EXCITING SCENES IN CHICAGO.
UNION STOCK YARDS, Ill., July 5.—At 1 o'clock a call was sent to the military camp for more troops. The cavalry quickly moved the mob back off the railroad tracks, while the infantry took up a position at the southern end of the yards to prevent the crowd from gathering there. The Gatling guns were placed in position and commanded a clear space on the railroad for three blocks. The Michigan Central train of empty cars was brought up alongside the stock yards to load with cattle, but the employees of the yards who handle live stock immediately quit work. Officials of the road immediately took the places of the strikers and slowly loaded up the train. At 11:45 the Michigan Central started its train of live stock under escort of United States troops.

CARS UPSET BY STRIKERS.
When the strikers saw the train moving they rushed up the track ahead of the troops toward Halsted street and overturned three box cars on the main line. The officials of the stock yards went to work clearing up the obstructions, and orders were given to fire upon any person caught uncoopering or interfering with the cars. Shortly after 12 o'clock the train filled with live stock was again started for the main line. Two troops of cavalry led the way, dispersing the mob, while the infantry lined each side of the track. The train passed Fortieth street amid hoots and curses from the mob of men and women who had gathered on the street corners.

TWENTY CARS OVERTURNED.
At 2:30 p.m. a large gang of strikers overturned twenty cars at Twenty-ninth street on the Rock Island and Lake Shore tracks, and made several attempts to burn them. The fire department was called out and quenched the flames before they gained much headway. A mob numbering 1,000 is now on its way north towards the center of the city and driving all the tower and signal men out on all roads leading to Polk street. The men are going out without exception. Another large gang has started for the Rock Island and Lake Shore tracks to order out the signal and tower men on those roads. Troops are located at points where these mobs started from, but did nothing, as they claimed they had to give their attention to getting out Michigan Central trains.

TROOPS CHARGE THE MOB WITH BAYONETS.
UNION STOCK YARDS, July 5.—The Michigan Central live stock train was again stalled on Fortieth street, near Wallace. Strikers blocked the tracks by overturning two freight cars and spiking the switches. When Trainmaster Wright attempted to throw the switch he was severely stoned. The troops charged with bayonets and several persons are reported badly injured. TRAINS HELD UP AND PASSENGERS ORDERED OUT.

The mob after successfully stalling the Michigan Central stock train at Fortieth street proceeded to the Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne tracks at Fortieth street, where they held up an incoming train, compelling the passengers to leave, and then derailed the cars. They then broke all the glass in the cab and derailed the engine. The mob then ran up to Fortieth and Clark streets and set fire to the Lake Shore signal house.

MORE TROOPS ASKED FOR.
United States troops were up at Halsted street guarding the Michigan Central trains. Gen. Miles is in command of the troops in the stock yards district, and says he cannot order the soldiers to fire on the mob without orders from Washington. He has telegraphed to Washington that he is unable to cope with the situation here and asking for reinforcements.

AN OFFICIAL SEVERELY STONED.
A Rock Island express from the west attempted to follow the train bearing the regulars from Blue Island into the city this afternoon, but at Fortieth street the train was blocked by the strikers, who threw flat cars across the track. The chief clerk Hubbell of the superintendent's office of the Rock Island road, was severely stoned while attempting to switch the Blue Island special bearing the soldiers, and the mob also burned a Rock Island freight car at Fortieth street and attempted to demolish the tower at that point, but were prevented by the police and the fire department.

STRIKERS SUPPLY THE MILITARY CAMP.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 5.—The train which left Dunsmuir yesterday with strikers to assist those here arrived at 3 o'clock this morning and was met by a great crowd. As the train pulled in the occupants, who were fully armed, were vociferously cheered. The train from Truckee bringing reinforcements also got in this morning and met a similar reception. United States Marshal Baldwin and Major-Gen. Dimond, of the National Guard, have decided they are unable to cope with the situation here. It is currently reported they will return to San Francisco.

All the rifles for miles around in that section have been secured by the strikers and a large amount of ammunition. THE BIG PACKING HOUSES CLOSING.
CHICAGO, July 5.—The big packing houses are shut down. The ice making departments will have to close in a day or two for lack of coal. This will involve a loss of nearly $1,000,000 worth of dressed beef now in the refrigerators.

CABINET COUNCIL ON THE STRIKE.
WASHINGTON, July 5.—The President, Secretary Lamont, Attorney-General Olney and Postmaster-General Bissell and Gen. Schofield remained at the White House to-night until nearly midnight discussing the strike situation.

PROTEST AGAINST FEDERAL INTERFERENCE.
A telegram was received by President from Governor Altgeld of Illinois, protesting against Federal interference. The Governor alleges in his telegram that the State authorities are willing and fully able to handle the situation, and intimates very bluntly that Federal assistance is not wanted until called for. In the course of his lengthy dispatch he says:

"At present some of our railroads are paralyzed, not by reason of obstructions, but because they cannot get men to operate their trains. For some reason they are anxious to keep this fact from the public, and for this purpose are making an outcry about obstructions to divert attention. It is not soldiers that the railroads need so much as it is men to operate trains, and the conditions do not exist here which bring the case within the Federal statutes. I repeat that you have been imposed upon in this matter."

THE PRESIDENT'S ANSWER.
The following reply was sent by the President:

"Hon. John P. Altgeld, Governor of Illinois: "Federal troops were sent to Chicago in strict accordance with the constitution and laws of the United States upon the demand of the Postoffice Department that obstruction of the mails should be removed, and upon representation of the judicial officers of the United States that a process of the Federal courts could not be executed through the ordinary means and upon abundant proof that existed against commerce between the States."

There has been no intention of thereby interfering with the plain duty of the local authorities to preserve the peace of the city. GROVER CLEVELAND."

PASSENGERS IN A PICKLE.
VALPARAISO, Ind., July 5.—Nearly 400 passengers are tied up here to-night in two trains on the Fort Wayne and one on the Grand Trunk from the east. The companies are afraid to run their trains after night.

THE BLOCKADE IN CHICAGO.
CHICAGO, July 5.—Three Lake Shore passenger trains are held at Thirty-first street at midnight, and some have been there since 8 p.m. The tracks between Thirty-first and Thirtieth are impassable, half a dozen or more box cars having been tipped over and across them.

CALLING OUT THE KNIGHTS.
DES MOINES, Iowa, July 5.—General Master Workman Sovereign has received from Debs a forwarded telegram from Joseph Lee, master workman of District Assembly No. 28, embracing all the Knights of Labor from Council Bluffs to San Francisco, requesting him to call out all members of that assembly at once. Sovereign will issue the order immediately.

THE A. R. U. WILL NOT RECKE.
CHICAGO, July 5.—President Debs, of the A. R. U., issued a long statement to-night, in the course of which he recites the history of the trouble between the Pullman Company and its employees, and argues that the action of his organization thus far has been justified by the facts. In conclusion he says: "We have been deliberately and maliciously misrepresented, but we have borne it all with unwavering faith that the truth will finally and powerfully prevail. We firmly believe our cause is just, and while we hold that belief we will not recede."

PULLMAN TO BE APPEALED TO.
The Chicago city officials have decided to ask Geo. M. Pullman to come home and meet his men in the hope of reaching a settlement. A meeting of the leaders of the national labor organizations will be held to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. A general strike will be ordered, it is said, unless there is a change in the situation.

THE TROOPS FOILED.
The Panhandle engineers disobeyed orders this morning in not reporting for work and were discharged in a body. The Wabash engineers agreed to go out. The result of to-day's movements at the stock yards is a practical acknowledgment by the United States troops that they are quite unable to cope with the mob that now holds complete sway in the district.

BULLETS FLEW!
Bullets flew in the stock yards district at dusk to-night and a big riot was narrowly averted. Just after the stalled stock train had been taken back and the regulars had departed, Special Agent Gregory, of the West Indiana road, attempted to take south engine and way car. At Forty-fourth street, however, he was stopped by an overturned car, and a mob of several thousand surged around the engine and attempted to capture it. Drawing his revolver, Gregory, who was leaning out of the window, fired six shots in succession. Two shots took effect, one fatally wounding Ed O'Neill, a striking switchman, and the other passed through the shoulder of a man, who was quickly taken away by his friends. The mob commenced to throw rocks at the engine, but the man at the throttle pulled the lever wide open and the train dashed forward. A thousand of the mob tried to keep up with it, but they were distanced.

To-Day's Developments.
SAN JOSE, Cal., July 6.—A mob of 3,000 has captured the train from San Francisco. ST. PAUL, Minn., July 6.—The St. Paul Hubbell of the superintendent's office of the Rock Island road, was severely stoned while attempting to switch the Blue Island special bearing the soldiers, and the mob also burned a Rock Island freight car at Fortieth street and attempted to demolish the tower at that point, but were prevented by the police and the fire department.

PLAIN MARY ANN.

A Remarkable Adventuress in the Clutches of the Law.

The History of Mrs. Gordon Baillie, the Handsome Scotchwoman Who Posed as "The Crofter's Friend"—Seems to Prefer a Prison—She Had Forty Names.

The committal of Miss Annie Frost, alias Mrs. Gordon Baillie, on Friday last on a charge of fraud has revived the interest shown a few years ago in this remarkable adventuress, says Black and White. Her career has been of an extraordinary description. Mary Ann Sutherland—our heroine—was born in Petherhead, in the north of Scotland, in 1848. Her mother was the daughter of a crofter in Petherhead, and traveled about the district with a man named Sutherland, who dealt in pork and other delicacies. Mary Ann in after years claimed to be highly connected, and spent her early days in the Buchanan district, "traveling" with her mother to Dundee. Presently she appeared in Petherhead and Aberdeen as a Bible woman. She was a very active revivalist, and was considered a woman of great piety, attending and addressing religious meetings.

She is described at that time as being of very prepossessing appearance, having a good figure, pretty eyes and pale complexion. In 1869 she managed in some way to reach Rome, Turin and Paris, and returned to Dundee in 1872, where she started a career which finally closed in Perth penitentiary. On her release, Edinburgh became her headquarters, until she fled to London and took a large house in St. James Terrace, Regent's Park, and Miss Ogilvy Bruce—that was her new name—could be seen driving along every day in a carriage and pair. The lavishly furnished house in St. James Terrace had been secured on the same plan as that adopted in Dundee in 1872, and three months exhausted the possibilities of the metropolis in this direction. The lady's next exploit was the renting of a mansion and shootings in the Highlands at Moniach, near Beaulieu, at a rent of £300 for the six months. Accompanied by a young man in the capacity of "private secretary"—her former private secretary was at this time undergoing penal servitude—Miss Bruce put herself in communication with the leading firms in Inverness who cater for the wants of sportsmen and tourists during their brief stay in the Highlands, and cellar and wardrobe were furnished with the best.

Here she lived a fashionable life, priding herself on her Highland ancestors, producing the broadsword of her sires for the edification of her visitors, and to show her admiration for the manners and customs of those among whom she had taken up her abode, she on special occasions donned the kilt and phib, with Glengarry bonnet and Bruce crest, but this life, without the necessary funds, could not last forever. Traders were pressing for their money, and, of course, the lady again suddenly disappeared, leaving a train of bills as a memorial of her brief but memorable sojourn in the Highlands. Several huge, heavy boxes were embargoed at the railway station by the landlord of the house and shootings, but their fair owner, driven over in a smart dogcart, managed to step into a London train at another station on the line. The landlord with thoughts of jewelry and plate, opened the boxes he had captured to find them filled with bricks and straw.

We next hear of our heroine on Jan. 30, 1877, in a magisterial inquiry at the Mansion House respecting charges against one Kate Miller, who was brought up on a warrant which included the name of Miss Bruce, not in custody—she had bolted to America—accused of conspiracy to defraud a number of merchants of their wares and obtaining £3,000 from a Mrs. Graham under false pretenses. During the examination it appeared that an old baronet (now deceased) had assisted Miss Bruce to the extent of £5,000. In the Times of Feb. 21, 1877, there is a continued account of the inquiry, where it is disclosed that Miss Bruce had passed as the daughter of an earl, and that on Nov. 1, 1876, she had been married to Thomas Whyte, otherwise Knight Aston, an operative singer. The doing of the lady from this date till 1888 are not on record, except that she made a tour in America, Australia and New Zealand, carrying on her old pursuits in Melbourne and elsewhere. In 1885 she must have been in London, as on May 19 she figured as a Greek maiden in the opening tableau in the artists' costume ball at Prince's Hall, at which the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the royal family were present.

She next appeared in Scotland as "The Crofter's Friend," under the name of Mrs. Gordon Baillie and collected subscriptions on their behalf. The Edinburgh Evening Dispatch unearthed her previous history and its exposure of the adventuress caused a great sensation at the time. Edinburgh became too hot for her, for she victimized many townsmen and big wigs in the city—including no less a personage than Prof. Blackie, who afterwards declared that such a witch of a woman would cheat the devil himself. London was again favored with Miss Bruce's patronage, and, under the name of Mrs. Annie Frost, she was charged on Oct. 23, 1888, with a certain R. P. B. Frost, at the Central Criminal Court, with conspiring to obtain goods by false pretenses. The female prisoner had been representing that she was the owner of vast estates in Australia and engaged in an extensive scheme of emigration to those estates and to Australia generally from the agricultural districts of the United Kingdom, particularly from the crofters' districts of Scotland.

Inspector Marshall gave a history of her career in the court, and stated that she had assumed no less than 40 different names. He had complaints from all parts of the continent about the prisoner—from Turin (where she had undergone imprisonment), Florence, Rome, Brussels, also from all parts of Scotland, as well as Australia and New Zealand, from which she had returned on Nov. 1, 1887, to Broadstairs, taking a house there with the prisoner Frost. She was sentenced to five years' penal servitude and as her sentence only expired in October last she has not lost much time in renewing operations. She once declared in the writer's hearing that any great disappointment would send her into a cloister. A prison, however, seems to be the residence preferred by this heroine.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.

Fakirs Following the Cook & Whitby Circus.

Reaping a Rich Harvest in Ontario—The Old Pea Shell Game.

BARRIE, July 5.—In this town on July 2 one of the sharpers exhibited the Cook & Whitby circus actually grabbed $60 from the hand of an innocent man, from another $45, and from that down.

COLLINGWOOD, July 5.—Cook & Whitby's show exhibited here on Tuesday, and gave a very clever exhibition. With some of the visitors to the show the pleasure of the occasion was somewhat marred by the operations of a gang of thieves and blacklegs. In one or more cases they forcibly took money from visitors. They seemed to obtain the services of local coppers. In one case they hustled a man and his daughter either in a tent or behind a tent, where they forcibly took about $50 from them. The gang obtained $400 or more here.

BERLIN, July 6.—A farmer who attended Cook & Whitby's circus here yesterday afternoon was robbed of $35. Two sharpers asked the man for change, and when he took out his money, they grabbed the roll of bills and ran.

BRAMPTON, July 5.—Notwithstanding repeated exposures in the press of the slick ways of circus hangers-on, many citizens were yesterday relieved of a large amount of surplus cash by wrongly guessing the whereabouts of the pea in the shell, which is an old, familiar trick. The town was visited by Cook & Whitby's circus, accompanied by the usual number of sharpers. Thomas Beasly, of the Graham House, lost $100; Robert Giffen, a respectable farmer of Chinguacousy, $40; Mr. Campbell, of Dublin, $25; Robert Shaw, of Brampton, $25, besides an innumerable number of persons who dropped twos and fives.

So excited over the prospect of making a large stake were some citizens that they went to the bank to draw out their little all, but were persuaded by the manager not to do so. It is estimated that more than $1,000 was taken out of the town by this pea trick alone yesterday.

SUICIDE EPIDEMIC.

A Sailor's Wife Attempts to Poison Herself.

Her Husband Had Been Drinking and She Took This Method of Sobriety Him—She Will Recover.

This fair city is enjoying a suicide epidemic just at present. Following the Thomson-McKeebie affair on Sunday a man named Adair announced his intention of doing away with himself yesterday, but was found drunk on the river bank near where he said his body would be found. Last night Mrs. Stires, the wife of an American sailor from Brooklyn, attempted to take her life by poison at Mrs. Weaver's boarding house on Park avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stires have been in London for a couple of months past and since their advent they have both worked in various shop windows, he making fans from pine boards, and she decorating them. They were a paying advertisement and made good money. They have been working all over Ontario and New York State and came well recommended.

When Stires first came to London he had not drunk a drop for months. He was a jolly, rollicking, good-natured, whole-souled sort of a man, and made friends everywhere, and his sailor suit and rolling gait became an everyday sight around the streets. In fact, he was such a jolly sailor that he made more friends than was good for him, and always had a couple in tow. They induced him to drink to such an extent that his gait, always rolling, obtained an additional roll at times not acquired on the sea. Once started Stires could not quit, and although he was always kind to his wife she grew downhearted, and last night when her sailorman luffed, and with his helm hard a starboard, made for port with about six sheets to the wind his wife felt very bad over Mr. Stires' nautical affairs and system of land navigation and proceeded to scuttle her own craft by drinking a mixture of arsenic, laudanum and alcohol that Stires uses to harden his hands.

It was 12:30 when Mrs. Weaver heard a scream from the couple's room and heard a fall. When she got to the scene Mrs. Stires was lying on the floor unconscious from the effects of the poison. The house was aroused and a doctor summoned, and after a couple of hours' hard work he saved the life.

Mrs. Stires, like her husband, has formed many friends in London by her quiet and unassuming manner. They will be pleased to hear that she will recover, and no more so than her husband, for they are a very loving couple. And Mr. Stires—well, he has written "abstinence" in his log book, and has wrapped at least a yard of blue ribbon around his purse in his hat. All's well that ends well.

A DESPERATE CONVICT.

He Tried to Commit Suicide in Chatham Jail.

CHATHAM, July 6.—Frank Vesquey, a convicted thief, was sentenced to ten months in the Central Prison yesterday morning. After being removed to the cells the prisoner tied his suspenders to the high window bars, slipped a noose round his throat and let himself go. His struggles in strangling were heard by a prisoner in a cell adjoining, who raised an alarm which brought two officers to the spot. The desperate convict was taken down just in time to save his life.

Rosebery Feeds the Poor.

LONDON, July 6.—Lord Rosebery yesterday carried out his promise of celebrating Ladies' Derby victory by feasting the inmates of the Epsom poorhouse. Three hundred and fifty of them sat down to a hearty English dinner.

In Parliament.

Reintroduction of Mr. Corby the Unseated Member.

The Question of Freight Rates in the Northwest Brought Up.

Sir John Thompson Premises an Investigation "By and By."

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, July 5.—On the opening of the House Mr. Corby was introduced and took his seat. He entered the chamber between Sir John Thompson and Mr. Northrup, of East Hastings, and was loudly cheered.

On the orders of the day being taken up Mr. Sutherland complained that the order of the House last session to have printed 75,000 copies of the dairy commissioners' report and the order for the similar treatment of this year's report had not been complied with.

Mr. John Thompson said the report of last year had not been received until this session, and therefore the order of last session had not been made. He hoped the House would not make such orders for printing as would duplicate the cost of experimental farms. The matter was dropped.

Mr. Macdonald, of Assiniboia, brought up the question of railway freight rates in the Northwest and the building of the Hudson's Bay Railway. He and Mr. Boyd, of Marquette, had recently had an interview with Mr. Van Horne, who told them the C. P. R. were not charging excessive freight rates, for the reasons set forth in a letter addressed to the Government. He asked that the contents of that letter be made public. It was clear that the C. P. R. did not intend to reduce the present rates. It was utterly impossible for the farmers of the Northwest to pay the present rates owing to the extremely low prices of their products. He therefore asked the Government to appoint a commission to go into the whole matter of these freight rates.

Mr. Davin dwelt on the advantages of a commission.

Sir John Thompson said the petitions from the Northwest against excessive freight rates on the C. P. R. were numerous. He read one of these petitions alleging that exorbitant freight rates were driving settlers out of the country and that the company refused any redress. The petition also asked for Parliamentary aid to build other railways and the Hudson's Bay Railway. The petition was considered by the Government, and the C. P. R. were asked what they had to say. A letter dated June 14, addressed to the Minister of Railways by the secretary of the petitioners of the C. P. R., took the ground in this letter that their freight rates up there were lower than those upon any grain transportation in the world under similar conditions, and considering the facts that cars had to be returned empty and that the cost of fuel was so high they were therefore unable to reduce their rates. The directors averred that Canadian settlers were better off than those in other wheat-producing countries, and in the interests of Canada as well as of the company the directors suggested that the Government should compare the condition of farmers of the Northwest with those of the Western States and other wheat-producing regions of the world with regard to the cost of reaching the world's grain markets. The Premier announced that therefore a thorough investigation of the subject of the complaints and all questions which affect transportation in those regions would be made as soon as possible after the session, either by royal commission, or more likely by departmental inquiry. He was not able to state the range it would

Among the Magazines.

With the July number, Household News starts gallantly on its career of usefulness for its second year. There is abundance of good material in this number to suit all tastes, each of the departments presenting an unusually attractive menu. Sample copies are mailed for the asking. Published in Philadelphia by the Household News Company (Limited).

W. Hamilton Gibson, who is noted for his excellent rendering of botanical subjects, has prepared for the August number of Harper's Magazine a fully illustrated article on mushrooms. The article is of a popular character.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, it is reported, has in contemplation some important historical work.

A very interesting number of McClure's Magazine is that for July. "The Heraldry of the Plains" in describing the cattle brands used in the west, has an unusual subject, well treated. The "Human Documents" have interesting subjects in Lord and Lady Aberdeen and Capt. Charles King. Hamlin Garland's professionally gloomy account of Homestead is answered by a workman in the great foundry. Miss Tarbell tells something of the workings of the Parisian Municipal Laboratory; and Robert Louis Stevenson's wonderful story, "The Ebb Tide," is ended.

Outing for July opens with a delightfully entertaining complete story, "The Descent of Isaac Russ," by Frank M. Blacknell. In it figure the erratic heroine, two lovers, and "Isaac Russ," an air-ship, and before the author gets through with them he proves conclusively his rare power as a writer of clean, original and charmingly quaint humor. There is a wholesome laugh for everyone who reads this story.

Those Canadians who are interested in the progress of Canadian writers who are making a place for themselves in contemporary literary outside of the Dominion, which means principally in the contiguous republic, will remark three names in the current July number of the Arena which are very familiar in Canada as well as to all readers of the American periodicals. These are James L. Hughes, public school inspector, of Toronto, and Walter Blackburn Harte, formerly of Montreal and Toronto, but now engaged permanently in literary work in the States. Mr. Hughes' articles will certainly be widely read and commented upon in Canada, for it has another claim to the attention of all Canadians. It is a reply to Prof. Goldwin Smith's essay on "Woman's Suffrage."

SOME few months ago a Dublin inventor claimed for a preparation of his that it would preserve eggs in perpetual freshness. To thoroughly test the efficacy of the invention, which, if successful, would revolutionize the egg market, an experiment was carried out at the Freeman's offices. A sample of eggs immersed in the patent solution, and placed in a glass jar, remained undecomposed for months, and when the jar was opened, the eggs were found to be as fresh as when first placed in the solution.

He Was Poisoned!

Hydrocyanic Acid Was Found in Thomson's Stomach.

He Purchased Two Bottles of the Deadly Poison.

Because, as He Said, He Had Broken the First One.

The Jury Return a Verdict of Death by His Own Hand, but Assign No Motive for the Deed—He Told No One That He Was a Bicycle Agent—Love Turned the Young Man's Brain—The Inquest in Miss McKee's Case Takes Place To-Night.

Thomson poisoned himself. This was established beyond a doubt at the coroner's inquest last night. Another new fact elicited was that he purchased two bottles of poison, saying that he had broken the first one. The last bottle contained twice as much as the first, or about one ounce, and it was the large bottle that was found in Miss McKee's room when she died. None of the McKee family knew that Thomson was a bicycle agent. Neither did he mention the fact to the people at the Grigg. While in London he passed as a tourist traveling for travel's sake, while the New Howe Bicycle Company were wondering where he was and why he did not report, and Mr. Shirley had complained of his methods of conducting business. That the deed was deliberately planned there is no doubt, but the reason is past finding out as far as the coroner and jury are concerned. Thomson evidently fell so deeply in love that it turned his head, causing him to neglect his business and lose all control over himself. The jury returned a non-committal verdict of death from the effects of hydrocyanic acid administered by himself. Juror Farnworth was ill and the inquiry proceeded without him. Mr. J. B. McKillop represented the crown, Mr. C. H. Ivey Mr. Thomson, and Mr. James Milne the McKees.

JOHN MILNE. John Milne, the bathhouse keeper from whom Thomson hired the canoe, took the stand and testified that deceased had on many occasions, singly and in company with the man La Trabe, hired a canoe from him. He always hired a canoe and was an expert canoeist.

"Was he in the habit of staying out late?" asked the coroner.

"On Friday night, previous to the Saturday when he last hired the canoe, he was out from 6:05 in the evening until 12:40 in the morning."

"Did any of his actions strike you as peculiar?"

"He was a man who if he wanted half the bathhouse to go down the river with I would have let him have it. He told me one morning that he held the championship of Scotland for Rob Roy canoeing."

AMOS SHIRLEY. Amos Shirley, a New York bicycle dealer, was the next witness.

"How long have you known Thomson?" asked Mr. McKillop. A—I have known him ever since last December.

You met him in New York, then? A—Yes, sir, at my place. He came from Glasgow to represent the New Howe Machine Company in the United States and Canada.

What did he do during the first few months? A—He was over to fix up arrangements with the business for me during the next year. In addition to that he was to square up matters in relation to the company in reference to a large number of wheels ordered by another representative.

How long did he stay in New York before coming here? A—I should think about five or six weeks.

Then where did he go? A—I believe he went to Toronto.

You had letters from him at Toronto? A—I had one.

Did he come back to New York? A—From Toronto he went somewhere; I am not sure where, because I got no letters from him. He came back to New York and told me that he had been to London.

How long did he remain in New York? A—Not more than a day or so. In fact, I don't think he remained a day.

What month would that be in? A—He stayed in New York about six weeks—from Dec. 5 probably to Jan. 12.

How long was he gone from New York? A—I should think about a month or six weeks. It was some time in March that he returned to New York and opened his letters. He went to Denver before returning.

That was the last you heard of him? A—Yes.

Do you represent the New Howe Company? A—Yes.

Did you have any letters from him? A—No.

Did you have no letters whatever since he left in March? A—No letters whatever.

Did you think there was anything peculiar in his conduct when you saw him in New York? A—Not in the least.

If he committed suicide, can you give any reason why he should? Any reason that would drive him to do so? A—No, sir, I cannot.

What position was he in financially? A—Plenty of money.

Of his own? A—Of the New Howe Machine Company. That was under his control.

Had he any drafts sent him? A—He had a draft on a bank in New York. He received it in my place.

Were there any other funds under his control besides these? A—He could draw on the funds of the Howe Company.

On the funds of the Howe Company. The drafts that he received were sent to him to pay his expenses. Further the witness stated that it contained about $900. He got the amount when he came in March.

Personally you don't know his parents or relatives? A—No, sir; I do not.

To the coroner the witness stated that he believed him (Thomson) to be the son of the late John Thomson, ship brokers and insurance agents. Out of the $900 Thomson left $400 or $500 with witness, but did not at any time write for it, although he could have had it had he done so. Witness did not write because he did not know his address other than London, Ont.

Were there any letters for him? A—Yes; the New Howe Company called, "Where is Mr. Thomson?" I answered, "No idea."

How long ago was that? A—About five weeks ago. Previous to that I had written to the firm complaining of the manner in which his business was conducted.

When he was in New York last he was on the point of starting for the old country was he not? A—Yes, sir.

Do you know why? A—Yes, sir; the firm sent for him.

That would be, then, after you had written your letter complaining of the way in which his business was being conducted? A—They had written even before that.

Was the order peremptory to return at once? A—To return at once.

And instead of returning he started for London, Ont. A—The same day.

Further witness remembered Thomson receiving a telegram from London, Ont., announcing the death of a relative, as he thought. The money Thomson left with him he had yet. Thomson had never written for it, and witness had not been out of New York for the last three months.

Mr. McKillop—He told Mr. Horsman, of the Grigg House, that the man from whom he would get his money was absent and would return on Thursday last, and he would get his money on Saturday.

Witness—He must have referred to somebody else.

You know of nobody else in New York from whom he could have obtained money? A—No, sir.

Mr. McKillop asked the witness if the fact that part of the draft was retained by him had anything to do with the fact that he had been ordered back to Glasgow.

Mr. Shirley replied that it was not. He thought that Thomson had been ordered back after he had got the money. Then Mr. McKillop reminded him that he had said that he had only seen Thomson once and had not heard from him then—how did he know that Thomson had afterwards received word to come back?

Mr. Shirley replied that he was not sure whether Thomson had told him or not, whether he had heard it from the company. He finally concluded that Thomson had got the letter while in Toronto. "My memory is a very poor one," explained the witness.

MRS. MCKEE. Mrs. McKee gave her evidence in a very low tone. She had met Mr. Thomson for about a month or two years ago in Millport, Scotland. While in Great Britain he had corresponded with the girls. The next time she met him was when he called on March 3 last. He was in the city and came to her house.

When did you first know he was coming to the country? A—I did not know that he was coming to the country. We had no correspondence with him.

How long did he remain? A—A few days, and then he went back to Toronto. Witness said that Mr. Thomson had gone to New York when Mr. McKee died. He was apprised by telegram of the death and returned unexpectedly. They didn't expect him until July.

Did he say anything about his position financially? A—Not at all. Not to me.

Do you know whether he did to any of the members of your family or not? A—I don't know. I suppose he did to my daughter, but my daughter never told me.

Witness said that Thomson was always cheerful, and had had a cup of tea with them on Saturday night. He was never despondent. Her daughter also was always cheerful, and was as usual on Saturday night.

Did he ever mention to you that he was connected with the New Howe Bicycle Company? A—Never.

Of course you knew of no reason that would induce Thomson to take his life? A—None whatever.

Do you know whether his family were opposed to the match between Thomson and Bella? A—No; I never heard.

MISS MAUDE MCKEE. Miss Maude McKee was next examined. She had met Mr. Thomson four years ago in Scotland, but did not think that either herself or her sister had heard from him during this interval.

Mr. McKillop—When he went to New York did you know what his business was? A—No.

Did he say what he was going for? A—He said he was going to return to Scotland.

Did he say what he had been doing in this country? A—No, sir.

When did you understand he was doing? A—I thought it was just a pleasure trip.

Did he tell you after he returned what he had been doing? A—No.

When did you know of your sister's engagement? A—In May.

Did he tell your sister, or tell you, what his position was financially? A—He never told me.

Did your sister tell you he had told her? A—Yes.

What did he say? A—I could not say exactly.

Was it that he was comfortably situated? A—Yes.

Did you or your sister at any time have any reason to suspect that he was short of money? A—No. Witness said her sister slept well and appeared cheerful on the Saturday night.

It came out that Thomson had ordered a life-size head and shoulder photograph of Miss Bella McKee, but had not called to get it. On Saturday night he appeared sad, but witness ascribed it to the fact that he was going to Scotland on Monday and felt bad at the parting.

MR. AND MRS. LENNIE. Mr. and Mrs. Lennie gave evidence to show that both of the young people appeared as cheery as usual on Saturday.

G. A. WARNER. Gus A. Warner lives at Walker's house on Riverview avenue. He testified that at 6:30 he asked the people at the house if he could leave the canoe there until about 10 o'clock that night. He then left by the front gate.

When Warner came home at 12:15 that night he went out to see if the canoe was still there. It was, and for fear it should rain he took the paddles, carps, and oars and placed them under the boat-house and turned the canoe over. All these articles were found with the corpse in the morning.

THOMSON POISONED. Dr. Weld submitted his report on the post mortem. When Thomson's thorax was opened a distinct odor of hydrocyanic acid was observed. The lungs were normal in position and size and were marked all over by small points of hemorrhage. The lungs were filled with air and not with water. No water or froth or mucus was found in the windpipe, the bronchial tubes or in the lungs. In the stomach was about three fluid ounces of thick light-colored mucus fluid, having a very marked peach blossom or hydrocyanic acid odor—an odor very distinct and characteristic. Death must have resulted from poisoning by hydrocyanic acid, and he had probably lived from two to four or five minutes after taking.

TWO BOTTLES OF POISON. Wm. Upper, a clerk at Strong's, said that he had known the dead man as Dr. Thomson and considered from his conversation that he was a medical man. Therefore, when Thomson asked for Shield's hydrocyanic acid (a particularly strong acid) he did not hesitate to let him have it. He would not have done so, however, had he not understood him to be a medical man. It appears that Thomson got two lots of the poison from Mr. Upper. The first, a half-ounce vial, was to poison a dog, and he got the second because he had the misfortune to break the first. The last bottle contained nearly an ounce.

ROBERT BURNS. Robert Burns, clerk at the Grigg House, testified that Thomson was feeling very miserable on Friday evening last, and said that he wanted a drink sent up to his room, but did not like to get it charged. He said that he had never been short of money like that before. Mr. Burns said it was all right and had the drink sent up. Thomson told the clerk that he could not sleep or eat because he was so afraid that the hotel people would think he was trying to beat them. He said his money was in trust and had to come from one lawyer in the old country through another in this, and he could not get any satisfaction. But while he was expecting a draft so eagerly did not inquire for any mail at the hotel office.

ED. HORSMAN. Ed. Horsman, proprietor of the Grigg, said that Thomson had told him that he had called for money, but witness was unable to substantiate this at the telegraph office. He owed for 63 days' board and appeared to feel very shamash about the fact and was despondent latterly because the looked-for draft had not arrived. Mr. Shirley, witness said, had settled the dead man's account.

Capt. Argo Foster and Joseph Drake described the finding of the body. Their accounts did not differ from those already published.

Mr. Burns was recalled to show that Thomson had told him that he had plenty of means, was a graduate M.D., and also a B.A., and had been traveling for three years and had not been home. He said that he was going home, but did not like to go so soon after Mr. McKee's death.

"He told me," said Mr. Burns, "that Miss McKee's father had given her to him on his death bed."

P. C. Morgan testified that the depth of the water where the body was found was 4½ feet.

THE VERDICT. The coroner then addressed the jury, stating that the affair was no doubt prearranged, but the denouement had not been expected so soon by the young woman. Knowing that death by prussic acid was painless and brief, he had proposed that means of exit from the world. He was entirely at a loss for a theory as to cause, and left the verdict with them.

"Died from the effects of hydrocyanic acid administered by himself" was the verdict returned. The jury, like the coroner, did not feel equal to the task of ascribing a motive.

The inquest in the case of Miss Bella McKee will be resumed to-night at the police station at 7:30.

All Testify in Strongest Terms to the Most Remarkable Cure Ever Made.

B. B. B. Cures a Case of Salt Rheum That Baffled All Medical Skill.

His Face Was Baked, Rough, Sore and Cracked.

The first witness, Mr. E. H. Cox, writes that Mr. Edward White, of Victoria Corner, N. B., had suffered for twelve years from erysipelas and salt rheum, had tried twelve doctors, but all failed to give even relief. I had the opportunity to examine his arms, shoulders and breast; they were covered with sores, but after using one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters they healed up so that large scales and scales fell off. I advised him to keep on using B. B. B. His face was fairly baked, and so rough and sore that the skin cracked open. The itching and burning were almost unbearable. He continued the B. B. B. until entirely cured. Every symptom of the disease is gone. I write this in justice to your medicine as it is true in every respect. I would say in conclusion that my wife was also cured of salt rheum by B. B. B., and the cure has been permanent.

E. H. COX, Victoria Corner, N. B.

The second witness, Mrs. E. White, says: "This testimony is true. I cannot express in a letter how my husband has suffered the past twelve years. I have seen his face swell all over three times in a week with that awful Salt Rheum. He has spent everything for medicines and doctors' bills, but nothing did him any good till he took B. B. B. He has taken six bottles and is now cured. He used to scratch his flesh all night, but now sleeps well and is free from the disease."

Mrs. E. WHITE, Victoria Corner, N. B.

The third witness, Mr. Wm. White, says himself: "For twelve years previous to the last few months I have been a sufferer of the worst kind from Salt Rheum. I tried twelve different doctors, besides many patent medicines, but received no benefit. Last January I was advised to try B. B. B. by the postmaster here. I soon perceived a decided change for the better, and it only took six bottles to make a complete cure."

EDWARD WHITE.

More evidence. The best, most reliable people in the community testify as follows:

We have known Mr. Edward White for the past ten or fifteen years, and can certify to the genuineness of his letter and to the facts in the case as stated by him.

J. B. BOWSER, Merchant.

JAS. W. BOYER, Manufacturer.

THOS. W. LESTON, J. P.

No further proof could be asked for, and the fact that B. B. B. cures all blood diseases, from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, is amply proved. For any skin diseases it is a specific. This is not a solitary case. Thousands have been cured by B. B. B., and volumes of testimony could be published.

IS A DOMINION GENERAL ELEC- TION AT HAND?

An Ottawa correspondent reports that the Dominion Parliament will be dissolved at the end of the present year or in the early months of 1895, and that the issue chosen by the Administration will be one raised in the colonial conference, now in session at the capital. There may or may not be truth in this statement. But three facts may well be borne in mind in this connection:

1. At the last general election, the Conservative leaders dissolved the House on a false and misleading cry that they were about to procure reciprocity with the United States, and that they desired to receive the mandate of the electors.

2. If they had not dissolved Parliament suddenly, time would have been given to expose the duplicity of the men in power, and they would have been defeated by an indignant electorate.

3. It is possible that somewhat similar tactics may be adopted. At the request of the Ottawa authorities, the colonial conference is now being held in secret. So long as the Star Chamber idea is maintained, it is possible to put any coloring on the proceedings that interested parties
may deem for the welfare of their party.
And it is even possible for a hard-boiled Government, like that now holding sway
at Ottawa, to go to the country with a cry that would, in the absence of the full report of the proceedings, be proved to be as unwarranted as that raised in the 1891 election. The friends of a tariff reform that shall provide taxation for revenue only, and not for the benefit of a few rich supporters of the Administration, should be on their guard and ready for an emergency. There can be no doubt that the men at Ottawa are getting ready for a general election, to be decreed at their convenience. They have had needy M.P.s at work preparing campaign literature for months past. That line of action shows what may be expected before a very long slap.

EXTRAVAGANCE RUN WILD IN CANADIAN MILITIA AFFAIRS.

The announcement that Col. Powell, adjutant-general of the Canadian militia, a native Canadian and a U. E. Loyalist, has been suspended because he failed to comply with a red-tape regulation, has caused a good deal of comment throughout the country, but not more than has done the statement that it is probable that Lieut.
Col. Aymer will be passed over when a successor Col. Powell is appointed.

Col. Aymer is now assistant adjutant-general, and therefore the officer next in seniority to the suspended adjutant-general. Col. Aymer is a Canadian officer of undoubted merit and ability, as all who came in contact with him while in this city know. Lieut. Col. Lake, quartermaster-general, recently brought from England, and pitchforked into one of the best positions in the gift of the Government at Ottawa, over the heads of many capable Canadians, is alleged to be slated for the vacant office. It would be a great wrong to Col. Aymer if his right to promotion were ignored and Col. Lake were made adjutant-general.

It seems to be the fixed policy of the Government at Ottawa to regard the better class of officers—the prizes in the militia service—as too good for Canadians. If that is to be the rule then we may as well abolish the military college at Kingston immediately. That institution was established twenty years ago for the purpose of imparting a purely military education in order that Canadians might qualify to fill any position in the military service of the Dominion. How the expenses of the college have been heaped up, and with what results, was brought out in the recent debate. The troubles now exposed still further accentuate the unsatisfactory condition of affairs. When it was decided to establish the college, Parliament was assured that a staff for this purpose would consist of not more than three professors, and that the cost would be about $8,000 a year, with some little extra outlay for attendants, etc., and that no new buildings would be required, as the work would be done in connection with some of our military organizations where buildings already existed. This was the basis on which Parliament agreed to the scheme.

Since then the annual expenditure has grown to be eight times the original estimate. Two years ago it had risen to about $63,000. Mr. Mulock, M.P., then called the attention of the Government to the tremendous increase, when the Minister of Militia promised to direct the attention of the Government to the matter with a view to a reduction. The result was that in the following year instead of a reduction the cost rose to over $70,000. The total number of students at the college at the present time, as pointed out by Mr.
Mulock, when condemning the system in Parliament the other evening, is 58, while the staff and assistants deemed necessary by the Dominion Government to take charge of this number is 36, or more than one official to every two students!

The total number of graduates since the Military College started in 1895, with a cost to date of $1,271,602 24, or,
in other words, each graduate has cost $6,521. The original object was to impart
a purely military training, but this object has been abandoned, and now the institution is doing the work of a collegiate institution, and preparing students for the church, professions, business, etc.

Only eleven graduates have been appointed to military positions in Canada, so that for this enormous expenditure the service has received the benefit of only eleven persons trained at the college; that is, the taxpayers of Canada have been called upon to pay $1,271,602 24 to turn out eleven graduates now in the service of the Dominion! None of the other graduates have made any use of their military training in connection with the Canadian militia. About 30 graduates are engaged in the various Departments at Ottawa, but their military education acquired at the college is of no use because they are not engaged in military work, so that practically all spent on them is thrown away.
Deducting from the cost of the college from its commencement all moneys paid by students for fees, the result is these eleven graduates have cost the country $90,153 each. One item of the expenditure last year consisted of $12,892, cost of purchasing a residence for the commandant of the college, Lieut. Col. Cameron, brother-in-law of Sir Herbert Tupper. This officer is paid a salary of $3,163 32; gets a free house, the interest and repairs of which cost $1,000 a year to the country; free fuel,
free light, free water, free servants, etc.

In reply to this charge, and in answer to the contention that the enormous expenses should be cut down, allowing the Provincial authorities to provide the ordinary high school education now given at the military college at such vast expense,
Mr. Patterson, the Minister of Militia, says that the Government will not agree to any reorganization looking to a reduction in the expense. Thus we are to have a military college conducted in the most extravagant way, to have the militia force credited with unnecessary expenditures for alleged services rendered to it, while graduates of the College are boycotted when the best officers are to be filled. Can any taxpayer of Canada condone such management of public affairs?

FROZEN MEAT FOR BRITAIN.

Unless Great Britain can be prevailed upon to relax the rule that calls for the slaughter of Canadian cattle immediately upon landing, our cattle dealers will have to follow the example of cattle exporters in the United States and Australia and New Zealand, and send their products over the Atlantic in refrigerator steamers. How the meat of our sister colonies is conveyed to England is graphically described in a recent issue of the London Engineer.

The steamer Perthshire, arrived in the British metropolis, carried from Australia and New Zealand the largest cargo of frozen meat ever imported into Great Britain. The cargo consisted of 70,000

carcasses of sheep, 9,000 haunches, 9,000 legs, about 550 tons of frozen beef, 750 cases of butter, 150 bags of bullocks' hearts, 150 bags of ox tails and kidneys, and seven cases of oysters. The holds have sufficient capacity to have accommodated 12,000 more carcasses of sheep. The shipment is an interesting one, as it is the first time meat has been taken to Britain from Australia or New Zealand by means of an ammonia machine, and the excellent quality of the goods, as certified by the consignees, is sufficient evidence of the success of the Linde machines by which the holds were cooled. Until recently only cold air machines were used in this trade.
The ammonia machines occupy less space
and apply the cold in a much more efficient manner, besides greatly reducing the consumption of steam. The plant on the Perthshire consists of two independent re-frigerating machines on the Linde system,
each machine consisting of compound ammonia compressor and an ammonia condenser combined on one bed plate with a compound steam engine. The refrigerators consist of a series of coils of wrought iron tube, wound in long lengths without joint from end to end. There are upward of eight miles of wrought iron tubing in the installation. The air is circulated by means of fans, which draw the warmer air from the hold, pass it over the refrigerator coils and return it to the hold through suitable trunks. It is claimed for this system that the air is delivered into the holds pure, dry and free from snow or moisture. There are no pipes in the hold whatever. The active circulation of air thus inspired enables the temperature to be kept extremely even; the variation between different parts of the hold does not exceed 5 degrees Fahrenheit. In all probability the proposed new Atlantic steamers, to run between a Canadian port and the west coast of England, will be fitted up with similar appliances. They are costly, but effective.

RADWAY MAY BE SUSPENDED.
The C. W. A. racing board has some business ahead of it. A number of unsatisfactory races were held on Dominion Day, and all riders who competed in these will likely be suspended from the track for short terms. Already the board has a long list of these riders.

THE KENNEL.
MR. DAVEY'S DOGS.
Toronto Mail: Mr. John Armstrong, of England, has charge of Mr. Davey's (London, Ont.) field trial dogs. He leaves for the Manitoba trials this month. He will also run them in the international field trials at Chatham before starting for England. Mr. Davey for the past ten years has won prizes on the bench at the leading shows in America, and from appearances he intends to make his kennel a field trial kennel. He certainly is going into the hottest company by sending his dogs to England. He deserves success.

ATHLETICS.
A meeting of all the athletic, sporting and pastime organizations of the city has been called for Tuesday, July 10, to form a general athletic association for the city.

What one Grocer says:

"I hire clerks
who can sell
the goods
that I tell them to sell—and of course I tell them to sell the goods on which I make the most money.
If they can't do it, I won't have them. That's what I hire them for." This is an actual fact related by a grocer to our salesman—and it's a common fact; we have it daily. So, when they tell you that some washing-powder is "the same as"
or "as good as" Pearline, it's because it pays a larger profit.
Too large, altogether, if clerks
can be hired to make people take things they don't want and know nothing of, instead of a tried and proved article
like Pearline.

Is easy prey for the exaggerated bargain advertiser. To us the trustful shopper

Large as a Dollar

Were the scrofula sores on my poor little boy, sickening and disgusting. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His legs were so bad that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start. Physicians did not effect a cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores commenced to heal up; the scales came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles of

Hood's Sarsaparilla
he was entirely free from sores." HARRY K. RUBY, Box 354, Columbia, Pennsylvania.

HOOD'S PILLS are a mild, gentle, painless and efficient cathartic. Always reliable.

The London Lacrosse Club crossed sticks with Stratford on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 sharp, and with the team they now have put up one of the best games ever seen in this city, as Stratford is a strong team. The home team will comprise G. Angus, J. Davis, J. D. McIntosh, G. Hendry, G. Wilson, H. Reid, W. R. Perry, A. Magee, F. Wicks, C. E. Swaisland, C. Caswell and J. Rolston.

Out-Much Plea are Manifested Over the News.

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley, formerly of this city, now of London, Ont., received a letter a few months ago stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE.

MME. MODJESKA has been offered the direction of the National Theater of Poland and may accept that position, which is one of great honor.

THE Moslems believe in the existence of "seven great hot hells," bearing the names Johannam, Latha, Hutamah, Sakir, Sakar, Jehim and Al-Kariah. The first is to be the endless abode of the Dahryyah, a sect which denies the creation of the second for Manichees and Arabs; the third for Brahman; the fourth for the Jews; the fifth for Christians and the sixth for the Magians. The seventh, the "great, great, hot, hot, hell," is to be reserved for liars and hypocrites.

TATTOOING dates back so far that it is impossible to discover when it was first practiced, but it was one of the practices that were prohibited to the Jews, for in Leviticus xix, 28, is the following: "Ye shall not make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor print any marks upon you." From this it may be inferred that tattooing was prevalent among the tribes in the days of Moses. It is a custom that prevails among the savage nations of the earth, and tattooing is practiced to this day except where Christianity and civilization has put a stop to it. It was at one time, years ago, and is yet, but not to such a marked degree, a fad among sailors to have various designs placed on their bodies. It was also a fad among a certain class of silly women to have their lover's name tattooed on the arm or breast. There are sailors in almost every seaport at this time who are willing for a consideration to place figures on the flesh of any who are foolish enough to have disfiguring marks driven beneath the surface of the skin with needle points dipped into coloring matter.

My heart leaps up when I behold
A flower ever so rare;
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So let it be when I am old,
Or let me die!

—Wordsworth.

What man with a heart would not feel his heart leap on beholding roses blooming anew in his wife's cheeks? No true man likes to see in his wife a sallow complexion, dull eye, and all the ills attendant upon the irregularities and "weaknesses" peculiar to the sex. Happily these can be banished, and the roses be insured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For nursing mothers or those about to become mothers it is a priceless boon. It lessens the pains and perils of child-birth, shortens labor, promotes the secretions of an abundance of nourishment for the child, and shortens the period of confinement.

Resulting From Hostility Between A. F. A. and Catholics.

BURR, Mont., July 5.—The hostile feelings existing between the A. F. A. and the Catholics culminated in a riot last night. H. D. The Governor has been asked to send militia.

The "Court of Honor" Destroyed by Incendiaries—Six Magnificent Buildings Reduced to Ruins—Several Firemen Missing.

CHICAGO, July 5.—The six large structures which formed the boundaries of the Court of Honor at the World's Fair perished by incendiaries early this evening. The buildings destroyed were the terminal station, manufacturing, electricity and mining buildings, machinery hall and agricultural building.

The art building, which has been rechristened the Field-Columbus Museum, and the Government building, were saved with the minor buildings south of machinery hall and the agricultural building.

Fire started almost simultaneously at three points so selected as to afford the best possible opportunity for the spread of the flames, which were undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

One man was killed and three injured during the progress of the fire. Edward Basset is the name of the man who was burned to death.

A number of firemen are missing. The total territory burned over was 80 acres.

The Colonial Conference.

OTTAWA, July 5.—The Colonial Conference met this morning, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell presiding. The question of trade was taken up and discussed in a general way, no central design or concrete idea being beneath the deliberation. Nothing was given out for publication in the evening papers.

A Transformation.

"After all," says Laurence, critically, "taking the hand that she held out, but seeing at her shoulder, 'I don't think I like what I did to that ribbon. I think I'll pull it up again. Just wait a moment."

Trefusis walks in a leisurely fashion to the door, opens it, goes out, and closes it almost noiselessly behind him. There is no haste, no noise, no suspicion of anger. Laurence looks at her.

"It's angry about that wait," says he, with a badly subdued and most unholly "oy. Terry, if—"

"Oh, never mind him," says Terry, pettily. "Get my gloves fastened, can't you?"

"At this moment one of the servants enters the room, and brings to Terry a very exquisite bouquet. It is all white, and suggests Covent Garden at once. It and arrived a little late by the nine o'clock train."

"For you, Miss O'More, with Mr. Trefusis's compliments," says the man. A pang of remorse troubles Terry's breast. She takes the flowers and looks at them. He must have expected them to bring her man to unpack them the instant they came, and have almost met him with them as he left the room just now. After all, she had behaved very queerly to him, very coldly, at all events, and she has been good to her and the boys, especially to the boys. It has been a little grievance with her of late that the boys have gone over to his side. But what would not boys do, she tells herself, for cricketers, and well as rackets, and penknives, and unlimited pocket-money? But in this she wrongs her own generally, for what boy of decent sort can be brought over by the gems of Colonsay? Certainly the O'More boys could not. As a fact, they like Trefusis for himself.

Yes, he has been kind to the boys. She goes to like him for that alone, and closes it. Whilst thus struggling with her better nature, Miss Anson enters the room.

CHAPTER XL.

"Are we the first down?" she says. "How delightful! I like being punctual; it says so much for one. She is looking larger than ever, in every handsome, round, and ample over amber satin. Her fine broad shoulders shine out of it. Her nose is magnificent. She looks as if she ought to have a laurel wreath upon her brow."

"What delicious flowers!" says she, dipping the Roman nose into them, and coming out apparently much refreshed. "From—with a massive smile at Larry—"

"Mr. O'More?"

"No. From Mr. Trefusis," returns Terry, shortly.

"Ah! How perfect! And how they match your gown! I quite thought that had been Mr. O'More's gift. Mr. Trefusis does not seem to deny it. He is turning regard him—but, well, hardly an idealist, you know. Sort of man who would like everything to go on velvet; a perfectly appointed house, for example, a correct manner, fastidious tastes, a well-to-do wife, you know, to sit at the head of the table—just to sit at the head of his table. You know the sort of man, don't you?"

"No, I don't," says Terry, quietly.

"But you must, you really must!" says Miss Anson, growing quite emphatically playful; "because you know Mr. Trefusis. As I say, dear, Mr. O'More, turning her handsome face to him, 'you look romantic. You look capable of anything.'"

"Thank you," says Larry, laughing. He has hardly followed Miss Anson's argument. Is that a compliment, or—the other thing?"

"Not the other thing, certainly. Well," smiling blandly, "aren't you going to ask me for a dance?"

"Am I not?" says Larry, effusively. He likes her in a way, and besides, like most people inclined towards embonpoint, she dances very lightly. "May I have the second waltz?"

"The second? How uncallant!" says Miss Anson, who is now touching up her fringe before a mirror. "Why not the first?"

"That is my cousin's," says Larry.

"Your cousin's?" says Larry, who is fluffing up of her fringe to stare at him as one who disbelieves her ears. "But surely," addressing Terry direct, "you have given the first to Mr. Trefusis, of course. I have heard a word or two here and there about you and him."

"Still, I have given the first dance to Laurence," replies Terry, coldly; then a sense of honesty compels her to add, "Gerrard did not ask me, but it is by some of the guests. Terry's lucky engagement to a rich Englishman having been discussed right and left over every afternoon tea-table in the country 24 hours after it was made public. It also has been rumoured that very often she has danced with her cousin, Laurence O'More; she has also danced with Mr. Kite, a most frivolous person, and that young man in the Lancashire, and the Poet, all three of whom are staying at the Hall; but nobody takes any notice of them. Speculation, however, is high about Larry. Used there not to be old passages between her and her cousin? Surely Mr. Trefusis had better look to it. But, after all, who knows?—a fashionable man like that, and a little country-girl like Terry! No doubt he has tired of his bargain, etc., etc."

Miss Anson has said a few of these little things during the evening when opportunity was given her. Indeed, she has not been beyond making her opportunities.

"How handsome those O'More's are!" says old Lady Mackenzie, the "grand old woman" of the immediate neighborhood, who might indeed have been called the "grand old man," so healthy is the monotone that adorns her upper lip. She peers across the room as she speaks, through her gold-rimmed glasses, to where Terry is standing with Laurence. "She ought to have married her cousin, you know, my dear general, she ought indeed."

FITZGERALD, SCANDRETT & CO.

And I dare say she will, too, judging by what I see to-night. Really, though, poor as they both assuredly are, it seems a pity to spoil—" She stops abruptly, becoming conscious that Trefusis is beside her, having just paused in his walk with Miss Anson. "Oh, you there, Mr. Trefusis?" says she. "Well, frankly, and getting out of her awkward corner with supreme aplomb, 'I should not have said that, perhaps; I certainly should not, if—with a twinkle in her small old eyes—'I had known you were so near me; but you must confess Laurence O'More is uncommonly good to look at."

"I think he is one of the handsomest men I ever met in my life," says Trefusis, smiling delightfully at her.

"Ah! that is generous," says the old lady. She gives him this stab because she thinks he deserves it. In her time a lover was a lover, and to be outrageously jealous on the smallest provocation was the fashion. What does he mean by his smile, and his acquiescence about Larry beauty? What does the creature mean? "I'd advise you to look to your guns, how you say she, tartly. Terry is a little coquette. All Irish girls are flirts. You shouldn't make too sure; you should keep your eye on her."

"The difficulty is to keep one's eyes off her," says Trefusis, unmoved, and smiling always.

"Ah, but there are too many eyes upon her," says old Lady Mackenzie, exasperated by his coolness.

"That is what I think. You shouldn't, you really shouldn't," says Trefusis lightly. "You might keep yours off you know."

Nothing Strange
Intelligent people, who realize the important part the blood holds in keeping the body in a normal condition, find nothing strange in the cure of diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla is able to cure. So many troubles result from impure blood, the best way to treat them is through the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes the blood.

Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia.—Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with little hope of relief; and now, after using five bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now 79 years of age, I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which has done such wonders in my case."

Miss Vanzant, daughter of A. Vanzant, Rodney, left two weeks ago on a visit to Mount Clemens, Mich. A dispatch has been received by her father stating that she has been accidentally drowned. The case, though, is a suspicious one. The young man who was her companion in the boat is detained in jail, nominally as a witness. A post-mortem examination of the body was made yesterday. There were bruises on the legs, blood on the clothing and on parts of the body, and other evidences of violence. A jury has been drawn.

HURON.
A picnic party, from Exeter, spent Dominion Day at Grand Bend. After dinner six of them were taken violently ill and had to return home. Physicians were summoned in each case when it was discovered that they had eaten poison, which turned out to be hellebore used in mistake for pepper in a chicken pie made by Miss Rowe—one of the party. The sick are as follows: R. N. Rowe, James Gould, E. Pollock, S. Lamont, Lila Gould and Miss Eliza Rowe. Mr. Rowe was apparently the worst case, and it was feared that the result would prove fatal. However, all are now on a fair way to recovery.

OTTAWA METHODS IN COREA.
The People Pinched and Squeezed by the Officials—Fat Jobs Farmed Out—Citizens Forced to Emigrate.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 5.—Corean affairs occupy the greater part of space in all the English-speaking papers brought in by the steamer Empress of China, which arrived yesterday. A writer in the Japan Herald on June 22 says: "The cause of the agrarian insurrection in Corea has been the frightful oppression of the peasantry by the official classes. It has always been the custom in the country to farm out the highest magistracies to the highest bidders, who are then permitted to reconquer themselves to their charge. In ordinary times this does not work so badly as might be expected, for an official has generally two or three years in which to recoup himself, and is able to spread his extortion over a considerable period of time, but of late the necessities of the time, and the establishment of a costly army have entailed great expense on the central Government, who, as result, have been obliged to sell their offices at shorter intervals and higher prices, and in consequence the officials have come down with great wrath upon their subordinates and exact the utmost farthing. The rebellion, therefore, seems to be one that has been brought about by the greed of the officials and the movement has so far met with unbroken success, and the insurrection soldiers now almost stand at the capital. The Kobe Herald says official squeezing has become so merciless in Corea that productive farms are everywhere deserted, and the oppressed farmers either emigrate to China or Russia or join the robbers that obstruct what little traffic there is in the country."

It is generally reported that a Russian force has been dispatched to Corea. The number of soldiers in the vicinity of Vladivostok is about 16,000, and Russia has twelve war vessels on that station, besides six steamers of the volunteer fleet.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Charles H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.
