Western Fair Board Committee Favors 25-Cent Gate Despite Council View

BOARD WILL TALK ADMITTANCE FEE

Tickets and Gates Committee of Western Fair Favors 25-Cent.

MEET ON THURSDAY

The members of the tickets and gates committee of the Western Fair are of the opinion that it would be advisable to go ahead this year on the basis of a 25-cent gate charge for the fair, regardless of the attitude of the city council in guaranteeing to make up any deficit by way of a $5,000 grant.

The committee feels that the lower figure is the logical fee to charge, and that by adopting it it will be possible to bring in a greater number of people, in this way equalizing the gate receipts with other years, and also making the exhibition of greater value to those who buy space on the grounds.

The directors will meet on Thursday to deal with the report, and while there may be some little difference of opinion, it is expected that the report of the tickets and gates committee will be adopted, and the board will then be in a position to appeal for greater support than ever.

Several local organizations have promised that they will join hands with the directors and do everything in their power in the way of giving publicity to the Western Fair, realizing that it is the best advertisement that London can get.

With the 25-cent gate charge there will be the appeal to all classes of the community to get behind the fair and demonstrate that it can be made a big success on that basis.

GREER LOSES MOVE TO BAR UNION MARK

Council Majority Upholds Keeping Clause in All City Contracts.

While Ald. Greer last night took such a decided stand on the question of union labor in the matter of printing the city's list, he was only backed up in his arguments by Ald. Bottrell, Shaw and Towne.

It has been the custom of the city council in the past to require that the union labels be attached to all printing work done for it. This was the clause that these aldermen took objection to.

Most of the printing shops in this city which use the union label are small shops, said Ald. Greer. "It would be fairer to the large shops to do away with the clause to have the work done in a shop using the union label."

He accordingly moved that the clause should delete this clause from the contract, but was defeated when it was put to the vote. The mayor and Ald. Douglas, Anderson, Drake, Smith, Hayden, McKay, and Ald. Ald. Warren and Walsh were absent.

Ald. McKay maintains that the use of the union label on all work done for the city is the only safeguard the city has that conditions in the shop doing the job are as they should be.

"To do away with this label," he says, "is to lose the only safeguard we have that the work is produced under conditions that should prevail in any printing shop. We have always got along well enough in the past, and there was no need to delete the clause."

Ald. Greer says that the clause is a hindrance to the city, and that it is a hindrance to the city, and that it is a hindrance to the city.

FAINT FLICKERS OF EYELID SAVES MAN FROM MORGUE

William Ford, 70, of Denver, Becomes Unconscious While in Barber's Chair.

THOUGHT DEAD

Ambulance Aide Sees Signs of Life as Party Is on Way to Hospital.

Denver, Aug. 6.—The faint flicker of an eyelid changed the destination of William Ford, 70 years of age, from the county morgue, where his supposedly dead body was being taken, to the General Hospital today.

Ford, accompanied by his wife, went to a barber shop to get a haircut while he was sitting in the barber chair he suddenly slumped over, his body becoming limp and apparently lifeless. After a hasty examination, the barber called the police, who found his husband was dead. The police notified Deputy Coroner George Bostwick.

Bostwick answered the call in the General Hospital ambulance and, placing the body in the machine, started for the morgue. As the ambulance pulled away from the shop Bostwick thought he saw a sign of life, an eyelid seemed to move, and a closer examination showed that Ford still lived. He was rushed to the hospital and revived. Physicians report that he will recover. Mrs. Ford stated that her husband suffered a sunstroke four years ago and never fully recovered from its effects.

C. N. SHOPS OPEN AFTER SHUTDOWN

About 130 Members of London Staff Are Laid Off Indefinitely.

After a week's shutdown the local C. N. R. carshops reopened on Monday morning, but with about 600 men on the staff. About 130 were laid off indefinitely.

It would seem since the shops are reopening without interruption on the basis of a 40-hour week, that the local employees of the company have voted in favor of a reduction in the number of the staff in preference to working with the full staff three weeks during each month. The saving to the company has thus been effected by reducing the number of employees by 130, and reducing the working hours by four each week, as indicated above.

The Stratford and Montreal shomans have voted in favor of closing down one week each month, instead of laying off a number of the men indefinitely.

Most of the printing shops in this city which use the union label are small shops, said Ald. Greer. "It would be fairer to the large shops to do away with the clause to have the work done in a shop using the union label."

Take Customers For "Imbibing"

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, Aug. 6.—Continuing the campaign against "beer selling" hotels in Winnipeg, the police municipality adopted new tactics last night when they arrested sixteen "customers" at one hotel along with the proprietor and a bartender. In previous raids only the members of the hotel staff were arrested. There is still a number of the 200 members from the United States to arrive.

The main body of the overseas members reached Toronto last night headed by Major-General Sir David Bruce and Sir Ernest Rutherford. This afternoon the leading members of the association will visit the parliament buildings to receive the official welcome of the Ontario provincial government.

At the unusual gathering this evening, when Sir David Bruce will deliver his presidential address on the prevention of disease, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, minister of health for Ontario, will represent the government of the province in voicing its appreciation of the work of the scientists and Mayor Hiltz will offer a welcome on behalf of the city.

The city council should take some definite steps to acquire the electorate with the exact situation existing between the city and the London street railway is the opinion of the mayor, and this form of ballot on this question was shelved last night by the council, and sent back to the finance committee, which hopes to complete the matter of the people at the next municipal election.

"I think my ballot covers the ground thoroughly without confusing the electorate," said Mr. Hiltz. "But whether the committee allow it or not, no time should be lost in letting the people know just what the situation is, and what difficulties the franchise with the company presents to the council."

Even at the present time, the majority of our electors are not accurately informed on the question, and as they need time to think over before voting on it, the sooner they are told the better. I hope the committee will decide soon what form the ballot shall take and then print it in the papers and let us all see it. The company has taken the initiative in this matter and has used some of the local staff in preference to the side of the question. The city cannot afford to let the company lead it in this respect, and it's up to the committee to decide in no time in reaching a decision in this matter of the form the ballot will take."

SCIENCE MEETING BEGINS TONIGHT

Nearly All Overseas Delegates Are Now in Toronto For Great Convention.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Aug. 6.—With the arrival this morning by boat and train of 70 members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, from Britain practically all those attending from overseas are present for the inaugural of the seven-day annual meeting of the organization at Convocation Hall tonight. WONDERS IF SHE KNEW WHEN HE WAKED UP DURING THE STORM AND HE DIDN'T SHUT THE WINDOW. THAT WOULDN'T BE SO GOOD

WONDERS, COULD HE STEAL OUT OF BED AND MOP UP BEFORE SHE WAKES. DECIDES IT'S NO USE—IT'S PROBABLY GONE THROUGH TO THE PANTRY CELLAR BY THIS TIME

PLAN OF TENDERS PLAYED BY MAYOR

Contents Hayden Press Should Not Have Been Awarded Contract.

WASTE OF MONEY

Mayor Wenige, in taking exception to the manner in which the city council has been handling tenders this year, cites the case of the printing of the voters' lists, which was let last night to the Hayden Press at a price of $3.20 a page. The city clerk brought in a tender at $1.34 a page which the mayor maintains should have been accepted.

The acceptance of the city clerk's tender would have meant a saving to the city of about $500 in the printing of the 300 voters' list which the city orders every year.

Objects To Methods. "The whole method of the city council this year in handling tenders has been most unbusinesslike," stated the mayor. "Slipshod, loose methods have been the order of the day. In some cases tenders have been amended and in other cases new tenders should in my opinion have been called for."

"The city should have regular tender forms and no tenders should be accepted on verbal form. No tender should be amended in any way after it is in the city clerk's office, that is no alterations should be allowed by letter—if mistakes have been made by the tenderer in his calculations that is his look out—and in all cases where there is doubt by the council members of the propriety of the letting and calling for new tenders, new tenders should be called for without argument. The administration of the city must be absolutely beyond any criticism, and the way to do that is to do what I suggest. I am not at all satisfied with present conditions in this respect in the city's management."

Upheld By Aldermen. Both Aldermen Alderman and Edwain Smith have at various times taken a vigorous stand on the question of tenders and have shown the same attitude regarding the handling of all tenders since they have been members of the council.

The city clerk's tender was for production on the multigraph machine in his office and the work would be done by his staff. This accounts for the much lower price than the other tender.

"The multigraph," copies says the mayor, "are quite good enough for the use of the city, but they are put to. As it is most of the 300 copies are lost or put away and forgotten, and I think the city orders many a copy of the voters' list is simply so much wasted money as far as I am concerned."

CHICKEN THIEF IS GIVEN ONE MONTH

Edward Harlton at Present Out on Parole From Kingston.

RECORD REVIEWED

Edward Harlton, who pleaded guilty yesterday morning before Magistrate Gladman to stealing 38 chickens from the coop of Ernest Oliver a farmer near St. Marys, on Aug. 2, was sentenced to a month in jail by the court today.

Harlton, who has been on parole from Kingston Penitentiary, will be removed to that institution at the expiration of his time in the local jail and will probably be free at the end of December. He was convicted of the theft of some flour in St. Marys and was sentenced to two years but on account of good conduct was allowed out on parole.

"I have your record before me," said the court, "and it is not an enviable one. The court told Harlton, who is 23 years of age, that he had been on parole for two years but on account of good conduct was allowed out on parole.

"Representations have been made by your counsel, Mr. Henderson, and your father, and I am inclined to think that a great deal of your trouble has been caused by bad company. Your conduct in the penitentiary must have been good or you would not be out on ticket-of-leave. I hope that this has been a warning to you and that after this you will go straight."

"I am going to give you this opportunity and will give you but a month's sentence," said the court, "and that you will be out by the end of the year, and can start the new year afresh."

WOULD OMIT "BRITISH" IN LIABILITY COMPANIES

English Conservative Introduces Bill Authorizing Limitations in This Respect.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 6.—The objectionable incorporation of the word "British" in the titles of limited liability companies led J. R. Remer, Conservative member for the Macleod division of Cheshire, to introduce a bill in the House of Commons which was read a first time last night, authorizing the board of trade to impose limitations in this respect.

Remer said there were public companies that ostensibly were British but were simply cloaking their foreign nationality under the title "British." He cited the case of a recently-registered concern with three directors, one of whom was an unnaturalized Russian who held eight-ninths of the share capital, another a naturalized British subject born in Lithuania and the third a naturalized citizen of the United States born in Russia. This company dealt in aeroplanes.

ELECT TURNER HEAD PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Saskatchewan Farmers Decide To Put Candidates in Field at Next Election.

Canadian Press Despatch. Saskatoon, Sask., Aug. 6.—The organization of a Provincial Progressive Association for Saskatchewan was completed at a meeting here yesterday with one hundred delegates attending. A provisional executive committee of twenty was elected and Harris Turner, M.L.A., present Opposition House leader in the Legislature, was chosen president.

It was definitely decided to put candidates in the field for the next election. In the preamble to its statement of policy the association affirmed its belief that the present system of party government is detrimental to the best interests of the people, and resulted in the division of the citizens on purely artificial lines, subordinating the welfare of the people to that of party and the development of what is called "machine politics."

INSPECTOR WARNS OF VICIOUS DOGS

Many Homeless Canines Are Creating Trouble For Residents of City.

There are still a number of dogs running around the streets of the city and the Humane Society has had many calls in the last few days to get dogs that are in people's yards and are too vicious for the householders to put out. The number of dogs running around loose has decreased, but still people fail to heed the city bylaw which provides that no dog may be on the street unless under the care of the owner.

Action is to be taken soon regarding a more rigid enforcement of this rule, and several prosecutions are to be made against owners who do not think the law was passed for a purpose.

Special to The Advertiser.

Berg Lake, B. C., Aug. 5.—A party that made two attempts to scale Mount Whitehorn were obliged to give it up and return to the Alpine Club Camp late this afternoon. It consisted of five Americans, including three boys from Harvard College, and two Englishmen. With them was Hans Hoesler, one of the Swiss guides employed by the Canadian National Railways at Jasper.

They spent two nights on a rocky ledge, high up above the clouds below the saddle of the Whitehorn, braving violent rainstorms that sent snow in the camp far below to crouch over their stoves. They had a canvas fly, weighed down with stones at each end and supported by their ice axes in the middle as their only shelter.

The men were suspended for being out of the city in Port Stanley on Saturday, July 26, without permission from their superior officers.

"They appeared yesterday to answer a more serious charge, made by a ratepayer in the city. This charge, which was made in writing, stated that the writer and his wife were sitting near the dance pavilion at the port when dancing, and the two men, charged, approaching, tapped him on the shoulder, and became abusive, and that one of the men (Scott) pushed him against the wall and assaulted him, and that they were drunk."

Admits Charges. George Scott told the committee that he was guilty of all the charges except that of using profane language. He admitted that he had a few drinks, but denied that he was under the influence of liquor.

"We spent the evening," he said, "in the presence of two or three provincial officers. Now if we had been drunk we should have been arrested."

He refused to name a third man who was said to have been present, declaring that he was no stool pigeon.

Fred Kerr, who was the first man to be heard and admitted all the charges, but did not remember swearing or using any profane language.

Both Kerr and Scott stated that it was never reported to the police by men in the department who were away from the city without leave, and accused the chief of favoritism, a charge which the chief denied in answer to a question from Alderman Anderson.

"No officers in the force," he said, "have ever reported to the police the absence of a man, and when any man asks for leave of absence I send them to Assistant Chief Scott, who arranges it. I have never showed favoritism in the force and have nothing personal against either of these men."

Ald. Douglass regretted that the complainant was not present himself to supply any gaps in his charges, and also that the witnesses named in the charge were not present.

On the motion of Ald. Anderson, both the complainant and his witnesses will appear before the next meeting of the finance committee, when the committee's action will be decided.

During the meeting Ald. Anderson stated that it was only three weeks since one of the firemen had struck a boy and broken his nose because the boy had refused to have a drink with him. The boy in this case was under age.

It is time we put a stop to that kind of thing on the force," he said. Mayor Wenige questioned the right of the chief to take any action in the matter without a fuller investigation and a more complete questioning of the men. The rest of the committee, however, supported the chief wholeheartedly, and commended him for the promptitude of his action.

See Insubordination. "Whatever we didn't know before, we know now," said Chairman Douglass at the conclusion of the meeting. "The action of these men here before the committee speaks louder than words. It appears from the evidence that they are guilty of insubordination, and their attitude toward the chief here is obvious from the look one of the men gave him and their general attitude toward him."

George Scott is the son of Assistant Fire Chief Scott, and has been on the force since August, 1916. Fred Kerr has been a member of the force for about four years.

PROPERTY OWNERS WARNED AGAINST DUMP FIRES

There was a slight fire in the dump at Crescent and Carfax street last night. No. 3 company extinguished the blaze, although several hundred feet of hose had to be laid before this could be done.

There has been a falling off in the number of dump fires the last few days, but property owners are warned to be on their guard, as these fires are always a source of danger to adjoining property.

PARTY ABANDONS ATTEMPT TO SCALE MOUNT WHITEHORN

Special to The Advertiser.

Berg Lake, B. C., Aug. 5.—A party that made two attempts to scale Mount Whitehorn were obliged to give it up and return to the Alpine Club Camp late this afternoon. It consisted of five Americans, including three boys from Harvard College, and two Englishmen. With them was Hans Hoesler, one of the Swiss guides employed by the Canadian National Railways at Jasper.

They spent two nights on a rocky ledge, high up above the clouds below the saddle of the Whitehorn, braving violent rainstorms that sent snow in the camp far below to crouch over their stoves. They had a canvas fly, weighed down with stones at each end and supported by their ice axes in the middle as their only shelter.

DEADLOCK BROKEN BY CITY COUNCIL

One Alderman Changes Vote On Purchase of Hotel For School.

SCHOOLS CONGESTED

Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, Aug. 5.—A deadlock, which has existed since April, in the city council was broken today when Alderman E. C. Brisco supported the purchase of the Santa Hotel property for vocational school purposes.

The school board requested that debentures to the extent of fifty-five thousand dollars be issued to cover the purchase of the property. The matter was delayed from one council meeting to another until the option expired. Today, at a special council meeting, the committee of the board of education showed that if some of the things are not done to relieve the congestion in the collegiate institute, the department would be without a school accommodation for the year.

By acquiring the Santa Hotel property, the school authorities claim they can solve both collegiate and public school accommodation problems. Members of the council now supporting the scheme are Aldermen E. C. Brisco, C. E. Clements, Stanley Thomas, William Murdoch, and Mayor Sulman; opposing are Aldermen A. L. Thompson, J. R. Newkirk and J. M. Smith.

Joseph H. Carter, a Chatham school teacher, died suddenly in Toronto. He had charge of vocational training work and was attending a special course at the Toronto University. Survivors are his widow, two sons, Norman of British Columbia and Harold of Michigan; and four daughters, Mrs. Wheeler, Toronto; Mrs. Arnold, Wallaceburg; and Mrs. Murray Reeve of Chatham.

Geo. Newman, who was arrested Monday night and charged with an O.T.A. charge in city police court today. The case was enlarged.

Three Dover men, Leo Borgers, Harry Martin and Toulouz, were dismissed on liquor charges in city police court today. A crown witness stated that the men were sober, and the prosecution was accordingly dropped.

A decrease in building activity is shown by a report of Fire Chief Pritchard. During the month of July permits issued had a property value of $19,234, as compared with $41,050, during July, 1923.

Musical Bird Had Bell Tied On Neck

Unusual Discovery Is Made With Aid of Field Glass.

"Tinkle, tinkle, tinkle." That's what the employees of the McLeod, Nolan Company, at Ridout and Carling streets, have been hearing for the past few weeks from a tiny bell tied to the neck of a sparrow, and each noon crowds of people have watched for the little lady to make her appearance.

Yesterday an employee of the Perry Sales Company managed to get fairly close to the bird, and by means of powerful field glasses made the discovery that a tiny bell, attached to a piece of red string, was round the bird's neck was responsible for the melody.

P. S.—Yes, the bird was a sparrow.

OFFICIAL SCORES SUNDAY 'HOLIDAY'

Ontario Secretary of Lord's Day Alliance Addresses Presbyterians.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Aug. 5.—In a statement issued today by Rev. A. I. Terry, Ontario secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, addressed especially to the Presbyterians of the Dominion, he urges the necessity of the members of the Presbyterian Church doing all within their power to safeguard the Canadian Sabbath.

"The tendency to make Sunday a holiday," states Mr. Terry, "is growing at an alarming extent. He declares that many motors moving somewhere on Sundays" especially in the summer season, over the 28,848 miles of Ontario's improved highways "involve the serious weakening of some of our national institutions and national standards."

He cites that a Presbyterian minister in Toronto recently in walking five short blocks to Sunday school, counted 161 motor cars, with children in most of them and all, apparently, going to the country. Mr. Terry asserts that when the homes are forsaken, the church neglected and an army of men and women are kept busy on Sunday providing "these pleasure seekers with car needs, repairs, ice cream and refreshments at every turn of the road, the moral character of our citizenship must naturally be lowered."

Friends Meet After 45 Years Are Recognized

Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, Aug. 5.—James Turnbull of Los Angeles has set up a record for a long-distance memory that old boys will find hard to beat. Walking on Dowling street Monday afternoon, he spied a face that he had not seen since 1879, that of Fred J. Corrie. On speaking to him recognition was mutual, and the two friends were soon swapping stories. In the course of their conversation it appeared that the two, who have not seen each other for 45 years, live within a few miles of each other in Los Angeles. They both left the city in 1879, and although they have wandered far since that time their paths did not cross until the meeting on Ontario street.

Discoverer Does Not Think White Indians Are Albinos

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Aug. 5.—Controversy as to the origin of Richard Marsh's White Indians is by no means at an end.

Despite reports received today by the explorer that certain of the visiting scientists had seen the Indians at Prescott and pronounced them albinos, he feels that such an investigation, made in his absence, was by no means conclusive. Tomorrow he has an appointment with O. J. R. Howart, general secretary of the British Association, and hopes to meet the same scientists who inspected the Indians at his summer home today.

Dr. Cuthbert Christie of London, England, who is a member of the association, and who was one of the scientists to interview the Indians on their arrival in New York, has definitely stated that the specimens are not albinos, said Dr. Marsh. A conference between Dr. Christie, who is at present in Toronto, and those who visited Prescott today, he believes, should prove of much interest.

A Mother's Advice Restores Mrs. Hall to Health

Lindsay, Ontario. "I had very poor blood and was bothered with pains in my side and back. I took kidney medicine for a while without success. I got pale, weak and nervous. My mother, who has used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a number of years with very good results, advised me to take it and I did. It did me worlds of good. I have gained twenty pounds and have not felt so well for a long time. You may use this letter as a testimonial to help others if you think it worth it."—Mrs. MARY E. HALL, R. R. 5, Lindsay, Ontario.

Every girl wants to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at all times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young girls just entering womanhood. Mothers may depend upon it. For nearly fifty years it has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value. Let it help your daughter and yourself.

A Sickly Child. Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day.' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now she is healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her 'gym' work, and she works at home every night and morning, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. GEORGE E. WHITACRE, 621 W. Madison Avenue, Mahoningtown, Pa.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR IRISH PICNIC

Reports of Committees of Benevolent Society Given Last Night.

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Everything is ready for the picnic of the Irish Benevolent Society on August 13, at Port Stanley. Reports of all committees were given at a meeting held in the Trench House last night and the chairman of the various committees stated that nothing has been left undone.

The most important event of the day will be a prize offered by Harry Bennett, a strong Orangeman, and Ed Carthy, a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, for the largest Catholic and Protestant families on the ground. The event came about through an argument between the two men as to which part of Ireland raised the largest families, and so to settle the dispute, each decided to give a prize for the cause of the other, and all persons with a large family are urged to be present. The only rigid rule that will be enforced will be that the children of all who enter the contest must be on the grounds.

The advertising, which is handled by Ed Carthy, will be the most extensive since the picnic started. Placeards will be placed in London, St. Thomas and Port Stanley, and announcements made in the press.

Harry Ranshan, chairman of the sports committee, showed in his report that there will be 15 events on the program, chief of which will be a 100 yard dash open to amateurs. The competitors will run for the trophy put up by the Irish Benevolent Society, and there will also be a prize for second and third man. Another event for amateurs will be the running high jump. The winner of this event will receive a handsome prize donated by the society. The sports committee for them in the last few years have been sadly lacking in the number of entries from the membership of the society.

Fire Chief John Allen announced that he had received the largest prize list from donors to the picnic since he has been chairman of the baby show. He promises that this year's show will outdo all others and wants all the people to bring their family representatives to the picnic so as to make the competition keener.

A meeting has been called for next Monday night and the final returns of ticket sellers will be made, also badges will be distributed to those attending.

An alternative bill has also been proposed in the nature of a temporary measure to permit of the sale of beer and wines in the hotels. As it is feared the early closing of the House will prevent a full discussion of the former, both bills have been sent to a joint committee of the Legislature.

Former Soldier Who Trained in London Arrested At Detroit.

DENIES CHARGE

Mrs. William Healy Is Found Beaten To Death.

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, Aug. 5.—Held on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife, Alice, 43, William Healy, 42-year-old Canadian war veteran, who at one time trained in London, Ont., steadfastly denied his guilt today under a grilling by detectives.

The police charge that Healy in a drunken rage beat his wife to death in their apartment at 149 West Montcalm street, between 11 o'clock Sunday night and 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Healy went to work yesterday at a furniture store on Michigan avenue as usual. Last night when he returned he summoned A. D. Clarke, his landlord, and told him that he had just found the body of his wife. He asked Clarke to call the police. "I wouldn't harm a hair on her head," he is said to have volunteered when the police arrived. One of Healy's shirts, covered with blood, was found by detectives searching the apartment where the murder is said to have been committed.

When confronted with the shirt Healy declared he had discarded it last week.

The woman was beaten from head to foot. Her teeth knocked out and her skull crushed, her body had been lifeless for about eight hours when the police were summoned.

STERLING EXCHANGE RATES REACH NEW HIGH RECORD

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Aug. 5.—Gathering momentum as the London conference progresses, the advance in sterling exchange today carried the rate to a new high record for the year at $1.45 1/2, a net gain of more than a cent over yesterday's high mark.

French francs at the same time jumped about fifteen points, crossing 5 1/2 cents and Belgian rose 23 points to 5.03 cents. Profit taking, however, caused a late reaction to $1.45 1/2 and 5.42 cents for sterling and francs, respectively.

BULL DOG OVERALLS

You'll like their free-and-easy feel, because they are wider across the front and come up so much higher in the back.

Prove this yourself. If you have never tried Bull Dogs, measure the width of the overalls you are now wearing, just below the front pockets where the arrows show dotted line in this figure. Then step into a store that sells "Bull Dogs" and measure up a pair of them in the same size at the same point. Then take a few more measurements, and if you find that Bull Dog overalls are bigger and more comfortable looking all through, will you try a suit, with our guarantee of satisfaction? Sold by 500 stores, anxious to please.

Bonnely Blows Up in Fifth, Allowing Five Runs Across.

Special to The Advertiser.
Hamilton, Aug. 5.—Punch Knoll's Bay City Wolves copped the third game of the series with the Clippers here this afternoon by staging a slugfest in the fifth inning that netted them five runs. The final score was 5 to 2 with Hamilton's scorers coming in the first as the result of "Maggie" McGee's terrific drive over the center field wall from Froman in front of him in the first frame. Bonnely had to be relieved by Reis in the fifth, while "Lefty" Heitzman turned good ball all the way.

BUSINESS SPLENDID, BAN JOHNSTON SAYS

American League President Predicts 1924 Will Be Record Year.

Associated Press Despatch.
Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 5.—B. B. Johnston, president of the American League, who was in Cincinnati, his old home town, today, said the present season promises to be the greatest year in the history of the league from a business point of view.

"The attendance at New York was 40,000 a day for the first ten days, Johnson said, and for the season it will be better than last year's total which was more than 1,250,000. Detroit will reach the million mark this year."

The see-saw battles staged by the Aces and Indians should bring out a record crowd to see today's game. It is likely that Frank Wayneberg, the Ace manager, who hurled Monday, will be sent back in today. It would be Coogan's last day in the big league, as the third sacker out a week. Bill will likely be filling in there again.

There may have been several hits go by Bill, which should have been several, but he turned in a creditable performance. His two chances came right together, the fourth inning. McCaffery hadn't sneezed up his work anyway, but he made several hits moves to first. Mac doesn't get all the breaks, but he still had his Irish smile.

Bashang and Naeson contributed the outlying home runs. Several of the Chiefs' big blows have followed elsewhere, and he's improved his fielding.

McPhee has at least learned a change of pace. The third strike which he put over on Naeson broke the tie, and he was the right edge of the pan and was dropping when it arrived.

George Orme, former Brantford manager, and who went up to the International after he had left the tender years behind, passed as a finished outfielder and at bat. He plays the batter by instinct apparently, and as good or better than most of the gardeners in the Mint.

Andy Messenger seems to be getting by nicely in the big league, better in fact than in some of the games he pitched in the Mint. Which illustrates one of the inconsistencies of baseball.

Cuyler, former Minter, now playing regularly for Pittsburgh, lost a home run the other day when rain fell the next innings.

Pitcher Charlie Olinner, a right-hander, has been sent to the Harrisburg Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League by the Robins, under an optional agreement. The Springfield club of the Eastern League has transferred Pitcher Paul Schieber to Harrisburg. Schieber is owned by the Robins who consented to the switch.

The Hacks Miller and Wilson, play on different teams so there is little chance of their running together. If they ever did the jar would mark an epoch.

Indians Come From Behind In 9th To Win Third Game

Squeeze Bunt by Kernan After Gehring's Tying Triple Wins 9-8.

HURLER PARADE
IM KERNAN'S tap in front of the plate with the winning run on third squeezed out a 9-8 win over the Aces in the ninth frame yesterday. Carmen had just relieved Danny McPhee, who had issued two walks and let Gehring pluck a triple tying the score, when Kernan's dead bunt had everybody glued away from their positions and their feet all crossed up.

It was the second time the Indians had come from behind and in another rally in the 8th they fell just one run short of tying the score. The game started out suffering from heat prostration and slow pitching of both Achenbach and McCaffery, the latter the worst offender, but the game developed into a parade of perspiring flippers from the sixth on, as Achenbach and Fields were led to the showers and McCaffery and McPhee followed.

Aces Took Lead.
The Aces carried a one-run lead chest high until the 6th. Orme's triple scored Gerald in the first frame and would have tallied Bashang, but for the fact he was a victim of smart work by Baker and Stimpson. Baker, after Gerald's smash went winging by him anticipated Bashang's advance on to third base and circled, taking Stimpson's peg there for the put-out.

A smart peg of Cozington's caught Beatty at the plate in the London 2-5 inning, Stimpson having wasted a hit and a run as it turned out, by attempting a steal. McCaffery dominated the Londoners until the 6th, when Beatty opened with a single, was sacrificed along by Naeson. Naeson's bunt crossed up the Aces and McCaffery, who had been working with a homer on a line above Orme's head, Gehring on one of his sporadic hitting bees got the first of three hits here in the third. Stolen bases—Stimpson, Gehring. Left on base—Saginaw 9, London 10. Hit by pitched ball—Beatty, by McCaffery.

ORIENT SENIORS PLAY IN STRATFORD TODAY

Hank Down or Frank Will Take Mound Against Bards.

Either Hank Down or Frankie Pring will take the mound when the Orient seniors clash with the Bards in their scheduled game at Stratford today. The second series of games, which will put the local crew within striking distance of St. Thomas, is being played at Stratford today.

The Orienters appear to be the better bet for this afternoon's engagement, as they have had little trouble of late in downing the dwellers by the Avon. However, there is always the possibility of a reverse, as the Stratford team hasn't quit fighting yet.

The Bards will meet the Orienters again at Queen's Park here Saturday.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1924.

And Still the Court Sits.

Judge Caverly, presiding over the Chicago murder trial, refuses to allow the plea of insanity as justification for murder in the case of Loeb and Leopold. Their counsel are careful not to urge this point. It would reflect on the families of the accused were the state to pronounce the murderers insane and lock them up as such.

So between the two points of guilty for admitted murder, and that of insanity, accounting for the crime, the defence seeks to steer a middle course that will show a lack of conscience, a love for thrills, and a peculiar and abnormal temperament. So it is that, in pursuit of that uncertain object, the foremost alienists that money can secure speak in terms and phrases that few understand, that have little or no bearing on the ability to discern right from wrong, and the court listens to it all.

A Canadian authority, who has the right to express an opinion because of his long association with and study of mental disorders, is not impressed by the plea being made at Chicago. He sees in it the introduction of a menacing and confusing element in a court of justice.

He fails to see particular force in the persistent attempt to urge insanity in murder cases, because the desire to kill is not all an accompaniment of a disordered mind. Now and then there does come the case of the insane person who is bent on killing some person, but it is apt to find expression in the desire to do away with an individual whom the insane person has pictured in his mind as trying to do him harm.

The insane mind would be more likely to seek expression in self-destruction than in murder. The normal mind turns to self-preservation; it takes every precaution to avoid sickness; it leads a person to insure life and property against death, accident or destruction. When these forces of self-preservation cease to operate, the individual is more likely to turn upon himself than others.

Some of the claims made in that Chicago courtroom are amazing. Dr. Healy, of Boston, for the defence, told the court that "Leopold told me they had considered kidnapping and slaying members of his own family; that he had no conscience, and that selecting a victim caused him no more trouble than selecting the sort of pie for dinner."

The Canadian authority quoted above did not agree with this. "It might be possible," he admitted, "for one man in 100,000 to claim he had no conscience, but it is not possible that two youths of 19, living within a block, should have the same trouble. Conscience, after all, is the ability to know right from wrong, and there are few people, even of low mentality, who are not possessed of the power to decide that one course is right and another wrong."

The continued outpouring of the alienists at Chicago, trying to establish a new state of mentality, midway between insanity and a plain guilty of murder, becomes dangerous and highly undesirable. It is the re-introduction in an exaggerated form of a force that does not seek to fairly meet facts, but rather to elude them and their consequences.

The world looks on—especially that portion of it that has become accustomed to plain British justice—and wonders how long the majesty of law can stand this tonnage of brain storm, and since when it became the function of a court to be a forum for those who are drawing large fees to confuse an issue of plain justice.

A Conference That Failed.

Britain and Russia have failed to reach an agreement in a conference which has been in session intermittently since April 14. The breaking point was, apparently, the refusal to recognize compensation for the property of British subjects seized and nationalized by Russia.

The debts that Russia owed to Britain before the war and during it have not been recognized, and a failure to do so made it impossible for Britain to guarantee a loan of $100,000,000 to Russia, which was part of the negotiations. The British, no doubt, realized that if Russia refused to recognize past debts, she would take the same attitude toward others.

Premier MacDonald, during his campaign prior to the last election, made a treaty with, and recognition of, Russia one of his planks. He has done what he could, but without apparent success.

The failure of the negotiations is not good news, neither can it be taken to mean that Russia can continue to maintain her attitude. A country of that size must have working relations with the outside world; she must buy and sell, and that can be done only on a basis of mutual trust.

There has been a feeling against Russia ever since her break from the Allies during the war, when she released enough German prisoners to turn the tide of war on the western front early in 1918. The Allied world has not been enamored of the methods of the Soviet government, nor of the ferocity of the executions resorted to to wipe out the last trace of the Romanoff regime.

It is fair to look at the other side. The Russian people for the most part are poor, illiterate and ground down. When the war broke they were committed to it by a government that was corrupt and painfully autocratic. The mass of the people had at best only a vague idea of what it was all about; they learned in a short time that they were victims of poor leadership; that they had the crudest material with which to face the best equipped army in the world. History records that the Czarsina was under the spell of a corrupt religious fanatic, and that she carried on traitorous dealings with the enemy.

The Russian soldier fought well; the numbers of them who were killed equalled the losses of Britain and France combined. They at no time were well provided for, and it was no great surprise that their effort collapsed at the critical hour.

The history of Russia since the war has been a closed book. Turning from a despotism that answered independent thought by a passage to Siberia, the people took the reins of power in their own hands. They have made blunders, serious ones; they have committed crimes that cannot be countenanced. Yet it must be remembered that when they took the power to govern in their own hands, transportation had collapsed; shortly after they faced famine. They were confronted with the opposition of the Allies.

Britain has made a fair, honest effort to re-open the trade routes with Russia. MacDonald realized that an isolated Russia, with her energies turned to fomenting trouble and spreading revolutionary propaganda, would not be a good condition at the top of Europe. It would be the British idea that Russia should become usefully busy; that her people should be brought in touch with the world, but the effort has not succeeded.

Despite the failure, and the sordid chapters of the past, the world still hopes for better things from Russia. To anticipate anything worse is not a pleasing outlook.

Not a Theory—A Reduction.

Checks are being prepared to send to those who paid income tax on the basis of $300 exemption for each child. It now stands at $500.

This means a reduction to a family of $3 per child.

That is a real saving—not simply a theory about decreased taxation, but an accomplished fact.

This year the King government takes $32 less than in 1923 from a man paying income tax and providing for a family of four children.

The 25-Cent Gate at Western.

The gates and tickets committee of Western Fair favor a 25-cent admission throughout, rather than 50 cents on several of the best days of the exhibition.

It is to be hoped that the directors, when considering this report, will see the wisdom of making it operative.

There will be an appeal for popular support on the 25-cent gate charge that could not have existed on the basis of a $5,000 grant from the city council.

There will be the feeling that the directors have taken the right and a courageous attitude in deciding to go through on the popular-price admission.

The motor is responsible for bringing thousands of people to Western Fair. The people come and return the same day. With the 25-cent charge they are likely to come again.

London's two Westerns—Western University and Western Fair—are the two outstanding features that attract outsiders to London. An exhibition of the excellence of Western Fair at the popular price of 25 cents should attract crowds that will set up new attendance records.

MacLaren Not a Failure.

Major Stuart MacLaren has been forced to abandon his round-the-world flight. Not that there has been a lack of determination and courage on his part, but that the farther he got away from places where his machine could be fixed, the more difficult and dangerous his trip became.

MacLaren's attempt has not been a failure. It is only as men have gone out and dared to try the untried that success has come.

Note and Comment

Mayor Wenige believes we should do as in Australia and fine people if they do not vote. Yes, and bonus them if they vote right.

Judge decides that ministers of the crown shall pay income taxes the same as other people. The wonder is that a minister would claim exemption at all. The genius of good government is equal rights to all.

Ex-Premier Drury took advantage of his appearance at a U. F. O. picnic to tell where he stood on the coming referendum. Whatever faults Mr. Drury may have had, a failure to speak plainly was not one of them.

Pullman cars for ladies only were run out of Chicago, but have been discontinued. The ladies did not like them. They said that at night they liked to know there was a man around in case of accident, emergency or sickness. It's a bit of a compliment for men to know that they are at least regarded as good watchdogs.

The crops that have been cut in Western Ontario promise well. Wheat fields in many cases are in stock; in others the half-cut fields show the grain standing up well, strong in straw and the heads well filled. If present price prospects continue, fall wheat in Ontario should be a better cash crop than it has proved for several years.

British scientist in Toronto says the piano is the greatest instrument. Of course there will be those who will disagree, but his statement is not far from correct. The piano is within reach of the mass of the people. There are many homes with an instrument, but how often no person to play it. A reasonable amount of study and application enables even a very young player to bring pleasure to the others in the home and satisfaction to the player because of the attainment.

Dr. Frank Crane

Russian Socialism

In all our talk of the recognition of Russia it must not be forgotten that a recognition of the Soviet Government is tantamount to a belief in the doctrines totally opposed to democracy.

That government represents the control, by the laboring classes, of the state, not by the peaceful ballot, but by force. It must not be forgotten that the Soviet Government rests upon its army and not upon the suffrages of its citizens.

The Bolsheviks remain a minority of their country. Russia is governed by a minority and a minority government is totally opposed to British interests.

Our democracy may be bad and imperfect, but at least it is the kind of government we want. It represents a government by a majority of the people. We have only to go out and convince a majority of our fellow-citizens in order to change that government when we consider it to be wrong.

An acknowledgment of the Russian state by us would give them a right to have a consul in every city and that consulate would not alone be for the protection of the Russian citizens of the place, and of Russian interests there, but it would be the center of propaganda of Russian ideas.

It must not be forgotten that with Russians their theory of government is tantamount to religion. It is believed in with all the ferociousness and fanaticism of a creed. They think their mission is to convert the world.

That condition of prosperity in Canada and other countries which is due to the sanctity of property, and to the laws which govern property, is labeled by them "Capitalism."

This they regard as their chief enemy and as an enemy to the people of the state.

We, on the contrary, know that there is no prosperity without capital and our laws should be framed so as to encourage thrift and the laying up of capital in order to develop further industries.

It will thus be seen that the theory of government among the Russians and in Canada is diametrically opposed. This does not mean that they are not at liberty to advance their ideas freely. They are. They are free to publish and to speak what they think, but we are quite sure that the common sense of our people will reject any system of Communism or Socialism.

What we want is not less capital, but more of it, more widely distributed and more available.

On Feelin' Hot

This is the dog days of the year, when heat is drivin' through and through, when still the man roams round who says, "Is this here hot enough for you?"

I sat and sweltered quite a spell, a-thinkin' 'bout this thing and that, and wonderin' if folks felt the heat a-swingin' at a baseball bat.

A drop of moisture trickled down and landed square upon my knee, me thinkin' that no man in town could be one half as hot as me.

'Twas then I started out for home, a-talkin' to the folks I know, discussin' how we felt the heat and what in thunder we should do.

And as we passed the smithy shop I sees old Bill a-workin' there, a-whistlin' at a little tune that sort of cheered the stiffen' air. And there he stood and hammered out a hunk of iron all blazin' red, while perspiration ran a stream and camped upon the smithy's head.

But through it all old Bill he worked, he whistled as the anvil rang, and when he sauntered round the forge he opened up a spell and sang.

Then further on we saw a chap a-workin' in where bread is made, the heat around his berth was then about ten thousand in the shade. But he was hustlin' here and there, a-turnin' out the bread and bun, and jokin' with the folks about as though his work was song and fun.

And when I got into my hot the folks was cookin' things to eat, and mussin' round about the stove inhalin' great big gobs of heat.

Nor was there any groanin' there, some one was hummin' out a line, of that old song what tells the joys of livin' in the summer time.

So in the evenin' hour at home I had a chance to think and pause, decidin' I weren't near as hot as what I once had thought I was.—ARK.

No Car Can Do It

(Christian Science Monitor.)

Some of the claims made in advertisements of automobiles, despite the fact that the London convention emphasized that "Truth In Advertising" is, or should be, a byword of salesmen today, remind one, by the rule of contraries of the teacher's efforts to illustrate to her students what the word "perseverance" means.

"What is it," she asked, "that carries a man, in the pursuit of some object, safely along rough and dangerous roads, up mountains and down valleys, through jungles and swamps and over raging torrents?"

None of the children could answer her, however, until one little chap, whose father sold automobiles, said haltingly: "Please, miss, I don't believe that there is such a car."

Hon. Charles Stewart's reported intention of seeking a seat in Edmonton is an evidence of his realization that he has forfeited the confidence of the electors of Argenteuil by his general course in parliament and particularly by his "death-knell of protection" break.—Montreal Gazette.

Sir Adam Needed In Ontario.

It is rumored that Sir Adam Beck is to go to England to enter into hydro-electric operations. There is still plenty of work along this line for him in Ontario, however.—Peterborough Examiner.

The Case of General Fiset.

Brig-General Sir Eugene Fiset has been nominated Liberal candidate for the forthcoming federal by-election in Rimouski. Seeing that the general is in receipt of a superannuation allowance of $5,000 per year from the Dominion government, his opponents are already asking how a man who is unfit for the civil service because of his age, should consider himself fit to enter parliament, and why he should seek to add to the large amount he already receives from the public treasury a sessional indemnity of $4,000, plus free railway transportation.—Brantford Examiner.

The Fun Shop

Music Hath Charms.
Wife an' me had just been married.
An' I says, "near one day."
Let's buy us one o' them phonographs
To pass the time away.
So we up an' bought the pesky thing
An' played each whole day through Till we got so tired o' the whangin' noise
We didn't know what to do!

Then my wife she wanted a piany.
One o' them tricky mechanical kinds
That plays a piece by peddlin'
An' then it up an' rewinds.
Well—in about six months this con-traption
Couldn't be persuaded to go.
So feelin' the need o' good music,
We bought us a radio.

The radio worked most salubrious
Through the fall an' winter an'
springs.
But when the weather got hot,
there we sot.
An' couldn't tune in on a thing.
But now—we'll be sure o' music
galore

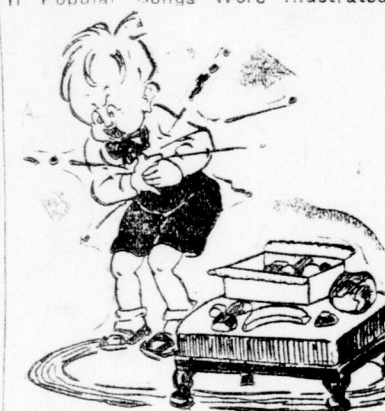

An' the ranch will know nothin'
but joy.
No more canned music for THIS cowboy
Since the doctor said: "It's a boy!"

An Object Lesson.
It was Jimmy's first day in school and he appeared to be very much interested and was very attentive to everything the teacher said. During the day the teacher asked Jimmy how many fingers he had.

The little fellow stuck out his fingers and said to the teacher:
"There you are. Count 'em."

A Woman's Way
Winnie—"I don't believe it!"
Clarence—"But I have proved it to you, dear!"
Winnie—"Of course you have. But that doesn't change my mind."

Want It.

Something Wrong.
"Six years ago I was a bellhop here,
and now I own this hotel."
Just this one?

What Some Young Men Should Wear
Flapper—"Henry ought to wear hose with clocks in them."
Ditto—"Why?"
Flapper—"So he will know what time to go home."

Done For.
Mrs. Henning—"You are always fooling with the radio. Isn't that a good battery you are throwing away?"
Mr. Henning—"Heavens, no! It's been through a couple of conventions."

Just as Bad.
Blake—"So your wife is suing you for non-support? Did she have to pawn her diamonds to get the baby clothes?"
Drako—"No, she had to pawn the baby's clothes to buy diamonds!"

It's a long lane that has no hold-up.

By Special Request.
Compliving with the requests of a number of our readers we are herewith presenting the translation of the famous love song as given by the disappointed prince in the third act of "Torridor" the South Sea Island musical comedy.

The Song
(As Rendered by the Prince.)

Itty ovey oodle mine,
Itty bitty sine oo shine,
Ducky ittle ove-a-loo
Honey money wimple woo.

Oozle moolle woozle ee,
Um-a-doodle umpley ee,
Munchy buncy imble oo
Thinky pinky winky woo.

(Translation.)
Bleeds thru my heart,
Bowed down with woes,
I love your style,
Your near silk hose.

Oh! Fate that burns,
Oh! hearts that throb—
I'd wed you if—
You had a job.

Carte Blanche.
Waiter—"Well, my little man, what are you going to have?"
Small boy (alone with menu)—
"You mean what ain't I goin' to have?"

Agreed.
Irate officer (after an auto accident)—"Such bonehead driving! Why that little shrimp isn't fit to be running at large!"
Lady on sidewalk—"Don't I know it! I've been living with him for fifteen years."

A Proposal.
She sat upon his lap, twined her arm about his neck persuasively, kissed him sweetly on the cheek,
and then—she popped the question.

What's this, you ask? A leap year proposal?

Goodness, no! Sixteen-year-old daughter is merely coaxing her dad to let her drive the new auto.

Sublime Faith.
"I wouldn't marry the best man living," asserted the girl with the bobbed hair.
"Of course you wouldn't," agreed
the girl with the new engagement ring—"You couldn't!"
And why couldn't I?"
"Because I'm going to."

Absent Treatment.
"I am afraid that the church means nothing whatever in your life," Mr.
Wallace.
"You misjudge me, Dr. Crane.
There are few things I enjoy more than to lie in bed on a Sunday morning and listen to the church bells."

Walking Chalk.
Husband—"Here's where I draw
the line."
Wife—"Yes, and here's where you walk it."

Why the Chinese Were Illiterate.

Ninety per cent of the Chinese people are quite illiterate. This is not surprising, seeing that up till recently it took about 40 years for a Chinaman to learn to read and write his own language.

WRAPS OF CRETONNE

Faddish Women Change Costumes After Every Race at Paris Tracks.

Special to The Advertiser.

By AILEEN LAMONT.

New York, Aug. 5.—"When do we eat?" was the war cry of the soldiers in France, but the latest invasion, the F. F. H. or Feminine Fashion Hunters, has substituted "Where do we dine?" The thousands of women from the United States and Canada who have gone to Paris this summer may be uncertain as to where to dine, but they all know where they are going to shop.

Nearly all these feminine visitors started out with a determination to return with the last cry in French clothes, but when they saw the bizarre fashions shown on the boulevards and at the races many of them "got cold feet" and purchased costumes differing in only slight particulars from those shown in the best shops on this continent. The latter, many of them, are of Parisian origin but tuned to more conservative taste. As a result the entente cordiale between the French couture and the shopper over here is not as strong as formerly.

If some got cold feet, however, the majority are bringing back hot heads. No sooner did the weather become warm enough to wear a summer hat with comfort than the course of fashion turned to the fall headgear. Velvet, plush and felt are the favored materials for the new chapeaux, many of which are strongly marked by the director's influence.

Velvet Hats Now.

The crowns are high and straight and the brims narrow and turned up at either front or sides. Ribbon and ostrich plumes are the trimmings most noticed and the hats are worn so far down over the eyes as to hide the brows. Some of the more modish models are of black panne bordered with grosgrain ribbon and enveloped in a filmy band of tulle, the end of which is brought about the throat and over the shoulder as a scarf.

While black predominates in the color range, henna, royal blue, China red, jade green, tortoise shell, chestnut and "burnt bread" are also worn. The ribbon trimmings in many instances employ a new shade known as tarnished steel as well as silver and gold.

With heat prostrations in some sections of the country, wraps naturally are a burning question in dress design. The smartest slip-on coats at present which promise to be extensively worn during the coming international tennis and polo matches here, are of cretonne in gay but dainty colors. These coats are of three-quarter length, fastened at the low waist line with a single clip button and finished with broad bands of white marabout at the collars and cuff and bottom.

Wraps of Georgette.

For evening wear, some smartly dressed women are wearing long picturesque cloaks of georgette or crepe to match the gown beneath. These are designed along the lines of the academic gown worn at college graduation. One striking cloak of this type worn here is of black satin, lined with rose and silver tissue and with the silver tassels falling over a collar of white fur.

There is little likelihood that the face of changing costumes after every race, started at one of the Paris tracks by an American actress, will spread to this country. It is pointed out that unless the horses run more consistently than they have most feminine race goers would be restricted to mourning or semi-mourning for past losses. However, while any man is likely to "lose his shirt" at the races, no woman is likely to lose a favorite frock.

TEACHES SPINNING
WESTERN WOMEN

Mrs. Harris of Victoria Encourages Home Industry of Woolen Spinning.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 6.—Quite remarkable has been the pioneer work of Mrs. Dennis Harris of Victoria, in encouraging and teaching the home industry of woolen spinning and weaving.

Starting a few years ago with spinning wheels and looms in her own home she has since taught other women on Vancouver Island, in Vancouver, and other parts of the province how to follow her own success in making woolen goods of their own.

"Having for years been deeply interested in the subject," said Mrs. Harris, "I wanted to show our people that with some teaching and experience, all kinds of useful woolen things could be spun and woven in the homes and farms of the province."

In her own home Mrs. Harris, with assistants, has turned out nearly every article of which wool is the base, from mattresses to costumes. These have all been handspun, woven and dyed at home and are of such beautiful workmanship that the greatest surprise and admiration have been expressed by visitors, some of them experts, to Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Harris has a large collection of woolen goods, some of which she has sold to the public.

"We were married when we were very young, and poor, and I was glad to do everything possible to help my husband. During all the years that we were together, I worked harder than any slave, cooking, and washing, and mending, and sewing, and mending, to make a comfortable home for him and my children. Four children came, but I never had any help with them. Even when my babies were born, I had no assistance but a half-witted old woman who could be hired cheaply."

"Always I practiced the most rigid economy my husband's continued cry was, 'Save! Save! Save!' He gave me the very smallest allowance on which a family could be meagrely fed and clothed, so I practiced every makeshift of economy. I learned to save the very water in which vegetables were boiled and the scraps of pots and pans, and how to turn and dye and make over old clothes, and retrim hats, and make one dollar do the work of five."

"We always lived in a poor house in a poor street and had poor furniture. I never thought of having pretty clothes, or belonging to clubs, or taking trips, or indulging myself in any amusement. What few pleasures the children had were paid for out of my heart's blood almost, because it meant that I had to pinch the housekeeping money a little closer and do without everything possible myself to get the girls a new dress or keep one of the boys in school a year longer."

"But I did not complain. I did not even feel it a hardship. I knew my husband was a hard-working man, and I thought that he did the best he could for us. I thought that he gave us all that he could afford and that he was just one of the men who have not the gift of money-making."

"But when he died, to my amazement, I found that he was a comparatively rich man. For years he had been making a big salary and had been concealing the knowledge of it from me. He had even the children grow up without the advantages that he was able to give them. He had seen me toil-worn and weary, when he could well have afforded to have hired a servant to do the work that was breaking me down. He had seen me shabby and ashamed, when he could have given me decent clothes, and he did not do it because he loved money better than he did his wife and children."

"But, most of all, what I resent is his unfairness. The fact that he did not give me his confidence, that he kept me in ignorance of the things that I had a right to know—that I cannot forgive."

"My daughter, who is private secretary to a big businessman, says that her father only did as most other men do. She says that few men tell their wives anything about their business; that they give their families much or little, according to whether they are generous or stingy, and that their wives never really know anything about their husbands' affairs."

"It seems to me that this is not giving a wife a square deal. Marriage is a partnership in which a young couple pool their all. The woman puts into it just as much as the man does, for she not only puts herself into it body and soul, but she puts in her chances of marrying a richer man, and if she is a good and faithful wife, and makes a man a happy and comfortable home, her work counts just as much in the ultimate success of the firm as the man's does."

"So she has a right to not only half of the profits of the concern, but to know how the business is going. Her husband has no more right to keep her in ignorance of the financial status of the firm than he would to refuse such knowledge to a man who was his equal partner. Nor is it fair that she should never receive, as her right, her share of the profits of the venture. No man would dream of doling out to his business partner just what he chose to give him of the earnings of the firm."

"I think men make a great mistake by not telling their wives about their business affairs and not treating them as partners, because it would draw them closer together. It would give them a vital common interest—something to talk about. No evening would be dull at home if the husband and wife were planning new enterprises together."

"And it would steady women, give them something worth while to think about and do more than anything else to stop their extravagance. Women spend wildly because they do not know what they can afford. They know their husbands' will grumble over the bills anyway, so they had as well be big as little."

"Curious about men that they are so seldom willing to deal fairly with their wives about money. They dole out the nickels to them and the first financial independence many a woman has is when she collects her husband's insurance money. That's why there are so many reconciled widows."

WEDDINGS

CARGILL-WILKEY.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilkey, 52 Ontario street, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Monday at 2 o'clock, when their only daughter, Velma Louise, was united in marriage to Leonard Cargill, M.D., of Buffalo. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. T. Ferguson of Avimer in the presence of a few of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. After a dainty wedding breakfast, the young couple left for a honeymoon trip, after which they will live in Buffalo, where Cargill is connected with the department of public health. Both bride and groom are graduates of Western University and have the best wishes of a host of London friends.

Guests of their son, C. W. Eastwood, 705 Lorne avenue, for a few days, were Mr. and Mrs. Cargill and the Old Boys' Reunion next week.

Miss Lorraine Simpson of Cleveland is coming to town next week and will be a guest with Mrs. John Stevely at Miss Elaine Davis' wedding.

Miss Stevely will accompany Miss Simpson to Cleveland for a short visit before going with her to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The beautiful country home of Reginald Hudson, London Township, was the scene of a happy event, when 60 guests gathered to celebrate the wedding of his daughter, Miss Helen Hudson, who was married to Mr. Clifford Knowles of this city, who was a week-end guest. Friends from this city, St. Catharines, Tillsonburg, Woodham and St. Marys were present. Mr. Will Sherwin of the Y. M. C. A. and Mr. Thomas Hudson each gave splendid addresses.

Mrs. A. J. Wharton, of this city, and Mrs. Ross McConnell of Avimer, were guests of honor of a jolly birthday picnic given at Springbank Park yesterday afternoon. Each year, Mrs. Wharton and Mrs. McConnell, who have been friends since childhood, have celebrated their birthdays in a similar manner. Dinner was served, and the guests numbered 43. Among those from out-of-town were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Dolittle, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dolittle, all Avimer; Mr. Locker of Dunbrony, Miss Manion of Strathroy, Miss Donna Dolittle of Lutton, and Miss Hazel Dolittle of Ronney, Ind.

Mrs. H. J. Widden, Wortley road, gave a charming reception yesterday afternoon and evening in honor of her daughter, Miss Florence Widden, a bride-elect of this month. Miss Widden received her mother, wearing a graceful gown of pink tulle, with trimmings of Irish lace. Mrs. Widden was crowned in black. The tea table was laden with sweet peas and gladioli, which were used to decorate the rooms. Little tenders, and during the afternoon the assistants were Mrs. George, Mrs. Miss Adeline Orchard, Mrs. Harriett, Mrs. George George, Mrs. V. E. Parkinson, Miss Myrtle Rouson and Mrs. Jack Boyce. In the evening the hostess was assisted by Miss E. Howe, Miss Muriel Hodgins, Miss Eleanor Widden, Mrs. Hawthorne, Miss Agnes Smith, Miss Beatrice Clark and Mrs. Mac Wellman.

Marriage Is a Profit-Sharing Firm, and the Husband Has No More Right to Keep His Wife in Ignorance of Their Financial Status Than If She Were a Business Partner.

The other day a woman said to me:

"I loved my husband. I honored, respected and trusted him, and when I found that he must die, I felt as if my heart would break. But since he has been dead I have discovered that he played a trick upon me so low and mean, that he treated me so cruelly and unjustly, that it fills me with impatient fury against him and makes me hate his very memory, and the bitterness of my grief is that I cannot grieve for him."

"We were married when we were very young, and poor, and I was glad to do everything possible to help my husband. FRENCH FIND COMPANIONSHIP THE KEY TO MARITAL CONTENT

Husbands of France Spend More Time With Wives Than Those of America.

LESS MONEY

But Julia Hoyt Thinks French Families Happier Than Bustling Americans.

By JULIA HOYT.

In living in a country not one's own, one is all the time unconsciously contrasting the two countries. Of course the Americans and the French are totally different. I was struck particularly by one difference the other day in driving through the lovely little villages, and that is how much the women of France seem to be than that of other peoples. In general, in America, for instance, the women are small, thin, and the French women are much more constant in the companionship of the men and women of France seems to be than that of other peoples. In general, in America, for instance, the women are small, thin, and the French women are much more constant in the companionship of the men and women of France seems to be than that of other peoples.

In Paris—in all ranks of life—it is the same. Then men are much more with the women than in America. The average Frenchman does not make as much money as the average American, but it seems to me that he gets much more pleasure out of life than our average man does. That is the reason, I suppose, that they have the impression that American men spoil their women. The Frenchman's idea is that an American spends all his time working to make money for his wife and children, and has no time for leisure and fun or for his wife. I do not think that he is entirely wrong in his idea.

ever they may be doing, both men and women take part. It is charming, it gives an impression of great companionship and happiness. It seems to me that perhaps this is the secret of the great discontent that seems to exist in America at present in the home. Two people who are interested in the same things, who work and play together have a greater chance of happiness than those who are interested entirely in separate and totally different occupations.

Of course the French enjoy simple and tranquil things that the American cannot. There are no such things as moving picture houses in every small town, and the French bourgeois does not need the artificial enjoyment that the man in America demands. Perhaps the climate has something to do with this, but it is undoubtedly true.

A "HOME TOWN" WELCOME.

Crowds on the station platform at St. John's welcomed the returning
"old boys" many of whom came on special trains. Members of the Perth Regiment Band, who met all trains for three days, can be seen in the foreground. The programs furnished by this musical organization did much to enliven the proceedings of reunion week.

STORM SEWER PROPOSAL FOR QUEBEC ST. PASSES

Mayor Wenige and Five Aldermen Vote For Project.

SALARY QUESTION

Only Three Councillors in Favor of Grant To Juvenile Court Judge.

The recommendation of the finance committee that a salary of $1,200 be paid to Rev. Quintin Warner, as judge of the London Juvenile Court was lost last night when it went to a vote of the council, and the proposal to build the Quebec street storm sewer, which has been banded back and forth for months between the council and the committee, was agreed to.

Aldermen Drake, Smith and McKay were the sole supporters of the salary grant to the judge of the juvenile court, and the following aldermen voted in favor of building the storm sewer on Quebec street—Drake, Smith, McKay, Hayden, Shaw and the mayor. This was sufficient to carry the motion, Aldermen Warren and Walsh not being present.

It was agreed on the motion of Alderman McKay that the city engineer should not be tied down to offering the prevailing wage when hiring men for work on the storm sewers. The question of the sale of the old registry office was sent back once more to the finance committee.

A motion from Ald. Douglass that the London street railway be asked to protect all its car windows with wire screens was passed.

Adopt Mayor's Motion.
The mayor brought in a motion that in future all licenses which are now issued by the city relief department should be issued by the police department to avoid overlapping, which was adopted.

The mayor's ballot on the street railway question, which he wishes to put to the electors this year, was sent back to the finance committee for revision and rearrangement. Its present form was thought too in-voluted.

Ald. Frank McKay made a last effort to get the council to agree to paying a salary to the juvenile court judge.

"This court," he said, "is well worthy of your earnest consideration.
You will find that the whole court is being run for about the salary of a valuable work in the community and the city cannot afford to be without it."

Ald. Bottrell declared that there was no need for two courts in the city the size of London, and that the whole juvenile court system was merely creating jobs. He said he had heard that the juvenile judge had said he would resign unless the salary was paid, and he objected to this attitude.

Mr. McKay rebutted this statement by saying that the judge had never threatened to resign if a salary was not paid.

"I want to correct this impression,"
he stated. "Mr. Warner has not said that he would resign if no salary was forthcoming, and certainly never threatened to do so. It is possible that he may, of course, but he did not make any threat to this effect."

In the matter of the Spetziger Dairy on Clarence street, the council agreed, on the motion of Alderman Douglass, to refer the case to the city solicitor for consideration. A deputation appeared before the council, complaining of this dairy, in spite of the fact that the city sanitary inspector and the veterinary officer have vouchered for its bill of health. The solicitor will be asked what powers
the city has to restrict certain forms of business in certain parts of the city, and of the issuing of licenses.

Tennis Court Motion Lost.

Alderman Douglass brought in a motion, which was lost, to make tennis courts on the roadways in Victoria Park and to put in putting greens in the park. Alderman Greer read a letter from E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utility commission, stating that the road way was highly crowned, and that it was too narrow for a tennis court.
The putting greens, he recommended,
should be made in Thames Park.

The mayor will go to Ottawa on Sept. 3 with some other representatives of the council to take part in the Dominion unemployment conference with the minister of labor and the minister of works.

Contracts for printing the city clerk's copy paper and envelopes were let to the lowest tenderers. These were the London Printing and Litho Company for the large copy paper,
and the Standard Press for the small

K. of C. Receive Pope's Message of Benediction

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Aug. 5.—The apostolic benediction, in the form of a letter signed by Cardinal Gasparri, secretary of the Holy See,
was bestowed upon the international convention of the Knights of Columbus, which opened here today with about 5,000 members, including Canadians, attending.

The Pope's message, sent through Edward L. Hearn, past supreme knight of the order, expressed the "sentiments of paternal benevolence of the supreme pontiff, and favors the work that the Knights of Columbus are doing in the first place for the good of their countrymen, and then for their co-religionists in Rome."

copy paper. There was some discussion on the way of handling tenders in the council, many of the members believing that new tenders should have been asked for. In this case tenders had been asked for by one firm under a misunderstanding. The lowest tenders were finally accepted.

JUDGE CONDEMNS REQUEST FOR JURY

Tells Prosecuting Attorney He Will Decide Fate of Chicago Youths.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Aug. 5.—Punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard
Loeb for kidnapping and murdering 14-year-old Robert Franks will be determined as a result of the present hearing before Judge John R. Caverly, and the proceedings will not be turned into a trial by jury with a view of legal insanity, the court ruled today.

Judge Caverly emphatically asserted that he was fully within his legal rights in hearing testimony from experts on mental diseases in mitigation of punishment, in tones that rang throughout the court room.
He said:

"These boys are sane so far as this court is concerned. They have accepted responsibility, and the only thing to be determined is their grounds for mitigation. The Illinois supreme court has said that it is mandatory for me to hear any evidence in mitigation."

The court several times previously in perfunctory manner had resisted demands by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, that the hearing had reached a point where it was proper only to summer a jury.

In disposing of the matter today,
Judge Caverly accepted full responsibility for deciding the fates of the youths.

Dr. William Healy, Boston psychiatrist, was being cross-examined when the highly pertinent ruling was made.

Mr. Crowe also tried unsuccessfully to bring from the expert an admission that boys of the intellectual attainments of Loeb and Leopold could have deceived him as to their undeveloped emotions, it having been testified that they were below
seven years in emotional age.

Spend Day at Spring-

BASEBALL GAMES

All of the picnics held yesterday afternoon at Springbank Park were from out-of-town, including the following: Epworth Leagues of the Westminster circuit, congregations of the Sileam circuit, Sunday School of Bryanston Methodist Church, Epworth League of Melrose Methodist Church, and the parochial picnic of Byron.
Hyde Park and Lambeth Anglican Churches. There was also the picnic of the Junior Farmers and Junior Institutes of Elgin and Middlesex counties.

The defeat of the married men by the single men was the outstanding feature of the picnic of the Bryanston Methodist Church Sunday School. Rev. W. F. Smith, the pastor, was unable to attend, being absent
in Montreal on his holiday. Mrs.
Wilbert Hudson, as superintendent of the Sunday School, made a very efficient and energetic mistress of ceremonies, however.

Charles Ferguson umpired the softball game, in which Gordon McFalls and Wesley Elliott performed as the battery for the benedict and Delmar Hudson and Oswald Needham for the single men. The latter won 11 to 9.
The results of the races were as follows:

Hudson.

Sileam Circuit Churches.

The fifth annual picnic of the Methodist congregations of Zion Sileam and Grove Churches of the Sileam circuit under their pastor,
Rev. A. J. Love, was very successful.

The team led by Miss Mary J.
Gordon defeated that led by Miss Eva Talbot in a very interesting and exciting game of soft ball.

The picnic committee included
Rev. M. Love, chairman, V. A.
Tackaberry, W. T. Kernohan, W.
Box, H. McGuffin, Neil Parkinson and J. Ardell.

Epworth League Picnics.

The Epworth Leagues of Little-wood, North Street and White Oak Methodist Churches of the Westminster Circuit enjoyed a fine outing. The arrangements were in the hands of the presidents of the three leagues, Albert Adams, Elvin Hunt and Calvert Millson, and a sports committee consisting of Heber Sutton, Miss Florence Axford and Miss Pearl O'Dell.

The pastor, Rev. T. A. Steadman, was present and contributed to the success of the picnic.

The girls, captained by Miss E.
Steadman as pitcher and Miss E.
O'Dell as catcher, proved too much for the boys, handicapped as they were in being able to use only one hand.

The score was 2 to 2 for the young ladies. The battery for the men was Charles Holborne and Clarence Baker.
Rev. Mr. Steadman was the umpire.

The results of the races were as

New Flannel Frocks and Thermos Bottles

Summer sports and summer travel are fairly evenly matched for the August vacation honors. But the ardent sportswomen one taste in common. They are enthusiastic in their approval of flannel frocks and thermos bottles—the fashions and conveniences which make for summer comfort.

A Flannel Frock Is the Sporting Thing To Wear

Even their vivacious wearers are not more charmingly youthful than these Betty Brown dresses of flannel. They are in high favor now for summer sports.

White Flannel Dresses, gaily striped and polka dotted in rose or blue. They have sport collars, short sleeves and are fashionably beltless. Sizes 18 to 42 $8.95

white hairline stripe. Sizes 13 and 15 $6.95

many a wayside picnic.

THOUSANDS GREET BRITISH WARSHIPS

Halifax Gives Rousing Welcome To Hood—Delayed by Fog.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Halifax, N. S., Aug. 5.—Thousands of people lined the waterfront of Halifax and stood on all the points of vantage that overlooked the harbors for hours today scanning the fog-rimmed horizon of Chebucto Head where the mightiest of all battleships, H.M.S. Hood, the Repulse and the Adelaide lay at anchor, with Vice-Admiral Field waiting for the cloudbank to lift before entering the harbor. But when the three ships, the Hood leading, loomed up against the thinning fog-bank and steamed up into the harbor late this afternoon, the weary watchers seemed well satisfied and the city rang with the din of steam whistles, automobile horns and cheering voices as the world-cruising squadron passed George's Island and dropped anchor in the inner harbor.

It was too late for the official ceremonial that had been planned involving the visits of the Lieutenant-governor, military and naval commanders but Vice-Admiral Sir F. L.
Field, C.B.E., C.M.G., commanding
this special service squadron, gave an interview to a party of newspapermen almost at once on his flagship, the Hood.

"We are very sorry to be late," said
the admiral, "but we are lucky to be here at all. I had decided to wait five minutes more for the fog to lift and that failing I was going back out to sea to wait for better light tomorrow.
It is all right to take chances in time of war necessity, but not in peace time. The Hood is of too great a length to navigate safely from buoy to buoy in a fog. We want to be able to see several miles. At times in that fog bank we couldn't see the Repulse just astern of us."
