Andreas Höfer—The Inn-keeper Patriot of Switzerland

TO THIS peasant-leader Liberty was as much the breath of life as it is to the strong-winged eagles of the Alps. To achieve it for himself and his mountain brothers he gladly laid down his life. No less a personality than Napoleon vanquished him, and it was because he feared him that the Great Emperor ordered Höfer shot. Every atom of Andreas Höfer loved Liberty. He demanded it for himself and willingly gave it to others. In this respect he is no different than are our millions of Swiss citizens. Personal and National Liberty to those of Swiss blood is a religion. To a man they will fight for it, and to a man they will die for it. When asked to vote for Prohibition they do as would do the great patriot Höfer—VOTE AGAINST IT. "Thou shalt NOT eat this—thou shalt NOT drink that" is insolent legislation to those of Swiss blood. Anheuser-Busch are proud to serve their thousands of Swiss patrons. For 7 years the Swiss people have been moderate users of their honestly-brewed beers. BUDWEISER is a favorite wherever these folk are found. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to meet the constantly increasing demand for BUDWEISER. Its sales exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles. ANHEUSER-BUSCH · ST. LOUIS, U.S.A. Bottled only at the home plant.

A Great Intrigue, Mistress of Darracourt.

CHAPTER XXIV.
He grew so excited by the thought that he sprang up, and Marie Verner crouched still lower.
Mr. Pollard laughed, a dry, harsh, spectral laugh that sounded like the autumn wind among the trees.
"Exactly," he assented, quietly. "The last marquis said what was not his to sell, therefore this girl, this Miss Darracourt, holds what does not belong to her, but to Harry Herne, as you call him, but as I call him—the Marquis of Merle!"
Sinclair sat with his head in his hands, his small black eyes half closed. He was thinking the case out. It seemed too wonderful; too good to be true.
"Does anyone besides you know of all this?" he asked, anxiously.
The old man shrugged his shoulders, thinking for a moment.
"No," he said, wearily; "no! The marriage occurred long ago! This Harry Herne must be a man by this time! Bessie Richards, that is, the real-marchioness, must have died still keeping her secret; the marquis can have told no one. No, it is a secret to all but me—and you!" he added.

Sinclair trembled in his excitement and eagerness.
"Look here," he said, in a hurried whisper; "you must keep it a secret; do you hear?"
"I hear," assented Mr. Pollard, dully.
"You mustn't tell any one. It's—it's too good to be cried on the house-tops! There—there's a fortune in it!"
The old man stared at him, vacantly, then he smiled wearily.
"Fortune! What is money to me? I want none of it! No, it is the knowledge—the grand knowledge; that is enough for me! To feel as they roll past me in their carriages, scattering the mud over my coat—these great ones of the earth—to feel that I know their secrets, that is enough!" and he stretched out his thin, wasted hands and shook them feebly in the night air.
Sinclair nodded soothingly, as if he were quite convinced that the knowledge was sufficient.
"Yes, yes!" he said; "you are quite right! We'd better go now; it's getting late, and we must catch the last train. Come on!" and he drew the old man's arm through his and led him away, with a careful tenderness that was quite filial and touching.
Marie Verner waited until they had gone out of sight, then rose from her hiding place, and leaned against the seat.
The importance of the revelation overwhelmed her. She felt dizzy and bewildered. Harry Herne the real Marquis of Merle! The Court and the estate not Lucille's, but his! And she, she—Marie Verner—alone knew the secret besides these two men! She put her hands to her forehead, and clasped it tightly.

"If I ever had any brains, now is the time to use them," she muttered; "now is the time!"
While she stood revolving the great undertaking she had set herself, the marquis had finished his cigar, and had come strolling to the terrace, his hands folded behind him, his head lowered thoughtfully.
She waited until he came within reach of her, then touched him upon the arm. He started, and muttered an oath.
"Who is it? Ah, you!"
"Hush," she said, in a whisper; "do not wait any longer. Get her to give you her promise to-night. She was here on the terrace a little while ago, and alone. I have reasons for advising you to lose no more time. Good-night!"
And she glided past him.
The marquis went musily up the steps. He had resolved before she had spoken to play his last card that night, and her words encouraged him. The sound of music came out through the half-opened windows, and he stood and looked within at the magnificent room. Lucille was seated almost within reach of him, and quietly opening the window, he bent and whispered her name.
She started and turned her face up to him with an involuntary expression of fear and dread that would have discouraged the most ardent lover.
"Will you come outside a moment?" he said; "I have something I wish to tell you."
She rose and stepped out, and he closed the window behind them. She shrank a little at the action, but he drew nearer to her with his insidious air of respect and devotion.
"Are you cold? Shall I get you something warmer than that shawl?"
"No; I am hot—burning hot!" she replied with a forced laugh.
"At least, let me draw the shawl around you!" and he attempted to do so, but she threw it round her shoulders with a quick, nervous gesture.
"Lucille, are you afraid of me?" he murmured, reproachfully, his voice sunk to a soft whisper.

"No; oh, no!" she answered quickly. "What is it you wish to say to me?"
"Something I have scarcely the courage to utter," he replied. "When one's heart is so set upon a thing that it beats one long throbs of desire, it is so difficult to speak. Ah, Lucille! have you forgotten our compact?"
"Compact!" she echoed, wearily, apprehensively.
"Yes," he murmured; "our compact. If you have forgotten it, I have not. I have thought of it, day and night, since we made it. It has become my most precious possession; it represents to me my only hope of happiness, now and to come. Lucille, you know that I love you!"
She shuddered and drew back a little, but he followed her with a stealthy, almost imperceptible step, his eyes fixed on her face, watching its every expression.
"I love you, Lucille, passionately, devotedly. I have loved you ever since I first saw you—I think you know that. You are the only woman that has stirred the pulses of my heart!"
He was going on with the speech he had rehearsed over his cigar, glibly, smoothly, but she stopped him with a gesture.
"Not now—not now," she said, brokenly; "some other time. Do not—pitifully—do not ask me now. It is so short a time since—"
"Since we met! Ah, it seems an age to me, Lucille, an age of mingled torture and delight! Do not be hard with me! Be my wife, Lucille; give me your promise here, to-night!"
"No, no!" she panted. "Not now. Give me time!"
His face darkened.
"You have, indeed, forgotten!" he said, significantly.
She shuddered and leaned against the balustrade.
"It was only gratitude after all. You meant nothing more than a civil 'Thank you,' Miss Darracourt. And it was a compact! Well, you have broken it. You will not complain if I am forced to follow your example!"

"Silly and soft as was the voice, it contained a threat, and she knew it. Cold and trembling she turned to him.
"What do you mean? Ah, you cannot mean that you will break your word! You would not do that!"
"Love such as mine makes a man desperate!" he retorted darkly. "Day by day you seem to be going farther from me. You are surrounded by men."
She waved her hand impatiently.
"For whom I care nothing!" she said.
"But one of whom you may marry!" he broke in. "Lucille, I can bear it no longer; we must decide, you and I, and to-night!"
"Why to-night?" she demanded, almost piteously. "Give me a little longer."
"To-night!" he repeated. "Do not think me hard; consider how much I have at stake—all my earthly happiness! Ah, Lucille, if you knew how fully I have setted up to my promise. Even now I am keeping to my share of the compact. To-day I have heard that the police—"
"Hush!" she panted, putting her hand upon his arm and looking round fearfully. "For Heaven's sake be careful! Some one may hear; there were men below there, just now. Ah, be careful!"
He smiled inwardly at her alarm. "I will be careful. No one will hear."
"Well, go on, go on!" she said, feverishly. "What have you heard?"
"I have intelligence that the police can put their hands upon—"
"No name, no name!" she gasped, with a terrified glance round her.
"Upon the person whom we know," he said, darkly.
She looked at him.
"Then—then you have set the police upon his track!" she said in a low voice.
"I have kept myself acquainted with his movements?—yes," he assented.
She clung to the balustrade, and her proud head drooped.
"For my own sake I have done this!" he murmured. "Do not be hard upon me, Lucille! See how loath you are to keep your part of the bargain! Was I not right to act for my own protection?"
She hid her face in her hands.
"A word from me and he will be arrested!" he whispered, darkly. "It is for you to decide whether that word shall be uttered!"
She remained silent, motionless.
"I see!" he said. "There is no hope for me! You will break our compact! Well, at any rate, I shall have the satisfaction of bringing a scoundrel to justice!" and with a deep sigh he took a step or two from her.
She sprang up and caught his arm.
"Stop—wait!" she panted, her white face working piteously, despairingly. "You must not do that! No! I—I will keep to the agreement! I will—" she stopped, and put her hand to her throat; the words could not be got out, try as she would.
"You will marry me!" he whispered. "You will be my wife!" and he caught at her hand.
She let her hand remain in his, but he could feel the shudder that ran through her.
"Yes," she said, hoarsely, "I will be your wife, Lord Merle—I will be your wife on one condition—that—that you will take the police"—she shuddered again—"off his track, and never mention his name to me again!"
"Never again!" he responded, fervently. "He is as safe from me as if he were dead, now! You will be my wife! Ah, Lucille!" and he tried to draw her toward him, but she shrank back, white to the lips.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

Special to Evening Telegram:

PARIS, Sept. 25. (Official.)

At our left wing a general very violent action is raging between the Somme and the Oise with the army corps that the enemy placed in the region of Hermonier and St. Quentin. These army corps come from the centre of the enemy's line and from Lorraine and the Vosges. The latter have been transported by rail to Cambrai via Liege and Valenciennes. As the north of the Aisne as far as Berry au Bac there is no important modification. In the centre we have progressed eastward of Rheims towards Berry and Moronvilliers further east, and as far as the Argonne. The enemy have not come out of Varennes.

On the right of the Meuse they succeeded in taking foot on the heights of the Meuse in the region of the promontory of Hattinchtal and advanced in the direction of St. Mihiel. They have bombarded the forts of Baroches and Camps des Romains, but at centre of Verdun we still hold the heights of the Meuse and our troops coming out of Toul, have advanced as far as the region of Beaumont. At our right we have repulsed unimportant attacks on Nomeny. East of Lunerville the enemy made some demonstrations on the line of La Vesgoune and La Blette.

Petrograd.—Russian troops are occupying a front southwest of the fortified positions of Ezyachy, Toulay and Radyma with all artillery. The garrison of Przemysl vacated the village of Modkys and was repulsed east towards the line of forts. No battle on German front.

GERMAN CENTRE WEAKENED.

At the Battlefront, Sept. 25.

French and British troops, intermingled with Turcos and Moors, not only held their own, but caused the strongly reinforced German western wing to reel backward near St. Quentin yesterday and to-day, and imperilled the German line of communications towards the frontier of Belgium. The German centre has been weakened by a rush of troops from that position to meet the movement of the Allies, and the two strong forces were engaged at close quarters to-day between St. Quentin and Terzenier. The military authorities refuse to permit the disclosure of the exact

BIG, HEARTY BABY BOY

Mrs. Beck's fondest hopes Realized—Health, Happiness and Baby.

Upper Lahave, N. S., Can.,—"I wish to thank you for the benefit I received by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles from which I was a great sufferer, so that I was completely run down in health. Other medicine did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong. I now have a big, hearty baby boy, and praise your medicine for the wonderful lot of good it has done me."—Mrs. ISRAEL BECK, Jr., Upper Lahave, Lunenburg Co., N. S., Canada.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some derangement of the feminine system, often curable by the proper remedies.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medford, Mass. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

position of the fighting, but it is generally known that the battle now progressing is of prime importance. Meanwhile at other parts of the battle line, which is about 120 miles long, fighting continued to-day in dogged fashion. The Allied troops followed the example set by the Germans and dug themselves in. The artillery of both armies kept up an incessant fire, while French and German aviators reconnoitered from above.

The Commanders of the Allied forces have found the reason for the wonderful precision of the German fire, in a spy discovered in their lines who signalled directions. He was caught and shot.

The troops appear to have become thoroughly hardened to accustomed conditions. The commissariat and ammunition supply departments are working perfectly, and the soldiers occupying the advanced firing lines are scarcely ever without one hot meal a day, which is brought them in camp kettles from field kitchens. The British artillery officers praise highly the gunnery of their opponents. They declare that the German shells almost always burst at accurate ranges, but often too high to do damage. The soldiers take occasional spells of repose when in deep trenches, smoking pipes, cigarettes; rations of tobacco being supplied regularly. Meanwhile shells tear by overhead with a sound like the ripping of parchment. The British officers relate an incident which they say occurred during twilight last evening. A large force of German infantry when charged by a British battalion, held up their hands as a token of surrender. The British approached to take them prisoners, when, it is said, the Germans re-opened fire. The British officers ordered their men to lie down, which they did. Three British machine guns were brought into action, which killed every German in that portion of the field.

Further British reinforcements have landed in France. The Germans have occupied the heights of the Meuse and are marching on St. Mihiel. The French have occupied the opposite heights before Verdun. German reinforcements from Liege oppose the British on the Allies' left wing, and are fighting desperately. British and French cavalry have cut the German line of communication between Cambrai and St. Quentin. Some German siege guns have been captured by the French.

ALLIED FORCES LANDED AT DALMATIA.

PARIS, Sept. 25.

A despatch to an Italian newspaper forwarded to Paris, says some allied forces have landed at Dalmatia. After bombarding the fortified harbor of Lissa, British and French flags were hoisted to provoke the Austrian fleet to come out and engage the allied fleet in battle. Three Austrian squadrons are sheltered at Pisana opposite the Austrian naval station of Pola.

LLOYD GEORGE'S DECLARATION.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

Speaking to-day at a meeting of his neighbors held at Crickleth, in Wales, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Lloyd George, made the declaration that war was quite unexpected. He never dreamt it would occur, he said, until a few days before hostilities commenced. He never thought any country could be so devilish as to pretend great friendship and at the same time make elaborate arrangements to attack. Indeed he thought the war was so far away that he had made arrangements to spend August and September at Crickleth. It took fifteen years to break Napoleon, he continued, he did not think it would take anything like so long to vanquish

Emperor William; but long or short, England was going to see it through.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

QAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 25.

A heavy earthquake shock was felt here this morning. There was no damage, but a great panic was caused among the people.

HONORS ABOUT EVEN.

PARIS, Sept. 26.

An official communication issued at 11 o'clock last night regarding the progress of the battle in northern France, says that yesterday morning the French troops in the region of Noyon were compelled to give ground before superior forces, but having been reinforced they again assumed the offensive, the engagement being one of particular violence. The text of the statement is as follows: (1) On our left wing in the region of Northwest Noyon our advanced troops, having come in contact with superior forces of the enemy were compelled yesterday morning, to give a little ground. The struggle in this vicinity is taking the character of extreme violence. Being reinforced, however, by fresh troops, these troops have vigorously taken the offensive. (2) In the centre there is nothing to report. (3) On our right wing the enemy has begun to give way before the attacks of our troops, coming from the direction of Nancy and Toul. In the southern region of Woivre the enemy is retiring towards Rupt-de-Aud, in Meurthe-et-Moselle. On the heights of the Meuse the German forces have succeeded in penetrating nearly as far as St. Mihiel, on the right bank of the Meuse, 20 miles S.E. of Verdun, but have not been able to cross the river.

TOTALS WERE ERRONEOUS.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

The Central News Agency has received the following despatch from Rome: A message from Berlin says that the General Staff, having agreed to complete official lists of prisoners, have found it necessary to admit that the totals already announced were erroneous. The aggregate number of prisoners in German hands is now reduced from 250,000 to 50,000, of whom 30,000 are Russians.

GERMAN BOMB DOES NO DAMAGE.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

A despatch from Boulogne says, that about mid-day yesterday, a German aeroplane flew over Boulogne at a great height. The aviator threw a bomb into the shipbuilding yard, but no one was injured, and only slight damage was done. The aeroplane continued its flight in a southerly direction.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM:

TORONTO, Sept. 25.

Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, died at noon to-day.

Wedding Bells.

LACEY-BONNELL.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. John's Episcopal Church, Gloucester, Mass., on Sunday, the 20th inst., when Mr. William A. Lacey, engineer with the Gloucester Electrical Co., led to the altar Miss Winnie Bonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bonnell, of Lamaline. After the ceremony the happy couple left for New York where the honeymoon will be spent in sightseeing. The groom is a son of the late Capt. James Lacey, of Barnstable, C.B., and the bride was for many years teacher at the Church of England School, Lamaline. The Telegram joins in the felicitations extended and wishes Mr. and Mrs. Lacey many happy years of wedded life.

First Nid Regiment.

The members of the Church of England in the Newfoundland Regiment will attend Divine Service at the C. of E. Cathedral to-morrow morning. The Rector and church wardens request that the first eight seats on either side of the centre aisle be reserved for the Volunteers.

Divorced Life

The Girl Who Married a Stranger

The mysterious, misunderstood forces which draw and drag people into marriage have created a rebellious sisterhood of American women of which few men, even husbands, are aware.

With feelings of guilt and often shame, two women will confide their experiences to each other. Others, with stouter hearts and reticent tongues, will keep their secrets to themselves, without letting slip even a syllable to their own daughters as they approach their marriages in turn and are driven straight upon the rocks which have shattered the happiness of their mothers.

Marian Winthrop appreciated the confidence that Louise Dale reposed in her. As a student of life and its tangled forces, rather than as a woman hungry for gossip, she sat at Louise Dale's side, and listened to what she had to say. The latter's revelations, voiced with the sole object of helping her to find herself amid the strange waters into which circumstance had brought her, stirred Marian to sympathy.

"I wonder if it's all worth while or not," observed Mrs. Dale once. "I am literally beginning to feel as though I had married a stranger. Traits and characteristics crop out now and then which I never had any idea existed. I knew him at all. I don't know him for we were married, you know. Rather, I saw him off and on for less than a year. I know now that I never knew him at all. I don't know him yet. Some of the most trivial little traits that I discover in him for the first time, surprise and shock me. It's ridiculous, I know, but I can't help it. While I knew, for instance that he smoked a pipe and cigars, I was absurdly hurt the other day to see him produce a pack of cigarettes. Not that I have any prurish objections to cigarettes at all, but I had never connected them with him. Some very fine men smoke cigarettes, no doubt, but to me there is something undig-nified about it. He was actually offended at my remark of surprise when I saw a cigarette dangling from his lips."

"I know how you felt," smiled Marian. "It's the trivial things that often seem the biggest through the goggles of matrimony."

"I've also discovered that Dan is strongly opinionated," continued the young wife. "When our opinions conflict, he often refers to my 'school-marm' point of view. I, for one, don't propose to go through life and have it constantly thrown up to me that I was once a school teacher. Then too, so many of our tastes are different, as I'm beginning to discover. I'm disappointed about Robert Herrick, while he is fussy about Robert W. Chambers. Can you hear that for a dizzy, yawning gulf between tastes in modern writers! At times I love to read Browning aloud. It bores him to tears. If these things are signs of incipient incompatibility, I have the profoundest pity for myself."

"It's simply a question of who is the stronger—you or he," answered Marian. "If you can contrive to find a way to dominate him and mold him to your way of thinking, or if he succeeds in dominating you, and you succeed in finding contentment under his domination, you'll turn out to be a contented wife. Marriage is a battle for control. Where points of view differ, and where at the same time the one proves to be as strong and resourceful an opponent as the other, tragedy is likely to result."

"I never thought of marriage in that light," observed Mrs. Dale thoughtfully. "But I don't know but you are right. Why, it's awful to contemplate. And they call this the honeymoon!" she added impatiently.

"It ought to be called the valley of disillusionment," answered Marian with the wisdom of superior knowledge and wider experience.

To-morrow—The Valley of Disillusionment.

Punctuality.

The punctual man is a bird; he always is true to his word; he knows that the skate who is ten minutes late is trifling and vain and absurd. He says, "I'll be with you at four"; though torrents may ruthlessly pour, you know when he clock strikes one hour he will knock with his punctual flat at your door. And you say, "He is surely a trump! I haven't much use for the chump who is ever-nore late, making other men wait—the place for that gent is the dump." The punctual man is a peach; he sticks to his dates like a leech; it's a pity, alas, that he hasn't a class of benevolent sluggards to teach. He's welcome wherever he wends; the country is full of his friends; he goes by the watch and he never makes a botch of his time, so he never offends. If he says he'll get married at nine, you can bet he'll be standing in line, with his beautiful bride, and the knot will be tied ere the clock is done making the sign. If he says he'll have cash in at five, at that hour he will not be alive; you can order his shroud and assemble a crowd, clear out to the boneray to drive. This punctual man is a joy! The biggest success that I know! He is grand and sublime, he is always on time, not late by ten minutes or so.

Sulphate of Ammonia.

St. John's Gas Light Company.

Dear Sir—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly,

Paper on The Fisheries.

By Inspector Duff of Peterhead District, Scotland.

SATURDAY, Sept. 26th, 1914.
A very fair audience attended the lecture delivered at the Grand Hotel by Mr. Walter Duff, who has been a Fishery Inspector in Scotland for the past thirty-two years and who is now Inspector of the Peterhead Station. He came here in response to an appeal by Sir Edward Morris to the British Government to send out a man to see for himself the fishery resources of Newfoundland and to report on them and the possibilities of making more out of them. The Minister of Marine was in the chair and on the platform were the Governor, the Prime Minister and the Chief Justice.

Mr. Duff read his paper, which had been most carefully prepared. He said he had been selected to report to the Newfoundland Government on the Fisheries generally; what kind of fish are to be found; the methods of fishing in use, and whether they can be improved; on the adoption in Newfoundland of the Scotch cure of herring, and on the possible development of trade in fresh fish and the best means for its collection and delivery. He arrived on July 24th and began his trip of observation in company with Mr. A. Morgan. Unfortunately he was too late for the caplin season. But as the squid came in late, he witnessed the paralyzing effect of the abalone being taken.

He was greatly struck with the difficulty of securing bait at the period of the year when most require it when the weather conditions in July and August, are the most favourable for fishing. He asks why should this be the case? "Why should fishermen be lying idle for weeks for the want of squid which other bait can be easily secured at a time when cod are in abundance almost at their very door. As a proof of this I may mention that one or two fishermen whom I was at Mortier Bay obtained a small quantity, half a barrel or so, of lance, and caught with it no less than 40 quintals of cod, and in Newfoundland the fishermen catch the herring and cure them also, and in such an unpalatable way that only the poorer classes of people who cannot afford to purchase a better quality will buy this article. These herrings are in some cases put up in barrels (which renders them unfit for the Jewish trade) or in any other package that comes to their hand, quite regardless of whether it will contain the pickle or not. There is consequently a want of uniformity in the cure and in the barrels and their construction. Moreover the fishermen in Newfoundland invariably split the herrings and make out the salt and roe, which are considered of great value in most countries, and instead of filling the barrels with salt, which as a phrase is, burns the fish and deprives it of its flavor and substance.

He recommends a policy similar to that pursued by Scotland and the appointment of skilled instructors to carry it out. He would suggest that four centres be placed in the country, which would be sufficient to begin with, and other centres would no doubt gradually follow. The centres which he would propose are Bonne Bay, Bay of Islands, Green Bay and some other suitable place in either Placentia Bay or Fortune Bay. He made it his business to see for himself in a practical way when visiting the bays and settlements, if the herrings caught at certain periods of the year are suitable when cured for the Continental and American markets. He found them very satisfactory, and in every way calculated to obtain as high a price, if not higher than the Scotch product. On visiting the Bay of Islands he learned that the quality of the herrings caught there in the fall is particularly rich, the fish being fat and full of roe, and quite as palatable as any that can be found in the North Sea. He saw samples both of spring and of fall fish, and certainly the fall fish is a more suitable article for herring markets generally than the spring herring, and he is hopeful of a great future for the same in the markets of Russia. The American market will also be a growing one especially for herring of this quality, since after the Scotch manner, now that the tariff in the United States has been removed, the spring herrings are more developed, full of roe and fat, and though less rich in flavor than those caught in the fall, are more acceptable to the German markets. The fall herrings to my mind have the appearance of what we call in Scotland "Magie" which command such a high figure in the Russian markets. They are herrings found in their virgin state, on the eve of developing, and in that high condition in fat and flavor which makes them much in demand with the epicures of St. Petersburg. These different kinds would be dealt with by the Inspector who would affix the Government brand applicable to each kind. It is for the satisfaction of those foreign buyers that the Government Brand is used; it denotes the quality of the herrings, and prevents one class being sold for another class which may be inferior. The cost of administration of the Scotch method of curing and supervision will eventually become profitable and self supporting after the trade has been nursed into strength. The most difficult thing, however, is to get the cure up to the highest standard of perfection, and this can never be done if it is to be left to the fishermen's judgment to put up the herrings as they choose. Nothing but practicable men capable of putting up a good, careful and superior cure in good and well constructed barrels, will suffice.

The herring fishery of Newfoundland is practically untapped and possesses the greatest possibilities. He tested the pickled herrings in various parts of the island both in a raw and cooked state, and the fresh herrings, fried, and considered them for flavor and quality superior to the bulk of herrings caught in Scotland. Indeed, the herrings of Newfoundland remind me of those caught in the West or Atlantic side of Castellar, Barra, Scotland, the finest in quality and flavour in the British seas, which, being cured and selected with great care, are esteemed a delicacy and sell for 20 and 30 dollars a barrel.

The question is, how can these motives be obtained, and what assistance to be given for that purpose? In Ireland State loans have been made for the obtaining of boats with motor engines, and with very satisfactory results; but the majority report of the Committee above referred to considered this to be undesirable in Scotland in as much as the Scotch herring fishery is already in so prosperous a condition that it needs no further stimulation, on the other hand the minority report advises it even in Scotland, for the following reasons:

"It is because we think it of great importance to the well being of the industry as a whole that a type of boat intermediate between the barrow and the motor boat should be evolved to be used in the great herring fishery, that we recommend the assistance from public funds for this purpose" (p. 176). They were of opinion that if this be not done the Scotch herring fishery must in time be restricted to the sheltered waters which have already provided themselves with considerable fleets of steam drifters.

"We doubt," they stated, "whether the community can afford to regard so great a change with equanimity. It will mean that the fishing community as a whole will be divided between employers and employed." (p. 174).

In Newfoundland such an eventuality will be easier to meet than in Scotland, the conditions being almost identical with those existing in Norway, where the fishermen are provided with hands, but form an independent and "bona fide" class of fishermen.

"In Norway," the Committee states "the principal fisheries are in shallow waters, which are however, of unusual extent, in view of the abnormal long coast lines of Norway, and of the number of fjords, inlets, and of the area of sheltered water within the island belt which fringes the Norwegian coast." (p. 9).

The great majority of the boats are small, and accordingly the property of the actual fishermen; the average crew of open boats engaged in cod fishing is four or five. A large proportion of the fishermen are farmer-crofters fishermen who follow the fishing part of the year. The production of the island belt, however, enables the Norwegian fishermen, even with their small boats, to reach so great distances to follow the chief fisheries." (p. 10).

There could not be a more accurate description than this of the fishermen and of the coast line of Newfoundland.

The geographical conditions being the same, it may be inferred that the measures, including state aid, which have been adopted with so much success for the benefit of the fishermen in Norway might be adopted equally advantageously in Newfoundland for the Newfoundland fishermen like the Norwegian, are keenly desirous to retain the ownership of the boats in their own hands, and the state loans made to the Norwegian fishermen for the purchase of boats, and of motors will be found in Appendix B of the report.

They are too detailed to be set out here, but brief extracts are as follows:—The Board of Trade administers the fund, but the loans are only forthcoming upon the approval of the Fishery Inspectors. The rate of interest is 2 1/2 per cent, and the general period of repayment is ten years, and for the first year no interest is charged.

I will quote finally before leaving this subject the conclusion set out in the Majority Report:—"On the whole, however, it seems clear that the fishing funds in the three Scandinavian countries have served a useful purpose. They have enabled the fishing industry in these countries to advance from some of the stages of the pure inshore fishery, and secured a wide diffusion of the benefits of the advance among the fishing community. Probably this progress would not have been made as it has with us, if it had been left to private enterprise in the three countries, and in any case its result would have been probably less generally diffused." (p. 164).

This conclusion seems to be very applicable to Newfoundland.

How to Win Children.

By RUTH CAMERON.

If you were left alone for an hour with a little child would you know how to entertain him? Or would you be rather more ill at ease in his presence than if you had the Czar of Russia to entertain?

I met an acquaintance the other day in the children's room of a library poring over a child's book of fairy tales. He is a bachelor of about thirty-five with no known matrimonial intentions, so naturally I was surprised.

"I'll tell you how it is," he explained readily. "My cousin is on here for the summer with her two youngsters and the other day she left me alone with the little girl, and by thunder, I could not think of a thing to say to the youngster—nice little kid, too. I let her fool with my watch for a while, but after that pulled I hadn't a card to play. She kept asking me to tell her a story and I didn't know one. But you can wager that the next time I'm left alone with a youngster I'll know a story to tell her and then I can always keep 'em quiet that way. Don't you think it's a good plan to look some up?"

I heartily agreed that I did. And not only for him but for anyone who has so far forgotten the language of childhood as to feel abashed before a child.

You never know when you may have to spend a half hour with one of these embarrassing creatures, Mr. Bachelor or Mrs. Childless, so why not be prepared? Have a story or two on hand, or a few simple parlor tricks.

For instance, any child can be amused for a half hour with a few coins, a piece of scribbling paper and a pencil. Put the coin under the paper, then rub the pencil back and forth over it and the image of the coin appears on the paper, to the child's intense delight.

The funny little cutouts of all sorts which anyone with the slightest facility can make from folded paper are another unfailing source of delight to a child. One of the simplest is in the shape of a sled which can then be bent into form and coasted down the back of the Morris chair.

If a child asks you to draw something and you are emphatically not an artist, take out a half dollar and a dime and draw a cat by using one for the body, the other for the head. Ears, tail and whiskers are dead easy.

A song which has served to introduce me into the favour of several children is, "I went to the animal fair, etc." You probably know the familiar ballad. I take the child on my lap and with the refrain, "And went because of the monkey monk, etc." I trot him up and down in time. I never fail of an encore, although it usually takes the embarrassing form of "Say it again."

Perhaps you already have plenty of these methods of ingratiating yourself with children. If you have, this is not for you. It is merely meant as a hint for the man or woman who has completely forgotten the language and the ways of childhood.

Volunteers Parade.

Yesterday afternoon the Volunteers, numbering about 350, under command of Captains Carty and O'Brien, went for a long march, and were attended on the March by a squad from the Ambulance Brigade under command of Corp. N. McLeod.

The lads are now in fine physical condition, and presented a striking appearance as they marched down Water Street on their return to camp. Citizens thronged the sidewalks to see in many instances the rifles seemed to glow in the sunlight.

CITY'S HEALTH.—Two cases of diphtheria were reported to the Health Authorities within the city limits during the week. There are now in hospital three cases of diphtheria, two of typhoid and one of scarlet.

VOLUNTEERS HOLD CONCERT.—Last evening an enjoyable concert was held at the Southside Camp by a contingent of volunteers who are at rifle practice there. Lieut. Rowell occupied the chair, and interesting songs and recitations were given by Capt. L. C. Murphy, Lieut. Rowell, Sergt. W. Edwards, Sergt. H. McNeil, Instructor Moore and Privates Harvey, Chit, Miller and Keate. A pleasant evening was spent by all.

"The New Magdalen."

The feature picture, "The New Magdalen," shown at the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday is certainly a masterpiece, the photography and acting of the I. M. P. stars shows up Wilkie Collins' great story to perfection. The other pictures: "The Cub" and "The Widow's Polly" are also first class pictures.

Miss Clark sang a medley of old Scotch songs which as usual gained for that lady the well deserved plaudits of the audience. To-night Miss Clark sings a medley of Irish airs. Her last appearance before a St. John's audience.

On Monday, Mr. Frederick Knights, Boston tenor, will appear in high class ballads, and judging from press notices that we have seen of this gentleman's success in other cities, he is sure to please the music-loving people of St. John's.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Here and There.

LEAVES LIVERPOOL.—The Allan liner Mongolian is expected to leave Liverpool to-day for this port.

SQUID AT ST. MARY'S.—Squid were reported plentiful yesterday in St. Mary's Bay, particularly at St. Joseph's.

FISH PLENTIFUL.—There was a good sign of cod on the local fishing grounds yesterday and those who had enough squid baiting got fine catches.

AT METHODIST CHURCHES.—Tomorrow at all the Methodist Churches in the city the various clergymen will occupy their own pulpits morning and evening.

POMERANIAN DELAYED.—The Allan boat Pomeranian did not get away for Glasgow last evening, as expected, the delay being caused in the handling of freight. She sailed this forenoon.

MORE VESSELS HOME.—Yesterday the schr. Emma Jane reached Twillingate from the Straits with 500 barrels of fish, and the Melba arrived at Bonavista from the Labrador with 700 qts.

MARSHALL BROTHERS' RUBBER SHOES.

Why the Germans Commit Atrocities.

"True strategy consists in hitting your enemy, and hitting him hard. Above all, you must inflict on the inhabitants of invaded towns the maximum of suffering, so that they may become sick of the struggle, and may bring pressure to bear on their Government to discontinue it. You must leave the people through whom you march only their eyes to weep with."

"In every case the principle which guided our general was that war must be made terrible to the civil population, so that it may sue for peace."

—Bismarck.

Among the Volunteers.

Thomas Carroll, of Bell Island, who is now under canvas at Pleasantville, has two other brothers who volunteered for foreign service; one is already gone to the front and another is at Valcartier. All three are Newfoundlanders, born in Hr. Grace. Miss Rose M. Greene, the Bell Island poetess, has two brothers in the Nfd. Regiment, amongst which there are also two more brothers from Bell Island, named Edward and Robert Labe.

Movements of Florizel.

At five o'clock last evening, Messrs. Harvey & Co., Ltd., the Red Cross Agents here, received a reply by wire from New York. The message simply stated that the S. S. Florizel was to leave St. John's at noon Monday next, but never mentioned where the ship was destined for or whether she was to accept freight or passengers here. A further message from the head office at New York is expected to reach here this evening and definite news concerning the movements of the ship is being eagerly awaited.

Away Thirty Years.

Mr. B. F. Forrestal, Vice-President of the Iron Mountain Mining Co., of Duluth, is here on a visit, accompanied by his wife and son. He is a native of Bay de Verde, but was away for thirty years. The principal cause of Mr. Forrestal's return was the death of his sister Mrs. A. King, who, unfortunately, was buried before he arrived. By the express this evening Mr. Forrestal leaves again for the United States.

Admiral Asked For Explanation.

London, Sept. 21.—Rear-Admiral Ernest C. T. Troubridge, Commander of the Mediterranean Cruiser Squadron, has been relieved from duty, and summoned home to explain the escape of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

Fishery Reports.

Sept. 19, from T. O'Brien (Point Amour to Red Bay).—The total catch is 2,000 quintals and for last week nil. The fishery is now over and practically all the fishermen have returned to Newfoundland. The Meigle's next trip will take home the few remaining crews. Several large icebergs are now in the Straits.

At the City Hall.

The Chairman and full Board were present at last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and adopted the following business was transacted:—

A letter from Dr. Keegan relative to the condition of that part of the road from the Butterine Factory to the Hospital Gate, was read. This section of the road is in bad condition and causes much injury to patients being conveyed to the hospital. The matter will be attended to.

W. V. Drayton wrote complaining of the inefficient water supply at the Cochrane Hotel and asked for a new service, for which he was prepared to pay. The Engineer will report.

A letter from Mr. F. Longly, of New York, Consulting Engineer, was read, and stated that he would leave for here about the middle of next week.

The Gas Company sent a copy of a letter forwarded the Board some time ago in which application was made for permission to open the street on Le Marchant Road. The first letter evidently miscarried, but in the meantime the work was done without the Engineer's approval. An enquiry into the matter was ordered.

P. J. O'Reilly complained of the sidewalk on William Street. The Engineer will report.

Mrs. J. Mosker applied for permission to repair houses on Notre Dame Street. Referred to the Engineer.

An exhaustive report from the Water Committee was read, and discussion was deferred until a further meeting.

The Engineer's report was read and adopted.

An application to build on Fitzpatrick's Field was refused.

The Chairman pointed out that the remedy was simple. It was only necessary for the owner of the property to agree to pay for the making of the street and the laying of water and sewerage pipes, and the Board would no doubt be willing to proceed at once with the work. The law provides for this course.

The following tenders for repairs to the retaining wall at the foot of Victoria Street were opened and read:—George Clarke, $190; Spratt Bros., $180; Coady and Murphy, $190; White Bros., $187; J. Ivey, $110; J. O'Keefe, $88; R. G. Sutton, $80. The contract was awarded R. G. Sutton.

The Knitting Mills, Alexander St., will be allowed to use hydrants for fire protection, subject to the directions of the Engineer.

The Secretary will enquire as to whether J. J. Duff conducts three or six bowling alleys, so as to arrange for the collection of taxes.

The Chairman called the attention of the Board to Sec. 11 of Amendments to the Municipal Act, 1910, which provides that the letting for habitation of a tenement not exceeding Fifty Dollars, implies that the said tenement is fit for habitation.

There were numbers of houses let in the city which were in a most dilapidated condition, and he suggested that whatever action is possible under the Act should be taken to cause them to be repaired.

The matter was referred to the Solicitor for advice as to procedure.

The meeting adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

A Thought for the Times

THE WAR—CHAPTER XII.
I. C. MORRIS.

O star of Europe's peace!
O gentle dove so much adored;
Base men have clipped thy wings, and curbed thy flight.

A great heathen writer has stated that "as all men are human, then all are brothers." A great Christian author stated when speaking to the Athenians on Mar's Hill that "God had made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on the face of the earth." The royal singer of ancient Israel said: "The earth had He given to the children of men."

In these three statements we have one fundamental truth—the truth of human brotherhood. Men's skin differs in color but blood does not differ. It is red the world over: in black and white alike. The human organism of every man is the same, and the longings of the human heart tell but one tale. These yearnings aspire upward; and though beaten down by conditions, and battered by sin, they still strive for the mastery, and struggle for expansion.

Ten thousand conditions have hindered the progress of mankind, and ten thousand alliances have contributed to its downfall. These forces are seen and unseen, moral and physical, national and international, and they may be classified under the headings of pestilence, war and famine; for within these lie most of the evils which beset mankind.

Pestilence we may not at all times be able to prevent, famine we cannot control; but war should certainly lie within our power; and it does lie within our power; and if rulers would but consider the rights of the people, they would settle their disputes without appealing to arms. The mind of the people is not in favor of war. Their intelligence tells them that it is a blind mistake, that it is a wrong, and that it is criminal. They know that humanity has suffered enough by the scourge of war, and that the record of the centuries has been deepened by the blood of its warriors.

They know all this. They know it because they have felt its bitterness, because they have suffered its horror, and endured its tragedies; and that into their soul the iron of its relentless heel has entered. History's page is one of blood, and it is alike in every nation, and has been so in every age. Men savage have fought. Men ignorant have quarrelled. Men angered have murdered. For these there may be some excuse, for like the men who stoned Stephen, they knew not what they did.

But what excuse can be offered for such butchery as is now being executed? Not ignorance surely? Not savagery, certainly? Not even anger? What then is it? Simply uncontrolled authority. Some say it was the spirit of conquest that precipitated this war, others say that it was the spirit of rivalry and national jealousy; but by whatever name it may be called, or by whatever cause this war may have been precipitated, it resolves itself into one great, one tremendous, one alarming, and one stupendous fact—the fact of absolute and uncontrolled authority being placed within the power of one man, or of one class of men.

The war is on and he world cannot stop it, and the sovereign power of the people is set at naught. And this is the idolized, and boastful, intelligent twentieth century. The age, when, on every hand, the claims of democracy are propounded, and the voice of the people is supposed to be heard. During the reign of peace these claims seemed to count for something, but now that war is ablaze they appear to have forfeited their right. The war is a blunder of one extreme; but the extreme of democracy would prove just as great an evil. Poor fallen humanity has long been the victim of its own extremes which have kept it so far apart that it does not take time to look into the face of its fellow and learn that all men are brothers. Only the few recognize this. The heathen philosopher saw it. Paul preached it, and David sang of it, but nineteen centuries have not proved sufficient to impart the lesson to the world.

The angels sang of peace when they heralded forth on the midnight silence their heavenly song, and their message was caught by the ready ear of the humble shepherds: "Peace on earth," said they, "and good-will to men," continued they. The shepherds, we say, caught the song, and they interpreted its strains, and in joyful obedience they hastened away to Bethlehem to find the "Prince of Peace."

They found Him there and then. The scene which they met was one of peace and of quietude. No shouting of war. No noise of artillery. Nothing very great. But there was peace. The guardianship of Joseph, the tenderness of the Virgin Mother,

Use the complete dollar outfit of Catarrhzone; it always does the work; small size 50c, sample trial size 25c; sold by dealers everywhere.

and the halo of the innocent babe, all breathed forth the spirit of peace, and when the shepherds looked on, they beheld a forecast of the "world to be" when the Prince of Peace should reign, and when the world, tired of its clashing of arms, and wearied of its "war dreams" should lay them aside, and when "men should brothers be the wide world over."

Royal Engineers

DARED DEATH AT SOISSONS.

Have, Sept. 19.—The blowing up of the bridge over the Aisne at Soissons in the long retreat from Mons was accomplished after eleven British engineers, one by one, had given their lives in a vain effort to light the fuse. A twelfth man tried and died, but not until after he had accomplished his mission. The story of heroism equalled that displayed at the destruction of the gates of Delhi was told here to-day by Gaston Bossier, a private in the 66th Cuirassiers better known as "Darina," a singer at the Comedie Francaise.

"We were together, the Cuirassiers of France and the British Royal Engineers," he says, "as we retreated across the Aisne at Soissons, before the tables were turned by the battle of the Marne. The Germans advanced rapidly, trying to rush masses of soldiers across. Bridge after bridge had to be blown up. The German sharpshooters were firing at us from a clump of trees, and the mirailousness were working havoc among the allies. Suddenly a party of British engineers rushed toward a bridge. They lost heavily, but succeeded in laying powder sufficient to destroy it. Before they could light it all of them were killed. We waited while another party of brave engineers crept near the bridge. They took to cover, but the Germans got the range and continued a deadly fire.

"Then we Frenchmen watched what we must remember to our dying day. One engineer suddenly dashed alone toward the bridge. He was killed before he reached half way there. A second followed and fell almost upon the body of his comrade. A third, a fourth and fifth ran in succession the gauntlet of merciless German fire and met the same death. In the same way each followed his comrade until eleven had been killed.

"The German fire seemed to slacken for an instant, and in that instant the bridge was blown up for the twelfth man, dashing across the space lined with bodies of his comrades, reached the fuse and lighted it. The bridge went up with a roar as the engineer fell before the German rifle shots.

Bossier was a prisoner of the Germans for some time, but was rescued by the British. He told shocking details witnessed by himself, although wounded in the leg, was dragged on his knees with his hands tied behind him, while a lancer thrust his lance against his back. Drivers of transport wagons often cut at him with their whips as he passed.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be used to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. — sept 17/14

Dick Rudolph.

Red McGhee says: Dja ever play that game o' Rhum? M o s t guys, I guess, have played it some. It's funny how it goes. You have a card, not worth a rap and chuck fit. Zip! Some other chap just snaps it up an' throws. Well, jumpin' to the baseball y a r d, Dick Rudolph seems to be that card an' Muggsy laid it down. For Stallings played next to McGraw. When Muggsy discarded Stallings' paw anaged Dick for Boston town.

Dick's right arm go to workin' fine in Canada in nineteen-nine with of Toronto's crew. The Giants grabbed him off next year but Muggsy soon began to fear he wouldn't ever do. So, out admit, Dick floated 'round till last year when the Braves' boss found that he could use his stants. Dick pitched right in, took off his coat an' got aboard the sinkin' boat. It gave the one big chance.

An' chance it was. Jus' take a pike at how that team began to hike when Dick got on his stride. Those nine big wins that he copped straight sure size up like a speedy gait for one who's chucked 'side. An' jus' to hand McGraw the launch he took the Giants on his staff an' beat 'em once or twice. If those Braves cop the big burgee Jawn J, will seek a bugzery an' pack his head in tea.

Household Notes

There is no better silver polish than Spanish whiting, rubbed on with ammonia or alcohol. The silver should be finished in boiling hot suds.

A delightful serving tray is made with a black frame and an old-gold tattered background, upon which are mounted three peacock feathers under glass.

Window shades will last twice as long if taken down and out into the sunshine and unrolled while someone else wipes both sides with a clean duster.

Sweet potatoes can be stuffed as well as white ones. Bake, then scoop them out, mash, season with butter, pepper and salt, replace in the shells and heat well.

A dark straw hat may be cleaned with an old piece of velvet smeared with butter. Leave the butter on for fifteen minutes and polish with a dry piece of velvet.

Palms that are kept in the house in the winter time should have their leaves sponged once a week with lukewarm water, to which a little milk has been added.

For whitening the hands, there is nothing better than almond meal. Reduce it to a powder, put it in a little white muslin bag and rub it over the hands while they are wet.

When canning and preserving, it is best to purchase new rubbers each time, as the old ones are apt to be hard and dead, and for that reason will not make the jars airtight.

It is said that a pound of common washing soda dissolved in a gallon of boiling water and sprinkled over the coal fire will insure greater heat and great economy in coal.

Machine Guns.

By GERGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Strash."

Machine guns came into style about the time hard work of all sorts became unfashionable.

Killing men by hand during a war was a tedious and costly process. The soldier had to load his rifle after each execution, and sometimes a slow worker could only shoot two or three of the enemy at a time. Then science stepped in and provided the machine gun, a neat and clever little mechanism which can produce as many obituaries in ten minutes as the old-fashioned piece-worker could codd up in a week.

The machine gun loads and fires itself and shoots two or three hundred large, ruinous bullets per minute, with one man to feed long strings of cartridges into the gun and another to aim it where the enemy is thickest. More widows and orphans can be created in an afternoon than could be made by one hundred knights of old in a two weeks' campaign.

There were no machine guns in the Civil War and upwards of a million soldiers had to be shot by hand. This job took upwards of four years, while the Japanese and Russians got through with almost as much of the same kind of work in six months.

Each year better and deadlier machine guns are being invented, but the pay of the soldier has not gone up any since 1860. For the same old amount per month he has to march boldly up a hill while a hundred machine guns are cutting the atmosphere into cold siew, and when he expires, with thirty-seven assorted bullet holes in vital spots, his widow draws the same little pension, and the stay-at-home statesmen yawn as loudly as of yore over the extravagance of the government in giving it to her.

This makes it evident that the common soldier ought to unionize. If he were to charge $14 a month for being shot by hand and $250 a month for machine gun work, war would soon stop for lack of ability to meet its payroll.

No Advance in Prices.

The prices on Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "A", Stafford's Phoratoxine Cough Cure remain the same as when we placed them for sale in Newfoundland 2 years ago.

Every Drug that is used in the manufacture of these 3 preparations have increased in price considerably, but we are still going to keep them at the same "selling" prices both Wholesale and Retail.

"SOUND ADVICE."

If you have contracted a Cold in some way or other and this Cold has developed into a Cough it would be advisable to try the following treatment:—

Mix equal parts of Stafford's Liniment and Camphorated Oil together and apply to the Chest and Back 3 times a day, rubbing in well every time.

Also:—

Take from one to two teaspoonfuls of Stafford's Phoratoxine Cough and Cold Cure every 3 hours during the day.

The above Treatment has been successful in many cases and perhaps yours will be another one added to the list.

Why not try this Treatment?

Machine Guns.

Machine guns came into style about the time hard work of all sorts became unfashionable.

Killing men by hand during a war was a tedious and costly process. The soldier had to load his rifle after each execution, and sometimes a slow worker could only shoot two or three of the enemy at a time. Then science stepped in and provided the machine gun, a neat and clever little mechanism which can produce as many obituaries in ten minutes as the old-fashioned piece-worker could codd up in a week.

The machine gun loads and fires itself and shoots two or three hundred large, ruinous bullets per minute, with one man to feed long strings of cartridges into the gun and another to aim it where the enemy is thickest. More widows and orphans can be created in an afternoon than could be made by one hundred knights of old in a two weeks' campaign.

There were no machine guns in the Civil War and upwards of a million soldiers had to be shot by hand. This job took upwards of four years, while the Japanese and Russians got through with almost as much of the same kind of work in six months.

Each year better and deadlier machine guns are being invented, but the pay of the soldier has not gone up any since 1860. For the same old amount per month he has to march boldly up a hill while a hundred machine guns are cutting the atmosphere into cold siew, and when he expires, with thirty-seven assorted bullet holes in vital spots, his widow draws the same little pension, and the stay-at-home statesmen yawn as loudly as of yore over the extravagance of the government in giving it to her.

This makes it evident that the common soldier ought to unionize. If he were to charge $14 a month for being shot by hand and $250 a month for machine gun work, war would soon stop for lack of ability to meet its payroll.

The Crescent Picture Palace.

Presents a Franco-German War Picture to-day,

THE NEW MAGDALEN,

Feature in 2 Reels. Everybody has read Wilkie Collins' novel, founded on an incident of the Franco-German War. This great work is pictured in the above feature.

"THE CUB"—A stirring political drama. The grafting alderman and the managing editor meet to arrange details of a big scoop. The "Cub" with a dictagraph and policeman spoil their little game.

"THE WIDOW'S FOLLY" is a lively western comedy-drama, which conveys a timely lesson and a warning.

MISS CLARK sings on Friday a medley of Scotch airs. On Saturday a medley of Irish airs, and "Sweethearts," waltz. The usual big matinee on Saturday afternoon.

On Monday MR. FREDERICK KNIGHTS, Boston Tenor, will appear in New Songs.

THE NICKEL--Friday and Saturday.

Featuring another splendid two-part Social Drama by the popular Vitagraph Players, entitled

"HEARTEASE."

This excellently constituted story of an unrequited love is touchingly depicted by a brilliant cast of players, headed by L. Rodger Lytton, one of the most highly recognized interpreters of the silent drama.

FATHE WEEKLY—A whole reel of world's events.

THE BRACELET—Social drama.

A RIDE FOR A BRIDE—A Keystone comedy.

DeWITT C. CAIRNS sings Ernest R. Ball's famous vocal success, "Good-bye, my love, good-bye."

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

A brush dipped in pulverized burnt alum and brushed over gold-threaded articles that are tarnished will make them look like new.

To preserve meat in hot weather, wash over with very weak vinegar and water, and then cover with slices of raw onion. Before cooking remove the onion and rinse in clear cold water.

Eggplant stuffed is delicious. Cut the eggplant in two, scoop out each half with a silver spoon, boil till tender and season, adding a small quantity of breadcrumbs. Roll the shells and brown.

Cauliflower is delicious if boiled until it is tender, then drain and put into a baking dish. Make a drawn butter dressing and pour over it; then grate cheese on the top, set in the oven until it is brown, and serve.

To reduce the expense of running the gas range the following suggestions are made: Do not light the gas and then fill the teakettle. Do not cook vegetables and try to keep them hot, but turn the gas off and then when you are ready to serve put them on to heat. Remember that when the oven is going it is possible to cook vegetables in the warming oven. After a pot has started boiling it will keep boiling on the simmering burner. Remember that red flames wastes the gas and gives less heat; turn the burner down until the flame is blue.

SEPTEMBER 26.
New Moon—19th.
Days Past—268 To Come—96
ADMIRAL LORD COLLINGWOOD born 1750. First saw service in the American war and fought on shore at the Battle of Bunker Hill (1775). In the "Royal Sovereign" he was second in command to Nelson at Trafalgar and assumed command on the latter's death.
JOHN SIMS LEEVES born 1818. English tenor vocalist with a voice of rare richness and volume. From 1841-42 he sang in tenor parts at Drury Lane, and subsequently went to Paris and Milan to pursue a course of study. After his return in 1857 he soon acquired an almost unrivalled reputation as a tenor vocalist and continued to sing until shortly before his death, being then 82.
MARQUIS WELLESLEY died 1842, aged 84. He was the elder brother of the Duke of Wellington and distinguished himself as Governor-General of India in which he conceived schemes which ended in the breaking up of the Maratha power and the expulsion of the French from India.
F. W. FABER died 1863, aged 49. The hymn-writer and oratorian who was educated for the English Church but under the influence of Cardinal Newman went over to the Church of Rome. His hymns are remarkable for their lofty spirituality and beauty of form.

SEPTEMBER 27.
Days Past—269 To Come—95
16th Sunday after Trinity.
GEORGE CRUIKSHANK born 1792. English caricaturist, chiefly remembered by his squibs against George IV and the Comic Almanack, the predecessor of Punch. He illustrated many of Dickens' books but it was as a moralist that he is best known in most of his later work.
BOSSUET born 1627. An eminent French Bishop and theologian, whose sermons are of striking eloquence, and whose historical and controversial works are of high literary merit.
BATTLE OF BUSHACO 1819. An engagement between the French and Wellington in which the latter was forced to retreat, which he carried out in such a masterly way that the English troops reached Torres Vedras undefeated and in good order.

Pray, Pray Ye, and Wait.
(The Patriot's View.)
With events blowing whither no foresight can tell,
The counsel is wise:
Pray, pray ye, and wait,
In no rigmoré, under no fishy spell,
But heart unto heart,
With God at the gate!
The Belgians, stout-hearted, have led us like waves,
Their pluck has led in its track of dismay;
With the world afloat, they have stubborn withstood
The Kaiser and his blood-bartered for blood—
With their homes sacrificed the nations to save,
They have dared to hold back the storm's tidal wave—
God's hand on events,
As pray we and wait.
And what is there then for us self-adviced?
The counsel is wise:
Pray, pray ye, and wait,
Till the path not yet trodden becomes undisguised,
As pray we and wait we.
Britannia still holds her sway on the seas:
Her flag emboldens freedom on every breeze;
Fair France is soul-quickened to conquer or die,
Tricolor in hand, as the German drive night:
The Russians halt westward a horde, 'gainst a horde,
Prepared to unseize the Kaiser's drawn sword—
God's hand on events,
As pray we and wait.
What further then is there we home-birds should do?
The counsel is wise:
Pray, pray ye, and wait!
Is the campaigning ours to guide through and through,
While expatriate plumes,
With God at the gate?
Our Kitchener stands a revealed providence:
More than once he has turned down envy's pretence:
And his is it now to ward off surprise.
In spite of all babbling and notion-mixed lies,
He knows what is what, and a trained battle-brunt,
With "Boys" at his elbow, and French at the front—
God's hand on events,
While pray we and wait.

It will soon be a' revival,
Newfoundland,
For we're going to the war,
Newfoundland,
With the Frenchmen and the Bear
And Tommy Atkins we'll be there,
Oh, won't old Billy swear,
Newfoundland,
Thought he'd wade through Belgium's
streams,
Newfoundland,
And blow France to smithereens,
Newfoundland;
He thought England would stand by
And let France and Belgium die
He sure didn't know John Bull,
Newfoundland.
Chorus:
Good-bye dear old Terra Nova,
Good-bye dear old Newfoundland,
When we get to the front we'll tell
the Kaiser,
To prepare for his last stand;
For our boys in khaki are sailing to a rendezvous across the sea
So now Kaiser William don't get nervous
When you see them on your lee.
Hark ye to the bugle call,
Newfoundland,
She'll have our best, our all,
Newfoundland,
To the front we'll hasten oh,
To fight the Mother Country's foe,
We'll make German claret flow,
Newfoundland.
Won't his nightingales be sore,
Newfoundland,
When we knock at his front door,
Newfoundland,
The would-be ruler of the moon
Will wish he'd kept a spare halloo
When he sees our boys so soon,
Newfoundland.

An Act Respecting Stamp Duties.
[Passed September 7th, 1914.]
Be it enacted by the Governor, the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, in Legislative Session convened, as follows:—
1. From and after the commencement of this Act there shall be paid for the use of His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, upon the several instruments mentioned in the Schedule hereto, the several duties in the said Schedule specified.
2. No such instrument executed after the commencement of this Act in this Colony, or relating wherever executed to any property situate or to any matter or thing done or to be done in this Colony shall, except in criminal proceedings, be pleaded, given in evidence or admitted to be good, useful or available in law or equity unless it is duly stamped in accordance with the provisions of this Act.
3. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any Bank note payable to bearer or on demand, issued or circulated by any Bank doing business in the Colony.
4. If any Bank doing business in this Colony or any branch of such bank issues any cheque not duly stamped, the manager of such bank or branch shall be liable for every offence to a penalty of Ten dollars, to be recovered in a summary manner before a Stipendiary Magistrate.
5. Every instrument to which this Act applies shall be stamped with adhesive or impressed stamps of value equal to the duty payable thereon, and for the purpose of so stamping any of the instruments in the Schedule hereto, either stamps provided or procured for the purpose of the Act of 61 Vic., Cap. 14, entitled "An Act respecting the Payment of Certain Fees and Charges by Stamps," or ordinary postage stamps may be used.
6. In this Act "instrument" means any paper or writing mentioned in the Schedule.
7. An instrument shall not be deemed to be duly stamped unless the stamp affixed thereto is cancelled.
8. All the provisions of the Act of 61 Vic., Cap. 14, entitled "An Act respecting the Payment of Certain Fees and Charges by Stamps" shall apply to this Act and the Schedule hereto, and this Act and the Act of 61 Vic., Cap. 14, may be cited together as "The Stamp Acts, 1898-1914."
9. The Governor in Council shall make rules and regulations as to the affixing of stamps to all instruments under this Act and the cancelling of the same. All such rules and regulations, when published in the Royal Gazette and one other paper published in the Colony, shall have the force and effect of law.
10. This Act shall come into operation on the 1st day of October, 1914.

Published by Authority

Under the provisions of "The Stamp Acts, 1898-1914" His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Rules and Regulations respecting Stamp Duties.
JOHN R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary,
Department of the Colonial Secretary,
Sept. 15th, 1914.
1.—Every instrument shall be stamped on its face.
2.—Cancellation of Stamps shall be made by person cancelling by writing name or initials, with date, across Stamp.
3.—Bills of Exchange, Cheques, Promissory Notes, Bills of Lading, Shipping receipts and Charter Parties shall be stamped and the Stamps thereon cancelled.—
(1) Bills of Exchange, Cheques, Promissory Notes drawn in the Colony by the person signing the same. Provided that in the case of a Cheque on a Banker, the Banker to whom it is presented for payment may, if it is unstamped, stamp the same and cancel the stamp.

(2) Bills of Exchange, Cheques and Promissory Notes drawn or made outside the Colony by the person into whose hands same shall come before the same is paid or negotiated.
(3) Bills of Lading and Shipping Receipts by the shipper. Provided that if presented unstamped they may be stamped by person receiving same.
4.—Charter Parties by the Charterer.
5.—The person on whom the obligation to stamp and cancel is imposed by these Rules, shall be deemed to be a person assenting to an instrument, and if he issues such an instrument without its proper stamp or without properly cancelling same he shall be liable to the penalties imposed by Section 23 of the Act of Victoria, Cap. 14, entitled "An Act respecting the payment of certain fees and charges by stamps."

Lord Rosebery's Thrilling Speech.

"WE ARE FIGHTING TO PREVENT A SHAME AND DEFEAT SUCH AS BRITAIN HAS NEVER SUSTAINED."

Lord Rosebery delivered a thrilling speech on the war last Saturday at Broadburn, Linlithgow.

"We have met," he said, "at a very solemn moment in the history of this country—more solemn, I think, than any that has occurred in the history of the world—and yet a month ago, say on the 1st of August, we were all at peace, with scarcely a thought of war. Within a month our armies have been hewing their way through desperate odds. We have had two lists of casualties and may soon have a third or fourth. Our fleet has been in action. The whole face of Europe is convulsed, as by an earthquake, with the march of millions of armed men. What a change, and in how short a time, and how did this change come about?"

A SPARK IN THE MAGAZINE.
"We shall not know for some years to come the secret history of what brought about this war. We know the simple outside facts—the simple surface facts that Austria declared war against Serbia, that Russia declared she must stand by Serbia, that Germany said she must stand by Austria, and that France said she must stand by Russia. It was really a spark in the midst of the great powder magazine which the nations of Europe have been building up for the last twenty or thirty years—a spark alighting in that tremendous powder magazine which, with infinite toil—misapplied toil, as I think—the nations of Europe have been constructing."

"When you go on building up armaments against one another, there comes a time when either the guns go off themselves, or else the people say: 'We can no longer bear this burden of suspense. We had better make an end of it and come to blows at once.'"

HOW WE CAME IN.
"How do we come in? (Cheers.) All through the correspondence that led up to the declaration of war you will see that our Government, and, of course, its mouthpiece and skilful agent, Sir Edward Grey—(cheers)—was skilful and energetic and un-ing in trying to suggest methods by which peace might be preserved. (Cheers.) I do not think that he had a fair chance, because the time was too short, and all the time the armies were being mobilized, and when armies are being mobilized war becomes almost inevitable. But, at any rate, that was our part in the general contentions of Europe—peace. (Hear, hear.)

"Our second was this—honor. (Cheers.) We were parties to a treaty, to which France and the kingdom of Prussia were also parties, guaranteeing the independence and the integrity of Belgium. We determined, rightly or wrongly, wisely or unwisely, but I think rightly and wisely—(hear, hear)—that so long as any power remained in the arm of Great Britain she was bound not to go back upon her pledged word to Belgium, and she was determined that if Germany were determined to violate her word Great Britain would not violate hers."

WORLD'S GREATEST WAR.
"This is the greatest war that the world has ever seen—beyond all comparison the greatest war the world has ever seen. The Battle of Leipzig, in which Russia, Austria and Prussia fought against the Emperor Napoleon and crushed him, was called the Battle of the Nations, but it was not the battle of the nations; it was the battle of great armies. It was reserved for this war to be the Battle of the Nations. Every man on the continent of Europe who can bear arms is under arms at this moment, excepting in a few countries. Among all the Great Powers of Europe, except Italy every man at this moment is under arms. But we are not in that position. We have never gone in for conscription; we have never demanded that every man should bear arms for his country. But remember this: that by the common law of Great Britain every man, valid and capable of bearing arms, is bound at the call of his country to do so.

A RIGHTEOUS CAUSE.

"There is one thing that is perfectly clear in all this matter—those who go to fight, will go to fight in a righteous cause. (Loud cheers.) We are fighting for the independence of Belgium against a Power which guaranteed it and has destroyed it; we are fighting for the freedom of France, a friendly Power who is allied with ourselves; but we are also fighting for the sanctity of the public law of Europe—(loud cheers)—which, if our enemies be the conquerors, is torn up and destroyed for ever."

"When the German Foreign Secretary was asked if he was really going to infringe the neutrality of Belgium, he said: 'You are not going to war for that—going to war for a scrap of paper.' A great Power that treats 'scraps of paper' like that is not unlikely to be scrapped herself. The German Chancellor, when he vindicated this policy in Parliament, said, 'We knew we were doing wrong in invading the neutrality of Belgium, but we were compelled to do wrong.' A nation that begins a great war by declaring that its foundation is wrong and that it is obliged to do wrong, is likely to fare badly if there be a God in Heaven. (Great cheering.)"

"Then we are not merely fighting for Belgium, France and the sanctity of public law, but we are also fighting for ourselves. We do not fight to gain an acre of territory, we do not fight to gain any advantage for ourselves; we only fight to secure our own liberties against an oppression which would be intolerable."

"I know that we have seen wars in our time in which the loss of a province or two ended the war. That will not be so in this. We have seen wars in which an indemnity of money put an end to the war; that will not be so now."

IF WE WERE BEATEN.

"Make no mistake, this is a fight to a finish. If we go under now, we go under for ever. I do not ask you to suggest to yourselves that you will go under for a moment—(cries of 'Never!')—but if you are not going under every man who is capable of defending his country is bound to step into the breach. (Cheers.)"

"Just think! Try and imagine what it would be if we were beaten. I do not suppose we should be annexed as a province. That is unthinkable—to see foreign uniforms, foreign police, foreign laws, foreign taxgatherers in our country. That I discard as absolutely impossible. But there is another very improbable contingency which might happen—which would happen if we were defeated—which is that we would be reduced at once to an inferior Power, living at the good-will of our superior lord, living on sufferance, our Army limited, our Navy limited, our Empire cut up and divided among the plunderers, a position so abject that we can't realize it now."

"If we were to sink to be a third-rate Power, in the position that I have described, I for one would from my heart and soul rather that all our people as they now exist were to pass into exile and into death, and leave this island vacant for some superior race. (Cheers.)"

WE SHALL WIN.

"We are going to win, because a nation and an Empire like ours cannot be extinguished by any such warfare as this."

"We are going to win because we have our people united as they never have been before. (Cheers.)"

"We are going to win because our Dominions and empires outside these islands vie with each other in generous emulation as to which shall give us most support in supplies and money and men."

"And above all, we are going to win because we have a high, a pure and a just cause, and we can appeal with humble, but, I think, earnest confidence to Him, who in the words of our beautiful old paraphrase, we recognize as the "God of Bethel, by whose hand Our people still are led."

The Run is at the Gate.

Herman Ridder and other German residents in America complain bitterly of the partisanship and bias of the American press. Undeniably, our early information was almost uniformly friendly to the Allies—and this for the obvious reason that our first despatches came to us from Paris and London. But the sympathies of our people were not determined by this accident. Moreover, these sympathies would not gladly share the generous enthusiasms and aspirations of a nation that has given the world Beethoven, Wagner and Goethe? But, as this war proceeds, its character as a war against civilization is more and more definitely suggested. Here, for example, is the wireless account of Louvain's fate: 'Gavillans of the Belgian town of Louvain made a perfidious attack on German troops while fighting. Louvain was punished by the destruction of the city.'

Misrepresentation, no doubt, like the reports of Prussian mutilations of wounded Belgians and Britons; news colored to prejudice humanitarians against the Fatherland! But no—the German Embassy at Washington issued this damning news. Prussia is no more ashamed of her Louvain atrocities than of her armies who threw bombs upon women and children in Antwerp and Paris. Now, this war is, of course, founded upon a brutal cynicism and total disregard of vows and pledges—that Berlin diplomats refer to sneeringly as "scraps of paper."

But what is the conceived advantage even in a war like this, of turning more than forty thousand human beings into homeless vagrants? Was it to punish the boys who fired from behind hedges and chimney pots at the despoilers of their countryside? If there is any law of nations governing war, Germany put herself beyond the pale in violating neutrality. Should we, all the same, reserve judgment? In justice, be it avowed, our news from Louvain is not yet complete. That the Prussians stabled their horses in the matchless Hotel de Ville, we know; but why did they not burn that edifice and St. Peter's Church, opposite we cannot imagine. Did they burn the schools of Louvain which have given so many Americans their training? They destroyed the ancient library and the university, founded almost five centuries before Bismarck and Moltke collaborated in fastening Prussia's military yoke on poor Germany's shoulders. Even today, under other auspices than Prussia's, Germany has a great future. But to-day we mourn Louvain—that held more beauty within its unfortified zone than all the German Empire has evoked since it rose from battle smoke, forty-three years since, on the fields of France. We mourn the forty thousand homeless ones—the fathers who have lost their children, the motherless ones, all the victims of Uthian blood lust. (When we re-read the history of Europe in the Dark Ages we shall understand the Goths and Vandals better than before; that much, at least, Prussia is teaching us to-day.—Collier's Weekly.)

Tortures of Rheumatism Yield to This Remedy.

A Marvel of Speed, an Unfailing Cure for Old Chronic Cases.

GET A TRIAL BOTTLE TO-DAY.

With reliable old Nerviline you can rub out the pain of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, or Neuralgia—rub it away so completely that you feel like new all all over.

It matters not how deeply seated the pain is, or how long you have had it—rubbing with the king of all liniments "Nerviline" will cure you. Nerviline is highly concentrated—about five times stronger than the ordinary white ammonia liniment—therefore it penetrates quickly—sinks in deeply—and gets right at the core of the pain at once—draws out the lameness, takes away the stiffness—eases the joints that have hurt you so much.

Out comes the pain every time you rub on Nerviline, which contains some of the most valuable pain-subduing remedies known to science—Worth its weight in gold to every family in the land, and sure to cure the emergent and minor ills of a hundred kinds that constantly arise. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c. Nerviline is sold by every dealer, everywhere.

Charge of Ninth Lancers.

(By William Watson, in the London Times.)

Melinite, lyddite, darkened heaven, But straight at the guns the Lancers rode. By the light of the rage that within them glowed— Straight at the guns, the deadly Eleven. That had raked and shelled them seven times seven. With never a halt or a needless word, At the cannon-in-ambush our horsemen spurred. Knights of liberty, glory's sons, And slew the gunners beside their guns, And captured the cannon, the roaring That darkened the earth and darkened the heaven. Then their dauntless remnant came Out of the hurricane, out of the flame Covered with smoke and dust and fame.

Shout, you shires, with a chorus sent Ringing from Calthness right to Kent. From far Northumberland down past Devon, Shout for your heroes, Britain's sons Who quenched in silence the thundering guns. That darkened like doom the golden heaven. The courage that lifted their hearts shall heaven. All who in England's name go forth From east and west from south and north.
