Poetry.

The Hills of the Lord. God plowed one day with an earthquake, And drove his furrows deep! The huddling plains upstarted, The hills were all asleep!

But that is the mountain's secret, Age hidden in their breast;
'God's peace is everlasting,'
And the dream-words of their rest.

He hath made them the haunt of beauty. The home elect of his grace;
He spreadeth his morning on them,
His sunsets light their face.

The people of tired cities

Come up to the shrine and pray;
God freshens again within them

As he passes by all day.

And lo, I have caught their secret!
The beauty deeper than all!
This faith—that Life's hard moments,
When the jarring sorrows befall, Are but God plowing his mountains And those mountains yet shall be he source of his grace and freshness, And his peace everlasting to me.

—Rev. Wm. Gannet.

Cradle Song.

Sleep, Baby, sleep:
The twilight's dewy fingers
Have gently closed the lids of weary day;
A robin with her lullaby still lingers On yonder maple's topmost swinging spray; Afar and near the dusky crickets peep,

Sleep, Baby, sleep:
The blossom-bells are swinging,
Asleep, upon each bough and leafy spray;
The sleepless, vagrant brook is softly singing
In dulcet tones a dreamy roundelay;

deep, Sleep, Baby, sleep.

Sleep, Baby, sleep;
O'er you blue, waveless river,
The silver moon her silent course doth take n a bridge that glistens in her keep; Sleep, Baby, sleep. Sleep, Baby, sleep;

Somewhere upon the ocean Thy father's noble ship is nearing home; Rocked gently by the sleeping waves Sleep, Baby, sleep.
