TOWN COUNCIL

Meeting Held on Tuesday Evening

SLIMLY ATTENDED

Coun Joudry Wants Town to Build Town Hall and Market Building

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening, there being present only His Worship Mayor Murray, Couns. Taylor, Ferguson and Joudry.

Mayor Murray stated meeting was called with the hope that a final draft of bill as passed by the Legislature would be to hand, but it had not yet arrived.

Coun. Taylor read a telegram received from Hon. C. H. LaBillicois stating that the town bill, had passed, and would, he hoped, be satisfactory both to the town and Mr. Duncan.

Communication was received from the Merchants' Portrait Co. of Toronto asking for a license to canvass in the town. Referred to Police & License Com.

On recommendation of Coun. Ferguson, of the Poor Com. the account of Robt. Nelson, $2.25, for wood, was passed.

Accounts of Public Property & Street Com. were passed as follows:

Alex. Diote, 65
Richard Ellsworth, 19.33
Shives Lumber Co., 29.35

Coun. Joudry said that as there appeared to be some doubt as to the boundary lines of Ritchie St. near Wm. Dickie's residence he had a survey made by Mr. Fish and presented same to Council. Coun. Joudry was instructed to report further upon the matter after interviewing Mr. Dickie.

Coun. Joudry moved seconded by Coun. Ferguson that the town take over the strip of land as a right of way from the executors of the late Jas. Kelso estate. Carried.

Coun. Joudry was authorized to procure a deed of this land.

Coun. Joudry thought that some effort should be made to have a building suitable for a market and opera house. He gave notice of motion for the appointment of a committee to look into the matter. He believed it would be a good investment for the town.

Couns. Taylor, Ferguson and Blackhall were appointed a committee to select a solicitor for the town in the Duncan case.

Mayor suggested that the town take a census in the near future.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE

Important Amendments to Fish and Game Laws

AN ADVANCE STEP

Penalties Will be Imposed on Anyone Found Head-lighting

QUEBEC March 2.—Fish and game made the subjects of a very interesting debate at the afternoon and evening sittings by the House and practically took up most of the time of both things. The principal opposition to Hon. Mr. Prevost's game bill was to the clause respecting tag and coupon system. Mr. Taschereau opposed the clause on the ground that it would be impossible to carry out. Mr. Kelly favored the clause as one of the best means of protecting game and as it had been found to work very well in the State of Maine, New Brunswick and elsewhere.

Mr. Caron (Islet) suggested that the railway agents should be given tags and coupons for distribution and Hon. Mr. Prevost informed him that he was just at present having pourparlers with the railway companies to have their station agents act for the Government for the sale of licenses.

The resolutions respecting hunting, which passed during the afternoon sitting provide that no person can hunt moose, caribou and deer unless he holds a special license delivered by the Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries or by any person authorized by him; and that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may establish a tariff of fees for such licenses.

That out of the public lands remote from any settlements, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, upon the recommendation of the Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries to erect hunting territories, which shall in no case exceed two hundred square miles each, that the Minister may lease, any such hunting territory to one or more persons for a period not exceeding ten years, for an annual sum of not less than three dollars per square mile.

And that a bounty of fifteen dollars per head may be paid for the destruction of wolves.

At the afternoon sitting the following resolution respecting fisheries, were brought down by Hon. Mr. Prevost and adopted:—

That every person not domiciled in the Province who desires to fish therein shall pay, for a special license for that purpose, a fee which shall be fixed by the Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries, but which shall never be less than twenty-five dollars.

That the Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries may appoint fishery overseers whose duties and attributions shall be defined in the act to be based upon these resolutions or by regulations thereunder and whose remuneration shall, if required, be determined by the Minister by commission or otherwise, and in either case shall be paid from the revenues arising from the operations of the said act.

The bill proposed to add the month of September to the close season for big game, but the Minister consented to drop this feature of the bill and consequently the hunting season throughout the Province will remain as it is under existing law.

The following amendments to the bill proposed by Mr. Kelly were adopted:—

Interior Finishing Equal to Any in the Maritime Provinces.

Campbellton can boast of one of the most up-to-date Post Office buildings in the provinces. While the exterior may be surpassed by some, the interior is without an equal, and Messrs. Harquail, the contractors, are to be congratulated for the manner in which their work was done.

The office is fitted with all the latest improvements for the quick handling of mails. There are two general delivery windows one marked A to L, the other M to Z. Then there are the parcel, the registered letter and the money order windows.

The boxes are the latest improved. There are four sizes of these of the following dimensions 3x5; 5x5; 5x10 and 10x10. In all there are four hundred and eighty-five boxes. The box rents will be $1, $2, $3 and $4, according to size.

The Postmaster's private office is a neat little room at the end of the lobby.

The bonded warehouse is situated at the rear of the ground floor of the building.

On the second floor are the offices of the Collector Inland Revenue and the Collector of Customs, the Custom Office (long room) and the Inland Revenue office.

On the third floor are the private rooms of the Janitor.

The basement is large and roomy, being the full size of the building with nine foot ceiling. Here are placed the two Gurney hot water heaters. In ordinary weather one heater is sufficient for heating purposes, the other is used for extremely cold weather.

The inspector in looking over the building said that in all his tours of inspecting he had never yet found a post office building so thoroughly well built and equipped. The workmanship is without fault.

Scholarship Awarded to Restigouche Girls Other Interesting Items

Fredericton N. B. March 14th—

The contract for the building of the three stone piers, and repairs to the approaches of Jacques River bridge, Restigouche county N. B. has been awarded to John Goulette Bridge Builder, of Charlo Station, Restigouche County. The amount of the contract is in the neighborhood of $4,000.

Notices have been issued by the Department of Public Works calling for tenders for the erection of two steel spans for the Jacques River bridge, the whole work both substructure and superstructure, to be completed on or before October 1st 1906.

At a meeting of the Board of Education held on Monday morning, which was presided over by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the following scholarship for the course in nature study and school gardening, commencing at the MacDonald Institute at Guelph on April 5th, were awarded to the following Restigouche county girls: Miss Lizzie Cook, Black Lands; Miss Lena Miller, Dalhousie, and Miss Mary F. Reid, Point LaNim.

The report of the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Campbellton, for the year ending December 31st 1905, has been received, and it shows the following statistics:

Patients admitted during the year 1905, 151 males, 99 females 52; Aggregate number of days attendance in Hospital during the year 2,127; Deaths 7; Medical cases 63; surgical cases 88, surgical operations 49; residence of patients New Brunswick 106; Province of Quebec 39; Magdalen Islands 1; England 1; Denmark 2; Norway 3; of the New Brunswick patients there were from Restigouche Co. 96, Kent 3 and Albert 1.

The bill relating to the town of Campbellton has had its third reading. The bill received considerable consideration at the hand of the Municipal Committee, and was fully discussed upon two or three occasions in committee of the whole House. By its provisions the action of the town of Campbellton in extending its water system, as well as the issuing of bonds, will be valid. It also provides for a settlement between the town and Mr. Duncan.

The Restigouche Boom Bill was introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. LaBillicois, and will be considered by the committee on corporations on Friday afternoon. All parties interested in this bill have been notified, as no doubt there will be a strong fight between (Continued on fourth page)

1100 MEN KILLED

In Mine Explosion in Northern France

FEW RESCUED

Europe's Greater Mining Disaster Depopulates French Village

PARIS, March, 10.—A mining catastrophe of incalculable horror and magnitude has stricken the great coal centre of northern France. An explosion of fire damp at 7 o'clock this morning carried death and destruction through out the work of coal mine centres at Courriens, and fire followed the explosion, making rescues difficult and almost impossible. The intense excitement and confusion in the vicinity prevented early estimates of the exact loss of life, but a despatch received here at 2:35 p.m. gave 1,045 miners entombed and probably lost. At 8:45 o'clock this evening a brief despatch from Lille announced the awful total of 1,193 dead. All France has been profoundly shocked by the magnitude of the disaster, which is said to be the greatest in the history of continental mining.

President Fallieres sent his secretary, accompanied by Minister of Public Works Gauthier and Minister of the Interior Dubief, on a special train to the scene of the disaster.

The ministerial crisis was temporarily forgotten, senators and deputies joining in the universal public manifestations of sorrow.

SCENE OF CATASTROPHE

The scene of the catastrophe is the mountainous mining region near Lens, in the department of Pas de Calais. Here are huddled small hamlets of the miners, who operate the most productive coal mines in France. The subterranean chambers form a series of tunnels. Six of the outlets are near Lens, and others are at Courriens, Verdun and many other points. The output of these mines is practically combustible and is largely used in the manufacture of gas and smelting. About 2,000 miners work the group of mines, and with their families make a population of from 6,000 to 8,000 souls.

The catastrophe took place shortly after 1,795 men had descended the mine this morning. There was a deafening explosion, which was followed by the cages and mining apparatus being hurled from the mouth of the Courriens mine. Men and horses nearby outside the mine were either stunned or killed. The roof of the mine office was blown off.

PARIS, March 11.—The worst fears as to the enormity of the mine disaster in the Courriens district of the Pas de Calais Saturday morning have been realized. The death list stands at 1,100, and the whole of the region stands appalled at the terrible tragedy which has brought sorrow to six thousand fathers, mothers, wives and children.

The vast mortuary camp is under military guard, 400 soldiers having arrived there to assist in holding in check the crowds of distraught mourners. For a time hope had been held out to the people that tapping on pipes by the imprisoned men had been heard, but gradually this hope vanished, and the people demanded admission to see the bodies, and even threatened to break through the cordon of troops, who had the greatest difficulty from keeping the crowds from the pit. One man named Sylvestra succeeded in entering the mine, but he never returned.

RESCUE PARTY SHUT OFF

It is reported that a rescue party numbering forty, has been cut off by the caving in of one of the galleries.

Minister Gauthier and Dubief have received complete details of the catastrophe from M. Lavrurs, the director of the mine. His voice was choked with emotion as he spoke.

"Of 1,800 miners who went down in the pits when the explosion occurred," he said, "675 were working in pit No. 4, 483 were in pit No. 3, 571 in pit No. 2, 15 escaped through pit No. 11, 490 came up from pit No. 2, and 74 from pit No. 10. A number of these were injured and some died since. At the present moment over 1,000 men remain imprisoned."

BELIEVES ALL DEAD

To this the director replied, "No, I believe all of them are dead."

This was whispered into the ear of the minister in order that his words might not be overheard by the palefaced miners who stood anxiously about the mine building waiting for an official view on the state of affairs.

The ministers listened to a graphic picture of the scene in the mines by Leon Cerf, one of the men rescued, and who is still suffering from the terrible effects of his experience.

"I was working with a gang when the explosion occurred. The foreman immediately shouted for us to follow him, and dashing into a recess in the gallery, we were followed by a blast of poisonous gases, which rushed by, however, without affecting us. We remained there for eight hours, when, feeling that suffocation was gradually coming on us, we attempted to escape. We crawled in single file toward the shaft, but several of the men dropped dead on the way, including my son and the foreman. I carried my nephew on my back for forty minutes and succeeded in saving him. It took us four hours to reach the shaft."

A TERRIBLE SIGHT

For the time being the mine building has been transformed into a mortuary chamber, and all about it lie the carbonized and almost unrecognizable bodies, which were taken there as they were brought up from the mine. Stricken relatives arrive at the mine building from time to time searching for missing members of their families, and indescribable scenes of grief occur as women recognize loved ones.

Despite the danger incurred, the volunteers, who include a number of those who were successful in escaping at the time of the explosion, do not hesitate to descend the shaft. Some of them have been down more than a dozen times. One of them, after having brought up fourteen bodies, was suffocated in his fifteenth attempt, and it is feared that other fatalities among the volunteers will follow, as the air in the mines is still impregnated with noxious gases. A number of the men engaged in rescue work have already been brought to the surface unconscious, and as they were driven to their homes in closed carriages the women followed, and broke the windows, suspecting that bodies were being hurried away.

Several miners have come up from pit No. 11, which is connected with pit No. 3. They effected their escape by means of a ladder, and as they came from the mouth of the pit they appeared to be bordering on madness. All of them were more or less injured. When asked about their comrades, one of them said: "It is horrible. All of them are dead."

A MINER'S STORY

A young miner who escaped from pit No. 4, where about 500 men remain, said: "I was working about fifty feet from the shaft. Suddenly I felt a puff of hot gas and started toward the shaft. I was half suffocated and was unable to advance further because of the fumes. Finally, however, I succeeded in reaching the cage and came up in it."

"After the blast I neither heard nor saw more of my comrades, and I believe that all in that gallery in which I was working are dead."

Another miner said:

"It is indescribable. Everything was demolished or has fallen in. I saw bodies lying in piles. My son is below."

One rescuer has asserted that he heard voices in the mine, and others found two horses still living. This gives rise to hope that some of the men are still living.

Replying to an inquiry as to whether hope remained for the finding of more men alive in the mine, an engineer who had been down the shaft said: "It is scarcely possible. The state of the galleries is such that many of the victims must have been reduced to ashes."

GERMANY BACKS DOWN

Berlin, March 10.—Intense indignation and mortification manifested here at Russia's action in throwing off her attitude of reserve and standing squarely by the side of her ally with the position that the control of the force for policing Morocco shall be entrusted to France and Spain jointly. This with Great Britain's intention, made unmistakable from the first, of throwing in her lot with France should the quarrel be forced to the arbitration of arms, has compelled general recognition of the fact that the game is up, that no more concessions can be obtained, and that Germany must now show her hand and back down.

At least some reserve as that shown by the United States was expected from Russia after the support given to Russia by Germany during her disastrous war with Japan. In gratitude is talked of, and this, it is bitter commented, is what the Kaiser gets for allowing Germans to be ill-treated on the Russian frontier and for her low-towing generally.

Much sympathy is expressed that the brilliant career of von Radowicz, who is one of Germany's best diplomats, should be spoiled by this Morocco fiasco. Some profess to believe that Russia's opposition is as much against Radowicz as against Germany.

Cling to Your Hair

DON'T THROW MONEY AWAY

THE SETTING HEN—Her failures have discouraged many a poultry raiser.

You can make money raising chicks in the right way—lots of it.

No one doubts that there is money in raising chickens with a good incubator and brooder.

Users of the Chatham Incubator and Brooder have all made money. If you still cling to the old-fashioned hen as a hatchery, you are losing money by the use of the Chatham Incubator and Brooder.

If you allow a hen to set, you lose at least eight weeks of laying (three weeks hatching and five weeks rearing) and you have to raise the chicks on your own resources. Let the Chatham Incubator and Brooder do the work for you. You can raise twenty chicks in less than eight weeks. Now, how much can you raise if you keep 20 hens from laying to hatching, and do it better. Now, how much can you raise if you keep 20 hens from laying to hatching, and do it better. Now, how much can you raise if you keep 20 hens from laying to hatching, and do it better.

Therefore, when the Chatham Incubator is hatching the number of eggs that twenty hens would hatch. It is really earning in cash for you $10.00, besides producing for your profit chicks by the wholesale, and being ready to do the same thing over again the moment each hatch is set.

Don't you think, therefore, that it pays to keep the hens laying, and let the Chatham Incubator do the hatching?

There are many other reasons why the Chatham Incubator and Brooder outclass the setting hen.

The hen sets when she is ready. The Chatham Incubator is always ready. By planning to take off a hatch at the right time, you may have plenty of business to sell when broilers are scarce and prices at the top. If you depend on the hen, your chicks will grow to broilers just when every other hen's chicks are being marketed, and when the price is not so high.

The hen is a careless mother, often leaving her chicks among wet grass, bushes, and in places where rats can congregate. The Chatham Incubator and Brooder, however, is a perfect mother and very rarely loses a chick, and is not infested with lice.

Altogether, there is absolutely no reasonable reason for continuing the use of a hen as a hatchery and every reason why you should have a Chatham Incubator and Brooder.

We are making a very special offer, which will pay you to investigate.

Small Premises Sufficient For Poultry Raising.

Of course, if you have lots of room, so much the better, but many a man and woman are carrying on a successful and profitable poultry business in a small city or town lot. Anyone with a fair sized stable or shed and a small yard can raise poultry profitably.

But to make money quickly, you must get away from the old idea of trying to do business with setting hens as hatcheries. You must get a Chatham Incubator and Brooder.

To enable everybody to get a fair start in the right way in the poultry business, we make a very special offer which is a work of art, which we will investigate.

We can supply you quickly from our distributing warehouses at Calgary, Brandon, Regina, Winnipeg, New Westminster, B.C., Montreal, Quebec, Chatham, Ontario, and Detroit, Mich.

The MANSON CAMPBELL Co., Limited, Dept. No. 123, CHATHAM, CANADA

Let us quote you prices on a good Fanning Mill or good Farm Scale.

WE WILL SHIP NOW TO YOUR STATION FREIGHT PREPAID

A CHATHAM INCUBATOR and BROODER

You Pay us no Cash Till After 1906 Harvest

The market is always good and prices are never low. The dealer is always in excess of the supply and at certain times of the year you can practically get any price you care to pay for good broilers. With a Chatham Incubator and Brooder you can start raising at the right time to bring the chickens to marketable prices when the supply is very low and the prices accordingly high. This you could never do with hens as hatcheries.

We know that there is money in the poultry business for every farmer who will about it right. All you have to do is to get a Chatham Incubator and Brooder and start it. But perhaps you are not prepared just now to spend the money. This is why we make the special offer.

IS THIS FAIR?

We know there is money in raising chickens. We know the Chatham Incubator and Brooder has no equal.

We know that with any reasonable effort on your part, you cannot but make money out of the Chatham Incubator and Brooder.

We know that we made a similar offer last year and that in every case the payments were met cheerfully and promptly, and that in many cases money was accompanied by letters expressing satisfaction.

Therefore, we have no hesitation in making this proposition to every honest, earnest man or woman who may wish to add to their yearly profits with a small expenditure of time and money.

This really means that we will set you up in the poultry business so that you can make money right from the start, without asking for a single cent from you until after 1906 harvest.

If we knew of a better offer, we would make it. Write us a post card with your name and address, and we will send you full particulars, as well as our beautifully illustrated book, "How to make money out of chicks." Write to-day to Chatham.

TOURIST HOTEL

A Chance For Investment

A scheme is under consideration to build an up-to-date hotel at Campbellton in the near future and parties having money to invest would do well to look into the matter. The site chosen is a beautiful spot, facing the Restigouche river. The scenery on both sides of the Bay Chaleurs can hardly be surpassed in any part of the world. There is fine bathing, a rising tide and fishing up river and down the bay, besides the numerous lakes, while as to hunting any person can get a license and start out to the game district in the morning and return at night with a moose.
The forest abounds in game—moose, caribou, deer, etc. Train service on both sides of the bay is the very best, while the Lady Eileen runs twice a week to Gaspe in summer. The International Railway when completed will make Campbellton one of the best railway centres in Eastern Canada. With the bright future of this locality it is evident that a first class tourist hotel with good management would pay big dividends to investors.
Parties who might be interested can

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials
in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food.
No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a

MADE TROUBLE ON I. C. R. TRAIN

A Kent County Man Arrested at Moncton on the Maritime Express

Two drunks came up before Magistrate Kay this morning in the city police court. Both admitted the offence and one of the men was out of funds and is laying out seventy-two hours.

The other, giving his name as William Leet, of Harcourt, was on his return home from the Nova Scotia lumber woods on last night's Mount-real express. He made matters decidedly lively for the train people and was placed under arrest by Officer Dryden on the arrival of the express here last night. The prisoner, put up a violent resistance, but was safely landed. This morning a charge of drunk was preferred against him.
He paid three dollars. He had fifteen dollars on him and stated he was short of thirty dollars, but could not tell what had become of the money.
The prisoner was also minus a hat.

N. B. PRESS ASSOCIATION

Resolutions Passed and officers elected for Ensuring
Year

FREDERICTON, March 9.—The first regular annual meeting of the New Brunswick Press Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall on Thursday afternoon, with President John T.
Hawke, of Moncton, in the chair.
Others present were R. Foster Thorne,
J. P. Maloney, Woodstock; M.
McDade, St. John; J. L. Stewart, J. F.
Denson, Chatham; H. B. Anslow, Newcastle; W. K. C. Parlee, Fredericton; C. C. Avar, Sackville; R. E.
Armstrong, St. Andrews and James McDade, St. John.

The consideration of the report of committee on advertising rates for weekly newspapers was taken up and adopted. The minimum rate is slightly in advance of that prevailing and goes into effect on the first of July next. It applies only to "foreign" or outside advertising and not to local advertisers in the respective communities.

The following resolution moved by Mr. Armstrong, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that this association hear with regard to the intended removal from the province of S. D. Scott, for twenty years the able and conservative of the St. John Sun and would give expression to the hope that in whatever field he may choose to make his home he will meet with that measure of success which his exceptional abilities as a journalist entitles him.

A resolution moved by Mr. J. L.
Stewart was also passed protesting against the issuing of daily papers at one dollar per year on the ground that the postage on such papers amounted to 82c per year, and the rate was not reduced on smaller papers. It was pointed out that there were offenders on both sides of politics, and that such a rate being less than the cost of the raw paper and the postage, made the newspapers so circulated merely such for advertising rates than news disseminating purposes.

Upper Canadian newspapers had been and were offenders; and so too some St. John newspapers.

Miss Emma Parlee, Business Manager of the Moncton Transcript and Catherine O'Neill, assistant business manager of the St. John Freeman, were admitted to membership.

All the officers were re-elected, except E. J. Payson, of Fredericton, removed from the province, and J.
Russell, of Moncton, not present, Mr.
C. C. Avar, of Sackville, and J. F.
Benson, of Chatham, N. B., were the new men selected. It was decided to hold a midsummer meeting in St.
John.

MONSTER LOCOMOTIVE FOR THE C. P. R.

It Will be Used to Haul the Transcontinental Train

MONTREAL, March 9.—The C. P. R. is experimenting with what is said to be the largest locomotive ever built.
This locomotive was designed by Mr.
Vaughan, an assistant to President Van Horne. It left the shops last night under its own steam for the North Bay division, on which it will be tried out.
The C. P. R. is trying to get an engine that will take the transcontinental across to Vancouver in one section.
Hitherto when traffic has been at all heavy it has been found necessary to break the transcontinental into two sections. This new engine, if it fulfills expectations, will take a train of twenty passenger cars across the continent.

Though the C. P. R. authorities admit that they have built the largest engine ever constructed in America, they will not give out any particulars as to its weight or manner of construction.

THE REVENUE STILL INCREASES.

Canada Had a Surplus Of Over Twelve Million in Last Eight Months

Ottawa, March 10.—The revenue and expenditure statement of the Dominion for the eight months ended with February shows the revenue to be $49,760,375, or an increase of $4,255,- 783 over the same time in the previous year.

There is an increase of $1,670,083,
in the expenditure, making the net gain for the eight months of $3,584,772.

The increase in the revenue over the expenditure on the ordinary account was $12,597,867.

If the expenditure on capital be deducted the surplus is $4,609,710.

There was increase in the revenue in all branches of the public service.
In the capital expenditure there was an increase of nearly $1,500,000 in public works and railways and about $300,000 in bounties.

For the month of February there was an increase of more than $800,000 in the revenue and a decrease of $2,- 300,000 in the expenditure making a betterment of more than $3,000,000.

LEGISLATURE PROROGUED

The second session of the eleventh Legislature of the Province of Quebec, was brought to a close last evening the occasion being marked by the usual pomp and ceremony.

The session was 49 days duration, during which 35 sittings of the Assembly were held, 166 Bills were introduced, of which 43 were public and 48 Government measures. The Council originated three bills, and last night His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor sanctioned 114 of the above number.

Speaker Weir then presented the Supply Bill, whereupon the Clerk of the Council holding aloft the Bill in his hand, declared, at a sign from the Governor that in "the name of His Majesty,
His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor thinks His Majesty's loyal subjects, accepts their benevolence and assents to this Bill."

The Speech from the Throne was afterward, a read, and the Legislature prorogued.

THE I. C. R.

Friends of the I. C. R. will read with pleasure the statement of the Minister of Railways that the road will remain the people's property and that it will not be handed over to a commission. Mr. Emmerson's address on the subject before the House is without doubt the strongest defence of the road, and incidentally of the Maritime Provinces, we have yet seen, and should set at rest the feeling in certain quarters that the road should be operated by a commission. He forcibly points out that the road was not built for commercial purposes but for defensive and political reasons and its record should be viewed with this fact well in the foreground.

We quote from his address as follows:—

"The Intercolonial has always been a profitable thing for Canada, but the profits have remained in the pockets of the people. They have taken profits out of the very low freight rates given. One of the purposes for which the road was designed was to bring the people of upper and maritime Canada closer together. That this has been accomplished is shown by the fact that the trade with the New England manufacturers formerly did with the Maritime provinces has been diverted to the manufacturers of Upper Canada. That the people of Ontario have benefited from the Intercolonial's low rates is shown by this and by the fact three-quarters of the traffic of the road is east bound and only one quarter west-bound. If the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk rates had been applied to the Intercolonial all these years and the volume of traffic had been the same, there would never have been anything but surpluses. But it is doubtful if the Ontario manufacturer would have succeeded in displacing the New England manufacturer.

What the Intercolonial has cost is involved closely with the question of trade. Canada has not hesitated to spend large sums of money for the benefit of trade and transportation. We have, said Mr. Emmerson, built the canals; we have subsidized railways; we have practically built the Canadian Pacific; we have subsidized steamships on the Atlantic, the Pacific and the lakes, and we have built harbors. I do not allude to these as a matter of criticism. I approve of these expenditures. I only ask that among the expenditures for the trade and transportation of the country be placed the expenditure on the government railways, and that it be regarded in the same light as the other expenditures are."

In concluding his address Mr. Emmerson said that he hoped to be able at no distant date to announce that the road was paying. He meant to do all he could to bring that about. This is the kind of talk that is needed, and if followed up by a continuance of the recent reforms on the road there can be no doubt as to the result. We believe the I. C. R. staff from one end to the other are as capable a lot of railway men as can be found and need only a chance to conduct the road's business on business principles to prove their efficiency. Let them have it.

A MARKET BUILDING

That Campbellton needs a market building is patent to every householder in the town. Year by year the demand for farm produce is becoming greater to such an extent that the supply is far short of what it should be. Housekeepers are put to a great deal of trouble and inconvenience in looking up their wants in this line, if indeed they are successful in the effort at all. If there were a properly conducted market all this would be avoided, as it would encourage the farmers to bring their produce to town and realizing the benefit to themselves they would make the effort to meet the demand. We are glad to note that the Council will take the matter up at their next meeting. It is to be hoped that if the suggestion of Coun Joudry to put up a building suitable for an opera house and market is not considered advisable just now, at least the latter scheme can be worked out successfully.

A recent market proposition we have often wondered why some enterprising farmer never ran a vegetable delivery wagon in town, as in some of the other smaller towns of the province where there was no market. It seems to us there is a good opportunity for some one to make some money if the market scheme fails to go through.

Another search in Campbellton is fresh fish. It is passing strange that right along-side of the world-famous salmon river there should be such a scarcity of fish. It is next to impossible to purchase one right in the salmon season. But other kinds of fish are scarce also.

Mayor Murray's suggestion that a census of the town be taken this year is a good one. The population of our town as announced at the time of the dominion census was 2652. This number was looked upon at the time as very much below the actual population, some of our citizens claiming that 4000 would be nearer the mark. There has been a steady growth since 1901 and it is thought that the figures would come up to about 5000 at the present time. However, it would be money well spent if a correct census were taken, as it would materially improve the town's position in the eyes of the money-lenders and financial institutions.

PARTIES AND MACHINES

(Montreal Witness)

Political parties, like all things human, must yield to the law of mutability. They may last long in power, command votes by the million and carry affairs with a high hand. But it often happens that when seeming most strong and firmly entrenched the vital principle on which a party rose to power departs and it sinks into a condition that needs the machine to keep it together. The party may sincerely profess great principles but the machine knows only one—to win elections. To that end all human devices are employed, all patronage distributed, till at last the machine becomes a combination of craft and graft. If certain Washington correspondents are to be believed such is now the condition of the republican party.

C. F. CLARE,

in manufacturing nitro-glycerine. Occasionally some young man or woman, careless or forgetful, stamps on the floor. Then the company has to rebuild and secure new employees. There are some clergymen who minister for years in a church without having any trouble with the choir. Another may cause a slight concussion, and the roar of the explosion is heard to the uttermost parts of the parish. There should be in every theological college a chair in choir manufacture and choir management. Young clerics should know the chemical composition of a material so inflammable and so highly explosive before they attempt to handle it roughly.

The act giving power to the town council of Dalhousie to issue a warrant for the sum of eight thousand dollars to repay moneys already borrowed for the drilling of wells and for the testing of the present wells, and for the boring of more wells if needed, has had its third reading. The bill also provides that upon a majority vote of the town, debentures to a sum not exceeding seventy thousand dollars can be issued for the placing of a water, sewerage, and electric light system. This legislation will now place the town of Dalhousie in a position to move ahead with its water question.

The usual amount for ferry service between Dalhousie, Campbellton and Migouasha, has been voted as usual.

Word has been received here from Mr. John H. Kelly M. P. P. for Bonaventure county, that the usual grant for the same service will be given this year.

Arrangements have been made with the Department of Agriculture to place one of the Illustration Orchards in the county of Restigouche this year. The orchard will be located in the centre of the parish of Balmoral and will consist of one hundred trees of the following varieties: Fameuse, McIntosh, Red, Wealthy, Duchess, Stark, Arctic, Baxter, Wolf River, Milwaukee and Ben Davis.

It is the intention to place one of these orchards in each parish, where an application is made by a qualified party to look after the trees according to directions given by the department of Agriculture.

The members supporting the government have decided to hold an At Home in the House of Assembly on Tuesday evening next at which all the pupils of the Normal School and scholars attending the University and Commercial College will be invited to attend. The following are the names of those from Restigouche Co. who will attend, Miss Florence McTaggart, River Charles; Miss Mattie Dempsey, Armstrongs Brook; Miss Jennie McCormack, Blacklands; Miss May McKinnon, Dundee; Miss Olive Wright, Shannon Vale; Miss Helen Cook, River Charles; Miss Lida Davidson, Jacques River; Gordon Firth, Glencoe; Hugh Carr, Pearl McKenzie, Campbellton.

ESUMINAC NOTES

The largest snow storm of the season is said to have fallen last Saturday, the depth being about eighteen inches.

Mr. James McKay arrived home on Wednesday from Calano, Temis County after a stay of over two years.

Mr. George Allison who has been ill at Bathurst is expected home this week.

Mr. John Little left last week to visit friends in Moncton.

The Esquimaux River school closed on Friday after most progressive term, the teacher Miss Lizzie Sutherland leaving for Montreal. The funeral of Mrs. Leonard Leve of Point Le Grou took place on Saturday and was very largely attended. A series of meetings are being conducted in the Esquimaux church by the Rev. Thompson and MacPherson. The attendance has been very good, considering the condition of the roads.

POOR PACKAGE DYES MAKE Women Miserable and Cross

DIAMOND DYES Have Made Millions of Wives, Mothers and Daughters Happy and Contented

Women who buy and use of the adulterated, weak and worthless package dyes put up in imitation of the reliable and never-fading DIAMOND DYES, must expect to meet with sad trials and disappointments in the home.

Crude package dyes with only fancy names to recommend them, and sold by some dealers for the sake of large profits are the direct cause of much of the feminine bad temper and irritableness manifested in many homes.

If our women and girls would avoid trouble, loss of goods and hard cash, they must insist upon getting the DIAMOND DYES whenever home dyeing work is to be done. One ten cent package of the time-tried DIAMOND DYES will always color more goods than will two packages of other dyes, and give brighter, fuller, more brilliant and more lasting shades. Once used, DIAMOND DYES become the chosen dyes for all well-regulated homes.

Send your name and address to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., and you will receive free of cost new Dye Book, Card of Dyed Cloth Samples and Booklet in verse, entitled "The Long John's Trip to the Klondike."

On Sunday while Louis O'Donnell was working about the power house, was endeavoring to close a large barn door under which ice had formed, it lifted off its hinges and fell outward killing the lad almost instantly.

The unfortunate lad was about 14 years of age and was a son of the late Patrick O'Donnell.—Advocate

Geo G McKenzie & Co's Grand spring Opening has been postponed until Monday evening, March 19th. The postponement was necessitated on account of the non arrival of a quantity of spring goods. The public is cordially invited to attend to opening. Orchestra in attendance 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served on the second floor.

C. F. Clair the Jeweler, presented each of the Junior Culers who played in Chatham and Moncton with a new pair of curlers which he had especially manufactured for the occasion. The pins are of blue enamel and gold. The word Campbellton in gold letters is set in the enamel. In the center are two brooms and a curling stone. The boys appreciate the souvenir.

Bathurst, N. B., March 13—On Sunday afternoon the crib work of the new addition to the breakwater at Church Point was carried into the bay during the heavy westerly gale and will probably be a total loss. The work being constructed on ice was 240 feet long and when the ice moved out swept all with it. The loss is about $3,000. Simon McGregor, Dalhousie, was the contractor and had seventy men employed.

Dr J D Ross, the well known physician, has one particularly remarkable curio among the large collection at his home on Queen Street. It is a section sawn out of a maple tree which grew near Campbellton and the heart of the tree, instead of being round as is generally the case, has grown in the shape of a maple leaf, every outline of the leaf being distinctly visible. It is a very beautiful specimen and one highly prized by the genial doctor.—Moncton Transcript

Mr. George A. Ingraham who for some years past was millwright at Hickson's mill died at his home here Monday afternoon from injuries received while working last Tuesday morning.

Mr. Ingraham was a joiner by trade and was well known throughout the North Shore, where many friends will learn with regret of his sudden death. A wife, five sons, Henry, John Joseph, and William residing here, and George in the West, and four daughters Mary, Blanche, Maggie at home and Maud of Portland Me. survive.—Advocate 14th.

Chief Game Warden Robinson, with his assistants are making things lively for the illegal trappers and for buyers. Last week made an important seizure of sable and mink skins and arrested the buyers as they were on board the Maritime express Thursday on the way to Quebec with the fur. They were taken before Magistrate Davidson and gave bonds to appear in the morning. The following morning they appeared, pleaded guilty and were fined $80 and $15 costs.

A Protectionville trapper was also arrested for trapping in the close season and was taken before Police Magistrate Connors, at Chatham, where he pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and $4.40 costs.

Warden Robinson stated that it is likely that some other cases will result from the recent fur seizure and adds that he intends to put a stop to this illegal trade.—Advocate.

Many Women Suffer UNTOLD AGONY FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Very often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disease." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take

The Return of Sherlock Holmes

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

Author of "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," "The Hound of the Baskervilles," "The Sign of the Four," "A Study in Scarlet," etc.

ILLUSTRATED BY F. D. STEELS

fantastically upon the wet and shining path. Suddenly, as I looked ahead, the gleam of metal caught my eye from amid the thick horse bushes. Out of them we dragged a bicycle, Palmer tired, one pedal bent and the whole front of the machine sagged and sloped forward with bipod. On the other side of the bushes a shoe was projecting. We ran round and there lay the unfortunate rider. He was a tall man, full bearded, with spectacles, one glass of which had been knocked out. The cause of his death was a frightful blow upon the head, which had crushed in part of his skull. That he could have gone on after receiving such an injury said much for the vitality and courage of the man. He wore shoes, but no socks, and his open coat did not close a nightshirt beneath it. It was undoubtedly the German master.

Holmes turned the body over reverently and examined it with great attention. He then sat in deep thought for a time, and I could see by his rufled brow that this grim discovery had not, in his opinion, advanced us much in our inquiry.

"It is a little difficult to know what to do, Watson," said he at last. "My own inclinations are to push this inquiry on, for we have already lost so much time that we cannot afford to waste another hour. On the other hand, we are bound to inform the police of the discovery and to see that this poor fellow's body is looked after."

"But I need your company and assistance. Wait a bit! There is a fellow cutting peat up yonder. Bring him over here, and he will guide the police."

I brought the peasant across, and Holmes dispatched the frightened man with a note to Dr. Huxtable.

"Now, Watson," said he, "we have picked up two clues this morning. One is the bicycle with the Palmer tire, and we see what that has led to. The other is the bicycle with the patched Dunlop. Before we start to investigate that let us try to realize what we do know, so as to make the most of it and to separate the essential from the accidental."

"First of all, I wish to impress upon you that the boy certainly left of his own free will. He got down from his window, and he went off either alone or with some one. That is sure."

"Well, now, let us turn to this unfortunate German master. The boy was fully dressed when he fled. Therefore he foresaw what he would do. But the German went without his socks. He certainly acted on very short notice."

"Undoubtedly."

"Why did he go? Because from his bedroom window he saw the flight of the boy; because he wished to overtake him and bring him back. He seized his bicycle, pursued the lad and in pursuing him met his death."

"So it would seem."

"Now I come to the critical part of my argument. The natural action of a man in pursuing a little boy would be to run after him. He would know that he could overtake him. But the German does not do so. He turns to his bicycle. I am told that he was an excellent cyclist. He would not do this if he had not seen that the boy had some swift means of escape."

"The other bicycle."

"Let us continue our reconstruction. He meets his death five miles from the school—not by a bullet mark, but by a vigorous arm. The lad, then, had a companion in his flight. And this flight was a swift one, since it took five miles before an expert cyclist could overtake them. Yet we survey the ground round the scene of the tragedy, and we find nothing. I took a wide sweep round, and there is no path within fifty yards. Another cyclist could have had nothing to do with the actual murder, nor were there any human footmarks."

"Holmes," I cried, "this is impossible."

"Admirable," he said. "A most illuminating remark. It is impossible as I state it, and therefore I must in some respect have stated it wrong. Yet you saw for yourself. Can you suggest any fallacy?"

"He could not have fractured his skull in a fall?"

"In a morass, Watson?"

"I am at my wits' end."

"But, tut! We have solved some worse problems. At least we have plenty of material, if we can only use it. Come, then, and, having exhausted the Palmer, let us see what the Dunlop with the patched cover has to offer us."

We picked up the track and followed it onward for some distance, but soon the moor rose into a long, heather tufted curve, and we left the water course behind us. No further help from tracks could be hoped for. At the spot where we saw the last of the Dunlop tire it might equally have led to Hordenes Hall, the stately towers of which rose some miles to our left, or to a low gray village which lay in front of us and marked the position of the Chesterfield highroad.

As we approached the forbidding and squallid ruin with the sign of a gamecock above the door Holmes gave a sudden groan and clutched me by the shoulder to save himself from falling. He had had one of those violent strains of the ankle which leave a man helpless.

"With difficulty he limped up to the door, where a squat, dark elderly man was smoking a black clay pipe."

"How are you, Mr. Reuben Hayes?" said Holmes.

"Who are you, and how do you get my name so pat?" the countryman answered, with a suspicious flash of a pair of cunning eyes.

"Well, it's printed on the board above your head. It's easy to see a man who is master of his own house. I suppose you haven't such a thing as a carriage in your stables?"

"No, I have not."

"I can hardly put my foot to the ground."

"Don't put it to the ground."

"But I can't walk."

"Well, then, hop."

Mr. Reuben Hayes' manner was far from gracious, but Holmes took it with admirable good humor.

"Look here, said he, 'This is really rather an awkward fix for me. I don't mind how I get on.'

"Neither do I," said the morose landlord.

"The matter is very important. I would offer you a sovereign for the use of a bicycle."

"The landlord picked up his ears."

"To Hordenes Hall."

"Pals of the dook, I suppose?" said the landlord, surveying our mud-stained garments with ironical eyes.

Holmes laughed good naturedly.

"He'll be glad to see us anyhow."

"Why?"

"Because we bring him news of his lost son."

The landlord gave a very visible start.

"What you're on his track?"

"He has been heard of in Liverpool. They expect to get him every hour."

Again a swift change passed over the heavy, unshaven face. His manner was suddenly genial.

"I've less reason to wish the dook well than most men," said he, "for I was his head coachman once, and cruel bad he treated me. It was him that sacked me without a character on the word of a lying corn chandler. But I'm glad to hear that the young lord has taken the news to the hall."

"Thank you," said Holmes. "We'll have some food first. Then you can bring round the bicycle."

"I haven't got a bicycle."

Holmes held up a sovereign.

"I tell you, man, that I haven't got one. I'll let you have two horses as far as the hall."

"Well, well," said Holmes. "we'll talk about it when we've had something to eat."

When we were left alone in the stony flagged kitchen, it was astonishing how rapidly that sprained ankle recovered. It was nearly nightfall, and we had eaten nothing since early morning, so that we spent some time over our meal. Holmes was lost in thought, and once or twice he walked over to the window and stared earnestly out. It opened on to a squallid courtyard. In the far corner was a smithy, where a grimy lad was at work. On the other side were the stables. Holmes had sat down again after one of these excursions, when he suddenly sprang out of his chair with a loud exclamation.

"By heaven, Watson, I believe that I've got it!" he cried. "Yes, yes, it must be so! Watson, do you remember seeing any cow tracks today?"

"Yes, several."

"Where?"

"Well, everywhere. They were at the moor and again near where poor Heidegger met his death."

"Exactly. Well, now, Watson, how many cows did you see on the moor?"

"I don't remember seeing any."

"Strange, Watson, that we should see tracks all along our line, but never a cow on the whole moor. Very strange, Watson, eh?"

"Yes, it is strange."

"Now, Watson, make an effort. Throw your mind back. Can you see those tracks upon the path?"

"Yes, I can."

"Can you recall that the tracks were something like that, Watson?" he arranged a number of breadcrumbs in this fashion—: : : :— "and sometimes like this—: : : :— "and occasionally like this—: : : :— "Can you remember that?"

"No, I cannot."

"But I can. I could swear to it. However, we will go back at our leisure and verify it. What a blind beetle I have been not to draw my conclusion!"

"And what is your conclusion?"

"Only that it is a remarkable cow which walks, canters and gallops. By George, Watson, it was no brain of a country publican that thought out such a blind as that. The coast seems to be clear save for that lad in the smithy. Let us slip out and see what we can see."

There were two rough haired, unkempt horses in the tumble-down stable. Holmes raised the hind leg of one of them and laughed aloud.

"Old shoes, but newly shod; old shoes, but new nails. This case deserves to be classic. Let us go across to the smithy."

The lad continued his work without regarding us. I saw Holmes' eye darting to right and left among the litter of iron and wood which was scattered about the floor. Suddenly, however, we heard a step behind us, and there was the landlord, his heavy eyebrows drawn down over his savage eyes, his swarthy features convulsed with passion. He held a short, metal headed stick in his hand, and he advanced in so menacing a fashion that I was right glad to feel the revolver in my pocket.

"You infernal spies!" the man cried. "What are you doing there?"

"Why, Mr. Reuben Hayes," said Holmes coolly, "we must think that you were afraid of our finding something out."

The man mastered himself with a violent effort, and his grim mouth loosened into a false laugh, which was more menacing than his frown.

"You're welcome to all you can find out in my smithy," said he. "But look here, mister, I don't care for your poking about my place without my leave, so the sooner you pay your score and get out of this the better I shall be pleased."

"All right, Mr. Hayes; no harm meant," said Holmes. "We have been having a look at your horses, but I think I'll walk, after all. It's not far, I believe."

"Not more than two miles to the hall gate," said the landlord, who was watching us with sullen eyes until we had left his premises.

We did not go very far along the highroad. Holmes stopped the instant that the curve hid us from the landlord's view.

"We were warm, as the children say, at that inn," said he. "I seem to grow colder every step that I take away from it. No, no; I can't possibly leave it."

"I am convinced," said I, "that this Reuben Hayes knows all about it. A more clever villain I never saw."

"Oh, he impressed you in that way, did he? There are the horses, there is the smithy. Yes, it is an interesting place, this Pighting Cuck, I think we shall have another look at it in an unobtrusive way."

A long, sloping hillside dotted with gray limestone boulders stretched before us. We had turned off the road and were making our way up the hill when, looking in the direction of Hordenes Hall, I saw a cyclist coming swiftly along.

"Quiet down, Watson," cried Holmes, with a heavy hand upon my shoulder. We had hardly sunk from view when the man fell past us on the road. Amid a rolling cloud of dust I caught a glimpse of a pale, agitated face—a face with horror in every lineament, the mouth open, the eyes staring wildly in front. It was like some strange caricature of the dapper James Wilder whom we had seen the night before.

"The duke's secretary?" cried Holmes.

"Come, Watson; let us see what he does."

We scrambled from rock to rock until in a few moments we had made our way to a point from which we could see the front door of the inn. Wilder's bicycle was leaning against the wall beside it. No one was moving about the house, nor could we catch a glimpse of any faces at the windows. Slowly the twilight crept down as the sun sank behind the high towers of Hordenes Hall. Then in the gloom we saw the two side lamps of a trap light up in the stable yard of the inn and shortly afterward heard the rattle of hoofs as it wheeled out into the road and tore off at a furious pace in the direction of Chesterfield.

"What do you make of that, Watson?" Holmes whispered.

"It looks like a flight."

"A single man in a dogcart, so far as I could see. Well, it certainly was not Mr. James Wilder, for there he is at the door."

A red square of light had sprung out of the darkness. In the middle of it was the black figure of the secretary, his head advanced, peering out into the night. It was evident that he was expecting some one. Then at last there were steps in the road, a second figure was visible for an instant against the light, the door shut and all was black once more. Five minutes later a lamp was lit in a room upon the first floor.

"It seems to be a curious class of custom that is done by the Fighting Cuck," said Holmes.

"The bar is on the other side."

"Quite so. These are what one may call the private guests. Now, what in the world is Mr. James Wilder doing in that den at this hour of night, and who is the companion who comes to meet him there? Come, Watson, we must really take a risk and try to investigate this a little more closely."

"Together we stole down to the road and crept across to the door of the inn. The bicycle still leaned against the wall. Holmes struck a match and held it to the back of my head, and I heard him chuckle as the light fell upon a patched Dunlop tire. Up above us was the lighted window."

"I must have a peep through that, Watson. If you bend your back and support yourself upon the wall I think that I can manage."

An instant later his feet were on my shoulders, but he was hardly up before he was down again.

"Come, my friend," said he, "our day's work has been quite long enough. I think that we have gathered all that we can. It's a long walk to the school, and the sooner we get started the better."

He hardly opened his lips during that weary trudge across the moor, nor would he enter the school when he reached it, but went on to Mackleton station, whence he could send some telegrams. Late at night I heard him consulting Dr. Huxtable, prostrated by the tragedy of his master's death, and later still he entered my room as alert and vigorous as he had been when he started in the morning. "All goes well, my friend," said he, "I promise that before tomorrow evening we shall have reached the solution of the mystery."

At 11 o'clock next morning my friend and I were walking up the famous yew avenue of Hordenes Hall. We were ushered through the magnificent Elizabethan doorway and into his grace's study. There we found Mr. James Wilder, demure and courteous, out with some traces of the cold terror of the night before still lurking in his furtive eyes and in his twitching features.

"You have come to see his duke? I am sorry, but the fact is that the duke is far from well. He has been very much upset by the tragic news. We received a telegram from Dr. Huxtable yesterday afternoon, which told us of your discovery."

"I must see the duke, Mr. Wilder."

"But he is in his room."

"Then I must go to his room."

"I will see him there."

Holmes' cold and inexorable manner showed the secretary that it was useless to argue with him.

"Very good, Mr. Holmes. I will tell him that you are here."

After an hour's delay the great nobleman appeared. His face was more cadaverous than ever, his shoulders had rounded, and he seemed to me to be an altogether older man than he had been the morning before. He greeted us with a stately courtesy and seated himself at his desk, his red beard streaming down to the table.

"Well, Mr. Holmes," said he. But my friend's eyes were fixed upon the secretary, who stood by his master's chair, and he seemed to me to be an altogether older man than he had been the morning before. He greeted us with a stately courtesy and seated himself at his desk, his red beard streaming down to the table.

BLOOD HUMORS

PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, Eruptions, FLESHWORMS, HUMORS

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by unsightly blotches, pimples, eruptions, fleshworms and various other blood diseases.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted, as well as pain and regret to their friends.

Many a cheek and brow—cast in the mould of grace and beauty—have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and their possessor rendered unhappy for years.

Why, then, consent to rest under this cloud of embarrassment?

There is an efficient remedy for all these defects, it is,

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

This remedy will drive out all the impurities from the blood and leave the complexion healthy and clear.

Miss Annie Tobin, Madoc, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending your Burdock Blood Bitters to any one who may be troubled with pimples on the face. I paid out money to doctors, but could not get cured, and was almost CAUGHT COLD ON THE C.P.R.

A. E. Mumford tells how Psychine cured him after the Doctors gave him up

"It is twelve years since Psychine cured me of galloping consumption." The speaker was Mr. A. E. Mumford, six feet tall, and looking just what he is, a husky healthy farmer. He works his own farm near Magnetawan, Ont.

"I caught my cold working as a fireman on the C.P.R.," he continued. "I had night sweats, chills and fever and frequently coughed up pieces of my lungs. I was sinking fast and the doctors said there was no hope for me. Two months treatment of Psychine put me right on my feet and I have had no return of lung trouble since."

If Mr. Mumford had started to take Psychine when he first caught cold he would have saved himself a lot of anxiety and suffering. Psychine cures all lung troubles by killing the germs—the roots of the disease.

TEMPERANCE BILL

The Discussion Over Amendment to License Act

MR. SKINNER'S SPEECH

Appeared in the Interests of Liquor License and Criticised Promoters

FREDERICTON, N. B. March 10.—The bill to amend the liquor license act was further discussed pro and con before the members in the executive council chamber yesterday afternoon. C. N. Skinner, K. C., appeared as counsel for the wholesale licensees of St. John while Rev. Thos. Marshall and L. P. D. Tilley, of St. John, championed the cause of the temperance people. There were a number of spectators present, including members of the legislature and local clergymen.

Mr. Skinner, who opened the discussion, reflected rather severely upon those who are behind the bill. He had no doubt of their sincerity, he said, but they were certainly illogical and unreasonable and seemed to work on the assumption that those engaged in the sale of liquor were criminals. This kind of crusade had been carried on for years, but it was a notorious fact that there is more liquor sold in Canada today than ever before. He did not think that the people could not be made temperate by legislation and those who have no respect for the opinions of others are really the most intemperate.

All men require stimulating and it is absurd to urge that a temperance man is the only one who can control himself or that a man is not stronger than a barrel of whiskey. He thought the effect of liquor was greatly exaggerated, for as a matter of fact only five per cent of those who use become drunkards.

The temperance people speak of the Scott Act as being very beneficial, but the legislation, he is now seeking to have enacted, is, in itself admission that the Scott Act cannot stop the sale of liquor.

In discussing the bill Mr. Skinner contended that its only object was to injure licensees within the province for the benefit of liquor dealers in Quebec. While the government has certain authority over the express companies they have no control over the Intercolonial Railway and cannot prevent that road from carrying liquor into Scott Act counties. He did not think that even the promoters of the bill seriously believed that its passage would materially lessen the sale of liquor. He thought the government should hesitate before passing such legislation and carefully consider the rights of those who were opposing the bill.

ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MISS SCHWALM'S LETTER

In All Parts of Canada Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effectuated Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Dear Mrs. Schwalms writes:

"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a specific for female weakness with which I have been troubled for years. I also had irregular and painful periods which affected my general health until last spring. I was only a wreck of my former self. In my affliction I was advised to use your Compound, and am so glad that I did so. I found that in a few short months there was no trace of female weakness, my strength gradually returned, and in a very short time I considered myself a perfectly well woman. I appreciate my good health, and beg to assure you that I am most grateful to you for discovering such a wonderful remedy for suffering women."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases. Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

Mr. Tilley, in reply, said that it was well understood that temperance legislation was a delicate matter for any government to touch. He pointed out in reply to Mr. Skinner that the bill was a government bill.

Mr. Tweedie remarked that Mr. Tilley need not discuss that, as the government had introduced the bill at the request of the temperance people. Mr. Tilley—The temperance people have no monetary interest in the matter and they are sincere in their asking. As to the amendments, they have been suggested after consultation with Dr. Stockton.

Dr. Pugsley thought the temperance people were broadening out somewhat in their demands. At first they had only asked that the act apply to express companies, now they wanted railways and steamboats included. He thought there was danger of the putting the government in a hole by asking too much.

The Premier—If there is any such intention as that we should know it. I know that there is a feeling that the government is opposed to the temperance party and an anxiety to place us in an awkward position.

Mr. Tilley—There is no such feeling with the temperance people; all they ask is that the legislation be so made as to be effective. They would rather have none than have a law that is inoperative.

Mr. Marshall pointed out that the amendments to which Mr. Pugsley referred had been given to Mr. Tweedie over a week ago and that they had also been presented at the last hearing of the executive council, from which Dr. Pugsley was absent.

Mr. Tweedie agreed with this and added that Dr. Pugsley's attention had not been called to them.

Premier Tweedie thought there was a feeling among certain temperance people that the government was antagonistic to the cause of temperance. He noticed that two clergymen in St. John lately made a statement to that effect.

Dr. Pugsley expressed surprise in view of what the government had done for temperance that these statements had not been contradicted.

Mr. Tweedie was inclined to think that some clergymen were after notoriety. There was evidence of this in a statement from a St. John pulpit recently that the society women of that city were drunkards and that it was wrong for ladies to bowl or play golf. He thought such remarks were injury to the temperance cause.

Rev. Mr. Marshall said that there was no desire on the part of the temperance people to play fast and loose with the government, as had been stated. With regard to Mr. Skinner's considered his statements scarcely needed answering. If the contrary were the case he would only need to refer to Mr. Skinner's temperance speeches of former years.

Dr. Pugsley interjected the remark that Mr. Skinner was young then.

Mr. Marshall, continuing, said that the proposed amendments to the bill were suggested in accordance with the understanding with the government that the temperance people should provide counsel who might consult with the attorney-general with regard to the bill, and these amendments were submitted after consultation with him and were presented in good faith, and were not brought forward to annoy the government, but in the interests of the public good and to make the bill effective. Personally he had faith in the government's promise from the beginning that they would grant this legislation and still believed that the legislature would pass the bill.

This concluded the hearing and the Premier stated that the government would consider the bill and the attorney-general and solicitor-general would frame it on the best lines possible.

THE GROWTH OF BRITAIN'S EMPIRE

LONDON, March 9.—As the outcome of a suggestion by Joseph Chamberlain when he held the position of Colonial Secretary, a unique bluebook was published yesterday recording and tabulating in 300 pages forty years' growth of the British Empire, as revealed by the census of 1901. The bluebook shows that since 1861 the areas of the empire has increased from eight and a half million to nearly twelve million square miles and the population from 250,000,000 to 400,000,000 of which 54,000,000 are whites and 55,000,000 Christians. The tables convey interesting information as to the birthrate proportion of sects, religion and social conditions in various parts of the empire.

TARIFF REVISION

Delayed till Meeting of Parliament in November

OTTAWA, March 9.—There is no reference to tariff revision in the Speech from the Throne and omission is the subject of considerable discussion.

Some weeks ago it was announced there was a probability that the revision by the tariff would be delayed until late in the season or held over for the next meeting of Parliament.

The magnitude of the task of drafting an equitable modification of the existing duties will be appreciated by all who have followed the proceedings of the tariff commission. The ministers on that commission have heard an immense amount of evidence concerning all branches of industry, much of it most conflicting. It has to be very carefully examined. It would be folly to revise the schedule piece-meal or without thorough consideration and there is nothing to warrant undue haste. The accident which confined Hon. Mr. Fielding to his house has delayed this consideration to some extent. It is now most unlikely that the House will be asked to consider tariff changes before the fall of the present year.

The intention now is that the present session shall be concluded inside of three or four months. Estimates for nine months only will be passed, and the House will be called to meet again in November. It was decided last year to, in future, commence the sessions in the fall, but it was not thought advisable to put the change into effect this year. However, matters have now worked out so that a fall meeting this year is desirable.

In November it is expected that the Government will be able to submit its tariff proposals and the session will be mainly devoted to their discussion.

Under any circumstances it does not look likely at the present moment that there will be any startlingly drastic changes in the tariff, the enquiry by the Commission having shown that the present schedules are giving general satisfaction.

Why That Weariness?

Your're uneasy, restless, without appetite. Still worse you are thin and fagged out. Work must be done, but where is the strength to come from? Make your blood nutritious and you'll have lots of strength. Your only hope is Ferrozone, an instant blood maker, blood-purifier, blood-enricher. It brings keen appetite, digests food and supplies nutrition for building up all the bodily tissues. Ferrozone makes muscle and nerve fibre, increases your weight, instils a reserve of energy into the body that defies weariness or exhaustion from any cause. To have virility and healthy vigor use Ferrozone which all dealers sell in 50c. boxes.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of His Grace Archbishop O'Brien of Halifax

HALIFAX, March 9.—The Right Rev. Cornelius O'Brien, D. D., Catholic archbishop of Halifax, died very suddenly tonight of apoplexy. His grace had been in delicate health for several years, but recently showed much improvement and was actively engaged in the duties of his episcopate. His Lenten pastoral was read on Sunday last in the churches and he celebrated mass at St. Mary's Cathedral that day. A few days ago he complained of indigestion and was under a physician's care but no serious result was anticipated. His doctor left him at ten o'clock, comfortable and well. His grace had retired and his sister, who was at his bedside, left the room to get him a drink of water. Returning a moment later she found him dead. He was 92 years of age and started life as a clerk in a country store at Sumner, P. E. I., where he had as a fellow worker, President Schurman, a Cornell University. Archbishop O'Brien was a man of great intellectual force and literary taste. As monuments to his religious zeal he has left many fine churches, schools and philanthropic institutions erected during his twenty-three years episcopate. He was an eloquent advocate of home rule for Ireland, a staunch Imperialist and a strong Canadian. His Grace was a son of a Welsford county father and a mother whose birthplace was in the county of Cork, Ireland. He was born near Glasgow, P. E. I. He commenced his common school education under Robert Laird, an elder brother of Hon. David Laird. When 19 he entered St. Dunstan's College, Charlottetown, to study for the priesthood. After two years he became a student at the College of the Propaganda at Rome. He was ordained in 1871 to the priesthood and returning to P. E. Island was two years a professor and prefect of St. Dunstan's College.

HALIFAX, March 10.—The body of His Grace Archbishop O'Brien now lies in state at the Episcopal residence, Dresden Row, where, according to present arrangements, it will remain until Tuesday, then being taken to St. Mary's Cathedral, whence the funeral will take place on Wednesday. This arrangement, however, are contingent upon several things, and are subject to change.

This morning scores of people, Catholic and Protestant alike, called at the late Archbishop's residence. No similar news in years has more thoroughly shocked and saddened the community; nor, indeed, is the sense of grievous loss restricted to the city. The whole province, and indeed the Catholic church all over Canada, feels it.

The body of the dead Archbishop rests upon a catafalque of purple, the casket being covered with purple velvet. The plate upon the casket bears an inscription in consonance with the well beloved Archbishop's simple tastes. It says merely: "Cornelius O'Brien, D. D., died March 9, 1906." At the foot of the casket, upon a table upon which is a purple cover, stand lighted candles. Two Sisters are seated in the room. The Archbishop, who wears his Pontifical vestments, his mitre on his head, his episcopal ring and pectoral cross, looks as if he were in an ideally tranquil sleep. Not the slightest suggestion of disquiet or suffering mars the benevolent face which will ever be associated in the memory of the public with deeds of unostentatious goodness. The chill repose of the sleep which knows no waking has not one single painful suggestion. The body will be interred in Holy Cross cemetery.

Always keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in his house

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale by all druggists.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

OTTAWA, March 9.—Mr. Foster asked where the Auditor General's report was. He thought at least a portion of it should be in the hands of the members.

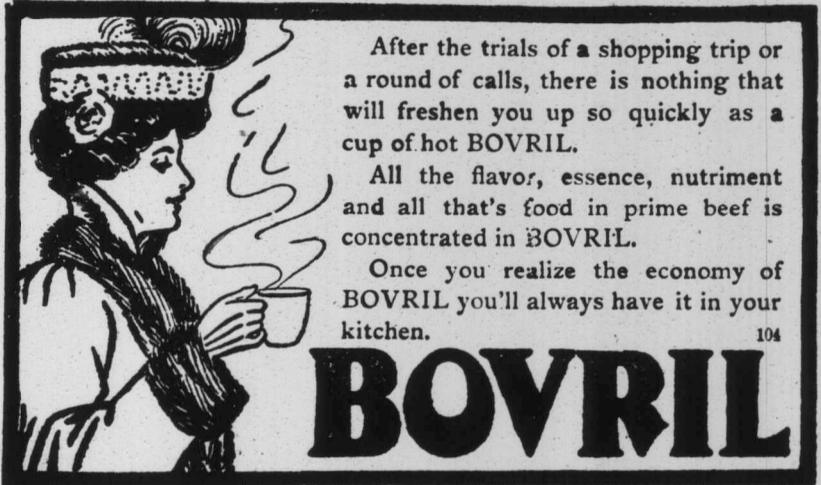

Sir Wilfrid said Mr. Foster's experience should have taught him that the government has very little control over the Auditor General. However, Sir Wilfrid had been informed that the first portion of the Auditor General's report would be presented to the House on Monday.

Mr. Blain will ask the government if it is going to introduce an anti-cigarette bill.

Mr. Crockett of Fredericton is interrogating government as to the portion of the National Transcontinental Railway between Quebec and Moncton.

The usury bill will be on the lines of the English act. This is to say, no attempt will be made to fix a maximum rate for interest charges on loans but authority will be given to the judges, where cases of extortion are brought to their notice, to say what shall be a fair rate of interest to be charged.

The legislation on the Sunday observance bill will be similar to the draft bill prepared by the Lord's Day

After the trials of a shopping trip or a round of calls, there is nothing that will freshen you up so quickly as a cup of hot BOVRIL. All the flavor, essence, nutriment and all that's food in prime beef is concentrated in BOVRIL. Once you realize the economy of BOVRIL you'll always have it in your kitchen.

The only nourishment that bread affords is that which the flour contains. Bread baking is merely putting flour in appetising form.

Flour making is merely putting the nutritious part of wheat in shape for bread making.

Good milling is the kind that takes from the wheat all that is nutritious, nothing else.

Royal Household Flour

is made from carefully selected Manitoba Hard spring wheat.

Every pound is almost a pound of food; clean, white, pure and nutritious.

It goes farther, does better baking and is more satisfactory in every way than any other flour.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHRISTINA DOWNS
It is with deep regret that we announce the death of Mrs. Christina Downs, wife of the late Mr. Henry Downs, which sad event took place at her residence in Dufferin Michigan on February 23rd.

Mrs. Downs was born at Poplar Farm a few miles above Dalhousie in January 1830 and was the youngest daughter of the late Mr. James Murray of that place.

She was married in 1858 by the late Rev. Mr. Stevens at Kempt Road P. Q. and lived there until 1883. Her husband died about 20 years ago and two of her sons were accidentally killed in the same year. Her youngest son Hudson, was killed last September while coupling cars and although she bore this last bereavement like all her other trials with a Christian fortitude, her strength gradually failed her.

She was the mother of 11 children, six of whom still survive her—James of Reed City, Michigan; Collin and Henry of Minnesota; John and William of Luther, Mich; and Mrs. Anna Fairfield of Ludington, Mich. Deceased also leaves a sister, Mrs. Andrew McIntyre of Dalhousie and a brother R. D. Murray of Saginaw, Mich. Her many friends extend their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE

Fredericton, N. B., March 8.—The house met at 3 o'clock.

The bill amending the Woodstock incorporation act was read a third time and the following bills a second time.

To incorporate the Coverdale Log Driving Company; authorizing St. John city to call in certain debentures and issue others in their place; respecting borrowing of money and issuing debentures by St. John city.

Hon. Mr. Tweedie submitted the statement of revenue and expenditure of the General Public Hospital for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1905, also the 48th annual report of the N. S. Deaf and Dumb Institute.

Mr. Maxwell—Has the report of the factory inspector been presented?

Hon. Mr. Tweedie—Yes, I read it in the house. It will be printed in the journals.

In committee of the whole the bill to legalize certain marriages by the Rev. Joseph Howe Kirk was agreed to.

The house went into committee of supply.

On the item for roads and bridges Mr. Hazen called attention to the bridge at Bathurst where the contract was awarded to Mr. Smye for $6,484 and who afterwards received a further sum from the government beyond his original contract so that the cost of the bridge was more than that of the next lowest tenderer. The fact that he took the work at too low a figure was no excuse because he prevented others from obtaining it. The chief commissioner should have called upon his surities to make good the deficiency.

Hon. Mr. LaBillois said that Mr. Smye who was a good bridge builder, had taken the contract too low. There had been changes in the specifications which increased the cost. Matters had come to a standstill, the workmen were unpaid and as the province had got good value he had referred the matter to the government who decided to have it referred to an arbitrator who awarded a certain sum to Mr. Smye, the money being paid to the workmen and those who had supplied him with goods.

When the item of $8,000 for public wharves was reached, Mr. Hazen asked where the government proposed to build these wharves.

Hon. Mr. LaBillois—Most of the wharves covered by this grant are under construction. There is the Caracquet wharf, which is to cost $1,825; the wharf at Whites Cove in Queen's county, to cost $285; and the Armstrong's Point wharf, $655; there is a wharf at Upper Sheffield, in Sunbury county, which cost $1,279; the wharf at Fairhaven, in Charlotte, $209; The Richardson wharf, $781; and the Northumberland ferry wharf, $194; the Tootenot wharf, in King's county, will cost $725, and the Ketchum wharf, in the same county, $412. There is also to be a new wharf at Upper Gagetown, which is estimated to cost $1,700.

Fredericton March 12.—In the Legislature Saturday, the following bills were read a third time: To amend the act relating to the levying of rates and taxes in St. Stephen; act respecting levying and assessing taxes in St. John city; act relating to side wharfage and top wharfage in St. John; act amending the St. John building inspection act; to authorize St. John to call in certain debentures and issue others in lieu thereof.

Mr. Hill moved his resolution that, in the opinion of the house, it is desirable to accept the offer of Greenshields & Greenshields to lease the New Brunswick Coal and Railway line, but at the suggestion of the Hon. Mr. Pugsley, owing to the thinness of the house, the mover postponed its consideration until Tuesday next.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley introduced a bill to amend chapter 144, consolidated statutes, 1903, "respecting partnerships." He explained that it was aimed by this bill to more effectively enforce the provisions of the original act that the names of partners must be registered on the formation of partnerships and that the duty of enforcing this provision under severe penalties shall rest on the clerk of the peace. The government has been asked to take this action by the Bankers Clearing House Association of St. John.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley introduced a bill amending of the probate courts act, providing where a change has taken place in the office of registrar of the court by reason of death or otherwise a certificate of the order to sell or to lease property may be issued by the registrar holding office at the time such copy is required.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley introduced a bill in amendment of the registry act, which provides that where a mortgagee desires back his certificate of payment of mortgage, he may receive it on payment of the registration fees. Another sections, said Hon. Mr. Pugsley, provides that the St. John registry office shall be open daily (Sundays and holidays) from 9.30 to 4.30 p. m. save on Saturday, when the office shall close at 1 o'clock p. m.

Mr. Murray introduced a bill relating to the Bathurst Boom Company. A bill to enable the town of Campbellton to provide for future water supply was recommended by Hon. Mr. LaBillois, and debated at some length, amendment being made with the object of safeguarding the interests of the town, and of Robert Duncan, whose land is to be taken for a reservoir site. Progress was reported on the bill, with leave to sit again.

(Special to Events.)
Fredericton, N. B., Mar. 14.—Debate was closed to-night on Hill's resolution and Maxwell's amendment re the offer to lease the N. B. Coal and Railway line both were defeated by the following vote. On the resolution Yeas—Hon. Tweedie, Hill, Messrs King, Whitehead, Dr. Ruddock, Tweeddale, Burgess, 7. Nays—Hon. Pugsley, LaBillois, Farris, Jones, Messrs Copp, Scovill, Osman, Ryan, Carpenter, Goggin, Barnes, Murray, Lowell, Robertson, Hazen, Fleming, Smith, Grimmer, Young, Johnson, Clark, Maxwell, Poirier, Legere, Clair, Martin, Hart, Morrison, 29.
