LONDON'S CREDIT STANDS HIGH, NO 'BLUE-RUIN-ERS' NEED APPLY

City Treasurer, With 37 Years' Experience, Refutes "Blue Ruin" Story.

KNOCKERS SCORED

Business Leaders Regret the Campaign of Pessimism Launched by Free Press.

Despite the hysterical outburst of fear from the Free Press that the city will soon reach the limits of its borrowing power, the municipality of London stands "ace-high" in the financial markets of the world. And the city is not "near the end" of its borrowing power as was so rashly charged in last night's edition of the Free Press, that is if City Treasurer James Bell's opinion can be accepted for what it is worth after 37 years' service in the treasury de-partment of the city service. Roughly, the municipality, at this moment, is in a position, legally and financially to borrow, between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, the treasurer announced today and in addition to this the limit of the borrowing power might be increased and likely would be increased by legislation, if the situation demanded it. "The city of London was never considered in bet ter shape financially, by the bend-men, than at the present time," City Treasurer Bell stated. "We have never had any difficulty in securing good prices when we have debentures to sell." "We have city's borrowing power is now roughly between two and three mil-lion dollars and probably the $3,000,-000 figure will be exceeded when the revised assessment statement is available. Treasurer Bell advises that it is not always good business, however, to let these facts be generally known as there is always a tendency for the members of the respective spending bodies to spend more lavishly when they know they are millions of dollars from their

In the past five vears the city has borrowed between $1,500,000 and $2,-000,000, the treasurer states—certainly not in excess of $2,000,000. This was an average loan of about $400,000 per annum, the figure set high to be on the same side. on the same side. At this rate of borrowing, and not even providing for the normal increase of assessment each year, the city could still carry on and borrow for another three of four years, and not exceed the limit now available.

This year the city borrowed slightly over $600,000 the treasurer explains and this amount includes $250,000 public utilities debenture issue, which is sole systematically assued to the state of the st which is self-sustaining. Mr. Bell is most emphatic in his statement that the city is even farther from Hugh's Pen In Arthur's Hand?

Many representatives of London have pointed out within the past two or three days—and in fact since the municipal campaign opened—that the "Blue Ruin" and graveyard attitude of the London Free Press tends to confirm the rumor of a few weeks since that Lord Atholstan (Hugh Graham) of the Montreal Star weeks of the Montreal Star was negotiating for the purchase of the local publication.

Everyone will recall that the Montreal Star was responsible for the original "Whispers of Death," a few weeks ago, predicting the end of the world, financially and economically, if not literally. These were republished in the Free its borrowing limit today than it has been in many years. And he nas been "on the job" in the city's treasury department for the last 37 years. He has no fear about the future and foresees no "blue ruin" as broadcasted by the London Free Press and the Montreal Star.

Such Yarns Hurt London "Wild tales to the effect that the city is near the end of its borrowing power is good stuff to put a damper on the city," Mayor Wenige asserted today, "That is an excellent way to retard progress. We say yes we have no place for you here Mr. Outside Manufacturer, we are nearly bank-rupt.

"But we have room for you in other communities. Go there. That's the general attitude of the Free Press today, as I see it. Telephone for the undertaker; call in the pallbearers and let's all die together. It's all over but the shouting. Tear down everything progressive that has been accomplished and follow the directions of those arch-nessimists, the Montreal Star and the London Free Press."

In his report to the city council of 1923, Dr. Horace L. Brittain, one of the leading municipal and financial experts on this continent as-

Here's a Job To Do-Let's Get It Done!

"Blue ruin" talk and a policy of "wasteful waiting" will set London back for years. Kill it now before it takes rootshut the door on ward politicians.

Vote "Yes" on the City Hall and Get It Built

London needs a new city hall.

London has needed it for years.

The only way London will ever get it is to go ahead and build it-and build it now.

Every citizen who believes in London should vote "YES for the city hall bylaw next Monday.

London needs some fresh air and sunlight let into the gloomy backroom schemings of her civic politics. And the gloomiest of all the back-room schemings is the opposition which is now being offered to the new city hall.

It is petty politics, engineered by ward politicians. These ward politicians cannot lift their noses above little personal jealousies and selfish, personal aims. They are knocking the city hall because they are afraid someone else is going to get the glory for building it.

BIGGER THAN WARD POLITICS.

This city hall business is bigger than ward polities. It is all London. The men who are knocking it are unworthy of the city's confidence.

Opposition to the new city hall is now being headed by the London Free Press. It's sudden change of front is the best proof of the insincerity of its arguments.

All year the Free Press has encouraged the new city hall. It turns now in its tracks and, with an outburst of blue-ruin pessimism, which would do credit to Montreal's whispers of death proclaims that London has no money, that "her borrowing power" is nearly finished, and that the whole place is going to the dogs in general.

READ THE FACTS.

No city ever progressed on such stuff as that. It is not merely unworthy-it is untrue. The facts of London's financial position are given in statements from men who know, accompanying this article. Read what they say, and let in some sunshine.

The inconsistency and contradiction in the arguments which the Free Press now seeks to advance can wait for a moment, because these arguments are not the real reason behind the opposition anyway.

The real reason is that the Free Press and its little group of politicians dislike Wenige. These men do not want Wenige to be given credit as the man who built the city hall.

Had the Free Press been sufficiently influential this year to replace Wenige with Alderman Wilson or any other of its mayoralty candidates, the Free Press would now be out whooping the roof off for the new city hall. But no one opposed Wenige, and he stayed and now the Free Press is out with the same miserable obstructionist tactics, which have held up civic business in the council all

GET THE JOB DONE.

The Advertiser does not care who builds the city hall, so long as it is built. Mayor Wenige has plenty of faults and he knows it. But he has also virtues. He at least is a man of energy. He gets things done. He has the city's interests at heart. He is the city's mayor for 1924. The new city hall is one of the city's jobs for 1924. Get it done. Build it. You may not like the color of the fire chief's hair or the tie he wears. But if your house were burning -would you call him?

The city has chosen Wenige. The city has already said "yes" to the City Hall. Then let's get at it. Let's kill this policy of Wasteful Waiting, which is now being preached. Let's forget politics and build a bigger London.

A POLICY OF "WASTEFUL WAITING."

The policy which the Free Press now presents is a policy of Wasteful Waiting. It's own arguments prove it.

"It is my pleasant duty, on behalf our executive, to welcome you to association similar to ours. I found hat they experience the same diffiuniting their efforts and that they have problems peculiarly their own which necessitate local organization, and they are also interested, as we are, in provincial affairs and feel the for representation at the meet ings of the Ontario association. This esults in the same competition as we have experienced between two asso ciations, and as many of the smaller boards, at least, find that they cannot afford to belong to both, the con-ditions in Northern Ontario are much the same as we have here, where our efforts are in a measure handicapped by the fact that we cannot secure really representative meetings.

Constitution Amendment.

"The executive were glad to learn at the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce had given consideration to this prob-lem, and had placed on the agenda of their annual meeting an amendment to their constitution—which has since been adopted—permitting member boards and chambers to form themselves into territorial divi-sions, for consideration and action with respect to matters of local interest.' This seemed to our execu-tive to open the door for the uniting of all of the boards of trade and mbers of commerce in one assoelation, and a committee was apto meet with representatives of the executive of the Ontario association to go into the matter fully. Here's a Job To Do-Let's Get It Done!

Two of the items in the Free Press arguments against the city hall are:

1. The board of education, as "the chief offender" in spending public money, has jumped the city's debt charges to the last desperate point beyond which they cannot go-"the end of the city's borrowing power is near."

2. The city hall cannot be built this year, because-to quote the Free Press-"there are many necessary public undertakings in London which cannot be delayed. The board of education will have to erect shortly new collegiate institutes," etc.

These two arguments, of course, contradict each other. They say on one hand that the city hall cannot be built because the board of education has spent too much, and, on the other hand, that the way must be cleared for the board to spend as much more as it wishes.

However, the nonsense of the argument does not matter, because it is mere camouflage anyway. The real point is that the Free Press in advocating "Let Us Wait" is using the best evidence possible of the folly and wastefulness of waiting.

WHAT "WAITING" BRINGS.

London has exceptional educational burdens todaywhich must be met—because for many years London built no schools. London waited. The responsibilities of the current year were shuffled on to the next. And as a result London has been obliged to undertake fifteen school constructions since 1912, and faces more. It is Wasteful Waiting. London must not repeat the error with her city hall. The need is here—the job is here—the time is now!

THE PEOPLE OR MR. ADAMS?

The Free Press quotes Mr. Thomas Adams as authority against the McCormick site. Mr. Adams is a nice enough expert, and we're all ready to listen when he talks. But what about the people of London? What do they say? Four times now they've contradicted Mr. Adams and chosen the Federal Square. Do they not count? Does London not know what it wants in its own city? Or must we hark back again to the single opinion of an "expert"?

The people of London have already chosen the Federal Square; they have already said "yes" to the city hall; they have chosen Wenige.

It's time for action. It's time to forget back-room schemings. It's time to carry out the people's order. There's the job -get it done-vote "yes.

Sir Adam Beck Presents Power Conditions At Present in Pro ince—Declares Time Has Come When Ontario Must Act -Believes St. Lawrence Will Prove Future Source For Obtaining Electricity.

MORDEN BELIEVES INCOME TAX TO STAY

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the hydro-electric ower commission of Ontario, informed the manufacturers of Ontario at their afternoon session here today that an average expenditure of $10,000,000 or more per annum would be necessary during the next ten years if hydroelectrical development in this province were to keep pace with growing

Consumption even now was crowding hard on the heels of production, and in certain sections of the province, notably the central Ontario district, the commission was genuinely concerned over the power situation. In connection with the further projects contemplated, new natural sources would have to be tapped, and the St. Lawrence River was a likely field of operation, while in the northern sections of the province it would probably become necessary to direct waters southward across the northern waters southward across the northern watershed in order to supplement the streams flowing in a southerly and easterly direction. Already engin-eers were working out the feasibility of such a scheme, and of course no action was contemplated until their report was available. As for the St Lawrence, Sir Adam was hopeful that the support of the Federal govern-ment as well as the government of Ontario would be in time forth-

Finances Good.

So far as the financial condition of the hydro-electric enterprise was concerned, Sir Adam assured his hearers that there need be no anxiety on the ground of the commission's ability to take care of expenditures out of revenue accruing from the sale of power. Five units were now op-erating at Chippewa and a sixth would be ready by January next, and by the end of the coming year an additional two units would be installed, and four-fifths of the capacity of the project would be employ-ed. The matter of water would be sion's policy in regard to the last two units. Tenders were being called for their construction and installation. The December peak at Niagara was estimated at 620,000 horsepower, and by 1926 this peak would be raised to 965,000, while the total capacity then available would not be more than 1910,000 horsepower. Continued Balmy Weather Cause of Concern To Coal And Overcoat Merchants

To buy or not to buy-that is the problem with which prospective overcoat purchasers are confronted. If the present extraordinary weather continues, overcoats bearing last year's hall marks will suffice, but if a sudden cold snap sets in, new coats will be the order. This, at least, is the opinion of local haberdashers. Last summer, weather wizards

WARD THREE TAXPAYERS BLAME RICHTER SCHEME

City Officials Point to Difference Local Improvements

SMALL TAXPAYER HIT

Rightly of wrongly, the "Richte scheme of assessment" is responsible residents of ward three are paying higher taxes this year than they did in 1923, city authorities stated today. At the recent Ealing session, Dr. Shaw questioned Mayor Wenige why it was that "we poor fellows have to

Started In Ward Four.

It will be recollected, as the municipal authorities pointed out today, that the "Richter scheme" became effective two or three years ago but not in all sections of the icty at the same time. The start was made in ward four inone year, for instance. The year previous to the inaugura-tion of the Richter scheme, the city assessment authorities, upon their own initiative "boosted" the assessment throughout the city, to the tune of about $9,000,000. Then the follow-ing year, when the Richter scheme went into force, another $10,000,000 increase was noted, roughly.

These figures are to be found in the annual city of London year book and city officials state that many of the ward three residents are just now feeling the effects of it.

Affected Small Householder.

The Richter scheme was intro-duced as a fair manner in which to "equalize the assessment throughout the icty." The result has been, and the assessment department is the authority for the declaration today that while the assessment was reduced in certain instances, increases were noted in the majority of cases.

And the further statement was made at the city hall today that under the Richter scheme it was the smaller householder, in the majority of instances who felt the greatest

The claim was made and still is, of course, that in past years prior to the establishment of the Richter scheme of things the smaller prop-erty owner had not been adequately

Buchanan Says Springbank Dam Not Advisable From Development, Cost View

Expense Justification Must Be Based On Improvement,

Says General Manager. TELLS TECHNICAL SIDE

States Power Developed Wou However Serve as Reserve Supply.

Before the members of the local branch of the Engineering Institute On only a very few days would it mission, read a paper dealing with the technical side of the proposed Springbank dam, pointing out the difficulties to be met with in con-struction, and its lack of utility as a power-separating measure to appropower-generating measure to any ss on sewage, apart from the dam, and went into the matter of disposal, etc., in a technical manner. Mr. Buchanan's paper is as follows: The water level of the Thames River immediately below the city of London has been controlled at low water by the dam at Springbank Park. The normal water level maintained above the dam was elevation 751.12, and the crest of the dam was at elevation 748.12, with three feet of flashboards above that level. From a general study of the contours it would appear Yeasible to normal level to elevation 752.0 without serious property damage. Dur-ing flood periods a high water level of elevation 758.91 has been reached.

At the time this maximum level obtained the drop in water surface at the dam was only two feet, so that it would appear that there was a considerable backwater effect caus ed by some obstruction The discharge for these conditions would be approximately 30. 000 cubic feet per second, and since a flow of over 20,000 cubic feet per second is recorded by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission Hydrographic Department, the proposed dam should have a discharging capacity of not less than 35,000 cubic the former high water level.

The low water surface at the site of the proposed dam and powerhouse is approximately 4.4 feet below the low water level at the present dam. For normal flow the difference in level would be about three feet, so that the net effective head on the proposed power development will be increased by having the tail water level lowered by this amount.

Owing to the soft and unstable nature of the river bottom, and the danger of failure of the dam by undermining, the construction used must be of a character that will offectively resist such action. A hollow concrete blanket, is undoubtedly the best type, since a heavy gravity sec-tion would involve dangerous bearmaterial a tendency to flow under the superimposed pressure.

Several factors must be taken into consideration, as related to the amount of power that can be econmically developed at the Springback site. The power so developed might serve a double purpose; first, to provide a reserve source of power fire-pump operation, and second, aid in reducing the peak power pur-chased by the city from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The maximum amount of power that can be developed for four hours per day continuously throughout the year, Saturdays and Sundays ex-cepted, is about 400 K.W., with a maximum variation of river level amounting to four feet. This figure was arrived at by calculating day by day the level of the river above the dam for various amounts of power for four hours daily, Saturday and Sunday excepted, and using the storage made available by the dam, in conjunction with the flow of the river, for the corresponding period, day for practically every day in the year, Saturdays and Sundays excepted, with a variation of four feet

An examination of the load curves for the City of London for each month in the year reveals the fact that for seven months about 800 k.w. could be cut off the peak load by supplying an equivalent amount of ocally generated power for from two

A study of the hydrograph of the Thames Piver at this point shows that for seven months. October to April inclusive, are periods of reas able high discharge. During the time that daily discharge records available, some five years, on only five days has the flow of the river these months, except during the fall and winter of 1916-17, and low flows during this period were probably to some extent due to the operation of some extent due to the operation of the old dam at Springbank Park. For the remaining months the discharge falls considerable below this mini-mum amount. The discharge neces-sary to develop 800 k.w., under an average head of fourteen feet, is approximately 785 cubic feet per sec-ond. Assuming that it would be necessary to maintain a load of 800 k.w. for six hours, it would then be .w. for six hours, it would then be necessary to supply for six hours a flow of 585 cubic feet per second over and above the 200 second foot natural flow of the river. This would be supplied from the storage reservoir, and would require a natural flow in the river of 195 second feet, which is less than the 200 second foot natural flow obtainable. The volume of 200 second feet for the eighteen hours of total shut-down is approximately 13,000,000 cubic feet. The volume of storage available with four feet of variation in reservoir level is approximately 24,000,000 cubic feet.

It is apparent, therefore, that so far as the flow and reservior capacity available are concerned, it may reasonably be considered feasible to develop 800 k.w. for six hours per day for seven months in the year. It is also apparent that it is sible to generate 400 k.w. for hours per day, Saturdays and Sun-days excepted, throughout the entire create a reserve source of power for fire-pump operation, and since 400 k.w. is not an excessive amount to provide, allowing for the future growth of the city, it seems reasonable to assume that any installation made should be for at least 400 k.w. The matter of installing greater capacity than this would de ditional equipment above this capac-ity is greater or less than the saving which would result from reducing the peak load demand from the lines of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for seven months in the year.

Another important factor to consider is the possibility of using the generators as synchronous condensers "Not by a damsite," during shut-down, light load, or low supporters stated today.

water periods, thereby raising the water periods, thereby raising the power factor on the system and as-sisting the regulation. This feature, while not readily estimated in cash value, is doubtless worthy of consideration.

Sideration.

The "flashy" condition of the Thames River makes it imperative to supply ample discharge capacity for flood conditions, while at the same time the extremely low flows dur-ing other seasons of the year require dam that shall have a minimum of leakage. The hazard from ice jams also requires an absolute minimum of obstruction to the passage of ice. To meet these conditions a clear rollway with adjustable flashbeards constitutes the greater por-tion of the section, while two large sluiceways with steel gates have been provided which will handle the merous smaller freshlets without necessitating the adjustment of the flashboards on the rollway, thereby providing an expeditious means of control for the regulation of the reservoir levels. This arrangement is shown on the accompanying drawbe followed during construction must be so arranged that the dam shall be completed during a single summer, in order that all temporary con-struction may be removed and the reat extent.

City Engineer Near gave a brief could be developed for four hours per tion to withstand the strain resulting from the spring break-up Certain patent rights in connection with the construction of hollow dams are claimed by the Ambursen Hydraupossible that some arrangement may require to be made with this company, either for the entire construction of the dam, or for the providing The estimated capital costs in connection with the above scheme are as follows:

Dam$139,019 Powerhouse building and equipment 151,972

The following are the corresponding stimated annual costs: Annual cost of 800 k.w., including cost of dam and primarily chargeable to park improvement and pumping, $30,712; annual cost of 800 k.w. exclusive of ost of dam, $18.698. The above estimated costs do not clude any allowance for transformation. Power could, on this basis, be delivered to Ridout street station for about $30 per horsepower, per year, while the present price for

Considered as a straight development proposition, it is evident that the scheme has nothing to recommend it from a cost standpoint. This is the natural result of a combina-tion of unfavorable natural conditions. The head is low, flood control is expensive, dependable power capacity is disproportionately small, and the foundation conditions are dis-tinctly difficult. Any justification for ncurring the expense involved in de velopment must, therefore, be based on such as the proposed improve-ments to Springbank Park, and the necessity for stand-by pumping

Spirit To the Male Fails; Mother League Succeeds

Madame Bieler Presents the League of Nations, Its Birth and Function, in Attractive Fashion, Before Women's Canadian Club.

"Until Nov. 11, 1918, the spirit of program was drawn up! And the the male had almost exclusively most wonderful thing about it ruled the world," declared Madame that it was framed by men. Bieler of Montreal, as she opened her address on the League of Nations before the Women's Cana-Nations before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon in the Central Collegiate Institute. And her method of dealing with his big and fascinating subject hinged on that first statement, uttered rather humorously (for this lit-tle French lady has a keen sense of humor), and yet enlarged upon with the greatest seriousness. The league, working so efficiently for the peace of the world today, was the embodi-ment of the mother spirit. The great mistakes. Might there not be a new element introduced? Why not rebuild the world on the inspiration of the best that womanhood embodied, literature art and commerce nad vividly: progressed under that influence. In "All I one respect only, had things gone from bad to worse, and that was in the settlement of international disputes. "Suddenly the great war broke like a crash of thunder that shook the world to its very foundations. And nation fell upon nation. And hell was let loose,

"When at last the storm was over,

Surely such a spirit could succeed in making the world 'ne peaceful spot God meant it to be, peaceful spot God meant it to be.

"And the great mother league has been functioning ever since. A mother, by preventing sharp and warlike toys from going into the nursery, goes a long we" toward pic-venting bloodshed. So, too, has the mother league functioned."

The speaker went on to give an interesting account of just what the league had accomplished in settling disputes between nations, how the league operated, and the great bodies through which its business was carried on. Her description of a day in war with all its horror had brought the league chamber at Geneva was the world up with a jerk. Perhaps, most vivid. The Young Bride-to-Be Who Hasn't Had Her Fling-Shall She Give Up Her Sweetheart to Please Her Mother? The Engaged Girl Who Borrows Trouble.

Dear Miss Dix-I am eighteen years old, and I am thinking about get ting married. The young man to whom I am engaged is a splendid ellow and I am very fond of him, but every Low and then I just long to go about and play around with the other boys and girls that I used to, and to go to the shows and dances and have good times with the bunch I don't do it, because it would make my fiance so angry that I would lose him, and I don't want to do that. But what keeps me from being perfectly satisfied with him? What keeps me wanting to go with the old gay crowd instead of just wanting to be with one? What makes me so changeable? ANXIOUS TO KNOW.

Answer:

Youth, my child. It is because you have not yet had your fill of the playtime of life. Your feet still ache to dance. You still crave amusements, lights, crowds, laughter, the joy of liv-

The gang spirit belongs to youth No young person wants to do anything by himself or to go alone. The young must go in crowds, they must do what the crowd does. It is only

Believe me, my dear, you are too young to marry because marriage means that a man and woman give up all the balance of the world for each other, and make a little world for themselves. To be happy they must be sufficient to themselves, and able to give each other what they need of companionship.

You cannot do this when you are eighteen. You still want the gang. You still want to flirt with the boys, and have all the innocent skylarking that belongs to your girlhood. You want to be free and untrammeled as

If you marry while you are still just a girl in heart and spirit, you will find yourself wanting to do all the things that your friends do, craving all the pleasures of girlhood, and when you cannot have them, you will be very bored, and miserable.

That is why there is such an enormous percentage of divorces among couples who marry young. The boy husband and the girl wife cannot endure the restrictions of matrimony. They want all the pleasures, and privileges, and freedom of boyhood and girlhood, and when they take

Don't marry until you have had your fling. Don't marry until you are fed up on flirtations, and all that you ask is the love of one good man. Don't marry until you are tired of dancing and gadding about, and are ready to settle down.

Girlhood doesn't last long, at best. Don't be in a hurry to give up yours. It is the happiest time of a woman's life.

DOROTHY DIX. Dear Miss Dix—A very dear friend of mine is engaged to a fine ung man whom she loves very dearly. The young man is of good standing, and well-to-do, and would certainly make her an excellent husband. But not long ago a question arose with regard to the couple's future over which the mother and her intended son-in-law disagreed, and the result was a very serious quarrel between them. Since then there has been no peace in the home for the girl. Her mother insists upon her breaking the engagement, saying that the young man will never treat her right, since he insulted her mother, and that she must have nothing further to do with

The girl loves her mother, and hates to marry a man her mother does not like, yet she loves her sweetheart too much to give him up.

The question is, shall the girl give the man up, and make him and erself miserable for the rest of their lives to satisfy her mother's grudge, or shall she stick by him for better or worse as she promised, and trust that the two she loves will make up in the end?

Who is to marry the man, the girl or the mother? If it is the girl, she surely has the right of choice, and it is her taste and heart that are to be suited not her mother's.

If a mother opposes her daughter's marriage to a man for an good reason: if the mother can prove to the girl that the man is immoral, or a drunkard, or that he is brutal-tempered, or that he cannot make a living, then the daughter should listen to the maternal counsel which is backed up by her own common sense. But a girl is foolish who lets her mother keep her from marrying the man she loves for any frivolous reason.

I know a mother who once broke off a most desirable match for her laughter because she did not like the man's nose. And she lived to see the girl living in abject poverty with a ne'er-do-well husband, while the man with the nose rose to the height of his profession.

As for the man quarreling with the girl's mother when she lived to map out their future for them, that speaks well for him instead of ill. The bossy mother-in-law breaks up more homes than any other one thing, so the divorce courts say, and perhaps it is just as well to settle who is to be the head of the house before marriage as after it.

In this particular case I should say that the girl would be wise to go along and marry her sweetheart. Mother will come around, and there will probably be no more love lost than there is between the average mother-DOROTHY DIX. in-law and son-in-law.

Dear Miss Dix-I am a girl twenty years of age, and am engaged to a man thirty-three. He seems devoted to me, and tells me that he loves me better than anyone on earth, but before I met him he had been going with another girl for seven years. Do you think this man really loves me? Could a man give up a seven years' friend for a girl he has only known two years? Do you think that after we were married he would think of her, and wish that he had married her, and be sorry that he married me? I am so miserable I do not know what to do. LEILA.

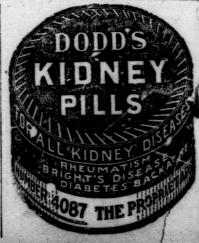

As a trouble borrower, Leila, you are a world's wonder. If you are going to make yourself miserable speculating over something that might happen, if something else happened that hasn't happened, you are in for a nice dark blue existence. So cheer up and take the goods the gods provide

The best proof that the man didn't want the seven years' lady is that he didn't marky her. So forget that. And as for a man being able to fall in love in two years, why, two minutes is ample time for it. So that's that. Furthermore, it doesn't make a particle of difference whom a man loved in the past. All that counts is that he loves you now. So can your tears and buy your wedding dress.

come to buy it for the little queen of the flower fairies. The memory passed, laying a cold hand on his heart. He shook it off, fastened his Edenic dews of God's blessing still glance on a row of gloves dangling from steel hooks.

"She'd like them," he thought pleased with the inspiration. Denny always remembered his aunt going to church on Sundays wearing a pair of black silk gloves, her forefingers sticking through holes.

He went into the store and bought a pair of gray mocha, taking the largest size the girl showed, smiling when he thought of Aunt Josie's surfor a week in this new possession.

And Denny wanted happiness about him. By instinct he was a lover of life, seeing it as a beauty, a growth, a joy. The shabby streets and stunted hours of his childhood were blunderings were blunderings, accidental and unnecessary. Happiness is the natural state, the only state where the human may exist. Outside of it natives a coal oil stove. The gray house was a little murk-er; two more boards were kicked out of the alleyway gate, and the shade in the room that had been violet's "boudoir" flapped in strips against the half-open window: against the half-open window.

"Humph," Denny thought, dismissing recollection with a swift shrug. He went up the back steps, taking deep breath to insure against

"I have been appointed by the L. A. A. executive committee as chairman of the hockey committee and instructed to use last year's committee and add to it as we see fit. In view of the critcism of the hockey committee, I thought it better to a meeting of everyone interested in hockey to air their views. Chairman Jack Greer.
"We are in the fortunate position of having an arena this coming winseason and build for the years to come, and in the course of a few years get into senior company, where we belong. I wish to get the views of others on the hockey situation, which will, no doubt, be of service to When fellows of their own free will try and put over sport for the good of the community destructive criticism is often disheartening. Regarding the program of this year we thought along the junior lines, as these boys will be in the next year two intermediates and then step to the senior ranks. We must start from the schools and develop. This year we thought of a midget league, something to take care of the boys who graduate from the Public School League and are yet not ready for the junior series. They would be in the same class of the W. O. S. S. A. and with two Collegiate teams, a Technical School team and two others we would have something to draw jun-ior material from for the future. "There must be a lot of players who are lost to us and with more coperation we will be able to handle these lads."

The inclusion of this league with all the other lesser leagues in the city brought forth a discussion of the Westminster rink. The meetings seemed to think that its acquirement by the playgrounds committee was the logical move. Sid. Rankin and others recalled the difficulties experienced in running a public school league two years ago, when the soft weather made the open-air rinks worse than useless.

Overlapping Likely.

It also brought forth the fact that there is a distinct danger of too much overlapping in players with so many leagues operating. It was further emphasized when among many fair criticisms of hockey management in London, W. H. Rhodes of the Free Press suggested that to obtain the best results in hockey in London, four intermediate and junior teams should be entered in the O. H. A. and be lost to hockey unless employed in the Northern League, while it has many by means of city competition and the team and that they would be lost to hockey unless employed in the Northern League, while it has many by means of city competition as many points in its favor, would give the fans a superfluity of hockey, tending toward mediocrity.

Concentration on two good teams, and development in every possible way by means of city competition assemed to strike the meeting as the more legical course of the two. Here was a case of development most probably overreaching hockey interest Last year, at the close of the Publication of the probabily overreaching hockey interest Last year, at the close of the Publication of the probabily nearer the standard of hockey the loop would be sure to produce.

Down the Line

Whether or not the O. H. A. bars professional coaches Saturday, their timate banishment from the game is practically certain. From university sport down, the professional coach idea is getting panned on all sides.

Hockey, amongst all the games played, has probably the least need of professional coaching. Speed, stick-handling ability, and condition are the three prime requisites of a hockey player with average intelligence and physique coming next. Coaching alone won't produce any of these Pracwill produce most of them.

Hockey essentially is one of the simplest of games. There are three or four sats of cardinal principles, all of which have good points, and which have not been added to appreciably during the last fifteen years of hockey. What changes hockey has seen are mostly due to speed and to changes in the numbers of men playing on each team. Professional coaching does correct faults in checking and in attack, and produces a system of team-play, but amateur coaching has been known to get the same, and some times better, results. Speed is the essential feature of hockey. Therefore there is not the wide ariety of plays and systems capable of development in hockey that there s in other games where speed is not so all-important.

The main arguments for pro-coaching are that a system of play is eatter, no matter how poor a system it may be, than no system at all; that the season is short and therefore more concentration on workouts is necessary than the average amateur coach can possibly give away from business, and that the prestige in experience and personality a coach may carry will often give a team system and morale lacking in teams which play their hockey in haphazard fashion.

On the other hand, the presence of pro coaches does introduce a merenary element into the game and a great deal of unfairness as between Victors' Easy Touch in First Quarter Proves Deciding Factor.

Canadian Press Despatch. Hamilton, Nov. 28.-Hamilton Colegiate defeated the London Collegiate rugby team at the H. A. A. A. grounds this afternoon, 11 to 5, in an interesting exhibition game. It made the second victory against the visit-ors, the local lads having trimmed them in London a week ago by a score of 14 to 7. Collegiate scored an easy try in the first que which was a deciding factor. visitors were in the fight all the time and proved a hard aggregation to master.

The London students were guests of the local boys tonight when a banquet was held in the assembly hall of the institution.

Two O.H.A. teams, a ladies' team, a juvenile league composed of boys who have passed out of the public schools, every help possible to the Public School League, and some 100 per cent enthusiasm was assured London, following an enthusiastic general meeting of hockey fans of the city at the Chamber of Comcerce last night.

The meeting produced just what the hockey committee, at whose instigation it was called, hoped-plenty of constructive criticism with no velvet padding and a general airing of views. The net result was a clear-cut outline of the hockey program this year, and the necessary factors needed to carry it to the success it should be.

The enthusiasm engendered by the fact that the arena dream Las been realized could not have been any more real had the meeting been staged by lantern light in the partially constructed structure itself.

Round Up Juniors.

The impatience of the meeting to get something going at once was clearly shown by the fact that Sid Rankin was appointed junior coach, pro tem., so that he might get the junior players rounded up at once and at work, and also by the fact that a committee volunteered to work with Clay Gibson in transmitting some of the new hockey enthusiasm to som of the veterans who have dropped entirely out of the game.

Names of former stars, such as Harry Peel, Kenny Casselman, Jack Brown, Bert Glover and many others were mentioned in connection with the formation of an advisory board and even in active coaching duties. Discuss Paid Coach.

Appointment of a paid coach was discussed at length, but the likelihood of the O.H.A. passing a ruling, which will in future bar all but honorary coaches in good amateur standing prevented any steps being taken.
"The hockey committee which has been appointed by the L. A. A. HAVE EDGE IN SPEED

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Nov. 28.—Queens, eastern champions, are odds on favorites against Regina, western champions, n Saturday's Dominion finals Queens has gone through an entire season without a defeat and beaten the best in the east. They have everything which goes to make up a championship team—a strong steady, experienced, speedy line, fast, hard tackling outside and flying wings and two of the best halves Canada has had in many a day. There is only one half back Canada has produced in some years who would have any chance of ousting Batstone or | Leadley from their positions, and that is Lionel Conacher. Queens has everything except high-class backfield substitutes. The regular team is strong everywhere. What has Regina to offer against the best in the east?

Have Weight Advantage.

The team does not seem to be quite l balanced physically as At snap, inside and middle rings Regina will outweigh Queens ut have these big, strong 200 but have these big, strong 200-bounders the speed, tackling ability and experience? They may be able to lead dangerous line bucks, but in the open field work the Queens middle line players should have the edge

Regina outsides are just as husky as Queens' speedy squad of "wolves."
If Leight, Brown, Milne, Wood and Cotton are as good as Campbell, Phomas, Walker and Co., they may theck Queens' wonderful backfield. Behind the line, Leadley, Mundell and Batstone have a little something on Regina's first string halves in poundage, but it is hard to conceive that the west has developed anything which can compare to them in run-ning, dodging, line plunging, catching, punting and combination, to say nothing of craft.

Backs Are Strong.

Regina may have no halves who can measure up individually with either Leadley or Batstone, but they have five half-backs ready to go the route Brown Rowland and McEachre the regulars, and Arnott, Peebles and gers substitutes. They all may be et and good punters and catchers, it takes years of experience to by Junior Collegiate, who carried off cohesion Leadley and Batstone of 18 to 0 have shown this last two seasons. Sudbury, Nov. 28 .- Feeling some what dreary from being confined to the car for so long, the Regina rugbyists, on their way to Toronto to engage the Queen's aggregation for the Canadian championship, got a welcome relief when they stopped here for three hours today. They took full advantage to move around and limber up their stiff limbs.

The players enjoyed a brief workout at Chapleau at noon, when they booted the ball around and had the residents of that town out on the street wondering what strange antics the boys were trying to pull off in the snow when they tackled each other on the run.

BOND TRADE SLOWER AT N. Y. YESTERDAY

Government Bonds Cleaned Up At Improved Values.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Nov. 28.—Public offering of several sizeable issues of new bonds and the absence of numerous traders, away for the Thanksgiving week-end. combined to slow down the volume of transactions in today's bond market. Prices, however, generally held up well, and some improvement was recorded by a considerable number of bonds.

French bonds were offered beyond the immediate buying power of the market, with the result that several issues slipped downward moderately. Most of the United States government issues met with support at slightly higher levels.

Railroad mortgages continued active, and with some of the secondary issues displaying moderate strength, the chief influence being found in the better earnings statements just issued for the month of October. Some of the oil company bonds were inclined downward, while some of the domestic industrial liens moved up fractionally. Associated Press Despatch

FAVORS BACON TRADE

States Eggs and Apples Enjoy Good Repute-Butter, Cheese Backward.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Nov. 28 .- Dr. J. H. Grisale, deputy minister of agriculture, returned from his recent visit to Great Britain in an optimistic mood as to the future of the Canadian trade in store cattle. "The stocker trade of ours has met with many setbacks, he said, "and has many obstacles put in its way, but it looks to me as i we were now over the hill, and I am confident that very much more satis-factory progress and much more certain and remunerative returns may be expected from now forward." Dr. Grisdale looked into Canada's trade generally with Great Britain in agricultural produce. Canadian apples, he says, enjoy a very good repute in the old country, as also do Canadian eggs.

Trade over there in Canadian bacon is improving. The deputy minister however, was not too optimistic about the British market for Canadian butter and cheese.

In company with Duncan Marshail. commissioner of agriculture, Dr. Grisdale went to Great Britain with a special view to improving conditions under which store cattle are admitted, and an announcement in this son. nection will be issued shortly by the

At the Norwich fat stock show neld recently, says the deputy minister, two classes for Canadian cattle were put on by friendly dealers. The entry in those classes was fair, there being nine Canadian cattle compet ing. A cable just received by Dr. Grisdale reads:

"At Norwich fat cattle show Canadian exhibit was greatly admired. It has been a most excellent advertisement for Canada. The nine cattle exhibited sold for an average of £58, 14s. Two of the cattle made £69 and £70, respectively. Many very gratifying comments are appearing in the press."

The deputy minister holds out the hope that improvements may be brought about very soon in the vexed question of ocean space and its cost.

Dr. Grisdale does not look for any great development in the near future in the overseas business in Canadian chilled beef. The Australian govern-ment has been keeping in touch with the chilled or frozen beef shipped from the Commonwealth, and they have found that on the average their cattle have netted only one and two cents a pound in Australia which, says Dr. Grisdale, is an impossible figure.

The trade in fat cattle from Canada The trade in fat cattle from Canada shipped alive, has been fair, he states. Many cattle which were shipped as stores were rejected by the British authorities at the landing port as too fat, which resulted in lowering the price of fat cattle at Glasgow and Liverpool. It is hoped however that cattle thus become more profitable. Trade Improving.

The trade in Canadian bacon is improving, he says, and the product is meeting with considerably less criticism than was the case a year ago. The price has advanced a little and the quality is also higher, due in some measure, Dr. Grisdale believes, to Canada's new hog-grading regulations. Canada's bacon won out very easily at the recent London dairy show in competition with exhibits from the other dominions. The great tropble is the limited quantity of bacon exported, says the deputy. There is no reason, he thinks, why the amount now going over should not be increased three or four times. With improved quality and a greatly in-The trade in Canadian bacon is im-be increased three or four times. With improved quality and a greatly increased output, he feels assured that Canadian bacon would take its rightful place on the British market, and favorably compete with the bacon from Denmark.

Canadian dairy products, he comments, seem not to have made much progress on the British market during the past year, although there is possibly some improvement on the whole. Canadian cheese, he says, has been standing up better this year than for some time, and as a rule had commanded a higher price than cheese from New Zealand. At the London Optimistic Over Development dairy show, furthermore, Canadian cheese carried off both first and second prizes. The trade in Canadian butter, Dr. Grisdale says, is very small and "in rather ill-repute." The great difficulty is the lack of uniformity in quality and packing. This, he adds, is one of the matters which will be considered at the desirable. will be considered at the dairy conference to be held in Ottawa this week.

Canadian eggs are looked upon a an excellent article in Great Britain, he says, but the quantity going forward is too small ondon in great quantities when Dr Grisdale was over there, and he was pleased to note that they were in high esteem. He thinks, however, that packing methods need improve

EXPLAINS SELLING NORTHERN LIFE STOCK

Not Really a Sale-Completion of Deal Following

Commenting on a despatch appearing in the Toronto Mail and Empire this morning as to the sale of $5,000 worth of Northern Life stock by the Canada Trust Company, Major Hume Cronyn, general manager of the Canada Trust Company, said: "Our action in this matter was not really a sale of the stock. Under the terms of the injunction granted by Justice Middleton in the supreme court in Toronto, we are allowed to return any Northern Life shares which we, as trustees of the Dominion Savings Company, hold, when, in the event of their being hypothecated to cover a loan, the money is paid to us.

when, in the event of their being hypothecated to cover a loan, the money is paid to us.

"In this case, the stock owned by Mr. Mills, which, by the way, was not fully paid up stock and on which he had only paid $5,000, was hypothecated by him to the Dominion Savings Company to cover a $14,000 loan. He came to us with the money necessary to pay off the loan and, naturally, we got rid of the stock. You must understand that there is very keen competition just now as to the control of the Northern Life, and as trustees, acting for the shareholders of the Dominion Sacings Company, we are trying to get the best price we can for such stock as we still hold—I believe some 550 shares."

The despatch from Toronto is as followed.

The despatch from Toronto is as follows:

"The battle for control of the majority stock of the Northern Life Assurance Company, in which the Purdom family and the associates of R. C. MacKnight, former general manager of the company, have been involved, has put a premium price on small holdings and high bids are being made. The entrance of S. C. Tweed, of the Waterloo Mutual, into the contest, and the election of Hon. Manning Doherty, one of the Tweed group, to the presidency, evidently has not ended the strenuous bidding for blocks of stock. It was learned today that the Huron and Erie, as liquidator of the Dominion Savings Company, has just sold $5,000 worth of stock to brokers who are said to be acting for Mr. Tweed, for $14,000, or nearly 300 per cent of par. The stock has been selling at 42 to 75. The $5,000 block was hypothecated by its owner, Nathaniel Mills, former manager of the defunct Dominion Savings, to his own company as security for a $14,000 loan."

Everything the Farmer Trades In

Local Market

The Thursday market was a surprisingly large one for a mid-week affair in fact offerings were so large and so general that conditions approaching glut existed in several lines. All o the choicest parking places were filled with cars and wagons, and for a Thursday market, with the selling that could be expected at this time of the week, the market was really top-heavy, with produce injured by a dearth of buyers. As a result of the quantities of stuff offered, prices in most commodities shaded down a trifle, but on the whole the few sales which went through realized practically the same prices as on Saturday last.

Hay was a very large offering, over twenty loads reaching town, and sales were extremely slow at unchanged prices.

For the first time in months, wheat was a large offering and found ready sale, owing to the few them. the choicest parking places were filled was a large offering and found ready sale, owing to the fact that so little of it has reached London earlier in the

"B, B, B, did me a world of good, and I cannot praise this remedy enough."

Unknown Dead Chosen Leader

London, Eng., Nov. 28.—There was a picturesque scene at Westminster Abbey today on the occasion of the commemoration service of the Most Noble Order unknown warrior as their nead.
The Duke of York was present.
The service was conducted by the dean of Westminster, after which the pro-grand master, fol-lowed by the crusaders, placed wreaths on the grave of the unknown soldier as a tribute of respect to Britain's dead. The Order of Crusaders, which was recently created, is a body of a secret character. Its leaders include Lieut.-General Sir E. Bethune, Col. Faber and Sir C. Wakefield. The cross is a prominent feature of the regalia.

PELEE ISLAND RESIDENT DIED ON HUNTING TRIP

Special to The Advertiser.

Kingsville, Nov. 28.—James H. White of Pelee Island died suddenly while hunting in Northern Ontario. He was 72 years of age, and had been troubled with his heart for some time. Arising as usual, Mr. White had walked less than 200 feet from his camp when he dropped. He was dead when friends reached his side. He was one of the prominent men of the island, and had been a member of the council for several years.

The Masonic lodge of Kingsville, of which he was a member, chartered the steamer Pelee, and in company with nembers of the craft from Leamington, conducted the funeral services at the grave. The Rev. G. M. Clay-tion of Pelee Island conducted the services at the home. Knights Temp-lar from Leamington acted as pall-bearers, while 110 Master Masons paid their last sad farewell to a man oved and respected by all with whom he had come in touch. Staff-Capt. and Mrs. Kendall will hold an old-time revival at the local Army Citadel for nine days, November 24 to December 2.

The price of power to all municipalities is fixed by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario at the cost at Niagara Falls, plus the cost of delivery. Delivery costs are greater for long distances. Some municipalities closer to the falls receive power at their city limits at half the cost London pays. But efficient distribution and management in London have offset the disadvantages of distance and given the London consumer rates as cheap as the cheapest, and the greatest surplus earned by any municipality, large or small, in the whole list of 365 that now Goderich-Sarnia Trip Made by Captain McDonald in a Fishing Smack.

Special to The Advertiser. Sarnia, Nov. 28.—An unusually intrepid feat has been accomplished by Captain Danny McDonald, a Port Huron skipper, who has arrived here with the fishing smack Dolphin, which he brought from Goderich, Ont., single-handed during hoisterage single-handed during bolsterous weather on Lake Huron. He was unable to find anyone willing to make the trip with him on such a light vessel at this season of the year.

Twice the venturesome captain had to nut into harbor to hale water from to put into harbor to bale water from the boat, once at Bayfield, Ont., and once at Lexington, Mich. He made the trip in sixteen hours, BELTZ & CO. Opens On Friday-Exhibits in Some Classes Larger PRACTICAL FURRIERS, ywt Than Before.

MILK TESTS FIRST

Special to The Advertiser Guelph, Nov. 28.—The fortieth annual Ontario Provincial Winter Fair, commonly known as the Farmers' Fair, will be opened on Friday. As usual the first exhibits to arrive were the dairy cattle, to participate in the dairy test which commences on Friday morning and which will continue until Sunday night. There are not as many entries in the test this year as usual, but the stables are well filled.

The classes for junior bulls are well filled. Guelph, Nov. 28 .- The fortieth an-well filled.

There also arrived today large numbers of sheep and swine, and in both of these the entries this year will exceed the space formerwill exceed the space former-ly allotted them. Some of the sheep will have to be taken to another part of the building, while the swine will be very much crowded. The seed show this year will be right up to standard and is already being placed in position right up to standard and is already being placed in position.

Tomorrow morning poultry will begin to come in, and all is ready to handle it. The show has been affected to some extent this year by Royal Show and entries are not quite so numerous, but every bird in a coop by itself will give poultry in a coop by itself will give poultry fanciers a better opportunity. The exhibition of dressed poultry will be one of the finest ever seen here.

The swine breeding classes are stronger than usual, while the bacon classes will overtax the capacity of the show room.

An interesting part of the swine display is the study of those breeds which meet the high class market. These will be placed on Monday, slaughtered on Tuesday and shown in the carcass room on Wednesday. The sale will take place on Thursday.

Grand Champion. A feature of the sheep show will be the grand champion Shropshire ewe and ram from the Royal Show. They were bred on the Prince of Wales' farm in Alberta and brought to Ontario by Mr. Gurney, who has for many years been an expert sheep judge at Guelph.

show, and fat cattle have always held a strong position. This year is no exception and every bit cf available space will be occupied. The exhibits of Shorthorn. Aberdeen-Angus and Herefords are up to the usual strength, there being, in addition to Ontario breeders, a number of exhibits of shorthorn. Ontario breeders, a number of exhibitors from the West.
