Typists and Stenographers,

Have You Seen the LINE-A-TIME?

The little device which when attached to your Typewriter makes typewriting a pleasure.
It serves the triple purpose of increasing the typist's capacity from 30 to 50 per cent daily, improving the quality of her work and saving her health.
The LINE-A-TIME practically eliminates the making of errors in transcribing.
It increases the output of the typewriter, because it enables the operator to utilize for transcribing the time she would otherwise spend bending over notebook or record sheet.
The LINE-A-TIME is a simple device that may be quickly adapted for use with any typewriter or billing machine, and may be placed on any desk.
It stands behind and close to the machine, and supports the "copy".
Typists who have seen it are enthusiastic over it.
Employers and office managers who are on the alert for devices that will enable their present office force and equipment to increase their daily output, with a decrease in the effort required of each person affected, will be equally enthusiastic over the LINE-A-TIME.
Let us send you one on trial, no obligation to buy. We will take it away when you are tired of it.
The cost is not a consideration.

Love in a Flour Mill

OR, The Romance of Two Loyal Hearts!

CHAPTER XXIX.

"I will see about it—the Princess will know," he said. "I want to marry you before I go down to Thorden; I want to take you there as my wife, Cara. How delighted Evelyn will be!" He said nothing about Sir Reginald.

They called the Princess into the conference, and Ronald learnt from her the magical possibilities of a special license. He stopped as late as he dared that night, and he and Smithers went off to the nearest hotel; Ronald overbrimming with joy, which was reflected by the faithful Smithers, who, bar an increased thinness and an interesting pallor, looked in all his old form.

"I'm going to be married, Smithers," said Ronald, "as soon as possible—the very first moment!" Smithers' face fell, but resumed its wonted cheerfulness as Ronald added quietly: "You'll have a mussus as well as a master; hope you don't object, Smithers?"

"Not me, sir," responded Smithers cheerfully. "The more the merrier. Beggin' your pardon, sir, I didn't mean anything in the humorous line. I wish you every 'ppiness, sir, an' the young lady. It's the same we went after that night, Mr. Ronald?"

"Why, of course, you idiot!" retorted Ronald laughingly.

"That's all right, sir. Excuse me askin'. Ahem! did you 'ppen to tell Nita, sir? I'm inquirin' out 'o curiosity, as the parrot said when he asked the sailor why they made the ship's biscuits out of 'pavin' stones."

"No," said Ronald. "I didn't see her; but no doubt Miss Cara will tell her."

Smithers shook his head gravely, but there was a twinkle in his eye.

"Ah," he said thoughtfully; "did you ever notice what a catchin' thing matrimony is, sir? It's worse than the 'oooping cough. The germs 'o the disease, as they call 'em, is in the wedding clothes. D'reckly a woman sees 'em, she gets took with the complaint. Shouldn't wonder if Nita has it right down bad—shouldn't, indeed, sir."

"Oh, lies the wind in that quarter now, does it, Smithers?" was Ronald's laughing rejoinder. "Well, it's my turn to congratulate you; and I do so with all my heart."

"Thank you, sir," said Smithers, heaving a portentous sigh, but with his eyes still twinkling. "Matrimony's a great lottery; and sometimes the people as draws the prize wishes they'd drawn a blank. But 'o course, sir, it's understood, whatever misfortune 'appens to me, I don't leave you. I tell you straight, sir, that if it's a toss up between my master an' a wife, I cries 'master' afore the coin goes up, an' I sticks to it, let it be 'eads or tails."

"Oh, I see what it is, Smithers. I've got to be hampered with you all my life, you old man of the sea."

"Same with Nita, sir," said Smithers easily. "She swears—did you ever 'ear a Hittalian girl swear, sir? It's a lesson in language, I do assure you, sir! There's a couple of us, as the man said when his wife called him a fool."

But Ronald had not counted on the chapter of accidents. On his way for the license the next morning, he looked in at his agent's for his letters; and they were so important, so insistent, that he drove straight to Eaton Square. The Princess exclaimed at his grave, disturbed face; but Cara uttered no cry. She just waited.

"There are letters from Evelyn," he said in a troubled voice. "And telegrams. My father wants me at once. Something—they do not say what; why not, I wonder!—has happened. What shall I do?"

"You must go, Ronald," said Cara at once, with her woman's common-sense. "I will wait—you will write! Ah, yes! you must go, dearest!"

He caught the first train, wired to say that he was coming; and, as he expected, Evelyn was at the station to meet him. So also was Vane, whom he had certainly not expected. Ronald stared at him over the shoulder of Evelyn, who was not ashamed to embrace her beloved brother before the respectfully averted faces of the porters and station-master.

"Vane! You here!" he exclaimed. "Looks like it," said Vane, with a grin. "I'm here, because, wherever Evelyn goes, the little lamb—that's me, old chap—is sure to go."

"Oh, I'm glad—glad!" cried Ronald, giving him a spare hand. "Well, of all the wonderful things! How did it happen—when—where—?"

Vane glanced round with the comical terror of the shy man.

"You don't want us to announce it to all these people, Desborough? We met 'twas in a wood, eh, Evie? 'To be continued in our next—when we get home."

"But what has happened?" asked Ronald anxiously, as they entered the carriage.

"Something, very dreadful!—No, no, father is all right!—And, oh, Ronnie dear, he wants you—wants you badly! He has forgiven—forgotten—all the past. And you will do the same, dear? Ah! I know you will!"

"That's all right," responded Ronald, much moved. "But—"

"Oh, wait—I can't tell you all in a minute, dear! 'The ruby is found!'"

"Yes; the Desborough Ruby, the Giant Ruby," said Vane. "You remember?"

"Yes, yes! Of course! That stupid old thing? But that isn't very dreadful," said Ronald.

"No; but we've got the thief—the murderer," said Vane in a low voice. "And he is lying in the cottage hospital, dying," continued Evelyn. "And, Ronnie, we must go there first, even before we go home. Father is there, and Mr. Lexham. The man has been lying unconscious for a long, long time; but he has recovered, and he wants to confess. He has been out of his mind; but he is sane now."

"Very well," said Ronald, "so that I see father at once." Presently he said gravely, and with heightened colour: "I've a surprise for you, Evelyn. I'm going to be married!"

She exclaimed, and caught at him. "Oh, Ronnie!—Really, truly? I'm so delighted! Tell me who she is? Where is she?"

He opened his lips, but checked himself.

"I think I'll tell the govnor first," he said.

She hugged him.

"Of course! He will like that. That's just like you, Ronnie! Isn't he good, Harry?"

"Oh, perfect angel!" responded Vane, instantly and emphatically.

They drove to the infirmary, and Ronald saw his father standing at the door. They grasped hands and looked into each other's eyes; and both knew that the past was indeed wiped are so often subject to headache—are languid, pale and nervous—because their blood is thin or insufficient. They are not really sick and hesitate to complain, but they lack that ambition and vivacity which is their birthright. They do not need drugs—but do need tonic and nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that makes richer blood, fills hollow cheeks, suppresses nervousness and establishes strength. Nourishment alone makes blood and Scott's Emulsion is the essence of concentrated nourishment, free from wines or opiates.

If mother or daughter is frail, pale or nervous, give her Scott's for one month and see the betterment. It has a wholesome, "nutty" flavor. Avoid substitutes. At any drug store.

out, that no shadow of it would darken their future.

"I'm glad you've come," said Sir Reginald, with the simple gravity of the Englishman, who is not so much ashamed of emotion as of showing it. "Has Evelyn told you the ruby is found? The man who committed the crime—and what others, God knows!—is inside here. He is falling fast. Let us go in."

They entered, and, as his eye fell upon the dying man, Ronald uttered a cry of amazement.

"I—I know him!" he said in a startled whisper.

The doctor held up his hand to silence him, and beckoned them to the bedside. Raven was lying quite still, his face already grey with the touch of Death's hand; his eyes were closed, but presently he opened them; and they all saw that they were the eyes of a sane man; the madness that had shone in them had faded out; they were sane now, and they were calm with the set calmness of the dying. Mr. Lexham sat close beside the bed, a note-book in his hand. Sir Reginald, who was a magistrate, stood beside him, with grave face and intent gaze.

The man's lips moved, and presently he said, in answer to a question by Mr. Lexham:

"Paolo Corvo. Yes; I was the lover. He stole her from me. I swore to be avenged. I went to sea—was wrecked. They thought me dead. I kept dead. I came to England, here, at Thorden, and waited my time. The devil helped me. I stole into the house—"

He stopped, raised himself with a sudden spasmodic strength, raised his hand and dealt a blow on the air. The spectators of the action shuddered.

"He died without a cry; scarcely moved. I took the ruby—and the child. His child." Ronald bent forward, a cry frozen on his lips. "I was avenged!—avenged!"

There was a pause, while he struggled for breath; then he panted on: "Why did I come back to the mill? A cunning look gleamed in his dim eyes. "The maggot lies near the bone. I was safer there. No one thought of looking near at hand. Safe until that bound came—is he dead? Where is he?" The doctor soothed him; and after a moment the weary voice was heard again. "The girl Cara is Sir Mortimer's daughter. Have you got that down? Now, write my will. Quick! I leave all to her—all. Why not? I wish to die a clean death. I restore—restore! Write quickly. She will be rich!"

"His mind is going again," whispered Sir Reginald; but Ronald shook his head.

"She will be rich! The treasure—the treasure—Tricania. I—I stole it. They were stupid owls, those Englishmen. It shall be hers. Have you written?"

Mr. Lexham held the paper before the dying man, and, with an almost superhuman effort, he signed it; it was witnessed by Sir Reginald and the doctor. Then Lemuel Raven sank back with a sigh; but in a moment he had raised himself again.

"The ruby! The ruby!" he gasped.

"That bound has it! the thief—the thief!"

Vane looked at Sir Reginald, and he took something from his pocket and held it under the fast-falling eyes. Raven peered at it, stretched out his hand to grasp it; then, with an awful cry of gloating triumph, fell back. The doctor bent over him, and drew the sheet over his face.

In silence they all passed out into the open air, and stood there looking at each other as if they were tongue-tied. Evelyn was crying, and Vane drew her to the carriage. No one spoke till they reached the library; then Sir Reginald said:

"Is it true? The child—is it possible?"

There was no answer.

Ronald stood staring at the carpet; his brain in a whirl.

"It is true; the man did not lie," said Mr. Lexham. Sir Mortimer's daughter is found—"

"But where—where is she?" demanded Sir Reginald.

Evelyn went up to him and put her hands on his breast.

"Father," she said brokenly, "let us wait for that. I—I want to tell you. Ronald is going to be married. No; I don't know to whom. He wants to tell you first. Tell him, Ronnie!"

"But where—where is she?" demanded Sir Reginald.

Evelyn went up to him and put her hands on his breast.

"Father," she said brokenly, "let us wait for that. I—I want to tell you. Ronald is going to be married. No; I don't know to whom. He wants to tell you first. Tell him, Ronnie!"

"CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE CHANCES?"

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if left alone to the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness—when a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold.

A cold is more than inconvenient—it is dangerous—the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief. There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but STAFFORD'S PHORATONE COUGH and COLD CURE is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, grippe, etc.

Price 25 cts.; Postage 5 cts. extra. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Nfld., Manufacturers of 3 Specialties: Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "41," Stafford's Phoratone Cough & Cold Cure.

Fads and Fashions.

Wool or silk jersey cloth increases in favor for sport suits. Redingotes of extreme length are said to be coming, with short cutaway fronts.

Black velvet and chiffon are very successfully combined in afternoon dresses.

The little child's hat may have a soft, not very full ruffle of lace around the face.

There is no doubt that the waist-line is growing tighter as the season advances.

The most fashionable petticoat in Paris is made of rows of black net founcing.

A very pretty skirt is made of chiffon and trimmed with wide ruffles of taffeta.

Collars which fit snugly and are high enough to wrinkle are one of the latest fads.

The rose is still worn at the waist-line, to give a note of rich color.

The smartest of street suits has no fur around the bottom of the coat.

The French woman of fashion hesitates to adopt a high bust corset. Many of the new gowns have the slightest suggestion of a bustle.

Circular cut founcings are being shown on some of the new jackets.

CHAIRMAN OF LABOR PARTY PRESSES OPINION.

John Hodge, Chairman of the Labor Party in the Commons, expressed the opinion to-day that the political crisis was over, and that there would be no general election. The debate in the Commons on Thursday settled the question, he said. The Labor Party was evenly divided on the question of delaying the election. Mr. Hodge said that he and quite a number of the Labor members would continue to support the Government on the ground that it was a matter of essential to present a united front to the enemies of Britain. So far as was to be ascertained, the Government had no intention of delaying the election. The Military Service Bill, the Government's reading of the measure in the Commons has been announced for Tuesday.

BATTLESHIP KING EDWARD SEVENTH SUNK.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The sinking of the King Edward VII. is announced by the Admiralty in the following statement: The battleship King Edward the Seventh struck a mine and, owing to heavy seas, had to be abandoned. She sank shortly afterwards. The ship's company was taken off without loss of life. Only two men were injured.

THE GALLIPOLI PENINSULAR.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—It is officially announced that the complete evacuation of Gallipoli Peninsula has been successfully completed. General Sir Charles Monro, according to an official announcement reports that only one British soldier was wounded in the evacuation. There were no casualties among the French, and that all the guns were saved, except seven worn-out ones which were blown up. General Monro states the accomplishment of this difficult task was due to General Birdwood and Davies. Invaluable assistance was rendered in the operation, one of highest difficulties, by Admiral De Roebeck and the Royal Navy.

Newfoundland Aeroplanes.

Referring to Newfoundland's effort to assist in providing aeroplanes for an Imperial Aircraft Flock, a booklet, dedicated to Queen Alexandra, says: "The thanks of the Central Committee are due to the Colonial Office and the Governors of His Majesty's Dominions Overseas; to the various Patriotic Societies; and in particular to the Patriotic Association of Newfoundland, which led the way."

Special acknowledgment is made to His Excellency the Governor, the Patriotic Association of Newfoundland, and Mr. C. R. Steer, the energetic Secretary of the Aeroplanes Committee, Mr. Wrench, the Organizing Secretary of the Overseas Club, says: "All our machines are at the front and hard at work, and the War Office has provided us with a most satisfactory account of their achievements."

Fifty of the hundred aeroplanes have already been arranged for or provided. The Newfoundland aircrafts are numbered 8, 9, 22 and 23, while the one given by the Messrs. Reid Bros. is numbered 10.

Marvellous Achievements.

The evacuation of Suva Bay and the Anzac just before Christmas was one of the most successful and biggest feats of the War. To repeat it within a few weeks and to withdraw all the military forces from the Krithia end of the Peninsula and thus to evacuate the whole Peninsula without military loss was a marvellous undertaking, and reflects the utmost credit on General Monro and Lieut-General Birdwood and Lieut-General Davies and Admiral de Rosbeck, who had charge of the gigantic undertaking. The navy met with a loss, happily not in lives, by the King Edward striking a mine, but the whole ship's company was taken off her before she sunk. This loss is the biggest loss of the official list of casualties. She was the first ship put in commission of her class, which consisted of seven battleships, King Edward VII, Dominion, Commonwealth, Zealandia, Hindustan, Hibernia, Britannia and Africa. These ships are not Dreadnoughts or super-dreadnoughts. They were planned before the dreadnought was experimented on. The King Edward was completed in 1905. Nor are they so powerful as the two Lord Nelsons, which are intermediary between them and the Dreadnoughts. The Lord Nelsons carry four 12-in. and ten 9.2-inch guns. The King Edwards carry four 12-in. and four 9.2-in. and ten 6-in. guns. Much secrecy was maintained as to the strategy which enabled the Suva Bay and Anzac undertaking to be made without material loss, and that secrecy has enabled the feat to be repeated without military loss in face of an expectation that it might be repeated and after the notice of the previous achievement. Even though we must deplore the failure of the main campaign, the brilliancy of these two achievements gives confidence in the leadership and the staff which could carry off twice in succession such remarkable achievements.

The Coal Problem — Action Taken.

It will be seen from the letter which the Colonial Secretary addressed to the coal dealers that the Government has decided to arrange for the importation of coal. This was done after the failure of the coal dealers to agree to the proposal made to them last Wednesday. On Saturday they were asked to agree to sell stocks imported before January 1st, at $3.00; and on failure to do so, the Government would take over their stocks. We understand they declined to sell at that rate, but that they would honour the orders sent by the Government or its committee, to the extent of the coal that was not under contract. It is likely a committee will be appointed to grant orders to those who wish to purchase coal in small quantities and who must purchase during the next few weeks.

How Jack Fitzgerald Was Killed.

We have been handed the following letter for publication:—Suva Bay, 11/12/15.

Dear Mrs. Fitzgerald,—I want to be one of the first from the firing line to write and console you on the loss of your son—Jack—who has been dispenser and dresser for me since Captain Carly handed him over to me and the Magnetic in the Mediterranean. I need not touch on his sterling upright and honest character, for I found him in all our relations at work in the case of the reliability, but I feel I must tell you of the noble death he died this morning. Some men were shot by snipers behind our lines last night, and though, as dispenser, he might have sat still and let the stretcher bearers bring in the wounded, he was on his feet at once and rushed out to render first aid.

In doing so he fell a prey to the deadly sniper. While he was dressing the wound, he was wounded, but still went on with his work, receiving, unfortunately, three or four more wounds, one of which proved fatal. His loss will be a great blow to you, will be felt almost as deeply by the officers and men of the First Newfoundland Regiment, who join with me in sending you their sincerest sympathy.

Believe me, yours faithfully,
M. O. 1st Nfld. ALEX. FREW.

MINNIE USHER MENEZ.
On Sunday, 9th inst., Minnie, beloved wife of Leonard C. Menez, passed peacefully to rest. Afflicted very early in life she has for the past twelve months been a sufferer from heart trouble, but her naturally bright disposition prevented even those most closely connected with her from realizing how much she suffered. Born at Brigus, C. B., 29 years ago, she was the third daughter of Annie and the late Geo. W. Rabbits. Besides her husband and two children she leaves a mother, two sisters and four brothers who although they mourn realize that her pure young life on earth is ended only that she may continue that better life promised to all who fall "Asleep in Jesus"—Com.

Klark-Urban Co.

AT THE CASINO TO-NIGHT.

Much anticipation is already shown over the engagement of the Klark-Urban Company which opens a limited engagement at the Casino Theatre to-night. The fact that such famous plays as "Within the Law," "The Divorce Question" and "The Squaw Man" are to be presented at popular prices carries more than the ordinary weight to an engagement of this kind. No similar attraction has ever attempted a repertoire as pretentious as this, or one so carefully selected and so great care in the general mounting of the plays. The complete scenic effects are carried for each and every play and no local staging will be used from the opening to the closing bill. The greatest of all New York successes, "Within the Law," which ran for two solid years at Elting Theatre, New York, will be the opening play for to-night and Tuesday night, and Wednesday matinee. Seats on sale at the Atlantic Bookstore.

Dear Sir,—

At a meeting of the Executive Council, held on Thursday afternoon, at which the Opposition in the House were also present, the following resolutions were adopted:—

(a) That, in view of the position of the trade in coal, the Government should immediately consider the importation of coal on the basis available, and after wards to the disposition of the coal the city coal dealers or other coal dealers.

(b) That the Prime Minister, M. P. Cashin and W. F. Cassin, be a Committee to consider and to close on the best coal to be delivered on the coal to this country.

(c) That, as to the present coal in St. John's, imported on the 1st instant, and not disposed of for delivery and coal dealers to be notified to be to sell the same at $3.00 per ton, on the 1st instant, and the committee of citizens, to be considered in the interest of the public.

(d) That if coal dealers agree to sell the coal now at the rate named, then the coal to be taken over by the Government and in such quantities as considered in the interest of the public.

(e) That the coal dealers, in accordance with the above resolution, I beg to certify of the same.

Yours truly,
J. R. BENNETT,

January 8, 1916.

Dear Sir,—
At a meeting of the Committee of the Executive Council, held this Saturday afternoon, at which the Leaders of the Opposition in the Legislature were also present, it was resolved:—

(a) That, in view of the serious position of the trade in relation to the importation of coal, the Government should immediately consider the importation of coal on the best terms available, and afterwards arrange as to the disposition of the same through the city coal dealers or otherwise;

(b) That the Prime Minister, Hon. M. P. Cashin and W. F. Coaker, Esq., M.P.A., be a Committee to enquire into and close on the best charter offered and available for the carriage of coal to this country;

(c) That, as to the present stocks of coal in St. John's, imported prior to the 1st instant, and not already disposed of for delivery under contract, coal dealers to be notified that they are to sell the same at $3 per ton, to be delivered, on the certificate of a committee of citizens, to such persons and in such quantities as may be considered in the interests of the public;

(d) That if coal dealers do not agree to sell the coal now in stock at the rate named, then the stocks to be taken over by the Government and sold to the public;

(e) That the coal dealers be notified of this decision.

In accordance with the terms of the above resolution, I beg to give you notification of the same.

Yours truly,
J. R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

SIXTH EPISODE OF "THE GODDESS TO-DAY."

"The Goddess"—the serial beautiful—and the wonderful "Who Pays" series are the principal attractions at the Nickel Theatre to-day, but of course there are other high class films. The sixth episode of "The Goddess" is an excellent one and is even better than the previous chapters. This delightful story is the most charming ever given in this city and thousands of our people are interested in it. The third episode of the "Who Pays" is entitled: "When Justice Sleeps" and is a picture that will make all think "The Floating Death" is a powerful two-part social drama in which Enid Markey and Richard C. Stanton play the leading parts. The comedy is one of the funniest of the Keystone Co. It is called "Mabel's Wilful Way" and Mabel Normand, the dainty comedienne, hands out the fun in a liberal manner. Everyone should attend to-day's programme and enjoy the beautiful pictures.

MR. DAVE PARKS, BARTONE SOLOIST, AT THE CRESCENT.

Mr. Dave Parks, baritone soloist, sings at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. Mr. Parks brings with him a large repertoire of the latest patriotic and class ballads and no doubt will have a successful season at the popular Crescent. The picture programme shows a three reel feature: "A Romance of the Navy," a great Lubin production with Ormi Hawley and Earl Metcalfe in the leading roles. "His Wife's Secret" is a fine society drama by the Essanay Company presenting G. M. Anderson. "A Clean Sweep" is a laughable Edison comedy. "Waddy and Arty" make lots of fun in "A clean sweep." "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," a great historical feature will be shown on Wednesday.

THE NEW PANTOMIME—JACK AND JILL.

The pantomime to-night will be one that every one will delight in, all the songs and dances are new and delightful. The beautiful dances arranged by Miss Madge Locke will be something to marvel at. Mr. Ballard Brown in new songs; Miss Madge Locke in all new songs and dances; while the costumes are superb. "The Terra Nova Girls," "The Sunshine Girls" and even the babies all in new songs, dances and costumes; Jack and Marie Rossley in several funny stunts; Bonnie Rossley; even the smallest girl has a new turn. The prices to meet the times have been reduced.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The feature of the pictorial section of to-night's entertainment at the British is a ripping drama of the Civil War in three parts. Bob Leonard and Ella Hall play the leading roles. The Animated Weekly News contains many interesting events which have happened recently, some of which relate to the great world conflict now raging. Madame Olive Timmons will be heard in one of Madame Melba's favourite songs entitled "Down in the Forest" by Ronald, and as a second number "Comin' through the Rye" an old favorite. Patrons are assured of a most pleasant entertainment to-night at this popular house. On Wednesday the "Black Box" and a selected duet by Madame Timmons and Prof. McCarthy will be the features of the entertainment.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.30 A.M.

SAFE CONDUCTS ISSUED.

PARIS, Jan. 8. It is announced that safe conducts have been issued to 30,000 persons to leave the city of Nancy. A special train with some of the Bez. residents aboard, arrived in Paris on Friday. Others from Nancy have gone to Dijon. Statements regarding conditions in Nancy are a result of the fact that German shells had begun to hit the town and are contained in a proclamation issued to discredit stories of destruction and panic in Nancy which has been circulating in the press.

RE-OPENING WORKS.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, To-day. Believing the situation well under control, following two days of tranquility after the rioting of Friday night, preparations are being made to re-open the plants of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., east Youngstown and Struthers.

WITHDRAWAL FROM HIRZSTEIN.

PARIS, To-day. The French troops have withdrawn from the summit of Hirzstein, south of Hartmannswierkopf. This admission is made by a communication issued by the War Office last night. The withdrawal was due to the capture by Germans of the Hill, north of Hirzstein.

THE LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day. The remaining positions, held by the Allies on the Gallipoli Peninsula, have now been abandoned. This news had been expected for several days by keen observers of the near eastern campaign for the removal of troops from Anzac and Suvla Bay three weeks ago, left no strategic advantage in the retention of the tip of the Peninsula. Nevertheless the news was received with a pang of regret by the people of the British Isles as well as the Colonies. The renewed activity of various kinds, noted by Turkish official communications the past few days, presumably have been of the nature of a preparation for the final act of the Dardanelles tragedy. Last night's Turkish official statement, covering the period from Thursday to Saturday, records the increasing effectiveness of reinforced Turkish batteries, which have been drawing in and concentrating on the Allies' remaining positions. Another pang to the British public will be caused by the announcement last night of the loss of the battleship King Edward the Seventh, which was blown up by a mine. The British official on this subject does not reveal the scene of the disaster and merely says it occurred in a heavy sea, despite which the entire crew were saved before the ship went down. The King Edward Seventh represented an investment nearly $1,600,000 and was one of the finest of the last class of pre-Dreadnoughts. She was only slightly older than the Natal, which was sunk by an internal explosion about a week ago. On the west and east fronts, there have been no developments of large importance over the week end. The German communication announces that Germans have completed the capture of positions on Hartmannswierkopf taken by the French a few days before Xmas. Greek correspondents continue to assert that Bulgarians and Germans are hastening plans for an attack on Salonika, but the Austrians are fighting hard again in a resolute attempt to reach the Adriatic from which they are only 40 miles distant at Elbasan, Albania. England's internal affairs are quiet, pending the reassembling of Parliament. There will be a full debate on the Compulsion Bill on Tuesday, with David Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, and Arthur Henderson, Labor member, who has just resigned from the Cabinet, as probable star speakers. Sir Henry Dalziel, who has been one of the most consistent critics of the Government, will also give his reasons why he supports the Government matter. The Labor Party will meet early in the week to consider its position, unless, however, the Opposition Bill develops strongly. There is no indication now. There seems to be small likelihood that the Government will feel the need of an appeal to the country.

ANOTHER GREEK PROTEST.

LONDON, To-day. The Greek Government, says Reuter's Athens correspondent, has made an energetic protest against the arrest at Mytilene of the German, Austrian and Turkish Consuls by the military authorities of the Entente Allies. These arrests have also brought a new protest from the Central Powers. The newspaper "Caita" publishes an authorized denial of the reports in the press that negotiations are in progress between Greece and Bulgaria with a view to a general understanding.

NOON.

SIZE OF THE BRITISH ARMY.

LONDON, To-day. The question of the eventual size of the British Army which the Times is settled, according to the Times, a Cabinet crisis cannot be said to have been averted or the country to be safe even from a general election. The Daily Mail in an editorial argues that unless the country is able to pay for all the soldiers required to smash Germany, the war is at best lost, and the national and individual waste is prevented. According to good authority quite a million pounds per day of the five million the war is now costing England represents sheer waste.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GAR-GET IN COWS.

"GOT WIND OF IT"

PETROGRAD, To-day. The Times Petrograd correspondent, who is visiting Russian headquarters says he learns that the Russian blow in Galicia and Bessarabia was planned with great secrecy, as a strategic means for helping the Entente Allies in the Balkans but that in the previous movements of the same kind the Germans got wind of it and begun immediately to withdraw troops from the Danube.

The recent conference in which Field Marshal Von Mackensen urged the Bulgarians to continue their attacks on Salonika, says the correspondent, should be interpreted in the light of this withdrawal. The Germans were doubtless whether the Bulgarians would pursue the adventure, once Mackensen's troops were gone, but they were obliged to withdraw them as the Russian offensive could not be gainsaid. The correspondent pays tribute to the remarkable power of the Russians have displayed in the formation of the magnificent forces now assembled along the Austro-German front. They are, he says, well supplied with ammunition in contrast to the position a year ago, when we were reduced to one shell per day per gun. It would be premature, the correspondent adds, to draw hard and fast conclusions on the result of the present moment, and many a feint and parry is likely to be witnessed before Generals Ivanoff and Von Mackensen and Archduke Joseph Ferdinand come to decisive blows. A light frost, the correspondent continues has improved the roads without stopping trenching operations and the Russians are being kept near after line of the Teutonic trenches.

DENY GERMANS WERE MASSACRED.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily News to-day prints stories of two American members of the crew on the steamer Nicosian at the time when a German submarine was shelling the Nicosian and the British patrol boat Baralong came up and sank the submarine. These men who since the incident have joined the British army, are S. T. Carson and Dempsey. Both deny absolutely that the Germans of the submarine were shot either in the water or on board the Nicosian. They are uncertain as to what flag the Baralong flew on arrival. Carson, the submarine's captain when he ordered a search of the Nicosian said nothing about not taking prisoners about shooting Germans found aboard. He supposes the report of such shooting arose from the fact that shots were merely heard which were fired by the mutineers on board the Nicosian to put wounded, mules out of their misery. Dempsey is quoted as saying that two of the Americans on board the Nicosian, who testified that they had witnessed the killing of eleven helpless Germans by British marines, Chas. D. Lichtner and H. H. Crosby, both of Crystal City, Texas, had a grudge against the English members of the Nicosian's crew.

CONGRESS OF GREEK COLONISTS.

PARIS, To-day. The Congress of Greek Colonists abroad, attended by delegates from the United States, Canada, England, France, Russia, Switzerland and Roumania, met here to-day with Gregory Triantaphyllides presiding. After several discussions of the war situation, the Congress resolved first that the urgent question was that of securing respect for the constitutional liberties of Greece; second, that it was to the interest of Greece to abandon ungratuitely and join the Allies; third, that the Congress should not break up until this task was completed, and that meanwhile power would be delegated to an executive committee charged.

Popular Citizen Celebrates Anniversary

To Mr. Slattery we extend congratulations and wish him many more years of usefulness.

The Inexcusable Thing.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Some things cannot be excused. And one of them, in my mind, is the wearing of soiled white gloves. I met a woman the other day whom I used to know when we were both in school. She was stepping out of her little closed car and bidding the fur-clad chauffeur wait while she went into the bank, sufficient evidence surely that she was reasonably prosperous. She was well-dressed, too, in every detail but one, as she paused to greet me I noticed she had on very much-soiled white gloves. She didn't have to hang onto a strap.

It seemed to me that she was without a shred of excuse for that mark of ill-breeding. She evidently had money enough to keep plenty of gloves on hand; she was in a machine and therefore had not the extension of having been obliged to hold a soiled trolley strap.

Perhaps you will agree with me that this case was without extenuating circumstances, but will hold that in other cases there might be some, as, for instance, in the case of a woman who has left her home with clean white gloves, but returns at night with the soil of a day's wear upon them. Yes, that is much less culpable than to start out with soiled gloves, but why wear white gloves in cases like that at all? Aren't dark suede or dogskin gloves much better than sure-to-be-soiled white ones?

An Explanation, Not An Excuse.

I believe it was Bismark who, having pushed himself, out of turn and without the proper introduction, into the presence of a Church dignitary, haughtily explained the rudeness by saying, "I am Bismark." That, said the dignitary, "explains but does not excuse your conduct."

That's the way I feel about soiled white gloves, that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, though they may be explained, they cannot be excused.

A torn veil is another unnecessary offence against good dressing. Perhaps one cannot always afford a new veil, but one can always omit the veil altogether. Beauty or plainness unadorned by any veil is more adorned than by a torn veil. Of course there is the possible excuse in this case that the veil has been torn during the day.

Better Good Serge Than Shoddy Silk

Shoddy silks and velvets also seem inexcusable to me. I would far rather appear in a plain, well-worn woolen suit than in a shabby, shoddy velvet, for the one would mean simply that I was poor, the other that I liked cheap, shoddy, pretentious things.

Most of us are so limited by our means that we cannot fully express our personality in our clothes. But we can at least show that we prefer the simple, the real, the unpretentious and the clean, to the shoddy, the cheaply pretentious, the imitation and the soiled.

With My Letter Friends.

Question.—In choosing a wife which type of face should be a sign of agreeableness; or, in other words, isn't the round-faced woman always more or less of a scold?

Answer.—I know some that aren't and some oval-faced that are, and vice versa. I should choose a wife by a study of her disposition rather than the shape of her face.

SWEARING OFF.

On New Year's Day the world-worn Jay, who's tired of beer and bitters, frames up an oath to cut out both, and join the Pumpelle clubbers. In gilded halls he's bought highballs, a n d brandy by the pony, and blown his kale for foaming ale, and found the whole thing phony. He's worn old rags while placing jags his saturated hide in, for lads who booze can't have good shoes and clothes they take a pride in. He had a place, but in disgrace, was fired by his employer; for boys who drink the old red ink find it the joy destroy-er. He's looped the loops with noisy troops of youths who raise the dickens; he's bumped the bumps, and in the dumps, repentance throbs and quickens. Swear off, young man, while yet you can, and leave the booze behind you; the suds you buy, the roze-and-rye, will poison you and blind you. Swear off, tired heart, the water cart is waiting at the portal, to bear you far from gilded bars, to where men sing and chortle. To Hydrantgrad it goes, my lad; climb on, ere it's a goner! There you'll win back the things you lack, your self respect, your honor.

From New York—H. M. Dix, M. B. Batley, Mrs. J. O. Hawvermale, F. and Mrs. Crane, R. Bishop, F. B. Wood, Mrs. S. Bray, and 2 children, A. Osmond, H. May.

As it is the intention to get the S. S. Stephano away again by Wednesday evening the work of discharging her will be continued night and day with a double shift of labourers. The ship has to take a big outward freight of fish.

Since the Florizal has been taken off the route a big quantity of freight has accumulated at New York and Boston and in order to relieve the congestion a special effort is being made at this end as well as at New York and Halifax to have the Stephano make as many trips as possible.

Wedding Bells.

BRADLEY-SCOTT.

At Lewisporte on the 25th day of December at the residence of the bride's parents a very pretty wedding was solemnized in the presence of a few invited friends. The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. J. Wilson. The contracting parties being Miss Madge Bradley, eldest daughter of W. W. Bradley, J. P., and Mr. Robert Scott, Sub-Collector of Fogo. The bride wore a dress of white silk crepe de chine with bridal veil and orange blossoms and was attended by her sister, Miss Daisy Bradley, who was also prettily attired in pale blue silk crepe-de-chine. The groom was supported by Mr. Ford Manuel, while the bride was given away by her father. After the ceremony a reception was held in which a few of the happy couple's immediate friends participated. The bride was the recipient of a large number of presents, including some very fine silverware from St. John's. The happy couple left for their future home at Fogo by the S. S. Ethie on December 27th, the bride being attired in a handsome travelling costume of saxe blue corduroy velvet, with hat to match. That many years of happiness may be vouchsafed to Mr. and Mrs. Scott is the sincere wish of their many friends.

Police Busy.

Immediately on her arrival last night the s.s. Stephano was searched by the police, who were endeavouring to locate a man who quit the country some time ago, after committing an offence best known to himself. However, the police were unsuccessful in their mission as the party "wanted" was not on board.

Men Of Military Age In Canada.

According to the Last Census Returns the Total is 1,468,370.

Ottawa, January 3.—In connection with the increase of the Canadian forces to half a million men, statistics from the last census bearing on the subject are of pertinent interest. By the census of 1911, the male population of Canada between the ages of 10 and 40, was 1,468,370, of whom 512,842 were married. Included in the above total were 236,082 foreign born males, twenty-five per cent. of which were Germans, Austrians, or others of alien nationality.

MINISTERS AND THEIR SALARIES

The Government seems to be realising that in the present economy example is better than precept. I hear that the new tariff is likely to be inaugurated in the most striking manner by the untidy surrender on the part of the members of the Ministry of their salaries. The Cabinet, it has already considered the matter on the initiative of the Prime Minister, who suggested a scheme whereby salaries should be reduced a third. Such a proposal, if it would do more to impress the public with the need for rigid economy than many columns of speeches, although the actual amount would constitute a relatively small item in the nation's balance sheet. Excluding the Household of Commons, the total amount received by all the members of the Ministry, including the Lord Lieutenant of the land, is about £170,000. Should this be cut down Ministers' salaries there is no doubt—indeed it is the Government's plan—that the members of the House of Commons would be asked to make a similar sacrifice. Many people think—the point has escaped the attention of auditors—have been urged by M.P.'s to reduce—that the salaries of Ministers should be stopped altogether. The war, but if this extreme step does not commend itself to the elementary representatives they at least consent to forego a proportion of their salaries. The circumstances are analogous, and ought not to be regarded as if they were.

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

The French press is at present free in Europe; it is altogether from political censorship. The present Government was formed by Socialists and Radicals stuck to a political free press, and a ship strictly limited to things of literary significance. The batch of papers just arrived here from the new regime. One may say, ample, two articles. One is an article in "l'Humanite" by M. Renaux succeeded after the assassination of Jaures to the leadership of the Socialists. It discusses the problem of Salonika, and states the arguments against the complete withdrawal of the French. The arguments, which M. Renaux states against evacuation are:—that it would be the abandonment of Serbia as a "game," and that it would be the re-attack in favour of evacuating Salonika, and would adduce the danger to the forces and the magnitude of the

MINISTERS AND THEIR SALARIES

The Government seems at last to be realising that in the matter of economy example is better than precept. I hear that the new thrift campaign is likely to be inaugurated in the most striking manner by the voluntary surrender on the part of members of the Ministry of a portion of their salaries. The Cabinet, I believe, has already considered the question on the initiative of the Prime Minister, who suggested a scheme whereby salaries should be reduced by one-third. Such a proposal, if adopted, would do more to impress the country with the need for rigid economy than many columns of speeches, even though the actual amount saved would constitute a relatively small item in the nation's balance-sheet. Excluding the Household appointments, the total amount received by all the members of the Ministry, including the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, is about £170,000. Should it be decided to cut down Ministers' salaries there is no doubt—indefinitely it is part of the Government's plan—that members of the House of Commons will be asked to make a similar sacrifice. Many people think—the point has not escaped the attention of audiences who have been urged by M.P.'s to economise—that the salaries of members should be stopped altogether during the war, but if this extreme self-denial does not commend itself to our Parliamentary representatives they should at least consent to forego a larger proportion of their salaries than Ministers. The circumstances are not analogous, and ought not to be treated as if they were.

THE FREEDOM OF THE FRENCH PRESS.

The French press is at present the freest in Europe; it is altogether free from political censorship. When the present Government was formed the Socialists and Radicals stuck out for a political free press, and a censorship strictly limited to things of military significance. The batch of French papers just arrived here from Paris show many remarkable signs of the new regime. One may take, for example, two articles. One is an article in "l'Humanite" by M. Renaudel, who succeeded after the assassination of Jaures to the leadership of the French Socialists. It discusses the problem of Salonika, and states the arguments for and against the complete withdrawal. The arguments, which M. Renaudel states against evacuation are that it would be an open check to the Allies, that it would be the abandonment of Serbia as a "gage," and that Rumania would thereupon attack Russia. In favor of evacuating Salonika M. Renaudel adduces the danger to the Allied forces and the magnitude of the enemy

RUSSIA AND RUMANIA.

In view of the present position of Rumania, and the many conflicting rumours concerning her policy, special interest attaches to a statement recently issued by the Foreign Office at Petrograd, the text of which has just been received here. This states that Russia desires a strong and independent Greece, and is ready to recognise on her behalf the territorial enlargements she needs to this end in Europe and Asia Minor, and proceeds: "The relations between Russia and Rumania, which during the last decade had been placed on the basis of good neighborly relations and common interests, became stronger still during the second Balkan Peace Treaty. Rumania is a kan war, and by reason of the Rumanian country, which has a right to

Aching Back Gets Relief Quick! One Rub with "Nerviline" Cures

Every Bit of Stiffness and Soreness Goes When "Nerviline" Is Used.

Pain in back or side is awful hard to reach. Deep in the tissue is a congested or strained muscle. It is a long way for a liniment to go. Liniments you have used have not reached it and the pain bothers you, whether moving or lying down.

What a pity you haven't tried Nerviline! Penetrating, you ask? Yes, and powerful, too. Nerviline strikes in far deeper than any application you have ever used. You might pay a dollar, ten dollars, a hundred, for that matter, but you could not equal Nerviline, either in strength, quickness of action, or permanency of relief.

If you think this too much to say for Nerviline, try it, and be convinced. If you receive from Nerviline even a little less relief from pain than this advertisement induces you to expect, you can get your money back.

The only pain remedy in the world sold under a guarantee is Nerviline—surely it is safe to try it.

Nerviline is sold by druggists everywhere 25 cents or 50 cents a bottle.

realise her national ideal. Russia has declared herself prepared to recognize the justice of these ambitions. Several Rumanian statesmen have recommended action by Rumania on the side of the Quadruple Entente. When the hour for a confraternity of arms sounds, we are certain that no thought will be shared by all Rumania, and that it will be crowned with the same success as attended the last war with Turkey.

LONDON'S RECRUITING RUSH.

London last week palpably awakened to the need for proving itself thoroughly alert in the matter of recruiting, and as the days have worn on the rush to the attestation stations has become increasingly greater. As business men went from their suburban homes to their city offices on December 9th they saw longer queues than before standing outside these places, waiting their turn to see the doctor; and though the bright frosty air gave place to a miserable rain, they patiently stayed for their turn. This was the case not only in the suburbs, but the West End, for it seems at length to have been borne in upon the young single men, as well as on the younger married and as yet childless, that the path of safety, to say nothing of patriotism, lay along the road of attestation. Even those who have been accustomed to boast that they would come "if they were fetched"—though the number of such boasters has, for sensational press purposes, been greatly exaggerated—obviously felt that there would be no doubt as to the fetching process if they, and such as they, did not present themselves before December 11. No official statement to Parliament regarding the net result is to be looked for before December 15th, and meantime it will be well to receive with caution any precise statements concerning it professing to come from "well-informed quarters." The War Office keeps its own counsel on this all-important issue and only when the secret is properly revealed can any true estimate of the immediate future in this particular be made.

THE TWO SCHOLARS.

A dramatic instance of conversation in the trenches was given to me by an officer in the Highland Light Infantry, whose pre-war years had been spent in a very different way. He is a scholar and a philosopher. He was one of a party which captured a number of Germans who had been holding the end of a trench which the British had previously captured. He had himself captured a German officer, and at the end of the affair was sitting over him. In this unusual relationship they had a conversation about the psychology of Shakespeare. It began by the German, who had recovered his breath, asking my friend what was his own business apart from war. My friend told him that he was a schoolmaster. The German said that he was a scholar, too, and in a few minutes they were discussing the psychology of Shakespeare. He began by the German, who had recovered his breath, asking my friend what was his own business apart from war. My friend told him that he was a schoolmaster. The German said that he was a scholar, too, and in a few minutes they were discussing the psychology of Shakespeare.

THE BAZAAR CRAZE IN MAYFAIR.

Bazaars are the fashionable fable of the moment. Bidding at the superb hotels just now is like living at the stores—it is one long buying and selling, and it is true that calling on a friend at any very big hotel just now in the afternoon means finding oneself in the midst of a fashionable crowd bargaining into the lounge or the ballroom, where variety stars and society ladies are selling for one charity or another. At one bazaar recently, at the hotel most patronized by royalty in the days when foreign sovereigns still visited London, £2,000 was made in one afternoon. The monster bazaar now in progress at the Albert Hall is expected to bring in an enormous sum in aid of "the professional classes" hit by the war.

A LINK WITH THE GREAT.

The latest idea at the big sales is to price everything fairly low, so great is the competition between them. Another is for the smartest and prettiest sellers to make with their own hands enticing underwear for buyers, so that Mrs. Smith, of Suburbia, goes home with a lace camisole made by Lady Jane (or her maid), a charming but ill-fitting silk petticoat cut out and put together by Miss Gerie Teddy-Bear of the latest revue, and some baby clothes no baby could get into made by Miss Betty Something, the prettiest debutante in bazaar society. Scarcely a day passes without a sale or one-day bazaar in somebody's private house, and London is one big "great sale" indefinitely extended.

THE GIRL IN THE CITY.

The shortage of men in the City suddenly became much more acute about the middle of November. The young men have gone, and their typists are taking their place. The typist is glad of the chance, and does not usually get—or expect—any extra pay. As yet there seems very few openings in the City for the highly skilled woman who lost her work at the beginning of the war, unless she is willing to begin all over again. The girls who were there already and knew the ways of the firm have been given their chance, and the new ones are all untrained and unskilled workers. The office boy is now a girl, and so is the commissionaire. The late office boy is now running the "town order" department, which is conducted over the telephone, and he is now not even a junior clerk, but a clerk. One hears this sort of conversation going on: "What about that parcel I offered you this morning? Yes, 10 per cent advance on last week. Why, my dear sir, in the present state of the market! You are adamant! Yes, I am afraid it is the best I can do." The speaker is about 15, and his "dear sir" at the other end of the line is no doubt the same age. They are talking kindly to some of the ways of commerce. In the next department a girl of 17 is ringing up a customer to say quite bravely that the a.s. — is due this evening, and the customer will get his long-overdue

Ugh! Acid Stomach, Sourness, Heartburn, Gas, Or Indigestion.

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" distress goes, reaches the stomach all

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Pape's Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Do not make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

CHRISTMAS BAZAARS IN WAR TIME.

Whatever changes this Christmas may show in London there will be none in the children's Christmas. So at any rate proclaims the toy bazaar, which now makes the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

goods next day or early Saturday morning at latest." "Saturday week, you mean," pipes up an old man with some remnants of conscience as he thinks of the congested state of the Port of London. "Oh," says the telephoner. "They're gone away quite happy." Presumably another more innocent child was at the other end.

The Eastern Trust Company.
 A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator—
 1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $381,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,300.00.
 2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business, acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
 3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
 4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
 5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.
