AWFUL CONDITIONS

Fearful Situation of Children in Ukraine

Mrs. Freiman, Who Was in St. John, Gives Reports—Little Ones Living in Caves; Others in Herds in Fields.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Conditions in Ukraine are appalling, and Mrs. A. J. Freiman, of Ottawa, in discussing the progress in several Ontario and Quebec cities, of a plan to find homes in Canada for destitute orphans from Ukraine. Quoting the last reports of witnesses, Mrs. Freiman said:

"We have no conception of what is going on in this world. The children are wandering about in the open fields in herds and have become so frightened as a result of their experiences during the approach of human beings."

"I am even told," continued Mrs. Freiman, "that many of the children have been living in caves for months and of the children who had actually been captured by investigators had apparently reverted to the condition of savages and had evolved an aboriginal dialect by which they understood each other. Were it not for the fact that these reports were vouched for by members of the joint distribution committee of America, they would be incredible."

Mrs. Freiman estimated that there were more than half a million homeless children in the Ukrainian area alone. It is in this area that the dominion committee of the Canadian European Orphans' Association, of which Mrs. Arthur Meighen, wife of the Premier of Canada, is honorary chairman, will concentrate its efforts.

Mrs. Freiman was in St. John on this mission some weeks ago and enlisted hearty support among the Jewish people here.

A huge eagle with seven foot wing spread was shot near Winnipeg last week, by an amateur, Mr. Chapman. Photo shows the huge bird after being brought down.

SCENE IN CAR AS

MAYOR'S BODY IS BEING REMOVED

Relatives Are Forcibly Ejected at Holyhead.

Objected to Direct Transportation to Cork Instead of via Dublin—Blows Are Struck—The Situation in Cork.

Holyhead, Wales, Oct. 29.—When day broke this morning over the Irish Sea, the steamer Rathmore, bearing the body of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, was steaming southward off the Welsh headlands on its way to Cork. At the same time his relatives, who were on board, left Holyhead at twenty minutes after two o'clock, a little more than an hour after the Rathmore disappeared in the darkness which shrouded the coast.

The sending of Mr. MacSwiney's body direct to Cork was preceded by a violent scene in which blows were struck and members of his family were dragged from their railway coach at the Holyhead railway station. They refused to consent to the government's plan to take the body to Cork instead of via Holyhead and only after they had been placed under virtual temporary arrest that the body was taken from the train to the dock where the Rathmore was waiting.

The first stop after the train left the station was at Coler, just outside of London, where the superintendent of the London metropolitan police, in charge of three coaches filled with constables accompanying the party was handed a letter by a messenger. It was signed by Sir Hamar Greenwood, secretary for Ireland, and was addressed to the widow of the late lord mayor.

It read:

"I am advised that the landing and funeral of the late lord mayor of Cork in Dublin is a matter of a political nature."

"I regret, therefore, the government has decided to disembark the body at another port in Ireland except his native city of Cork."

"This steamer will also carry you and Sir Hamar's letter was handed to John MacSwiney, brother of the late lord mayor, who remarked that the lady in question was not on the train, and the superintendent's authority to obey the Irish secretary's orders as he was under the jurisdiction of the superintendent of the port."

The superintendent replied that the home office had given the Irish secretary authority in this instance.

When the train arrived here, near midnight, a cordon of police was formed around the platform entrance, keeping back a good sized crowd of curious persons who loomed and gazed. Seventy-six "Black and Tans" formed on the platform and stood at "present arms" as the mourners passed along it.

Mr. O'Brien, London executive of the Irish Self-Determination League, who reported the family on the funeral train, demanded that the station master fulfill the contract to carry the body to Cork, by the way of Kingstown, a port near Dublin.

A conference in the station master's office followed and the official was urged for the transference of the body and mourners by way of Kingstown, when all offered and said they would consent to the transference to speak to him.

When the station master returned, he said that he considered that the body must be placed on board the Rathmore for shipment to Cork, and they will be obeyed. He estimated that force would be used, if necessary.

Deputy Mayor O'Callaghan, of Cork, shaking his finger in the station master's face, said: "You and your government are body snatchers. You are going to seize a dead body and we refuse to accompany you and your nefarious expedition."

The station master went to the baggage car, where the mourners were grouped around the flower-decked box containing the coffin, and ordered the coffin removed to the steamer. When they heard his order, Annie and Mary MacSwiney, sisters of the dead hunger striker, cried defiantly: "You have murdered our brother, and you are not going to arrest his body."

Forced from Car.

The mourners refused to allow the porters to touch the coffin, and the coffin was taken to the steamer. They declared, and constables, who had been called, forcibly dragged some of the mourners from the car. They struck at the police who were in the party and later they said the police knocked them down.

They also tried to force the body into the hold. Members of the funeral party waited until the Rathmore had left her dock and then went to the pier from which steamers bound for Kingstown sail.

Queenstown, Oct. 29.—The body of Terence MacSwiney was landed here to

SENTENCED TO DIE

Court Martial for Killing of Soldier.

Kevin Barry, 18-year Old Medical Student, to be Executed on Next Monday, Says He Was Tortured.

Dublin, Oct. 29.—The first murder trial by court martial in Dublin in connection with recent killings of soldiers has ended in the condemnation to death of Kevin Barry, a medical student, eighteen years of age. Barry was charged with complicity in an attack on soldiers in Dublin in September, when one soldier was killed.

The commander-in-chief has confirmed the sentence of death and the execution of Barry has been set for next Monday. In prison today Barry made an affidavit before a magistrate to the effect that he had been tortured by soldiers and jailors in an attempt to induce him to reveal the names of his comrades.

JUDGE BARRY ORDERS RECOUNT IN THE COUNTY

Rules That There Should Be Tally of the Votes Cast in Recent Election.

Mr. Justice Barry, of the supreme court, in rendering his decision in the matter of the St. John county recount this afternoon, reversed the decision of Judge Armstrong that the act was not complied with by those asking for the recount. His Honor issued an order that Judge Armstrong proceed with the recount.

Judge Barry overruled the objection taken by Dr. Baxter that (Judge Barry) had no jurisdiction to hear the case. He expressed the opinion Judge Armstrong was right in overruling Dr. Baxter's objection in styling himself judge of the county court for the City and County of St. John.

Regarding Dr. Baxter's objection that there was no application, he ruled that John McKinnon was the applicant according to the act.

Regarding Dr. Baxter's objection that Kinson was not qualified according to the act to make the application, His Honor ruled that in his opinion the applicant did not necessarily need to be either an elector or candidate but he saw no reason to suppose that he was not an elector, in the County of St. John.

He therefore made an order commanding the judge of St. John county court to proceed with the recount. He said there would be no order as to costs.

Dr. Baxter said that the decision was reviewable on appeal and he said he would appeal from the order.

NINETEEN YEAR OLD BOY THE NEW KING

Prince Paul is Proclaimed by the Greek Parliament—Regent Elected.

Athens, Oct. 29.—Prince Paul, younger brother of the late King Alexander, was proclaimed king by the Greek Parliament last evening. Earlier in the session, Admiral P. Condouriotis was elected regent.

Prince Paul was born in this city December 1, 1901, and is not married. Since his father, former King Constantine, died, Prince Paul has been in Switzerland.

In September, 1916, Admiral Condouriotis, then commander in chief of the Greek navy, accompanied Premier Venizelos and his followers when they left Greece for Island of Crete and set up a provisional government to force Greece into the war on the side of Serbia and the Entente Allies. The admiral was a co-signer with Venizelos of the proclamation establishing the provisional government, the power of which later brought Greece into the war and forced the abdication of King Constantine.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST 13

Jury also to Make an Inquiry Into Baseball Scandal.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Indictments against thirteen persons in connection with the "throwing" of games in the 1919 world's series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds will be returned this afternoon to Judge Charles A. McDonald, by the special Cook county grand jury.

The jury, which on last Tuesday completed the taking of testimony in its five weeks' investigation of the baseball scandal, will hold its final session today. This report is expected to delve into the baseball situation at length and may reveal information obtained by the jury which has not yet been made public. It also is expected to make recommendations concerning the future administration of professional baseball and to point out ways by which gambling and game "fixing" would be curbed.

The grand jury's findings were made public until some time next week.

ASKS REPEAL OF "LUXURY ACT"

Charlottetown Retail Merchants' Association Present Resolution to Mr. Taylor.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Oct. 29.—G. W. Taylor, Assistant deputy minister of inland revenue and John J. McDonald, inspector of the maritime provinces, were called to the attention of the retail merchants' association of Charlottetown today in the working of the excise acts. A resolution passed by the Retail Merchants' Association, asking for the repeal of the "so-called luxury act" was submitted. Mr. Taylor said it was not in his jurisdiction to deal with that but he would submit it to the minister. The officials left yesterday for Summerside and were to go to Moncton today.

BRITISH COAL STRIKE SITUATION

London, Oct. 29.—Newspapers here, in commenting upon the agreement by which the coal strike may be ended if the referendum to be held by the miners is favorable, generally recognized the scheme as a compromise. Neither the advocates of the miners nor the representatives of the owners of the coal pit claimed victory. There is universal approval of the arrangements by which a sliding scale will apply to the profits of owners as well as the wages of the men, and this is thought the most hopeful feature of the agreement. For this reason it is believed the plan will be endorsed by the miners.

It is remarked that the settlement makes for future peace in the coal industry, and may prove the introductory step for a new era in British industry generally.

FOUR YEARS AND THEN DEPORTED

Sentence of Landlord Who Has Been Called the Modern Bluebeard.

Paris, Oct. 29.—Judgment was rendered yesterday convicting Henri Landru, on the charge of swindling and of being a habitual criminal, and he was sentenced to four years imprisonment and subsequent deportation.

The prosecutor announced that Landru might not be tried on the murder charges growing out of the disappearance of eleven women to whom he was said to have promised marriage. This will be decided soon. Since his arrest two years ago, Landru has been confined to a modern bluebeard.

When Landru was arraigned a week ago on the swindling charges, which grew out of his venture in the automobile and garage business in 1918, the opinion was expressed by officials that he would drop his charges of murder if it should secure a conviction on the lesser charges. It was said his deportation probably would be to Noumea or Devil's Island.

PILOT SAYS HE MADE MISTAKE

Enquiry Into Stranding of the S. S. Georgie in the River St. Lawrence.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—An inquiry into the stranding of the S. S. Georgie of the Fracande Line was opened yesterday before Captain L. A. Demers, dominion wreck commissioner. Captain Maurice Leprette, in command of the ship, testified that the weather was foggy when the pilot went aboard at Quebec and that the ship struck after the pilot had changed her course.

Pilot J. Bangers supported this evidence and said he had taken two small angles to the north and had recognized his mistake just before the accident.

Fall of the Silk Shirt.
The higher they go the harder they fall is a time-worn maxim, that fits them all; The wise or the fool, the king or the clown— Whatever goes up some time must come down. Lo! the fancy shirt that became too dear For a longshoreman or a proffiter Has fallen so far from its high estate That a clerk or a lawyer may buy its mate.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1920

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., OCTOBER 29, 1920.

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by The St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

There has just been issued a statement of the value of the fisheries of Canada for the year 1919 compared with 1918. It shows a decline of $8,764,965 in value. The comparison by provinces is as follows:

Table with columns for Provinces, 1918, and 1919. Rows include British Columbia, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Prince Edward Island, and Alberta.

THE RAILWAY BRIDGE. A delegation of shipping men made it clear at City Hall yesterday that the level of the new railway bridge at the falls should be raised, if it is desired to avoid obstruction to shipping passing through. The city council does well to take the matter up, and whatever is done should be done quickly. It is not for the representatives of the city to be influenced by the desire of the railway company, but to look sharply after the interests of the public and the shipping of the port.

A MOST VALUABLE WORK. The Red Cross, in co-operation with the public health departments of the provinces, is doing a splendid work in encouraging the establishment of cottage hospitals and carrying on a campaign to stimulate public interest in health matters. In this province an excellent beginning has been made. Our people will be interested to know what is being done in the sister province of Nova Scotia. The Halifax Chronicle says:

Three of the class of young ladies who recently graduated in public health nursing at Dalhousie University are already at work outside the city, and another will take on duty the first of November. Miss Rebecca Kennedy has been assigned to Antigonish County, Miss Gertrude Mackenzie to Pictou County, and Miss Mary Hayden to Yarmouth County, while Miss Jennie Halsey will be at work in Kings County. Thus the Nova Scotia Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society enters upon the fulfillment of another part of its great peace time policy.

Under the auspices of the Sunshine Circle of the Carmarthen street Methodist church, a successful Halloween tea was held last evening. Waitresses were: Mrs. Weatherhead, Miss Ella Morrison, Misses Brown, Ezell, Brindle, Roberts, Snellgrove, White, Pierce and Madames Gibbons, Martin, Brown, Milley and McKim. Mrs. Styles and Mrs. Bursey poured and Mrs. Johnston and Miss Marshall were the conveneres of the decorative committees.

OUR BOY SCOUTS. The Boy Scouts Association of New Brunswick finds itself facing a peculiar situation. The number of scouts in the province is steadily growing, as it has been for several years, yet because of a lack of funds, the provincial association must do less work for the next year. The provinces of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta each give an annual grant of $2,000 to the Boy Scout Association of those provinces. British Columbia last year gave $1,000. In Alberta a present campaign is on with the approval of the government to raise $50,000 to endow the provincial office of the association.

INTERESTING LECTURE. Miss Christine Matthew, formerly of the New York Museum of Natural History, gave an interesting lecture last evening to a large gathering in the Natural History rooms. Mrs. W. H. Shaw, president of the Ladies' Association, under the auspices of which the lecture was given as the first lecture in the winter's course, presided, and introduced the speaker. The subject for the lecture was the description of life in the paleolithic age, which was illustrated by several pictures of wild animals of those days and slides of human skeletons and reproductions of the faces of the paleolithic period.

PRAY COPY BOB. (The following inscription appears in the Church of St. Magnus the Martyr, London.) Here both the Body of Robert Preston, late Drawer at the Board's-head Tavern in Great Eastcheap, who departed this life March the 16, Anno Dom. 1730, Aged 27 Years. Baechus to give the Topping World Surprise Produced one Sober Son, and here he lies Tho' nurr'd among full Hogheads, he defy'd The charms of Wine and ev'ry vice beside. O Reader, if to Justice thou'rt inclin'd, Keep honest Preston daily in thy mind. He grew good Wine, took care to fill his pots, Had sunny virtues that outwigh'd his faults, Had suds that Baechus have the like dependence, Pray copy Bob in Measure and Attendance.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

THE IDOL. Once I was a public idol, for a fortnight and a day; like a bridegroom to the bridal I went on my gorgeous way, and fair maidens went before me, strewing flowers along the road, and a halo hovered 'er me when I sat in my abode. But the idols always stumble, being fixed with feet of clay, and, forgetting to be humble, I threw public love away. On the ninth day of October roses hit me in my walks; on the tenth the people, sober, handed me a bunch of rocks. For the wealth of adulation made me feel I was a king, made me think in all the nation I was sure the biggest thing. And in every place I landed I was swollen up with pride, and in some of thought expanded till my hat split up the side. And the people got the willies, poor erratic, changeful hicks, and they passed me no more lilies, but bombarded me with bricks. If again I am an idol I'll be wiser, I allow; and no cheap, inflated pride'll strip the laurels from my brow. For the idols wouldn't tumble, they'd be cherishes to the end, if they'd just be meek and humble as down the world they wend.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

EARLY FUR COMPANIES. The chief fur companies in Canada during the time the French and the English were striving against each other for the future mastery of the continent were the St. Malo Company, consisting of Pontgrave and Chuvigny, founded in 1698, and the De La Company which was established three years afterwards. Four years later it lost its charter but in 1698 it was restored one year only. The Rouen Company was founded by the great Champlain in 1614 while its great rival, the de Caen company, did not come into existence until 1620. Two years afterwards the two latter companies were united under Montmorency. For thirty-six years from 1627 the colony was under the complete control of the Company of One Hundred Associates with very little encouragement being given to bringing settlers from France to the new land. In fact they were not wanted because the traders knew that settlement would mean fewer furs and it was from the furs of the forests that they sought a fortune.

SEA DISTANCES. His native sea-washed isle Was bleak and bare, Far off, there seemed to smite An isle more fair. Blue as the smoke of spring Its far hills rose, A delicate azure ring Crowned with fat snows. At dusk, a rose red star Set free from wrong, It beamed him afar, His whole life long. Not till old age drew nigh He voyaged there, He saw the colors die, As he drew near. It towered above him, bleak And cold, death-cold, From peak to phantom peak A grey mist rolled. Then, under his arched hand, From that bare shore, Back, at his own dear land, He gazed once more. Clothed with the fairs he knew He saw it smile— Opal, and rose and blue, His native isle. —Alfred Noyes, in Harper's Magazine for October.

LIGHTER VEIN. Among the enthusiastic fair sex in China the western style of marriage was great popularity. A young couple were being married in the regular Occidental fashion. The minister asked, "Do you take this man to be your husband and you will always love him?" she nodded her head. "Then he continued, "Will you go with him wherever he goes?" "Yes," was the answer. "How absurd! He is a postman and walks nine miles a day." —Far Eastern Republic.

THE SADDEST WORDS. Of all sad words of tongue and pen, The saddest are these: "The bare coin." —Boston Transcript.

USABLE TO CONFESS. The negro revival had proceeded with great gusto and nearly all the eligible material in town had been converted. One hundred sinner, who had several times been in trouble with the law, was about the only victim left. The preacher concentrated his oratory on this lone member of the congregation. "Brother Jackson, de day of judgement am at hand! Him what heitates am lost! Brudder Jackson, you don't you confess your sins over an hundred times, but your alibi was fool-proof. Reply from Tom Mich. A wife's return wire—"Don't need money. Gave landlady one of the kisses and he is satisfied." —Sevenska Dagbladet.

NO STAKE FOR HIM. Mr. Henpeck—"Wot's yer steak like today?" The Sentimental Butcher—"Tender as a woman's earl, Mr. Henpeck!" Mr. Henpeck—"Oh, is it! Then I'll have some trips.—London Sketch.

Bank had branches all over Europe and South America, he added, and he might go to South America. That opinion still holds and I would not leave Spain now because I should be incarcerated either by France or England. "Whenever I wore the diamond I had good fortune. It was not like the Hope diamond that always brought ill-luck." Mr. Wittram said that he was not going back to Madrid. The Mercantile bank had branches all over Europe and South America, he added, and he might go to South America. "I met the ex-Sultan of Morocco," said Mr. Wittram, "in social circles in Madrid. The subject of the diamond was brought up first at a reception in Madrid some weeks ago and the ex-sultan suggested that I should take the stone to America when I went back and get as near the market value for it as possible. "My friend," said Abo-El-Hafid, "I will trust you to do your best for me in disposing of this heirloom. Sell it either as a whole or split into smaller stones, according to your judgment. "I am practically a prisoner of war in Spain. When I left Morocco I came here because the French military authorities told the idea this. I was pro-German."

EX-SULTAN'S GEMS. (New York Times.) The telephones at the custom house and the public stores were kept busy yesterday by persons inquiring about the big diamond that was brought to New York on Saturday from the Aquitania by Frederick Wittram, who was instructed to sell the gem here by the ex-Sultan of Morocco, Abo-El-Hafid. No information could be obtained from the officials and the appraisers on duty said they had no knowledge of the diamond, which weighs 188.15 carats, being brought to the public stores. It was finally learned that the diamond had been taken there at noon by a customs cashier. Mr. Wittram, at the Mercantile Bank of America, 44 Pine street, which he had represented in Madrid for the last five years, said that he had received one substantial offer for the diamond already, but declined to state who it was from or the amount. "There have been inquiries about the stone all day," he continued, "and some of the inquiries seemed to doubt the purity and size of the gem. One man called me on the telephone to tell me that it was simply a piece of glass." Mr. Wittram said that he had not received any notification from the appraisers stores that the diamond had been valued by the experts. "I met the ex-Sultan of Morocco," said Mr. Wittram, "in social circles in Madrid. The subject of the diamond was brought up first at a reception in Madrid some weeks ago and the ex-sultan suggested that I should take the stone to America when I went back and get as near the market value for it as possible. "My friend," said Abo-El-Hafid, "I will trust you to do your best for me in disposing of this heirloom. Sell it either as a whole or split into smaller stones, according to your judgment. "I am practically a prisoner of war in Spain. When I left Morocco I came here because the French military authorities told the idea this. I was pro-German."

Evening Apparel

There is much to engross interest in the newest evening frocks. Models inspired by Paris have an indefinable charm. Designers have created for the new social season—Gowns which sparkle with originality and beauty. You should make your selections early from our splendid collection.

Here is just a little idea of some of the newest creations:

One gown with foundation of soft maize satin has handsome overdress of wild rose georgette embroidered in silver. The wide crush girdle of maize satin terminates with large full bow on one side. Shoulder straps are of narrow silver ribbon and a corsage bouquet of blue and yellow adds much to the charming color effect.

A youthful gown of Sunkist satin has full overdress of black tulle embroidered in silver. This has shoulder straps and streamers of picot edged ribbon to match foundation of dress. Shoulder straps are cleverly arranged to form a V in back. Streamers are decorated with vari colored bouquets.

A Dinner Gown of black shadow lace is fashioned with elbow sleeves. Both sleeves and neck are edged with full flutings of tulle. Skirt has over-drapery of uneven length and girdle of Adriatic blue velvet ribbon. Is finished with long streamers, studded here and there with full blown roses.

Black satin forms the foundation for another handsome gown. The skirt has artistic one sided drapery. Petal shaped sleeve hangings are of black tulle, edged with silver thread. Top of bodice is formed of cloth of gold covered with sparkling sequins. One large floral ornament shading from lemon color to rose, ornaments the waist.

Girlish frocks for misses in sizes 14 to 18 years, are in a pleasing assortment of pale and deeper shades. These are in many cases fashioned of georgette or taffeta and are trimmed with narrow frills, fine tucks, beads, touches of colored wool embroidery and other novel ideas that young girls will be sure to admire.

CALLS BUENOS AIRES WORLD WONDER CITY

Spanish-Speaking Metropolis,
Built on Treeless Prairie,
Now a Vast Bower.

Buenos Aires, capital of the South American republic of Argentina, is one of the wonder cities of the world, according to F. Lamson-Schrieber of the department of agriculture of Washington, D. C., who, following a visit to the city, gave a description of its many interesting features at a meeting of the Botanical Society of Washington.

It is the largest Spanish speaking city in the world, and it has a great central market, a three-story building covering several blocks, devoted chiefly to wool and hides, said to be the largest market in the world, but its greatest wonder and beauty is its parks and boulevards with their many trees. When the city was founded in 1541, the site was a rich pasture land, and there was not a tree within many miles. Now the largest of its parks, the Palermo, with 2,600 acres of land, is a marvelous tree garden and its Avenue of Palms famous.

It was civic spirit under the direction of a celebrated engineer, Carlos Thays, director-general of public works and founder and director of the Botanical Garden, which produced the almost miraculous results.

Nature has provided ideal conditions for plant growth. There was a rich soil, a temperature ranging from 40 to 90 degrees and a rainfall of thirty-four inches. Argentina, as a whole, has a wide range of climate. It is a country as large as the United States east of the Mississippi or six times the area of France. One may find in it tropical conditions in Formosa, or the cold of a Moscow winter in southern Patagonia. It has deserts, treeless plains and great forests. Buenos Aires has wonderful resources in the Argentine to draw upon, a flora rich in species and the plants and trees of many climes and altitudes.

There are about 100 beautiful parks and squares in the city ranging from two and three acres to the great Palermo which has 846 more acres than Paris' famous Bois de Boulogne. The gardens of the city are of unrivaled beauty and interest. Along the water front there are plantations of flowers and trees. In the Parque Cristobal Colon there is a central avenue with gardens on either side designed on the plan of the Champs Elysees in Paris. In the Plaza San Martin there are not only shrubs and trees but rockwork of pretentious design and a miniature lake with a rustic bridge. The Plaza Lavalle has not only rare plants of great botanical interest, but some beautiful sunken gardens, and in the Plaza Intendente Alvear, one of the smallest parks, there is a little stream, with a miniature cascade, where aquatic plants flourish.

It is in the Plaza San Martin where another of the distinct features of the city is to be found, the Municipal Opera House, the Teatro Colon, said to be the most beautiful theatre in the western world.

The great Palermo Park is three miles from the business centre of the city and has many beautiful drives, pathways and artificial lakes, and is a mass of green verdure throughout the year. The zoological gardens of Buenos Aires are said to be the finest example of landscape gardening in South America. As nearly as possible the natural environment of the animals has been introduced and garden scenes with attractive vistas have been introduced. There are reproductions of ancient temples, as those of India, around which the elephants gather, and there are artificial grottoes and rocky caverns. Reaching its graceful head above the trees is a great out-of-door bird house of glass, pyramidal in shape.

Newer Avenues Are Spacious.

The newer avenues of the city are spacious, the Avenida de Mayo which passes from the Plaza de Mayo where is located the Government Palace, a mile and a half west straight to the Capitol or Congress Hall, is a magnificent avenue, 100 feet wide and bordered with trees imported from Europe. In the older parts of the city the streets are narrow with barely room for two persons to pass on the sidewalk. The Calle Florida, called the Bond street of the Argentine and its most fashionable shopping thoroughfare, is only twenty feet wide, and between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon all traffic is suspended and the street is given over to pedestrians. On this street are elegant shops and magnificent buildings, including the famous Jockey Club, the exterior of finest architectural design, and the interior sumptuous in its luxury.

On another of the old streets, the Calle Danta Pe, where it is bordered with tall eucalyptus trees, are the permanent Fair Grounds of the Argentine Rural Society, covering forty-five acres. There are here beautiful and substantial buildings for housing the horses, cattle and general exhibits, with a permanent reviewing stand of steel and concrete.

Maize or Indian corn stands next to wheat in value as an agricultural product of the Argentine. Then follow oats and linseed, with tobacco an important crop in some of the provinces. Peanuts have found a place in the agriculture of the country. In the last twenty-five years the acreage under cultivation in the Argentine has risen from less than 80,000,000 to nearly 125,000,000 hectares. There are more than forty markets and market places in Buenos Aires, including the great wool market on the Riachuelo. There are many meat and fruit markets and as many hucksters and corner fruit stands as in the United States. The produce is still brought in from outside in two-wheeled carts drawn by oxen, as the roads beyond the city limits are poor.

Many flower markets have been opened in recent years, as the people of Buenos Aires are exceedingly fond of flowers for home decoration, and the trade in them has become so great that the Argentine capital has been called the City of Flowers.

RAILROAD MAN 34 YEARS

S. J. Hungerford of the Canadian National

Now Operating Vice-President of System — His History One of Steady Progress in His Work.

Samuel J. Hungerford, who has been appointed vice-president in charge of operation and maintenance of Canadian National Railways, is of the type of a young man in years and old in experience. Born near Bedford in Quebec, in 1887, he was only forty-eight last July, but he has been engaged in the business of the "rolling wheel" for thirty-four years.

As a boy of 14, at Farnham, Quebec, he first really became acquainted with a railway locomotive. Metaphorically speaking, he boarded it then and has made it carry him from the lathes of the machinery's apprentice to the chair of the vice-president of what will be, when the Grand Trunk System is included, the world's greatest railway.

Mr. Hungerford is a man of quick action who never seems to be in a hurry. He has a wide circle of friends in the railway world—friends that he made while mastering his various jobs in the mechanical department at important railway points clear across the country. Any of these friends, officer or employee eastern or western will say that "S. J. is there with the goods" and that he knows the locomotive and a car from the rails up, and how to utilize them to the best advantage. He has the reputation of being a past master in the art of handling men, of one who can be beaten on wage negotiations, and one who is an all-round diplomat but runs as the proverbial rock when necessary.

In 1910, when the Canadian Northern having a little more than 8,000 miles of railway in Western Canada, required a head for its mechanical department, the management approached Mr. Hungerford at that time superintendent of rolling stock at the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg. The decision was typical of the method of the man in all things. He foresaw a bright future for the new line that was being so rapidly extended, and gave up twenty-four years of service with the C. P. R. to become superintendent of rolling stock of that company's only western competitor.

He knew the West and also the country served by the C. N. R. He had seen the C. P. R. expand from a system of 4,819 miles in 1888 to one of 11,000 in 1910. He knew also that Canada required a great deal more railway. The expenses of the mechanical department of the C. N. R. increased sharply during the first year of office of its new superintendent of rolling stock, whose motto was in effect "First get your engines in good shape, then use them." He watched the operation of the line and provided the power, and a plan was to urge the use of the latest engines where the traffic was heaviest in order to reduce the train movements, making it obligatory on the maintenance of way forces to keep the track to the standard required. The heavy engines went on and the tracks were maintained.

The new C. N. R. official had also a definite idea as to what a real engine on a real railway ought to be. The C. N. R. standard, or 100 per cent locomotive was of 23,000 pounds drawbar pull, as against the C. P. R.'s 20,000 pound standard, which shows that the new road was nothing if not ambitious. Mr. Hungerford considered that in the light of the rapid development of locomotives these engines were too puny to be classed as 100 per cent, so he, as it were, "hit his chariot to a star," by doubling for the C. N. R. 100,000 pounds drawbar pull as the requirement of a locomotive ranking 100 per cent. That road. This is probably the lightest standard adopted by any line. He C. N. R. had at that time no engines rating higher than 35 per cent on his new rating, and he was not even sure that he had as high as 100 per cent, but he knew that he had a drawbar pull of 65,000 pounds, which gives them a percentage of sixty five. This rating means that for each 1 per cent there is 650 pounds of drawbar pull to tractive force delivered by the locomotive to the train.

Jurisdiction Extended.
At the end of five years, the mechanical department of western lines of the Canadian Northern Railway was in first class shape, and S. J. Hungerford's jurisdiction was extended over the eastern lines of the system in May, 1915. For two years and a half he was superintendent of rolling stock for the system at Toronto, having the jurisdiction that of the general managers, but he built up no departmental walls. All-though always a Mechanical Department officer, he was bigger than it; it suits would have made him, and always realized that engines and cars belonged to the Railway and not to the Mechanical Department, and that the good of the Railway as a whole was also the good of any department in it. So he set about the business of standardization of shop practices and of the distribution of rolling stock throughout the system.

When that work had been completed, a vacancy occurred in the general management of the eastern lines of the Canadian Northern and Mr. Hungerford was appointed to the position, which he occupied until the consolidation of the lines of the Canadian Government Railways with those of the Canadian Northern Railway system was effected one year later. Again there was the necessity for standardization in connection with the shop practices and equipment of those two systems, but the Canadian National management did not consider it desirable to establish a separate mechanical department. So a new title was created—assistant vice-president—and Mr. Hungerford was appointed to it. As such, he was the head of the mechanical end of the great system, and second in command of the operating and maintenance forces. This arrangement was continued until the recent appointment of M. H. MacLeod as vice-president in charge of construction for the system. Mr. Hungerford in sequence becoming vice-president of operating and maintenance activities.

The job of operating vice-president is one of the most important in railway service, and, as the Canadian National is easily among the biggest of railway systems, S. J. Hungerford's new job may be classed in like proportion.

He will have the direction of forces that spend more than 90 per cent of the total operating expenses of the system, and these on the present mileage, (including the G. T. P.) and with the present

Rich Blood Secret of Good Health

Here is a Suggestion Along That Line

Thin, impoverished blood results in pale, sallow complexion, run-down anemic conditions, and leaves one without strength, energy or ambition. Lots of people here think that the one great remedy for this condition is Vinol, that non-secret cod liver and iron tonic without oil, which with the beef peptones and glycerophosphates contained in it, acts very quickly in creating thousands of red corpuscles in the blood. It quickens the circulation, increases the appetite, aids digestion, and in this natural manner creates strength, vitality and energy. Hundreds of people in this vicinity have testified to its value.

year later. Again there was the necessity for standardization in connection with the shop practices and equipment of those two systems, but the Canadian National management did not consider it desirable to establish a separate mechanical department. So a new title was created—assistant vice-president—and Mr. Hungerford was appointed to it. As such, he was the head of the mechanical end of the great system, and second in command of the operating and maintenance forces. This arrangement was continued until the recent appointment of M. H. MacLeod as vice-president in charge of construction for the system. Mr. Hungerford in sequence becoming vice-president of operating and maintenance activities.

Despite the bad weather of last evening, the revival meeting in St. Philip's church was very well attended and resulted directly in the addition of four new members to the body of its followers. The meeting was primarily for the purpose of re-awakening interest in the church and in the work being carried on by it. Addresses were given by the presiding elder, Rev. C. A. Stewart of Halifax; Rev. C. N. Morgan and the pastor, Rev. Claude Stewart.

CONTRADICTIONARY WARSAW
Warsaw is a city of contradictions, hovering uncertainty between East and West. Many of its buildings have the grave and stately beauty of Vienna—strangely sophisticated company for the cupolas and slim spires of the few Russian churches. There is a shopping street, as expensive and modish as the Rue de la Paix. In a great bookeller's last December I bought the Christmas numbers of English papers, while down the street a funeral went past with the procession of mourners beating their breasts and singing slow wailing dirges. The national Polish dress is exhibited as a curiosity in shop windows which tourists pass, but it makes the city as gay as a flower garden on gala days and festivals.

So far as material damage goes, Warsaw came pretty well out of the European war. A broken bridge over the Vistula and two damaged railway stations were the only apparent effects of the winter. At that time the Poles were pulling down a tower of the Russian Cathedral. The religion of the church had been changed from Orthodox to Roman Catholic, but the people of Warsaw so bitterly hated everything of Russian origin that they determined to destroy the whole building. This was stopped by the Allies, and all but one tower was saved. It is an immense erection of white marble and green domes, standing in an open square. By daylight it is florid and gaudily suggestive of a wedding cake; but, like so much of the Polish architecture, it captures its beauty at night. I saw it first at two o'clock on a December morning. It was mistily haled by moonlight and it looked very ethereal and lovely—Aladdin's palace set down by the genie in a dark and silent city—Manchester Guardian.

MODEL VILLAGE PLANS TO CONSERVE ITS CATS
Chicago, Oct. 29.—Maywood, the model village of Illinois, launched a campaign to conserve the cat resources of the village and make Maywood a ratless town. Alarmed by the invasion of rodents in droves following the recent burning of the community garbage dump, a meeting was held, which resulted in the plan for intensive cat culture to aid the fight on the rats.
School children, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, women's clubs, civic organizations and churches are enlisted in the movement. Tangible results are promised in the anti-loose-cat ordinance that has been ordered framed by a council committee. In accordance with the terms of this ordinance it shall be unlawful to throw bootjacks, wood alcohol bottles, paper weights or other missiles at any cat, kitten, grinnikin or feline within the village confines.
It is proposed also to offer bonuses for large cat families.

Council of Churches Says Co-operation With Washington is the Best Plan—Problem is International.

Advice to Americans and to Japanese regarding the problem of the Japanese in California has been issued by the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America through its Commission on relations with the Orient.

"While the local status of the Japanese problem in California is not easily appreciated by States not similarly affected," says the Commission, "we should all remember that the question has international aspects of the gravest import in which the whole nation has a right to be heard. California's legitimate ends can best be secured through Washington. We therefore urge California to work out its local problem in close co-operation with the Department of State. presence in large number in California, Californians are confronted with real difficulties that call for real solution. Japanese have settled in rather restricted fertile, agricultural areas, tending to form "colonies" relatively impervious to Americanization, and where the white population constitutes a minority. For this "colonization" the Californians are indeed in part responsible, since the strongest opposition of a different social group has tended to prevent their wider distribution. It nevertheless constitutes a serious factor in the situation.

"Some Japanese, moreover, have evaded the spirit and purpose of our laws, especially in the matter of immigrant smuggling. And there is also the delicate patriotic question of the double allegiance of American-born Japanese children. These facts are widely felt to create an ominous situation requiring thorough going legislative remedies. Japanese should be reminded, however, that very considerable group in California earnestly desires to have these problems solved in ways that are at once honorable for Japan and safe for California.

WEDS AT SEVENTY-FIVE

(Fredericton Gleaser.)
Capt. Endeck Chase, a widower, of Sheffield, Sunbury County, and Miss Martha Craig, of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at Christ Church Parish church by Rev. A. F. Bate, rector of Fredericton.

The wedding was of unusual interest not only because the contracting parties are well known but because of their ages, the groom being 75 years old while the bride is twelve years his junior. Capt. Chase was a well known figure along the St. John river for many years until his retirement and he now has a prosperous fruit farm at Sheffield. Miss Craig has been engaged as a nurse and as such is widely known.

The bride wore a becoming costume of brown silk and entered the church leaning upon the arm of her nephew, G. G. Jarvis, while Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jarvis, of Devon, were in attendance.

After the ceremony the wedding party motored to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Jarvis at Devon and after a sumptuous wedding supper had been enjoyed Capt. Chase and his bride motored to their home at Sheffield. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome fur coat. It is the groom's third matrimonial venture.

The White-Tailed Deer

—perhaps you know it better as the Virginia Deer—is the best and most widely spread representative of American big game. In one form or another it is found over the greater part of the continent. The splendid antlered heads that adorn the homes of many sportsmen are evidence of the popularity of this animal.

In Canada the White-Tailed Deer is represented by three sub-species. The typical form is found in the east, the prairie form in Manitoba westward to the Rockies, and the Columbian White-Tail or Cotton-Tail Deer, which is found in southern British Columbia, between the Selkirks and Cascade Ranges. West of these mountains the White-Tail is replaced by the Black-Tail or Coast Deer, light colored examples of which are sometimes taken for the White-Tail. The White-Tail of the west is known as the Red Deer.

The fleetness of the deer makes a well-placed shot necessary and the sportsman should be sure that his ammunition possesses the speed and accuracy of the new

JUST ONE FAILURE.

More Than 100 Soldier Farms in Alberta Show Progress

In a district of Alberta, near the Saskatchewan border on the Canadian Northern Railway, there are 128 soldier settlers on the land who were visited by the Soldier Settlement Board inspector recently, and he gives his opinion that all, with the exception of one, will make good. The exception is a half-breed farmer whose wife deserted him, and by reason of that domestic affliction, he is not making the progress he should. Crops were exceedingly good throughout the whole of the district and some of the settlers are expecting to repay their entire indebtedness to the board out of this year's proceeds.

To mention a few of the farms visited one man borrowed $4,000 from the board. He had this year 80 acres of oats and expects to thresh about 5,000 bushels, in addition to which he has 10 acres of green feed. Another man whose loan for the purchase of land was $3,500 will thresh about 500 bushels of oats and has five acres of green feed and 35 acres of summer fallow. A third man borrowed $2,250. He has 75 acres in crop and raises considerable stock, having at present 90 head of cattle and 16 horses. Still another man has 60 acres of fall crop, 35 head of cattle and 2 horses which he purchased without the assistance of the board. This man received a stock and equipment loan of $1,000 and another loan for the removal of an encumbrance. He will sell 20 head of stock to liquidate the debts and will have 2,000 bushels of oats to sell. One of the youngest settlers purchased a half-section through the board at $12,500 an acre. He has fenced all his land, broken eight acres and is now hauling lumber to build.

The report says that these cases are quite typical of the soldier settlers in the district, many of whom are now well established farmers and producing large crops.

PHOTOGRAPHY'S CENTENARY

France Commemorates Experiments of Daguerre in 1826

The centenary of the discovery of photography is soon to be celebrated in the village of Bry-sur-Marne, near Paris, where Daguerre spent the last years of his life, and where in 1826 he carried on the experiments which resulted in the daguerrotype, from which modern photography, including the motion picture, has been developed.

Daguerre began life as a scene painter in the Paris theatres. He later attained some renown as a painter of landscapes and as part inventor of the diorama which by an ingenious use of lights give illusion to the painted scenery of the theatre.

He is generally supposed to have developed at first a camera obscura which reflected the external scene on a screen from which he painted, and that the idea occurred to him to attempt some means of making the reflection on the screen permanent. This proved a great difficulty and for many years he worked in his laboratory to discover some chemical formula which would make his screen sensitive and retain the reflection.

He finally discovered it by accident. He one night left a spoiled plate near a dish of mercury and in the morning he had his formula.

FARM DISTRICTS ARE BUYING LESS

A Chicago Review of Conditions in the United States at Present.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—That the ability as well as the disposition to buy all kinds of merchandise has been curtailed is indicated by the falling off of 30 per cent. in business of the "mail order houses." These concerns are nearer the country people, as well as those in small towns than any other merchants, as they carry all kinds of goods, from pins to threshing machines, lumber and building materials. The retail sales of the mail order houses show the largest reduction, as compared with last year, while wholesale business has held up better.

With wheat prices cut down about $1 from the high point of the season, with corn of more than 50 cents a bushel, and oats 70 cents lower than in July, there has been a crimp put in the purchasing power of the consumers in the agricultural regions, so that manufacturing industries of all kinds are slowing down and reducing their output by laying off men. Workers in the city who have lost their jobs do not find as many available as formerly, and employers are more particular about taking on new help, and are weeding out the slackers and less desirable workers. Under such conditions business naturally slows up, and there has been a reduction of 18 to 25 per cent. in volume in the last four months.

Clothing is being sold at a greatly reduced profit and the president of the Retail Clothing Merchants' Association in a statement given out here says that many retailers throughout the country are selling clothing without an profit and some are operating at a loss.

Large cancellations of steel have been made by the tractor branch of the agricultural implement manufacturers and the tractor business appears to have suffered a severe setback. The steel mills are getting fewer new orders and are fast catching up with their old ones. Downward price adjustments are being offered as an inducement for buyers to furnish new business and to supply specifications on previous orders.

QUIET PERVADES
BASEBALL FRONT

May Indicate That Supposed Bomb in Shape of Twelve Club League May Be Dud.

(New York Times.)
Unusual quiet pervades the baseball front as the two opposing factions spread their lines for a contest that may write a most important chapter in the sport's history. This is a bit unusual, as the public usually is surfeited with belligerent statements and communications whenever the moguls of the national game engage in anything approximating a real fight. The quietude may indicate that the supposed bomb, in the shape of a twelve-club league, will turn out to be simply a dud.

It is to be hoped that such will be the result of the latest upheaval in the baseball world, since followers of the game have had more than their fill of warring by the magazines. The public prefers the eight-club league system as it has prevailed for several years, with its interleague rivalry and finally a world's series each fall as a climax of the season. A twelve-club arrangement necessarily has its drawbacks and it would be some time before the fans would become accustomed to the new order of things.

On the other hand, it cannot be denied that civil conditions sometimes arise which cannot be eradicated without drastic changes and no little sacrificing on the part of those most interested. This seems to be true of baseball at this time. The failure of the presidents of the two major leagues to settle upon a national commission chairman has weakened the game and turned into chaos a government that had functioned well before petty politics became prominent. A re-arrangement is much to be desired and if it cannot be brought about without the formation of a twelve-club league such a drastic move will be welcomed.

As the case stands at this time those opposing the proposed changes are decidedly in the minority, and their refusal to confer with the majority club owners in order to help along the sport has swayed public opinion to the side of the magnates who recognize the need of changes. In one league the executive plan is to oust Ban Johnson, and therefore they rally to his support. Both leagues will be affected in measure by whatever re-organization plan the club owners adopt.

There is still time for a settlement of the difficulty in a friendly manner. The club owners demanding a change continue to serve notice of their intention to re-organize plan that the door is open for them, and that their counsel will be welcome in reaching a decision. It is to be hoped that the so-called Johnson faction will realize what the public expects of it, we will the majority and put baseball on a stronger basis than it ever has been, instead of remaining defiant and thereby helping to bring about a baseball war. The game is bigger than any man or group of men in it and it can survive those of the past. What it needs at this time, however, is more co-operation and less politics among club owners and officials.

BOXING CLEAN

New York Officials Have No Mercy on Those Guilty of Infringements.

Those dwellers in the community of New York, and also the state bearing the same name, who have the real interests of the sport of boxing at heart, which classification includes all those who know what genuinely fine exercise and spectacle the game affords when properly conducted—are quick in their appreciation of the action of the commission in inflicting speedy penalties on other day upon four boxers guilty of infringement of the legal and ethical tenets of clean sportmanship.

New York Times. The quartette of pugilists whose misdeeds called forth the bolts of the Johnson tribunal had erred in four different ways. One case condemned by the board involved a charge of foul fighting. Another was punished for quitting under fire, and a third for lack of caution in the language used when disqualified by the referee. The fourth boxer was ten pounds over the weight at which he had contracted to enter the ring.

It was not only eminently proper, but it was necessary that these infractions of the statute provisions designed to guard and preserve the sport should lead to punishment, and that right speedily, for the sake of the lesson to be drawn therefrom by a class, many of whom need frequent lessons—namely the pugilists themselves. In the days when unsavory conditions, due to equally unsavory managers and promoters, were being allowed to throttle boxing, heretofore an unwholly large proportion of the boxers acquired the idea that the game was a shady one, to be practiced in the sly, and that they could very well dispense with real sportsmanlike standards. If there are any holdovers from this regime—and there are—they must be speedily taught that a new day is dawning for the game which they have chosen as their, and that in its light the evil tactics tolerated or smiled upon before will meet chastisement as soon as the rod can be brought.

As for the promoters who were chiefly responsible for the disrepute into which boxing was allowed to fall, it is to be hoped that none of them will be allowed to creep back into the game in any guise. Even though they protest reformation, it is likely to be with the tongue in the cheek, and the chief-cut manhood responsible for the revival of the sport and for its auspicious launching cannot afford to take chances with men of the type mentioned.

RUDOLPH STRUCK BY FLYING BOTTLE

Paris, Oct. 29.—The "Mystery of May- cring," as the mysterious death of Crown Prince Rudolph, of Austria, is around which there have been built many legends, has been spoken of for years, was lifted by a member of the Hapsburgs for the first time recently. Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, in an article in the Berlin Vossische Zeitung, tells what he declares is the true version of Rudolph's death. Ferdinand, in 1902, renounced his rank and gave up all claim to the throne, taking the name of Leopold Woelfling, and marrying the girl of his choice. The Archduke says that the real story of the death of Crown Prince Rudolph was told to him by his father, who was the most intimate friend of the old Emperor Franz Joseph and the Crown Prince. Ferdinand himself was also a close friend of Rudolph, knowing him intimately for a number of years. In his story in the Vossische Zeitung he describes the unhappy marriage of Rudolph to Princess Stefanie, of Belgium, the match having been arranged by the respective royal houses without consulting the young couple. He tells of her violent jealousies and how the stormy home life of the royal couple finally drove Prince Rudolph into the arms of the beautiful Baroness Vetsera.

After some difficulty Emperor Franz Joseph finally secured the word of honor of Crown Prince Rudolph that he would break with the Baroness. "But," says Ferdinand, "Rudolph gave his word with the mental reservation that he would see his love once more and drain to its dregs the painfully sweet cup of farewell."

Collided With Greeks. "On that last evening there were numerous guests at the hunting lodge of Mayerling, including Hektor Baltazi, famous racing man, and his brother, Aristide, both Greeks. Hektor was generally reported to be the fiance of the pretty Baroness, of whom the Crown Prince was enamoured. "During a part of the evening the gentlemen were all in one of the small parlors of the lodge. The Baroness was elsewhere at the time, and there was the customary heavy drinking by the men. Rudolph could never stand much drink, and after a few glasses of wine became very violent. "A discussion which rose became very heated, and Rudolph soon collided with the hot-blooded temperament of the two Greeks. "It will probably never be known just how the trouble started, but soon there were threats of the use of daggers and swords, and as these threats were made, everybody jumped suddenly to their feet. Struck by Bottle. "At this moment, without any warning, a full champagne bottle was hurled with tremendous force across the table. Rudolph dropped as if struck by lightning. A few moments later the Baroness Vetsera entered the doorway, where she was seen to stand as if petrified at the figure of her lover stretched on the floor. Suddenly there was a shot, and the Baroness Vetsera fell dead not far from the spot where Rudolph had fallen. "The body of the Crown Prince was taken to the palace in Vienna with the glass splinters from the champagne bottle still sticking in the wounds in his smashed skull. "For reasons of state, the government announced that Rudolph had committed suicide, rather than admit the truth, which it was feared would have a serious effect on political conditions at the time." Archduke Ferdinand says that all witnesses to the murder of the Crown Prince took a solemn oath to preserve silence, but that a full report was made to the Emperor.

LAND OF FIRE AND SNOW.

(New York Herald.)

A geological map of Iceland by Dr. Thorodden, who has spent many years on the work, gives much information about one of the world's most wonderful islands which few visitors ever see. An example of the strangeness of Iceland is furnished by the volcano Katla. This is buried under immense snow fields, but from time to time its fire burns through the glittering blanket, and then such floods are poured from the melting ice that a great stretch of country between the volcano and the sea is inundated, and huge masses of ice are carried out into the ocean. It is unsafe to cross the territory lying between Katla and the sea, so suddenly come the floods.

Freight Rates and Cargoes

Rates Decline Further Under Scarcity of Cargo Offerings—Old Companies Fight for Established Trade—South American Situation Encouraging.

William Forrest in N. Y. Evening Post) Cargo offerings are still far below the volume required to supply the many vessels loading at this port with full cargoes, and as a result ocean freight rates continue to show a downward tendency. Following the announcement of Admiral Benson that the Shipping Board would grant its operators the right to compete with the French Line for cargo destined for the French Atlantic and other ports of the Continent, virtually all lines operating to Europe, Belgium, or Dutch ports began quoting rates under the general market, and today there is no standard rate for those ports. It is reported that competition for cargo has grown so strong in these trades that a shipper frequently receives quotations on two different rates in one day by the same steamship company. It is difficult to estimate the actual reductions in rates, but in several cases they have been equal to 30 or 35 per cent, and in some instances they have been even greater.

At the present time it is substantially a case of the shippers naming their own rates in these trades, and there is still no indication of a return to normal conditions. In view of the small volume of freight and the low rates it is apparent that the steamship companies are operating at a loss, but until all lines are willing to join the conference and maintain rates there is little likelihood that there will be any abatement. The outlook for an improvement in the cargo movement for the next two or three months is very poor, and that is the only thing outside of an agreement among the steamship companies that will work for stabilization.

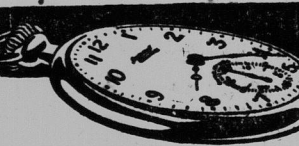

In the Hamburg trade a somewhat similar condition prevails. One of the large companies is reported to be cutting rates considerably. Not only are the rates to Hamburg being cut, but this company is offering through rates to Scandinavian ports, via Hamburg, that are much below those being quoted by lines operating direct to the ports of the Scandinavian countries. As an example, a rate of 85 cents on four to Christiania was quoted by this company recently. To some extent the steamship companies operating services direct to Scandinavian ports are meeting these rates and on favorable cargo the shipper can usually obtain a quotation well below the general market.

"From present indications," said a large freight broker, "it would seem that rates to practically all northern European ports were due for reductions. The steamship companies are badly in need of cargo and some of the larger companies are determined to establish themselves firmly in their respective trades during the next six months. It is not a question of making money at the present time, but of organizing and consolidating for future business. Shipping is ailing through a serious crisis the same as other industries, but the leaders in the industry are aiming to overcome their belief that the companies that come through this crisis will be well repaid for their efforts. The old companies are making a fight to drive some of the newer ones out of certain trades, and in some instances there are more vessels in the European service than freight offerings warrant. In some cases I will continue to work and in some cases I would not be surprised to see further reductions in rates."

In spite of the light freight movement, lines in the United Kingdom conference refuse to consider any reduction in rates, even for special commodities that might be moved through eastern ports in large volume. It is known that the western lumber dealers have been trying for some time to obtain a reduction on lumber to United Kingdom ports, but without success. The rail-road rates from the Pacific Coast make it impossible for western producers of spruce to ship by rail to eastern ports and compete with producers in the maritime provinces of Canada.

The steamship companies apparently hold to the idea that a movement would be short-lived and have refused to consider the naming of a lower rate for lumber. They point out that very little lumber was moved through North Atlantic ports before the war, and most of it being loaded on vessels on the Pacific Coast and brought through the Panama Canal, and they do not believe that a permanent trade could be built up even if rates were reduced. On the other hand, Western shippers and their representatives point out that most of the vessels loading on the Pacific Coast take cargo for four or five European ports and consequently deliveries are frequently two months later than they would be if shipment was made by rail to an Atlantic port.

and there loaded on a steamer bound direct for the port to which the lumber was consigned. Shippers are still negotiating with the United Kingdom lines in hopes that they will be able to obtain a special rate on this class of cargo.

Another market in which rates are being held firm is Trieste. Although rates to practically all Italian and Mediterranean ports are more or less unsteady, the lines serving Trieste are holding firmly to their announced rates and all effort on the part of shippers to obtain concessions have proved useless. The amount of cargo moving in this trade is not large, but the steamship companies are apparently agreed that nothing is to be gained by a reduction in rates.

A report has been circulated about the shipping district during the past two or three days that Australian rates will be increased 25 per cent, about January 1. Although steamship officials refuse to verify this report, it is the opinion of those who are in a position to know that the increase will be put into effect on the date named. The movement to Australia, for several months past has been small and strikes of one kind or another have resulted in long delays in Australian ports with the result that operating expenses have been very heavy.

According to the report, all the lines operating to Australia have agreed to the increase. This will be the third instance within less than a year in which rates advanced in spite of the fact that the cargo offering was not sufficient to keep all vessels supplied, the other two being the River Plate and Brazilian trades. It would not be surprising if rates to South Africa were advanced also, although so far there have been no reports in regard to this trade.

Trade with the Far East continues very dull and space is offered freely. It is probable that if these conditions continue for another month sailings will be curtailed, as operators are having great difficulty in obtaining cargo. The amount of return cargo offering is very small, due to a decrease in the demand for many raw materials in this market. South America is now the most encouraging of all trades, although even to South American ports shippers are able to secure space without delay. Considerable twine and agricultural supplies are being shipped to the South American buyers at present, and automobiles are still moving in fair quantity in this trade. Brazilian rates are being maintained fairly well on the new schedule, and only in the case of very large shipments are concessions being granted.

Shipments to Cuba showed a further decline during the past week, and a market for Havana is steadily growing easier. Many shippers in this country are holding on to the advice of their Cuban customers. The lull in this trade may prove a benefit rather than a detriment, as it may result in a clearing up of the congestion at Havana and other Cuban ports and give the merchants of that country an opportunity to liquidate some of the stocks which they have paid for, but which they have been unable to get through the customs.

MAKING PAPER NOW FROM BAMBOO PULP

The shortage of paper has become so acute that engineers are turning to all sorts of natural growths as possible material for cellulose fibre and paper pulp. One of the most interesting movements in this direction is the plan to utilize bamboo for manufacturing pulp. Numerous plans were broached to the Indian government shortly before the war and concessions were given to certain interests. Very little was accomplished between 1914 and 1918, and for some time after the armistice business men were hesitant about developing the concessions obtained.

It was well known that excellent paper had been manufactured from bamboo pulp, but there was a good deal of uncertainty as to the cost of production, and of transporting the raw materials, chemicals and machinery required. It was also feared that immediately after the war Scandinavia and North America would dump huge supplies of paper pulp on the market and crush the infant industry.

The extraordinary drop in the visible supply of pulp, and other changed world conditions have, however, stimulated interest in this project again. A large bamboo pulp factory is now being erected

I Need $500,000 To Fight The Combination Who Are Keeping Clothing Prices From Coming Down

I MUST HAVE $500,000 within 30 days to carry on the fight for the people against high clothing prices and I AM Sacrificing Every Garment in My Chain of Shops from Halifax to Vancouver to get it and bring clothing down NOW and finally to a standard price where we all feel it ought to be. As a result of my campaign started last May and again my Overcoat drive started last month there has been a drop in clothing prices of about 15 per cent.

But This Is Not Enough! I Am Not Satisfied and Neither Should You Be. ON SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30th

I Will Place On Sale Every Suit and Overcoat in my entire chain of Shops at prices that must force you to buy and by such a preponderance of business in Robinson's Shops must force other retailers to let loose and in turn force the factories to open to supply the needs of the people at the people's own prices.

Is There a Conspiracy To Keep the Price of Clothing Up?

Read the following statement of conditions in the Clothing Trade and judge for yourself.

MOST retailers have big stocks at the high prices—and consequently have practically stopped buying from the manufacturers. Most of the factories in Canada have closed down and in this way are in effect protecting the retailer until he unloads his present stock and makes the public pay. There are many statements being made to-day in so-called sale advertising by many retailers that are misleading as to value. Don't buy until you know that you really get big value.

THAT IS MY JOB! I want to turn half a million dollars' worth of Suits and Overcoats into cash in order to use that money to fight the manufacturers who are standing pat and closing down and holding their woolsens until the retailer unloads on the public and the market rebounds to somewhere near old levels.

I Will Not Allow That To Happen If It Takes Every Dollar That I Have Made To Fight Such A Combination. I Am Going To Use Every Resource I Have At My Command To Prevent Such A Conspiracy From Going Through.

To insure this movement being a success, I am putting on Sale Every Suit and Overcoat in all my shops, my warehouse and my factories at prices far below what they actually cost me.

Again with your help I can do it. With your help I cannot fail.

It was also feared that immediately after the war Scandinavia and North America would dump huge supplies of paper pulp on the market and crush the infant industry.

The extraordinary drop in the visible supply of pulp, and other changed world conditions have, however, stimulated interest in this project again. A large bamboo pulp factory is now being erected in India by a Calcutta firm, and another in Burma which will turn out 100,000 tons of bamboo pulp per annum. Another company to operate in Burma is being organized, and it is estimated that the annual output of these three companies alone will aggregate 70,000 tons.

The facts of the situation are distinctly encouraging. The raw material is so plentiful that in time the whole world could be supplied with bamboo paper. Furthermore, the crop of bamboo shoots renews itself to its full height every 2 year, which is certainly an easier condition to face than the constant exhaustion of timber lands. A bamboo yields half its bulk in the process of treatment and reduction to pulp, and each acre of land yields forty tons of bamboo in suitable districts.

William Raitt, cellulose expert to the government of India, who has been extensively engaged in the manufacture of paper, is now in England in connection with the organization of plants for the production of pulp and paper, from bamboo and other tropical forest growths. As a result of investigation for thirty-five years Mr. Raitt is convinced that no permanent solution of the paper problem will be arrived at until the world's annual growth of tropical and sub-tropical forests is utilized adequately.

The total production for Indian paper mills for the year ended April 1, 1920, was $2,000 tons. It is very probable that this figure will be tripled and quadrupled in the near future through the addition of bamboo pulp.

Would Pay $200 for Cue. Ralph Greenleaf, the world's professional pocket billiard champion, has lost a cue. Returning after playing an exhibition match at the Lawrence Brothers Academy in Brooklyn recently he became separated from his stick and almost knew just where.

Although it was worth only about $15 he has offered a reward of $200 for its return. The young champion prized his cue almost as much as he does his title. It was the one cue that he has used ever since he was nine years old.

When he began to show ability as a player his father presented him with the cue, so that might be said that Greenleaf practically learned to play with it. In making an announcement Greenleaf called attention to the fact that his name is inscribed on a plate on the butt of the cue.

Amherst to Meet All Corners. (Amherst News.) It is the intention of the management to arrange a series of inter-town and county matches at the Amherst rink as the season gets under way. This town can boast of some pretty able players and we have a hunch that they will be able to make the other towns do me tall rolling to beat them.

The big match will be between St. John and Amherst around November 15. Wellington League. In the Wellington Club and the Corners Company's team each won two games. The former's pinfall was 1228 and the latter's 1226.

Y. M. C. I. League. In the Y. M. C. I. house league last evening the Sparrows took three points on the Swans. The winners had 1298 and a total pinfall and the losers 1269.

(Halifax Echo.) The friendly meeting, or rather quiet talk, between representatives of local athletic bodies and the Nova Scotia members of the M. P. B. A. U., which took place at the Y. M. C. A., Monday afternoon did not develop anything new in the way of solving the formation of a provincial hockey league with the exception of the generous offer of Messrs. Horton & Thompson to donate a large sum to be competed for and to be emblematic of the amateur championship of the province.

A. W. Covey, in opening the meeting stated that the M. P. B. A. U. had steadily growing until at the present moment it had on its books over 200 registered amateur athletes. As far as it was concerned officially this body did not extend any further clenching to hear and take every possible step to deal with cases where doubt existed as to those who had received money and were openly known as professionals were outside the jurisdiction of the association. He explained that there was no such thing as an athlete being listed as an independent. He was either out and out professional or amateur. The meeting was of a strictly informal nature and had representatives present from the Imperial Amateur Athletic Association, Dalhousie and Crescents as well as the M. P. B. A. U. members.

The meeting did not take any definite steps in the hockey matter as it was thought this was entirely the province of those who would form the league. It was, however, suggested that whatever constitution laid down by the hockeyists should embody a residence clause calling members of teams to be bona fide residents of the place for which they played for a period of at least thirty days prior to the opening of the hockey season.

The M. P. B. A. U. took some further evidence on the case of a local suspension which they will deal with later.

SCOUT COUNCIL HOLDS SESSION

Important Matters Gone Into at Meeting Last Night—Distinguished Visitors.

The fall meeting of the New Brunswick council of the Boy Scouts Association, held last evening in their offices, Prince William street, with A. C. Skelton, provincial commissioner, in the chair, was honored by the presence of John A. Siles of Ottawa, assistant chief commissioner for Canada, and G. Ross Marshall, provincial president of the Nova Scotia council, John H. Tolson, district commissioner, Fredericton, P. S. Watson, district commissioner, Devon; F. Hargrave, assistant commissioner, Sussex, and C. T. Wetmore, scout master, Rothesay, were outside members of the council present.

A committee was appointed to consider to what extent the work should be developed next year and to take what action was thought necessary and report to the annual meeting in January. The Dominion government is anxious to preserve the location of historical sites and it was decided last night that the boy scouts should co-operate in this matter. Time put in on this work will count on time served for their community service badges.

The budget for next year was discussed. For the purpose of spreading health propaganda and other work of like nature it was decided that the Boy Scouts should offer their services to the N. B. health department. It was one of the best meetings ever held by the provincial council.

GROW GLASS FLOWERS.

Perhaps, before very long, instead of bouquets of flowers being presented to our famous ladies upon occasions of ceremony, it will become the custom to present bouquets of glass.

Glass flowers for table decoration are becoming more and more popular, for they do not fade as do real flowers, and therefore do not need renewing, unless a breakage occurs. An extension to the use of glass bouquets is only a step.

Not only is glass extending its use from the decorative point of view, but it is extending wider scope. The very latest use to which glass has been put is in the manufacture of baths of colored glass, which will harmonize with the scheme of decoration favored in the bathroom.

ALFREDO DE ORO TO TRY COMEBACK

Was Former Three-Cushion and Pocket Billiard Champion and was Titled "Old Master."

The announcement that Alfredo de Oro intends to come out of retirement and play in the national three-cushion billiard tournament at Chicago next month will be welcome news to the followers of the sport everywhere, says the New York Times. For a span of a great many years, until he quit public competition a little more than a year and a half ago, de Oro was one of the most brilliant lights in the cue constellation. His expertness at the angle game and at pocket billiards earned for him the sobriquet of "Old Master." Once he held both the three-cushion and the pocket billiard championships at the same time. At various other periods during his career he held one or the other of the titles.

A year ago last spring he announced his retirement from public competition. His decision was reached after Robert Cannifax had beaten him in a three-cushion championship match in this city. Since that time the veteran Cuban has steadfastly refrained from playing in anything but private matches. These were played purely for the love of the sport. This season, however, the lure of the green cloth was too strong to be longer resisted. De Oro began practicing, and when he found that his strokes were just as good as ever he determined to launch an offensive by which he hopes again to attain the billiard heights.

Before going west it is probable that de Oro will give himself a formal workout in public. At this writing he is seriously considering playing a 300-point match in New York against Ralph Greenleaf, the world's pocket billiard champion. Until this was learned it was not generally known that Greenleaf was a three-cushion player—that is, it was not known that he took the game seriously. It was thought that he played it just as Willie Hoppe, the ball-lineer, has played it, purely for amusement. It has developed, however, that Greenleaf is quite adept at the exhibition game. In this way, then, this exhibition will serve a two-fold purpose. In the first place it will show whether de Oro still maintains the mastery of the ivories that was once his, and it will show Greenleaf in an entirely new role. Perhaps Greenleaf entered a series of some day holding both titles as de Oro once did. The match should serve to establish the pocket billiard champion's status as a career player.

David McAndrews, the former national amateur ball-line billiard champion, has left for San Francisco to engage in the preliminary round of the national championship tournament there. The players who finish first in this event will qualify to play Willie Hoppe in this city for the title. McAndrews turned professional two weeks ago. He is the third former amateur champion to go in quest of the professional title in recent years. His predecessors were Calvin Demarest and Joseph Mayer. Neither of them succeeded. McAndrews will have to show greatly improved form over what he displayed in his recent exhibition matches in this city if he is to earn the right to play against Hoppe.
