Canadian Barley in the States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—In the Senate a communication from the Oswego Board of Trade contradicting a statement of the Secretary of Agriculture on the subject of the production of barley was presented by Mr. Evarts, and 500 copies were ordered printed for immediate distribution. Mr. Risk's statement was that barley was the only cereal of which there is not raised a sufficiency for home consumption. The denial is to the effect that the annual product of the United States is about 60,000,000 bushels, and that the quantity used last year for malting purposes was less than 45,000,000. Ten million bushels had been imported from Canada, the quality being superior for malting purposes to that of the United States barley.

The Pistol

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 4.—At 1:30 this morning Joseph F. Young, of Philadelphia, shot his wife at the Minnequa Hotel. He then placed the revolver to his own head and fired, but the wound is only slight. Jealousy was the cause.

A Babe Murdered by Its Mother.

The woman confessed the crime. The two drove to the bank of the river, Monday night, and while Kimmerly sat in the buggy she got out and threw the baby in the river. The man was a roustabout around livery stables and bore an unsavory reputation. He has a wife.

"Death to Yankees."

The O'Shea-Parnell Divorce Suit.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—All sorts of rumors are current with regard to the probable action of Mrs. O'Shea in the suit for divorce now pending, in which Parnell is named as co-respondent. She has brought a counter-charge against her husband on similar grounds and has also charged him with cruelty. Right Hon. Sir James Hannen, president of the Divorce Court, recently decided that Mrs. O'Shea had not made a proper answer, nor disclosed the necessary documents, and gave her fourteen days in which to comply with the court's orders. She has again failed to do this, and last week she was notified that an attachment for her committal would be applied for unless particulars were promptly supplied. Her solicitors are now hurrying up the matter in consequence of this threat.

A Wail from Hartington.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—At a Unionist demonstration at York yesterday, Lord Hartington warned the Gladstonians that contempt for or miscalculation of the strength of the Unionist party was likely to lead to disaster. It could not be denied that the success of the Parnellite tactics rendered Parliament impotent and made the Irish party more formidable than it had ever been in the days of O'Connell or of Mitchell and Smith either. This success, he was convinced, had been the chief factor in the conversion of Morley, Treleaven and a majority of the Liberals to home rule. They did not think that Ireland with home rule would be better governed, but believed that it was useless longer to contend against the insidious poison that was sapping the life of parliamentary government. He, however, was of the opinion that they ought not to succumb, but show fight to the last, as their predecessors had done, and he believed that public opinion would support the Unionists in so resisting.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS.

Investigating the N. Y. Central Trouble —The Australian Dockmen's Dispute —Other Labor Difficulties.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Before the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration General Manager Toucey testified that he had an interview with Lee some time ago, in the course of which Lee alluded to the watering of the company's stock, intimating that someone was making a good deal of money, and that he and the other men ought to have some of it. In reply to a question by Mr. Pryor, witness said he did not discharge Lee. Before the talk about stock-watering, Lee made certain demands on behalf of some of the men, and they were refused.

Supt. Voorhees testified that he had nothing to do with the discharge of any of the 78 men.

Master Mechanic Buchanan testified that in discharging Lee he did so by order of Vice-President Webb had no personal knowledge of the cause. Of the 78 men discharged he knew the causes for discharge in the cases of two only. Malloy for obtaining a pass under false pretenses, and Conway for neglect of duty.

Trainmaster J. W. Stevens testified he had never told any employe of the company that he must either leave the Knights of Labor or leave the road.

The Gas Workers' and Sailors' Unions have decided to raise £1,000 each for the strikers.

The total loss is estimated at $30,000. Mr. Duplessis, tanner, loses about $12,000 on stock; no insurance. The building belonged to Mrs. Wm. Carrier, and was worth about $15,000; insured for $7,000. THE LABOR CONGRESS.

Interesting Discussion on the Cigar License Fee.

Chinese Labor—Minister Thompson and the Combines Act.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—At the second day's proceedings of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress half a hundred motions were submitted, touching all sorts of questions affecting workingmen and public policy. These were referred to the Committee on Standing Orders for report. That committee reported on the President's address favorably, and recommended that a representative be delegated to attend the next session of Parliament.

A letter from the Victoria, B. C., Trades Assembly called attention to the increase of Chinese immigration during the last year. It protested particularly against this immigration, because of the immorality and the congestion of the labor market that resulted therefrom. It stated that the opium habit was becoming so common in the West among young white men that it was no longer a cause of horror or even wonder. Thousands of youths had become physical and mental wrecks through contamination by the Chinese. As soon as the strike among the Wellington colliers should end, the Victoria Assembly would take the Chinese question up with a view to securing favorable legislation. The feeling among the Victoria organized laboring men is strongly in favor of a restricted immigration. Referring to the strike in progress in the Wellington collieries, the communication says:

The future of organized labor in this Province depends to a great extend upon the success or failure of this strike. Should the mine owners, who represent a capital approximating $20,000,000 win, it is feared that other corporations will inaugurate a similar war against the rights of the people. The winter is near at hand and it is feared that the assistance now received from assessments may be insufficient to supply their wants. Should the worst come, it is hoped that the different unions throughout the Dominion may see their way to making small contributions on behalf of the striking miners.

Mr. Lafranc moved that this congress petition the Dominion Government to have the license fee for cigarmaking reduced from $75 to $6, and also to have no stipulated quantity for the production of 1,000 cigars.

Mr. Jobin, of Quebec, opposed the motion, as it was in the interest of one or two men only, and because it proposed a reduction of taxes on an article of luxury. If a number of individuals started factories they would bring in the labor of wives and children and practically introduce the sweating system.

Mr. Geo. F. Warren, of Montreal, supported the resolution as one in the interest of the cigarmakers. They had, he said, cigarmakers in Montreal to-day earning $4 a week, who formerly earned $15 or $18 a week. Quebec cigar manufacturers sent drummers to Ontario to undersell the Ontario cigar men, and made the Quebec cigarmakers contribute to their ability to do this.

Mr. Worr, of Toronto, went in for patronizing the blue label cigar as the best solution of the question.

Mr. Darlington, Montreal, said the Quebec Factory Act was now so badly enforced that children as young as 9 years could be found in a dozen factories, and how, he asked, could they enforce the act against the 100 tenament-house factories which would spring up under a $6 license fee?

Mr. Jury, as a single tax man, took issue with Mr. Darlington and proceeded to say that the resolution involved an important question, the principle of the abolition of all taxes on industry—a principle he firmly believed in. He did not believe, however, that a blue union label cigar would sell any better because it came from a private union establishment than if it came from a large union factory. The whole matter rested with the workingmen. Toronto workingmen and many others smoked nothing but union cigars.

Mr. Beales inquired if this change would weaken the position of organized labor in Ontario, and was told it would not.

Mr. Malhit, of Montreal, opposed the system of small bosses. Finally the motion was referred to a special committee to report on.

The report of the Audic Committee stated that the number of organizations supporting the congress had increased over 100 per cent.

A resolution from the Quebec and Levis Trades and Labor Council demanding of the Provincial Legislature of Quebec the repeal of the Masters' and Servants' Act of 1881 went over.

Mr. McDonald, of Cornwall, gave notice of a motion asking of the Ontario Government that the present grant to public schools be doubled, and that the municipal grant equal the Government grant; that school sections be as equally divided as possible and a uniform rate levied for school purposes, and that the funds be equally divided among the school sections regardless of the number of school children or attendance.

Mr. Beland, M.P.P., of Quebec, moved, seconded by Mr. Darlington, of Montreal, "that this congress hereby demand that the Dominion Government do as soon as possible make it a criminal offense to establish or retain private detective agencies in this country." After some discussion the word "Government" in the motion was sustained by 39 to 29, and the main motion as originally drawn carried unanimously.

Mr. Baker moved that they request the Minister of Railways to increase the wages of laborers and carpenters on the Intercolonial Railway. Carried.

A committee waited on the Minister of Justice, and stated the case now in the Quebec Court of Queen's Bench, in which four Montreal printers were arrested and committed for trial on a charge of conspiracy. The printers were a picket on the Herald office during the recent strike, and were arrested on the evidence of a private detective who passed himself off for a printer. The men were engaged trying to induce new printers brought to the office by the Herald to leave or not go to work. It was pointed out that if section 22 of the Trades Union Act had not been repealed by the Combines Act of 1888 the printers could not have been indicted. It was stated that Sir John Thompson promised some time ago to defend any union men indicted by reason of the repeal of this clause.

The Minister promised to procure a copy of the papers in the case, and if he found that the Combines Act was responsible for the arrests and the men were convicted he would appeal the case to the highest court.

Among the resolutions to come before the congress are the following:

Protesting against the increased Dominion appropriation for immigration and importation of paupers and diseased children.

Drawing attention to the defects of the Anti-Combines Act as it affects trades unions.

For a board of compulsory arbitration.

The taxation of public lands, university grants and free school books.

Payment of wages weekly and in cash.

Demanding eight hours a day on all Government works.

Asking for an extension of the Factory Act and the appointment of additional inspectors, including female inspectors.

For an increase in the import duty on cigars

The firm of Hoxie & Mellor, one of the most extensive lumber firms in Wisconsin, doing business in Antigo and other localities, failed Wednesday. The assets are said to $600,000; the liabilities about $518,000.

As Rev. S. F. Dephew was driving along Weller's Beach, near Consecon, Ont., he discovered the body of a boy about 12 to 14 years of age, washed ashore and not long dead. It was clothed in a grey coat and knickerbockers, without shoes or stockings.

Prince Bismarck in receiving a deputation of Kissingen students said instruments for making warfare were being made more and more murderous. No indemnity could compensate for the misery and expense caused by the new methods of warfare. Therefore, happily, every one thought well before beginning a war.

Chairman Davis Talks About the Commissioners' Row With the Council.

"What row is this which the Water Commissioners are raising with the City Council over funds?" asked an ADVERTISER representative who was detailed to see Chairman George C. Davis on the subject.

"We are not raising a row," he remarked.

"Well, why does the difference exist between Mayor Taylor, as their representative, and Commissioner Essery and yourself as commissioners?"

"Briefly the position is this. At the last session of the Ontario Legislature an act was passed authorizing the issuing of $130,000 of waterworks debentures. The money obtained from the sale of these debentures, the act states, is to be applied for the extension of the mains in the city proper, and in the recently acquired territory of London South, and the procuring of new springs, and that the residue of money remaining is to be given over to the City Council. I may further mention that the same act which gave the power to issue these debentures also imposed certain duties upon us as water commissioners. We are thus by law compelled to lay mains in London South. Now the City Council had a bylaw prepared in accordance with the provisions of the above act, it was read a first, second and third time and signed by the Mayor. At a subsequent meeting of the Council a bylaw was introduced repealing the former one and substituting $70,000 in lieu of the $130,000. Thus the matter stands at present."

"How does the Council justify their action?"

"On this ground: That the Water Commissioners in 1889 asked for $70,000."

"Why will that amount not suffice?"

"It may not because the act which was passed subsequently imposed additional work on us, made it compulsory; and we are also contemplating the purchase of springs other than those included in the estimate of 1889; and in addition to this the work is of a more difficult character than was anticipated. All the land is to be procured by arbitration, and we shall do the work as economically as is consistent with efficiency. Bear this in mind that the money must be provided for us to finish our task, and if the $70,000 is insufficient we shall be compelled to take our revenue for the purpose. I think it would have been decidedly better if the Council had not rescinded the bylaw which was framed strictly in accordance with the act. We would have been responsible for every dollar expended by us, and the Council could do what they chose with the balance after accepting responsibility for the same."

"What about owing the Council $60,000."

"After paying the expenses of the department all the surplus revenue is handed over to the Council. Within the past five years commissioners have expended this amount on capital account, main extension, etc., hence the city had this amount less revenue. But this was provided for in the taxes of each respective year, so that, in reality, the citizens have paid this so-called indebtedness. I remember that it was proposed some years ago to issue debentures to raise money to defray all expenditure on capital account, then the entire revenue after paying running expenses would be handed over to the Council, affecting a reduction of taxation, as the debentures would not mature for twenty years. The payment would extend over a greater period, consequently the amount to be raised annually would be smaller. This was not done at that time so the act of 1890 is to a certain extent intended to be retroactive in that we are to pay over to the Council the balance remaining of the $130,000, after making all required extensions. In future years, at least for some years to come, little or nothing will have to be expended on capital account, so that the Council will have all the revenue after paying ordinary expenses."

THE MAIL CAMPAIGN.

A Struggle to Obtain Justice for London and How It Triumphed.

Correspondence Regarding the British Mails To and From this City.

The following report and correspondence, laid before the London Board of Trade at its last meeting, will no doubt prove interesting to many ADVERTISER readers:

Report by Railway and Postal Committee.

This city having been at last placed on the list of exchange offices for British mails, your committee beg to submit their report with reference to this matter. The question of improved postal facilities with Great Britain has been discussed by the members of this Board very frequently, and for upwards of three years efforts have been made in various ways to secure direct mails to and from London, thus avoiding the vaxatious delays at Hamilton under the old system.

Repeated applications were made to the authorities at Ottawa through the Hon. John Carling, the member for the city, and on July 18, 1887, that gentleman notified the Board that the British Postoffice Department had "declined to accede to the request made by the Board of Trade of London, to transmit separate mail bags for that city when forwarding the Canadian mails from England." He also inclosed a letter from the Deputy Postmaster-General confirming this statement, and adding that in order to meet the case as far as was deemed possible, the Imperial Postoffice had undertaken to have the London, Ont., correspondence tied up in separate bundles before being inclosed in the mail for Hamilton, in order thus to lessen the chance of any delay at the latter point. Your committee were not aware whether this course was adopted or not, but certainly there was no improvement in the British mail service, and after very full inquiries from various sources it was decided to ask the assistance of the merchants of Great Britain, who were interested in the trade of this city. Early in May of this year a circular was prepared, fully stating the case, and copies were sent to the Chambers of Commerce at Bradford, Bristol, Birmingham, Dundee, Glasgow, London, Liverpool, Leicester, Leeds, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Nottingham, Sheffield, Swansea, Wolverhampton.

A copy of the circular attached, marked "B," was sent to the various secretaries of the above chambers, and the merchants and manufacturers of the city sent copies of circulars marked "A" and "C" to some 400 of their correspondents in Great Britain, the following are the merchants and manufacturers referred to:

Edward Adams & Co., John Marshall & Co., John Birrell & Co., Pigot & Bryan, Bowman, Kennedy & Co., D. S. Perrin & Co., Burns & Lewis, Reid Bros. & Co., Jas. Cowan & Co., Robinson, Little & Co., John Green & Co., W. J. Reid & Co., Hobbs Hardware Company, James Slater, James A. Kennedy & Co., Smallman & Ingram, T. F. Kingsmill, Struthers, Anderson & Co., T. Herbert Marsh, A. M. Smith & Co., McClary Manufacturing Company, Jas. Wright & Co., R. C. Macfie & Co., M. Masuret & Co.

A communication was also sent to Mr. Henniker Heaton, a member of the British House of Commons, who takes a great interest in postal matters, asking his cooperation. He at once questioned the Postmaster-General in the House of Commons, and sent us his reply, and also kindly advised us as to the further steps we should take. Nearly, if not all, the above Chambers of Commerce and the merchants who were applied to took action, and the Chambers of Commerce memorialized the British Postmaster-General, urging him to accede to our request. In his reply he stated that in the absence of further representations from the Dominion Postoffice, it had been supposed that the course adopted in 1887 met all the requirements of the case, and that his department would have no objection whatever to receive direct mails from London, Canada, if the Canadian Postoffice deemed it expedient to send them. On receipt of this information, your committee communicated with the Hon. J. G. Haggart, Postmaster-General, who had already been informed of the action taken in Great Britain, and asked him to cause instructions to be issued to have direct mails sent from London as soon as possible and to make an official application to the British authorities for exchange facilities for London. An interview was arranged with the Hon. John Carling, who happened to be in the city at that time, and your committee laid the case before him. He very cordially promised his assistance and asked that a full statement be sent to him in writing. In a short time your committee were notified that the Postmaster-General had decided to comply with their request, and that arrangements had been made for a direct mail from this city. The British Chambers of Commerce were then advised of this action and informed that nothing more could be done from this end. It only remained for the British authorities to do their part and London would enjoy satisfactory postal facilities with Great Britain. A communication ws also sent to Sir Charles Tupper, giving him full particulars of what had been done, and asking him to urge our case before the British Postoffice authorities. In conclusion, your committee are pleased to be able to state that the whole matter has now been satisfactorily arranged, the first direct mail from Great Britain having been received in the London office on Saturday last, and a very great saving in time must be apparent to all interested. All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. MASURET, Chairman.

Circular to British Chambers of Commerce—"A."

The Board of Trade of the City of London, Canada, begs most respectfully to solicit your co-operation in endeavoring to effect an improvement in the mail service between Great Britain and Western Ontario. The practice which now obtains is that British mail matter is collected at certain points, where it is assorted and special bags made up for some twelve cities in Canada, which are called "Exchange Offices." These cities are supposed to be the most important of their districts and conveniently situated for purposes of distribution. Every city of any importance in Canada except London is now an exchange office, the mails for London and district being sent to Hamilton and there assorted and forwarded, thus causing a delay of from 12 to 24 hours. This system reversed applies to the outgoing mails, which close here about twelve hours earlier than would be necessary were London made an exchange office.

London is the largest city in Western Ontario, and is situated in the midst of the most populous and thickly settled district in Canada. It is particularly well adapted for a distributing center, having unsurpassed railway facilities, more regular passenger trains departing from here daily than from any other city in the Dominion, with the exception of Montreal; and when the new line to Detroit, now almost completed, is opened the number will be largely increased. A large import and export business is transacted, this city being the headquarters of the cheese and dairy interests; an extensive export trade is done in horses, cattle and other live stock, and a variety of manufactured goods and agricultural products.

Application was made to the Canadian Postoffice Department to have the difficulty remedied and a favorable reply received, but the authorities at the British General Postoffice did not wish to increase the number of exchange offices, as it would entail more trouble on them in handling the mails. It might be out of place for this Board to apply directly to the Postoffice Department in London, Eng., but a request from some of the Chambers of Commerce in Great Britain would no doubt settle the matter. This Board therefore respectfully requests that you will, by a representation of the case to the Honorable the Postmaster-General, or by such other action as you may see fit, endeavor to have our city placed upon the list of "exchange offices" in Canada. The aid of the Chambers of Commerce in some of the other large cities has been asked, and if this difficulty can be satisfactorily arranged, the trade your city is now doing with us will be much facilitated, and possibly may be considerably increased. The Board trusts that their proposal may receive your favorable consideration, and that with your kind assistance the matter may be speedily settled. Signed on behalf of the Board of Trade.

J. A. NELLES, Secretary. T. HERBERT MARSH, President.

Other Facts Submitted—"B."

Secretary Nelles also sent the following letter to the secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce: I have been instructed by this Board to ask you to bring the question of increased postal facilities between Great Britain and this city before the Executive of your Chamber. The matter is most important in the interest of trade, and London is certainly entitled to be placed on a par with the other cities of Canada, as in comparision with the cities on the present list of "Exchange Offices" she should stand sixth in point of gross postal revenue, and eighth in value of imports; she would stand much higher as to the latter but for the fact that being an inland city many of the goods imported for distribution here, are entered for duty at the points where the goods are landed from the ships.

Sent to Business Firms in Britain—"C."

Herewith please find copy of a memorandum sent by our Board of Trade to the Chamber of Commerce of your city, asking for their co-operation in order to improve our postal facilities with Great Britain. The present arrangement is a serious drawback to business and places London at a great disadvantage. You will observe from the inclosed memorandum that your Chamber of Commerce has been asked to petition the authorities at the General Postoffice with reference to the subject. If you will kindly do what you can to have the matter attended to you will very greatly oblige.

Reply by the British Postmaster-General—"D."

With reference to your letter of the 5th inst., supporting a proposal to establish direct mails between this country and London (Ontario), in the Dominion of Canada, I am directed by the Postmaster-General to acquaint you that a representation on this subject was made to this department by the Canadian Postoffice in 1887, when, although separate mails for London (Ontario) were not established, owing to the pressure of work already thrown on this office by the large number of separate mails made up for Canada, an arrangement was made to separate the correspondence of London in such a manner as to admit of its prompt onward transmission from the Hamilton Postoffice, the exchange office to which it is sent. In the absence of any further representations from the Dominion Postoffice it has been supposed to this day that the course promptly adopted by this department met all the requirements of the case.

As regards the statement made in a printed memorandum which is now being circulated in this country by the London (Ontario) Board of Trade to the effect that correspondence from London and other parts of Western Ontario for this country could be posted twelve hours later if direct mails from that city were established, I am to state that this department would have no objection watever to receive such mails if the Canadian Postoffice deemed it expedient to send them. I am your obedient servant.

(Signed.) EDWARD H. REA,
The Secretary Liverpool Chamber of Commerce.

In the British Commons.

On June 16 Mr. Henniker Heaton asked the Postmaster-General whether his attention had been called to the non-inclusion of London, the largest city in Western Ontario, in the list of "Exchange Offices" or postal distributing centers in Canada; whether he is aware that the city of London has unsurpassed railway facilities and is the headquarters of the cheese and dairy interests; whether the mails for London and the densely-populated district of which it is the center are now made up at Hamilton, a delay of from twelve to fourteen hours being thus occasioned; whether every city of any importance in Canada, except London, is now an exchange office; whether the Canadian Postoffice is willing to make London an exchange office and the sole objection has been raised by the British General Postoffice, which does not wish to increase the number of exchange offices, as it would entail more trouble in handling the mails; and whether he will constitute the said city of London a postal exchange office in accordance with the universal desire of the merchants and other inhabitants of the city and district.

The Postmaster-General replied: My attention has been drawn to a printed paper lately circulated in this country by the London (Ont.) Board of Trade, from which the honorable member's details in regard to cheese and other matters have probably been taken. Arrangements were made by this department in 1887 with the Canadian Postoffice with the view of meeting the postal requirements of London, Ont., and the surrounding district, and in the absence of any fresh information from the Dominion Postmaster-General I am not aware whether his present views as to those requirements correspond with those set forth in the printed paper referred to above. The establishment of exchange offices is a matter of mutual arrangement between the two postoffices concerned. If the Canadian Postoffice desire that direct mails should be sent from London, Ont., to England, there will be no objection on the part of this department, but to subdivide the outward mails further without sufficient reasons is undesirable.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT TENDERS.

No. 3 Committee of the City Council meets to-night to consider the electric light tenders, and it may be that it will agree to recommend the purchase of a plant for illuminating the city streets.

There are a number of tenders, and the work of deciding what is best for the interests of the taxpayers will, in the circumstances, be somewhat difficult. What the people have a right to expect of the aldermen is that they shall be guided in this matter by the sole desire to make the best possible arrangement for the city, and as the report of the committee will influence the Council to a considerable extent it is well that they should do nothing that will in any way prejudice the interests of the taxpayers.

It is understood that the Royal Company and the Ball Company, now doing business here, are among the tenderers, and at the meeting to-night the proposals of the Edison Company, which has extensive connections all over the world, will be presented by Mr. P. T. Kenny. It is claimed for the Edison Company that in addition to lighting the streets with great brilliancy by the arc light, it provides with its system an incandescent light of unusual strength. Thus this company is able to furnish not only lights for street illumination, but for business places and private residences.

If the city is to have a plant, it should have one that can be extended, if need be, to meet the wants of every taxpayer.

LOOKING AT IT IN A BUSINESS LIGHT.

The liquor traffic has been sentimentalized so much that it is worth while to look at it from a purely business point of view. The most determined hostility to it just now comes from business corporations, especially railroad companies. It is to the interest of these companies that the risks of railroad traffic and travel should be reduced to the lowest possible point, and no risk can be greater than that of intrusting their business in the hands of drunken engineers and drunken brakemen. Sober men are also more likely than saloon-loungers to be honest, energetic and capable, and as this fact becomes more generally recognized railroad corporations will constitute one of the most effective anti-liquor combinations in the world. Many large manufactories and other business firms are discovering that the temperate man is the only man who can be depended on every day in the week, and the rule of strict sobriety may yet be extended to all departments of the world of labor.

PIG IRON.

A report recently issued by the United States Commissioner of Labor deals with the important question for the cost of making pig iron. The data for his report have been collected from many quarters, chiefly from the United States, but also from Great Britain and the continent of Europe. It is a hard matter to get exact information on such a subject, for the reason that iron masters do not want the world to know their business secrets. They are, no doubt, influenced by the reasonable fear that were the cost of production generally known consumers might refuse to pay prices which in their opinion yield large profits; and in this regard the iron masters are not different from other classes of manufacturers, or even of middlemen. We have in mind a certain popular patent medicine which retails at $1 per bottle, and the statement has been made on good authority that the wholesale agents in Canada refused an offer to supply the principal constituent at a rate of 2 cents per bottle. It would be a hard task, we may readily believe, to persuade the manufacturers of this medicine to give for publication to a Government officer or anybody else the details of cost of production. But in the case of pig iron there are ways of getting at the cost which no iron master can hinder. The quantities of ore, fuel and flux required to produce a ton of pig are easily ascertained; so also is the cost of each, with a near approach to accuracy. Then as to the items of labor, management, repairs, etc., there are means of getting information upon which to base an estimate of cost without having to depend altogether on the good will of the iron master.

The United States commissioner with his long experience in getting hold of particulars has no doubt been able to place the cost very closely; if, indeed, he has not been successful in getting exact details. The figures presented by him show a somewhat wide range, but were they to be accompanied by full explanations it might appear that cost was in a large degree governed by circumstances. At some furnaces in the United States long haulage makes up a considerable part of the cost of raw materials. Neither ore nor fuel can be obtained as cheaply at Cleveland, Ohio, as at Birmingham, Alabama. At Pittsburg, again, coke and anthracite are cheap, and the cost of fuel is still further reduced by the use of natural gas; but ore is dearer than at Cleveland by the difference in the haul between Cleveland or Ashtabula and Pittsburg, and it is much dearer than at Birmingham, where not only ore but coal and lime are found in great abundance within a radius of five miles of the furnaces. We are not surprised, therefore, to find Col. Wright's estimates of cost of production to range in the United States from about $13 50 to $17 50 per ton.

The estimates given for European and English furnaces are considerably lower, the English being the lowest, at figures ranging from $10 to $13 per ton.

In comparing details, it is observed that the chief difference is in the cost of ore, although the cost of labor and management is also less. England herself has extensive beds of iron ore, chiefly a poor quality of clay ironstone; but she does not make the mistake of placing a burden upon the industry, as the United States does, by means of a heavy customs tariff, and her iron masters are therefore enabled to import large quantities and fine qualities of ore from Sweden, Spain, Elba and elsewhere. As a consequence, England leads the world in the production of pig iron and in iron manufactures, and her products are sold in every market of the civilized world.

Here in Canada we are complaining that our great iron deposits are idle, and that in spite of subsidies offered by the Dominion Government no increase appears in the paltry annual make of our few furnaces. Were our Government to adopt the more rational policy of admitting fuel free of duty and of making trade arrangements with our neighbors whereby we might find a market for iron ores, the situation would no doubt speedily change. If we wait until furnaces are built in Canada to smelt our ores we may wait until the present generation of men are dead and rotten; but if by procuring unrestricted trade with the United States we can sell our ores to the iron masters of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Chicago we may in the course of a very few years hope to see the same activity in the iron mines of Eastern and Northwestern Ontario as are now witnessed in the mines of Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, with millions of dollars flowing into our country every year for labor of miners, for ore and for cost of transportation.

Had the States bordering on Lake Superior pursued the policy of smelting their own ores instead of shipping them to the furnaces of Ohio and Pennsylvania, they could not have hoped for the present development of their iron mines for 100 years to come, and they are not so fatuous as to believe that they are throwing away their resources because they find a market for 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 tons of ore at furnaces situated near the source of fuel supply. But they are able to produce charcoal iron in the vicinity of the iron mines because wood for making charcoal is abundant and cheap, and a suitable mixture of ores can be procured from the different mines to make any grade of iron which may be required.

The first need of Ontario is to open up her iron deposits, and this is only practicable under a system of continental markets. Let this boon be obtained and the mining industry will no doubt flourish, after which we may look with confidence for the successful establishment of charcoal furnaces at several available points. And having free trade between the north and the south such a reduction of freights will follow in the wake of return cargoes that we may regard with confidence the erection of blast furnaces for the manufacture of coke and anthracite iron as well as charcoal iron. There is no reason in the world why, with free trade between Canada and the United States, a gigantic iron industry should not spring up on the line of the Welland Canal, especially with the help to development of that industry which an abundant supply of natural gas affords.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—The London Speaker, taking note of recent divorce court proceedings in high life says, that Great Britain may yet have to establish a Reformatory for Noble Scions.

—Women who have their lives insured are taxed $5 additional for each $1,000 of insurance; single women $10 extra on every $1,000. Young women are considered "great risks," but after 50 they are granted the same privilege as men. The extra tax is on account of physical risks, though in some cases it is retained, because it does not appear to be generally accepted yet that a woman's life has a monetary value.

—The eighth annual announcement of the Woman's Medical College, Toronto, has a discription of the new college building completed last April. It contains a large lecture hall, microscopic room and chemical laboratory, fully equipped. The building formerly occupied as a college now forms the dissecting room. The name of Mrs. Donald McEwen, now of Cornwall, deserves special mention as one of the most active promoters of the interests of this institution.

—A heavy blow has been dealt a large section of the slave trade in Zanzibar by a recent decree issued by the Sultan. Under this decree the exchange, sale or purchase of slaves is absolutely prohibited. On the death of their present owners slaves shall be ipso facto free, unless inherited by lawful children. Slaves cannot be sold after the death of their owner, they are to have the right to purchase their freedom at a reasonable price, and the Sultan binds himself to accord them special protection.

—In appointing Dr. Chamberlain, of Dundas, to the vacant inspectorship of prisons and asylums, the Ontario Government has made a very popular move. Dr. Chamberlain is one of the best known medical men in Eastern Ontario. He has been highly successful in his profession, and takes hold of this most important office with qualifications of an unexceptional character. As a leading Liberal, he has borne his full share in fighting for what he believes to be the best interest of the Province, but he has always acted in so fair and honorable a manner as to commend himself to the respect and esteem of his fellow-citizens generally.

‡‡‡

—The inquiry into the embezzlements on the Grenville Canal reveal an extraordinary condition of affairs under the management of the Ottawa Government. The late paymaster, who was appointed solely on the suggestion of Mr. Girouard, M.P., has confessed that he handed out the money for wages without making the slightest inquiry into the genuineness of the claims presented by his subordinates. Thus false vouchers were permitted to be returned, and a wholesale peculation of public money took place. It is really about time that every public official should be compelled to give honest service for the money which he draws.

—One of the effects of a policy of high taxation is to cause men to put their money into unprofitable ventures in the hope that the Government will not see them stuck. The fate of more than one cotton factory in Canada, has exemplified this idea. The cotton factory in Moncton, N. B., is now closed. It ran only six months in the last year, and a large portion of the capital stock of $260,000 has been lost. How much better would it have been to invest this money in some more profitable business? The proposition now is that the Dominion Government shall pay a bonus on all cotton exported. This is cool. Why should the taxpayers of Canada be asked to subsidize the cotton men to enable them to sell their products to Chinamen and other foreigners for less money than they are willing to sell them to Canadians?

OTHER NEWSPAPERS.

NOT HALF A DAY, AND QUIT.

Brockville Recorder.

The London ADVERTISER has taken off its coat and apparently has no intention of putting it on again until it has succeeded in bringing about compulsory voting.

HOW A HOG POLICY WAS DEFEATED.

Toronto Mail.

Taxation sometimes defeats its own objects. Victoria, B. C., imposed a tax of $50 in order to protect its own merchants. As a result the travelers opened their samples at Vancouver and transferred a great deal of trade to that city.

SECONDS THE MOTION.

Seaforth Expositor.

In view of the fact that the people of Toronto have refused to grant any aid towards the re-erection of Toronto University, notwithstanding the great material advantages which the city derives from this institution, the London ADVERTISER recommends that the name be changed from the "University of Toronto" to the "University of Ontario." Considering that the university is a Provincial institution, the suggestion is a good one, aside altogether from the consideration of punishing Toronto for its parsimony and meanness.

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

Hamilton Herald.

Gladstone writes to John Cameron, of the London ADVERTISER, that much as he is interested in Canada, he "cannot hope to see that great territory." Canada is a "great territory" and no mistake, and it is a pity that the grand old man of British politics cannot cross the ocean and have a look at it, seeing that he had something to do with Canada's affairs when she was tied up to Downing street. He belonged to the Cabinet which formed the plan for the erection of the Dominion. Canada would be a revelation to him. And there is probably no other Englishman who would be as well received on this side of the briny.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

NOTHING LIKE IT.

MR. JOAB SCALES, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach and Lame Back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man out of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

WONDERFUL CURES.

FOR THIRTY YEARS.—Mrs. L. Squire, Ontario Steam Dye Works, Toronto, says: "For about thirty years I have doctored for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia without getting any cure. I then tried Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and the benefits I have received from this medicine are such that I cannot withhold this expression of my gratitude. It acts immediately upon the Liver, and its good effects are noticed at once. As a Dyspepsia remedy I don't think it can be equalled."

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE.

HARDENED AND ENLARGED LIVER.—Mrs. H. Hall, Navarino, N.Y., writes: "For years I have been troubled with Liver Complaint. The doctors said my Liver was hardened and enlarged. I was troubled with Dizziness, Pain in my Right Shoulder, Constipation, and gradually losing flesh all the time. All food soured on my stomach, even with the closest attention to diet. I was under the care of three physicians, but did not get any relief. A friend sent me a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it affords me much pleasure to inform you that the benefit I have received from it is far beyond my expectation. I feel better now than I have done for years."

Racing at St. Thomas—Various Sporting Events.

SWIMMING.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING RACE.

The annual women's ocean long-distance swimming race took place on Saturday afternoon off Coney Island. There were a dozen entries, but only seven young women and girls started. The finishing line, was about a mile distant, the word "go" was given at 4:36 p.m., Misses Alice Ward, Leo Broughton, Nina Morey, Lydia Benney, Josie Brown, Blanche Koester and Alma Koester gracefully taking the water together. A few minutes after the start it was evident that the race was really between Miss Ward and Miss Brown, with the rest nowhere. Miss Brown, who is only 13 years old, led from the start to the three-quarter mile point, when she was taken from the water in an exhausted condition, and Miss Ward, a daughter of Dr. John Ward, of Brooklyn, finished alone. Miss Ward is nineteen years of age, and has won the championship three years in succession. The time was 16:30 with the tide. Miss Brown received the second prize, a silver medal, and Miss Ward received the first prize, a gold medal.

Odell, the driver of the latter, was thrown out. He escaped uninjured. Brown Billy came in first, Ansonia second, but the judges gave the race to the latter and ruled Brown Billy out:

SPRINTING.

THOMPSON VS. SMITH.

A foot race at midnight is a somewhat unusual occurrence, but one which is not without its attractions. About 50 interested parties put in an appearance at Queen's Park last evening shortly after the hour of 11 o'clock had struck, when the majority of the citizens were asleep, and made preparations for a foot race between James Thompson and Charles Smith. The race was for $5 a side, and at about 11:30 the men announced themselves as ready and the word was given. Smith at once went to the front and kept a foot in advance of his competitor for the best part of the 100 yards. When near the finish he turned his head in search of Thompson, and the latter caught up and won the race with an almost imperceptible advantage. Time, 11¼ seconds. Smith immediately challenged Thompson to a similar race for $50. The challenge has not yet been accepted.

LAWN TENNIS.

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—The second day of the Lawn Tennis Association's tournament passed off successfully. McKenzie, of the Toronto club, was compelled to retire from the contest. The match between Alexander, of the Park club, and Bayly, of the London club, was the most exciting event of the day. The record of the match is as follows: Swabey and Griffin beat Rykert and Jones 6—3, 6—3; Alexander and Blackwood beat Kirkpatrick and Williams 5—7, 7—5, 6—2; Tanner and Smith beat Wood and Bayly 6—3, 6—4; Tanner beat Brown 6—2, 6—2; Kirkpatrick beat Griffin 4—6, 6—3, 6—4; Macklem beat Jones 6—2, 6—0; Alexander beat Bayly 3—6, 6—4, 6—4; Swabey and Griffin beat Hamilton and Matthews 6—1, 3—6, 6—1; Tanner and Smith beat Alexander and Blackwood 6—1, 6—2. It is predicted that before long a radical change will be made in the system of scoring in vogue, viz., counting by points instead of by games. Many of the above sets, apparently very one-sided, were in reality exceedingly close, and the number of strokes won by the opposing players much more evenly balanced than it appears.

The Toronto Globe says: The match between Mr. Alexander, of the Park club, and Mr. Bayly, of the London club, was perhaps the most exciting event of the day. Mr. Alexander, however, by his fine volleying and placing, secured a hard-won victory.

THE WHEEL.

W. Van Wagner, of Newport, broke the 100-mile bicycle record on Saturday from Erie to Buffalo. His time was 7 hours and 39½ minutes. The record was 8 hours and 2 minutes. D. E. McDaniels, of Wilmington, was a good second.

Edwin Checkley, who has just broken the long distance bicycle record between New York and Chicago, making the distance in a little over 14 days, was educated as an engineer, but is now studying medicine. He is 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighs only 125 pounds, but it is said that he can lift two men each weighing 200 pounds, and trot with them for 100 yards.

THE DOCTOR HAD TO MOVE.

He Stopped the Roosters, but Then Came the Parrots.

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

Next to a dog that amuses himself by barking all night, a rooster that persists in excercising his voice is nature's own nuisance, especially when the rooster lives in town. A banker, who used to live next door to a Dr. White, just beyond the city line, owned two little Bantam roosters that he had taught to crow for a grain of corn. He would take a double handful of corn out into his back porch, lift his hand, and the chickens would crow. Then he gave a grain to each of them. This was continued until all the corn was exhausted and the roosters hoarse. This sort of thing annoyed Mr. White. One day a medical student dropped into his office about the time the serenade began.

"I'd give $5 to shut off that noise," said the doctor.

"You can do it for less than that," said the student. "Why don't you entice them into your back yard some time when old Rufe is down town, catch them, and cut their vocal chords?"

"By Jove! That's the thing. Come around to-morrow at 11 o'clock and assist me in the operation."

The next day at the appointed hour the student was at the office on time; so were the roosters.

Within two minutes one vocal chord of each chicken was cut, and then the birds were tossed over the fence to their home. At noon the owner came out on his porch for his daily amusement. White and the student watched him through a crack in the fence. He lifted his hand and the little squallers reared back and went through the motions but did not utter a sound.

The banker lifted his hand again with the same result. He went out into the yard and walked around his pets, but he couldn't see anything wrong.

Then he called his wife, and the two made a critical examination. He made them go through their pantomine for an hour and got disgusted. He tried it every day for a week and then killed the roosters and ate them. When he found out six months afterward what White had done he bought two large donkey-voiced parrots, trained them to saw "—— Dr. White" and "White is an ass!" and hung their cages on his back porch.

Then Dr. White moved.

Trinity Church, Mitchell, was crowded at both services on Sunday last, when Rev. W. J. Taylor took farewell of his people. The esteem in which he is held by all classes of the community was shown by the mixed nature of the congregation, all denominations being represented. Under the pastorate of Mr. Taylor, and with the help of his family, the church has enjoyed much prosperity and unity. The clergyman spoke in the highest terms of the women of the congregation. At both services the congregation was much moved as the coming separation was referred to. A very large number partook of the holy communion at the morning service.

THORNDALE.

On Tuesday evening the annual Harvest Home supper was given under the auspices of the Methodist Church. The auditorium was suitably decorated. The altar was encircled with vines, the tables laden with flowers, the windows surrounded with wreaths of evergreen, and the walls bedecked with appropriate mottos. But the rear building or dining-hall was apparently the first attraction for most people. The supper, prepared by the ladies, was one seldom equaled. An excellent programme was rendered, Mr. Thos. McCormick, of London, being the chairman, and a very efficient officer he was. After a short address he introduced the singers of the evening, Mr. Belcher and Miss Griffith, of leading London choirs, whose singing made the entertainment an assured success in the musical line. Rev. S. Bond, of London, gave a very interesting lecture on "Jesuitism" and secured the undivided attention of the audience. At 10:30 the choir closed the proceedings by rendering a hymn, and the people returned homeward.

ABOUT HAIR

EDITOR OF THE ADVERTISER:

Sir,—I have, as you know, for some time advertised in Canada and the States a preparation for the hair called "Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic." I have received some thousands of flattering testimonials from those who have used it as to its merits as a restorative of gray or faded hair; also as a promoter of the growth and a certain cure for dandruff.

A great many of my correspondents ask the questions: "Why is my hair turning gray so early? Why is my hair falling out?" As it is impossible for me to answer every one, I take the liberty of encroaching on your valuable space to make a general reply. A great many persons do not seem to be aware that excessive washing and rubbing is injurious to the growth of the hair; such is the case, however. Constant washing and rubbing the scalp and hair causes over irritation and removes the oily substance which gives strength to the hair; undue heat caused by the wearing of heavy headgear is also injurious. Anything that will tend to dry up the sap or life of the hair will cause dandruff, falling out of the hair, gray or faded hair and finally baldness. Of course there are other causes as diseases, hereditary tendencies, etc., but the first mentioned are the main and most common.

Dr. Dorenwend, an eminent German physician, has given to the world after years of toil and experiment his now famous "Hair Magic." The object of this preparation is to assist nature in the production of this oily substance absolutely necessary to the growth of the hair. It is now sold by all reliable druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, or will be sent on receipt of price to any address. See that each wrapper bears the seal and signature of the manufacturer.

SMITH'S PATENT HYDRANT.

This hydrant is acknowledged by all mechanics to be far ahead of all others. Its superiority is shown by the popular favor it has attained. The public are warned against other dealers who claim to have a hydrant which can be compared to a straight-way valve. A straight-way valve has no seat to be subjected to the action of any liquid, therefore a hydrant to be compared to a straight valve must have no seat to be subjected to the action of the water, and there is no other hydrant made except Smith's Patent Hydrant without a seat, and we claim to have the only straight-way hydrant. All others have a seat subjected to the action of the water, and the majority of them will have to be dug up inside of a year to be repaired, and at extra cost. This we are prepared to guarantee the users of our hydrants against. For sale by the patentees; price, $5.

The Apple Trade.

Frank Rand & Co., London, Eng., in a circular dated Aug. 15, says: "It is rather early to make any definite estimate of the apple crop on the continent, but of this you may be assured that the usual apple exporting countries, viz., France, Holland, Belgium, Germany and Denmark, will be unable to export many to this country this season unless at very dear prices, take with this our English crop, which is even shorter than last year, and we have no hesitation in stating there will be a steady demand throughout the season for American, Canadian and Nova Scotian apples at good prices. The prices realized depend in a great measure upon the way in which the fruit is packed, and often inferior fruit realize better prices than good, owing to the fact that inferior apples will stand more rough usage than full-grown well-matured fruit. If shippers would consider the fact, that after paying the cost of package, labor, railway and steamship freight, etc., there is as much profit in one barrel of apples at 30s as three at 16s, they would see that in many cases they are working for the benefit of the railway and steamship companies, and not for their own interests. There is an old custom with many of packing their apples in barrels in the autumn, and when ready to ship, sometimes months afterwards, the barrels are opened at one end, filled up and the heads pressed in. The consequence is these apples very often reach this market in the same discolored and mildewed condition in which they were sent, while those that go through their apples and repack them throughout find that although they may not have as many barrels as before, yet the extra trouble has been well repaid. In shipping we can only advise fast boats, with apples stowed as far as possible from engine rooms and heating cargo. Every shipment should be advised early enough to reach us as soon or before the ship bringing the goods arrives here.

Cattle—Receipts, 16,000, including 4,000 Texans; market slow.

EAST BUFFALO.

EAST BUFFALO, Sept. 3.—Cattle—There was still a goodly portion of Monday's surplus stock on sale to-day and four cars of fresh cattle; prices on sales made were irregular and transactions mostly in small lots; fair mixed cattle sold at $2 75 to $2 90; light, handy butchers' steers, $3 25 to $3 40; veals, good demand, light supply.
Sheep and Lambs—Offerings were 15 cars; market draggy. The Canada offerings of lambs had a good percentage of common stock mixed with the good, and the common were not wanted; sheep, good to choice, $4 30 to $4 75; extra might bring close up to $5; lambs, best Canadas, $6 25; good to choice do, $5 75 to $6 10; fair to good, $5 to $5 75; the common grades are worth less than $4, and it is hardly profitable to ship them with the market in this condition.
Hogs—Offerings, 22 cars; good heavy corn-fed Yorkers, heavy hogs and mediums sold at $4 50 to $4 75, and $4 80 was paid for a car of extras; grassy Yorkers sold at $4 25 to $4 30; pigs, $3 to $3 70.

BRITISH LIVE STOCK TRADE.

EDINBURGH, Aug. 23.—John Swan & Son's weekly report says: The supplies of home-fed fat cattle all over this week have been moderate. Trade has been firmer, and at all the markets an easier and more satisfactory finish has been made. The English markets have been about the same, but there is little demand for the south from here. There have been a considerable number of Irish grass-fed bullocks of very good condition on offer. The number of sheep on offer has been very similar to last week. Trade has been quite as good and prices well maintained. For fat half-bred ewes rather more money has been obtained, lambs of good quality selling at full prices, this class being by no means numerous. Calves and pigs—A smaller show and have made more money. Store cattle have been offered in very small numbers and sales with difficulty effected. Trade for white-faced store lambs has been better and prices quite 1s a head higher. For good ewe lambs a much better trade than was expected has been experienced. Black-faced lambs have been shown in large numbers, and were about is under last year's prices. There were rather more milch cows, and for the better descriptions higher prices were realized, but secondary were difficult to sell at less money. Foreign supplies are reported to have embraced nearly 1,000 States cattle; rates made from 6s to 7s 3d. The supply of Canadian cattle has been large, but unfortunately two steamers did not arrive in time to catch the regular market, and made prices and sales irregular. Best beef, 8s 3d to 8s 6d; Canadians, 7s 9d; secondary, 7s 3d to 7s 6d to 8s. Best mutton, 8½d; heavy sheep, 8d; ewes, 6½d to 7½d; lambs, 7d to 9d per pound.

The elocutionary efforts of Mr. George were much appreciated.

—Charles Williams, James McCormick and Charles Forsythe formed the group of intoxicated persons at the Police Court this morning. Williams was arrested in front of the Tecumseh House where 200 or 300 people gathered to see P. C. Ralph attempt to capture him. The Chief said the man had been there nearly a dozen times before, and when any one tried to arrest him acted like a mad dog, foaming at the mouth and biting. He was given $10 or two months in jail. The others were discharged.

—A number of friends of Rev. R. Quarles, late of the Horton Street Baptist Church, have, since his return from Lansing, Mich., taken steps to express to him their appreciation. A subscription was signed by a number of citizens, with the result that Mr. Quarles was presented with a check for $30 to purchase a fine suit of clothes. On Sunday next he will preach in the Baptist Church at Chatham. Subsequently he will attend a camp meeting there and proceed to Amherstburg to be presented at the Amherstburg Baptist Association, of which he is secretary.

A Man with a Grievance.

A white man named Montieth had an Indian named Sickles before Squire Smyth to-day on a charge of assault. Both of the parties were living on the Oneida Reserve, the former working a farm there on shares with an Indian woman. Some dispute respecting the pasturage of their cattle caused Montieth to create a disturbance at the recent Indian Council, from which he was ejected by the defendant. In putting him out Montieth claimed that Sickles assaulted him. As the evidence failed to show any grounds for the charge, Sickles was dismissed and the complainant was required to pay the costs.

HOTEL-KEEPERS IN COURT.

Majority of the Cases Dismissed—Evidence Given by the Defendants.

A batch of liquor cases which have been adjourned four times during the past month, came up again at the Police Court this morning. Mr. J. B. McKillop, the prosecuting attorney, asked for a further adjournment, as their witness in the cases, Wm. Higgins, had not recovered from the effects of the injuries he received in an assault in East London. Mr. Love, for the defense, objected to the request. All their witnesses were present, and it was unfair to put his clients to the expense of appearing again and again. The Magistrate agreed with Mr. Love. Mr. Macbeth said his client was ready to go in the box and there was not the slightest chance of conviction. The Magistrate then ordered the cases to proceed.

Joseph S. Deacon, of the Balkwell House, said that two strangers, whom he had taken to be guests, followed him into the barroom on Sunday morning, July 27, and asked for liquor. He gave them two glasses, but did not take the money for it. He often went in and out of the barroom on Sunday to get liquor for the boarders. The Magistrate decided to adjourn the case for a week.

Harry M. Ryan had two charges registered against him. He swore that a "D" Company man and two others had entered his hotel on Sunday, July 27, but he positively refused to sell them any liquor. On Sunday, Aug. 3, the date of the second charge, he was away from home, but would swear that no liquor was sold. Both cases were dismissed.

Jas. W. Martin, sworn, testified that on Sunday, Aug. 3, two men met him in the hall about 11 o'clock and asked for liquor, but he peremptorily refused them. Case dismissed.

Chas. James, bartender at the Western Hotel, denied that any liquor was sold on Saturday night, July 26. Case dismissed.

John Lewis also stated that no liquor was bought at his hotel on the same night. He was away from home with the keys in his pocket and no one could get in the bar without forcing the door. Mr. McKillop here produced Higgins' note book, which stated that he had entered the room with a crowd in single file at 8:30 Saturday evening and had paid 10 cents as his share. The case was dismissed.

The two charges against John McMartin were enlarged for a week by agreement.

THE APPLE CROP FAILURE.

Probable Cause and the Remedies Suggested.

Cornell University Experiment Station has issued a bulletin prepared by Prof. L. H. Bailey on the condition of fruit growing in Western New York, one portion of which will be of special interest to readers of the ADVERTISER, as in many sections of Ontario so in Western New York the apple crop is almost a total failure; in fact, the only satisfactory fruit crops there this season are strawberries and grapes. In regard to the cause of failure in case of the larger fruits, Prof. Bailey writes:

It is an almost universal opinion among growers that the weather is responsible for the general failure, particularly in the case of apples, where failure is the most comple and disastrous, and which were just passing out of bloom when a prolonged storm of unusual severity and accompanied by lightning passed over the country. It has long been supposed that cold and heavy rain at blooming time will prevent fertilization of the flowers, and the idea appears to be universally accepted. Yet I know of no reason for thinking it generally true, or at least of sufficient moment to account for the failure of a crop. There are not only strong general reasons for doubting the notion, but several minor observations are also against it. For instance, two Seckel pear trees, equally exposed and of the same age, both of which bore a heavy crop last year, stand but a rod apart and were in bloom at the same time; one has no fruit and the other is loaded. We have all observed good crops of fruit in years when heavy rains fell at blooming time. In undertaking to determine why blossoms fail to set, it should be borne in mind that fully four-fifths of the flowers of apples and pears fall naturally. The flowers are borne in clusters, yet the fruits are usually borne singly. The redundancy of flowers appears to be nature's method of insuring fertilization, by increasing the amount of pollen and multiplying the chance of success. The blossom which is strongest, or which gets the best start, wholly aside from its position in the cluster, appropriates energy to itself, while its neighbors fail. In most cases the apples had set and were about the size of small peas when they began to die. They withered, turned brown and fell. The date of attack varied somewhat in varieties which bloom at different times. The greenings died before the late flowering sorts, but all were probably attacked at about the same period of growth. At the same time the young leaves began to look unhealthy, and they rapidly assumed a blighted appearance. Most growers assert that those trees which bloomed most profusely were most attacked by the leaf blight. Three or four years ago a similar falling of flowers and blighting of foliage occurred, at least in some parts of Orleans county. In that case, however, the attack is reported to have been a little earlier, and the flower clusters often fell off entire. The meteorological conditions were similar in both years. All these facts show that there is an intimate connection between the death of the flowers or young fruit and the blighting of the leaves. The blight is caused by the apple-scab fungus. Whether the flowers or young fruits were actually attacked by the fungus in this case, or whether they fell because of the impaired vitality of the injured trees I am unable to say, but it is probable that their death is due in large part, directly or indirectly, to the fungus.

This apple-scab fungus (Fusicladium dendriticum), which is so destructive to foliage, is the one which causes the scab upon the fruit itself. It is nearly always present to a greater or less extent upon both leaves and fruit, but it is rarely so destructive to foliage as this year. It has increased rapidly in New York of late.

After discussing the blights affecting pears and quinces the following is given under the heading of treatment:

The last two seasons have demonstrated that carbonate of copper is a sure remedy for the apple scab fungus. It is not yet fully demonstrated just what are the best times to make the application, but it is necessary to begin before the flowers open, and to make from four to six applications between that time and the first of August. Three applications at any rate should be made—one before the blossoms open, one just after they fall, and another three or four weeks later. It is probable that some of the fungus can be destroyed by spraying even in August and September, but it is doubtful it a fall application would pay its cost. We are now testing this point. These applications, even when a half-dozen, need not cost more than 15 to 25 cents for a large tree for the whole season, counting both materials and labor. The following are good formulas:

1. Dissolve one ounce carbonate of copper in one quart of aqua-ammonia; dilute with 100 quarts of water when ready to apply.

2. Place two pounds of copper sulphate in sufficient hot water to dissolve it, and in another vessel dissolve two and a half pounds carbonate of soda. Mix, and before using add one and a half pints of ammonia, and dilute with water to about 30 gallons. This is the modified eau celeste mixture.

The former is probably the better.

The quince leaf-blight (Entomosporium) is readily destroyed upon quince and pear stocks by four or five applications of Bordeaux mixture. There is every reason to believe that the remedy is practicable upon full-grown quince trees as well. The only experiments yet reported upon orchard trees, so far as I know, were made by Prof. Weed in Ohio (Bulletin 14, Ohio Experimental Station), who found that the treatment was effective. The following is a good formula for Bordeaux mixture:

Dissolve six pounds sulphate of copper in sixteen gallons of water. In another vessel slake four pounds fresh lime in six gallons of water. When the latter cools, pour it slowly into the copper solution, mixing the two thoroughly. It is best to prepare the mixture a day or two before using.

The only remedy for pear blight is to remove and burn the diseased portions, taking care to cut off the branches several inches below the lowest visible point of attack.

Mr. Phelps, American minister at Berlin, said in a recent interview: "The Chancellor has withdrawn the edict excluding Austrian pigs, and now only Russia and America suffer from the unjust restriction. I expect that the prohibition against Russian swine will soon be removed, and then our turn will come."

Relic-Hunting.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 4.—The small stump on which young Benwell's foot was resting when his remains were found, has been removed to Woodstock and is now on exhibition in the window of a cigar store. The large stump which also supported a portion of the unfortunate young man's body has been nearly all carried away by relic-seekers. Indeed, from one cause and another, the scene has become so completely changed as to be almost beyond recognition.

Drowning Accident at Windsor.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 4.—A man named Page was drowned off the Michigan Central Railroad wharf yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He had reached over the edge of the dock with a dip net to catch some minnows, when he lost his balance and fell into the river. Page was about 50 years of age and lived on Mercer street. He was a married man but his wife and children deserted him a few years ago.

A telegram received from Chatham says that Kempt, the man who shot Reed at Manhattan Beach, had been arrested there.

A Matrimonial Mix.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 4.—Last Friday a Mrs. Lewis Halladay, claiming to live on Lafayette avenue, Detroit, complained to the police that her husband had skipped with a Mrs. MacMahon, of Ann Arbor, and she had every reason to believe that they were living in Windsor. Detective McKee took the case in hand and located the pair at Chappel's, below Sandwich, and yesterday morning Halladay was arrested. He was taken before Magistrate Bartlet yesterday, but on promising to return to his wife was released. The MacMahon woman went to Toledo.

DIANA WENTWORTH,

Or, The Professor's Daughter.

CHAPTER XXIX.

ON THE OLD ROAD.

Scarcely pausing to think, only feeling that the air in this house was poisonous, Diana put on her hat, wrapped herself in a warm shawl, and left the house by a side-door without meeting anyone, and walked some distance before she was sufficiently calm to notice what road she had taken. She was on a rough road which wound over the moor and fell to a neighboring market town, once the only road, but now superseded by a more level and circuitous one down in the valley, and hence almost deserted. She had passed the last wayside farm, and the road lay straight before her—low walls covered with ivy and brambles separated it from the spreading moorland on either side. She walked on until she got to the top of a rise where a little plantation of fir-trees grew among the heather. She had often seen these very trees from the other side of the valley and had wished to reach them. Now she was here, and she felt no pleasure in them at all. She sat down on the wall, shut her eyes, and listened to the sound of the wind in the trees. The gray daylight faded into dusk—the dusk had almost disappeared in darkness, before she opened her eyes again and looked around her.

Her ear had caught a sound; someone was coming along this lonely road. She realized it with indifference; she was too taken out of herself to feel afraid. Then she recognized the step, and clasped her hands tightly in the darkness, and held her breath as he came nearer. He could not see her, she thought; she was leaning back against a tree and her slight figure and dark dress might well keep her concealed in this darkness. A great longing came upon her to stretch out her hand to him and call him by name, but she kept her hands clasped and her tongue silent. Yet when he was close to her he lingered, stopped, and said:

"Diana!"

"Yes, it is I, Mr. Garthwaite," she answered.

"I beg your pardon; I ought to have said 'Miss Wentworth,' you were in my thoughts as Diana."

"It is my name; why should you not say it?"

"What are you doing here?" he asked. "You have a perfect passion for lonely roads and darkness."

"I have some owlish qualities, I know. Sometimes I want to hide. I did now."

"What for? What have those people been doing to you?"

She did not answer at once and he went on—

"Walk with me and tell me as we go. It is late for you to be out alone, and they will be anxious about you at home."

"They do not know I am out; I came to avoid them," she answered, rising to do as he suggested.

"Why was that?" he asked, as they walked on, side by side. "What is wrong."

"They want me to marry my cousin Rupert."

An hour ago she had thought that under no circumstances could she speak Rupert's name, much less mention this matter to John, and now she was speaking of it calmly in answer to a general question. She felt almost frightened as she realized the strength of his influence over her; but this feeling was succeeded by one of peace and calm, born of knowledge that he would never misuse this influence.

"You must not do that," he said quickly, almost sharply, as soon as she had spoken. "You must not think of it."

"I am not thinking of it; I could not do it. I would rather die than be his wife."

"I am glad you say so—you are quite right," and in spite of his endeavor to keep his voice indifferent, an accent of triumph would penetrate it. "If you were married to him, you would probably wish you were dead every day of your life. Perhaps," he went on, as she said nothing, "you do not think I am justified in trying to influence you against your cousin; but I cannot get out of the way of considering myself in some sort your guardian and answerable for your safety, and I happen to know your cousin's character very well. Besides, you know, you need not take my advice unless you like; we are in a free country, I believe."

She thought of Mary Metcalfe, and was silent, and John went on—

"Why do you hate the idea of marrying him?"

"He is a bad man."

"What makes you think so? Few people would agree with you. I believe he is very popular."

"I have talked to him," she said slowly. "Long before he asked me, I knew he was going to do so, and I wanted to know what kind of a man he really was. I had heard much about him. I talked to him, and I let him talk to me. I think that there are few things about him that I do not know, and I found he was bad, bad all through. Was that wrong?"—she stopped to ask.

"No, it was right. You are not a child, you are a woman, and you had a right to know the man who was going to ask you to marry him, whether you intended to accept him or not."

"I did not for an instant intend to accept him."

"You could find out in no other way, I suppose?"

"In no other way."

"And you found out your cousin was full of faults?"

"No," she answered, "I found no faults, only vices. He is both vicious and weak. He has neither the wish nor the will to throw them off."

"I am glad," he said, "that you had the strength and courage to do this, but it was a terrible task for you to undertake; was there no one to do it for you?"

"No one."

"Not even your mother?"

"Mamma is almost more anxious than the others that I should marry him."

"I see. Why have they chosen you as the sacrificial lamb?"

His voice was deep and full with suppressed scorn and bitterness; and dark though it was, Diana, in imagination, could almost see the grim, wrathful expression which his face would wear. Her mood was changing too. Grief and disappointment were turning to scorn and anger, and she answered his question truthfully:

"He cannot honorably ask any girl to marry him. A certain confession would have to be made, which they think could be dispensed with if he married me."

"Excellent! That is the kind of a thing they call a family arrangement, is it not? But how do you know this?"

"He told me once, but they do not know; they have no idea that I know they are trying to make a tool of me. They think I am in perfect ignorance of the inner working of their scheme."

Loud and ringing was the laughter which broke from her companion's lips as soon as she had finished speaking. "Admirable!" he said—"truly admirable! Keep your counsel, and as long as you will never be at a loss for amusing reflections. A mother's love is indeed a beautiful and holy thing. Oh God! I could almost——"

He broke off suddenly; what he had been going to say she never knew. He was glad it was dark, that Diana could not see his face, and guess from it what was passing in his mind. Wrath and pity, hatred and love, stern resolve and boundless longing, bitter, passionate scorn and deepest tenderness, were all doing battle together and striving to overturn a slight, intangible thing called human will.

But human will conquered, and after a long silence John spoke again in his usual voice, in which the only trace of the recent struggle was a slight vibration as he spoke the first few words.

"Let us leave this subject, Miss Wentworth. You have a stout heart and clear head. I know I need not exhort you to persist in your decision. I feel perfectly sure that nothing on earth would induce you to marry your cousin; and, as far as that is concerned, I shall always think of you without uneasiness, however far apart fate may drive us."

He could not see how she started at his words, neither could he tell how they stabbed her heart; but he could hear that her voice was not quite as usual, as she asked:

"Are you going away again?"

"Not just yet, I think, but after another week or two I must hold myself in readiness to be sent to Brazil. Meanwhile I stay here."

She was stricken with a strange, unreasoning terror, and in her terror she spoke.

"Brazil!" she repeated; "so far away! What shall I do without you!"

"Ah," he said lightly, "do not flatter me. I am not really necessary to you, although we have enjoyed some pleasant hours together, and may enjoy some more, perhaps, if we ever meet again."

She said nothing and he went on—

"Let us rather talk about yourself. You will not care to stay here longer, will you!"

"No, I shall go as soon as I can. I came because my mother was ill; she is better now, and there is nothing to stay for."

"What are your plans?"

"I have made none yet. I suppose I shall look for work again—what servants call a 'light place.' You know I need not work hard. I have some money—enough for to live on, I suppose, if I took great care, but not enough to be comfortable on."

"Your comfort being other people's luxury, I suspect."

"Very likely. I am fond of luxury. I have always enjoyed it in the Abbey."

"I can believe that. I remember thinking, when I heard at Jacewo where you had been translated to, than you would be among congenial surroundings."

"It is different from the Camphausen's house, is it not?"

"I never was in it."

The reply was almost like a blow, it was so downright. Before she had recovered from it he went on—

"You know I belong to a different world from yours. The Camphausens' house was luxurious compared with mine."

She felt herself blushingly hot in the darkness, and she bit her lip in her annoyance. His snubs were as thorough as everything else of his, and she had brought it upon herself.

"Promise me one thing," he said, as she did not speak. "Do not try teaching again, at least not that kind of teaching. People of the Camphausen type are not so rare as you might think; and do not go out of England again; you might get to some foreign town where there was no one at all to look after you, and you need looking after. You are very self-reliant, and although it is an admirable quality, it has the same drawback as other good things—there may be too much of it."

"You limit my choice, so that it is only fair you should tell me what career is still open to me."

She tried to speak lightly, but she had gone through too much that afternoon, and, in spite of herself, her voice sounded flat and spiritless. John noticed it at once.

"You are tired," he said, "lean on me."

Only once before had he said "lean on me," in that gently peremptory tone—after he had rescued her from the forest at Jacewo; that occasion and their conversation during their walk home was in the minds of both of them now, and John, drawing her hand more forward into his arm, went on—

"If you must teach, get work in some large school where discipline is maintained, and you will know what your work is and when it is over for the day. Private teaching is a mistake; don't try it again."

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

The man who dies without glory will never have his ghost shiver at the sight of its statue adorned with a Roman toga and an eighteenth-century wig.

People who are given to laying up grudges seldom accumulate much else.

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and the back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal.
GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar Refining. The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99.90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

—Mr. Chas. Brennan, barber at the Tecumseh house received word Tuesday of the sudden death of his brother John at New York. —John Beltz, a 13-year-old boy, appeared in the Police Court this morning on two complaints. For wheeling a truck on the sidewalk he was let off with a warning. The second charge was that of throwing stones at Amos Cooper on the Hamilton road. Beltz had half a dozen of his juvenile friends in the court to prove his innocence, and when they were put in the box examined them with considerable skill. The case was dismissed.

The energetic members of the Hospital Trust hit upon a capital idea when they decided to give the inmates of that institution an opportunity of listening to an open-air concert by the Seventh Band. A large number of citizens testified to the merit of the band by crowding into the grounds of the institute until they were literally packed, and remaining there even after the echo of the last note had died away. It was an ideal evening for an open-air concert. The tuneful melody produced by the musicians from their varied programme was carried on the gentle evening breezes far from the scene of the concert, and was heard with entrancing sweetness by many in the center of the city. The hospital was open to inspection during the evening and courteous nurses conducted all those through the building who wished to see the interior of the institution. The patients greatly enjoyed the concert and by many it was thought that had they more such treats their recovery would be correspondingly speedy.

Sing Their Own Praises.

There are few, if any, in the great army of smokers who have not been, by experience, placed in a position to judge as to the merits of the "Norma" 10-cent cigar manufactured by H. McKay & Co., of London. In almost every cigar store and hotel in Canada this pet of all lovers of 10-cent goods has found its way, and finding rapid and constantly increased sales. Unlike other similar goods, its fame is not of a transient nature. The "Norma" retains all the merits of the imported cigar, and has in many cases supplanted it. More expensive rivals, and each successive season but adds to its host of admiring consumers.

The large establishment of H. McKay & Co. is kept continually engaged in supplying the demands made upon them for the "Norma."
