SAINT ANDREWS, NEW BRUNSWICK, SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1917

THE BRAES O' GLENIFFER

EEN blaws the win' o'er the braes o' Gleniffer, The auld castle's turrets are covered wi' snaw How changed frae the time when I met wi' my lover Amang the brume bushes by Stanely green shaw The wild flowers o' simmer were spread a' sae bonnie The mavis sang sweet frae the green birken tree; But far to the camp they ha'e march'd my dear Johnnie, And now it is winter wi' Nature and me.

Then ilk thing around us was blithesome and cheery, Then ilk thing around us was bonnie and braw; Now naething is heard but the win' whistlin' dreary And naething is seen but the wide-spreadin' snaw. The trees are a' bare, and the birds mute and dowie They shake the cauld drift frae their wings as they flee. And chirp out their plaints, seeming wae for my Johnnie

'Tis winter wi' them and 'tis winter wi' me. Yon cauld sleety cloud skiffs alang the bleak mountain And shakes the dark firs on the stey rocky brae, While down the deep glen bawls the snaw-flooded fountain That murmur'd sae sweet to my laddie and me.
'Tis no its loud-star, on the wintry svin' swellin'. 'Tis no the cauld blast brings the tear to my e'e,

For, oh, gin l saw my bonnie Scots callan, The dark days o' winter were simmer to me ROBERT TANNAHILL. (Born June 3, 1774; died May 17, 1810.)

On Friday afternoon, May 25, a fleet of German airplanes, said to have numbered sixteen, raided Dover and Folkestone, in Kent, England, and did serious damage to the latter town by dropping bombs. Many buildings were destroyed and 76 persons, mostly women and children, were killed, and 175 more were injured. Three of the airplanes were brought down when endeavoring to escape. This was the most disastrous air raid up to the present, and it was the third within a week, the other two resulting in little damage, the casualties being one man killed and a

THE RETURN OF JOFFRE AND WITH RETURN OF JOFFRE AND VIVIANI

Marshal Joffre and Mons. Viviani reached Paris on May 23, just nine days after saying good-bye to President Wilson, and the reception they received almost surpassed in enthusiasm that accorded them in New York. They expressed great it satisfaction with the result of their mission to America; and they were very grateful for the money they had received for various charities, the total amount being about 2,000,000 francs, say $400,000. The most satisfactory report brought thome by the distinguished Frenchman was to the effect that American troops would soon be concerned in the same as they have been for the past thirty years or so.

The business of Parliament at Ottawa is making satisfactory progress, the House of Commons hauing been in committee on supply a good portion of the past week. The appropriations for their maintenance have been absurdly small when the mileage of the roads is considered, and the expenditure of the appropriations has been improperly supervised and altogether inefficient. In quite recent years the scarcity of labor in the Town, with the consequent difficulty in getting competent men to do road work, has been, perhaps, the heaviest handicap; but along with the limited appropriations and the scarcity of labor must be reckoned an entire absence of method in road construction, and uninformed supervision. On September 16th, 1916, Prohibition went into force in Ontario, and, of course, the bar lost its license. On the 16th of April, 1917, the old bar was busier than ever! But what an arresting, beautiful transformation! Would that you and your sons could have been there to see the sight. The old barroom was a bevy of flowers. Fifty fair ladies served refreshments to Toronto's most prominent citizens and their wives, and not one of them all but was proud to be seen in

CANADIAN CROP REPORT

Ottawa, May 12, 1917. The first crop report of the present season issued to-day by the Census and Statistics Office relates to the area and condition of the fall wheat crop, the condition of hay and clover meadows at the end of the winter and the progress of spring seeding, as reported by lents at the end of April.

WINTER KILLING AND CONDITION OF FALL WHEAT The area estimated to be sown to winter wheat last fall is 813,400 acres, of which 656,500 acres are in Ontario, 105, 700 acres in Saskatchewan, 38,000 acres in Alberta, 8,000 acres in Manitoba and

6,200 acres in British Columbia. In Ontario the proportion of the area reported to be winter killed is 25 per cent, in Manitoba 14 per cent, in Alberta 15 per
