PEACE TERMS SIGNED.

Glad Tidings Received Here Sunday Evening. Great Rejoicing Throughout the Dominion.

OFFICIAL CABLEGRAM FROM LORD KITCHENER.

PRETORIA, Saturday, May 31st, 11:15 P. M.—A document containing terms of surrender was signed here this evening at 10.30 o'clock by all the Boer representatives, as well as by Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, and myself.

A telegram announcing that the Boers had signed a peace declaration at Pretoria late Saturday night, was received by Lt. Col. R. R. Call late Sunday afternoon and quickly spread over the town causing intense joy wherever it was known, and in the different churches the announcement was made that peace had been declared and prayers of thanksgiving offered.

London, June 3.—Except Ireland, practically all of the United Kingdom is holiday making today in celebration of the conclusion of peace in South Africa. The streets everywhere are thronged with people who indulge in cheering or blowing penny trumpets. The tone of King Edward's message to the people, and the absence therein of any note of exultation, seems to have set a good example and while giving free vent to their satisfaction, the British are showing small desire to crowd over their late enemies.

Crowds of suburbanites poured into London at an early hour and converged towards the usual centres, the Mansion House, Royal Exchange, Trafalgar Square, and the other of the metropolis. The early demonstrations on the stock exchange, where the members arrived an hour earlier than usual, began with the bidding up of South African securities and consols.

The members of the House then marched to the Mansion House and reverently listened to the reading of the message of Lord Milner, Sir Joseph C. Drummond, and afterwards resumed business, but without much enthusiasm.

Later in the day a levee at St. James palace and a cabinet meeting in Downing Street attracted immense crowds, who waited the arrival of the cabinet ministers. The scenes which greeted the popular favorites have not been equalled in many years.

On Monday the town was gaily decked with flags but business went on as usual.

brought back as soon as possible to South Africa, without loss of liberty or property. No action to be taken against prisoners, except where they are guilty of breaches of the rules of the war.

"Dutch is to be taught in the schools, if desired by the parents, and used in the courts, if necessary.

"Prisoners are allowed for protection.

"Military occupation is to be withdrawn as soon as possible and self-government substituted. There is to be no tax on the Transvaal to pay the cost of the war.

"The sum of three million sterling ($15,000,000) is to be provided for restocking the Boer farms.

"Prisoners are liable to trial, according to the law of the colony to which they belong. The rank and file will be disfranchised for life. The death penalty will not be inflicted.

CANADA'S SOLDIERS.

OTTAWA, June 3.—The peace declaration will not affect the enlistment of the Canadian troops in Africa. The Boer African Contingent was organized for three years of active service, but has now passed. The Canadian Mounted Rifles accepted engagements for one year, or till the end of hostilities. No general expense is to be made for the men who will go till the end of hostilities. They can give efficient service until they have been in the field for a year or more.

THE BOER LEAVE.

London, June 2.—On the receipt of the news of the conclusion of peace in South Africa, the Boer prisoners at home, adding "I hope to close my eyes on world-wide peace."

CANADA'S CONGRATULATIONS.

OTTAWA, June 2.—At a meeting of the Dominion Council today a message of congratulation was framed by the Imperial authorities in connection with the declaration of peace.

ANOTHER FIRE.

Newcastle Narrowly Escaped Another Scorching.

TWO BARNs BURNED.

Early Sunday Morning. Fire had Good Start Before Discovered.

What would have been a serious fire but for weather conditions was discovered about daylight Sunday morning in Mrs. Parker's barn and an alarm was sounded both by the bell and Hickson's mill whistle. The fire department were quickly on the scene but the fire had a good start and as there was a little delay in starting the engine the fire was fierce before water was turned on and it rapidly spread to adjoining buildings owned by Major Maltby and used as a barn and woodshed.

In the meantime good work was done by buckets of water and to this Mrs. Parker probably owes the saving of her home as it frequently caught but was speedily extinguished. The rear end is badly scorched.

When the engine did get started it soon subdued the blaze with powerful streams of water and also one from the hand engine and in a short time the fire was all out having destroyed Mrs. Parker's barn and woodshed, Major Maltby's barn and damaged his woodshed to such an extent that it will have to be rebuilt.

It is a mystery how the fire started unless by some person or persons lighting their pipe or cigar and carelessly throwing a lighted match among the dry refuse of the barn. Mrs. Parker has several times been annoyed by men going into her premises to drink.

Mrs. Parker's house was insured in the Liverpool, London & Globe Co, but there was no insurance on the barn.

Major Maltby's barn and sheds were insured in the Phoenix, of London.

Mrs. Parker wishes to express her warmest thanks to the fire brigade and the many friends who so kindly assisted in saving her dwelling house Sunday morning.

Major Maltby also wishes to thank the fire brigade and all who so nobly helped to save his residence from destruction.

SAD SUICIDE.

Miss Elliott, a young girl, committed suicide at the morning.

Writes Another Interesting Letter FROM LONDON.

Had a Lovely time and Were Sorry to Leave England. Good-bye South Africa.

On the letter I wrote to you, was written a week ago but two days in London and gave a description of my arrangements up to that time. It was written on Sunday night, May 20th, so I will begin just now. I am all right.

Monday morning we had a public party in London, but in the afternoon we went to South Kensington Natural History Museum and Art Gallery, after which we went to the Imperial Institute with Miss Harvey. There we met Mrs. Evelyn Pugh, the Hon. I. Mackenzie, Mr. G. H. Duff-Miller, Lady Knollys, and several other women we had met before. Lady Knollys read to us a poem which had been composed especially for me by the daughter of the late Bishop of London. Then each of us was presented with a copy of the poem and the women who were present were all through the museum and saw the new building. On our way home that evening I suddenly felt ill and in the next moment I was lying on the ground. I was very much surprised to find that I was very much better in a few minutes. of the Executive committee. One of the principal matters discussed was the formation of a junior society. By the recommendation of the committee appointed at a previous meeting it was decided to admit boys from 15 to 25 years of age to the Y. M. C. A. club. The Y. M. C. A. club was opened on Friday evening, June 6th.

At the Sunday afternoon meeting, R. C. Mr. Wallace gave an excellent address on "The subject of 'Weathering the Storms'."

A goodly number were present and apparently enjoyed very much the also interesting evening. Men of most every age at the same hour 4 o'clock.

GREAT NORTHWEST.

An exceedingly inspiring missionary sermon was held at the members of the Metropolitan Methodist Church recently from Rev. John McDougall, Superintendent of the Methodist Indian Missions in Manitoba and the Northwest. It was a unique sermon, and at the outset seemed more like an address by a western statesman than a sermon. Mr. McDougall's figures came as if from a politician, but were in reality the result of close reasoning by a zealous missionary. He spoke from an experience of 42 years in travel and work throughout every part of the Northwest, and yet confessed that he knew only a part of it, notwithstanding the fact that the pastor had introduced him as a man knowing more, perhaps, about it than any other living person.

Mr. McDougall took as an illustration of the greatness of that country a block of land 1,000 miles square (640,000,000 acres), abutting the 49th parallel, and lying between the Rockies and the western boundary of Ontario. This great stretch of territory contained, in his estimation, more acres capable of agriculture and of responding to the thrift and mechanical operation of industrious men than any other stretch of like dimensions on the face of the globe. He called it the very acme of God's work in this respect. Of this great block of land he took 100,000,000 acres, less than one-sixth of it, and placed a conservative estimate of a yield, when cultivated, of fifteen bushels an acre. Then he took the bulk estimate, and asked what it would mean to move it to the markets of the world. Looking at it as Mr. McDougall presented it, the haulage necessary seems enormous. He took a train of 40 cars leaving Winnipeg for the east. Each car would carry 1,000 bushels, making an aggregate cargo of 40,000 bushels. Then he asked how many trains of that kind it would take to move his conservative estimate of fifteen bushels an acre of one-sixth of his selected block. He had found that it would take 57,500 trains of 40 cars, or a little more than 102 trains a day for every day of the year. Figuring more lively still, he had found that it would keep one of such trains moving out of Winnipeg every fifteen minutes, day and night, for 365 days to move the wheat crop of but one-sixth of that stretch of country.

But Mr. McDougall did not confine his estimates to wheat alone. He supposed that in time live stock would be raised in that part of the country. He had waited 23 years for a railway, and had come to know the virtue of patience. The country was rich in pasture land and grasses of rich butter and cheese producing qualities, so that it promised great possibilities. Mr. McDougall allowed one fat bullock a year for shipping purposes to every 40 acres of one-sixth of the block 1,000 miles square. That meant 16,000,000 head of cattle a year. At 20 head to a car, it meant 800,000 trains of 20 cars each, or a little more than 100 trainloads of cattle moving out of Winnipeg every day for a year. To every ten acres he allowed one fat sheep and one marketable hog. That meant 61,000,000 of each, which loaded 200 to a car, would show 32,000 trains of twenty cars each moving out of Winnipeg, one about every fifteen minutes, day and night, for a year. Butter and cheese were not overlooked, but of wheat and live stock alone, at this very conservative estimate, it was shown that 100,000 trains of twenty cars each would pass out of Winnipeg every year, or one train every five minutes, to the markets of the world.

Mr. McDougall said that he himself had traced along the eastern base of the Rockies 500 miles long and 200 miles wide one great bed of rich anthracite and bituminous coal, or, in other words, 100,000 square miles of it. He had heard that China had the largest coalbeds in the world, but his own observations had led him to believe that the coalbeds of the Rockies were far more extensive.

OLDEST SEAT OF LEARNING.

Oxford University is the oldest institution of learning in England. The first faculty authenticated notice of Oxford as a seat of learning dates from the time of Edward the Confessor. The first charter was granted to the University in King John's reign. In 1201 the University numbered within its walls 3,000 students. That, says an English writer, "among these a company of varlets, who pretended to be scholars, shuffed themselves in, and did act much vilifying, by thieving, quarrelling, etc." The University is made up of a number of separate corporations, or colleges. These colleges owe their existence to endowments by the king, and some of them are of ancient date, notably University (1219), Balliol (1263), and Merton (1274). Richard III did much for Oxford, and granted the University many privileges.

Twenty-one colleges and six halls now compose the University, and about 13,000 members are on the books. Of these, about 3,500 are resident graduates. The income from endowments of the various colleges amounts to a little more than $1,000,000. The highest officer in the University is the Chancellor. He is elected by the members and holds office for life. A student, to enter any of the colleges, must have some knowledge of the classics and mathematics. To get a degree a student must reside at least twelve continuous terms at the University. The study of ancient literature, history and philosophy is largely encouraged at Oxford. There are also schools in modern history, civil law and theology. Mathematics, natural science, etc., have each their schools.

Attached to each college are fellowships and scholarships, awarded in most cases by open competition. In most colleges the fellowships are held for life, so long as the holder remains unmarried. The value of the fellowships is about $400 or $500 a year, tenable for five years. The University year is divided into four terms, Hilary, Easter and Trinity. The intervals between terms are short, with the exception of the long vacation, which lasts the first or second week in June until October 10.

Oxford is sixty-three miles by rail from London, and lies northwest of the Capital. It is the "Thames," is exceedingly rich in beautiful buildings, and is the most famous institution of learning in the world.

A clear evidence of the steady and assured economic betterment of Newfoundland is shown by the graduation of the "crash" of December, 1894, and the resulting stagnation of 1895. For the fiscal year 1896-7 the imports were $5,929,000, and for 1900-1 they were $7,350,000, an increase in the five years of $1,420,000, or 23 per cent. During the same period the exports grew from $4,947,000 to $8,320,000, an increase of $3,373,000, or 69 per cent. The total of the annual trade—imports and exports—advanced in the five years from $10,876,000 to $15,680,000, an increase of $4,804,000, or 47 per cent. Roughly speaking, the colony's trade has grown by ten per cent. per annum, to 50 per cent. in the five years.

The increase in the volume of trade and social conditions is largely due to the increasing sobriety of the people. The budget gives a very interesting table showing how very markedly has been the advance in this respect the past thirty years. In 1870, with a population of 146,500, the people drank 145,000 gallons of wine and spirits (110,000 gallons being rum) and 53,836 gallons of ale and beer, or, roughly estimated, one gallon of the strongest drinks and one-third of a gallon of the milder per head of the population, rum being especially the fishermen's tipple. In 1900 they drank only 70,010 gallons of wine and spirits (rum being but 42,000 gallons, while whiskey had increased from 4,200 to 16,180) and 22,245 gallons of ale and beer. In other words, the people drank the same amount of ales per head, but their consumption of ardent liquors dropped to less than one-third of a gallon.

When the liver is clogged by the inactivity of the kidneys and bowels, it becomes torpid and fails to filter the bile from the blood, thus producing biliousness and a general impairment of the digestive system. The tongue is coated, the head aches, digestion is imperfect, the bowels are constipated, the limbs and feet, feelings of fullness, weight and soreness over the stomach and liver, the eye becomes yellow and jaundiced, and the complexion muddy; the urine is scanty and highly colored, and the bowels irregular, constipated and loose. There is little use of treating the liver separately, as it can never get right until the kidneys and bowels are moving the bile from the system. It is for this very reason that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured so successfully the most chronic cases of liver complaint, biliousness and constipation. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HARD, RACKING COUGHS

Barring accidents, the person who gets along with the least amount of cough will live the longest. Of course, the right time to attack a cough is at the commencement, when it is a simple thing for the right treatment to drive the cough quickly away. As a general thing, however, people spend so much time in experimenting with various remedies that the cough is well under way before they know it. Then comes the long sea. You feel the hard, racking all through your system, and get relief from nothing. You fill your stomach with nauseating mixtures to no purpose. Then you use compounds containing narcotic, which deceive temporarily, and leave you slightly worse. Some coughs of this kind hang on for weeks or even months, and of course, they frequently develop into serious lung troubles. A true specific for all coughs is Adamson's Botanic Cough Balm, and should be kept in the house against any emergency. With a cough that has become chronic the effect of this remedy is lessening of the dull sensation of pain which usually is felt with such a cough. Then you are conscious that the soreness is leaving you, and presently the desire to cough grows less frequent. All this process is brought out by the healing properties of the Balm. It is a compound of herbs and gums. You can test it, 25c. at any druggist. Get the genuine with "F. W. Kinsman & Co." blown in the bottle.

There is an old bachelor in this county who has been waiting on the same girl more than twenty years. He must lack a great deal of nerve.

The Toronto "Star" reporter investigated the case of Mr. Geo. Warner, and found that after thirty years of waiting for a girl, he had been cured by inhaling Catarrhozone. This proves that where Catarrhozone treatment is employed, impaired hearing and deafness can be cured. Catarrhozone always brings quick relief, and is warranted to give lasting satisfaction. All sufferers from impaired hearing, deafness, Head Noises and Ringing in the Ears are advised to inhale Catarrhozone and derive the great benefit it is capable of affording. CASE 113

"any cause for believing that M. Fauvel robbed himself? If you have, say so."

"The prisoner preserved a rigid silence.
"I see, monsieur," said the judge, "that you need time for reflection. Listen to the reading of your examination, and after signing it you will return to prison."

"The unhappy man was overcome. The last ray of hope was gone. He signed the paper without looking at it. He tottered as he left the judge's office so that the keeper was forced to support him."

"Witness No. 3, who was awaiting his turn and answered the call, was M. Fauvel."

"Although he had very slightly examined Prosper, the judge was now scrupulously attentive and particular in having every question answered.
"Did you ever suspect your cashier of being dishonest?" he asked.

"Certainly not. Yet there were a thousand reasons which should have made me distrustful."

"What reasons?"
"M. Bertomy gambled. I have known of his spending whole nights at the gaming table and losing immense sums of money. He was intimate with a bad set. Once he was mixed up with one of my clients, M. de Clameran, in a scandalous gambling affair."

"You must confess, monsieur," interrupted the judge, "that you were very imprudent, not to say culpable, to have intrusted your safe to such a man."
"Ah, monsieur, Prosper was not always thus. Until the past year he was a model of goodness. He was received into my house as one of my family. He spent all of his evenings with us and was the bosom friend of my eldest son, Lucien. Then suddenly he left us and never came to the house again. Yet I had every reason to believe him attached to my niece Madeleine."

"Then you can see no motive for your cashier's conduct?"
The banker paused to reflect.

"It is impossible for me to account for it. I have, however, always supposed that Prosper was led astray by a young man whom he met at my house about six months ago, M. Raoul de Lagors."

"A relative of my wife, a charming fellow, but somewhat wild, though rich enough to pay his way?"
The judge listened attentively to this, then wrote the name Lagors at the bottom of an already long list of his memoranda.

"Now," he said, "we are coming to the point. You are sure that the robbery was not committed by any in your house?"
"Quite sure, monsieur."

"You always kept your key?"
"Usually I carried it about on my person, and whenever I left it at home I put it in the secretary drawer in my bed chamber."

"Where was it the evening of the robbery?"
"By my secretary."

"But then?"
"Excuse me for interrupting you," said M. Fauvel, "and permit me to tell you that to a safe like mine the key is of no importance. In the first place, one must know the word upon which the five movable buttons turn. With the word one can open it without the key, but without the word—"

"And this word you never told to any one?"
"To no one in the world, monsieur, and sometimes I would have been puzzled to know myself with what word the safe had been shut."

"Had you forgotten it on the day of the theft?"
"No; the word had been changed the day before, and its peculiarity struck me."

"What was it?"
"Gipsy—G-t-s-y," said the banker, spelling the name.

M. Patriguet wrote down the name.
"Once more question, monsieur. Were you at home the evening before the robbery?"

"No; I dined and spent the evening with a friend. When I returned home about 1 o'clock, my wife was in bed, and I went to bed immediately."

"And you were ignorant of what came there in the night?"
"Of course I would. How else am I to get into M. Fauvel's house for the purpose of studying my characters?"

"Then the valet gave you no news?"
"Nothing that I could make use of, and yet I turned him inside out like a glove. This banker is a remarkable man. Evariste says he has not a single vice, not even a little defect by which his valet could gain to some. He neither smokes, drinks nor plays—in fact, he is a saint. He is worth millions and lives as respectably and quietly as a greener. He is devoted to his wife, adores his children, is very hospitable, but seldom goes into society."

"Then his wife is young?"
"She must be about fifty."

"How, Alexandre, selected a moment.
"Did you inquire about the other members of the family?"

"Certainly. The younger son, Lucien, lives with his parents, and is as proper as a young lady."

"And this niece of whom you spoke?"
"Evariste could tell you about her."

"Mme. Alexandre—"

"Absolutely. After my positive orders I could only suppose that a sum had been left there over night. I stated this fact to the countess in M. Bertomy's presence, and he acknowledged it to be the case."

"That will do, monsieur."

M. Patriguet was well informed of the high standing of the banker and knew almost as much of his affairs as did M. Fauvel himself.

He asked him to see his testimony and then escorted him to the door of his office, a rare favor on his part.

Five o'clock struck before the list of witnesses summoned for the day was exhausted, but the task of M. Patriguet was not yet finished. He rang for his bailiff, who instantly appeared, and said to him:

"Go at once and bring Fanferlot here."

It was some time before the dejected answered the summons. Having met a colleague on the gallery, he thought it his duty to treat him to a drink, and the bailiff had found it necessary to bring him from the little inn at the corner.

"How is it that you keep people waiting?" said the judge.

"Despite his smiling face, he was very uneasy. To follow the Bertomy case alone it required a double play that might be discovered at any moment. To manage at once the case of justice and his own ambition he took great risks, the least of which was the losing his place."

"I have had a great deal to do," he said to excuse himself, "and have not lost any time."

And he began to give a detailed account of his movements. He was embarrassed, for he spoke with all sorts of restrictions, picking out what was to be said and avoiding what was to be left unsaid. Thus he gave the history of Cavillon's letter, which he handed to the judge, but he did not breathe a word of Madeleine. On the other hand, he gave biographical details, very minute indeed, of Prosper and Mme. Gipsy, which he had collected from various quarters. As he heard the story M. Patriguet's convictions were strengthened.

"The young man is evidently guilty," he said.

Fanferlot did not reply. His opinion was different, but he was delighted that the judge was on the wrong track, thinking that his own glory would thereby be the greater when he discovered the real culprit. The fact was that this grand discovery was as far off as he had ever been from it.

After hearing all he had to tell, the judge dismissed Fanferlot, telling him to return in the morning.

"Above all," he said as Fanferlot left the room, "do not lose sight of the girl. For the time being M. Patriguet was compelled to rely upon Prosper's word."

"Well," he said, "I will not press this point. But tell me why, in spite of the formal order of M. Fauvel, you drew the money from the Bank of France the night before instead of waiting till the morning of the payment."

"Because M. de Clameran had told me that he was agreeable, and necessary, for him to have his money early in the morning. He will testify to that fact if you ask him. I knew that I would not see my office late."

"This M. de Clameran is a friend of yours?"

"By no means. I have always felt a sort of repulsion for him, but he is the intimate friend of my friend, M. Lagors."

"One more thing," said the judge. "How did you spend the evening, the night of the crime?"

"When I left my office, at 5 o'clock, I took the St. Germain train and went to Vestier, M. de Lagors' country seat. I carried him 1,500 francs, which he had asked for, and not finding him at home, I left it with his servant."

"Did he tell you that M. de Lagors was going on a journey?"

"No, monsieur. I did not know that he had left Paris."

"Very well. Where did you go when you left Vestier?"

"I returned to Paris and dined at a restaurant on the boulevard with a friend."

"And then?"

"Prosper hesitated."

"You are silent," said M. Patriguet. "Then I will tell you how you employed your time. On returned to your room in Clapart street, dressed yourself and attended a dance."

"You are right, monsieur."

"And did you not play at bacarrat and lose 1,800 francs?"

"Pardon me, monsieur; only 1,100."

"Very well. In the morning you paid a note of a thousand francs?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"Moreover, there remained 500 francs in your desk, and you had 400 in your purse when you were arrested. So that altogether in twenty-four hours 4,500 francs—"

Prosper was not disconcerted. Not being aware of the powerful means of investigation possessed by the law, he wondered how in so short a time the judge could have obtained such accurate information.

"Your statement is correct, monsieur," he said finally.

"Where did all this money come from? The evening before you had so little that you were obliged to defer the payment of a small bill."

"Monsieur, the day of which you speak I sold through an agent some bonds I had, about 3,000 francs. Besides, I took from the safe 2,000 francs in advance on my salary. I have nothing to hide."

The prisoner had given clear answers. M. Patriguet determined to attack him from a new point.

"You say you have no wish to conceal any of your actions. Then why did you write this note to one of your companions?"

"This is the letter told. Prosper's eros dropped before the inquiring look of the judge.

"I thought," he stammered—"I wished—"

"You wished to screen this woman?"

"Yes, monsieur, that is true. I knew that when a man in my condition is accused of robbery he has every fault, every weakness, of his life charged against him."

"I suppose you know who this woman is?"

"Mme. Gipsy was a governess when I first knew her. She was born at Oporto and came to France with a Portuguese family."

"Her name is not Gipsy. She has never been a governess, and she is not a Portuguese."

"Prosper was about to protest, but M. Patriguet imposed silence. He shrugged his shoulders and began looking over a large file of papers on his desk."

"Ah, here it is," he said. "Listen! Palmire Choacrelle, born at Paris in 1850, daughter of Choacrelle (dame), undertaker's assistant, and of Caroline Piedent, his wife."

The prisoner made a gesture of impatience. He did not know that the judge was reading him this report to convince him that nothing can escape the police.

"Palmire Choacrelle," he continued, "at twelve years of age was apprenticed to a shoemaker and remained with him until she was sixteen. Traces of her are lost for one year. At seventeen she is hired as a servant by a crozier on St. Denis street named Dom bas and remains there three months. She passed this same year, 1857, at eight or ten different places. In 1858 she entered as a shopgirl the store of a fan merchant in Choiseul alley."

"While he read the judge watched Prosper's face to observe the effect of these revelations."

"Toward the close of 1858," he continued, "the girl Choacrelle was employed as a servant by Mme. Mines and accompanied her to Lisbon. How long did she remain in Lisbon? What did she do while she remained there? We have no information as to this. However, it is certain that in 1861 she returned to Paris and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for an assault. Ah, she returned from Portugal with the name of Nina Gipsy."

"But I assure you, monsieur," Prosper began, "I assure you."

"Yes, I comprehend. This history is less romantic doubtless than the one you have understood, but, then, it has the merit of being true. We lost sight of Palmire Choacrelle, who deserted him upon her release from prison, but we met her again six months later, having made the acquaintance of a traveling agent who became infatuated with her."

"She deserted him, she deserted him to devote herself to you?"

The judge paused for a moment, as if to give Prosper time for reflection, and then slowly said:

"This is the woman whom you have named your companion, the woman for whom you have committed robbery."

Once more M. Patriguet was on the case and to complete the picture he had complete information. Prosper remained silent.

"At any rate," insisted M. Patriguet, "you will confess that this girl has caused your ruin."

"I cannot confess that, monsieur, for it is not true."

"You will also say that it was not for this girl's sake you renounced an intimacy of many years and ceased spending your evenings at your employer's."

"I swear that she was not the cause."

"Then why did you cease suddenly your visits to the house of a young lady whom you confided by repeated promises to marry? You had written to your father to demand her hand for you."

"I had reasons which I cannot reveal," answered Prosper in a trembling voice.

The judge breathed freely. At last he had discovered a vulnerable point in the prisoner's armor.

"Did Mlle. Madeleine dismiss you?"

"Prosper was silent. He was visibly agitated."

"Speak," said M. Patriguet. "I warn you that this circumstance is one of the most important in your case."

"Whatever be the cost, I am justified to keep silent."

"Beware of what you do. Justice will not be satisfied with scruples of conscience."

M. Patriguet waited for an answer. No answer came. Prosper was buried in thought.

"Monsieur," he finally said, "there is one detail I have forgotten to mention. It may be of importance in my defense."

"Explain."

"The messenger I sent to the bank was with me when I put the bills in the safe. At any rate, I left the office before he did."

"Very well. He shall be examined. Now you can return to your cell."

M. Patriguet thus abruptly dismissed Prosper because he wished to immediately act upon this last piece of information.

"Signifi," said he to his secretary as soon as Prosper had left the room, "is not this Antonia the man who was excited from yesterday because he saw a letter of a private secretary this morning?"

"Yes, monsieur."

"Where does he live?"

"He is not at his home. Fanferlot says he was as ill that he was taken to the hospital—the Dubois hospital."

"Very well. I am going to examine him today—this very hour. Take writing materials and send for a carriage."

While Antonia he was answering? It was doubtful. The director of the hospital said that, although the man suffered horribly from a broken leg, he had not been able to answer.

"If he is not able to answer, I will send for the doctor to examine him."

The WHIRL of the TOWN

June 4th. Sunday and Monday's warm weather was followed by cool weather yesterday. The S. S. Bengore Head arrived Monday morning and is loading at Lynche's, Nelson...

The popular poem, "The Days of Duffy Gillis" will appear in our Souvenir Edition, price 10 cents.

News has been received by Ald. Wye of the death of Mr. James Noble at Athol, Mass.—World.

The latest poem "The Man Behind the Booth" in our Souvenir, price 10 cents.—3w.

Mr. Martin Dunn of Redbank, an aged and respected resident of Redbank, died at his home last Saturday. The funeral was held Monday and was largely attended.

By request we have published the popular poem "The Dunganon Contingent" in our Souvenir. This will give all an opportunity of procuring a copy of that popular poem, as we could not supply the demand when it was published formerly.

Mr. John Connell and Mr. Wm. Reid, were driving together one day last week. We expect to have some exciting big game stories as a result.

Mr. J. W. Miller, of Millerton, accompanied by Mrs. Miller, were down Monday with his new automobile. It is a light color and is very smooth running.

A number of the boys of the Baptist church, among them, will be punished by Rev. A. F. Brown, Monday morning, for training Power, coming to school in South Africa.

Monday was the anniversary of Mr. Sinclair's death. The grave in St. James cemetery was suitably bedecked with cut flowers.

Messrs. R. H. Armstrong, A. A. Huston, and A. Reid left yesterday morning for the Club pool to try for salmon and trout. The camp at the pool has been refitted and improved for this season's fishing.

Mr. Wm. Reid has a grievance. The government surveyor has run lines for a new road to connect with the new bridge over the mill race and this cuts through his farm and naturally Mr. Reid is very angry in his views as to government surveyors, governments, etc.

Good catches of salmon are made in the Miramichi bay the past week. On Monday the steamer Miramichi brought up seventy boxes and each box contained about sixteen salmon.

The Nouvelle, Quebec, Lumber Company have sold their timber lands and mill and other property at Nouvelle to J. W. Kirkpatrick, of Diligent River and Percy I. Spicer, of Spencer's Island. The price was about $50,000.

Rev. D. Henderson goes to Ketchikan tonight to take the Albatross steamer for Liverpool. He will be absent two months. The rumor that he is to take a travelling companion is flatly contradicted. Mr. Fred S. Vance, a second year student at the college, will preach for St. Andrew's church during Mr. Henderson's absence.—World.

Complaints have been received at the office about furious driving which is permitted in town. Last week one evening two ladies narrowly escaped, as teams came rushing around the corner and nearly collided with them. Recently Mrs. Mackay was injured in this manner and this matter should receive the attention of the police.

Mr. T. Lyden, of Millerton, Nelson, is a big man, and on both the 27 and 28, when he was out on the 1st and 2nd, he was out on the 1st and 2nd. This was a record and a record. This was a record and a record. This was a record and a record.

Lundy has come from Moncton to spend a short vacation with his relatives. Dr. G. Ferguson of Dalhousie was here recently. Mr. Harry Carran was in Newcastle for a short time last week. Mr. H. Pallen of Chatham was in town this week.

RENOUS.

The farming is well advanced, the rain of last week did much good. Seed oats are very scarce, it being hard to procure any and those who had a supply realized good prices. A large number of our young men have returned from the drive. They succeeded in getting their logs to the boom. The dance in the A. G. H. hall is looked forward to with pleasure and a good time is assured.

SALMON BEACH.

The death of John T. Murphy occurred here on Friday morning, May 17. Deceased, who was 37 years of age had been ill only one week, and his death was a shock to his many friends. He leaves a brother and four sisters to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate brother. The funeral which was very largely attended, took place on Sunday morning. The body was taken to Grand Anse church, where a Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. S. Doucet, who also conducted funeral services, after which the remains were laid to rest in the R. C. cemetery at Grand Anse. The pall-bearers were:—Thos. O'Donnell, James Goodie, Edw. McCarty, William Daley, G. McCarty and Heber Battister.

JANEVILLE.

Janeville, May 30th.—We are having several days of heavy rain this week which will greatly hinder the farming. The salmon nets have all been set, but there are very few salmon yet. The cod fish are plentiful. Miss Susan Ellis is spending a few weeks with her relatives in Liverpool, N. S. Mr. Walter Boss spent several days of last week in Janeville. Miss Agnes Roy spent a day of last week among her relatives here. A. J. W. McKenzie is away on a trip around the coast. Mr. Frank Chapman got his foot badly crushed by a plank in Chapman & O'Brien's mill last week.

CHURCH POINT.

Church Point, June 2.—As there has been no news from this place I thought I would write a few notes. Winter has passed and summer has come again and everybody is busy. The farmers are pretty near through getting in their crops.

A few pairs Ladies', Misses' and Boys' Rubber Boots at reduced prices. We have also a few pairs men's Dongola slippers selling at 75c., former price $1.50

McMILLAN'S SHOE STORE.

The rain has made everything look fresh and green. Salmon had been scarce but there was better fishing last week. Mr. Anderson's mill started the 26th, they put a new furnace in which proves to be a success. Mr. Joseph Forrest, & Son, did the mason work. We are glad to see Mr. Wesley Davidson around again after his long spell of sickness. We hope he will soon be able to work again. Mr. Robert Murray of Chatham paid us a flying visit last week. Mr. and Mrs. James Davidson of New York are visiting their old home after being away for 21 years. Mrs. Robert McCandrick of Tabusintac is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morrison. Mr. Jamieson of Dalhousie is visiting his sister Mrs. Harris Davidson. Mr. Wm. Davidson of Lower Newcastle has been down here visiting his brother Mr. Harris Davidson. Mr. James Morrison and Miss Clemmie McKnight, of this place played bridge in weekend hours. They went to Bathurst on their wedding tour and have not yet returned. We wish them joy. The I. O. F. meets every second and last Saturday of every month. The Division meets every Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davidson and Mr. Harry King have newly joined the Division. Mr. King and Mr. Robert England, junior, are farming for Mr. James Ansterson. Miss Jane Morrison formerly of Oak Point is very sick at her sister, Mrs. Alexander Loggie. Mrs. Wm. Davidson is very poorly, we hope she will soon recover. Mrs. Robt. England has been poorly for the past week, but she is getting better.

MISS ELLIOTT.

(Continued from page one.) human being could want. And what you get there is sure to be the very best. But it is run by a company and only members of this company are supposed to deal there. We do not find London a bit cheaper to stop in than at home. Some things are much more expensive. I called at Mr. Duff Miller's office Tuesday morning, couldn't telephone him when I'd be at home, for we never know when we'll be in. Miss Melcher showed us into his private office, and he came in in a few minutes. He was just lovely. He talked to us as if he had known us always. He called here to see me yesterday afternoon to see me but I wasn't home, and he left his card. In the afternoon we went out to Hatfield to see the house where Lord Salisbury lives. Of course he was not home for "the house" in session here, but his daughter-in-law Lady Edward Cecil entertained us, and we had a delightful time. This house was built in 1611. We were all through it, and saw King James' drawing-room and bed-room, the bed-rooms where Cromwell and Queen Victoria slept when they visited there. Also Queen Elizabeth's bed-room and the caddy she was rocked in, the first pair of stockings she ever wore, and her garden hat. About five o'clock we went to supper to Lady Buller's and met her daughter (George), Lady Sersey, Lady Dun Donald, Lady Leven, Lady Margaret Watson, and several young girls. Just as we were leaving, Lady Northcote came. She was a Canadian, a daughter of Lord Mount Stephen. She was sorry to have been late, but it was unavoidable, and she hoped to have the pleasure of entertaining us at her home when we came back. Last evening we were busy packing, and this morning we were up early and hustled off to the station. Our train left at 10.25 and the following were among those who came to see us off: Mr. Martin of the Colonial Office, Mr. Duff Miller and his friend, Mr. McKeo of Montreal, Mr. Colmar (Lord Strathcona's Secy) Lady Buller, her daughter, and sister-in-law, Miss Bude-Powell, Miss Mansfield, Miss Watson, Mrs. Hamilton and others that I can't just now think of. Miss Baden-Powell brought a package of her own books for us. She gave me three of flowers which are not to be opened till we get on the boat, and a bunch of wild flowers. Mr. McKeo gave me a magazine, and Mr. Duff Miller gave me a box of candies. Mr. Miller was very good to me and said to be sure and let him know when we were coming back and he would do all in his power to make it pleasant. Every body was good to us and gave us such a nice time that we were almost sorry to leave London as we were to leave Canada.

We all feel now that we are amply repaid for every hardship we might possibly have to endure when we get to South Africa. ONTARIO ELECTIONS. Majority Cut Down to Four. TORONTO, May 31.—The revised returns in the general elections now show a government majority of only four. The returns received from the outlying districts of Altona changed that constituency, giving the

and I went shopping. In the afternoon we all went to the Tate Gallery and saw all the pictures by all the famous painters. Some of them are very grand. Then we were taken to Lambeth Tower where the Lollards were imprisoned. It was built in 1333, just thirty years before America was discovered. The Archbishop of Canterbury lives there and we had a talk with him. He is over an eighty years old and nearly blind, but asked especially that we be brought to see him. In this tower we saw what is called the Post Room. It was called that because through the very centre of the room there is a huge post, to which the Lollards were tied while being whipped, after which they were imprisoned. All around the walls are rings to which they used to be attached. We were in it so long that night that very few of us went out. We had an invitation to the London Board School, but some of us declined with thanks. We simply had to for we are nearly worn out. I almost forgot to say that after the Tower we went to the Tower of London, we had tea with His Grace, Marquis Stanley, sister of Lord Stanley but not the Lord Stanley of Canada, although related to him. This afternoon we went to Knebworth in the vicar Lord Strathcona's house, as I will finish this this evening. Well, we have been to Knebworth, and had our home. We left Kings Cross Station at 1.30 p.m. Officers were on duty and waiting for Lord Strathcona's party, and we saw on board our own cars. It was a grand car, and on every window was posted a card which read, "Knebworth train, Lord Strathcona's party, May 31st." So of course we were not asked for any tickets. When we reached Knebworth there were very many ladies and gentlemen waiting for our arrival. We drove to Lynton Palace (Lord Strathcona's home), and such a glorious sight. We were simply in raptures over the beauty of the country. Lord Strathcona could not be there as the house is in session, but his daughter, Mrs. Howard was there to receive us. As soon as we met she led us to the dining hall where we had a lovely luncheon. Then we went over to see the Knebworth Church, a quaint little place, and from there to Knebworth Lake where Lord Buller Lytton used to do most of his writing. It is indeed a lovely spot, enough to inspire anybody to write. There are two bridges across it which divide it into three parts, and on one side a little white and brown coat. Just about the centre of the middle part there is a little island so small you can see it with the eye, and up and down all the time are sailing ducks and swans. Then we were shown through the house and garden, after which we had supper. By the time the carriages were waiting, and we drove to the station. We enjoyed the afternoon most thoroughly. Sunday, May 31.—I have written a number of my doings up to yesterday, so will begin where I left off. Yesterday morning we went to the Colonial Office and got 25 sh. each for our expenses during the ten days we were in London. Then we went shopping and got back to the hotel just in time to hurriedly change our attire and go to the Tower, where we met Lady Andry Buller (Sir Redvers' wife) and her sister, and Miss Mansfield, who were waiting for us. An officer took us all through the Tower and explained everything to us. We saw the Bloody Tower, so called because it was there that the two little Princes were assassinated. We saw the dungeon where Sir Walter Raleigh was imprisoned, and the dungeon called the Wakefield Dungeon because the Yorkists were imprisoned there during the battle of Wakefield. We saw too, the dungeon where the Jews were imprisoned and tortured, and right in the solid wall was a dungeon called "Little Ease" where Guy Fawkes was kept. Then we saw all the crown jewels among which was the crown that the King will wear at the Coronation. The Queen will have a new crown which is being made now, and the real Klu-Noor will be in it. We only saw the model of it. About five o'clock we went to supper to Lady Buller's and met her daughter (George), Lady Sersey, Lady Dun Donald, Lady Leven, Lady Margaret Watson, and several young girls. Just as we were leaving, Lady Northcote came. She was a Canadian, a daughter of Lord Mount Stephen. She was sorry to have been late, but it was unavoidable, and she hoped to have the pleasure of entertaining us at her home when we came back. Last evening we were busy packing, and this morning we were up early and hustled off to the station. THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

The provincial government on Friday appointed Judge C. H. Barry B. C. Barrister, commissioner to investigate charges against the management of the Fredericton Deaf and Dumb School. The meeting will probably be behind closed doors, as it is said some of the evidence will be of a serious nature, affecting the moral conduct of officials and others connected with the institution. The land held by the Muskoka Lumber Company was under consideration by the government. W. A. Moss appeared for Messrs. Currie and Parvis and owners of Restigouche, who ask before the transfer is made to Mr. Sives that at least 20 miles be put up for sale. The surveyor general promised consideration.

CASE By... Emile Gaboriau

"I am ready to accompany you, monsieur." The commissary folded up his pocketbook and bowed to M. Faurel, saying to Prosper: "Let us go."

"What do you want with me?" he asked in a voice tremulous with fear. "You will be kind enough, my dear monsieur," said Fanferlot, "to excuse the great liberty I take. It is only about a trifling matter, and you will overwhelm me with obligations if you will do me the honor to accept my arm and step outside for a moment."

"Never!" exclaimed Cavallon. And, believing the moment favorable, he suddenly attempted to jerk his arm from under Fanferlot's and escape. But his efforts were vain. The detective's strength was equal to his agility.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY. Carlet's INDIAN PILLS. Heart Food. THE COMPLEXION

"What will you gain by seeing this, my dear madame?" asked Fanferlot. "Nothing. I can assure you that you have not the least chance of success. You will compromise Prosper. Who knows if you will not be suspected as his accomplice? M. Bertomy will surely follow you to the end of the earth."

"Did not M. Bertomy say, my dear lady, to the other end of Paris—to the boarding house or hotel?" "But I don't know where to find any." Fanferlot seemed to be reflecting, but he had great difficulty in concealing his delight at a sudden idea that flashed upon him. "I know of a hotel," he said at last, "but it might not suit you."

"He stepped across the street and stood in the door of a white stone house. In a few minutes the loud cracking of a whip apprised him that Mme. Nina had started for the Archangel. "That's said he gayly. "I hold her, at any rate!"

CHAPTER III. AT the same hour that Mme. Nina Gipsy went to find refuge at the Archangel, an highly recommended by Fanferlot the Squirrel, Prosper Bertomy was being entered on the list of books at the police office. There he had to wait two hours while the necessary forms were filled out.

"It is singular," he said, "I never felt so great a desire to take a walk. To the court clerk while he was signing through the formalities of the commitment, Prosper replied with languid brevity to the indispensable questions asked."

OUR SOUVENIR EDITION.

Good progress is being made with our souvenir, and it will probably be on sale next week.

By special request we are publishing the popular poem "Dungarvon's Contingent is Ready."

The Boer war is ended. The tidings which spread from lip to lip about town Sunday evening and all were glad that after a stubborn war of nearly two years and eight months the Boers had given way to the inevitable and signed a treaty of peace.

Canadian rejoicing over the termination of the war will be accompanied with an honest pride for the share Canadians had in it.

The terms of peace are quite favorable to the Boers. Of course they lay down their arms, but they get back rifles that they may protect themselves from the wild beasts.

The Boers are to have the use of the Dutch language in schools and in courts. They are to be under martial law, but this is to give way to civil law as soon as practicable.

Perhaps Great Britain will be the judge of that. They get fifteen millions of dollars with which to restore their arms. Those who were rebels are to be disfranchised, and they may be punished, the punishment of death is not to be inflicted.

There is not a time that is best for us. We are to be under martial law, but this is to give way to civil law as soon as practicable.

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Scott's Emulsion. You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. Harry Broecker of Chatham, was seriously injured there on Monday. He was engaged in painting the flagstaff in the square, assisted by his son, when through the letting go of a wrong guy the staff fell carrying Mr. Broecker, who was at the cross frame, about sixty feet from the ground with it.

The interior of Messrs. McMurdy & Co.'s store has been remodelled and now presents a noble appearance. The workroom has been removed upstairs, and a private office built at the rear. A metal ceiling has been put on and the whole neatly painted.

R. N. Wyse has had the front of his store painted and it presents a handsome and striking front. The interior has also been renovated. Messrs. Ryan Bros. did the work.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Scott's Emulsion. You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

Wishes to announce that she is just opening a carefully selected stock of ladies' and children's furnishings, in the Carter Block.

Thanking the public for their generous patronage in the past, she invites customers old and new, to call and see her in her newly fitted up rooms.

PEACE TERMS SIGNED.

Glad Tidings Received Here Sunday Evening. Great Rejoicing Throughout the Dominion.

OFFICIAL CABLEGRAM FROM LORD KITCHENER. PRETORIA, Saturday, May 31st, 11:15 P. M.—A document containing terms of surrender was signed here this evening at 10.30 o'clock by all the Boer representatives, as well as by Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, and myself."

A telegram announcing that the Boer delegates had signed a peace declaration at Pretoria late Saturday night, was received by Lt Col. R. R. Call late Sunday afternoon and quickly spread over the town causing intense joy wherever it was known, and in the different churches the announcement was made that peace had been declared and prayers of thanksgiving offered. On Monday the town was gaily decked with flags but business went on as usual. LONDON, June 5.—Except Ireland, practically all of the United Kingdom is holiday making today in celebration of the conclusion of peace in South Africa. The streets everywhere are thronged with people who indulge in cheering, blowing penny trumpets. The tone of King Edward's message to the people, and the absence thereof of any note of exultation, seems to have set a good example and while giving free vent to their satisfaction, the British are showing small desire to crowd their late enemies. Flags and banners are everywhere displayed, church bells are ringing, salutes are being fired and there is general jubilation on all sides. Crowds of suburbanites poured into London at an early hour and converged towards the usual centres, the Mansion House, Royal Exchange, Trafalgar Square, and quickly bedecked themselves with tiny flags, tuppens and badges. At intervals, some enthusiastic starts singing "God Save the King," which is being sung by the happy throngs and is heard for miles through the neighboring streets from one end to the other of the metropolis. The early dawn celebrations on the stock exchange, where the members arrived an hour earlier than usual, began with the bidding up of South African securities and ceased. On the official opening "God Save the King" was sung by all present, and a congratulatory telegram was despatched to Lord Kitchener. The members of the exchange then marched to the Mansion House and serenaded the Lord Mayor, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, and afterwards resumed business, but without much enthusiasm. Later in the day a levee at St. James palace and a cabinet meeting in Downing attracted immense crowds, who waited the arrival of the cabinet ministers. The scenes which greeted the popular favorites have not been equalled in many years. Many of the ministers wore court dress, having been at the levee, which added to the attractiveness of the occasion. Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, came in for special attention from the masses. The police could not hold them in bounds and crowds surged around his carriage, hurrahing and shouting congratulations until he escaped within the building. On the adjournment of the cabinet meeting the crowds repaired to Buckingham Palace and St. James Palace and cheered the King and other nobilities who attended the levee, among whom was the United States ambassador, Joseph H. Choate, and the rest of the embassy. Telegrams received from all parts of the province testify to the extreme joy felt by all classes at the conclusion of the war. A singular fact is that the first news of the conclusion of peace was received at Windsor by telephone from Berlin and Paris. The opinion is expressed in official quarters here that Commandant Fouché and other Boer leaders in Cape Colony, who did not attend the Vereeniging conference, will come in on their own accord. It is thought extremely improbable that many troops can be brought home in time for the coronation. LIVERPOOL, June 2.—The cotton, grain and provision exchanges here closed at one o'clock to-day, owing to the general holiday declared in celebration of peace in South Africa.

THE TERMS OF PEACE. LONDON, June 2.—In the House of Commons to-day the first lord of the treasury and government leader, A. J. Balfour, announced the terms of peace in South Africa, as follows:— The burgher forces lay down their arms and hand over all their rifles, guns and ammunition of war in their possession, or under their control. All prisoners are to be brought back as soon as possible to South Africa, without loss of liberty or property. No action to be taken against prisoners, except where they are guilty of breaches of the rules of the war. "Dutch is to be taught in the schools, if desired by the parents, and used in the courts, if necessary. "Rifles are allowed for protection. "Military occupation is to be withdrawn as soon as possible and self-government substituted. There is to be no tax on the Transvaal to pay the cost of the war. "The sum of three million sterling ($15,000,000) is to be provided for restoring the Boer farms. "Rebels are liable to trial, according to the law of the colony to which they belong. The rank and file will be disfranchised. "The death penalty will not be inflicted."

CANADA'S SOLDIERS. OTTAWA, June 2.—The peace proclamation will not affect the term of service of the Canadian corps out in Africa. The African Constabulary was enlisted for three years, of which almost one-half has now passed. The Canadian Mounted Rifles accepted engagement for one year, or till the end of hostilities. No one here expects, however, that the men will be let go until the full term has run out. They are an efficient service and will no doubt remain in imperial troops who have been in the field since the early stages of hostilities. Canadian soldiers recruited for service in South Africa since the outbreak of hostilities have numbered over seven thousand.

THE POPE IS GLAD. ROME, June 2.—On the receipt of news of the conclusion of peace in South Africa the pope expressed his joy, adding "I hope to close my eyes on world peace."

CANADA'S CONGRATULATIONS. OTTAWA, June 2.—A meeting of the Dominion cabinet today a message of gratulation was framed by the imperial authorities in connection with the conclusion of peace.

ANOTHER FIRE. Newcastle Narrowly Escaped Another Scorching. TWO BARNS BURNED Early Sunday Morning. Fire had Good Start Before Discovered.

What would have been a serious fire but for weather conditions was discovered about daylight Sunday morning in Mrs. Parker's barn and an alarm was sounded both by the bell and Hickson's mill whistle. The fire department were quickly on the scene but the fire had a good start and as there was a little delay in starting the engine the fire was fiercer before water was turned on and it rapidly spread to adjoining buildings owned by Major Maltby and used as a barn and woodshed. In the meantime good work was done by buckets of water and to this Mr. Parker probably owes the saving of her home as it frequently caught but was speedily extinguished. The rear end is badly scorched. When the engine did get started it soon subdued the blaze with powerful streams of water and also one from the hand engine and in a short time the fire was all out having destroyed Mrs. Parker's barn and woodshed, Major Maltby's barn and damaged his woodshed to such an extent that it will have to be rebuilt. It is a mystery how the fire started unless by some person or persons lighting their pipe or cigar and carelessly throwing a lighted match among the dry refuse of the barn. Mrs. Parker has several times been annoyed by men going into her premises to drink. Mrs. Parker's house was insured in the Liverpool, London & Globe Co., but there was no insurance on the barn. Major Maltby's barn and sheds were insured in the Phoenix of London. Mrs. Parker wishes to express her warmest thanks to the fire brigade and the many friends who so kindly assisted in saving her dwelling house Sunday morning. Major Maltby also wishes to thank the fire brigade and all who so nobly helped to save his residence from destruction.

Y. M. C. A. A meeting of the Executive committee was held in their rooms on Friday last. One of the principal matters discussed was the formation of a junior society. On the recommendation of the committee appointed at a previous meeting it was decided to admit boys from 13 to 16 years, and also to be half that part by adult members. Hours for juniors to be from 7 o'clock to 8:40 unless by special request of their parents, when they be permitted to remain later. Proposal to form a Ladies' committee was discussed but final action was deferred to next meeting which will be on Friday evening June, 6th. At the Sunday afternoon meeting Rev. Mr. Wallace gave an excellent address on "The subject 'Gather up the fragments.'" A goodly number were present and apparently enjoyed very much the short but interesting service. Meeting next Sunday at the same hour 4 o'clock.

SAD SUICIDE. Mr. Emerson Bryenton Committed Suicide at Houlton, Me. The body of Emerson Bryenton, arrived here last Friday afternoon from Houlton, Me., where the young man committed suicide, on Thursday, May 29th. The deceased was a stream driver and had been working on the Maine drive, but recently coming off the drive and went to the Radigan House where he committed the rash act. Two brothers, Walter and Allan, all sons of Mr. John Bryenton of Derby, were in Maine at the time. The former is a clerk in a store and Allan was on a drive and had a rough experience coming out in order to come home to the funeral, arriving here Saturday. In a letter to his sister the young man said that he had been considering what to do for the past three months but as he could not enjoy life he concluded to die. He also wrote a letter to the girl's mother. It appears that he had been engaged to the young lady for some time and that last summer they were to be married but as she was then in ill health the marriage was postponed until this past winter when the young lady threw him over and the marriage was called off. She was living at the house in which he shot himself and the night before he had a long conversation with her. The body was accompanied home by his brother Walter. The funeral from his father's residence, Derby, Sunday afternoon was very largely attended. Rev. M. Estey conducted the funeral service, the body being interred in the Methodist burying ground at Derby. The afflicted family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

MISS ELLIOTT Writes Another Letter FROM LONDON Had a Lovely time and Sorry to Leave. Off for South Africa.

The last letter I wrote you was ten when we had had a description of that time. It was written May 24th, so I will begin it off. Monday morning we had a lace on hand, but in the afternoon to South Kensington, National Museum and Art Gallery, also tea in the Imperial Hotel. Hervey. There we met (the hero of Mafeking) Lord Roberts, Lady Kitchener, and Miss Watson had met me especially for me by the Bishop of London. I presented with a three or four thought we might be interesting. On our way we had a very much. long when the hotel. We had a very interesting time. That evening we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much. Tuesday we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much. Wednesday we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much. Thursday we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much. Friday we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much. Saturday we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much. Sunday we had a very interesting time and enjoyed it very much.

OUR GREAT NORTH WEST.

Rev. John McDougall's Unique Sermon—What 100,000,000 Catholics Can Do—Would Mean—A Little Figuring.

An exceedingly inspiring missionary sermon was heard by the members of the Metropolitan Methodist Church recently from Rev. John McDougall, Superintendent of the Methodist Indian Missions in Manitoba and the Northwest. It was a unique sermon, and at the outset seemed more like an address by a western statesman to say, the Board of Trade than a pulpit discourse. Mr. McDougall's figures came as if from a politician, but were in reality the result of close reasoning by a zealous missionary. He spoke from an experience of 42 years in travel and work throughout every part of the Northwest, and yet confessed that he knew only a part of it, notwithstanding the fact that the pastor had introduced him as a man knowing more, perhaps, about it than any other living person.

Mr. McDougall took as an illustration of the greatness of that country a block of land 1,000 miles square (640,000,000 acres), abutting the 49th parallel, and lying between the Rockies and the western boundary of Ontario. This great stretch of territory contained, in his estimation, more acres capable of agriculture and of responding to the thrift and mechanical operation of industrious men than any other stretch of like dimensions on the face of the globe. He called it the very acme of God's work in this respect. Of this great block of land he took 100,000,000 acres, less than one-sixth of it, and placed a conservative estimate of a yield, when cultivated, of fifteen bushels an acre. Then he took the bulk estimate, and asked what it would mean to move it to the markets of the world. Looking at it as Mr. McDougall presented it, the haulage necessary seems enormous. He took a train of 40 cars leaving Winnipeg for the east. Each car would carry 1,000 bushels, making an aggregate cargo of 40,000 bushels. Then he asked how many trains of that kind it would take to move his conservative estimate of fifteen bushels an acre of one-sixth of the selected block. He had found that it would take 37,500 trains of 40 cars, or a little more than 102 trains a day for every fifteen minutes, day and night, for 365 days to move the wheat crop of but one-sixth of that stretch of country.

But Mr. McDougall did not confine his estimates to wheat alone. He supposed that in time live stock would be raised in that part of the country. He had waited 23 years for a railway, and had come to know the virtue of patience. The country was rich in pasture land and grasses of rich butter and cheese producing qualities, so that it promised great possibilities. Mr. McDougall allowed one fat bullock a year for shipping purposes to every 40 acres of one-sixth of the block (1,600 miles square). That meant 16,000,000 head of cattle a year. At a head to a car it meant 40,000 trains of 20 cars each, or a little more than 100 trainloads of cattle out of Winnipeg every day. To every ten acres he would show 32,000 trains of cars each moving out of Winnipeg about every fifteen minutes, day and night, for a year. The cheese were not overlooked. It was shown that 109,500 twenty cars each would leave Winnipeg every year, or every five minutes, to the rest of the world.

Mr. McDougall said that he had traced along the eastern base of the Rockies 500 miles long and a wide one great bed of rich lignite and bituminous coal, or, in words, 100,000 square miles. He had heard that China had the most coal beds in the world, and his observations had led him to believe that she had not one-fifth as much as this one block. Then there were great water powers. Mr. McDougall, in his travels, had found strong persistent currents. He had a companion in an old punt had once gone with the current down the big Saskatchewan 100 miles in 28 hours. There were also great natural reservoirs of water, with splendid tumbling power. The country along the valley of the North Saskatchewan was compared with England. It looked to Mr. McDougall as if some great race had lived there centuries ago, so splendid were the terraced forests and natural beauties.

MAN.

I hear men talk of other men With hate and loathsome epithets; The Saxon's tone is scornful when He speaks of the Irish and the Slaves; Taints at the Celt, the German sings In loud defiance of the Gael, Includes him with the things that crawl, And is in turn derided, too. The Tutor cries the Latin down, The white man turns against the brown, The fair-haired Norwegian tells us how Who dwell where cold winds never blow, Inheriting old hates; they brag Of race and pride of blood and drag The flag of rival clans in dust. Yet on the Tenth monarch's hands The hair grows as on his who stands As those in his brown hand who hunts The jungle's gloomy depths! The mean, Tartan'd Eskimo may boast, The same curve in his little toe That he has never as yet is healed! Yet men by men are still assailed. They brag of blood and boast of race; They scoff at tribe, clan wars with clan, As if the yellow Mongol's face Were not the mirror of a great As if state-lines were heaven-made things, As if God's never-shedding will, The color of a patch of skin, That may be pimped, though a king's.

WILL WEAR IT AT CORONATION.

Presentation of a Diamond Tiara to Lady Laurier at Ottawa.

The presentation which was made to Lady Laurier Thursday afternoon, May 1, says Ameryllis in Toronto Saturday Night, in Mrs. Power's drawing room, consisted of a diamond tiara and a purse of gold. Those from whom the gifts came were the Senators of the Government side. The tiara was from a certain number and the purse of gold from the others. Both gifts, it is safe to say, were most acceptable to Lady Laurier, and most show her in what high esteem the Senate holds the amiable wife of the Prime Minister. There was nothing at all formal about the manner of presentation—it was nothing more than an unceremonious five or six to ten, which Mrs. Laurence Power had invited Lady Laurier, and some members of the Senate. Mrs. George A. Cox, wife of Hon. G. J. Cox, happened to be in town that day, as also did Mrs. Mackay, wife of Hon. Robert Mackay of Montreal, and Mrs. Power invited these two ladies to come with their husbands. The honor of handing the tiara to Lady Laurier was given to Senator MacKay, and he accompanied the action with a few well chosen words. There was no address read, even though many of the daily papers have announced that "Senator Wark read the address." Senator Wark is the oldest member of the Senate, and the dear old man was at Mrs. Power's tea party. He was also one of those from whom either the tiara or the purse came, but he took no actual part in the giving of these things. Senator Raoul Dandurand presented the purse of gold with — you may be sure—a few well turned words. Senator Dandurand is not the one to miss an opportunity of saying something pretty, especially to a lady. So Lady Laurier, when she appears at smart functions during the coronation festivities, will be properly equipped with a diamond tiara.

The Thoughts of the Laurentians.

Away down in Quebec, where their rounded backs rest up through the younger soil we can almost hear the Laurentians muttering in rumbling voices of thunder: "They call us 'new,' we the old and hoary, we the nucleus of a continent and the earth. Standing as we have a million ages before, we, who have seen the flood, the ice ages, the coal age, and the time before ages were. We who have seen the birth of man, the birth of air-breathing animals and the birth of life itself. We, the foundations of the world. "Over our heads have roared the storms of a million ages, deep on our hoary sides are the scars of the glacial ice, while our vast depths form the last resting place of the first life, the Eozoon, the dawn animal. Continents have upheaved and sunk, seas have formed and receded, while yet we were young. The Alps, the Andes, the Himalayas and Rockies, late upstarts in our old age we shall yet see destroyed. While the world itself lasts so shall we endure, and man securing and continent calls us Canada the young! When man have overcome the flesh, when it seems to come the sea shall give up its dead, and the trump shall sound the signal for the final passing away of the world, then, and not till then, we and our country—the first and the last—shall pass away."

How J. J. Hill Dies.

J. J. Hill, the railway man of millions, who was born at Guelph, Ont., projector of immensities, takes hours every day to read a good book, and rests on his reads. His time is worth about $10 a minute, but some of us who have a weekly salary summed up in one figure think we can do nothing to rest ourselves unless we have the price. We may not be able to grapple the globe, we may not have a million or a cent, but there are many sources of rest that we all may know, many beauty spots that we all may see, and many restful thoughts that we all may cherish.

OLDEST SEAT OF LEARNING.

King John gave First Charter—Contains 21 colleges, 122,000 students.

Oxford University is the oldest institution of learning in England. The first fairly authenticated notice of Oxford as a seat of learning dates from the time of Edward the Confessor. The first charter was granted to the University by King John. In 1201 the University numbered within its walls 2,000 students, "but," says an old English writer, "among these a company of varlets, who pretended to be scholars, shuffled themselves in, and did not much villainy, by thieving, quarrelling, etc."

The University is made up of a number of separate corporations or colleges, whose existence to endowments by benevolent persons, and some of them are of ancient date. The colleges are (1270), Balliol (1263), and Merton (1270). Richard III. did much for Oxford, and granted the University many privileges. Twenty-one colleges and six halls now compose the University, and about 13,000 members are on the books. Of these, about 3,500 are resident graduates. The income from endowments of the various colleges amounts to a little more than $1,000,000. The highest officer in the University is the Chancellor. He is elected by the members and holds office for life.

A student, to enter any of the colleges, must have some knowledge of the classics and mathematics. To get a degree a student must reside in the college, collect the fellowships are held for life, so long as the holder remains unmarried. The value of the fellowships is about $400 or $500 a year.

The University year is divided into four terms — Michaelmas, Hilary, Easter and Trinity. The intervals between the terms are called vacations. The longest of the long vacation, which lasts from the first or second week of June until the 10th of October. Oxford is sixty-three miles by rail from London, and lies northwest of the Capital. It is on the Thames, is exceedingly rich in buildings, and is the most famous institution of learning in the world.

NEWFOUNDLAND TEMPERATE.

Trade Increase—Prosperity Attributed to Increasing Sobriety of the People.

A clear evidence of the steady and rapid economic betterment of Newfoundland is afforded by the gradual enlargement of the trade since the "crash" of December, 1894, and the resulting stagnation of 1895. For the fiscal year 1896-7 the imports were $5,929,000, and for 1900-1 they were $7,459,000, an increase in the five years of $1,530,000, or 24 per cent. During the same period the exports grew from $4,947,000 to $8,290,000, an increase of $3,343,000, or 69 per cent. The total of the annual trade—imports and exports—advanced in the five years from $10,876,000 to $15,749,000, an increase of $4,873,000, or 47 per cent. Roughly speaking, the colony's trade has grown by ten per cent. per annum, to 50 per cent. in five years, while the revenue has shown an augmentation of from $1,610,000 in 1896-7 to $2,080,000 in 1900-1, a growth of $470,000, or 29 per cent. The improvement in economic and social conditions is largely due to the increasing sobriety of the people. The budget gives very interesting table showing how very marked has been the advance in this respect the past thirty years. In 1870, with a population of 146,000, the people drank 145,000 gallons of wine and spirits (110,000 gallons being rum) and 53,886 gallons of ales and beers, or, roughly estimated, one gallon of the strongest drinks and one-third of a gallon of the mild or per head of the population, rum being especially the fishermen's tipple. In 1900 they drank only 70,010 gallons of wine and spirits (rum being but 42,000 gallons), while whiskey had increased from 4,200 to 16,180 and 22,245 gallons of ales and beers, the population being 220,000. In other words, the people drank the same amount of ales per head, but their consumption of ardent liquors dropped to less than one-third of a gallon.

A Sluggish, Inactive Liver

When the liver is clogged by the inactivity of the bile, it becomes torpid and fails to filter the bile from the blood, thus producing biliousness and a general impairment of the digestive system. The tongue is coated, the head aches, digestion is imperfect, there is aching of the limbs, a back, feeling of fullness, weight and soreness over the stomach and liver; the eye becomes yellow and jaundiced, and the complexion muddy; the urine is scanty and highly colored, and the bowels irregular, constipation and looseness alternating. There is little use of treating the liver separately, as it can never be set right until the kidneys and bowels are made active in removing the waste matter from the body. It is for this very reason that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have always proved so wonderfully successful in curing the most chronic cases of liver complaint, biliousness and complicated ailments of the kidney, liver and bowels. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HARD, RACKING COUGHS

Barring accidents, the person who gets along with the least amount of cough will live the longest. Of course, the right time to attack a cough is at the commencement, when it is a simple thing for the right treatment to drive the cough quickly away. As a general thing, however, people spend so much time in experimenting with various remedies that the cough is well under way before they know it. Then comes the long siege. You feel the hard, racking all through your system, and get relief from nothing. You fill your stomach with nauseating mixtures to no purpose. Then you use compounds containing narcotic, which deceive temporarily, and leave you slightly worse. Some coughs of this kind hang on for weeks or even months, and of course, they frequently develop into serious lung troubles. A true specific for all coughs is Adson's Botanic Cough Balsam, and it should be kept in the house against any emergency. With a cough that has become chronic the effect of this remedy is a lessening of the dull sensation of pain which usually is felt with such a cough. Then you are conscious that the soreness is leaving you, and eventually the desire to cough grows less frequent. All this process is brought about by the healing properties of the Balsam. It is a compound of herbs and gums. You can test it. Get it at any druggist. Get the genuine with "F. W. Kneaman & Co." blown in the bottle.

There is an old bachelor in this county who has been waiting on the same girl more than twenty years. He must lack a great deal of nerve.

THE DAY OF MIRACLES NOT PAST.

A Toronto "Star" reporter investigated the case of Mr. Geo. Warner, and found that after thirteen years of almost total deafness, he had been cured by inhaling Catarrhose.

This proves that where Catarrhose treatment is employed, impaired hearing and deafness can be cured. Catarrhose always brings quick relief, and is warranted to give lasting satisfaction. All sufferers from impaired Hearing, Deafness, Head Noises and Ringing in the Ears are advised to inhale Catarrhose and derive the great benefit it is capable of affording. Price $1.00, small size 50c. Druggists, or N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until, after three weeks, the sores had healed, and best of all the hair is growing well, and is not white, as is most always the case in horse wounds.

HOW TO BEAUTIFY THE COMPLEXION.

To have a soft, smooth skin, free from eruptions and pimples, the blood must be healthy and pure. Ferrone invigorates enfeebled blood, and cleans it of all impurities and poisons; it brings color to the lips and cheeks, brilliancy to the eyes, whitens the teeth and sweetens the breath. No tonic compares with Ferrone in rapid action and permanent results. Try it. Price 50c, at druggists, or Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont. Sold by A. E. Shaw.

LIGHTNING REMEDY FOR CRAMPS.

Some people have cramps pretty often, others only now and then. But when you do have them it's a mighty quick relief you want. Colson's Nervine is as sure as death to relieve cramps in five seconds. It is a tonic, just a few drops in sweetened water and the pain is gone. Buy a bottle of Nervine today, and keep it handy. Nervine today, and keep it handy. Nervine is a common household necessity and only cost 25c.

Do you think your father would offer me personal violence if I were to ask him for you? Hardly. But there's no telling what he will do if you don't say something pretty soon.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES? DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE. HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY. F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS: Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely. I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever. Then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and today, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 725 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md. Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation. Examination and YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME, at a nominal cost. INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

FEEDING AND MANAGEMENT OF COLTS.

Many people think that a mare should rest from work for several weeks before foaling. This is not so. If a brood mare has been accustomed to farm work, let her continue at such work until a few days before she is due to foal.

A Bushel of Eggs. Sheridan's CONDITION POWDER. It helps the older hens, makes pullets early layers, makes glossy plumage on prize winners.

When the foal is properly weaned, he should have the run of a good pasture, as there is no food better than grass, no medicine as good as exercise.

Whenever it is practicable the colt should be broken into halter while yet a suckling, and the earlier in life this process is commenced the more easily it will be accomplished.

SUMMER ENERGY AND ACTIVITY.

BILLIOUS DYSPEPSIA. A DREADFUL COMPLAINT ACCOMPANIED BY HEADACHE, SICKNESS OF THE STOMACH, VOMITING THAT CAN BE PERMANENTLY CURED BY FERROZONE.

Some persons have attacks of Billious Dyspepsia very frequently and feel as if they were about to die. The whole system seems to collapse.

Ferrozone restores all deranged organs to a healthy, vigorous condition. It keeps the bowels well regulated, makes the kidneys eliminate all poisons from the blood, and supplies the necessary elements to build up and strengthen the entire body.

Ferrozone is capable of digesting all classes of food, and contains in a highly concentrated form the elements necessary for strengthening and reconstructing, and nourishing the stomach and other digestive organs.

OUR SOUVENIR EDITION.
Good progress is being made with our souvenir, and it will probably be on sale next week.

By special request we are publishing the popular poem "The Girl's Courage" in this issue. It will be an opportunity for all to read a beautiful and inspiring story.

Canada rejoicing over the termination of the war will be accompanied with an honest pride for the share Canadians had in it. They were early in the field, though not so early as they desired to be.

The subscribers to stock in the Exhibition Association met in the Canada House parlour, Friday evening, and elected a preliminary organization. Mr. Geo. Watt was called to the chair, and Mr. Geo. E. Fisher was appointed Secretary.

After some discussion "Miramichi Agricultural Exhibition Association" was chosen as the name of the society, and the capital stock was fixed at $9,500 in shares of $10 each. Mr. Hildebrand submitted the stock list, showing subscriptions amounting to $3270.

The following were chosen provisional directors—W. B. Snowball, J. D. Oregan and J. P. Burhill. The following were chosen as the original incorporators—S. D. Heckbert, John McDonald, A. H. Marquis, A. S. Ullock, Geo. Hildebrand, Chas. Reinsbarrow, Fred M. Eddy, Geo. Watt, Alex. Dickson, Geo. P. Searle, Dr. J. Sproul, M. S. Hocken, R. A. Lawlor, Robt. Murray, Thos. Flanagan, Jos. Tweedie, Michael Morris and James Johnston.

A call of 25 per cent was ordered to be made on the stock. Mr. F. M. Eady was elected provisional secretary and Mr. A. H. Marquis, treasurer. The following were appointed to solicit stock subscriptions in Newcastle—J. D. Oregan, R. H. Armstrong, D. Doyle, J. R. Lawlor, John Morrison and R. H. Cramley.

LOCAL NEWS.
Mr. Hans Bolecker of Charlottetown, was seriously injured last Monday. He was engaged in painting the front of the square, and while on the ladder, he slipped, the ladder going a wrong way, the staff fell striking Mr. Bolecker, who was at the top of the ladder, about a foot from the ground. He was taken to the hospital, and it is feared that the fall was fatal. He was actually killed, and it was not until some time had elapsed that the extent of his injuries was ascertained, but it is hoped that they will not result fatally.

The interior of Messrs. McMurdo & Co.'s store has been remodelled and now presents a noble appearance. The workroom has been removed upstairs, and a private office built at the rear. A metal ceiling has been put on the whole neatly painted. Messrs. McMurdo & Co. have now one of the most up-to-date tailoring establishments on the North Shore.

R. N. Wyse has had the front of his store painted and it presents a handsome and striking front. The interior has also been renovated. Messrs. Ryan Bros. did the work.

OBITUARY.
The death of a young man, who was a student at the University of Toronto, was announced last week. He was a native of Newcastle, and his death was a great loss to his family and to the university.

There was a fire in a night club in the city last night. The fire was caused by a gas leak, and it resulted in the destruction of the building. The fire department was called, but they were unable to save the building.

Danger in Carrying Firearms.
Kingston's awful tragedy in which a bit of a schoolboy of fifteen shot and killed a girl aged fourteen draws attention once more to the danger there is in carrying firearms with the most innocent intent. Why should any boy of fifteen go around with a gun in his hip-pocket?

How To Gain Flesh.
Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens. Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

Patten of Chatham was in town this week.

RENOUS. The farming is well advanced, the rain of last week did much good. Seed oats are very scarce, it being hard to procure any and those who had a supply realized good prices. A large number of our young men have returned from the drive. They succeeded in getting their logs to the boom. The dance in the A. O. H. hall is looked forward to with pleasure and a good time is assured.

SALMON BEACH. The death of John T. Murphy occurred here on Friday morning, May 17. Deceased, who was 37 years of age had been ill only one week, and his death was a shock to his many friends. He leaves a brother and four sisters to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate brother. The funeral which was very largely attended, took place on Sunday morning. The body was taken to Grand Anse church, where a Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. S. Doucet, who also conducted funeral services, after which the remains were laid to rest in the R.C. cemetery at Grand Anse. The pall-bearers were:—Thos. O'Donnell, James Goodie, Edw. McCarty, William Daley, G. McCarthy and Heber Buttiner.

JANEVILLE. Janeville, May 30th.—We are having several days of heavy rain this week which will greatly hinder the farming. The salmon nets have all been set, but there are very few salmon yet. The codfish are plentiful. Miss Susan Ellis is spending a few weeks with her relatives in Liverpool, N. S. Mr. Walter Ross spent several days of last week in Janeville. Miss Agnes Ry spent a day of last week among her relatives here. A. J. W. McKenzie is away on a trip around the coast. Mr. Frank Chapman got his foot badly crushed by a plank in Chapman & O'Brien's mill last week.

CHURCH POINT. Church Point, June 2.—As there has been news from this place I thought I would give a few notes. The period and summer has been very busy. The weather is pretty near through the season. A few pairs Ladies', Misses' and Boys' Rubber Boots at reduced prices. We have also a few pairs of Dongola slippers selling at former price $1.50 at AN'S SHOESTORE.

The rain has made everything look fresh and green. Salmon had been scarce but there was better fishing last week. Mr. Anderson's mill started the 26th, they put a new furnace in which proves to be a success. Mr. Joseph Forrest, & Son, did the mason work. We are glad to see Mr. Wesley Davidson around again after his long spell of sickness. We hope he will soon be able to work again. Mr. Robert Murray of Chatham paid us a flying visit last week. Mr. and Mrs. James Davidson of New York are visiting their old home after being away for 21 years. Mrs. Robert McCandrick of Tabusiatia is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morrison. Mr. Jamieson of Dalhousie is visiting his sister Mrs. Harris Davidson. Mr. Wm. Davidson of Lower Newcastle has been down here visiting his brother Mr. Harris Davidson. Mr. James Morrison and Miss Cleonah McKnight of this place joined us on their weekly visits. They went to Dalhousie on their wedding tour and have not yet returned. We wait for them. The O. P. in session here and the Spyness have a meeting. The Dalhousie in session Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davidson and Mr. Harry King have a party at the Dalhousie Inn. Mr. King and Mr. Robert England, junior, are farming for Mr. James Anderson. Miss Jane Morrison formerly of Oak Point is very sick at her sister, Mrs. Alexander Loggie. Mrs. Wm. Davidson is very poorly, we hope she will soon recover. Mrs. Robt. England has been poorly for the past week, but she is getting better.

MISS ELLIOTT. (Continued from page one) human being could want. And what you get there is sure to be the very best. It is run by a company and only members of this company are supposed to deal there. We do not find London a bit cheaper to shop in than at home. Some things are much more expensive. Well, Miss Burns and I called at Mr. Duff Miller's office Tuesday morning. I couldn't telephone him when I'd be at home, for we never know when we'll be in. Miss Melcher showed us into his private office, and he came in in a few minutes. He was just lovely. He talked to us as if he had known us always. He called here to see me yesterday afternoon to see me but I wasn't home, and he left his card. In the afternoon we went out to Hatfield to see the house where Lord Salisbury lives. Of course he was not home for "the house" is in session here, but his daughter-in-law Lady Edward Cecil entertained us, and we had a delightful time. This house was built in 1611. We were all through it, and saw King James' drawing-room and bedroom, the bed-rooms where Cromwell and Queen Victoria slept when they visited there. Also Queen Elizabeth's bedroom and the cradle she was rocked in, and the first pair of stockings she ever wore, and her garden hat. Stockings were first introduced in her reign, and those we saw were yellow silk very beautifully embroidered. The building they now use for their stables, is called the "Old Palace." Its date of building is not known, but in it are the two rooms where Queen Elizabeth was imprisoned in the time of Bloody Mary. These rooms are so small that we could only go in five at a time. Then we had supper, and went out through the Park and gardens. I wish I could describe them, but it is no use to try, for they are more beautiful than words of mine can tell. About six o'clock we took the train for London. As usual, we had a special car and Lady Edward Cecil came back with us. Not many of us went out that evening, but Mr. Scovil and Mr. Hastie (the two ministers who came over on the boat with us) called, and we spent a pleasant evening. Yesterday morning Miss Carr, Miss Elliot and I went shopping. In the afternoon we all went to the Tate Gallery and saw all the pictures by all the famous painters. Some of them are very grand. Then we were taken to Lambeth Tower where the Lollards were imprisoned. It was built in 1490, just think, before America was discovered. The Archbishop of Canterbury had his cell there and we had a talk with him. He is over eighty years old and nearly blind, but asked especially that we be brought to see him. In this tower we saw the cell of the first woman who was called because through the very centre of the room there is a huge post to which the Lollards were tied while being whipped, after which they were imprisoned. We also saw the room of imprisonment. All around the walls are rings to which they were chained. We were all so tired that night that very few of us went out. We had an invitation to the London Band Show, but some of us decline with thanks. We simply had to for we are nearly worn out. I almost forgot to say that yesterday we had tea with Mrs. Massey, sister of Lord Strathcona but not the Lord Strathcona of Canada, at long intervals. This was a very pleasant party. Mrs. Massey is a very nice woman, and I will describe this evening. Well, we have been to Kildworth, and it was a very nice evening. Mrs. Massey and I were the only ones who were not at the party, and we were very sorry. Mrs. Massey is a very nice woman, and I will describe this evening. Every body was good to us and gave us such a nice time that we were almost sorry to leave London as we were to leave Canada. We all feel now that we are simply paid for every hardship we might possibly have to endure when we get to South Africa.

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

The provincial government on Friday appointed a commission to investigate the management of the Fredericton Deaf and Dumb School. This meeting will probably be behind closed doors, as it is said some of the evidence will be of a serious nature, affecting the moral conduct of officials and others connected with the institution. The land held by the Muskoka Lumber Company was under consideration by the government. W. A. Mott appeared for Messrs. Currie and Parvis and owners of Restigouche, who ask before the transfer is made to Mr. Stuyvesant that at least 50 miles be put up for sale. The surveyor general promised consideration.

CASE By... Emile Gaboriau

"I am ready to accompany you, monsieur." The commissary folded up his pocketbook and bowed to M. Fauvel, saying to Prosper: "Let us go."

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Wine... Pills... SICK HEADACHE.

"What will you gain by acting thus, dear madame?" asked Fanferlot. "Nothing. I can assure you that you have not the least chance of success."

"Did not M. Bertomy say, my dear lady, to the other end of Paris—to a boarding house or hotel?" "But I don't know where to find any."

"He was unable to come, dear madame," interrupted the detective. "But I will tell him where he can find you."

CHAPTER III. AT the same hour that Mme. Nina Gipsy asked to find refuge at the Archangel, so highly recommended by Fanferlot the Squirrel, Prosper Bertomy was being escorted along a corridor, through a room full of policemen, down a flight of steps, across a kind of gallery, and then up a steep staircase which seemed to have no end.

"What do you want?" she said. "I am charged, my dear madame," he answered in his humblest and softest tone, "by M. Bertomy to give you this note."

tened upon him. Did he know him? Vainly did he try to recollect having met him before. This man, treated with all the deference due to a chief, was no less a personage than a celebrated member of the detective corps, M. Lecocq.

"Come, monsieur," he said, "to the judge of instruction." "Let us go," said Prosper, without stopping to repair his disordered toilet. During the passage the jailer said, "You are very fortunate in having your case brought before an honest man."

Prosper was escorted along a corridor, through a room full of policemen, down a flight of steps, across a kind of gallery, and then up a steep staircase which seemed to have no end.

"That I am innocent, monsieur; I swear that I am innocent!" "I hope you are," said M. Patriget, "and you may count upon me to assist you to the extent of my ability in proving your innocence. Have you anything to say in your defense?"

"No, monsieur." "You declare yourself to be innocent; therefore the guilty party must be M. Fauvel." Prosper did not answer.

The WHIRL of the TOWN

June bugs! Sunday and Monday's warm weather was followed by cool weather yesterday. The S. S. Densmore Head arrived Monday morning and is loading at Lynche's, Nelson...

The Methodist district meeting is to be held at Derby next Wednesday. L. P. James has lately installed in his restaurant an up to date cooking range. A plague of peculiar flies seems to have struck the Miramichi. Everything is crawling.

Mr. Martin Duan of Redbank, an aged and respected resident of Redbank, died at his home last Saturday. The funeral was held Monday and was largely attended.

By request we have published the popular poem "The Dungen Contingent" in our Souvenir. This will give all an opportunity of procuring a copy of that popular poem, as we could not supply the demand when it was published formerly.

Mr. John Connell and Mr. Wm. Reid, were driving together Monday last week. We expect to have some exciting big game stories as a result.

Mr. J. W. Miller, of Millerton, accompanied by Mrs. Miller came down Monday with his new automobile. It is a light buggy style and is very smooth running and was much admired.

On Sunday, June 8, at the Baptist church services will be preached by Rev. A. F. Brown. Morning—Constraining Power, evening—Peace in South Africa.

Sunday was the anniversary of Mr. Sinclair's death. The grave in St. James's cemetery was beautifully bedecked with cut flowers.

Messrs. R. H. Armstrong, A. A. Huston, and A. Reid left yesterday morning for the Club pool to try for salmon and trout. The camp at the pool has been refitted and improved for this season's fishing.

Mr. Wm. Reid has a grievance. The government surveyor has run lines for a new road to connect with the new bridge over the mill race and this cuts through his farm and naturally Mr. Reid is very anxious in his views as to government surveys, governments, etc.

Good catches of salmon are being made in the Miramichi bay the past week. On Monday the steamer Miramichi brought up twenty boxes and each box contains about sixteen salmon.

The Nouvelle, Quebec, Lumber Company have sold their timber lands and mill and mill property at Nouvelle to J. W. Kirkpatrick, of Diligent River, and Percy L. Spence, of Spencer's Island. The price was about $50,000.

Rev. D. Henderson goes to Rimouski to take the Allan Line for a month. He will be absent two months. It is rumored that he is to take a travelling companion—a second-year theological student from St. Andrew's church in his absence.—World.

Several have been received at this time for the present date until the next issue. Last week one evening a man was narrowly escaped, as teams came around the corner and nearly collided with him. Recently Mrs. Hickey was in this manner and this matter attracted the attention of the police.

The mill at Nelson did a big business both May 27 and 28 when the former and 91,840 super of the latter. This was considered a record cut for the mill and a large schooner was sent and lathes.

Arrangements with the Family Herald and Weekly Review of our readers who are interested may procure the Family Herald and Weekly Review at the present date until the next issue. This will include the various pictures of the Family Herald and Weekly Review and also a copy of our new book now being printed. It will have both papers and the book at one price.

The Methodist district meeting in Derby is to be held at Derby next Wednesday. Ministers and members are invited to attend. A public meeting will be held when the various pictures of the Family Herald and Weekly Review are now being printed. It will have both papers and the book at one price.
