Salisbury Shirks!

And Conservatives Kick in Consequence.

A "No Policy" Speech from the Throne Decided Upon.

A Daring English Woman Climbs the Matterhorn.

Peculiar Proposal to Farm Out Cuban Customs Revenues—Steamship Collision in the Clyde.

Ætna Violent as Ever.

CATANIA, July 29.—The eruption of Mount Ætna shows no sign of abating.

In the Interest of Peace.

DUBLIN, July 29.—The Irish-American Peace Commission has decided to visit London and hold a conference with both Irish parties on the opening of Parliament.

Collision in the Clyde.

LONDON, July 29.—While the steamship Peruvian, bound from Glasgow to Montreal, was steaming down the Clyde today, she collided with the steamer City of Lisbon. The latter was considerably damaged.

Ten Firemen Hurt.

LONDON, July 29.—Rallis' large flour and cotton warehouse at Bootle was destroyed by fire to-night. Loss over $150,000. Ten firemen were seriously injured by the fall of a wall and were taken to hospitals.

Dosed With Leaden Pills.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 29.—Riots arising out of the cholera panic and directed against the medical authorities have occurred in Tashkend. Troops have rigorously suppressed the riots, killing and wounding seven persons.

A Woman's Daring.

LONDON, July 29.—Mrs. Farrar, an English lady, has accomplished the daring feat of climbing the Matterhorn. The start was made on Monday, July 11, at 10:30 a.m., from the Hotel Schwarzee, but the Lower Matterhorn was not reached until 2:30 a.m. on Tuesday. When the top of the Lower Matterhorn was reached the excitement began. A severe storm overtook Mrs. Farrar and her companions. The mountain, as viewed from the hotel, looked like a huge black mass of drifting clouds. Its outline was entirely lost, but the darkness was illumined now and then by fierce flashes of lightning.

The hasty descent of the party over the broken part between the shoulder and the upper hut was the cause of their safety, because if they had delayed here the wind, hail and severe cold would have made any further progress impossible. As it was, nearly seventeen hours was spent in the climb. The safe arrival of the party in Zermatt is due chiefly to the prompt action of the guides and the great courage displayed by Mrs. Farrar.

To Farm Out Cuba's Revenue.

MADRID, July 29.—At a Spanish Ministerial council to-day it was decided to sanction the project for the farming out of the Cuban customs revenue, tenders for which will be received until Nov. 1 next. The contract will go into effect Jan. 1, 1893. Security must be deposited on tenders for $15,000,000 to the amount of $3,750,000 cash or its equivalent in stocks. The Imparciale of Madrid consider that the carrying out of this plan involves grave responsibility, as tenders either for the improvement of the Government of Cuba or leading to the loss of the island according to whether the contract falls into the hands of North Americans or Spaniards.

A Valuable Lot of Books.

LONDON, July 29.—The Althorp library which, in consequence of the difficulties of his position, due to reduced rentals of his agricultural estates, Lord Spencer some time since announced would be sold at public auction, unless a purchaser for the whole could be found, has been sold entire to an Englishman. The library, which is the most splendid private collection of books in the world, comprises 60,000 volumes, almost every one of which has some uncommon value of its own. It has the rarest editions, most historic bindings and most priceless illustrations and early printing, all of which are unusually well preserved. Its collection of Bibles is unique. The purchaser of the library will, it is stated, provide a suitable building for its reception, to which the general public shall have free access.

Conservatives Exasperated at Salisbury's Decision.

LONDON, July 29.—When the members of the Cabinet separated yesterday it was practically decided that the Queen's speech from the throne at the opening of the new Parliament would be limited to a blank intimation that Parliament had not met for the transaction of business. The militant section of the Conservative part, who want to combat the Opposition l'outrance, feel thoroughly exasperated at the abandonment of what they believe to be a strong position both for offense and defense.

Lord Salisbury, it is said, is to visit the Queen on Monday previous to the final Cabinet Council for consideration of the exact form of speech from the throne. Powerful influences will be brought to bear on the Queen and Cabinet Ministers alike to try to induce Lord Salisbury to adopt a bolder policy. The appeals now being made to him and his colleagues to challenge the Liberals on franchise reform have some Ministerial support, but the majority of the members of the Cabinet appear to rely upon an early break up of the Gladstone Government through a rupture of the internal forces on which it must rest.

In is just barely possible that Lord Salisbury will yet be persuaded to throw down the glove before the Opposition. With only a formal speech and no programme the Ministers will avoid the usual official dinners on the night before the House opens.

The absence of any declaration of policy in the speech from the throne will not deter the Liberals from proposing a vote of "No confidence." They will be rather strengthened in denouncing the Government for shirking the avowal of a programme. Conservative whips who were consulted on the question of procedure yesterday, stated that it was perfectly competent for Parliament to proceed to the transaction of business without a speech from the throne. It is a fact that the House of Commons can dispense with the speech if it chooses. In order to assert the historic right to do without a speech from the throne, some bill is always read a first time in each House before the speech is considered. Still, the unbroken tradition is that Parliament requires some form of speech.

Successful French Skirmishes.

LONDON, July 30.—News has been received from Dahomey that the French are gradually forcing the Dahomians back. Several successful skirmishes have brought wavering tribes to the French side.

Joan of Arc Will Be Canonized.

PARIS, July 30.—Cardinal Rampolla has informed the Archbishop of Rouen that the Congregation of Rites has approved the beatification of Joan of Arc, and that the process of canonization will last many years, but that it is probable that the virtues of the Maid of Orleans will in the interval be declared whorthy of veneration and imitation.

Latest Attempt at Agitation.

BERLIN, July 30.—The Cologne Gazette says attempts to create disorder have recently been made in St. Petersburg by agitators who tried to convince the people that the meat sausages sold there are poisoned. The fact is significant, as all the sausage-makers are Germans. The prefect of police has issued a proclamation menancing the agitators with heavy punishment.

The Sultan Still Defiant.

LONDON, July 30.—A dispatch from Fez says: The Sultan's attitude toward the British mission continues defiant, but great preparations are being made to give an unprecedented reception to Count D'Aubreny, the French Minister, in September. The occupants of 50 houses will be evicted to make room for the members of the French Embassy.

Graduity Income Tax for Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—A bill has been prepared imposing a graduity tax upon incomes. On incomes of 1,000 roubles the tax is 1 per cent., and for every additional 1,000 roubles the rate increases one-tenth of 1 per cent. Exemptions are allowed in the cases of members of the imperial family, assemblies, nobles, the leading clergy, convents, schools and high government officials.

Cardinal Mermilled and the Pope.

LONDON, July 30.—The Chronicle says the French cardinals have received a circular written by Cardinal Mermilled requesting them to veto the nomination of a pope favorable to the Dreibund whose nominee it is supposed will be Cardinal Safelice. The circular asks them to push the candidature of Cardinal Rampolio, and if they find this choice cannot be ratified then to support Cardinal Gibbons. The circular says Italy will drift into a republic with the connivance of a Catholic world.

Embezzled Half a Million.

LONDON, July 30.—Parry Lunt and John Wilson, manager and cashier respectively of the firm of Reynolds & Gibson, cotton brokers, Liverpool, have pleaded guilty to embezzlement from the firm. The embezzlements are said to have amounted to £150,000, and had been carried on for a long time. The prisoners expended the money in cotton speculation. The affair caused almost a panic in the Liverpool market at the time of the discovery, about twenty days ago, and several business suspensions resulted. They were sentenced to four and three years respectively.

Cholera Feared in Central Europe.

VIENNA, July 30.—A letter from Count Von Taaf, Austrian Premier and Minister of the Interior, addressed to the Government of Galicia, shows that the Government apprehends a speedy outbreak of cholera in Galicia. Count Von Taaf enjoins the Government to take the strictest precautionary measures, but admits that an outbreak of cholera can hardly be avoided owing to the large masses of Russian troops near the frontier. If this territory becomes cholera-infected the disease will be quickly introduced into Hungary and Austria and will thence spread throughout Central Europe.

A Parricide Declared Insane.

LONDON, July 30.—William Ernest Greatrex has been declared insane after being tried for the murder of his father, committed some months ago. Young Greatrex was a wild, reckless young man, and was sent by his father to the United States to try his fortune. After five years he returned penniless. Soon he began again to quarrel with his family, and his father sent him to London with an allowance of £350 a year. William gradually accumulated debts and wrote for a larger allowance, threatening to shoot his father if his demand was not granted. No notice was taken of his letter. He therefore returned home, and meeting his father in the street, shot him dead. Witnesses testified that there was insanity on the mother's side of the family, and that the son had himself shown symptoms of fatuousness.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Heavy Failure of a Jobbing House—The Body of a Missing Man Found in the Bay.

TORONTO, Ont., July 27.—The Charles Stark Company, a big jobbing house handling watches and sporting goods, has assigned with liabilities placed at $143,000, and nominal assets of $147,000. The failure caused general surprise, as the firm less than a year ago was credited with a surplus of $80,000. The principal creditors are the Bank of Hamilton, $49,000; Union Bank, $15,000, and others in Montreal, Britain, Belgium and the States. Keen competition and reckless cutting in rates are given as causes of failure.

The body of Daniel Sullivan, a deck hand on the steamer Carmona, was taken out of the bay this morning. Deceased had been missing since Monday. There are no marks of violence on the body.

Wm. Trugart, a colored man, was sitting on the gunwale of a stone hooker to-night, when he fell overboard and was drowned.

Dakota Quarantined Against Manitoba.

VALLEY CITY, N. D., July 30.—Governor Burke has issued a proclamation declaring absolute quarantine against Manitoba on account of smallpox in that Province.

What Will He Do?

In the States, as Well as in Canada,

The Farmer Suffers from Tariff Restrictions.

Points from the Report of the Congressional Committee on Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Representative Hatch, from the Committee on Agriculture, to-day submitted to the House a report prepared by the committee on the effect of the present tariff law upon agriculture. The report says that careful comparison shows that there has been a steady decline in the prices of farm property and products under the several tariffs in force since the war, while for a corresponding period and under the same laws other interests have been more prosperous and remunerative.

The report insists that under the lower tariff of 1846, agriculture enjoyed its greatest prosperity, and holds that the more restrictive and prohibitive the trade with other countries has been, the worse has agriculture failed. The result of the prohibitive tariff has been to prejudice European nations, our best buyers, against the United States, and in the retaliation which followed agriculture was dealt an irreparable injury. The report presents statistics showing the decrease in the values of farm lands in the United States between 1870 and 1880, and the decrease in values of farm products from 1870 to 1880.

PER CONTRA.

Representative Funston, of Kansas, presented a report containing the views of the minority of the committee. No one, it says, would dispute that the agriculturist is having a hard time, but, says the report, we cannot look back to any better times nor those half so good, excepting, of course, war times. The minority say there is not one article on the list of American goods that is not cheaper to-day under a protective tariff than it was under free trade in 1860.

The minority assert it is not their design to show that the farmer is getting all he ought to get for his productions nor to even show that he is doing well, but only to show that the prices he is now getting are good and so satisfactory to him that in the opinion of the minority he would gladly continue them indefinitely.

STRUCK DOWN AT THE ALTAR

An Assassin Cuts a Priest's Throat While He Is Saying Mass.

BURGOS, July 29.—While mass was being celebrated in the cathedral, a man in threadbare clothes rushed up to the altar, and, seizing the priest's vestments held him while he drew a razor across his face. The worshipers near the altar ran to the rescue. Two men seized the priest's assailant, but before they could restrain him he had drawn the razor across the priest's throat. He then turned on the men who were trying to pinion him, and cut one of them in the neck and the other in the arm. Both let go, and the man, dropping his razor, ran down the middle aisle. Near the door an old peasant woman caught and held him until a policeman came.

The priest will probably not live throughout the night. The two men who tried to rescue him are severely wounded, but will recover. The police say the assassin was either an Anarchist or a madman.

Touched the Wire and Died.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—While fixing a street light opposite Scholes' Hotel, Parkdale, at 11 o'clock to-night, Walter Childcrase, an employe of the Toronto Electric Light Company, touched a live wire and instantly fell dead. Deceased leaves a wife and two children.

Caught in the Act.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 30.—Edward Wolcott, a young man from Omaha, has been arrested here for counterfeiting. He took the new silver quarters, cut out the letters "quar" and changed the last "r" to "n," making it read "ten dollars." The coins were then neatly plated with gold. He went to stores and bought 5 and 10-cent articles to get the change, and was arrested in the act of passing one.

Fatal Lightning Flash.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—A severe thunder storm passed over this city last evening, doing great damage. Two colored men named Richardson and Castle were struck by lightning and killed. A white man named Williams, standing a short distance away, was rendered unconscious. Four houses were struck by lightning at the East End. On the south side several houses were struck by lightning and a number of persons injured.

Australian Imports Increased.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 30.—A cable dispatch from London, stating that the Government of Victoria, Australia, had increased the import duty on orange pine $6 25 per 1,000 feet and the duty on canned fruit to 6 cents a pound (or about 15 cents per tin), has caused much excitement among business men here, and is regarded as the first gun in the foreign fight against the McKinley Bill. The McKinley Bill entirely barred out Australian wool from this country, and the Victoria Government has taken revenge. If the Australian colonies follow suit it will be a heavy blow to San Francisco merchants, as this is the port of entry for all these goods. The blow is particularly severe on freight goods and canners, as they have been several years in building up a market for California canned goods in Australia.

A Serious Insurrection.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 30.—The steamship Empress of India brings news of a serious insurrection in Fathban, China, caused by the extortions of the Chinese customs officers. Many commercial houses had suspended business, and the streets were crowded with excited people vowing vengeance upon the customs authorities. No boats with cargoes were allowed to land. Soldiers guard the custom houses and have had several encounters with the people. On June 29 several persons were killed and hundreds wounded. Fearing that there would be a general looting of the town, Consul Waters, representing the British Government, sent to Hong Kong for assistance, and the gunboat Tweed was sent up.

TOILERS' TROUBLES.

Second Month of the Homestead Conflict.

Powderly's Views—"Thou Shalt Not Take Thy Neighbor's Job."

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 29.—The second month of the great Homestead strike, which began June 29, opened rather discouragingly so far as the locked-out men are concerned, though they do not in the slightest admit it, and express as great confidence in ultimate victory as ever. To-day there are about 725 men in the mill. Merchants sell to the locked-out men at absolute cost, and the relief committee meets all demands upon it, though the long line of persons asking assistance daily grows larger.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Grand Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, appeared before the House Judiciary Committee this afternoon and made a broad denial of the statements of the Pinkertons relative to the character of their employes. He accused Mr. Depew of deliberately causing the New York Central strike and then going to Europe. He said the Pinkertons prevented the settlement of strikes. He believed that Carnegie would be able to introduce some non-union men into his shops, but not enough to defeat the Amalgamated Association. He believed with Carnegie that "thou shalt not take thy neighbor's job." There was no connection between the Amalgamated Association and the Knights of Labor.

PITTSBURG, July 29.—Another load of non-union workmen were taken to Homestead by steamer Tide this afternoon. About 800 men are now at work.

The strike at the Duquesne mill has forced the Isabella furnace to close down and 500 men are idle in consequence.

SLAUGHTERED BY THE SUN.

Long List of Deaths from Sunstroke.

Ninety Fatalities in Chicago Since Sunday Morning—Ravages of the Heat in New York and Philadelphia.

CHICAGO, July 29.—During the five days of hot weather beginning Sunday morning and closing with the looked-for rain last night, there were 90 deaths in Chicago from sunstroke. Other cases may yet terminate fatally. The number of prostrations was not short of 500.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Never in the history of the coroner's office of this city has the number of sudden deaths been reported in one day as requiring a coroner's investigation equaled those recorded today. Up to 11 p.m. there were reported to the police 39 deaths due to heat, and 97 prostrations.

Seven additional deaths and ten prostrations have been reported up to 1 a.m., making a total of 46 deaths and 107 prostrations. At the same hour ten additional deaths have been reported from Brooklyn, making the total deaths for Brooklyn 57.

In Brooklyn sixteen deaths due to heat were reported. One hundred employes of Havemeyer's sugar refinery there were prostrated.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 29.—Twenty-nine deaths were added to the results of the hot weather wave to day, but relief is now at hand. A thunder storm burst upon the city to-night, and the temperature has fallen several degrees. The maximum of heat was 98° this afternoon.

IS IT CHOLERA?

The Name Is Immaterial; the Death Rate Is Serious Enough.

LONDON, July 30.—The Lancet, in an editorial, says that the cholera is making steady headway in Russia, and that even the incomplete official returns received admit that 550 deaths are caused daily by the disease. It is spreading westward, and the report that it has invaded Roumania, if true, is of serious import to Europe. No proper account, the Lancet says, has yet been issued with regard to the disease in Paris. The Lancet concludes its article as follows: "When half the people attacked die, it matters little what name is given to the cholera in Paris and its suburbs."

The Paris correspondent of the Lancet telegraphs that Mr. Netter, a member of the Hygiene Publique, reports that in 29 out of 49 cases of illness which he has investigated, he has found the true cholera bacillus. M. Netter further says that true cholera is limited to the suburbs of Paris, and that only that form of disease known as cholerine exists in the city. Prof. Dieulafoy, however, states that he has found cholera bacillis in two cases in Paris.

The cholera has made its appearance in Poland, and several cases are reported at Warsaw. It continues to rage with virulence in the southeast of Russia.

RAINSFORD OUTDONE.

Proposal That the Municipalities Go Into the Liquor Business.

SIOUX FALLS, July 29.—The city council has decided to recommend in favor of inaugurating the municipal saloon scheme. The committee recommend the establishment of saloons in Sioux Falls, one for each ward. That there be appointed a saloon superintendent, under whom the working force of bartenders will be. The saloons are to be open from 4 a.m. to 10 p.m., nothing to be sold which can be obtained from Sioux Falls wholesalers and manufacturers, beer to be sold at 5 cents a glass, while whisky shall command 25 cents a drink. It is the purpose of the committee, if their plan is carried through, to lessen as much as possible the demand for spirituous liquors.

Traffic Through the "Soo."

DULUTH, Minn., July 29.—The annual statement of the Sault Canal for the fiscal year, ending June 30, shows the number of vessels passing through the canal into and out of Lake Superior was 11,557, an increase of 2,027 over 1891. Tonnage was by freight 10,000,000 tons, an increase of 15 per cent. over the year before recorded.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

And the Failures of the Past Seven Days.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade to-morrow will say: Extreme hot weather for an entire week has checked many kinds of business, but not prevented a considerable excess of trade over that of last year. The crop outlook is on the whole decidedly improving. Business failures during the last seven days: United States, 171; Canada, 22; total, 193, compared with 187 last week and 190 the week previous. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 247, representing 229 failures in the United States and 18 in Canada.

RUNS ITS CABLE OVERHEAD.

Novel Idea of a New Traction Company Organized in the East.

NEW YORK, July 30.—A new company has been organized in this city under the name of the Overhead Cable Traction Company, to work under patents for the use of the cable overhead instead of underground. The company proposes to use the cable overhead in place of the trolly system. It claims it can be made effective at less cost than the trolley, and at less than one-tenth of the cost of the underground system, and that for this purpose it may be made of more general use. It is even claimed that it can be applied to canal transportation. The company has a New Jersey charter and is preparing for active work.

THEY APPROVE OF THE POLICY.

Middlesex Graduates Discuss Toronto University Affairs.

And Pass a Resolution Expressing Their Sentiments—Addresses by Toronto Gentlemen.

A meeting of the graduates of Toronto University in law, arts and medicine, residing in this county, was held in the barristers' room, Court House, in this city yesterday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was announced to be the consideration of: 1. The election of a new governing body in the university. 2. The propriety of bringing out one or more nominees for the senate in arts for the western section of the Province. 3. The election of new officers of the association. The following gentlemen were present: E. R. Cameron, B.A., London; W. M. W. Creelman, B.A., LL.B., Toronto; H. A. McCallum, M.D., London; Prof. J. M. McCallum, B.A., M.D., Toronto; Rev. M. P. Talling, B.A., London; J. A. McEvoy, B.A., London; W. J. Logie, B.A., M.D., London; J. King, M.A., Berlin; J. H. Coyne, B.A., St. Thomas, and O. Weld, B.A., M.D., London.

Upon motion, Mr. E. R. Cameron took the chair. He expressed his regret at the small attendance, but explained their absence by the fact that the great proportion of members were no doubt taking their holidays. Owing to the short time still to elapse before the nomination papers had to be in it was thought necessary that the meeting should be held at once. The chairman stated that some members of the senate had been invited to attend the meeting to address the members upon the various matters which are agitating the graduate body, and which, it appeared, would have an important bearing upon the election, and that Mr. James H. Coyne, of St. Thomas; Mr. John King, of Berlin; Mr. W. F. Creelman, of Toronto, and Dr. McCallum, professor of physiology in the university, had very kindly accepted the invitation and would address the meeting.

Mr. Coyne was the first speaker. He referred to the great volume of business which of late years have been thrust upon the senate, necessitating meeting sometimes three or four times a month, and stated the best he as an outside graduate felt able to do was to attend the meetings at which matters affecting the policy of the university and generally matters of special importance came on to be considered. All of these meetings practically, he thought, he had attended. He pointed out in what way the senate during the last two years had exercised certain functions which previous to that time had been neglected with reference to the financial administration of the university. At one time there had been some question as to whether the senate had any control over the university moneys, but it was now virtually settled for all time to come that although the trustees have the power, with the sanction of the Government, of voting away the university funds, yet they could not do so without the approval of the senate.

Mr. John King said he had had the honor of receiving a nomination from the Middlesex Association three years ago, and was therefore pleased to accept their invitation to address them on university affairs. He followed up Mr. Coyne on the question of sacrifice, which members of the senate, outside of Toronto, had to make in attending meetings; that there were meetings of various committees to attend, which took up a great deal of time, and that no one should aspire to a seat upon the senate unless prepared to make sacrifices. He referred to the misleading circular which had been sent to the graduates, and which had appeared in the public press. The circular was calculated to give the impression that there were two parties in the senate, one supporting the old and one the new policy. Such was not the case. He did not believe there was a graduate in arts who would not heartily indorse all the reforms mentioned in the circular. He referred to the meeting in which the conduct of the vice-chancellor had been a subject of hot debate. He went there strongly prejudiced against the vice-chancellor, but after hearing his account of his stewardship he believed an error had been made of the head and not of the heart, and that this was almost the unanimous opinion of the senate. He had on that occasion voted against the amendment, although as an abstract proposition he heartily indorsed it, because it was so framed as to be tantamount to a motion of want of confidence. He did not think the action of the vice-chancellor should be mixed up in this election contest, as all agreed the new policy was the correct one.

Professor McCallum thought the present a time of crisis in the history of the university. He approved of the expenditure of moneys upon the anatomical building, but did not approve of the methods used. He explained how the difficulties, which had arisen by reason of the action of the vice-chancellor had been surmounted by a suggestion of his own that the medical department should pay a rent for the biological building occupied by them. He had thought a week ago that the vice-chancellor intended to retire, but from letters sent to him, asking if he would support the vice-chancellor if elected, he now was led to believe that the question of the vice-chancellorship was the most serious matter in this election.

Mr. W. F. Creelman stated that gross misrepresentations had been made in regard to the present elections. That a circular along with a red ticket of proposed members of the senate had been sent out together to all the graduates which gave the false impression that the names on the circular indorse the persons whose names appeared on the ticket. This was misleading and untrue. Many persons had signed the circular because they were in hearty sympathy with the general principles there enunciated, but whose sanction and approval of the ticket never had been given, nor had they been consulted in regard to the same. He felt satisfied that the present agitation was made to increase the representation of University College upon the senate. He thought that the representatives of the graduates upon the senate should be independent men, representing the university and not the college, and believed it would be an unfortunate thing if the college should have a preponderating influence on the senate.

After a number of questions had been propounded to the speakers and answered by them, the chair was taken by Dr. McCallum, and the following resolution, moved by Mr. Cameron, and seconded by Dr. Logie, was unanimously carried: "Resolved, that this meeting approves of the policy acted upon during the past two or three years; whereby the relation of the senate to the financial and educational administration of the university has been put upon a satisfactory basis, by the senate exercising its proper control over such administration, and recognizes gratefully the valuable work of the chancellor in the reorganization of the whole university system in all its faculties, and trusts that the development of the university, along the lines laid down, will continue, with the hearty co-operation of the whole body of the graduates, and that in the election of members of the senate such candidates will be chosen as will continue the policy so inaugurated."

It was also moved by Dr. Weld and seconded by Mr. Vining, "That this meeting desires to place on record its opinion that the graduates in the western section of the Province are entitled to their fair share of representatives on the senate."

A vote of thanks was passed to Messrs. Coye, King, McCallum and Creelman for kindness in attending the meeting and for their address on the important matters pertaining to the welfare of the university.

WITH AN INSANE SKIPPER.

The Bark Briso, with Only a Cook for a Crew, Is Sailing the Pacific.

GUAYMAS, Mexico, July 30.—The Mexican bark Briso is coursing through the waters of the Pacific Ocean in charge of an insane captain and his cook, unless both have perished. The Briso is a coast vessel, running between ports on the western coast of Mexico. She was under command of Capt. Fructivos Pascon, a man of long seafaring experience, whose family lives in a beautiful house in this city. It was one month ago that he bade his wife and children good-bye and set sail from here on his bark for Carms Islands, where the extensive salt deposit is located.

That was the last heard of him or his ship until yesterday, when three of the crew who sailed from here with him arrived in Guaymas and related a most startling story of cruelty and endurance. They say that all went well until the bark was within a few hours' sail of the island, when Capt. Pascon became insane. With drawn revolvers, he ordered the crew to change the vessel's course and sail for Cape St. Lucas.

The crew, in terror, obeyed, and the capo was reached after two days' sailing, during which time Capt. Pascon never closed his eyes in sleep, but stormed around on deck abusing the sailors in a terrible manner. The bark did not touch at Cape St. Lucas, the captain ordering the brig's course changed to Mazatlan. For three more days the crew were compelled to work without any rest.

A few hours out from Mazetlan the captain ordered the crew to sail the bark to Tiburon Island. One of the crew became mutinous and was shot deadlby the insane captain. The water gave out before Tiburon Island was reached, and the crew suffered terribly from thirst. The bark anchored off the island and all the crew, with the exception of the cook, Pablo Lozona, were driven ashore.

The bark then weighed anchor, and when last seen by the abandoned crew, was sailing straight out to sea. The three members of the crew were fifteen days making their way back to Guaymas. They suffered terrible hardships. Their comrades are expected to arrive here to-day.

THE BLIND MADE TO SEE.

Miss Dolliver's Sight Restored After Total Darkness of a Year.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Miss Dolliver, sister of Congressman Dolliver, of Iowa, was discharged from the New York Opthalmic Hospital at Twenty-third street and Third avenue a few days ago, having experienced a somewhat remarkable restoration to sight, after a total blindness which had affected one of her eyes for nearly a year. It is said that only one similar instance is recorded in medical annals, and that was the case of Governor Lucius Robinson, of this State, who was affected in the same way, and was successfully treated in the same institution.

Miss Dolliver about a year ago was opening a bottle of ginger ale, the cork from which flew out and struck her in the eye, causing apparent slight injury but considerable pain. She was treated by local oculists and it was supposed that she had entirely recovered. Some time afterward she found that her left eye was wholly bereft of sight. Mrs. Dolliver was kept in a recumbent position in a dark room for ten weeks and finally the retina floated back and once more attached itself to the choroid.

"FELT IT IN HIS BONES!"

Capt. Watkins Talks About the Flying Trip of the City of Paris.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The recent record-smashing trip of the City of Paris continues to furnish ample food for discussion by those interested in ocean travel. The commander of the City of Paris, Capt. Frederick Watkins, is the happiest man in seventeen States. To a newspaper representative Capt. Watkins exhibited his log, and pointed with pardonable pride to the following record of distances:

	Miles.
Friday, July 22	478
Saturday, July 23	501
Sunday, July 24	519
Monday, July 25	504
Tuesday, July 26	520
Wednesday, July 27, to Sandy Hook	263
Total	2,785

Actual running time, 5 days, 15 hours, 58 minutes; average knots per hour, 20.47.

"I felt it in my bones," said Capt. Watkins, "that, with any sort of good luck, so far as weather goes, we were going to break the record, and"—with a smile that flooded the cabin with a brilliant light—"we did it, didn't we?" he asked.

"Now, I'll tell you briefly of the voyage. We had splendid weather Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and on the last-named day we rolled off 519 miles, breaking the Teutonic's world record of 517 miles. I made up my mind to break that on the run, ending Monday, but a thick fog arose soon after midnight, and we had to slow down the engines for four and three-fourths hours, but, notwithstanding that, Chief Engineer Carnegie sent her 504 miles—a wonderful achievement. But there was Tuesday's run left us, and we made 520 miles. So we broke the best previous day's run by three miles, and we made an average 21.66 knots an hour. And when we made 263 miles and got off the Lightship, and we figured it out that we had beat all standing records—well, I was just a bit pleased, you know. You see, we had made the quickest passage by 33 minutes; we had made a day's run of 520 miles, as against 517, and an average day's speed of 20.47 knots per hour, as against 20.44.

"Here is a table of records for the past 26 years. The first record was made by the Scotia, and the last by the City of Paris. It is thus:

YEAR.	SHIP.	D.	H.	M.
1866	Scotia	8	2	48
1873	Baltic	7	20	9
1875	City of Berlin	7	15	48
1876	Germanic	7	11	37
1877	Britannic	7	10	53
1880	Arizona	7	7	23
1882	Alaska	6	18	37
1884	Oregon	6	11	9
1884	America	6	10	..
1885	Etruria	6	5	81
1887	Umbria	6	4	42
1888	Etruria	6	1	55
1889	City of Paris	5	19	18
1891	Majestic	5	18	8
1891	Teutonic	5	16	31
1892	City of Paris	5	15	58

"The best eastward record is held by the Paris' twin sister, the City of New York," continued Capt. Watkins, "and it is 6 days, 0 hours, 20 minutes. She ran 2,898 miles at an average speed of 20.07 knots per hour. All the records, you will notice, are made on western voyages. That is because of the superior quality of the coal we get on the other side, and for several minor reasons."

[A "knot" is a division of the ship's log line, used to measure the speed of the vessel. The number of knots which run off from the reel in half a minute shows the number of miles the vessel sails in an hour. Hence when she goes twenty miles an hour she is said to go twenty knots. The nautical mile is 6,086.7 feet, while the ordinary mile is 5,280 feet, or 800 less than the nautical mile or knot.]

"You have never met Miss Gotrox's father, have you?" "Never. He overtook me once I remember."

A PROMINENT FEATURE!

A Blessing to the Family!

The best physicians in Canada readily admit that Lactated Food is superior to all other foods now on the market. They are aware that it possesses all the necessary elements that the young infant requires, when it is deprived of nature's food—breast milk.

One prominent feature of Lactated Food is the employment of pure milk sugar, thus bringing it near to the standard of healthy human milk. The best medical authorities recommend the use of milk sugar in food for infants in place of cane sugar.

Cane sugar is largely employed in the common prepared foods, and has a tendency to produce fermentation in the stomach, and break up carbonic acid and alcohol, and thus augments irritation. It also produces gastric catarrh and diarrhea, and frequently conduces to constipation.

All these dangers are avoided when the mother feeds her infant on pure Lactated Food, which is relished by the little one, and is always retained on the weakest stomach. Lactated Food is, in hundreds of cases, the salvation of the child, and mothers readily admit this fact. Mothers who feed their infants on Lactated Food, are saved from the many worries which harass the mothers who use cow's milk and other foods. Lactated Food is a grand blessing to every member of the family, as well as to the little infant.

Their favorite brand is as much superior to it as it was to the raw and uncured leaf which the Indians of that day smoked.

CONVERSAZIONE.

If There Were Men in the Moon.

We must remember that in every fibre of our constitution we have been specially adapted to the life on this particular globe. We know how our senses are adjusted in harmony with the particular atmosphere in which the earth is surrounded; we have now to notice another point, in which the texture of our bodies is arranged to suit the material contents of this globe on which we dwell. It may seem strange to learn that the strength of our bones and muscles has been adjusted not solely with regard to the size of our bodies or the quantity of matter they may contain, but with reference to the dimensions and mass of the earth. It might be that no other globe, even though the atmosphere was exactly like our own both in density and in composition, even though it was supplied with water as ours is, even though it provided us with abundance of suitable food and had a climate agreeable to our constitution, yet it might be wholly impossible for us to exist there by reason of an incompatibility between the strength of our frames and the mass of the globe on which we stood.

Thus, to take the case of the moon, which only weighs about one-eightieth part of the earth; the gravitation with which the moon would draw all bodies toward it would be much less than the similar gravitation on the earth. The weights of all objects would be reduced to about one-sixth part of that which we find them to possess here. The buoyancy of our bodies would be so great that athletic feats would be easy on a body the size of the moon, which could never be attempted on this globe by beings with muscle like ours. If a man weighing twelve stone were to be transferred to the moon, the weight of his body, measured, at least, by the attraction which the moon would exercise upon it, would be reduced to about one stone. If his muscles and his frame remained the same, it would seem as if he would be able to jump over a wall twelve feet high on the small globe without any greater exertion than would be required to clear a wall two feet high on the earth. Looked at from every point of view, it seems hardly possible that there can be any life on the moon resembling the life that we know of on the earth.—[Good Words.

Living on a Magnet.

That the earth is a great magnet is a proposition that has become familiar to most readers of popular scientific literature. But it would be a great mistake to suppose that the origin of the earth's magnetic condition, or the laws of its manifestations are completely understood by men of science. In truth, among the most dazzling questions that science has yet to solve are those relating to the magnetic pole toward which the needle of the compass point is not fixed in position, but appears to rotate slowly around the geographical pole—the pole of the axis on which the earth turns—is in itself a great source of speculation.

A theory recently put forth by Mr. Henry Wilde, of England, to account for this and other pecularities of the earth's magnetism is just now attracting attention and, whatever else may be thought of it, it is highly interesting, not to say startling.

Mr. Wilde believes that the interior of the earth is in a fluid condition, and that the inner fluid sphere rotates around a different axis from that of the outer solid shell. Everybody knows that the axis of the earth is inclined about twenty-three and one-half degrees from a perpendicular to the ecliptic. But according to Mr. Wilde the axis of the ecliptic, and he conjectures that the earth's outer shell got skewed around twenty-three and one-half degrees at a remote period in the past when, being yet in a plastic condition from heat, the mass of matter which now forms the moon was whirled off from it.

The inner sphere he supposes to be in an electro-dynamic condition, as all hot masses resembling the sun appear to be, while the solid shell is permanently magnetized.

This curious theory would not get much of a hearing but for the fact that Mr. Wilde has constructed a model which he calls a magnetarium, and which consists of a sphere rotating inside of the shell of a common terrestrial globe, a system of electro-mechanism being provided which produces the proper magnetic conditions, and the axes of the two spheres being inclined to one another at the angle of 23½ degrees.

With this ingenious contrivance he has succeeded in reproducing all of the peculiarities of the magnetic currents observed on the surface of the earth. He has even corroborated some curious observations that Columbus made on the direction of the magnetic needle during his first voyage in search of the New World, by producing on the model of the earth the magnetic conditions which prevailed on the actual earth in 1492.

Whatever the result of Mr. Wilde's speculations and experiments may be, there is certainly a splendid field for discovery awaiting any person who earnestly undertakes to solve the many mysteries that yet remain about the colossal magnet on whose surface we dwell.

Not an Upstart.

Public men, if they are to be successful, must learn to stifle personal prejudices. Prince Talleyrand, who shifted his politics so skillfully that he served under several distinct and contradictory political systems in France, learned this lesson very early.

When M. Thiers, who was of humble origin, began to rise in the world, Talleyrand treated him with great consideration. This greatly displeased a high-bred lady of the prince's acquaintance.

"What!" she exclaimed, "do you receive this upstart?"

"Madame," Talleyrand answered, "he is not an upstart. He has got up!"

How Old is the Potato?

The potato was introduced into Europe from the western hemisphere. History has it that Christopher Columbus was the first European who ever tasted a potato. It is doubtful if he ever enjoyed eating our favorite tuber. At all events, the vegetable that he ate at Cuba in 1492 and brought home to Genoa was a sweet potato. The first potato grown east of the Atlantic Ocean was planted by Claudius in the botanical gargens of Vienna in 1588. As is well known, Sir Walter Raleigh found the potato in Virginia and took specimens back to England. The original home of the popular tuber is Chili. It was brought north by the Spaniards.

For many years the potato in England was looked upon as being poisonous and unwholesome. This perhaps is not to be wondered at, as it was commonly eaten raw, the method of cooking it not being known. Gradually its usefulness as a palatable vegetable became known. A committee of the Royal Society urged in 1652 that all the fellows who possessed land should "plant potatoes and persuade their friends to do the same, in order to alleviate the distress that would accompany a scarcity of food. In 1738 the first field of potatoes was planted in the lowlands of Scotland.

As soon as the people of Ireland knew how to cook the potato it quickly became the one leading vegetable of the land. Its cheapness of cultivation, large yields and nutritive qualities made it become immensely popular, and as it was the chief article of food, it ere long obtained its present common name—Irish potato. It is not only of value as a food plant; the Irish were the first to discover that whisky could be made from it. Starch is made from it for the laundry and for the manufacture of farina. The dried pulp from which the starch has been extracted is used for making boxes. From the stem and leaves a narcotic is extracted. In some places cakes and puddings are made from the potato-flour.

How They Were Married.

A reporter for the St. Louis Republic has been talking with the wife of "a popular preacher" about marringes which have taken place at the parsonage. She has witnessed a good many, some of them attended with highly ludicrous incidents. One day she says, a fine-looking young farmer, roughly dressed, with an ox-whip in his hand, knocked at the door and was shown into the parlor where he laid his whip upon the mantelpiece, and proceeded to make known his errand.

"I say, parson," he began with some embarrassment, "if I was to figger roun' to-day till I got things fixed to my notion, could I come up here an' git married?"

"Certainly," said the minister, "certainly. What seems to be the trouble?"

"Wal," answered the farmer, I've got my license—that's all ready; I got it mor'n a week ago. An' now I've got a place to get married at. That's two things. But I ain't said nothing to the girl yet. She's in town to-day though, an' I seen her in a store a-buyin' some things, an' I'm a-goin' right down an' ask her."

He took down his whip, flung it over his shoulder, and went out of the door and down the street. The minister and his wife laughed, but the wife went often to the window and peeped out to see whether the expectant couple were in sight.

More than an hour passed; she had nearly given them up; but at last they appeared—the girl as the parson's wife expresses it, "a perfect little beauty, and as neat as a pin."

"I had lots o' trouble a-findin' her, said the farmer by way of explanation, and then they stood up and were married, while the bride seemed hardly to know whether to smile or to weep. But when the ceremony was over, and the minister's wife said something to her about it's being so sudden, she answered, while tears brimmed in her eyes: "But you see, ma'am, I've loved Jim ever since I can remember, and he was just too stupid to find it out."

WESTERN ONTARIO.

BRANT.

The telephone service at Brantford has not yet been placed in order since its recent damage by lightning. The loss is placed at $5,000.

During a thunder storm in Brantford the other afternoon lighning struck a wire clothes line extending between two houses in Eagle place. In the one case a cat was killed in the woodshed, and in the other a number of flowers were scorched, but, strange to say, the fluid did not enter either of the structures.

Westminster, B. C., News: A brave of the Six Nation Indians, who hails from the Seneca Reserves, Brantford, Ont., is under arrest, charged with pointing a rifle, knowing the same to be loaded, at a member of the Siwash Nation on Wednesday night at Mr. J. D. Munn's cannery, North Arm. The Mohawk was arrested by Mr. Morseby and tried before Capt. Pittendrigh at the police station last night. Several Indian witnesses were examined, and the accused was committed for trial.

ESSEX.

While Abram Major and wife and Arthur Major and wife, all of McGregor, were driving home Wednesday night the horses ran away, throwing them all out. The women were severely injured.

The Windsor-Detroit telephone cable has been repaired. Over 1,200 feet of cable was lost, the value of which will not fall short of $1,000. The thunderstorm of Wednesday played sad havoc with the telephones, over fifteen having been burned out.

Some boys in Essex wanted to see the fire department turn out, and fired an empty house belonging to G. J. Thomas. The building was saved and the boys will be arrested.

The Windsor Bar Association has adopted resolutions of condolence for the widow of the late J. H. Wilkinson.

When off Bar Point Thursday evening the tug International picked up the body of a young man which had probably been in the water only a short time. Coroner Bell, of Amherstburg, took the remains in charge. Nothing was found in the pockets to establish his identity. The description is: Thirty years of age, 5 feet 4 inches, weight 140 pounds. No marks of violence were found on the body.

The barn of Maxime Antillo, of Petite Cote, was struck by lightning Wednesday and destroyed, together with Antillo's season's crop. There is a small insurance.

Licenses for the remaining nine months of the year have been granted to Alex. Wilcox, W. H. Maloney and Mrs. M. Addeman, of Amherstburg; John S. Middough and W. Pastorious, of Kingsville; E. C. Luck, W. H. Ryall and John J. Wigle, of Leamington, and Mizael Dupuis, of Comber. The licenses of John Thrasher and Mrs. M. Malone, of Essex town, were extended for one month.

ELGIN.

The annual games of the Dutton Caledonian Society will be held Aug. 23.

Three barns of John Ashford, Orford township, were struck by lightning the other night, and with the contents burned to the ground. There were 500 bushels of old wheat in the granary.

S. O. Ferry has been appointed city passenger agent of the G. T. R. at St. Thomas.

A severe thunderstorm passed over Springfield about noon Friday, burning out the instruments in the M. C. R. station. The station was also set on fire, but it was extinguished without serious damage to the buildings.

Information has reached Aylmer that the visit to Ottawa of the deputation seeking to have Aylmer made an outport of entry of St. Thomas, had been successful, and intimating that G. I. Walker would be appointed customs officer.

Mr. Else, of Southwold, has a wagon between 52 and 55 years old built originally for the grandfather of Mr. D. McColl, M. P. P.

It is expected that Crossley and Hunter will hold evangelistic meetings at Springfield about the middle of August.

KENT.

Ridgetown's rate is 15 mills.

Wm. Huff, Thamesville, got two fingers on his right hand badly damaged with a logging chain the other day.

After a long and painful illness, which finally obliged him to seek hospital treatment, three months since Capt. Sutherland, owner of the steam tug Alfred Wilson, and a resident of Chatham for twenty years, died a day or two ago in the 59th year of his age. The deceased owned a farm in Raleigh and a house and lot in Chatham. His wife died a few years ago.

LAMBTON.

A large number of summer resorters are in camp at Grand Bend.

A. C. Pousette, of Sarnia, has decided to run for the reeveship of that town, made vacant by the death of Mr. M. Fleming.

A fire broke out the other night in the dwelling-house of Fred Abraham, corner of Dufferin and Sanders avenue, Sarnia, about 700 feet south of the tunnel portal. On account of the distance of the place from the hydrant two divisions of hose had to be coupled to reach the fire, and before water could be got on the house was about a total loss. The building was a story and a half frame, valued at about $700.

George Morphy, a yardman at the Tunnel station, Sarnia, was seriously injured the other day while trying to couple cars. The draw heads were of different heights, and the cars caught Morphy's hand as they came together. Dr. Poussette, the Grand Trunk tunnel surgeon, thinks the hand can be saved, but in a mutilated condition.

MIDDLESEX.

The trustees of the Belmont school have secured the services of Richard Manning as principal for the ensuing year.

Charles Wilson, of Parkhill, has been committed to jail for 30 days by P. M. Wells for throwing a stone through a window of the Hastings House, and doing damage to the extent of $3. He had the option of paying damages and costs.

One day this week while H. C. Wilson, of the Bank of Commerce, was sitting in the C. P. R. telegraph office he leaned a little too far back in his chair, with the result that the legs flew out. To save himself he threw out his hand against the wall, when it came in contact with a piece of plate glass which had been set there to be out of the way. The arm was painfully gashed and bled so copiously as to frighten those present. Doctors were soon in attendance and the bleeding was stopped, though it was found necessary to put several stitches in the wounded member. It will be some time before Mr. Wilson will regain the use of his right hand.—[Strathroy Age.

NORFOLK.

John C. H. Herron, clerk of the township of Middleton, one of the oldest and most respected residents of the county of Norfolk, died the other day after much suffering from gangrene. Deceased was born in the county of Armagh, Ireland, in 1823 and came to Canada in 1845.

Port Dover stores close every Thursday afternoon for a half holiday.

Chas. Potter, Port Rowan, has been appointed principal of the Watford High School at a salary of $900.

The new Waterford High School building is being pushed rapidly along. The walls are nearly up. When completed it will be a handsome structure that will add greatly to the appearance of the village.

Victor store and postoffice have been burned. Loss partially covered by insurance.

OXFORD.

One day last week the son of Theodore King, of Woodstock, now staying at J. King's, Winona, fell from a cherry tree and broke his leg above the ankle.

The county of Oxford will spend nearly $8,000 for furnishing for the splendid new court house in Woodstock.

A letter has been received by friends in Woodstock from Rev. W. H. Boyle, formerly of St. Thomas, but now at Colorado Springs, contradicting the report now going the rounds of the press that he had lately suffered from another attack of hemorrhage and that Mrs. Boyle was suffering from gastric fever.

While Mrs. MacQueen, Ingersoll, was preparing potatoes for dinner she cut one of them in two and found imbedded in its center two smaller ones perfectly formed.

PERTH.

John Barr, 10th con., Hibbert, on going to the field on Sunday morning was surprised to find one of his horses killed by lightning.

Milton Latham, of New York, who is in Stratford on business as a member of the Perth Flax Milling Company, of which Ald. Hegarth is manager, says that it is quite probable that his company may go on with the erection of a twine making factory in that city. They have now got possession of the machinery in Boston which the American company tried to withhold from them, and it the outlook is favorable this fall the company may carry out the original intention.

WELLAND.

A. Hendershot, councilor and ex-mayor of Welland, had a statement printed and distributed to the effect that David Ross, now councilor, and others, did, when Mr. Ross acted as mayor, run the town in debt for waterworks, and that they appropriated part of the money to their own use. D. Ross swore out a warrant charging Mr. Hendershot with criminal libel. His hearing was held before Police Magistrate Hill, of Niagara Falls, and the evidence given went to show that all moneys had been properly accounted for, and Hendershot was committed for trial at the Fall Assizes, being released on his own bail. A short time ago Hendershot made similar charges in the council, and an expert accountant was engaged at an expense of $100 to go all over the waterworks expenditures, and he pronounced them all correct.

TO HELP THE WOMEN.

Curling Tongs and Other Utensils Newly Invented.

This year comes an inventor with a flat-iron kept at an even temperature by an electric current. Another man produces a device to hold a nutmeg against the grater and still allow it to slide freely up and down a pole. No more torn fingers and waste nutmegs in the season which requires cooling drinks when the temper is the hottest. A third offers a combined dust-pan and broom, which gathers up the dust without bending over. No more aching backs if this man can help it. A fourth produces an ice shave which shaves and collects the ice without moving the block, in order to render the journey to the refrigerator less a nightmare. Still another presents an automatic indicator to measure the height of the oil in filling the lamp. No more running over of oil and soiled sides and fingers with this man by. Nor are woman's vanities forgotten, for here is an asbestos pocket tube for alcohol, with the necessary standards for the curling iron's support, small enough for a corner in the traveling bag, and crimps at any time of the day or night.

After the Grip

And after typhoid fever, diphtheria, pneumonia or other prostrating diseases, Hood's Sarsaparilla is just what is needed to restore the strength and vigor so much desired, and to expel all poison from the blood. It has had wonderful success in many such cases.

Hood's Pills act especially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. Signed, JOHN D. COX.

—[BROWNING.

London, Saturday, July 30.

FEW people will find comfort in the fact that the cells in the county jail are the coolest retreats to be found in the city these days. The record of the thermometer, nevertheless, establishes this fact.

THE British consul at Baltimore recommends his fellow-countrymen, who may desire to immigrate to go to Maryland and Virginia for homes, instead of to the West. This is scarcely doing the fair thing by Canada.

IN THE whole of Hamilton the private subscription in aid of the St. Johns, Nfld., sufferers is only $87! Londoners subscribed that amount many times over, thanks, in some degree, to Mayor Spencer's persistent efforts. Why, one firm have subscribed $250.

The Canadian Evangelist, a paper published in the interests of the denomination known as the Disciples, claims that the numbers of its people have been misrepresented by the census. It makes this serious allegation: "We hear that in some quarters the census takers refused to enroll our brethren as Disciples, but enrolled them under some other head." The faith of the people in the correctness of the census is being constantly shocked these days.

WHAT a burlesque on decency and common sense it is for a man to make speeches in favor of British connection and then go down to Ottawa and defend and advocate the vilest features of American politics—features that all clean Americans are ashamed of!—[Canada Presbyterian.

Yes, the men who are the readiest to defend the London outrage are the loudest in their praise of English institutions. As if the theft of a seat in Parliament, with the connivance of a judge, were a practice that would be tolerated for a day in Great Britain!

HON. EDWARD BLAKE modestly desires to keep in the background in Great Britain as much as possible. He wisely refuses to be regarded as a Parliamentary leader, but the eminence he has already obtained influences his many admirers to bring him to the front. The Eighty Club have demanded that he address them on Thursday evening next, when he will be entertained at a banquet, and on Monday week he will be the chief speaker at the home rule union meeting, when he will address himself more especially to the good effects of local self-government in Canada. Mr. Blake's many friends in Canada will be glad to hear that he has arrived in London in the best of health and spirits.

ECCENTRICITIES OF THE CENSUS.

Dominion Census Bulletin, No. 12, which has just come to hand, deals with manufacturing establishments by cities, towns and villages separately. The following are the returns for London (municipality):

	1881.	1891.
Number of establishments	371	804
Capital invested	$4,650,784	$6,132,193
Number of hands	4,917	6,043
Wages paid	$1,511,723	$1,847,353
Cost of material used	4,653,282	3,969,565
Value at factory of products	8,660,627	8,235,207

This would be regarded as a satisfactory exhibit so far as increase of factories is concerned if it could be guaranteed as reliable, but grave doubts must be entertained as to the value of the alleged count. It must not be forgotten that one-third of what is now London city was not contained within the corporation limits in 1881. That would account for a good deal of the alleged increase. But any one who has lived here during the past fifteen years and can size up the surroundings can judge for himself of the probable truthfulness of the statement. It would almost appear as if every corner grocery were included under the head of "manufactory."

Doubts are thrown on the count for St. Thomas, Brockville, Barrie and other places, and the Montreal Herald does not hesitate to challenge the accuracy of the general statement regarding the Province of Quebec. In Barrie, for example, the population increased in the decade from 4,854 to 5,550, or 15 per cent., but the manufacturing establishments are shown to have increased from 77 to 139, or 60 per cent., and the number of hands employed from 355 to 551, or 52⅓ per cent. This is, as was no doubt intended, a famous showing for the N. P. But people on the spot, and in a town of that size it does not take long to count over the establishments, say that not a single new industry has been started in the past ten years, while several have ceased to exist. The number of hands employed in anything in the nature of manufacture, it is declared, will scarcely [illegible] has increased in population from 7,609 to 8,793, or 15 per cent., but its manufacturing establishments are said to have increased 77½ per cent., and the hands employed 45 per cent. The number of hands now employed in manufactures is stated to be 1,161, which certainly seems a very large proportion out of 8,793. The Recorder of that town would like to know where the 62 new industrial establishments are located. No one on the spot seems to know of them, and it very pertinently inquires "just what is included under the head of industrial establishments?"

The Montreal Herald, commenting on these remarkable discrepancies, says it is very curious to see this question answered. In Bulletin 10 it is stated: "An industrial establishment is a place where one or several persons are employed in manufacturing, altering, making up or changing from one shape into another, materials for sale, use or consumption." This is satisfactory so far as it goes; but how, pertinently asks the Herald, can we account for the fact that in the industrial census of Quebec Province there is no classification, excepting under the head of "all other industries," for the large number of 3,484 establishments employing 14,404 hands and using steam engines of 6,161 horse-power? One-eighth of the work people in Quebec Province engaged in nameless industries is the absurd deduction of the census compiler.

This is the conclusion of our contemporary:

"Some explanation on this head must be given if the commissioners are to escape a charge of cooking the figures in order to suit. The industrial census was apparently taken in order to exalt the N. P., and to that end considerable latitude seems to have been allowed in the definition of an industrial establishment. It would be interesting to have a clear detail, say of Barrie or Brockville, showing exactly what establishments there are, and giving names to those places that are so far nameless, in order that the public may know whether barbers and lawyers and parsons and doctors are pressed in to swell up the number of those who follow the N. P. wheresoever he goeth."

This is a reasonable suggestion, and unless it is carried out the alleged census of manufactories will ever remain under suspicion.

THE POLICEMEN'S PETITION.

Some time since, the members of the city police force—as painstaking and efficient a body of men as is to be found in America—petitioned the police commissioners for a revision of their hours of duty. The men desire to give the taxpayers full value for the money they receive, but they have deemed it a hardship to have to be on duty for long hours at a stretch, summer and winter, without time for eating their meals, or for going to church on Sunday. They ask nothing unreasonable when they claim that the commissioners should apply a remedy, and place them on a footing at least equally favorable with that enjoyed by police officers in such cities as Hamilton and Toronto, where the condition of life are about equal to what they are here. The policeman does not expect, as we understand his request, that he shall be as free an agent as other civic employes, or that he shall be able to go to church regularly, but he does look to the commissioners for considerate treatment, and we are satisfied that he will not look in vain. The force has been improving in recent years, and the number of first-class men in the city's service has never been so large as it is now. The commissioners will not err if they make the lot of the policemen somewhat more tolerable than it is now, and they will have the indorsation of the taxpayers.

ANNEXATION OF LAKE ERIE.

Sir Edward Watkins' scheme to unite Ireland to Scotland by a tunnel passing under St. George's Channel, and to build a ship canal through the Emerald Isle as a means of reconciling the Irish to government by garrison, is so very ambitious that it nearly took one's breath away when first placed in cold cablegram form. But this enterprise of the distinguished railway magnate is as nothing compared with the proposal of a correspondent of the Monetary Times. "It is a known fact," he opens out, "that in the æons of ages past, before the upheaval that formed our present lakes and mountains, a mighty river and valley wended its way across from the States, where Lake Erie now is, through Dundas Valley to Lake Ontario. This valley has been traced by scientific geologists, and is earthy, not rocky." So far the writer has plain sailing, or rather, plain digging, though he should not bank too highly on the assumption that there are no rocks in the Dundas Valley. "The simple, natural proposition," he continues, "is to construct a large syphon, say ten feet in diameter, place one end in Lake Erie, the lower end at the head of the gorge, former valley, west of Dundas; then get the water flowing, and this great symphon current, with over 175 feet head or fall, will wear and carry away the loose, disintegrated soil, receding toward the fountain head at the rate of two and a half miles per month, and will eventually drain the lake, reclaim 14,000 square miles, or 9,000,000 acres of the finest alluvial land in the world, which can be at once valued at over $300,000,000. The removed debris of the new river channel will fill up the low parts of Dundas Valley and Hamilton Bay, and by proper guidance of the new stream along the south shore of the bay from Dundas, Hamilton will ever have a deep, noble, navigable river, where the lake commerce of the great Northwest world will pass its doors. Canal locks and unlimited electric power stations can be built at convenient points from where old Erie was, to Hamilton, that could be utilized by the M. C. R., G. T. R, C. P. R., and T., H. and B. Railway. Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, etc., would become inland cities, and their immense iron and other trades must of a necessity be removed to the water-front of Dundas and Hamilton valleys. Niagara Falls will then lose its wide-world prestige, and be a mere stripling continuation of Chippewa Creek, and the proposed Monument City at Queenston will be a misty myth of the past."

There is an enterprise for you! Beside it, the ship railway from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario would be a mere toy and the enlarged Erie Canal a creek. Let the work proceed, and let the editor of the Dundas Banner be appointed master of navigation!

Lord Salisbury, the British prime Minister, has never once visited the Queen at Balmoral since June, 1880, when he went there after Mr. Gladstone's resignation to kiss her Majesty's hand on being appointed Prime Minister. Lord Beaconsfield had a similar dislike of Balmoral, whibh he visited but once during his tenure of office.

The French newspapers tell of a very interesting match that came off in France. Two women in good society challenged each other to talk fast. Each was to utter as many words as possible in a fixed time. Each woman talked three consecutive hours. One uttered 203,560 words. The other won the match with 296,000 words.

Siberia signifies "thirsty." Sicily is "the country of grapes." Caledonia means "a high hill." Asia signifies "in the middle," from the fact that ancient geographers thought it between Europe and Africa. Italy signifies "a country of pitch," from its yielding great quantities of black pitch. Hibernia is "utmost" or "last habitation." Britain is "the country of tin," great quantities being found in it.

A recently-discovered letter of Carlyle gives us the opinion of novels entertained by him in the year 1866. To a budding story-teller he wrote to suggest that she should "shove her own novel well aside for a good while or forever, and be shy even of reading novels. If she do read let it be good and wise books, which not one in 10,000 of the kind called 'novels' now is." And yet Carlyle was himself guilty of at least beginning to write a novel.

A most valuable and important industrial discovery is that recently made by R. G. Guptell, a glass manufacturer of Anderson, Ind. He has rediscovered the lost art of casting glass pipes, which is claimed to have been carried on by the ancient Egyptians. Some capitalists have been interested in the invention, a factory has been erected at Pendleton, Ind., and last week the first castings were successfully made. The pipes are said to be cheaper than ever, as well as more durable and cleaner. They are suitable for sewers and for gas and water mains.

The daring rider is at present somewhere on the broad Western plains, en route for the Pacific coast, and during his two-year jaunt he will traverse Japan, China, India, Persia, Turkey, Austria, Germany, Holland, France, England, Scotland and Ireland. Mr. Lenz will communicate his experience to Outing from convenient points of his journey, illustrating his articles by photos taken by himself. The opening chapter describes the trip across the Alleghanies from Pittsburg via Washington to New York, and is profusely illustrated.

Copper-plating sheet zinc for building puposes has been tried with considerable success in Germany, the zinc combining well with the copper. The zinc is cleaned with soda and purified by a weak acid bath. In 24 parts of water 1 part of refined verdigris and 12 parts of cream of tartar are dissolved, and the mixture is heated to the boiling point, when 3 or 4 parts of Spanish white are added. The latter is decomposed and precipitated as lime tartrate. The dark-blue liquid, after filtering, can be used as a bath for the sheet zinc or for the production of copper-plating paste. An immovable zinc object can be painted with the copper solution and a chalk compound that can be brushed. The process is of value for architectural purposes when it is desired to remedy the unpleasant effects of zinc ornamentation.

GREATEST SKIN CURES

Cuticura Cures All Skin Eruptions, Gives a Clear Complexion Free From Pimples.

Too much praise cannot be said of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, as I have used them for the last year and a half or so, and find them to be the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers and humor remedies of the age. I have used a great many so-called toilet soaps, and I find CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used. I find it far superior to all other toilet or medicinal soaps. It cures all skin eruptions, and gives a clear complexion. As for shampooing I would use no other, and for the face either, as it is a cure for all pimples, blackheads, eczema and all irritations and roughness of the face. For after using the CUTICURA SOAP awhile, it makes the face smooth and cool, and does not give that burning sensation which so many other toilet soaps do. Try the CUTICURA REMEDIES and you will not regret it that you have ever done so.

ANARCHY IN INDIANA.

Five Hundred Drunken Italians Running Amuck About Star City.

STAR CITY, Ind., July 29.—Fifteen hundred Italians are employed in this immediate vicinity laying a pipe line to Chicago. About one-third of them have been on a drunk for three or four days, and are terrorizing this whole section of country.

Farmers have barricaded their houses, and no one ventures out unarmed and alone. All work is suspended, saloons and stores are wrecked, women are assaulted, and in one instance they attempted to lynch a man who resisted their efforts to rob him. The officers are powerless and anarchy prevails.

THE ALVA CANNOT BE RAISED

A Schooner Struck the Wreck and Was Towed Ashore.

CHATHAM, Mass., July 29.—After the wrecking steamer Rescue has made a thorough examination of the sunken Vanderbilt yacht Alva it will be decided whether to raise or demolish her. It is said by those who know her position that she cannot be raised.

W. K. Vanderbilt has returned from the wreck of the Alva. He is discouraged over the prospects of raising her. The yacht is sinking deeper into the sand. The schooner Everett Webster, of Philadelphia, which struck the Alva, did irreparable damage, knocking off the smokestack and staving in her bulwarks.

ONTARIO'S CROP PROSPECTS.

Satisfactory Reports From All Points in the Province—Average or Unusually Heavy Yields.

The frequent and heavy rains which have impartially visited all parts of the Province during the present season, and the excessive heat which has prevailed during the past few days, has not had the generally injurious effect upon the farming country that was feared. Reports from various parts of Ontario are almost unanimous in stating that cereals and vegetables have not suffered from an apparent excess of rain and heat, and there is assurance from nearly every point of either good average crops, or of unusual abundance.

In a few districts the hot weather has damaged some of the softer crops, but in these cases the hope is expressed that more rain will provide a remedy.

In other places where wet weather has been continuous, there is no report of damage already effected, but merely a dread that more rain might create a rust among the grain. In two or three sections the thunderstorms beat down some fields of grain, but on the whole the injury caused thereby has been insignificant.

Muskoka has enjoyed both the rains and the hot weather, and states that both were favorable to her soil. From some points it is reported that the hot weather was just what was wanted, and from others that the frequent rains had a most beneficial effect.

Generally the information received shows that the crops have matured rapidly, and that there are excellent yields from all fields. Highly satisfactory statements are made respecting wheat, barley, oats, peas, etc. Hay will be remarkably abundant, and root crops are either up to the average or beyond it. Fruits were also doing well everywhere.

TERRIBLE BOILER EXPLOSION.

Four Men Instantly Killed and Another Will Not Survive.

GAYLORD, Mich., July 29.—The most frightful accident in the history of this county occurred yesterday morning on the north shore of Otsego Lake at the shingle mill of Hartwell & Smith soon after starting, with 50 pounds of steam. The mill was blown into atoms with the following fatalities: John Thompson, of Deerfield, the jointer, aged 40, dead. He leaves a family of five. Irvin Hutchins, aged 33, bolter, dead. He leaves a family of three. Leon Skinner, aged 45, a packer, of Five Lakes, Lapeer county, dead, He leaves a family. Andrew Szmada, aged 25, fireman, dead. Frank Davis, sawyer, badly hurt. William Small, of Gaylord, packer; will die. The mill had only been built 90 days. It is generally understood, as there were two boilers, that too much steam was on.

Lumber Prices Advanced.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 29.—At a meeting of lumbermen yesterday it was decided to advance the prices on all classes of lumber, beginning Aug. 2. The advance is from 25 to 40 cents.

Killed by the Sting of a Bee.

HILLSBORO, Ill., July 29.—Mrs. Robert Morrell, an old lady living ten miles north of Hillsboro, was yesterday stung on the back of the neck by a bee and died from the effects in 30 minutes. Mrs. Morrell had been in the best of health previous to the sting.

The Artful Dodger's Death.

BUFFALO, July 29.—The inquest into the death of Simeon Jacobwitz the "artful dodger" killed at Eagle Park on Grand Island on July 20, was begun by Coroner Ransom. An "artful dodger" is a person who sticks his head through a hole in a curtain for a target, and Jacobwitz was hit on the head by the ball thrown at him, and died. No new facts were brought out.

Another Held on the Canadians.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—According to a dispatch from Kingston Canadian tugs and barges can be prohibited from going through the United States waters of the River St. Lawrence on their way to Montreal. The only route for the tug with a long tow is down past Clayton and Alexandria Bay, as the islands are too numerous and currents too swift to permit of them taking any other. A serious check to the grain carrying trade would be given if this route should be shut off.

Notable Wrecking Feat.

DETROIT, Mich., July 29.—The Canadian steamer City of Owen Sound, which foundered in the heavy gale of Oct. 24, 1887, on Georgian Bay, has been at last raised and taken to Little Current. Her cargo of grain is reported in good condition, just as if it had been recently submerged. The steamer was raised by means of iron pontoons, and the Collins Bay Wrecking Company will make a small fortune out of the venture. The steamer lay in deep water just inside the Cove Island passage. She had long been given up as a total loss.

CAPAZZA'S PARACHUTE.

Successful Experiment Near Paris with a Safety Invention.

A very interesting and successful experiment has been made in Paris by M. Capazza, the well-known aeronaut, with a "safety parachute" which he has invented. The apparatus is placed above the balloon, and to it are attached a number of very long ropes. If the balloon bursts the gas swells out the parachute, and so helps to diminish the rapidity of the descent. At the top of it is a small funnel through which the gas passes slowly, and by this arrangement the parachute is kept steady. This is the principle of M. Capazza's invention. The parachute used in the experiment is of rather voluminous dimensions, and the car is fixed at the longest possible distance from the balloon, in order that it may not be entangled in the debris. In rather equally weather M. Capazza made his ascent from the gas works at La Villette, his wife being among the spectators. The lady, however, did not seem at all nervous. "I married Capazza," she said, "because I was sure of his courage. I am not a bit afraid." The couple were only wedded a few weeks ago.

It was amid loud cheers from the assembled spectators that the order "Lachez tout!" was given, and then the balloon, drifting in a northeasterly direction, rose in about five minutes to the altitude of 1,200 metres, which the aeronaut desired to attain. M. Capazza then burst the balloon by means of a knife placed at the top, and to which a cord had been attached. Most of the spectators were horrified at the sight of the aerostat, now reduced to a shapeless mass, as it fell slowly on the car, but not interfering in any way with the development of the parachute, which, filling out until it looked like a large saucer turned upside down, hardly swerved in its motion, but came steadily down at the rate of about six feet per second. M. Capazza finally alighted in a cornfield at Drancy, in the neighborhood of Pantin, the descent having occupied a little more than ten minutes.

The experiment is regarded as satisfactory in every way, and there is only one opinion as to the success of the invention and the pluck displayed by the enterprising aeronaut. Connoisseurs were much impressed with the manner in which the "safety parachute" behaved from the moment when the balloon was burst, and also with the practical character of the precautions taken to prevent the aerostat from encumbering its movements. The steady balance for which M. Capazza had provided, was maintained from the first, and the ladies, many of whom were so panic-stricken at the moment when the balloon was ripped up that they nearly fainted away, were reassured long before the bold aeronaut reached terra firma. As for his wife, her confidence never forsook her, for her faith in M. Capazza's skill and presence of mind is unbounded. It is believed that an immense advance has been made through this invention in the ballooning art, and that, thanks to it, all chances of accidents occurring is now reduced to a minimum.

A CANADIAN IN ENGLAND.

Interview in Globe with Mr. Davis, M.P.P.

At the request of the Liberal Association, he also addressed meetings in Edinburgh in favor of Mr. McEwan. He had the pleasure of knowing that both these gentlemen were elected by large majorities. Mr. Davis found a stronger feeling of sympathy for Canada than he expected to find. He was introduced at each meeting as a Canadian, and that fact was always cheered to the echo. One enthusiastic meeting closed with cheers for the Grand Old Man and the Canadian. But he noticed at the meetings that the people never cheered for the Queen. Each side appeared to hold its own meetings, and there were no joint meetings of both parties such as are held in Canada. The Liberal Council of Glasgow provided Mr. Davis and his friend Mr. Newton with tickets for the platform at Mr. Gladstone's great meeting in the Theater Royal. They were seated only a few feet from where the Grand Old Man spoke. Although they expected much, they were surprised at the power and eloquence of Mr. Gladstone. The old man 83 years of age, pleaded for an hour and twenty minutes in a lofty and patriotic manner for Ireland, declaring that the granting of local rights would consolidate the British nation by uniting Ireland with England and Scotland in a real and not a paper union. The reception which the Grand Old Man received in the streets of Glasgow was unparalled. There were enormous crowds everywhere, and mounted police had to clear the way for his carriage. There were scenes one sees only once in a lifetime. Mr. Davis wonders how, in the absence of home rule, the Imperial Parliament can get along at all with public business. In addition to all imperial matters, any local matters of any importance have to come before the Imperial House, causing congestion of business and great expense. A gentleman of Bristol instanced one case of an expropriation for some local work, in which the cost of obtaining the act was about one-third of the whole cost of the undertaking.

Selling Wives in England.

The following clippings are copied word for word as they appeared in British papers of the dates named:

London Morning Herald, March 11, 1802: On the 11th of last month a person sold at the market cross in Chapel en la Firth a wife, a child and some beggar's furniture for 11 shillings.

London Morning Herald, April 10, 1802: A butcher sold his wife by auction on last market day at Hereford. She brought £1 4 shillings and a bowl of punch.

Annual Register, Feb. 14, 1806: A man named John Gasthorpe exposed his wife for sale in the market at Hull, but owing to the crowd brought together he was obliged to take her away and defer the sale. However, he brought her out again in the evening and she was sold for 20 guineas to a person by the name of Housman.

Morning Post, Oct. 10, 1807: One of those disgraceful scenes took place at Knaresbough. * * * A man brought his wife, equipped in the usual way, and sold her for sixpence and a quid of tobacco.

Insects in the Ear.

A physician, in discussing the prevalence of ear trouble, caused especially in summer time, when all who can fly to the country, by the entrance of earwigs and other insects into the ear, points out a simple remedy. When living insects find their way into the external auditory canal, the ear should at once be turned to a bright light, in the hope of inducing the intruder to back out by virtue of the attraction which light naturally has for him. If this prove unsuccessful, the ear should be filled with sweet oil or glycerine, which will kill the insect by occluding its breathing pores and generally float it out. Sometimes, however, a syringe and warm water are necessary to remove it. In cases where these means are not at hand, as when hunting, blowing tobacco smoke into the ear directly from the stem of a pipe, the mouth being placed over the bowl and protected from it by the hand, will kill or stupify the intruder, and at all events reduce him to a state of inactivity pending the ability to dislodge him.

THE HORSEMAN.

To a hard-working horse repose is as much a necessity as good food; but, tired though he be, he is often very shy about lying down, even when a clean bed is provided for him. Unless a horse lies down regularly his rest is never complete and his joints and sinews stiffen; and while it is true that some horses that sleep in a standing position continue to work for many years, it is equally true that they would wear much longer and perform their work much better if they rested naturally.

Put a little pine tar in the hollow beneath the under jaw and around the breast of horses and colts that run in pastures where the small varieties of flies are plenty.

∴

There has been considerable discussion both in this country and Europe, among distinguished veterinarians, as to whether curb is a transmissible unsoundness. It has been demonstrated that an injury can be transmitted and it is certain that constitutional unsoundness is hereditary. It matters not then wether curb is an injury or a constitutional defect, it is transmissible. A mare with a decided curb may throw a perfectly sound colt. The stallion and the mare may both have curby hocks and yet the foal be perfectly sound in that direction all its life. On the other hand, the parents may be entirely free from curb and yet the offspring be afflicted with curby hocks.

∴

The character of the animal depends much upon the soil upon which it is reared, says a writer in an exchange. The French breeders have developed this fact to a greater extent than any other nation, especially in their horse breeding districts. The rich and fertile soil of the valleys of the Perche produce good horses, but they send their young horses miles away to the limestone hills to pasture when they have an abundance at home of the most luxuriant grass. Good grass transmits from the soil to the animal the weight, bone and muscle for the complete development and the best solidification of the tissue directly from the soil. The oats provoke the energy and develop muscular vigor and together with good grass gives the most happy results. Calcarous or limestone soils produce good clover, lucerne, peas, rye, grass, etc. Plants that develop the animal best are gourmands of the calcarous parts of the soil. Normandy has the richest soil for animal production; it contains liberally the oxide of iron and other minerals most useful. To the stock breeder the best investment is a good ration of forage as is well known in the cantons of Lower Poiteau and almost all of Normandy. In Poiteau are found the largest horses, which is perhaps explained in their limestone soil and their liberal feeding of forage-cut grass. The carts are in the field while the dew is on the grass, which is cut and hauled to the stables, enough for all the horses until the next morning; it is allowed to wilt and is fed to the horses all they will eat with good oats. Young horses are sometimes tethered out to eat the grass and occasionally a pasture will have the mares, colts and young horses running loose, but generally the grass is cut and fed in the stables; when a strip of grass has been cut or eaten off by the tethered horses or cows it is plowed up and again sowed in grass to keep a constant supply of green grass.

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., July 29.—Cattle—Offerings, 9 cars; little or nothing done and outlook discouraging.

Sheep and Lambs—Six cars on sale; trade almost lifeless, except a few lots picked out. There was nothing to the trade.

Hogs—Fifteen cars on sale; about three loads of best medium weights taken at $6 20, but the best of the good hogs sold at $6 10 to $6 15; with good light York weights at $6 to $6 10; roughs $4 50 to $5, and stags, $3 25 to $4.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Que., July 28.—There were about 350 head of butchers cattle, 150 calves and 450 sheep and lambs offered at the East End abattoir to-day. Trade in cattle was very dull, and prices are lower all round, as the very hot weather has greatly reduced the demand for beef, and large fat cows brought nearly 1c per lb less than they did last Thursday. There was nothing done here in shipping cattle to-day. A few choice small heifers sold up to about 4½c per lb; large fat cows brought from 3½c to nearly 4c per lb; oxen from 3c to 3¼c per lb, but none of them were very fat. Common dry cows and young stock in thrifty condition sold at from 3c to 3½c per lb and those of the leaner beasts at about 2½c per lb. Shippers pay about 3¾c per lb for good large sheep, but there were none suitable offered here to-day. Lambs are in fair demand at from $2 25 to $4 each. Fat hogs sell at from 5½c to 5¾c per lb.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

Parties leaving the city on their holidays can have the Daily ADVERTISER mailed to any address in Canada or the United States for 40 cents per month.

—R. J. Young, of this city, has sailed from New York for Liverpool.

—Walter Thompson, of this city, is on a business and pleasure trip in Scotland.

—The cool weather last evening added delight to the band concert at the park.

—Mr. Joseph Simpson will give an address Sunday afternoon at the W. C. T. U. hall, Queen's Park.

—There were 35 births, 31 deaths and 26 marriages registered at the city, clerk's office during July.

—Arthur Gorman and J. A. Cahill, of South London, leave for a trip to Sault Ste. Marie in a day or two.

—W. McLean, well known in the city as an expert with the cue, left to-day by the C. P. R. for Miami, Man.

—Mr. George C. Davis will preside at a large lawn tennis garden party at the residence of Mr. David T. Gray, lot 7, con. 6, Lobo, on Aug. 5.

—The police magistrate this morning fined Amos Johnston $10 or a month on a charge of vagrancy, remanded one drunk until Monday, and discharged two others.

—The corporation men have prepared their programme for their picnic at Queen's Park Monday. Valuable prizes are offered for athletic events. It promises to be a great success.

—Clan Fraser, O. S. C., and the St. Andrew's Society, of London, hold a union picnic at the port on Aug. 3. A number of St. Thomas Scotchmen have been invited to be present.—[St. Thomas Journal.

—Inspector Minhinnick, of the Humane Society, had an old horse put out of misery yesterday. The animal belonged to Mr. Fountain, in the third ward. It was old and crippled, and had been overcome by the heat. The owner desired that it should be killed.

—The city engineer asks to be appointed boulevard inspector. He thinks the present bylaw is defective. Some people, he says, are planting trees from their own property in a line to the sidewalk, thus obscuring the view and in time hurting the appearance of the streets.

—In accordance with the litigation at Osgoode Hall the London Street Railway this morning commenced replacing the blocks on Dundas street which were torn up to make the proposed extension. This is done, of course, without prejudice to the company, as the question of the latter's right to make the extension has to be decided by the court in October.

—The city engineer reports that he has examined Victoria bridge and finds the stonework of the pier in good condition. The foundations require to be watched in case the earthway is washed away by the water. The stonework should be pointed up with Portland cement. He regards the breakwater as a very substantial work, but as it is his own he prefers that another engineer should examine it.

—At Osgoode Hall Friday, in the action of Manness vs. Atkins judgment was handed out by Mr. Justice MacMahon on an appeal by the defendant from a report of the local master at London on a reference to him to take partnership accounts upon the basis of a settlement between the parties. The learned judge allows the defendant's appeal as to the first item in the report and dismisses it as to the second. The plaintiff's appeal is allowed. Costs of the action and the reference, including the costs of the defendant's examination for discovery, are allowed to the plaintiff. No costs of the appeal to either party.

John Orange, grocer, Clarence street.

Miss Alexander in Scotland.

In a letter recently received from Miss Alexander, the Canadian elocutionist who has many friends here, she gives a charming account of her experiences in Scotland, where she is now spending a holiday. Here is an extract: "Another most enjoyable trip, also by coach, we made to the Forth Bridge, and were charmed by the scenery on the way as well as the wonderful structure over the Frith. Coming home a queer old Scotch character shared with us the front seat. Her remarks were addressed mostly to friends sitting behind. Seeing a cart-load of people out for a holiday, she exclaimed, 'There's Sandy McKillop and his seester, aye, and the hale rick-ma-tick o' them.' Then to the driver —'Ca' canny man. I'm awfu' eart o' thae braes; I was in a railway collusion once, and I've been narvous ever since. I'm burnin' my hands to save my gloves. Gie yer horse mair time, man; horses is like men, they'll no work hard till they're pushed to't. I'm thinkin' you're no a Gladstone man to be drivin' at that breakneck pace.' The Grand Old Man was expected to drive along that road from the station to Lord Rosebery's home, so the road was lined with vehicles and pedestrians waiting to greet the famous statesman. A rousing cheer, a great waving of handkerchiefs, and from the top of our coach we viewed a scene of wildest enthusiasm. Mrs. Gladstone acknowledged this more actively than her husband. He simply sat with raised hat (his eyes were shaded with dark goggles in consequence of the injured eye) while his worthy spouse nodded, smiled and waved her enormous bouquet.

"I have been delighted with the warm hospitality of the Scotch. Their speech, their characteristics of sincerity and strength, their sense of dry humor (and despite Sir Sidney Smith they have it) all appeal most strongly to me. I find my heart warming towards the tartan and my eyes dwelling lovingly on cairngorms and all designs of the thistle pattern. Scott and Burns are enshrined on the highest pedestals, and a tramp through the heather will perfect this new-born delight."

A Former Londoner Electrocuted.

This morning's edition of the Globe contains the following: "An accident occurred last night at 11 o'clock in Parkdale, by which Walter Chalcraft, an employe of the Toronto Electric Light Company, lost his life. He was engaged in fixing one of the lights on Queen street nearly opposite Scholes' hotel. He was seen to suddenly fall to the ground, and when picked up the horrified spectators found life quite extinct. In some manner he had touched the live wire and received the full force of the electric current. Dr. J. O. Orr was on the ground in a few minutes, but could do nothing. The body was removed in the patrol wagon to Givens street, where the deceased resided. He leaves a wife and young family. Coroner Lynd, of Parkdale, is inquiring into the circumstances of the accident, but has not yet decided whether an inquest will be necessary or not." Walter Chalcraft joined the London police force about eight or ten years ago and resigned after four years' service. While here he lived on Elizabeth and Dundas streets. Deceased was a member of Court Forest City, I. O. F. His remains will be interred in this city on Monday.

A Trio of Fires.

At 12:45 p. m. to-day the firemen were called out to J. T. Smith's furniture store, Dundas street east. The fire caught in the rear part, and as the building is a wooden one it burned fiercely. The firemen had three streams playing on the structure, and had warm work for an hour. The flames were kept under control and confined to the back portion. The damage is principally to the building, a considerable part of the roof being burned through. The stock was not injured to any extent. The loss is roughly estimated at $500; the insurance is not heavy. Mr. Smith owned the building. How the blaze originated is not known; no one was in the place at the time.

While the South London brigade was waiting at the central hall they were notified of a fire on Fullarton street. Sparks from the chimney on Malloch & Company's foundry had ignited the roof, and in turn set fire to Mr. Wm. Morrison's residence adjoining. The fire on the foundry was soon disposed of, but that on the house was more serious. The roof of the latter was badly burned, and the water entering damaged things in the interior. Fortunately, both fires were settled in short order. Three conflagrations in fifteen minutes' time is quite a record.

Mason and Graham Acquitted.

County Constables John A. Graham and Wm. Mason were tried before Judges Davis and Elliot this afternoon at the adjourned sessions of the peace. Some time ago Mason met two tramps on Clarence street, and they told him that they had stolen a ride on the G. T. R. from Toronto. He took them to Constable Crawford's residence and had an interview with that officer. Mason then advised the tramps to go out into the country, where they would likely "strike work." He showed them the way to go over Westminster bridge. Shortly afterwards he saw them enter London West and immediately notified Constable Graham, who arrested the men a block from the dividing line between the city and county. They were taken before Squire Jarvis and remanded for a day, when they were brought up again. Their statement was taken and they were let go. Mason was charged with scheming to get the men out of the city so that he might then arrest them and draw pay from the county coffers. He, however, denied having done this as he could have arrested them in the city, he having been sworn in as a special constable. Graham has been acting under instructions of G. T. R. Detective Day and says if he had seen the men in the city he would have arrested them. He told High Constable Schram that Mason was drunk but evidence was produced to show that he was not noticeably under the influence of liquor. E. Meredith, Q.C., represented the constables. No evidence was taken beyond the verbal statements of the defendants and they were retained on the constabulary.

INCIDENTS OF INTEREST

The West Superior, Wis., woollen mills have assigned for $95,000.

The Daily News says there is no foundation for the rumors that there will be an autumn session of Parliament, and declares that nothing is more improbable.

The long-threatened rate war, between the railroads centering at Memphis, Tenn., has broken out and as a consequence eastbound passenger rates have gone all to pieces.

According to an official Hungarian crop report the yield of wheat is estimated at 70,000,000 cwt, and of rye at 22,000,000 to 24,000,000 cwt., while barley and oats will be under the average.

The district attorney of New York is considering the matter of suppressing certain Anarchist newspapers which have approved of the attack on Frick, and urged the members of the organization to murder Carnegie and others.

Mr. Gladstone's Health.

LONDON, July 30.—Mr. Gladstone, who arrived in London Wednesday, is suffering from a slight cold and confined to his bed. Though his attending physician has ordered that Mr. Gladstone shall not rise he says his condition is not at all serious. This morning Arnold Morley was admitted to Mr. Gladstone's room and had a long conversation with him.

Balfour to Salisbury's Supporters.

LONDON, July 30.—Mr. Balfour, the Government leader in the House of Commons, has issued a circular to Lord Salisbury's supporters, fixing the debate upon the address in reply to the speech from the throne on Aug. 11. Mr. Balfour earnestly requests the attendance of every Conservative and Liberal Unionist, as on that date, he says a division of the House of the greatest importance is expected to occur.

Curious Loss of Memory.

[From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"I read some years ago of a man who went to Colorado to seek his fortune, was struck on the head by a falling boulder and although perfectly sane when he recovered, had forgotten his past life entirely," said George W. Forsyihe, at the Lindell. "A similar case once came under my observation. I was residing in Paris as the representative of a London firm. An English girl who had accompanied my wife to the French capital as upper servant was married soon after our arrival to a young French artisan, who almost immediately disappeared. He had been knocked down by a runaway team and wounded in the head. He was conveyed to a hospital, and when he recovered his past life was a blank to him. He could not even remember his name. He drifted about, living upon charity until strong enough to work, when he secured employment, and by industry and economy acquired a snug little sum of money. One day his wife met him and threw herself into his arms. He did not remember her but seemed delighted to meet one who knew him and could tell him of his past life. He came home with her and both my wife and myself identified him. He did not yet realize his relationship to the young woman, but asked if she was not his sister. I thought the young wife's heart would break. I believed the fellow was shamming and spoke to him rather sharply. He then told his story and referred me to the hospital physician, who certified to its truth. He was perfectly sane, but could not recall a single instance in his life prior to the time he was run down in the streets. He accepted his wife, resumed his name and they are very happy together, but the first twenty-five years of his life are still a blank to him."

Adam Graeme, of Mossgray.

By Mrs. Oliphant.

CHAPTER III.

Oh, youth! for years so many and sweet
'Tis known that thou and I were one;
I'll think it but a fond deceit—
It cannot be that thou art gone;
Thy vesper-bell hath not yet tolled,
And thou wert aye a masker bold;
What strange disguise hast now put on
To make believe that thou art gone?
I see these looks in silvery slips,
This drooping gait, this altered size;
But spring-tide blossoms on thy lips,
And tears take sunshine from thine eyes!
Life is but thought; so think I will
That youth and I are housemates still.
—Coleridge.

The Laird of Mossgray stood alone beneath a high beech, whose silvery trunk and delicate buds made it the most noticeable of all the neighboring trees. His figure was tall, thin, and stooping; his hair the most delicate silvery gray; his face full of thoughtful fortitude and wisdom in its gentlest guise; but his usual serenity was ruffled to-day, the calm of his meditative age was broken.

Those dim lands of memory in whose gentle twilight he did so much love to wander, among the fairy shadows, tender and pensive, of things which once were stern and hard enough, and had been suddenly illuminated by a flash of the intense and present reality which once they had. The old man's quietness had suddenly been rent asunder, and floated away from him like a mist, while the stormy blood of his more vehement days was swelling in his veins again.

He held a letter in his hands; the fingers which traced its trembling lines were now lying in a nameless grave. A worn-out, wearied woman, prematurely old, and glad to lay down her head in that one place where the weary are at rest, was the writer of these earnest, living words. The Laird of Mossgray did not remember that she was old—the past years were in this moment a fable and a dream to him. He thought of Lilias only as he saw her last, enshrined in all the pure and gentle dignity of his young fancies; for Lilias was dead.

And dying, she had revealed to the old man what she was. Not indeed the lofty lady of his dreaming days, but a gentle, chastened, meek woman, who knew now, and had long known, the worth of the generous heart she threw away. In the bitterness of his soul he had believed her an unsubstantial vision; but the faithful hand of death had brought back to him the true Lilias, worthy of the place he had given her in his best days

"I do not ask you to forgive me," wrote the dying Lilias, "because I know that long ago you must have forgiven the witless girl's heart that did itself so much more wrong than you. I did not know myself, my own light, shallow, girlish self, and pardon me then, Adam Graeme, that I did not know you. Since then I have learned—what have I not learned that is bitter and sorrowful? Cares, crossed our path, have been the constant companions of mine; they are all ending now. I am going hence to my Lord, and to the children whom He took from me one by one, till my heart was well-nigh broken; but I cannot go till I make one prayer to you, one last entreaty for the sake of our youth,

"I would not speak of the time when we last met; in pity to my bitter lot, and to the dead who laid its weight upon it, the grave to be forgotten, as I have laid Edward and as stranger hands shall soon lay me, do not think of that time. I have one last treasure remaining to me, one last request to make, and there is no one in the world but you, whom I have wronged, to whom I can address my prayer.

"Mossgray, I have a child; a friendless, unprotected, solitary girl, who will soon be left utterly alone. If I shrink from subjecting her to the cold charity of Walter's wife, forgive me, because I am her mother. I know that Lilias is not what I was. I know that our subdued and clouded life has given to her youth a greater maturity than I had when I was her mother. I have fancied often that Lilias is what you thought me to be, and there has been a sad pleasure in the hope, that for her weak mother's sake, your heart would melt to my child.

"I cannot ask you. I feel that I cannot venture to beg of you this last service; my heart fails me, when I remember how little I deserve any grace at your hands. But you who have always been so kind and pitiful, think of the misery of leaving her thus, alone in an evil world. If you think I presume upon you, if you refuse to hear my prayer, I still must plead it for her sake, Adam Graeme, will you protect my Lilias? Will you forgive the sins we have done against you, and protect our child?"

There was more than this; there were the solemn farewells of the dying, the pathetic earnestness of sorrowful repentance which bade God bless him forever. Except in his gray hairs, and in the strength which began gently to fail and glide away, Adam Graeme was not old. The tide of his strong and ardent feelings rushed back in that mighty revulsion, with which the generous soul repents when it was blamed unjustly. He remembered no injury Lilias had done him—he forgot the blight of his youth, the solitude of his old age; he only felt that she was again the Lilias of his early dreams; and that the commands she laid upon him were sacred and holy, a trust dearer than any other thing on earth.

And yet, a few brief days before, the old man had solemnly recorded his resolution to shun their presence; to avoid all contact with Lilias and her child, that the peace of his age might not be broken! Their very name was pain to him; therefore he prayed that he might not cross their path. He resolved to keep himself from any, the most distant intercourse with them. In solemn earnest he formed this purpose, or rather he formed it not; it was the instinctive necessity of his heart.

He remembered it now no more. It was not that he combatted his former resolution; it was swept away before the resistless force of that impulsive, generous heart, which in its solitary pain had built this barrier about itself; and there was no inconsistency here. Had his ear been dull to the voice of Lilias, had he hesitated to respond to her appeal, then had Adam Graeme in his old age ceased to be consistent to himself for the same power which made him resolve to keep himself separate and distant always from those whose very names had weight enough to move him still, asserted itself in the instant return of all the ancient tenderness and honor, which, painfully taken away from the living Lilias, could flow forth unrestrained and unblamed upon the dead.

In the inclosure of the letter, a trembling hand had written the date of the first Lilias's death. It struck with a dull pang the heart to which she was restored, yet only thus, he knew, could he have regained her.

That evening the Laird of Mossgray set out on a lonely journey. Before his going, he warned his anxious housekeeper of the young guest he might probably bring home with him. The intimation occasioned considerable excitement in the little household.

The early twilight of the April night had fallen, when Adam Graeme left the dim lights of Fendie behind him, and traveled away into the darkness, shaping his course to the south. The faint indefinite sounds, and musical "tinkling silentness" of the night, came close about him, like the touch of angels' wings. The stars were shining here and there through the soft clouds of spring, and the dim shadowy sky blended its line yonder, in the distance, so gently with the darkened earth, that you could not mark the place of their meeting. The moon herself had been an intruder there; the subdued and pensive dimness which told of the nightly weeping of the heavens from which the young spring draws its freshness and its life, and the faint shining of yon solitary stars high in the veiled firmament, harmonized most meetly with the lonely spirit of the traveler, going forth to look upon the grave of his dead. The sad wistful, yearning melancholy which belongs to this hour "between the night and the day," who does not know—those faint hushed hopes, those inarticulate aspirations, turning then, when there is dimness on the earth, to the better something beyond—there are few who have not felt the influence of "the holy time."

A charmed away it had born at all times over the mind of Adam Graeme. And now it traveled with him like a human friend; in the stillness of his night journey there were gentle ministrations about him, influences of the earth and of the sky.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

For a full crop on the farm commend us to the old hen.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

How to get inside information: Use a stomach pump.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

General Sir John Bisset, K. C. B., for years the British commander at Gibraltar, entertained General Sherman at that point when the latter was visiting Spain.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

OFF FOR THE LABRADOR.

[Acadian Recorder, Halifax, N. S.]

Prof. W. M. Reid, J. D. Scomborger, Lyle Vincent and W. D. Vincent arrived by the Halifax last night. They are some of the party who go to Labrador in the schooner Evelina in the interests of the World's Fair to secure an Esquimaux village with some 50 inhabitants and all appurtences thereto belonging. The schooner left Cunningham & Curren's wharf today on her mission.

A Recorder reporter was talking to-day to Capt. Wm. McConnell, of Port Hilford, Guysboro, who is in charge of the vessel. An interesting incident was mentioned (and although it sounds like a "puff" of a patent medicine it is worth noting.) "Do you see that man over there," said a friend, "that is Capt. McConnell, who is going after Esquimaux. I have known him for years, and he was that bad with asthma that he had sometimes to be held up on board his vessel. You see him"—(he was piling wood in a cord measure to take on board)—"he is a well man and he attributes it to some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that he took, two after each meal."

Out of curiosity, the reporter secured an introduction to the captain, and after some talk about the expedition, remarked: "Is that correct, Captain, about your recovery from asthma, and that you attribute it to those pills?"

"Well, I don't know anything else. I recovered after taking them."

"And haven't been troubled since?"

"No. Of course we will see what this winter may bring forth; I haven't said anything about it."

"But last winter?"

"I began taking them in December, and found the change brought about in my condition, which Dr. Parker, of Halifax said was about as bad as it could be."

It isn't often that a patent medicine gets such a big boom in the incidence of newsgathering, as is furnished in the above; but it is all set down just as it transpired, incidentally.

The whole Labrador party consists of Messrs. Tabor and Vincent, Prof. Reid, of Harvard College; Mr. Lyle Vincent, St. Louis; Dr. Baur, Philadelphia, a distinguished naturalist; Prof. Gillette, New Haven, Conn.; and Hon. W. F. Ryder, Quebec. They expect to return with about 50 Esquimaux, with dogs, komaticks, kayacks, and a general collection of curiosities from Esquimaux land. The schooner is a handsome model, 95 tons, and is a fast sailer. John Silver & Co. furnished the supplies.

J. Keir Hardie, who will be one of the leaders of the new Labor party in the British House of Commons, is a Scoth pitman and an advanced Socialist.

Like Lightning.

The rapid action of the "great pain cure," Polson's Nerviline, in relieving the most intense pain, is a matter of wonder to all who have used it. There is nothing surprising in its results, for it is made of the strongest, surest and most efficient remedies known in medicine. Nerviline cures toothache instantly; cramps in five minutes; neuralgia after two applications; rheumatism is at once relieved by its use; and the same may be said of all kinds of pain. Sample bottles, costing only 10 cents, at any drug store. The large bottle only 25 cents. Polson's Nerviline sold by druggists and country dealers.

The late Mr. Franke of Charleston, S. C., left over $100,000 for the establishment of a hospital and home in that city for the benefit of the Lutherans.

To the ladies—Have you found your fine kid boots cracking and rotting from using boot dressing which burns them? Try P. G. French Dressing. It will not harden or crack the finest boots or shoes. If you can prove to the Pure Gold Manufacturing Company that it does so, they will buy you a new pair. 1

Rev. W. A. Mason, Georgetown, P. E. I.: (First letter)—"I have used one package of your famous K. D. C. and have derived great benefit from it. My case is very severe—complicated with other troubles." (Second letter)—"I have been troubled with a constant pain in my stomach. I was afraid it was cancer. After using your medicine it entirely disappeared and has not returned." 20ut Watkin James, the aged stepfather of Explorer Henry M. Stanley, is one of the strikers at Homestead. Stanley's mother is dead.

Freddie had fallen down and hurt himself. He was trying manfully to suppress his feelings, but his uncle, who happened to be near, said: "What's the matter? Crying?" "N—no; I—I ain't crying. I guess maybe my eyes are perspiring."

Edward Linlef, of St. Peters, C. B., says: "That his horse was badly torn by a pitchfork. One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT cured him."

Livery stable men all over the Dominion tell our agents that they would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT for twice the cost.

WORDS THAT BURN.

AN OLD-TIME SONG.

Pack, clouds, away, and welcome, day!
With night we banish sorrow.
Sweet air, blow soft; mount, lark, aloft
To give my love good morrow.
Wings from the wind to please her mind,
Notes from the lark I'll borrow;
Bird, prime thy wing, nightingale, sing,
To give my love good morrow,
To give my love good morrow,
Notes from them all I'll borrow.

Wake from thy nest, robin redbreast!
Sing, birds, in every furrow,
And from each bill let music shrill
Give my fair love good morrow.
Blackbird and thrush in every bush,
Stare, linnet and cock sparrow,
You pretty elves, among yourselves
Sing my fair love good morrow.
To give my love good morrow,
Sing, birds in every furrow.
—Thomas Heywood.

NOT AS I WILL.

Blindfolded and alone I stand,
With unknown thresholds on each hand;
The darkness deepens as I grope,
Afraid to fear, afraid to hope;
Yet this one thing I learn to know
Each day more surely as I go,
That doors are opened, ways are made,
Burdens are lifted, or are laid
By some great law unseen and still Unfathomed purpose to fulfill.
"Not as I will."

Blindfolded and alone I wait;
Loss seems too bitter, gain too late;
Too heavy burdens in the load,
And too few helpers on the road;
And joy is weak and grief is strong,
And years and days so long, so long!
Yet this one thing I learn to know
Each day more surely as I go,
That I am glad the good and ill
By changeless law are ordered still.
"Not as I will."

"Not as I will!" The sound grows sweet
Each time my lips the words repeat.
"Not as I will!" The darkness feels
More safe than light when this thought steals
Like whispered voice to calm and bless
All unrest and all loneliness.
"Not as I will," because the One
Who loved us first and best has gone
Before us on the road, and still
For us must all His love fulfill—
"Not as we will."
—Helen Hunt Jackson.

Hotel waiter—Shall I take your order now, missy, or will you wait till your mamma comes in? Little girl—I wish you'd take it now. Mamma never orders anysing 'cept wat's good for me.

A LITTLE GIRL'S DANGER.

Mr. Henry Macombe, Leyland St., Blackburn, London, Eng., states that his little girl fell and struck her knee against a curbstone. The knee began to swell, became very painful and terminated in what doctors call "white swelling." She was treated by the best medical men, but grew worse. Finally was used. The contents of one bottle completely reduced the swelling, killed the pain and cured her.

ST. JACOBS OIL

"ALL RIGHT! ST. JACOBS OIL DID IT."

THE WEATHER.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29—11 p.m.—Pressure is low over the Lower St. Lawrence Valley and in the far Northwest, and highest over the lake region and the Western States. Thunder storms have occurred throughout the lower lake region, and to-night they are very general along the St. Lawrence. Much cooler weather has spread over Ontario to-day. In the Northwest it has been fine.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Calgary, 50°—66°; Prince Albert, 44°—74°; Qu'Appelle, 40°—80°; Winnipeg, 50°—80°; Port Arthur, 42°—76°; Parry Sound, 66°—70°; Toronto, 68°—84°; Montreal, 64°—88°; Quebec, 62°—78°; Halifax, 52°—76°.

TO-DAY'S PROBABILITIES.

TORONTO, July 30—1 a.m.—The indications for the next 24 hours for the lower lake region (covering the peninsula and as far east as Belleville) are: Light to moderate winds; fine and comparatively cool.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—If the head is kept cool, the body will take care of itself.

—The North End Baptist Mission held its annual picnic at Queen's Park yesterday.

—A bachelors' garden party and open air concert will be held at Cedar Grove, the grounds of Hon. John Carling in aid of the Colborne Street Epworth League on Monday. By the kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Smith, the band of No. 1 Company, C. R. I., will discourse music during the evening. In the event of unfavorable weather the party will be held on the following Thursday.

—Last Wednesday, Lydia, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wigle, Kingsville, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to David H. Lancaster, assistant postmaster at that place. Rev. Wm. Godwin, of this city, officiated. The bride was attired in a dress of white silk. Miss Edith Wigle, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while a brother of the groom acted as best man.

—Miss Minnie Holmes, of London West, accompanied by Miss Nettie Steele, of Komoka, left Thursday evening last for Winnipeg, where the former will be married to Mr. G. W. Steele, of Steele House, Lethbridge. After the wedding they will proceed to Lethbridge to make their future home, and it is the wish of their many friends that they may have a safe and pleasant journey.

—"The Harvest Moon," which became an established success last season, will be presented Aug. 6 at the Grand under the management of Harry Booker. The long sombre scenes, required by a tragedy star have been altered for a younger emotional actress, thus removing the objection of dragginess, while new comedy scenes have been added, and the remainder of the drama has been strengthened and brightened. The excellence of the play deserves a large audience in London.

—Mr. Charles Hutchinson, county crown attorney of London, was at Ingersoll the other day attending the sittings of the deborning commission. He introduced ten witnesses who were opposed to the practice, and announced that he had ten others, butchers and drovers, who were prepared to testify to the fact that frauds in regard to the age and breed of cattle could be more readily detected if the horns were not taken off. He asked the commission to hold one more sitting for the purpose of hearing this evidence, but the application was refused. —[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Jumped Into the Thames.

London West Methodist mission picnicked at Wonderland yesterday afternoon, and spent a very enjoyable and happy time on Capt. Foster's beautiful grounds. His steamer was well filled on the trip each way. Before the boat had stopped at the dock to let her passengers off a little girl named Theresa Dewan in her anxiety to be among the first to land fell into the river. The water was about six feet deep. In an instant Capt. Foster and Mr. Ed. Wilkins took in the situation and rescued her. She was badly scared but was not injured.

Irwin—Armstrong.

A very pleasant affair took place in the village of Wiarton on Tuesday, the event being the marriage of Armon W. Irwin, a popular young Londoner, to Miss Maggie Armstrong, of Wiarton, by Rev. S. Edwards. After partaking of ice cream and other seasonable refreshments the happy couple left for a trip up the lakes, visiting Toronto and Niagara Falls on their return to London, where they will reside. The high esteem in which the bride was held by her friends was amply manifested by the numerous and valuable gifts which she received, and also by the manner in which she and her guests were entertained by the village band during the interval between the ceremony and the departure of the wedding party. The bride was assisted by Miss O. Irwin, sister of the groom, and Mr. J. Armstrong, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Death of Captain Moore.

After a distressing illness of three weeks, Capt. Joseph Alexander Moore, of the lake service, passed away yesterday afternoon. A young man who had never known illness, and in robust health, he was attacked with malaria a month ago while on an excursion up the lakes with his wife, and immediately returned to his home on Elmwood avenue, South London, to recuperate. But complications set in, and the complaint developed successively into gastric fever, heart trouble, inflammation and ulceration of the bowels, the direct cause of death being hemorrhage of the bowels. Capt. Moore was born in Dorchester, where he spent his boyhood, and at the age of 21 he started the life of a sailor on the lakes. His aptness and perseverance soon raised him to the position of a captain, which post he has since held with honor. Deceased was of a naturally quiet disposition; he led an exemplary life, and made friends wherever he went, all of whom will be pained to hear of his untimely death. He was married last December to Miss Tilla Bratt, of Elmwood avenue, and his relatives, more especially his young widow, will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement. The deceased's relatives were nearly all at his bedside during the last days of his illness. They are well-known residents at and in the vicinity of Belmont. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon to Dorchester Station.

ARCANUMITES AT PORT.

Annual Picnic of the Order—The Athletic Events and the Winners—An Enjoyable Outing.

The Royal Arcanumites of the city have the reputation of providing one of the best picnics of the year. The annual outing yesterday was no exception. Members of the order, their relatives and friends to the number of several hundred enjoyed themselves at Port Stanley in the manner familiar to the many patrons of that popular resort. The day was unusually cool and in the afternoon a heavy rainstorm threatened to mar the general pleasure, but it cleared up and the games were proceeded with. The events and winners were as follows:

PLUMBERS AND PAINTERS

Picnic at Port Stanley—An Enjoyable Outing for a Big Crowd—The Prize List.

The annual picnic of London plumbers, steamfitters and painters at Port Stanley yesterday afternoon was a most successful affair, a good crowd going down and spending a pleasant day. A game of baseball and a tug-of-war contest between sides chosen by Messrs. Geo. Deo and Wilkie were won by the former's men.

The committee in charge was composed of: Thos. Boone, chairman; P. R. Brown, secretary; Ben. Noble, treasurer. A programme of sports was carried out, and resulted as follows:

100 yards race—1 W. J. Bennett, 2 J. Lockhart.

Three Drownings at Lockport.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 30.—Orrin Chapman, 6 years old, was drowned last night. The body of Charles Brady, 70 years old, supposed to have committed suicide, was found in the water near the New York Central depot. William Chambers, 15 years old, was drowned while swimming.

Leaped Overboard in Mid-Ocean.

GALVESTON, Tex., July 30.—The steamship Amethyst from Liverpool, has arrived here. The captain reports that the first officer, W. L. Grant, while in a fit of despondency, threw himself overboard July 12, about 400 miles west of the Island of Fieres, one of the Azores, and was drowned. Grant lived in Shields, Eng., where he leaves a family.

A Catalogue of Seven Hundred Stars.

NORTHFIELD, Minn., July 30.—The working force of Goodsell Observatory is now preparing the great star catalogue which is soon to be issued, and which will contain 700 of the most important stars. The catalogue when finished is for references in taking observations of stars in the future for the correction of the clocks of reference and for obtaining the exact time. In preparing the catalogue it it necessary to observe each star twenty different times. The catalogue will be the official one for many of the colleges in the United States and in Europe.

Attacked by a Demented Rooster.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 30.—Thomas W. Hawkes, who lives at 61 Collis street, has a rooster that has been driven insane by the heat. It flew at the small child of Mr. Hawkes and picked his face in a frightful manner. Physicians say that the little one may die of blood poison, and in any event will be disfigured for life. William Lefford, of New London, picked up a bird last night that had been overcome by the heat and fell from a tree. The bird was apparently dead, but Mr. Lefford gave it a few drops of whisky and it soon recovered.

DEATH OF A PIONEER.

John Mercer, Sen., Passes Away After an Illness of Six Weeks—A Short Sketch of His Life.

Mr. John Mercer, sen., whose death was briefly referred to in last evening's ADVERTISER, and who was one of the first settlers of London, passed peacefully away yesterday morning about 3 o'clock. The sad event occurred at his residence, 619 Richmond street, after an illness of about six weeks, during which time deceased suffered the most excruciating pain. He had been troubled with kidney disease and rheumatism for a long time, but bronchitis was the ultimate cause of death. Mr. Mercer was born in Sussex county, England, in 1807, and when yet a young man immigrated to Canada, where he had resided ever since with the exception of three years spent in the United States. He was a member of the Seventy-first Highlanders when that regiment was stationed here. He was married in Toronto in 1841, and shortly afterwards removed to London. For a long time he was a messenger for the Huron and Erie Savings and Loan Company. Of late, however, he has been engaged in the confectionery business on Richmond street, where he carried on a thriving trade in company with his two unmarried daughters, Elizabeth and Jane. On account of his advanced age he was unable to do much work, but every day his familiar form might be seen drawing a little cart loaded with bread for his customers. Deceased was well known and universally respected as a straightforward and upright man in all his dealings. He was an old soldier and pensioner, and served during the trouble in 1837. While in the army his career was one marked by bravery. He was connected for many years with St. Paul's Cathedral, and latterly was a member of St. John's Church, St. James street. Here also he will be greatly missed.

Mr. Mercer's wife died in January, 1890, aged 85. Two daughters and three sons—William, James and John—survive him. The funeral will take place this afternoon, service being held at the house at 4 o'clock.

GLAD TIDINGS.

Where Is the Responsibility?

There are few if any articles in the current July missionary magazines of import and weight equivalent to that in "The Church at Home and Abroad" (Presbyterian) headed "Whose is the Responsibility?" "We were startled," says its author, "at learning from the secretaries of our Board of Foreign Missions and the candidate committees of our woman's boards that there never was a time when it was harder to find suitable candidates to fill vacancies or to take up new work for which the door stands open." And this in these days of interseminary missionary alliances, of Northfield conventions, and student volunteer movements. "Where, then," the writer continues, "must we look for possible missionary candidates? We turn naturally to the theological seminaries, to the colleges and normal schools, and wish that we could reach every one of them with a persuasive voice. We should like to bring this problem of demand and supply to young pastors who have learned what it is already to shepherd the flock of God, but have no ties that would make it impracticable or unwise to risk a change of life or of climate. We should like to lay this burden upon the hearts of teachers who have had some experience in public schools or seminaries, but who still have vigorous health and promise of years of work before them." And more of equal point and pertinence. That the dearth of available personnel to meet calls for missionary laborers which are imminent and pressing is felt not only in the quarter whence these statements emanate, but elsewhere, appears in the fact that the London (Eng.) Missionary Society calls for more men than can be had to fill vacancies in its staff in India and China, and for other new missionaries to complete the first year's contingent of an additional 100 laborers. And the Evangelical Union of the Scotland Foreign Mission Committee calls earnestly upon the churches represented by it to supply 10 of these 100, while but two of their number have been excepted by the society. The facts reported are doubtless significant of similar deficiencies elsewhere, and are worthy of profoundest regard in view of very much that has been reckoned as missionary zeal.

Not the Truth.

The Rev. T. Walker in the Church Missionary Intelligencer, says: "The idea so widely prevalent among English Christians, that the world 'is thirsting for the Gospel,' is, alas! as far as possible removed from the truth. The world is not thirsting for the Gospel. Men are not disposed, in India or elsewhere, to accept the terms of God's salvation and to wear the yoke of Christ. The evangelist to the heathen, if he speaks unvarnished truth and avoids exaggerations, has to record a routine with unwilling souls. He sows the good seed of the kingdom on ground which has long been tramped by the feet of profane and degrading superstitions, and his feelings and experiences, find oftentimes their truest expression in the cry, 'Lord, who hath believed our report?' But, thank God, it is not always fruitless toil."

Example and Precept.

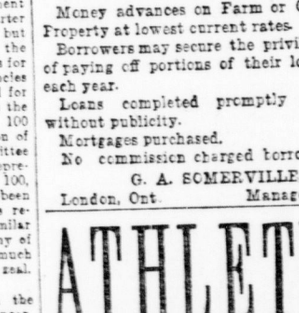

An English Church missionary at Ningpo, China, says: "Never have I heard a missionary address a heathen Chinese audience without the opium question being brought up. Often and often have I been interrupted by the sneer, 'Who brings the opium?' 'Do not mention that name again!' indignantly cried an old Chinese woman—an eager listener in the crowd—to the preacher from whose lips had just fallen the blessed name of Christ. 'Do not mention that name again. I hate Jesus; I will not hear another word. You foreigners bring opium in one hand and Jesus in the other!'"

"A Willing Mind."

This, then, is the conclusion to which I come. If the Christian Church will give itself to this business of preaching the Gospel, it has wealth enough and men enough to preach it, in the next fifteen or twenty years, to every creature. All we need is a "willing mind"—a Penteeostal spirit of prayer, and faith and zeal. Only expect what God promises to give, only attempt what God bids us to do, and the thing is all done.

Eighteen Carpenters Injured.

JOHNSTON, Pa., July 29.—While eighteen carpenters were working on a scaffolding on the new Baptist Church in Johnstown this afternoon it gave way, and they fell some 30 feet. All the men were more or less injured, one it it thought fatally.
