I have been favored by Mrs. Chas. J. Bird of Hamilton, with the perusal of a bundle of papers and documents which to me would be very interesting had I time to give them that attention which their contents merit. Mrs. Bird is a Hamilton-born lady of much intelligence and hospi-I have an excellent recollecthat city; also, her uncle, Mr. Timowho was in early days an assessor of thy Brick, whose election as town the wards, of which there were four. councillor in 1844 I well remember, and the lively contest his candidacy caused, his opponent being Mr. Daniel Kelly, an extensive carriage manus facturer of that time. Mrs. Bird, before her marriage, was well known as Susan Brick, and was one of the belles of Hamilton, beautiful, bright and witty. The Hamilton Bricks formed a large family. They come of good Kerry stock and were allied with the Ponsonbys. Her father's Mr. Chas. J. Bird, her husband, is a son of the late Dr. Bird of Lindsay, and I am happy to say they get along well together. They have an only child, Charles, a fine young man, who devotes his spare hours to the cause of union labor and is honored in labor circles. Mrs. Bird has splendid memory and there are few events in the life of the city of Hamthat she cannot recall, and O'd-Timer is happy to count her and ner good husband among his Hamilton friends.

The first name written down in this assessment roll is that of Mr. "G. Bull," which, if given in full, would be George Perkins Bull. Mr. Bull was a printer and publisher, and edited the Tory newspaper organ, "The Gazette." This Mr. Bull was an Irishman and an Orangeman and was the father of a large and interesting family. Before going to Hamilton he was the owner of a printing office in Toronto, located on King street east. But that was away back in the thirties. I remember the motto of the Gazette. It was "Fear God, honor the King and meddle not with those who are given to change. It is more than a generation since the Gazette ceased to exist.

The next name is that of Mrs. Thomas Wilson, afterwards Mrs. Thomas Beatty, of whom I have recently made some mention. Her location was the southeast corner of John and Main streets, where she kept a hotel. Mrs. Wilson was an Trish Catholic

In 1888 Mr. Scanlan retired from the post of chief executive, being tion succeeded by Professor J. P. Lauth, | cost. who was then, even as he is now, in the prime of vigorous manhood. Under his guidance the order prospered. The society had now assumed a cosmopolitan caste, including in its membership Irish, German and French Polish, Bohemian and Catholics. Italian Catholics had become members in the meantime and ultimate success was already an assured fact. Mr. Patrick J. Cahill, at the present time Clerk of the Probate Court of Cook County, took up the reins laid down by Prof. Lauth in 1890, and under his regime prosperity also reigned. The Catholic Order of Foresters stands to-day the foremost Catholic fraternal insurance society on the American continent. Its affairs are in the hands of competent and successful business men whose reputation for honor, honesty and integrity is of the highest possible standard Everything is handled with an eye to economy. The surplus funds of the order, amounting to $936,360.34, are invested in strictly high class securities. We have paid to date in death claims alone the sum of $7,615,442. 66, not including upwards of $2,000. 000 disbursed for sick benefit and funeral expenses. The present membership is over 118,000. Conventions are held biennially. Every leading fraternal insurance society in the country with singularly few exceptions, has increased its rates to an adequate figure during the past four or five years, and there can scarcely be any doubt that the Catholic Order of Foresters will have the moral courage to do likewise at its next international convention to be held in the city of St. Paul, on the first Monday in August, 1907 sons who did not care to leave home, were at their doors or windows, and one topic of discourse prevailed on every side. Some reported that the riots were effectually put down, others that they had broken out again; some said that Lord George Gordon had been sent under a strong guard to the Tower; others that an attempt had been made upon the King's life, that the soldiers had been again called out, and that the noise of the musketry in a distant part of the town had been plainly heard within an hour. As it grew darker, these stories became more direful and mysterious, and often, when some frightened passenger ran past with tidings that the rioters were not far off, and were coming up, the doors were shut and barred, lower windows made secare, and as much consternation engendered as if the city were invaded by a foreign army. Gashford walked stealthily about, listening to all he heard, and diffusing or confirming, whenever he had an opportunity, such false intelligence as suited his own purpose; and, busily occupied in this way, turned into Holborn for the twentieth time, when a great many women and children came flying along the street - often panting and looking back-and the confused murmur of numerous voices struck upon his ear. GOOD EXCUSES

What is much needed for persons "in trouble," and especially for those in flagrante delicta, is a good excuse or an explanation on the spur of the moment for their each having, for example, three gold watches about them. An instance of this kind occurred only the other morning in London. A gentleman was stopped by a policeman at two a.m., and request ed to explain the fact of his carrying four umbrellas. It had been a fine day, so that even one umbrella seemed unnecessary. The best account he could give of himself was that his mistress had been out at a party and he was carrying her property home. The inefficiency of an excuse of this sort is really lamentable. In no society do ladies take four umbrellas to an evening party. It would have been better for the poor wretch to have announced himself as a "Japanese nobleman of the first class, who, in deference to Western customs, was wearing four umbrellas instead of four swords." This would, at least, have staggered the policeman as being something out of his beat. another case, three individuals are found, armed to the teeth, under the pantry table of a gentleman's house, who have no better explanation to give of their position than that they were getting out of the rain. These excuses are pitiful and almost pathetic.

This Salve Cures RHEUMATISM, PILES, FELONS or BLOOD POISONING. It is a Sure Remedy for any of these Diseases.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS

RHEUMATISM

What S. PRICE, Esq., the well-known Dairyman, says

John O'Connor, Toronto:

212 King street east.

Toronto, Sept. 18, 1902.

DEAR SIR,-I wish to testify to the merits of Benedictine Salve as a cure for rheumatism. I had been a sufferer from rheumatism for some time and after having used Benedictine Salve for a few days was completely cured.

475 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, Ont., Sept. 18, 1900. John O'Connor, Esq., Nealon House, Toronto, Ont .:

DEAR SIR,-I have great pleasure in recommending the Benedictine Salve as a cure for lumbago. When I was taken down with it I called in my doctor, and he told me it would be a long time before I would be around again. My husband bought a box of the Benedictine Salve, and applied it according to directions. In three hours I got relief, and in four days was able to do my work. would be pleased to recommend it to any one suffering from lumbago. I am, yours truly,

(MRS.) JAS. COSGROVE.

2564 King Street East, Toronto, December 16th, 1901. John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto:

DEAR SIR, -- After trying several doctors and spending forty-five days in the General Hospital, without any benefit, I was induced to try your Benedictine Salve, and sincerely believe that this is the greatest remedy in the world for rheumatism. When I left the hospital I was just able to stand for a few seconds, but after using your Benedictine Salve for three days, I went out on the street again and now, after using it just over a week, I am able to go to work again. If anyone should doubt these facts send him to me and I will prove it to him.

Yours for ever thankful, PETER AUSTEN.

Peter Austin, writing from Des Moines, Iowa, under date of July 2nd, 1905, says: "Enclosed please find M.Q. for $1.00, for which send me box of your Benedictine Salve. Rheumatism has never troubled me since your salve fixed me up in December, 1901."

198 King Street East, Toronto, Nov. 21, 1902.

John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR,-I am deeply gratefu to the friend that suggested to me, when I was a cripple from Rheumatism, Benedictine Salve. I have at intervals during the last ten years been afflicted with muscular rheumatism. I have experimented with every available remedy and have consulted, I might say, every physician of repute, without perceivable benefit. When I was advised to use your Benedictine Salve I was a helpless cripple. In less than 48 hours I was in a position to resume my work, that of a tinsmith. A work that requires a certain amount of bodily activity. I am thankful to my friend who advised me and I am more rhan gratified to be able to furnish you with this testimonial as to the efficacy of Benedictine Salve. Yours truly, St. James' Rectory, 428 N. 2nd street, Rockford, Ill.

Mr. John O'Connor: DEAR SIR.-Please send me three more boxes of Benedictine Salve, as soon as possible. Enclose please find cheque and oblige.

Yours sincerely. (Signed) FRANCIS P. MURPHY.

Cobourg, April 22nd, 1905. Mr. John O'Connor, 197 King street, Toronto: DEAR SIR,-Enclosed please find one dollar ($1), also postage, for which I wish you would mail to my address another box of Benedictine Salve. Hoping to receive same by return of mail, I am, sir, Yours truly PATRICK KEARNS.

John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR,-I write unsolicited to say that your Benedictine Salve has cured me of the worst form of Bleeding, Itching Piles. I have been a sufferer for thirty years, during which time I tried every advertised remedy I could get, but got no more than temporary relief. I suffered at times intense agony and lost all hope of a cure.

Seeing your advertisement by chance, I thought I would try your Salve, and am proud to say it has made a complete cure. I can heartily recommend it to every sufferer.

JAMES SHAW.

Toronto, Dec. 30th, 1901

John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto: DEAR SIR,-It is with pleasure I write this unsolicited testimonial, and in doing so I can say to the world that your Benedictine Salve thoroughly cured me of Bleeding Piles. I suffered for nine months. consulted a physician, one of the best and he gave me a box of salve and said that if that did not cure me I would have to go under an operation. It failed, but a friend of min learned by chance that I was suffering from Bleeding Piles. He told me he could get me a cure and he was true to his word. He got me a box of Benedictine Salve and it gave me relief at once and cured me in a few days. I am now completely cured. It is worth its weight in gold. I cannot but feel proud after suffering so long. It has given me a thorough cure and I am sure it will never return. I can strongly recommend it to anyone afflicted as I was, It will cure without fail. I can be called on for living proof. I am, Yours, etc., ALLAN J. ARTINGDALE,

With the Boston Laundry. Rev. Father McDonald of Portsmouth, Ont., sent for a box of Benedictine Salve on the 11th of April, 1905 and so well pleased was he with the result of its use that he sent for more as follows:

Pertsmouth, 18th May, 1905. MY DEAR SIR,-Herewith enclose you the sum of two dollars to pay for a couple of boxes of your Benedictine Salve. I purpose giving one to an old cripple and the other to a person badly troubled with piles, in order that they may be thereby benefitted by its use.

Yours respectfully, (Signed) M. McDONALD. Address Rev. Father McDonald, Portsmouth, Kingston, Ont.

BLOOD POISONING

Corner George and King Streets, Toronto, Sept. 8, 1904. John O'Connor, Esq., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.-I wish to say to you that I can testify to the merits "of your Benedictine Salve for Blood-Poisoning. I suffered with blood poisoning for about six months, the trouble starting from a callous or hardening of the skin on the upper part of my foot and afterwards turning to blood-poisoning. Although I was treated for same in the General Hospital for two weeks without cure, the doctors were thinking of having my foot amputated. I left the hospital uncured and then I tried your salve, and with two boxes my foot healed up. I am now able to put on my boot and walk freely with same, the foot being entirely healed. I was also treated in the States prior to going to the hospital in Toronto, without relief. Your salve is a cure for blood-poisoning.

MISS M. L. KEMP Toronto, July 21st, 1902.

J. SHERIDAN,

34 Queen street East.

DEAR SIR,-Early this week I accidently ran a rusty nail in my finger. The wound was very painful and the next morning there were symptoms of blood poisoning, and my arm was swollen nearly to the shoulder. I applied Benedictine Salve, and the next day I was all right and able to

Throughout the Christian world regret is felt that the political upheaval of the sixteenth century, miscalled the Reformation, resulted in a fracture of religious unity instead of in reform (if it were needed) within the Christian Church. The desire for a return to religious unity grows apace, and, however gradual, success will be reached at last, and it can be accomplished only by reconciliation with the Church of which St. Peter was made the corner stone.

THE CHURCH IN GUELPH

The Church has indeed shared in the general progress which has marked Ontario in these recent years of prosperity, and its growth in instituactivity and zeal has been marked in many a place where no re-ports have reached the outside public. We read little of Cathelic news from Guelph, but the amount of Church gossip picked up by the Register man this week shows the Royal City in a most favorable light from a Catholic point of view. The magnificent church which Guelphites proudly claim to be the finest specimen Gothic architecture in Ontario, still lacks its towers and spires, quickly and steadily the debt been reduced until now the general expectation is that building will soon commence on the lofty spires planned to rise 250 feet above the summit of the lofty Catholic Hill, the site given by John Galt to Bishop Macdonell in the early "thirties, when the pioneer prelate visited his friend in the baby settlement. John Galt planned for a great city and signalized the visit of his old friend and fellow countryman Bishop Mac donell by picking a site for a future Cathedral and setting a gang of

Molly on the Patches

It was the night of the Coverton Hunt ball, and Mrs. Grant-Moreby's two lovely daughters, each half hidden in the depths of a buge grandfather's chair, sat in front of the fire. Between them, looking perfectly at ease, although he sat on a chair as if it were a horse, was their guestthe Earl. Oh, how proud they were of this distant young cousin! How indifferently-alas! too indifferently to deceive some practised ears-had they introduced his name into their conversation, and left his coroneted envelopes about, and hung him upon Their walls in every attitude which they could wheedle out of him. These portraits of the young nobleman were like himself-unhandsome. 'And who is that?' new acquaintances would ask, indicating the exceedingly snub features within some costly frame.

Inat is our cousin, the Earl of Westingdown," would be the reply, as the speaker shook up a cushion, or dicked a speck of dust off some ormament, as if that were of far more;

The photographs never revealed the young man's one beauty-eyes soft and gentle as a girl's-eyes which surprised you and made you almost corget their plain surroundings. When sobliged to submit to the camera, he invariably closed his eyes to all but a narrow slit, which had the effect of giving a cunning appearance to his chubby face.

Much as the Grant-Morebys had pletted and planned to secure him, the Earl had never before stayed at his cousins' house. And it was a triumph unutterable to be able to get him for the hunt ball. Adelaide and Grace Grant-Moreby had minds by no means as lovely as their faces, and they had confided to each other the day before that he absolutely must not part from the Green Nook without having become engaged to one or the other of them-which one, of course, it was not for them to decide. But each, as she retired to her a human heart, from which joy was as you did of this Molly being brave own room for the night, looked in throbbing. the glass and murmured-"The Countess of Westingdown.'

Many Women Suffer UNTOLD AGONY FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Very often they think it is from so-called "Female Disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, deeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to Female Disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take

OLD AND NEW JAPAN

The most remarkable fact in the world's history to-day is the progress stupendous, sudden and startling triapan has made in modern education. It is as marvelous as her equipment and marshaling of fleets and armies. It was only in 1890 that the finishing touches were put on their elementary school system, and already there are 3,376,716 children in the primary and 618,110 in the high Both sexes are included and the school programmes are, with one exception, exactly like those of Europe and America. No religion is taught, but America and Europe are rapidly tending in the same direction. In that respect Japan leads. Instruction is obligatory and free; the school age clause is vigorously enforced; private schools are permitted, but only to teachers holding certifihome instruction requires time the whole country is crazed with the desire to study; and school teachnow for working on an already over- ers devote themselves to their work The upward curves soared higher strained emotion. RELIGIOUS CONDITIONS OF AMERICA learned that, broadly speaking, one half of the people of the United States professed no denominational creed, while the other half was divided into two nearly equal groups, of Catholics on the one hand and of Protestants - chiefly Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Baptists-on the President Roosevelt states, in his book on New York, that the Methodists and Baptists are the most numerous in the country districts, while the Catholic Church holds the first place in the cities. The division still holds good. We might com-Episcopalians and Presbyterians are most numerous in the large cities, and, unlike the Catholics, are found as a rule among the wealthy classes. Most of the negroes are Protestants, chiefly Baptists.

religious sentiments. Even the nonchurch-goers, for the most part, believe in God and in the immortality of the soul; they sincerely take part in the prayers the nation offers up to God on solemn occasions, and more than that, they love the Gospel, and what might be called their natural religion is always Christian in its outward manifestation. A great many of them say their prayers, and very few of them are ignorant of or tail to recite the Lord's Prayer. The out-and-out unbeliever, who boasts of his unbelief, is rarely met with in the United States, and so far as our French anticlerical, he is absolutely unknown. I have gone over a great part of the country, and have bought at random every kind of newspaper, without ever hearing or reading , a word against religion, although the discussion often concerned ecclesiastical events or issues, like the school question. But still the bald and disquieting fact remains, that in this country one-half of the people are absolutely without any positive religion. It is not, as with us, that they have abandoned the faith and the religious practices of their childhood; on the contrary, the people as a rule have been born and bred in this sad state. And while in a certain way they are worse off than our unbelievers, in whose souls there always remain traces of the religion they have abandoned, yet on the whole their condition is preferable, for never having had the faith, they are without the bitterness of prejudice, and if religion ever happens to be presented to them in its true beauty, as it always ought to be, their souls respond quickly to it, because of the innate longing for God which is deer down in their hearts. As far as one can judge by appearances, their state is merely the result of circumstances. Their parents, if Catholics, lost their faith merely because they came to the country at a time when the Church was not organized well enough to take care of them; and if Protestants because of finding the Church deprived of the support of the State, and receiving no spiritual direction, they soon broke up into all sorts of fantastic and contradictory sects.

Will this state of things continue? Will it even grow worse? It is difficult now to answer these questions, but no one can doubt their importance to the moral and religious future of the United States. Up to the present the people have lived, and for a time will continue to live, on the remains of the old religion, all their education, books, customs, and institutions being permeated with the Christian spirit of their ancestors.

Dyspepsia.

--- This disease from which so many suffer gives the average physician a great deal of trouble. The best medical men have endorsed "PSYCHINE," and recommended it in scores of the most obstinate cases. It has never failed in a single instance to give prompt relief, and a permanent cure when directions have been followed. The system of cure is entirely different from any of the old fogey pills, powders or tablets. A few doses will remove the tightness and weight on stomach. Taken regularly it positively cures general distress, flatulency, nervousness, coated tongue, heartburn and palpitation. If you have never used "PSYCHINE" don't hesitate a moment longer.

One of the most interesting of the exhibitions at the Irish Industrial Exposition at Madison Square Garden, is that of Miss Ellen O'Reilly, manager and secretary of the County Meath Home Industries Association. At St. Basil's Fathers Zilles, Shelley and Mulligan Wook charge; Fathers Cullen, Cough-Fin and Hamel established themselves at St. Mary's, and Fathers Klander and Crosby took the direction of St. Helen's. In all three churches the colossal mission-cross had been erected, the all-embracing arms of each circled by flowing folds of white, typriving the pure and spotless garment, ready as a free gift to all who penitently throw themselves at the floot of the Saving Symbol. The znode of procedure in each church was similar and to describe one is to describe all. At St. Mary's High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Kelly and after the Asperges, the celebrant and acolytes advanced in procession to the door of the church, where they received the three missionaries, who entered singing psalms until they reached the sanctuary, where the pas tor, the Very Rev. Vicar-General Mc Cann, awaited them, and in a few words introduced them to the gregation. After Mass Rev. Father Cullen ascended the pulpit and preached the initial sermon of the week, taking for his text, Blessed be ited as and wrought a great work amongst us.
