[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

Dublin, Aug. 17.—The Government is fully prepared for trouble in Ulster. The Irish Times says today the anti-home rulers may make good their threats of revolt. The paper also says that their revolt will not last long, as preparations have been made for suppressing it with the utmost vigor.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, Aug. 17 .- The sustained spell of cold and stormy weather throughout England, which at first was merely an annoyance, is now rapidly developing into a tragedy. The weather is colder than in many Octobers, and the heavy, constant rain is ruining the crops and rotting vegetation. The holiday season, usually now at its height, is completely spoiled, and the seaside towns are almost deserted. The harvest has been delayed, and every day makes the rural outlook worse. The hay harvest, which promised to be a bumper one a month ago, is now absolutely ruined, and the hay lies dying on the ground. The wheat and barley crops will be the worst for a generation, while even the root crops are soddening under the constant rain. The weather experts do not give any promise of immediate relief.

WAR TALK. A number of circumstances seem to the agelong war spirit. Hatred and greatly widened. madee have held sway long enough.

· For a while we seemed to be movthe definition of contraband. Arbitration treaties were drawn up between Great Britain, the United States and France, and pulpits sounded forth the call for universal peace. Then came Orange outrages and sedition in Ulster, and the renewed attempt of parties interested in one way or another to start a German war scare. When want peace and quiet, it is disgusting that a few who have nothing much else to think about, professional warriers with peace on their hands, dreadnought and gun makers, officials, politleians and sensation-mongers, should clank swords, pull wires, and raise a dust to shoo decent people from their work, frighten them with bugabocs

Strange paradox it is that brave warriors like the Hon. Sam. Hughes should live in such constant terror. Marching about with a tom-tom beating in front, and a heart beating within, they try to give everybody else a palpitation like their own. "Be afraid," they cry, "the Yankees are coming, the Germans are coming. the houn' dawg or the bull-moose is coming, let us train you with a gun, give us money to fortify Toronto, Winnipeg, Klondike, give Great Britain money to build more ships than she needs" These people, if they had their way, would soon convert civilization into outer darkness with gnashing of teeth.

and bully them into conscription,

The latest proof of Germany's warlike intentions is, let us say, her machinations in Holland, or some Brazilian's chatter about German spies in that country. Germany, then, is after Brazil, using an army of waiters cafes to reconnoitre. We heard that talk a few years ago regarding England. But is a German design upon Brazil altogether consistent with a determination to rob Great Britain of to feel sorry for Brazil, a weak, helpless country of 20,000,000 people, to the extent of enrolling in a conscript army, may we not remember that the United States will have ways of dealing with Germany under the Monroe doctrine without necessarily having recourse to Those who ask Canadians to adopt conscription in any form are trying to revive the barbaric war spirit. Looking for trouble, they would get it soon enough by just such procedure. Put the chip on your s. \ lder and someone will be sure to knock it off. Unless one may instance a case in Paris a few years ago, when amidst some disturbances, an individual barricaded his house, hoisted a flag over it bearing the word anti-juif (Anti-Jew), waited three days patiently but in vain for someone to attack, and then had sheepishly to take down bars and banner, to be an ordinary common citizen again. More likely conscription and swagger will invite the war it pretends to guard against. It is time we began to think again about disarmament and

THE MISTREATMENT OF CHIL-

DREN. Every now and then a case comes ap of cruelty to children. The shocking charge in Blanshard Township has been quickly followed by another at Wingham.

There is about as much excuse for abusing a child, even when it has been misbehaving, as for breaking a door that you have bumped your head against. There is so much the less excuse, as the "naughty" child may be made the angel of the house if studied and judiciously, not to say kindly, treated. It might be a good thing to promote the reading of literature that recognizes and accentuates the worth and possibility of children. The objection to sentimentalism should not weigh against the hard facts of a brutality too widespread. Might not Children's Aid societies have tasteful Dickens, Stevenson, Barrie, Wordsworth. Short anecdotes of childhood's loyalty, courage and grace might be included. Such little gospels of child life and interest would not be amiss in places of common resort or in the homes of both poor and well-to-do.

Another line of attack is suggested in the following advertisement dipped

Adoption by some one else is one way of treating certain cases.

This looks all very well for Jamaica, whose climate also is inviting. But British Guiana has nearly one-half the population of the suggested confederation, and might not the great mass of the world's workers be eager to bow down in the House of Jamaica. It is quite possible, moreover, that the example of politics in Hayti may not be encouraging to the 125,000 whites of British tropical America to form a dominion in which the blacks must govern in time. The divergent interests and outlook of territories so remote from one another as British Guiana, the Bahamas and British Hnduras, would appear to make the proposed confederation as chimerical as it is of questionable advantage.

A Few Lines of KING ARTHUR Most Anything IN HISTORY

By Special Arrangement With the Winnipez Telegram.]

Going back to King Arthur again, why is it that he has taken such a prominent place among world heroes? [Life.] prominent place among world heroes?

"Mother, did you hear the stepladder It is said that whole libraries have been written concerning his deeds, his been written concerning his deeds, his court, and his Table Round. Much of this material is of the most learned character, and would tire the ordinary reader to death. For scholars have waged war over ever so many topics which relate to the shadowy king. Some higher critics among them boldly question whether he ever existed. Professor Lewis Jones, of the University College of North Wales, in his excellent little book, "King Arthur, in 2,500 History and Legend" (Cambridge Uni-sion that most of the matter of Arthurian romance is spun out of whole 3,000 1 z great warrior of early Britain. The eldest document in which there is any mention of him is a history of Britain written by Nennius, a Welshman, about 800 A.D. In this work, Arthur Is eulogized for his exploits in twelve great battles against the Saxons. As in the earliest chronicle, so in the latest flowering of romance, Arthur's first and foremost hold upon the affections of Englishmen is his reputation as a battle-scarred hero. Even in "The Idylls of the King," although Arthur becomes perilously like a conventional churchman of the Victorian period, still Tennyson gluts our thirs. for slaughter, and Excalibur flashes and the battle-brands clash all through those very beautiful poems.

The British demand in a national hero, a strong arm, a man mighty in battle. And all the legends and embroidery which have accumulated around and upon the name and the fame of Arthur are really the expression of the battle-ardor of Britain. When the old monk, Geoffrey of Monmonth, who posted up the history of Britain to the twelfth century, came o the name of Arthur, he became excited, and composed this fine, nervous passage, which gives us, I feel sure, a being chased by moving picture Inmore faithful portrait of the real Ar- dians all the way to the shop. thur than all the Idylls of Tennyson: When Arthur was about to cross over the Alps (he was at this time making to be afraid of rattlesnakes and copthe grand tour), an envoy said to him, perhe is said to be running loose 'Modred, thy nephew, hath set thy aroung their premises. Thus spake he, and re cut in two by the operation of deed, so many wounds did he receive that he fell, albeit that his kinsmen the Britons deny that he is dead, and do even yet solemnly await his coming again. He was, indeed, the very first man of his time in warlike prowess, bounty and wit."

DOROTHY DIX DISCUSSES FAMILY AMUSEMENT PROBLEM

[Copyright: 1912.]

Probably there is no other one question that gives ree to more arguments and disputes in the average well-to-do family than the amusement problem.

The wife wants to go out to places of entertainment. The husband wants to stay home and read the newspapers.

Result: Domestic fireworks.

The wife says:

"I am a good wife and mother, and a competent housekeeper." I am thrifty, industrious, and frugal, and I am busy all day doing household tasks that can make my husband's keeper. I am thrifty, industrious, and frugal, and I am busy all day doing household tasks that can make my family comfortable, and trying to make my husband's money go as far as possible. By the time night comes I am weary of performing monotonous domestic duties, and I would like some chang. I would like to do something I would like some chang. I would like to do something that would give a different turn to my thoughts, and that would give a different turn to my thoughts, and that would stimulate me, and brighten me up.

"I love society. I like to dance. I like a good game of cards. I like people. I am devoted to the theatre. I enjoy going occasionally to a restaurant for dinner or supper. I like to see and be seen, but before I can go any ner, while there.

2 Read what " where of an evening I have to have a battle royal with my husband that takes all of the pleasure out of it. To get him to go to a dinner party is like dragging him to an is common-sense advice, execution. To induce him to take me to the theatre requires a week of hints and persuasion and jollying, and then he sits up with kill-joy face and knocks the actors in the play and yawns in my face until get so mad I vow I'll never ask him to take me anywhere again. We actually have a row over every invitation we get and he puts on his evening clothes with as many groanings and mutterings as if he were an early Christian martyr dressing himself to be led out to the stake.

WIFE WANTS DIVERSION.

"He acts as if being married to him was picnic enough for any woman, and that she ought not to expect or desire any other diversion, while I contend that a wife who does her duty, as I do, is entitled to at least a few of the treats after marriage that a man was ready enough to give her before marriage. When he was courting me my husband wasn't too tired of an evening to take me to places or meet me at parties.

"Besides all this, my husband needs to go out some for his own sake, man gets so narrow who sees nobody but his business associates, and hears nothing talked about but business, and, in addition, we have children for whom it is our duty to make as good a social position as we can. So it seems to me that my husband is unreasonable not to be willing to go about with me more."

HUSBAND SAYS HE NEEDS REST.

The min says: I work all day under a pressure that my wife does not even understand. I am giving every ounce of strength and vitality that is in me to my business so that I can give my family every possible luxury and indulgence, and when night comes I am utterly spent, soul and body and brain. I am so tired that I don't want to talk. nor to be talked to, and so nervous that I feel that I would scream if I had to listen to the inane chatter of some foolish woman to whom I was expected to make myself agreeable at dinner.

"All I want to do is to eat my own dinner in my own house, and sink down in my own particular chair in the library, and doze along over the evening paper. More than that, I must have this rest if I am to hold up my end in the strenuous business competition of today.

"If I go to bed at 10 o'clock and get a good night's sleep I attack my problems with a clean, clear brain the next morning, but if I've been out to 1 or 2 o'clock, and eaten a lot of indigestible stuff, and drunk and smoked too much, my mind is in as upset a state as my stomach is. My judgment is clouded; my temper is on edge, and I'm literally not fit for business

"Heaven knows I want my wife to have every possible pleasure. It's for her sake and the kids that I toil like a dray horse. Let her go to all matinees, and teas and luncheons and hen parties she wants to, but why can't she be reasonable and let me have my evenings at home in peace instead of dragging me about to places that bore me stiff, and where every other married man looks like St. Anthony on the gridiron?"

And there you are. And so the argument goes on over every invitation, and ends with tear; on one side, and a ranging door on the other, and the queer part of it all is that each side is perfectly right from his or her point of

The solution of the problem is only to be found in compromise, and, undoubtedly, it would make for peace in most families if the wife could establish the housemaid's inalienable right to a night out once a week, on which her husband would accompany her whithersoever she chose to go without protest. The balance of the time she could take her pleasures without him at the various afternoon diversions that women have devised to meet this very contingency. It is unfortunate that the very difference of their fields of labor makes men and women look at this question from opposite angles. The husband, who is seeing new faces every minute of the day, and talking to new people, longs for quiet and rest in the evening. The woman who has been shut up in the house all day, often with no one to speak to, longs for fresh faces and fresh interests. This being true, why should they not figure out together a working schedule by which the man should go cheerfully abroad with his wife a certain number of nights a week, while the balance she may remain at home without feeling herself a persecuted comestic slave?

One of the chief reasons why the United States leads the world in divorce the person who takes a large amount is because Americans so often settle this question in the wrong way by the wife and husband each going his or her own way—the wife going in for scciety, and the husband going in for business, and both landing in Reno. Let Him Run.

Dear Miss Grey-Will you please answer the following questions:

I met a young man not a great while ago, and he said he was coming to our place, and as I think a great deal of this fellow, I would like to have him come. I said to him to let me know when he was coming, and I waited a long while, but he has never written. When I see him out, he will come out and talk and be very friendly, but when anybody else comes up he will run off without saying one word. What would you do with such a case?

A.—He is evidently an unreliable chap, whose friendship is apt to be too "jerky" to be pleasant, and yet I am afraid you have let him see that you were anxious for his company. Best let him run, Brown Eyes, and then forget all about him as fast as you can you can.

She Won't Flirt. Dear Miss Grey: 1. I am a girl and work in an ice cream parlor, and when fellows come in they try to flirt with me. I don't want to flirt or let on what they say, but sometimes I have to laugh at them, and it makes it all the worse. What shall I do, as I don't want to leave my work? 2. Which arm should a bracelet be worn on? 3. I have been keeping company with a young man for seven years, and he has never offered me anything as a gift before till lately he wanted me to take a ring and I wouldn't ac-cept it, and he became angry at me. Do you think I should apologize to him or let him go, and let someone else fill his place? DOUBTFUL.

A.-1. Ignore their remarks entirely when directed towards yourself; proceed with your work pleasantly but quietly. I think if you persist in this, they will in time cease to annoy you. A one-sided flirtation would not be much fun. 2. Whichever arm you prefer. 3. My dear girl, I should judge that if you have kept company for seven years, it was time there was some understanding between you. Was the ring intended for an engagement ring? If so, and you really like the man, why not accept it? Frankly, I don't understand your attitude towards him.

Truth About Pimples

But it is not of the baths of the past or the luxurious baths of rose and milk and strawberry juice of the present that I wish to chat about teday, as my mind is possessed with the details of a bath that is said to be just the thing for a woman with a yellow, dried or blackhead-infested skin. It is not impossible of attainment to her of the slim pocket-book, as its cost is one-sixteenth that of a milk bath, to say nothing of a rose water or strawberry juice bath.

This bath of marvelous properties is composed of two pounds of barley, one pound of rice, three pounds of pulverized lupin seeds, six pounds of bran, two pounds of oatmeal, half a pound borax, half a pound of lavender and half a pound of gilly flowers. These in-gredients should be boiled in soft water for sixty minutes, then strained.

The Afternoon Tea

The charming custom of serving af ternoon tea has led hostesses to give considerable attention to the details that add to its attractiveness, and the result most noticed is the tendency to dispense with the permanently set tea table. In place of these we have the tea tray or the tea carriage. One must acknowledge the freshly-set and inviting tray brought in at the right moment has in it the character of an agreeable surprise, even though its advent is anticipated. The appointments of the tray should include a teapot with tea brewing from freshly-boiled water, a hot-water kettle or a pitcher of boiling water to reduce the strength of the tea if desired, a tea strainer, a pitcher of cream, a small platter of thinly-sliced lemon, lump sugar, the necessary cups and saucers and a bowl into which the slops and rinsings of a cup are poured before it is refilled in a second serving. With the tea one may serve hot toast, biscuits, cake or richer pastries, or light.

Those born today will have great sandwiches. The tea service may be of china, silver, copper, brass or pewter, and one should aim at uniformity or harmony rather than variety in selecting appropriate cups, saucers and small Other News of Interest to Women or

Supreme Court Justice Goff Is Appointed to the Job By Governor Dix.

New York, Aug. 16 .- Supreme Court Justice John W. Spectator and Expositor Ridicule Suggestion—Big League Scouts in Attendance at Ottawa-London Games This Week, But Class of Ball Is Not Very Satisfactory—Keating Goes to the New York Yankees.

Some time ago the announcement was made that Keating, who pitched for Hamilton last year, had been sold to the New York Americans by the Lawrence Club of the New England League. The sale of Keating was not favorably considered by one of the directors, who immediately tried to compel the Lawrence feel generally satisfied now if the club to keep Keating. He even went as far as to seek the aid of the law courts, but the following item from the Sporting News shows that he was unsuccessful in his attempts to keep the ex-Hamiltonian out of the big leagues:

"Organized baseball law has been approved by the civil courts of Massachusetts to the extreme gratification of the New York Yankees. As a result, George Keating, the big spitball pitcher of the Lawrence Club of the New England League, will be among those present at Farrell's new grounds next year. Keating was sold to the Highlanders for $5,000, but a disgruntled stockholder didn't like the idea. He tried to restrain by injunction a ratification of the sale by the board of directors of the club. The judge couldn't see it that way."

Look Who's Here. Bobby Has Came. Our friend on the Hamilton Spectator has returned to this world from other realms, and to make up for his absence has sprung the following vision upon the unassuming public:

"The Kolts should remain in second place now. The London camp is pretty well shot to pieces. Cocash is among the missing, while Bierbauer is on the hospital list. With Powell under suspension in addition, things do not look any too good for the London crew, and there is a good chance that they will drop into fourth place before the week is out."

We admit that the locals are weakened by the absence of Powell, and the majority of the fans in London think that it was Murphy to Schmidt. Time—1:50. Um a mistake on the part of the directors to let him go at such an im- rires-Matthews and Murray. portant time of the season. Ernie Dinsmore is playing a good game in centre field, and has been hitting the ball as well as any of the other players, and fills in the hole left by the departure of Cocash. By the end of next week Hamilton will hardly be in second place, as the Kolts have four games at home with Ottawa and two with the Tecumsehs in this city. Next week looks like a very important week in the season as far as the final standings of the teams are concerned.

This Is a Real Knock From the Dutch.

Nobody disputes this knock from the Berlin Telegraph: "Outfielder Nickells runs like a steam roller. He had an easy chance to beat out a grounder in yesterday's game, but failed to put sufficient energy into his gait to make it count." The Berlin Telegraph also furnishes conclusive proof that that place is in good condition to join the alfalfa league by saying: "Outfielder Jack Fryer hit the scoreboard in yesterday's game, the first time the feat was accomplished this season. He was the only player to smash out an extra hit, a two-bagger at that. The ball was lost in the grass and before it was recovered Fryer had reached second.

Perhaps this will also explain why so many extra base hits have been Amby Sure Is Popular in These Parts.

The Brantford Expositor is real peeved because London is included in the proposed Class B league, and that little burg which has a cemetery in the centre of the place has been left out. Well, if it wasn't for the fact that Amby Kane has made many "friends throughout the circuit by his fine manners, Brantford would never be heard of now. The Expositor says:

"There is no chance of Brantford being squeezed into a Class D league ronto and Ottawa. The story looks ridiculous on the face of it, and it is more so when Niagara Falls, N.Y., is put in. The dopesters who are handing out that kind of stuff show little knowledge of organized baseball law. It is quite likely Montreal and Toronto will be in the Canadian League next year, but two of the present towns in the circuit will be missing before they get it and Brantford won't be one of them." The Ottawa papers are getting very mean in sporting matters, making many mean thrusts at this poor little innocent city. What reason there is for actions on their part are unknown to anyone. Here is a particularly cruel jab from the Free Press

"What a wail will go up from the London papers. Four straight and nore coming. (Voice of one Bowerman heard from direction of Romeo, Mich.): 'Ha, ha, ha; ha, ha.' Is Rather Disappointing

The present series between London and Ottawa in the latter city is attracting the big league scouts, among whom are Bobby Lowe, of Detroit; Sam Kennedy, from Cleveland: President McCaffery and "Peaches" Graham, from Toronto. In connection with the visits of these mog Citizen has the following boosts for several of the Maroons: In connection with the visits of these moguls, the Ottawa

"Messrs. McCaffery and Graham witnessed the performances of the Ottawas up west last week, and were favorably impressed with the work of Schwind, Louden and Hopper. They may make an effort to buy up all three if they do not secure them in the draft. Kennedy has been watching the work of Herbert and Hynes all season, and is said to have an eye on one of the London infielders. The drafting season will soon around, and several of the Ottawa players are likely to go in the meantime. Their work in this week's games, in fact, will probably decide their chances of going up."

For Schwind's sake let us pray they were talking to someone behind them in the fifth inning of Thusday's game. This item in the same paper was written on Wednesday morning, and does not apply to the second game of the series: "None of the Ottawa pitchers have any kicks to make as far as support is concerned. They couldn't get better under the big tent."

The former governor remarked that Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican national committee in 1904 might have told some white lies to Mr. Sheldon about it. Sheldon was associated with Bliss unofficially in 1904 and was treasurer in 1908. The substance of Mr. Odell's testimony was that President Roosevelt asked Mr. Harriman in 1904 to come to the White House to talk about campaign funds. Mr. Harriman raised $240,000 for the campaign and turned it over to the Republcan national committee Mr. Odell said he received $200,000 of that contribution for the New York State campaign, and the balance remained in the hands of the national committee. He denied that it had been a subject of correspondence between the former president and Mr. Harriman, Mr. Sheldon had further testified that Mr. Odell had come to Mr. Bliss to see about raising money for the state campaign, and that later Mr. Harriman and Mr. Bliss got together "about $250,000 which mittee and never went to the national

Hocken for Mayor. Considering that the tube question is still a live issue so far as Controller Hocken is concerned, it was expected that he would be the next candidate for mayor, that is, in so far as the majority of the board of control is concerned, because he would have no opposition from them. Under these conditions Controller

Church might have been offered the vacant position of hydro-electric commissioner, caused by the resignation of Harry Drayton, K. C., to assume the responsibilities of chairman of the railway commission. The position carries a salary of $4,000 a year and this, coupled with the remuneration remember of the board of control, would bination to monopolize the business even be something worth going after.

As his share of the proceeds it was understood that the mayor was to be appointed corporation counsel, but the salary was not mentioned, and the confidence had not been obtained by the time the whole thing

The shipping of early tomatoes will ease from this point in a few days. The crop has been large but ripened slowly owing to the cool weather. Prices at the beginning were good, and kept up until the last few days, when the market dropped to about 40 ents a basket, which would net the grower about 20 cents.

The deceased, who was 66 years of age, had been ailing for some nonths, and a little over a fortnight ago entered the Rural Hospital and under went an operation, which was successful, but as he was recovering another malady developed, which was ultimately cause of his death. The engineering business which bears his name was founded by him some forty years ago, and speedily grew until it became the largest in the country for the building of roundabouts, switchbacks, and other attractions for pleasure fairs. He was also the builder of the famous revolving towers at Scarborough, Morecombe and Douglas (Isle of Man), and in addition was also an exporter to the colonies, and only recently sent a large "straightaway" switch-back out to Durban, in South Africa. In 1908, his works were destroyed in a fire, the in tensity of which will always live in the memories of those who saw it, and re-cently new works have been commenced near Holy Trinity Church, where the business will be continued by his sons. Mr. Walker leaves a wife (sister of the late Mr. F. W. Godfrey, and a niece of the late Mr. Thos. Collins), and five sons (two of whom are in Africa) to mourn his loss, and to them we tender the sincere sympathy of our readers.

SOME LONDON LODGES WILL ENTER PROTEST

A. O. U. W. Members Object to Raise in Rates.

There will be a meeting of the various lodges of the A. O. U. W. in London shortly to discuss the increase in rates which recently came into effect. A similar meeting was held in Toronto the other evening, and a resolution of protest was passed unanimously.
The rates have been practically doubled, and some of the older mem-bers are loudly protesting against what they term is an injustice. When the united lodges meet, it is expected that some of the head officials will be present to explain the situation.

"There are many complaints," a member of the order stated to The Advertiser today. "Some of the older members are particularly bitter in their comments. There is no question that the raise is hard on them. It comes when their earning rowers are decreasing, and it will be harder for them to get the money. However, the increase had to come, as the rate of insurance was too low, and had been for some years. One cannot get something for nothing." The older members consider that as they have paid for years into the order, the increase is unfair to them. They have no objection to the fees for new members being raised, but declare that no consideration has been shown the old men who carried the society in the past. A letter of protest will probably be prepared at the coming meeting, and for warded to Toronto.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a dress of white slik, with ninon drapings, and carried a bouquet of roses, and also wore the groom's gift, a diamond and sap-phire ring. "It can be said with authority that the Pere Marquette will not be a amnetitor for Stanley road," said an official of the company to The Advertiser today.
"We are confident that we will be able to obtain running rights over the line from St. Thomas, not matter who operates the line, and that is all we will ask for in the future.

MARATHON UP MOUNTAIN

Recent Event in Swiss Alps Proved To Be Success.

Lucerne, Aug. 17. - A Marathon race up a mountain in the Swiss Alps is a test of endurance to which only the most vigorous among professional mountaineers would care to submit themselves.

The first event of this kind took place the other day, and despite the obvious discutiles, proved a great success. The mountain selected was the Stanserhorn, 6,236 feet above sea level, and the difference in altitude to be covered was roughly 4,700 feet; the starting point, the little town of Stans being 1,500 feet above ittle town of Stans, being 1,500 feet above

The second arrival took eight minutes longer, and the last of the 52 competitors finished 45 minutes later.

The promoter of the race was a wealthy German, who had offered valuable prizes and who rather fancted himself for the championship. He was greeted with sympathetic cheers when he arrived, puffing and blowing at the goal, half an hour after the last competitor, and innocently asked "if any of them had been sighted yet."

SCIENTISTS TO DISCUSS THE ORIGIN OF LIFE

British Association to Debate the Subject at Meeting Next Month.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Aug. 17 .- A cable from London says:

The origin of life, which may be termed the biggest subject with which science is concerned, will be the main topic for discussion at the meeting of the British Association opening at Dundee on September 4. Prof. Schafer, of Edinburgh, the eminent phsychologist, will devote his presidential address to this vital subject. It is said the address will be the most remarkable in many years. At the association's annual gress important additions to the sum of knowledge are likely to be made, and vigorous discussion among many notable scientists is expected on the question. "Is it possible that life can manufactured chemically?" Discoveries as made by students of plants have, in some cases, corroborated results of animal life study. It has, therefore, been arranged for the sections of botany and zoology to meet jointly to discuss the mystery

Dr. Chalmers Mitchell, of the London Zoo, who will join in the discussion, has an interesting theory of the origin of life. Many scientists be-lieve they have touched at least one important secret in making rudimentary life which may lead to practical results in the laboratory.

New Lisheard, August 16.—Just what the opening of New Ontario means to the City of London would be difficult to express in a detailed way. Sources of trade are so numerous and of such variety that a complete classification would require a book pretty nearly as large as one of the monthly reports of the customs department of the Dominton Government

Who, for instance, could enumerate what the United States may mean in a trade way to the business houses of London? The importance of the neighboring country could only be illustrated by its disappearance for a time from our commercial activities. The loss would be tremendous, and would be felt in every store, in every factory, and in every home in Canada. It is impossible to say what England means to London, and, in the same way, it is impossible to tell in definite detail what the opening up of that great country, lying north of the C. P. R., has done for the commercial expansion of Ontario's western city. Ontario's western city

FINE FIELD FOR MANUFACTURERS.

It is not sufficient, however, to point out that the Temiskaming district alone has a population of over fifty thousand people, and that in this community, from Temagami to Cochrane, there is scarcely one manufacturing institution? There is a foundry at New Liskeard, and there are saw and planing mills at many points throughout the country, but, other than these two classes of factories, all manufac-fured articles are imported. Ontario lies directly to the south, and intervening on the lines of communication with all other manufactur-ing localities. It is safe to say that at least ninety per cent. of the manufactured goods, other than the patented classes of world-wide consumption, comes directly to Northern Ontario from the factories and stores of Hamilton Toronto, London and other Ontario cities.

LONDON STOVES AND CIGARS. We can give a few instances. The McClary Manufacturing Company does a trade in Northern Ontario sufficiently large to keep a traveller on the road in this district exclusively for his entire time. London cigars are everywhere, in all the hotels, tobacco stores, and (whisper), even in the numerous blind pigs.

New Ontario's exports are confined for the most part to silver, gold timber, hay, potatoes, and a limited amount of other farm produce. On the other hand, she imports hundreds of tons of hay or the use of the horses in the construction camps, hundreds of cars of potatoes when the local supply has run low, and many hundreds of horses per annum to supply the contractors and the settlers as they locate on the bush farms. These things come in considerable part from the London district.

MILLIONS IN WAGES AND SUPPLIES.

There were two thousand tons of hav shipped out of Temiskaming this spring, and there was $100,000 worth of agricultural implements shipped in through the hands of the New Liskeard dealers alone. The shipping mines of Cobalt have spent thirty millions in wages and supplies during the past five or six years, and the non-hippers have probably nearly duplicated that amount. The lumber camps have brought in millions untold for years gone by of the products of the southern factories, and now the farms are beginning to be felt in the demand for provisions of all sorts.

The trade of the past has been considerable.

development has only just begun. The trade of the future London's industrial and commercial houses are in the foreguard of those who are securing big business in the north land. For instance, a glance over one hotel register at New Liskeard revealed the names of a dozen hale knights of the grip—and opposite the flourished signature of each stood out boldly the name of that

The clearthe land seems to him to the settler's most serious problem. Once a man has cleared a certain amount of his homestead, say 50 acres ne is able to become prosperous. Some men need no assistance whatever, as witness the stories related elsewhere of those who have come in with $7 or $20 and are now wealthy, but there are many who could come to the front more rapidly if they were sure of a ertain amount of road work or a certain amount of money while they were leading to New Liskeard. There are waving fields of grain and acres upon acres of gardening ranches. Few men are in the country who came in with much money; yet the experience of almost all of them has been that of success, hard-won but certain. There are Englishmen, Scotchmen, Irishmen and men who have come back from the parties of the West; there are men from every county in Old On-tario, most of them older sons. They are advancing in prosperity every year, as a whole, and some facts as to year, as a whole, and some facts as to

In Brillinger's Gardens.

J. A. Brillinger has a market gar-den near New Liskeard that had run-ning expenses of $5,000 last year. Twice since Mr. Brillinger has conducting the place he has burned out, and recently he con-structed a large greenhouse of cement. He does not tell what his profits were, but his turn over been enormous. He has more 50 acres under cultivation for dening, and he believes, as one has had wide experience in garden-ing in Old Ontario, that the yields secured in Temiskaming cannot be equalled anywhere. Some of his reasons for making this statement are:

Potatoes—250 bags to the acre, largest yield; 125 bags to the acre on an average.

Cabbage—Eight acres yielded 18 tons to the acre. The average price was $30 a ton. Turnips — One and three-quarter acres yielded 1,200 bags.
Strawberries—12,000 quarts to the acre. Fifteen cents average price per

In addition to these articles, tomatoes, cucumbers, celery and all manner of vegetables and small fruits are raised on the place. It is one of the show places of the district.
W. G. Slade came to New Ontarlo fifteen years ago. He now owns several farm properties and has about 150 acres under crop this year. Mr. Slade sold 800 bags of potatoes at an average of $1.50 a bag. He believes Timiskaming to be the country for mixed farming, as there are no crop failures. Grasses do well, and he forsees a great future for dairying.

He has made tests with sheep raising and his pure-bred Downs have made splendid progress this year.

Twelve colonies of bees do well on the Slade farm because of the profumany years.

Ontario's Vastness

Few people realize what a tremendous province Ontario is. It extends for nearly twelve hundred miles from east to west and over a thousand miles from south to north. The northernmost point of Ontario is as far north of Toronto as New Orleans is south. Ontario is over three times the area of Great Britain and Ireland, almost exactly twice as large as France, and is almost twice of Ontario could be got all six of the New England states— Main, New Hampshire, Ver-mont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, the empire state of New York, the empire state of New Jork, the great states of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and North and South Dakota, and yet room would be left for the State of New Jersey.

In spite of these various ups and downs, the Liberal ministry undoubt-edly are stronger at the end of the session than they were in the dark days in the middle. the visit to Dublin had a most extraordinary effect upon his spirits. He is sunny, gay, and alert, and in the House of Commons there is a growing power of enthusiasm in his utterances on Ireland. When Bonar Law delivered himself into his hands, reiterating his frantic and foolish appeals to civil war in Ulster, Mr. Asquith, quite unprepared, rose immediately and delivered one of the most powerful speeches of his whole life.

A good deal of the increased strength of the Liberal Ministry is due to the mistakes of Bonar Law. Brought up in the narrow school of Ulster Unionism, he is more of an Irish-Orangeman than an English A merchant, the son of a Unionist. Nonconformist clergyman, he does not command the adhesion of the Unionist aristocrats and landlords who still form so large a section of the Unionist party. WHEN the House of Commons assembles we shall come to business and to close quarters The Government will propose drastic closure, and, of course, carry it. It is expected that the proposal will received with resentment by the Unionists, and perhaps they may even attempt to create a scene of violent disorder. But disorder that has been announced for months beforehand, has a knack of ending in fizzles, and doubtless that will be the fate of the much proclaimed and highly-organized outburst which will come in October Once the closure is passed, the home rule bill will be pushed through day by day until it passes through every stage in the House of Commons There is no prospect at present of the Liberal majority of 100 remaining intact in its favor to the end. LONDON AND THE STRANGER, [London Chronicle.] What aspect of London is it that appeals to the foreigner? Mazzini had no fondness for London as a whole, but he loved—of all things—the London fogs! "When you look up," he wrote, "the eye loses itself in a reddish, bell-shaped wault, which always gives me, I don't know why, an idea of the phosphorescent light of the Inferno. The whole city seems under a kind of spell, and reminds me of the Witches' Scene in 'Macbeth' or the Brocksberg or the Witch of Endor. The passers-by look like ghosts—one feels almost a ghost oneself." And, years afterwards, when back in Italy, he secalls these same London fogs: "I think often under these radiant skies of London fogs, and always regretfully. Individually speaking. I was evidently intended for an Englishman."

ORIGIN OF PHILISTINES

aluable Discoveries Made in Ancient

City of Bethshemiah. London, Aug. 15 .- The vexed quesion of the origin of the Philistines is expected to be solved shortly. A letter received in London announces that Duncan MacKenzie, director of the exploring party which went to Palestine in behalf of the Palestine exploration fund, has made discoveries of high historical importance in the ruins of the ancient city of Bethshemiah, which he and a com-recently unearthed, and what was probably an extremely early sanctuary or grotto was found underneath. It has not yet been opened up or explored. At the same time it is a grotto with the most primitive interments, for a great quantity of un-broken pottery (food and drink offerings) have been uncovered which date back to at least 1500 B. C. The natives were much excited over this discovery, and also the discovery of several huge well mounts, which when followed down a few feet will probably solve the problem of the water supply of this ancient walled city.
