Impudent Presumptions and Shameless

Falsehood. Impudent presumptions and shameless falsehoods are the instruments with which the Free Press expects to ecure the election of Mr. Beck. It has been as unfair and regardless of the rights of others as Mr. Beck himself, and utter disregard of the rights and feelings of others appear to be the chief point in Mr. Beck's character. We have on more than one occasion called attention to the meanness of his treatment of Mr. Thomas. The Free Press has not referred to it, or attempted to defend it. It was an act so foul that all the spices of Arabia could not make it smell sweet. The tears of no recording angel could efface the record of an act of such contemptible meanness.

The same spirit runs through claims for support. He is the whole Hospital Trust. Nothing was done by from day to day, goes around that Hosanyone on the Board till he became a pital, not afraid to go through infecmember of the Trust. The fact is, Mayor Rumball and Ald. Parnell are low-members on the Trust to seek no entitled to more credit than he is. Why? He was only an ordinary member of the Trust, while Mayor Rumball occupied the position of Mayor and Trustee. All the Trust were agreed as to the desirability of obtaining the money to make the improvements proposed. The city's limit was reached. Legislation was necessary. The Mayor assented if not too late. Mr. Purdom interviewed Mr. Ross in Toronto to see if it was possible to get the act through, and Col. Leys helped him. The time was too short, and it looked like a deadlock until the Mayor suggested to go ahead, and he would, either by note or in some way, finance the matter. To Mayor Rumball, therefore, is due the credit because he managed to get the money. To Mr. Beck is due no more credit than to any one of the other members. It was a joint unanimous act. Why, then, should Mr. Beck seek to usurp a position he is not entitled sleeping apartments for the nurses who were attending to infectious cases, so that they would have fresh and pure air to sleep in. It may have been grandmotherly, but it was kind, and the man who unestentatiously, tious wards, is kind enough to his felexclusive credit for himself, and the instances mentioned are but a few of the many genuine acts of kindness and practical use performed by him. To those who know what Mr. Beck has done, and what Mr. McCormick has done, Mr. Beck's pretensions are ludic-Mr. C. F. Complin was for many years a member of the Trust, and he, too, quietly did much good for the Hospital, and no one ever thought of claiming individual credit. Mr. Gilmour always did his duty, but one would think until Mr. Beck was specially created for the purpose, the Hospital was badly managed. The Free Press this morning again singles out Mr. Purdom for one of its characteristically savage and shameless attacks. Mr. Purdom was a member of the Trust when formed. Let those who think the Trust accomplished nothing during that time remember what the Hospital was when the Trust got it, and sires to be fair, it must admit that not one occasion on which improvement old operating-room converted into lars of the people's money was squandered on the new Hospital as compared with the plans of the Trust. Mr. Purdom was a party to these, and is as much entitled to any credit for any improvements during the past year as Mr. Beck. But neither Mr. Purdom nor any other member of the Trust wants to share with Mr. Beck the disgrace that is his due for such acts as his conduct towards Mr. Thomas, for the unnecessary and uncalled-for harm he did the city, the physicians and the Hospital. There is this difference between Mr. Purdom, the other members of the Trust, and Mr. Beck; Mr. Purdom and the other members did nothing but good, no act of meanness can be laid at their door; while Mr. Beck's injury to the Hospital far outweighs the good. Let the Free Press be just, and cease by its impudent presumptions and shameless falsehoods to seek to secure the election of one who, if elected, could

EVERETT-MOORE EMBARRASSMENTS

Recent Purchases Made at Windsor. Ontario.

Nothing Owing to Canadian Stockholders-A Wall Street Expla-

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 4 .- The Everett-Moore syndicate purchased the Sandwich. Windsor and Amherstburg Street Railway, the Windsor City Railway and the People's Electric Light Plant of Windsor last August, paying $21,600 cash, assuming the bonded debt of $150,000, and agreeing to pay the balance, said at that time by W. J. Mc-Kee, M.P.P., treasurer, to have been The deal was closed on Oct. 30, the Windsor stockholders stating that they had been paid cash in full for their holdings. None of the Wind-sor men retained any interests in the new company. At the time the Windsor stockholders stated that they were well pleased at the price they received for their interests. The railway, including switches, is 15 miles in length.

Since purchasing the S., W. and A. Street Railway the Everett-Moore syndicate has obtained the charter and franchise of the South Essex Electric Railway Company, which held the right to build an electric road from Windsor to Point Pelee, via Amherst-burg, Harrow, Kingsville and Leam-The Everett-Moore syndicate recently made application to the Ontario Legislature for a renewal of the charter of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Street Railway Com-pany, asking permission to extend the road south to Amherstburg and east to a point near the village of Te-cumseh in Essex County. They also applied for permission to float a million dollars in bonds, presumably to build extensions to the road.

The combined capital of the companies controlled by the Everett-Moore syndicate is estimated at $125,000,000. CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE. 1Special Correspondence, Detroit comb, chairman of the committee of bankers acting as trustees for the Everett-Moore syndicate, says the financial trouble is due to the syndicate's fatal mistake of building property before financing it.

Henry A. Everett has given out the earnings of the Big Consolidated street railway system in Cleveland for 1901 as $2.262,000, an increase of $239,000 over 1900. The regular quarterly dividend will be paid on Saturday.

WALL STREET EXPLANATION. [Detroit News.]

New York, Jan. 3.-The troubles of the Everett-Moore syndicate did not come as a surprise to Wall street bankers, who say those interested are principally investors and bankers throughout Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, and that only indirectly will eastern financiers feel the effect of the passing of the trolley lines into the hands of bankers. The syndicate's attempt to build line parallel to the Lake Shore, a part of the New York Central system from Cleveland to Toledo, led to the rumor that the New York Central management intended to buy out this opposition. It is asserted here, however, that failure to sell to the Lake Shore has caused the financial difficulties of the

Everett-Moore syndicate managers. WILL COME OUT ALL RIGHT. Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 8 .- H. R. Newcomb, chairman of the committee of bankers, chosen to take charge of the financial affairs of the Everett-Moore syndicate, stated today that telegrams were being received from many outof-town creditors, approving of the steps taken, and agreeing to the proposition to give an extension of 18 months on the paper of the syndicate. He added that the committee felt confident that the affairs of the syndicate would be speedily placed on a solid financial basis, and that the various constituent properties would not suffer

"His capability for his work as organist and his willingness and efficiency in all the interests of the church have given the utmost satisfaction to pastor and people and to the public generally. We deeply regret his resignation, which we very reluctantly accept, and assure Prof. Philp of our sensibility of the loss we sustain in his removal and our bect wishes for the future welfare of himself and family wherever their lot may be cast. We wish also to emphasize our appreciation of the services so voluntarily and cheerfully rendered, of the Misses Philp, as our leading sopranos, and wish for them a happy future in the use of their talents in the church of

Does Not Disappoint The New Discovery for Catarrh Seems to Possess Rema kable Merit.

A new catarrh cure has recently appeared which so for as tested has been remarkably successful in curing all forms of catarrh, whether in the head, throat, bronchial tubes, or in the stomach and liver. The remedy is in tablet form, pleasant and convenient to take and no special secrecy is maintained as to what it contains, the tablet being a scientific combinataion of Blood root Red gum and similar valuable and harmless antiseptics. The safe and effective catarrh cure may be found at any drug store under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. Whether the catarrh is located in the nose, throat bronchial tubes, or stomach, the tablets seem to act with equal success, removing the stuffy feeling in head and nose, clearing the mucous membrane of throat and trachea from catarrhal secretions, which cause the tickling, hawking and gagging so annoying to every catarrh suf-

Nasal catarrh generally leads to ulceration, in some cases to such an extent as to destroy the nose entirely and in many old cases of catarrh the bones of the head become diseased. Nasal catarrh gradually extends to the throat and bronchial tubes and very often to the stomach, causing that very obstinate trouble, catarrh of Catarrh is a systemic poison, inherent in the blood, and local washes. douches, salves, inhalers and sprays can have no effect on the real cause of the disease. An internal remedy which acts upon the blood is the only rational treatment, and Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is the safest of all internal remedies, as well as the most convenient and satisfactory from a medic al standpoint.

Dr. Eaton recently stated that he had successfully used Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in old chronic cases, even where ulceration had extended so far as to destroy the septum of the nose. He says, "I am pleas-antly surprised almost every day by the excellent results from Stuart's "I am pleas-Catarrh Tablets. Peruna is such a specific for such cases that when patients have once used it they can never be induced to quit it until they are permanently cured. It begins to relieve the disagreeable symptoms at once, the backache ceases, the trembling knees are strengthened, the appetite restored, digestion made perfect, the dull head ache is stopped and the weakening drains are gradually cured. These results certainly follow a course of treatment with Peruna,

How to Make a ROUGH SKIN SMOOTH

There are some whose skin is naturally very tender, so much so, that a slight change in temperature, either heat or cold, will cause it to become rough and scale. This is very annoying, whether it makes the skin sore or not. A trouble of this kind is due to the skin being too dry, the underlying glands not giving it food enough. It must, therefore, be fed artificially. This may be done by using OLA CREAM, a scientific skin food. OLA CREAM is not a thin, watery fluid, but is of a creamy consistency. Prepared from a valuable formula, consisting of healthful ingredients, which feed the skin, building up the tissues, supplying to the glands that which they lack to prevent roughness. Anyone who is troubled with roughness of the skin or chapped hands will find OLA CREAM a sure preventative. We are receiving many testi monials for OLA CREAM. We have made a study of the care of the skin, and will be glad to give any infermation to anyone writing us.

LET WOMEN PROPOSE

A Preacher's Plan for Booming Marriage-Men Teo Slow Nowadays.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4.-Dr. Charles L. Floss, pastor of the First Congregational Church at Webster Grove, has caused a sensation by suggesting in an interview that women should propose marriage. There are nearly members of the congregation, and last year there were only about a dozen marriages among the members. Dr. Kloss is disposed to blame the women. He says they are too timid, and that there is no reason why they should not do the proposing

"The idea seems to have always been that women are dependent upon the men," Dr. Kloss says. "There is no reason why this opinion should not be removed. Let them become men's equals and then they can do the proposing themselves, instead of waiting for the men to come along and ask them to become their wives. Right | PILES - ITCHING. ## Electors, Secure Farnell for Mayor.

Election day is Monday next. The position of Mayor of a city like London is a very important one, not only to the individual occupying it, but to the city, and on occasions to the whole country. Our advice to the electors is to secure Ald. Parnell as mayor Secure Parnell for Mayor, because he have. knows the ropes. It is not a case where ignorance is bliss, but a case where ignorance may be very expensive. Secure Parnell in preference to his opponent, because he is a better-informed man.

Secure Parnell for Mayor, because he is capable of representing the city on Council, the rules will be familiar to him, in fact, at his fingers' ends. Half the time his opponent would be at sea. Secure Parnell for Mayor, because he has declared himself in favor of the passage of the McClary bylaw.

Secure Parnell for Mayor, because he business and a successful man in the business of the public, too. His opponent, Mr. Beck, has not been successful with the duties of the office which he desires to fill.

Secure Parnell for Mayor, because his opponent is so ill-informed as to be dangerous. Could he properly preside at Council meetings? Could he intelligently act with reference to questions upon which he was misinformed?

Secure Parnell for Mayor, because, comparing the two as men, in private business, in public business, in knowledge, in experience, in education, in capacity to represent the city, in any way in which the two can be compared, your decision should be in favor of Parnell for Mayor.

The Disinterestsd Voter.

Monday will be the occasion of municipal elections throughout the Province. Once a year the citizens of the various municipalities of the Province are given an opportunity of expressing themselves-of passing their judgment regarding the stewardship of past civic officials, or of saying in whose hands the public trust shall be imposed for the coming year. In municipal elections, barring political party sentiment, which is too often called into remay be divided into two classes, namely, those who take a deep interest, and those who do not care at all. As in the case of parliamentary contests, the halance of power, so to speak, rests in the hands of the thoughtless, disinterested voter. His influence, though so far as his individual vote is concerned, the same as that of the man who takes an interest, is a doubtful quantity. He cannot be relied upon, and is incapable of casting an intelligent vote, which means registering a thoughtful opinion on public questions, or the merits of a man the aspirant to

The stability of a state or municipality depends upon the enlightenment of the masses, the augmentation of general intelligence. The importance and responsibility of the franchise is not duly appreciated by many people. This will be evidenced Monday by the numbers in this city who either absolutely refuse to go out to vote, or who manifest so little interest as to require to be transported to the polls by the friends of interested candidates.

Such a condition of affairs should not be in Canada, and especially in this city. The price paid for the privilege of voting by those of past generations was too high to merit the neglect so frequently meted cut. If a man finds himself indifferent in the matter, it is high time that he should theroughly inform himself on any questions that may be at issue, or regarding the men who are seeking positions of public trust. A proper understanding will lend interest to municipal politics as well as to any other matter under the sun.

America and Science.

Mr. Carl Snyder, in an article in the North American Review, contends that excepting astronomy, this continent has not taken even an insignificant part in the development of any single branch of science. This writer emphasizes the work of Pasteur in France. Pasteur, 40 years ago, discovered that the fermentation of beer was due to the presence of minute organisms. The ideas of this scientist grew and broadened; they were applied to the disease of the vine, then to dying silk worms, and to sheep has been a successful man in his own cholera. Lord Lister, a British surgeon, applied Pasteur's idea to surgical operations. His ideas have been also advanced by the German Koch in public business, and is unacquainted and Behring, and the Japanese, Kitasato. ## Mr. Foster On Prohibition.

[Toronto Globe.] In the session of 1891, Mr. Foster, then Minister of Finance, made a speech explaining his views on the question of prohibition. He declared that he believed in the principle of prohibition more strongly than ever, and also believed it to be practicable, but he recognized there were certain difficulties in the way. He agreed with those who held that the desire for stimulants was not a natural appetite in man, but was bred by circumstances and custom, or transmitted by inheritance. "That power of custom draped in all the allurements of hospitality and genial fellowship, is one of quisition in municipal politics, voters | the adjuncts of the liquor traffic, and one of the incitements to the drinking usages of the country, and these will have to be largely reformed and overcome before the principle of prohibition is practically realized." Another difficulty was the moneyed interest created by the traffic, the manufacturer and his employes, the wholesale and retail dealers, the municipalities and the governments, which, through taxation, share in the profit. A third difficulty was that of enforcement. Before a prohibitory law ought to be enacted there would be a strong and prependerating public sentiment in its favor, as a guarantee of maintenance and enforcement. He declared: "That man is no true friend of the temperance cause or the prohibition movement who will enact a law today heart that the law finds its reflex in the overpowering conviction of a preponderating and active majority in the country in favor of not only its enactment, but its maintenance as well, and that he would do the worst possible service to the cause of prohibition of our preparation. We have perhaps lost ground in the matter of temperance sentiment during the last two or country in favor of not only its en-actment, but its maintenance as well, and that he would do the worst pos-sible service to the cause of prohibition to snatch a verdict for the enactment of the law, and find out afterwards, if it were not a reflex of such a preponderating sentiment in the country, that it would become a dead letter on the statute book, a byword in the community and a represent to the years temporary. ity and a reproach to the very temperance men who favored the enactment.

Now, let us be honest with ourselves tonight. Do we in our hearts believe that this country, from British that Columbia to Cape Breton, has that strongly preponderating and actively co-operating sentiment in favor of the enforcement of a prohibitory law? If we do, let us vote for it and enact it. If we do not, let us be honest with ourselves, honest with the cause, and each individual voter. No man should vote for prohibition unless he is pre-pared to do his uttermost personally onest with the country as well." Mr. Foster went on to consider the proposal to submit the question to the people in the form of a plebiscite or referendum. He declared that he preferred the old constitutional methods, and sympathized somewhat with those who believed that the habit of referring questions to the people would tend to destroy the representative character of our institutions. Circumstances, however, might arise which would render it necessary that there should be a direct reference to the people. It was in this speech that Mr. Foster made the celebrated confession that he had voted for a resolution favoring immediate prohibition "in a moment of weakness." He was subjected to some very severe criticism as to the change that had come over him since he entered the cabinet. With that question, however, we are not dealing at present. We are presenting what he gave as his mature judgment on the question.

THE VOTE FOR THE VOTE FOR PROHIBITION the question as to absolute prohibition pure and simple, to submit a second is sue, namely, whether there should not be a modified prohibitory law, under which the manufacture and the use of cider, native wine and similar beverages should be permitted, while the use of strong alcoholic drinks is stringently forbidden. There are many who would support such a modified prohibition who are not in favor of absolute prohibition.

of a Referendum.

What Proportion of the Vote Is Necessary to Insure Enforcement

Of a Prohibition Measure?—Views of Principal Caven, Chancellor Wallace, Dr. Potts and Others.

Toronto, Jan. 4.-The Westminster, in its current issue, contains a noteworthy symposium upon the question of the referendum with reference to prohibition. The Westminster says: It is quite probable that the Ontario Legislature, at its next session, will pass prohibitory legislation similar to the liquor prohibition act of Manitoba, and that such legislation will be submitted to the electors to become law This is all doubtless true. Scientific only after a vote in its favor. This movement in Canada and the United course was suggested by The Westprivy council was announced. question of importance just now touches the conditions of such referendum. One of these conditions is the proportion of the vote favorable to prospect, this continent has been eminent- hibitory legislation necessary for its ly successful. Industrial development enforcement. In order to ascertain the given serious and independent thought to such subjects, the following questions were submitted to the heads of universities and colleges in Coronto,

> In the event of the referendum being ment, should a bare majority of the votes cast aetermine the issue, more than a majority is deemed necessary, what, in your judgment, should the proportion be?

Replies have not yet been received from all to whom these questions were sent, but the following will be read with interest: PRINCIPAL CAVEN, KNOX COL-LEGE You ask me whether, in the event of prohibitory measure being passed by the legislature, and sabmitted to a re ferendum, it should become effective by bare majority of the votes cast, or whether in order to its becoming law it should have more than a mere major-ty in its favor. No one, it seems to me, who adequately weighs all that is involved, would wish to have such legislation adopted on a bare majority vote. I am quite aware that in making any definite proportion of votes necessary to validate legislation there will always appear to be something arbitrary, but it is essential that legislation of the character in question should be sustained by such strength of public opinion as to render its enforcement both possible and morally salutary. I should greatly doubt the wisdom of making than three-fifths of the votes polled necessary to the adoption of the neasure. Should four-fifths of the possible votes be polled in the referendum, this, measured by the vote in ordinary provincial elections, would be counted Three-fifths of such a vote would be a little less than half the possible vote. Were less than four-fifths of the whole votes recorded, all the more necessary that a bare majority should not give effect to the measure. WLI, CAVEN.

CHANCELLOR O. C. S. WALLACE. I am of the opinion that if only a bare majority of the people of Ontario should vote for prohibition it would be perilous to enact a prohibitory law -perilous to the morals of the province at large and perilous to the cause of prohibition. The second question is more difficult. If, for example, twothirds of the people voted for prohibition and one-third against it, it might then be wise to enact such a law, providing the one-third included for the most part only lawless men. But it would be otherwise if with the one third there were many godly ministers, upright judges, unselfish philanthro-pists and other highly respected leaders of thought and action, and if rep-utable newspapers also in different parts of the province sympathized with Until the people have the minority. expressed themselves, and we know who are on the side of prohibition and who against it, and not how many only, no one is in a position to say how large a majority would be necessary to make provincial legislation a wise method of grappling with that monstrous iniquity, the drink traffic in its greedy and conscienceless service of the drink habit, O. C. S. WALLACE.

CHANCELLOR BURWASH. I am quite sure that any law will fail which has not behind it the moral if he does not firmly believe in his convictions of the majority of the peo-

A woman like Mrs. Na-tion, to say nothing of milder forms of Dundas St. eccentricity, does immense harm to the cause of temperance. The referendum to be satisfactory should first of all call out a substantial vote, say two-thirds of all the voters, and then give us

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA THE BEST REMEDY

ROBERT H. WARDEN,

Asthma is a peculiar disease, and what will relieve one case will sometimes fail in another. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion will nearly always afford relief, especially in cases complicated with Bronchitis. The Emulsion soothes the cough and makes the breathing easier, dispels the bronchial irritation and greatly improves all the catarrhal symptoms. In Chronic Asthma it is very effective in allaying all the more distressing symptoms, while after an acute attack it is of great benefit in restoring strength and vigor to the exhausted system.

Andiers Petroleum Fmusion

is soothing, healing, strengthening, and contains no opiate or other harmful drug. It is pleasant to take, agrees with the weakest stomach, promotes a healthy appetite, helps digest and assimilate healthy food, and builds up the health and strength generally. Persons who cannot take cod liver oil in any form become fond of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion, and this makes it especially valuable as a children's medicine. Remember this is not a patent medicine. Doctors have been prescribing it continuously since 1880, and it is largely used in the leading hospitals everywhere.

MISS FLORENCE DEWSON, WINDSOR, ONTARIO, SAYS: - I take pleasure in writing you what I think about Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. This winter I had the La Grippe, and was very much run down. My physician ordered me cod liver oil, but my stomach was too weak to take it, and at this time a sample of Angier's Emulsion was handed to me. It agreed with me so well that I commenced on it and am still taking it. I told my physician about it, and as he had just recovered from La Grippe he took it, and was so much pleased with it that he has been prescribing it for all his patients who are in need of same. Persons who have weak stomachs and can't take strong emulsion should take no other than Angier's Petroleum Emulsion.

ASTHMA AND BRONCHITIS: — I received a bottle of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion in good order, and was highly satisfied with it. I find a great deal of relief from it, as I have been suffering with Asthma and Bronchitis for the last ten years. I have been treated by many doctors, but have found more relief from a bottle of Angier's Emulsion than anything I have taken. I have recommended it to all sufferers from the same complaint. Please send me a 25. 9d. bottle, for which I enclose P. O. and oblige. Mrs. E. HOOPER, 59 Worcester St., Brynmawr, Beeconshire, England. SOOTHING AND STRENGTHENING EFFECT : - I found Angier's Petroleum Emulsion se helpful among my patients that there was a constant demand for it during the winter and early spring, and I cannot speak too highly of its southing and strengthening effects. I have recommended it to personal friends and to other institutions. Our attendant physician, Dr. J. B. Fallen, speaks of it in the highest terms. Miss CAMILLA B. SANDERSON, Matron, The Haven & Prison Gate Mission, Toronto, Ontario. All druggists sell Augier's Petroleum Emulsion. Two sizes, 50 cants and $1.00 a bottle. Be sure you get ANGIER'S.

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—Receipts of live TORONTO, Jan. 3.—Receipts of live stock were again heavy today, 91 loads in all being marketed. Despite the heavy run, prices in all lines were well maintained, holding very strong at yesterday's run, prices in all lines were well maintained, holding very strong at yesterday's level. The outlet for both cattle and the small stuff is excellent, and the market was characterized by a brisk demand for all lines. Export cattle sold well at $4.60 to $5.25 per cwt for best selections, and butchers fetched from 4½c to 4½c per 1b for picked lots. The demand for stock cattle was good and prices were firm, with sales at $2.50 to $3.50 per cwt. for cattle averaging 600 to 1.000 lbs. In the small meats section the market was brisk, and everything sold at firm prices. Butchers' sheep were rather sold, and comparatively few appear to be wanted, but export sheep find a good sale. Hogs are strong, at unchanged prices. The outlook for the maintenance of present prices is bright, but the market is subject to quick fluctuation in either direction, and the future will depend solely on receipts. C. Woods bought 23 cattle, at $3.40 to $3.80 per cwt. Zeagman & Co. bought $0 stockers, 600 to 1,000 lbs, at $2.50 to $3.40 per cwt. Crawford & Hunat $3.40 to $3.80 per cwt. # INQUEST INTO THE DEATH OF GEO. MILLS

Stiff Claims Made by Mrs. Farrance, Alleged

Christian Sciencet. Toronto, Jan. 4 .- At an inquest tonight into the death of Geo. Mills, on Dec. 23, Mrs. Helen Farrance, who had treated the deceased by Christian Science, said that she was a channel to reflect God's perfect will.

Crown Attorney Dewart asked her if she could give treatments as well in the absence as in the presence of patients. She said that she could.

The crown attorney then asked that if she would agree to give a treatment at a certain hour and the patient were to die meantime without her knowledge, would she still go ahead and give the treatment? She said that she could.

treatment?
Mills had been dead a number of hours before Mrs. Farrance knew of it, but nevertheless she said, in answer to Mr. Dewart, that she would give the treatment even though the patient were dead. She claimed to have cured 400 cases during her ten years' practice, 129 of which had been considered incurable. Some had come from the hospital for incurables. She told Coroner Cotton that a Christian Scientist having sufficient faith could take any dose of strychnine and live.

The jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes, the evidence of Drs. chason and Harrington having bee o the effect that deceased had suffered from tuberculosis. They added, however, that in their opinion means should be taken to compel persons practicing Christian Science to report every case to the authorities in order to pre-vent a spread of contagious disease,

PROBABLY PERISHED

and Crew Missing

From the Wrecked Pacific Coast Steamer Walla Walla.

She Was in Collision With an Unknown Sailing Vessel and Sank in Thirty-Five Minutes After Being Struck.

Eureka, Cal., Jan. 3.-The Pacific Coast Steamship Company's steamer Walla Walla (Capt. Hall), which left this city Jan. 1. bound for Puget Sound ports, yesterday morning came in collision with an unknown iron sailing vessel and foundered. News of the disaster was brought to Trinidad, about 30 miles north of this place, by a boat from the unfortunate steamer which, when it left the scene of the disaster contained thirteen persons, but when it arrived at Trinidad contained but seven. Later the steamer Dispatch arrived with 60 of the passengers and crew on board, including Capt. Hall. WHILE THEY SLEPT.

The crash occurred early in the morning, while most of the passengers were asleep. Boats and life rafts were launched immediately, and under the direction of Capt. Hall and his crew most of the passengers were placed safely on rafts, and in the boats, but it is believe that the loss of life will considerable.

The collision occurred 22 miles south of Mendocino buoy. The Walia Walla was struck in the bow by an unknown French bark. At the time of the collion the second officer was on the bridge, and all on board were sleeping.

TWENTY-SEVEN MISSING. At 6 o'clock tonight the representatives of the Pacific Steamship Company say that their latest advices from the company's agent in Eureka accounted for 115 persons who were on the Walla Walla. This leaves 27 miss-There are still one boat and two life rafts missing. And some hopes are entertained that possibly the majority of those unacounted for may Martel, fireman; L. Drube, passenger, have been on these and have been and three unknown men were drown-picked up at sea. The tug Ranger has arrived at Eureka with a boat con-taining eleven passengers and three of the crew of the Walla Walla.

THE COLLIDING VESSEL. Shipping men at Portland, Ore., believe that the vessel which was in col-lision with the steamer Walla Walla is the four-masted French bark Eu-rope. The Europe left Portland Dec. Twenty-Seven of Passengers

13 OF A BOAT'S LOAD LOST. Word has just been received from Trinidad by telephone of the boat which put in there. The survivors had a terrible experience, and only five or six are left out of a boat load. The telephone dispatch states that 13 were lost. The boat was capsized several times in rough weather, Thursday morning, and each time several persons lost their lives. The survivors are now on the road to Eureka. SLID AWAY IN THE DARKNESS.

The Walla Walla sailed from San Francisco Jap. 1 for Puget Sound ports. When off Cape Mendocino, on the California coast, at 4:10 o'clock, Thursday morning, an iron bark, be lieved to be French, loomed up in the haze and crashed into the Walla Walla's bow. Then the sailing vessel slid off into the darkness and was seen no more. All the passengers and crew of the Walla Walla, except the few on watch, were asleep, but were aroused by the crash. The steerage quarters were in the bow, and it is believed some of the steerage passengers and crew were cut to death. A big hole was made in the steamer's bow and she sank in 35 minutes. The officers and crew maintained strict discipline, and boats and life-rafts were lowered. CAPTAIN WENT DOWN WITH HIS SHIP. All who were not killed in the collision got off except Capt. Hall, who went down with his ship. He was picked up later by one of the boats, uninjured, with the exception of a few bruises. A choppy sea was running and the small boats could not make a landing on the shore, a few miles distant. They drifted about all day, and finally 65 people were picked up by the steamer Dispatch, which took them to Eureka.

Another boat, under command of Engineer Brown, and containing thirteen persons, attempted to land at Trinidad, and was swamped.

THE BOAT THAT WAS SWAMPED. John Wilkinson, quartermaste Wm. Martel, fireman; L. Drube, passenger,

AN OPEN LETTER

Addressed to Women by the Treasurer of the W.C.T.U. of Kansas City, Mrs. E. C. Smith,

"My DEAR SISTERS: - I believe in advocating and upholding everything that will lift up and help women, and but little use appears all knowledge and learning if you have not the health to enjoy it.

"Having found by personal experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine of rare virtue, and having seen dozens of cures where my suffering sisters have been dragged back to life and usefulness from an untimely grave simply by the use of a few bottles of that Compound, I must proclaim its virtues, or I should not be doing my duty to suffering mothers and dragged-out housekeepers.

"Dear Sister, is your health poor, do you feel worn out and used up, especially do you have any of the troubles which beset our sex, take my advice; let the doctors alone, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it is better than any and all doctors, for it cures and they do not."-Mrs. E. C. Smith, 1212 Oak St., Treasurer W. C. T. U., Kansas City, Mo.

MRS. E. C. SMITH.

What is left for the women of America after reading such a letter as the above, but to believe. Don't some of you who are sick and miserable feel how wicked you are to remain so, making life a burden for yourself and your friends when a cure is easily and inexpensively obtained? Don't you think it would pay to drop some of your old prejudices as Mrs. Smith says, and "Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is better than all the doctors for cures?" Surely, the experience of hundreds of thousands of women whom the Compound has cured should con vince all women of the wisdom of taking the advice that Mrs. Smith offers in her letter above published Read What Mrs. Burnham says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - Words fail to express how thankful I am to you for your advice, and I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick for three years with female weakness I had dizzy spells, headache, backache, feet and hands were cold all the time, would get tired and faint very easy. I also had dropsy and was troubled with leucorrhœa. I suffered for two weeks before each menstrual period and my ovaries would swell very badly. I took lots of medicines from doctors, but received no benefit. To please my husband I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now a well woman, and your Compound alone did it."—Mrs. H. W. BURNHAM, Russell, Mich. (Jan. 31, 1901).

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills. Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want —a cure. Moral — Stick to the medicine that you know is Best. Write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

REWARD. — We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $6000 which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special per mission.

Another statement is that there were 115 perons on board, while the captain says there were 160. CAPT. HALL'S STORY.

Capt. A. L. Hall, master of the wrecked steamship, says: "We left San Francisco Wednesday. The weather thickened as night advanced and Thursday morning a heavy fog, accompanied by a light rain, set in. About 4:10 a.m. I was suddenly awakened by an awful crash on the port side, cell forward. The housing, especially in the vicinity of my cabin, was shattered. My bunk was struck and thrown across the room on my table. After the crash the vessel, which I think was a French bark, judging from the language used by her sail-ors, rebounded. I called to her to stand by. She drifted by and was lost to view. Our vessel began to fill immediately, and she sank in 35 minutes. There was no confusion on board. The officers and crew kept the passengers from becoming panic-

"The crew was immediately ordered to man the life boats and rafts, and an effort was made to save the baggage. This was given up, however, the vessel filling at such an alarming rate that no thought was given but for the safety of the passengers. I gave orders to have the port boilers blown out. It being necessary to give the vessel a list to keep the gaping hole in her side out of the water, TOOK TO THE BOATS. "In a few moments all the life boats and rafts were out, with the exception of two, which were smashed. One of these boats contained nine or ten pas sengers. All were thrown into the water, but managed to board a life-raft which had been launched a few minutes previously. The second boat was smashed by striking a heavy object in the water, but all the passen-gers were rescued by another life-raft. Sighting a life-raft I commenced swimming, and succeeded in reaching it after a hard struggle, and was pulled on board by the three occupants. We floated about nearly all day, and early in the evening were picked up a few miles to the north of the wreck by the steamer Dispatch, which was proceeding to Seattle. A number of passengers were injured by the falling timbers. While not very rough the sea was choppy, and the continual wash over the raft was a hardship, especially to the ladies, many of whom were nearly in the last stages of ex-

FORTY-ONE MISSING. San Francisco, Jan. 4.-Advices from Eureka early this morning indicate that the list of dead and missing in the foundering of the steamer Walla Walla has reached 41. Of these eight are known to have died. The remaining 33 are probably adrift on the ocean in two lifeboats, and a raft. Of the 142 passengers and crew on the Walla Walla, 109 are accounted for as follows: Eighty-four are survivors at Eureka, 17 at Big Lagoon, near Trinidad; 7 were drowned before reaching land, and an unknown woman died from the shock and exposure after reaching the shore. This leaves 33 unaccounted for. It is thought that nearly all are in boats at sea. But it is impossible at present to obtain an accurate list of those missing, owing to confusion and errors made in transmitting the names of the survivors to this city for comparison with the official list.

The Disease Discovered in I wo Families in Ekfrid.

Tis Not of a Serious Nature, However—Cases Quarantined Ara Doing Well.

Four cases of smallpox were discovered yesterday in two families residing about three miles west of Appin. So far as is yet known, the cases are not of a serious nature. The two families, by name Campbell and Cameron, had been visited by a young man from Detroit, who had contracted the disease there, and as a result two members of each family are now stricken with the malady.

Dr. Hutchinson, medical health officer, was telegraphed for yesterday by the reeve and board of health, of Appin, to give expert testimony on the cases, and when he had seen the patients he immediately advised that both families be placed under quarantine and vaccinated. The two churches of the district and the school were also ordered to be closed.

Several cases of illness in the town ship of Ekfrid had been suspected to be smallpox, but the physicians of that district were unable to form any positive diagnosis. Dr. Hutchinson was accordingly called. The two cases in the Campbell family are more severe than the two in the Cameron family, but no serious results are expected thirty cents. The point worth noting the patients were doing well.

The man, McAlpine by name thought to have brought the disease to Appin, bought a ticket at Appin for this city, but was delayed by the board of health and placed under quarantine.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—The members of the prohibition deputation, which interviewed Premier Ross yesterday, sub-sequently held a private conference There appeared to be some doubt in the minds of the members of the deputation as to the fate of a prohibitory measure in the hands of the legislature, as at present constituted, and it was, therefore, decided to inaugurate a movement by petition with the object of strengthening the hands of the government. The decision of the meeting was stated in the following reso-

"That in view of the strong case for prohibitory legislation as again presented to the government today, based upon the fact of the plebiscite prohibition majorities, the government's promises and the decision of the privy council, and in order to strengthen the hands of the government in carrying such legislation through the house, we request prohibitionists to petition the hibitory legislation to the limit of its jurisdiction. We mention this now, because, like everything else, if a Nurses' Home is ever built the Free Press and Mr. Beck will claim the whole credit.

This morning Mr. Lutman sent for Ald Parnell, and before witnesses stated that what Ald. Parnell accepted this statement as true and desired that the public should be so informed. At the same time he was perfectly correct in what he had said, and having known positively that this was going on, he felt that he could not, in the interests of the public, support a man for the position when he had apparently been a party to it.

LATE SPORTING.

HOCKEY. CASE OF THE R. M. G. This is the way the sporting writer of the Globe puts it: The Ontario Hockey Association executive evidently does not fall in with the principle that what its members may not principle that what its members may not do at home without forfeiting membership they may do abroad without any loss of standing. It was argued on behalf of the Royal Military Coilege team which visited Pittsburg during Christmas week, that as Peel and Hern were members in good standing of the Western Pennsylvania Hc key League, the R. M. C. team committed no offense in playing against them in that territory. To accept such a plea would be to admit also that an O. H. A. team might go elsewhere and play for pay without affecting their standing when they returned to play in the O. H. A. That plea entirely overlooks the chief object of the prombition against meeting disqualined players, which is that they shall be kept out of competition with members of the asof competition with members of the as-sociation which debarred them. Really, no such prohibition in the rules should be necessary. The respect and loyalty be necessary. The respect and loyalty due the governing organization ought to dictate that to the individual clubs, but some of us are careless, while others are scrupulous, and for the careless lot it was put into the rules. Members of the executive have said that it was with regret that they saw a club so long animated by the real sporting spirit as R. M. C. come under the penalty, but no other course would have maintained the dignity and discipline of the association, and no other course would have been an dignity and discipline of the association, and no other course would have been an application of the rules for the impartial enforcement of which the committee were elected. The Western Pennsylvania League, in which Hern and Peel are in good standing, is, as has been previously told here, composed of three teams maintained by the Rink Company in Pittsburg. Jim Jeffries would be in good standing there if he could play hockey.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 4.-Three trains were piled up in a wreck on the Pennsylvania Railroad, about seven miles west of this city, last night. According to the reports obtainable, one man was killed and four injured, several others sustairing slight injuries. The killed and injured were railroaders. There were two wrecks. The first was caused by train No. 14, an eastbound mail and express train, carries through passengers from Pitts-burg to New York, running into a side track, on which was standing on eastbound freight train. The wreckage was piled high over the tracks, and before flagmen could be sent out, train No. 1. one of the fastest westbound freights on the Pittsburg division, ran into the wreckage, and, according to reports received here, much of the

His whole life seemed to depend upon His whole life seemed to depend upon her not fading away just then. He put his left arm round her to detain her, still with his right hand holding hers, and she was just about to answer, when the shout as of an angry mob filled his ears. Suddenly he let go her hand. He started, and for an instant looked heavily about him, and then tried to stretch his limbs, which were numbed with cold.

"Can I have been dreaming?" he said to himself. "A strange place to go to sleep in! But surely that sound I heard was no dream."

He listened; but all was still. But in another moment he heard below him the strong voice of Pierre, so pitched as to pierce through the roar of the water.

"Ah! It is Pierre returned thenk and he called out in his turn. And now to draw in and fix the rope. And now to draw in and fix the rope.
But, to his dismay, he found that the the voice of Pierre, had in truth been nothing less than the very cord upon

He sought for it carefully, but it was He sought for it carefully; but it was only too clear that the end of it which he ought to have guarded had slipped over the verge of the road.

"And now?" asked the Marquis.

"Monseigneur will find it difficult to elimb back without help. I must get on to the rock. It is very unlucky that Monseigneur let go the rope."

"And how will you get on to it? And there is, barely room for two."

Only apparently, however. It was too true that the stene was only made for one, though not in the sense intended by the marquis. The frosts and thaws of a thousand winters had done their work upon it; and though it had room, it had not strength for two.
With a thundering sound, and with one wild cry, the rock and the two victims of a dream fell together headlong down the steep, straight course of the torrent. There is no need to trace the fall of that confused mass of broken rock and shattered limbs; for it would be absurd to suppose that any creature could make that descent and remain for a single instant alive. spoken editorial, in which it strongly ing alliance with Germany, in order to check the "continued and apparently inevitable advance of the United States into South America.'

GERMANY'S LATEST. Berlin, Jan. 4.-It has been unofficiilly announced here that Germany's charge d'affaires of Caracas, Herr Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, has handed President Castro a note in which the German claims against Venezuela are clearly defined, and for which a limit of time is set for President Castro's answer thereto.

Whatever comes with the night, no matter how real and vivid it may be, is always of the nature of a dream; while, on the other hand, the most dim and dreamlike of mornings always brings with it a sensation of reality. Not only is this the case with man, but with nature also; and now, when morning came, the hills seemed literally to wake, even although the light of the moon had been brighter and most distinct than that of the winter daybreak. Dull as daylight may be, it is at all events preferable to the excitements of nightmare. The very torrent, as it foamed over the road, and reflected the red globe of the sun, seemed to have forgotten the mischief it had brought about; for the departure of the night had deprived it of at least half its grandeur and nearly all its terror. This unofficial announcement at the same time carefully points out that the handing of the note in question to the Venezuelan president cannot be considered an ultimatum from Germany, since the note does not contain any reference to Germany's future action with regard to Venezuela. POPE ORDERS BIBLE CONGRESS.

London, Jan. 4 .- The Tablet announces as a matter of the profoundest interest to the whole Christian world that the Pope has appointed a special pontifical commission to conall questions connected with Biblical studies. Catholic scholars throughout the world will have the fullest opportunity of stating their views and difficulties, bringing them to the direct notice of the Holy See. Cardinal Parocchi, dean of the Sacred College, is president of the commission, and Cardinal Segna, prefect of the Vatican Archives, and Cardinal parture of the night had deprived it of at least half its grandeur and nearly all its terror.

Nevertheless, the fact remained that the number of strong men in the world was less by two—not that that can be considered much, perhaps, when every day strong men as well as weak were being forced out by hundreds. As to the marquise, it may seem incredible, or almost incredible, that she should have survived the cold, the weariness and the pain in which she lay. But experience proves that it is by no means incredible. There are some constitutions that may seem to be utterly broken, and yet remain proof against death—that cannot die, in fact, except from old age. And it is just among delicate women that this intense vital force is generally most strongly developed. In narratives of shipwreck and famine we invariably find that it is the tenderly nurtured women who prove most superior to hardship. Whether it is that delicacy and strength of organization are identical; whether it is that women who habitually expend little muscular exertion acquire thereby a larger reserve fund of passive strength. Vives y Tuto are assessors. There will also be eleven consultors chosen from different countries. STRATHCONA'S HANDSOME GIFT. London, Jan. 3 .- Miss Margaret O'Hea, professor in the Royal Academy of Music, is authority for the statement that Wagner's music is the cause of the rapid deterioration of popular musical taste in Britain. Prof. O'Hea says that a few years ago the sweet strains of Mozart, Rossini, Donizetti, Beethoven and other masters intelligible to the common mind were loved by the people and that musical her possessing any amount of vital force. After an hour or two she woke, and managed partially to raise herself from her bed of cloaks and straw.

She found herself alone, in a white waste of silence, for to the sound of the water her ears had accustomed themselves unconsciously. It was long before she could collect her thoughts; long, even, before she felt about her for her child; longer still before she could realize the fact that it was gone from her.

But she did realize it at last, and then the rush of returning consciousness brought with it a new strength that was taste was improving. They did not understand it, and so they took up the vulgar stuff of the music halls and fed upon it. Thence followed a regular decline in the public taste, until today there is nothing desolation, of utter helplessness, she fell—unable to move, unable to think, unable even to moan. That madness itself did not come to her relief is almost a miracle. Perhaps it was the weakness of her body that saved her; it must certainly have been to a great extent the strength of her mind. What she felt cannot be called mental anguish, for she was without any conscious impression of anything. The mere fact that she still lived was all she knew, and that was more than enough. No anguish, however bitter, was needed to add to the intense bitterness of each moment of mere life. Uric acid is the name given by nedical men to the poisonous matter which the kidneys filter from the When the kidneys are weak, inactive or diseased they fail to perform their functions as filters, and the uric acid poison remains in the blood to find lodgment in the weaker organs, and produce the most painful and fatal results. The symptoms of kidney disease. such as backache, frequent and painful urination, deposits in the urine, pains in the sides and limbs, headaches, are so familiar that seems unnecessary for anyone to be ignorant of the approach of this dreaded malady. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are ever at hand as a thoroughly effective remedy, as they are for sale by nearly every dealer who pretends to keep any family medicines. Not only the kidneys themselves become diseased, but the uric acid forms crystals in the joints and muscles, causing the most extreme pain, and what is known as rheumatism, a disease which can never be cured until the kidneys are made healthful and Another form of kidney disease is dropsy and heart failure. In such cases the uric acid turns the blood to water and causes dropsical swellings, which, when in the region of the heart produce heart failure. AT THE CORONATION.

It is understood that a way may be found by which two United States naval officers of high rank will take part in the coronation ceremonies at London. The question of selecting officers for this service has not yet been considered by President Roosevelt and the secretary of the navy, but the prospects that such selections will be made has caused much speculation in naval circles. The present indica-tions are that the president will select a civilian representative for the coronation, and also one officer of the army and one officer of the navy to accompany the civilian. Quite apart from this the navy will be represented by a squadron in English waters, with a rear admiral in command. SUICIDE IN A RAILWAY CARRI-

AGE.

A verdict of suicide during temporary nsanity was returned by a coroner jury in the case of Baron Chales Cauldoc Boilleau, who was found shot in a Junction on Sunday. Horne Payne, a lawyer, testified that the deceased was a French baron, and the son of a former French consul-general in Canada. The deceased's father married a daughter of United States Senator Benton. The baron had been depressed on account of business matters. He lived in Iceland, where he had a large estate. Baron Boilleau's father was formerly first secretary of the French legation at Washington. He was appointed by Emperor Napoleon, and held the additional office of Canadian consul-general. While in Washington he married Senator Benton's daughter, thus becoming brother-in-law of Gen. Fre-mont. The suicide was the elder Baron Boilleau's youngest son by his first marriage. The deceased had two brothers in America. He was wealthy, but lately he had spent large sums in endeavoring to get the Iceland Parliament to permit English vessels to fish within the three-mile limit. The de-ceased had many wealthy friends in but he kept his troubles himself, and when found dead in the carriage he had only one penny in his pocket.

MELROSE .- An old lady died thireen months ago. Her property consisted of money in the bank; the executors have not distributed to the heirs in full, to some none at all yet. What length of time in such cases are executors given to close up their business? Will the heirs have the benefit of all interest accruing in the bank since her death? For example, Mrs. B has $400 willed to her, has she a right to the interest on it? How much can executors charge for their duties? Men Mourned as Dead Turn Up to Claim Their Belongings.

New York, Jan. 4. - After being thought dead for over a quarter of a century, James Morrow, now of Illi-nois, nephew of Billy McMahon, who owned the Haymarket dance hall during the Tweed regime, has claimed a share of his uncle's estate, worth $400,-000. Last summer Samuel H. Morrow, son by a woman he left in this city nearly 30 years ago, was given a share of the estate by Justice Gilderof the supreme court, who decided that James Morrow was legally dead. Now father and son are opposed to each other in a legal fight. Neither has ever seen the other, the father leaving the city before the birth of the

HOBBLED SIX YEARS

Cured in Six Weeks of Chronic Rheumatism by Ferrozone.

Hundreds, aye thousands of cures for rheumatism have been put on the market during the past few years, but a remedy with power to cure chronic rheumatism, Ferrozone excepted, in the estimation of Mr. Simon Cullen, of Sturgeon Bay, does not exist. Mr. Cullen says: "As everyone around here knows I have been simply tortured for years with muscular rheumatism, not the ordinary kind, but the kind that ties one up so that they can't move. For six years I hobbled about like confirmed cripple, unable to move "I used quantities of medicines, speial baths, etc., but they never helped me verv much.

"It was on the advice of a Presbyterian minister that I used Ferrozone. He caused three boxes to be sent to me, and they cured me so perfectly that I am today as spry as a youngster of ten, and am fully convinced that my recovery is due to the marvelous action of Ferrozone.' Mr. Cullen's case is an illustration of what Ferrozone is capable of accomplishing.

In severe cases of Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism and Lumbago it acts with surprising alacrity, and no instance is recorded where it failed. Ferrozone cures these diseases because it is a solvent for uric acid in the blood, and removes all traces of it in from five to ten days. It builds up and invigorates the system, creates new appetite, aids digestion, in ways almost too numerous to mention. The best rheumatism remedy that money can buy is Ferrozone. After all othit cures, and that's the sort of medicine you want. Price 50 cents a box, at W. T. Strong's, Dundas WANTS HIS SALARY

Mr. Beck's One Song.

The Free Press is attempting to dis cuss nothing but Hospital matters in connection with this contest. The people should not allow dust to be thrown

The Hospital forms but a small part of the work of a mayor, yet Mr. Beck, with that unfairness that sticks out so prominently in all he does, taunts Mayor Rumball with having been present at only four meetings of the Trust. Why does he not say that but for Mayor Rumball the changes and improvements agreed upon by all the members of the Trust (and for which he seeks to take the whole credit) could not have been carried out? Why does he not admit that Mayor Rumball's other duties sometimes prevented him from attending the Hospital meetings, but that whenever reason existed for his presence he was there. Why, knowing that the Free Press account of the procuring of the fans is a heartless libel, does he not contradict it? It would seem to be foreign to his nature to be fair.

On the other hand, Ald. Parnell has always acted according to the wellestablished principles of British fair play. He has shown himself to be possessed of much ability and industry, with an aptitude for public life. Edward Parnell, by reason of his superior ability and experience, will make the best mayor, and not the least consideration should be his fairness in all his dealings, public and private.

THE BATTLE FOR BALLOTS

Lively Meeting at East End Town Hall.

Candidates Go Uver Considerable Beaten Ground.

Addresses by Messrs. Parnell, Bartram, Beck, Stevely, McMechan, Wilkey and Others.

"The brave days of old" were recalled In several respects by the meeting held in the East End Town Hall last night for the discussion of municipal questions. In the first place, the lively interest manifested by the ratepayers in the coming election was shown by the large attendance, the seats, which filled the front half of the hall being filled, while a still larger crowd occupied positions across the rear end of the hall. In the second place, some of the characteristics of the old-time meetings were evidenced in the crowd's readiness to find amusement in the speakers' remarks, in a tendency to interrupt the speakers occasionally, and in one or two instances, in a momentary threatening of disorder. On the whole, however, the meeting was a well-behaved one, and none of the speakers had reason to complain of the hearing accorded them.

present at the city hall meeting on the previous night, heard much of the same things gone over, the remarks of most of the speakers who appeared at both meetings being similar in their essentials. This was especially true in the case of Mr. Adam Beck, who introduced practically no new matter, but delivered the same speech that he had read on the previous evening, again reading frequently from his manuscript. During Ald. Parnell's speech, Mr. Beck, apparently nettled by a reference to his connection with the hospital trust, interrupted Ald. Parnell several times, an action in marked contrast to Ald. Parnell's treatment of Mr. Beck while the latter was speaking. During this interrup-tion a funny scene was presented. Ald. Parnell was speaking at the front of the stage. Mr. Beck came forward beside him to give his side of the dispute to the audience. Mr. Bartram rushed up with a protest that the hour was growing late and he wanted to speak, and the chairman stood up to make peace between the disputants. Standing thus in a row they looked like a village male quartet about to strike a heart-searching barber-shop minor in "The Old Oaken Bucket." After the audience had yelled its de-light at the scene, Ald. Parnell was allowed to proceed with his address.

Ex-Ald. Douglass carefully avoided

He said that any errors made by him during his municipal career had not been intentional. The giving of full control to the city engineer in the mat-ter of civic works he considered an unfortunate thing, as it made the election of representatives a farce. He hoped to see on Monday night a council elected who would change that condition of affairs. The council should have control of public works. Ald. Cooper gave instances of applications to the engineer for necessary work to be done, which were met with indifference, In the old days of "ward-grabbing" the citizens at least got something for their money. The hobby of laying permanent walks at great expense to the city had resulted in the sacrifice of good walks which would have lasted for years yet. The extension of the Port Stanley lease Ald. Cooper considered a mistake. The council had no right to legislate 30 years ahead. In the matter of the Mc-Clary bylaw, Ald. Cooper said he was prepared to support its passage. closed with a promise to do his duty to the city if re-elected.

EX-ALD. DREANEY. Ex-Ald. Dreaney again presented himself before the electors, and spoke first of the McClary bylaw, saying that if elected he would support it. He believed that the council would have done better if it put through that deal instead of the Port Stanley lease. on the previous evening, he based his claim for election upon the lack of re-presentation during the past year in the East End. If returned, he would do his best, as he had always done, in the past. EX-ALD. DOUGLASS.

Ex-Ald. Douglass appeared before the electors for the first time since his defeat in the last mayoralty campaign. Speaking of the lease extension, he said that the lease was not finally passed, and could yet be smashed if the right kind of council were elected. He claimed that the Walkers had last year backed up the present mayor, and as Those of the audience who had been he did not have money to fight such a corporation, he was defeated. Ex-Ald. Douglass added his quota of approval of the McClary assessment bylaw, and said that if the question of exemptions or bonuses again came up, he would refer it to the people. J. C. PARK.

Mr. J. C. Park made his announcement of candidature, and promised to use his vote in the best interests of the city, and would do what he could in the way of giving the city good gov-ernment. He would favor the McClary assessment. ALD. SAM STEVELY.

Ald. Sam Stevely was well received on coming to the front. During his connection with municipal affairs, he said, he had endeavored to help conduct the city's business in an honest, economical and efficient manner. As chairman of No. 3 committee, he had with his colleagues so administered the affairs of that committee as to leave a surplus of $600. (Applause.) He had no hesitation in saying he had voted for the extension of the Port Stanley lease, and he believed he had never given a vote more in the city's interests. Ald. Stevely quoted figures to show that, while on the basis of last year's rental the receipts for thirteen years would be only $156,000, under the new lease the receipts will be $227,500 for thirteen, and $340,000 for seventeen additional years, a total of $567.500 for 30 years. paralleling of the road by an electric line before the end of 30 years would depreciate the value of the road. reduction of freight rates by one-third was certainly a good thing for the citizens of London. Ald. Stevely said he did not believe in the taxpayers of present day paying inordinate taxes merely to relieve the ratepayers of 30 years hence from bearing their share of the burden. Some of the speakers who are now talking glibly of giving away franchises were quite willing a few years ago to give away thousands of dollars for a sewage plant, which was absolutely unneeded.

Rae, who promised to work for the city as a whole and for no single portion of it. It was a serious situation that now confronted the electors. The tax rate was as high as it could go, and the electors should supply some remedy for it in the form of an independent council. The trouble had been that the council had given away too many of the public franchises. His opinion of the Port Stanley lease was that the city was growing and in the natural order of things the road would in 30 years be worth four times what it now is, and therefore he was opposed to the extension. If elected, he would endeavor to change the present system of conducting affairs.

MR. M. J. DONOHUE. Mr. M. J. Donohue also spoke for the first time. He had nothing to say against the members of the present council, but was prepared to vote for the people's interests in a straightforward manner.

MR. J. H. McMECHAN. Mr. J. H. McMechan was well received. He drew attention to the difference between his present situation, and that in which he was when he came before the people in the East End when he was elected to the council there in 1875. He announced that he came before the people blased by no political or party influence, but while he polled a Liberal vote, he was simply an advocate of economy. Economy was always necessary, but was never more necessary than now. This was illustrated by the fact that the McClary Company had to come to the people asking for a fixed assessment. The tax rate was too high, and Mr. McMechan asked what were they going to do about it? They simply must have patience, he said; this suggested to him the name of Job, and that. Job's comforters, which, he said, were always best when on the other fellow. The big people wanted the taxes on the other fellow. The trading stamp business, he said, was the same. Everybody knew that it was a humbug, but they had to use them because the other fellow did. It was the same with industries. London must be in a position to do what the other fellow did, and, perhaps, go them one better. If London had more economy in its public business, the tax rate would be lower and industries naturally would come here. Mr. McMechan then dealt with the details of his platform, as has been published, and presented his arguments in such forceful style that his hearers frequently interrupted him with applause. In one in-stance, while speaking of "milking contractors," he told of a certain shady money transaction, in which an official was involved with a contractor. It was a matter of a note for $100. Mr. McMechan was interrupted by a citizen, who shouted:

"I don't believe it." Mr. McMechan replied that he could produce the man and the note.

Afterwards, when concluding, he expressed his dissatisfaction with the settlement of the lease extension question, and moved a resolution stating that in the opinion of this meeting the Port Stanley lease settlement should have been submitted to the people. Ex-Ald. Douglass seconded it, and upon being put, there was a large show of DR. ZIEGLER. candidate for retion on the board of education, referred to his record on the board, and said he thought the work of the board as a whole had been creditable, and placed the schools of London among the foremost in the province.

MR. ADAM BECK. Mr. Beck was the first mayoralty candidate to be called upon. He was received with applause from a considerable portion of the audience. As at the previous meeting in the city hall on Thursday night, he read the major portion of his speech. Speaking to the workingmen in the audience, he told them that he was himself a mechanic. The practical experience gained during this portion of his career, Mr. Beck said, had stood him in good stead in whereby he said the city now effects a saving of about $4,000 per year. This, he said, had been effected by securing power and light from the London Electric Company, by sinking wells and in-stalling a complete laundry plant. Continuing, Mr. Beck said he was in favor of the exercise of wise economy in the administration of city affairs. There would be no needless heavy expenditure incurred. A new city hall had been spoken of, but Mr. Beck said the present city hall was good enough for years to come. Speaking of the water-works matter, Mr. Beck said that if he was elected mayor, he would take an active interest in the affairs of the commission. Water rates to manufacturers and householders were too high, and should be cut in half, from which the city would benefit immensely Speaking of the Port Stanley lease, Mr Beck said he did not believe in looking back too much and criticising what could not now be undone. He thought, however, that the extension of the lease should have been submitted to the people. Mr. Beck declared himself in favor of the McClary bylaw, and in favor of encouraging manufacturers to come to London. Mr. Beck spoke also in behalf of Mr. Isaac Waterman, a candidate for election to the hospital ALD. PARNELL. Ald. Parnell said that as he sat there he felt that he could hardly do justice, in such limited time to the important questions now before the public, but he asked for a considerate hearing. Upon his record of nine years in the council, he said, he again appealed to the electors for their votes. With the details of this record he dealt briefly, going over some of the more striking matters, such as payment for the telephone franchise, the construction of walks and roads, and attempts to reduce the cost of lighting-with which he had been connected most intimate-

He touched upon the question of tar macadam pavements, which he characterized as being of great importance, and concerning which he said that they should not be constructed unless the council was sure that they were the right kind of roads. If he were elected it would become his duty to see, if these pavements were put down, that the citizens got good value for the money spent.

Mr. Parnell dealt exhaustively with the Lake Erie lease matter, and gave a succinct account, similar to statement previously published, of the reasons why, in his opinion, he did right in voting for the extension. He replied to Mr. Beck's contention that if the city council could pass upon the Lake Erie matter, it could also pass upon the McClary question. The difference was that the council simply could not put through the McClary bylaw without the expression of the people's opinion upon it. As to the other. the council represented the mortgagees of the road, and was put there to attend to their business for them. That was the difference between the two. It was Ald. Parnell who moved the motion to submit the McClary proposition to the popular vote. He this because he believed that all citizens were interested in keeping Mc-Clary's here-owner and tenant alike. The latter paid taxes in an indirect way, and were as deeply concerned in the city's welfare as others, and for every man the right to express an opinion upon a matter that so immediately affected the prosperity The Port Stanlet matter, on the other hand, was largely technical. Those who understood it had not the time, nor had those who might have the inclination to study it, to go into it adequately; but, he said, the people had chosen a council to represent them, to do their business for them, and if anyone said that this council was not fit to vote upon a question placed before it, then it was an insult to the intelligence of London. plause.) To those who said. "Leave this lease business alone—the road will become more valuable," he said that he could not see why any man would say that they should not do what they ald to lessen the taxes of today Why, he asked, should the present generation suffer to the extent of $5,000 a year for the questionable benefit of future generations, when the council could get this good for the people of the present without detriment to those of the future? It was in the people's interests that the lease had been extended; he had voted for it, he was confident that the good sense of the people living here now would approve of his action, and upon this action he appealed to them to further support him. (Applause.) Ald. Parnell took exception to Mr. Beck arguing that he should be elected over Ald. Parnell because of the things that Mr. Beck said he had done in connection with Victoria Hospital, and drew attention to the fact that the souncil, which had handed over the hospital in an unfinished state, were responsible for that, not the trust, and it was he (Ald. Parnell) who had op-posed the man whose hobby the hospital was-the man who had built a much to maintain as the old one. It was not the men who took the hospital over, but the men who had handed the hospital over, whom the people should blame. Mr. Beck had said that any mechanic could have gone down there and discovered the flaws that existed, yet, having done only what any mechanic could have done, he claimed that upon his record there, he should be elected. he asked him, as a gentleman, to be as courteous to him. Mr. Beck conwas in an uproar, and Mr. Bartram took advantage of the disorder to demand that Ald. Parnell quit, his fifteen minutes having expired. The chairman, Ald. Parnell, Mr. Beck and Mr. shouted lustily to their respective champions. It was beautifully warm in the hall for about two minutes, but waived his objections upon learning that Mr. Beck had spoken for half an hour, and the place once more resumed its atmosphere of quiet.

"If Mr. Beck did justice to me," continued Ald. Parnell, "he would say that it was Ald. Parnell who got him the money that he needed to complete his schemes." (Applause from Mr. Beck.)

in case he was elected, it would be his duty to attend to all the meetings of that board; to endeavor to see if it was worked on a businesslike basis. and if there were wrongs, to see that they were righted. (Applause.) "I will not endeavor to make out, as Mr. Beck has done, that I am the only man on that board and that I am the only one who accomplished anything, when others were working just as hard," (Appleuse and laughter.)

Rae, Dreaney, Park and McMechan took seats upon the platform.

ALD. NEIL COOPER.

Ald. Cooper, on rising, thanked the ratepayers of East London for the support given him at the previous election.

The next speaker was Mr. A. J. McRAE.

The next speaker was Mr. A. J. McRAE. down a man who had served them faithfully for nine years? turn down an old and tried servant for one who had jumped up and said, "I want the mayoralty"? He trusted that their sense of right and justice and prudence would forbid it.

Mr. Parnell touched briefly upon other departments of municipal lifethe waterworks and public library— and said that if the people elected him mayor he would devote his energies to their best management. He added that, if the people thought that Mr. Beck, with his inexperience of municipal knowledge and work, was but he asked for their support if they considered that his long and careful attention to the city's needs merited recognition. (Applause.)

MR. W. H. BARTRAM. Mr. Parnell was followed by Mr. Bartram, who was greeted with cheers. He announced that he was an independent candidate, not put forward by any party, but coming forward as a British subject to represent British subjects. Mr. Bartram thought the alleged condition of affairs among the officials of the city hall reflected no credit on any aldermen of the city. Mr. Bartram repeated his claim of the previous evening that Mr. Beck was disqualified from running because neither his nomination nor his qualification were en-tered on time. Mr. Bartram warned Ald. Parnell that if the latter gentleman were elected, he himself take steps to make him run the race over again. "The fact is, gentlemen," said Mr. Bartram, "you want a man like Mr. Beck or me to run this city. You need someone to control the city engineer, against whom I have nothing personal, though he has certainly acted in a stupid and absurd manner towards me. The only thing, in fact, I know against Mr. Beck in this campaign is the fact that the city engineer is supporting him." Mr. Bartram then went on to give the judges, the city council and the city officials their proper share of blame, dealing quite impartially with each in the measure of blame meted out. He admitted that he did not expect to "get there," as both "machines" were at work against him, but he thought that all citizens who desired to support an independent man would vote for him. The electors could not go wrong if they elected an entirely new set of men, and he was giving them a chance to elect at least a new mayor. EX-ALD. J. W. WILKEY. Ex-Ald. J. W. Wilkey, who followed, resented Ald. Parnell's remarks on the hospital building committee. He laid the blame for the extent of the expenditure on the new hospital on the council, which changed the plans adopted by the committee. Mr. Wilkey gave Mr. Beck credit for making a saving at the hospital, but said his reforms could not have been so easily effected had the hospital building committee not left things in good shape for them. Mr. Wilkey premised to do his best for the city if elected. MR. A. G. CHISHOLM. Mr. Chisholm, the last speaker, said he was again asking the electors for their votes to make him an alderman. He said the only definite platform on which he came forward was the advisability of submitting the Port Stanley railway lease to the electors. He thought no council in its dying days had a right to tie up the city's property for 30 years. The matter is not yet settled, for the legislature's sanction i yet to be obtained, and the new council should ask the legislature to withhold its sanction till the ratepayers had declared upon the lease. Mr. Chisholm said he was not opposing the Walkers, but he did not believe in their coming to London with any cut-and-dried agreement, getting all they asked. The lease should be ripped up, and a bargain made more in the interests of the city. Mr. Chisholm asked for support on this platform, and promised to do his best to carry out the view he ex-

Bloemfontein, Jan. 3 .- Four hundred men of Driscoll's Scouts left Springfontein on December 20 with the object of clearing the country in the Philippolis district of armed Boers. On Christmas day the scouts sighted a SCHOOL OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE, number of burgers attached to Herzog's commando. When the Boers saw the scouts they took flight. Col. It was most mortifying, for his adroit disappearance strengthened the presumption that he was engaged in shady transactions. Nearly three weeks I spent in rushing about the state and finally returned, discouraged and disgusted, to Denver.

At the hotel I glanced over the register for some time back, as is my habit, and found a name which interested me, though it was not that of the man I sought. Years ago I had known Carl Glenny at the University of Chicago, where he was one of the most brilliant men in physical science they ever turned out, a devourer of scholarships. He had made no friends, scarcely any acquaintances, owing to a curiously stand-offish manner that he wore, it seened to me against his real nature. I believe I was the only man with whom he had any intimacy, and he never invited me to his rooms, and always met me with something of the embarrassment of a shy lover keeping a tryst. It was not a question of He seemed to have plenty of The students simply considered him "queer," and let him alone, as he seemed to desire. I had never heard of him since leaving college, and here he was at the Hotel Denison. "Do you know whether Mr. Glenny s in?" I asked the ele"k.

Half an hour later we were on an evening train for Limestone, where we spent the night. Glenny was excited and moody by turns, but he would give me no hint of the cause. Next mornwe hired two saddle horses and rode up a very devious trail into the mountains for nearly two hours. This brought us to a little valley where stood the rude buildings of what might have been a mine. There was an enshed with a tall smokestack and an enormously long belt that ran over a couple of intermediate pulleys to a small galvanized iron house ten yards We tied the horses under the atvay. pines, and Glenny led the way to the house. "I know the face," I cried. "But this Yes," he said. "I'll tell you all about it. I wanted you to see for yourself. You probably don't know that I was once something of a cracksman, did you?"

"I certainly did not." "It was before I was 20, and I was quite a success at it. That was how I came to know him," pointing at the olden image that regarded the roof with a yellow stare. "He kept a gambling-house in New Orleans then, and one night I tried to get into his safe with some tools of my own invention, and he came down and caught me in the act. Greatly to my surprise, he did not have me arrested, but after a long talk over a revolver barrel, he let me go. That was the beginning. Nobody can think worse of Kernahan than I do, but he had more foresight and shrewdness than any other man I ever knew. I was arrested a month later for another affair, and he bailed me out, and then told me to jump my bail and go north, where he would look after me. It seems that he detected my scientific bent before I discovered it myself, and he sent me to a good school, where they hammered mathematics and elementary science into me, and finally matriculated me for Chicago University, where you saw me. 'I don't want you to fall in love, take to drink, make any friends, or get religion, he said to me. 'Outside that you can do as you hanged please, and call on me for the price. I know you've got the head for what I want.' "It seemed that I had. You rememand I never was happier in my life, except for his prohibition against making friends. I felt too much gratitude, however, to disobey him in anything, but I never could understand the reason for it, or for his befriending me at all—till I graduated.

Then he sent for me to his own city, where he had just got himself appointed chief of police, and I found that he had been quietly collecting evidence of all my youthful misdeeds, enough to get me a good 20 years in the prisons of two or three states. He said blandly that he wouldn't bring these things to light just at present, though, as he had some work he wanted me to do, and he proposed to establish me in a laboratory of my own in St. Louis.

'Of course I jumped at the opening. I had hoped to spend my life in scientific work, and I would rather have faced death than 20 years of penal servitude just then. But it wasn't long before I discovered what sort of scientific labors were to be imposed upon me. Kearnahan made no bones about telling me that he was 'interested in' the enterprises of half a dozen gangs of expert safe-crackers and counterfeiters, and he wanted to apply modern science to these industries. He never accompanied the gangs on their raids, understand, but he supplied the capital and acted as 'fence,' and got hold of most of the profits. "I rebelled, of course, but what could I do? I've often wondered since what I ought to have done. The prison blocked every road but one. In short, I succumbed and went to work, and nice work it was! There was no sort of lawless implements that I didn't handle. Molds and dies for coining, chemical erasers for bank notes and checks. electric drills and blowpipes for safecracking-I had them all. I did good work, too, and I am ashamed to say that it was not very long before the scientific side of the work began to eclipse the moral, in my mind. I had plenty of time for private experimenting besides, and Kearnahan bought the costliest apparatus for me without a kick. He said I was worth $20,000 a year to him, and, in fact, I believe that some of the cleverest robberies of that period owed their success to me. But the more I came to know of my master the more I loathed him. He never made any pretensions to piety even in his public life, you know; he posed as a 'sport,' but his private life was a thing to turn the stomach of a beast. He wallowed in every sort vice, and how he managed to keep his wits so clear I can't imagine. He used to come to my laboratory and talk-Lord! I sicken to think of it!"

"You never seem to have heard of the thing called state's evidence," I remarked. 'Yes, but I had no direct proof, and he had it all straight against me. Besides, I knew that the influence of his 'ring' extended even to the courts, in a greater or less degree. Well, it was cowardice, I confess, but I daren't risk it. As I got to know the breadth and depth of that man's unholy power I was half-cowed, and I tried to think of nothing but science-till a new stimulus came to me."

Glenny stopped, and was silent for half a minute. The winking candle glittered on that strange yellow effigy, and queer reflections danced on the da

"Except for its intellectual interests life has been bare and graceless to an unimaginable degree," he went on at last. "I hardly realized its coloressness myself till a woman came into it-if you will believe me-for the first Kearnahan never knew of my acquaintance with the Lesoirs. He wasn't in their class, and I would have felt it profanation to mention Helen's name in his brutal presence. She was the brightest thing that ever touched my existence. Man, you must remember have a peculiar knack for the work, what my life had been-the slums and time he had ever visited the gutter and the thieves' hangout till I was 20, and nothing but retorts and ten several times. I had crucibles after that!

"I couldn't see her often, but she came to care for me-I know she did. Then-I had been going on in a sort of golden dream—then I seemed to wake up to the horror of my position, I was nothing better than a slave, chained down to crime. I would have cut my throat sooner than have dragged Helen into the net that held me, but rebellion meant the prison that would shut me off from her forever.
"I tried hard to break the cords. I plotted and planned till I almost went gray, but I coul find no opening for escape. Those waiting years of imprisonment—I couldn't dodge them. I concluded that I had better lie low for a while and wait for an opportunity. To go up for trial meant never to see her again. I knew that! And now I've lost her, forever and to all eternity!" He ended his sentence with a sort of dry gasp.

"Well, I turned back hard to work, and moved out here. I needed a labor-atory out of the reach of the jar and vibration of a city. I was working upon the production of low temperatures, for we had an idea that by the use of liquid air in some way steel could be made as brittle as glass, and a safe door could be cracked with It was interesting, but I hammer. presently stumbled upon a discovery that promised greater things yet nothing less than the production of the Absolute Zero. "That you must know, is the temperature at which all heat is absent. It is about 275° Centigrade, and has never even been approached by science. lump of matter at the Absolute Zero would be dead, as no created substance has ever been absolutely deprived of energy of any sort. Its atoms would only hold together by mere inertia, and would be liable to be broken up by any shock. I speculated a good deal as to what form matter would assume in such a state. It would be simply Matter, deprived of all its attributes, and no more iron or earth than flesh or water. I could not even decide whether it would be visible or not. "I had the underground cell built to get as far from vibration as possible, and moved the engine shed to a greater distance. You wouldn't understand my experiments if I described them, but I worked for two or three months before I saw my way clear. I had alobtained temperatures lower than had ever before been obtained. Liquid air | employed largely, but liquid air was boiling oil compared to some of the ghastly fluids I distilled under tremendous pressure and cold.

"Two months ago I arranged my apparatus for the great attempt. That stone trough in the floor was the 'cooling box,' and I put half a dozen ordinary bricks in it, locked the lid and started the machinery. For an hour I watched the self-registering thermometers go down. Down they went-200 degrees, 250 degrees, 265 degrees-and then they ceased to work. I let the experiment go on for an hour more, and then held an electric bulb over the glass window in the lid and peeped in. "Just for a moment I saw the pile of bricks exactly as I had left them. Then, at the flash of light they seemed to move, to expand, to turn pale, and efore I realized the transformation they were white as marble and considerably larger. I raised the lid, but the gush of white vapor and awful cold that came out drove me hurriedly up the shaft in the lift. When the place was warmed a little I returned. instead of the bricks I found half a dozen blocks of solid ice, brick-shaped,

"I had half expected something of the sort. It had been a success. The self if you hadn't turned up." rays of the electric lamp had broken up the atoms of dead matter into a new molecular arrangement, which happened to be that of water. The increase in bulk simply represented the difference in the specific gravities of the old and the new compounds.

"It was certainly the greatest scienof excitement and triumph is hard to describe. Moreover, the practical possibilities of the thing were enormous, unlimited. If bricks could be turned to water, stone could be turned to diamonds; it was only a question of finding the right kind of shock to apply to the deadened matter. So I devoted myself to the problem of ascertaining what sort of shocks produced certain results, and I worked at it for weeks.

I had the terminals of an induction coil run into the cold box, and used sparks of different intensities as agents. But I could not arrive at any accurate results; the chilled matter seemed to take one turn as readily as another. Lumps of rock changed to ice or carbon readily, sometimes to helps, often cures. Ordinary lead, sometimes to air, and once I nearly blew up the whole place by sud-denly producing several thousand feet of a highly explosive gas. But I never "I had totally neglected Kearnahan's work for some time, and one morn-

Why not?' I said. "'Because I am going to marry her myself,' he grinned. "I believed he lied, but I was in no state of mind to balance probabilities. The man appeared to me as a pernicious reptile, that it would be an act of grace to kill. I sprang at him barehanded, and he flung a heavy glass re-tort straight at my head. It smashed on my temple, and the next instant I had him by the throat and we went down together, his head crashing on the stone floor. I thought he was dead, but after a moment I discovered that he was alive, but badly stun-ned. The cold-box stood open, for I had just finished preparations for an ent, and I dragged him into it, PYI muttering. I remember, 'Stay Stay there!' and shut down the lid.

"I swear that I had no sober notion of killing the man. If I had been in my senses I would have turned and let him out presently, and had it in so le other way. The sky had turned a livid purple, and at that moment a flash of lightning exploded with a noise like the crack of a whip, followed instantly by a terrific clap. I ran for the house, which was not more than half a mile distant. The rain came heavier, shot through with vivid, near lightning. As I approached the buildings I saw the puffs of from the engine shed, and remembered that I had ordered the machinery to be started at nine o'clock. I looked at my watch; it was half-past ten. "I hardly dared to think what might have happened. I had just reached the door of the house when the world seemed to turn to white fire. I was knocked down on the threshhold, and distinctly felt the earth quake at the fearful peal of thunder that came with

"But the discharge had missed me after all. It had struck our lightning-arrester, and when I got up dizzily and went into the hut I saw the ray age it had made. Jumping from conductor, it had smashed and melted the instruments, split and scarred the table, and finally seemed to have gone down the electric wires leading underground.

The autumn in England was marked by a determined effort on the part of an American combination to control the English cigarette trade. This effort may yet succeed; but in the beginning there can be no question that great harm was done by the way in which the Americans advertised their plans. To reporters from all the newspapers they deciared that they were going to drive every British manufacturer out of business, and that within a few months the American cigarette would reign supreme. Now this, when cabled to America, is very good advertising, but naturally enough its appeal was not so strong in Britain. The native manufacturers put huge advertisements in the papers, in which was shown the British lien re-inge advertisements in the papers, in huge advertisements in the papers, in which was shown the British lion reclining on a rock by the Atlantic, and smoking a London-rolled cigarette, while he repelled the attempt of an army of evil-looking American cigarettes to enter his country. The result is unquestionably that, at the moment, a great number of people in England insist on having the English product

If the Americans had kept only reasonably quiet probably this would never have happened. In questions of trade, have happened. In questions of trade, patriotism is not easy to rouse. The Parisian cries, "Vivent les Boers"—and dashes into an English tailor's to order his clothes. The English imperialist calls loudly for measures against the Teuton, and then goes out and fills his house with things "made in Germany." Nations, however, may resent being told by foreigners that there is no hope for them. A great thing to observe in connection with a commercial, as well as any other victory, is that you should not "rub it in."

The English "Algie" as He Is Seen on the South African Veldt.

As the Columbia State says, "The Spanish-American war established the reputation for manhood and bravery of the society city man, and dissipated the prevalent idea that the culture and the assumed cynicism of life he affects are incompatible with the possession of soul and spirit. In many of volunteer regiments that went to the front, or got no further than the unesthetic camps, the dandy proved himself the equal of his less refined cousin when it came to endurance of discomforts and hardships."

The Spanish war was not needed to demonstrate the city bred man's fitness for a soldier's duties. That was abundantly illustrated in the civil war. Graphic Description of the Pan-American Today. The tired Old Year slips out by himself,

> The Soul of the Great Exposition Has Passed and Disintegration

> It was a sad spectacle, but the sadness of it was to be met with the aphorism, that such is the end of all things, and must be, says the Buffalo Courier.

Everywhere was wreckage and ruin, The asphalt avenues were covered with mud, and over the esplanade was laid a temporary railroad track, on which stood cars laden with packingcases full of heavy machinery exhibits.

The lakes of the court were drained, and the muddy bottoms, with the summer's accumulation of debris, lay bare and offensive. The fairy lamps which once charmed the eye were rows of stalks topped with broken glasses.

Across the way a great sheet stuff had fallen from the side of the liberal arts building, and as the wind Go roam the world from east to west, swept over the pylons of the triumphal causeway, the warriors flopped their banners and tottered, for they are near to falling. South of the Temple of Music is the magnificent array of statuary there, not one figure has retained its beauty, for here and there is an ear gone from an Indian, a naiad has lost the calf of her leg, and a headless seahorse swims through imaginary water. Some wretches with eyes that were blind, and souls that were near unto dirt, had used a black writing brush to disfigure some of the fairest with shameful writings and crude attempts She does not flash with jewels rare; at ribald art.

In doorways, where the feet of millions have trod in the months now there were piled quantities of waste paper, excelsior and remnants of packing-boxes. The only sign of life in sight was a solitary sheriff's deputy, walking about to relieve the ennui, a steam-expelling automobile winding in and out of the track in the wreck-strewn roadway, loaded with visitors anxious to see even the ruins. Plump sparrows hopped everywhere, finding good fare in the rubbish from the buildings, especially the agricultural and state buildings.

From the upper end of the Midway a scene is presented which is one of utter desolation. Last evening there was not a sound to break the stillness, but the whining of the little yellow dog, which belonged to the Africans, and which refused to live any place else but in the village. He has been taken away two or three times by F. H. Goodyear's men, but he always comes back. He has his places to creep in and out. During the day he roams the district west of the West Amherst gate, searching for food, and in the late afternoon can be seen trotting back and making his way to the African village, where he howls and whines night and morning with the sense of his desolate lonesomeness. Over the streets of Mexico the sign still flares, "Admission Free-All Are Welcome." Where the "Around the World Show" was the legend may be des-cried "Performance is now going on," yet there is no human voice, not one note of music, and never the clink of a coin to break the silence. On down the debris-strewn way looms the white face of the girl in front of Dreamland, and on that placid visage, still smiling that inscrutable smile, there is the quiet of death which seems to pervade everything. Perhaps she is dreaming herself of the merry roisters, who roamed the Lane of Laughter, perhaps memory she hears the pulsating band down in Alt Nurmberg, or the blatant tangerous ballyhoo pipe before the streets of Cairo, while up and down the way rings the old familiar cry, "Have Always expected something unusual to take place; was irritable and impatient, and greatly reduced in flesh. I could scarcely eat any thing that would not produce a bad feeling in my stomach. After some hesitation, I decided to try a few bottles of Br. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets.' After taking several bottles of each, found I was improving. I continued for six months or more, off and on. I have to be careful yet, at times, of what I eat, in order that I may feel good and strong. ly as ignorant as they could be—only a book or two ahead of them. Nor was Certainly teh majority of persons engaged in education read little beyond what they have to "get up" for their classes and lectures. Millions of readers peruse only cheap illustrated magazines, which are often wonderfuny good, but do not pretend to be literature. Intelligent ladies in the country read quantities of miscellaneous things without an order or an alm, just what the librarian chooses to put in their boxes. The circulating libraries often do not send a book of any special sort; when asked for, "It is out," and it never gets an inning. In place of it are sent six-shilling novels which nobody asked for. The wearied applicant at last forgets about the book sne wanted, and asks for another, and does not get it. As to buying a book, he or she would usually as soon think of buying a boa constrictor, unless he is specially a book collector. Reading, after all, is not a human duty. Dull are the deserving people who read for conscience sake, and actually form themselves into societies to encourage each other, and keep up their spirits. The only reading worthy of the name is done "for human pleasure," and pleasure is not a duty. To that pleasure only a small minority are sensitive, and I do not think they ought to give themselves airs. They have a taste which some are born with and others without. Judges usually read a great deal; Mr. Darwin and Prince Bismarck were devoted to novels; Napoleon was an omnivorous and rapid reader, conquering whole libraries. Most novelists do not read-O, the funny "authorities" whom a certain historical novelist cites with honest pride!-nor, naturally, do reviewers read. Many grandes dames de par le monde read abundantly; many statesmen do so, and some boys, girls, undergraduates and spinsters. I doubt whether the clergy are studious, as many men of the sword decidedly are. In most towns there are studious tradesmen who are dungeons of rare learning. Miners form clubs to read Mr. George Meredith and other superior authors-so one hears.

To know Shakespeare by heart is as rare in universities as in railway works and factories. To be wearied at the day's end and read nothing that demands more concentrated attention than an illustrated magazine is only human nature. We, whose business it is to read and write, have all the day, the fresh morning hours, for what is our delight as well as our study: and we really have no more grounds for despising people otherwise engaged because they do not read than Sir William Richmond has for despising me because I do not occup my spare hours in drawing in water colors. Artists appear in their choice of novels to be much on the general level; as regards Fielding, Scott, Thac-Marryat and Dickens, in keray, above the level of many cultured persons. Thackeray himself preferred novels, stong, sweet, hot, rather like the port of which Tennyson said: "It's strong, and it's black, and it's sweet"-sterling qualities, if not those of the most refined

In other ages literature and even science were relatively fashionable. French and English society twittered about "vortices," and des Cartes, about son-nets and "portraits," about Locke and Condillac, and Montesquieu. But novels and cheap picture magazines did not then compete so powerfully with more refined or more serious things. That old world possessed no Tid-Bits, and is no more to be admired for reading such literature almost exclusively than my friends, the Dieri, are to be applauded for the temperance of a tribe that possesses no native alcoholic stimulants.

The following verses were recently found among some papers belonging to the late Mrs. Berrington, who died in 1885. During the great part of her life Mrs. Berrington lived in Monmouthshire, at no great distance from Itton Court, the home of Mrs. Curre, to whom, according to the indorsement on the manuscript, the verses were addressed by Burns. Mrs. Curre, who died in 1823, was the daughter of John Bushby, of Tinwald Downs, in Dumfriesshire. The copy from which the verses were printed in Macmillan's Magazine is in the early handwriting of the late Miss Eliza Waddington, whose family also lived in Monmouthshire:

[From Liverpool Post, Dec. 9, 1901.] Capt. Price, R.N.R., president of the Mercantile Marine Service Association of Liverpool, received on Saturday a letter from Messrs. Ismay, Imrie & Co., managers of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company (the White Star Line), intimating that the shareholders of the company had decided to give £10,000 to the Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund, and inclosing a check for that sum. This fund was founded by the late Mr. T. H. Ismay in 1887, and is one of many charities admin-istered by the Mercantile Marine Service Association. Last year the partners of Messrs. Ismay, Imrie & Co. gave a donation of £5,000 in memory of their late senior, Mr. T. H. Ismay. The munificent gift now contributed by the shareholders of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company will enable the association to increase the number of pensioners upon the fund to over 100

The Belfast Royal Victoria Hospital, it will be seen, is also to benefit to the extent of £10,000. The following is Messrs. Ismay, Im-

rie & Co.'s letter:

"30 James street, Liverpool, "Dec. 7, 1901. "Dear Sir,-We have pleasure to inform you that at the last annual meeting of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Limited (White Star Line), a strong desire was expressed on the part of the shareholders that some suitable way should be found of placing permanently on record their deep sense of indebtedness to the late chairman and founder of the line, Mr. T. H. Ismay, their appreciation of his life and the work which he accomplished, and the following resolution was unanimously adopted: 'That a sum of £10,-000 be given to the Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund, to be held in trust in like manner with their other funds, for the purpose of providing pensions for aged or disabled seamen; also, that a sum of £10,000 be given towards the endowment of a ward in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast, to be called the "Thomas Henry Ismay Ward;" and further, that the committee be requested to arrange with Prof. Herkomer to paint two portraits of the late Mr. Ismay—one to be presented to Mrs. Ismay on behalf of the shareholders in the Oceanic Steam Naviga-tion Company, and the other to be hung in the general office of the company. The shareholders trust that by these means they will have established a fitting tribute to the memory of Mr. Ismay, and one in accordance with the philanthropic spirit which was one of the characteristics of his life.' In conformity with this resolution, we now hand you a check for £10,000, to be invested in the names of the trustees of your association for the augmentation of the Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund. We remain, dear sir, yours faithfully, "ISMAY, IMRIE & CO. "Capt. Price, president, Mercantile Marine Service Association, Liverpool." The follo foregoing, has been sent us for publication: Mercantile Marine Service Association. 67 Tower Buildings, Liverpool, Sir,—The pleasing announcement of the handsome donation of £10,000 to the Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund from the shareholders of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Limited (White Star Line) per Messrs. Ismay, Imrie & Co., must surely strike a responsive chord in the minds of all who are interested in the welfare of our aged and distressed mariners, officers and seamen. The Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund, founded by the late Mr. T. H. Ismay in 1887, supported by other generous donors, now provides pensions of £20 per annum to 86 old seamen, and its means many of these distressed old sailors have been saved on ending their days in the union. May we appeal to our wea y shipowners and merchants to emulate the example thus afforded of providing for the dire needs of our stranded and deserving mariners who have given a life's work in carrying on the great shipping trade of our ports.

The applicants for the fund number over 400, the average age being 70. Unless the fund is still further greatly augmented the position of the large majority of these applicants is hope-

We trust that the pitiful appeal of these old seamen will not be made in Yours, etc vain. JAMES PRICE, President, C. P. GRYLLS, Secretary.

The last annual report of the Seamen's Pension Fund contains, among other interesting information, regardit, a copy of the letter sent by the late Mr. Ismay to the then mayor of Liverpool, notifying the foundation of The letter is dated 4th of June, 1887, and states the intention of Mr. Ismay to give a contribution of £20,000 towards the establishment of "The Liverpool Seamen's Pension Fund," in acknowledgment of the completion of his 50th year, and also incidentally in celebration of the 50th anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne. In March, 1900, Mr. Ismay gave £10,-000 to establish a fund for the widows of pensioners, in fulfillment of an intention of which Mr. Ismay had in his mind, but did not live to carry out. This fund is called the "Margaret Ismay Widows' Fund," and is also ad-ministered by the Mercantile Marine Service Association.
