EXPERT IS INVESTIGATING NEED FOR A TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Inspector A. H. Leake, of Toronto, Is Now in London.

THE PEOPLE MUST PAY FOR SCHOOL

Many Places Want Such Institutions, But Do Not Care to Finance Them.

Definite steps are now being taken towards the establishment of a technical school in London.

Inspector A. H. Leake, of Toronto, is in the city to conduct an investigation into the needs of such an institution here. He will be here a week, and during that time will interview a number of prominent citizens, and also visit the manufacturing establishments in London.

A meeting will be held some time during the week probably on Friday, when Mr. Leake will have a report to read, and some suggestions to offer regarding the establishment of such a school.

Mr. G. N. Weekes, chairman of the board of education, some time ago sent a request to the Minister of Education, that I be sent here to investigate the question of a technical school and make a report as to the nature of such an institution, one that will meet the needs and necessities of London," he stated to The Advertiser. "I will spend a week on the investigation, and will make a few suggestions later."

Will Visit Factories.

"I will interview the prominent men of your city, and will spend some time going through the various manufacturing establishments. I will not have time to go through them all, but will visit typical institutions. You see, if I do that alone, I will see 32 different factories. London has a very diversified set of manufactories, and it will require some time to go through them all. I want to find out the number of employees, both men and women; the age at which boys and girls start to work, the process of manufacture, in fact, every possible bit of information that will aid us in coming to a definite and proper conclusion. I will visit the McClary Company, E. E. Leonard & Sons, Geo. White & Sons, and the Dennis Company. The gentlemen at the head of these institutions have been placed on the advisory committee by the board of education, and they have shown a considerable interest in the question. It is to be desired that the manufacturers give us every facility for gathering information.

"As you may guess from the diversification of your industries, the question of technical education, to meet the requirements of your city, is rather difficult.

All Is in the Air.

"Whether or not it will lead to the establishment of a technical school I cannot say. It depends upon the attitude of the citizens generally, and particularly the manufacturers. It is the custom of the municipalities to bear the burden of the expense. This fact will have to be borne in mind by the citizens generally. A good many places are enthusiastic over technical schools, but they want them for nothing.

"Hamilton built an excellent school, costing about $30,000 all told. They have a regular staff, consisting of a principal, wood worker, metal worker, electrical working, household science teacher and needle work instructor. In addition, there are four special teachers who teach the night classes. They take up printing, mechanical drawing, architectural drawing and mathematics. The night classes are the most important part of the work, and are producing good results. There are forty students enrolled for three-year terms, and about 600 pupils from the public and high schools taking manual training and household science. In addition, there are 250 men and women enrolled in the evening classes, which are held three nights a week.

Hamilton is Ambitious.

"Of course, I would not advise every city to start out on so ambitious a scale as Hamilton. The tendency in the United States is towards smaller buildings and smaller classes. They have come to the conclusion that too much has been invested in buildings. I would suggest that so far as London is concerned a small corner of an unused factory be secured for these classes. There should be no trouble about securing such a building, and it would be sufficient in the experimental stage, at least, to meet the needs of the city. The initial cost would not be very great."

The Chapter House, on Richmond street, might be secured at a reasonable cost," interposed Inspector Edwards. "I have been looking at it, and I was struck with the suitability of the location for such purposes."

"I have not seen that building, but it might be a fine one for our purposes," declared Mr. Leake. "There is a growing sense in Ontario of the necessity of doing something for the boys and girls between fourteen and sixteen years of age. They do not go to the High school, and little is being done to help them. It is after this class of student that we wish to do something.

Admission to School.

"The entrance examination is not necessary for admission to the institution. It would be better, perhaps, if pupils had this certificate, as the more education the better. But it often happens that good pupils, well equipped, have not succeeded in passing the entrance owing to nervousness or the tricky nature of the papers. So long as the inspector and principal of the school were satisfied as to their qualifications, there would be no trouble in having them admitted.

"I am looking for the co-operation of the manufacturers in the establishment of a technical school. In Welland, they are taking the matter up most enthusiastically, and I expect that the manufacturers of that town will equip the new school soon to be erected there.

"The Government will assist. If I remember correctly, the sum of $30,000 has been set aside for that purpose. In my judgment, the Government will make the

STAFF IS ENLARGED RESULT OF CHANGE

London Is Now More Important Military Center Than Formerly.

Next Monday will mark the inauguration of the recent changes made in the militia by which London becomes the headquarters of this district. This means a most important change, as in the past London has been managed through the Toronto headquarters.

After Monday next it will be independent except for the orders from headquarters in Ottawa, and the staff here will be in control of the working out of all the arrangements necessary.

This will mean an addition to the staff of five officers, a general staff officer, not yet appointed, Major McDonald, Major Tooley, who will be paymaster, Captain Dean, of the A. M. S. C., and an official engineer, not yet appointed. Besides these, there will be a full staff of subordinates. The new men will all report for duty on Monday next and will be temporarily quartered in the Armories. Later special offices will be rented for their accommodation.

ASK COUNCIL TO CUT OFF LICENSES

London Township Temperance People Are After Heads of Hotelmen.

WILL CALL A MEETING

Move Is Resorted To Owing to the Fact That Local Option Cannot Be Voted On for Two Years.

A meeting will be held very shortly in London Township to discuss the question of asking the county council to reduce the number of licenses there. A gentleman in close touch with the matter stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that the meeting will be called in the next few days and if those who attend are favorable, a big petition will be circulated at once asking the council to cut off nine of the hotel licenses.

As there are only ten licenses now in the township, this would, if it goes into effect, be a terrific blow. It would also save the temperance people a good deal of time, as under the law they cannot ask for a local option vote for two years.

Another far reaching effect it would have if successful would be to head off the move to have the districts of East mount and Ealing incorporated.

The temperance people are working to wipe out the hotels in London Township and all through Middlesex.

Making Headway.

"We are making splendid headway," said one of the leaders to The Advertiser this afternoon. "There are going to be a good many changes in the hotels this summer, and a good many more after the next municipal elections. In the event of our presenting a petition containing one name more than 50 per cent of those on the voters list the council of London Township will have to order the hotels to go out of business. It then rests for the license commissioners to say which ones shall be closed. We aim to leave only one in the township, and there is a very strong feeling throughout the township in support of our efforts."

The temperance people are working hard to stop the proposed incorporation of Eastmount and Ealing, as they regard it simply as a move on the part of certain hotelmen to try and save their licenses, which they say will most certainly be lost when the next local option vote is taken, if the incorporation is not put through.

TRADE COMMISSIONER ARRIVES IN LONDON

Mr. H. P. Poussette, of Sarnia, Will Talk Over Important Matters Here.

Mr. H. P. Poussette, of Sarnia, the recently appointed trades commissioner to South America and Argentina, arrived in London this afternoon to spend a few days discussing trade matters with the manufacturers of this city, prior to his departure for his new field of labor.

He was here for a short time last week and saw a few of them, but on this visit will remain some days securing information as to the kind of goods manufactured here, and the possibility of developing trade with the south.

Mr. Pousette is well known in London, and he is said to be specially qualified for the position he has been named for. He has travelled extensively, and is fully cognizant with the needs of a majority of the nations which he will visit.

Dr. Harry T. Reason, president of the board of trade, will assist in giving Mr. Poussette all possible information needed for his work.

JAMES BRYCE ON BASIS OF EMPIRE

Knowledge and Local Self-Government Two Imperial Cornerstones.

SPEAKS IN LONDON

British Ambassador and Famous Scholar-Politician Addresses Canadian Clubs—National and Imperial Patriotism.

Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador at Washington, delivered an address before the Women's Canadian Club and the Canadian Club in the Normal School on Saturday afternoon. His subject was "Canada and the Empire." The meeting was presided over by Mayor Beattie, and was well attended, every available bit of space in the auditorium being occupied On the platform with the distinguished guest were Sir George Gibbons, Lady Gibbons, president of the Woman's Canadian Club; Bishop Williams, Mrs. F. E. Leonard, Mrs. Becher, Mrs. Talbot Macbeth, Mrs. John Stevely, Mrs. (Dr.) Belton, Mrs. Donald McLean, and others.

Mr. Bryce in his address spoke of the influence Canadian Clubs were having in softening the bitterness of party strife. Political parties were necessary, in his judgment, as there was no other way by which to govern a nation, but it was necessary to recognize that bitterness should be wiped out, and that debates and contests should be conducted on a higher plane

Three Kinds of Patriotism.

The ambassador spoke of patriotism at some length. There were three kinds of patriotism, Provincial, Canadian and Imperial. All three had their place in every Canadian citizen's life, and it was his duty to cultivate each to the highest degree.

Mr. Bryce advocated more extensive travel between citizens of the outlying parts of the empire, in order to bring them more closely together. Englishmen and Canadians were becoming better acquainted because of their travelling to and fro. To better understand each other's problems, so that more intelligent co-operation might result, it was necessary to visit and exchange ideas and ideals.

To Canadian problems Mr. Bryce paid some attention. Particularly, he spoke of the rushing tide of immigration to Canada, which would constitute a grave question, if Canadians did not make every endeavor to assimilate the foreigners coming to their shores. Of the Americans, Germans and Scandinavians, Mr. Bryce had no fear, but the immigrants from Central and Eastern Europe constituted a problem of some magnitude.

During the afternoon solos were rendered in excellent voice by Miss Elsie Green and Miss Lou Macdonald. Mr. W. A. Bleetner and Mr. A. D. Jordan acted as accompanists.

Mr. Bryce's Address.

Mr. Bryce acknowledged the words of welcome expressed by Mayor Beattie.

"I thank you for the kindly and courteous reception you have given me, and for the friendly and cordial greeting accorded by your mayor. I ought to feel at home in the county of Middlesex, in the city of London, on the banks of the Thames. At one time I represented in the British House of Commons a constituency in the county of Middlesex, and I have resided in the city of London for 40 years.

"I have found it a great pleasure to come to Canada as often as possible—as often, in fact, as the pressure of

NO LIQUOR CARRIED ON COMMISSION'S CAR

Charge Made by Mr. George Taylor Was Without Foundation.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, April 23.—A reckless charge was made in the Commons on Saturday against the railway commission by George Taylor, M. P., who was criticising small and unusual Government expenditures. He referred to the fact that Bate & Co., grocers, of Ottawa, had supplied the official car of the commissioners with $1,567 worth of stuff, and he believed that nine-tenths of it was liquor. It is learned that liquor is not carried on the car of the commission and that not a dollar of the Bate or any other grocery account was for liquor.

FORMER LONDON MAN WAS ARRESTED AS A SPY BY MEXICAN INSURRECTOS

David Baker, of Francis Street, Was Watching a Fight Across the U. S. Border.

PAID $50 FINE TO BE FREED

Is Now Chairman of the Social Order of Moose in Detroit.

The Detroit Free Press has the following to say of Mr. David Baker, a former Londoner, who was employed as a barber while here, and who left the city for Detroit about seven years ago. His relatives still reside on Francis street, East London:

Charged with being a spy by the Mexican insurrectionists, and confined in a prison at Juarez for 48 hours, constitutes a portion of the many adventures which fell to the lot of David Baker, a Detroit saloonkeeper, at 85 Abbott street, who has been spending the last fortnight in Texas, near the border.

With the characteristically American desire to see what is going on, Mr. Baker crossed the line and pulled off a few manoeuvres of his own. In a letter written to a friend here he tells of his experience:

"Not that I was looking for trouble, but I found it all right. I stayed here in El Paso as long as I could with all the rumpus right out our back door. But I couldn't resist wandering over there to see some of the shooting. I was prowling around as contented as could be with the bullets whistling through the trees, when a party of 'insurrectos' came running in my direction.

Says He's American.

"My first thought was to run, too; then I thought better of it, and I guess if I hadn't, I wouldn't be writing this. So I just stood my ground, and when they came up, told them I was an American, taking a look at their little revolution.

"But there was nothing to it. I was hauled off to the bastile, and if you hadn't wired me that money, I'd be there yet. Of course, they knew I was not a spy, and they just held out for the $20, but if you hadn't sent it — I know they aren't crack marksmen, but I think they could have hit me, standing blindfolded against a brick wall, with all day to get the bullseye."

Considerable difficulty attended Mr. Baker's efforts to secure money from Detroit. He wired several persons before one could be located, and when the money was dispatched, by mistake it was sent to Del Rio, necessitating a delay of a day before he was released.

Mr. Baker, who is chairman of the house committee of the Social Order of Moose for the month of May, will be in Detroit within the next week to take up his duties in that capacity.

WHAT WILL BE DONE WITH THIS PRISONER?

Committed to Jail and Ordered To Be Produced On "April 31."

Governor Carter, of the county jail, is confronted with a problem in the disposition of one Robert McKee, an old-time drunk, who has been in frequently, but who has never figured in a similar position before. He was arrested on April 22, charged with being drunk and was remanded to jail by Deputy Magistrate Graydon, "to be delivered on April 31 at the police station for further hearing." It just so happens that those who compiled the calendar neglected to provide a day for such a number, there being only 30 days in April, and the governor is worried as to what to do with his man.

A week ago there were but fourteen prisoners, two of them women in the cells of the county jail, but since that time a supply of drunks has brought the total up to 27. This is a very respectable showing, and such a spurt in business encourages the governor to continue the operation of his emporium.

A LAMBETH BOY HIT BY CAR NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH

Robert Tiffin, the 7-year-old son of Rev. A. C. Tiffin, of Lambeth, had a close call from being crushed to death yesterday afternoon at 1:30, when he was hit by a southbound traction car. Although somewhat badly bruised, he will recover. The little lad was on his way to Sunday school, and had called at a neighbor's, whose house stands close to the radial tracks. Finding he was late, he ran out, and on to the track, not noticing the car which was right upon him. The motorman had no chance to stop, but fortunately, the car threw the lad to one side and away from the wheels. A physician was hurried out from the city by the traction company, but found the injuries were not of a serious nature.

PEOPLE ARE ANXIOUS FOR MACADAM ROADS

City Engineer Wright Is Figuring On the Estimates Now.

City Engineer Wright is at the present time figuring on three macadam roads for citizens who have made application for prices. The new idea is meeting with favor, apparently, and the citizens have come to the conclusion that good permanent roads will be a benefit to the city. They are willing to pay for them, provided they get what they pay for.

"I am at present figuring on these streets," said Mr. Wright. "The property-owners want broken stone macadam with curbs and gutters. I am not at liberty to give the names of the streets at the present moment, as some of the ratepayers want to do some work in securing names to petitions before anything definite is announced. However, the streets mentioned are long thoroughfares, and when completed will be a welcome addition to the roads of London. I will have the prices ready in a short time."

OPPOSITION VETS WHO WENT ASTRAY

Railed Against Reciprocity and Then Voted for It.

A NICE PREDICAMENT

Morning Sittings for Next Week and Prorogation on May 19th.

Ottawa, April 24.—Good Conservatives who have spoken against reciprocity, voted for it on Saturday morning. The Government side of the House is chuckling over the predicament they have placed themselves in by voting for the Sealey amendment to drop the fruit and vegetable items from the proposed free list, and that thus amended the resolution should stand. It was very late when the amendment was read, and perhaps the Conservative members are entitled to have that considered, and also the fact that Hansard fell down on the amendment. However, the six Conservatives who went astray are six of the most seasoned on that side of the House, being Messrs. Lennox, Blain, Henderson, Sproule, Roche and Currie. It is understood that the matter will come up in the House this afternoon in some form. Morning sittings will be commenced next week, and it is expected that prorogation will take place on May 19.

MINISTERS HELD VERY QUIET SESSION TODAY

Mrs. Thornley's Statement Indorsed By the Association.

The London Ministerial Alliance went into retreat at 10:30 o'clock this morning, and were entirely lost to worldly things and the prosy affairs of mundane life until close unto 2 o'clock this afternoon.

In order to insure greater privacy the alliance did not meet, as is their usual custom, in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., but held instead a session in St. Andrew's Church.

So closely was the time, the place, and the meeting guarded that not even the wives of the reverened gentlemen knew where the meeting was being held.

Coronation Day.

For four long hours, minus a brief period which was devoted to the arrangement of the coronation services, which are to be held on Coronation Day, the alliance wrestled with social problems. Reports of slumming expeditions, moving picture show inquiries and sociological investigations of all kinds that have been strenuously conducted of late were earnestly debated.

At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed, stating that in the opinion of the alliance, Mrs. Thornley had done nothing that calls for criticism, but that on the other hand she had brought before the people of the city, elaborate and well-substantiated evidence of the existence of great and crying evils and immorality in this city. The resolution expressed the entire approbation on the part of the alliance of all that Mrs. Thornley had done in the matter, particularly complimenting her upon the initiative which she had so creditably displayed.

Rev. J. Gibson Inkster was appointed convener of a committee to conclude the final arrangements for the coronation day services, which will be held in the Armories if that building can be obtained for the purpose. Complete details have not been get worked out for the services.

TWO YEARS IN CENTRAL PRISON FRED MAUDSLEY'S SENTENCE

Dowling Was Allowed to Go With Three Months' Term Because of His Previous Good Character—End of King Street Robbery Case.

At this morning's session of the police court, Fred Maudsley, who last week was convicted of robbing Wm. S. McDougall, a local butcher, with violence, of the sum of $2.00, was sentenced by Deputy Magistrate Graydon to one year and 364 days in the Central Prison. Leo Dowling, also convicted on the same charge, was sent to the Central Prison for three months.

Maudsley felt his position somewhat keenly, especially when Mr. J. F. Faulds, who appeared for him, asked the court to be as lenient as possible because his wife was in a very delicate condition.

"Mr. Maudsley," said Mr. Faulds, to the court, "has, I know, been convicted before, but for two years he has been living a steady life, and trying to reform. His employers speak in the very highest terms of him and say he has proven himself absolutely trustworthy."

Mr. E. C. Scatcherd, who appeared for Dowling, asked the court to allow his client to go on suspended sentence.

A Serious Offence.

"It is with a good deal of reluctance," said the magistrate, "that I find myself having to sentence Maudsley, particularly in view of the fact that the punishment will react upon his wife. Unfortunately, the offence of which he has been convicted is of a most serious character. I am afraid that Maudsley was the designer of the plan to rob McDougall, if there was a plan designed, and if not, he was the man who was responsible for what happened. Transactions such as Mr. McDougall and Mr. McGregor were having are necessary, and dozens of them are carried out every market day. If such business cannot be done in safety, it means a serious menace to our trade. It is to be regretted that Maudsley has shown it to be possible in his enlightened age for such a wild west robbery to be perpetrated in our midst. I sentence him to 1 year and 364 days in the Central Prison.

"In regard to Dowling, I am glad to say that he has a good clean character, and that he has made restitution of the money taken, and gave information that led to the recovery of some of it. I cannot let him go on suspended sentence, but will give him three months in the Central."

Before Maudsley was sentenced, Mr. Morris White, for whom he has been working, spoke most favorably for him, saying that he had found him very trustworthy, and was ready to take him back to work again at any time.

LONDON STREET RAILWAY WILL EMPLOY NIGHT SHIFTS ON WORK

Pavement Construction On Richmond and Dundas Streets Wil Be Rushed at All Possible Speed.

The London Street Railway Company will put on night shifts to hurry the construction work of Richmond and Dundas streets.

That announcement was made to Deputy Engineer Wright by Manager King today. This means that the company will do what they can to get the portion of the street allowance in shape at an early date.

All day Sunday a large gang of men was employed in changing the switches and turnouts at the corner of York and Richmond streets. This was not finished but it will be completed by tomorrow night.

All the special work necessary for the corner of Richmond and Dundas streets has arrived. On Saturday night a large gang of men will be put to work on this corner, and on Sunday it will be laid. This is one of the big tasks in connection with repaving these streets, and it is anticipated that when it is finished rapid progress will be made.

"Mr. King told me that night shifts will be put on," said Mr. Wright. "Better progress is being made than formerly, and I think the company will now do their best to aid us in getting the work well in hand early this summer. It is to their advantage to do so, and I think they realize it. We will have our work in shape in plenty of time, and once we are in a position to get on the streets there will be no delay, if the weather is at all fine."

HOLD ANOTHER MEETING ON TUESDAY NIGHT NEXT

Vestry of St. John's Will Once Again Discuss Matters With the Rector.

There will be a meeting of the vestry of the Church of St. John the Evangelist on Tuesday evening, May 2.

A meeting of those opposed to the rector, Rev. W. T. Hill, was held on Saturday night, at which plans for another session were outlined.

It will be remembered that at the last meeting, Mr. Hill ruled out of order all motions to reduce his salary. He stated that such action could not be taken without the consent of the bishop and the rector.

The members of the congregation looked up this point, and they have been advised that the rector has nothing to do with the salary to be paid the incumbent of the parish.

It is the intention of the congregation at the meeting, therefore, to renew their motion to reduce Mr. Hill's salary to $1 per annum.

If he rules this out of order, the meeting will name a chairman, and then it will be passed.

Will Go to the Bishop.

This done, the committee will take the case up with Bishop Williams. This will bring matters to a climax.

The members have prepared a varied assortment of motions to be presented to the meeting, all of which will show the unalterable opinion of the vestry.

GODERICH CAMP WILL LIKELY BE SMALL ONE

Nothing Whatever of a Permanent Character This Year.

From present indications the camp at Goderich this year will be one of the smallest ever held in this district. As far as can be learned the following are the only forces that will go under canvas:

Rural Regiments — Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh (Lambton), Thirtieth (Wellington), Thirty-second (Bruce), Thirty-third (Huron), and the Corps of Guides, K Company of the Royal Canadian Regiment, one section of the Fifteenth Field Ambulance and No. 1 Company of the C. A. S. C. It is expected that the Seventh Regiment, the Twenty-first Regiment from Windsor, and the Twenty-fourth from Chatham will go under canvas for a few days.

"There is absolutely nothing whatever of a permanent character about the camp at Goderich," said an officer to The Advertiser this afternoon. "If London people get busy and provide suitable grounds, there is every chance of having it permanently established here. After this year as a result of the new organization that will go into effect the camp will be bigger than it ever was before, and several thousand men will train. If London people get busy, and get the grounds we will get the camp here permanently."

THE DYNAMITE PROBERS STILL ON THE TRAIL

The Investigation Continues at Indianapolis and Tiffin — Defence Fund for McNamara.

[Canadian Press.]

Indianapolis, April 24. Investigation declared to be directed toward exposing persons and methods responsible for 80 explosions and great property loss in various parts of the country during the last two years, continued today in this city and at Tiffin, Ohio.

At the latter place Detective William J. Burns and J. A. G. Badorf, assistant counsel for the National Protective Association, were following certain details connected with their discovery there last night of 400 pounds of dynamite in a shed, and in this city, Walter Drew, principal counsel for the Erectors' Association, conferred with the police and Frank P. Baker, county prosecutor, as to further inquiry to be made in the case.

Fund for Defence.

Denver, Col., April 24.—The Western Federation of Miners stands ready to levy an assessment of $5 upon each of 50,000 members as a defence fund for Secretary J. J. McNamara, of the Structural Iron Workers' Union. This statement was made today by Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners.

FIVE MILLION DOLLAR CROCKERY MERGER

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, April 24.—Another important amalgamation has been consummated. It will include several of the largest wholesale crockery and glassware manufacturers and distributors in Canada. The name of the new concern is Cassidys, Limited, with a capital stock of $5,000,000, divided into 50,000 shares of $1 each. The head office of the company will be at Montreal.

The following companies are included in the merger: The John L. Cassidy, Limited, Montreal; Gowans, Kent & Co., Toronto; Gowans, Kent Western, Limited, Winnipeg; Bacwo & Dotter, New York, with branch houses and factories in Germany and France.

All the common stock, $2,500,000, and also the preferred stock, has been issued. Canadian capital only is interested in the amalgamation, which will both manufacture and distribute. New branches may be established in various parts of the Dominion. No bond issue is contemplated. The following are the officers of the new company: President, Mr. Wm. Prentice; secretary, F. Warden; treasurer, Mr. Petch; directors, Mr. Wm. Prentice, Mr. Wm. Yuill, Mr. W. D. Birchall, Mr. F. S. Parlee, Mr. J. D. Montgomery, Mr. McL. Yuill, Dr. A. H. Osborne.

Amusements

"The Blue Mouse."

It is all on account of "temperament" of the mischievous little "Blue Mouse," which causes most of the trouble in the play of the same name which the Messrs. Shubert will present at the Grand next Wednesday night, with a cast including Grace Merritt, Albert Gran, Bess Palmer, Guy D'Ennery, Mabel Ridley, John Hynes, Gordon Mendelssohn, W. G. Reynier, Frank Halbach, John Dunne, Mary MacGregor, Carolin Friend, Manuel Alexander and others. The play enjoyed a run of one year at the Lyric Theatre, New York. It remained for six months in Chicago, for the same length of time in Boston, and for ten weeks in Philadelphia.

"The Kissing Girl."

During the entire tour this season John P. Slocum has been deluged with congratulations on the success of "The Kissing Girl," in which Miss Texas Guinan is the star of a brilliant musical comedy. In "The Kissing Girl" there is plenty of action, smart dialogue and new humor, and such a combination never fails to please the most fastidious of amusement seekers. The cast, which will be seen at the Grand Opera House on April 29 is made up of favorites to the playgoers of this city, for with but small exceptions it is the same company which produced "The Gay Musician" a couple of seasons ago. There will be two performances, matinee and evening, on Saturday, and the seat sale will open on Thursday morning.

"The Dollar Princess."

At the Grand Opera House next Monday evening, May 1, patrons are to be given their first opportunity of passing judgment on "The Dollar Princess," the musical comedy which has already delighted Vienna, Berlin, Paris, London, New York, Chicago and Boston. The play is said to be quite as fascinating as "The Merry Widow," and the music, according to various musical critics, excels in many respects that of the Lehar operetta. "The Dollar Princess" is not the ordinary musical comedy not yet the extraordinary opera-bouffe. It possesses all the refinement and irresistible melody of the one, together with the dash and vigor of the other. Of the twenty-one musical numbers there are at least a dozen which could carry any musical play to success. The book is a clever one, furnishing lots of fun and a capital idea. Mr. Frohman has this season equipped "The Dollar Princess" with an entirely new scenic and sartorial display, that used last season having been turned over to the company playing on the Pacific coast. This displays three picturesque stage pictures most conceivable and an array of gown costumes ranging from the office tailor-made to the gorgeous gown of the society belle. The color scheme is delicate and refined, forming a most pleasing stage picture. There are two 60-foot cars of scenery, and it comes direct from Detroit, where it plays all this week.

Minstrels Tomorrow.

The St. John's Big Minstrel Show to be given in their club house, corner Oxford and Waterloo streets, this Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, promises to be a big success. Mr. J. R. Mitcheltree, with his ten end men, will look after the fun in the first part. The second part will be all in black face, and those who have been permitted to witness some of the rehearsals pronounce both burlesques to be screams.

A Treat Tonight.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the presentation tonight by the London Dramatic Society in the Grand Opera House of "Lady Huntsworth's Experiment."

There has been a great demand for seats, and practically the whole house has been sold out. A few seats remain, but those who wish them will have to come early, if they wish to witness this performance.

The players have been well drilled in the play, and have reached a high state of perfection. Last year the club made an excellent showing in Toronto in the Earl Grey competition. They have a reputation from coast to coast, and experts who have witnessed the rehearsals are confident that the club will bring back the prize from Winnipeg.

The offering this year will be better than "Jack Straw" presented last year. It is an excellent comedy and presented as it is sure to be, will undoubtedly be much appreciated.

The club leaves on Tuesday for Winnipeg. This will be the only opportunity Londoners will have of witnessing the performance and the opportunity will not be lost.

The proceeds of the play will be placed to the credit of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Star Theatre Attractions.

The management of the "Star," the popular Richmond street picture theatre, has again secured another big double attraction, the San Francisco Earthquake and Fire along with the great train robbery. This makes one of the strongest picture bills ever seen at the Star. Mr. Swanwick has arranged for his entire circuit the film of Dr. Cook's story of the North Pole.

COFFEE CONGESTION

Causes a Variety of Ails.

A happy old lady in Wisconsin says: "During the time I was a coffee drinker I was subject to sick headaches, sometimes lasting 2 or 3 days, totally unfitting me for anything.

To this affliction was added, some years ago, a trouble with my heart that was very painful, accompanied by a smothering sensation and faintness.

"Dyspepsia, also, came to make life harder to bear. I took all sorts of patent medicines, but none of them helped me for any length of time.

"The doctors frequently told me that coffee was not good for me; but without coffee I felt as if I had no breakfast. I finally decided about 2 years ago to abandon the use of coffee entirely, and as I had read a great deal about Postum I concluded to try that for a breakfast beverage.

"I liked the taste of it and was particularly pleased to notice that it did not 'come up' as coffee used to. The bad spells with my heart grew less and less frequent, and finally ceased altogether, and I have not had an attack of sick headache for more than a year. My digestion is good, too, and I am thankful that I am once more a healthy woman. I know my wonderful restoration to health came from quitting coffee and using Postum." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is this. Coffee has a direct action on the liver with some people, and causes partial congestion of that organ preventing the natural outlet of the secretions. Then may follow biliousness, sallow skin, headaches, constipation and finally a change of the blood corpuscles and nervous prostration.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

JAMES BRYCE

my duties at Washington will permit. This is my fifth visit to this country since I came to America four years ago. I have addressed two Canadian clubs in that time, but this is the very first time I have met a Woman's Canadian Club. It is sufficient evidence, if any were needed, of the success it the idea, that it has been taken up not only by the inferior half, but by the superior half.

Position of Women.

"The women of Canada, as indeed, they are in England and the United States, are assuming just as important a position in public affairs as the men. It makes no difference whether or not they have votes. Heaven forbid that I should take up that subject this afternoon. As I said before, they have as much to do in the formation of public opinion as the men in England, the country I am most acquainted with, we are not governed by legislative machinery, by ministers, by cabinets, by legislatures, but by public opinion. The Government must do what public opinion dictates. I find public men only too anxious to find out what public opinion is, and then follow it. Women can have, and may have, in fact, many do have, as much to do in the formation of public opinion as men. It has been said that there never was a woman who had not two men ready to do her will. I do not wish to speak of the influence of women, but rather the share they have in forming public opinion. Their judgment, when they take the trouble and pain to investigate the facts of any case, is just as good as a man's judgment in literature it is just as good, if not better, and in nearly every branch of life it is the same when they take the time to look into and study any question. In these later days women have more leisure at their disposal. They are not so busily engaged in providing the necessities of life as men. They have not so much hard work, and more leisure, and why should they not use it in the discussion of public questions, and in taking an interest in the affairs of the nation?

Patriotic Women.

"The women in Canada are just as patriotic as the men. They have a great duty to perform in properly forming the opinions of their children. Public opinion is but part of the broader organization, the collective aggregate opinion of the community. It is an admirable omen of the future that these women's clubs have been organized to discuss public questions, to consider them carefully, and assist in arriving at a solution of some of the great problems confronting us.

"I have been a great admirer of Canadian clubs, particularly in view of the fact that no political party dominates. That is a great and happy idea. Some ten or fifteen years ago they were formed, I understand, and since that time the movement has spread rapidly. It is an admirable idea that men of all political parties should meet together, drawn by a common affection and regard for Canada, to discuss great questions, without politics in any way interfering with that discussion.

Softening the Differences.

"It will undoubtedly have the effect of softening the political differences of the parties. Political parties must exist in self-governing countries, but the country governed by the least party is the best governed. Switzerland is the best-governed country in the world, and there there is little party spirit. We can get along with the minimum of partisanship. Parties are necessary. It is impossible to avoid meetings for the organization of opinion, in order to give effect to the views of the community, and that means party. I used to discuss the question often with my ancient friend and preceptor, Goldwin Smith. He held the opinion that party could be abolished, and denounced party government. I often said to him, 'Suggest some other way to govern the country. How can we avoid parties?' No solution has been given as yet. It is unavoidable that when the issue is sharply drawn, between parties, when men fight earnestly and energetically for some cause, it is unavoidable, I say, that men will blame the opposition and place censure, where, in their opinion, it belongs.

Moderation in Politics.

At the same time we should use moderation. We must recognize in our bitterest struggles that there is something to be recognized in others. In nearly every question, there is much to be said on both sides. All the argument is never on one side. We will better appreciate our own position if we know the arguments of the opposite side. It is unfortunate when we extend the blame not on the opinion or the arguments advanced, but on the man who advances them. It is wrong to charge them with being foolish, dishonest or unpatriotic. I will admit that good motives are not always present but, nevertheless, each party has as many good, well-meaning men as the other. It is good sometimes to think that the balance is on our side, but it would be much better if we recognized the balance as equal. We should credit our opponents with as much honesty and patriotism as ourselves possess. It has often happened that in the heat of the campaign, political opponents have been denounced, and their private life bitterly assailed.

John Bright.

"No man's memory is so revered in England as that of John Bright. His integrity, his high sense of honor, his great ability, and his goodness of character were of so high a type that they formed an example to others. Even his opponents who knew him intimately were well aware of those facts. He was a most conscientious man, and those who knew him personally and intimately appreciated his character, irrespective of party feeling. And yet, his private life was bitterly assailed. Later in life he was honored by both parties. That should be an example to us. When the mists have cleared away, when the dust of battle has blown aside, we must recognize that on the other side there are just as honorable, just as well-meaning men, as ourselves. It would be better to credit them with good intentions, and reason with them. That is one good service clubs such as these can render to the community. When we meet to discuss public questions, we must recognize that it is possible to approach the same goal by different roads. It is well at times that all combine for joint action for the good of country."

About Patriotism.

"You exist for the welfare of Canada and the Empire. It is interesting to note here that there are three kinds of patriotism.

"In the first place there is the patriotism that centres about your province. It is a laudable thing to have your province well governed, to have its resources well developed, to have every part of the government well in hand. You wish to stand well in comparison with the other provinces. There is no necessity for undue competition, but it is a laudable competition to vie with the other provinces in the excellencies of your roads, and the excellencies of education.

"Then there is the patriotism you have for Canada. This is a larger and a broader patriotism. It looks farther back into tradition, and it also looks to the future. You see what she may become. Your ambition is to give her standing in the world, to make her a model among the nations of the world, in wealth, in civilization, in citizenship. You aim to bring the diverse elements in the country into one organized whole. How you can connect the far lying provinces from Nova Scotia to Vancouver into a united nation has been one of the problems you have had, and which you have solved. Out of that has come a Canadian patriotism, which is your right and glory.

"Over and above all this, there is an imperial patriotism. I wish to illustrate this by an example from the United Kingdom. I am a Scotchman. I have three kinds of patriotism, first for Scotland, second for Great Britain, and last for the Empire.

"My patriotism for Scotland is largely sentimental. It is true that our laws are somewhat different, but for most purposes we are just like England some Scotchman think too much so.

"Then there is our devotion for the Empire. Some time after the union, local patriotism was acute. The Scotch were not welcomed in England, nor were Englishmen welcomed in Scotland. However, that feeling has passed away. We can now take an Englishman and show him Bannockburn, he is just as glad to see it as we are to show it to him.

"Then we have an imperial patriotism. We feel that beyond the interest we have in the country where we were born, where our childhood was passed, and whose legends still cling in our memories, beyond the knowledge and history of Great Britain, what she has done and is doing, we have the further feeling for the Empire, and what it can do. The Empire is an immence fact. We are now but coming to realize what a great fact it is.

Period of Progress.

"When we consider the remarkable inventions of the past century, the advancement made in arts and science, we can readily believe that nothing like it ever existed before. One hundred years ago, it could not have been dreamed of. Canada is placed between the old motherland, and the great dominions over the seas. South Africa is placed between Britain and the other far-off lands, all ruled by, and owing allegiance to the crown. The Empire girdles the world in a way that it could not have done, had it not been for the discoveries and inventions, largely due to the Anglo-Saxon race.

"What must we do?" The various parts of the Empire should get better acquainted with each other. In England for a long time we did not appreciate the greatness of Canada. It has been during the past thirty years that we have come to know what this nation means. Our people have travelled more, and they have seen what it meant. More and more Britishers are coming to Canada, and Canadians are going to England in larger numbers. British capital is being invested in Canada in larger quantities than ever before. I would like to see the outlying parts of the Empire know each other better. It is most important that Canada should know South Africa, with its problems, for they are much similar to your own. It is most important that Canada should know Australia, and its varied problems. Reciprocal knowledge is the foundation of useful co-operation. We should know more of each other. It is not so much the necessity of friendship between the different parts of the Empire we have that now, but a sense of union comes when we know each other, and understand and appreciate the Government, the resources, the social life, the structure of Government and the aims and ambitions of the people. There should be a direct line of steamers to all the outlying parts of the Empire and to England. Canadians should sit these parts, and the residents in the Empire beyond the seas should come to Canada.

The Great Empire.

"As a matter of Government, what a novel thing the Empire it. The colonies are not ruled as despotically as Spain ruled hers. We have succeeded in discovering a more excellent way. We have paid dearly for our knowledge. We lost part of North America because of mistakes in government. That portion might have remained until this day in connection, perhaps somewhat loosely, but nevertheless in connection with Great Britain, had the principle of local self-government been more clearly recognized. It is impossible for a country far away to govern another country as well as they themselves when a certain standard of education and population has been reached. It is quite evident that some portions have not yet reached that stage, but when they do, local self-government must prevail.

Foundation of Empire.

"The Empire is based on common citizenship. This is a new feature in the imperial system. Every subject of every part of the Empire has the same social and political rights as he has inh is own. We have now four Canadians in the British Parliament. I hope that such will always be the case, and I hope that more will take part in the future in the deliberations of the British Parliament. I hope that some day British members may be elected to your parliaments. We have carried the principle still further, and our parliaments are open to natives of India. During my recollection, two members, born in India, have sat in the British Parliament. It is well that men familiar with the government of the various parts of Empire should sit in the House of Commons, so that when any question comes up involving any part of the Empire, it can be discussed from first hand knowledge.

"This citizenship is independent of race or language. We in the Empire have overleaped these limitations. This suggest difficulties in many parts of the Empire. The time was when it was thought impossible to have a united Canada owing to the large number of French in Canada. That has been proved wrong. The French are just as loyal, just as genuine Canadians as any other race in Canada. The same is true of South Africa. We did the very best possible thing when we brought the Dutchmen into touch with the Government of the country. They have responded nobly. A better feeling prevails among the races, and there is stability and permanence in the Government there. The hardy Burghers have appreciated it, and are working in the best of harmony with the other nationalities.

Advantages of Monarchy.

We are fortunate in having a hereditary monarchy. If the empire were governed by an elective president, the problem would be much more difficult. Every part can share in the dynasty. All can claim with the Englishman and the Scotchman that they are subjects of the English King. The royal family commenced in a small part of Scotland, then adopted by all Scotland, and by intermarriage went to England. Now the dynasty belongs to all. It belongs not to one part, but to the whole. In June next his majesty will be crowned on the Coronation Stone which belongs to Scotland. That is emblematic of the origin of the dynasty, but it is no more Scotland's than it is the remotest part of the empire. Sentiment has much to do with loyalty. The history of the dynasty goes back into the dim past, and is illuminated by names that will be a perpetual example to us to live up to the traditions bequeathed to us.

"There are difficulties in citizenship patent here and in the United States. You are receiving many immigrants in Canada. These are of many races. There are many coming from the United States. You will have no difficulty with them. They speak the same language. They have similar institutions, and they will be easily assimilated. Good citizens as any you will find over there. Americans will be. I see no difficulty from the Germans and Scandinavians. Their language is somewhat similar they are hard-working, industrious men, and should be readily assimilated.

Making Citizens.

"It might not be so easy a task to make good citizens of the immigrants from Eastern and Central Europe. They are a more ignorant class, not so advanced in civilization, and not so well prepared. It is true that they are intelligent, industrious and religious and their children will make good citizens. It will devolve upon you, the people of Canada, to do a great deal to lift up, educate and civilize the new immigrants who are coming in such large numbers to your shores.

"They nknow not our language. They have not the refinements of life to which we are accustomed. They come as total strangers. I would advise you to do some mission work among them, not altogether in the religious sense, but to make them good citizens. I am not advocating proselytism, but I am advocating that you improve their surroundings, give them ideals of citizenship, give them good education, and teach them good habits so that they may rise to the level to which we think we have risen. The problem is not so great as in the United States, because the volume of immigration is not so great. Still it is a great question even here. Do what you can for them. Show them kindness and teach them that they have come to a great and good country.

"We should have a sense of what our mission is in the world. Not for naught did Providence give the Empire this great prosperity and these opportunities. We should be apostles of enlightment and freedom. England was the first to develop free institutions. They should be developed and broadened.

"I am glad that Canada and the United States are on more friendly terms than they ever were before. They appreciate this country and its greatness, and they desire to be friendly. This will do much towards bringing the nations together, for freedom enlightenment and peace.

Responsibility in India.

England has done more for the east than any other nation. We have a great responsibility in India. You share that responsibility as part of the Empire. We must continue to do what we can for the backward nations. We must rule with kindness and justice with no appreciation to injustice, rapacity or oppression.

"In conclusion, I would say that the Empire is the greatest guarantee of peace in the world."

On the conclusion of the address, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Bryce on motion of Mrs. F. P. Betts of the Women's Canadian Club, and Mr. S. Frank Glass, president of the Canadian Club.

It was acknowledged by Mr. Bryce. "I thank you for the pleasure and privilege of meeting you," he said. "I hope to have opportunities in the future of meeting your Canadian Clubs."

A reception was held at the conclusion of the address. Refreshments were served, and Mr. Bryce was introduced to a large number of the citizens of London.

BLACK SNOW IN THE ALPS.

A curious natural phenomenon has been observed during the last few days in the lower Emmen Valley above the Lake of Brienz.

Last week the inhabitants woke up to find that it had been snowing both in the valley and on the slopes of the surrounding hills. About six inches of new snow was lying, and as far as the eye could see it was not white, but of a grayish black color, as if a thick coating of dust and soot had accumulated upon it.

It was much blacker than snow which had been lying a week in a city exposed to all the smuts of the surrounding chimneys, whereas of course in the Emmen valley there was nothing to soil it.

The only explanation which anyone can offer of the phenomenon of black snow is that it may be due to volcanic ash brought by winds across the sea and the mountains from Etna, which has lately been in eruption.

Red snow, of course, is a fairly common phenomenon in the Andes, and was remarked by Darwin. So far as no other part of the Alps except the Simmen valley seems to have had the unpleasant experience of a fall of black snow. The snow, moreover, is getting darker and thicker here.

The inhabitants of the valley are herdsmen, who in their chalets make the famous Emmenthal cheese, while those who live on the shores of the Lake of Brienz are chiefly engaged in wood carving.

MRS. BEN. HIGGINS HAS PASSED AWAY

For Over Forty Years a Resident of London.

Mrs. Helena A. Higgins, relict of the late Benjamin Higgins, and for more than 40 years a resident of London, died at the family residence, 496 Dundas street, last night, after an illness extending over several weeks. Mrs. Higgins was 62 years old, and is survived by one son, Mr. B. H. Higgins, of this city, and three daughters, Mrs. William White, of Pocatello, Idaho; Mrs. Fred White, of William street, and Miss May Higgins, at home. Mrs. Higgins was a daughter of Rev. Dr. Sanderson. The funeral, which will be private, will be held on Tuesday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

REV. MR. BINGHAM ON YOUTHFUL MORALS

Discusses Causes of Evil and the Remedies.

Under the subject of "The Chastity of Our Schools and Homes," Rev. H. H. Bingham last night spoke on the question of the morals of the youth of our city. He pointed out that to speak of the immorality of the children in the public schools is not identical with expressing an opinion on the moral conditions of the youth of our city of school age. He stated that no board or committee dealing with the question of the morals of the public schools was prepared to pass a resolution expressing a true estimate of the moral condition of the children of the city of a school age.

Among the reasons for immorality among the youth of the city, he cited the criminal indifference of parents towards the moral welfare of their children, the evil effects of injurious nickel theatres, dime novels, the circulation of obscene postcards, and evil literature. Another reason which he gave was the double standard of morality which prevails today for men and women, and which is both injurious and unjust.

What we need to remedy this state of affairs is not more higher education but lower education, education along the lines of hygiene and the manners of children. A greater degree and a deepening of trust and confidence between parents and children is also necessary, and an awakening of parents to the needs of their children's spiritual welfare.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, under the first part of the Companies Act, Chapter 79, R. S. C., 1906, letters patent have been issued under the seal of the Secretary of State, bearing date the 19th of April, 1911, incorporating William John Reid, merchant, Frank Asphall Reid, commercial traveller, Raymond Donald Aldrich, sales manager, Clarence Graydon Lewis, bookkeeper, all of the City of London, in the Province of Ontario, and George Clarence King, of the City of Detroit, in the County of Wayne, in the State of Michigan, capitalist, for the following purposes:

(a) To manufacture, sell, lease, repair and generally deal in automobiles, motor cars and the like vehicles and the various parts thereof, as wholesale and retail merchants and manufacturers therein and thereof, and as manufacturers' agents and commission agents.

(b) To acquire any patent rights, licenses, trade marks, trade names relating to and which may be used in connection with motor cars and the like vehicles.

(c) To acquire, hold and sell shares in the capital stocks, bonds or other securities of any other company having objects similar in whole or in part to those of this company, and to vote such shares or bonds in the name of the company.

(d) To promote and assist financially by guarantees, advances of money or otherwise by indorsement, the enterprises or undertakings of any individual, firms or corporations with which this company may have business dealings.

(e) To share profits, unite or co-operate with any firm or corporation engaged in or about to carry on any business which this company is authorized to carry on.

(f) To install a plant to supply electric light and power and heat for the purposes of its business, with power to sell and dispose of electric light and energy in the form of power and heat and light, and for such purposes to erect wires and lay pipes as may be necessary, subject, however, to the local and municipal regulations in that behalf.

The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere, under the name of "W. J. Reid & Son, Automobiles, Limited," with a total capital stock of $100,000, divided into 2,000 shares of $50 each. The chief place of business of the said company to be at the City of London, in the Province of Ontario.

(Signed) THOMAS MULVEY,
74k Under-Secretary of State.

Schools Reopened.

The schools reopened today after the Easter holidays with a large attendance. Few youngsters were absent, and all got down to work in a hurry. The public schools, separate schools, and the Collegiate had practically the same number of pupils as before the close.

Instruction Lodge.

It has been definitely decided to hold a lodge of instruction for London district Masons on May 16. The first degree will be exemplified by Tuscan Lodge, the second by St. George's Lodge and the third by Kilwinning Lodge. M. Wor. Bro. Judge Macwatt, grand master, will be in attendance, and representatives from all the lodges in the district will be on hand.

Masonic Inspection.

The official visit of Rt. Wor. J. C. Spencer, D. D. G. M., was paid to Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, A. F. and A. M., on Friday evening last. The first degree was put on by Wor. Bro. Finlay Marshall and his officers in faultless style. After the lodge work a short banquet, at which addresses were delivered by visiting brethren, and others, was enjoyed.

Sale of City Hall.

The sale of the city hall is now being considered by the head office of the Royal Bank in Montreal. It has been learned that the local arrangements have been completed, and that the general manager and the directors now have the documents. No definite word has been received as to when the deal is likely to be closed. The prevailing opinion at the city hall is that it will take some time yet to complete it.

Ne Timere Decree.

In the course of his evening service Sunday, Rev. A. K. Birks, of Askin Street Methodist Church, referred to the "ne temere decree" of the Roman Catholic Church. "The integrity of the home must be preserved," said Mr. Birks. "And civil law must take precedence to ecclesiastical law in the courts of law of our provinces. I have no quarrel with the ecclesiastical law except when it interferes with the rights and privileges of others. If two Roman Catholics desire a Protestant minister to marry them, their marriage is and ought to be valid in our courts of law in all our provinces. And if two Protestants wish to be married by a Catholic priest their marriage ought also to be valid."

NEW YORK, April 24.—Noon Letter.—Selling of stocks all through the first hour on surface came from houses that gave it a decidedly impressive appearance. The brokers engaged in selling the stocks often represented interests that have been identified with operations for interests that have been frequently active on various up movements.

The selling forced declines of a point or more in important rails and industrials, bringing the range to the lowest so far reached this year. There was no persistent demand, but at the low levels many buying orders from banking quarters, as well as from commission houses. London bought about 20,000, and a number of fairly large orders were filled for foreign account. The usual Monday forenoon talk about supreme court decisions was in evidence. Sales to noon, 176,900 shares.

PRODUCE.

[Special to H. C. Becher.]

Winnipeg, April 24. — Closing wheat prices today: May, 94⅜c; July, 95⅝.

TORONTO, April 24.—Grain markets opened firm today at the advances of the latter part of last week. Local business quiet with light receipts. Ontario wheat—Winter wheat, No. 3, 84c to 85c outside; Manitoba wheat, No. 1 northern, 99½c; No. 2, 97c; No. 3, 95c, lake ports. Canadian western oats, No. 2, 38⅜c; No. 3, 37½c, at lake ports. Manitoba flour—Prices at Toronto are: First Patents $5 10, second patents, $4 60; strong bakers, $4 40, bay ports. Ontario oats—No. 2, 32c to 33c outside. Peas—No. 2, 80c outside. Barley—No. 3 extra or good malting, 68c to 70c outside; feed barley, 55c to 57c. Buckwheat—52c to 53c outside. Rye—Firm, 70c outside. Millfeed—Manitoba Bran, $23, in bags at Toronto; shorts, $23, in bags at Toronto. Ontario flour—Ninety per cent patents, $3 35 at the seaboard.

LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, April 24.—Butcher cattle steady; export off 15c at the Union Stockyards.

Union Stockyards — Receipts, 77 loads, with 1,667 head of cattle, 74 sheep, 156 hogs and 82 calves.

Export cattle were 15 cents lower than last week.

There were some very fine quality of cattle offering in the export class, but with lower prices at Chicago, the representatives of the American houses were not active buyers in today's market. The result was some nice loads selling at $5 85, which last week would have brought $6. The better demand for butcher cattle kept prices steady to firm in that class.

Good loads choice butcher sold at $5 75 to $5 85. Medium choice, $5 65. Mixed butcher medium, $4 50 to $5 25. Choice butcher cows were very firm at $4 50 to $5 25. Good bulls a little easier at $4 25 to $5. A load of good feeding steers for grass about 1,200 pounds, sold at $5 75. Sheep and lambs unchanged. Hogs unchanged, at $6 15 for band, $6 50 fed and watered.

TROUBLE IN CHURCH.

The attempt to restore peace in a London congregation has failed, once more demonstrating to the scoffer that when good people fall out they are almost as irreconcilable as the wicked.

LONDON, MONDAY, APRIL 24.

MR. BRYCE.

Mr. Bryce believes that the best cement of Empire is knowledge. This was the central thought of his address on Saturday. The duty and necessity are laid upon the people of each part of the Empire of cultivating an interest in the other parts. We in Canada are keenly attentive to the affairs of the mother country, an attitude which has been reciprocated in recent years, but we need to know more about South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and India. The characteristics of the people of these countries, their national aims, social conditions and methods of Government, should be objects of our study. Here is a wide realm for "imperial thinking." Mr. Bryce says the British Empire, which is like no other empire of the past, could not exist but for such modern ties as the telegraph and the steamship. These are agencies for the rapid dissemination of information and ideas. The circulation of knowledge is as necessary to the unity of the Empire as the circulation of blood to the human system.

Another cornerstone of Empire is local self-government. Even with the best intentions no government in the mother country could rule a distant dominion so satisfactorily as it could govern itself after it had reached a certain position in numbers and intelligence. Mr. Bryce says British statesmen learned this lesson through painful experience—the loss of the American colonies. He could have added with truth that the process of education was not completed by that catastrophe, and that Canadian patriots helped to put on the finishing touches. Here and there we still catch a faint echo of the old colonial theory. There are politicians in Great Britain who resent an assertion by Canada of her fiscal autonomy when it happens to cross their party interests. The other day a Canadian public man complained that the Dominion had arrogated the treaty-making power to a fuller degree than was consistent with the hegemony of Great Britain. But these are voices crying in the wilderness. The doctrine of local freedom has been accepted by all parties in all parts of the Empire, and no step will be retraced. Certainly Canada has had no grievance against a British Government for many years, nor is she likely to meet difficulties in that quarter in the future, whatever British politicians may say when not constrained by the responsibilities of office. Mr. Bryce belongs to a school of statesmanship which has stood for the widest diffusion of the principle of self-government. Its application to the Transvaal—the most modern instance—has been crowned with success, and it is hoped that the same happy results will flow from its extension to Ireland.

Mr. Bryce gave the monarchy its rightful place as an integrating force. An elective president in Great Britain, who would be merely the fleeting head of one of the political parties, here today and gone tomorrow, would not be accepted in other British nations as the pivot of the imperial system. The monarchy, dissociated from party politics and standing above all parties, is the symbol of imperial unity in the eyes of the diverse races under the British flag, and inspires a common consciousness as nothing else could in the present organization of the empire. Royalty performs this service for Canada and the other daughter nations without imposing on them the paraphernalia of a court and certain social conventions unsuitable to new countries, but which have their appropriate historical setting in the old land. As Mr. Bryce says, the crown belongs to Canada as much as to Great Britain. At least, it works out this way in practice. The sovereign is governed by the advice of a committee of the Imperial Parliament—the cabinet—and the Imperial Parliament can, in theory, override the Canadian Parliament. Nominally, therefore, the sovereign might refuse, on the advice of a British ministry, to assent to legislation demanded by the people of Canada, through their Parliament, but it is scarcely conceivable that such a situation can ever arise. Perhaps in the evolution of the Empire this theoretical subordination of Canada to the mother country will disappear, so that the letter of the constitution will conform to the practice. In that event, the crown would be the sole political tie between British self-governing units, and the sovereign would stand in the same relation to the Parliaments of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Newfoundland, as he bears to the Parliament of Great Britain. There are sanguine imperialists who think the Empire will be organized eventually on a different basis—a federal plan.

Mr. Bryce, of course, was too discreet to touch on controversial aspects of this great question. He confined himself to a discussion of accepted principles, such as local autonomy and the compatibility of provincial and national patriotism with the larger patriotism which embraces the whole Empire. But these were not always commonplaces, and if they are so today it is because of accumulated experience and the teachings of a long line of far-sighted imperial statesmen, among whom James Bryce is not the least.

SEVEN POINTS AGAINST RECIPROCITY.

A fair controversialist always looks at his opponent's case and states it honestly. Advocates of the reciprocity agreement will lose nothing, and will find profit and some entertainment, in noting the arguments put forward on the other side. A few of them may be briefly indicated:

1. The agreement will pinch workingmen and other city-dwellers by increasing the cost of foodstuffs.
2. The prices of foodstuffs will be depressed by a flood of imports from the United States, Argentina, New Zealand, and other favored-nations, thus injuring the Canadian farmers, dairymen, fruit-growers and market gardeners.
3. The attraction of the American market for the Canadian farmers will be so strong they will be tempted to favor political union rather than forego a source of profit.
4. The channels of trade now running east and west will be diverted to north and south, disrupting the great transportation systems of this country.
5. There will be no great increase of exports southward. The United States has a surplus of farm products for exports, and will not require Canadian foodstuffs.
6. The western agitators for reciprocity are mainly British Radicals. (Vide Toronto News.)
7. The western grain-growers who pressed the Canadian Government for reciprocity are mainly newcomers from the United States. (Mr. Beck at Lucan.)

A reader tells of a lady who is violently opposed to reciprocity, and smuggled her spring suit from Detroit.

There was a great sensation in Mexico City Saturday. Two Mexican congressmen ventured to criticise the President, which is lese majeste of a more dangerous kind than in Russia.

The Camorrists are at least picturesque rascals. One of them threw his glass eye at the judge, a dramatic stroke that would never have occurred to a malefactor of a more phlegmatic race.

Six Opposition members on Saturday voted in approval of the reciprocity agreement minus the fruit and vegetable clauses. It appears that the danger of annexation lurks not in wheat and hogs, but in turnips and apples.

The London Morning Post is more worried than Canadians over the presence of United States training ships on the great lakes. Does the Post imagine that President Taft's efforts to negotiate a peace treaty with Great Britain are intended to mask designs on this country?

The German army is described by a local clergyman as a factor for peace. It is more certain that it is a factor in keeping Europe an armed camp, and that the masses are groaning under the burden. Sir Edward Grey sees the problem clearly: if no relief comes by mutual agreement, the burden will be dissipated some day by internal revolution.

The hydro-electric commission gives the city five years' grace on the payment of interest and sinking fund charges against the cost of the transmission line. In the meantime it will not do for taxpayers to share the comfortable feeling of Mr. Micawber, who met every dun with a promissory note, saying, "Thank heaven, that debt's paid."

Essex County has been flooded with copies of an insulting speech attributed to Champ Clark, speaker of the House of Representatives. Mr. Clark says it is a rank forgery. Some opponents of reciprocity are paying for its publication and circulation. The law should be amended so as to compel every publisher to put his imprimatur on bills and pamphlets for public distribution. By that means the authors of falsehood could be brought to book. Such a law applies to election literature in many countries.

"I cannot take your tip!" he said.
The stranger gasped, and fell down dead.

MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN.
[Montreal Herald.]

We recoil at the tale of the Ohio man, who, finding that he was going blind, murdered his wife and five children, and then shot himself, for fear that the family would be left in destitution. But such is the horrible cruelty of society to the helpless and destitute that it is far from impossible that he was doing economically the best thing for them, whatever may be said of the moral quality of the act.

SEX SEPARATION.
[Toronto Star.]

Dr. Conboy has given notice of a motion for segregation of sexes in the higher grades of Toronto schools where it is practicable, and where the principals deem it advisable. If this means that the initiative is to be left to principals, the motion hardly goes far enough. The board itself should investigate the whole situation with a view to beginning a systematic separation of sexes, having in view the final extension of the principle to all schools.

THE INEFFECTIVE WAIL.
[Toronto Star.]

Alas, that Uncle Sam's tariff wall has again proved its inadequacy, large numbers of Mexican bullets having crossed the border at Douglas, without paying a cent of duty.

GOSSIP EXCEPTED.
[Montreal Star.]

Bessie—Did you give up gossip during Lent?

Jessie—Oh, no; we were not required to give up the necessaries of life.

"Yes, he was all right until he was broke."

SUPERLATIVE.
[Life.]

Smith (to member of vested choir)—I hear you've got a new tenor in the choir. What kind of a voice has he? Good?

Jones—Good? I should say so. It's so good none of the other tenors will speak to him.

THE LESSER EVIL.

THE CROWNING INDIGNITY.
[Wilbur Nesbit, in Harper's.]

Just 'cause my brother Alfred, he
Is two years older 'an me,
W'y, everything he gets 'at's new
They give to me when he gets through.
I try my best not to grow
An' eaten up with his old things so;
But when he gets too big for clo'es,
W'y, I've growed just exackly so's
They'll do for me; an' then I've got
To keep on wearin' 'em a lot.
My brother Alfred's pants just wait,
An' never get torn on th' gate,
Or ripped on nails, or worn out none
Until my catchin' up is done.
When he gets new ones, my ma she Says his old pants will do for me;
An' Alfred grins an' looks so glad
It always makes me awful mad.
An' that's the way it always goes—
I even get his underclo'es.
But now it's worse 'an ever. I'm Just mad clean, through and through this time;
It's got to more 'an I can stand
This gettin' his things secon'-hand!
An' I told ma 'at I think it
Is purty near th' time to quit.
My brother Alfred he's been sick
With measles; he was speckled thick,
But now he's through with them, you see,
He's gone an' give 'em all to me.

EXCEPTIONS.

Ashley—No; not when we have hash.

HOW TO PROTECT GARDENS.

A QUESTION.
[Detroit Free Press.]

"We know where we are today," said the orator, "but who can tell where we will be tomorrow?"

"That's right," said a man in the audience. "My wife's thinking of moving, too."

GERMAN GIRLS FOR CANADA.
[Toronto Mail and Empire.]

German brides for Canadian bachelors is the next great movement. Our friends in Germany have heard of 50,000 Canadians who cannot find mates. They are coming gallantly to the rescue, and possibly 5,000 attractive German girls will be on hand shortly offering to give consolation and happiness to the lonely ones. That the German girls will make splendid wives there is no question. Anyone who visits Waterloo County knows that. But why not give the Canadian spinsters an opportunity to make the matrimonial hauls? Possibly the difficulty in finding the 50,000 eligible bachelors stands in the way.

NO NEED FOR THAT.
[Ladies' Home Journal.]

A minister, in an address to other ministers, once said that he thought ministers ought to be humble and poor, like their Master. "I have often prayed," said he, "that I might be kept humble. I never prayed that I might be poor—I could trust my church for that."

TOO CANDID.
[Montreal Star.]

One can be happy without being subtle; but the candor of Jones in eating peas with his knife is a little trying to his aesthetic better half.

A RENOWNED CANADIAN.
[Elgin, Ill., News.]

Miss Emma Belma Speller, of Canada, who has been the guest of Dr. and Mrs. T. S. McCall, returned to her home yesterday.

JAMES BRYCE
A SKETCH

The Women's Canadian Club of London are to be congratulated on the auspicious manner in which they are opening their career. They are especially to be felicitated on the fact that they have secured the signal honor of a visit and address from so distinguished a personage as the Right Honorable James Bryce.

Mr. Bryce, as are all aware, has had a singularly noteworthy and successful career. He became a marked man in his youth by the publication of a very ably written history of the Holy Roman Empire at the early age of 24, and from that time to the present his great abilities have been, in one form or another, constantly before the public. He has been a member of two British cabinets, and has rendered invaluable service to his country in many capacities.

At present he is filling one of the most important posts in the gift of the empire, that of ambassador of the United States of America, in a manner that has never been excelled.

It was peculiarly appropriate that Mr. Bryce should be selected as the representative of Great Britain for this important position, inasmuch as what might be termed the 'magnum opus' of Mr. Bryce's literary life, was his admirable and unique work on the American commonwealth.

This is admitted on all hands to be by far the best existent work on that important subject. It had gained Mr. Bryce many warm friends and admirers in our neighboring republic long before he made his appearance among them in an official capacity, and his courteous and tactful bearing since his assumption of the duties of that position have cemented the warm bonds of friendship so happily formed in that way, and brought him hosts of additional friends and admirers among our large hearted neighbors.

Great Britain owes much to the Right Honorable James Bryce. It is largely owing to his tactful and judicious conduct of his present office that many questions of prime international importance have been harmoniously settled and disposed of, and that good feeling and mutual respect is today the keynote of all dealings between the United States of America and Great Britain and ourselves.

England possesses no more useful or distinguished citizen today than the Right Honorable Mr. Bryce, and the Women's Canadian Club may esteem themselves exceptionally fortunate in having had the great honor of being permitted to listen to his most admirable and instructive address.

SIX CONSERVATIVES SUPPORT THE CAUSE

Opposition Members Approve All But Fruit and Vegetable Schedule

Ottawa, April 23.—At an early hour on Saturday morning six Conservative members of the Commons joined Mr. Sealey, of Wentworth, in voting general approval of the reciprocal trade arrangement negotiated for Canada by Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson. It was a striking commentary on the insincerity of the "annexation," "disintegration," "no mandate" and "lack of information" objections raised in turn by the Opposition against the whole proposal.

The Wentworth man submitted his amendment to Mr. Fielding's resolution, approving the schedules shortly before 3 o'clock, at the conclusion of an address, in which he upheld the agreement with the exception of the single schedule dealing with fruit and vegetables. He moved that that portion be struck out, and that the entire balance of the proposals be confirmed and approved "that the resolution as amended be adopted," to quote the words of the amendment.

The Conservative Vote.

And, after weeks of denunciation of everything in connection with the agreement, every Conservative in the House at the time, with one exception, voted for confirmation of the remaining proposals. The Opposition members who took this position were Messrs. Haughton Lennox, South Simcoe; Richard Blain, Peel; David Henderson, Halton; John Allister Currie, North Simcoe; Dr. Sproule, East Grey, and Dr. Roche, Marquette.

Mr. Blain went farther, and intimated his readiness to second the amendment should his services have been required. "I wish to say," declared the member for Peel, "that I am heartily in accord with it, and I shall now or at any other opportunity give it my hearty support." The significance of this twist in position is emphasized by the fact that Messrs. Blain, Lennox, Sproule and Currie had already spoken in the debate and condemned the entire agreement.

MEMBERSHIP TICKETS

Old Boys Find That They Are in Demand.

The membership tickets for the Old Boys' Association have been issued, and City Treasurer Bell is meeting with many requests for them.

"We have them in hand now, and are now issuing them to those applying for them," Mr. Bell stated to The Advertiser. "Quite a number have taken out membership tickets, and many others are inquiring about them. We should have hundreds of members in a short time."

President Dr. Harry G. Abbott is confident that the reunion will be a great success, and the executive are working hard to make it so.

HAD KIDNEY TROUBLE.

COULD NOT CROSS THE FLOOR PAIN WAS SO GREAT.

Miss Hasel Hess, Winchester Springs, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for five years. They were so bad, at times, I could not cross the floor for the pain. The doctor could not do me any good and a friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought six boxes and now I have been cured for over four years. I will recommend them to every sufferer."

No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realising quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure backache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

LONDON DOCTOR IS IN U. S. SERVICE

Allan McLaughlin, of King Street East, Investigates Typhoid Fever in Cleveland.

LEFT HERE 15 YEARS AGO

"Typhoid Is a National Disgrace," He Told a Cleveland Paper—An Interesting Story.

The Cleveland Leader has an interesting article concerning Dr. Allan McLaughlin, a well-known former Londoner, who was born and raised on King street east, and left this city about fifteen years ago. The doctor was an athlete of repute, a well-known ballplayer, and an all-round good fellow. Mr. Frank McLaughlin, the well-known actor, who was a frequent visitor to London with "Joe Murphy" and other plays, is a brother. He now holds an important position with the United States Government.

The Leader says:

Tests of Lake Erie for typhoid fever germs and a sanitary survey were begun here recently by Dr. Allan McLaughlin, of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, in furtherance of a federal plan to keep typhoid down in the list of diseases in American cities, and to save lives.

Dr. McLaughlin's work will include all cities on the great lakes. It is the first step by the Government in a campaign to cut out the typhoid death rate to a minimum, and save this country from the disgrace of being typhoid ridden.

"Typhoid fever is a national disgrace," Dr. McLaughlin said. "The European nations can point a finger of scorn at us. It is the nation's business, an inter-state menace."

Dr. McLaughlin believes that the cities should not only filter water, but should have sewage disposal plants.

Study of Lake Water.

Dr. McLaughlin began his work last fall with a survey of the Niagara River towns, Buffalo and the other New York state ports on Lake Erie. Then he made a survey of Erie, Pa.

He is studying, he said last night, the water conditions of lake towns with special reference to the connection between sewage disposal and the presence of typhoid fever. At Buffalo he happened on a typhoid epidemic.

The surgeon's report will not be made public until he has completed his survey of Lake Erie. But he said last night at the Hollenden that he had found conditions about as they had been supposed to be.

Before he began his work in Ohio, Dr. McLaughlin was furnished on Thursday by Secretary Probst of the Ohio state board of health, with the statistics and data collected by the Ohio health authorities by tests of the water at various points along the shore line.

Known as Cholera Expert

Dr. McLaughlin expects to spend twenty days on his survey of the Ohio shore line cities. He is known as a cholera expert and has had twelve years' experience in the Marine Hospital service. For six years he has been abroad. In 1905 and 1906 he was at work on the cholera epidemic in Russia, and then was acting director general of the preventive measures at the port of Naples. Then he was transferred to the Philippines, and for a year and eight months was in charge of the public health of Manila.

At the time of the recent bubonic plague scare he was recalled to this country, and was engaged in the work of exterminating plague-infected squirrels in California until a year ago. Then he was brought east to combat the cholera, which it was feared immigrants would bring in.

"Cholera and typhoid fever are similar diseases and are spread in the same way," said Dr. McLaughlin. "The nation, while it is not interfering in the work of the state, has a duty to perform, because typhoid is a national menace and a disgrace.

Death Rate Is Heavy.

"The death rate from this disease in American cities is far in excess of that from the same cause in the largest European cities. For instance, the European cities are under six per 100,000, while in Cleveland, for instance, the rate has been fourteen and will probably go to nineteen this year.

"And this does not mean that the great lakes cities are worse than others. It may be said that the farther you go, the more typhoid fever you find.

"Surgeon General Wyman, by making known the facts, will show the need of action by the states. The Government does not intend to usurp the powers of the states, or to interfere. But the presence of typhoid fever at Niagara Falls, or at a city of the commercial importance of Cleveland, for instance, is an inter-state matter.

Sewage Is Criticized.

"My work deals more particularly with the water supplies and sewage system of the cities. I do not think that typhoid is entirely preventable, since after you safeguard the water supply there is 'contact' contagion, or residual typhoid, the kind of infection one finds in Europe.

"Still, we have not reached the point where preventable typhoid has been eliminated."

NOT ALL SMOKE AND NO FIRE!

Rev. Mr. Inkster's Idea of the Statements Made By Mrs. May R. Thornley.

A SAD SIGHT IN LONDON

Little Girls With Babies in Arms in the Salvation Army Rescue Home.

"Where there is smoke there must be fire," said Rev. J. Gibson Inkster, B. A., in his sermon on "Immorality," Sunday night, in the First Presbyterian Church. "We are beginning to be inclined to think that in what Mrs. Thornley has said there is more truth than poetry. If you had stood with me in the Salvation Army Rescue Home only yesterday and saw little schoolgirls with ribbons in their hair and their babies in their arms; if you had looked at ths heartrendng sight you would have thought there was at least some truth in what she said."

Rev. Mr. Inkster opened his sermon with the text from Isaiah, i., 18, "Come, now, let us reason together, saith the Lord; though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

Children of Judah.

"The prophet Isaiah in this chapter," said the speaker, "has charged the children of Judah with immorality, with stupidity, with cruelty, and the oppression of the common people by their rulers and the rich.

"He has pointed out to them that their happiness depends on repentance and righteousness in the sight of God. In Isaiah we find for the first time the ideas of the imminence of God, that God is here, that God is love, and that he reasons with men. Religion is not a thing of ritual or form, of magic or sentiment. It is a thing of reason. The God who rules this world is not a fool, although we treat him as one. The God who rules your life and mine is a reasonable being.

"Another thing to observe is that man is averse to thinking in his own religion. Instead he uses all kinds of sacrifices, ritual and penance in the temple courts. But there comes a time when God upheaves the soul as he upheaves the sea.

"The great problem of the church today lies in the fact that the human conscience has been seared as if with a redhot iron, and it is dead and lifeless. Let us stop any foolishness of form and ritual.

In Other Cities.

"We are not the only people who have had immorality brought home to our doors. The people of Montreal and Chicago, and other cities, are thinking also. They, too, have had their conscience awakened.

"Immorality is not confined to clubs and public schools. Carelessness in penmanship and spelling is immorality in the sight of God. Suggestive posters on advertising boards, frivolous conversations in which you engaged yesterday, the volumes of suggestive literature which are published every year, all these are immoralities. And yet the world is getting better.

"The more refined you make virtue, the more possible you make it to refine vice. The worst scoundrel in the world is the refined scoundrel. We cannot rest. We must make the world better, or it will get worse.

"Before we look at the question which has been forced on our attention, there are pestilent puffs of smoke to be cleared from our field of vision. There is the pestilent puff of false pride. Our sensibilities are huffed because this thing has been made public.

"Are these charges true? Is immorality found in the clubs and schools?"

Here Rev. Mr. Inkster told of his visit to the Salvation Army Rescue Home. He also told of a mother who had come to him with a sad story of how her little daughter's mind had been polluted in one of the classes in school and who had been removed to another form, only to meet with further pollution there.

The Cure.

"The next question," he continued, "is whether there is any cure for this state of affairs. Legislation we must have. I am not opposed to legislation as a remedy, but we also need education. I am more in sympathy with education as a remedy. The teachers in the public schools must teach more personal hygiene. Parents also must teach it in the home. Take all the delicate moral courage you can, and speak to your sons and daughters about these things before someone else does. There is far, far too much mock modesty in this world.

"If you are careful to teach your children to take proper care of their finger-nails and their teeth, why not teach them the proper care of other organs of the body which are quite as important?"

Misinterpretation of Books.

Here Mr. Inkster diverged to the misinterpretation of books, which mercenary publishers print and circulate, with suggestive advertisements and appeals to the sensational, although these books may have been written with a high and noble purpose. He cited one of Tolstoi's books which was written to teach a message of chastity, but which has been printed with yellow covers and suggested illustrations, and to which a woman who read it with a perverted mind, has written a sequel that entirely falsifies the original purity of its intended purpose.

"If ever there was a man with a great, moral and religious purpose, that man was Tolstoi," said Mr. Inkster. "We want divine grace and the love of God in our hearts. We want regeneration. This alone will strike at the core of the matter. Fathers and mothers, you cannot save your children until you have saved yourselves. With unconverted fathers and mothers, and unconverted members of the churches, how can we meet these great immoralities?"

PLAGUE DISAPPEARING

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 22. — Word came by cable today from Biship James W. Blachford, of the Methodist-Episcopal Church, that the plague is now extinct in North China, and has been almost entirely stamped out in Manchuria.

Bishop Blachford is one of the general superintendents of the church in China, with residence at Peking, and he has just returned from a long trip through Western China, extending to the borders of Thibet.

A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Strathroy, April 22. — Mrs. Duncan Crawford, who lives on the 8th concession of Caradoc Township, met with a most serious accident, Friday, through the horse which her son was driving running away. Mrs. Crawford was thrown out and had both legs broken just above the ankles.

JAMES BRYCE IS A VERY DEMOCRATIC MAN

Rode Into London Over the G. T. R. as an Ordinary Passenger.

Right Hon. James Bryce is the first British ambassador to Washington to visit London.

This city has been honored by visits from royalty, and distinguished statesmen on frequent occasions, but ambassadors have not been in the habit of coming this way.

Mr. Bryce established a precedent and the Women's Canadian Club are to be congratulated on bringing so distinguished a visitor to London.

"I never heard of the visit of a British ambassador to London before," Mayor Beattie informed The Advertiser. "I have tried to find out if any of them came to this city prior to my time, but I have not been able to learn that such has been the case. We were highly honored. Mr. Bryce's was a most enjoyable address, and the Women's Canadian Club is deserving of every praise for affording Londoners such a treat."

Mr. Bryce reached London on Saturday afternoon as an ordinary passenger. He did not even have a seat in a parlor car, but mixed up with the other passengers as though he were used to it. No one except Sir George Gibbons and an Advertiser reporter noticed him as he stepped off the car, and in a minute he was ushered through to the back of the depot and into Sir George's carriage.

After speaking at the Normal School on Saturday he insisted on walking back to Sir George's residence.

FOUND HUMAN BONES.

Montreal, April 24.—Human bones, consisting of a skull and arm, that were found in a lane off Sanguinet street in the Mile-End Saturday, were sent to the morgue by Lieut. Corbett, of the Laurier avenue police station. It is thought that the bones were thrown into the lane by medical students.

DIAZ TO REFORM AND STEP OUT

Conditions Under Which Armistice Was Declared.

ALL FIGHTING TO CEASE

Reported That Madero May Be Made Vice-President of Mexico.

El Paso, Texas, April 2?.—The armistice between the insurrectos and the federals have been extended for another five days. The time dates from this afternoon at 1:30, when Francisco I. Madero put his signature to the terms. Prior to that, Gen. Juan J. Navarro, commanding the federal troops in Juarez, had already signed the document.

The agreement provides that there will be no fighting during the term of the armistice, and that each side will take no further steps to reinforce or construct fortifications while its terms are in operation.

The insurrectos are to be given permission to take food for themselves and horses, also clothing, from El Paso or Juarez, without molestation. These supplies are to be passed over the international bridges between El Paso and Juarez, and are to be regularly passed without payment of duty to the federal officials of Mexico. The Mexican officials are said to have a right to search the supplies for arms and ammunition, but agree not to molest anything that is not ammunition or arms.

The peace negotiations are to be carried on from El Paso. If a peace agreement is reached it will no doubt be signed in Juarez.

It is understood that the peace terms will include the pledge on the part of the Mexico cabinet that all reforms recommended by Gen. Diaz in his last message will be carried out in good faith, and that general amnesty will be granted to all men in the army who will go to their homes in peace.

Madero's position in the past has been that the insurrectos could no more trust Diaz now than in the past to carry out these promises of reform, and that the insurrectos would not cease fighting as long as Diaz remained in office.

The peace commissioners, however, have assured him that Diaz will put no stone in the way to the successful carrying out of all the reforms mentioned in his message. That, in fact, he is anxious as anybody to restore peace and retire from office with the country reunited. It is said by the men here in the interest of peace, men who are very close to Gen. Diaz, that he is not only willing, but anxious, to have the reforms put into effect.

Nothing is said here of the report that Madero might be made vice-president of Mexico, in case of the conclusion of hostilities, but very little credence is given it.

BIG BATCH OF IMMIGRANTS

Nearly Three Thousand Land in One Day From the British Isles.

Halifax, N. S., April 23.—Three ocean liners arrived yesterday afternoon after a delay on this coast of about 36 hours caused by snowstorms. They had between them 2,737 passengers, nearly all drawn from the British isles. The Victorian had 1,517 of these new settlers, the Megantic had 910, and the Carthaginian 318. The Victorian sailed for St. John and the Megantic for Portland. The Carthaginian will sail for Philadelphia after loading 26 cars of deal for the British market.

GOVERNMENT PRINTERS ASK FOR MORE WAGES

Also Two Weeks' Vacation and Better Sanitation in Bureau.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, April 22.—A delegation of 35 employes of the government printing bureau interviewed Hon. Chas. Murphy, secretary of state, today in regard to higher wages, a two weeks' holiday every year for employees of the printing bureau and better sanitation and ventilation in the bureau. Mr. Murphy promised that the men's demands would be considered by the cabinet.

GODERICH BOWLERS ELECT.

Goderich, April 22.—At the annual meeting of the Goderich Bowling Club last evening, the following officers were elected: President, A. Nairn; vice-president, F. Barlow Holmes; secretary, Wm. Lane; treasurer, Joseph Kidd; executive committee, Dr. Hunter, John Rumball, F. J. Butland. It was not decided at what date the annual tournament will be held this year.

The Stomach Needs Help

The Liver, Kidneys and Bowels Must Be Kept Active to Insure Health.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Not one person in a hundred can along at this time of year without using something to enliven the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Too much eating of heavy, artificial foods, too little outdoor exercise, this is the explanation.

The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail and become torpid and clogged. The bowels become constipated and stomach derangements follow.

There is one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This medicine gets the bowels in action at once and by awakening the liver and kidneys, insures the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems.

With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its healthful condition, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear, as well as irritability and depression.

You cannot imagine a more satisfactory treatment for biliousness, constipation, backache and kidney disease than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SLASHES OCCUPANTS OF HOUSE HE ROBS

Terrible Crime of Unidentified Negro in a Tennessee Town.

[Canadian Press.]

Bristol, Tenn., April 22.—An unidentified negro late last night entered the home of John Marshall, an aged citizen, and going from bed to bed slashed the sleeping occupants, so that one or more may die.

Mr. Marshall's throat was cut and his windpipe severed. His aged wife was fearfully stabbed, while a 7-year-old boy was stabbed half a dozen times.

A daughter of the aged couple was stabbed several times before she got away. Bloodhounds are on the trail of the negro, who is understood to have gotten a large sum of money, which, it is said, Mr. Marshall drew from the bank yesterday.

METH. CONFERENCE AND "NE TEMERE"

Every Member to Take Up Matter and Press for Its Withdrawal.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Ont., April 22.—Every member in the Methodist Conference from Newfoundland to British Columbia will take up the question of the "ne temere" decree and press the Government to require its withdrawal. A committee consisting of Rev. Dr. Hincks, Hon. E. J. Davis and N. W. Rowell, K. C., has been appointed to represent the local committee.

A letter has been received from Bishop Farthing of Montreal strongly approving of the action of the Methodist Conference.

HOBBLE SKIRT GETS THEM

[Canadian Press.]

Indianapolis, Ind., April 22.—"Eighteen hundred immigrant girls were lost track of, after having been received at Ellis Island, and put aboard trains for Chicago and other points in the west in the last year and a half," said Miss Grace Abbott, of Hull House, today during a discussion in the convention of the Young Women's Christian Association of America, of the problem of caring for immigrant girls.

Immigrant girls deserted the quaint shawls and aprons of their native lands for the hobble skirt and dream hat, all too quickly, Miss Abbott said.

AT BOTTOM OF WELLAND

Police Think Falls Man Who Went Gunning Has Been Drowned.

Niagara Falls, April 23.—The provincial police believe Roland B. Tanner, who left his home yesterday declaring he would kill County Judge Wells, has been drowned in the Welland Canal.

Tanner was arrested several months ago on a warrant charging him with criminal libel of Judge Wells. He was later thought to be demented, and was detained in jail, but was released Friday, returning to his home. In spite of the members of his family, Tanner left his farm at Fonthill with an old gun under his arm, declaring he would get Judge Wells. The police traced him to the canal, but nothing of his whereabouts are actually known.

Tanner's libelous statements were made in a pamphlet which he published following his dispute with a railway company over a right-of-way on his property.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS

Summary of Situation in the Labor World For Month of March.

Ottawa, April 22.—In its general summary of industrial conditions for the month the Labor Gazette reports that the continuance of cold weather has had a very considerable effect in retarding operations in all provinces except British Columbia and a part of Alberta being affected. It has affected agriculture and mining activity, while the lumber drives will be late.

Railway traffic continues very heavy, but lake traffic will be late in opening.

The supply of unskilled labor was still in excess of the demand at certain points, but in general was well absorbed, notwithstanding the exceptionally heavy immigration movement. The outlook in almost every branch of industry is for pronounced activity during the coming season.

The total number of trade disputes reported to have been in existence in Canada in March, 1911, according to the Labor Gazette, was 11, being 5 more than in February, and the same number as in March, 1910. About 11 firms and 3,207 employees were involved in these disputes, 7 firms and about 1,190 employees having been involved in new disputes.

The loss of time to employees through trade disputes during March was approximately 33,600 working days, as compared with a loss of 32,525 days in February, and 50,570 in March, 1910.

The principal dispute is the long standing coal strike at Springhill, N. S.

Industrial accidents, occurring to 332 individual work people in Canada during the month of March, 1911, were reported to the department of labor. Of these 104 were fatal, and 211 resulted in serious injuries.

In the preceding month there were 84 fatal and 180 non-fatal accidents reported, a total of 264, and in March, 1910, there were 133 fatal and 261 non-fatal accidents, a total of 394.

MENINGITIS VICTIMS.

Fitchburg, Mass., April 22.—Two Greeks, who were passengers on the steamer Athenia, which was held up on arrival at New York Monday, because of meningitis aboard, have been taken suddenly ill within the past two days, and one of them is dead. The health officials and Secretary Richardson, of the state board of health, after a conference, pronounced the disease some form of meningitis, but one with which they were not familiar. Another Greek, who arrived a few days earlier, died yesterday of the same malady.

EAST END NOTES.

Miss Belle Adelaide Pickell, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Steeves for the past few days, returned to her home in New York city last night.

Mr. Roy Brown, of East London, spent Friday in St. Thomas.

SHOWERS OF CASH FOR STREET URCHINS

Until One of Them Picked His Pocket of a $100 Bill.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 22.—Throwing dimes, quarters and bills to the winds of Broadway, A. P. Ennis, who says he is a mining man, created so much excitement in the theatre district last night that a near riot resulted among the thousand youngsters who collected to gather in the coins. Ennis does not know what he actually threw away, but he does know that he stopped the excitement when his pocket was picked of a $100 bill.

Ennis explained that he started out to have a "good time," and as he walked down Broadway scattering silver, the jam of street urchins became terrific. Finally one boy pressed up near Ennis and held a paper in front of his face, while another slipped his hand into his hip pocket, extracting a $100 bill and escaped. The police dispersed the crowd, and cautioned Ennis not to be so liberal hereafter, but made not arrests.

Ennis said he had come from the west two weeks ago.

NEW DOG DISEASE.

Toronto, April 23.—A disease which closely resembles rabies is reported to have broken out among Toronto canines. A few cases have just come under the observation of a local veterinarian, who is conducting a post-mortem on a dog from Parkdale, which died last night. So far as it is understood at present the disease also bears a striking resemblance to a cerebral hemorrhage, which has previously been believed to exist only among human beings.

THE CULINARY DEPARTMENT OF A GREAT MODERN HOTEL

At the St. Regis, New York, Every Feature Is Perfect of Its Kind.

Many a once-famous hotel has declined in public estimation because its "table" was not kept up to the accepted standard; and no hotel—however excellent in other respects—can be more than very ordinary and inferior if any features of its culinary department are unsatisfactory. At the Hotel St. Regis, Fifth avenue and Fifty-sixth street, New York, there need never be fear of unsatisfactory food or service. Although built to be America's finest hotel, exquisite material surroundings for its guests were not the only concern of its owners and manager. The kitchen of the St. Regis is not excelled in its equipment by any hotel or restaurant in America; its cooks are selected for their ability and experience, while its food supply must pass the critical inspection of the manager, himself a restaurateur of national fame. In the dining-room as well no feature is lacking to secure perfection in service. Everywhere is the most painstaking care to secure superlative results, anything less is unacceptable. The St. Regis restaurant has no superior in all the world in quality of food, skill in preparation and perfection of service; while the charges are no higher than those of other first-class hotels. Transient guests coming to New York and stopping at the Hotel St. Regis will find accommodations of the very highest grade in every particular, and at standard rates. Single rooms are $3 and $4 a day; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); while for a parlor, bedroom and private bath the rates are $12 a day and up.

THE LONDON OLD BOYS

Nominating Committee Will Meet in City Hall Tuesday Night.

The nominating committee of the Old Boys' Association will meet in the city hall on Tuesday evening. At this session the various committees will be struck and the chairmen selected.

Much depends upon the choice of chairmen, and the success or failure of the reunion will be charged to the committees.

Dr. Abbott, chairman of the home guard, is anxious that every member of the committee be present to take part in the meeting.

"We want to get together now, and boom this reunion," he stated to The Advertiser. "A great deal, in fact, everything, depends upon the proper selection of committees, and we desire to have the best possible. We want everybody on the committee present at the meeting."

EVANGELICAL ASSOCIATION

Conference at Zurich Addressed by a Representative of the Methodist Church.

Zurich, April 22.—Rev. R. P. B. Feer, of the Ohio conference, presented his credentials to the Christian Evangelical conference today, and was received into the itinerancy as elder.

Rev. Prof. T. Finkbeiner, of North Western College, was received as an advisory member.

Rev. Mr. Michaelis, of the Dakota conerence, presented his credentials, and was received into the itinerancy.

Rev. H. Abel, of Alberta, was voted his credentials to the California conference.

Rev. George Johnson, treasurer of the missionary society, addressed the conference. Mr. Johnson gave a most enthusiastic address, bringing fresh zeal and inspiration for the cause of missions of the church in general. The work is progressing, especially is the cause in Germany prospering, and a foothold has been gained in Russia.

The committee on fraternal relations reported Dr. T. A. Moore, secretary of the Methodist general conference, who was presented to the conference.

Dr. Moore addressed the conference bringing the greetings of the Methodist Church of Canada. Mr. Moore presented statistics showing what progress the church has made. He spoke about the great extent of the operations of his church, and mentioned that there were many problems to be solved. He reviewed the work of the various institutions of the church. Mr. Moore closed by referring to the resolution of the general conference re church union with the Evangelical Association. The address was forceful, making a splendid impression.

THE MONODIET

About which we hear so much, does not mean living on one food exclusively, but on foods that harmonize.

Certain elements of nutrition are essential to health, but all these elements cannot be obtained from any one food, hence the necessity of a variety.

Deficiency of one or more of these elements, such as iron, for instance, in the blood, will cause anaemia, run-down condition and sleeplessness.

If you are one of the unfortunates who have drifted into this state, change your diet, eat foods that are rich in the mineral elements of nutrition, and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, which contains no oil and supplies iron to the blood in the most easily assimilated form.

Vinol creates an appetite, aids digestion, makes pure, healthy blood. In this natural manner it builds up the run-down, weak and debilitated. If you don't find this to be a fact we will return your money if you will try a bottle.

THIRTY PERSONS KILLED IN AFRICAN DISASTER

[Canadian Press.]

Cape Town, South Africa, April 22.—A passenger train on the Kowiera Railroad plunged to destruction in a rocky gorge 250 feet deep through the collapse of the Blaauwkrantz bridge, 13 miles from Grahamtown today. Thirty passengers were carried down with the coaches, and are supposed to have been killed. Though no details as to the casualties have been received.

PLOW COMPANY WINDING UP

Two Applications Made and Probe of Officers' Accounts Asked.

Toronto, April 23.—Two applications have been filed at Osgoode Hall for the winding up of the Wilkinson Plow Company. One has been made by the Johnston Lumber Company, a creditor of the firm. The lumber company's claim consists of $1,182.21 past due, and $1,300 coming due.

Besides asking for the winding up the petitioners asked for an investigation into the personal accounts of the president, directors and shareholders and creditors.

The application is returnable on April 28, when the question of the investigation will be argued.

THE MOROCCAN WAR

Rebel Tribesmen Appear Subdued by Recent French Defeat.

Paris, April 23.—The situation in Morocco, while still serious, is more hopeful. The French Government today received advices that quiet prevailed at Fez on April 15, the rebels apparently having been subdued by their defeat by Captain Bremond's column on April 12, and there has been little activity since then.

Captain Bremond, who is in command of both the French division and the forces of the Sultan, is attempting to reach Fez. He has been heard from as late as April 18. He reports his troops as being in good condition and the weather improving, permitting of an early resumption of his march to Fez, which had been interrupted by floods.

Meanwhile General Moinier, at Casablanca, has completed the preparations for a mixed force of tribesmen, French troops and artillery, under Major Simon, which will start soon for Fez.

Premier Monis, Minister of War Bereaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs Cruppi and the military chiefs had a long consultation today, and it was decided to take further measures to hurry relief to the imperilled people at Fez.

PASSMORE EDWARDS DEAD.

London, April 22.—John Passmore Edwards, the well-known publicist, philanthropist and advocate of international peace, died today. He was born at Cornwall March 24, 1823.

Her Face and Body Were Litterly Covered With "BOILS."

Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Them.

Mrs. John H. King, Johnston, N.B., writes:—"Last summer I was very much troubled with boils, and my face and body were literally covered with them. A friend advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters. I got three bottles, and before I had taken all the first one my boils began to go away. I had just taken a few doses out of the last one when they all disappeared. My husband has also used Burdock Blood Bitters with much benefit."

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still, at the same time, are very painful. They are caused entirely by bad blood, and to get rid of them it is necessary to put the blood in good condition, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal that old and tried remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters.

Of Interest To Women

CAN YOU DRESS IN SIX TINY MINUTES?

It's Easy If You Have a System, Says Carrie De Mar.

MISS DE MAR.

A woman should dress in six minutes.

That, laggards in lingerie, is the speed limit fixed by Carrie De Mar, musical comedy star, who beats that record by five and a half minutes, when she puts on the costume in which she is here pictured.

But the six-minute limit doesn't involve anything so simple as that. It means the whole programme, from the talcum powder overture to the glove button finale.

"In the beginning," says Carrie, "a woman should make up her mind just what she is going to wear."

No time limit was specified for that process.

"Then she should assemble in one place all the garments she expects to put on.

"Lack of system is the great time wasters that and feminine vanity.

"Strings constitute the balance of power in most feminine clothes anyway, and the more nimble-fingered you are with the sailor's knots" the more time you are going to save."

Correspondence

Edited by Cynthia Grey.

Dear Miss Grey—Will you tell me how to take care of palms?

MRS. R. E.

A.—Use plenty of water and have pot well drained. Keep leaves clean by sponging. Syringe under side of leaves to prevent disease. Changes of temperature, drafts and coal gas destroy palms.

Red Ants.

Dear Miss Grey: How can I get rid of red ants? WORRIED.

A.—Many ways of exterminating red ants have been tried, but what proves a success in one place will not always succeed elsewhere. Sprinkle infested places with pennyroyal, powdered cloves, powdered borax, oil of cedar, camphor gum, green walnut shells, wormwood, or anything with a tar oder. Soak nests of ants with kerosene.

To Polish Piano.

Dear Miss Grey: Please tell me how to polish my piano so that the gloss will look brightest. MRS. S. A.

A. If the piano case is of mahogany, simply wash it with a chamois and warm water. Clean a case of other wood the same as fine furniture. Mix equal parts of alcohol, linseed oil and vinegar, apply with a clean cloth and polish with another. Clean carved work with a stiff paint brush.

It's Her Move.

Dear Miss Grey: Should I offer to shake hands with a gentleman or should I wait for him to offer his hand? MISS E. A. B.

A.—It is the woman, not the man, who offers to shake hands upon an introduction.

Ready For Croup.

Dear Miss Grey: Please give me a remedy for croup. MOTHER.

A. A cold compress is almost a certain cure.

Tear a broad strip of flannel and fold up each side, making three thicknesses. It should then be wide enough to fit high up and low down over the throat, and should be just long enough for making a lap to hold the pins.

Tear a piece of cotton cloth which will make four folds a trifle narrower than the flannel. Soak the cotton in very cold water and wring it so that it will not drip. Lay the flannel over the wet cloth, and pin both about the child's neck, flannel side out, using small safety pins.

As a rule the child will be sleeping quietly in less than half an hour.

Wedding Expenses.

Dear Miss Grey: Who should pay the expenses of the wedding, the father of the bride or the groom?

RAY E.

A.—The groom pays for the flowers for the bride and her maids, for the carriage for himself and the bride, and for the best man and the ushers. He of course buys the license and the ring, and gives the fee to the clergyman. It is the duty of the best man to hand the minister his fee, usually a piece of gold in an envelope. The bride's parents pay the other wedding expenses.

Recipes

For the brown bread, which is made at home the day before, stir three cups of water into a mixture of two and one-half cups of Indian meal, one and one-half cups of graham flour, and one-half teaspoon of salt to form a batter; the amount of water may vary, as meals differ in absorptive power. Dissolve one yeast cake in a little lukewarm water; add to it the batter with one-quarter cup of sugar or molasses. Let rise in a warm place in a greased tin, steam for two and a half hours, and finish with half an hour in the oven, or else steam an hour longer. It is best cooked in round coffee tins.

The bacon is a delicious relish, but adds more to the expense of the meal than to its nutritive properties, and can be omitted without disturbing the balance of the meal.

Adjustable Flounces.

Adjustable flounces to petticoats are not entirely new, but until recently it has not been easy to buy ready-made these convenient transformations. Now however, one can indulge in a close-fitting jersey top, which will outwear half a dozen flounces, and with it several ruffles to button on. One of these flounces can be of soft satin, finely knife-pleated at the bottom; a third of changeable silk. These flounces are finished with a buttonholed band, while buttons to correspond are placed on the petticoat. In this way it is easy to use up remnants of dress linings and have a petticoat to match each gown. Such a petticoat is convenient for the traveler, as the flounces fold into a much smaller space than the same number of skirts.

Care of the Piano.

A music lover finds that her piano keeps in the finest condition, musically and otherwise, in a well ventilated room, with the mercury not above 68 degrees. Heat seems to be much worse than cold (provided the cold be not damp), and if the instrument is kept in a dry, cool room it retains its tune in a remarkable manner. Constant dry furnace heat seems to be the worst kind. Sometimes when her piano was getting out of tune she has noticed that a careful and gradual admission of pure outside air, not damp, would restore it to tune.

BIG HATS NOT ALL GONE YET

New York, April 24.—For dress wear, hats are as wide as ever. They seem not to be governed by any decree limiting the height of the crown or shape of the brim, though the ones that are wider from side to side than from front to back are in the large majority.

The shapes of the big hats include such widely diversified styles as the Gainsborough, Rembrandt, Napoleon, sailor, etc. A very original mode shown at an opening of French millinery flared wide at the left side and had a high crown. It was of coarse straw, trimmed solely with a band embroidered in Bulgarian colors, that stretched straight across the front from side to side. Some of the large hats measure full twenty-four inches across, and for contrast there are toques of quite diminutive size. Some of the smaller hats are little smaller in the head size than they were, but the majority fit close around the head, as they have been doing the last year.

THE CABLEMAN

BY WEATHERBY CHESNEY.

Varney turned with a comically twisted face to his friend, and Scarborough, as soon as he judged that Val B. Montague was out of earshot, burst into a roar of laughter.

"You asked me just now how I have spent the last two years," said Varney. "Now that you've met the man, you have a faint idea of what it means when I say in the company and service of Val B. Montague. But he's a good sort, mind you."

"Is he always like this,"

"More or less, yes. The degree of absurdity varies, but he's never ordinary. During the first six months we quarrelled. I daresay I was a bit unpick't, and I didn't like his hectoring; then I got to understand him; and for the last year and a half I've been his right-hand man. We had a row royal this morning, and you see how little he bears malice."

"He said you were a serpent he had been hugging to his bosom," said Scarborough, laughing.

"Yes, that's his way. When he abuses you in metaphor, you know that you are forgiven, and you start afresh on the old footing. It's his notion of making an apology. Mona de la Mar was the cause of our dust-up this morning. She said she wasn't going to perform tonight, that she wanted a holiday, and had private business to attend to. I didn't in the least know what her reason was, but Montague began to bluster, so I backed her up, and said I wouldn't perform, either. I make a point of standing up to him whenever he starts in to play the bully. I fancy that's partly why we's such good friends."

"A bit inconsiderate of the lady, wasn't it?" said Scarborough.

"Oh, very," agreed Varney, "but the point was that Montague couldn't be allowed to bluster a lady. We have to treat him on a system, you see. We allow him to wag a free tongue as a rule, but this was outside the limits. See?"

"I see," said Scarborough, "that you are an interesting crew, and I want to hear more."

"Then lead the way to your restaurant! And if you're in funds, let it fizz!"

"Fizz it shall be. Come along."

Over dinner Varney told his tale, picking up the thread where he and Scarborough had been pupils together at an army crammer's near Henley. Both had been working with no great earnestness, they admitted mutually now, for the entrance exam. at Sandhurst; and now one was a telegraph man and the other was a circus performer. There were things in this which called for explanation, for neither knew wholly the reasons why the other had given up his earlier ambition.

In Scarborough's case the explanation was easy and ordinary. He had failed in the examination, and the uncle who was paying for his education refused to allow him to try again.

"I don't think he was really sorry," said Scarborough. "He had the notion that I had brains, if I cared to use them, and he didn't think the army was a useful field for their exercise. He is a self-made man, you see, and has a prejudice against what he calls a butterfly life. That was before the war. He's a bit more ready to admit that a soldier may be a man now. He wanted me to go into the city."

"You struck at that?"

"Yes."

"And then?"

"Well, then, as I didn't take what he offered, he told me to do the best I could without him. The only thing he stipulated for was that it should be something in which I could earn a definite salary, and he promised to add three sovereigns to every one that I saved at the end of a year."

"Not a bad arrangement, either!" exclaimed Varney.

"No, a very good one for me. The dear old man is by way of being religious, but he contrives to preach the gospel of Mammon, too, and in a way that makes converts. He's be honestly surprised, though, if anyone pointed that out to him. Now, how about you, Phil?"

"Wait a bit," said Varney. "What made you choose the cable service?"

"For one thing the exam. was easy; for another, I'm rather keen on electricity and electrical machines; for a third, it seemed a good way of seeing a little bit of the world. Curiously enough, the service is rather crowded with men who originally intended to be something else. Somebody has dubbed us 'the legion of the plowed', but on the whole, I think we're rather good sorts. I'm quite satisfied with my life and with my colleagues."

The other man's explanation of his position was equally simple. Scarborough was what he was because he had failed in an examination. Varney had never sat for the examination, because the misfortune or crime of others had thrown him suddenly on his own resources, and had changed his destiny from that of spending an allowance to that of earning a living. These two causes between them account for many a curious choice of profession.

"You remember the smash?" he asked.

"Yes," said Scarborough. "Carrington & Varney, stockbrokers—everybody knew about it, but I never understood it."

"Few did, and I think the poor old governor least of all. He had trusted Carrington in everything and Carrington used him as a tool. The man was a thorough-paced blackguard."

"So I understand. Why wasn't he brought to book?"

"Too clever. Slipped through the lawyers' fingers on a technicality, and left his partner as the scapegoat. The poor old governor's only crime was over-trust in a scoundrel—even the prosecuting counsel accused him of nothing more heinous than an easy-going incompetency, but the disgrace killed him. When things had got as straight as they ever would get, I went out to ranch in Brazil; found that the family luck stuck to me in that it yoked me to another scoundrel, the man I was ranching with, cut him after a month; fell in with Val B. Montague at Rio; joined him, and because I found that he was honest, stuck to him. I had been with him a year when the news of the governor's death reached me, but I didn't go back. There was nothing to go back for, and—well, that's about all."

"What became of Carrington?"

For a moment Varney did not answer. Then he said slowly:

"Till today I knew nothing about him. Today two things have happened that make me suspect that he is in this island of San Miguel. Shall I tell you what they are?"

Scarborough was crumbling a piece of bread with nervous fingers. He knew what his friend was going to say, and he could not feel the same certainty as he had felt an hour ago that the suggestion was absurd. Elsa had told him that she felt a rush of shame when she heard the name of Page on his lips. Might this, after all, be the reason?

"Yes," he said, quietly.

"One is that Elsa Carrington was with you today," said Varney.

"Can you prove that to me?"

"I can tell you that I am sure. Three years ago I met her often at her father's house. She wore her hair in a pigtail then, and her frocks were short, but otherwise she has not altered much. Also, I can describe Carrington to you, and you can judge for yourself if he is the man you know as Page. He is about five feet seven, rather fat, and the skin hangs loosely over his cheek bones, as though he had once been much fatter. There is something wrong with one of his fingers, but I forget which."

Scarborough drew in his breath quickly, and looked hard at the crumbs he was making. He remembered that when Mr. Page played chess he always made the moves with his left hand. The last joint of the middle finger of the right hand was missing, and Elsa had once explained that her father had lost it from the bite of a horse when he was a boy."

"And the other thing?" he asked huskily.

"The other thing is that Mona de la Mar refused to perform tonight," said Varney.

"Why, how does she come into it?"

When he had heard his friend's explanation of his reasons for thinking that Mona de la Mar did come into the story, Scarborough rose suddenly and said:

"Can you get a bicycle and ride back with me tonight? I'd like to talk things over with you."

"Then stay and talk here—or better still—let me show you over our schooner. It's a funny place. Will you come?"

"Yes," said Varney.

He hired a bicycle in the town and rode back with Scarborough. They had their talk out, and by that time it was late, and Phil Varney stayed the night at the cable station. Next morning, while they were at breakfast, a note was brought to Scarborough. He opened it and read:

"Father is dead. I think he has been murdered. Come to me. Elsa."

That was all. Scarborough thought again of the cablegram. Was this the danger which the coming of the circus had brought? And the danger might not be over yet, though one victim had fallen. Elsa herself might be in peril.

He got his bicycle and started at once for the Chineias. As he rode off, a sudden thought struck him, and he called out to Varney:

"Find out what Mona de la Mar was doing last night, and what the business was which made her refuse to perform in the circus."

To Be Continued.

HOW TO PACK AWAY YOUR WINTER WEAR.

The task of packing away the winter garments, draperies and blankets is made much less unpleasant by using gasoline or benzine in place of the old-fashioned moth antidotes.

In the first place, go over everything that is to be put away and do the necessary repairing now, so that if cold weather comes sooner than expected they will be ready for use.

On a sunny, windy day, hang everything on the line out of doors, and beat good, then air for a few hours.

If you have been wise you have saved all the large paper boxes that came from the dressmaker's, the clothier's and the cleaner's in which all winter wear may be packed.

If possible take a well-lighted room on a bright day in which to do your packing, so that the gasoline fumes may quickly evaporate.

Upon an ordinary kitchen table, spread a garment, dip a whisk-broom in the gasoline and sprinkle well. Turn it over and treat the other side the same way, then fold neatly. When doing the coats, put them in boxes long enough to avoid doubling across the length. In folding trousers, keep them in the original creases.

As moths have no liking for printer's ink, newspapers are fine for box linings, allowing some to cover each article packed.

Too great care cannot be given furs. A very good investment is a small cedar cest in which furs may be stored for years to come.

A ROUGH PASSAGE

SS. Campania Has Terrific Seven Days' Battle With the Atlantic.

New York, April 23.—"Campania, Campania," flashed over the Atlantic for 30 hours without response spread increasing alarm for a liner the length of the Atlantic coast until the call was answered yesterday.

A few hours later the vessel crept to her dock, bringing a heavy-eyed crew and tales of seven days and nights of the roughest weather the liner had ever encountered.

She left Liverpool on April 15 and ran into a gale at once. The high seas, lashed by gales, swept over the ships decks and the bridge, drenched the officers' quarters, found their way to the dining saloons and smoking-rooms, battered the superstructure and funnels and tore away a portion of the wireless apparatus.

For thirty hours the vessel was out of touch with the world, and officials of the Cunard line were preparing for the worst when the oft-repeated call was answered.

The apparatus was repaired when the Campania was off Sandy Hook.

HECKLED MR. FISHER

Minister at Montreal Speaks on the Reciprocity Issue.

Montreal, April 22.—The campaign on behalf of the Government's reciprocity measure was carried into Westmount this evening, when about 500 people gathered to her Hon. Sidney Fisher and Hugh Guthrie, M.P.

The meeting was not in any sense a demonstrative one, but there was much heckling, aimed particularly at the minister of agriculture.

Mr. Fisher took all this in easy manner, however, though at one time it developed into quite a catechism, and the troublesome questioner was shouted at and only saved from ejectment by the minister himself.

In answer to one question put to him as to why the Government did not present the question to the electors, Mr. Fisher replied:

"Just as soon as you want it you shall have the chance, but we do not propose to disfranchise a great number of people who after the census will have votes. We do not think that the present distribution represents fairly the whole country. It would be a national crime for the Government to dissolve and go to the country just in the face of a census and redistribution."

QUEEN'S DEGREES

Londoner Amongst Graduates in Art and Science Departments.

Kingston, Ont., April 22.—The degrees in arts and science were posted at Queen's University this afternoon. Among them are: Degree of M. A.—A. Brown, Merlin; G. E. Copeland, of Brantford; Mary L. Diedrich, Berlin; Beatrice G. Lauder, Goderich.

BACK TO PRISON

Atlanta, Ga., April 23.—The application for pardon of Thomas J. Stripling late this afternoon was denied by the governor. Stripling was formerly chief of police of Danville, Va., and was under life sentence for killing W. J. Cornett. He escaped from officers years ago and had been successful in business under an assumed name.

Governor Brown scored the "unwritten law," to which Stripling appealed for justification, as anarchistic argument and reviewed Stripling's escape and subsequent career, said he found no reason to change the decision of the courts.

AGAINST THE MORMONS.

London, April 23. — Anti-Mormon demonstrations were held at Birkenhead and other provincial towns today. There was much excitement and a strong feeling was displayed against the Mormon propaganda, but owing to police precautions there were no disorders.

DAMAGED FERRY BOAT NEARLY RUN DOWN

Steamer Promise Escapes Path of C. P. R. Freighter.

Windsor, April 24.—Carrying a full load of passengers, mostly Windsor residents who work in Detroit, the steamer Promise, a ferry boat running between Windsor and Detroit, broke her steering gear in midstream Friday night on her 5:40 trip from the Woodward avenue landing to the Canadian side and narrowly averted a collision with a C. P. R. freighter while picking her way to her destination.

The accident happened after the ferry boat was well on her way and caused the captain to leave his post to oversee the operating of the rudder by hand. The boat made her way up stream and then drifted until the Windsor landing was reached. It was while drifting that the collision nearly occurred.

A panic was avoided among the passengers, who were quietly told of the trouble. Traffic on the system was hindered for a considerable time.

THE CAMORRA TRIAL

Never an Idle Moment in Court at Viterbo.

Viterbo, Italy, April 22.—There is no idle moment in the trial of the Camorrists. The auditors never know what to expect, but they crowd every available place in the court of the assizes daily, fully assured of some sort of entertainment.

Today it was Vincenzo Avolce, the butcher who disputed the law with the judge; Antonio Priuco, the seller of tortoise shells, frankly expressed the hope that he would get some free advertising out of his misfortune; and Maria Stendardo "the Beauty of Naples," who chose imprisonment rather than betray the man she loved, that were the principal performers in this strange mixture of comedy and pathos. The two men are charged with being present at the meeting of Camorrist leaders at the Aida Tavern in Bagnoli on May 26, 1906, when Gennaro Cuocolo was condemned to death, the state being engaged just now chiefly with those accused of formulating the plot resulting in the murder of Cuocolo and his wife.

Avolce is a handsome man and attracted much attention. He spoke like a scholar with surprising effect. Avolce made the usual unequalified denial of guilt.

INVADED CHINATOWN.

New York, April 22.—Nearly all Chinatown attended church last night at the Chinese mission to see and hear fourteen women school teachers from Toronto, who conducted the services. For two hours and a half, the Orientals sang and participated in the services as never before, and at the conclusion of the meeting the superintendent declared that the entire section would be converted if the teachers conducted the services for a week.

JUDGE DEFIES THREATS.

Chicago, April 21. — "Blackhand" bombs and threats have no terrors for Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis. In spite of "warnings" he today fined Gianna Alongi, 26 years old, $1,000, and ordered him imprisoned on the federal pen of Fort Leavenworth for five years for writing "blackhand" letters.

Letters which Judge Landis has received have threatened him with death unless he released Alongi.

EXPLOSION AT ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., April 22.—An explosion of a tank at the plant of the Pell Oil Company here this morning injured a number of persons, some fatally, it is believed. Early police reports were that a number of bodies were found near the plant.

TO COMMAND CADETS.

Quebec, Que., April 22.—News was received in town today to the effect that Captain Sheldham H. Hill, of the Eighth Royal Rifles, had been appointed to take charge of the contingent of Canadian Cadets who are going to England to take part in the rifle matches of the Imperial Cadet Association. The contingent will consist of eight seniors and four juniors and the party will leave on May 3 by the steamer Royal George.

SIDE LIGHTS ON MANY SPORTS

CANADIAN LEAGUE IS IN GREAT FORM

Teams Are All Strong, and Are Assured of Great Support This Season.

GUELPH CREW IS HAPPY

Abby Johnson Says He Has Enough Money To Run a Major Club.

With the league opening but a little over three weeks away, the various Canadian League magnates are hustling around lining up their players and making all preparations for a very busy season, firm in the belief that the league will prove a grand success, and that the fans in the six cities, after they have sized up the article of ball that will be supplied them, will be there with the support that is necessary to make the new organization a successful one.

Some two or three weeks ago the organization work was delayed to a great extent by the manner in which matters had been delayed in St. Thomas and Guelph, but with the arrival of Chaucer Elliott on the job in St. Thomas, and Abby Johnson closing up with the Royal City magnates, the situation cleared a lot, with the result that things are now in grand shape, and it is only a case of rounding up the teams and completing all arrangements for the opening ceremonies.

Guelph Is Solid.

That Guelph will be there with bells on, upholding the record that the Royals established in the old Canadian League, is evident from the letter that was received this morning from Abby Johnson, manager of the Guelph team. Abby writes as follows: "Everything is O. K. in Guelph. I've enough stock subscribed to run a National League team. Our protection money has been forwarded, and I have been instructed to lose no time signing up our pl vers. I am to stay right here until .e season opens, and expect to have a.. my players here by May 1. We want you to hold the league meeting in the Victoria Hotel, the proprietor being one of our best backers, having subscribed $500. Thursdays will be our weekly half-holidays, and we want as many games at home on this day as it is possible to have. Also plenty of Saturday fixtures. Don't slight this town any. We're strong enough now to buy out any of the other clubs. I was a little afraid of the prospects here before I looked over the situation, but I am not now. If the other six towns are as strong as the local club, the Canadian League is here for life."

Johnson Enthusiastic.

Such enthusiasm from a veteran of Johnson's type is certainly very reassuring. Abby has had a world of experience both in the big show and the minors, and at this stage is not given to much enthusiasm unless the prospects warrant it. He is evidently well satisfied with Guelph, and the Guelph fans should be well satisfied with him before the season is over, for he can be counted upon to put a strong nine on the field.

The six clubs are being deluged with applications for positions as players, and there will be no trouble selecting good teams from the host of men now in sight, while they will be greatly augmented before another week, as many Class A and B clubs are beginning to weed out their surplus stock now, putting a lot of good material on the market. The Berlin club is proving very popular with the players, and the Dutchmen have over 35 men in line for a trial. Pop Williams and Business Manager Costello are of the opinion that with a host like this to pick from, some real good timber is sure to be picked up. The Berlin officials are still casting around for a manager.—Hamilton Spectator.

J. JOHNSON OUT OF JAIL SAYS HE'LL QUIT 'FRISCO

Champion Breathes Freedom's Air, and Prepares to Move His Residence.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

San Francisco, April 22.—Just as the clocks of the San Francisco county jail struck the hour of midnight, J. Arthur Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world, but a much-chastened individual, left the cell that he has adorned for the last 25 days, and departed for his home on Ocean Boulevard.

Johnson has had enough of San Francisco. He thinks he has not been treated fairly, but he has no hankering for any more of the climate of the Golden State.

"Back to Chicago and New York, where one can speed in comfort," is his watchword, and he says that it will not take him more than a couple of days to put his affairs in shape to leave.

Much Sweet Sorrow.

Bag and baggage—and automobiles—he will leave San Francisco, not to return until his pugilistic engagements call him here for a matter of money-getting.

Furthermore, he avers that there will be no speeding in the two or three days that he expects to remain. Incidentally, those residents of San Francisco who happen to live near his temporary beach home will breathe a sigh of relief when he has taken his departure.

TRAVIS DEFEATS OPPONENT IN FINALS OF TOURNEY

Lakewood, N. J., April 22.—Walter J. Travis, the golfer, maintained his record for steady, heady playing, when he defeated his clubmate, Fred Herreshoff, in the finals of the opening tourney here today. Herreshoff in many respects played as good a game as his rival, but Travis' old-time experience won him the match, one up. The players went an extra hole.

HOME RUN BODIE HAS BIG JOB ON HAND

It is doubtful if Ping Bodie sets the American League on fire as he did the Pacific Coast League, where he was the boss slugger last year.

Bodie is now a member of the Comiskey crew of White Sox. On the coast last year he accumulated 30 home runs, 5 three-base hits, and 34 doubles, with enough singless added to round out 202 hits in 262 games.

His name was blazoned across the country as the greatest home-run hitter since the day of Casey the Great, and Comiskey grabbed him to break up the American League this season. Bodie has been hitting the ball, but not with the deadly accuracy which marked his work in the west.

BOB BURMAN SETS TWO NEW RECORDS

Oldfield's Marks in Mile and Kilometer Fall Before "Wizard."

WENT 138 MILES AN HOUR

Under Perfect Weather and Track Conditions, Former Distance Is Covered in 26 12-100 Seconds.

Daytona, Fla., April 22.—Huddled behind the big wheel of his Blitzen-Benz car, Robert Burman today hung up two new wonderful records for straight-away running in an automobile. He wrested Barney Oldfield's speed crown from his head in both the mile and the kilometer distance, covering the first in 26 12-100 seconds, and the second in 16 27-100 seconds. The previous records were 27.33 and 17.04.

The mile was approved at the rate of 138 miles an hour. That the record will be approved as official by the American Automobile Association is certain, as its veteran officials managed it. A. R. Pardington, managing-director of the national circuit, held the watch, while Fred J. Wagner, the official starter, officiated at the commencement of the wonderful performance.

Sensational Race.

Through the day the mechanics worked their hardest on the big car, while Burman and the officials watched for tide and weather conditions which would make certain the attaining of the desire. Under the rules the big car was entitled to a flying start, and it was taken far up the beach so that every cylinder of the big machine might be tuned perfectly before the starting point was passed. When the big car crossed the line on this try for the mile it resembled nothing more than a big blur on the atmosphere. Across the starting line it shot, discernible only to the experts at the electrical timing machinery, and down the line it plunged belching fire and smoke at every revolution of the wheels.

Far past the finish mark the car took the outlines of a machine, and finally brought to a stop three miles beyond the finish mark, where the timers were already out of breath with cheering over the wonderful feat.

It was some time before Burman could leave the car, but finally he said:

"Weird Feeling," Says Bob.

"I have been racing automobiles for years but I shall never experience such sensations again. I felt as if my body was being gradually spread out in the back of the seat. The wind resistance was terrific and I was powerless to move forward. The control of the car was tremendously difficult, and every second I feared that the car would dash itself free from me and skid across the sands. The wheels were doing a weird dance, and the wind, lashed by the tremendous speed, bellowed in my ears. It was deafening and I cannot hear clearly now. I tell you I was glad when the line was crossed."

The successful kilometer attempt was equally sensational.

BURMAN LOWERS TWO-MILE RECORD AT DAYTONA, FLA.

Daytona, Fla., April 23. — In his 200-horsepower Blitzen Benz racing automobile, Bob Burman drove two miles in 51:28 seconds on the beach here this morning, lowering the record for the distance, 55:87 seconds, made by Barney Oldfield at Ormond Beach, March 22, 1910.

HAS NO INTENTION OF QUITTING GAME

Geers Will Continue to Drive Until Forced to Stop, He Says.

TALKS OF BEST "HOPES"

Veteran Has the Best Grand Circuit Stab'e He Ever Trained—Is in Good Health.

Memphis, Tenn., April 24.—From all appearances the well-known trainer, Ed. Geers, will have the coming season one of the greatest stables he has ever campaigned down the grand circuit. All told, there are 52 horses in Geers' string and right now the wizard of the sulky is completely at a loss to know which are better than the rest. He is exceedingly enthusiastic over his horses and says that he never had so many green prospects that were gaited so well and as good headed as he has right now.

Mr. Geers looks to be enjoying perfect health. And despite the report that was circulated some time ago to the effect that he would retire from the turf at the end of the season, the G. O. M. is planning to race horses for several seasons to come. Concerning that report, Mr. Geers says:

Nothing To It.

"There is positively nothing in the report. I am feeling as well as ever and I hope to be able to keep in the g me for some time. At any rate, I intend to race horses on the grand circuit as long as I can drive a winning race. When I get so that I can no longer do myself, the horse and the owners justice, then I will think about quitting, but not until then."

The horses that Mr. Geers is especially pleased with this year are Gordon Todd, The Huguenot, Judge Ward, Akar and Hailworthy. Of course, there are others in the stable that the veteran trainer believes will develop into good breadwinners, but right now these have shown the best form. All of these horses have worked miles around the 2:20 mark.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS FRIGHTEN TIGERS

Detroit Was Forced to Go Ten Inn'n3s to Trim Mound City Squad.

FINISH WITH 4 TO 3 LEAD

Cleveland Beats Chicago 5 to 2—Only Two Games in American on Sunday.

Detroit, April 24.—Another southpaw came near making the Tigers mark up their second defeat of the season yesterday, when the St. Louis Browns opened their first engagement at Bennet Park. As it was, the Tigers were forced to play their second ten-inning game in two days to come out on top with a 4 to 3 score.

Mr. George was the man from Missouri who did his best to humble the Tigers yesterday, and but for Cobb having one of those sensational days in the field and at bat, and Jim Delehanty again breaking forth in the roll of star pinch hitter, Bobby Wallace would have undoubtedly started his 1911 series with the Tigers with a victory. TIGERS LOSE GAME IN HAIR-RAISING FINISH

Chicago, April 23.—In a hair-raising finish, marked by all the frills and fancies of an eleventh hour survival, with the Sox crew in the role of demon swatsmen and with Mr. Willett as the one best aviator of the day, the Tiger band was driven to the cleaners yesterday, their slate of steady wins ruthlessly besmattered, and the Sox copped a ten-inning thriller by the count of 3 to 2.

BARROW CONGRATULATED FOR SUSPENDING MEN

New York, April 22.—The suspension of Manager McGinnity, of the Newark team, and Players Nattress and Hardy, of Montreal, for engaging in a fist fight during yesterday's game, has convinced the followers of the Eastern League that President Ed. G. Barrow is going to conduct the league on the same high plane as the major leagues are run. At his offices in this city today Barrow received many congratulatory messages on his firm stand for clean baseball.

We took thirty black silk-faced topcoats from our factory at much less than real value to clear the lot.

They're worth twelve and fifteen dollars each.

We offer them to you for seven-fifty.

All spring and fall coats---not heavy.

Don't wait---get first choice.

GIANTS WONT MOVE

Increase Polo Grounds' Lease Twenty-Five Years—To Build a Concrete Plant.

New York, April 23.—It is reported on good authority today that the New York National League club has secured a twenty-year renewal of its lease on the Polo grounds. This will give it 34 years' occupancy and means that an enormous concrete stand will at once be erected to replace the wooden stands that were burned recently.

JUST DREAMS.

[By Tom Akers.]

Oft in the still night hours I dream
That ours is a pennant-winning team;
That our home club is the best of all,
That every player can hit the ball.

In my visions I hear the bleachers roar
With the joy of runs, and the lust for more;
While the visiting players in anger scowl,
Their pitchers aghast at the mighty howl.

The pictures I see from my midnight couch,
Would lighten the heart of the saddest grouch,
I can see the pennant floating there.

How sad to find in the chilling dawn,
The pictures that came in my dreams are gone;
Our team but green and the race un-run,
The season to play e'er the flag be won.

DAILY HISTORY OF BASEBALL

APRIL 24.

1885.—The Cincinnati American Association club defeated the Alleghenys, 7 to 6, in sixteen innings.

1886.—The St. Louis National League team failed to make a hit off Pitcher Billy Hart, of Leavenworth, in an exhibition game played in Leavenworth.

1889.—Instead of playing their first championship game on Manhattan Island the Giants had to journey to Oakland Park, Jersey City, to do so. The Boston Nationals then defeated the New Yorks, 8 to 7, John Clarkson pitching against "Mickey" Welch and the official announced attendance, 3,042, being considerably boosted. Before Mutrie's men played their first game on Manhattan Island in 1889, they had to perform on Staten Island for two months, baseball then not being as popular in New York as it now is.

1890.—For the fourth consecutive time the Buffalo Players' League team reached double figures in runs against Cleveland. In the four games the Bisons made 75 tallies and 73 hits.

1894.—The Baltimores made fourteen runs in the ninth inning and defeated Boston, 15 to 3.

1897.—Napoleon Lajoie, then with the Philadelphia Nationals, made two singles, a double and a triple off Jouett Meekin, of New York.

1906.—Rube Waddell, of the Athletics, struck out 13 of the Bostons in nine innings, the season's record in the American League.

1909.—The New York Americans defeated Washington, 17 to 0, the Senators pitchers being Walter Johnson and Bert Keeley.

1909.—Frank Baker, of the Athletics, made a home run with the bases filled off Pitcher Arellanes, of Boston. Baker was the only American Leaguer to accomplish such a feat that season.

BIG AMERICAN LABOR UNION LEADER IS SEIZED CHARGED WITH MANY DYNAMITING OUTRAGES

Bridge Workers' Secretary Held For Los Angeles Times Disaster.

OFFICE RAIDED AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, April 22. — Detective Burns, superintendent of Police Hyland, and Chief of Detectives Holtse tonight found 17 sticks of dynamite and two quart cans of nitro-glycerin in a barn near here, owned by T. H. Jones, a structural iron worker, which Jones says was placed there last January by McNamara.

Indianapolis, April 22. — Charged with murder in connection with the explosion that wrecked the building of the Los Angeles Times on Oct. 1, 1910, causing the death of 21 persons, James J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was arrested late today in the headquarters of the organization in this city.

The warrant for his arrest was based on an indictment found by a grand jury in Los Angeles, and was served by William J. Burns, a detective, accompanied by Indianapolis detectives. Burns said he would start tonight for Los Angeles with McNamara, Governor Marshall having honored requisition papers.

Promises Sensational Trial.

Responsibility for other destructive explosions in different parts of the country would be placed as the result of an investigation now in progress, Burns said. He added that J. B. McNamara, brother of James J. McNamara, and Otto McGonigle were today detained by the police in Chicago as having knowledge of the circumstances of the Los Angeles Times explosion.

"This is the beginning of one of the greatest criminal prosecutions the country has known," Burns said.

After the arrest of McNamara, Burns and other detectives searched the offices of the Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and detained there other officials of the association during the examination of papers and records.

When the detectives entered the offices, a meeting of the executive board of the organization was in progress. Attending it were F. M. Ryan, of Chicago, president; H. W. Loglentor, Pittsburg; P. A. Cooley, New Orleans; E. A. Clancy, San Francisco; M. J. Young, Boston, and J. L. Butler, Buffalo. These men were permitted to leave the offices afterwards.

President Protests.

President Ryan protested against the presence of the officers in the room. Superintendent of Police Hyland read a search warrant, but this document did not satisfy the ironworkers. Burns then lifted the top of McNamara's desk and began searching large piles of correspondence. More than an hour elapsed after McNamara had been taken mysteriously from the city before his companions in the meeting were aware that he had been taken away. When told he had been arrested as being responsible for the dynamiting of the Times and Llewellyn foundry in Los Angeles, they were astonished, declaring they could not believe the report to be true. Their surprise was greatly increased when they began to plan to procure their friend's release and were told he had been taken from the city.

Immediately after the offices of the union were searched Detective Burns and a squad of his men went to the barn west of Indianapolis, where the explosives were unearthed. The detectives then returned to the city, when a search in the basement of the union headquarters revealed more explosives.

President Ryan said later that he had been connected with union labor for several years and had never heard of a case similar to the one charged against McNamara, but that he had known of cases where plans had been made by enemies of labor organizations, and that if explosives were discovered they must have been placed by enemies of the organization.

The custodian of the building where the offices of the union are located said that McNamara had come to him six months ago, and asked for a storeroom, and that the request had been granted. He added that he had never seen McNamara or his companions carry anything to the storeroom.

Burns says Otto Manigal, who was arrested in Detroit, told him where these explosives could be found, and it was upon this information that the search was made. The dynamite and nitro-glycerin were found buried under sawdust in the barn.

Jones, the owner of the barn, is also a structural ironworker. He said the explosives were placed there last January, and that McNamara and other men made various trips to the barn with suitcases, but he did not know the purpose of their visits. Jones says that McNamara rented the barn and paid him $25 a month for its use. It is situated about three quarters of a mile west of the city.

DYNAMITE SUSPECTS NABBED AT DETROIT

Investigators Say They Planned to Destroy M. C. R. Terminal.

Chicago, April 22.—The blowing up of the new $2,000,000 Michigan Central terminal being erected in Detroit was a part of the plans of the union labor plots, according to Detective William J. Burns. Mr. Burns tonight gave out the entire story of the investigations which he has been making since the Los Angeles Times was dynamited.

Burns was in Los Angeles at the time of the explosion and attended a conference with Mayor Alexander, the chief of police, and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. For a while he worked under the supervision of the Los Angeles authorities, and then, following a misunderstanding, took up the work on his own responsibility.

He turned to his evidence gained of an attempt to dynamite a bridge in Peoria, Ill., in September, 1910, where an infernal machine planted near the bridge had failed to explode. The conditions in Peoria coincided so closely with the evidence following the Times explosion that the detective decided both explosions had been the work of the same men. The detective already had suspicions that the Peoria work had been done by Ortie E. McManigal, of Chicago, and when he returned he surrounded McManigal's home with watchers.

Inspected Plant.

McManigal, in the meantime, not knowing he was being watched, returned to Los Angeles, with a plan, the detective claims, of destroying the auxiliary plant in which the Times was being issued. It is said he made several inspections of the plant, but apparently changed his plans. Just to show his good faith, Burns says McManigal placed an infernal machine under the plant of the Llewellyn iron works in Los Angeles.

Detectives watching this were unable to make use of their knowledge to prevent an explosion, being fearful of warning the dynamiters of their presence and by putting them on their guard, prevent an arrest.

The detectives closing in on the Chicago man, followed him to his first meeting with James McNamara, whom at that time they knew only as J. B. Bryce or Bryson, under which name the explosive said to have been used in blowing up the Times plant was purchased.

Mysterious Suitcase.

McManigal and McNamara then came east, the same train bearing the watchers. The pair went to Kansas City, to Peoria again, to South Chicago, to Milwaukee, and a dozen other points, always carrying a mysterious suitcase, which, it was later learned, contained the clockwork hasts from which the infernal machines were formed. Finally the pair went to Indianapolis, where interviews were held with Secretary John McNamara, the first time he had appeared in any connection with the dynamiting.

First the two visited Secretary McNamara's office at night and held a long consultation. The next day Secretary McNamara left an appointment with the two in a street near his office, and the three went into another consultation in a saloon.

Then McManigal and James McNamara went again to Kansas City. Watchers followed them, and found a "plant" arranged under a new lake. By throwing a quantity of the nitro-glycerin found there into the waters below, they prevented another explosion. From this time frequent visits were made by the two men to the office of Secretary McNamara in Indianapolis.

Start for Detroit.

They followed McManigal to Toledo, where he was joined by James McNamara. The two then left for Detriot, each carrying heavy suitcases. Watchers in Detroit had informed Burns, the detective asserted, of the proposed attempt to wreck the new Detroit terminal, and it was determined to prevent this loss. Chicago detectives were asked to aid in the arrests, and Detectives Bluldinger and Reed were sent from here.

McNamara and McManigal were arrested by the Chicago men and told they were wanted here for safe-blowing. Confident they could prove an alibi on this charge, they made little resistance. Fear that premature disclosure of the facts behind the arrests would complicate proceeding in the arrest of Secretary McNamara, prevented the authorities making the prisoners acquainted with the real nature of the charges against them.

On their way here, however, the men became moody and suspicious and McNamara startled the police with the question:

"Say, is it for the Los Angeles job you fellows want us?"

The men, however, refused all attempts to force a confession.

Tells of Bribe.

Raymond Burns, son of William J. Burns, asserted that McNamara had offered him $20,000, and later $30,000, for the liberation of himself and McManigal. The story of the alleged bribe is said to have been heard by the Chicago officers and corroborated.

Mrs. McManigal tonight asserted her belief in her husband's innocence. With her two children, a girl of seven and a boy of five years, she was found at the home of a friend.

"Ortie isn't the bad man they picture him," she said, "and I don't believe he did it. He has had a hard life, but I don't believe he would commit such crimes."

She had left her own flat at 414 South Sawyer street, because she had been aware that it was watched by detectives constantly.

"Ortie was out of the city a great part of the time during the last two years," she added, "but it was because he was sent out by his employers."

While refusing to tell whether or not McManigal was in Los Angeles when the explosion took place, Walter, the 5-year-old son cried:

"Papa was out of town because he could make more money."

The mother silenced the boy and ordered both children from the room.

Neighbors of the McManigals say the head of the family has been home infrequently during the last two years, although Mrs. McManigal is said to have been always supplied with money.

McManigal, the police say, was arrested last January on a charge of stealing several wagonloads of brass. Four wagonloads were found in the neighborhood of McManigal's residence.

After spending several days in jail he was released.

"After we arrested the men in Detroit," Raymond J. Burns said, "we went through their suitcases and found twelve clockwork infernal machines, similar to the one found in Peoria and those which were placed at the Otis residence in Los Angeles the night of the Times' explosion.

"We also found an automatic pistol, a heavy revolver and a rifle equipped with a silencer intended to deaden the report of the shot."

BIG DYNAMITE PLANT IN M'MANIGAL'S HOME

Burns Finds Explosives in the House of Father of Man Arrested.

Indianapolis, April 23. — A message received here tonight from Tiffin, Ohio, where Detective William J. Burns, who led the raid on the offices of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers here last night, went today, asserted that a "plant" of between 300 and 400 pounds of dynamite was found there.

The detectives said the dynamite was contained in a rough wooden box, and hidden in a shed in the rear of the home of James McManigle, father of Ortie E. McManigie, one of the men indicted in connection with the Los Angeles Times building explosion, who was arrested at Detroit, and is now being taken to Los Angeles.

Detective Burns was accompanied to Tiffin from this city by J. A. G. Badorf, assistant to Walter Drew, counsel for the National Erectors' Association. Entering the shed at McManigle's home, where they arrived just after nightfall, they assert they found a wooden partition with a locked door in which was the box. Detective Burns was prepared with a key which fitted the lock of the box. The dynamite was tightly packed and it was estimated the total number of sticks averaged between 300 and 400 pounds.

Chief of Police Myers, of Tiffin, was with Burns and Badorf when the dynamite was found. He set a guard of two policemen over the shed for the night.

After having uncovered the dynamite at Tiffin, Burns and Badorf engaged an automobile and went to Bloomville, Ohio, where they said they expected to find another "plant" of explosives.

AMBASSADOR BRYCE IN ST. PAUL'S SUNDAY

British Representative at Washington Attended the Cathedral.

In the course of a special sermon on "St. George's Day," at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday morning, Canon Tucker made a strong plea for the closer union of Canada with the empire. He pointed out some of the many advantages we derive from our association with the motherland, having got our church, our government, our Bible from her.

"It will," he said, "be a priceless advantage to our young men and women to be able to continue to look upon the literature of England as our own and get ideas and inspiration from her great men. Think what an advantage we derive in being able to claim the glories of English history as part of ours."

Canon Tucker pointed out that with all the excellence of the public school system there is something lacking in the education of the rising generation, the element that makes for truth in truth and righteousness, self-reliance and self help. Speaking to the Boy Scouts present, he said that their training is along the right lines.

"Military training," he said, "is good for all our young men. I have no fear whatever of militarism developing in Canada. We are a peace-loving people. Germany has been pointed out as the great military bogie. I do not approve of the spirit as carried out there, but at the same time Germany has preserved the peace of Europe for forty years. The training they have received has made the Germans a self-reliant, progressive people, trained in the arts of peace, and has produced an esprit de corps that is most desirable. Military training has its decided advantages if you can eliminate the fighting spirit."

Among those who heard Canon Tucker's sermon was Ambassador Bryce.

VERY LITTLE DANGER FROM THE DERELICTS

British Government Investigator Says There Are Few of Them On Trade Routes.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 24. — That the danger from floating derelicts is not regarded by the British Board of Trade from the same viewpoint as in America, was evidenced last week when a question on the subject was put in Parliament to the president of that body, by Mr. King.

The question asked was "Whether he has considered the possible loss at sea caused by the derelict waterlogged vessels? Whether there are reasons to believe that such vessels, floating for long periods in the ocean and scarcely discernible above the water line, exist in any considerable numbers or on any trade routes, and whether he will institute inquiries into this possible cause of danger to our mercantile marine?"

Mr. Sydney Buxton, replying, said: "The danger to navigation caused by floating derelicts formed the subject of an inquiry by a committee in 1894. That committee arrived at the conclusion that the number of well-established casualties from collisions with derelicts in the open sea was very small, that the chances of discovering such derelicts were slight, and that the destruction of certain classes of derelicts when found would be out of all proportion to any possible benefit."

"Power to deal with floating derelicts in the neighborhood of the coasts of the United Kingdom is possessed by harbors and conservancy authorities, and by the general lighthouse authorities, and services of this nature are occasionally tendered by the admiralty, as in the recent case of the Richelieu.

"I have no reason for thinking that there has been any material change in the circumstances since the date of the committee's report, and having regard to the findings of the committee, I do not think that there is any ground for making further inquiries."

A Sarnia Man Attempts Suicide

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, April 24. — While in a slightly intoxicated condition John Steele attempted suicide on Saturday evening by taking a dose of laudanum at his home on Cobden street. He was rendered unconscious, and doctors were summoned. He was later taken to the hospital. He is reported to be the wrong today and will likely die over. This is the fourth time that Steele has attempted suicide by the same method. When sober he is perfectly sane, but under the influence of liquor has a desire to kill himself.

SCORES THE GOVERNMENT FOR SCHOOL BLUNDER

Hon. Mr. MacKay in Sharp Criticism of Dr. Payne's Department.

Woodstock, April 22. An audience that crowded the club auditorium and included many farmers, some of whom had driven from ten to twenty miles, greeted Hon. A. MacKay when he appeared on the platform here last night to address the Woodstock Young Liberal Club. Every foot of space in the large room was occupied, and not a few of those present were Conservatives, drawn there to hear the Liberal leader discuss the reciprocity issue.

Mr. G. F. Mahon, president of the club, introduced Hon. Mr. MacKay after short addresses had been given by Mr. T. R. Mayberry and Dr. MacKay, representatives for South and North Oxford respectively in the local Legislature.

Hon. Mr. MacKay devoted some time to local issues, briefly reviewing the wide field of subjects dealt with by the Provincial Legislature. He made a slashing criticism of the bungling of the department of education under Hon. Dr. Pyne, emphasizing the fact that at present about twenty-five per cent of the public schools of the province are in the hands of unqualified teachers. He traced this condition back to the wiping out of the model schools, which had been done despite the protest of the Opposition. The Liberals had kept up a steady fight for the restoration of these schools, and at last the Government had been forced to acknowledge its blunder, and was now re-establishing a number of model schools.

Hon. Mr. MacKay fixed upon the packing systems the responsibility for much of the increased cost of living. The consumer had been made to pay more, but the farmer had received no corresponding increase for his products.

The farmers present showed unmistakably their acceptance of the statement that the adoption of the agreement would benefit the horse trade in advancing the prices of high-grade horses, whether light or heavy. The farmers of Ontario might lose some trade in the west, but it was only a question of a comparatively few years, anyway, when that trade would begin to fall off, because the west would soon begin to raise its own horses. In Alberta horses could graze the whole year round, and when the westerners settled down to horse breeding, Ontario would not be able to compete.

Ontario farmers would then have to find a new market for their horses, and that was just what the reciprocity agreement was providing since it gave a free entry into the large cities and towns of the eastern States.

EARLIER CLOSING

Drug Clerks of London Will Seek to Accomplish This.

A meeting will be held shortly by the drug clerks of the city to complete arrangements for earlier closing. The druggists of the city are heartily in sympathy with the movement, and state that there is absolutely no reason why they should keep open till 10 or 11 o'clock every night just to please people who might as well make their purchases earlier in the evening, and would do so gladly if they were educated to it.

"Why, I did more business between 10 and 11 the other evening than I did from 6 to 10," said one druggist. "If people knew we were going to close at 8 they would buy what they need in time, instead of putting everything off until they are going home."

While no specified time has yet been decided on, the clerks will ask that the stores close at 8 o'clock every evening except on Saturdays.

A RECORD JUMP.

Calgary, Alta., April 22. The world's record high jump by a lady amateur rider was made at the horse show last night when Miss Bernice Walsh, of Beaver Dam, cleared the bars at six feet, riding a little western pony. The little horse ridden by Miss Walsh has for a number of years past carried off records among the cow ponies. This is only the second time Miss Walsh as ridden the cow pony.

THE ST LAWRENCE OPEN.

Montreal, Que., April 22. The St. Lawrence River is now open. The first general ice movement began about ten o'clock last night and following the jam which occurred opposite the harbor office, the water rose to 32 feet 8 inches. The ice is passing out rapidly, and it is said that two days will see the channel free for navigation.

UNSCREWS GAS PIPE AND ENDS HIS LIFE

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, April 24. Unscrewing the cap from a gas pipe in his room at his boarding house, 358 City Hall avenue, S. today, a man whose name is thought to be Jos. Stralh, ended his life. His corpse was found a few hours later when the others residing in the house detected the smell of gas. The remains will be held while efforts are made to locate the relatives of the deceased.

ONE MILLION GERMANS TO PLAY WAR GAME

The Kaiser's Manoeuvres This Summer To Be On a Gigantic Scale.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, April 24. Germany will have under arms in connection with the field manoeuvres this summer practically one million men. In addition to the regular army strength of 622,000 men, over 365,000 reservists will be called to the colors, making a total effective strength for the army of 977,698. Adding to these the men serving with the fleet, an armed force of considerably more than a million will be engaged in the gigantic war game.

The new firing regulations for the field artillery, just published, contain in addition to former directions for fire against captive balloons, a new set of instructions governing the use of artillery against dirigibles and aeroplanes. It is admitted, however, that artillery fire against aeroplanes offers slight chances of success without enormous use of ammunition.

LONDON OLD BOYS ARE COMING HOME

Organization Meeting Was Held and Arrangements Made.

The London Old Boys in Chicago are coming home in August.

On Friday evening last, an organization meeting was held in the Grand Pacific Hotel in that city, and it was very largely attended.

Mr. John H. Bowen was chosen as president, and Mr. Ched Egelton was named as secretary.

Great enthusiasm prevailed, and the future of the association appears very bright.

Meetings will be held regularly to complete the organization. From present indications, there will be a large representation from the Windy City.

FAIR-SIZED SHIPMENT OF LIVE HOGS TODAY

Live and Dressed Poultry Have Dropped in Price On Local Market.

Seven loads of hay were offered on the local market square today, six of which sold at no less than $15 per ton.

There was a fair-sized shipment of live hogs at $6 10 per cwt.

Oats are very scarce and strongly in demand. Only one small load appeared on the market today.

Butter is still low in price, even creamery butter has made a considerable drop. One leading creamery are reported to be selling their output as low as 24 cents per pound.

Live and dressed turkeys have dropped in price, the reason being that the market is now supplied with old breeding stock. Live goblers bring 12 and 13 cents per pound. When dressed they are worth 18 cents retail, or 16 cents wholesale.

The market was small in size today. Other quotations:

WINNIPEG, April 22.—The local market opened ⅛c to ⅜c lower and there was a good demand for all grades of cash wheat. Gradually the price was forced up, but it moved stiffly and finally sold at 95¼c, or 1¼c over Friday's close. The bulls could not make it stick, however, and the price dropped back to 94⅝c, an advance of ⅜c for the morning. July closed ⅛c and October ⅛c higher. Unlike wheat, oats advanced easily, there being a sudden active demand for low grades. May oats sold up to 36c and September to 37c, but broke ¼c to ⅜c below the close. It was reported they were wanted for export. HAY

TORONTO, April 22.—Baled hay and straw are somewhat firmer this weekend. The improvement is traceable to a better export demand. Receipts are still comparatively light and choice hay is particularly scarce. Quotations on track, Toronto, are as follows: Hay—No. 1 timothy, $12 to $13; mixed clover and timothy, $9 to $11. Straw—$6 50 to $7.

STANDARD OF EDUCATION WILL BE MADE HIGHER

Toronto University Would Make Senior Matriculation Basis of Entrance.

Toronto, April 24. — In view of the fact that the first-year classes in the University of Toronto are too large for effective work, and that the pressure in the pass course of the first year is becoming very heavy, the senate of the university is now considering the advisability of raising the standard of entrance to the university to that of senior, instead of junior matriculation. This question was laid before the senate by the Rev. Dr. Falconer, president of the university, and will be again brought up for discussion at the autumn meeting of the senate, and if the principle is approved it will then be sent to the various departments of the university for consideration. Another important move has been made in connection with the universities of the Province, when representatives of Queen's, McMaster, and the Western University decided to allow a scale of values for subjects of the junior matriculation and a plan to aid the student who is unable to attend the regular sessions of a secondary school.

SENATE UNORGANIZED CAN'T TACKLE BILLS

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, April 24.—Congress today found itself in a peculiar situation. The House is congratulating itself on having passed expeditiously the campaign publicity, the direct election of senators, and the Canadian reciprocity bills, but the Senate thus far practically is unorganized, its committees not yet having been named. Because of this, the upper branch of Congress was unprepared to go ahead with the programme. The situation may be remedied tomorrow, when Chairman Gallinger, of the committee on committees, will bring in a list of the Republican members. It remains to be seen whether this list will satisfy the "progressive" Republicans and permit of immedaiate action.

Having caught up with its work, the House programme today dealt with emergency bills, with a report late in the afternoon of the free list measure by Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee. A week or more of debate on the measure is anticipated, though its ultimate passage is not doubted.

MAIL STEAMER LOST OFF COAST OF CHINA

[Canadian Press.]

Tokio, April 24.—The Pacific mail steamship Asia, from Hong Kong for San Francisco, sunk off Finger Rock, South China. The passengers are reported rescued and the mails saved.

The Asia struck Sunday morning while feeling her way cautiously through a thick fog in the direction of Shanghai.

A ST. MARYS PASTOR GOES TO OTTAWA

Rev. D. N. Morden To Preach in Erskine Church at Capital.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, April 24.—Rev. D. N. Morden, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, St. Marys, Ontario, has expressed his willingness to accept the call recently extended to him to become pastor of Erskine Presbyterian Church here.

He will come to Ottawa about the third Sunday in May. Rev. Mr. Morden, B. A., studied theology under the direction of the presbytery of Niagara, in Auburn Presbyterian College. He took his arts course in Queen's University, Kingston, from 1901 to 1905, and also took a special work in theology in the same college. He has been five years in St. Marys, and during his pastorate in that congregation it has doubled its size. Fifty per cent of the congregation are men.

He succeeds Rev. Mr. Nicol here, over whose retirement a split occurred in Erskine Church, resulting in the formation of a new congregation.

No Grants for Buildings.

"I do not think grants will be made towards the construction of a building or its equipment. For instance, Toronto might receive one-third the salary of the teachers, while London and other places might receive five-sixths of the amounts paid for salaries. As I hinted at before, the municipality will have to bear the brunt of the expense. There need be no elaborate outlay at the beginning. A large expenditure is not necessary."

Mr. Leake paid his first visit to the Dennis Wire Works, and later will go to the others.

Navigation Open on Upper Lakes.

Commencing Monday, April 24, the Canadian Pacific steamers will sail from Owen Sound on same schedule as last year, viz., Athabasca, Monday; Keewatin, Tuesday; Alberta, Wednesday; Manitoba, Thursday; Assiniboia, Saturday. MANY MEN ANXIOUS FOR ROAD ROLLER JOB

County Should Have No Difficulty in Securing a Chauffeur.

The county of Middlesex should have little difficulty in securing a man for the position of engineer of the new steam roller, the first to be tried out in rural work in this district, 28 applications having already been received.

Reeves Chris Brooks and John McGugan, with the county engineer, John Talbot, the committee selected by the county council to make the appointment, met Saturday afternoon and decided upon John Farrell, of Appin, if he cares to act as "chauffeur" at the salary named, $2 75 per day.

While he has never acted as pilot of a road roller before, Farrell has had experience with traction engines, and will probably get the job.

It is expected that the machine, which is an English make, and which was purchased at the special session of the county council, at the end of March, will arrive in the county during the first week of May, and will commence operations in the town of Parkhill. A new road is being constructed through the town and will extend about three miles north into the country.

Good Roads.

County Engineer Talbot is now prepared to undertake the task of constructing good roads in earnest, and before the end of the summer a great improvement may be looked for. However, it is recognized that the roads of Middlesex compare very favorably as a whole with those of other counties, but the plans are to surpass all others.

While it is generally admitted that the chances of bringing the city in on the scheme are nil, many people have suggested that London contribute something towards the maintenance of the main highways leading into the city. This scheme has been adopted by many American cities, notably Cleveland, the Ohioans recognizing that business is attracted to the place by its excellent highways. Brick pavements many miles in length extend in all directions from Cleveland.

BOARD OF WORKS MAY OIL ROADS

Proposition to Lay the Dust on Macadam Streets.

The board of works will consider a proposition for oiling some of the macadam streets in the city.

Some time ago, this was recommended to the council, and No. 2 committee have been dealing with it ever since.

Some of the agents of the oil companies doing business here may show the advantages of this process by putting a barrel or so on the streets.

"It looks like a good proposton," declared Ald. Eckert.

MR. FINDLATER'S FUNERAL

Buried in Lucknow Cemetery With Masonic Honors.

The Lucknow Sentinel has the following in regard to the death of Mr. Robert Findlater, of this city: Mr. Findlater was an esteemed member of Old Light Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Lucknow, and the funeral held here on Sunday afternoon was conducted by that order. The remains were taken to the Masonic Hall, where a short religious service was first conducted by the Rev. J. S. Duncan, followed by the Masonic funeral service, conducted by Mr. M. J. McPherson, of Kincardine. Members of the lodge, accompanied by a number of visiting brethren, marched in a body to the South Kinloss Cemetery, where interment took place with the ceremonies of the order.

Mr. Findlater was in his 66th year, and was never married. Before going to London he, for a number of years, occupied the position of accountant for the late Thomas Lawrence. He was of a quiet and extremely retiring disposition, and by all of his former acquaintances here, is spoken of in the highest terms.

HOLD ANOTHER MEETING

"We have the opinion of the best legal minds on the question, and there is no doubt that a motion to lower the salary of the rector is legal," said one of the prominent members of the congregation. "When Mr. Hill presented his objections last week we were not prepared to meet him. Now we are, and we will be in a position to show that we are right. We are not vindictive, but we must have our rights."

It is rumored that the next session of the synod will be rather an interesting one.

May Penetrate Synod.

This difficulty has gone further than the bounds of the Church of St. John the Evangelist. It is understood that the canons will furnish the basis of a rather striking debate at the next meeting of the synod. The laymen will introduce several amendments to the canons, particularly as they refer to the removal of rectors, should they not meet with the approval of the congregations.

The lay delegates from various congregations are being communicated with, and already considerable support has been promised the movement.

There will be considerable opposition, it is anticipated.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Fred Pearen and children, of 319 Wharncliffe road, are visiting Mrs. Danel Yake, Thamesford, Ont.

The many friends of Mr. J. A. Tucker will be pleased to hear that he is slightly recovered from a severe illness at his home on Egerton street.

The many friends of Miss Grace Wilson, of this city, will be sorry to learn that she is ill in St. oJseph's Hospital with pneumonia.

SPLENDID ATTRACTIONS FOR GRAND BOOKED

Close of the Season in London Will Be a Brilliant One.

Manager Minhinnick announces that Mr. A. J. Small has made arrangements to close the present theatrical season in London even more brilliant than it opened. Beyond a doubt, this season has been a remarkable one, the class of attractions being perhaps the finest as a whole that ever afforded Londoners amusement. Mr. Small has done well, and he has been ably assisted by the most popular manager the grand ever had, Mr. Minhinnick, who has surrounded himself with a capable and courteous staff, from the treasurer to the programme boy.

Some excellent attractions are still to come. Wednesday "The Blue Mouse" will be seen at the Grand, and on Saturday "The Kissing Girl."

On May 1 the greatest attraction that ever visited London will be seen in the No. 1 company of "The Dollar Princess." Ten lorries and moving vans will be required to move the scenery from the special cars to the theatre. The company demand that the stairs to the different dressing-rooms be carpeted, and this will be done by Mr. Minhinnick.

May 4 Margaret Anglin will appear in her new vehicle, "Green Stockings"; May 6, "The House of a Thousand Candles;" May 8, William Jennings Bryan, the great American orator; May 11, "The Bachelor's Baby," with Francis Wilson; May 13, "The Red Mill," and May 15, Jim Corbett, ex-champion pugilist of the world, will be seen with "Honeyball" Jones and his minstrels.

LOCAL ITEMS

—The Saturday afternoon recital at Conservatory Hall was given by the following pupils: Misses Lilian Sutherland, Franc Robinson, Gladys Harris, Elsie Thompson, Florence Woolley, Anna Eckert, Mercy Wells, and Norah Moore.

Inspector Sanders, of the Charities Organization Society, is confined to the house with an attack of the grip. He hopes to be at his desk again in a War of 1812.

"Tecumseh and the War of 1812" will be the theme on which Mr. Norman S. Gurd, of Sarnia, will lecture at the next meeting of the London and Middlesex Historical Society on Tuesday evening.

Service of Praise.

Tonight the choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will give their regular service of praise. Miss de Muth, soprano soloist, of Detroit, and other artists have been engaged for the occasion. The choir and soloists of the church, under the direction of Mr Wheeler, will also render an attractive programme.

York Street Mission Services.

At the York Street Mission last night Evangelist Belcher preached to a large audience on the subject of "The Ascension." During the service special musical numbers were rendered by Miss Langdon, of Toronto; Mr. Robert Symes, of Glasgow, Scotland, and Mr. George H. Andrews, of this

A Test on Friday.

The new electrical pumping machinery at Springbank will be tested on Friday afternoon next. Chairman Pocock is arranging for the city council to go down with the water commissioners to witness the trial. The machinery has been running part of the time lately and is giving the best of satisfaction.

Bishop Fallon Preaches.

Taking the story of the unbelief of Thomas as his text, Bishop Fallon yesterday morning preached at St. Peter's Cathedral a strong sermon on the death and resurrection of Christ. The speaker, by numerous quotations from works in the Bible, written before and after the crucifixion, proved the validity of the story of the occurrence. Unless this can be proven satisfactorily, he said, the teachings of Christianity are in vain.

Alleged Case of Cruelty.

The Humane Society are looking into a case which has been reported from the North End of the city, where it was stated that a horse lay out in a field from Monday last until Saturday before it died. The horse, it is stated, belongs to a man 90 years old, and he has told the Humane Society officers that he did everything to care for the animal, and saw that it did not want for anything.

Wins His Degree.

Mr. John Tanton, of this city, son of Mr. John Tanton, 379 Waterloo street was successful in obtaining his B. A. degree from Queen's University at Kingston. He is a graduate of the public schools and Collegiate Institute here. During his course at Queen's he has stood well up in his class in the mathematl elbahrdlu class in the mathematical branch. He will enter the School of Pedagogy to take a specialist's course in mathematics.

A Good Cause.

The appearance of the London Dramatic Club tonight at the Grand Opera House in "Lady Huntsworth's Experiment" is attracting much attention, and a large audience will likely be in attendance. While the ability of the actors is in itself a sufficient attraction, the fact that the Victorian Order of Nurses will benefit from the performance has contributed to make the event one of the most popular of the season. There are some good seats yet to be had, and those who purpose attending would do well to 'phone at once.

Blessing of Seeds.

The annual blessing of the seeds, to be used for the coming season's crops, will take place in the Catholic churches tomorrow morning. Each spring, farmers and others bring their stock of seeds to the church, when a special blessing is given in the vestry and prayers offered that the crops may prove bountiful. Arrangements are now being made at St. Mary's Church for the forty hours' devotions, which will be held, commencing May 14. Prominent preachers will be brought to the city to conduct the services.

A Painful Accident.

Miss Jessie Matheson, of 123 Hill street, met with a very painful accident on Saturday afternoon while breaking a stick of wood in a shed at her home. When she struck the wood a portion of it flew up and dealt her a heavy blow in the head which broke her glasses, rendered her unconscious, and cut her head. At first it was feared that some of the broken glass had entered her eye, but examination proved that such was not the case. It was some time before Miss Matheson recovered, but she is able to be around again all right today, and no serious results are anticipated.

Off for New Ontario.

Mr. Frank Nickle, son of Sergeant of Detectives Thomas Nickle, was the recipient of a very handsome suitcase on Saturday evening from the employees of Scandrett's grocery. Mr. Nickle left today for Cochrane, New Ontario, where he will work with his brother, Mr. Roy Nickle, a well-known London boy, who is doing one of the biggest contracting businesses in the north.

Civic Meetings.

There has been a lull in city council matters since the tax rate has been struck, the aldermen so far advancing anything for the interests of the city. However there will be a number of meetings this week. The regular committees will hold sessions, and in addition the special committee to name a city engineer and the local improvement committee will also in all probability convene.

Check for Firemen.

Fire Chief Aitken today received a check for $25 from the London Printing and Lithographing Company, to be applied to the firemen's benefit fund, for the good work of the department in putting out a fire at their place of business last week. The blaze, which was on the roof, was extinguished without the use of water, thereby saving a large amount of stock. The money was handed over to City Treasurer Bell.

New Masonic Temple.

Plans for the new Masonic Temple hove been called for and three firms, H. C. McrBide, Moore, Henry & Munro, and W. G. Murray are submitting theirs for the consideration of the building committee. They will be opened on May 8, and tenders for the building will be called for immediately. "We are progressing favorably," Mr. C. W. McGuire, president of the Association, informed The Advertiser. "Plans are being called for, and we expect to have the building completed this autumn."

PATRON SAINT WAS EULOGIZED

Englishmen of London Attended St. Paul's Cathedral in a Body on St. George's Day.

THE LIFE OF ST. GEORGE

Born in Palestine in the Third Century—Slaying the Dragon Typifies Slaying of Paganism.

St. George's Day was fittingly celebrated yesterday afternoon by the members of St. George's Society and the Sons of England, when they marched in a body to St. Paul's Cathedral and heard a special sermon on "St. George," by Rev. T. B. Clarke, of All Saints' Church.

"We have met here today," said Mr. Clarke in commencing his address, "because this is the anniversary of the death of a very holy man, St. George, the patron saint of England. We have no intention whatever of invoking his aid or guidance, but wish to consider as far as possible his life and some of its results. Some people say that the Church of England is inconsistent because although she dedicates her churches to various saints, she holds no celebrations in their honor. I do not think, however, that any church honors them more, for wherever she has gone she has taught her children to honor them everywhere.

St. George's Character.

"St. George is likely to be held in honor as long as England exists. Unfortunately we do not know very much about him, but we do know enough to be able to form a very clear opinion of his character. He was born at Libya, in Palestine, in the third century. I do not know what church is going to claim him for her own, and I do not know how the people of England came to choose him for their patron saint. St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, lived among the Irish for a long time. The people of Wales chose St. David because he lived among them and devoted his whole life to their welfare. St. Gorge only stayed in England a very short time. We know that he was born of Christian parents, and we find that he was very conspicuous as a bold and fearless soldier and as a judge unceasingly fair and just. We are told that he went through a Persian campaign with the Emperor Diocletian, and that he went to England. He was instrumental in converting Queen Helena to Christianity. Through his influence directly, paganism was finally overthrown and Christians obtained perfect liberty to serve and worship their Master undisturbed.

Slaying Paganism.

"The emblem of St. George slaying the dragon is symbolical of his overcoming the dragon of paganism. We find him in great disfavor with Diocletian because he fearlessly and boldly objected to the persecution of the Christians, and finally on April 23, A. D., 303, he was put to death as a heretic, as one of those who dared to oppose the will of the great emperor.

"We find that St. George throughout his life made it his business to do certain things. He was first of all a gentleman. He went about doing all the good possible. He fed the hungry, visited the sick, clothed the naked, visited those in prison, and did everything he could to help those in trouble or distress of any kind. He was loyal to his king. He loved what was right and just, and obeyed the apostolic injunction to honor God and the king. He always, however, put God first, and we find him doing his uttermost to exend his Master's authority.

As Patrou Saint.

"This may be the great reason why England chose him as her patron saint, for England has certainly followed his example of extending the kingdom of Christ. England has done and is doing more for the widow, the fatherless, the aged, the helpless, the broken-down of all sorts than any other nation in the world. This is following out St. George's example. St. George's Society and the Sons of England are, I am glad to say, carrying out this kind of work right along into this and other communities. I trust you will continue to go on with your good work. I urge you as Englishmen to wipe out the unsavory records made by some of those calling themselves Englishmen. I could tell you things that happened in the East End that would make your blood boil. Let us as Englishmen wipe this out.

The Great Reward.

"Think of the reward God has given England for the work she is doing and has done. She has expanded wonderfully, and is capable of even greater expansion and greater things. What a transformation it would make in our lives, in the whole world, if we all lived up to the best things we are capable of."

SOCIALIST VIEWS AT AUDITORIUM

Difference of Opinion Manifest at the Meeting Sunday Afternoon.

HYDRO POWER TALK

Two Views of the Big Project Were Put Forth—The Question of Private Property.

"Christian Ethics and Economics" was the subject of a spirited and interesting discussion which was led in the Auditorium yesterday by Mr. Finley E. Perrin, a barrister, of this city.

"We should not be such individualists that we look at things only from our own selfish standpoint, and your opinion is just as valuable as another man's. In the 'Sleepy Hollow' of a broad indifferentism men say, 'Better to live amid present evils than to fly to evils unknown.' But the present system fails to realize the greatest good for the greatest number. It confiscates and takes away from one man what he has produced, and what is rightfully his.

The Competitive System.

"Again it is competitive. The present competitive system cannot be squared with the Christian law of love. There is a competition within a class, and there is a competition between the classes. It is the competition between the classes which attracts the attention of the Christian socialist. There is not the same code of honor between the classes which exists in the competition within the classes. Communism doe not do away with the competition within the classes, but only with competition between the classes."

Mr. Perrin also pointed out the other classes of socialists, including the Fabians and the Marxians.

Differences of Opinion.

In the discussion following, Mr. Henry B. Ashplant, a socialist, happened to cite hydro-electric power as a social enterprise, and straightway drew down upon himself the ire of Mr. Morrison, a Socialist Labor party man, who declared that the hydro-electric scheme was not put through in the interests of the people, but only to afford additional strength to the Government that it might continue to legislate in the interests of the capitalist class.

To the question, "Is private property compatible with the Christian ideal?" Mr. Ashplant argued that it is, while Mr. Morrison stoutly opposed him.

Mr. Perrin expressed the opinion that private ownership of property has never been given a fair trial. It is the "bargain process" that is the great detriment to society. Communism is a remedy which has been suggested by Christian socialism, to equalize opportunities. It is the only way to approximate to the Christian ideal.

Christian Ethics Lacking.

Mr. Ashplant advanced the opinion that Christian ethics are entirely lacking in our present system.

Secretary Wilson also spoke briefly. Next Sunday Mr. W. G. Young will lead a discussion on "A Man and His Money."

The meeting will be at four o'clock, as formerly.

EAST LONDON NEWS

CONTRACT IS LET FOR NEW ROUNDHOUSE

Big Building for C. P. R. Will Be Erected by John Hayman & Sons.

The contract for the new C. P. R. roundhouse has been awarded to John Hayman & Sons.

This announcement was made today by C. P. R. officials, and work will be commenced at once on the building.

The exact figures could not be learned, but the building itself will cost, it is said, in the neighborhood of $75,000.

In addition there is an office building for which tenders have not yet been awarded.

NOT SO SERIOUS.

Mr. Herbert Sharret, an employee of the Sherlock-Manning Organ Company, was reported last week to have contracted blood-poisoning from an injury to his hand. It later developed that his injury was not of so serious a nature, and he was able to resume work today.

LEG AMPUTATED.

C. P. R. Brakeman Christopher Johnstone, of Adelaide street, who had his right leg and foot badly crushed at Appin on Good Friday when he slipped while getting out at the station, is in a very critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. The attending physician delayed amputation in the hope that the foot and leg might be saved, but complications developed which Sunday renedered an operation necessary, and the leg was removed at the knee. Johnston is very weak and sugered considerably from shock, and it is not known yet whether or not he will recover.

EAST END NOTES.

Miss Gillean, of 736 Queen's avenue, has returned home from Port Arthur, after a pleasant visit of six weeks' duration.

LONGBOAT WINS A RACE.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 24.—Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, gave Frank Nebrich, of Buffalo, a minute's advantage at the start of a ten-mile run over a 12-lap track in this city yesterday, and finished in one hour, one minute and three seconds, with Nebrich still a lap to go.

STEAMERS ARRIVED.

Montreal, April 24.—C. P. R. steamer Lake Manitoba docked at St. John at 8 o'clock this morning.

New York, April 24.—Arrived: Cedric, from Liverpool; George Washington, from Bremen.

OBITUARY

The death occurred last evening of Sarah Ann Haring, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haring, of 95 Tecumseh avenue, at the age of ten months. The funeral will be held tomorrow to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. H. H. Bingham, of the Talbot Street Baptist Church.

Medical Exams.

The Medical School examinations will not be ready before Wednesday or Thursday of this week. There are a large number of papers still to be read, and the examiners will not be in a position to complete them before the dates mentioned.

HOUSE SKATES TWELVE MILES.

People living along the shore of Lake Champlain were astonished to see a house running away across the ice. The owner of Willsboro Point, a peninsula opposite Burlington, wished to move a house about half a mile over the ice. While the workmen were arranging the skids a great gust of wind struck the house and it started at a lively gait up the lake. The sight of the forty-foot two-story building as it twisted, tumbled, twirled and turned terrified the fish hut colony. The house finally banged diagonally on a ridge, and came to a standstill after a twelve-mile run.

PITCHER DIES OF BULLET WOUND

SHOOTING IN A HOTEL

Ball Player Is Found With Hole in His Abdomen—No Clue to Slayer's Identity.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 23.—George M. ("Lefty") Craig, pitcher of the Indianapolis club of the American Association, died tonight from a bullet wound received in a struggle with a burglar at a Mineral Springs resort, the training quarters of the club, near this city, last Friday night.

The police have been unable to find a clue to the man that shot Craig. Other occupants of the hotel were awakened just after midnight by the sound of a scuffle and a shot. They found Craig lying in the hall outside the door of his room, wounded in the abdomen. He told detectives that he had been aroused from sleep and had seen a man searching his clothing. He fought with the burglar, who pulled him into the hall and shot him. The man then escaped through a side door of the hotel.

Craig's home was in Philadelphia. He was bought by the Indianapolis club from the Trenton, N. J., club, of the Tri-State League, last season. He was 24 years old and unmarried.

BRITISH CHESS STARS CAPTURE NEWNES PRIZE

Outplay Americans in Cable Match for the Third Consecutive Time. Winning Permanent Possession of Trophy.

New York, April 22.—The city of London Chess Club today won permanent possession of the Newnes trophy, inaugurated in 1896, by capturing the thirteenth international cable match by a score of 6 games to 4.

Under the deed of gift by which the late Sir George Newnes donated the trophy the team winning three successive matches obtained final possession, and this the British accomplished by today's victory.

Of the thirteen matches each side won six, while that of 1901 ended in a tie. A total of 128 games were played, each side being credited with 64 victories.

After the bad start of Friday, when Marshall lost to Burn in London, the Americans picked up well today, winning three games and drawing two. The British, however, scored at the remaining five boards.

American Honors.

Individual honors of the match on the American side went to Albert W. Fox, of Washington; Roy T. Black, of Brooklyn, and Leonard B. Meyer, of the Manhattan Chess Club. Fox was awarded a gold medal offered as a special prize to the American winning the most brilliant game. The summary of the match follows:

NEWCASTLE UNITED AND BRADFORD TIE

Final Match for Association Cup Was Played at London Before an Immense Throng.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 22.—The final for the Association cup, the greatest trophy in British football, was played at Crystal Palace between Newcastle United, holders of the cup, and Bradford City today, and resulted in a tie.

Much dash and cleverness was shown by both teams, but the defence was magnificent. Neither team was able to score.

The usual enormous crowd, estimated as high as a hundred thousand, streamed in from the north during the night to witness the final match. The principal railroads operated 200 special trains.

ENGLISH CUP FINAL PLAYED WEDNESDAY

Saturday's Match Between Newcastle United and Bradford City Was a Tie.

London, April 22.—The game between Newcastle United and Bradford, which resulted in a tie, will be replayed on Wednesday in Manchester.

In opening there was poor play on both sides. Bradford was unable to make headway against the Newcastle halves. Higgins had fine opportunities of scoring, but his shooting was weak. The Yorkshire goal had some narrow shaves in the first half.

The results in the various leagues today were as follows:

League, First Division.

Everton 1, Sheffield Wednesday 1.
Woolwich 2, Preston North End 0.
Oldham Albion 0, Bury 0.
Blackburn Rovers 2, Tottenham 0.
Aston Villa 4, Manchester United 2.

SPORT OBSERVATIONS

Nice stuff for start the Giants, Athletics and other first choices got in the big leagues.

Maybe it's spring form, but have you noticed what the meek and lowly Washington, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Boston (N. L.) clubs have been doing.

The Phoenix business is sure to result at the Polo grounds. It takes more than a $10,000 fire to phlease Muggsy McGraw and he will play, if permitted, as the new stands arise from the ruins. Nice bit of advertising and incidentally a hurry to get the shekels.

Fred Clarke, Pirate leader, grabbed off a cold, among other things on the training trip.

What a welcome for McAleer and his tribe if by any chance they happen in St. Louis in the first division. The way they love James in the Mound City is sinful.

Baseball has gone to the bally bow bows. In Chicago an attorney has been fined $25 for assaulting an umpire two years ago.

Roger Bresnahan says the title "Bresna Hens" hung upon the ex-Cardinals by Hugh Keogh, is to be lived up to and that those who don't believe it can be convinced by watching his men scratch dirt.

Jim Jeffries attended the delayed opening at the Cubs park and when the rain clouds rolled up remarked that he had no use for clouds since last July 4.

Several young Cub players will be shipped to Grand Rapids, Mich., in the immediate future. They won't be farmed, of course, but C. Webb Murphy will retain one end of a healthy bit of twine attached to their belts.

Bender and Coombs seemed to have no terrors for the Yankees the first time out. Both were treated roughly. Maybe later on the chief and Iron man will get their satisfaction.

Conference colleges won't play in Michigan's yard. Guess they're wise. The Wolverines have won five in a row.

Taking the short end on the favorite. In future books is apt to give the talent a jolt when the favorite gets away as the Athletics have.

Hal Chase seems to be living up to advance notices. He has his Highlanders going like a side wheeler in topples, and if the team isn't playing ahead of its form, there's joy in sight.

Fred Merkle, hero of the tragedy "He didn't touch second," hit a home run in Newark during an exhibition game that cleared a fence 400 feet from the plate.

RIGHT HON. JAMES BRYCE

An unobtrusive-looking man, with snowy beard, and his scant remaining hair perfectly white; rather below average height, but still erect, and suggesting the wiry strength that has given him fame as a mountain-climber; with keen, piercing eyes looking out from under bushy eyebrows. This is Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador to the American Republic, who on Saturday afternoon made a thoughtful plea for peace and tolerance, before the two Canadian clubs of this city in the Normal School auditorium. There is nothing extreme about him; he is an undisguised moderate in his political doctrines and opinions. He is more of the scholar than the orator, but he speaks with a clearness and terseness that makes it a pleasure to listen to him.

Like most really great men, Mr. Bryce is a modest man. Nothing could have been less self-assertive than his manner. Those who met him found him as democratic in personal intercourse as in his political views. He was perfectly natural; he had no air of superiority, no touch of aloofness. He is big enough to dispense with these affectations.

Mr. Bryce is known in his own country for his aversion to jingoism, which he once described as patriotism turned sour. His references to this subject in his address were very different from those of the common or garden variety of patriot.

When he dwells on the extent and importance of the British Empire or the nation, he makes you remember that there are also other lands and peoples. His speech was a plea for tolerance, education and enlightenment—tolerance for the views of party opponents; education for the newcomers who do not speak the English language, and have been reared in countries in a less advanced stage of civilization; the enlightenment of each part of the Empire as to every other part.

CORRESPONDENCE

A Vestryman's Views.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

As a constant reader of your valuable paper, may I make a few remarks re the vestry meeting of Church of St. John the Evangelist, held last Tuesday evening? I have been a member of the Church of England many years, and can safely say I never attended such a meeting before. I could almost imagine myself back in the sixteenth century instead of the twentieth, for such high-handed and arbitrary proceedings I never witnessed at a vestry meeting before. Here is a clergyman who has forfeited the confidence of nearly his whole congregation, who has been requested to resign time and again in no uncertain words, sets them at defiance, and shelters himself behind the laws of the church, and claims that they justify his acts. All I can say is: in my opinion these laws are very unjust, and the sooner they are repealed the better for the church generally. We have always known the powers of the clergy are great, but we had fondly imagined the congregation had some control over the finances, and the pastor's salary; that they could raise or lower as they saw fit. But it was all a delusion. According to Mr. Hill, without his consent, the congregation and bishop together, if so disposed, have no power to lower his salary, so that although Mr. Hill has become obnoxious to the congregation they can do nothing. I think also the clergy who comprised the commission showed a bias in Mr. Hill's favor which the facts of the case do not warrant. Even the archdeacon who was appointed by the bishop to attend the meeting for the purpose of bringing him a neutral and unbiased report of the proceedings, so far forgot himself as to lecture the vestry as to what they should do, but I am glad to say he was not allowed to continue. And these two gentlemen, Messrs. Beck and Beattie, whom we all highly respect, if they had been fully posted on this unfortunate case instead of asking the members to give way would have turned their eloquence on Mr. Hill and told him that his obstinacy, jealousy, and intolerance were to blame for the whole trouble.

In conclusion, I would say that after reflection, I will not leave St. John's Church as I had intended after the vestry meeting was over, but will remain, and I hope the members of St. John's Church, who believe in civil and religious liberty will not lay down their arms, but by united action strive once more for their rights. If we bend our neck to the yoke now, we deserve to be held in bondage. Respectfully yours,

MEMBER OF THE VESTRY.
London, April 22.

A Question of Titles.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I notice in tonights issue a cut of "Hon." (?) James Bryce. No doubt it is a printer's error, but as I have heard several references made to that distinguished gentleman as "The Hon." may I be permitted to point out that he is "The Right Hon." He has no claim to the prefix "Hon." which in Great Britain is only borne by the scions of noble houses, male and female. I am not dealing with colonial statesmen, but speaking with regard to the title only as a British one. Every cabinet minister becomes a "Right Hon." The sons and daughters of certain of the nobility are "Hon." by birth. Mr. Winston Churchill is "The Right Hon. the Hon. Winston Churchill." He is "Right Hon." because he is a cabinet minister, and he is "Hon." because his father was Lord Randolph Churchill, son of the Duke of Marlborough. John Burns is a "Right Hon.," but Mayfair would be terribly shocked to hear him spoken of as "The Hon." The eldest son of a duke is usually a marquis. The sons other than the eldest are lords, and their children are "Honorables." The children of "Hon." are plain "Mr." or "Miss."

Of course, this is a matter which the ordinary citizen will not stay awake at night to cogitate about; but as we have a class in the community who have quite imperialistic ideas, and who, after they come back from Great Britain use the letter "r" quite softly in their speech, these people should know that the title "Hon." betokens blue blood, and is not to be confounded with ordinary, every-day ability and statesmanship. I am, dear sir, yours obediently, D.

PEOPLE SHOULD SEEK A REMEDY

And Not Throw Up Their Hands in Horror When Charges Are Made.

REV. MR. DEWEY'S SERMON

Recent Statements of Mrs. May R. Thornley Referred to in the Empress Avenue Methodist Church.

"A Splendid Partnership" was the theme of Rev. G. W. Dewey at Empress Avenue Church Sunday evening, based on the words of Christ, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business."

Some callings in life, said the speaker, are harder than others, but not harder than the political. There is no position in life so full of deceptions. Men are not so much concerned whether certain measures will affect the weal or woe of the country. The question is how will it affect the party.

"Two splendid men stand out prominently before the world today on the question of arbitration, which was begun by Mr. Taft, and upheld by our King. While some little fellows are going out of their way to say mean things against the United States, yet God is speaking to the nations of earth through these grand men, and if England and the United States give their support to this great movement it will silence the guns of the world. This movement is of God."

The Idlers.

The speaker went on to say that you can find no record where God employs idle men to do his work. David was taken from the sheep fold, Gideon from the threshing floor, Elisha from the plow, and so on. Don't get the idea that your service for the King is of little account. It looked like a small thing when Esther pled for her people, but she had come into the kingdom for such a time as this and five million people were saved by her courage and wisdom.

"Get into the partnership with the King," said the speaker. "It means a fortune for a businessman in the old land to be able to cater to royalty. We may all be in business for the King. A man who is dishonest with his employer is dishonest with God. The same may be said of the employer who is dishonest with his men. As a general thing, men are promoted if deserving, except in political and municipal affairs.

"Our own city should be the commercial centre for the western part of this province, and all honor to the merchants and others who are boosting London. But we are too apt to forget that to be a moral and religious centre is of much more importance.

Mrs. Thornley's Charges.

"When God, through Mrs. Thornley, would expose the condition of affairs in our city, men throw up their hands in horror and say, 'What a dreadful thing to thus advertise our fair city.' When instead of this they should get to work and try and discover the wrong and seek a remedy.

"There are evils in our city, and the men and women who have courage enough to expose them are also it their Master's business."

THE ART OF A NEW AGE.

The Renaissance was and still is a failure, for the reason that it is not and never was modern in spirit, and still more, perhaps, because it was the last desperate assertion of the mastery of matter over mind. It sought to impose upon the budding thoughts of minds struggling to freedom, the forms and thoughts of men who had said the say of their day and passed on.

What man would dare attempt a temple for the teachings of a Plato, a Socrates a Buddha, a Jesus? For a bishop, yes. For the Master, no. And why? Because the masters have passed the bounds of the material, and tread, and bid us tread, the higher paths of the spirit.

Art is the middle ground lying between the realms of matter and of spirit, glorifying matter in expressing the spirit, carrying its true devotee beyond the power of matter to express, building his spirit up until palette and chisel and trowel fall limp, in the realization of the impossibility of more material expression.

All true artists outgrow. In a measure, the expression of art and live their real life in a land that lies beyond the physical, and music is the most perfect development of art, and the most perfect means of growth and expression, because it is the least material. It lies on the spirit shore of Artland.

Are architecture and painting, literature and sculpture to pass, then? Not yet. We have had the glory of the expression of form and beauty of worship in Greece. We have had the majesty of the expression of organized civil power in Rome. We have had the stupendous power of an organized, religious hierarchy and soul-enslaving superstition, linked with true spiritual fervor, expressed in mighty cathedrals. We have had expressed the degrading servitude to place and predatory wealth in castle and palace. We have not yet had the transcendent glory of a free people expressing themselves and the triumph of democracy in great public buildings built for the people, by the people. We have yet to have the expression of a free people in the elegance and adornment of the necessary implements and surroundings of rational life.—From an article in The Craftsman.

THE DRAMATIC GAMBLE.

The theatre in America is passing through its newspaper phase, in every department it is being influenced by those economic forces which try to inflate the market without improving the product and which measure the product as a commodity rather than as an art. Every industry is subject to the laws of profit and loss, and the theatre is an ever increasing industry, since the amusement territory is increasing. There is no concentration which would make New York the theatrical centre in the way that London is the hub of the United Kingdom.

Only by the combining of theatrical interests in the hands of a few directors has the theatre settled into some degree of adjustment, exchanging independence of selection on the part of the small manager and of the actor, for certain salaried assurance. The theatrical interests have largely been held in New York, although Chicago is increasing in importance, while the road has a part of what it could get, the local manager being only a dependent, with no initiative or means to give his public what they want other than what the syndicate might allow them.

The history of the theatrical trust is hardly different from the growth of any other trust, save in respect to the personalities of the men behind the combination. The magnates who know Wall street know their trade down to the smallest detail; they know the men with whom they have to deal, and they are quick to measure the risk. The same may be said for the theatrical manager. But the extraordinary businessman exceeds the exceptional theatre manager in large respect; he understands the needs of the country is going; he has his hand on the pulse of business conditions, and with greatest energy he knows how the people are thinking on public affairs. The theatre manager has no such appreciation; he launches his individual enterprises as a gamble, and depends upon the physical resources of theatricalism to "boost" his product.—From an article in the Forum.
