Deputy Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, was taken into custody in San Jose, California, last night, according to a special despatch to the Globe. The arrest was made in the presence of newspaper representatives and United States Immigration Inspectors.

JEFF, I'VE GOT A GREAT SCHEME TO CLEAN-UP THIS SUMMER. YOU AND I ARE GOING INTO VAUDEVILLE!

FINE! WHAT KIND OF AN ACT WILL WE PUT ON, MUTT?

I'VE DOPED OUT SOMETHING NEW! I'LL WORK ON THE STAGE AND YOU'LL BE IN THE ORCHESTRA PIT AT THE PIANO! GREAT, EH?

QUITE SO! ORIGINALITY IS WHAT TAKES THESE DAYS.

I'LL COME OUT AND YOU'LL SAY— THAT'S A NICE PAIR OF PANTS YOU'VE GOT ON! WHERE DID YOU GET THEM? SHOOT!

THAT'S A NICE PAIR OF PANTS YOU'VE GOT ON! WHERE DID YOU GET THEM?

I BOUGHT THEM! NOW YOU ASK ME IF MY WIFE CHOOSES MY CLOTHES!

DOES YOUR WIFE CHOOSE YOUR CLOTHES?

NO! SHE ONLY PICKS THE POCKETS! SHE KNOCKS 'EM OUT OF THEIR SEATS?

He is now held in the County jail at San Francisco, and will be held for illegal entry into the United States from Canada. At the time of his arrest he was operating a lunch room in the city at Santa Clara.

RELIQUISHES POST.

LONDON, July 31. Colonel Obed. Smith, Commissioner of Immigration for Canada in the British Isles, for the past sixteen years, relinquishes his position to-day. Col. Smith was in the service of the Manitoba Government for ten years previous to his being appointed Canadian Commissioner of Immigration.

DELAYED BY BAD WEATHER.

KIRKWALL, Orkney Is., July 31. The United States Army world fliers, who landed here from Brough, England, yesterday, have postponed their departure for Iceland until tomorrow, because of adverse weather reports received from the patrol boats.

King's Name

OMITTED FROM IRISH LEAGUE PROCEEDINGS.

DUBLIN, July 22—(A.P.)—At the recent ceremony of the inauguration of the new Free State Judiciary, one of the most striking features was the speech in the Irish language delivered by Chief Justice Kennedy, said to be the first official utterance by a judge in that tongue since the time of the Brehon Laws many centuries ago. Under the new judicial regime legal procedure is to be greatly simplified, and the old cumbersome forms of indictment are to be abolished. A significant change is the disappearance of the name of the King. In the past, offenses were described in the indictment as "against the peace of our Sovereign Lord the King, His Crown and dignity," and jurors were sworn to "true deliverance between our Sovereign Lord the King and the prisoner at the bar." These forms are now abolished. Prosecutions were held as "The King v. So and So." They are now to be held in the name of the Attorney-General.

The new Free State court of appeal is an ultimate tribunal. Appeals to the House of Lords have been abolished and appeals to the Privy Council can only be had by petition to the King for permission likely to be granted only in very exceptional cases. "The Courts will," said the chief justice, "stand between the people and any and every encroachment upon their constitutional rights and liberties by whomsoever attempted."

Household Notes.

Garnish a mound of hot mashed potatoes by making a small depression in the top for a poached egg. Chilled fruit drinks are quickly prepared if a bottle of sugar syrup is kept on hand in the refrigerator. Ground pecan meats are nice added to grape marmalade a few minutes before it is taken from the stove. For a delightful first course serve fried catarolee filled with dried mixed fruit, and topped with a maraschino cherry. A half or a whole boiled ham in the refrigerator proves most acceptable for slicing for cold meat plates, sandwiches, etc. A filling for a good sweet sandwich can be made by mixing chopped, juiced prunes with a little orange juice and marshmallow whip.

Irland Plans to Celebrate

ST. PATRICK'S 16TH CENTURY.

DUBLIN (A.P.)—Professor John MacNeill, Minister of Education, reminds Irishmen that in a little more than seven years 15 centuries will have passed since the Mission of St. Patrick to Ireland. He urges that the nation at once consider how the centenary ought to be commemorated. Religious celebrations will be a matter of course, and visitors from many countries are expected to take part in them. Dr. MacNeill pleads for a commemoration which will leave permanent memorials, and suggests the institution of a library of Irish history in uniform volumes to be published under the direction of a corporate body of competent scholars with a suitable endowment. Cleanliness is one of the chief secrets of charm, and perfect cleanliness results from the use of Ivory Soap.—adv.t.f

TRAINING.
Let me not walk the way
Head high and blindly,
Let me go through to-day
Bravely and kindly;
I have been taught the truth
Well do I know it—
Trained from my earliest youth—
Now let me show it!

I know how men despise
Souls, cold and cruel;
Honor's a thing to prize—
Life's fairest jewel—
I know what's falsely gained
Has no joy in it,
I have been truly trained
Fit for each minute.

Lord, they have told me all,
Told and repeated;
Gone to them shame shall fall
Once they have cheated;
I have been taught the way
At school desk and altar,
Why should I then to-day
Fall them or falter?

They have not let me grow
Blind to life's beauty;
Have without doubt I know
What is my duty;
Let me then walk the way
Free from complaining,
Laying this little day
True to my training.

MONEY, "THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL," IS ALSO THE CAUSE OF MANY NATIONAL PROBLEMS.

We have had to adjust ourselves to many changes connected with the world of money during the past ten years. Right at the beginning of the War there was something called a moratorium—a period during which one need not pay one's debts; this, as a lawyer expressed it, was the legalising of a practice which many people had carried on all their lives.

Immediately afterwards came paper money. Sovereigns and half-sovereigns disappeared, and Treasury notes took their places.

Later on, especially after the Armistice, we heard a lot about foreign exchange, and most of us quickly realised that as a baffling mystery the foreign exchange was the limit.

Blaming the War.

And all through, month by month and year by year, the cost of everything went up and up. At first the reason was "Oh, it's the War!" For the War explained everything in those days. Later, it was the "general shortage," and would be all right when peace came and our manufacturers got to work again. By 1920 they had got back to work, everyone was overstocked with goods, and still prices were high.

And now, after nearly six years, everything costs about twice as much as it did before the War, or, in other words, a £1 Treasury note will only buy as much as ten shillings would in 1914, and people are still asking: "Why?"

Later there has been a lot of talk about what is called "inflation," meaning inflation of currency and credit. If you look in the dictionary you will see that the meaning of inflation is "distention, as by air or gas."

Now, that is just what has happened to our currency. Since 1914 it has grown very much larger, but where in 1914 it consisted of gold coin and notes with a backing of gold, now it is largely made up of Treasury notes, with a backing which consists principally of air or gas.

"More Tickets, Please."

Currency—or, as we usually call it, money—is the means by which we exchange the goods we produce for the goods we consume.

The position in which we found ourselves in 1914 has been very clearly illustrated by supposing that all the goods produced in the country are handed in at one side of a large storehouse by the producers, who receive tickets in exchange for them. These they take round to the other side of the storehouse and exchange for the goods they require. The tickets, it will be seen, represent money, or currency.

Now, suppose a war breaks out, and a large number of producers are taken away from their work to go and fight and to make munitions. The Government would say: "These men must have tickets, for though they are putting nothing into the store they must be fed and clothed, so they will be taking something out. We must therefore print more tickets."

Now, if more tickets are presented in proportion to the quantity of goods available, it follows that each ticket will purchase a smaller quantity of goods than before, or, in other words, the prices of all goods will begin to rise.

Where The Shoe Pinches.

This is precisely what happened in 1914. The Government, by the issue of large quantities of Treasury notes, and by other means, "printed more tickets," and prices began to rise, and went on rising.

And that is still the position to-day. Our currency is enormously greater than it was before the War, and everything costs about double. If you are a wage-earner, and if you are getting double pre-war wages, you are no worse than before, and a trader who now charges double prices presumably makes double profits. But there is one class which has been especially hit—the people with what are somewhat frontally, called fixed incomes—pensioners, widows with small annuities, and old people living on the interest of the small savings of a lifetime. These are the people who fully appreciate the saying that to-day the pound is only worth ten shillings, and this is the class who are vaguely referred to as "the new poor."

Will Electricity Pay Its Own Way on the Farm

An interesting experiment to determine whether or not rural electric service can be extended on a basis of charges acceptable to farmers and power companies is being made on what is called the Red Wing experimental line in Minnesota. Farmers, power companies, electrical equipment manufacturers, colleges and farm organizations are represented in the committee in charge of the work.

"The farmer," writes Charles F. Stuart, in Forbes Magazine (N.Y.) "wants electric service, and it is the duty of the electric industry, constituted as it is of public service corporations, to make a sincere, determined effort to solve the problem of rural electrification, and if it cannot be solved to show the farmer why."

"On their part, central station companies found that rural lines were not paying. And on their part, farmers wondered about a lot of things. They wondered why their rates were different from city rates, wondered why high tension lines passing from one population center to another could not be tapped to give them service, wondered why power companies would not build rural lines unless such lines were financed by the farmer, and wondered overtime when companies refused to accept and operate lines after farmers had offered to completely finance the construction."

"Men of the Minnesota committee made no predictions as to what ultimate conclusions will be reached. They do not believe in going out in the rural highways and byways, telling the farmers that they have solved the rural electric problem, and making much talk of the blessings which electric service will convey to the farmer and his family."

"But they are unanimous in the belief that in Minnesota they have set up the best possible sort of a practical laboratory which, in the course of two or three years, is going to answer definitely that all important question as to whether electric service can be extended to the farm on a basis of charges acceptable to farmer and power company alike."

Found Body of Charles Smith

THE BODY OF MISS MACKENZIE WAS ALSO LOCATED BUT NOT BROUGHT TO SURFACE.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 21.—The body of Charles Smith, one of the victims of yesterday's double drowning at Louisburg, was recovered about seven o'clock this evening by a search party of fishermen, who took dangerous chances, working from dories inside the surf line along the rock-bound coast in vicinity of where the tragedy occurred. The body was found in about twelve feet of water, approximately one hundred yards from Black Rock and about the same distance from the shore. Four dories with three men in the dory, had been patrolling the coast all day. It was located by the use of a water glass and with some difficulty owing to the surface. The search party, using grappling irons, succeeded in locating the body of Miss MacKenzie, the iron catching in her clothing which tore away. They were forced to give up the attempt by darkness, but have the place well marked and hope to be successful to-morrow morning.

Police to Carry Radio Sets

CLEVELAND, July 25.—Radio-casting for the prevention of crime and detection of criminals is soon to be employed extensively here, Chief of Police Grant has announced. Small sets with headphones are to be installed on every squad car and motorcycle. Radio sets will have only one wave length, but will enable motorcyclic officers in outlying districts to listen in on bulletins from the central station.

Robin in the Rain

Hear him in the orchid!
Rain is drifting down,
Hiding wood and mountain
And the valley town.

Wonder why he's singing
Such a dreary day!
Keeps me feeling guilty
Of my spirits gray.

Here I stand and listen,
Feeling blue and glum;
Guess I'll take his hinting,
Try to whistle some.

C. L. B. Cadets

To-day arrangements were made to give the lads in Camp a trip to Wabana, Bell Island. Major Lindsay and Capt. James Miller, of J. Co. having extended an invitation and made arrangements for two steamers to convey the lads across the Bay. The steamers engaged will likely be the S.S. Othar and S.S. Pawnee. The Brigades will leave camp about noon and return at 8 o'clock. Any passengers wishing to go over with the lads can do so on payment of one dollar good for the round trip which will be paid to Capt. Geo. House, Camp Commandant or Purser Lieut. W. R. Motty. On arrival the lads will have the use of the C.L.B. Armoury, Wabana, as their headquarters for the evening. Many of the handmen are going, so that a very enjoyable outing will be the result. Capt. Jim Miller finalized all arrangements yesterday morning for the transportation, etc.

Major Lindsay, O.C., has kindly forwarded to Lieut. Colonel Rendell twenty dollars towards Camp as a contribution from J. Co. Considering the financial depression at Bell Island, this act of courtesy is very highly appreciated.

For to-night the Bandmen have organized another dance which will be quite a success. The dance in the Orange Hall Wednesday night was such a jolly event that the patrons are clamoring for another before Camp breaks up on Saturday. The lads return to town Saturday night and kind friends are asked to assist with their motor cars by calling at the Camp between 7.30 and 8 p.m. in order to get all the lads home.

The Canteen has been a big success thanks to Mr. Gerald White, M.A., Grant Burnell and Pte. Alan Goodridge, Jr. Pte. Goodridge has been rated one of the most useful and self-sacrificing lads in camp this year.

Dr. G. N. Murphy's Office will close August 6th, for two weeks. July 26.91

"Nobody's Money" a Big Hit

JACK HOLT AND WANDA HAWLEY IN A FINE PHOTOPLAY AT THE MAJESTIC.

Scoring a decided hit at its premier, "Nobody's Money," a Paramount picture starring Jack Holt, opened at the Majestic Theatre last night. This is an excellent production and will doubtless prove one of the season's big successes.

Jack Holt, as John Webster a book agent, with his pal Eddie as his Secretary, takes charge of a situation in which two young writers find themselves as the result of creating an imaginary author, Douglas Roberts.

It seems that a libelous article has been published concerning the Governor. Webster, posing as Roberts, retracts the article and accepts an invitation to dine at the Governor's home. When Grace, the Governor's daughter, meets Webster, they both fall in love at first sight. Frank Carey, one of the young authors also in love with Grace, tells Webster to "lay off," but the latter hints that should he reveal his secret he (Carey) would land in jail. So Carey is forced to how to him.

At the Governor's home, Annette, a maid, places some marked money, supposedly a bribe from a lumber company, in that official's safe. But Eddie, an ex-burglar, steals the money and turns it over to Webster. Briscoe, manager of the lumber company, comes to the Governor's home and accuses him of having marked money in his safe. Investigations prove otherwise, and Annette confesses her part in Briscoe's plot. Of course he denies it, so the money found by Eddie not belonging to the Governor, has no owner. Webster pockets it, $20,000. In the end Webster proves to be some one else. He proposes to Grace and is accepted.

The work of Mr. Holt as John Webster is admirable. Wanda Hawley plays the feminine role, with artistry. The picture has a well balanced cast comprising such well known actors as Julie Payne, Harry Dupp, Robert Schable and others. The picture was directed by Wallace Worsley while Beniah Marie Dix did the adapting. It will be repeated to-day.

Note the big feature for next week: "The World's Applause." Particulars in to-morrow's Telegram.

Harbor Grace Notes

The first of the inter-town tennis tournaments was played here on Tuesday afternoon last between Bay Roberts and our local team, and the result was a win for Bay Roberts of 3 events out of 5. Quite a few visitors from the Bay Roberts and Harbour Grace Clubs were present, and after the games, the party repaired to St. Patrick's Hall, where tea was served by the Ladies Entertainment Committee. Dancing was indulged in until one o'clock, when the visitors returned to their homes, having had a most enjoyable time. The courts and grounds of the Clubs here have received much improvements and are highly commented upon.

The annual picnic of the Presbyterian Sunday School was held on Wednesday afternoon, at Connell's Farm. Games of different kinds were indulged in, and tea was served in the open. The weather for the day was perfect, and the large number present spent a very pleasant time.

Mr. Leander Drover, of Whiteway, T.B., arrived here by the Pawnee on Saturday evening to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Drover came to town a short while ago.

Miss Lulu Kennedy, S.A. officer of Lamaline, arrived on Thursday, on a three weeks' visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kennedy, Bear's Cove.

Mr. E. Wills, of St. John's, came to town last week on a visit to Rev. W. E. R. Cracknell, of the South Side.

Mr. Wm. Dawe, of St. John's, spent a few days here visiting friends, and left for Topsail by yesterday morning's train, where the remainder of his vacation will be spent.

Strawberries have been offering for sale during the last two weeks, and now seem to be getting very scarce. Owing to the very dry weather all along, they are said not to be as plentiful as other years. Bakeapples have also been on the market, but no great quantity.

Mr. M. P. Stapleton, Assistant Postmaster here, went out by yesterday afternoon's train to connect with the S.S. Prospero, en route to Concho. Mr. Stapleton has a month's vacation, and will spend two weeks at Concho. His many friends wish him a very enjoyable holiday.

Mrs. Geo. Stewart and child, having spent a two weeks' holiday here, returned to the city by motor car on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Winnie Rogers, who was on a years' visit to the States and Canada, returned home on Saturday, having had an enjoyable trip. Miss Rogers was a passenger on the express which was wrecked shortly after leaving Port aux Basques.

Mrs. K. Rogers and two children arrived from Montreal on Saturday on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Alice Pumphrey. They were also on the wrecked train.

Rev. Ernest Davis, Pastor of the Methodist Church, at Curling, Bay of Islands, who is in town on a visit, occupied the Pulpit of the Methodist Church here, on Sunday evening last. He delivered a very forceful sermon, taking as his text: 1 Corinthians Chap. 23, Verse, 22:—"Whether Paul, or Apollus, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours." The service was greatly enjoyed by all present. Mr. Davis returned to Curling again on Thursday.

To-day, Wednesday, is Regatta Day, and as the day is such an ideal one, Mr. Grace will turn out en masse to the old Lake side, as also a goodly number from outside places will doubtless be present. Nothing has been spared in order to make the day's sport a big success.

The Attitude of the Strike Leaders

However strong may be the general feeling towards the workers in the Humber area, it is certain that the threatening tone of the messages received from the leader, Alf Prince, will not tend to win to their side the support of the public.

The reports which have been received make it evident that the workmen have grievances which demand a thorough investigation without loss of time, and in a reference to their complaints which we made a fortnight ago, we strongly urged that such a course was imperative in the interests of the country, the men and the corporation.

Provided the grievances voiced by the employees are genuine, and as long as the methods which they take to remedy them are not suggestive of lawlessness and violence, they are certain of the sympathy and support of the community, which is essential to the success of their demands, but the attitude adopted by this leader introduces a new element into the dispute, which not only thrusts the real issue into the background, but places the ring-leaders outside the pale of the law.

The people of Newfoundland are law abiding by inclination, and they are not likely to countenance such an attitude or tolerate the introduction of the "red" methods which have been altogether too much in evidence further west. When Alf Prince or anyone else threatens to hold up public utilities, destroy the forests or damage property, in all of which the whole country is interested, he is courting trouble and alienating from his side those whose support he most urgently needs. It is a tactical blunder which shows him unequal to the position and responsibilities of a leader.

It is said that certain individuals who recently arrived in the country from the United States have paid frequent visits to our industrial centres and their actions have given rise to the impression that their room would be preferable to their company. A suggestion to that effect by the authorities might have the desired result.

The Prime Minister's message indicates a genuine desire to see justice done to all concerned, and we trust that the men will not allow their own good judgement to be influenced by the rash advice of self constituted demagogues.

A Naval Concert To-Night

The public has a treat in store in the concert which will take place to-night and to-morrow night in the Grenfell Hall, when the concert party of H.M.S. Calcutta will give an entertainment. The show, which is under the patronage of H. E. the Governor and the C-in-C, Vice-Admiral Percussion, is for the benefit of three very deserving objects: the Permanent Maritime Disaster Fund, the Seamen's Institute and the 1st Nfld. Sea Scouts.

Coaker Threatens to Interfere!

Another Element Introduced.

The following message has been received by the Prime Minister from Mr. J. M. Alexander of the Armstrong-Whitworth Co., this morning:

August 1, 1924. Corner Brook.

Hon. W. S. Monroe, Prime Minister, St. John's. We have received telegram Coaker saying he is in close touch with strike committee here and that if we refuse consider raise in wages he will come here and advise men to organize stop Unless I hear from you during the day I intend going to St. John's this evening to discuss the situation with you.

J. M. ALEXANDER. The reply of the Prime Minister reads as follows:

August 1, 1924. J. M. Alexander, Corner Brook.

If you are still determined that no compromise with respect to wages can be considered I see no object in your coming to St. John's at present. Am publishing your message.

W. S. MONROE.

In all conscience, the situation is sufficiently serious without introducing the political element into the dispute. On all sides it has been urged that an impartial enquiry should be held and that justice should be done to the employees if it was shown their grievances were genuine. The interference of W. F. Coaker, the man, who from an air chair, conducted the affairs of the defeated party in the last election, is inimical to a fair settlement and highly prejudicial to the country's interests, however sincere his intentions may be.

Following the threatening message received from the strike leader yesterday, the statement that Coaker is in close touch with the strike committee gives the whole affair an entirely different colour.

Humber Strike Situation

WARSHIP PROCEEDING TO CORNER BROOK.

According to messages received today everything is quiet in the strike area at Corner Brook and no disorder has occurred. Messages received yesterday by the Prime Minister from the Chairman of the Strike Committee were of a threatening nature. A morning telegram was as follows:

CORNER BROOK, July 31. W. S. MONROE.

Want you at once. Three thousand men will be here at Government or Company expense. If train comes, and you not there will be sent back and demand red. If express will not cross island till you come.

ALF. PRINCE, Committee.

In reply the Prime Minister sent the following message: ST. JOHN'S July 31. Alfred Prince of Committee, Corner Brook.

In best interest of all concerned I suggest call off strike for present. Give Government time to close the House and investigate the whole situation Corner Brook. Personally desiring giving every assistance possible.

W. S. MONROE.

Last night this message was received:

CORNER BROOK, July 31. To W. S. Monroe, St. John's.

Four thousand men demand your presence at Corner Brook at once. If not plant and forest will be laid in ruins. Every man demands free meals after to-morrow at Government or Company's expense.

PRINCE.

Enquiry at the Justice Department this morning in connection with the last message elicited the response from the Attorney General that arrangements had been made for the protection of property and the prevention of disorders and the removal of the Company a warship was proceeding to the scene. A message received by the Minister of Justice from Head Constable Peet, states that order prevailed. It is understood that the warship is proceeding from Prince Edward's Island and is probably the Westralia.

Mr. H. Russell, Railway Manager received a message to-day stating that there was no change in the strike situation.

Rosalind's Outward Passengers

S.S. Rosalind sails for Halifax and New York to-morrow, taking the following passengers:—J. W. Brown, A. Ryan, H. Frayser, N. T. Musgrave, G. Boland, T. J. and Mrs. Orchard, Mrs. J. F. Squires, J. De Champlain, W. A. Tucker, Miss Phillips, Miss Hopkins, Miss E. Johnston, J. Harper, C. C. Groves, A. S. Steer, J. J. O'Reilly, J. R. Fildes, R. Brown, Miss D. Owen, J. Richerberry, E. J. and Mrs. Colwell, D. and Mrs. Stairs and 2 children, Miss E. Synnada, E. Deschane, W. H. Evans, J. B. Orr, Miss L. Bennett, Miss M. Bennett, Rev. J. C. and Mrs. Lewis.

Straits Fishery

The following message has been received from Mr. J. Thomas, Belle Isle: "Very little fish taken here during the last two days. The weather is very bad and the prospects for big voyages are poor at present."

Shipping.

S.S. Nico, 2 days from from North Sydney, has arrived in port with a cargo coal.

A Further Denial

OF THE CONDITIONS IN WHITE BAY.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I have just returned from Hampden and was very much surprised to learn that there had been a serious typhoid epidemic reported there. Up to the date of my departure, July 30th, no such condition existed. In fact, there was less serious sickness there than since the beginning of operations by the Company. There were two deaths there during my stay of five weeks, and those who had been sick received the most careful attention.

Two weeks ago a party of nurses and a medical student examined the children and I believe found nothing more serious than tonsils and bad teeth, and found a very few children under weight.

The water is pure as can be as it is carried by a wooden shoot from a brook outside the settlement. The management has taken every precaution to keep the place healthy and has instituted a sanitary organization.

Yours faithfully, DANIEL I. MEANEY.

St. John's, Aug. 1st, 1924.

Dinner at Bally Haly

Southern Labrador Fishery a Failure

The following message has been received by the Secretary of the Board of Trade in reference to the Labrador Fishery after making careful inquiries as to the fishery situation. I find there is no steamer cargo caught from Indian to Battle Harbor. If no improvement does not take place shortly I fear the whole fishery on the Southern Labrador will be a complete failure.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

DEADLOCK BROKEN.

LONDON, Aug. 1. The deadlock in the Inter-Allied Conference was broken to-day by the proposals of M. Herriot, the French Premier, submitted yesterday to the Allied Plenipotentiaries. The experts took the proposals in hand this morning and remained with their task this afternoon and to-night with such gratifying results that officials who are close to the Conference Table believe that an invitation for German representatives to come to London will be despatched to-morrow. After discussing with the delegates the methods which have been agreed upon for launching the Dawes plan, the Germans, if they give their acquiescence, will make final arrangements with the Reparation Commission for putting the new reparations project into effect. The Commission decided to-day to sit officially in London for that purpose. The French plan was not entirely acceptable in the form in which it was laid on the table, but the objections to the first proposal were overcome sooner than had been anticipated and after two hours' discussion the Experts announced that the obstacle as to how a German default might be dealt with under the Dawes plan had been removed. This question has been blocking the progress of the conference for nearly a fortnight.

TORONTO, Aug. 1. The condition of Sir Edmund Osler, who this morning was reported to be very low, was unchanged to-night.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

July 31st.—Some small shower in the morning, but soon clearing, the weather very warm. Very little news in the morning, so after lunch, I to the House, where the Gander proposition is introduced and adjourned for the consideration of the Opposition. But a thing to note is no guarantee asked from the Government, and the project like to be as big as the Humber, almost. The rest of the afternoon taken up with a discussion raised by Mr. Halfyard, he might not avoid certain matters, and did draw forth severe criticism for his behaviour. Strange messages from the strike leader at Corner Brook, being a fellow named Prince, who the tenor of his remarks, the worst kind of agitator, since he does even threaten the destruction of property should the Government not satisfy the strikers. This demand which methinks neither the Government nor the Company can meet since in the past 5 years too many precedents have been established. The night evening up my accounts for the month and find myself in much better condition than ever before, for which God be praised.

Magistrate's Court

A 23-year-old domestic charged with being a loose and disorderly person was sent down for thirty days. The postponed case of the two young men charged with bathing in the swimming pool at Bowling Park without proper bathing attire, was heard this morning. They were both convicted and each fined $5 with the option of 14 days. The defendant in an assault case was fined $5 and costs. An abusive language case was withdrawn.

COPPER IN GOOD DEMAND.

Buyers Break Away From Their Inference and Paying 1 1/2% at 13 Cents for Supplies.

BOSTON—Copper continues in active demand for both domestic and export account at 12 1/2 cents. Consumers have put out additional inquiries and further inquired come from foreign buyers. Recent sales were on a substantial scale for European shipment, and 1 1/2 cents alongside ship at New York was paid. A broader demand is developing daily lately. Sellers are finding buyers more ready to operate since the market has begun to harden. Some holders are inclined to shut down on further sales below 13 cents. Exports of copper from New York during the past three weeks of this month amounted to 25,883,200 pounds.

Local Film at Star Movie

Following the regular show at the Star Movie Theatre last night, a local film was screened showing many events of interest which took place during Earl Haig Week. One reel and a half of film was gone through with the tenor of his remarks, the worst kind of agitator, since he does even threaten the destruction of property should the Government not satisfy the strikers. This demand which methinks neither the Government nor the Company can meet since in the past 5 years too many precedents have been established. The night evening up my accounts for the month and find myself in much better condition than ever before, for which God be praised.

Stowaways From Germany

One of the ore ships which arrived at Bell Island this week had five stowaways on board. Before the ship sailed to the pier, two of the men jumped overboard and swam ashore. They were later arrested. Three others escaped. One of the men, a Texan, was captured on the island. His companions, however, could not be found. This morning one of the men was located in the city and placed under arrest.

To Patrons of The NICKEL THEATRE

DEAR FRIENDS:—

We take pleasure in announcing that on Monday we offer for your entertainment the great photoplay "The Green Goddess" featuring the world-famous character artist George Arliss.

The story that held New York enthralled for two years the fascinating episode of the English beauty trapped in the palace of the Rajah of Rukh, the Orient's greatest lover, has been told dramatically against one of the most lavish and expensive backgrounds ever created for a motion picture.

The work of the eminent cast of players headed by the great actor George Arliss is in keeping with the magnitude of the production. Alice Joyce, one of the most beloved of all-screen stars, returns to the silent drama more radiant and charming than ever. Since her marriage to a New York millionaire she has become an internationally famous figure.

To Sidney Olcott, director of "The Green Goddess" goes the applause of every man associated with motion pictures. He has built a magnificent spectacle that will surpass by far the fame and profits of the stage success.

Yours very truly,

THE NICKEL MANAGEMENT.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.

The weekly session of the City Council, held yesterday afternoon, was a very short one. The Mayor presided and Councillors Martin, Gair, Collier, Ryan and Dowden, were present.

Petitions were read (1) from the residents of Cabot Street, West of Carter's Hill, asking that the trolley stone drain in this locality be replaced by concrete; (2) from the residents of Fleming Street, with regard to the grading of said street. Both were referred to the City Engineer for report, as was also the communication of the St. John's Nail Manufacturing Company re culvert near their factory.

T. Farrahan applied for position of Inspector. There being no vacancy, the application was ordered filed. P. Dodd asked permission to convert building, owned by T. Quirk, Maxe Street, into a garage. This is to be referred to the Inspector General and City Engineer.

J. T. Lamb asked permit to repair and extend workshop. This is to be referred to the City Engineer.

Building permits are to be issued as follows, subject to the approval of the City Engineer:—
J. Harvey, dwelling, Southside Rd., provided water and sewerage are installed.

R. French, dwelling, Prince of Wales Street.

The request of J. Shea, to repair stable, Patrick Street, is to be referred to the Medical Officer of Health.

The City Engineer reported on work performed by various departments for the week. He stated that at the present time the Venturi Meter showed 5 1/2 million gallons of water coming into the city, per day; that the Grand Pond Dam needs rebuilding, and that the work would be undertaken when a suitable opportunity offers.

The matter of repairs to streets, oiling and macadamizing same, was the subject of considerable discussion. It was ordered that a further quantity of oil be imported, with a view to preserving the roads newly macadamized.

The Medical Officer of Health reported one new case of Diphtheria in the city during the week.

Reports of the Sanitary Supervisor, etc., were tabled.

With the disposal of several minor matters, granting of requisitions for departments, and passing of accounts, the meeting adjourned.

For Pleasant Memories

The name "Three Flowers" only hints at the indescribably lovely bouquet of this perfume; for while three different flowers do predominate, many more are used to attain the distinctive fragrance. From the far corners of the earth master perfumers have gathered rare flower essences, to blend in a fragrance both poignant and elusive, a fragrance so haunting that it seems to awaken a hundred sweet memories. Here is the ideal holiday odor—the odor that will ever be associated with the vacation recalling the most pleasant memories. In the face creams and face powder the sweet smelling odor of Three Flowers is apparent. For vacation be sure to use Three Flowers.

A Real Scoop

Film of Earl Halg Week Booked at The Star Movie.

The Management of the popular Star, announces to the public to-day that by arrangement with the G.W. they have booked for their theatre the entire Earl Halg Week film, and in so doing they have in this way added another peg to their slogan "The Latest and Best." At a private showing in the theatre last evening after the regular show, those who were privileged to see it pronounced it to be taken in a way equal to anything yet taken at Hollywood, the weather at the time being admirably suited. The landing, the visit to the graves, the unveiling of the Monument, the regatta, and all the different people including the sports, the different committees, even the Mascot (the Nid, dog) are all taken true to life, and the marching of our troops as compared to the marching of the Tars who were in port at the time, showing up to advantage. A special musical programme will be rendered for this picture, including Mr. Caruso singing at the unveiling "The Rosary." The G. W. V. A., headed by Colonel Nangle, are making a big drive, as this picture was taken at an enormous cost. It is the desire of the Colonel that all school children attend in a body, that is, each school on a different day, full time demand for both domestic and paper Saturday next.

COMING TO THE NICKEL ON MONDAY.

In "The Green Goddess," the superb photodrama which will be presented by Distinctive Pictures Corporation at the Nickel Theatre, beginning Monday, the patrons of this house will have the opportunity of seeing the greatest screen actor of the generation—George Arliss. Actor by year, with the perfection of his art, Mr. Arliss has been building a reputation throughout the United States and other countries for his ability to interpret a role with the greatest possible fidelity and artistry. His achievements, each one greater than its predecessor, have mounted steadily until Mr. Arliss stands alone at the top.

Protests Against Proposed Garage

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I hear that Mr. Dodd has made an application to the Council for permission to erect a garage on Maxe Street. If permission is granted it will be a grave injustice to the residents of that street. Their property will be depreciated in value and they will be subjected to the perpetual nuisance that a garage, with all its concomitants entails not to speak of the danger of fire in such a congested locality. There will be cars coming and going all hours of the night, tooting of horns that will make the night hideous and keeping the residents awake. There are some fifty children living in this street and the adjacent part of Hayward Avenue who are accustomed to play in the street. Their lives will now be in perpetual danger from the procession of motor cars all the time going and coming and fatalities may be imminent all the time. I appeal to Mayor Cook and the City Fathers not to permit this injustice, and to prevent the invasion of this heretofore quiet residential locality by noise, dust, an unsightly building and the constant all pervading odor of gasoline. There are plenty of open spaces out in the country. Let Mr. Dodd go out there and build his garage and do not let him destroy the value of our property. If proof is needed that this thing will be a nuisance all that is needed is to visit Catherine Street and see the doomed residents there. Those who could do so sold out their houses and got away out of it. Those who remain are continually shrouded in dust and the fumes of a gasoline laden atmosphere, and are kept awake all night by the noise of motor cars and the tooting of horns. No one would now think of buying property there. This will be the fate of Maxe Street if this injustice is permitted.
Yours truly,
A RESIDENT.

Legislative Council

OFFICIAL SYNOPSIS.

THURSDAY, July 31.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

Hon. M. P. Gibbs moved the House into Committee on Bill entitled "An Act to amend Chapter 3 of 11, George V., entitled 'An Act to authorize the Montreal Trust Company to do business in the Colony of Newfoundland.'"

Hon. A. B. Morine wished before proceeding any further to draw the attention of the House to the manner in which this Bill was being proceeded with. All private Bills should be introduced by petition, notice in the Royal Gazette, and in addition certain fees paid, which, however, the Company were prepared to do. Nevertheless the proceedings were in violation of the strict rules of the House, but as the Bill was of a very important character, and if all members were satisfied it might be proceeded with. But in future it should be insisted that all Bills be introduced in the proper manner.

Sir P. T. McGrath held that a Bill could not be introduced twice in the same session, and although they would not be strictly following rules he thought that in this case formally the Bill might be introduced. Of Payment of Certain Fees and Charges by Stamps, and Boy Scouts Association Encouragement passed through Committee stage without amendment and were ordered to be read a third time on to-morrow.

Committee stage of Newfoundland Milling Company Agreement Bill was deferred until to-morrow.

In submitting the Printing and Stationery Bill to Committee the leader of the Government, Hon. Mr. Morine, said the gist of the Act is contained in section 3. In the words: "The Governor-in-Council may, by commission under the Great Seal, appoint an officer, who shall be called the King's Printer." The remainder of the Act is largely supplementary and assisting, while the outstanding sections are Nos. 7 and 10 which read: "All purchases and all printing made or done under the control of the King's Printer, shall be made or done upon requisition approved by the Minister, and as far as may be convenient in accordance with contracts entered into with the Minister's approval after the tenders have been called for. Wherever possible all printing under the control of the King's Printer shall be done in Newfoundland."

"The King's Printer shall cause to be printed and published under his superintendence, the statutes and official gazettes, which shall be known as the Newfoundland Gazette, and all such official and departmental and other reports, forms, documents, commissions, and other papers as he is required to cause to be printed and published by or under the authority of the Governor-in-Council; whatever is printed under his superintendence, by authority of this Act, shall be held to be printed by him." The reason for the change is that the right to the name of Royal Gazette, which is ancient and perhaps of late inappropriate, was possessed by the late Mr. Withers, and later by those who purchased it. The Newfoundland Gazette is to be printed like everything else under contract and tender. The King's Printer will receive all fees that are now payable to the publishers for notices, etc., and will turn them into the consolidated revenue of the Colony. Everybody knew that the prices of advertising in the Royal Gazette had always been excessive as compared with the other newspapers, and he imagined it had always been a remunerative proposition, and thought it could be so under the Government.

With regard to the supply of Stationery, the different Departments will each year submit to the King's Printer the required amount for the following year. The cost of the total for the different departments will be placed in the Estimates and a regular supply will be distributed to all the Departments. The cost of and the amount used by each Department will be checked up, a regular audit made and the cost to each department will be easily arrived at. He had made further inquiries since last meeting and find it will be quite easy to procure a competent man at a $2500 salary and he anticipated, providing the Act was faithfully carried out, a saving from $30,000 to $35,000 yearly.

Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath said he would like to reinforce what Hon. Mr. Morine had said. He has no reason to doubt that the "Newfoundland Gazette," properly conducted, should pay its way and the salary of the King's Printer. The cost of the production should not be great, it being a small weekly paper, and with advertising and circulation judiciously attended to should be a paying venture. The proposed practice, he said, was in line with what was happening on both sides of the water. In England the Government had its stationery department which was profitably carried on by the State and the same applied in the Canadian provinces with one or two exceptions. The principle adopted in England was for the Government Stationery Department to put work out on tender and where Blue Books, important reports of Commissions, etc., several of which he exhibited in the House, were concerned, they were sold by the Department through regular news dealers. That printing printers existed outside Newfoundland Sir Patrick showed conclusively in referring to an English concern who held a contract for printing stamps. This concern was not only able to make a large profit for its shareholders, but was able to contribute twenty thousand pounds to its rivals to keep aloof from tenders.

Sir Patrick without desiring in any way to offer unfair criticism as to Government printing of past years, took occasion to refer briefly to the system of printing Hansard. That for 1923 he had seen for the first time in the Library this afternoon. He could not see the value of them, as nobody read them, yet they represented an outlay of thousands of dollars. He produced the Journal for 1922, which was the last he had seen until this afternoon, when he had found that for 1923 in the Library, but which had not been sent to him, nor, he supposed, to anyone else. He pointed out that the Estimates were not included. If it were to be of any value it should contain that, and also the Budget Speech, to show the financial standing of the Colony. But it did contain a long lunacy report by our friend Dr. Mosdell, an excellent report no doubt, but it should not be report no doubt, but it should not be over, while important matters were only briefly referred to. One contained a report in detail of the Agricultural Department as to the number of cattle, pigs, barrels of potatoes, etc., but as so much money had been given in that Department, it was probably thought proper to spend a little in this particular way. He considered the compiling showed great lack of judgment. In Ottawa a personal friend of his named Cook, with the assistance of three deputy heads and known as the Editorial Board, got together a few years ago and got down to the proper compass of compiling by cutting out any unnecessary detail, and there efforts were rewarded by a saving of $1,000,000 yearly. He did not think we could get down to a proportionate saving here, but he looked forward to good results. While listening to the discussion of the Bill in the Lower House, he was surprised to see some of the members look upon it and express themselves that it was experimental. Every Bill is experimental and nothing can be attained without experiment. He was sorry that the Lower House had gone back to the old system of reporting debates. He preferred a digest from day to day, but apparently the pressure from both sides of the House was so great that it had to be abandoned so that there will be no saving at all. With regard to the Legislature printing, and speaking from experience, he believed a very considerable saving would be effected if the principles of the Bill were carried into effect. The Government could withstand the pressure from party supporters who think they have a claim. The difficulty in the past was that Government printing was given to offices where other work was done, with the result that Government printing was held over to the last, customs returns, etc., at times being months behind in delivery, and all the offices he said, were offenders in this case. With regard to filling the position of King's Printer he believed it was an easy matter to get a competent man or men, and felt sure that the results of the first year would justify the introduction of the measure before the House.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs suggested that the word "pleasure" in Section 3 of the Bill be crossed out, and the words "good behaviour" substituted. He stated that he supported the principles of the Bill and felt assured that the House would co-operate in the effecting of economies.

Hon. Mr. Morine, in replying to Hon. Mr. Gibbs, said that the Government was not disposed to accept his suggestion. He added that the person who should be appointed may prove incompetent or become infirm and because of the wording suggested could not be removed from office. This, Mr. Morine felt, would not commend itself to each Department and the word "during pleasure" to remain unaltered.

Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath moved as an amendment to Section 4 that the words "for 10 years or upwards" be added. He thought it would assist the Government in securing a competent person.

Hon. Mr. Morine moved as an amendment to Section 9 that the word "Legislature" be substituted for the word "Parliament." The Committee then rose and reported having passed the Bill with some amendments. Report was received and adopted and the Bill ordered to be read a third time on to-morrow.

The Committee on Bill entitled, "An Act to amend 12 and 13, George V., Chapter 20, entitled 'An Act Respecting War Pensions'" was deferred.

The House next went into Committee of the whole on Bill entitled "An Act Respecting the Game and Inland Fisheries Board." Hon. Mr. Murphy in the chair.

Hon. Mr. Morine said that the object was to consolidate the Beaver Acts and the various Game Acts. The Act, he added, had been prepared under the direction of the late Government by Mr. Harry Winter, and was correct in form. No new principles were introduced but the Act as it now stood was clearer and consolidated. The Committee reported the Bill with some amendment, and it was ordered to be read a third time to-morrow.

House adjourned until 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Victims of Caplin Cove Fire Destitute

Mr. J. C. Puddister, M.H.A., received a further communication from Caplin Cove, Bay de Verde, yesterday, giving fuller particulars of the disaster caused by forest fire on Monday. Mr. Charles Cull lost his home, barn and shop, besides four traps, nothing was saved. Mr. Jos. Cull, of Charles, lost his house and barn. Mr. Joseph Cull, Sr., had his house with all its contents destroyed, besides a valuable trap. Mr. John G. Cull lost his house and barn, with all their contents. The house, barn and trap of Mr. Albert Cull also succumbed to the flames, as did houses belonging to the late Allan Bursey, Herbert Grillis, Gildeon Cull and Mrs. Alex. Garland. A particularly sad feature is that Messrs. Albert Cull and Joseph Cull, of Charles, are at present away, and their wives and children are forced to suffer their severe loss without any means of protection. All the victims are destitute of food and very little clothing was saved, so that their predicament is not an enviable one. The fire is supposed to have originated when careless berry-pickers left fires smoldering and did not make sure that they were extinguished.

MOTOR COLLIDES WITH POLE.
About 11 o'clock last night a motor car collided with a telegraph pole near Robinson's Hill. The pole was moved slightly from its position, while the bumper of the car was taken off and the mid-guard damaged. The occupants escaped uninjured.

Lynn's Colored Fountain

For three thousand dollars any city can take an ordinary public fountain and turn it into such a thing of beauty that it will be the talk of the State and thousands will travel many miles nightly to see it. At any rate, this was the result at Lynn, Massachusetts, as described in The American City Magazine (New York) by R. G. Bolles. He writes:

"Ornamental fountains, such as are now in operation in hundreds of cities and towns, can be illuminated in such a way as to make them objects of indescribable beauty at a cost well within the means of most communities, even small ones.

"This is proven by what has been done in case of the Schute fountain on the city common at Lynn, Massachusetts. This fountain consists of one central and four surrounding groups of jets. The lighting system devised for it can be applied to practically any distribution of nozzles and streams.

"In illuminating fountains the method usually followed has been to throw beams of light upon the jets from arc lamps or floodlights installed in a glass-enclosed room beneath the central and four surrounding groups of jets. The lighting system devised for it can be applied to practically any distribution of nozzles and streams.

"The Lynn fountain, the expensive expedient of an underground chamber has been avoided by raising the piping twenty-eight inches above the floor of the fountain and placing beneath each jet and ring, floodlights made of waterproof material sealed so as to be water-tight, each equipped with a colored glass door. Both the jets and the lights are operated manually from a small building a few feet from the fountain. Automatic control can be arranged if desired, or a combination of manual and automatic control can be effected.

"The battery is composed of thirty vari-colored floodlights. Through a window in the control house, the operator can observe the results of the combinations of colors and water. Each light is operated by a snap switch, with the color it controls indicated. The water is controlled by quick-acting valves on the wall of the control house. One man, seated, is able to run the complete display with ease.

"The pool in which the fountain operates is about seventy feet in diameter. The fountain is eighteen feet in diameter and is surrounded by a wall about four feet high. The entire pool, fountain floor and walls are wholly partially concrete.

"The fountain proper consists of a center ring and four outer rings. Each of these rings has holes about two inches apart on the circumference which give a spray effect to the water. In the center of each there is a spout extending about a foot above the rings with a nozzle which can throw a solid stream of water into the air about twenty-five feet.

"Each ring has a battery of six floodlights under it. Each floodlight is of a certain color, obtained by means of colored door glass.

"A floodlight is placed under the center of each ring, and five others are installed as close to the center as possible, spaced equally around the ring.

"Both jets and lights are operated from the control house close by the fountain. Each lamp is connected through, and controlled by, a button on top of the control box. The position of these buttons is the same as the position of the floodlights in the fountain. Any combination of colors may be obtained in each group.

"Words can not describe the marvelous changes in this fountain, from jets turned down and lighted with amber light until the fountain looks like a waving field of ripening wheat, to a crimson pyramid that looks for all the world like a huge bonfire, and such numberless combinations of colors and effects between. Only by an actual view of the fountain in operation can its beauties and possibilities be realized."

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

A SONG OF UNCLIES.

I sing to-day the song of unclies. Someones n e e said that unclies were male unclies. I don't believe that person, whoever it was, even had an unclie. True, he may have had someone who was related to him by the accident of being a brother to his father's mother. But not a real bona-fide unclie.

Real unclies aren't just male uncles any more than mothers are just female fathers.

Real unclies are an institution. Most Aunts Want to Reform You

They are often as far removed in their characteristics from aunts as anyone could possibly be. An aunt generally wants to tell your mother how you could be brought up better. Sometimes she has the tact to keep it in a good deal of the time, but it breaks out now and then, and you can always see it in her eyes. If you were her child she would not give you candy when you teased for it, and she would not let you sit up so late, and she would make you mind the first time you spoke. . . . And to think that if fate hadn't been kind to you you might have been born her child instead of your dear mother's.

An unclie, on the other hand, loves to tease you, but doesn't feel called upon to reform. And who wouldn't rather be teased than reformed especially when it's the kind of teasing that the right kind of unclie hands out!"

An unclie, furthermore, is a person who hasn't forgotten how to play. He will romp with you, just doing stunts, or he will play games with you. Often he knows card-tricks or magic-tricks—the sort of thing you do with a handkerchief and a glass of water and a 50-cent piece.

Handbags Versus Pockets.

Aunts have handbags with handkerchiefs and powder compacts and shopping lists in them. Unclies have pockets, lots of them. And some of them are pretty sure to have something worthwhile in them, Candy perhaps. Or some stamps he saved for you from his foreign mail. Or small change. I should have said "pennies," only I remembered in time that the youngster of to-day is no longer interested in anything so small as pennies.

Unclies are like the best kind of fathers in their best moods. Of course when the unclies become fathers themselves they will have their off moods too. But so long as they are only come-once-in-a-while unclies, they are the kind of a companion a child likes best.

With Apologies to the Other Aunts.

I sing the song of unclies to-day and in the middle of my song I am conscious of a feeling of compunction in regard to aunts. I myself was very lucky in the matter of unclies (though I had but one) and very much less so as to aunts. He loved me and they wanted to make me over, and you know what a different response those two treatments bring.

LONDON'S FAMOUR BRIDGES ARE THE HEIRS OF A LARGE "ESTATE."

You have heard the old story—that London Bridge was founded on wool sacks. The origin of the legend is that Henry II assisted the funds for rebuilding the bridge by imposing a tax on wool.

added the rental of the houses standing on the bridge. At the end of Queen Elizabeth's reign these brought in over £400 a year and the total revenue was about £1,500 a very large sum in those days.

And through the centuries the incomes piled up until at present it is over £150,000 a year.

But the outgoings are equally heavy. The great Tower Bridge cost over a million to build.

Switzerland of America is Here

SOME INTERESTING COMPARISONS OF TOURIST REVENUE OF THE TWO COUNTRIES.

LONDON.—According to figures recently compiled by the Parks Branch of the Dominion Government, the amount of money spent by tourists in Canada last year is estimated at $138,000,000, or about one-third of the cash received by the farmers of the three prairie provinces through the sale of wheat and other agricultural products. Probably $40,000,000 of that tourist money came from travellers who came to see the Canadian Rockies. Previous to the War, the annual tourist revenue earned by Switzerland was estimated at $150,000,000, while the Rhine was supposed to bring approximately $100,000,000 of tourist revenue to Germany, so that Canada's $138,000,000 from a similar source provides interesting comparison, as pointed out by President Beatty of the C.P.R. According to the Government figures, 90 per cent. of the tourists in Canada come from the United States.

London Bridge is Broken Down.

Ethelred came up the Thames with his fleet while the Danes lined London Bridge, determined to keep them out.

Ethelred's men built wooden protections over their galleys to save themselves from the Dutch arrows, and rowed up to the bridge, where they fixed grappling irons to the piles, and then turned and rowed down stream. By so doing they pulled the whole bridge down, and hundreds of Danes were drowned.

The old rhyme about "London Bridge is broken down" refers to this event.

The bridge was rebuilt, only to be utterly destroyed by a frightful storm in 1091. This tempest must have been tropical in its fury, for it destroyed not only the bridge, but the greater part of London.

Fortune With No Foundation.

Again the bridge was built up; but this time it lasted only thirty-seven years, when it was burned. For forty years there was no bridge at all until in 1176 Peter the First rebuilt it. And from that date until 1789 London Bridge had no rival, for it was not until that year that the new bridge at Westminster was sanctioned.

Old London Bridge lost the houses which were built on either side in 1766; but it was not until 1824 that the old bridge was finally condemned.

The Bridge House Trust underwent many vicissitudes. At one time King Henry III seized the funds, and bestowed them on his queen. The bridge fell into decay, and collections had to be made in order to provide funds to save it from falling down.

By the nineteenth century matters improved, and when Dick Whittington became Lord Mayor, the annual revenue of the Trust was £150 a year. As land rose in value the income steadily increased, and to this was

Motorized Police Work Successfully

OFFICERS WITH MOTORCYCLES INSTALLED IN STRATEGIC "PILL BOXES."

A fleet of motorcycles, one of the largest of any police department in the Middle West, has made the "pill box" patrol of the Metropolitan Police Department of Omaha, Neb., the talk of the country, and has been the means of inaugurating a new system that has reduced crime to a great degree in that city. It has put the policemen of the outlying districts in much closer touch with their superior officers and has greatly improved the efficiency of the patrolling of the suburban sections of the city. Without the motorcycles the "pill box" system of Omaha would not be possible.

Motorcycle a Life Saver.

"I want to say that the motorcycle has been our life saver in being of aid to persons in the outlying districts, who have had occasion to want a policeman and want him quick," said Chief P. H. Dillon in discussing the new arrangement. "We wonder how we got along without this system. It would sooner cut down in some other department than reduce the number of motorcycles and 'pill box' stations now in use in Omaha."

The "pill box" system was the outgrowth of an idea in the fertile mind of Chief Dillon, who had been racking his brain for a long time to devise some system whereby the number of men under his command could cover a larger territory and answer with greater ease, speed and facility the calls that naturally came from a wide area as the ramifications of the police work began to unravel itself from the more congested sections of the city.

For over a year the plan has been tried out and everybody connected with the department is loud in praise of the "pill box" patrol and the efficient motorcycle cops that are in control.

What "Pill Boxes" Are.

"You probably are in a quandary as to the 'pill box' appellation," smiled the Chief. "Well, I can tell you that it is in just a few words. At convenient and well-located points we have built small buildings, 12 by 14 feet. These are inexpensive, but serve the purpose and house two policemen and their equipment. In addition to that we have secured permission from owners of garages and other semi-public buildings for reservations of a small nature where our policemen can make their headquarters. Altogether we have ten of these little 'pill box' substations in the city parks, fire bars, garages and the central locations where we have erected the small police stations. And I want to tell you that the plan works out fine."

A Thousand Calls a Month.

Each "pill box" has two officers on duty from 3 p.m. until 7 a.m., working two eight-hour shifts. They carry sawed-off repeating shotguns besides their own revolvers.

The system was put in operation May 12, 1923, and from that date until December 31, 1923, 8,000 calls were made by the policemen of the various "pill box" stations, and 3,035 persons were arrested. Not an instance was recorded where the policemen did not get in touch with the trouble, but in many instances no arrests were made because the matter could be straightened out without resorting to that extreme, and many of the calls were for other causes, such as fires, etc.—Morning Chronicle.

Stowaway Wants to go Back Home

Asking that he be returned to his home in Newfoundland, "Jake" Johnson, who claims to have reached Halifax as a stowaway on board the Furness liner Digby, gave himself up to the police. He was turned over to the immigration authorities.

Johnson, who gave his age as 24, said he hid in the bunkers of the Digby with two German companions when she left St. John's and managed to remain there unobserved during the entire trip and make a successful landing at this port. The two Germans, he said, had also got safely ashore.

Broke and unable to secure employment during his brief stay in the city, he made up his mind to return home and rather than risk a second trip as a stowaway, he gave himself up. The Digby arrived here on Thursday night—Halifax Herald, July 26th.

Well Known in St. John's Twenty Years Ago

There is an old saying that there is no popularity like renewed popularity and this certainly applies to the case in point. Twenty years ago Pearline was so popular as a washing powder that it was practically the only one used in the City and throughout the outports. Then it stopped coming in here on account of changes in its method of distribution. Years passed, and it appeared as if Pearline was as dead as the "dodo" but it has just come back again and is now a bigger seller than ever. Those who knew it in the old days are so enthusiastic over Pearline that they are gathering new users for it every day. Without doubt Pearline is the most popular washing powder that ever came here. Every woman should use Pearline. It sells for ten cents at all grocery stores, and has no equal for cleaning, scrubbing, washing, etc.—August 1st.

Herring Plentiful in Baltic

WARNEMUDE, Germany, July 2.—(A.P.)—Colossal schools of herring are in evidence in the Baltic Sea off the coast of Holstein and Mecklenburg. In the Bay of Fischland, east of Warnemuende, several fishermen the other day landed in 20,000 pounds of herring; in a single night's catch. Not knowing what to do with such a big quantity, they simply loaded their catch in wagons and drove around to the neighboring towns and villages, offering the fish for a song. Many farmers bought them to feed to their pigs.

Chance for Girls With Perfect Feet

BRITISH SCULPTOR SAYS FEET ARE TOO BROAD WITH LOW INSTEP.

Sculptors in London are finding it increasingly difficult to obtain women models with beautiful feet.

"Modern high-heeled shoes and too much athletic exertion are ruining women's feet," F. W. Pomeroy, a British sculptor, told a reporter. "They are becoming far too broad, with a very low instep. As much harm is being done by present-day fashions in shoes as was done by the Chinese method of tightly binding the feet of girls."

"I have found the most beautifully shaped feet among the peasant girls of Ireland, who go about barefooted. If girls were permitted to wear sandals from babyhood till the bones of their feet have set, beautiful feet among women in this country would not be so scarce."

"The perfect foot," Mr. Pomeroy explained, "should be one-sixth the length of the whole body, and should be well arched."

Napoleon's Sun Dial

A silver sun-dial of historic interest, carried by Napoleon Bonaparte through his triumphant campaign and after that through the remnant days of St. Helena, is now in America. It is the property of Arnold Korff, at present playing in a road company of Leola Kiesha. Mr. Korff inherited the dial from his father.

About the size of an old-fashioned watch, the dial is of hand-wrought silver and can easily be carried in a vest pocket. Around the silver face are embossed both the Arabic figures and Roman numerals as they appear on a watch or clock. Near the bottom is a small compass in a glass-covered compartment, still as active as it was when the Little Corporal consulted it on the march.

Made by Bitterfeld of Paris, one of the leading craftsmen of the 18th century, the sun dial is of distinctive design. The old-fashioned script that the names of great—Strasbourg, St. Malo, Rome, Toulouse, Brussels—is exceedingly plain despite the minuteness of the letters. A tiny dove attached to the face of the dial by hinges, so that it can be folded over flat when the trinket is in its leather case, moves its bill along a numbered bar and is part of the mechanism of the instrument.

The sun dial rests in its original leather case with a faded velvet lining, the cover bearing the well-known N and crest of Napoleon. An old manuscript attests the authenticity of transactions between those who have possessed the heirloom since it passed out of the hands of Napoleon I.

In the Jaws of a Crocodile

The following interesting account of a thrilling fight with a powerful crocodile in an Indian river is told by Lieut.-Col. Carserly.

One afternoon the column halted by the river as usual and prepared to camp. When the men had cleared the ground and set the pickets they fell out to get their food and rest. A captain, unslung his water-bottle, went to the river to fill it.

At that spot the bank was perhaps four feet high and rose straight up. It curved in a sharp bend, and the water close in ashore was shallow. There was no current near the bank, but only a few yards out the deep and mighty stream swept along like a mill race.

The officer knelt on the bank and, lowering the bottle by its long strap, turned his head to speak to a subadar (native company commander) near him. Half a dozen sepoy, some holding their rifles, were standing close by.

Suddenly out of the water under the bank came a monstrous head, and like a trout rising to a fly a huge crocodile snapped at the white man's outstretched hand. The great jaws closed on it, and in a twinkling the officer was down in the river!

As he fell the astonished soldiers gasped in horror. Then without hesitation two or three leaped in after him. Standing waist deep, they clutched the captain's body and strove to pull him away from the giant reptile, which was backing out into deeper water.

Too Dazed To Struggle.

The Englishman, with his hand in the crocodile's mouth, was too dazed to struggle and submitted passively to be pulled this way and that in the grim tug of war. The native officer snatched a rifle from the man beside him and, jumping into the water fired at the monster's head at a yard's range. A sepoy followed his example, but neither man thought of aiming at the eyes, and so their shots had no effect; an old crocodile's hide is impenetrable to bullets except in the throat, the belly and behind the shoulders.

The weight and strength of the brute was too much for the united efforts of the men. In vain they dug their heels into the yielding sand and pulled with all their might and main. Slowly, remorselessly, the officer was drawn farther out; the sepoy clinging to him were dragged with him.

The Englishman seemed doomed. The crocodile was swimming now tall foremost, out into the swift, racing flood.

Then a miracle happened! When it seemed that nothing could save the man the strong current caught the monster with full force and swept it away, and by a marvellous stroke of luck, the officer's hand was torn from its mouth.

The irregular teeth of a crocodile fortunately do not fit close together. So little injured was the captain that after the doctor had bound up his hand he was able to attend to his duties immediately.

women long for diamonds; nearly all covet jade. I myself have gazed into the heart of a giant diamond worth four figures—I have dived in its white depths, says a writer who signs himself "A Lucky Woman." Yet it scarcely even stirred my admiration. It was exquisite—yes, but I did not want to take it home, to touch it, I left it without a pang, to glitter in its velvet case and wink at its neighbor, the sapphire tiara.

But that string of jade, that was different. It was almost pain. I longed so much to finger it, to feel its green ice on my neck.

Half the women in England are jade mad. Why should this strange quart hold such a unique position in the feminine heart? Is it because its wonderful color reminds us of nothing else on earth? Maybe it is because we are superstitious, and we think it brings us luck.

For thousands of years jade has been looked upon by the Chinese as a symbol of eternity and long life. To give a friend a piece of jade was to wish him "the happiness and life you desire."

"Lucky jade," the very thought stirs the imagination. It brings happy dreams in its train—dreams of yellow-skinned men with slanting eyes, who buy and sell, carve and polish the stone we love. All the finest jade comes down from the roof of the world, from the quarries of Khotan in Chinese Turkestan, along the caravan routes that has been used for 3000 years, and through that narrow breach in the Great Wall of China that is known as the Jade Gate.

Chinamen are adepts at carving this stone, which is hard as diamond. Few western lapidaries know how to treat it as they do; they can get the last grain of beauty from the smallest and least valuable chunk of the quartz. So wonderfully do they carve it that to the uninitiated, the comparatively inexpensive white jade, streaked with smoky apple green or even, appears more beautiful than the almost priceless vivid green.

House of Assembly Proceedings

THURSDAY, July 25. The House met at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Halliwell presented a petition from the residents of Bonavista Bay in reference to a ferry service.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. Puddister asked Hon. the Colonial Secretary to table a statement showing the total cost to date of the Census of 1921 with details of enumeration, compiling, classification, printing, etc.

The Colonial Secretary, in reply tabled the following information: Enumeration Expenses: $38,500.00; Printing, Nfld. Publishers: $9,840.00; Total: $48,340.00.

THE GANDER RESOLUTIONS.

Hon. the Prime Minister moved the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions to confirm a contract entered into between the Government of Newfoundland and the Gander Valley Power and Paper Co., Ltd.

The Prime Minister explaining the Bill said it was in most respects identical with the Humber agreement. It differed, however, in one or two points. For instance, the Humber agreement carried a guarantee clause whereby the Colony became liable for a large amount of money if the Company did not make a success of the enterprise; but in this agreement no such guarantee was either sought or given.

BONAVISTA BAY S.S. SERVICE.

Mr. Halliwell moved the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a message from Sir William Crooke which appeared in a recent issue of the Evening Advocate relating to the placing of the Malakoff back on the old Dundee route to Bonavista Bay. He said the sender of the message resided at Port Union which was in Trinity Bay and therefore a part of his constituency. From that standpoint he wished to discuss the matter as he held no brief to forward the personal or business interests of that gentleman. If other business firms had grievances he would be compelled to take notice of them and voice their sentiments in the House. He thereupon read the message in full. He expected a square deal from people who had been elected on that platform, but in his opinion it was not square to take the steamer off Trinity Bay and confine her services exclusively to Bonavista Bay. Was it because Bonavista Bay through an accident had sent three Monroe men to the House and Trinity Bay had defeated the candidates of the Monroe Party? If that was so then it was not square to take the steamer off the part of those responsible for the change. He thought Trinity Bay had been unmercifully treated during the short few weeks of the Monroe regime. He said it was necessary to have this steamer serve Port Union at both the Prospero and Susu were filled up with freight when they reached that place going from St. John's. If the Malakoff was taken away from them it was done for the purpose of stranding the F.P.U. Trading Co. That steamer was the only means of transportation possessed by the F.P.U. Mr. Halliwell also took occasion to refer to what he termed the practice of discrimination carried on by Mr. Monroe in regard to Trinity Bay, and made a vigorous if not dignified or called for attack on the Prime Minister. He said men from Trinity Bay could not go to an interview with Mr. Monroe without first consulting his secretary. When he found that the interview was to go from Trinity Bay they were told to go and see Mr. Mitchell who would attend to them. Who, he asked, was Mr. Mitchell, the rejected candidate in Trinity Bay last election. Now Mr. Mitchell known to Trinity Bay for about two weeks of the campaign was looking after its interests. He then told of the dismissal of the lightkeeper at Hignall and the spending of the Road money of Bonavista Bay by one Arch. Brown, who apparently last election was no friend of Mr. Halliwell. These two instances were subjects of violent attack on the Minister of Public Works, Mr. C. B. Russell.

This was followed by another attack on Mr. Mitchell, who was accused by the speaker of dirty, low, mean, contemptible tactics in trying to secure his election in Trinity Bay.

Mr. King Mr. Mitchell's colleague, was then held up as resorting to even worse tactics than Mr. Mitchell, tactics that he would not dare tell in the House, but if forced to tell the story he could do so in good shape. Mr. Halliwell went along in this style, one moment on Arch Brown's expenditure for almost an hour, and concluded by asking a satisfactory answer to the question as to why the Malakoff was taken off Trinity Bay and put on Bonavista Bay, and why Arch. Brown was allowed to spend the grant of Bonavista where ninety-five per cent of the people had voted for Halliwell, Randall and Godden.

The Prime Minister in reply said he was puzzled to understand what all the wailing, dispirited and heated argument of Mr. Halliwell was about. The whole matter could certainly be discussed in a calm, dignified manner without losing control of oneself and being highly excited. He did not remember any instances where he refused any Trinity Bay men interviews. There were times when he had to do that with his own constituents as he was always kept pretty busy. As regards the member for that district or even the members they had never asked for interviews or anything else until Mr. Halliwell phoned him about the New Melbourne. He had tried to be as courteous to Mr. Halliwell as to any of his own party, and any other statement was entirely wrong. As regards the steamship service, the Malakoff was being put back on the old Dundee route because the people wanted it and it was the best service. The whole district during his voyage asked for the change. There continued in strong terms the service of the past four years. As regards Port Union he thought it was highly favoured. It had a splendid train service three times a week and could ship freight anywhere it wanted to. Port Union ought to be proud that it had a railway spur line connecting it up with the Bonavista Branch Railway service without any inconvenience whatever. Surely it did not require the railway service and the steamship service also. There were certain business firms around this island that would be very glad indeed of the Railway service that was to be had by the firm operating at Port Union. He had a number of branches of his own business around the island and he would be glad of a small share of the accommodation the Port Union firm possessed for the past four years. He would like to say to Mr. Halliwell that a square deal did not mean everything for Port Union. Other members, notably the steam coast members, had been aggrieved when the steamship service to their districts had to be curtailed, but they fell in line with the policy of retrenchment and all had to bear their share of the burden. His effort was directed to giving a square deal to every section of the country, and not for one section to have every facility and another section no facilities at all.

Mr. Little said the idea of Mr. Halliwell of spleen against Port Union was wholly false. What was done in connection with the Steamship Service on Bonavista Bay was done with a view to making a good service out of a very bad one. The people of his district had demanded that they be given the old service. He repudiated the notion of it being done to injure any business, but surely any business did not wish to have all facilities and another firm nothing at all. The truth was that everything done for the past four years was done to benefit the whole island. Thank goodness that day was over. In Bonavista Bay places which did not support the Union were utterly ignored. Take the $76,000 spent on Bonavista. Who got the cream of that? Why, the Union men of course. He knew of men who had starving families who begged for a day's work, but because they were not Union men they were turned down. Talk of discrimination, he never saw anything like that practiced for the past four years by his experience. Mr. Halliwell's protest had arrived a little late. Four years of the past government's rule in Bonavista Bay was enough to drive people crazy. The non-Union men got no show. Not a day's work if you were not a Union man. This is the first occasion on which he had heard Mr. Halliwell protesting. Where was Mr. Halliwell during the past four years? Talk of dismissing Government officials in Trinity Bay, why that policy was practised in Bonavista Bay after the 1919 election wholesale when who had spent their lives in positions were thrown out to make room for P.F.U. men. In this connection he told a story from scripture where two men conspired together and built a gallows on which to hang other people, but when the scaffold was all in readiness behold the gallows which they prepared for others became the instrument of their own death. That was exactly the case of Mr. Halliwell. He and others had prepared the gallows after the 1919 election, and during their four years of office, and now the practice initiated by themselves have proved their own undoing.

Capt. Randall made a few remarks referring to Mr. Halliwell's in-terference against the removal of the Malakoff from Trinity Bay. He did not believe it was done for retrenchment purposes as he could not see where the saving was effected. He gave as his reason for taking the stand some remarks made by the Ferryland members in the 1923 session.

Capt. W. C. Winsor said he had no spleen against the U.T. Co. He would like to say that he had done more for the Union men of Bonavista than ever Mr. Halliwell had done. Numerous shareholders of the U.T. Co. were his best supporters in the District at the last election, and he did not want to see these men lose their hard earnings. He objected to all the talk of discrimination practised by the Monroe Government. For gross discrimination turn to the pages of history recorded during the past four years. Why demands were made upon him to turn off the coals he carried to the sea because they were not Union men. You could not afford to do anything in Bonavista Bay without first consulting the Union. At the time of the election he had a job to convince the owners of his ships that he wasn't discriminating against Union men when was the trickery used by certain parties to get Union men in positions. And that very spring out of his 85 men he carried from Bonavista Bay, 72 were Union men. As regards the steamship service of Bonavista Bay during the past four years, it was positively no good. There was a line and cry in the whole Bay to put back the whole service. The people of Trinity Bay did not want it either. It was not good to anybody. One boat could not do the work of the two boats. The Captain had told him that the people were so incensed against them in some places that he was afraid to go in the harbours. It was wrong to posture the service of the two Bays for the sake of any one firm. The delay sometimes was something terrible. He had been hung up himself at Port Union on one occasion with thirty men for seven days, and the men became so restless that work had to be found for them at the Union Premises. The service for the past four years was subject to the dictates of the U.T. Co. at Port Union. There was not a square deal. There are many places in Bonavista Bay now that have no mail service and if you want a sample of discrimination, said the Captain, I will give you one. There are two places in Bonavista Bay, one called Bunyan's Cove, and the other Charlottetown. Ninety per cent of the votes in Bunyan's Cove are non-Union and Charlottetown the reverse. Both places are equally important, yet the boat called at Charlottetown every trip and never at Bunyan's Cove. There is a service to Charlottetown from St. John's to Gambo that would have been an excellent service were it not that the Captain, who is a great Coakerite, belongs to Westleyville, when the Captain should belong to Newtown, the terminus. Result—people of Westleyville have to take care of numerous passengers while the boat is lying up at that place when they should not be there at all. Mr. Halliwell should be the last man to talk of anything in the connection with finances in the House when his government was guilty of squandering millions of the people's money during their term of office.

Mr. John Crooke said he was amused at Mr. Halliwell's heat. He surely was tuned up. After all that had happened during the past four years he had to say Mr. Halliwell was a bold boaster, man who was put on the street who had given years of faithful service. This Government has dismissed no person as yet. We are not half done trying to right the wrongs of 1919 and 1920. Men were dismissed, services were cut, and the whole of the services of the Northern District were made subservient to the Union interests, and men were put in the Chair Service who never should have been there because of politics and nothing else. Mr. Cave, the late member for Bay de Verde, put some of them down in his department. There are three of them there now falling over themselves, looking for something to do. The taxpayers of the country are not going to stand for providing jobs for political supporters of that calibre any longer. Mr. Halliwell had no grievance against the Government. During the past 48 hours Sir Wm. Coaker had been beruffled in a way that was perhaps too fair for him and not fair enough for the country and Mr. Halliwell knew quite well what he referred to. There was enough of this "put on" and mock modesty practised by certain men. Why if Mr. Halliwell had his way three months ago he would be Governor of the Penitentiary to-day and snugly stowed away for life.

Mr. Halliwell—What do you mean by that? Sir John Crooke—I mean what I say. I will repeat it. When the smash up of the Warren Government occurred it was proposed to pension Mr. Parsons, the Governor of the Penitentiary, and appoint you to the position, and put some other person in Trinity District.

Mr. Halliwell—Was there anything dishonourable about that? Sir John Crooke—Yes, inasmuch as if you had had the interests of Trinity District at heart in April last, as much as you profess to have to-day, you would not have demanded a comfortable life job, but would have gone back to the District to fight their battle as you were forced to do a little later on. It's about time these plous professions of yours ceased and a thing or two made known. There is a service being run in Bonavista Bay to-day from Gambo to Newtown by a Coaker Boat and no contract for that service has ever been seen by the House of Assembly. In that fact, to the contrary, why the whole of the Northern District Service was at the back and call of the F. P. U. The limit was reached when the election celebration was being held at Port Union in May 1923. The Portia or Prospero called at Trinity, she had Dr. Campbell on board for Port Union and Bonavista, Sir William found they would be late if delayed at Trinity to land freight. The result was, he ordered her on to Port Union to land Dr. Campbell and his party and then sent her to Trinity to land her freight. He trusted Mr. Halliwell would subsidize after to-day or he would have another few words to say to him. Hon. Mr. Cramm said, fearing a misapprehension by the House as to a remark made by Sir John Crooke, he wished to say that he wanted it to be understood that in Bay de Verde there were no government officials falling overboard, that he was responsible as well as Mr. Cave for appointments from May 3rd, 1923 to April 24th, 1924 and he did not make those recommendations. As regards the steamship service he would be pleased to have a steamer for his district as well as the train service, but he knew as every member knew that a train service and a steamer service for one district was utterly absurd. So it should be with Port Union and other places, they should be very well satisfied with one service. The country cannot afford it and he understood that on the Bonavista Bay service as now proposed there would be increased earnings thereby in that sense a saving to the country. Sir John Crooke wished it understood that he cast no reflection on Mr. Cramm. The appointments he referred to, two of them at least, were made before Mr. Cramm represented Bay de Verde. Mr. Russell wished to put himself right with Messrs. Halliwell and Duff. He had up to the present received no solitary recommendation from Mr. Halliwell and he failed to see where his grievances with his department were. Mr. Duff had called, certain matters were explained to him and he left, apparently satisfied. But since that time he has been banging with questions in the House, making something out of nothing. He had pointed out to Mr. Duff that his attitude was an entirely negative one, and since his visit he had not received one solitary recommendation from him. So what was all this dissatisfaction over. He failed to see what all the fuss was about. His duty was to send the money to men whom he felt sure would expend it properly and to have this done he would accept recommendations with that end in view. He trusted that his acceptance of recommendations would be in the interest of the policy of the Monroe party, "a square deal to all." Mr. Duff explained his grievance under two heads. First, a man from Bristol's Hope was recognized by the Minister of Posts and the man did not belong to that settlement at all. Second, the spending of the Road Money of Victoria by some person other than the duly elected board. Mr. Grimes brought up the matter of the dismissal of a light house keeper at Labrador who belonged to Brigus. He deprecated this action as not being in the best interests of the country. Mr. Roberts took no part in politics during the last election. (Continued on page 12.)

G. KNOWLING, Limited

Mr. Wisser—How do you know? You were down in Green Bay while the election was on. And why do you say that about Port de Grave? It is enough for you to do to look after your own district. Remember for Port de Grave will look after his.
Mr. Grimes—I heard he took no part in the election.
Sir John Cosble—Did Miss Chalkor take any part in elections when you dismissed her in 1919 or was it because her father supported me?
Mr. Grimes—I take the responsibility for her dismissal.
Sir John Cosble—You were then a defeated candidate. How comes it that you are commending to-day what you yourself practiced in 1919.
Mr. Grimes—It was not politics. There were other complaints against her.
Sir John Cosble—Now please don't go any further. You have attempted to make insinuations before against that girl. Remember she is not here and cannot defend herself and what ever you have to say against her put it in writing, deliver it to me before twelve o'clock to-morrow and I will investigate it.
Mr. Grimes—Alright I will undertake to have that done.
Mr. Cashin was amused to hear all the talk about dismissals. In 1919 a man from his district had been dismissed from the Sub-Collectorship for no reason whatever, and he had been demanding ever since the election that the present occupant be dismissed and the dismissed man be restored, but up to the present he had not succeeded. As he is grievous in another way, talking of steamship services and removals he asked Mr. Hallyard who it was when he was Colonial Secretary ordered the Kyle off her route to land the Government Candidates at Burin?

Mr. Hallyard—I was in Trinity Bay and do not know.
Mr. Cashin—You were Colonial Secretary and responsible. Don't be trying to shirk responsibility. It makes one laugh after the exhibitions of the past four years to hear the Opposition members come in the House and talk of discrimination. The members who talk to-day must have been deaf or blind for the whole of the past four years. He took strong exception to Mr. Hallyard's tone of speech and offensiveness to Mr. Monroe. That was nothing new to that gentleman. He objected also to his remarks about Mr. Mitchell who could not defend himself. Who, he asked, was responsible for the ill-treatment circulated in Trinity Bay during the last election? Certainly Mr. Mitchell was not responsible for that kind of dirty stuff. Who was responsible for the use made of the name of Cashin in that district? Cashin's

Coal Contracts were handed around Trinity district as something of a terrible scandal. Yet his tender for $6.50 per ton and saved the country $23,000.00 this year. The Dominion Coal Company had tendered at $7.40 per ton and Cashin & Co. $6.50 per ton. The result was the former had to come down to $6.50 also. His Company was given a share, but it justice had been administered by the Railway Commission his Company would have got it all a tender was a tender and prices should not be lowered after tenders were opened. He would like to hear the late Colonial Secretary explain to Trinity Bay electors how that happened. Some members ought to have held to the bay after the squandering of the past four years, and ought to be ashamed to come to the House. Mr. Hallyard mentioned a dictator of the Government. The Government had no dictator, but the Opposition did in the person of Sir W. F. Coaker at Port Union. He trusted that for the future Mr. Hallyard would address the House with moderation and in a decent and fair manner.
 The House then adjourned until this afternoon.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL Game Ends in Draw.

An unusually large attendance of spectators turned up at St. George's Field last night to witness the football match between the Guards and Saints. As predicted the contest proved to be hard fought from beginning to end, the match ending in a draw one goal all. The Scotchmen entered the field with their strongest line-up, and put up a creditable exhibition. In many stages of the game they had their opponents hopelessly outclassed, and with a little luck on goal they would have been victorious. The Guards just managed to save themselves from defeat, and having gained another point to their credit, now have a firm hold on the championship. The Guards defended the western goal in the first period. Play opened up with a rush by the Guards forwards, when Belbin was called upon to save a long shot from Ellis. Upon the ball being kicked out of danger, the Scotchmen dashed up field and pressed the Guards goal. This continued for some minutes, and Thistle and Quick were kept busy keeping the ball out of danger. Roberts for the Saints made several good tries in the onslaught. About seven minutes after play opened Roberts headed the ball into the net, on a pass from McNeil, scoring first blood for the Saints. Play was then confined to midfield for a few minutes. The Guards increased the pace and made several determined attacks to score the equalizer. Their efforts were rewarded about 4 minutes later, when Quick found the net from a scrum. From then on, until the end of the half, both teams battled hard, but no further scoring resulted.

2nd Half.

Upon resumption of play the Guards took control and had matters practically all their own way for ten minutes. The forwards working well, brought the ball into the Scotchmen's territory repeatedly, but try as they would, Belbin was unbeatable. On one occasion Coultas made a pretty pass from the left wing, and picked up by Quick, was shot just over the crossbar. Several corners followed but brought no results. The play then changed to the other end of the field and saw the Saints bombarding the Guards goal. Time after time Joyce was called upon to clear the ball from danger. The Scotchmen kept up the attack, and gained several corners. They were nicely placed but the Guards always managed to clear the leather from danger. During one of the bombardments Sawyers and Roberts rushed for the net and, with Joyce off his guard, the ball struck the upright and bounded into play only to be cleared by Rose. This looked to be a sure goal. The Guards were now beginning to lack their usual vim but in spite of the repeated attacks made by their opponents, no further scoring resulted. The game ended Guards 1 goal; Saints 1.

Mr. T. Delahanty refereed.
 As a result of last night's game the championship is still in doubt. Should the C.R.I. defeat the Guards, and the B.I.S. defeat the Feliidians, in their next games, both will be tied for the honors.

The table now stands:—

Guards	5 0 1 15 4 11
Saints	7 4 1 2 17 8 10
Cadets	7 5 2 0 19 6 10
B. I. S.	6 4 1 1 19 15 9
Feliidians	6 3 3 0 11 8 9

Mr. H. V. Hutchings States His Case

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—I have the honor to be allowed and request space in your paper to reply to certain remarks made about myself in an article in the "Daily News" of July 28, 1924, signed FRO PATRIA, viz:—
 "We have an officer (Mr. H. V. Hutchings), who is designated in the Estimates as Assistant Deputy Minister of Customs. His salary is $3200.00. He is Secretary of the Fishery Board for which he receives annually $500.; he received for services as Commissioner on Tariff Revision $1233.; he received for services as Secretary of the Export Refund Commission on codfish $1500., a total of $6333.00."
 I have never received a salary of $3200.00; I was never Secretary of the Fishery Board, and I do not receive $500 annually from it. I did receive $1233.00 on account of the Tariff Revision Commission, also $1500.00 for services in connection with the re-appointment of 10 cents per quintal on codfish, covering a period of over two years. The first Secretary of Fishery Board that I know of was Judge Frowse. When he died, Mr. A. C. Goodridge, the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries was appointed and received the pay in connection with the work, but when I was appointed Deputy Minister of Marine & Fisheries this position was not given to me, and I never received a cent for such. I think I can safely say that my work in connection with the Fishery Board was appreciated, particularly in St. John's East, in connection with Trap Berth and Trap Berth Drawings, for which I received no remuneration.

When I was appointed Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, my salary as such was $2500.00 per year, with $100.00 per year increase until $3600.00 was reached, while every other Deputy Minister in the service at that period received $2000.00 per
