D.B. Weldon Library
University of Western Ontario

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. PREFATORY NOTE.

THIS little book has been made for the use of those who aim to have their practice in speaking English conform to the most approved orthoëpical usage.

This aim has always been esteemed a worthy ambition, and will continue to be so esteemed as long as the manner in which one speaks his mother-tongue is looked upon as showing more clearly than any other one thing what his culture is, and what his associations are and have been.

There are very many cultured people who would be amazed if their mispronunciations were to be pointed out to them. Not long since the writer met at the dinner-table of a friend a liberally educated member of one of the learned professions, who descanted at considerable length on the importance of speaking one's vernacular according to the best usage, maintaining that correctness in this particular is worth all the other polite accomplishments, that it is the surest criterion by which to judge a stranger's social status, etc. And yet the gentleman, much as he seemed to pride himself on his critical knowledge of English, mispronounced several words in daily use.

It is not expected that any one who has given special attention to the subject of English orthoëpy will agree with the author in every particular; but those who look at all carefully at what he has done, will see that he has taken some pains, and, further, that on a few points he hazards an impression of his own. Instance what he says about the slurring of the pronouns, and about the sound of the vowels, especially o, when standing under a rhythmical accent.

The object in view has been as much to awaken an interest in the subject-matter as to teach.

The pronunciation of the foreign names that will be found in their alphabetical places, and which are frequently mispronounced, will not, it is thought, make the book less acceptable to any, while it will, perhaps, make it more acceptable to some.

Those who discover that the same things are said in a plurality of places, will kindly remember that repetition is the only sure road to mental acquirement.

THE ORTHOËPIST

A.

THIS vowel is pronounced ā as a letter, but a as a word. In the languages of Continental Europe it usually has a sound like a in far or father, or—especially in French—like a in ant, branch, grass, etc.

Aaron—ār'un.

āb-sōl'u-to-ry.

The dictionaries say that the penultimate o in such words as declamatory, migratory, inventory, matrimony, dedicatory, derogatory, natory, category, parsimony, piscatory, postulatory, prefatory, preservatory, territory, etc., etc., is or should be pronounced like short (ʌ) or obscure (u) u; that is, like o in major, actor, factor, etc. Is this true? The penultimate o of these words falls, without an exception, under a rhythmical accent, which naturally does and should bring out, in no small degree, the quality of the vowel, though not in the same degree that it is brought out when standing under a primary accent. And yet it would be as much in harmony with the spirit of the language to say preservatōry, making the o as long as the penultimate o in protozoic, as it is to slur it to the extent we naturally do in syllables where it has no accent whatever, as, for example, in protector, protectorship, rector, rectorship, rectory, etc. It is safe to assert that it is only those specially schooled to slur this o who pronounce it according to the dictionary marking. There are many who say matrimony, and a few who say inventory; but there are probably none, in this country at least, who are consistent and uniformly suppress this o in the whole long list of words in which it is found. To do so is to take something from whatever of sonorousness the language naturally has, as all languages are sonorous in proportion to their wealth in vowel-sounds. See antinomy.

ʌb-sté'mi-ōüs.

ʌb-struse', not -strüs'.

ʌc-ʌ-dé'mi-ʌn.

ăc-cĕnt', verb; ăc-cĕnt'ed.

ăc'cĕss, or ăc-cĕss'.

The first marking is preferred by the later orthoëpists, and is sanctioned by our most careful speakers.

ăc-cĕs'sŏ-ry, or ăc'cĕs-so-ry.

Ease of utterance has shifted the accent from the first to the second syllable, where it will remain.

ăc-clĭ'māte; ăc-clĭ'mă-tize.

ăc-cŏst', not -kawst'.

The o of this word, though so marked, is not really as short as the o in not. Short o is slightly prolonged when followed by ff, ft, ss, st, or th, as in ŏff, sŏft, crĕss, cŏst, brŏth; also, in many words where it is followed by n or final ng, as in gŏne, begŏne, lŏng, prŏng, sŏng, strŏng, thŏng, thrŏng, wrŏng. The extreme short sound, in these words, is as much to be avoided as the full broad sound of a, as in haul, which in this country is so frequently heard.

ăc-crŭe', not -crŭ'.

U preceded by r or the sound of sh in the same syllable often becomes ŭ, as in rudĕ, rumor, rulĕ, rubŭ, surĕ, issuĕ.

äg'ę-täte.

äc'mę, or äc'mē.

ä'corn, not ä'cörn.

acoustics. See Supplement.

acquiesce—äk-wę-ęs'.

ą-cröss', not ą-krawst'.

ą-crös'tic, not ą-kraws'tic. See accost.

äc'tor, not äc'tò.

äd-ą-män-tē'ąn.

äd-ą-tä'tion.

ąd-dücé'.

When, in the same syllable, long u is preceded by one of the consonants d, t, l, n, s, or th, it is not easy to introduce the sound of y; hence careless speakers omit it, pronouncing duty, dooty; tune, toon; lute, loot; nuisance, noosance, etc. And yet to make the u in these words as clear and perfect as in mute, cube, etc., is over-nice, and consequently smacks of pedantry. The two extremes should be avoided with equal care.

ąd-hę'sive, not -zive.

äd'į-pōse, or äd-į-pōse', not -pōz.

äd'mi-rä-ble; äd'mi-rä-bly.

Ä-dō'nis.

äd-vänce', not äd-vänce', nor äd-vänce'.

The fifth sound of a, called the intermediate, is found chiefly in monosyllables and dissyllables. At the beginning of this century these words were generally pronounced with the full Italian a, which by the exquisites was not unfrequently exaggerated. This Walker undertook to change, and to that end marked the a of words of this class like the a in män, fät, ät, etc. The innovation, however, met with only partial success. Webster and Worcester both opposed it. Now there is a general disposition to unite in some intermediate sound between the broad ä in father, which is rarely, and the short ä in at, which is frequently heard in this country. Some of the words in which a now receives this intermediate sound are : advantage, after, aghast, alas, amass, alabaster, Alexander, answer, ant, asp, ass, bask, basket, blanch, blast, branch, brass, cask, casket, cast, castle, chaff, chance, chant, clasp, class, contrast, craft, dance, draft, draught, enchant, enhance, example, fast, flask, ganilet, gasp, ghastly, glance, glass, graft, grant, grasp, grass, hasp, lance, lass, last, mask, mass, mast, mastiff, nasty, pant, pass, past, pastor, pasture, plaster, prance, quaff, raft, rafter, rasp, sample, shaft, slander, slant, staff, task, trance, vast, waft.

äd'ver-tise, or äd-ver-tise'.

äd-vĕr'tise-mĕnt.

The vowel e before r in a monosyllable or an accented syllable in which the r is not followed by a vowel or by another r, and in derivatives of such words—especially when the syllable retains its accent, as in herd, defer, deferring, err, concern, maternal—has an intermediate sound between u in surge and e in ferry. The uncultured are wont to give the e in such words the full sound of u in surge, as murcy for mercy, furn for fern, etc. This intermediate sound is quite distinct from both ü and ž. It is less guttural than the former and less palatal than the latter. It is heard in ermine, verge, prefer, earnest, birth, mirth, bird, myrtle, virgin, thirsty, learn, discern, fertile, fervent, fervid, perch, perfect, perfidy, perfume, perjure, permeate, serpent, service, terse, verb, verdant, verdict, vermin, vernal, vorse, versify, her, herb, hermit, hoarse, certain, dervis, germ, merchant, mercury, merge, mermaid, nerve, adversity, etc. Also heard in some unaccented syllables, as in adverb, adverse, etc.

Æ-nĕ'id.

ä'er-äte; ä'er-ät-ed.

aerie—ä're, or ä're.

ä'er-o-lite.

â'er-o-naut.

affaire d'amour (Fr.)—âf'far' dâ'mor'.

affluxion—af-flük'shun aforesaid—a-för'sëd.

again—a-gën' ; against—a-gënst'.

The usual sound of the diphthong ai is that of long a. The principal exceptions are in said, saith, again, and against, where it has the sound of short e; in plaid and raillery, where it has the sound of short a; in aisle, where it has the sound of long i; and in final unaccented syllables, as in fountain, curtain, etc., where it has the sound of short or obscure i.

â-gäpe', or â-gäpe'.

â'gëd, not äjd, except in compound words.

âg-grän'dize-mënt, or äg'grän-dize-mënt.

äil'mënt, not -munt.

In pronouncing such terminal, unaccented syllables as ment, cent, ance, ence, stant, ent, al, less, ness, etc., it is as important to avoid making the quality of the vowel too apparent as it is to avoid saying munt, sunt, unce, stunt, unt, ul, luss, nuss, etc. If the one is slovenly and vulgar, the other is pedantic and affected.

äl'cö-rän, not al-cö'ran.

äl'cöve, or äl-cöve'.

Äl-ex-än'drine.

äl'ge-brä, not -brä.

äl'ge-brä-ist, or äl-ge-brä'ist.

The second is the marking both of Webster and Worcester in all except their later unabridged editions, which accent the first syllable.

ä'li-äs, not a-li'as.

äl-lé'giance, or äl-lé'gi-ance.

Webster's dictionary always has made this a word of four syllables, the later unabridged editions excepted.

äl'le-go-rist.

allegro—äl-lé'grö, or äl-lä'grö.

äl-löp'a-thy; äl-löp'a-thist.

äl-lüde', not -lüd. See adduce.

äl-lý'; pl. äl-lies'.

This noun is frequently pronounced älly, in accordance with the general custom of changing the accent of words used both as nouns and verbs. But Walker shows that this is a violation of a stronger analogy, since "it is a universal rule to pronounce y like e in a final unaccented syllable." Therefore this accentuation is erroneous, and it is altogether unauthorized.

alms—āmz, not älmz, nor anz.

al-pác'á, not äł-á-pák'á.

alpine—äl'pīn, or (better ?) -pīn.

äl'sō, not öl'sō.

äl-ter-cā'tiōn, not äl-, but al- as in alum.

äl-tēr'nāte, noun and adj., not äl-.

äl'ter-nāte, or äl-tēr'nāte, verb äl-tēr'nā-tīve, not äl-.

äl-lū'mi-nūm, not äl-lū'.

äl-vē'ō-lār, or äl've-ō-lār.

äl'wāys, not äl'wuz, nor öl'wuz amateur—ā mā-tūr'.

There have been as many ways set down for pronouncing this word in English as there have been English dictionary-makers. The fact is, the exact sound of the last syllable can not be represented by any characters we have at command. This word is semi-Anglicized.

In pronouncing French, it is of the first importance to bear in mind that it is a comparatively unaccented language; that the difference in the quantity of the syllables is due rather to a prolongation of the vowel-sounds of the long syllables than to their receiving a greater stress of voice.

ăm'ber-gris.

There is a class of words, mostly of French and Italian origin, in which i retains the long sound of e; as, ambergris, antique, bombazine, capuchin, caprice, critique, gabardine, haberdine, quarantine, ravine, routine, fascine, fatigue, intrigue, machine, magazine, marine, palanquin, pique, police, tambourine, tontine, oblique, etc. Brazil, chagrin, and invalid formerly belonged in this list; now, however, they are generally, if not universally, pronounced with the i short.

ambrosia—ăm-brō'zhe-a, or ăm-brō'zhā.

ă-mē'nă-ble, not a-mēn'.

amende honorable (French)—ă'mōngd' ōn'ō'ră-bl'.

ă-mēn'ī-ty, not ă-mēnī.

amour (Anglicized French)—ă-mōr'.

amour propre (Fr.)—ă'mōr' prūpr'.

an-cēs'trał.

Ease of utterance has transferred this accent from the first to the second syllable.

anchor—äng'kur.

ancient—än'shent, not än'.

andiron—änd'i-urn.

anew—a-nū', not a-nu'.

angel—än'jel, not än'jl, nor än'jül.

annunciate—an-nün'she-ät.

an-óth'er, not a-nüth'.

án'swer. See advance.

än-te-pe-nült'.

There is no authority for saying än-te-pē'nült; still, that is what the recognized pronunciation of this word will be sooner or later, probably. We already have authority for saying pē'nült, instead of pe-nült'.

än'ti, not än'ti.

an-tin'o-my.

The penultimate o of these two words, it will be seen, is marked in both cases alike. i. e., according to the dictionaries. Who will contend that the sound of the vowel is, or should be, the same in both words? In the first word it is the vowel of a long syllable; in the second, of a short one. See absolutory.

ä'pëx, not äp'ex.

Äph-rō-dī'te.

apologue—äp'ō-lög.

äp-ō-thē'ō-sīs, not äp-ō-the-ō'sīs.

äp-pä-rä'tus, or äp-pä-rä'tus.

äp-pär'ent, not ap-pär'ent.

apron—ä'purn, or ä'prun.

à propos (Fr.)—ä'pró pó'.

äp'ti-tüde, not tüd.

The u of altitude, amplitude, assiduity, assume, attitude, astute, attribute (the noun), etc., has its long sound slightly abridged. The careless generally pronounce it u. See adduce.

Ar'ab, not Ä'räb.

Ä'rä-blic, not Ä-rä'blic.

archangel—ärk-än'jel.

When arch, signifying chief, begins a word from the Greek and is followed by a vowel, it is pronounced ark; as in archangel, architect, archive, archipelago, archiepiscopal, archæology, etc.; but when arch is prefixed to an English word, it is pronounced so as to rhyme with march; as, archbishop, archduke, archfiend.

ärd'u-öüs, not är'doüs.

ä're-ä, not ä-rë-ä.

THIS consonant, preceded by m or followed by t in the same syllable, is generally silent; as, lamb, limb, comb, dumb, climb, bomb, tomb, doubt, debt, subtle, etc. Succumb is said to be one of the exceptions; in this country, however, it is generally pronounced without the b.

bel-esprit (Fr.)—bēl'-ās'prē'.

Smart says : "Though generally considered as a plural, some authors join bellows to a verb singular ; and this will justify the pronunciation bel'lus." Walker remarks : "The last syllable of this word, like that of gallows, is corrupted beyond recovery into lus."

bĭ-fūr'cāt-ek, not -ĭd, nor -ĭd.

Making id or ud out of terminal ed is one of the most objectionable, as well as one of the most common, of faults. The mangling of the terminal vowels is more offensive to a cultured ear than the misplacing of an accent.

billet-doux (Fr.)—bē'yā'do'.

The plural (billets-doux) is pronounced, in French, precisely like the singular blëss'čd, ulj.

There are some participial adjectives, and some adjectives not derived from verbs, in which the e of the last syllable is commonly sounded; as, aged, beloved, blessed, cursed, deuced, wicked, winged, etc. The pulpit affectation that sounds the ed of the imperfect tense and the participles, when reading the Bible, is going out of fashion.

Smart is the only orthoëpist who gives the u of this word the sound of long oo.

C.

This letter is hard, and sounds like k, before a, o, and u; soft, and sounds like s, before e, i, and y, except in sceptic and scirrhous, and their derivatives, in which it is hard, like k.

When ce or ci are preceded by the accent, and are followed by a vowel in the next syllable, the c combines with the e or i to form the sound sh, as in ocean, social, tenacious, etc. Sometimes the c alone has this sound, or rather the e or i is used twice. First it combines with the c to make the sound sh, then it takes on its usual sound, as in sociology—so-she-ol'o-gy.

In discern, suffice, sice, and sacrifice, and their derivatives, c has the sound of z. It is silent in czar, victuals, indict, and their derivatives, and also in terminal sce, as in muscle, etc.

cabaret—kà'bà'râ'. See amateur.

cabriolet—kà'bré'ò'lâ'.

Cadi—kâ'di.

café (Fr.)—kâ'fâ'.

Cairo—in Egypt, kî'rô; in the United States, kâ'rô.

caisson—kâ'sôn.

This word is generally marked by orthoëpists kâ-sôn' or kâ'sôn'; but it has become thoroughly Anglicized, and should be pronounced according to English analogy. The above marking is believed to conform to good usage.

ca-lâsh', not lâsh.

cal-cine', or cäl'cine.

The dictionary authority for the second marking is very slight. The preference shown for it in this country is due to its having been so marked in the earlier editions of Webster. The last edition only permits it.

cĭc'a-trĭce, not -trĭce.

cicerone—sĭs-ē-rō'ne (Anglicized).

ciliary—sil'yə-ry.

Cir'ce.

Cincinnati—sīn-sīn-nā'ti, not -nāt'tā.

clär'i-ön.

In England pronounced klärk; in America, except on the stage, klärk.

clöth.

Before th, st, and ss, the letter o is frequently sounded aw in this country, as in cloth, broth, lost, cost, moss, dross, etc., which is accounted inelegant; it is not more objectionable, however, than a palpable effort to make the vowel short. See accost.

cōch'ī-nēal, or (according to Smart) cōch'ī-nēal', not kōch'.

cognac—kōn'yāk', not kō'ni-āk.

cōg-nō'men.

Colbert (Fr.)—kūl'bār'.

Coleridge—kōl'rij.

cōl-ōs-sē'um.

cōl-lā'tiōn, not kō-lā'tiōn.

cōm'bat, or cōm'bat.

The question here is whether the o shall have the sound of o in come or of o in from. Walker, Worcester, Smart, and others prefer the o in come; Webster and others, and popular usage, the o in from. The stage has always followed Walker, making the o very short; but, though this may perhaps be considered the more elegant mode of pronouncing the word at present, the longer o will doubtless eventually prevail.

còm'bat-ive-nèss, or còm-băt'.

Ease of utterance has put the accent on the second syllable of this word, where, despite the dictionaries, it is pretty sure to remain.

Comédie Française—kòm'ă'dē' frông'-sâz'.

comme il faut (Fr.)—kùm êl fô.

cöm-pën'säte, or cöm'pen-säte. See con- summate.

complaisance—köm'plā-zānce'.

Worcester accents the last syllable of this semi-Anglicized French word; Webster the first, placing a secondary accent on the last. In French, whatever difference there is in the quantity of the three syllables is due to the vowel-sound of the last syllable being somewhat drawn out.

cöm'plëx, not cöm-plëx'.

cöm'pɹō-mise.

cöm'rāde, or cöm'rāde, or -räd.

The authorities are divided on this word somewhat as they are on combat, which see. The last marking of the second syllable, though not sanctioned by the dictionaries, certainly is by etymology and good use.

con amore (It.)—kõn ä-mõ'rá.
 concave—kõng'käv, not -käv.
 cõn-cën'trâte, or cõn'cën-trâte. See conquated.

cõn'fì-dãnt'.

cõn-fis'câte. See consummate.

cõn'flu-ent, not cõn-flü'.

congenial—kõn-jën'yäl.

There is abundant authority for making this a word of four syllables ; but, fortunately, few people follow it.

congeniality—kɔn-jən-yəl'i-ty, or ni-əl'-

Congo—kɔng'gō.

congregate—kɔn'grɛ-gāte, or kɔng'.

ɔn'jūre, to influence by magic.

“What is he whose grief

Bears such an emphasis? whose phrase of sorrow Conjures—the wand'ring stars, and makes them

Like wonder-wounded hearers?”

Which word does Hamlet use here? From time immemorial the stage has said that he uses the second. In other words, according to the stage, Hamlet accuses Laertes of playing hocus-pocus with the stars.

connaisseur (Fr.)—ɔn'ā'sūr'.

The orthography of this word is made to conform to that of the modern French, because ai represents the sound of the syllable, and oi does not. The sound of the last syllable can only be approximated with English characters. The ur of fur, however, somewhat prolonged, is very near it.

conscientious—kŏn-shĕ-ĕn'shŭs.
 cŏn-ser-vā'tŏr, or cŏn'ser-vā-tŏr.
 cŏn-sĭd'er-a-ble, not -sĭd'r-a-ble.
 cŏn-sĭgn'ŏr, or cŏn-sĭgn-ŏr'.
 cŏn-sĭs'tŏ-ry, or cŏn'sĭs-to-ry.
 cŏn-sŏls.

The important point in pronouncing this word is to make the o of both syllables short. As for the accent, it seems to be quite immaterial where it is placed.

cŏn-spĭr'a-cy, not -spĭ'-.
 cŏn'strŭe.
 cŏn'sŭm-māte, or cŏn-sŭm'māte, verb.

Those who prefer, in common with nearly all the orthoëpists, to accent the second syllable of such three-syllabled verbs as contemplate, compensate, confiscate, constellate, demonstrate, despumate, expurgate, and extirpate, will perhaps think it well to except consummate in order to distinguish it from the adjective.

 cŏn'tĕnts, or cŏn-tĕnts'.

The penultimate accent of this word is not only well-nigh universal in this country, but is sanctioned by Webster, Worcester, Clarke, and others.

cōn'vēx, not cōn-vēx'.

Smart says: "Cooper and its compounds are doubtful (with respect to the sound of oo) except in common speech, which, in London at least, invariably shortens them."

Common speech means uncultured, non-painstaking speech, which certainly is not a desirable model to copy after. The lower orders, the world over, are slipshod in their articulation. The most sonorous vowel-sounds in the German language are never, by any chance, made by the common people, simply because they require a little greater effort than approximate sounds that suffice. Cōöp'er for cōöp'er—like hōöp for hōöp, rōöt for rōöt, sōön for sōön, sōöt for sōöt, rōöf for rōöf, hōöf for hōöf, wünt for wōn't, hūm for hóme, húl for whole, etc. is probably one of those corruptions which it is wisdom to avoid.

còrd-iäl i ty, or còr-di-äl i ty.

corkscrew kórk'skrü.

débris (Fr.)—dā'brē'.

début (Fr.)—dā'bū'.

As the sound of the French u can not be represented in English, even approximately, or made by English organs of speech without much practice, the safer plan is to Anglicize both syllables of this word, and call it simply de-bū', or to avoid using it at all.

débutant, débutante (Fr.)—dā'bū'tōng', dā'bū'tōngt'.

As in the case of début, we would recommend that these words be Anglicized in sound, and both pronounced dēb-u-tānt'.

denunciate—de-nün'she-ät.

depot—dé'pō.

This word is so thoroughly Anglicized that it is in doubtful taste to pronounce it à la française; but, Anglicized, if we give the vowels their long sound, the syllables still have nearly the same quantity.

“When the accent, either primary or secondary, is on this inseparable preposition, the s is always sharp and hissing; but when the accent is on the second syllable, the s will be either hissing or buzzing, according to the nature of the consecutive letter. That is, if a sharp mute, as p, t, k, or c hard, succeed, the preceding s must be pronounced sharp and hissing, as dispose, distaste, etc.; but if a flat mute, as b, d, or g hard, or a vowel or a liquid, begin the next syllable, the foregoing s must be sounded like z, as disburse, disdain, etc.; but if the secondary accent be on this inseparable preposition, as in disbelief, etc., the s retains its pure hissing sound.”
— Walker.

In accordance with Walker, Smart says: “As to the pronunciation of this prefix, the s is unvocal [i. e., sharp or hissing] if the accent, primary or secondary, is on the syllable; but if the next syllable be accented and begin with a real vowel (not u) or a vocal consonant [i. e., flat mute], the s is sounded z, unless the word is connected with a principal word in which the s is unvocal; for in such case the derivative follows the primitive.”

dýs'en-těr-y, not diz'.

Worcester and half a dozen other orthoëpists accent the first syllable.

E.

This vowel, the most frequent in the language, has two principal sounds : long as in eve, short as in end.

In the languages of continental Europe it generally has the sound of a in fate or e in met, according to position. In French, when unmarked, it is silent in many positions, and in many others has a peculiar and unrepresentable sound, which when distinct approaches that of short u in sum, and when slurred that of obscure e in over.

eau de vie (Fr.)—ō de vē.

éclat (Fr.)—ā'klā'.

ēc-o-nöm'ic, or ē-co-nöm'ic.

ēc-o-nöm'i-cal, or ē-co-nöm'i-cal.

The first is the marking of a large majority of the orthoëpists.

E'den.

Most words ending in en drop the e in pronunciation, as dozen (doz'n), soften (sof'n), often (of'n), etc. The e in such words is sounded more frequently by unschooled pedants than by the careless. Some of the words in which the e should be sounded are aspen, chicken, hyphen, kitchen, lichen, and marten. The e is also sounded when preceded by l, m, n, or r, as in woolen, omen, linen, siren, barren; but fallen, stolen, and swollen drop the e. As for Elen, sloven, sydden, heathen, bounden, and mitten, some speakers suppress and some sound the e.

ē'go-tīsm, or ēg'o-tīsm.

either—ē'ther, or i'ther.

Smart says that between ē'ther and i'ther there is little in point of good usage to choose. The last edition of Webster's dictionary says that analogy, as well as the best and most general usage, is decidedly in favor of ē'ther. See neither.

ē-lē'gī-āc, or ēl-ē-gī'āc.

There is abundant authority for the second marking, but for the most part, in this country, the word is made to conform to the rule that words ending in ia, iac, ial, ian, eous, and ious have the accent on the preceding syllable; as demoniac, regalia, melodious, etc.

ël-ẹ-phăn'tine, not -tin.

en-vi'röng, or ën'vi-röng.

The first accentuation is certainly much to be preferred.

ëp'au-lët.

Ep-i-cu-rë'an.

Webster alone of all the orthoëpists gave this word the antepenultimate accent ; and though in the last edition of his dictionary the preference is given to this accentuation, we are distinctly told in the "Principles of Pronunciation," in the first part of the volume, that Epicurean is one of a list of words ending in an which accent the penult.

ëp'öeh, not ë'pöeh.

The latter is a Websterian pronunciation, which is not even permitted in the late editions.

Preference is given here to Smart's marking, though he stands quite alone.

Eü-těr'pe.

étagère (Fr.)—ā tā'zhār'.

ěv-an-gěl'ì-cal, or ē-van.

The first marking is that of Walker and Smart; the second, that of Webster and Worcester. Preference is given here to the first, because it is thought to be more euphonious and more in accordance with good usage.

e-vā'sive, not -zlv.

evening—ē'vn-ing, not ēv'ning.

ěv'er-y, not ěv're.

ěv'ì-děnt, not -dünt.

ewe—yü, or yu.

The first is the pronunciation set down by nearly all the orthoëpists; the second is that of the last edition of Webster.

ex.

The letter x in this prefix, when followed by an accented vowel, usually has the sound gz (ʒ); sometimes, also, in the derivatives of such words, even though x stands under the accent, as exaltation, exemplary.

When the accented vowel is preceded by h, universal custom drops the h if the sound of gz is given to the x. The h can be more easily aspirated when the x is pronounced as ks; but the writer inclines to the opinion that the h is nearly always (from necessity) dropped in both cases—a point which the orthoëpists seem to have overlooked.

 fōrt'night

In the early editions of Webster's dictionary this word was marked fōrt'nīt, which possibly accounts for this pronunciation being so common with us. In England it is the universal custom to sound the i long.

fränk'in'cense, or fränk'in-cense.

The first marking is Webster's; the second, that of nearly all the other orthoëpists. 'Ease of utterance, as well as the etymology of the word, will probably make Webster's marking generally preferred.

G.

This consonant has two sounds, one hard and one soft. It is hard before a, o, and u, except in gaol, which is usually written as well as pronounced jail.

Before e, i, and y it is sometimes hard and sometimes soft. It is generally soft in words from the Latin, Greek, and French, as in gentle, geology, giant, gymnast, etc., and hard in words from the Saxon. These last are much in the minority. Some of them are gear, get, gewgaw, eager, gift, gig, gild, gird, girl, rugged, foggy, muggy, scraggy, etc.

See Key to Pronunciation, p. 6.

The g of ng is often pronounced as though doubled; as in England, younger (ing gland, young'ger). Before the verbal suffixes ed, est, ing, er, it loses this double effect; as in wing'ed, bring'ed, sing'ing, hang'er. See V.

H.

THIS letter is merely an aspiration. It is silent in heir, heiress, herb, herbage, honest, honor, hour, hostler, and their derivatives. It is also marked as silent by most orthoëpists in hospital, humor, and humble, and their derivatives. By some it is thought that there is an increasing tendency to sound the h in these words; this is undoubtedly true with regard to hospital. H is silent after initial g, as in ghost, ghast, etc.; after r, as in rhetoric, rhyme, etc.; and also when preceded by a vowel in the same syllable, as in oh, Jehovah, etc.

The French talk about their aspirated h's, but they never aspirate any.

In German the effect of h in many cases is simply to prolong the sound of the preceding vowel; and in all the continental languages it has no effect after t.

Haeckel—hëck'el.
 halcyon—häl'se-tün, or hăl'she-tün.
 hälf, not hälf.
 halibut—höl'e-büt.

 här'ass, not hā-rās'.
 hä'rem.
 haricot (Fr.)—à'rë'kō'.
 harlequin—här'le-kwīn, or -kīn.

Nearly all the orthoëpists pronounce the last syllable of this word kīn. Why? Because the word comes to us through the French, in which the v is silent? Inasmuch as in every other respect the word has been thoroughly Anglicized, it would seem that the pronunciation of this syllable should be Anglicized also.

 Här'ri-et, not här'.
 hasten—hās'n, not hās'ten.
 haunch—hānch, not hāunch.
 Hause—how'ze.
 haunt—hānt, not hāwnt.

he, pronoun—hē.

When emphatic, this is pronounced as marked: otherwise the h is but slightly aspirated, and the vowel becomes obscure. See him.

“A man hē was to all the country dear.”
—Goldsmith.

“Hē who goes to bed, and goes to bed sober, Falls as the leaves do, and dies in October;
But hē who goes to bed, and goes to bed mellow, Lives as hē ought to do, and dies an honest fellow.”

hī-ā'tus.

When not emphatic, the h is but slightly aspirated, and the vowel becomes very obscure. In ordinary conversation initial h is frequently dropped entirely, in the pronouns, by those whose articulation is least faulty. There are not a few, however, who, when they appear in public and are "on their mettle," studiously avoid slurring the pronouns, and consequently are careful to aspirate the h distinctly in his, her, he, and him, no matter whether the thought demands that the pronoun should be emphasized or not; but in their endeavor to be nicely correct, they simply succeed in being pedantically wrong. This error seriously mars the delivery of many actors and public readers, making their elocution stilted and unnatural. Many of them slur my, not unfrequently making it mē, in fact, when the y should retain its long sound; but they seem to think it would be a heinous offence to treat the other pronouns in a like manner. Pronouns in which the letters should have their full value are met with only at considerable intervals.

Hin-dōō', or Hīn'dōō.

hīp-pō-pōt'ā-inūs.

honest—ōn'est, not -īst, nor -īst.

"Honest, honest Iago," is preferable to "honest, honest Iago," some of our accidental Othellos to the contrary notwithstanding.

swā kē māl ē pōngss.

hōof. See cooper.

As applied to a little workbag used by women, the word has the latter pronunciation; but it seems to be now seldom used in this sense.

höv'el, not höv'l.

höv'er, not höv'.

humble—üm'bl, or hüm'bl.

humor—yü'mur, or hū'mur.

Smart pronounces this word hū'mur when it means moisture, as in a man's body, and yü'mur in the other senses.

h̄y-p-ɔ-gās'tric.

hypothenuse—h̄i-pōth'e-nūs, not -nūs.

This word is very frequently—perhaps most commonly among mathematicians—pronounced h̄ip-ɔt'e-nūse; but Smart is the only orthoëpist who sanctions that pronunciation.

h̄y-p-ɔ-thēt'ic, not h̄ip-ɔ.

I.

This vowel has two principal sounds, a long and a short, as in dine and din. It also has three secondary sounds, heard in marine, fir, and ruin respectively.

I.

This pronoun, in common with all the other pronouns of the language, and a long list of the particles, is touched more or less lightly when it is not emphatic. Unemphatic, it becomes ï instead of ī.

īd-i-ɔ-s̄yn'cr̄a-sy, not īd-i-ɔs-in'cr̄a-sy.

il-lūs'trāt-ed, not il'lus-trāt-ed.

īm'āge-ry, or īm'ā-ger-y.

The latter is preferred by Walker, Smart, Worcester, and others; but usage is decidedly in favor of the former.

imbecile—īm'be-cil, im-bēs'il, or im-be-sel'.

The first mode given here of pronouncing this word is the most correct, the second the most unusual, and the third the most fashionable.

For the noun the ultimate accent is becoming antiquated.

in-dē'cent. See ailment.

in-de-cō'roūs.

This pronunciation is not only more sonorous than in-dēc'o-roūs, but it now has the balance of authority in its favor. See decorous.

Indian.

This word is generally pronounced in'di-an, though the orthoëpists, for the most part, would have us say ind'yan.

in'ter-est-ed, not in-ter-ěst'ed.

in'ter-est-ing, not in-ter-ěst'ing.

In the dictionaries some stress on the third syllable, in the verb and its derivatives, is indicated by marking the e as distinct—ěst; and that was formerly the prevalent pronunciation. But the most careful speakers now generally make the third syllable as obscure in the verb and participles as they do in the noun.

ir-re-füt'a-ble, or ir-rëf'u-ta-ble.

Here, though the first marking is that of the majority of the orthoëpists, and though it has the advantage of being the easier of utterance, the second marking may possibly be considered the more elegant.

ir-re-më'di-a-ble.

ir-rëp'a-ra-ble, not ir-re-pär'a-bl.

J.

THIS consonant has always the same sound, and is never silent.

In words in which d precedes a letter having or embodying the sound of y in an unaccented syllable, the sound of j is often substituted for the combined sounds of d and y—as söljer instead of söldyer, and möj'u-lät instead of mödü-lät—just as ch is substituted for the combined sounds of t and y in question, nature, etc. It is doubtless possible to preserve the pure sounds of d and y where they appear in these connections, but it is well-nigh certain that the most careful speakers generally fail to do it.

jäl'ap, not jöl'up (antiquated).

jän'ty, not jaun'ty.

Jän'u-a-ry, not jën'.

Jäp-an-ëse', not -ëse'.

jäg'mine, or jäs'mine.

jaundice—jãndis.

jer-e-mi'ade.

Je-ry'sa-lëm, not -za.

Jew—jū, or ju.
 jewel—jū'el, not ju'l.
 jew'el-ler.
 jə-cōse'.
 jōc'und.
 join.

Until toward the close of the last century the diphthong oi was very generally pronounced like long i, as jine instead of join, rile instead of roil, etc.; but now this pronunciation is confined to persons of the most limited culture.

 jostle—jōs'sl.
 joust—jūst.
 jō'vi-əl, not jōv'yəl.
 jowl—jōl, not jowl.

 Jūl'ia, not ju'l'.
 Jū'pi-ter, not ju'bi-.
 jū-ris-cōn'sult.
 jū'rist, not ju'.

K.

THIS letter before all the vowels has one uniform sound. Before u in the same syllable it is silent, as in kneel, knit, know, etc.; it is likewise silent after e, as in back, crack, haddock, etc.

kaugaroo—käng-gə-rōō'.

keelson—kəl'son, or kəl'.

kēt'tle, not kīt'tl.

khair (Turk.)—kawn, or kän.

When a, i, or ī is preceded in the same syllable by the sound of g or k, many speakers, especially in England and our Southern States, introduce a slight sound of e, as in car, card, kind, garden, guard, guide, girl, sky, etc. If not carried too far, this can hardly be considered objectionable, as it effectually corrects a certain guttural utterance of these words that the best usage is careful to avoid.

kirschwasser (Ger.)—kērsh'väs-ser.

L.

THIS liquid consonant always has the same sound. In many words it is silent, as in balm, calm, half, calf, almond, palmer, walk, could, should, etc.

lā'bel, not lā bl.

lā'bor-er, not lā'brur.

labyrinth—lāb'e-rinth.

lāeh'ry-mōse, not -mōz.

lāc'o-nīsm, not lā'cō.

lām'ent-a-ble, not lā-mēnt'ā-bl.

Lăt'in, not lăt'n.

lăt'tice, not lăt'tus.

l̄aud'ā-nūm, not lōd'.

launch—lānch, not l̄aunch.

laundress—lān'dres, not l̄aun'.

laundry—lān'dre, not l̄aun'.

laurel—l̄aurel, or lōr'.

lā'vā, or lā'vā.

leaped—lēpt, or lēpt.

l̄earn'ēd, adj. See blessed.

lē'gend, or lēg'end.

lēg'en-da-ry.

legislative—lēj'is-lā-tiv.

legislator—lēj'is-lā-tur, not -lā'tōr.

legislature—lēj'is-lāt-yur.

For an obvious reason these three words are much mispronounced. There is small authority for the penultimate accent which ease of utterance generally gives them, and none for the antepenultimate (le-gis-la-tive, etc.) which some affect.

Leipsic, in Saxony—lip'sik.

Leipsic, in the United States—lēp'sik.

leisure—lē'zhur.

This is the only way of pronouncing this word that nowadays is admissible in this country. In England, however, lèz'chur is common, although not sanctioned by any modern orthoëpist.

lē'ni-ent, not lēn'.

lēn'i-tive, not lē'ni.

liaison (Fr.)—lē-ā'zawng'.

lib'er-tine, not -tīn licentiate—li-sĕn'shĕ-at.

It will be observed that in this word the last vowel, which is two removes from the accented syllable, is left to take care of itself. This, it may be seen, has been the usual practice in the cases of all vowels similarly situated, especially when they were in the penult. This vowel is marked long (ā) by Smart, and obscure (a) by Worcester. Smart says, then, that this a is like a in fate; Worcester, that it is like a in sedative. Now, it is neither the one nor the other, but something between the two, which something it is safe to leave every one to find out for himself; and whether the speaker brings out the quality of the vowel a little more or a little less than he perhaps should, may be set down as one of the least of sins against good usage.

The few English orthoëpists who have given the pronunciation of this word are divided in relation to it; but as a Greek and Latin word, it is pronounced lĭ'ken; the French keep the ch hard, pronouncing it lĕ'ken; and the pronunciation of lĭ'ken appears to be supported by the best usage among American botanists.—Worcester.

lien—lĕ'ĕn, or li'ĕn.

In the early editions of Webster's dictionary this word was marked lĕn.

lieutenant—lū-tĕn'ant, lĕf, or lĕv.

It is not easy to see why our orthoëpists should differ so widely in their modes of pronouncing the first syllable of this word, since none of them appear to have made any effort to imitate its pronunciation in French. Preference is given here to the first marking—which is Webster's—because it comes nearest to what the orthography demands.

lin'sey-wool'sey, not -ze.

li-thög'ra-pher, li-thög'ra-phy.

Lyonnaise (Fr.)—lē'un'nāz'.

M.

THIS letter has always one sound, except in account, accountant, and comptroller, pronounced and usually written account, accountant, and controller. It is silent when it precedes n in the same syllable, as in mnemonics.

Machiavelian—māk-e-ā-vēl'yan.

mäd'am.

Not unfrequently good taste is offended by the retention of the French word madame in translations. This is especially true of translations for the stage. Few things are more unpleasant to a cultured ear than the unnecessary mixing of languages.

madame (Fr.)—mä'däm.

Madeira—mä-dē'rá, or -dä'.

mademoiselle (Fr.)—mädm'wä'zël', not mäd-üm-wä-zël, nor mäm-zël', which is exceedingly vulgar.

In this word an Englishman encounters his greatest difficulty in the proper utterance of the last syllable, to which the Frenchman gives a very clear dental utterance, while the Englishman is wont to let the sound come from his throat.

ma foi (Fr.)—mä fwä.

mag-nif'i-cent, not -sünt. See ailment.

män'särd' rōof.

mansuetude—män'swe-tüd.

mantua-maker—män'tu-mäk'er.

mə-räs'mus, not -räs'.

marchande de modes (Fr.)—mär'.
shängd' də möd'.

The letter o in French generally has the sound of o in son, won, done, or of o in or, nor, for, except when under the circumflex accent (ô). Hence we should say, for example, bēf à la müd, not möd.

mär'i-tal, not mär'.

- mār'i-tīme.
 mār'ket, not -kīt.

 mās'cu-line, not -līn.
 mās'k, not mās'k.

 mayonnaise (Fr.)—mā'yōn'āz'. measure—mēzh'ūr, not māzh'.
 mechanist—mēk'ān-īst.
 mē-dīç'i-nəl.
 medicine—mēd'e-sīn, not mēd'sn.

meerschau (Ger.)—mār'showm.

The au has the sound of ow in owl, and there is little if any difference in the quantity of the syllables, as is generally the case with compound words.

Meissonier—mā'sōn'yā'.

mēl'ō-drām-ā, or -drā-mā.

The second marking is supported by abundant authority, but few, if any, seem to heed it.

Mel-pōm'ē-nē.

memoir—mēm'wōr, or mē'mwōr:

mēm'ō-ry, not mēm'ry.

ménagerie (Fr.)—mā'nāzh'ē-rē'.

menagery—mē-nāzh'ē-re.

mēr'cān-tile, not -til, nor -tēl.

The second, however, is sanctioned by Smart. See advertisement.

mesmerism—mēs'mēr-izm, or mēz'.

The dictionaries tell us to sound the first s of this word and of its derivatives like z, which is contrary to the prevailing custom, etymologically incorrect, and not euphonious.

The English orthoëpists have marked this word in no less than ten different ways, agreeing in only one thing—that the final s should be sounded. Now, this s is absolutely silent; so is one of the other eses. The first syllable is perfectly represented by mās, and the second syllable is very nearly represented by yûr. If, in pronouncing this syllable, the speaker imagines a long e between the y and the û, and then, having prepared the organs of speech to sound it, goes directly to the û, he will perhaps get the sound of the syllable somewhat more perfectly. The sound of the r is very short and obscure. See monsieur.

mēt-rō-pōl'i-tan.

mī-ās'mā.

mī'crō-scōpe, not mīc'rō.

mī-crō-scōp'ic, not -scōp'ic.

Mī'lān.

We Anglicize the orthography of this proper name: why should we not do likewise with the orthoëpy? Bryce, Earnshaw, and Thomas say Mīlan, while Wright says Mī-lān'.

mīlch, adj., not milks.

Millet, E.—mēl'lā'.

miniature—mīn'i-āt-yur.

Mīn'ō-taur.

mī-nūte', or mī-nūte', adj.

mīr'ā-cle, not mēr'.

mī-rāc'u-loūs, not mī.

mirage (Fr.)—mē'rāzh'.

mīs'ān-thrōpe, not mīz'.

mischievous—mīs'che-vūs, not mīs-chē'.

mīs'chiev-ous-nēss.

"Do not, great sir, misconstrue his intent."
—Dryden,

misfortune—mīs-fōrt'yūn.

mistletoe—mīz'zl-tō.

mīt'ten, not mīt'n.

mneumonics—ne-mōn'iks.

mobile—mo-bél', or mō'bil.

The first is the pronunciation of Walker and Worcester, and is always heard in the name Mobile; the second, that of Webster. Smart says mōb'il.

möck, not maük. See accost.

möd'est, not -lät, nor -üst.

moisten—mois'n, not -tən.

mön'as-tër-y, not -tē-ry.

mön-ọ-cöt-y-lé'dọn.

mön'ọ-lөгue, not mō'no-lөг.

mön-ọ-mā'nị-á.

mön-ọ-mā'nị-ác.

mön-ø-syl-läb'ic.

monsieur (Fr.)—müs'yür'.

This marking perfectly represents the pronunciation of the first syllable of this word, the ø being like the o in son. The second syllable is like the second syllable of the plural. The r in both cases is really a silent letter, but with its aid the pronunciation of the syllable is better represented to the English eye than it could be without it. It is marked obscure in order that it may be merely hit and not dwelt upon. Care should be taken to give the syllables the same quantity. See messieurs.

morceau; pl., morceaux (Fr.)—môr'sö'.

mör'i-bünd, not mō'ri-.

Morpheus—môr'fūs, or môr'fe-ūs.

morphine—môr'fin, not môr-fën'.

môr'sel, not môr'sl.

môr'tal, not môr'tl.

Mosenthal, J.—mō'zen-täl.

Mös'lem, not Mös'.

mō'tiøn-lëss, not -lüs. See ailment.

mountain—moun'tin, not -ting, nor -tn.

mül'ti-tüde, not -tүd. See adduce му-ниç'i-pәl, not mü-ni-çip'әl мұr'der-er, not мұr'drer.
 müs-qo-vä'dö.
 му-sē'um, not mü'se-um.
 мүsh'röom, not -röön.
 müs-täçhe', or -täsh'.
 my—mī, or mī, never mē.

When, from being used in contradistinction to another personal pronoun, my is emphatic, the y has its full, open, long-i sound. Thus we would say, "Is this mī ink or yours?" But when there is no such emphasis—and there is but rarely—the y has the sound of obscure i, as in mī-nüte' and mīraculous, which is very nearly the sound of y in many, only, etc. "My [mī] ink is as bad as my [mī] pen." These rules, however, are and should be departed from in certain cases where we would express respect or emotion. "My [mī] brother shall know of this." "Sir, this lady is my [mī] wife." "Ay, madam, she was my [mī] mother!" Say mī in these sentences, and they become commonplace; you take all the soul out of them.

 myrmaidon—mұr'me-dön, not mir'.
 mythology—me-thöl'o-je, not mī-thöl'.

N.

THIS letter has two sounds : one simple, as in man, ten, not ; the other compound, as in thank, banquet, anxious, pronounced thank, bang'quet, angk'shus. The sound of ng is really a distinct and simple alphabetical element, unlike that of either constituent of the digraph. When final after l or m, n is silent, as in kiln, condemn, solemn, hymn, limn, autumn, etc.

naïve (Fr.)—nā'ēv'.

naïveté (Fr.)—nā'ēv'tā'.

naïvely—nā-ēv'lē.

nāpe, not nāp.

nās'cent, not nā'sent.

national—nāsh'ūn-əl, not nā'shūn-əl.

The first marking is that of all the orthoëpists except Webster, and his mode of pronouncing the word is not even permitted in the new editions of his dictionary.

nationality—nāsh-ūn-āl'e-tē.

nausea—naw'she-ā, not naw'se-ā.

nauseous—naw'shus, not naw'se-ūs.

nĕc-rŏ-lŏg'ic.

ne-crŏl'ŏ-gy.

nĕc'tar'ine, not -ine, nor -ĕn.

ne'er—nār, not nĕr.

nĕgligé (Fr.)—nā'gĭ'zhā'.

neither—nĕ'ther, or nĭ'ther.

There is very little dictionary authority for saying nĭ'ther, but of late years this mode of pronouncing the word seems to be preferred by some of our most careful speakers. See either.

Nĕm'e-sis.

nephew—nĕv'yu, or nĕf'yu.

"This word is uniformly pronounced nĕv'vū by the English orthoĕpists; but in the United States it is often pronounced nĕf'fu. Smart remarks that 'p with h, in almost all cases, is pronounced f. In Stephen, this sound is vocalized, that is, converted into v; and likewise in nephew, almost the only word in which the combination occurs that is not immediately referable to a Greek origin.'"—Worcester.

The latest editions of Webster give nĕf'yu, remarking that the English dictionaries uniformly mark it nĕv'yu. The latter, in our estimation, is the most euphonious pronunciation of the word.

neū'ter, neū'tral, not nū'.

new—nū, not nū.

New Orleans—nū ɔr-lēnz'.

This, in the opinion of the writer, is the better mode of pronouncing the name of the American city. Besides harmonizing with the spirit of the English language, it is easier of utterance and more euphonious than ôr'le-anz, which is a mongrel pronunciation at the best.

news—nūz, not nūz.

niaiserie (Fr.)—nē-ā'ze-rē'.

nī'çe-ty, not nis'te.

none—nūn, not nōn.

nothing—nūth'ing, not nōth'.

Notre Dame (Fr.)—nō'trē dām.

nōv'el, not nōv'l.

novitiate—nō-vīsh'ē-āt.

nuisance—nū'sāns. See adduce.

nuptial—nūp'shāl, not -chāl.

nu'tri-mēt. not nū'tri-mūnt.

O

This vowel has seven sounds, as in note, not, son, move, wolf, nor, and major.

ō'ā-sīs; pl., ō'ā-sēs.

Webster permits o-ā'sīs.

ðb'du-räte, or ðb-dü'räte.

obeisance — ð-bä'sance, or ð-bē'.

The weight of authority is in favor of the first marking; usage—in this country at least—would seem to favor the second. Walker emphatically preferred the first, for the reason that ei when under the accent is most frequently pronounced like long a, and the corresponding ey always, except in key.

ð-bēse', not -bēz'.

obligatory. See Supplement.

oblige—ð-blij'.

“When Lord Chesterfield wrote his Letters to his son, the word oblige was, by many polite speakers, pronounced as if written oblige—as if to give a hint of their knowledge of the French language; nay, Pope has rhymed it to this sound:

‘Dreading even fools, by flatterers besieged,
And so obliging that he ne'er obliged.’

But it was so far from having generally obtained, that Lord Chesterfield strictly enjoins his son to avoid this pronunciation as affected. In a few years, however, it became so general that none but the lowest vulgar ever pronounced it in the English manner; but upon the publication of this nobleman's Letters, which was about twenty years after he wrote them, his authority had so much influence with the polite world as to bid fair for restoring the i in this word to its original rights; and we not unfrequently hear it now pronounced with the broad English i in those circles where, a few years ago, it would have been an infallible mark of vulgarity."—Walker.

"Smart says: 'The word oblige, which was formerly classed with marine, etc., is now pronounced regularly.' John Kemble is said to have corrected the Prince of Wales (George IV) for adhering to the former pronunciation, by saying, 'It will become your royal mouth better to say oblige.'"—Worcester.

ɔc-cā'sion, not ɔ-cā'sion.

ɔc-cʌlt', not ɔc'cult.

ɔc-tā'vō, or ɔc-tā'vō.

There is no dictionary authority for the second marking, and yet that is the pronunciation that seems to be preferred by our most careful speakers—for the reason, doubtless, that they think it the more euphonious.

ɔc-tōg'e-na-ry.

ɔc'tū-ple, not ɔc-tū'ple.

ō'di-oūs.

The best usage now makes this a word of three syllables.

ōf'fice, not ɔu'fīs.

official—ɔf-fish'al, not ō-fish'al.

officious—ɔf-fish'us, not ō-fish'us.

often—ōf'n, not ōf'ten.

olden—ōld'n, not ōld'ən.

ō-le-ō-mär'gä-rīne, not -jā.

The letter g is always hard before a, except in gaol, now disused in this country.

ombre (Fr.)—ɔwng'br, not ōm'br.

ōm'i-noūs, not ō'mi-noūs.

ön'ər-oüs, not ö'ner-oüs.

ön'ly, not ün'ly.

ö'nÿx, not ön'yx.

ö'pal, not ö'päl.

ophthalmy—öf'thal-my, or öp'thal-my,
not oph-thäl'my.

Some of the orthoëpists caution us not to let unaccented o in such words as opinion, observe, oppose, command, conceal, condition, contain, content, possess, police, etc., degenerate into short or obscure u. While it is well to heed their advice, it is also well to remember that to make these o's too long is, perhaps, more objectionable than to make them too short. How unpleasant, for example, to hear pedantic ignorance say pö-lice and pö-sess! An endeavor to avoid sounding the o like short or obscure u should be made with nice discrimination, as by making it too long one's utterance becomes pedantic, which of all elocutionary faults is the worst.

öp-ö-däl'doc, or ö-pö-däl'doc, not -däl' öp-pö'nent, not öp'pö-nent.

The latter, though often heard from tolerably correct speakers, is unauthorized.

öp-pör-tüne', not öp'pör-tüne.

orange—ör'énj, not ör'ínj.

ô-räng'-ou-täng'.

ôr'ehes-trá, or or-ehës'trá.

Among the orthoëpists who accent the second syllable of this word are Walker and Smart ; but that pronunciation is rarely used by careful speakers.

ôr'ehes-träl, or or-ehës'träl.

ôr'de-äl, not or-dē'äl.

The latter is not even permitted by any of the orthoëpists.

ôr'di-na-ry, not ôrd'nä-ry.

orgies—ôr'jíz, not -jéz.

ôr'í-fice, not ô'ri-.

oriflamme—ôr'í-flám, not ô'ri-.

Orion—or-ri'un.

orison—ör'e-zun.

ôr'näte, not or-näte'.

ôr'o-tünd, not ör'o-.

The ultimate accentuation, ô-ro-tünd', is becoming antiquated.

Orphean—or-fē'an, or ôr'fe-an.

Orpheus—ôr'fûs, or ôr'fe-ûs.

The first is the classic. the second the popular pronunciation.

ôr'thø-e-py, or ør-thô'e-py.

One may say or-thô'e-py on the authority of Wright, Clarke, and Knowles, and of Fulton and Knight; and this is the pronunciation the writer would recommend, on account of its being so much the easier of utterance, if he had the courage to do so in the face of such weighty authorities as Walker, Worcester, Webster, and Smart.

otium—ô'she-ûm.

outré (Fr.)—ø'trá'.

ô-ver-sé'er, or -seer'.

ô'vert, not ø-věrt'.

ô'yer, not oi'er.

THIS letter has but one sound. It is silent when initial before n, s, or t, as in pneumatics, psalm, ptarmigan. It is also silent or very indistinct when between m and t in the same syllable, as in tempt, exempt, etc.; but when preceded by m in the same syllable and followed by t or k in the next syllable, it is more properly sounded, as in temptation, exemption, sumptuous, bumpkin, pumpkin, etc. In raspberry, receipt, sempstress, and corps it is also mute.

pa-cĭf-i-cā'tion, or pāç-i-fi-cā'tion.

pa-cĭf'i-cā-tor, or pāç-i-fi-cā'tor.

The first marking is Webster's and Smart's; the second, Walker's and Worcester's.

pageant—päj'ent.

Päjent is growing obsolete.

päl'ace, not päl'ās.

The latter smacks of pedantry.

pa-lä'ver, not pa-läv'er.

Päl'es-tine, not -tēn.

pal'frey, or päl'frey (Smart).

palm—pām, not pām.

panegyric—pän-e-jĭr'ik.

Smart, Walker, Sheridan, and others pronounce this word pän-e-jēr'ik. Worcester remarks: "Though Smart pronounces squirrel and panegyric, squēr'rel and pän-e-jēr'ik, yet he says, 'The irregular sound of i and y in squirrel and panegyric we may hope in time to hear reclaimed; a correspondent reformation having taken place in spirit and miracle, which were once pronounced spēr'it and mēr'a-clē'." pän'el, not pän'l.

panorama—pan-o-rä'má, or -rä'má.

Pän-thé'on, or Pän'the-on.

"Hail, learning's Pantheon! Hail, the sacred ark Where all the world of science does embark."

—Cowley.

"Mark how the dread Pantheon stands,
Amid the toys of modern hands, How simply, how severely great!"

—Atenside.

pän tō-mime, not -mine.

papier mâché (Fr.)—páp'yá' mä'shá'.

pä-ráb'ō-lá, not pä-rā-bō'lá.

pär'cel, not -stül.

parenchyma—pä-rën'ke-má.

pär-ē-gör'ic, not -gaur'ic.

pär'ent.

pär'ent-age.

Smart says pä'rent-age.

pär-hé'li-on.

Pä'rī-äh, not pä'.

Parisian—pa-rizh'yan, not pa-riz'e-an.

Pär-me-gän'.

pa-rôle' (military word).

partiality—pär-she-äl'e-ty, not pär-shäl'.

pär'ti-ci-ple, not pärt'si-pl.

pärt'ner, not pärd'.

pär'tridge, not pät'.

pät'ent, or pä'.

pät-en-tēē', or pä-ten-.

According to nearly all the authorities, the a of these two words should have its short sound.

päth, not päth.

pä'thös, not päth'ös.

pät'ri-mo-ny, not pä'tri pä'tri-ot, not pä'tri-pä'tri-ot-izm.

pä tron, not pä't'.

pät'ron-äge.

pät'ron-äl.

Smart says pä'tron-äl, but the balance of authority is decidedly in favor of making the a short.

pá trɔn-ěss, not pát'rɔn.

Smart says pe-kú'le-ar.

peculiarity—pe-kúl-yár'í-ty.

There is abundant authority for saying pe-kúl-ye-úr'e-ty.

pedagogue—péd'a-gög, not -gög;

péd'al, adj.; péd'al, noun.

péd'es-tal, not pe-dēs'.

Pęg'a-süs, not Pe-gäs'us.

pe-lú'cid, not -lú'.

pe-ná'tēs (Lat.).

pěn'cil, not pěn'sl.

Pe-něl'ɔ-pē.

penitentiary—pěn-ì-těn'shà-ry.

pē'nült, or pe-nült'.

pe-nū'ri-òus, not -nū'. See adduce.

peremptory. See Supplement.

Walker, Perry, and Jameson permitted pe-rēm'tɔ-ry.

pēr'fect, adj. See advertisement.

pēr'fect, or pēr-fēct', verb.

The latter pronunciation is probably the more common, being in accordance with the general rule of change of accent in a word used both as a noun or adjective and a verb, as con'duct, conduct'; but the weight of authority is in favor of the former.

pēr'fūme, or pēr-fūme', noun.

The ultimate accentuation of this noun, although there is good authority for it, is little used in this country by careful speakers.

pē-rī-ōd'ic, not pēr-i.

pēr'mit, or pēr-mīt', noun.

Persia—pēr'she-ā. not -zhe.

Persian—pēr'shan, not -zhan.

pēr-spī-rā'tion. not prēs-pī.

pēr-suā'sive, not -ziv.

pē-rūse'. See accrue.

pestle—pēs'l.

Petruchio—pē-trū'ke-ō.

pět'al, or pē'tal.

phaeton—fā'e-ton, not fā'ton, nor fē'ton.

"The pronunciation phäl'anx is the more general; but phā'länx is the more analogical."
—Walker.

Is Walker correct in saying that it is more analogical to make the a long? Pha, followed by a consonant, and under an accent—primary or secondary—is almost always, if not always, short. This marking is supported by Smart and by Wright, and by well-nigh universal usage.

pharmacopœia—fär-mə-kə-pē'yä.

phīl-an-thröp'ic, not phī-lanphīl-ə-lög'ic.

phīl-ə-söph'ic, or -söph'.

phön'ics, not phō'nics.

phös'phə-rüs.

phrən-ə-lög'ic.

phÿs-i-ög'no-my, not -ön'ə-my.

"There is a prevailing mispronunciation of this word, by leaving out the g, as if the word were French. If this arises from ignorance of the common rules of spelling, it may be observed that g is always pronounced before n when it is not in the same syllable ; as, sig-nify, indignity, etc.; but if affectation be the cause of this error, Dr. Young's 'Love of Fame' will be the best cure for it."—Walker.

pianoforte (It.)—pē-ä'nŏ-för'tä.

piebald—pī'bald.

ped, adj.—pid.

"Meadows trim with daisies ped, pīn'çers, not pīn'çerz.

pīnch'bäck, not -bäck.

pī'ŏ-ny, or pē'ŏ-ny, not pī'ne.

pīs'mire, or pīs'mire:

plä'çä-ble, not pläk'ä-ble.

plä'cärd.

The dictionaries tell us to pronounce this word, both the noun and the verb, plu-kärd'. Why? Because it comes to us from the French? A very poor reason, since in French it is pronounced plü'kär', which is as unlike plu-kärd' as it is unlike the pronunciation that harmonizes with the language into which it is adopted, namely, plá'kúrd. In language, as in everything else, that which is neither "fish, flesh, nor fowl" is distasteful. Mongrel pronunciations are as unpleasant to the ear as orthographical monstrosities are to the eye.

That pronunciation which makes the smaller number of syllables of such words as plagiary, genial, cordial, bestial, ameliorate, etc., is the easier of utterance, and for that reason is generally—and the writer thinks justly—considered the more desirable.

plateau (Fr.)—plá'tō'.

plát'ì-ná, or plá-tì'ná.

plát'ì-núm, or plá-tì'núm.

plebeian—plè-bé'yan, not plé'be-an.

plebeianism—plè-bé'yan-izm.

Pleiades—plé'ya-déz.

Pleiads—plé'yadz.

plén'a-ry, or plé'nà-ry.

"Some very respectable speakers make the vowel e in the first syllable of this word long; but analogy and the best usage seem to shorten the e, as they do the a in granary. Nor do I see any reason that the e should not be short in this word as well as in plenitude."—Walker.

We have Walker, Worcester, and seven other orthoëpists for the first marking; Smart, Webster, and three others for the second.

plĕ-thŏr'ĭc, or plĕth'ŏ-rĭc.

The early editions of Webster's dictionary said plĕth'ŏ-rĭc, and the later editions permit this pronunciation. All the English orthoëpists, except Ash and Crabb, accent the second syllable.

plūme, not plūm. See adduce.

pŏ'em, not pŏ'm.

pŏ-lice', not pŏ-. See opinion.

polonaise (Fr.)—pŏl'ŏ-nāz', not pŏ'.

polyglot—pŏl'ĕ-glŏt.

Pŏl-y-hŷm'nĭ-ā.

It should be remembered that y, except when beginning a word, has the sound of i, and that it never has its name-sound when forming a syllable. Here the first y is unaccented and sounded like obscure i or obscure e, which are hardly distinguishable.

pə-mādē.

Pompeia (Lat.)—pəm-pē'yā.

Pompeii (Ital.)—pəm-pā'ye.

Pompeium (Lat.)—pəm-pē'yūm.

pōr'ce-lain.

This is the marking of Worcester, Webster, and Reid. Smart says pōrs'lān; Knowles, pōrs'lān; Walker, pōr'se-lān.

porte-monnaie—pōrt'-mōn-nā'.

pōr-tēnt'.

pō-sī'tion, not pō-. See opinion

pōs-tē'rī-ōr, not pōs-, nor pōs-pōst'hū-mōūs.

Perry and Craig say pōst'hu-mōūs pō'ta-ble.

pō'ten-tāte, not pōt'.

prairie—prā're, not pēr-ā're.

prēb'end, not prē'.

prē-cē'dence, not prēs'e.

prē-cē'dent, adj.

“A murderer and a villain:

A slave, that's not the twentieth part the tythe Of your precedent lord!”

—Hamlet.

prĕç'e-dĕnt, noun.

prĕ-cĭse', not -cize'.

prĕ-clūde'. See adduce.

prĕd-ĕ-cĕs'sor, not prĕ'de.

prĕ-dĭ-lĕc'tion, not prĕd-i.

prĕf'ace, noun and verb, not prĕ'fāce.

prĕ'fect.

prĕf'er-a-ble, not prĕ-fer'-.

prefigure—prĕ-fig'yur.

prĕl'ate, not prĕ'lāte.

prĕl'ūde, noun.

Webster alone says prĕ'lūde, and the later editions of his dictionary permit prĕ'lūde.

prĕ-lūde', verb.

Smart says prĕ'lūde, but he is supported by Jameson only.

"So Love, precluding, plays at first with hearts, And after wounds with deeper-piercing darts."

—Congreve.

prĕ-mā-tūre', not prĕm'at-yur.

premier (Fr.)—prĕm'yā'.

pre-pòs'ter-òus, not -trūs.
 Prēs-by-tē'ri-an, not prēs.
 prēs-by-tēr-y, not prēs-byt'ē-ry.
 prēs-en-tā'tion, not prē.
 prē-sēn'ti-mēnt, not -zēn'.
 prē-sēnt'ment.
 prēs'i-dēnt, not -dūnt.
 prēs'tige.
 prestige (Fr.)—prās'tēzh'.
 prē-sūmpt'u-òus, not -zūmp'shūs.
 prē-tēnce', not prē'tence.
 prēt'er-ite, or prē'.
 prē-tēxt'.

This is the marking of nearly all the orthopists.

 "My pretext to strike at him admits

 prē-vēnt'ive, not -vēn'ta-tive.
 prī'ma-ry, not -mēr-e. prin'cess, not prin-cēss'.
 prīs'tine, not -tin.
 prī'vā-cy, not prīv'.

prīv'ī-ly.

prō'ba-to-ry.

prōb'ī-ty, not prō'.

The erroneous pronunciation is often used, especially on the stage.

prōc'ess, not prō'.

procès verbal (Fr.)—prō'sā' vēr'bāl'.

prōd'uce, not prō'.

prōd'uct, not prō'.

profile—prō'fēl, -fil, or -fil.

The first pronunciation is Worcester's and Smart's; the second, Walker's and Webster's; the third, Craig's. Pro-fēl' is also authorized, and by some speakers may be preferred.

prō-fūse', not -fūz'.

prōg'ress, not prō'.

prōj'ect, noun, not prō'.

prō-jēct', verb.

prō-jēc'tile, not -til.

prō-lix'.

In their earlier editions both Webster and Worcester pronounced this word prō'lix; which accentuation a few other authorities also recognize.

pröl'ogue, or prō'.

The first marking is that of Worcester, Smart, and Walker; the second, that of Webster and one or two others.

pröm-e-nāde', or -nāde'.

prō-mül'gāte, not pröm'ul-gāte.

pröm-ul-gā'tiōn, or prō-mül.

pronunciation—prō-nūn-she-ā'shun, or -ce-ā'shun, but not -cē-ā'shun.

The majority of the authorities are in favor of the sound of sh; Webster was not, but this sound has been adopted by the editors of the later editions of his dictionary.

Wheaton in his "Travels in England" says: "I was not a little mortified at having my Yankee origin detected by my omitting to give the full sound of sh in the word pronunciation."

Walker says: "The very same reasons that oblige us to pronounce partiality, propitiation, speciality, etc., as if written parsheality, propisheashun, spesheality, etc., oblige us to pronounce pronunciation as if written pronunsheashun."

Smart marks this word pro-nūn-ce-ā'shun, yet he says in his "Principles": "It is regularly pronounced pro-nūn-she-ā'shun, and by all speakers would probably be so sounded if it were related to any such verb as to pronunciate, in the same way as association and enunciation are related to associate and enunciate. In the absence of any such related verb, most speakers say pron-un-sə-ā'shun, and so avoid the double occurrence of the sound of sh in the same word."

propitiate—prə-pīsh'ə-āt.

prə-sā'ic.

prə-scē'nī-tīm, not -scēn'.

prös'per-ōüs, not prös'prūs.

pröt'ā-sīs, not prō'.

protégé (Fr.)—prò'tā'zhā'.

pro tēm'pə-re, not tēm'pōre.

pröt'es-tā'tiōn, not prō'.

prə-thōn'ə-ta-ry, not prō-thə-nō'ta-ry.

prə-trudé'. See accrue.

prə-trū'sive, not -zīv.

prə-tū'ber-ənt.

proven—prōv'n.

This word, incorrectly used for proved, is said to be a Scotticism.

prə-vō'cə-tīve, or -vōc'ə-tīve.

Smart is the only orthoëpist of note who gives the second marking.

provost, the chief of any body, as a college—pröv'ust.

provost, the executioner of an army—pro-vō'.

Smart and some others pronounce the word in the latter signification pröv'ust also.

prow—prou or prō.

proress—prou'ēs.

Prō'es was once permissible.

prude, pru'dence, prune, pru'ri-ent. See accrue.

Prussian—prüsh'an, or prō'shan.

There is little choice here in point of good usage.

psalmist—säm'ist.

There is good authority for saying both säl'mist and säl'mist.

Webster said säm'o-de.

psalms—sämz, not sämz.

pseudo—sü'dō.

Psyche—si'kə.

In Greek and Latin words which begin with uncombinable consonants, the first letter is silent ; thus P in Psyche and Ptolemy is not sounded.

Ptolemaic—töl-ə-mā'ik.

puissance (from the French).

All the orthoëpists, with one exception, accent this word on the first syllable. Why this is done it is not easy to see, since that accentuation makes the word most difficult of utterance, and because the last syllable, in French, is made most prominent by being drawn out in the pronunciation somewhat like au in haul followed by nasal n and the sound of s. It seems to the writer that the word, in English, should be pronounced pu-is-sans instead of pū'is-sāns.

pūm'ice, or pū'.

"This word ought to be pronounced pewmis. In nothing is our language more regular than in preserving the u open when the accent is on it and followed by a single consonant."—Walker.

We have at least three other words which break this regularity—cum'in, duc'at, and pun'ish. Pum'ice is as well established as pun'ish. We never hear a mechanic talk about his pewmis-stone.

pyg-mē'an, or pÿg'me.

There is very little authority for the second accentuation.

pyramidal—pe-rām'i-dəl.

pyrites—pe-ri'téz.

Pÿth-ə-gō're-ən, or Py-thäg-ə-rē'an.

Pÿth'ə-nëss.

THIS consonant is always followed by u. The digraph qu has usually the sound of kw, as in quail, quart, etc.; but in many words from the French it has the sound of k, as in coquette, masquerade, etc. The termination que is also pronounced k, as in oblique, antique, etc.

quän'da-ry, or -dä'ry.

Webster and one or two lesser lights are the only orthoëpists who accent this word on the first syllable ; but that is certainly the prevailing pronunciation in this country.

quär'el, not quär'l.

quash—kwösh, not kwäsh.

quassia—kwösh'e-ä.

quelque chose (Fr.)—käl'ke shöz, not këk shöz.

quelle sottise (Fr.)—käl söt'těz'.

quinine—kwî-nîn', or 'kwî', not kē-nên'.

qui vive (Fr.)—kē vëv.

quoit—kwoit, not kwät.

quoth—kwöth, or kwüth.

R.

THIS letter is never silent. It has a peculiar influence on both the long and the short sound of the vowels. Sometimes it changes the short sound of a as in man into its Italian sound, as in far, and the short sound of o as in not into its broad sound, as in nor. It has a corresponding effect on the short sound of the other vowels. When r is preceded by a short vowel, it sometimes has the effect of blending the syllables. Thus the dissyllables higher, lower, mower, rower, sower, and flower are pronounced precisely like the monosyllables hire, lore, more, roar, soar, and flour.

räd'ish, not rëd'.

Webster, in the early editions of his dictionary, said räll'er-e; and in this some later orthoëpists have concurred.

raisonné (Fr.)—rä'zôn'nä'.

rä'jah.

rancor—räng'kur.

räp'ine, not rä-pën'.

raspberry—räz'ber-re, not rawz'.

räth'er, or räth', not rüth'.

rä'tiön, not räsh'un.

rational—rāsh'un-əl.

Rā'shun-al is no longer permitted by any orthoëpist. The like is true of nā'shun-al and other words of similar orthography. Indeed, the making of the a in the first syllable of these words long was never countenanced by any of the English orthoëpists. It was one of the many Websterian innovations.

rē-əl-i-zā'tiōn, not -i-zā'.

rē'əl-ly, not rē'ly.

rēb'el, not rēb'l.

rē-cēss'.

There is no dictionary authority for saying rē'cess, though the word is very generally so pronounced, even by good speakers.

rēc-ep-tiv'ī-ty.

rēc-i-prōc'ī-ty.

rēc-i-tā-tive'.

rēc-la-mā'tiōn.

rē-clūse', noun and adj.

"I all the livelong day Consume in meditation deep, recluse From human converse."
—Philips.

Sooner or later the accent of this word, when a substantive, and also of recess, will probably, by general consent, be changed to the first syllable.

rēc'og-niz-a-ble, or re-cög'nı-za-ble.

There is no lack of authority for the second marking, but in this country it is not heeded.

rēc'og-nize, not re-kög'niz, nor røk'on-iz.

rēc-ol-lëct', not rē-col.

rēc'on-dite, or re-cön'dite.

reconnaissance (Fr.)—re'kòn'ā'sāngs'.

This is the modern orthography of this word.

reconnoissance—re-kön'nı-sānce.

rēc-on-noi'tre, not rē'.

re-côrd', verb.

rēc'ord, noun, not rēc'örd.

Some of the older writers accented this substantive on the second syllable, as we see in the lines of Watts :

“ Our nation reads the written word, That book of life, that sure record.”

re-côurse'.

rēc're-ant, not rē'.

rēc're-âte, to take recreation

rē-cre-âte', to create anew re-crui't'. See accrue.

rēc'ti-tūde. See adduce.

re-fēr'ri-ble.

"This word," says Worcester, "is given in many of the dictionaries in two forms, referrible and referable, and both are often met with; but referrible is the form that seems to be the more countenanced by the dictionaries. Smart says, 'Referable, which is to be met with, violates the practice of deduction from the verb.'" rē'flēx, not re-flēx'.

rēf'lu-ēt, not re-flū'ēt.

rēf'ūse, or rēf'fūz.

re-fūt'a-ble.

régime (Fr.)—rā'zhēm'

rēl-ax-ā'tion, or rē-

Euphony and authority are on the side of the first marking.

relievo—re-lē'vō.

This word, thus given in the dictionaries, is a corruption of the Italian rilievo. Inasmuch as our own word relief has the same meaning in art, there is no occasion for a corrupt foreign form; and when the Italian word is used, it should have its Italian spelling and pronunciation—re-lyā'vo.

rē-méd'i-lēss, or rēm'e-dī-lēss.

Ease of utterance makes the first marking preferable, though the second is that of a majority of the authorities.

rē-mōrse'less, not -lūss. See ailment.

renaissance (Fr.)—rē-nā'sāngs'.

rendezvous (Fr.)—rōng'dā'vōō'.

renew—rē-nū', not -nu'.

renunciation—rē-nūn-shē-ā'shun, or -sē.

See pronunciation.

rēp'a-ra-ble.

rēp-ar-tēē'.

“A man renowned for repartee will seldom scruple to make free With friendship's finest feeling.”

—Cowper.

répertoire (Fr.)—rā'pār'twār'.

rēp'er-to-ry.

rēp'tile, not -tile (antiquated).

rēp'ū-ta-ble.

rē'quī-em, or rēk'wē-em.

Smart says rēk'we-em, and Worcester permits this marking.

rē-sēarch', not rē'.

rĕs-ig-nā'tiōn, not rĕsrĕs'in, not rĕz'n.

rĕs'ō-lū-ble.

Those who, like the writer, are glad to have an authority for pronouncing this word re-zōl'ū-ble, find it in Sheridan.

rĕs-ō-lū'tiōn, not -lū'. See adduce.

rĕs'ō-nānce, not rĕs'.

rĕ-sōurce', not rĕ'.

“Pallas viewed
His foes pursuing, and his friends pursued; Used threatenings mixed with prayers, his last resource.”

—Dryden.

rĕ-spīr'ā-ble.

Perry and Knowles say rĕs'pī-ra-ble.

rĕ-spīr'ā-to-ry.

rĕs'pīte, not -pīt.

rĕ-splĕn'dĕnt, not rĕsrestaurant—rĕs'tō-rānt.

In speaking English, to pronounce this word à la française is in questionable taste; it smacks of pedantry.

restaurateur (Fr.)—rās'tō'rā'tūr'.

rĕ-stō'ra-tīve, not rĕs-tō'.

re-sūme'.

résumé (Fr.)—rā'zu'mā'.

The vowel u has a sound in French which can not be represented with English characters. The sound is identical with ü or ue in German.

re-tāil', verb; rē'tāil, noun.

rētch, or rētch.

Though the former is more heard in this country, the latter has the weight of authority in its favor.

rē'trō-cēde, or rēt'rō-

All the dictionaries put the accent on the first syllable of this word; but in nearly all other words of similar formation it is on the last, as intercede', supersede', etc. If this were as commonly used as the others, we apprehend it would have been treated in like manner.

rēt'rō-grāde, or rē'trō-

A large majority of the orthoëpists give the first marking. Indeed, Smart is the only one of note who prefers the second.

rēt'rō-spēct, or rē'trō-rěv'el-ry, not -ül-ry.

revenue—rěv'e-nū, in prose; rě-věn'yū, in verse.

“Do not think I flatter ;
For what advancement may I hope from thee,
That no revenue hath but thy good spirits To feed and clothe thee ?”

—Hamlet.

rěv'ō-ca-ble.

re-vōlt', or -vōlt'.

“This word has Mr. Sheridan, Dr. Kenrick, Mr. Perry, and Mr. Buchanan for that pronunciation which rhymes it with malt ; but that which rhymes it with bolt, jolt, etc., has the authority of Mr. Elphinston, Mr. Smith, Mr. Scott, Mr. Nares, and W. Johnston, a clear analogy, and, if I am not mistaken, the best usage, on its side.”—Walker.

rheum—rūm.

rheumatism—rū'mə-tizm.

rhubarb—rū'bārb, not rū'.

Richelieu—rīsh'el-yū.

It is doubtful taste to pronounce this historic name after the French mode when speaking English. It certainly smacks a bit of pedantry.

ripe'ness, not -nūs. See ailment.

rise, or rise, noun.

"This word properly takes the pure sound of s to distinguish it from the verb, but does not adhere to this distinction so inviolably as the nouns use, excuse, etc.; for we sometimes hear 'the rise and fall of the Roman empire,' 'the rise and fall of provisions,' etc., with the s like z. The pure s, however, is more agreeable to analogy, and ought to be scrupulously preserved in these phrases by all correct speakers."—Walker.

Walker's recommendation is little heeded nowadays by even the most fastidious.

ro-büst', not rō'büst.

With thunder his robust, distended chest?"

—Young.

robustious—ro-büst'yus.

ro-mānce'.

Though rō'mance is often heard in cultured circles, it is not sanctioned by any of the orthoëpists.

"A staple of romance and lies, False tears and real perjuries."

—Prior.

rōof. See cooper.

rōök, or rōök.

rōot, not rōt. See cooper.

roseate—rō'ze-ət.

rō-gé'ō-lá, not rō-gē-ō'lá.

roué (Fr.)—rō'á'.

route—rōot.

There is abundant authority for pronouncing this word roué; but this pronunciation is now very generally considered inelegant.

"Most of the orthoëpists more recent than Walker give the preference to the pronunciation rōot."—Worcester.

routine (Fr.)—rō'tēn'.

rū-bē'ō-lá, not rū-be-ō'lá.

Rubinstein, A.—rū'bīn-stīn.

rū'by, not rū'.

rūde, not rūde. See accrue.

Rū'fūs

rūle, not rūle.

rū'mī-nāte.

rū'ral, not rū'.

ruse de guerre (Fr.)—rūz de gār.

Russian. See Prussian.

Ruy Blas (Sp.)—rū e blás, not blá.

S.

THE usual or genuine sound of this letter is its sharp, hissing, or sibilant sound, as in alas, sun, same, caps, stuffs, etc. It has also a soft sound like z, as in does, was, ribs, prices, dismal, etc.

Combined with or from the effect of the succeeding vowel, it has the sound of sh in words ending in sion preceded by a consonant, as in dimension, expulsion, etc.; also in censure, sensual, fissure, pressure, sure, insure, nauseate, nauseous, sugar, etc.

In the German language, s, beginning a syllable and followed by a vowel, has the sound of z; at the end of a syllable, it has invariably its sharp, hissing sound.

săc-er-dô'tal, not sâ-cer.

săc'ra-mënt, not sâ'cră.

"This word, with sacrifice, sacrilege, and sacrilegity, is sometimes pronounced with the a in the first syllable long, as in sacred; but this is contrary to one of the clearest analogies in the language."—Walker.

In the words sacrifice, suffice, discern, and sice, has the sound of z.

“They talk of principles, but notions prize, And all to one loved, folly sacrifice.”

—Pope.

sacrifice, noun—sāk're-fiz, or -fis.

The second marking is authorized by Smart and by Wright.

săc'ri-lěge, not sâ'cri.

săc-ri-lě'giotŭs, not -lij'ŭs.

săc'ris-ty.

să-gă'ciotŭs, not -găsh'ŭs.

said—sĕd, not sād.

Sainte-Beuve—săngt'-bĕv'.

Săl'ic, not Să'lic.

salmon—săm'un.

salve—säv, or sály, not säv.

“Dr. Johnson tells us that this word is originally and properly salf; which having salves in the plural, the singular in time was borrowed from it; sealf, Saxon, undoubtedly from salvus, Latin. There is some diversity among our orthoepists about the l in this word and its verb. Mr. Sheridan marks it to be pronounced; Mr. Smith, W. Johnston, and Barclay make it mute; Mr.

Scott and Mr. Perry give it both ways ; and Mr. Nares says it is mute in the noun, but sounded in the verb. The mute l is certainly countenanced in this word by calve and halve ; but, as they are very irregular, and are the only words where the l is silent in this situation (for valve, delve, solve, etc., have the l pronounced), and as this word is of Latin original, the l ought certainly to be preserved in both words ; for, to have the same word sounded differently to signify different things is a defect in language that ought, as much as possible, to be avoided."—Walker.

Sä-mär'i-tan.

sanguine—säng'gwîn.

sapphire—sä'fir, or sä'fir.

The second pronunciation has a great preponderance of authority in its favor ; but the first, which is Webster's, is both more analogical and more euphonious.

särce'nët, not sär'se.

sär'do-nÿx.

sär-sä-pä-ril'lä, not sä-s-a.

satiäte—sä'she-ät.

sä-ti'e-ty, not sä'she-ty.

The pronunciation of this word seems anomalous, from the fact that it is the only one in the language having the syllable ti under an accent followed by a vowel ; but this syllable regularly takes the accent, in analogy with society, variety, and all other words of similar formation.

săt'in, not săt'n.

săt'ire.

This is the marking of Webster and Craig. Smart says săt'er ; Worcester, săt'er ; Walker, săt'ir.

săt'rap.

Săt'rap is becoming obsolete.

săt'ur-nine, not săt'tur-nin.

satyr—săt'tur.

Smart alone prefers săt'ur.

səu'cy, not säs'e.

sauer kraut (Ger.)—zow'er krowt.

saunter—sän'ter, or saun'.

sau'sage.

The pronunciation sās'sij, now exceedingly vulgar, was at one time countenanced by good usage, and was preferred by several orthoëpists of the last century.

savoir faire (Fr.)—säv'wär' fär.

scä'bi-öüs.

scäld, or scald, a Scandinavian poet.

scallop, verb and noun—sköl'lup.

“This word is irregular ; for it ought to have the a in the first syllable like that in tallow ; but the deep sound of a is too firmly fixed by custom to afford any expectation of a change. Mr. Sheridan, Mr. Scott, Dr. Kenrick, Mr. Nares, and Mr. Smith pronounce the a in the manner I have given it.”—Walker.

scäth, not skäth (old).

scën'ic.

Smart says scë'nic.

schedule—skëd'yül.

The orthoëpists give us seven or eight different ways to pronounce this word. This is the marking of both Worcester and Webster.

schism—sizm, not sız'üm.

“The common pronunciation of this word is contrary to every rule for pronouncing words from the learned languages, and ought to be altered. Ch, in English words, coming from Greek words with χ , ought always to be pronounced like k; and I believe the word in question is almost the only exception throughout the language. However strange, therefore, skizm may sound, it is the only true and analogical pronunciation; and we might as well pronounce scheme sceme as schism sizm, there being exactly the same reason for both. But, when once a false pronunciation is fixed, as this is, it requires some daring spirit to begin the reformation; but when once begun, as it has (what seldom happens) truth, novelty, and the appearance of Greek erudition on its side, there is no doubt of its success. Whatever, therefore, may be the fate of its pronunciation, it ought still to retain its spelling. This must be held sacred, or the whole language will be metamorphosed; for the very same reason that induced Dr. Johnson to spell sceptick skeptick, ought to have made him spell schism sizm and schedule sedule. All our orthoëpists pronounce the word as I have marked it.”—Walker.

schooner—skōon'er, not skōon'.

Schubert—shōo'bert, not -bär.

Schurz, Carl—shōorts.

scöff, not scauf. See accost.

scor-bü'tic.

screw—skru, not skrū.

scröf'u-lä, not skrauf'. See accost.

scrü'ple See accrue.

scrup'u-loüs.

sculpture—skülpt'yur.

seamstress—sēm'stres, or sēm'.

Webster is the only orthoëpist of note who gives the second marking.

séance (Fr.)—sä'ängs'.

seckel, a small pear—sĕk'kl, not sĭk'l.

se-clüde', not -clüd'. See adduce.

sĕc're-ta-ry, not sĕc'ü-ta-ry.

sĕd'a-tive.

se-düce'. See adduce.

seigneurial—sĕn-yü'ri-äl.

seine, a net—sĕn, not sän.

Seine, river—sän.

sĕm'ĭ, not sĕm'ĭ.

sempstress—sĕm'stres.

sē'nile, not sē'nll.

sĕn'ná, not sē'ná.

sentient—sĕn'shĕ-ent.

sĕn'ti-mĕnt. See ailment.

sepulchre, noun—sĕp'ul-ker.

“I consider this word as having altered its original accent on the second syllable, either by the necessity or caprice of the poets, or by its similitude to the generality of words of this form and number of syllables, which generally have the accent on the first syllable. Dr. Johnson tells us it is accented by Shakespeare and Milton on the second syllable, but by Jonson and Prior, more properly, on the first; and he might have added, as Shakespeare has sometimes done.”—Walker.

sepulchre, verb—sĕ-pul'ker.

sē'quel, not kwil.

sĕ-quĕs'trāte.

sequestration—sĕk-wĕs-trā'shun.

sequestrator—sĕk'wĕs-trā-tur.

Sĕ-rā'pis.

sergeant—sār'jent, or sēr'.

There is but little authority for the second marking.

“There is a remarkable exception to the common sound of the letter c in the words clerk, ser- geant, and a few others, where we find the e pronounced like the a in dark and margin. But this exception, I imagine, was, till within these few years, the general rule of sounding this letter before r, followed by another consonant. Thirty years ago every one pronounced the first syllable of merchant like the monosyllable march, and as it was originally written, marchant. Service and servant are still heard, among the lower orders of speakers, as if written sarvice and sarvant; and even among the better sort we sometimes hear the salutation, 'Sir, your sarvant,' though this pronunciation of the word singly would be looked upon as a mark of the lowest vulgarity. The proper names Derby and Berkeley still retain the old sound; but even these, in polite usage, are getting into the common sound, nearly as if written Durby and Burkeley. As this modern pronunciation of the e has a tendency to simplify the language by lessening the number of exceptions, it ought certainly to be indulged."—Walker.

"The letters er are irregularly sounded ar in clerk and sergeant, and formerly, but not now, in merchant, Derby, and several other words."—Smart.

"In the United States, the letters er are, by good speakers, regularly sounded, as in her, in the words merchant, servant, Derby, Berkeley, etc. The regular pronunciation of clerk (clurk) is also a very common, if not the prevailing, mode. Many give the same sound to e in sergeant."—Worcester.

sēr'vile, not -vil.

sēr'vi-tūde, not -tūd.

sēs'a-me.

sew—sō, not sū.

sewer, one who sews—sō'er.

sewer, an under-ground drain—sū'er.

Walker and half a dozen other orthoëpists say shōr; Smart says soor, and maintains that shōr is vulgar; Worcester says soo'er or shōr; and finally, Webster and Wright say sū'er, which is the pronunciation always heard here.

sh.

This digraph represents the simple sound heard in shelf, flesh, usher, etc., and is never silent.

“It is expressed: 1. By c, as in oceanic, emaciation; 2. By s, as in nauseate, Asiatic; 3. By t, as in negotiation; 4. By ce, as in ocean; 5. By ci, as in social; 6. By se, as in nauseous; 7. By si, as in tension; 8. By ti, as in captious; 9. By the si implied in xi (= ksi), as in noxious; 10. By the sy implied in su (= syu), as in mensuration; 11. By the sy implied in xu (= ksyu), as in luxury; 12. By ch, as in chaise, charlatan, machine; 13. By chs, as in fuchsia; 14. By sc, as in conscientious; 15. By sch, as in scholar; 16. By sci, as in conscience.”—W. A. Wheeler.

shall, auxiliary—shāl, or sh'l, according to the stress put upon it.

The auxiliaries, like the pronouns and a long list of the particles, are touched but lightly when they are not emphatic and the utterance is natural.

sha'n't (shall not)—shānt, not shānt shēath, noun; pl., shēathg.

shē, or she, according to the demands of the emphasis.

“Then, with eyes that saw not, I kissed her;
And she [shē], kissing back, could not know That my [mī] kiss was given to her sister.”

“Oh, she [shē] too died a short time since; she [shē] broke a blood-vessel in a fit of passion.”

sheik—shōk.

shekel—shēk'l, not shē'kl.

shew—shō.

shewn—shōn.

“The pronunciation of this word is very irregular, as it is the only pure English word in the language where the final e does not produce the long diphthongal sound of i when the accent is on it; but this irregularity is so fixed as to give the regular sound a pedantic stiffness. Mr.

Sheridan, Mr. Scott, and Buchanan, however, have adopted this sound, in which they have been followed by Mr. Smith; but Mr. Elphinston, Dr. Lowth, Dr. Kenrick, Mr. Perry, and Barclay are for the irregular sound; W. Johnston gives both, but places the irregular first. It may likewise be observed that this word, when unaccented at the end of words, as Nottinghamshire, Wiltshire, etc., is always pronounced with the i like ee—Walker.

“This word is frequently pronounced so as to rhyme with tone; but the short sound of it is by far the most usual among those who may be styled polite speakers.”—Walker.

Webster and others give the first pronunciation; Smart, Worcester, and others, the second, which violates an almost uniform analogy, and is rarely heard in this country. This and gone are the only words of similar formation in which the regular short sound of o is ever heard, the only other exceptions to the long sound being a few words in which the o has the sound of short u, as done, love, etc.

shōrt-lived, not -līvd.

shrew—shrū, not shrū.

shrewd—shrūd, not shrūd.

shriek—shrēk, not srēk.

sh^rill, not aril.

sh^rine, not arin.

sh^rink, not srink.

sh^rüb, not srüb.

sh^rüg, not srüg.

sibyl—sib'ül, not si'bül.

sice—siz. See sacrifice.

sigh—si.

“A very extraordinary pronunciation of this word prevails in London, and, what is more extraordinary, on the stage—so different from every other word of the same form as to make it a perfect oddity in the language. This pronunciation approaches to the word sithe [scythe]; and the only difference is that sithe has the flat aspiration, as in this, and sigh the sharp one, as in thin. It is not easy to conjecture what could be the reason of this departure from analogy, unless it were to give the word a sound which seems an echo to the sense.”—Walker.

“This ‘extraordinary pronunciation’ of sigh is more or less common in some parts of the United States. It is not countenanced by any of the orthoëpists.”—Worcester.

silhouette (Fr.)—sē'lo-ët'.

sím'î-lē, not sím'il.

sī-mul-tá'ne-oüs, not sím-ul.

since, not sence.

sī'ne-cūre, not sīn'ē.

sī'ne dī'ē (Lat.).

sīn'is-ter, or sī-ŋis'ter.

“This word, in the sense of left, is accented by the poets Milton, Dryden, etc., on the second syllable, though most lexicographers and orthoëpists accent it on the first syllable, whether it is used in the sense of left or perverse. Walker says: ‘This word, though uniformly accented on the second syllable in the poets quoted by Johnson, is as uniformly accented on the first by all our lexicographers, and is uniformly so pronounced by the best speakers. Mr. Nares tells us that Dr. Johnson seems to think that, when this word is used in its literal sense—as, it has the accent on the second syllable; but when in the figurative sense of corrupt, insidious, etc., on the first. This distinction seems not to be founded on the best usage.’”—Worcester.

“In his sinister hand, instead of a ball,
He placed a mighty mug of potent ale,”

sī'ren, not sīr'en.

Sir'i-ūs (Lat.).

sirrah—sīr'rā, sīr'rā, or sēr'rā.

“This [sār'rā] is a corruption of the first magnitude, but too general and inveterate to be remedied. Mr. Sheridan, Mr. Nares, Mr. Scott, Dr. Kenrick, and Mr. Perry pronounce it as I have done. W. Johnston alone pronounces it as if written serrah; and Mr. Elphinston, because it is derived from sir and the interjection ah, says it ought to have the first syllable like sir.”

— Walker.

sir'up.

Though sanctioned, sir'rup may be set down as being rather inelegant.

sky—skī, skēi, skyi, or sk'y. See kind.
slān'der, or slān'der.

slāb'ber.

This word is pronounced colloquially slūb'ber, and sometimes so written.

“The second sound of this word is by much the more usual one; but, as it is in direct opposition to the orthography, it ought to be discounted, and the a restored to its true sound.”— Walker.

slāng.

slānt.

slāte.

slāugh'ter.

slēék, not slick.

sliv'er, or sliv'er.

The first marking, the prevailing pronunciation in this country, is that of Webster and Craig; the second, that of all the other orthoepists.

slôth.

Webster alone marks the o of this word and its derivatives short.

slôth'fûl.

slough, the cast skin of a serpent—slûf.

sociable—sô'she-â-bl.

sôft. See accost.

soften—sôf'n, not sôf'ten.

soirée (Fr.)—swâ'râ'.

sô'journ, noun.

so-jôurn', or sô'journ, verb

“This noun and verb are variously accented by the poets; but our modern orthoepists have, in general, given the accent to the first syllable of both words.”—Walker.

so-journ'er.

All the authorities, so far as the writer knows, place the accent of this word on the first syllable, thus, sō'journ-er. Ease of utterance, euphony, and analogy demand the penultimate accentuation, which is accordingly recommended here.

söm'bre, or sôm'.

Nearly all the orthoëpists mark the o of this word long. It is not easy to see why, especially as it comes to us through the French, in which language the o is more like our short than our long o. True, the long o makes the word somewhat more sonorous.

sōn'net, not sōn'.

sōon, not sōōn.

"Notwithstanding I have Mr. Sheridan, Mr. Nares, Dr. Kenrick, W. Johnston, Mr. Perry, and the professors of the black art themselves against me in the pronunciation of this word, I have ventured to prefer the regular pronunciation to the irregular. The adjective sooty has its regular sound among the correctest speakers, which has induced Mr. Sheridan to mark it so; but nothing can be more absurd than to pronounce the substantive in one manner, and the adjective, derived from it by adding y, in another. The other orthoëpists, therefore, who pronounce both these words with the oo like ū, are more consistent than Mr. Sheridan, though, upon the whole, not so right."— Walker.

"Th, at the end of words, is sharp, as death, breath, etc., except in beneath, booth, with, and the verbs to seeth, to smooth, to sooth, to mouth, all which ought to be written with e final, not only to distinguish some of them from the nouns, out to show that th is soft ; for th, when final, is sometimes pronounced soft, as in to mouth ; yet the, at the end of words, is never pronounced hard. There is as obvious an analogy for this sound of th in these verbs, as for the z sound of s in verbs ending in se ; and why we should write some verbs with e, and others without it, is inconceivable. The best way to show the absurdity of our orthography, in this particular, will be to draw out the nouns and verbs as they stand in Johnson's Dictionary :

Nouns, etc.	Verbs.	Nouns, etc.	Verbs.
Bath,	to batho.	Sheath,	to sheath, sheathe.
Breath,	to breathe.	Smooth,	to smooth.
Cloth,	{ to clothe,	Sooth,	to sooth
	{ to uncloth.	Swath,	to swathe.
Loath,	to loatho.	Wreath,	{ to wreath,
Mouth,	to mouth.		{ to inwreathe.

“Surely nothing can be more evident than the analogy of the language in this case. Is it not absurd to hesitate a moment at writing all the verbs with e final? This is a departure from our great lexicographer which he himself would approve, as nothing but inadvertency could have led him into this unmeaning irregularity.”—

Walker.

“Although Walker speaks so decidedly on this matter, yet he has not accommodated the orthography of all these words to the principle which he inculcates. It could be wished that all the words of this class were conformed in their orthography to this rule. The only ones which are not now actually, by respectable usage, conformed to it, are the verbs to mouth and to smooth, which we hardly ever see written to mouthe and to smoothe."— Worcester.

sör'ry, not saw'ry.

sough—sūf.

souse, not souz.

souvenir—sov'nēr'.

In England the o of this word is generally sounded like o in on, while in the United States it is generally sounded like o in son.

spaniel—spän'yel.

spāsm; not spāz'üm.

specialty—spësh'äl-tē.

species—spē'shez, or -shēz.

A tautophonic objection to the second marking will, probably, make the first one generally preferred.

specious—spē'shus.

sphē'roid.

spīr'it, not spīr'üt.

"The general sound of the first i, in this word and all its compounds, was till lately the sound of e in merit; but a very laudable attention to propriety has nearly restored the i to its true sound; and now spirit sounded as if written sperit begins to grow vulgar."— Walker.

spīr'it-ed, not spīr'et-üd.

sprūce, not sprūce. See accrue.

squā'lōr.

This is the marking of all the dictionaries; but universal usage makes the word squā'lōr.

"The i in this word ought not, according to analogy, to be pronounced like e; but custom seems to have fixed it too firmly in that sound to be altered without the appearance of pedantry."— Walker.

See panegyric. The above note assumes that the word must be pronounced with the sound either of short i or of short e; but in this country the general pronunciation is that first given.

stāmp, not stōmp.

stānch, not stānch.
 stead—stēd, not stīd.
 stēad'y, not stīd'y.
 stēel'yard.

Colloquially in the United States, stil'yard; in England, according to Smart, stē'yard.

"This word, in common usage among those who weigh heavy bodies, has contracted its double e into single i, and is pronounced as if written stilyard. This contraction is so common, in compound words of this kind, as to become an idiom of pronunciation, which can not be easily counteracted without opposing the current of the language."—Walker.

"It is sometimes written stillyard."—Crabb.

 steward—stū'ard, not stū'-.
 stīnt, not stēnt.
 stīr'rup, or stūr'rup.
 stōl'id, not stō'lid.
 stōm'ā-cher, not -ker.
 stōne, not stūn.
 stōn'y, not stūn'ē.
 stōrm, not stawm.

strā-těg'ic, or -tē'gic.

Webster and Cull are the only authorities for the second pronunciation.

strēngth, not strēnth.

The first place is given here to strū because that is the marking of the majority of the orthoepists, and because both Worcester and Webster give it the preference. The writer personally prefers strō, thinking it the easier of utterance and the more sonorous; in fact, the sound of long o is the most sonorous sound in the language.

stū'dent, not stu'-. See adduce.

stu-pēn'doūs.

stū'pid, not stu'.

sub-ā'tern.

sub-ā'ue, not -du'. See adduce.

“A very improper accentuation (sūb'ject-ed) of the passive participle of the verb to subject has obtained, which ought to be corrected.”—Walker.

süb-lü'nar.

süb'ly-na-ry.

subpcena—süb-pē'nä, not süp.

substantiate—süb-stän'she-ät.

subtile, thin, rare, fine—süb'til.

subtle, sly, artful, cunning—süt'l.

These two words are often confounded with each other both in orthography and pronunciation.

süb'urb, not sü'burb.

süb-urb'an.

süch, not sěch, nor sich.

süd'den, not süd'n.

suffice—suf-fiz', not -fis'. See sacrifice.

sug-gëst'.

Smart marks this word sud-jësi.

"Though the first g in exaggerate is, by a carelessness of pronunciation, assimilated to the last, this is not always the case in the present word. For, though we sometimes hear it sounded as if written sud-jesi, the most correct speakers generally preserve the first and last g in their distinct and separate sounds."—Walker.

 suite—swēt, not sūt.

T.

THIS letter is silent in the terminations ten and tle after s and f, as in fasten, listen, often, soften, gristle, castle, throstle, bristle, etc. It is also silent in the words chestnut, Christmas, hostler or ostler, mistletoe, and mortgage.

tēn'a-ble, not tē'na.

tenacious—te-nā'shus, not -nāsh'us.

tēn'et, not tē'net.

Some of the older orthoëpists said tē'net, but now the weight of authority is decidedly in favor of the marking we have given.

“Notwithstanding our poets almost universally accent this word on the first syllable, and the poets are pretty generally followed by good speakers, there are some, and those not of the lowest order, who still place the accent on the second. These should be reminded that, as inwards, outwards, backwards, forwards, and every other word of the same form, have the accent on the first syllable, there is not the least reason for pronouncing towards with the accent on the last.”
— Walker.

- tranquil—träng'kwil.
 trāns-āct', not trānz.

 trāv'el-ler, not trāv'ler.
 trāv'erse, not trā-vērse'.
 treble—trēb'l, not trib'l.

This is one of the long list of words which are differently marked in the later editions of Webster's dictionary from what they were formerly.

 tri-bū nāl.
 trib'ūne, not tri'būn.
 tri'ō, or tri'ō.
 trīp'ar-tite.

triphthong—trif'thōng, or trip'.

“Two aspirations in succession, says Mr. Elphinston, seem disagreeable to an English ear, and therefore one of them is generally sunk. Thus diphthong and triphthong are pronounced diphthong and triphthong. P is lost, as well as h, in apophthegm; and therefore it is no wonder we hear the first h dropped in ophthalmy and ophthalmic, which is the pronunciation I have adopted, as agreeable to analogy. Nay, such an aversion do we seem to have to a succession of aspirates, that the h is sunk in isthmus, Esther, and Demosthenes [?], because the s, which is akin to the aspiration, immediately precedes. Mr. Sheridan pronounces the first syllable of ophthalmic like off, but the first of diphthong and triphthong like dip and trip. Mr. Scott, W. Johnston, and Mr. Perry pronounce diphthong and triphthong in the same manner as Mr. Sheridan. Dr. Kenrick gives no pronunciation to diphthong, but makes the h silent in triphthong; while Barclay pronounces the h in ophthalmic, but makes it either way in diphthong, and silent in triphthong. It may be remarked that Dr. Jones, who wrote a spelling dictionary in Queen Anne's time, makes the h in those two words silent.”—Walker.

The older orthoëpists say triv'jal.

trųths, not trųths.

tųbe, not tųb.

The first of these markings has the fewest authorities in its favor, but they are among the latest—Smart, Cooley, and Cull; and the Webster "Unabridged" gives it the second place—after tųbe'rose, which is a corruption resulting from the accidental resemblance of the word to a compound of tube and rose. The second marking, in retaining the soft sound of the s, goes only half-way in rejecting the vulgarism. The word comes from the Latin adjective tuberosus, and should have the sharp sound of s, like all other words of similar derivation, as morose, verbose, etc.; and this, we believe, is the actual pronunciation of the majority of educated speakers.

Tües'day, not tuz'. See adduce.

Tuileries (Fr.)—twé'le-ré'.

tū'lip, not tu'.

tū'mült, not tu'.

tý'r'an-ny, not tý'ræn.

tzar (for czar)—zär.

tzarina (for czarina)—zä-ré'nä.

This is a remarkable instance of defeat of good intentions. The proper sound of cz in these Slavic words is that of ts, and some English writers have spelt them with a t in order to get them pronounced correctly; but our lexicographers, assuming that this was merely an unmeaning variation of the orthography, have inserted them as above with the same lazy pronunciation given in English to the original forms. It should be remembered that, as a rule, there are few or no entirely ineffective letters in any of the European languages, the English and the French excepted.

U.

THIS vowel was formerly the same letter as the consonant v, and the two forms were interchangeable for both purposes; and, though the consonant and vowel have very different uses, their representation came to be discriminated only at a comparatively recent period.

The sound of this letter in French has no equivalent in English, and therefore can not be represented with English characters. In German it is sounded like double o in English; followed by e, or with two points over it (ü), it is sounded precisely like u in French.

Ū'ti-mā Thū'le.

We frequently hear this word pronounced with the a broadened, and this pronunciation can not be said to be really incorrect, although it is not sanctioned by any of the dictionaries. This remark applies with equal force to apparatus, armada, bravado, datum, desperado, gratis, ignoramus, lava, octave, octavo, panorama, promenade, etc. All these words are of foreign origin, even to their form, and to many ears are more euphonious with a broadened a.

victuals—vit'tlz.

"This corruption, like most others, has terminated in the generation of a new word; for no solemnity will allow of pronouncing this word as it is written. Victuals appeared to Swift so contrary to the real sound, that, in some of his manuscript remarks, he spells the word vittles."—Walker.

villain—vil'lin, not vil'lün.

vi'ç-lēnce, not -lūnce.

vi'ç-lēnt, not -lūnt. See ailment.

vi-rā'gō, or vi-rā', not -rā'.

Virchow—fir'kō.

“Dr. Hill published, in a pamphlet, a petition from the letters I and U to David Garrick, Esq., both complaining of terrible grievances imposed upon them by that great actor, who frequently banished them from their proper stations, as in the word virtue, which, they said, he converted into vurtue; and, in the word ungrateful, he displaced the u, and made it ingrateful, to the great prejudice of the said letters. To this complaint Garrick replied in the following epigram:

‘If it is, as you say, that I’ve injured a letter, I’ll change my note soon, and, I hope, for the better.
May the right use of letters, as well as of men, Hereafter be fixed by the tongue and the pen.
Most devoutly I wish they may both have their due,
And that I may be never mistaken for U.’

—Walker.

vir'u-lent.

viscount—vī'kount.

vis'or.

There is but little authority for vi'zor. It is only permitted in the later editions of Webster.

visual—vizh'u-əl.

vivacious—vī-vā'shus, not vāsh'us vizier—vīz'yēr, or -yēr.

vōcā-ble, not vōc'ā.

vōl-ā-tille, not -til.

vōl-cā'nō, not -cā'nō.

The latter pronunciation, although etymologically correct, is so seldom heard as to sound pedantic.

volume—vōl'yum.

Webster said vōlum.

von (Ger.)—fūn, not vōn.

This German monosyllable is pronounced precisely like the English word fun, except that its utterance is somewhat shorter or more abrupt. Hence we should say fūn (not vōn) Arnim, etc.

W

This letter is a consonant (or more correctly a semi-vowel) at the beginning of a word or of a syllable, and when preceded by a consonant in the same syllable. Its combination with a preceding a in the same syllable produces the sound of broad a in hall, as in lawn; with e, a diphthong sounding like long u, as in new, or, if preceded by r or y, like the u in rule—i. e., like long oo—as in crew, yew; with o, the diphthongal sound sometimes also represented by oa, as in town, or that of long o (the w having no effect), as in glow.

It is always silent before r in the same syllable, as in write, wring, wren, wrong, etc.; it is likewise silent in the words sword, answer, two, toward.

Before another vowel in the same syllable, it is frequently represented by u, as in lanquor, question, etc.

In German, w has the sound of v in English.

Wagner—våg'ner.

Wä-hä'beeç.

wan—wön, not wän.

"Mr. Sheridan has given the a, in this word and its compounds, the same sound as in man. Mr. Scott and Dr. Kenrick have given both the sound I have given and Mr. Sheridan's, but seem to prefer the former by placing it first. I have always heard it pronounced like the first syllable of wan-ton; and find Mr. Nares, W. Johnston, and Mr. Perry have so marked it."—Walker.

wassail—wös'sil.

well, not wäl.

wē, or we, according to the stress it should receive.

"We [wē] go to Boston; they to Chicago."

"We [wē] hope to see you when we [wē] arrive; if we [wē] do not, we [wē] shall be disappointed."

Weber—vā'ber.

wēst'ward, not -ūrd.

wharf, not wōrf.

whêre'fôre, not whēr'fôr.

A goodly number of the orthoëpists say whâr'fôr, and Smart is among them.

whêre-wîth-əl'.

whêth'er, not wêth'.

whîch, not wîch.

whîle, not wîle.

whîs'key, not wîs'.

whôle—hôle, not hül. See cooper.

whôle'sâle, not hül'.

Wieland—vê'land.

wîfe; possessive, wîfe's, not wîves.

Winckelmann—vînk'el-mān.

“These two modes of pronunciation have been long contending for superiority, till at last the former [wīnd] seems to have gained a complete victory, except in the territories of rhyme. . . . Mr. Sheridan tells us that Swift used to jeer those who pronounced wīnd with the i short, by saying, ‘I have a great mīnd to fīnd why you pronounce it wīnd.’ A very illiberal critic retorted this upon Mr. Sheridan by saying, ‘If I may be so boold, I should be glad to be toold why you pronounce it goold.’ . . . Mr. Sheridan and Mr. Scott give the same preference to the first sound of this word that I have done. Dr. Kenrick and Mr. Barclay give only the short sound. Mr. Perry joins them in this sound, but says in dramatic scenes it has the long one. Mr. Nares says it has certainly the short sound in common usage, but that all our best poets rhyme it with mīnd, kīnd, etc.; and Mr. Smith observes that it is now the polite pronunciation, though against analogy.”—Walker.

Wīnd'pipe is antiquated.

wīnd'ward, not -ūrd.

wīse'a-cre.

Worcester says wīse'a-cre.

with, preposition, not wīth.with, or wīthe, a twig—wīth.

- women—wim'en, not ün.

 world—wērd.
 worst, verb and adj.—wērst.
 worsted—wōost'ed, or woorst'ed.
 worth—wērth, not wüth.
 antiquated.
 wräth.
 Smart says rath.
 wräth'fül.
 wreath, noun—rēth, not rēth; plural, wreaths—rēthz, not rēths.
 wreathe, verb—rēth.
 wrestle—rēs'sl.
 wrestler—rēs'ler.
 wristband—rist'band.
 wrōng. See accost.

X.

THE regular sound of this letter is like ks, as in tax, excuse, etc.

It has a soft or flat sound like gz when the following syllable begins with an accented vowel, as in exist, example, etc. It also has the sound of gz in some words derived from primitives which have that sound, when not followed by an accented vowel, as in exemplary.

When x begins a word, it has the sound of z, as in xē'bec (zē'bek).

xān'thē-īne.

xerophagy—ze-rōf a-jē.

xī-lōg'ra-phy.

Y.

THIS letter at the end of a word, preceded by a consonant, is generally pronounced short and indistinct like obscure e, as in many, comely, policy, etc. The exceptions are monosyllables and their compounds, as dry, fly, by, whereby, wry, awry, etc.; verbs ending in fy, as magnify, beautify, and a few others—for example, supply, multiply, reply, etc.

The sound of y is heard in many positions where it is either unexpressed, or is represented by i or e; as in union (yün'yun), righteous (rī'yus), etc.

yacht—yöt, not yät.

yës

Walker and several other orthoëpists said yis, but this pronunciation is now obsolete.

yët, not yīt.

“The e in this word is frequently changed by incorrect speakers into i; but, though this change is agreeable to the best and most established usage in the word yes, in yet it is the mark of incorrectness and vulgarity.

“Dr. Kenrick is the only orthoëpist who gives any countenance to this incorrectness, by admitting it as a second pronunciation; but Mr. Sheridan, Mr. Scott, W. Johnston, Mr. Perry, and Mr. Smith give the regular sound only.”—Walker.

yön'der, not yën'-, nor yün'.

you—yü, when emphatic; otherwise, ye, not yê.

your—yur, when emphatic; otherwise,
yur, or yer.

In the latter case the word is pronounced precisely like the last syllable in the word lawyer.

“What judgment shall I dread, doing no wrong?
You [ye] have among you [ye] many a purchased slave, Which, like your [yur] asses and your [yur] dogs and mules,

You [ye] use in abject and in slavish parts, Because you [ye] bought them [th'm]; shall I say to you [ye],

Let them [th'm] be free, marry them [th'm] to your [yur] heirs?

Why sweat they [tha] under their [ther] burdens? let their [thar] beds

Be made as soft as yours [yurs], let their [thar] palates Be seasoned with such viands. You * will answer.

The slaves are ours! So do I answer you [yu].

The pound of flesh which I demand of him *

Is dearly bought, is mine, and I will have it!

If you * deny me [me], t̄e upon your [yur] law!

There [ther] is no force in the decrees of Venice.

I stand for judgment:--answer: shall I have it?'

—Shylock.

The writer would take occasion now to say that he is not of opinion that the sound of the pronouns should always either be brought out distinctly and fully, or that it should be touched very lightly, in strict accordance with the markings he has given, which are intended to repr-sent only the two extremes. Much must be left to the discretion of the reader, who, it is believed, if he takes the trouble to observe and to give the matter a little thought, will quickly come to the conclusion that nothing tends more to make one's delivery stilted and unnatural than the continual bringing out of the full name-sound of the pronouns, after the fashion of so many of the would-be correct.

* Here the rhythm and not the sense lengthens the vowel somewhat, which accounts for the quantity of the sound being left unindicated.

Z.

THIS letter has the sound of soft s, as in maze, gaze, zone. In some words, combined with a succeeding vowel, it has the sound of zh, as in azure, glazier, etc.

In German, it has the sound of ts; in Spanish, that of th as in thin, or (in Spanish America) of sharp s as in sun.

Zamacois (Sp.)—thä-mä-kō'is.

zealot—zël'ot, not zē'lot.

“There are few words better confirmed by authority in their departure from the sound of their simples than this and zealous. If custom were less decided, I should certainly give my vote for the long sound of the diphthong; but, as propriety of pronunciation may be called a compound ratio of usage and analogy, the short sound must, in this case, be called the proper one.”—Walker.

zē'nith.

"I never once called in doubt the pronunciation of this word till I was told that mathematicians generally make the first syllable short. Upon consulting our orthoëpists, I find all who have the word, and who give the quantity of the vowels, make the e long, except Entick. . . . If this majority were not so great and so respectable, the analogy of words of this form ought to decide."—Walker.

Smart says zēn'ith.

Zeūs, not Zē'us.

zō-ōl'ō-gy, not zō-

zō-ō-lōg'i-cal, not zō-ō-

Zunz (Ger.)—tsōōnts.

SUPPLEMENT

ONE of the objects I have in view in adding to this manual is to make an opportunity to say something about the pronunciation of conversant, exemplary, obligatory, and peremptory. All the dictionaries in general use accent these four words on the first syllable, and all the English-speaking world, except the few that chance to know how the modern orthoëpists mark them, accent them on the second. The dictionary accentuation is as difficult as it is unnatural, the case of conversant excepted, and ought, in my judgment, to be abandoned, not only because it is difficult, unnatural, and unpopular, but also because, if we go back to the dictionaries published a hundred years ago, we find that the weight of authority was then decidedly on the side of the second-syllable accent. I have recently consulted twelve dictionaries published between the years 1730 and 1799, with the following result: Conversant is accented in ten of them on the second syllable; exemplary in all of them on the second; obligatory in eight on the second; and peremptory in seven on the second. Walker, whose dictionary appeared in 1791, accented all four words on the first syllable, and the later orthoëpists appear to have been content to follow his example. If Walker's accentuation was ill-advised, as the result, it seems to me, clearly proves, then we shall do well to allow usage, seconded as we see by ample authority, to be the umpire, and say, con-vēr'sant, ex-ēm'pla-ry (egz-), ob-lig'a-to-ry, and per-ēmp'to-ry.

Vowels in syllables standing next to accented syllables are generally obscure; there are, however, a considerable number of vowels so situated, and that Worcester marks obscure, which properly receive their long sound somewhat shortened. Of these, u is the one most frequently met with. Giving these vowels their full long sound has the same effect that it has to make the pronouns, articles, prepositions, and conjunctions too prominent: it makes the speaker appear pedantic and self-conscious. He speaks best whose manner of speaking is least noticed. A few of the words in which this peculiar vowel appears are accurate, adulation, deputize, emolument, occupation, occupy, particular, perpendicular, and superior. U thus situated is sometimes obscure; in disputant and disputable, for example. See opinion, also licentiate.

All our dictionaries pronounce the ou of this word ow, while nearly the whole English-speaking world, as far as my observation goes, pronounce it ōō. Many persons boldly pronounce it ōō, knowing that the authorities are against them. Squalor is another word treated in like manner. I am of opinion that this manual has heretofore been in error in condemning, in common with the dictionaries, the wellnigh universal mode of pronouncing this word. If usage and not the orthoëpists make the law, then it is the duty of "The Orthoëpist" to sanction and not to condemn a-kōōs'tiks. A-kows'tiks, one of "The Orthoëpist's" critics very justly says, "is a most unlovable pronunciation."

Arkansas—är'kan-saw.

This is now, by act of the State Legislature, the legal pronunciation. Usage was long divided between this and är-kän'sas.

adobe (Sp.)—ą-dō'bā.

Ajaccio—ā-yāt'chō.

ar-bū'tus.

In the last edition of Webster's dictionary the accentuation of this word, to make it accord with the Latin, is changed from that recommended here to är'bu-tus. Usage and authority, however, not only in English but also in German, decidedly favor placing the accent on the penult, which is certainly the more euphonious accentuation to the English ear, and the one that undoubtedly will prevail.

Ar-ehi-mē'dēs.

ąs-phält', not ąs-phält'.

ąu'töp-sy.

Beaconsfield—bäk'unz-fēld.

Bē'li-al.

chār'y, not chā'ry.

chiaro oscuro (It.)—kē-ā'rō ōs-ky'rō.

cli-māt'ic.

The vowel i is often long in the initial syllables i, bi, chi, cli, pri, tri, though not under the accent, as in ideal, biography, chirology, climatic, primeval, tribunal, etc.

cōm-mān-dānt' (Fr.).

The pronunciation of this word is a compromise between the French and the English.

cōm'mōn-al-ty.

coquetry—kō-kēt're.

elongate—e-lōng'gāt.

N, ending an accented syllable before g, k, hard c or ch, or qu, often has the sound of ng ;

as in anger, ankle, rancor, anchor, banquet, etc.

epizoōtic—ĕp-i-zō-ōt'ic.

Careless speakers often fail to articulate the
lable.

frōm, when emphatic ; otherwise, frōm.

Geikie—gi'kē.

glā-di'o-lūs, not glā-di-ō'lus.

You Like It," is pronounced jā'quĕz.

Lin-naē'us, Lin-naē'an.

majolica—mā-yōl'i-kā.

Mā-lay'.

ma-ni'ā-cal, not mā'ni-ā-cal.

māt-u-ti'nal.

Michaelmas—mik'çl-mas.

New-found'land.

This accentuation is believed to accord with the best usage.

ōr'ehid, ōr'ehis.

parquet (Fr.)—pār'kā'.

pās'tor, not pās'.

Both Webster (u) and Worcester (u) mark the u of this word, together with the u in a few other words, incorrectly. It is properly long, somewhat shortened. Forming a syllable by itself, it is not affected by the r. See accurate re-cū'sant.

Sār-dān-ā-pā'lus.

Sēv'ille.

trichina—tri-kī'ná ; pl., trichinaē.

Yō-sēm'i-te.

"On that day, my lord, with truth I assure ye (ye), My sainted progenitor set up a brewery (e)."

Here we have in ye—a perfect rhyme for the last syllable of brewery—the exact pronunciation you when unemphatic should have, pedantic ignorance to the contrary notwithstanding.
