" Peace he still," the Saviour said. And the raging seas obey'd, Soon its swelling waves were still, Percetul at their Maker's will

Peace, be still, thou scoffer hold. Thou who hast in sin grown old; Peace, no more thy God deny, But upon His laws rely,

Peace thou sland'rer of the good, Who hast all reproof withstood; Till thy hairs are silver'd o'er, Peace, nor grieve the Saviour more.

And thou who art young in years Yet harass'd by hopes and fears, From thy vicious habits cease, And in virtue pure increase

When the Son withdraws his light And the earth is wrap'd in night, Let thy hearts be filled with joy. " Peace, he still" thy thoughts employ.

When upon the treacherous deep, All are lock'd in silent sleep But the sentry at his post, And the ever watching Host; Who would save the ship from rocks,

Save her from the dangerous shocke, If Messish did not keep All who ride upon the deep. Christ can every tempest still

And with " Peace' each bosom fill, He can teach our hearts to love Guiding us to realms above.
