General Intelligence.
ANOTHER TIERED LIBERAL.
HE THINKS THOUSANDS WHO VOTED FOR LAUCHLIN ARE DISAPPOINTED.
One of the strongest Liberals in the county is Dr. Purcell, late principal of the High School at Port Hope, and he thus expresses his disgust at the way things have been going:
It is as a friend and well wisher of the Laurier ministry that I venture to express my great disappointment with the results of their first year in office. Unless my gauge of public sentiment is a wrong one, many thousands of those who voted and worked to put that Government in power on June 23, 1896, are now as disappointed as I am.
The Liberal party in the House, and the Liberal press out of it, had when in opposition, inveighed so constantly against Tory extravagance, the immense cost of government and the vast burden of taxation fastened upon the people (including thousands of Tories) who growled under the weight of taxation, voted these Liberals into power at the last election. Had not those who did so a perfect right to expect that the new Government would practice in office what they preached in opposition, and give us retrenchment in every department of the public service, and a large reduction in the demands of the Government upon the pockets of the public?—Hamilton Spectator.

INDIANA CAPTURED.
HALFAX CROWDS TAKE POSSESSION OF THE AMERICAN BATTLESHIP.
Halifax captured the ship. The crew made little or no resistance. The captain invited the attack by notifying the mayor that the ship would be open to visitors between the hours of 1 and 5 p. m. It was evident that half the city had taken him at his word. At 1 o'clock the ship was surrounded by a throng of people and the going north began to fill up and pedestrians all seemed to be going the one way. Those who went to the dry dock early were lucky. The crush began about 3 o'clock and did not let up until 5. The people got on board as fast as they could. They blocked the gangway and the vicinity of the gangway. Sergeant McNally and a couple of police officers went to the assistance of the two marines who were vainly endeavoring to preserve something like decent order. At 2.30 the crush was so great that the gate leading to the dock had to be closed and a policeman put in charge. In a short time the space from the gang up to Campbell road was also packed and the people waited rather impatiently for the policeman to let another crowd in. The dry dock premises became so crowded that it was found necessary to run a line around the dock to keep people from tumbling in. One was maintained on the gangway. She was carried on board where she was resuscitated. Some of the Indian officers came along in a launch and landed at the dock. They looked at the crowd and smiled. Then they mingled with the crowd and worked their way on board.
The scene on board was a lively one. Every part of the ship open to visitors was crowded. Officers stood at the gangway and assigned sailors, marines, and petty officers to the charge of looking after visitors. Down below a number of the men were trying to enjoy a nap, but they had to give it up—they were in danger of being trampled upon by the crowd. The officers at the gangway looked at the people on shore clamoring to get on board, with despair. It was their first engagement with the British and they saw at a glance that they were hopelessly beaten. An additional surrender up to 5 o'clock followed. Everybody was treated with the utmost civility, by officers and crew, who seemed determined to please the crowd.
Although the ship was not open to visitors after 5 o'clock, hundreds of people visited the dry dock to get a peep at the big Yankee warship.
The Indians will come out of the dock this morning and will take her departure to-day.—Halifax Chronicle 17th.

OTHERS FAIL—IT CURES!
DEAR SIR:—From my own experience I can confidently say that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry possesses true merit. It was the means of saving my little 15 lb. child from a most distressing and took violent diarrhoea. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cured her, and I feel that I cannot say enough in its favor.

IMPROVEMENT DESIRABLE.
An Ottawa despatch to some of the Montreal papers says that the attention of the Deputy Minister of Marine has been called lately by a club of fly fishermen to the fact that their fishing, somewhere in the vicinity of the Saguenay, is interfered with by net fishermen. Of course if the net fishermen are acting illegally they should be compelled to obey the law, but it is well to remember that the fly fisherman is out for sport and the net fisherman to earn his daily bread. There is illegal fishing that ought to be legal, and there is legal fishing that ought to be illegal. The law to often acts unjustly and harshly to those who have to live out of the fishery business, and there is a good deal of legislation in this respect which might be improved. It is made illegal to take fish—salmon—in the estuaries of the rivers with nets, but it is legal to take them with the rod almost at the spawning beds. The kind of discrimination has its justification, of course, but it does not make the man who is fishing for his daily bread feel very comfortable.—St. John Globe.

UNDER DIFFICULTIES.
One of the most remarkable newspaper issues ever produced was that of the Indian Daily News at Calcutta two days after the recent earthquake. The editor writes: "At a late hour on Sunday night we were compelled to stop all work and seek another press in order to bring out even a four-page paper, as our premises were condemned by a surveyor laid out our difficulties, which were already sufficiently great. When the forms were going to press one of them accidentally broke, hence the absence of the third page. We write with a scorching sun blazing on our desk, and in the midst of a few hurried lines of manuscript crashing in on us. Owing to the accident the editor mentions, the third page was printed black, but the paper contained very full accounts of the earthquake, and a good selection of general news as well, which was a wonderful performance under the circumstances, even for an enterprising editor."

FOR THE KLONDYKE.
ONE THOUSAND MEN START FROM VICTORIA YESTERDAY.
VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 15.—There were in Victoria this morning 1000 men of every class, and from every part of the world, who were wildly anxious to get started on the long trip to the new Eldorado. These men had tickets which carry them to Skagway Bay on the big collier Bristol, or on the steamer Islander, both of which sailed to-day. The Bristol has been fitted with bunks and stalls for horses from the bottom of her hold to the top of the cabin deck, and every bunk and stall is now close upon 1000 men going on the Bristol, and just as many horses and mules. Even the big collier is filled up.

the feet for these animals and the contents for the men taking up an immense amount of space. The Islander has just as big a crowd, but much of the space on her is taken up by a contingent of mounted police, their horses, dogs and outfits. They realize that they have a winter's trip before them before they reach Dawson City and are taking dogs and sleighs. Horses will be taken as far as possible and when they are of no more use will be killed and used as food for the dogs. A few of the men are going up with the idea of buying cheap outfits from men who became discouraged and are turning back, but most of them are well provided and all are taking back animals.
They having in this respect taken the advice of men who went before and have written of the difficulty of securing animals or Indians to pack goods across the pass.
W. W. E. Canavan, of Ottawa, who was a member of the Canadian boundary survey, in which capacity he learned much about Alaska, left on the Islander. Mr. Canavan is going to look over the ground for the Klondyke Placer Mining and Prospecting company (Brantford and Paris, Ont). This company proposes to send a large party in the spring to prospect and work claims in the Canadian Yukon.
PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Joseph Ludue, of Dawson City, N. W. T., has returned here from New York, where he has placed his mining property entirely in a syndicate composed of New York, Canadian and English capitalists. Included in the property transferred to the new corporation are city lots and saw mills in Dawson City, placer mines and a quartz mine, which Mr. Ludue believes is the mother lode, from which all the placer gold of the Yukon has been disintegrated. The ore from this mine has already assayed $300 a ton. The company will be called the Joseph Ludue Gold Mining and Development company of the Yukon, and is capitalized for five million dollars. Ludue will act as president and general manager of the company and will return to Dawson next spring with improved mining machinery and a large force of men to operate it.

FIGHTING IN INDIA.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—A despatch to the Times from Simla says that at least 3000 tribes men were engaged in yesterday's battle.
The batteries prevented them risking a fight at close quarters, but about 1000 held on for some time. Then as the infantry attack developed they fled and when the other 3000 saw their line of retreat threatened, they moved rapidly away. Lt. Graves of Lancashire Fusiliers and Lt. McLean adjutant of Guides were killed, and Captain Palmer was seriously wounded. Lt. McLean met his death while trying to carry away the body of Lt. Graves. The despatch adds that the whole border seems to be in a state of fanatical unrest.
General Blood directed the centre of the attack, Colonel Meiklejohn occupying the heights to the right, of the enemy's position. The Swats were strongly entrenched and maintained a steady fire but the British column carried the entrenchments with great dash and the enemy fled. It is believed that General Blood will order a further advance to-day (Wednesday). There is no longer any doubt that the Afridis are deeply involved in the rebellion, which as yet is in no wise suppressed. Such small outbreaks of things now that the slightest check to British arms would be the signal for a general revolt.

A SENSIBLE ARRANGEMENT.
The United States government has acted with excellent judgment in regard to the transit of goods across the narrow strip of land at the head of Lynn Canal, in fact there was hardly anything they did not want, except the legal and proper thing to be done. They claimed that they were not being accorded equal rights, forgetful of the fact that they have no rights whatever in the premises, but only certain privileges, which may be taken away from them at any moment.
The whelamatter now stands on a very sensible basis. If a man is foolish enough to purchase his supplies in Seattle, he can take them to the head of Lynn Canal in a vessel of any nationality. There he will be allowed to land them and pack them over the trail. When he reached Lake Tagish he will have to pay the Canadian duties. If he buys his goods in Victoria, he can take them North in any vessel he chooses, will be permitted to land them and pack them over the trail in bond, and can pass the customs house officers at Tagish without paying duties. This is a very sensible arrangement, and will suit everyone except the hysterical people down on the Sound.—Victoria B. C. Colonist.

The excellent folk down on the Sound have been in a species of panic over the matter. When told that the Canadian duties on foreign goods would be exacted they declared it to be all over Victoria. It seems hardly credible that anyone would have gone to the length that they were ready to. When a number of Seattle people bought goods in Seattle and took them North on the Islander, an effort was made by some Seattle people to have duties collected at Dyea upon these American goods, on the ground that having been shipped from one United States port to another and having been carried a part of the distance in a British steamer, they were liable to duty if not to confiscation. If they could have had their way the Seattle people would have had to pay the United States duties on their goods at Dyea and the Canadian duties at Lake Tagish, that is to say double duty. They memorialized the Secretary of the Treasury, and made a great fuss generally. They wanted Dyea closed. In fact there was hardly anything they did not want, except the legal and proper thing to be done. They claimed that they were not being accorded equal rights, forgetful of the fact that they have no rights whatever in the premises, but only certain privileges, which may be taken away from them at any moment.
The whelamatter now stands on a very sensible basis. If a man is foolish enough to purchase his supplies in Seattle, he can take them to the head of Lynn Canal in a vessel of any nationality. There he will be allowed to land them and pack them over the trail. When he reached Lake Tagish he will have to pay the Canadian duties. If he buys his goods in Victoria, he can take them North in any vessel he chooses, will be permitted to land them and pack them over the trail in bond, and can pass the customs house officers at Tagish without paying duties. This is a very sensible arrangement, and will suit everyone except the hysterical people down on the Sound.—Victoria B. C. Colonist.

Editorial Notes.

Wheat, which has gradually been rising in price from the low rates of several years past, has at least reached the price of $1.00 per bushel, a price below which the agriculturist thinks it should never go. On Friday September wheat in the New York market reached that tall mark of figure, and has since ranged slightly over it. This will be good news for the farmers in Manitoba and the other western provinces with an estimated crop of over thirty millions of bushels.

Toronto is the scene at present of the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and a number of the leading scientific men of the world are attending the meeting, a thousand members being present. The meeting opened on Wednesday of last week.

Lord Lytton was the retiring President of the association, being Sir John Evans. The new President in his inaugural address said the following pleasant words to say of Canada—

Once more has the Dominion of Canada invited the British Association for the Advancement of Science to hold one of its annual meetings of its members within Canadian territory; and for a second time has the association had the honor and pleasure of accepting the proffered hospitality.

In doing so, the association has felt that if by any possibility the scientific welfare of a locality is promoted by its being the scene of a meeting the claims should be fully recognized of those who, though not dwelling in the British Isles, are still inhabitants of that Greater Britain whose property is so intimately connected with the fortunes of the mother country.

Here, especially, as loyal subjects of our beloved Sovereign, the sixtieth year of whose beneficent reign has just been celebrated with equal rejoicing in all parts of her empire; as speaking the same tongue, and as in most instances connected by the same common parentage, we are bound together in all that can promote our common interests.

There is, in all probability, nothing that will tend more to advance those interests than the diffusion of science in all parts of the British Empire, and it is towards this end that the aspirations of the British Association are ever directed, even if in many instances the aim may not be attained.

We are, as already mentioned, indebted to Canada for previous hospitality, but we must also remember that, since the time when we last assembled on this side of the Atlantic, the Dominion has provided the association with a President, Sir William Dawson, whose name is alike well known in Britain and America, and whose reputation is indeed world-wide. We rejoice that we have still among us the pioneer of American geology, who among other discoveries first made us acquainted with the "Air-breathers of the Coal," the terrestrial or more properly aërial, survivors of the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia coal measures.

On our last visit to Canada, in 1884, our place of assembly was Montreal, a city which is justly proud of her McGill University; today we meet within the buildings of another of the Universities of this vast Dominion—and in a city the absolute fitness of which for such a purpose must have been foreseen by the native Indians tribes when they gave to a small aggregation of huts upon this spot, the name of Toronto—"the place of meeting."

The President then proceeded with his address on "The Antiquity of Man," which is published in full in the Toronto Globe of Aug. 19th.

A Great Land Claim.

The Boston Sunday Globe of Aug. 22nd, publishes the following article under the head of "Boston Land Claim of 32,000 Miles. De Fronsac's Heirs Now Living in the Hub Begin the Biggest Real Estate Fight of the Age—Property in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in Litigation." This is followed by a map showing the territory claimed by these Boston men as their private property. The heading and map is followed by the following description of property claimed and title thereto, which title must have run out very many years ago even if granted as stated—

The whole affair looks more like a sensational newspaper story than an effort of the heirs of someone who lived nearly four hundred years ago to recover by course of law property possessed by others for a long term of years. Said heirs, we imagine, would find it more profitable to put their money to some other use than to suing lawyers for such a purpose. The description is as follows—

The government of Nova Scotia has been formally notified of the De Fronsac claim.

This is the greatest land claim that has ever been brought by one family in the history of modern times, and is now in process of preparation by the De Fronsacs for some portion of the great territory over which they ruled with sovereign authority in Canada during the French period of Canadian history.

The claim embraces about 32,000 square miles of territory, including the great coal fields of Cape Breton, the northern half of Nova Scotia and part of the west of New Brunswick, where it borders St. George's channel.

The history of the original grant from the crown of France to Nicholas De Fronsac is told by all the standard French historians of Canada, by Charlevoix, Ferland, Garneau and explicitly stated in Murdoch's history of Nova Scotia.

He, for the services of his ancestor, Capt. Jean De Fronsac (one of the early explorers, who published a chart of the Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1596, and who was with Verazzano in 1524), received some appointment under De Razilli, first governor of Acadia, in 1602.

In 1653 the company of New France granted him all the lands from Cape Canseau to Cape Rosier. In 1654, De Fronsac received a royal patent for the same from the king of France.

In 1667 he received a new grant from the company of Les Indes Occidentales, which was accompanied by a requirement that he get 30 immigrants, male and female, every year for the next 10 years.

On the death of De Razilli, De Fronsac was appointed royal governor, not only over Acadia, but of the "Great Gulf of St. Lawrence and St. John's island" (Prince Edward Island).

During his long reign he had many battles against Indians and warlike neighbors, who brought every effort to bear to break down his authority, but without avail. It was on one of his visits to France, in 1672, in connection with his province that he published his geographical and natural history of the country in two volumes, being thus the earliest Canadian historian.

His claim on the title of Viscount de Fronsac was also successfully prosecuted and recognized by the king through the good offices of the minister Talon. The title descended to him from his mother, Marguerite, daughter of David Forger, lord of Dykes in Scotland, and Viscount de Fronsac in France. The title dates to the reign of the Emperor Charlemagne.

The extensive lands and government remained in the family down to 1720, when all the children of the late De Fronsac died of an epidemic, together with their father Nicholas, who was son of Richard and grandson of the first Nicholas de Fronsac.

Richard established himself first in a strong hold of the town of Gaspé, but finally the family removed to Miramichi, where they all lived and held court in a very well furnished house.

The grant of Miramichi to the royal governor Nicholas Deslys de Fronsac was given by the governor general, the Comte de Frontenac, and confirmed by the king by an arrest de conseil, in 1678, signed at Versailles, France, on that date, regulated and limited by a grant contained "Fifteen leagues (45 miles) front by 15 leagues in depth, reckoning from the Trent river, to the north, running one league to the southeast and the other 4 leagues to the northwest with the points, islands and islets for 15 leagues in the front, to be enjoyed by him, his heirs and assigns forever."

From the governor's daughter, Marguerite de Fronsac, are descended the present heirs and claimants of this immense domain. She married at Honfleur, France, in 1690, her cousin, Capt. James Forger, a captain on land and sea in the French service. Their son, also a captain, James Forger, had three sons, Matthew, Alexander and Thomas.

Thomas, the youngest son, died in Cork, Ire., in 1768, where most of his descendants now reside. One of his sons was Samuel, inspector general of customs for Ireland in 1776, and his grandson, one of the principal heirs, is Richard William Forsyth, M. D., of Cork, formerly brigadier-general in the British army.

Alexander, the second son, came to Boston about 1719. In 1724 he is mentioned in the early records as being commissioner to secure a treaty with the Indians for the colony of Massachusetts Bay. In 1725 he was a selectman for the town of Boston.

He was an eminent merchant and shipowner, a patron of the arts and one of the subscribers to Prince's chronology. His autograph may be seen in the second volume of the "Memorial History of Boston." In 1765, at the beginning of troubles between the crown and colonies, he showed his royalist inclination, and a little later left Boston for Ayrshire, Scotland, with his family.

The Wagon Route to the Yukon.

Gold has done much good and harm in the world. To the credit side of its ledger account we must put the opening up of the world's vastest habitable spaces to civilization. It was gold and silver that peopled South America with Spaniards. It was gold in California that suddenly a century ago practically doubled the habitable area of the United States. It was gold some years later which made a new world in Australia, and now gold seems to be the power which is making the great lone-hand team with millions. It is the more important that Canada should make the most of this attraction from the first, as every circumstance since the discovery of the Klondike has shown the need of doing what we can to make the wealth of Canada and its people Canadian.

The best way of convincing the pistoning savages who are threatening to rush the Klondike is to show them the route that the territory they are going to is actually not theirs but ours, is to have a sufficient number of quiet Canadian men in possession to make the place as peaceful as the Yukon. There is no mining region for safety and good order. Public meetings are being held in the territory of Alberta to urge upon the Dominion the advisability of immediately opening the Yukon.

There is a route between the Yukon and the Saskatchewan to which there is railway communication, and the Yukon country. Government surveys have marked out an easy route by way of the Little Slave Lake, the Peace River valley and the Laird river, across the head of the lake to the headwaters of the Polty river, and down the valley of that river, which is one of the largest tributaries of the Yukon.

There is a great deal to say in favor of the opening of this route by means of a wagon way. It is the most direct and consequently the shortest route between the Yukon and the railway station and the Yukon river, the distance being in round numbers about twelve hundred miles to the centre of the Klondike district, at the far end of the Canadian Yukon country.

By this route the Canadian gold region of British Columbia, which is also known to be very rich, would also be reached and supplied. But the greatest argument in favor of the construction of the wagon way by this route is that it would have the opening up and permanent settlement of the great Peace river valley and region.

There are vast areas of fertile lands in the territory of Alaska, which would be probably cultivated by a large population, in spite of a somewhat short season, if there were markets for agricultural products within easy reach. Hitherto there have been no such markets and consequently, rich as are the lands, no settlement has taken place. There has been nothing but the fur trade and hunting to draw people thither, and the number attracted has been small.

The gold region of the Yukon seems to have been designated as a bait to tempt people to rich lands that lie on the way to them. The Yukon country is as rich as France, and throughout its whole length there are rich mines of gold, silver, iron and coal.

There are some fertile bottom lands in valleys of the Yukon and its tributaries, in which some of the more hardy cereals, such as wheat, could be raised. The Yukon country is rich in minerals, and the people who settle there will be dependent upon outside territories for the great bulk of supplies of food.

Of the thousands of tons of soil attracted to the Yukon by gold the great majority are now being used for agricultural purposes as near the Yukon country as the fertile lands of the Yukon and its tributaries. The Yukon country is rich in minerals, and the people who settle there will be dependent upon outside territories for the great bulk of supplies of food.

Senator Robitaille.

EX-LIBIT. GOV. OF QUEBEC, PASSES AWAY.

NEW CARLISLE, Que., August 18.—Senator Theodore Robitaille died here this morning after a prolonged illness. Since his return from Ottawa after the session he had been making some progress, owing to the healthy climate of the Beau des Chateaux, but at length he succumbed before the fatal attack of the malarial.

Hon. Theodore Robitaille, M. D., P. C., was descended from one of the oldest French families in Canada, one of his grand-uncles, Messire Robitaille, was chaplain to the active militia force of Lower Canada during the war of 1812, and his family took an active part on the loyal side.

He was educated at the Hotel Thérèse and Laval and McGill universities. ## The Cinematograph is in Town.

If there is one thing that profoundly attracts the eye and fascinates the intellect, it is to see the results of that science has been able to obtain from photography.

Beyond contradiction, the most astonishing of the most marvelous of these, and the one whose incomparable results are to say the wonder and admiration of the whole world is that of the Cinematograph, the mysterious instrument which gives life to that which is dead, motion to that which is motionless, the instrument which causes the most varied scenes of the earth to pass before the eye of the spectator. It is simply amazing for every person.

To-day, our fellow citizens have the happy chance of seeing in this town the latest and most complete of the apparatus of the French inventor.

Let them not lose the opportunity of going to see it. We are persuaded that they will participate in our admiration and to regret the 25 cents that the sight of such a wonder will cost them.

The views are changed every night. The Cinematograph is the only true apparatus, and it is infinitely superior to all imitations.

The Liberal Press.

We have been hearing from the Montreal Witness and Huntington Gleaner of the province of Quebec, from the Simcoe Reformers, Gleaner-Signal and the Ontario Journals. These are all liberal papers, but they are kicking against the extravagance and faithlessness of the liberal government.

The latest protest comes from the far West. The Edmonton Bulletin is owned and edited by Frank Oliver, liberal M. P. for Alberta, but it has condemned the tariff trumpon, the $54,000,000 appropriation, Drummond steel, and other offences, though in moderate terms. Mr. Oliver remarks in his paper that "provincial ideas are all right in provincial affairs, but provincial ideas in national affairs are destruction to the nation."—Gleaner.

Sargent Brothers were struck by lightning. The electricity was probably conducted into the office by the telephone wires. Those in the Burdell building sustained a slight shock. The shock was heavier in the Sargent building where a book was knocked out of Mr. John Brown's hand while he was using it. All the ink books were badly soiled and not without a reason. One corner of the store was scorched by the electric fluid.

While the night freight was nearing Peck Road station at a fair rate of speed a young man named A'Hearn, in endeavoring to release a brake was thrown from the platform of the rear car and received a severe shaking up. When the train stopped at the station a party with lanterns walked back and found him in a dazed condition at the bottom of the embankment, he had fallen in loose sand and gravel and was slightly scorched about the face and hands but no bones were broken.

Pic Nic.

The pic nic on Wednesday last held in the Convent grounds under the auspices of the ladies of St. Mary's Church, Newcastle, was carried out most successfully. St. Michael's Band, of Chatham, was present and discoursed sweet music during the day. There was a large attendance. The dinner tables were well furnished and at the time of the picnic the Newcastle and Campbellton team not being in shape to accept the challenge.

Address all business letters, and make all money orders and checks payable to The Westminster Co., Conference Life Building, Toronto.

Base Ball. The Corvillers base ball team of Newcastle do hereby challenge the Campbellton team to a game of base ball on Saturday next, Aug. 28th. Game to take place at Newcastle and for which two-thirds of the gate receipts will be allowed for expenses.

C. ADAMS, Newcastle Corvillers. Taken to Dorchester. Allan James, committed for trial on charge of robbery, asked to be tried under the special trials act and his request was granted. He was found guilty and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary at Dorchester and was taken there on Friday last.

John Russell, a sailor was taken to Dorchester at the same time. Struck by Lightning. During the heavy thunder squall about midday of Friday the office of Messrs. Geo. Burdell & Sons and of Messrs. Sargent Brothers were struck by lightning. The electricity was probably conducted into the office by the telephone wires. Those in the Burdell building sustained a slight shock. The shock was heavier in the Sargent building where a book was knocked out of Mr. John Brown's hand while he was using it. All the ink books were badly soiled and not without a reason. One corner of the store was scorched by the electric fluid.

CASTORIA. —Monday was a fine day, cold, almost frost in the early morning.

day, and that was all the protection the fish had in those days.

The next overman was Jeremiah O'Sullivan. All I can say about him is he couldn't paddle a canoe over the river nor couldn't get along shore very well, so we can imagine how well the fish was protected during his term of office.

The next overman and guardian was John A'Hearn, a good officer, but being in poor health he was unable to do his duty as he would wish. He would seize nets from poachers one week and the next week would sell them back to the ones he took them from, which was certainly wrong. But the overman was ordered to do so by the department. Nevertheless the fish were very well protected during his term of office.

Other officers could mention but their services were of little value so I will pass them over until the appointment of John Hogan another good officer, but who didn't want to give anyone any credit but himself for seizures. I have known him to canoe up the northwest river and get a lot of nets that his guardian had seized, take them to Newcastle, haul them round town and get the credit for seizing them himself, and yet in spite of these occasional seizures by the wardens the fish were but poorly protected.

The next overman was Patrick Hogan, a good officer, who I may say gave the only real protection we ever had on the river during his term of office, excepting this summer, and no blame to Hogan for that because he had no help and it is impossible for one man to protect the fish on this river. He was the right man in the right place. I mean if you want the fish protected you want the overman or at least Beilank, so he can have his guardians under his eyes. About every second day Pat would make his rounds and see his guardians were doing their duty, in fact he was seen too often by some parties to suit them.

I have been living on this river fifty years and have fished here or more 35 years and caught salmon when ever I could, both fall and spring, and I must say all the protection that ever we had on this river was the last seven years. Although the salmon were scarce this summer it was not due to fault of protection, as I have known salmon to be as scarce twelve years ago.

Now Hogan has been dismissed for political reasons and John Keys has been appointed in his place and time will tell how the duties of the office will be performed in the protection of the fish against poachers.

UNITED STATES AND SPAIN.

THE INSTRUCTIONS OF GENERAL STEWART.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Daily Graphic publishes the detailed despatch from Berlin: "Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, the newly appointed minister to Spain from the United States, has been instructed by President McKinley to ascertain the limit of neutrality of the European powers in the event that the United States should decide on an offensive policy against Spain, and he has been in communication with the various ambassadors on the subject. Col. John Hay, the American ambassador to Great Britain, has received encouragement from Lord Salisbury, Mr. Hanot, the French foreign minister, has emphatically refused to discuss the matter with Gen. Woodford, the American ambassador to France, and for some days avoided granting an audience to General Woodford. As a last resource, General Woodford and General Porter telegraphed for Mr. White, who has joined them. Mr. White, who is the clearest American diplomat in Europe, knows better than anyone in President McKinley's cabinet the fullness of the step now being taken. He has avoided even mentioning it to the German government and went to Paris resolved to do all in his power to dissuade General Woodford and General Porter from any course but one of moderation toward Spain."

Mr. Calderon Carille, of Washington, counselor to the Spanish legation in the United States, has arrived here. In the course of an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press, Mr. Carille said he went to Spain to pay a visit to relatives, but while there he had an audience of the Queen Regent, and he discussed with the late Senor Canovas del Castillo, the premier, and other high officials of the Spanish government, various aspects of the Cuban question, explaining to Senor Canovas the details of some of the principal filibustering expeditions from the United States to Cuba, and giving his views as to the legal aspects of the filibustering claims which he had investigated since the war broke out in Cuba. Spain, he said, intended to press her claims to compensation for filibustering, and these claims would over balance the American claims for damages to the property of citizens of the United States in the island. "My last interview with the late Senor Canovas," said Mr. Carille, "was during the week before he was assassinated, and at the hotel which was the scene of the tragedy. He requested me to call. While I was waiting in the office of the hotel Senor Canovas entered the room and was immediately surrounded by half a dozen gentlemen, and when he stood talking on Cuban matters. I inquired as to who the gentlemen were and was told they were newspaper correspondents. This scene was entirely informal, quite American in fact. One could easily see how a man so approachable as Senor Canovas could be assassinated without much difficulty. I was told he always received newspaper correspondents freely and talked with them frankly. Senor Canovas appeared to be in excellent health and spirits, though of course he was no longer a young man. He told me that he was satisfied that the progress of the war in Cuba this summer had been all that could be expected in the wet season, and he believed the conditions would be much better in the autumn. He spoke feelingly of the suffering in Cuba, which he considered and described as unavoidably incidental to a state of war, and he expressed the warmest hope that the necessity for suffering would soon cease. The condition of public sentiment in the United States was a matter to which he made particular inquiry. I assured him that the country was not so partial to the insurgent movement as might be inferred from some of the newspapers and from the reports of congressional debates."

Mr. Carille believes the effect of the assassination of Canovas will be to unite more closely the various sections of the conservative party in Spain. He said: "I can speak not only for the court circle but also for people of the provinces where the Carlists are reputed to be strongest, and I can say that I saw no signs of preparations for a Carlist rising or anything to corroborate reports circulated in the United States to the effect that the Spanish people are so dissatisfied with the government as to be easily incited to overthrow."

CUBAN WAR SUPPLIES.

SEVERAL EXPEDITIONS SUCCESSFULLY CLEAR FROM THE NEW JERSEY COAST.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., August 20.—It has just been discovered that a band of Cuban patriots in the city have been regularly sending provisions and munitions of war to their brethren who are fighting for the freedom of their native land. No less than five expeditions have left here since April under the very eyes of Spanish agents. Pinkerton detectives and others who have been on the watch. The large cargo was shipped yesterday. About high water several long packets left the dock, ostensibly on a fishing expedition. Each boat had on board several barrels of Chesapeake herring, but beneath the seaweed was hidden an enormous amount of ammunition. The contraband articles consisted of 50,000 cartridges for small arms, a dozen rapid-fire guns. These articles were taken to a steamer that was anchored some eight or nine miles off shore. As soon as the goods were placed aboard the steamer she got under weigh for southern waters. Last Thursday another lot of ammunition was gotten off during a heavy northeast gale. The Spanish officials had been on the watch but they relaxed their vigilance for the day, thinking no boat would attempt to go out in the heavy sea, and that was their mistake.

It is not known exactly how the stuff was gotten to this city, but it is supposed that a large quantity of ammunition is stored in a secret hiding place somewhere about town. The people who are interested in getting the stuff aboard the steamer had several narrow escapes from detection. Several of the boats were stopped and their captains questioned but they were always able to give an explanation which, if not exactly satisfactory to their questioners, at least gave them no excuse to search the boats. The self-styled fishermen gave different points along the coast as the place where the stuff was landed, and the usual number of packages in the boat by saying that they expected to be joined by other persons.

The amount of ammunition shipped from here during the past four months is said to be enormous. Hundreds of thousands of cartridges and dozens of rapid fire and dynamite guns of the latest pattern had been gotten off. The Spanish authorities have suspected that such a state of affairs existed, but they were unable to locate the goods or to detect anyone in the act of taking them to sea. It is stated by a sympathizer of the Cuban cause that all the dynamite used by the insurgents during the recent attack on the city of Havana was shipped from this city. Agents of the Cuban Junta are located here and are in close communication with the leaders of the cause of Cuba libre. Inlet captains are anxiously waiting for further developments.

STARVATION AND DEATH

VANCOUVER, August 20.—Most disquieting accounts continue to reach this city from Dyea and other points on route to the Yukon. The more prudent, old timers express grave concern in turning back in large numbers, after selling their outfit at the best price obtainable, and determining to winter at Juneau or some more southern port on the North Pacific, where food supplies are obtainable at less than famine prices. Not one man in ten of those en route for the Klondike can be freely assured, get in before winter, and those who do will run large chances of starvation. There is already a big block of men and goods on the passes beyond Dyea, and by the river Yaden route the two steamers are only able to get in, are ice close navigation for a long and hard winter, less than a tithe of the commodities offered for transport by hundreds of Argonauts. Tenderfoot, almost wholly unprovided with supplies, are seeking to make their way in by the mountain passes, and the rear of the advancing host are gamblers, counterfeit note passers and rascals of many kinds, who have, in quest of plunder, left their dens in the big cities of the Pacific States.

It is almost impossible to exaggerate the danger of the situation for most of those now seeking entrance to the Yukon ere winter, and it cannot be too strongly impressed on all would-be Yukon gold seekers that they had better far wait till spring improve the facilities of access to a most difficult country. In all probability hundreds will lose their lives this autumn vainly seeking to get into the Yukon. Really no time will be lost by waiting till spring, as those now entering the fall North will, as a rule, have to wait by the way, liable to cold and famine camped amidst the mountain snows.

Disease Conquered.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS GAIN AS OTHER GREAT VICTORY.

A Reporter's Searching Investigation as to a Case at Orangeville.—The Claims Made on Behalf of this Medicine Fully Borne Out.—The Greatest Healing Medicine of the Age.

From the Orangeville Sun.

In a cosy little house in Margaret street, in this town, lives Mr. John Garrity, his wife and family. They are indeed a happy family, although a few years ago a sadder household would be hard to find. Their happiness was not occasioned by the sudden obtaining of a fortune, but by something much more precious—the restoration to health of a wife and mother when everyone whispered that she must die. Our reporter heard of Mrs. Garrity's illness and cure, and for the benefit of our readers investigated the case; what he learned is well worth repeating. A few years ago Mr. Garrity kept a well known hotel at Cheltenham and was known far and wide for his kindness and hospitality; his wife, too, was noted for her amiability. However, she was stricken with a peculiar sickness, her health failed rapidly and her weight became reduced to ninety-five pounds. Fainting spells became frequent, and a continual pain in the back of her head almost drove her frantic. Physicians were in attendance, but the doctors all said there was no hope. Mrs. Garrity saw death staring her in the face, and the thought of leaving her little children caused her much sadness. She was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but thought they could not possibly do any good when physicians had failed to allay her sufferings. Hoping, however, against hope, she procured a supply, and wonderful to relate she had not been taking Pink Pills long when the dreadful symptoms of her illness began to pass away, and to-day she is the picture of health. A few months ago Mr. Garrity and family removed to Orangeville, and in conversation with our representative Mrs. Garrity said:—"I cannot

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

In the rush to the Klondike there is criminal recklessness on the part of shipowners in the way of overcrowding and scant accommodation, on the part of the authorities in letting men recklessly go to their doom without adequate warning, and on the part of gold seekers themselves in crowding into the country insufficiently provided with the necessities of existence.

In another six months the world will be in sorrow reading of disaster by sea and starvation by land in the cold regions of the North, and friends and relatives of shipwrecked ones will be regretting with agonized hearts that they allowed those near and dear to depart on a hopeless voyage.

Steamers have returned from Dyea to this port. Their captains state that misery among the over-crowded fanatics has already commenced. Diligently feared and weekly store clerks are there with a few dollars in their pockets, no clothing but what they have on their backs, and weak already from arduous travel; while elderly men, past prime of life, with little capital are roaming around Dyea with no definite object in view and unable to know what to put their hand to.

Many steamers crowded beyond their capacity five times over have had to put into British Columbia ports after thirty-six hours' sail from Seattle for provisions and sleep. At this rate of sailing they would not get into Dyea for six weeks, and during that time the suffering of those on board would be terrible. Two unseaworthy tugs were loaded with 100 tons, and in their port heavy condition would topple over at the first heavy wave.

The rush to Klondike cannot be too strongly deprecated in the interests of humanity. One diggings has been discovered. If more are not discovered, the suffering will be appalling.—Star.

A WARM WELCOME.

IRELAND PROVING HER NOTED HOSPITALITY TO ROYALTY.

DUBLIN, August 20.—The popular enthusiasm over the visit of the Duke and Duchess of York to Ireland is unabated. Their Royal Highnesses were again the recipients of warm ovations at the opening of the exhibition of Irish textile industries, and during their visit to the horticultural show. The procession through the main streets of Dublin was heartily cheered. To-day there will be an investiture of the order of St. Patrick in St. Patrick's Hall. It will take place in full state and will be attended with all the pomp and circumstance appropriate to the occasion. The Duke and Duchess will be present at Leopardstown races: a day will be occupied in an excursion to Powerscourt, there will be dinners every night at the vice-regal lodge, and their Royal Highnesses have accepted the invitation of Lord and Lady Roberts to attend a ball at the Royal Hospital. A garden party will be given at the vice-regal, to which upwards of 3000 invitations have been issued.

FOR MAYOR, JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

John L. Sullivan will run as an independent candidate for Mayor of Boston this fall, with the avowed intention of defeating Mayor Josiah Quincy, who will be the regular Democratic candidate for re-election.

When Mayor Quincy refused to shake hands with John L. Sullivan, a native of Boston, at Herman Ten Ryck's reception "Lancet" Hall, he committed what may prove to be a fatal political mistake. Sullivan was dumfounded.

According to one of the mayor's official organs the big fighter was easily the idol of the occasion. The crowd cheered and cheered him. Ten Ryck was almost smothered at the sight gradually changed to anger; anger has become vindictiveness. At first, after talking the matter over, he was inclined to content himself with supporting another candidate like Mr. Gardner or Judge Blacker. Now he has crossed the Rubicon and put his foot through the bridge timbers. John L. will ask the support of his fellow citizens at the polls. At one time he could have gone to Congress, but he declined. Then his professional duties were in the way. Now he feels that he can spare the time to serve his townsmen.

NEWS NOTES.

A madman struck the chalice from the hands of the priest celebrating mass in the Sacre Cour at Montmartre, at the moment of the elevation of the host, shattering it on the floor. The priest, who was an old man, struck out from the altar and hit the man between the eyes, knocking him senseless to the bottom of the steps, where he was captured.

It seems that the old system of bleeding patients may be revived in certain cases to advantage. A man who had been poisoned with lead, and who was practically dead, had life and strength brought back to him by removing the poisoned blood and replacing it with the constituent parts of blood, letting nature do the rest. This was successfully accomplished in a Philadelphia hospital recently.

About a week ago, Helen Hartman, a thirteen-year-old girl living in West Philadelphia, felt a sharp pain in one of her ears. The pain subsided, but the girl gradually became deaf, and was taken to the Presbyterian hospital. The physicians extracted a mosquito. The insect was alive and vigorous. Its removal gave the child instant relief and restored her hearing.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—The shipment of two hundred and fifty-six Massey-Harris bicycles was made this morning to Australia. They were valued at thirty-one thousand dollars.

GOLD EVERYWHERE.

It is gold, gold everywhere—in fact there is great danger of gold becoming frightfully common and cheap. Word comes from Winnipeg that the streets of that city are being literally paved with gold. Mining experts say that the macadam being put on the Winnipeg streets from the quarry at Kewadin is valuable gold-bearing quartz. Samples are being assayed, while parties have gone out to inspect the quarry and the locality round about. It is hardly to be wondered at that our American neighbors would like to own Canada.—Chronicle.

Miscellaneous.

SHE DIDN'T FEEL COMFORTABLE.

A Glasgow lady in a hurry to go to church took from her dark closet what she thought to be her dorian.

She hung the garment over her arm, and did not discover until she had thrown it over the back of the pew in front of her in church that she had brought, by mistake a pair of her husband's trousers.

She and her lady companion laughed so loud that they attracted the attention of the entire congregation, and no one except themselves understood the cause of the fresh burst of enthusiasm when the choir led off with "As Pants the Hart."

THE OLD HOME.

'You've got your new house most done, haven't you, John?' said Marthy Mills to her brother as they sat together in the twilight.

'Yes, Marthy, I guess we shall be in it—well, perhaps by Thanksgiving.'

Marthy made no reply. Her head drooped over her knitting. Presently she got up and poked the fire, keeping fast hold of the big black cat that lay purring in her lap, then resumed her work, which she did mechanically, not requiring much light save when she dropped a stitch.

'You old plug,' said the farmer to his bawky horse, 'you actually ain't worth killin'—unless,' he added, after second thought, 'unless I could manage to get you killed by the railroad.'

'What put that idea into your head, Marthy?'

'I don't know anything about that, but the idea came near two months ago, and it has come to seem, though, for I can't get rid of it.'

'Well, now,' said John Mills, setting himself down more firmly into his chair, 'I'll tell you just how it is. You'll allow that I've been a widower a good respectable length of time. Fourteen years ago Sally went away and left me. I'd set a good deal of store by Sally, and she was one of the best wives to me for ten years. But I ain't so very old, Marthy—only 52.'

'Well, go on, John, for mercy's sake. You needn't stop to tell me your age; I knew it before you did. She must be a proud critter if this house ain't good enough for her. I was looking at it this afternoon, as I came along up the road from Maria Saunders' and thinking how kind of picturesque it was, with the setting sun shining on the big chimneys, and long, slanting roof all covered with woodbine. And then the old trees in the orchard, all red with fruit, and the nice, ample barn and the cornfield behind. I tell you, it's enough to make a fellow's heart beat.
