"Slater"*$3.50 Goodyear Welt

There are just two prices you should pay for your shoes—$3.50 and $5.00. Slater Shoes are sold at these two prices. Each price represents the best shoe possible to produce by the two best practical methods, Goodyear welt (machine made) and hand made throughout. 99 per cent of the finest shoes in America are made by machinery—an expert only can tell the difference. Hand work is slower and more costly. We use the same uniformly perfect stock in our $3.50 shoes as we do in our $5.00 styles. They are both made on the same lasts. We charge more for one than we do for the other, because a hand made shoe costs more to produce. We stake our reputation that Slater Shoes are the best value for the money possible to procure. They are "honest all through" and sold on a positive guarantee—Your money's worth or your money back. Our shoe catalogue is the most beautiful ever published. It's free. Shows some of our many styles, tells how to order by mail.

Slater Shoe Dressing

If you will but use this dressing on your shoes, they will always look better and last longer. It acts as a preservative as well as a polish. It is as good for women's and children's shoes as for men's. It cleans, preserves, and polishes. Costs 25 cts. a bottle.
Slater Rubbers to fit all shapes of Shoes, $1.00 a pair.

THE TREE NUISANCE.

Dr. Hall, the Medical Health Officer, Agrees we have too Many.

"Yes, I think there are far too many shade trees in the city," said Dr. Hall, M. H. O., in reply to a Planet query. I have not given the question much consideration, but I should say that on most streets every second could be cut down with advantage. "What is your objection to them?" "Well, they keep the sun and air away, thereby keeping the ground moist. This not only spoils our streets but renders many residences damp and unhealthy. Too many trees are decidedly unhealthy for any city. What people want is the open air."

GOES BACK ON OUR ASS.

Warden Thompson of Labelle, a Life Long Liberal, Declares for the Conservative Candidate.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—Wm. Thompson, a lifelong Liberal, and warden of Labelle county, is supporting Mr. Bourassa, the Conservative nominee. There are eleven hundred English-speaking voters in Labelle, and the great majority of them are expected to do as Mr. Thompson has done, as well as a large number of French Reformers who are not satisfied with Mr. Bourassa. Mr. Thompson wanted Mr. Bourassa opposed at the last by-election, when the Conservatives had offered to support a straight Liberal if one had been nominated. Mr. Thompson invited all independent Liberals to support Mr. Roulin, so as to rid the county of its present member, who, he claims, does not interpret the sentiments of his electors.

REGISTRATION NOW ON

Steady Stream of Would-be Voters at all the Booths--Political Notes.

This is the first registration day. At 10.30 this morning the sittings opened at the police station before Judge Houston, at the old town hall before Judge Woods, and at Harrison Hall before Judge Bell. All day the stream of registration applicants has been steady and the presiding justices have been kept exceedingly busy.

The first elector to register was John Ludovick Baillie, who was on hand at the police station when the proceedings opened, and forthwith entered his name. John Rollet, who came in shortly after, was born in 1819, the same year as her Majesty the Queen. At Harrison Hall over 20 applicants registered within the first hour and at the old town hall the work has progressed with equal despatch. A phenomenal trio of electors have expressed their intention of registering together. Their ages are respectively 83, 96 and 97 years and they state their intention of assisting to swell Smith's majority by their ballots.

One fact is being brought out at the proceedings, viz., the advisability of the city council numbering the houses, the inconvenience is caused in ascertaining the location of the applicants.

There is one gentleman who is taking a lively and amused interest in the proceedings. Chief of Police Young is convinced that after registration he will be able to add several dollars to the civic coffers in the shape of poll tax.

SERMON ON HELL

A Detroit Preacher Gives His Opinion of the Place.Rev. Mr. Curran Says That it is a Place of Remorse of Conscience.

At the Detroit Simpson M. E. church, at the evening service last night, a sermon on "Hell" was preached by Rev. Dr. Paul C. Curran, who said, in part:—

"There are thousands who refuse to believe in hell because of the false teachings of skeptics. The principal arguments against hell are these of annihilation, restoration, and second probation. The truth of future punishment is clearly brought out by the teachings of Jesus Christ. He used the term hell more than all other writers of the bible.

"We know that in hell there will be no infants, no laughter, no music, no purity, no love, peace or joy. Hell will be eternal separation from God. Hell will be eternal darkness, hopelessness and despair. The teaching of material fire and brimstone is not necessary, but the idea of suffering is necessary to all conception of hell.

"In a positive sense hell will be a place of remorse of darkness, with eternal unrest and discontent. God's love will not save in hell, because those in hell will lose all desire for God and righteousness. There are thousands of people in this world who have hell in their hearts all the time. They live in sin and have not one good desire. They have lost forever all craving after God.

"If there is a heaven for the redeemed, the pure, good there must be another and separate place for the impure, the impure and the wicked.

"Jesus Christ came into the world to save men from their just punishment for sin, and all that accept of Christ will be saved, for God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believed in him might not perish but have everlasting life."

STOP THE BOODLING.

Warning of a Liberal Delegate at a North Waterloo Convention.

Berlin, Ont., Oct. 15.—In the North Waterloo Reform convention no one wanted the nomination. The two names mentioned as likely to go before the meeting were those of George Moore, Waterloo, and Conrad Bitter, barrister, of Berlin, and secretary of the Reform Association. Moore was the stronger man, and had far the larger number of supporters in the convention, but he refused emphatically to stand, did not give any reason, but said he would not be averse to accepting the candidature for the local house. The feature of the afternoon date fish, of Linwood, who told the party to shun the political heeler who had disgraced the riding and brought trouble to them in the provincial elections as they would vipers. It had been a great mistake to have them last time. Mr. Bitter, in accepting, said he did not want the nomination, and could ill afford to stand the campaign, but, as there was no one else, he finally accepted.

Mr. Bitter is considered by the Conservatives not to be a dangerous man.

GAINS NOW EVEN.

Liberals Pick up a Couple More Seats.But Lord Salisbury's Majority is Still Overwhelming in the British Parliament

London, Oct. 13.—The only elections received to-night are those from Crewe and Invernesshire. Both show Liberal gains. The Ministerialists have thus far elected three hundred and ninety-eight of their candidates, while the opposition have elected two hundred and fifty-eight. The gains and losses now exactly balance, making the respective strength of the parties the same as it was at the dissolution, which result is not likely to be materially changed by the returns from the bakers' dozen of constituencies still unknown.

The Liberals win Skipton and Spalding and the Conservatives win Gainsborough. The most interesting result to-day, was at Newmarket, where Col. Harry McCalmont (the well known sportsman, and former owner of the fine steam yacht, Girajda), defeated Chas. Day Rose (who was at one time a prospective challenger for the America's cup with a yacht to be named the Distant Shore), who is in South Africa, visiting the graves of two of his sons, killed during the war.

The elections are virtually completed by the results of pollings announced this afternoon. Seven elections took place to-day, and as many occur next week. The government's triumph is complete, since it retains the immense majority which it had at the time of dissolution. The most that the Liberals can say is that "kicks" have not increased materially, and that it falls short of the majority at the last general election. The usual comments are heard that it will prove an unmanageable majority, and that the government would be stronger and safer if the balance between the parties in the commons were closer. The same morales were drawn five years ago, but the heavy battalions remained in session in unimpaired discipline. Ireland has gone strong Nationalist, and the Welsh Liberalism has gained ground, but England and Scotland have demonstrated, by a large increase in the Conservative Unionist vote, their sympathy with the Imperialist policies. The United Kingdom at the close of the most important campaign since Waterloo, has taken a broad rather than a narrow view of national obligations and destinies. While there is a good deal of fresh blood in the new parliament, Winston Spencer Churchill is the only young man with promise of potency of a great career, and he is in a fair way to be spoiled by flattery.

Mr. Bitter is considered by the Conservatives not to be a dangerous man.

MINERS' DECISION.

They Will Accept the 10 per cent. Increase Offered if Paid Until April Next.

Seranton, Pa., Oct. 13.—The anthracite coal miners now on strike, after a two days' convention, late this afternoon, decided to accept the 10 per cent. net increase in wages, offered by the mine owners providing they will continue the payment of the advance until next April and will abolish the sliding scale. If the operators consider the proposition unacceptable, the miners are willing to arbitrate the question at issue. They also decided to continue the strike until the operators agree to the convention's proposition.

HOW THE CASE STANDS.

H. H. Cook, a former Liberal member, charges that the Government has grossly violated the following pledges:

- To maintain the independence of Parliament.
- To make Parliament the judge in all cases where ministers are accused of misconduct.
- To reduce the expenditure.
- To reduce the debt.
- To reduce the taxes.
- To abolish protection.
- To grant a preference for Canadian products in the British market.
- To prohibit the liquor traffic if so directed by a plebiscite.
- To diminish the cabinet.
- To lower the outlay on superannuation account.
- To abolish the department of trade and commerce.
- To abolish the senate.

Hence Mr. Cook declares he cannot support the Laurier administration. The reply of the Government to this is that Mr. Cook is a sorehead because he has been refused a senatorship.

Mr. Cook retorts that the statement that he was an applicant for a senatorship is quite correct, but that the Government wanted to sell him the office for $10,000. He declined to buy, first, because he did not believe in trafficking in senate appointments, and second, because the price was too high.

That is how the case stands. We may believe either side, but Mr. Cook's frankness inclines us in his favor. For instance, he might have denied altogether that he ever asked for a senatorship.

THE FARMER'S "GROWING TIME."

Since our good Liberal friend, Squire Marx, has alluded to the matter of figures and asked The Planet to furnish a comparison of them, as under Conservative rule, and the "Reform" regime, it is more than likely he will be somewhat interested and edified by the quotations in this issue.

But the figures will interest more than Mr. Marx. They will appeal to every elector. This is especially an agricultural district—the garden of Canada—and it is pertinent to enquire as to how the pocket of our farmers has been affected by the change in prices that has occurred during the period in which Mr. Laurier & Co. have manipulated the government reins. When the farmer has to go into his pocket and pay from 10 to 14 cents per lb. for binder twine that he used to purchase under the old Conservative tariff for six cents, he is not likely to grow enthusiastically appreciative of the government's efforts to make it easy for him.

The Farmers' Sun, the organ of the Patrons of Industry—the organization which originally nominated T. L. Pardo, M. P. P., as a candidate for the Local Legislature in their interests—points out several other instances of

The increased prices of everything that the farmer has to buy:

It requires 50 per cent. more wheat to buy a stove than it did in 1896.

It requires 80 bushels more corn to buy a wagon than it did in 1896.

It requires 100 per cent. more corn or wheat to buy a copper kettle than in 1896.

It requires twice as much corn to buy a coil of rope as in 1896.

It requires 40 per cent. more grain to buy a hoe, a rake or a shovel than in 1896.

A set of common wheels that cost $7 in 1896 now cost $12.

The cost of cultivators and other farm implements has gone up proportionately.

Galvanized barbed wire costs from $4 to $4.50 per hundred more than in 1896.

It requires 40 per cent. more corn or wheat to buy a pound of sugar than in 1896.

You have to pay 40 per cent more for glass than in 1896.

The price of coal oil, lumber, tools, and hardware has gone up from 40 to 100 per cent.

Smith! Clancy! Victory!

Quite time for a change.

The question still remains—are Mr. Cook's accusations against the government true or false?

If an ordinary, everyday common senatorship is worth $10,000, what should Mr. Tarte's job be worth?

The main consideration for every elector in this contest is that of prices. Will a dollar buy as much now as four or five years ago?

Is there not a duty devolving upon his excellency the Governor-General in connection with Mr. Cook's revelation and exposure? Surely the dignity of the crown and the safety of the people would justify a demand for an enquiry. Lieutenant-Governor Angers dismissed Mercier when he ascertained that he had opened a toll-gate to levy contributions upon persons doing business with the Government.

Christmas Goods

It may seem a little early to be talking about Christmas goods, but we merely want to say that our first importation goods have arrived. We claim to be leaders in Ebony Goods for Christmas, and we have a fine line of good staple Hair Brushes, Mirrors, Cloth Brushes, Combs, Etc., suitable to sell all the year round. If you want a brush of any description see our stock.

FOREIGN IMPLEMENTS

A Correspondent Thinks Mr.
Stephens Deserves Credit
in the Matter.

To The Editor.—I notice The Planet has not given Mr. Stephens credit for the enterprising display of imported implements, etc., he made at the late exhibition.
Of course it may be said that these implements and other goods come in competition with Gray's, Miller's, the wagon works and the various harness shops, etc., thereby displacing home labor, but at the same time it shows that Mr. Stephens is a most capable business man to have worked up such a large trade. These goods have to be made anyway, and if Mr. Stephens drove these factories out of Chatham altogether they would locate somewhere else and probably employ the same number of hands there as here. So what's the odds whether a man makes his bread and butter in Canada, China or the United States, as long as he makes it. That is the main thing. All that argument is a side issue. What I want to show by calling attention to this display at the fair is Mr. Stephens' ability as a business man as shown by the large local trade in foreign manufactured goods
he has worked up. Yours,

THE BRANDON DUEL.

It Was Fought Last Night Between Sir Charles H. Tupper and Mr. Sifton.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and the Hon. Clifford Sifton met last night at Brandon, for their famous duel on the former's Yukon charges. The following is the result:

THE GLOBE'S REPORT.
The joint political meeting held here last night, addressed by Hon. Clifford Sifton, minister of the interior, and Sir Hibbert Tupper, resulted in a complete victory for the Liberals. The audience present was the largest ever assembled in the Wheat City, fully 3,000 listening electors and friends occupying the spacious interior.

THE MAIL'S REPORT.
"Clifford Sifton was beaten to a standstill. It was a grand triumph for Tupper. Sifton, who had stayed at Cartwright. The meeting made hundreds of votes for Hugh John. These are the comments one of all hands with reference to the great platform duell between Sir Hibbert Tupper and Hon. Clifford Sifton, which took place in the skating rink here yesterday evening. The duelling was one of the most dramatic and important of the whole federal campaign.

TELEGRAPH NEWS.
It is officially announced that Em-

Thousands Sent Into Exile.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. Don't be an exile

tle guaranteed.

THE AMERICAN GIRL.

Every seat in the Washington street
Opera House was occupied last night at the production of The American Girl by A. Q. Scammon's company. All the seats except a few in the gallery were sold before 8 o'clock, and many people were glad to buy standing room. The play is built upon popular lines and pleased the audience highly, applause being almost continuous and certain calls frequent. Geo. F. Hall, as Ross Bolton, an American hustler and the hero of the play, always on hand when wanted, is a comedian of rare ability
—the best seen here in many a day.
Ed is an excellent actor, and has the charm of originality. His comic songs and imitations took the audience by storm and he was called back again and again. Miss Frankie St. John is a bright little sweetheart and played excellently. The performance was one of the best of the season. Rome,

Tea and Coffee.
A German professor has been investigating in elaborate fashion the effect on processes of digestion produced by the use of tea and coffee. He prepared an artificial gastric juice, and mixed it with coagulated egg albumen, with and without additions of tea and coffee. The gastric juice appeared to be able to digest the albumen in the space of eight hours, when tea was added the proportion digested was reduced to 66 per cent. When a decoction of coffee was mixed with the albumen the gastric fluid was only able to digest 61 per cent, or less than two-thirds of the albumen. The digestive power of the gastric juice appeared to vary with the strength of the infusion, the disturbing effect being less when the solutions of tea and coffee were weakened. The professor is of opinion that the deleterious effect produced as due to the tannin which is extracted during the process of making, and not to the presence of thein and caffeine, and he mentions that tea which has not been allowed to stand more than two or three minutes is less injurious because a smaller quantity of this undesirable ingredient, tannin, has been produced than when it is boiled up or left in contact with the leaves for a considerable length of time.

Equal to the Ocean.
"Don't be frightened, Miss Plunkett," said the young man, reassuringly, as the vessel gave another fearful lurch to leeward. "There is no immediate danger, but perhaps I'd better put a life-preserver around you."

"Not yet, Mr. Hankinson," responded the young woman, bravely. "But I will take your arm."

Mr. Hankinson thought he understood and with rare presence of mind
he put his arm around her, instead—

AT THE THEATRE.

Joe Murphy, the oldtime favorite, will gladden the hearts of his Irish friends with "Kerry Gow," at the Grand early in November.

A notable event in early bookings at the Grand will be Carl A. Haavin's production of "The Lion's Heart." This will be one of the most satisfactory productions of the season.

During the past week, Mr. Cairns, who represents the Great Eastern Lyceum Bureau in Western Ontario, booked Mr. J. W. Macy, the well-known New York entertainer for school entertainments in Dresden and Berlin. He has one more night left in the week of Oct. 22. Mr. Cairns also placed a course of five entertainments in Wallaceburg recently.

The London Free Press and Advertiser of Friday last were both loud in their praises of "The American Girl," which comes to the Grand on Wednesday evening. They even go so far as to say that it is the best show that London has had this season. It is a very clever farce comedy with specialties which the papers say are above the average.

Mr. Cairns of the Grand is endeavoring to arrange a date for "Hello Bill," the biggest farce-comedy hit of the season in New York and Massachusetts. The piece is only playing the larger cities, and it comes to Toledo, Ohio. No other farce on the road has received such extravagant notices and Mr. Cairns is endeavoring to cancel another booking in order to bring this attraction here.

Chathamites should appreciate the bringing to the opera house of our city at popular prices, such a famous organization as "The Fadettes," ladies' orchestra, of Boston, which comprises 21 of the best known musicians in the United States to-day. This company will open the Lyceum Course at the grand with two magnificent performances Nov. 10, subscribers' tickets being good at whichever performance they prefer to attend.

To-night's production of "Blue Jeans" at the Grand should draw a crowded house. The play is probably the most famous comedy-drama on the American stage to-day, and was the first to use the thrilling saw-mill effect in which a regular working saw-mill is used and lumber sawn up on the stage. The "Rising Sun Revue" band is also famous wherever the play has ever been produced. "Blue Jeans" has never been presented in Chatham before; the company which appears here to-night is the only one playing the piece in America, and carries nearly everything used in the production.

Poverty may be either an honor or a stigma; so may wealth. A good name is great riches.

FLOODS DO DAMAGE

Down in the Maritime Provinces—The O. P. R. Suffers Severely.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 15.—Two hundred passengers who left Boston and Montreal on Thursday arrived here by river boat at 10 o'clock last night in consequence of washouts which occurred on every branch of the Canadian Pacific in New Brunswick on Thursday. The eastbound express was caught at Green Point and for three days could not move a mile. The passengers were taken to Fredericton Junction and cared for. Yesterday the twenty-mile Fredericton branch had been partially repaired and the passengers were taken to Fredericton with a transfer at Gladders, where there is still a 200-foot gap. At Fredericton the passengers were put on a river boat, which made the eighty-two-mile run to St. John in six hours. It will be at least a week before the damage on the forty miles of main line between St. John and Fredericton Junction can be repaired sufficiently to permit the resumption of traffic, and the river route will be used until then. The storm has been so severe that so far thirty vessels are reported ashore from Halifax.

CAUGHT NAPPING.

British Surprise a Boer Lager With Results.

A Number Killed, Wounded and Captured—General Buller's Return.

London, Oct. 15.—The War Office has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Pretoria, Saturday, Oct. 13:—"A satisfactory little affair occurred near Frankfort Thursday. Colonel Grove, with the West Kents, surprised a Boer lager at dawn, killed seven, wounded nine and captured eighteen." Sir Redvers Buller's return to England is a great surprise to military men in London, who had expected that he would succeed Lord Roberts. It is interpreted as a sign that Lord Kitchener will be left in command in South Africa. The result causes satisfaction in two quarters. The Aldershot gang is relieved, because it dreads the transfer of Lord Kitchener to London, where he might turn the military service upside down if allowed by Lord Salisbury to have a free hand. The South African community here is also pleased, because it is weary of what it describes as Lord Roberts' "soft-hearted leniency," and regards Lord Kitchener as a rough and resolute soldier who will not be swayed by sentimental considerations, but will restore order in the two new colonies by drastic methods. This feeling is shared without doubt by a large section of the public, which reads with impatience the accounts of raiding operations by Gen. De Wet's hangers and the Transvaal train-robbers.

The great amount of design work done at the Victoria Avenue Green House is sufficient proof of the excellence of the work. Nothing but the best at the lowest prices. Telephone 181.

IN NORTH ESSEX

The Detroit Papers Think Sol White Will Win.

The Detroit Journal, which may be quoted as unbiased, sizes up the situation in North Essex as decidedly favorable to Sol White. One reason it gives is the expressed dissatisfaction of the delegates to the Liberal convention which turned down Mr. Pacaud and nominated Mr. Sutherland. The dissenters stated in the convention that they would not support Mr. Sutherland at the polls. Incidentally speaking of North Essex the Liberals claim they will carry Windsor by 200 and the country districts by 300, yet their candidate is a lawyer little known outside town, and it is well known farmers are opposed to lawyers. The Conservatives on the other hand claim Windsor by 100 and the country by 200.

PRESS SUPP.

Peace in the mind is better than plenty in the purse.

To the Lungs.

Do you go to Chicago to reach Quebec? No. There's a better and more direct way. Then why try to reach your lungs by way of your stomach? Don't. Better go straight to the lungs at once. Just light the vaporizer and breathe-in the healing, soothing vapors of Cresolene. The medicine goes exactly to the right place. Your lungs quickly heal and your cough disappears. For whooping-cough it's simply perfect.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50 extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. ARRIVED AT LAST!

The Box of Goods from Maple City Friends Has Reached Our Boys at the Front.

Private W. B. Gorrie Writes Madame Skirving Acknowledging the Receipt—Other Chathamites in Action.

On Saturday Madame Skirving received the following communication from Pte. W. B. Gorrie, acknowledging the receipt of the box of provisions and clothing which that lady and other friends despatched from this city to the Chatham boys at the front last March. This was the "missing box" that Pull readers will remember Detective A. H. Skirving succeeded in tracing a few weeks ago. Mr. Gorrie's letter is the first intimation received of its actual arrival!

From the Chatham Section of the Canadian Contingent Field Force, South Africa.

CAPTIVITY, Sept. 15, 1900.

DEAR MADAM:—The box with goods from Chatham arrived here four days ago, I getting my own share out of it yesterday. And I here desire to thank you for the articles enclosed by yourself and husband, likewise by the other kind contributors. I am sorry the other boys are not getting theirs now. They are at the front, and I expect having plenty to do and most likely on half rations.

I am,

Yours most respectfully,

Pte. W. B. Gorrie.

NOT UP ON CHURCHES.

Four lady delegates to the Latter Day Saints convention arrived in the city on Saturday. They engaged Calman Pat. Keenan to take them to their church. Pat knew all the large churches in the city but, not being a Saint himself, the Latter Day Saints were not included. The well-known cab driver thought that the church desired must be that of the Seventh Day Adventists on McKough Ave., so he hunched his passengers in and toted them over and deposited them, bag and baggage, in front of the edifice on that avenue, then collected his fare and drove off. It was the Sunday of the Seventh Day Adventists and they were holding service when the four Latter Day Saints delegates dropped in on them. There were mutual explanations and the four delegates then left to seek their domicile, having their baggage in their hands, a long walk before them and danger to Pat. Keenan everywhere about them.

The Face Behind the Mask.

A ROMANCE.

"That I do not know, madame. Like a ghost, for all the world, though not in such high spirits as a bride should be. Toward evening she complained of a headache and a feeling of faintness; but I thought nothing of it and helped her to dress for the bridal. Before it was over the headache and faintness grew worse, and I gave her wine, and still suspected nothing. The last time I came in, she had grown so much worse; that, notwithstanding her wedding dress, she had lain down on her bed, looking for all the world like a ghost, and told me she had the most dreadful burning pain in her chest. Then, madame, the horrid truth struck me—I tore down her dress, and there, sure enough, was the awful mark of the distemper. 'You have the plague!' I shrieked; and then I fled down stairs and out of the house, like one crazy. O madame, madame! I shall never forget it—it was terrible! I shall never forget it! Poor, poor child; and the count does not know a word of it!"

La Masque laughed—a sweet, clear deriding laugh.

"So the count does not know it. Prudence? Poor man! he will be in despair when he finds it out, won't he? Such an ardent and devoted lover as he was you know!"

Prudence looked up a little puzzled.

"Yes, madame, I think so. He seemed very fond of her; a great deal fonder than she ever was of him. The fact is, madame," said Prudence, lowering her voice to a confidential whisper, "she never seemed fond of him at all, and wouldn't have been married, I think, if she could have helped it."

"Could have helped it? What do you mean, Prudence? Nobody made her, did they?"

Prudence fidgeted, and looked rather uneasy.

"Why, madame, she was not exactly forced, perhaps, but you know you told me—"

"Well," said La Masque coldly.

"To do what I could," said Prudence, in a sort of desperation, "and I did it, madame, and harassed her about it night and day. And then the count was there, too, coaxing and entreating, and he was handsome and had such ways with him, that no woman could resist, much less one so little used to gentlemen as Leoline. And so, madame, we kept at her till we got her to consent to it at last; but in her secret heart, I know she did not want to be married—at least to the count," said Prudence, on serious afterthought.

"Well, well, that has nothing to do with it. The question is, where is she to be found?"

"Found," echoed Prudence. "Has she, then, been lost?"

"Of course she has, you old simpleton! How could she help it, and she dead, with no one to look after her?" said La Masque, with something like a half-laugh. "She was carried to the plague-pit in her bridal robes, jewels and lace, and what about to be thrown in, was discovered, like Moses in the bulrushes, to be all alive."

"Well," whispered Prudence, breathlessly.

"Well, O most courageous of guardians, she was carried to a certain house, and left to her own devices, while her gallant rescuers went for a doctor; and when they returned she was missing. Our pretty Leoline seems to have a strong fancy for getting lost."

There was a pause, during which Prudence looked at her with a face full of mingled fear and curiosity. At last.

"Madam, how do you know all this? Were you there?"

"No; not I. Indeed. What would take me there?"

"Then how do you happen to know everything about it?"

La Masque laughed.

"A little bird told me, Prudence. Have you returned to resume your old duties?"

"Madam, I dare not go into that house again. I am afraid of taking the plague. You are a perfect idiot! Are you not liable to take the plague in the remotest quarter of this plague-infested city? And even if you do take it, what odds? For I have only a few years to live at the most, and what matter whether you die now or at the end of a year or two?"

"What matter?" repeated Prudence, in a high key of indignant amazement.

"If any make no matter to you, madame, I can tell you; and into that infected house I'll not put one foot."

"Just as you please, only in that case there is no use for further talk, so allow me to bid you good-night."

"But madam, what of Leoline? Do stop one moment and tell me of her."

"What have I to tell? I have told you all I know. If you want to find her, you must search in the city or in the pesthouse."

Prudence shuddered and covered her face with her hands.

"Oh, my poor darling, so good and so beautiful. Heaven might surely have spared her! Are you going to do nothing further about it?"

"What can I do? I have searched for her, and have not found her, and what else remains?"

"Madam, you know everything—surely, surely you know where my poor little nursing is, among the rest."

Again La Masque laughed, another of her low, sweet, derisive laughs.

"No such thing, Prudence. If I did I should have her here in a twinkling depend upon it. However, it all comes to the same thing in the end. She is probably dead by this time, and would have to be buried in the plague-pit, anyhow. If you have nothing further to say, Prudence, you had better bid me good-night, and let me go."

"Good-night, madam," said Prudence with a sort of groan, as she wrapped her cloak closely around her and turned to go.

La Masque stood for a moment looking after her, and then placed a key in the lock of the door. But there is many a slip—she was not fated to enter as soon as she thought; for just at that moment a new step sounded beside her, and a new voice pronounced her name, and looking around, she beheld Ormiston. With what feelings that young person had listened to the neat and appropriate dialogue I have just had the pleasure of immortalizing, may be— to use a phrase you may have heard before, once or twice—better imagined than described. He knew very well who Leoline was, and how she had been saved from the plague-pit; but where in the world had La Masque found it out? Lost in a maze of wonder, he inclined to doubt the evidence of his own ears, he had stood perfectly still, until his lady-love had so coolly dismissed her company, and then roused himself just in time, he had come forward and accused her. La Masque turned round, regarding him in silence for a moment, and when she spoke, her voice had an accent of mingled surprise and displeasure.

"You, Mr. Ormiston! How many more times am I to have the pleasure of seeing you again to-night?"

"Pardon me, madame; it is the last time. But you must hear me now."

"Must I? Very well, then; if I must, you had better begin at once, for the night air is said to be unhealthy, and as good people are scarce, I want to take care of myself."

In that case, perhaps you had better let me enter, too. I hate to talk on the street, for every wall has ears."

"I am aware of that. When I was talking to my old Prudence two minutes ago I saw a tall shape that I have reason to know, since it haunts me, like my own shadow, standing there and paying deep attention. I hope you found our conversation improving, Mr. Ormiston?"

"Madam," began Ormiston, turning crimson.

"Oh, don't blush; there is quite light enough from yonder lamp to show that. Besides," added the lady, "I don't know as I had any objection; you are interested in Leoline, and must feel curious to know something about her."

"Madam, what must you think of me? I have acted unparadically."

"Oh, I know all that. There is no need to apologize, and I don't think any the worse of you for it. You come to my house, since it haunts me, like my own shadow, standing there and paying deep attention. I think I told you I wanted to get in. What may you want of me at this dismal hour?"

"Oh, madam, need you ask? Does not your heart tell you?"

"I am not aware that it does. And to tell you the truth, Mr. Ormiston, I don't know that I even have a heart. I am afraid I must trouble you to put it in words."

"Then, madame, I love you."

"Is that all? If my memory serves me right, you have told me that little fact several times before. Is there anything else tormenting you, or may I go in?"

Ormiston ground out an oath between his teeth, and La Masque raised off levelled, snowy, taper finger reprovingly.

"Don't, Mr. Ormiston—it's naughty, you know! May I go in?"

"Madame, you are enough to drive a man mad, as the love I bear you worthy of nothing but madness."

"No, Mr. Ormiston, it is not; that is, supposing you really love me, which you don't."

"Madam!"

"Oh, you needn't flush and look indignant. It is quite true. I do love you, and I tell you the truth, Mr. Ormiston, I don't know that I even have a heart. I am afraid I must trouble you to put it in words."

"I have seen you. Do you think I am blind?"

"My face, I mean. I don't consider that you can see a person without looking in her face. Now you have never looked in mine, and how do you know I have any face at all?"

"Madam, you mock me."

"Not at all. How are you to know what is behind this mask?"

"I feel it, and that is better; and I love you all the same."

"Mr. Ormiston, how do you know but I am ugly?"

"Madam, I do not believe you are; you are a perfect not to have a perfect face; and even told me that otherwise, I still love you!"

She broke into a laugh; one of her low, short, deriding laughs.

"You do! O man, how wise thou art! I tell you, if I took off this mask, the sight would curdle the very blood in your veins with horror; would freeze the life-blood in your heart, I tell you! I passionately cried, 'there are sights too horrible for human beings to look on and live, and this—this is one of them!'"

He started back and stared at her aghast.

"You think me mad," she said in a less fierce tone, "but I am not; and I repeat it. Mr. Ormiston, the sight of what this mask conceals would blast you. Go, now, for heaven's sake, and leave me in peace, to drag out the rest of my miserable life; and if ever you think of me, let it be to pray that it might speedily end. You have forced me to say this; so now be content. Be merciful, and go!"

She made a desperate gesture, and turned to leave him, but he caught her hand and held it fast.

"Never!" he cried fiercely. "Say what you will; let that mask hide what it may, I will never leave you till life leaves me."

"Man, you are mad! Release my hand and let me go!"

"Madam, hear me! There is but one way to prove my love and my sanity, and that is—"

"Well!" she said, almost touched by his earnestness.

"Raise your mask and try me. Show me your face, and see if I do not love you still."

"Truly, I know how much love you will have for me when it is revealed. Do you know that no one has looked in my face for the last eight years?"

He stood and gazed at her in wonder.

"It is so, Mr. Ormiston, and in my heart I have vowed to plunge headlong into the most loathsome plague-pit in London rather than ever raise it again. My friend, be satisfied. Go and leave me, and forget me."

"I can do nothing until I have ceased to forget everything else earthly. Madam, I implore you to hear me."

"Mr. Ormiston, I tell you you but court your own doom. No one can look on me and live."

"He said, with an incredulous smile. 'Only promise to show me your face.'"

"Be it so, then," she cried passionately. "I promise, and be the consequences on your own head."

His face flushed with joy.

"I accept thee. And when is that happy time to come?"

"Who knows? What must be done, had best be done quickly; but I tell thee it were safer to play with the lightning's chain than tamper with what thou art about to do."

"I will take the risk. Will you lift that mask now?"

"No, no, I cannot. But yet I may before the sun rises. My face"—with bitter scorn—"shows better by darkness than by light. Will you wait till I can see the grand illumination?"

"Most certainly."

"Then meet me here an hour after midnight, and the face so long hidden shall be revealed. But, once again, on the threshold of doom, I entreat you to pause."

"There is no such word for me!" he said fiercely and exultingly cried, "I have your promise, and I shall hold you to it. And, madam, if, at last, you discover my love is changed as fate itself, then—may I not dare to hope for a return?"

"Yes, then you may hope," she said, with cold mockery. "If your love survives the sight it will be mighty, indeed, and worthy a return."

"And you will return it?"

"I will."

"You will be my wife?"

"With all my heart!"

"My darling," he cried rapturously. "For you are mine already—how can I ever thank you for this? If a whole lifetime devoted and consecrated to your happiness could repay you, it shall be yours."

During this rhapsody her hand had been on the handle of the door. Now she turned.

"Good-night, Mr. Ormiston," she said and vanished.

THE ANNIVERSARY

Successful Services at the First Presbyterian Church
Yesterday.

Admirable Addresses and Excellent Music the Edifying and Enjoyable Features of the Occasion.

Rev. Mr. Wicher, M. A. B. D., of Toronto, who has been occupying the pulpit at Dr. Herdridge's Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, during the past summer months while the pastor was upon his vacation, preached the anniversary services at the First Presbyterian Church yesterday. The edifice was filled in the morning and in the evening was crowded to its utmost capacity, the aisles and hallways being utilized. The pulpit was pleasingly beautified with delicate decorations of flowers and foliage, and the services throughout were exceedingly successful.

Rev. Mr. Wicher is a young man of marked earnestness and ability and preached two admirable and eloquent discourses. In the morning he spoke from Isaiah xlii, 1—"Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah? this that is glorious in his apparel, travelling in the greatness of his strength? I that speak in righteousness, mightier to save." The evening text was taken from Genesis xxviii, 16—"And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, surely the Lord is in this place; and I knew it not." Both addresses were deeply appreciated by the large congregations present.

The full church choir was present and the music rendered under the direction of Mrs. John Cooper, was especially enjoyable. It included two splendid anthems, exquisite solos by Mrs. Cooper and Miss Ada Ross and an admirable quartette, unaccompanied, by Mrs. Cooper and Miss Ross.
This evening the anniversary supper and entertainment will be held.

to the Maple champions, while in the western division Detroit allowed Essex to take a victory without playing therefor. Consequently the only game played was that of Windsor vs. Walkerville, in which neither side scored during the hour and half of play. The league standing now is as follows:

EASTERN DIVISION.
	Won	Draw	Lost—Pts.
Chatham	1	0	0—4
Glencoe	1	0	0—4
Ridgeway	0	0	2—0
WESTERN DIVISION.
	Won	Draw	Lost—Pts.
Walkerville	1	1	0—6
Essex	1	1	0—6
Windsor	0	2	0—4
Detroit	0	0	2—0

On Thursday next—Thanksgiving Day—the champions will travel to Glencoe and meet there probably the hardest proposition in the league. The Chathams have lost two of their last season's players, but will make an earnest effort to give a good account of themselves. A large crowd of enthusiasts should accompany them.

John C. McKay, of Detroit, was in the city yesterday. Mr. McKay has seen the majority of the games already played and picks Glencoe as the cup-winner. "They have a remarkably strong, fast team," he said, "and I do not think anything in this league will stop them this season. However," he added, "I have not yet seen the Chathams in a game."

Football and knaves may be rich in coin, but only true men can be rich in character.

ASSISTED IN THE SERVICES.

Last evening Dr. Hannon was assisted in conducting the services by Dr. Thornton, Warren Martin, J. F. Main and S. F.
Gardiner. Dr. Hannon opened the service and Mr. Gardiner then took charge.
Short sermons were given by the four laymen. The choir, under the leadership of Miss Elda Ide, furnished some splendid music. The anthem, "A man is dead," was rendered excellently, the solo parts being taken by Miss Ide.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY

Is Not What Makes a Remedy
Valuable

Testimonials are good things and we are always glad to get them, but they don't make our remedy any better.
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are good because they do good—because they "care."

Testimonials simply prove that the tablets have helped other people, but it's yourself you are most interested in, and whether they will cure you is the question.

It is easy to find out—try them.
A full package costs but fifty cents at your druggists. They are worth that if they only help you a little bit.
The chance is worth taking at the price.

We put it on that basis because you don't know about the tablets. If you knew as much about them as we do you would have complete confidence in this advertising would be unnecessary.
We have seen them cure the worst cases of stomach trouble. Cases of long standing and obstinacy, cases that other medicines and even high priced doctors had failed to subdue.
Here are some testimonials. If you care to read them we have thousands of them.

Rev. J. R. Hoag, of Wymore, Nebraska, writes: "For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia.
Last fall I became very much alarmed at some symptoms of heart trouble and came to believe that there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, or rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbance. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy, and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes, which lasted me three months and I can eat any kind of food I want and have a good vigorous appetite.
Although I am seventy-seven years old, I now feel perfectly well and without being requested by any one I make this statement as a compliment to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mrs. Lydia Bartram, of Assaria, Mich., writes: "I have suffered from stomach trouble for ten years and five different doctors gave me only temporary relief. A Mr. E. R. Page advised me to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and four boxes did me more permanent benefit than all the doctors' medicines that I have ever taken.

We honestly believe that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best medicine ever made for the cure of stomach troubles.
Don't mistake our meaning. We don't claim them to cure everything, but dyspepsia and stomach disorders.
Just the one thing is what they are made for, but that one thing is the cause—the starting point of nearly all the sickness in the world.
Use Stuart's Tablets regularly. Keep your stomach right, and you can never be sick.

A TRIBUTE FROM DETROIT.

The musical columns of yesterday's Detroit papers pay eloquent tributes to one of the Maple City's most popular and talented young vocalists. The Free Press says: "W. H.
Brackin, a tenor, of Chatham, Ont., a pupil of Elvin Singer, made his debut as a soloist at a concert given last Tuesday at the Collegiate Institute of Chatham to an audience of over 800 people. Mr. Brackin is well-known in Detroit as an accomplished organist." The News-Tribune says:—"W.
H. Brackin, of Chatham, Ont., a pupil of Elvin Singer, made his professional debut
as a vocalist with great success last Tuesday at the Collegiate Institute, to an audience of about 800."

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that a court will be held pursuant to the Ontario Voters' List Act, by His Honor, the Judge of the County Court of the County of Kent, at his chambers in Harrison Hall, in the City of Chatham on the 5th day of October, 1900, at eleven o'clock, a. m., to hear and determine the several complaints of errors and omissions in the voters' list of the Municipality of the City of Chatham, for 1900.

All persons having business at the court are required to attend at the said time and place.

W. G. MERRITT,
Clerk of Chatham.

Dated, Sept. 24th, 1900.

NOTICE.

Chatham, Oct. 9th.

To Messrs. Tennant & Burke,

Chatham.
Dear Sirs.—The National Horse and Cattle Food which you manufacture, is without doubt the best tonic and blood purifier for horses, I have ever had. I am moved without it in my stable, and I take pleasure in recommending it to every one having horses in their care.

Yours truly,
JOHN HENDERSHOTT.

Men's Suits and Overcoats

Experience is the great teacher. Not so, the garments turned out of our factory would be no better than years ago and our business would be worse. The fact is we know better this fall how to make clothing than we did a year ago and we shall know better still a year from now.

That we have outstripped others and the best in our own past there can be no better evidence than the results shown in our own make in suits and overcoats for men.

The Argument of Price.

Men's Double-Breasted Sack Suits, made from neat, dark patterns, all-wool tweed, strong Italian serge linings, all sizes.....$7.00 Men's Single-Breasted, Fly-Front Beaver Overcoats, extra fine quality, in black and navy blue, fine farmers'-satin linings, excellently tailored, the equal in every respect of custom work, at $18, sizes 34 to 44.....$10.00

You will be satisfied with these suits and overcoats whether you have gained your clothing experience here, or at some store where you can't get the same value, first, because the store can't get the garments; second, if they could they couldn't afford our factory price.
