WEEKLY IRISH REVIEW

IRELAND SEEN THROUGH IRISH EYES Ocpyrighted 1922 by Seumas MacManus

MURDER, TORTURE AND TERROR IN BELFAST

murder, torture and terror had become so common in Belfast, the rest of the world seems to have lost its realization of the frightful conditions under which life is lived by the minority there. Here is a heart piercing cry from Belfast-from one of those, who, having spent days and nights of terror there, knows keenly what are the sufferings of the poor creatures in the small Nationalist areas of that brutal city. I transcribe it "Surely the people of the rest of the country have failed to realize that their Nationalist brethren in the City of Belfast are living under a Terror beside which even the Black and Tan Terror in the South pales. Ghastly crimes like the bombing of the children in Weaver Street and the slaughter of the McMahon family are blazoned in the press from day to day, and the world stands aghast—for a few days -but does not fully realize that these are only isolated examples of a fiendish system which is fast re-ducing the inhabitants of the lationalist districts to a state of im-Look at a map of Belfast; see the little islands composed of four or five small Nationalist streets, surrounded on every side by huge seas of hating, howling Orangemen; picture the daily and nightly attacks on people crowded from all over the city into four from all over the city into four small districts, driven from their homes in Orange areas, three and four families packed into tiny little houses in narrow back streets, workless since July, 1920, subsisting on doles from the White Cross, the funds of which are totally inadequate, lucky if they have one poor meal a day; fearful of crossing the street to the little shop, even when they have a few pence, lest they fall victims to the Orange snipers in the streets around; sleepless lest, if they relax their vigil even during curfew, the mob will be on their little hardly-held territory—chil-dren weeping with cold and hunger, mothers in anguish for their children's sufferings, but powerless to the middle of a street, with Prorelieve them; men whose nights are testant houses on either side, has spent in constant watching—and think is it any wonder that the Nationalists of this city are slowly but surely losing their senses. The work of the armed bands of Orange-men cannot easily be realized by any

ORIGIN OF BELFAST POGROM

So much has been cabled to America about the Belfast pogrom, and still so little of this fearful and never-ending slaughter understood, that I shall this week give an account of its origin and progress— taken from The Irish Republic, in taken from The Irish Republic, in ant family took up residence there. whose columns has just appeared a The authority for this usurpation very clear and fine account of the

If such a statement assumes that tricts, where all were now forced tricts, where all were now forced parties in the strife it is false. This can be proved by 1) A Survey of the History of the Pogrom or 2), A glance at the relative numbers and distribution of the rival sections. there are two equally guilty parties in the strife it is the rival sections.

There has always been sectarian kitchen. bitterness in Belfast where Catholics are less than one in four of the population. The external symptoms have varied from an attack of a gang of Orangemen on a Catholic to a silent, economic and social suppression of all classes of Catholics. As a color line was drawn in America, so a religious line was drawn in Belfast against every attempt of the Catholics to raise their head. It was only natural as a result that the herd instinct should assert itself, and that the tendency for self protection should bring Catholics to reside together, with the exception of a few out-settlers, in districts where they honored celebrations of the "Twelfth" marking a climax in each year. There was no redress for Catholics, who were only attacked when markedly inferior in numbers. Retaliation was futile.

The area of the control of the proof were necessary. On the other hand the Catholics have been spirited enough not to take persecution like sheep but to defend themselves as vigorously as they could. numbers. Retaliation was futile and what was the good of bringing their accusations before the Law up Partition permanently and give Ulster its Parliament. The magazines were ready, the guns of the Ulster Volunteers were suitably housed, and were always in good order, and their old enemies the Catholics had amassed a little wealth and gained a little prosperity. It was always easy for the leaders to stimulate the Orange leaders to stimulate the Orange mob to attack the Papists—always provided of course that numbers were favourable. A few inflammable speeches, and the bolt would be shot. That the pogrom was premeditated can be proved by letters that appeared in the Belfast News Letter previous to the outbreak, and by the testimony of Catholics to whom information came that it whom informatiom came that it would be better for them to clear out. Another proof is given by the way the riots spread systematically from town to town—Derry, Lisburn, Belfast. Though the ostensible reason for the two outbreaks was the shooting of District Inspector Swanzy, yet the organization was ready, the guns were ready, and the lust of the prolaterist for Cath

DELIBERATE AND SYSTEMATIC

The onslaught moreover was systematic. First of all the outlying Catholic families were turned out of their homes—in many instances men in authority over the mob could be seen going with notebooks in hand to make sure the evictions were complete. Nothing more necessary to show the collusion between the mob and the civic authorities than to visit Belfast and look at the ruins. There it is visible to the eye in every quarter how a Catholic house, situated in been completely gutted by fire, while the neighboring houses have been untouched by the flames. The Belfast Brigade worked admirably, and while practically every case of arson attempted against the Catholic houses was successful, in every instance the surrounding houses were saved from the Christian who has not lived through it. Gangs of cowardly assassins, under the protection and guidance of the Specials, lurking at corners watching a chance of throwing bombs even at innocent children or flames.

The houses that suffered were chiefly licensed premises, as they formed the big majority of outlying women, as in the deliberate murder of Mrs. Neeson, the details of which appeared in the press; the Specials themselves swooping in cars and caged lorries ing years. Moreover, a pogrom lost begun by an attack on the cars and caged lorries ing years. Specials themselves swooping in prospects. Specials themselves swooping in prospect armoured cars and caged lorries ing years. Moreover, a pugion was best begun by an attack on licensed premises, because the mobility of the prospect of th on the inhabitants of the little streets in daylight, holding them up, beating and robbing them, and after curfew, when there is no after curfew, when there is no liquor.

The early stages of the pogrom case of witnesses, sneaking up to liquor.

were easily carried out by attacks from. Of course. on Catholic colonies. The proprietors were shot or stabbed or mercilessly beaten, or all three. The houses were looted and burned out; but if the house happened to be a private one, the family were beaten out of their home, and by the authority of the U. V. F. a Protestwas sworn to by an oath in certain whole thing.

One hears on all sides that the insensate rioting in Belfast deserves the strongest condemnation. If such a statement assumes that to congregate. Refugees from houses, with two rooms and a

Simultaneously the Catholics were driven from the Shipyards and other workshops by an organized onslaught of the Protestant employees. From the Queen's employees. From the Queen's Island they were chased at the peril of their lives, and many sought refuge from the brutality of their pursuers by rushing into the Lough and endeavouring to gain safety by swimming to the other side, only to be pelted in the water by bolts and other iron missiles. ISOLATED CATHOLIC AREAS

At a later stage, when few workers were left in the workshops to be beaten, and no isolated Catho-Ballymacarrett, referred to later is a typical example.

Before the pogrom of 1920

Betalt, and not atholic families were left in the Orange quarters, the attack was started on the little Catholic settlements. It is strictly lic public houses or Catholic families Before the pogrom of 1920 started there was no systematic fighting with modern weapons. It was a case rather of savage attacks with sticks and paving stones, even children going to school being assaulted sometimes when they passed through Orange quarters, if they refused the "acid test" of cursing the Pope. Thus the strife went on for years with the time Catholic settlements. It is strictly true to say that in these attacks, as in all the riots and fighting of true to say that in these attacks, as in all the riots and fighting of the crucifix which he drawing the crucifix which he crucifix which he drawing the crucifix which he crucifix which he drawing the crucifix which he crucifix w

The areas are six in number, the largest being the Falls area, where Courts? There was no justice to (strangely enough) the Orange mob has not been nearly so fierce as be got there.

So we arrive at July, 1920, when the pogrom started in earnest. It is well to remember the circumstances. The proposed Government of Ireland Bill was about to be passed, its main object being to set object to be passed to be pass whole of the recent pogrom. Each area comprises a number of streets around a Catholic church, and as a typical example it will be sufficient to take Ballymacarrett.

BALLYMACARRET

Ballymacarrett is an oblong area lying to the west of the Lagan River and bounded on the south by area, hemmed in road exposed to attack from extensive Protestant areas. For the Catholics to sally out to attack the Orangemen is physically impossible. Despite the fact that Ballymacarrett has been subject to constant attacks by rifle and revolver firing and bombing, the defenders have remained stead-fast in the defense of their homes, their women and children and stemmed all attacks, not without numerous casualties, nor is it to be wondered at? without casualties to flammatory speeches. The District Inspector's fate only gave the pretext. maintain a constant vigilance day and night on every side, lest invasion from any of the four surrounding Orange quarters took them unawares. On one occasion an armoured car, driven by the military, opened fire upon the Catholic quarter and drove up Seaford Street, and the trangemen took their opportunity to enter this previously impregnable area under cover of the car. But men, fighting for their lives and for all that ing for their lives and for all that life held dear, were not long dismayed. The invasion was stemmed and the invaders, armoured car and all, driven back to the frontier. The invaders left their mark, as the houses at the lower end of Seaford Street show, with their blackened doors and broken windows. It was in the same area too that a ilitary officer-inexperienced in Belfast politics—was degraded in rank for disobeying orders by ordering his men to fire on the Orange

In another small Catholic area at Oldpart it was the usual routine for the police and military to search the Catholic quarter for arms night after night from Monday till Friday: and on Saturday night, the military finding duty elsewhere, the Orange mob assailed the area.

THE USUAL ROUTINE

From this brief survey it will be efforts are made to organize defence against aggression. Are the Catholics to be expected to give up their lives, their religion, their families, their homesteads, to sate a savagery that thrives on weakness?

SEUMAS MACMANUS Of Donega'.

HISTORIC CRUCIFIX RESTS AT DUBLIN

WAS VALUED POSSESSION OF ST. FRANCIS XAVIER

Dublin, April 6 .- Until the cele-Hill. Dublin.

This crucifix was presented as a token of gratitude to St. Francis Xavier by an Indian of importance whom he had converted to the Faith. It remained for 200 years at the College of Goa which the Saint had founded. When the Portuguese Jesuits were expelled from India some French or Belgian missionaries who were returning to Europe happened to pass through

Philip Mulcaille. In the disturbances and confiscation of property Father Mulcaille was successful in

BISHOP FALLON TO PREMIER DRURY

QUOTES ATTORNEY-GENERAL AS SAYING PRESENT SYSTEM IS "A RANK INJUSTICE"

Bishop Fallon, head of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London, yester-day addressed the following open letter to Premier Drury:

"Hon. E. C. Drury, M. P. P., Prime Minister of Ontario.

"Hon. Dear Sir.—On May 31, 1921, at the invitation of the Honorable the Minister of Education, the members of the Catholic Educathe members of the Catholic Education Council of Ontario had an interview with yourself and your Cabinet. On that occasion I took the opportunity of pointing out that, under the legislation governing municipal boards of education, Roman Catholic Separate school supporters were suffering from that form of tyranny which is called taxation without representation. Roman Catholics are compelled by Roman Catholics are compelled by law to pay their taxes to the pro-vincial high school system.

"Their property is burdened by the debt incurred for the construc-tion of high schools and collegiate institutes. Yet they are not per-mitted to cast a vote at the election mitted to cast a vote at the election of those who direct the policy and control the expenditures of these institutions. Your attorney - general. Hon. Mr. Raney, promptly and correctly described this condition as 'a rank injustice.'

"On March 29, 1922, I wrote you 'to inquire if we are to expect at the present session of the Legislature the passage of legislation to remedy this increasingly intolerable."

remedy this increasingly intolerable situation. "Not having received any answer to this letter, nor even an acknowl-edgment of its receipt, I now ask you, through the medium of this public communication, if the public communication, if the Roman Catholics of Ontario are to continue to suffer from a grievance so indefensible as to draw from the first law officer of the crown in this province the indignant phrase, 'a

"I remain, Hon, Dear Sir, yours "M. F. FALLON, "Bishop of London."

CZECH CATHOLICS FEAR NEW PLANS

Prague, Czecho-Slovakia.-Upon the result of the Government's attempt to realize its program for the adjustment of relations between stalwarts in one of their attacks. the Church and the State depends It has always been the same in the continuance of Catholic support Belfast; the Police, the Military and the Orange mob are nearly always on the one side.

The Police, the Military for the present ministry, in which Catholics hold two portfolios. This program is to be submitted, it is announced, within a few weeks. Minister of Education Srobar is its putative author.

The present practice, based on the legislation of the former mon-archy, is for Catholic priests to be the registrars of births, marriages and deaths; administrators of par-ochial properties, cemeteries, etc., and agents of the State in certain civil functions. The new scheme of Minister Srobar is expected to modify or abrogate some of these

The 'national" church is demand ing of the Government support and indorsement, and claims the joint use of Catholic churches and ceme-teries. It is believed that Minister Srobar's program contemplates many and important concessions to these apostates. Catholics are fearful that the status he will propose in his program will involve injustice and confiscation.

The fact that much of the program for the future relations of the Church and State was devised without the participation of the two Dublin, April 6.—Until the celebration of the tercentenary of the canonization of SS. Ignatius and Francis Xavier, practically nothing was known by Irish Catholics of the valuable crucifix of St. Francis Xavier which is preserved in the Presentation Convent, George's without the participation of the two Catholic members of the ministry has caused disquietude among the Catholic votes were used by the Government in several valuable crucifix of St. Francis Xavier which is preserved in the Presentation Convent, George's ministers are ignored.

ASIAN EXPLORER PRESENTS DOCUMENTS TO FRENCH ACADEMY

Paris, April 13.-M. Pelliot, an explorer of Central Asia has recent-ly presented to the Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres, Paris, three very curious documents belonging to the Vatican archives.

Goa and succeeded in obtaining possession of the relic. It was brought by them to Paris where it remained until 1763 when the Jesuits were expelled from France.

Amongst the Jesuits working in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, and authorizations for the thirt in the trip was Father James. Paris at that time was Father James Catholic missionaries to travel and Philip Mulcaille. In the disturbthese missionaries were the first representatives of the Christian

Cognomen."—(Christian is my Name, but Catholic my Surname)—St. Pacien, 4th Century

ASKS IF ALL PROTESTANTS ARE ORANGEMEN OR NOT

London Advertiser, April 21 Questioning the spirit of fair play on the part of Protestants, and ask-ing if they all are Orangemen, whether members of lodges or not, Bishop Fallon writes the following letter to The Advertiser, drawing a comparison between the treatment claimed to be accorded Protestants in Quebec with that accorded Roman Catholics in Ontario: The Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—Under the headline,
"Insist Ontario Should Not Pay Court Costs of Catholic School Tax Plea," last evening's Advertiser published the following paragraph:

"That any expenses to be incurred by Roman Catholic authorities of the province taking their demands the province taking their demands for further concessions of taxes to Separate schools of Ontario, should be assumed by them is the attitude taken by Orange lodges of Ontario. A motion to this effect was passed unanimously by members of Hackett Lodge, one of the largest Orange bodies in London, Thursday night.

"Representatives of Middlesey

Representatives of Middlese ounty in the Legislative Assemby will be urged to take the stand that the province should not be called upon to assume any expense in these court proceedings, on the grounds that the Separate schools are now being fairly apportioned taxes, and that there is no necessity of court

A few days ago the Hon. Jacob Nicol, Protestant representative in the Quebec cabinet, speaking in this city told us:

'As representative of the Pro testant minority it is my duty to see that they get their share, and they do get their share. Grants this year to McGill, Laval and Montreal universities were one million dollars each. That is to say, the money was divided between Roman Catholic and Protestant institutions on a basis of two to one. As a matter of fact, the population is on a basis of eight Catholics to one Protestant in Quebec; so we cannot complain of that. There were grants of $10,000 each made to pineteen classical colleges in the province, and $40,000 to the Protestant institutions as a compensa-tion for this $190,000. That is a little more than one-fifth, instead of etween one-eighth and one-ninth in this way we are satisfied with the treatment meted us."

The constitutional provision pro-ecting the Protestant minority of Quebec and the Catholic minority of Ontario in their respective educational rights is the same for both parties.

As I consider the contrast between the treatment accorded to the Protestants of Quebec and that accorded the Catholics of Ontario, I ask myself where is the spirit of fair play of which my Protestant acquaintances boast so much, even

+M. F. FALLON

Bishop of London April 18, 1922.

(The above letter was received at The Advertiser office on Tuesday, but was mislaid after reaching here. Hence its insertion two days after it was written.—Editor Advertiser.)

GROWTH OF CHURCH IN MONTANA

The growth of the Church in the State of Montana from thirty thousand scattered Catholics of 1897 to a spiritual army of more than 100,one souls in 1922 was vividly described by the Right Rev. John P. Carroll, Bishop of Helena, on the occasion of the silver jubilee of the parish of St. Lawrence O'Toole, in Walkerville and of the pastorate of the Rev. F. X. Batens, observed here recently.

Commenting on the growth of the Church in Walkerville, Bishop Carroll declared that when Father Batens took charge the only evidence of religion was a newly established school in a temporary building conducted by three sisters from St. Patrick's, while today there are all the institutions of a great wish to have St. Patrick in their calendar of saints. parish—a church and rectory, a calculated the home for the Sisters, a school with ten teachers and an attendance of four hundred children. That so four hundred children that so had been accomplished, he she that does not replace in it the solar than name. the Irish miners, past and present, and to many friends made among the

BISHOP MAKES APPEAL 500 children—and you are looking forward eagerly to the day, soon to dawn, when there will be a second central High school rivaling the first in the number of students on "The growth of the Church in Butte is only a reflex of what you behold in the diocese. Twenty-five years ago there were only nine parishes in the present territory of the diocese of Helena. Today there are fifty-one. Twenty-five years ago there was scarcely ten diocesan priests serving in this territory. Today there are eighty-five. Today there are eighty-five. You have seen the one Parochial school grow to twenty and Catholic High schools spring up in every important center.

"Finally, you have beheld the crowning glory of our educational system in the establishment of Mount St. Charles College—an institution which is already making the diocese permanent and fruitful by producing the leaders it needs in both Church and State.

"Nor does your eye fail to rest today on those societies of men and women and on those institutions of charity and mercy which for twenty-

GROWTH IN STATE

"As you look out over the State you love, you behold two flourishing dioceses instead of the struggling one of twenty-five years ago.

"Instead of fifteen secular priests putting up with all the physical in-conveniences and hardships of the pioneer missionary, you behold 130 equal to them in apostolic zeal and surpassing them in the unselfishness, the courage, the patience, the perseverance that the building up from the ground in a limited area of a regular parish with all its institutions evidences and creates. The 30,000 scattered Catholics of 1897 you have seen grow until in 1922 they form a spiritual army of more than 100,000 souls.

"Bishop, priests, sisters and people, like Paul and Apollo, may have planted and watered, but it is God that hath given the increase.

THE NINTH COUNCIL AT

A Council has just been held at Tours, France. It was called by the Archbishop of Tours, Msgr. Negre, and was attended by all the bishops of the west of France and by the abbots of the monasteries of Solesmes, Port-Salut, La Meilleraye, and Belle-Fontaine. Each bishop or abbot was accompanied by a theoogian and a canonist. There were also two delegates from every chap-

The Council was opened in the

in the district and to discuss those questions which are of special Church. noral, religious, and social imporance at the present time.

The decisions of the Council will be telephone as an adjunct to the pulpit and a means of reaching tance at the present time. not be published until they have hundreds of thousands who do not received the approval of the Holy go to church is being made use of in 1849.

London.—Some time ago an Anglican divine went to great pains able that does not replace in it the name of St. Patrick. As the name of the saint never was in the Butte had only one parish. Today it has ten. Then it had only one school with an attendance of 550 children. Now there are ten schools with an attendance of schools with a school w approximately 5,000, one of them a central High school into which are crowded upwards of London.

the saint's day has been celebrated by a special office with the permission of the Anglican Bishop of London.

Department in Manhattan and the Bronx who could possibly attend was at the Cathedral.

CATHOLIC NOTES

Madras, April 18.—Bishop Aelen of Madras, India, has invited the Jesuit Fathers to consider the foun-dation of a Catholic university in that city.

Chicago, April 1st.—Harry I. Dalsey, architect, who is building a thirty-three apartment house with a perambulator stall for each tenant, has announced that each tenant who receives a call from Dr. Stork will receive a cash present of $25. Should twins be left, he'll make it $50. "I want to see lots of children around my building for they make happy home," Mr. Dalsey said.

London, March 24.-A bill has been introduced into the British House of Commons which aims at House of Commons which aims at suppressing the perversion of the minds of young children through the so-called Proletarian and Communist Sunday schools. The provisions of the bill forbid not only the teaching of revolutionary doctrines to children, but also the circulation of any kind of literature bearing on those doctrines bearing on these doctrines. Paris, March 19.—A Solemn High Mass was celebrated today in the Church of St. Roch for the soldiers of the Allied armies who fell on the the steady stream of their beneficence have brought joy and peace to the hearts of thousands.

Argonne battlefields. The high altar and choir loft were draped with Allied flags, among which the position. Contributions were re-ceived to be devoted to the erection of a monument on Hill 285, Haute Chevauchee, wherein will be inscribed the number of all the Allied regiments that participated in the Argonne fighting. Jena, March 31.—For the first time in the history of Germany a woman has been ordained a min-ister of the Gospel and placed in charge of a congregation. A young woman of Jena has been "ordained" by a Protestant sect and is now at work. England and America have long been accustomed to women in the Protestant pulpit, but this is a novelty in Germany. It is expected that other Protestant districts of Germany will imitate the example of their brethren in Jena.

In the United States and its pos-Roman Catholics, and of this large number, 18,104,84 are in the United States. This is an increase in this country of 219,158, a figure which is 68 per cent. greater than the gain reported in the 1921 Directory; and the increase in this country, together with the increases reported from the Dioceses in the Philippine Islands and our other possessions, makes a total gain of 43,189—the largest gain reported for several

Announcement of the formation of a new parish, dedicated to the English Martyrs, at Whalley in the Salford diocese, means the restoration of Catholic worship in a spot from which the so-called Reformers felt that they had eradicated forever every remnant of the true faith. Situated three or four miles play of which my Protestant acquaintances boast so much, even to my face?

Or, when one gets down from fine professions to hard facts, are the Protestants of Ontario just simply all Orangemen, whether they belong to the lodges or not?

The Council was opened in the Cathedral of Tours by a magnificent ceremony during which the prelates and dignitaries took the liturgical oath. Four sessions were held each day for one week.

According to the terms of the true addressed to the faithful by the Arghbishop of Tours by a magnificent faith. Situated three or four miles from Stoneyhurst College, Whalley is sacred to Catholics through the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the cathedral of Tours by a magnificent faith. Situated three or four miles from Stoneyhurst College, Whalley is sacred to Catholics through the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the cathedral of Tours by a magnificent faith. Situated three or four miles from Stoneyhurst College, Whalley is accorded to Catholics through the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the cathedral of Tours by a magnificent faith. Situated three or four miles from Stoneyhurst College, Whalley is accorded to Catholics through the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the cathedral of Tours by a magnificent faith. Situated three or four miles from Stoneyhurst College, Whalley is accorded to Catholics through the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the fact that there stood the only great abbey, which, in the ages of faith, adorned Lancashire, and still more than the fact that there are the Archbishop of Tours, the Council had for its object to study and regulate, by agreement with the bishops, those things which are of a nature to favor the increase in faith in the district and to discuss those

> There have been eight Councils at Tours in the past. Three were presided over by Popes and one by Hildebrand who later became Pope Edison skyscraper, and these services are the broadcasting station KYW on the top of the Commonwealth Edison skyscraper, and these services are presented by the commonwealth and the broadcasting station KYW on the top of the Commonwealth Edison skyscraper, and these services are presented by the commonwealth and the broadcasting station KYW on the top of the Commonwealth Edison skyscraper, and these services are presented by the commonwealth and the broadcasting station KYW on the commonwealth and the co Gregory VII. The last council was ices—prayer, sermon and music, held in the city of Saint Martin in are sent over the ether tracks for from five hundred to a thousand miles throughout the Middle West NOW THEY'D BE FOR MAKING
> PATRICK AN ENGLISH
> CHURCH SAINT
>
> and Southwest. The novelty of "listening-in" over the radio telephone may bring many to hear the word of God who might otherwise shun the opportunity. It is with this idea in mind that Rev. A. L. Girard, pastor of the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, arranged to conduct a Palm Sunday chapel service.

Chicago, April 10.-The radio

New York, April 8.-Three thousand policemen, nearly@one-third of the entire police force of New York City, assembled at St. Patrick's cathedral at the 8 o'clock Mass last Sunday morning for their annual Communion under the auspices of the Police Department Holy Name Society. The number in attendance at the Mass is all the more remarkable when it is realized that in the and to many friends rich and poor.

"Before you came to Walkerville," continued Bishop Carroll, addressing Father Batens, "Greater Today

The same journal says that the festival of the saint is observed in festival of the Anglican churches, and the Bronx. Again, only 50 per cent. of the Catholic patrolmen on duty were excused, so that they could attend the Mass. From the number present it is assumed that every Catholic member of the

THE WILD BIRDS OF KILLEEVY

BY ROSA MULHOLLAND (LADY GILBERT)

CHAPTER XIX

THE OLD LORD WILL HAVE HIS WAY Lord Wilderspin's letter caused great commotion behind the little bric-a-brac shop. Mrs. Wynch was lost in wonder at the idea of her that I am going to have much chance in future, but I wouldn't do it now, not if I could. There must be some kind of a blindness about see. But you'll have it all your own way after this."

not all happiness. She was one of those persons who cannot feel unmixed joy at anything that happens in life. Change always brought her pain, and in spite of her delight at Fan's success, and at the chiral, all these conditions of the chiral and the chiral, all these conditions of the chiral and t the nice discernment shown by Fate in making a favorite of the child, felt at first as much dismay as pleasure in preparing to leave own toilsome and precarious life in look that Fanchea was alarmed. London for ease, security, and the conditions of peace. Things that had long been a trouble to her, such as the noise in the streets, and the dinginess of her apartment, poetry, directly they were about to become part of the past. Like all who are of the same backward-looking nature, she needed a shake make her know her own mind and realize the advantage of a fornstance set her right.

his own way that he never thinks of what it is to other people to have their lives routed about and everything changed. But I think if you wrote and put it to him, he would easily find somebody else to take of our little maid; and you could run down in the train sometimes to see how she gets on, you

The signora opened her eyes wide and stared at her landlady, and instantly knew that she was long-ing to get under Lord Wilderspin's roof. And though she continued to sigh a good deal as she packed up ner things, she made no more articulate complaints.

Nothing of her possessions could she bring herself to part with; and in the end she set out encumbered in his lordship's carriage, rolling through his blooming park, and when she saw Fanchea, in a pretty brown linen dress with crimson ribbons, flying to meet her, then hand on Fanchea's shoulder, the old she realized that the times were lord strode about, laughing grimly good and that the lines were falling to himself. to her in pleasant places. All her regrets vanished like ghosts at cock-crow when she felt Fanchea's warm arms clasped round her neck. She allowed herself to be whirled from one beautiful room to another between gusts of joyous informa-tion which the child let loose upon her respecting the delights of the Various huggings took place at the beginnings and ends of the corridors, and Lord Wilderspin, coming suddenly round a corner, was witness of one of these.

"It will work, I see," he said to himself. "The child will have mothering as well." Then aloud: "Aha, madam, I have caught you already spoiling my property! nightingale is not here in a gilded cage that she may sing to me and you alone, remember. This lively bit of human intelligence," putting his broad hand on Fan's cool, rounded brow, "is not here to play but to work.

The signora was a little startled by his fierce manner, but when she saw the arch smile with which Fanchea met his glaring eyes, she caught the cue to his character at

"My lord," she said, in her rnest, emotional way, "this earnest, emotional way, "this dream of yours was mine first. I had only the will; you have the

Thank heaven, then, madam, that we have come together," said his lordship. "Between will and shall, to use a vulgar power, we proverb, either 'make a spoon, or spoil a horn.' But mind, I warn you; the making will be mine, the spoiling yours. I never do anything spoiling yours. I never do ar wrong; so don't imagine it. with a scowl and a low bow he left

This first greeting of the old lord's to the signora was a fit introduction to the intercourse that was to exist between them. His quizzical temper and her intensity clashed together strangely sometimes, but did not exactly jar, for he had feeling enough to appreciate a nature which he nevertheless Twans a nature which he nevertheless delighted to startle, and she had the violin; and a silent sob echoed sufficient humor to relish the roughness and unconventionality which covered a generous heart. The old lord recognized daily the delicacy and refinement of her nature, something of which he had discerned at the first moment under the shabby cloak of the little grey woman just arrived at the end of her journey. And there never was any oppressive formality between them. Mamzello formality between them. was too much the child of genius not to feel that in her own personality she carried the key of entrance into any circle above or below her and though said key might be rather rusty for want of use, still the possession of it enabled her to feel at home in the atmosphere of Lord Wilderspin's drawing-room. When she had time to look

When she had time to look around, she discovered that nothing could suit her better than this me that I couldn't see something about the child that other people the storied furniture and adornments, the choice contents of the picture-gallery, the musical atmos-The signora herself was thrown into a state of agitation that was she was to assist in the tuition of the child; all these conditions of

"My dear," she said to Fan, "I shall die of all this delightfulness if I do not escape from it." This was said with so agonized a

"Oh, you are not going to leave me?" she cried. "No, my love, never. But have got leave from his lordship to fit up one of the empty rooms in my own way. There are the things I brought with me, you know; and which she could not afford to improve upon, grew dear to her all at once, and became invested with I will live in my own nest, and only come out into the splendour when feel myself able to bear it Her new life was inaugurated on the first evening when Herr Harfen spieler came, and all the actors in the little drama was beginning met tunate change. Matter - of - fact at dinner. The thought of meeting Mrs. Wynch, taking her little the great musician agitated her Mrs. Wynch, taking her little the great musician agitated her mournful plaints literally, adminismuch more than the prospect of tered the slight shock which in this encountering his lordship had done. She prepared for the occasion with "I'm sure I never knew you were so fond of the place, Mamzelle," she said, quite flattered, "and if which had belonged to her mother, some solemnity, and appeared attired in a very antique brocade you are sorry to go, why I am sorry to lose a good lodger. That old lord is so accustomed to have black lace mantilla, worn long ago in the Italian city of her youth and dreams. Under this her loose gold and silver hair shimmered strange v. and made one at a distance ask she were child, angel, or witch. Her worn face, with its deep lines of pain and passion, its frequent wistful, almost infantile expressions, and its wandering lights genius, was very striking to Herr Harfenspieler, who at once recog-nized a good ally and a kindred spirit. As they clasped hands they seemed to know that they were brother and sister in what the world would call misfortune, each having found life a loneliness, and given up all that is comfortable and pleasant for a solitary and neverfading dream.

The man who had found happiwith large packing cases, the contents of which were, for the most part, destined to form contribuation the collection in the luminosistic sharpy brows. He had under his shaggy brows. He had When, however, she found herself | brought them here together that out of their ruins he might build a fair temple for his own contentment and the delight of the world.

hear

And as these eager guardians hoyered about the slender slip of humanity, with her black head and ribbons, her deep-shaded crimson eyes and pomegranate cheeks, casting their spells, of woven paces and of waving hands, around her, Kevin himself, had been able to see, might have surely been content with her state. She herself felt a deep conder at finding that she was the object of so much attention from such learned and travelled people, and listened with interest to their conversation.

"Madam." said Herr Harfenspieler, "allow me as a musician to pay a tribute in the name of my country to the musical genius of your beautiful land."

"Ah, sir," said the signora, "we may well feel a mutual sympathy.

broke in Lord Wilderspin. me remind you that dinner has been announced.

After dinner the old lord had a smoke and forty winks in his smok-ing-room, while the musician, who could not bear tobacco, drank coffee and tuned his violin, and talked with the signora in the music-room. "I was born in Verona," said the signora, in answer to a question.

"And I in Nuremberg," said Herr Harfenspieler, touching his most delicate string with a loving finger.

"I know your Verona. What a dream! That is why your face rounds me of the angels in Francisco.

reminds me of the angels in Fra Angelico's pictures," he added, bluntly. "I am no flatterer, and fingers fixed the bit of bloom close you may not be heavenly for aught know; but I have seen you blowing a trumpet in one of the Paradisaical visions of the angelic it in the signora's heart.

"That was said long ago," she said; "but it is like a sorry old jest to hear it now

Angels may get worn faces for a time, perhaps through wearying after the good in some human soul. When that soul is won their wrinkles probably disappear.
Whatever is intrinsically good and beautiful remains a perpetual fact, and never can be destroyed; it is only what is ugly, wrong, disc ant, that is failure and negation. What is time? Ach? Ach—! Music will never cease.

Hereupon a burst of delicious melody swept through the quiet and darkening room; and noiselessly the signora wept.

'Juliet was born in your Verona, continued the old professor, laying down his bow; "and Juliet is a fact, though she never was clothed in flesh and blood. The deep red rose that comes every June is a fact, though each time it sheds its leaves we can scarcely believe it ever was, or ever will return. Beethoven's Dead March is a reality that still beguiles us lovingly to the grave, while the sad, solemn, mysterious eyes that look down on us a turn outside."

"We are like a pair of wicked away yonder from the wall are closed for ever. So, why should not the face of an angel with a lute remain an angel's face, even though Time has written a score across it. Let me talk my own way. I do not often get a listener like you."

"It is pleasant to me to listen," spieler, "do you mean to give up get a listener like you."

"It is pleasant to me to listen," said the signora. "Life does not seem so wasted when one gets rid of the idea of success and failure."

"That for failure!" said the Harfenspieler, snapping his wiry fingers. "Give me the beautiful, the true and pain with its reverse.

When the height is missed the words."

"Seriously," said Herr Harfenspieler, "do you mean to give up the child or not?" said his lordship, stopping short. "There, the sky has not fallen upon me!"

"And yet—it seems cruel to take no notice of such an advertisement."

"Now listen to me. Herr. When the height is missed, the depth is found; true, but when the abyss is touched, there is the rebound which sends us higher than we otherwise could have reached.
Hist! I will tell you a secret. I have made no name like him," pointing to the portrait of Beetho-"My efforts have passed into the works of others; my soul has been only uttered by others' lips. been only uttered by others' lips. I shall die unknown, and be buried obscurely; but I would rather wield this in a garret"—touching his bow

-"than have it changed into the sceptre of a prince. Yet I am not "I have shared your feeling too much to doubt you," said the signora. "My youth was one long passion of longing to create the beautiful. Life broke my tools and laughed at my folly; and yet there is something dwelling with me for all that which binds up the sorest wounds of a broken spirit. Art has allowed me to live in her house, though her dearest tasks have been given elsewhere. I have tried to remember that 'they also serve who only stand and wait.' The long patience, the readiness to do if the meekness forced upon one at being always passed overthese must shelter one from the charge of waste. The joy at seeing others do, takes the place of fever-ish desires for self. One grows content to glean where others bear the sheaves; if only the harvest be somehow gathered in." "My own thought," said Herr Harfenspieler, "expressed in wom-anly words. Let us put it into music!"

Again he touched the violin, and wonderful strains poured from it : feverish, hurried, impassioned, then yearning and wistful, and at last dying away in notes whispering of

to himself.
"With this trio," he said; "on "Now," he said, when he had this triangle, I will make such finished, "we are going to do somemusic as all Europe shall run to thing, you and I, something that shall be proved worth the doing. This girl who stands between us is rich material to work upon. There is a quality in the voice which I have never known equalled. In it is contained something that once heard never can be forgotten. She will give expression and form to the noblest conceptions of the great masters. Not only are her notes ravishing, but she has a broad intelligence, a rich imagination, and fortunately also the pure, vigorous physique which will make her perfect mistress of her artistic

> You sum up her qualities exactly as I have done myself," said the signora. I know. To you be the honor of the first discovery. More yet can you do, more than educating and Your country contains the intellect of music, and mine, perhaps, the soul."

"And mine deserves some praise for producing that noble strain, "The roast beef of old England," broke in Lord Wilderspin." amuse her with no trashy novels and romances; let her know nothing but of the higher purer literature; cultivate her heart to thrill only to the real, the most genuine, and unaffected sorrows of life, to the purest and holiest affections. People call me an enthusiast, but I know to whom I am talking at this moment At this point Fan came in, fresh and glowing, out of the evening dews of the garden, bringing a nosegay for her master's buttonhole, and a rose for the signora's

"This is the prelude to our song," said the Harfenspieler with one of to his shirt-frills; and, with a glow still in his dark, deep-set eyes, he touched the first note of "With Verdure Clad."

and with several glances all round from under his white brows, as if friend.

he feared eyes in the curtains, or After every one was asleep in the ears in the pictures on the walls, drew a folded newspaper from his pocket and tapped it with his finger. I have something to show you e," he said. "Read this adverhere," he said. "Read this adver-tisement. Well, is that intended for us?

It was Kevin's advertisement which had been so carefully worded by Mr. Honeywood. Herr Harfen-speiler read it, and a flame shot out of his eyes.

"Mein Gott!" he murmured.

"Shall we be forced to give up this fair enterprize?"
"Hush!" said his lordship, with a girmace. "Don't let us talk about it here, or the words will float up through all the ceilings to that pair of little hare's ears, and we shall have her performing La Sonnambula before her time. She would be down upon us in her bare feet in a trice, imploring to be packed up in this newspaper on the sun, and reflected that Lord Wilderspot, and sent off by post to advertiser. The night is fine; let us take was on its way to the post.

"Now listen to me, Herr. You are a musician, and all you musicians, poets, artists, and your kin, are bound to be sentimentalists according to both Nature and Art; but I am none of your race. I may he a gentleman, and therein lies the bond between us, but I am nature a marauder, a revolutionist, a turner-upside-down of things in general, a whim-indulger, a fancymonger; and as arbitray as a threetailed bashaw. All this you know as well as I. Now I am not doing a bad act in bringing up this little peasant-born genius to her true vocation, but hang me if I am going to have a troop of Irish bog-trotters running after us all the time the thing is going on. If these low connections of hers were blood rela-tions—were her own family—I don't know how I should get out of the matter. It this Kevin were her brother, or father, or if she were old enough to have a lover and he were that worthy, I suppose I should feel bound to 'interview' the fellow; but as she is nothing to him or his I shall beg leave to remain in my modest obscurity. Let him dig his potatoes, and cut his turf, and leave the child to the good fortune that has dropped upon her.'

"You do not mean to ignore this altogether?" persisted Herr Harfenspieler. Confound it, no; I suppose I must do something."

"Write, and tell them as much as you please; and make terms for keeping her unmolested."

"My friend, you do not know these Irish! They have hearts as big as copper kettles, and value money no more than sand where their affections are concerned. You know the creature that sang for us an hour ago and is now curled up in her pillows with her blue eyes shut as fast as yonder convolvoli. Could you have looked and offered her a bright sovereign forget her night-prayer for evin? You could not do it. And Kevin ? they are all 'tarred with the same to use a vulgar proverb stick. your musical ears have probably never heard before. dren every one of them in faith and love-all honor to them for it' and the lord lifted his hat from his bald head—"but still I am not going to have them spoiling my plans with their cushla machrees and their ululus!"

Herr Harfenspieler had nothing more to say. He felt it best to let the whimsical nobleman work out his own idea, and put it into words "You do not ask me what I am going to do?"

I am waiting to hear." "I think of answering the adver-tisement with another in which I shall give enough information to allay anxiety on the girl's account I shall also hold out a hope of future meeting, but give the people to understand that there is to be no communication with her at present. That is the best plan I can hit upon.

And how will you satisfy the child herself as time goes on "By impressing upon her that in following my plans obediently she will benefit her friends in the end. She is fully convinced that I am constantly making inquiries about them, and she will go on expecting every day to see them walking in, till gradually the vivid desire for them fades away. I have no doubt that as soon as she is in any degree independent and begins to make money (as one day she must) she will actively seek them herself and want to pour everything into their laps. However, when that day comes, we must see about protect-

Herr Harfenspieler was silent. touched the first note of "With Verdure Clad."

Later, when the signora and her charge had retired for the night, Lord Wilderspin, with a peculiar look, half comic and half dismayed,

Therefore was silent. His mind was not quite at ease as to this parting of the child from the refriends; and yet, enthusiast as he was, his desire to hold her fast and continue his work in her made remarks the manual of the come with me to may fully the role of the Good Samaritan.

Then come with me to my fully the role of the Good Samaritan.

Disappointment was in store next evening when, after nearly an hour of waiting, no Tom Wollencroft him rejoice at the decision of his

Hall that night, the Harfenspieler sat at his open window fingering his violin tenderly and fitfully. The jasmine from without scented the air, and the old musician was living in other scenes where even such white jasmine wreaths had per-fumed other chambers.

fumed other chambers.

"Is it right, after all," he thought, "to play such tricks upon human hearts? Has not humble and holy love too often to pay the penalty for fame and the triumphs Can we who rob this lowly of art? nest say that the bird would not be happier singing in her native

But this mood of the old professor night. The impulse of his genius was too strong for the more subtle tenderness of his heart. He was glad when he saw his young pupil

TO BE CONTINUED

TAKING RISKS

By Joseph Carmichael in Rosary Magazine I have long been accustomed to take the tram-car from my business place in the big midland town to one of its suburbs; there is a railway station near enough to both ends of the journey, but the tram is more interesting as well as more free from flurry and rush. More-over, it brings one into contact with different class of travellers, and I find it attractive to weave about their varying romances personalities.

On one specially dreary eveningrainy, foggy, and chilly—I was particularly glad to board the brightly-lighted car, after the depressing gloom of the street; grateful, too, that I should have but a few yards to traverse between street corner and home when alight-

Though the car was fairly well filled there were no very striking occupants-just ordinary workingfolk. But as I sank down into a vacant corner seat, a slim youth entered and took the opposite place -a really handsome lad! I was attracted at once by the quite classical beauty of his pale face; the dark blue eyes and black hair suggested Irish blood. But how miserably sad, how hopelessly wretched, he looked! He closed his eyes and leaned his head in the corner with an air of weariness that touched while it interested me.

I took stock of the youth. About eighteen, evidently; raiment, originally of best quality, much worn; boots and trousers—dark-blue serge, like the coat which showed under the grey mackintosh — terribly splashed with street mud. The hands resting on his knees were refined and well kept. Everything about him spoke of gentle birth. Something had gone wrong! There was no trace of dissipation in the attractive face; but there was misery — perhaps want, even — suggested in its expression of hopeless langour. My heart went out in pity. The conductor's appeal for fares broke upon my musings. I paid mine; the boy opposite did the same, his face flushing slightly as same, his face flushing slightly as he did so. My neighbor, a small the rest of the family were

"Off you get, then!" was the conductor's stern decree.
"See, I'll pay for you!" I

An extra penny for sweets An extra penny for sweets brought smiles in place of tears, and she shyly thanked me. The lad opposite looked on almost wistfully, I thought; but catching my eyes, closed his own once more.

Jumping out at my usual corner, I found my opposite neighbor alighting too. Stupid British reticement checked my inclination to ask if I could be of service in to ask if I could be of service in any way. He might resent my interference! So I started off towards home. But my conscience reproached me. What harm would have been done by a kindly word? Supposing he had haughtily rejected my advance—it could but have given me a salutary mortification!

But he way not haughty, merely a But he was not haughty; merely a boy in trouble, whom a kind word might have cheered and heartened. I felt very angry with myself for submitting to conventionalism rather than the urging of charity. I hesitated, stopped, turned back —moved by some forlorn hope of recovering a lost opportunity. Perhaps I might even now find the Footsteps were approachingrather faltering footsteps—from necessities. road where the car had set me down. I moved along slowly towards the wayfarer. By the light of a street lamp I recognized lad who was occupying my thoughts. I threw convention to the winds. "I fancy you are in need of help," I said coldly. "If so, I am needed.

at your service."

In that dim light, even I could see the flash of relief in his face.

"You are more than kind," he said-his voice was musical, and its accent cultured. "I am, indeed, in great straits just now!"

conceal under a matter-of-fact

As we passed on down the road the boy walked rather unsteadily.
"You are tired," I said. "Let me help you along." I took him by the arm, and we soon arrived at my diggings. He was silent until I had made him remove his overcoat and led him into the cheerful sittingroom, where a bright fire glowed and the shaded lamp showed a table spread for dinner.

My guest looked so white and weary as he sank into the chair I ad drawn forward for him that felt alarmed. I proposed a glass of wine, or mouthful of brandy, realizing that his strength was almost spent. You are most kind," he said, passed away with a few hours of but I have not had food very lately and moonlight dreams, and a restless I feel rather afraid to take wine or I feel rather afraid to take wine or spirits, under the circumstances "You shall have some soup first," I said. I ordered in the dinner at once, and got the lad to sit down with me without pretense of reluctance

We talked little during the meal, for my visitor was evidently in sore need of nourishment, and I felt it wiser to attend, in the first place, to bodily rather than mental affairs. Over coffee and cigarettes the boy told his story. It was the not unusual one in this benighted land—thanks to solid British prejudice, and want of logic! His father. Thomas Wollencroft, a successful ironmaster, had sent him—his only son—to Oxford, so that he might be the means of the social advancement of the family. Young Tom had been "fool enough" in his father's phraseology—"to get ensnared by those Papists" (T. W. Senior got a bad attack of virulent senor got a bad attack of virtuent adjectivitis whenever he alluded to the subject, to "join on with them in their tom-fooleries"—in ordinary English, to become a Catholic him-

T. W. Senior's religion consisted in being officially churchwarden and personally a rare attendant at his parish church, and a munificent contributor to all Church charities which issued regular lists of subscriptions. His aim was to make enough money to live in easy affluence, until he saw fit to convert his business into a syndicate and settle down as a country gentleman. Young Tom was an important factor in the scheme; he was not expected to demean himself by the slightest connection with the "Works," but was to play the gentleman, and by means aristocratic acquaintances float the Wollencrofts into "society."

The old ironmaster's anger with his son was unrestrained. He had literally turned him loose on the world-penniless, indeed, but for the lad's mother, who had secretly supplied him with all the available cash in her possession, as she took a tearful leave of the exile. Tom had gone straight to London, pecting in his youthful ardor to get congenial employment; but without references, or experience, nothing could be gained, and his money was rapidly diminishing, his shoes and clothing wearing out, and the outlook depressing in the extreme. He had come down to the country for economy's sake, attracted to Midhampton by the fact of the residence there of a youth with whom he had formed a rather close friendship at Oxford; but his friend was touring on the Continent and girl of about nine, burst into tears.
She had lost her money and could shown the merely polite interest in required. They had not even offered him tea, which would have helped him on his way; for a meagre breakfast was all that his exchequer had warranted before starting by rail that morning.

I had to screw up my courage to follow you home,' apologetically; but it was your kind action to that little kiddie in the car that suggested asking your advice and help."

I must own I was deeply moved by the lad's evidently helpless situation. There could be no mistrusting his sincerity; his manners were those of a cultured gentleman and his personality unusually winning. My sympathies were entirely in his favor, and I resolved to help him, come what might. () have a spinster sister, herself the soul of charity, who loves to ward off suspicions from herself by dealing out to me generous reprimands upon my foolish accessibility to any casual tramp who can spin a pathetic yarn. Luckily she happened to be absent that evening.)

The boy was moved almost tears when I outlined my plan, could not put him up that night, but I directed him to a decent hotel, and proffered coin for immediate He was to come next evening to dinner, and we discuss possibilities. I hinted (as likely to disarm my sister's suspicions) that he might prudently invest in some suitable raiment, and handed my card as introduction to the tailor I usually employed, promising the lad that I would

was clear when I accompanied my new friend to the hotel I had mentioned. He gave me a tremendous grip when we parted, and I walked back home elated at the thought of having played so successfully the role of the Good

FRE

ASTHMA CHRONIC BRONCHITIS HAY FEVER and CATARRH SUFFERERS

BUCKLEY'S 2-Bottle Treatment Over 10,000 Canadians Freed from Misery of These Diseases. You, too, can get relief from your sufferings. Send 10c. to cover packing and postage for trial package. W. K. BUCKLEY LTD., Mfg. Chemists Dept. 2 , 142 Mutual Street, Terente.

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS

MURPHY & GUNN BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, NOTARIES Solicitors for The Home Bank of Canada Solicitors for the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation

Suite 53. Bank of Toronto Chambe LONDON, CANADA Phone: 170 FOY, KNOX & MONAHAN

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, NOTARIES, Etc T. Louis Monahan George Keogh Cable Address : "Foy" Telephones { Main 461 Main 462 Offices: Continental Life Buildi CORNER BAY AND RICHMOND STR ETS

TORONTO DAY, FERGUSON & CO. es E. Day James E. Day John M. Ferguson Joseph P. Waish 26 Adelaide St. West TORONTO, CANADA

LUNNEY & LANNAN

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, NOTARIES Harry W. Lunney, B.A., B.C.L., Alphonsus Lannan, LL. B.

CALGARY, ALBERTA JOHN H. McELDERRY BARRISTER. SOLICITOR

NOTARY PUBLIC CONVEYANCER y to Loan Telepho HERALD BLDG, ROOM 24

GUELPH, ONT. ARCHITECTS

WATT & BLACKWELL

ARCHITECTS Sixth Floor, Bank of Toronto Chamber. LONDON ONT. DENTISTS

DR. BRUCE E. EAID Room 5, Dominion Bank Chambers Richmond and Dundas Sts. Phone 5668

EDUCATIONAL

Westervell School Corner of Richmond and Fullarton Sta. A Business College of Strength and Character

St. Jerome's College Founded 1864 KITCHENER, ONT

ellent Business College Department, ellent High School or Academic Depart Excellent College and Philosophical transp. Address. REV. W. A. BENINGER, C. R., Presider

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

John Ferguson & Sons 180 KING ST. The Leading Undertakers & Emb Open Night and Day Telephone House 373 Factory 543

E. C. Killingsworth FUNERAL DIRECTOR Open Day and Night 389 Burwell St. Phone 3971

87 YONGE ST., TORONTO PHONE MAIN 4030

Hennessey Something More Than a Drug St

DRUGS PERFUMES Order by Phone - we deliver LOUIS SANDY

CUT FLOWERS

CANDIES

GORDON MILLS

Habit Materials and Veilings SPECIALLY PRODUCED FOR THE USE OF

RELIGIOUS COMMUNITIES BLACK, WHITE, AND COLOURED SERGES and CLOTHS, VEILINGS

CASHMERES, ETC. ked in a large variety of widths and qualities LOUIS SANDY

Mills, STAFFORD, ENGLAND -Louisandi, Stafford. 'Phone No. 104

unpaid. I settled it, of course, to prevent gossip. At the tailor's I found the young gentleman had made several purchases, and had been measured for one or two suits.

I ments of Ulfilas's Gottic translation of the Bible, the works of Virgil with Petrarch's notes, the Libro d'Oro of Milan, and letters by Borromeo, Ariosto, Tasso Galileo and others." I nodded satisfaction, and proceeded on my way to business somewhat subdued in mien. Yet I was still unconvinced of anything like temptations to own myself bluffed by an unusually smart swindler were constant. Yet the lad's honest eyes, his assured air of quiet, undemonstrative gratitude, always came to my relief. There must be some explanation of his mysterious without delay. In the Sala Antica, I shrank from indisappearance! quiry through the police, with an instinctive reluctance to even an appearance of distrust.

Relief came at last in the shape of a message from the Town Hospital. A patient was asking eagerly for me; would I come without delay, as the matter was grave-

There I found both the reward of my undiminished confidence in Tom's genuineness, and the justifica-tion of large-mindedness in the practice of charity towards those in need. The lad had been the victim of a careless cyclist, who had rung no warning bell, and had crashed into him when he stepped aside from a puddle on the road in the town's outskirts. The ingenuous youth who had caused the mishap thought it more prudent to leave others to investigate the harm done; with a mere glance over his shoulder he scorched for safety.

More charitable bystanders took in hand the conveyance of the unconscious lad to the sheltering care of the hospital. When he recovered consciousness the poor boy was distressed at this apparent discourtesy in my regard; but in his weak state he was unable to recall my name, which he had only learned from the card I had given him on the night of his arrival. His anxiety preyed upon his health and gave cause for alarm to doctor and nurses But, for unately, he mentioned the fact of the card being at the tailor's-whose name he could not recall either. Inquiries were therefore possible, and my identity was revealed.

The lad's joy at seeing me was so great that it actually helped towards his recovery. It was not long before I was able to get him moved to my diggings, and with care and attention he soon regained

Tom is my welcome housemate now, and further acquaintance does but strengthen the bonds of friendship between us, in spite of the disparity in our years. He has developed quite an exceptional gift for writing short stories, and easily able to maintain himself until such time as his old curmudgeon of a father acquires some common sense and invites him back. With the constantly sense and invites him back. With sense and invites him back. With felt in the literary world. In Austria, Hermann Bahr, the former director of the famous have good reason to think that Tom's prayers—which are undoubtedly fervert as well as their former philosophies to give evidence of Christian truth.

to a miracle in due time.

For my part, I thank God often that my trust n the boy's sincerity never really wavered through those terrible days of stress. I have been strengthened, too, in my previous conviction that to show real charity we must now and again be ready to risk failure. And yet—even in a practical sense—"Charity never faileth." For the reward of true Christian charity does not depend for its realization upon the worthiness of the object.

THE AMBROSIAN LIBRARY

Robertson, a well known Presby-terian minister of Scotland. Writ-ing in the Scotsman, Dr. Robertson reviews with singular insight, and a graceful style, the Holy Father's early life and labors, and applauds the felicitous choice of Pope Pius XI. by the Sacred College to the

XI. by the Sacred College to the exalted dignity of the Papacy.
Referring to the present Sovereign Pontiff's work in the Ambrosian Library at Milan, the writer furnishes a description of this famous library and of the herculean labors accomplished there by the then Dr. Ratti in classifying and turned up to dinner. I could not understand it. My confidence in him remained absolutely unshaken; something untoward must have happened. I would make inquiries in the morning, first thing.

At the hotel I met with the answer that the gentleman had stayed the night and taken breakfast, then had left, promising to be in for lunch; but he had not returned and his bill was still unpaid. I settled it, of course, to prevent gossip. At the tailor's I found the young gentleman had made several purchases, and had been measured for one or two suits.

At the new with the fast, then had left, promising to be in for lunch; but he had not returned and his bill was still unpaid. I settled it, of course, to prevent gossip. At the tailor's I found the young gentleman had made several purchases, and had been measured for one or two suits.

At the hotel I met with the precious Teshito, second century illustrated Homer, the precious Teshito, second century of the same century, fragments of of the same century, fragments of Uffilas s Gothic translation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. Sum the existence and divinity of Christ, and to proclaim the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. But, argues the converted writer, a transformation of old myths. Sum the visual proportions as Christianity and universal proportions as Christianity and universal proportions as Christianity and universal proportions as C

When the then Dr. Ratti was appointed librarian he set to work what subdued in mien. Let I was still unconvinced of anything like fraud. "That boy is honest as the day!" I kept reminding myself; but I made no one my confidant but I made no one my confidant. Robertson, "in a few years the Robertson, "in a few years the to house these treasures in durable start and cases and to make them accessible to olic faith. stupendous work was accomplished which confers a benefit today on all who frequent the library.

"The books in the various rooms without delay. In the Sala Antica, the central and original hall of the library, there are rows of mahogany cases with glass covers. In these all the rare manuscripts are exposed to the view of the visitors, who can also obtain permission to examine them.

'Rare books, historical letters, and so forth, are arranged in other cases. The examination and classification of the books afforded Dr. Ratti the opportunity of doing good work also as an annotator and commentator. Accordingly articles appeared from time to time in the Rendiconto del Instituto Lombardo in the Giornale Storico Leteratura Italiana, and Archivio Storico Lombardo. He also in conjunction with Msgr. Magistretti published a volume entitled "Missale Ambrosianum." A mass of literature is rapidly accumulating about the life and works of Pope Pius XI. It all serves to confirm even more strong ly the wisdom and providential guidance of the Sacred Conclave on selecting for Sovereign Pontiff, a scholar of profound erudition, a priest of exalted spirituality, and a diplomat and administrator of tried and tested experience.-The Pilot.

ATHEIST AUTHOR CONVERTED

EGON FRIEDELL PROCLAIMS DIVINITY OF CHRIST By Dr. Frederick Funder

Vienna.-The liberal literary world of Central Europe has been stunned by news of the conversion of Egon Friedell, one of the most powerful and talented of the younger writers of the atheistic

Marking as it does the third recent notable defection from the ranks of artists who regarded it as one of the greatest reproaches that could be cast upon them that they be termed "clericals," the sudden religious profession of this noted litterateur may be said to be another indication of a mighty movement that is leading some of the most brilliant European minds the other day that they have shrewd suspicions that his father knows well enough that they are in touch with him.

managing director of the famous state theatre, led the way. Josef August Lux, the celebrated art critic, followed his lead. Now with him. owe their prominence to the atheas their former philosophies to give evidence of Christian truth.

FRIEDELL'S FORTHCOMING BOOK Announcement has been made that Egon Friedell is publishing a new book under the title of "The Jesus Problem," in which he undertakes to prove the historical existence and the divinity of Christ. It ence and the divinity of Christ. It is interesting to read the arguments he brings forth when addressing intellectual people. Christians by name, who refuse to believe in the historical truths of Christianity and the divinity of the Saviour.

"The life, the sufferings and the ated, nothing worth while remains, because everything centres around Among the noteworthy tributes of Pope Pius XI., that have appeared from non-Catholic writers is one from the pen of Alexander in its magnetic sphere, seeking for in its magnetic sphere, seeking for it or avoiding it. All, consciously, or unconsciously, are receiving from it light and warmth and motive power.

"All over the world people there are who live with a special talent for complicating all things. Every human undertaking they come in contact with immediately becomes entangled in insurmountable difficulties. The simple man of the discover something that is hidden and that should be revealed and then Dr. Ratti in classifying and cataloguing the priceless treasures of one of the world's greatest collections of books.

"All travellers to Milan," writes Dr. Robertson, "know the Biblioteca Ambrosians. It is one of the sights of the city. It was founded by the city of the city. It was founded by Cardinal Borromeo in 1609; so it that they are filled with a cer-

HERMANN BAHR'S PREFACE

The preface of Egon Friedell's book is written by Hermann Bahr, former idol of the Viennese liberal His lines are in keeping the book. Addressing the author, Bahr says:

"People will listen to you because you were clever enough to gain for yourself the reputation of a mocker. As a poet of the cabaret you have won the confidence of a shrewd public with your jokes and your bag of tricks. You can now make people believe in the historical existence of Christ. And those who really believe that Christ existed must needs perceive the Eucharistic

Friedell's conversion therefore has had a profound effect on the whole liberal literary world.

THE LATEST COMER

A striking incident in connection with the formal opening of the new Catholic University of Milan, was the generous offering of 20,000 lire from the writer Papini, who styled himself "the latest comer into the House of God." Few Catholics in this country are familiar with the story of the remarkable conversion of Papini, which has been one of the sensations in literary circles on the continent. In a recent number of the Catholic World, Charles Philips has an appreciative and illuminating article on Papini, that introduced him to the readers of that magazine.

Giovanni Papini's entrance into the Catholic Church really took place two years ago, but has only recently attracted wide attention by reason of the publication of his Life of Christ, which today is the most widely read book in Italy. No literary work of any kind, not even excepting D'Annunzio's perfervid effusions, has had such a remarkable success. It is for sale in every bookstore in Italy: The demand is far in excess of the supply. Already the first edition of twenty thousand copies—which in Europe is exceptionally large—has been exhausted, and translations into foreign language including English have already begun.

Papini is only forty years of age, yet he has produced twenty-three volumes. He is a Florentine, the son of a father who was an ardent anti clerical, a Garibaldean soldier. and a follower of Mazzini. His mother had to have Papini secretly baptized. Temperamentally an anarchist and iconoclast, Papini devoted his youth to rationalistic studies and fell into scepticism and pessimism. Deeply interested in philosophy he founded a philosophy. pessimism. Deeply interested in philosophy, he founded a philosophic and literary review at the age of twenty-one, and attracted the attention of Bergson and William James. The busiest and most brilliant European intellectualists were Papini's intimates. At the age of thirty he came to see the value of the writings of Mazzoni, the author of I Promessi Sposi, especially of his great religious work, Catholic Morals.

A yearning for truth possessed him. As he searched through the dim crowded galleries of human thought "throwing down one idol after another, overturning every pedestal to examine its foundation, impatient with half-lights, and multitudinous shadows of the labyrinth,—but still going ahead, never resting long, always thrust-ing forward, determined to find the way out to daylight, the red glare of war blazing across the world, death of Our Saviour," he writes, "were the sense and the spiritual substance of the last nineteen centuries. If these events are eliminconvinced him of one thing—the weakness and insufficiency of human opinions. The war with its ferocity, its misery, its falsehoods, and its death precipitated his conversion. He turned to the Gospels to find the answer to why civilized men could have fallen to such degradation.

"And in the light of that study" Papini confessed to his interviewer, "I soon discovered that the same terrible things had always been happening for the same old reasons. To stop them, he realized that external systems of politics and eco nomics were useless, unles. street knows this type well and fears its representatives. Behind the simplest facts these people are ready to Papini answers in his own words:
"What was the doctrine that most perfectly revealed such a transformation—the actual changing of the instincts of man? That of the Gospels. Coming to this conclusion, I rested for a little while, having laid hand on the moral system of the Evangelists. I was convinced now of my immortal soul. But, of course, that was not enough. There was one step more—from the law of the Absolute to the Absolute cardinal Borromeo in 1003; so it has existed over three hundred years and each year new books are added to it. At present its twenty rooms contain nearly 200,000 that they are filled with a certain sacred fire or special originality that permits them to view added to it. At present its twenty rooms contain nearly 200,000 way of viewing them." Course, that was not enough. There was one step more—from the than any law of the Absolute to the Abs consequences of our moral and in-tellectual disorders; the making of liant writer, brought up in a world of prejudice and flattery, a modern mocker himself, has made a new start and stands up to defend Cath-"A great renaissance of the Faith is coming. It will be felt everywhere, in the Latin countries as well as in those less traditionally Catholic." This is the intense and vibrant personality, who has arisen as a brilliant Catholic apologist in Italy, and who subscribes himself significantly, "the latest comer into the House of God."—The Pilot.

A PRESBYTERIAN TRIBUTE

TO POPE BENEDICT XV.

It would doubtless fill many columns to print all the eloquent tributes paid the world over to the memory of Benedict XV. by the non-Catholic press. The note of bigotry was but seldom and faintly heard in the secular papers of the United States, while the appreciation for the services rendered by the great Pope of the World War was deep and genuine. From the pulpit of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn Dr William Carter preached a formal sermon upon the subject: "A Protestant Estimate of Pope Benedict XV." "No wonder that the world is mourning so deeply now," he said. "No wonder that the chariots of the Church of God are dragging heavily." Praising the dead Pontiff as a great executive, a great friend of man, and above all a great churchman, a great Christian," he continued.

"Three hundred million Catholics mourn his loss today because of the close and tender relationship they had with him, through the faith he so faithfully and consistently exemplified, and three hundred million Protestants send their sympathy, as from heart to heart, and join their sorrow with their Christian brethren. I trust, therefore, that it will not be deemed presumptuous for a fellow Christian, though of the Protestant faith, in genuine sympathy and sorrow to give, in this public way, a Protestant estimate and eulogy of Pope Benedict XV.

Benedict XV.

Benedict XV. had the gentle sanctity of Pius X. mixed with the keen executive ability and brilliant statesmanship of Leo XIII. No smirch, or spot, or stain ever rested on his life, either public or private. No bar sinister can ever be placed on his escutcheon even by the most malignant of his enemies. In him was combined the manhood of the Master and the culture of the Cross. He lived in the quiet of the cloister but his ear was ever attuned to the cries of a needy and a suffering world. He knew his Lord and Master but he also knew men and ever insisted that he should know them better that he might the better minister to their needs. one hand he grasped the hand of God, as he walked with Him day by day, with the other he reached out to needy men that he might lift them up to higher and to nobler things"

Enumerating the long list of the Pontiff's accomplishments in the cause of peace Dr. Carter thus silences all the criticisms that were made against him in the past:

"The best answer to all these criticisms is the fact that Benedict, throughout the War, won the confidence of the world at large enough to join eleven more nations in formal recognition of the Vatican and representation there than it had had before The nations represented by formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican at the beginning of the War numbered twenty, at the end of the War the number had increased to thirty-one Let this be the answer to all his critics.'

Against those in fine who censured the Pope for his fight against Protestant propaganda in Rome Dr. Carter nobly replies: "Is there anything derogatory in a man fighting back for his faith?"

> ENDORSE PRESIDENT'S CENSURE OF BIG TRY

New York, April 10 .- More than 1,000 policemen, members of the Holy Name Society of New York, following their annual Communion at St. Patrick's Cathedral, adopted by rising vote a resolution endors ing the sentiments expressed by President Warren G. Harding in Washington, when he deplored the spread of religious bigotry and he disrespect into which regard for the law has fallen.

"What we need is an old-fash-ioned restoration of respect for authority," said Justice Victor J. Dowling in addressing the men. 'Our President perhaps faces more than any other President the danger that lies ahead from the little rethat lies ahead from the little re spect in which citizens today hold Martin Conboy, Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright and Judge Harry Tiernan were among the other speakers. "It is inspiring," said Mr. Conboy, "to hear the voice of the President lifted today." against those religious bigots and narrow-minded reformers who have brought about that present disrespect for the law that is making the work of you men so hard today."

New Chemical Fire Extinguisher

Agents: $1,000 for your next 100 days-SPOT CASH Start First Day

Protex Chemical Fire Extinguisher Co. Ltd. 607 Echo Drive, Ottawa

WARNING! Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Unless you see the name "Bayer" on tablets, you are not getting Aspirin at all. Why take chances?

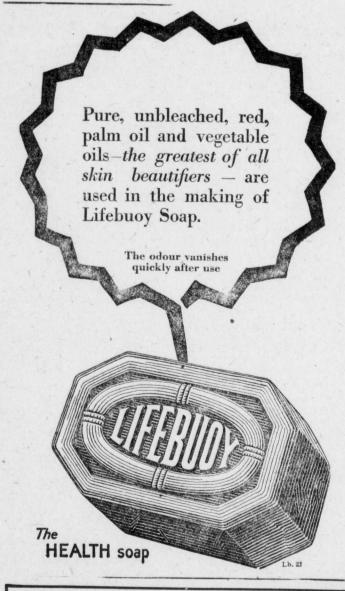

Accept only an "unbroken package" of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," which contains directions and dose worked out by physicians during 22 years and proved safe by millions for

Colds Toothache Earache

Headache Neuralgia Lumbago

Rheumatism Neuritis Pain, Pain

Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets—Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists. Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

Express your love of the beautiful by tinting your walls with Alabastine. There are twenty-one tints and white from which to choose and dozens of stencil pat-terns. Make up your own color scheme or use the Alabastine color plan book. You will have artistic, sanitary walls at a cost much less than that of paper or paint by using.

5-lb. packages, 75c; 2½-lb. packages, 40c. The Alabastine Company

Paris, Limited Winnipeg, Man.

GET "JOINT EASE" FREE

A Regular 60c Tube. For Rasumatic Pains, Lumbago, Sciatica, stiff, swollen, aching joints and muscles. Wonderful for Neuritis, Just rub it is and watch the pain and trouble disappear. "JOINT EASB" is better than musey old plasters and liminents that stain and blasses, For free Ocent tube (only one to cook family) address, with 16c in stamps or cosh te help cover mailing costs. H. P. Clear wates, No. 65 B St., Hallowell, Maine.

THE postman and expressman will bring Parker service right to your home. We pay carriage one way. Whatever you send—whether it be household draperies or the most delicate fabrics—will be speedily returned to their priginal freshness. When you think of cleaning or dyeing think of PARKER'S.

Parker's Dve Works Limited

Cleaners and Dyers 791 Yonge St. Toronto

Also Eruptions on Face. Very Disfiguring.

"My trouble began with small patches of scales upon my scalp which spread and covered the top of my head. My hair became dry and life-less and fell out. Soon the trouble appeared in circles on my face. The cruptions on my face were eruptions on my face were eruptions on my face we

why eruptions on my face were very disfiguring.

"A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a free sample which helped me, so I bought more, and after using one box of Ointment, together with the Soap, I was healed." (Signed) George Brett, Jr., Pullman, Wash. Give Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum the care of your skin.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Lym tted, 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal." So, where, Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Ta Cuticura Soap shaves witho

Rheumatism Appendicitis Constipation

If you are afflicted with any of these complaints I can assure you relief, and in many cases a complete return to normal Send 50.0 and I will mail you receipt for one. Send $1.0 and get the three. If you have no money send your address, I will do the rest. F. Ignatius, 10123 99th St., Edmonton, Alta.

F. E. LUKE

OPTOMETRIST AND OPTICIAN 167 YONGE ST. TORONTO

Eyes Examined and Glass Eyes Fitted

The Catholic Record

Price of subscription—$2.00 per annum. United States and Europe—$2.50. Pablisher & Proprietor, Thomas Coffey, LL. D. Editors { Rev. James T.Foley, B. A. Thomas Coffey, LL. D. ssociate Editor — H. F. Mackintosh, fanager — Robert M. Burns. Address business letters to the Manager.
Classified Advertising 15 cents per linemittance must accompany the orde Vhere Catholic Record Box address is require and 10 cents to prepay expense of postagon replies.

e made to return rejected contributions when tamped addressed envelopes are enclosed.

The Catholic Record has been approved and ecommended by Archbishops Falconio and baretti, late Apostolic Delegates to Canada, he Archbishops of Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, and St. Boniface, the Bishops of London, familton, Peterborough and Ogdersburg, Y., and the clergy throughout the

In St. John, N. B., single copies may be burchased from Mrs. M. A. McGuire, 249 Main tt. and John J. Dwyer.
In Sydney, N. S., single copies may be burchased at Murphy's Bookstore.
In Montreal single copies may be purchased ased at Murphy's Bookstore, ontreal single copies may be purchased Milloy, 241 St. Catherine St. West. ttawa, Ont., single copies may be pur-from J. W. O'Brien, 141 Nicholas St. following agents are authorized to subscriptions and canvass for The Catholic Record:
General Agents—M. J. Hagarty, Stephen V.
James, George J. Quigley, Clarence A.
McIntyre, Resident Agents—Miss Bride
Saunders, Sydney; E. R. Costello, 76 Pender
St. West, Vancouver, B. C.; H. Chamberlin,
Ottawa Wost; Mrs. Geo. 5, Smith, 288 Mance
St., Montreal; Mrs. dward McPike, 224
Martin Ave, Elmwood, 'Innipeg, Man,
John P, O'Farrell, 98 Aberdeen St., Quebec
City.

LONDON, SATURDAY, APRIL 29, 1922

THE NATIONAL STATUS OF CANADA

Every Canadian is familiar with the assertion, made so frequently the way to nationhood; indeed, that the Dominions are in all contribute. respects equal in status with the pronouncements of leading Domin-'agreement in principle" only, the so, he did it without a vestige details have still to be worked out. And, as we have seen so often lately, the details are more importupon than the principle.

General Smuts, the Prime Minister of South Africa, was most Mr. Lloyd George's statement, outspoken and unequivocal when he upon the position of the Dominions

"The British Empire as it existed exist as a result of the War.

Dominions have, in principle, authority and power not only in respect of their domestic questions but also of their international or foreign relations and the questions of peace or war which may

"If a War is to affect them they will have to declare it. If a Peace is to be made in respect of them they will have to sign it.

Their independence has been

'The last vestige of anything in the nature of subordinate status in the relationship will have to diswords. I quote the considered language of the present Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

The South African party is out

As we have said, this pronouncement of the South African Premier is emphatic and unequivocal; there is no doubt as to the impression he meant to convey, and little as to the meant to convey, and little as to the impression generally received. In the Mr. Lloyd George's statement that

"General Smut's declaration is deliberate, studied, and categorical. He says in effect:

Independence of the Dominions have been achieved. (2) The Dominions are equal with the Mother Country.

"(3) The Dominion is not necessarily at war when England is at The Dominion is not at war until it declares war.

"(4) Conferences will be between Governments regarding civil matters of common interest.

(5) There is no question of voice' or 'consultation' or or with adequate representation' respect to foreign policy. According to Smuts, the Dominion is supreme and independent in regard to all foreign policy and no closer union than the above will be toler-

The "voice," "consultation," and "adequate representation" here contrasted with the South African Premier's ringing declaration of South African sovereignty are, as will be seen by referring to last week's article, quotations from Sir Robert Borden and N. W. Rowell when the ex-Premier and his fied. What we desire to add right This is what is called "watered with popular aspirations, was honcolleague were speaking on the here is that unless Canadians- stock." Another practice is to self same subject as General Smuts. average everyday Canadians—think give some persons large amounts of

"It is evident," as Sir Clifford remarks, "that there is a wide difference between the Canadian view of the external relations of Canada and the utterances of South Smuts regarding Africa. Yet the actual status of Canada and South Africa must be

General Smuts than do our Canadian | development. statesmen.

Premier Lloyd George, while apparently joining in the general chorus of exaltation of our new national status, asserts that it means a centralized control and a distribution of the burdens of Empire that would make our last state much worse than the first. Reread his statement. He assumes as an accomplished fact what had hitherto been but a pious aspiration of the more sanguine of Imperialists.

To quote Sir Clifford Sifton again: "This [Lloyd George's statement] is a remarkable and momentous declaration. It states definitely and categorically that all the Dominions have agreed that the foreign policy of the whole Empire (including the Dominions) should be handled through the British foreign It further states that Dominions have become and are jointly responsible for this policy throughout the whole world, including, for example, Egypt and, if Egypt, then India."

"Three remarks may be made respecting this declaration.

In the first place, joint responsibility means moral, naval, military, and financial responsibility for any and every war in which the British foreign office or any other department of the British Governby our public men within the last ment may involve Britain. These few years, that Canada has made a henceforth will not be merely distinct and important advance on British wars, but Empire wars, to which Canada shall be bound to

"In the second place, it may be definitely stated that no one ever mother country; that Great Britain assumed to commit Canada to such is merely first amongst equals. a policy, unless it was Mr. Meighen the late conference in London But, as we saw last week from the late conference in London. If he did so he has not reported the fact to the Canadian Parliament or ion and British statesmen, there is to the Canadian people. If he did authority from the Canadian Parlia ment or the Canadian people, who were, up to the date of Mr. Lloyd George's speech, in entire ignorance ant and more difficult to agree that any such proposals were being made or considered.

"In the third place, there is a very clear contradiction between and foreign affairs and the speech of General Smuts as above quoted

'General Smuts in plain language before the War has in fact ceased to | tells the people of South Africa that the independence of South Africa has been achieved, that she is in both internal supreme foreign affairs, that she is not at war until she declares war herself Mr. Lloyd George says the Domin ions have agreed to come in and direct foreign affairs for the whole Empire all over the world, in partnership with Great Britain, transacting the entire business through the British Foreign office and assuming joint responsibility therefor.

Referring to the recently proposed Franco-British treaty, the appear. These are not my boastful text of which had already been a sovereign status for South British representatives. No Dominwas not practicable to consult the Dominions and give them a voice in the negotiations; possibly that is true. If so, it merely proves that the policy of joint control which he on the first trial. What we require and that will not break down."

> And then he asks these very pertinent and pregnant questions:

adhered to the treaty make her a neutral and save her commerce from enemy depredations? "It would take a separate article to discuss that question.

Enough has now been said to indicate the necessity of Canada's constitutional relations being defined by law instead of by stump is taken and on the prospects of the a continent-wide Dominion had speeches, and to prove the truth of my remark that it was difficult to glean a correct idea of the true position from an examination of the utterances of our responsible statesmen.

over these things, study them, there stock for their services to the corwill be no enlightened public opin- poration. ion to guide those who may decide This practice may be reasonable them for us. Indeed, it is quite and right; or it may not. Suppose brought to accept conditions whose corporation has received great whole of the Governor's adminis-

CORPORATIONS, THEIR FAULTS AND THEIR GOOD POINTS

By THE OBSERVER

The corporation was necessary to done. Partnership, with unlimited liability of the partners was too besides cash. dangerous; because it might at any time involve in ruin all the partners. The corporation, with personal liability limited by shares, made sums, composed of small subscriptions, without exposing each small subscriber to the whole liability of the corporation's affairs.

One must bear in mind the fact that many of the corporation enterprises which have succeeded vastly, were not at all sure of success at their beginning. It is easy today to recognize the C. P. R. as a huge success, but it was not easy to see that success when it began. It is not hard to judge of events after they have happened. All seems clear after time has made it so.

One must bear in mind also that of all the corporation enterprises ever begun, a great majority have failed. In such cases of failure, labor has nearly always been paid; but the investors have usually lost all they subscribed. When the country was newer and less populated, the average hazard of corporation enterprises was higher than it now is. Even the mighty C. P. R. was regarded by many as a wild scheme. It was natural enough that men who risked much should require large inducements; and the inducements usually took the form of cheap stock. A company engaged in an enterprise which involves the holding of property; mines, railroads, usually issues both bonds and stock. The bonds are supposed to just conclusions can be reached. be secured by a mortgage of the corporation's property. It often turns out that that property when put up for sale does not bring the pays also a dividend on its stock.

"What then is the position of Canada? Shall she approve or not? at auction; but if I can get some class and creed." If not, how will she stand in the of the common stock for nothing, or event of war under the treaty? very cheap, then, if the corporation Will the fact that she has not does succeed, my gains will be very peer, Lord Gosford, recalls the great; so I'll take a chance."

given case, be reasonable enough. adas. That is a time beyond the It may, in another given case, be memory of any now living. It goes particular corporation in question. taken shape in the minds of men. It is obvious that in many cases But it was a period of growth and this practice may be made the development none the less, and means of loading up the corporation | Lord Gosford's part in it, though with obligations upon stock for necessarily of a conservative char-The conclusion is absolutely justi- which it never really got anything.

And yet Lord Milner, ardent stand. And despite all our boast- and its triumph over early obstacles tinued after his return to England. and servants were dead and gone, pondence in internal structure and and uncompromising imperialist ing the "new national status" may and set-backs; whom it is not able It was indeed, under Lord Gosford's had successes far exceeding their the backs and the latter of the property of the pay adequately. If it gives them roof in Armagh that Bishop Mac. In the pay adequately of the pay adequately of the pay adequately of the pay adequately. If it gives them roof in Armagh that Bishop Mac. though he be, appears to take up a turn out to be a retrograde step of to pay adequately. If it gives them roof in Armagh that Bishop Macposition much nearer to that of the first magnitude in our national stock, and not too much stock, of donell spent his convalescence after not necessarily unreasonable.

that a large amount of its stock minated fatally. was originally "given away," that try. Individuals could not, acting singly, do the work that was to be done. Partnership, with unlimited

The point I want to make is, that unscrupulous promoters of corporservices.

There is another way of watering stock. A corporation promoter earn dividends. higher and prices lower if the water | intention. were squeezed out of the stock.

There is a great deal of truth in

NOTES AND COMMENTS

pays the interest on its bonds to hard," he writes, "to realize that to make it a reality. those who have bought them, and almost a year has passed since the death of Cardinal Gibbons. He As AN aftermath to the Dante Suppose the case of a corporation was one of the men whom the celebration at Ravenna the Grand formed forty years ago to develop Nation could ill spare, for his long Orient, the chief Masonic organizamines or build a railroad. It issued and earnest service for both church tion in Italy, head centre of all a certain number of bonds amount- and country had made him one of anticlerical propaganda, essayed to ing to, say, a million dollars. These the most useful and wise counsel- claim the great Florentine poet as Corporations have been accus- in many matters of public concern, quently the Index itself was nonarticle we quoted from last week Sir Clifford Sifton thus summarises the African Prime Minister's mighty

African Prime Minister's m we will give you so much of the regardless of creed. His liberal the world knows, it has ever been common stock as a bonus." Or, it views had earned for him a high regarded as it is to-day as in entire may be, they offer the common place in the esteem of all Christian harmony with Catholic theology, stock at a very low figure. The citizens, and his services and leader- and the highest expression in poetry so eloquently announced above is impracticable and has broken down then says to himself: "Well this specific representation of the Christian ideal. then says to himself: "Well, this spontaneous testimony from the corporation has a very uncertain Nation's official chief, to the unifuture; it may succeed or fail; it form beneficence of the Cardinal's is not unlikely to fail; its property influence, whether as priest or as may or may not bring the amount citizen, may be accepted as the of the bonds if it comes to be sold judgment of thinking men of every

THE RECENT death of the Irish interesting period when his grand-It is obvious that this may, in a father was Governor of the Canacter, and not entirely in harmony orable and above board throughout.

> ONE INTERESTING chapter in Lord Gosford's Canadian career was his friendship with Dr. Alexander Macdonell, first Bishop of Kingston.

a doubtful value at the time, in the illness which had overtaken him payment for such services, that is during his visit to Ireland in the Fall of 1839-a convalescence, Years afterwards, when that par- unhappily, which was, as it proved, ticular company has prospered but the prelude to a relapse in Scotexceedingly, it is often pointed out land a few weeks later which ter-and struggling corporation needs Superior General of the Sacramentine Fathers in Italy, Don Forino, is taking active measures to educate in the matters I have referred to, the nations to thoughts of peace and to set in motion the machinery of ations, more eager to make money prayer to the same end. He has, in possible the accumulation of large than to develop sound enterprises, short, with the approval of the Holy have found a chance to load up the See, established an association the corporations with obligations which object of which is the propagation represent no cash and no real of international peace by means of spiritual agencies.

> THE NEW association is known as may have a friend who has a prop- the Laus Perennis Pro Pace, and erty which can be imagined to be one of the aims of the promoters is was in the past was presumptively needed by the corporation. Many to erect a vast temple in which per- true, and the burden was upon him cases have occurred in which a petual prayer will be offered for the broken-down factory imagined to be peace of the world. This end is broken-down factory imagined to be peace of the world. This end is necessary to the corporation's pursued by an ingenious device, the lessons of the past as presumpfuture, or to be a rival to its busi-future, or to be a rival to its busi-future, or to be a rival to its busi-future, or to be a rival to its busi-of the association. A clock dial is (Reports of the American Bar to its owner a large amount of divided into twenty-four sections, in Association, Vol. 46, 1921, p. 172.) stock; upon which the corporation each section appearing an initial was thenceforward expected to letter. Members throughout the world engage to pray for world-Such are some of the abuses of peace during the time that their though not one whit surprised, to which the corporation is often initial appears on the dial, so that, guilty, and nothing has so much apart from the actual devotions, evolution of man is prejudiced public opinion against which will go in in perpetuity in brainless" this form of commercial and industhe church projected, it is hoped to has a mind "armored and wrinkled in the old old way." (New York trial organization as the conviction have a body of associates in every that corporations are dishonestly part of the world who at every hour inflated, and that wages might be of the day are praying for the same

APART FROM these purely devothis, as to some corporations; not tional engagements the members of as to all corporations. It is of little the association pledge themselves use to study only some of the phases to use all their influence towards and aspects of the corporation the elimination of domestic, social question. The question must be and political discord, and to propastudied from all angles, or else no gate every right cause in a spirit of charity and mutual forbearance. The late Pope, we are told, enthusiastically endorsed the project, which fact of itself commends it to PRESIDENT HARDING'S letter on universal sympathy. If, however, amount of the bonds. In that case, Cardinal Gibbons, written in antici- we are to gauge the prospects of the stock, which is not secured, is, pation of the first anniversary of peace by the trend of current of course, of no value. But if the that prelate's death, deserves to be events, the nations seem yet a long corporation prospers greatly, it printed in letters of gold. "It is way from the dispositions necessary

CARDINAL NEWMAN'S VISION OF IRELAND

"I look for a city less inland than that old sanctuary (Oxford), and a country closer upon the highway of the seas. I look towards a land both old and young; old in its Christianity, young in the promise of its future; a nation, which received grace before the Saxon came to Britain, and which has never quenched it; a Church, which grownynhends in its history, the rise comprehends in its history the rise wholly unreasonable and indefensible. It depends on the risk that is taken and on the prospects of the people which has had a long night, and will have an inevitable day. am turning my eyes towards a hundred years to come, and I dimly see the island I am gazing on, become the road of passage and union between two hemispheres, and the centre of the world. I see its inhabitants rival Belgium in populousness, France in vigor, and Spain in enthusiasm; and I see England taught by advancing years to exercise in its behalf that good sense which is her characteristic towards soil, the home of their fathers, and fountain-head of their Christianity, students are flocking from East, West and South, from America and Australia and India, from Egypt and Asia Minor, with an ease and rapidity of locomotion not yet discovered, and last, though not least, from England,—all speak-ing one tongue, all owning one faith, all eager for one large true

NO NON-MAN ANCESTRY

JESUIT COUNTERS DARWIN DOCTRINE WITH SCIENTIFIC DATA

Francis P. LeBuffer S. J. Regent and Professor of Jurisprudence Fordhan University School of Law

In an address delivered at the annual meeting of the American Bar Association, the Hon. James M. Beck, with rare insight and ability diagnosed the present-day attitude thus: "In all former ages all that the lessons of the past as presump-

As the present writer is one of many thousands who still hold absolutely to the non-evolution of man, he has been more than amused, hear such hackneyed phrases, viz., that one who refuses to hold the hopelessly (New York American (New York in the old, old way Times), that to debate the essential soundness of the theory of evolution is as preposterous as debating whether or not the earth is round

New York Evening World) Yet in face of all this mud throwing we make the categorical assertion that there is not a single scientific fact which proves that man has evolved from any preceding animal whatsoever, and we further assert that from a purely scientific viewpoint the evolution of man is one of the ranking hoaxes of all times. The "tyranny of names" is terrible, and everywhere we hear it said: "Why, everybody holds it." Well, everybody held once that the earth was flat and that the sun went around it. Does it follow that they were right? And isn't it a good thing to have a mind "armored and wrinkled in the old, old way of demanding a scientific proof for a statement of physical fact? And brainless," if to be "brainful" But is there such resemblance? First of all is there resemblance in means to jettison all science and gross outlines? Yes, if you take

Before entering upon the matter make two points perfectly clear. The first one is that he intends to posed Franco-British treaty, the text of which had already been published, Sir Clifford writes:

"Consider this Treaty was negotiated by British representatives. No Dominion representative was present. The Dominions were not consulted nor were they a party to the nor were they a party to the provider that they are not bound until they proven by the clause which provides that they are not bound until they seeding is in flat contradiction to come first.

"Gonsider this Treaty was negotiated by British representatives. No Dominion were none too eager to the public were none too eager to the public; that is influence was invariably exerted in favor of the best conception of place in the public was that the Divine destination of the brethren, and even published a pamphlet, bracketting Dante with the unsavory Giordano Bruno as rebels against Church and so on, with alarming variations. On Pages 162 and fl. he lists the agreements and variations of the best conception of the brethren, and even published a pamphlet, bracketting Dante with the unsavory Giordano Bruno as rebels against Church and so on, with alarming variations. On Pages 162 and fl. he lists the agreements and variations on the placed on the Index, but unfortunately for the credibility of the claim the Sacred Congregation of the brethren, and even publics apphale to seture them. Going to the public concerns. He possessed in a marked because in the public service of the distribution of point of view. Though a Catholic and a priest of the plant is part to the appendix of the public dent is really similar to man burner of the brethren, and even publics apphale to seture them. The Dominions were not consulted in favor of the best conception of such the organizations. On Pages 162 and fl. he lists the appendix of the public stream the public stream the matter in hand from a purely scientific point of view. Though a Catholic and a priest of the distribution of the plant is really similar to man burner of the brethren, and even publics and priest of the states a > sary because the evolutionists most frequently deny God, as tradition-portions by different species," and, ally and rationally understood, and ground except in the realms of scientific, physical facts. Secondly, arranged in a single ascending arranged in a single ascending series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the series of which man is the term and the series of which man is the series of which accepts the discussion already narrowed, to the evolution of man and beyond the purview of this paper. The question at issue is this and this only: Has man evolved from some non-man ancestor or was he always man from the beginning? The categorical answer of real science is absolute in the words of the great Branco at the Fifth International Congress of Zoologists, Aug. 16, 1901: "On the subject of the ancestors of man, palacontology tells us nothing—it knows no ancestors of man." In a like sense Virchow, renowned pathologist and anthropologist of his day and founder of celular pathology, said at the Wiesbaden Congress of Naturalists: "Every positive advance which we have made in the study of prehistoric anthropology has removed us further than before from any proof of evolution to be found there. Man has not descended from the ape, nor has any ape-man existed." Remember, of course, that Branco specialists. Let us then come immediately to our question and we shall proceed by taking up the major arguments advanced by the evolutionists. The everyone else. The capital of that first argument advanced is that of prosperous and hopeful land is situated in a beautiful bay and near a stated: "Man and monkey are so them for us. Indeed, it is quite possible that Canada may under the skilful pilotage of others be brought to accept conditions whose implications we shall not under-and Virchow were outstanding

functional properties of organs is accepted and asserted as explicit proof of common descent. This is the fundamental, but assumed, principle that started all the discussion. But in the name of all logic and sound reasoning, even granting for the sake of argument that such resemblance exists, does it prove anything !

All that resemblance can evidence is resemblance. Let us take an example from external resemblance. Jack and Jim are perfect doubles. Are they necessarily of one parentage, i. e., twins? Or is it not adequately possible that Jack could have been born in Nome on Jan. 1, 1900, at 4 a. m., and Jim in Cape. Town on the same day and at the same hour? Mere resemblance proves nothing. Resemblance may, indeed, create an initial presump-tion, for instance, that Jack and Jim are twins, it may create an initial presumption that man and animals are related, but it proves nothing. This initial presumption must be proved by facts extraneous to resemblance as such. As Pesch Die grossen Weltraetzel II., p. 232) well says: "It must be observed, however, that it does not follow that, because plants and animals exist in certain graded order, less perfect and more perfect, therefore one has evolved from the other. It is the fallacy of "Post hoc, ergo propter hoc." (You bought a brown fedora yesterday, and I bought one today, therefore I bought it because you bought it and derived it from the same source.)

RESEMBLANCE EVIDENCES ONLY RESEMBLANCE

Yet this is what we continually near — resemblance, resemblance, resemblance. Once and for all, granted all the resemblance wanted, what then? Resemblance evidences only resemblance. It proves nothing else by any known rules of right thinking. No one can deny that man has a body in many ways like the animal body. Certainly we are like animals and have organs. If we and the animals have blood which is to be oxygenated, then we and the animals need an organ for this oxygenation -i. e., lungs. If we and the animals have a tissue system which is to be rejuvenated and repaired by a continually flowing stream, then we and the animals need an organ for pumping - i. e. a heart. If we and the animals suffer from catabolism, and the animals need similar organs of digestion, whereby food gested, digested and assimilated into the delivery blood stream to bring about repair—i. e., anabolism. blance is shot through and through with essential dissimilarities, so that man and animal are physiologically and morphologically not univocal but analogous.

just one fast glance and cast no lingering look behind. But 'f you look hard, and scientists really Before entering upon the matter ought to look hard, is there such this paper the writer would likeness? As St. George Mivart pointed out in a book published exactly forty-eight years ago ("Man well say, "You hold two and two make four because you are a man has any special or exclusive affinities — that the resemblances This position, moreover, is neces- between him and the lower forms portions by different species," and, because of this, he says on Page 172: "It is manifest that man, the apes and the half-apes cannot be says the same today. So conscious, indeed, are up-to-date evolutionists of these variaman only. Whether a mollusk ever date evolutionists of these variaevolved into a vertebrate is wholly tions that they have quite despaired of ever linking up man and monkey immediately and so have evolved from their inner consciousness a presimian, pre-anthropoid stock -i. a pre-monkey, pre-manstock—which stock was differentiated into the small monkey stock, the anthropoid ape stock and the human stock, which stock Osborne bases on "a hypothetical ancestor of this entire anthropoid group, founded on a jaw dis-covered in Egypt" (Amer. Museum of Natural History, Guide Leaflet No. 52, p. 5, and Men of the Old Stone Age, pp. 49 and 54.) And you ought to go at once to the Museum and see in case No. 1 this tiny jaw on which so great a fabric is raised. "The mountains are in labor and there is brought forth a laughable mouse. PROOFS VARIOUS AND VARYING

But was there ever such a premonkey, pre-man stock? Evolutionists, of course, say that there was and their proofs are various and varying and we shall rapidly sketch a few.

In replying to Bryan, Osborne speaking of the paleontological remains, said: "He? i. e., Darwin, could not have even dreamed of such a flood of proof and evidence."

heir hard earned 'taxes. "Five cases in the centre of the hall are deit can be compressed into so small a is an indication of the scarcity of his remains, for here are displayed reproductions of all of the notable specimens that have been discovered" (Leaflet No. 52, p. 3.) discovered" (Leaflet No. 52, p. 3.) Really, Mr. Osborn, how did "a scarcity of his remains" grow into Haven't vou broken the speed-laws of even saltatery evolution here But what is this "flood ?" Just four or five pieces of skulls. The Trinil ape-man, which is a hodgepodge of bones belonging to no one creature ("the first of the conun-drums of history," Osborn,") the "Heidelberg man," i. e., to say "jaw" (but of course Haeckel taught the left-handed, rightuse o of a part for Piltdown skull whole. in fragments, and utterly dis-credited by scientific men as one of the hoaxes of science, and last but not least, the Neanderthal man, not least, the Neanderthal man, i. e., a skull-pan (for that part of the dear old fossil is limelighted always) over whose departed self Osborn & Co. go into raptures, and one H. G. Wells has repeatedly grown sentimental. Four, i. e., one, the three four pieces of home. two, three, four pieces of bone, constitute a "flood." The writer is not ignorant, of course, of the few dozen skeletons which are grouped about these pivotal skulls by evolu-First of all, they can all be placed comfortably in the back of a small Ford delivery wagon; secondly, their worth is pivoted on that of cranial development. This the notorious aforementioned skulls, argument states that "the cubical and, thirdly, even Mr. Osborn admits they might be rightly 'scarcity," and "scarcity' is not "flood.

And what is the worth of these remains? Zero, as far as evolu-tion is concerned. The Trinil apeman Pithecanthropus is a pure figment, for, as Virchow said, the head is that of an ape, the femur, found fifty feet away, is that of a man, and neither of the two teeth belongs to that skull. The Heidelberg onehalf of 1% original jawbone and 99½% restoration," has been practically duplicated by an Eskimo iaw and is merely an abnormal skull has provoked from competent Here are a and last, but not least to a Mongolian Cossack of the year 1814!

the remains of a number of termediate between men and apes." the remains of a human being in- many Neanderthal man is not a specimen of a race arrested in its upward climb, but rather of a race thrown down from a higher position." Yet as you walk into the Hall of the Age of Man Mr. Osborn with a gesture of finality waves his hand at Case 1 and Case and Case 3, and at the walls whereon his faithful understudy has painted moving scenes of sub-man life and tells you triumphantly to see how all these exhibits "form a progressive

Of course they do. How could they Hasn't the faithful McGregor existent knee as the evolutionists said it should be curved and sloped. each nonexistent femur and thigh as the evolutionists said the femur and thigh should be sloped? Of course they "progress," You schematized and made them progress. gress. But didn't Haeckel cut off a monkey's tail to have a missing link. Think of paying taxes for the upkeep of a building wherein are depicted such phantasmagoria!

SHAFT AT CONKLIN But leaving gross anatomy and delving into more particulars, is there resemblance here? Conklin said in The Times: "All the eviof evolution drawn from morphology, physiology, embryology, paleontology, homology, heredity, environment, &c., speak for the evolution of man as much as for any other organism." First did he read Science for Jan. 20, 1922, wherein Bateson's paper may be found in which he absolutely denied before the American Association for the proof of common ancestry. Advancement of Science in Toronto Dec. 28, 1921, that morphology or genetics taught any such thing? Osborn's answer in The Times, Page 2, Column 1, to Bateson's paper that "Bateson is living the life of a scientific specialist, out of the main current of biological disis naive.) covery

Secondly, does he know, to select few, the following differences between man and animals, including the monkey? (1) That the main tasting apparatus in animals and monkeys is on the sides of the tongue and laminated, while in man it is on the top and circumvallated : (2) That the pelvic bones of the animal and monkey are flatter and more elongated, so that it is unnatural for an animal or monkey to walk upright, since the intestines to walk upright, since the intestines are within us, therefore, they have are within us, therefore, they have and therefore Osborn saws off, the word that there to walk upright, since the intestines are within us, therefore, they have are within us, therefore are within us and more elongated, so that it is unnatural for an animal or monkey to walk upright, since the intestines lack support, whereas in man the lack support in the definition of lack supports to hold that there is seated. The horse-evolution at best, according to many specialists, "is scarcely ing to many specialists, "is scarcely ing to many specialists, it is scarcely in the difference in the difference in the scarce in the scar pelvic bones are shorter and more inclined together at the lower extremities, precisely as necessary for an erect position; (3) That physiology does teach us a vital difference between man and monkey. Monkeys live on cellulose, digesting it and nourishing themselves there by. Man cannot live on cellulose. This argues a radical difference in the digestive apparatus of man and monkey; (1) That genetics teach us is fertile once during the year, i. e., in the summer, whereas the human female continually produces ova: (5) That the monkey has one set of ribs more than man.

Ranke (Der Mensch, 2 ed. Vol, I, p. 437) says on comparing the skeletons of man and of the anthropoid ape: "We may place side by side and compare one bone after the other, and we shall find that everywhere the same general form and arrangement prevail. But in par-ticular there is no bone, be it ever so small, nay, not even the smallest particle of bone, in which the general agreement in structure and function would pass over into real identity. By its characteristic form we are able to tell each single bone of man from the respective bone of any anthropoid ape or mammal." And Virchow said nammal." And Virchow said: 'The differences between man and monkey are so wide that almost any fragment is sufficient to diagnose (Report of the Smithsonian Institution, 1889, p. 566.) Not much resemblance there!

Another argument advanced is capacity of the skull is an index or norm of intellectual development and mind capacity." What is the scientific worth of this assumption? The scientific worth is (1) zero, or (2) if accepted, proves a boomerang for the evolutionists. (1) Its worth is zero. Why? Because the skull with the highest cubical capacity yet found is that of a savage of New Britain, with 2,010 cubic centimeters, 45 cubic centimeters greater than Bismarck's, 507 cubic centinaljawbone meters greater than the normal has been male skull of Central Europe, and 715 cubic centimeters greater than the normal female skull of the same maxillary bone. The Piltdown skull territory! (In passing, a note of is the joke of paleontologists because of all the circumstances of its finding, and the Neanderthal remain remain remains the same territory! (In passing, a note of warning to the ladies! Since the normal female skull capacity is roughly 200 cubic centimeters less than the normal male skull capacauthorities a dozen or more opin- ity, a woman who holds to the principle of evolution should refrain few: The skull belonged to a human idiot (Blake, Vogt, Hoelder, Zittel:) to an old Celt; to an old Hollander; to an old Frieslander; woman is, according to this principle, in an admittedly lower stage It was of these remains that uxley said: 'In no sense can the eanderthal bones be regarded.' Neanderthal bones be regarded as excess of modern men, as have many savages in comparison with civilized man. Osborn himself gives 1,408 cubic centimeters for Neanderthal and 1 550-1,880 cubic centimeters for Cro-Magnon, whereas women of Bavaria now have about cubic centimeters, and English Irish and French women have been found with only 1,050-1,090

cubic centimeters. SUPRA-ORBITAL RIDGES

Another argument advanced at times is that of the supra-orbital ridges "Prominence of the ridges over the eyes is an indication of nearness to the apes." Is that so? Then our friends, the evolutionists, including Messrs. Osborn and Conkused a deal of pains and care to lin, are nearer the apes than the build up the properly angled jaw negroes of South Africa. Why? on Mr. Trinil Apeman and to add a Well, because, according to real, sloped and cramped cran- not imaginary, anthropology it is an um to poor Heidelberg's jaw and to interested fact that the negroes of South Africa have less of a supra-orbital ridge than the men of the Rev. H. E. Fosdick writes: " pitch a nonexistent face on the Neanderthal skull pan so that it orbital ridge than the men of the will have a lesser protrusion of chin white race. Professor Arthur than its predecessors have? Hasn't Keith says ("The Human Body," pp. the valiant Knight curved each non- 177 and ff.): "In the typical African negro the forehead, as a rule, is high and the supra-orbital ridges are distinctly less prominent than in the European. The supra-orbital ridges of the Chinaman are less developed than in the European."

Occasionally we hear of tailed men. Of such Ranke says: "In our own day observations have furnished us with an invulnerable argument that no race of men with tails exists on this earth." If any such are found, the so-called "tail" found to be merely a genuine deformity, viz., a tumor or a reversed coccyx, &c. The evolutionists, however, have discreetly dropped this argument, for every man knows that the anthropoid ape has not a tail. We mention it, however, as we hear it offered as a popular objection at times. Even though men did have tails, that would prove nothing, for it would again be just a point of resemblance and so would e in no wise at all a

An argument formerly more in vogue than now, though frequently presented by "the man in the street," is that of rudimentary organs. It has frequently been asserted that so-called rudimentary organs in man are a proof of evolution. The rudimentary organs most featured were the pineal, the pituitary and the thyroid glands and the vermiform appendix. The main reason for calling them rudimentary or vestigial organs was that no adequate reason had or has been found for their presence. But first, is it a sufficiently good reason that because we do not know why they fine line. from thought to thought,"

and then admit our ignorance? and then admit our ignorance?

Secondly, as we begin to push back the borders of our ignorance light breaks in upon us. Professor Arthur Keith, in his address as President of the Anthropological
Section of the British Association,
Section of the British Association, meeting at Bournemouth (Smithsake of his own cause Osborn sonian Report for 1919, p. 448), should have omitted that sentence. sonian Report for 1919, p. 448), should have omitted that sentence said: "We have hitherto regarded He deceives none but the ignorant from some distant human ancestor reversions," "animal in whom that eye was functional, etc., etc., should stop. in the machinery which controls the growth of the body." Yet if one had dared a few years back to conwhose removal entails myxoedema, Huxley said: "The recent discovery of the important part played by the thyroid gland should be a warning to all speculators about useless organs."

" BLOOD RELATIONS

Argument advanced quite often is that we are "blood relations" to the apes because our blood is similar to theirs. Friedenthal, who discovered this blood resemblance, himself said that he never meant anything more than a blood resemblance in the chemico-physical sense. Again resemblance! What of it? Again resemblance! What of it? As Rothschild and Berthelot have both shown that the milk of asses is nearest the milk of human females we might just as logically claim milk relationship with asses.

A final point and we have come to the end of our allotted space. It is the famous law of biogenetics, popularized and lying proved by Haeckel. Haeckel took a picture of an embryo turtle, made three reproductions and labeled them "fish," "turtle" and "bird." "fish," "turtle" and "bird." But despite Haeckel's falsification, is this law true? Not according to real scientists. Carl Vogt said: It has been laid down as a fundamental law of biogenesis that ontogeny (the development of the individual) and phylogeny (that of the race) must exactly correspond. This law, which I held as well founded, is absolutely and radically false. Again, Zittel has said: "If paleontology be con-

Is he really ignorant that all this nonsense was long, long ago shattered by Oskar Hertwig and other embryologists? Supposing, again, there was a real gill? there was a real Resemblance, yes. Atavistic reversion to a fish! Though versal in occurrence, shall we say that the Siamese twins were a reversion to an atavistic condition Some months ago this daily genitor of like construction, or that real situation is that every fact on which investigation has been able to lay its hand helps to confirm the hypothesis of evolution." He is but following "the wild and whirling words" of Osborn, Conklin & Co. (c. f. N. Y. Times, March 5, Specia Features Section, p. 2, col. 1, p. 14, col. 1, and passim in the works of these and other gentlemen). Did he or they ever read the men). Did he or they ever read the words of Professor Fleischman, zoologist, of Erlangen: "Instead of scientists having been able from year to year to produce an increasyear to year to produce an increasing abundance of proof for the correctness of the doctrine of descent, the lack of proof and impossibility of procuring evidence is notorious?" Or these of Professor Steinmann: "In the light of the State, of old-age pensions for the state of of recent research, fossil discoveries which an attempt has been made to bring the descent system into an agreement with the actual facts the incongruity between the two has me obvious? When these gentlemen, like all true evolutionists, raise their fanfare that no scientist disputes the fact of evolution, one is really puzzled to know whether they are ignorant of the matters wherein they claim to be specialist or are deliberately asserting what they know to be false. The dilemma seems complete.

OSBORN AGAIN UNDER ATTACK

saw no reason? Would not sheer supported hypothesis." Of the dustrial and commercial instituense urge us to recall Tennyson's them). (1) the proved ones are all ne line. "Our thin minds that real horses; (2) many have never been seen but are postulated, and (3) the non-horse ancestors really the pineal gland, little bigger than a wheat grain and buried deeply in knows no non-man ancestor, and it is To resume and to conclude: Man the brain, as a mere useless vestige high time that all this twaddle of a median or parietal eye, derived about "cave-man stuff," "atavistic about "cave-man stuff, "animal heritage. in whom that eye was functional, etc., etc., should stop. To teach but on the clinical and experimental evidence now rapidly accumulating we must assign to it a place nonsense as it is to teach two and two make five. The great biologist, Yet if one back to con- * * a criminal sporting with tradict the 'effete side-eye' theory and had urged a purposeful pres-plete and admitting so many the truth, out of remains so incomence of the pineal, one would have been called a medievalist, an obscurantist, hopelessly brainless, &c., &c. Of the thyroid gland, the purpose of deceiving a wider public

No wonder Kentucky has become excited. The present writer, of course, holds it would be unquestionably impudent for Kentucky or any other State to make such a law. for he has ever before his mind the saying he once found attributed to Ruskin: "Darwinism has a mortal fascination for all vainly curious and idly speculative persons, and has collected in the train of him impudent imbecility Europe, like a dim comet wagging its useless tail of phosphorent nothingness across the steadfast stars.

SOCIAL UNIVERSITY IN SPAIN

KING ALFONSO JOINS WITH BISHOPS IN PROMOTING GREAT PROJECT

By Rev. Manual Grana In a joint pastoral letter signed by every prelate in Spain, the Spanish Hierarchy has initiated a great social campaign which has been welcomed with enthusiasm by the great mass of Spanish Catholics. The plan to organize the Catholic to undertake a far-reaching social and cultural work, including the establishment of a University.

King Alfonso of Spain has shown the keenest interest in the plans of the Hierarchy and, as he desired has said: "If paleontology be consulted, it must be recognized that this hypothesis has not been confirmed in any way."

Yet Mr. Conklin has the audacity central offices having been opened in Madrid. The next step will be form diocesan boards which, in consists to form diocesan boards which, in turn, will carry into every parish the impulse given by the Hierarchy.

TO HAVE SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

El Debate has been selected by the bishops as the most important Catholic paper in Spain and has been put in charge of the publicity for the nation-wide campaign. wherein men existed tandem style, or that six-fingeredness or sixteed united States to study American ness argue a darling hoary promethods of administration and promethods of administration and propaganda, and in particular schools cases of phocomelia (i, e., a condition, wherein the limbs of a human being are markedly similar to the flappers of a seal) evidence a seal men can study all subjects bearing ancestor? The rareness of occur- on the editorship, administration rence would prove the remoteness of the ancestor, would it not? publications of every kind.

POLITICAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE SCIENCE

The "Social University" con-templated by the Hierarchy is intended to give practical training to young men in political science administrative and social science, and to fit them for the holding of public offices, for journalism, and propaganda, cultivating also, other sections, modern and tradi-tional studies; the multiplication of Catholic primary and professiona schools: the harmonious and welldirected systematization of social establishment, in cooperation with the State, of old-age pensions for the parish clergy; the collecting of have frequently appeared less a sum sufficient to support and pro-intelligible and more ambiguous mote labor unions and agricultural than before, and in those cases in unions, and to protect existing diocesan work

The plan of the Spanish bishops is a vast one and the Social University friends are sincerely sympathetic. is a very important part of it. This They forget our faults, and magnify university will have two faculties, one for political, the other for administrative science, and two schools, a school of journalism and a school for social propagandists. There will also be a section for modern studies and one for traditional studies and special courses for the training of labor propagandists and women propagandists.

TRAINING FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

In the two faculties young men The apogee of illogicality was reached by Osborn when he said in The Times (p. 2, col. 5): "It would not be true to say that the Great War, the international situation of the Holy See, missions, the political constitution of modern nations, and the political parties and men of these nations, their great social organizations and international public life.

In the School of Social Propa-

The doors of the Catholic Univers ity of Madrid will be open to all Spanish-speaking students. A study will be made of the civilizing work of Spain on the American continent and the history of the Latin-American nations. The most eminent men of those nations will be invited to give courses or lectures in the University, and university extension travel will be organized to the ancient colonies of Spain in Amer-

LEGAL POSITION OF WOMEN

The Catholic University will devote special attention to the study of the present legal position of women and will point out opportune reforms in the present laws as they women. A study will made of the present social and eco-nomic situation of the Spanish woman and special attention will be paid to the training of women as propagandists and for public life in

The University will also offer courses for working men in order that they may increase their general culture and fit themselves for propaganda work and citizen-

A library will be founded in connection with the University, not for the students alone, other higher educational centers of Madrid and, with certain restric-tions, for the public in general. Near the University will be the "House of the Students" with study and lecture halls, recreation rooms, restaurant and dormitories.

The professors will be specially of philosophy, theology, and ecclesiastical science they will be priests, and in the other departments they will be official professors of recog-nized ability, experts in social action, journalism, industry, banking, etc., both Spanish and foreign. The University will encourage scholarship exchange with foreign countries as well as exchange pro-fessorships. 'We believe," says the Pastoral, "that the time has come to do some-thing important and definite. Since there are happily apparent in religious, social and civic regeneration, it is necessary to take tage of the moment in which the nation, rendered wiser by the sad happenings which we all recall, has posal to reform.'

PRESS PRAISES PROJECT

The Catholic press has, of course, published the historic document with numerous comments and promises of decisive and fervent cooperahas also received the appeal of the toral—a rare thing in papers of this kind-but commented upon it in enthusiastic terms, qualifying it as an admirable work," a "vast pro-ject" of "high aims" which will inaugurate a "campaign of regen-

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH EXTENSION SOCIETY OF CANADA

TRAVELLING FOR CHRIST A WESTERN MISSIONARY'S NOTES

When we leave civilization our our virtues. They say the nicest things about us, promise to write to us—well, nearly every day—and apparently forget us as soon as we have taken the train!

There are, of course, exceptions to the rule, but, on the whole, our mail delivery tells its sad tale of forgetfulness. We go down to the post office with joyful expectations, and we come back, more often than not with our newspapers—and "No

Letters. Father Louis said to me the other day: "There is something that you might write about in the Register, when you have finished writing evolution of man rests upon evidence as complete as that of the horse." That is pre-eminently true, and therefore Osborn saws off, the for provincial and municipal offices, it means to be cut off, by distance for the administration of syndicates, and poverty, from all those nice new books and magazines which keep one in touch with the life of feelingly. Paradoxically he is a book worm. After many wanderganda young men may acquire a knowledge of philosophy, law and religion and the technicalities of propaganda and social organization.

The department of modern studies will include a study of the position away for redistribution. Very support of the position away for redistribution. will include a study of the position of Catholicism in the world since the Great War, the international Pole and back can afford to spend much on books. How wonderful it book or magazine, and give us the pleasant surprise of a parcel in the

> I have just come back from the chapel (at Jasper) where I have been arranging the "altar" (save the mark) for the Lenten season. To the original background of red bunting I added two wings of bunting I added two wing purple crepe paper, and that, as the ladies say when they put their the ladies say was that. The next thing was to rehang the Stations of the Cross which had to be removed last year, when our chapel was let to the Public School Board and everything that savored of "Popery had to be relegated to the sacristy On Ash Wednesday I hope we shall have the Stations of the Cross, and keep our pictures where they belong. There was not much, else to be done. After all one cannot make bricks without straw, and there is not much to do or undo in our tiny meeting place. I looked at the altar—it is really a chest of drawers -with its odd candlesticks, and its tawdry attemps at decorations; and I thought to myself how nice it would be if we only had some of the discarded treasures that are littering up the sacristy cupboards of so many parishes elsewhere!

Meanwhile we haven't got statue of any kind, nor are we likely to have any unless some of our Eastern benefactors come to our aid. Onr ladies are working hard for a bazaar which will enable us to build a church in this place, which in the summer season selected men. In the departments getting to be as well known as its southern counterpart at Banff. Thanks to Extension we have at least vestments and a decent place to say Mass-and that is more than we have either at Brule or Lucerne where we have to carry everything we want to the dance-hall or the school-house as the case may be.

Some time ago the head of a good Irish Catholic family from States showed me, with pardonable pride, the picture of the memorial chapel which he had erected to the memory of his wife instead of spending an equal amount of money upon a mass of marble for a cemetery monument. Would to goodness some of our pious mourners might economize on costly "caskets," expensive flowers, and extravagant monuments, searched its conscience, examined its errors and formulated the proposal to reform."

and extravagant modern missionary favour of the many missionary points which are without the decencies of worship!

Well there is one thing about it and that is—to-morrow is mail day!
Before boarding the train for Lucerne I shall have time to tion, but it is worthy of more than passing note that the other press try my luck. There is no doubt try my luck. There is no doubt that "Hope springs eternal in the has also received the appeal of the prelates to the Spanish people with great praise. It is sufficient to mention, among other papers of extreme radical tendencies, such papers as El Heraldo, El Liberal, and El Imparcial, which not only published the pastoral array thing in papers for the papers as the papers of the pastoral array thing in papers of the present that "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." Each mail-day brings with it the joyful possibility of encouragement. The little consistency of the pastoral array and the pastoral array and the present that "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." Each mail-day brings with it the joyful possibility of encouragement. The little consistency of the pastoral array and the pastoral array are provided to the pastoral array and the provided array and the provided that the provided array are provided to the provided array and the provided array are provided at the provided array and the provided array are provided at the provided array and the provided array are provided at the provided array and the provided array are provided at the provided at the provided array are provided at the provided at way. Then we shall steam up to Lucerne in good humour, and make the rounds of those who are, or should be, and could be if they only would be, or parishioners.

In any case we shall get our Register with its weekly record of generosity to our Western Missions, and we shall realize as its readers must realize, that there are many who are worse off and more out of sight and mind than we After all we can get into Edmonton when we are more discouraged and "fed up" (in the classic sense) than usual. Our lot is not to be compared with that of the first-class heroes and heroines -the Oblate Fathers and the Grey There is, it is true, a proverb which tells us that "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." There is also another proverb, seemingly contradictory, which shall be the text of my discourse this week because, in the experience of the missionary, it is the one which, in real life, proves but too sadly true. When we leave civilization our isolation is tiresome, then theirs our isolation is tiresome, then theirs must be well nigh unbearable.

Try, dear readers, to break its monotony with the letters, and parcels, and packing cases, for which "Extension" asks you.

one for Brule, $500, plus $75 for our own homes.-Introibo.

I know that the good man spoke altar, and one for Lucerne at the saying that the Wom Auxiliary of Extension shall be delighted to supply the vestments, etc.—Editor of C. R.

Donations may be addressed to:
REV. T. O'DONNELL, President
Catholic Church Extension Society 67 Bond St., Toronto. Contributions through this office should be addressed:
EXTENSION,

CATHOLIC RECORD OFFICE London, Ont. DONATIONS

Previously acknowledged $5,179 98 Dr. G. W. Smith, North MASS INTENTIONS

Rita Cullen, Hope River..

FATHER FRASER'S CHINA MISSION FUND

There are four hundred million pagans in China. If they were to pass in review at the rate of a thousand a minute, it would take nine months for them all months for them all to go by. Thirty-three thousand of them die daily unbaptized! Missionaries are urgently needed to go to their rescue.

China Mission College, Almonte, Ontario, Canada, is for the education of priests for China. It has already thirty-five students, and many more are applying for admittance. Unfortunately funds are lacking to accept them all. China is crying out for missionaries. They are ready to go. Will you send them. The salvation of millions of souls depends on your answer to this urgent appeal. His Holiness the Pope blesses benefac-tors, and the students pray for them daily.

A Burse of $5,000 will support a student in perpetuity. Help to complete the Burses. Gratefully yours in Jesus and

Mary. J. M. FRASER. QUEEN OF APOSTLES BURSE Previously acknowledged $2,830 05

ST. ANTHONY'S BURSH Previously acknowledged $1,887 10 X. Y. Z., Regina.....

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION BURSH Previously acknowledged $2,627 48 COMFORTER OF THE AFFLICTED BURSE Previously acknowledged $889 50 ST. JOSEPH, PATRON OF CHENA, BUESE Previously acknowledged $2,372 89

BLESSED SACRAMENT BUESD Previously acknowledged $848 05

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER BURSIN Previously acknowledged $812 80 HOLY NAME OF JESUS BURSE

Previously acknowledged $248 00 HOLY SOULS BURSE Previously acknowledged $1,862 12

LITTLE FLOWER BURGE

Previously acknowledged $822 04 SACRED HEART LEAGUE BURSE Previously acknowledged $2,211 50

X. Y. Z., Regina....

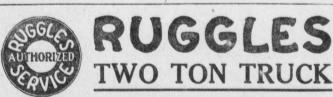

THE MASS

IS THIS YOUR PICTURE ?

The priest enters the sanctuary and begins Mass: some people are only leaving their homes. The Collects, the special prayer for the They reach The Gospel: congregation: church steps. manage to find places, and then they draw a serpentine line with their thumbs from forehead to breast. The sermon: Their minds are very busy applying its lesson to their neighbors. The Offertory: Seated, they get a chance to look around and take in the sights. They note what "so and so" is wearing. The Elevation: They are taking great care of their clothes. This done they bow their heads and stare blankly at the floor or pew ahead. The Communion: They watch those who The "Ite Missa Est," "T leave, the Mass is over :' take the priest at his word. They prepare to leave, so after blessing they make something like a genu-flection in the direction of the altar and are not long in finding the door. The Last Gospel and Prayers after Mass: They are not far from home—and yet the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is the unbloody renewal of the redeeming sacrifice of Calvary. No other work can be performed by the Faithful so holy which "Extension" asks you.

IVOR HAEL

Wanted two chapels immediately,

The fastest heavy-duty truck built for passenger bus or freight service RUGGLES MOTOR TRUCK COMPANY, LIMITED, LONDON, CANADA "Canada's largest exclusive motor truck builders" 215 SERVICE STATIONS EVERYWHERE

Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ designates Himself by the term of "shepherd," adding to it the qualifying word "good." We know the life of the shepherd, He clothes himself in the coarsest of attire. His food is very often of the poorest and the most common. Nay, he sometimes passes long hours without any food save a few pieces of bread. He, however, loves his flock. His work seems to be fascinating, for, notwithstanding all the difficulties attached to it, the shepherd performs it faithfully. He is out in the forest or on the plain even during the most inclement weather. Be it summer, with the searching rays of the sun beating down upon the earth; be it winter, with its cold blizzards—he is ever with his sheep. He watches them as they travel over hill and dale in their search for food. Never do their wanderings tire him nor exhaust his patience. He loves his flock and, as we know, where there is love there is no work too difficult. What more beautiful figure could Our Lord have chosen in order clearly to demonstrate His love for us, His sufferings undergone for us, His anxiety for our safety, and flis great care exercised in our behalf! That He loves us is evident.

That He loves us is evident. Through His grace alone, have we not been enrolled among the members of His flock? Because of His love for us, have we not been able to receive His body and blood to nourish and strengthen our spiritual life? Because of His love for us, have we not at our disposal the sacred tribunal wherein we can sacred tribunal wherein we can have our sins washed away? Because of His love for us, have we not men chosen by Him to administer to us in our spiritual needs?
What has He left undone in order to show His love for us? Nothing, indeed! All He requires of us is a faithful correspondence with His grace. We are not dumb animals, grace. We are not dumb animals, like the sheep over which the earthly shepherd watches; but we are rational beings, gifted with a come and partake of it. the love that Christ shows for us. And why? Is it that He is enriched by possessing us, as the shepherd is by his flock? Far from it. It is passed; and the memories of these same sufferings, which the Church recalled to you, undoubtedly are still fresh in your minds. We have already mentioned some of the hardship undergane by the shortship undergane by the states of heaven we should honor. still fresh in your minds. We have already mentioned some of the hardships undergone by the shepherd. Can they be compared to those that Christ suffered for us? He had proclaimed by His word that "the good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep." He proved it afterward by His deeds, thereby proving Himself indeed the Good

We are aware of His anxiety for us. He proclaimed that He would go, but He would not leave us orphans. He would ascend to our Father and to His father—but He Father and to His father—but Hawould send upon us the Holy Ghost. The Spirit of Truth, and abide with us forever. He left His representative to watch over His flock. Did He not say to Peter: 'Feed My sheep?' His flock remains and increases—and, above all, is well cared for. He improves upon His sheeperd the obligation. above all, is well cared for He imposes upon His shepherd the obligation of inviting and drawing other members into His fold. He knew that outside His flock there would be no unity. He requires one fold, as there is but one shepherd. He who remains outside the fold and even faithfully endeavors to do His will, will work in vain unless He be ignorant of thus true fold. Yes, Christ cares for His fold, but His fold alone. There is pasture room for all within it. Des H really rotect His flock? Indeed, He exercises over it the watchfulness of the mort vigilant shephe, d, the tenderest father, the

will be ended."

Who can resist following the invitations of such a Shepherd? We are already in His fold. It is now our duty to render ourselves good members of His flock. If we neglect to do so, we are indeed ungrateful in the basest degree, and truly deserve the punishment destined for those who abuse their liberty and reject the graces Christ offers them, without any merit on their them, without any merit on their part.

GENERAL INTENTION FOR MAY

RECOMMENDED AND BLESSED BY HIS HOLINESS POPE BENEDICT XV.

CONFIDENCE IN OUR LADY

Solomon and asked her to intercede for him with her royal son. "Then Bethsabee came to the king to speak to him for Adonias; and the king arose to meet her, and bowed did and in doing so earned her good will and protection. We should will and protection. We should the count to imitate the saints, and to her, and sat down upon his throne. And the throne was set for the king's mother, and she sat at his right hand. And she said to him: 'I desire one small petition from thee: Do not put me to confrom thee: Do not put me to confusion.' And the king said to her: 'My mother, ask; for I must not turn away thy face.'" Commentators apply this touching passage to our Blessed Lady, the Mother of our Heavenly King, who is seated on her throne in bliss beside Him, continually continually continually. continually occupied in asking favors for her devoted children on earth. As in the times of the Old Testament a king's mother was a powerful intercessor, so likewise under the New Law Mary's adopted children know that her intercessory power with her Son in heaven is never invoked in vain. Clients of Mary need not be reminded that she is a generous mother to those who love her, and their confidence in her should be complete.

earthly shepherd watches; but we are rational beings, gifted with a free will by which we should govern our acts. He commands and invites us, thereby regulating and aiding our free will lest we abuse it. He supplies us with the food wherewith we maintain life. He is more a shepherd than is contained in our conception of that word, for He does not accompany us so much in our search for food, but He dispenses it to us and invites us to come and partake of it.

Should be complete.

However, if there are people who seek for motives why confidence should be placed in the motherly care and affection of Mary, they have only to consult the writings of the Fathers and Doctors of the Church and of others who have distinguished themselves in her service. The testimony of those personages may be summed up in a personages may be summed up in a personages may be summed up in a personages may be very where that, as we have recourse to our Divine Lord, as our great Advoour Divine Lord, as our great Advo-Certainly, no shepherd ever has cate of redemption and conciliation shown a love for his flock similar to with the Eternal Father, so likecate of redemption and conciliation wise should we have recourse to Mary as our advocate and mediatrix of intercession with her Divine Son. This recourse must be agreeable to proving Himself indeed the Good Service Mary is able to render us, the most popular dailies of and consequently how much more Milan, referring to it, said that readily and more confidingly should we turn to her who is the Queen of ever heard of it—had a dispute

BY REV. WILLIAM DEMOUY, D. D.

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

THE GOOD SHEPHERD

WILLIAM DEMOUY, D. D.

Who can resist following the large or spins of the great of If anger or avarice or sins of the flesh threaten your soul, look towards Mary. In danger, in distress, in despondency in perplexity, think of Mary. Let that holy name be ever on your line and in cour think of Mary. Let that noly name be ever on your lips and in your heart. If you follow her guidance, you cannot stray; if you pray to her, you will not despair; when she holds your hand, you will not fall; if she protects you, you need not fear; if she leads you, you need not grow weary; if she befriends you, you will be safe."

What stronger motive could we

What stronger motive could we have to urge us to have confidence, in the sweet Mother whom God has given us to guide us gently and surely through life to the port of heaven? But in order to earn her protection, is it too much to ask that we should show ourselves worthy children? If we desire her efficacious intercession, we should We read in the Third Book of Kings that when Adonias sought a favor he went to the mother of Solomon and asked her to intercede avoiding every occ. sion that might endanger our souls and practising avoiding every occ sion that might endanger our souls and practising endeavor to imitate the saints, and following their example, cherish in our hearts great hope and confi-dence in the Mother of God by frequently reminding ourselves of our weaknesses and of the necessity of generosity in trying to please her; make little sacrifices daily and practise devotions in her honor in a way which will keep her memory way which will keep her memory fresh in our minds and hearts; for instance, the constant wearing of the scapular, the daily recitation of the rosary, as members of the League of the Sacred Heart the daily decade, Holy Communion on her feast days, frequent invocation of her name, and less but not least of her name, and last but not least, meditation on her virtues, all salu-tary practises which will draw her nearer to us.

"Not only does our Blessed Lady watch over our spiritual and ma-terial interests" says a recent writer, "but she also obtains for us which, but she also obtains for that habitual light and strength by which we are enabled to travel steadily towards our true home in heaven, guided by that spirit of wisdom and prudence, which distinguishes her faithful followers the feeligh children of the from the foolish children of the

E. J. DEVINE, S. J.

A PROTESTANT STORY

in the Bulwark for January, a Protestant organ, the statement that a whole village in Italy had become Protestant in a body, we communicated with our by his flock? Far from it. It is merely His love for us—true love—
He wishes us to share in His happiness, to reign in His kingdom
We need not comment upon His sufferings. The holy season set aside by the Church for comment opassed; and the memories of these same sufferings which the Church hor comment has passed; and the memories of these same sufferings which the Church His manner.

Ins recourse must be agreeable to our Lord, for loving her with so our Lord, for loving her with so tender a love He must be pleased with our Roman correspondent and have received from him the following account of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by the Church for commentated with our our Lord, for loving her with so trender a love He must be pleased from him the following account of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by the Church for commentated with our our Lord, for loving her with so trender a love He must be pleased from him the following account of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by the Church for commentated with our our Lord, for loving her with so turning to her in this manner. And He must on that account of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by the Church for commentated with our our Lord, for loving her with so turning to her in this manner. And He must on that account of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by a comment of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by a comment of the must on the statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by a comment of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by a comment of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should not go by a comment of the affair: "A certain statement appearing in the Bulwark of January should

Angels and Sovereign Lady of the Universe. with the priest, not—and this should be well borne in mind—over some

Indeed, He exercises over it the watchfulness of the most vigilant shephed, the tenderest father, the kindest friend. "I know Mine, and Mine know Me." He is our way, our truth, and our life. "In Him we live and move and are" So much solitude has He for us that we are never separated from Him unless we ourselves cause it.

Dear friends, we belong to Christ's flock. "I," He says, "have chosen you!" With so good a Shepherd at our head, what should our sentiments and our actions be? He is not a shepherd that drives us over hill, through forest, across plains and valleys. His word, as you have seen, is not a word of harshness. His commands are not expressed in tones of bitterness and haughtiness. He rather leads us with a gentle hand, "Come, follow Me. My yoke is sweet and My burden light. As I have done transported in the more friends in mere temporal matters and unatters and unatter calized after their hot Italian spirit and culmed down, that with the priest a detail would be omitted. Italian spirit and culmed down, that with the priest a detail would to mitted the proposed and the pashe on procession at all, and the good old saint of

For Your Dainty Silk Blouses

For your daintiest blouses, the pretty things you do not wish to trust to a washing with ordinary soap, use Lux. The thin, white, silky Lux flakes, specially manufactured by our own exclusive process instantly dissolve into a bubbling lather as harmless to fine fabrics as pure water itself. If a silk can be washed in clear water alone, it is safe in delicate Lux suda.

Lux is unrivalled for washing fine articles and is sold only in sealed packages—dust-proof! LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED

BEAUTY OF THE SKIN

SAMARIA REMEDY CO.

Dept. Q, 142 Mutual St. Toronto sore muscles Whether they come from bruises or overwork, sore muscles will quickly yield to the soothing effect of Absorbine, Jr. Rub briskly into the muscles a few drops of Absorbine, Jr., and the inflammation which caused the pain will quickly disappear—and with it the pain.

Keep a bottle on hand

Keep a bottle on har and be prepared for eme $1.25 a bottle at most druggists' W. F. YOUNG, Inc. 344 St. Paul St., Montreal

Absorbine.

part of the City of St. Catharines, Ont. Chapel in the Home, every day Holy Mass. Mcderate Terms. Mother Superier, 78 Yate St. St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada a charge of the Carmelite Sisters. D. C. J

Service First" Phone 6925 Pate & Vaughan

TRUCKING 499 ADELAIDE STREET, LONDON W. H. VAUGHAN

Catholic Mutual Benefit Association of Canada

An exclusively Catholic and Canadian Fraternal Insurance Company FOR MEN and WOMEN Incorporated by Act of the Dominion Parliament. "Adequate Rates, Whole Life and 20 and 30 Years Assessment

Over $8,000,000 Paid

For further information address J. E H. HOWISON GRAND SECRETARY 59 St. Denis St., Montreal, P C.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOME of the SACRED HEART Summer Camp For Catholic Boys

Under Personal Direction of the Christian Brothers, Lake Simcoe Beach, Ont.

> Swimming, Boating Fishing Hiking an ideal place for your boy. For fur-ther particulars, address: REV. BROTHER ALFRED 75 Jarvis Street Toronto,

If You Believe

in Insurance for yourself, why not for your children also?

Our Children's Weekly Premium Policies

(Easy to Get -- Easy to Keep) are Educational Courses in the Value of Early Insurance

London Life Company Head Offices, London, Canada "Policies Good

as Gold" Agencies in all Principal Cities

Have Your Child Learn To Play A Piano True To Tone

A musical education begins with the first lesson — the development of true music instincts begins then.

Start your child right—have him learn on a good piano, a piano like the Sherlock-Manning. The

SHERLOCK-MANNING 20th Century Piano The Piano worthy of your Home is "Canada's Biggest Piano Value" because it is not only a true, quality piano, but one that is built to stand the hard usage of home life.

> Hear it at our nearest dealers Write us for Art Catalogue and Prices

SHERLOCK-MANNING PIANO COMPANY

Always Good

Every time you buy "SURPRISE" you get a big, bright, solid bar of the highest grade household soap.

CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN

GOD UNDERSTANDS When you have done the best you

Why should you grieve at close of

Though you have failed in peoples

What matter ?-when God's understands. "Forgive them, Father!" whisper

That God, not men, to serve you

Pride's empty vaunt, nor Envy's

Need cause one tear, or wound thy When thou art sure God under-

God understands; be this thy stay, In gloom as when thy sky smiles

When Sorrow's veil drapes dark the And heavy grows thy cross to bear,

God understands! His will be done; Whate'er He sends to thee is best; In Isles of Peace beyond Time's

sun, You'll understand—and be at rest. -John Faber Callen ESTIMATION BY CONTEMPT

We form a sort of estimate of our real worth by the friends we have been able to make. We can form, perhaps, a better estimate by the we have been able to make. It was said of Grover Cleveland by somebody: "We love him for the enemies he has made."

A man who forms his opinion of himself from the compliments he has received is quite likely to get a swelled head. The one kind of criticism that we cannot afford to neglect is that which comes from the people

Contempt is apt to tell the truth.

Any man that accomplishes any-Any man that accomplishes anything is sure to reap a crop of envy, for the very terms of his success are that he has excelled his competitors, that he has done something that they have tried to do and could not. For every storekeeper doing a lively having so the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street there is no reason why we have the street the street that the street that he has excelled his competitors, that he has done something that the street that he has excelled his competitors, and the street that he has excelled his competitors, that he has done something that they have tried to do and could not.

enout-distanced in the race shall all be good sports and congratulate the winner. In fact, the surprising fact about the world of business and of social life, where strife is the abiding condition and where the survival of the strongest is an iron law, is not that there is so much envy, but that there is so little. It is rather amazing, after all, that the vast majority of human beings who are mediocre get along so well with the few who are superior.

When we have found our feet in the struggle and have come to maturity of judgment, we are not greatly disturbed over the evil men say of us, for we come to under-stand by and by that unless they say something bitter we have not accomplished much.

The same principle holds in the field of moral excellence, in the unnoted competition of character. For it is not always the just man of whom everyone speaks well.

dent of the Greek statesman who inquired of an ignorant man why he Just this minute we are sowing was casting his vote in favor of banishing the statesman as an undesirable citizen. The answer was,
"I am tired of hearing you called

Shakespeare, as usual, has expressed this idea most perfectly: "Be thou as chaste as ice and pure as snow, thou shalt not escape

The best man that ever lived in the common opinion of most people, was put to death as a criminal. Socrates, who did more to perpetuate the glory of Greece than any of its warriors or artists, was poisoned by his fellow citizens like a rat in a It is difficult now for us to believe that such pure and exalted persons as Lincoln and Washington were vilified by their contemporar-

Cheer up, therefore! One way to estimate how much good you have done in the world, as well as the forcefulness of your character is by the amount of contempt you have accumulated. "Never forget," said Nietzsche, "the higher we soar, the smaller do we appear to those who cannot fly."—Catholic

WET BLANKETS

Some men are habitually unhappy, while others are so only occasionally: the former, at all times and places, wear the some doorous countenance: they cast a chill into the very atmoshave not the effect of making may have too much regard for himhave not the effect of making others as wretched as themselves, it at least prevents them from being happy while in their presence. Such men are icebergs floating about in society: cold, isolated, a terror wherever they may come, repulsive and repulsed. They may be seen at the corners of the streets, wavlaving their acquaintances as a cultured from a vulgar person. day, Though scoffs and jeers and insults rude

Assail you on the toilsome way?
When you have nobly acted right,
With motives pure and honest hands,

Waylaying their acquaintances as they pass by on business or pleasure, to remind them of the vanity and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society a founded on common sense and kind consideration. To those who a not habituated to society there may be seen at the corners of the streets, waylaying their acquaintances as they pass by on business or pleasure, to remind them of the vanity and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society a founded on common sense and kind consideration. To those who a not habituated to society there may be seen at the corners of the streets, waylaying their acquaintances as they pass by on business or pleasure, to remind them of the vanity and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society a founded on common sense and kind consideration. To those who a not habituated to society there may be said that, in the main the rules of polite society a founded on common sense and kind consideration. To those who a not habituated to society there may be said that, in the main the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society and vexations of the world: the rules of polite society various subjects for sober reflection well-calculated to occupy the thoughts on proper occasions, but which serve but to offend and disgust when thus obtruded upon the attention. But these men never When idle tongues base falsehoods speak;
Forgive them as they may not know them as they may not the important the times and occasions when they shall pour forth their woes, but like sinister crows are always boding some dark intercourse their necessatured people. It will be for the social continuous and the same their necessatured people.

know,
God, not men, to serve you seek,
's empty vaunt, nor Envy's dart, crafty Slander's sneering bands, cause one tear, or wound thy heart,
n thou art sure God understands.

evil.

Next are they who are subject to occasional fits of depression. With some persons these are periodical: one will be affected by melancholy in the spring, and another in autumn; one is a prey to the blues in one kind of weather, and another in a different kind. Such is the connection between the body and mind that the causes of this species mind that the causes of this species of unhappiness may be traced either to some disorder of the former, which acts upon the latter, as dyspepsia in the stomach is generally followed by a similar affection of the head, or to some peculiar sensibility of the cone by which sensibility of the one, by which external objects easily excite or depress the other. Such men are indeed, to be pitied, for who can doubt that their unhappiness is a partial hypochondria, over which they have no control—a disease of the mind, more acute while it lasts than the severest bodily pain Nature may, in some instances, be the author of this kind of depression, but it is oftener produced by education and luxurious living. It is not the farmer and the mechanic who are the subjects of this hypochondria: their happy countenances tell a different tale. It is the student, the reformer, or the voluntuary, who entails upon himself, wife and children the miseries of a broken constitution.

Others, again, are made unhappy by outward circumstances—by misfortunes in business, disappointof their plans, or the loss Indeed, it exceeds that. For one who is angry with you is likely, as the darky expressed it, to tell "the truth, the whole truth and more than the truth."

ment of their plans, or the loss of relatives or friends. This species of unhappiness when temporary and under proper restraint, is what all all who consider the infirmity of human nature will respect and human nature will respect and sympathize with; but when carried that he has done so the tried to do and could not. For every storekeeper doing a lively business on the street, there are ten who have failed. For every politician who has got himself elected, there is at least one candidate, and there is no reason why we should forever mourn the loss of the Church, reason and nature forbid it; it is injurious, because we can not by our grief repair our losses, but we rather It is too much to expect from repair our losses, but we rather human nature that those who have diminish the chances of doing so There is no spectacle more painful than the man who is the victim of unhappiness from every slight misfortune he chances to meet with in life. He literally manufactures troubles for himself—he plants thorns and thistles along his pathway through life, and frets out

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

JUST THIS MINUTE

If we're thoughtful, just this In whate'er we say and do. If we put a purpose in it That is honest through and through, We shall gladden life and give it Grace to make it all sublime; For though life is long, we live it Just a minute at a time.

Just this minute we are going There is the familiar classic inci- Toward the right or toward the wrong: On the ways that lead to God. Or in the idle dreams are sinking To the level of the clod.

Yesterday is gone, tomorrow Never comes within our grasp; Just this minute's joy or sorrow, That is all our hands may clasp.
Just this minute! Let us take it As a pearl of precious price, And with high endeavoring make it Fit to shine in paradise.

THE CHARM OF GOOD MANNERS

Father Martin J. Scott, S. J., courtesy and politeness to the Queen's Work, in which he dwells mouth. That decided the gentleparticularly upon the attributes of man against accepting the young a true gentleman. He points out man. that manners do not make the man, A l since one may observe all the rules of etiquette and nevertheless be a scoundrel at heart; but while talks with a cigar in his mouth. It politeness does not make a gentleman, one cannot be a gentleman food in the mouth. man, one cannot be a gentleman without politeness. Good manners, Father Scott rightly says, are intimately associated with religion, since they involve kindness, charity and consideration for others. We quote a number of salient para-graphs from the article:

Cardinal Newman defined a gentle-man as one who never inflicts pain. they cast a chill into the very atmosphere around them, like the chill at sarily comes into constant and close

It may be said that, in the main, the rules of polite society are founded on common sense and kindly consideration. To those who are not habituated to society there may be some things which appear affected or superfluous. But a be some things affected or superfluous. But a better acquaintance with the usages of society will convince one that all the little rules and conventions have their necessary place among cultured people.

Mail with their critical article.

The Mail gave publicity to the letter bearing the names of Msgr. Teixiera and the other objectors. At the same time the newspaper article is the same time the newspaper of the new time the newspaper of the newsp intercourse more easy, agreeable and desirable. It is the most cultured of every nation who make good manners. By the most cultured I do not mean the most virtuous. A man may be very well mannered and also a scoundrel. In fact good manners and rascality have often kept company. How-ever a man is not a rascal because of his good manners, but in spite of them; just as a Catholic who is bad is not so because of his religion, but in spite of it.

Etiquette is founded on experi-ence and based on true considerate-ness. We should therefore have ness. We should therefore have the highest regard for it. To make little of the usages of polite society is to proclaim one's ignorance or littleness. . . In every society there are customs and conventional-ities peculiar to itself. But there are certain basic elements of polite-ness which no one can ignore and retain the title of gentleman. Moreover where there is the foundation of politeness the rest is a matter of brief observation. A gentleman realizes that the first rule of good manners is to set others at ease. Regard for this basic principle will make a man adapt himself to surroundings without condescension towards inferiors or obsequiousness towards superiors. A gentleman is never patronizing, because such an attitude wounds. Nor is he obsequious, because adula-tion is an insult to an upright man.

Acting on the principle of con-sideration for one another, society has evolved a code more or less artificial. But one who has the spirit of Christian brotherly love will not go far wrong in any society. True it is that good manners are an education just as much as reading, writing and arithmetic. But a man who is truly religious has the soul of politeness, and the rest is only a question of association. One who is truly considerate of others - and that is real charity—will quickly adapt oneself to social requirements. That is why a good Catholic becomes such a polished gentleman after brief association with Of course, if a man does not get the opportunity of associating with polite people, he cannot acquire polite ways, at least what society terms such.

An inconsiderate man will never be a gentleman. He may assume the airs of one, but veneer never makes oak out of pine. On the other hand, considerate man will be a gentleman the world over. As onsideration for others is one of Christ's most insistent precepts, it is evident that a true Christian will be a gentleman. Of course, the conventional politeness of be something about a truly considerate man which will carry him through the most exacting demands of social behavior.

Let us look for a moment at a few things which good manners postulate and see how truly a real Christian spirit will supply for any deficiency of social experience.

It is etiquette never to indulge in whispers or undertone conversation in company. Consideration for others dictates that. If you have anything private to say, it should be said in private, not in company.

It is bad manners for a man to talk with his mouth full of food or with a cigar in his mouth. First, because it is disgusting and secondly because it is inconsiderate. This cance of things.

trip abroad and excellent compensation. A young man presented him-self and made a favorable impres-sion. In the course of the conversation the gentleman, who was smoking, offered a cigar to the applicant. contributes an interesting essay on courtesy and politeness to the

A little thing, you may say. But very indicative. In the "movies." whenever they portray a thug, he

I have touched on only a few things, and those of a minor nature, person will instinctively do what society enjoins. But people are inclined not to be thoughtful of others. Selfishness is a dominant phere around them, like the chill at noonday when the sun is in eclipse. Their conversation is tinged with melancholy moroseness; and if

THE CHURCH IN INDIA

Madras, India.—Nine prominent Madras Catholics, headed by Msgr. Teixiera, Vicar-General of the Teixiera, Vicar-General of the Bishop of Mylapore, have succeeded in obtaining from the Madras Mail an expression of regret for the publication in its columns of an offensive reference to the Catholic Church contained in an article written by one of its special contrib-utors. The signers of this protest were only a few of the many Cath-olics who flooded the office of the published an explanatory note of regret from the editor "that the paragraph should have found a place" in the article.

The writer in the Mail urged upon The writer in the Mail urged upon his readers that they be "broadminded," venturing the suggestion at the same time that "by this process widely carried out, the hypocritical and sincere church, whose power today is derived from the statistics rather than truth would tradition rather than truth, would, be consigned to the limbo of dead, forgotten and useless things.'

MOSLEM AND HINDU ENEMIES

Similar disparagement and vilifi-Similar disparagement and vilifi-cation of the Catholic Church is common in the non-Catholic press of India. It is not the rabid Pro-testant alone that writes against Catholicism, but the Moslem fanatic, the Hindu bigot, the sceptic professor and the material-istic ignoramus as well. Even the Vedenthist with his discontinuous Vedanthist with his feigned sym-pathy for Christianity—comparing Christ with Krishna, deeming them both as atavars of, or incarnations of the Supreme Spirit—has a sting in his speech.

It is not seldom that one comes across a crop of such anti-Catholic writings which may be full of historical lies, sometimes of logical fallacies, and more often of theological blunders and groundless assumptions. And the Catholic controversialist of whom there are many, including Father E. R. Hull of Bombay, and some more among the Sons of Loyola and others thoroughly equipped to meet the enemy, is disappointed to find blunders once corrected springing -up again in new forms and varied

In some of the newspapers and magazines published in the vernaculars of India, such literature seems to flourish, apparently because they appeal more to the ignorant masse The other day the N. C. W. C. correspondent, after turning away in disgust from a vernacular publication that retailed translations of Ingersoll s attacks on Christ and Christianity to enlighten its readers, struck upon a non-Catholic Christian magazine with an editorial committee of four of whom three are graduates of recognized universities, which contained an article contributed by another basely attacking the work of the Catholic missionaries among the depressed classes of India.

BUDDHIST ATTACKS POPE

The editor of the Catholic Herald of India, in a recent issue of his weekly, called attention to two publications, one Mohammedan and the other Buddhist fresh in the field the conventional politen-ss of society comes only by contact with society people, but there will always be something about a truly consider. his readers that the Four Gospels nowhere state that Jesus is God and that a Protestant dean (presumably Dr. Inge has recently said so. The Maher-Bodhi, the Buddhist organ, seems to be more daring in its maneuvers. religion for the lame and the blind. It has no sympathy for the Pope "carried on a chair high over the heads of men by flunkeys," and professes no admiration for St. Paul, "a political charlatan."

India abounds in oddly clad Swamis and Sanyasis who preach Hinduism on street corners and find help in the writings of German materialists and followers of "higher criticism" in the task of expounding their Pantheistic and may seem a little thing, but only to vague philosophy. One such Swami those who do not know the signifiance of things.

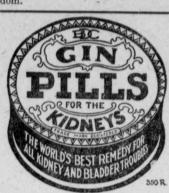

I know of a man who advertised

Catholicism and denounced the Christian belief in "creation from I know of a man who advertised for a tutor to his son. The position nothing" as contradictory to serve the for a tutor to his son. The position nothing" as contradictory to serve the was very desirable, as it included a tific facts, more particularly to evolution. Father Trumes, S. J., bellenged the Swami to prove his arranged between the two at Belur in Bengal. As might be presumed, nothing came of the meeting, the Swami being unwilling to yield his position and blindly insisting that Haeckel, Spencer and Oliver Lodge are all on his side.

This is the usual experience of anybody who has the good fortune to engage in religious talks with these self-sufficient Swamis. Father Trumes concludes his thoughts about the interview as

The idea of a Hindu monk invoking Haeckel to prove Hinduism kept flitting in my mind as we walked along the road that leads from Belur, to Lillock station. Forty years after an intellectual inclined not to be thoughtful of others. Selfishness is a dominant trait of human nature. People are inclined to consult only themselves. Hence it is that religion, which but a few lustra later Haeckel's lies are quoted as the proof of the

Curiosity is the instinct of wis-

Fire Risk Diminishes Pedlar's

Metal Ceilings Artistic, Sanitary, Fireproof, Durable, Economical.

Writefor Catalog.

The PEDLAR PEOPLE Limited (Established 1861)

Executive Offices: Oshawa, Ont.
Factories:
Oshawa, Ont., and Montreal, Que.

WITH ECZEMA

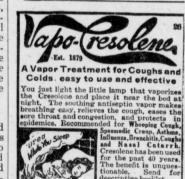

"Fruit-a-tives" Gleared Her Skin

POINTE ST. PIERRE, P.Q. "I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any

Then, I used one box of "Sootha Salva"and two boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is marvellous because no other medicine did me any good until I used "Sootha-Salva" and "Fruit-a-tives", the wonderful medicine made from fruit".

Madam PETER LAMARRE. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50. trial size, 25c. dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Got No Sleep

But now the neuritis has gone the pains have ceased, the nervous system is restored and the writer of this letter pays a grateful tribute to the medicine which made him well.

Mr. John Woodward, P.T.O., Lucan, Ont., writes:

"It gives me much pleasure to recom-mend Dr. Chase's medicines, especially the Nerve Food. I was a sufferer from neuritis for several years, and tried all kinds of remedies, yet never seemed to kinds of remedies, yet never seemed to get any better. At last my nerves and whole system seemed to give way through not being able to get any rest or sleep at nights for pain, which mostly used to take me in all parts of the limbs and feet. My nerves would twitch till my whole body would seem to jerk right up as I lay in bed. Almost at the point of despair, I decided I would get Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I did, and after taking twenty boxes I believe myself almost normal again. I also keep myself almost normal again. I also keep a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on hand, and for the past year I seem to enjoy my usual health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Newfoundland Representative: Gerald S. Doyle, St. John's Capital Trust Corporation

Authorized Capital -$2,000,000.00

Board of Directors: mt: HON. M. J. O'BRIEN Renfrew

R. P. GOUGH A. E. PROVOST J. J. SEITZ

J. J. McFADDEN

J. F. BROWN

E. W. TOBIN, M. PI GORDON GRANT, C. M. HUGH DOHENE Montreal JOSEPH GOSSELIM, JE

F. J. B. RUSSILL T. P. PHELAN COL. L. T. MARTIN

THOMAS COSTELLO

OUR CHIEF WORK IS EXECUTOR OF WILLS

e advice given on all financial matters. Call on

O Metcalfe St., Ottawa, or to Temple Building, Toronto LONDON

OPTICAL CO

Have Your Eyes Examined

A. W. ROBERTSON

P. V. BYRNES

W. H. McAULIFFE

COL. D. R. STREET

Casavant Freres CHURCH LIMITEE Organ Builders

ominion Savings Building
Richmond St. Phone SIST. HYACINTHE

Sunlight and your washing machine Sunlight Soap, being the purest and best laundry soap made, will wash your clothes beautifully white and clean in a shorter time and with the use of much less soap. Pare or chip half a cake of Sunlight into your washer, whip into a rich suds and proceed as usual. You will find the pure cocoanut and palm oils blended into Sunlight make it the most efficient and economical soap you ever used. You use less—as you get all pure soap. LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED

LADIES, BOYS and GIRLS You May Have This Beautiful Imported Rosary Beads FREE OUR NEW AND BEAUTIFUL PICTURE OF THE SUPREME PONTIFF, HIS HOLINESS, POPE PIUS XI. IS NOW READY FOR THE MARKET

finished in beautiful Light Carbon Brown, size 16x20 inches, and portrays forward on receipt of same. SEND IN YOUR ORDER QUICKLY, as SUPPLY OF PIC-TURES ARE LIMITED—FIRST COME. FIRST SERVE.

CATHOLIC SUPPLY CO.,

For Splendid Service GET OUR YARNS, BLANKETS

AND WOOLLEN CLOTHS

If your dealer has none, write to us direct and we will tell you where you can get them. s are the home-spun style, carded on the worsted system—like the kets our grandmothers used to make. They wear well—wash well soft. The borders are fast colors.

Motor Rugs, Mackinaw Cloth, Ladies' Wool Check (excellent vercoatings. Ask your dealer for our brands. LINDSAY The Horn Bros. Woollen Co., Limited ONTARIO We also BUY WOOL. Ship us any quantity—one car or fifty cars.

We need it all.

What is the future of the Catholic Church in India?

The conversion of India is the key the Catholic conquest of the Orient.

India is the greatest religious potentiality of the eastern world. The Catholic Church in India is making provision to meet whatever situation a crisis may bring. The initial step is the emphasis of a policy long since inaugurated—the creation of a native church and hierarchy. The recent consecration of Monsignor Vazapilly as Vicar-Apostolic of Trichur, and the formation of a new diocese to be administered wholly by native priests are significant of the steps being taken to safeguard the faith against a day however remote when Europeans may possibly be driven out of may possibly be driven out of India.

The unrest is forcing 3,000,000 Catholics in India to better organization. It is causing the inevitable crumbling of the Hindu caste that almost impregnable barrier to India's evangelization. The development of a united Catholicity was the chief subject of an All-India Conference held just at the close of 1921.

In view of these facts and conditions the N. C. W. C. News Service has prepared a series of three articles on the missionary move-ment in India, based on recent advices received from that country and from statistics furnished by authorities on Indian Catholic missions. It is expected that they will be of value in interpreting the news that comes over the daily wires regarding that country.

WORK OF AMERICAN MISSIONS IN

The Catholic missionary move-ment in India is witnessing the blossom time of its second spring.

There are now 3,000,000 Catholics in this great country of more than 300,000,000 people, of nearly two hundred different languages and of more than five hundred dialects, which is today seething with physically more sturdy and vigor-

There are two American missionary congregations—the Congrega-tion of the Holy Cross—which has had its laborers in the field since 1858 and the Missouri Province of the Society of Jesus. There are also missionary priests from many European countries in a fighting force for Catholicity that last year included priests from thirteen religious orders and foreign mis-sionary societies, brothers from twelve orders and congregations and sisters from sixty-four orders and

The native clergy, fifteen hundred in number, now have charge of three dioceses; Goa, Damaan and Mylopore, as well as the recently established Vicariate-Apostolic of Trichur, where the appointment of Monsignor Francis Vazapilly, the first purely native Bishop as Vicar-Apostolic has marked the first step in the formation of a native hier-

To the spread of the faith through this devoted army of laborers there are momentous obstacles which may be overcome only by tireless energy and inexhaustible patience.

THE BARRIER OF CASTE

No better expression of care and

Peerless Fence is dignified in thoughtfulness can be shown than a neat attractive fence around your appearance, well made and gives

Peerless Dealers can show you heights and styles for churchyards, lawns, country estates and tennis

ong service.

courts.

ERLESS ORNAMENTAL

The Banwell-Hoxie Wire Fence Co. Limited

satisfy - They both protect and beautify

THE CHURCH IN INDIA

CREATION OF NATIVE PRIESTHOOD SHOULD HAVE FARREACHING RESULTS
What is the future of the Catholic

What is the future of the Catholic be buried up to the neck and then permit their heads to be besmeared with honey, that bees and a host of flies and stinging insects may tor-ment them for days at a time. For Hindus in religion are intensely in earnest. This is shown by the fact that native converts will walk

Mass and receive Holy Communion.

But surpassing the mortifications of the people is the patience and superstitious fear with which these people will observe the caste system, which raises its pitiless social barriers to divide the people into classes at their birth. The greatest of all crimes, for a strict Hindu, is to break the rules of caste; an offence greater than murder or blasphemy.

Geffort that will c for Catholicism."

OBIT blasphemy.

" SAINT " MACSWINEY

Among these Hindus, according to a recent contributor to the Catholic World, himself a non-Catholic, the foreign missionaries who can do the most effective work are the Irish Catholics, especially those who aspire to nationality for Ireland.

The world does not seem to realize" writes G. B. Lal, "how profound is the sympathy for Ireland among the vast bulk of the people of India. The Nationalist organizations—the Indian National Congress, the Sikh Conference, etc. went on record with resolutions of the deepest sympathy with the martyrdom of 'Mahatma Mac-Swiney.' The point to be noted is that the Indian masses, touched by nationalism, have already canonized the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney as a 'Mahatma'—'Saint.'"

"Christianity," the same writer declares further, "rejected by the high-class Hindu when offered by the Scotch or English Protestant hand, may yet take root in India if brought there by Americans of Irish is the Mohammedan of India, numbering 70,000,000, sleek, fat and physically more sturdy and vigorous than his Hindu neighbor. The Mohammedans in some sections of India are not as a rule, as intelligent as the Hindus, yet they are descendants of mighty and accom-plished progenitors who three hundred years ago wrote a remarkable literature and who reared the most beautiful monument on earth, the Taj Mahal, to the memory of a virtuous queen.

Gandhi, the leader of the non-o-operative movement in India is a Hindu. Shakut and Mohammed Ali, who like Gandhi, have been jailed by the British Government, are Mohammedans.

GREAT MISSIONARY CONQUESTS Catholicity in India dates back to Apostolic times. The East Indian Church was founded by the Apostle St. Thomas and his Christians of the Syro-Malabar rite sent a bishop to the Council of Nice in 325. These Christians fell into Nestorianism about the year 500, but a new era for the Catholic Church began with the opening of the world by the great navigators of Spain and Por-tugal. The first band of missionaries, the Franciscans, reached India J. F. Kehoe, North Adjala. Interabout 1500 and St. Francis Xavier ment took place in St. Paul's Cemeabout 1500 and St. Francis Xavier ment took place in St. P introduced the Jesuits into India. tery, Alliston. R. I. P. The first of these is the caste system of the Hindus—and the Hindus represent three-fourths of the population of India. Hinduism the population of India. Hinduism the population of India. Hinduism the population of the suppression of the sup is creedless. It has no moral code. Jesuits in Portuguese territory and O'Connor, which took place at her Indeed, sin, in its true sense, the outbreak of the French revoluscarcely exists in the conception of the Hindu.

tion were however events that brought a halt to missionary activi-

the Hindu.

The most popular of the Hindu deities is the goddess Kali, black of face, fierce of eye and with blood tickling from her gory mouth and protruding tongue. In some Hindu households, at one time or another, mothers open the veins of their most on the missionary activities begun in 1500.

The most popular of the Hindu deities is the goddess Kali, black of The present missionary movement may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-five years ago but resided in Osgoode was born in Ottawa seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-eighth was born in Ottawa seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-eighth was born in Ottawa seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-eighth was born in Ottawa seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-eighth was born in Ottawa seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-five years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may be said to go back to 1836 and during the past seventy-two years ago but resided in Osgoode since her marriage in 1871

The deceased lady, whose maiden may b hands to appease Kali with human blood.

East Indians owing allegiance to the Holy See. Within the last

1

المراقع المراقع

WINNIPEG, MAN.

But the future promises to see greater strides.

Perhaps the most significant event from a Catholic point of view, held Madras, a great missionary move-ment whose purpose was the con-version of India and the Orient. In the words of one of the native Catholic leaders:
"The Marian Congress is the beginning of the great push. The Congress should not be an isolated demonstration of our faith; it ought twenty-five miles fasting to hear to be the initiation of a missionary Mass and receive Holy Communion. effort that will conquer the Orient

OBITUARY

REV. H. J. GIBNEY On Wednesday morning, March 29th, their occurred at his home in Alliston the death of one of the oldest and most esteemed citizens in the person of Rev. Father H. J. Gibney. Born in Toronto, Aug. 10, 1846, educated in St. Michael's College, where he completed his academic studies in 1869, he proceeded to the Grand Seminary and having finished his theological course he was ordained in the Cathedral, Toronto, by Archbishop Lynch, Aug. 25th, 1872. After nine month's curacy at St. Paul's, Power St., he appointed Pastor of North Adjala Parish in the summer of 1878. Here he resided nine years and during this time he attended the distant mission of West Mona. In 875 he took steps to erect St. Paul's Church, Alliston, the cornerstone of which was laid May 28, 1876 Up to the year 1882 the pastoral residence was beside the church in North Adjala when Rev. Father Gibney transferred it to Alliston, where he had already erected a handsome presbytery. Kindly and refined he made friends on every side and this friendship continued throughout his life. Owing to failing health and advancing years he terminated his long pastorate of forty-seven years and two months on Sept. 20th, 1920. So much was attached to his people, whom he had served for so many years, he chose to spend his declining years in their midst. In recent years his heart gave him trouble and notwithstanding the greatest possible care and best medical attention he succumbed to the disease at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. The funeral took place Saturday morning, April 1st. Father O'Brien, present pastor, assisted by Very Rev. Dean Hand as Deacon and Rev. Father Wm. McCann as Subdeacon and Rev. Father Wilson as master as far as Paris. ceremonies sang the funeral ss. His life long friend Dean Harris preached a very eloquent sermon to a congregation of his many friends who filled the church. Another life long friend Father E. Murray presided at the organ. their vovage. In the sanctuary were present: His Grace Archbishop N. McNeil, who administered the last absolution, also Monsignor M. J. Whelan

; Monsignor J. Kidd, president of St. Augustine's Se minary; Carberry, Orillia; Father Flannigan, Uptergrove; Father McCabb gan, Uptergrove; Father McCabb, Toronto; Father Minehan, Toronto; Father W. Heydon, Toronto, Father Sullivan, C.S. S. R., Toronto, Father Barcello, Toronto; Father Thos. Heydon, C. S. B., Windsor; Rev. Robert Walsh, Colgan; Rev.

In the death of Mrs. Daniel of charming dispositi n of friend-ship and kindliness that endeared Thomas Morkin. May her soul rest hands to appease Kali with human blood.

The Holy See. Within the last ling sacrifices made in the name of religion, as among that class of religion, as among that class of religion, as a mong that class of rel mont, Montreal, Mary A. mont, Montreal, Mary A. widow of the late Michael May her soul rest in peace.

CREIGHTON.—At St. Josep pital, London, on Monday, o Sacred Heart. Her charity and kindness were great, for her foremost thought was to be able to be of service to some one. Her devotion to the Rosary was wonderful. She has thus left to her children a lasting example of that good old genuine Irish faith and piety.

Sister M. St. Patrick of the Loretto Orders, Toronto, Rev. Sister St. Catherine of Sienna of the Grey Nuns of the Cross, Ottawa, The Misses Lizzie, Annie, Jessie at home, Mrs. J. M Benvit of Verner, Ont., two sons James and Daniel.

The very lengthy funeral cortege

The very lengthy funeral cortege the birth extension.

The very lengthy funeral cortege the birth extension.

gave evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

On Thursday morning the 6th inst. her sorrowing friends and relatives gathered to pay their last tribute of respect when her remains tribute of respect when her remains good home. Address Mrs. J. A. Cuthbert government of the control of the contr were borne to John's church where Requiem Mass was chanted by Rev. Gerald H. Gorman, P. P. of Osgoode and thence to John's cemetery where she was laid to rest in the family plot.

family plot.

Many tributes of sympathy were received from friends some of whom were: Rev. Father Fay, Rev. Father A. J. Gorman, Rev. Father

Tierney, Rev. Father Leighane, Chicago, Rev. Father Lynch, Chicago, Rev. Father Perrin, S. J., Chicago, Rev. Mother Albert and Community in India in recent years, was the Grey Nuns of the Cross, Ottawa, Marian Congress of last year in Rev. Mother Pulcheria and Community of the Loretta Order, Toronto, Rev. Mother Irene and Community of Woodlawn Convent, Chicago, Rev. Sisters and pupils of St. Bride's school Chicago, Rev. Sisters, teachers and pupils of Our Lady's school, Ottawa. Numerous spiritual offerings were received from friends and relatives.

THE CANADIAN PILGRIMAGE

A large party of Canadian people sailed from St. John, on April 21st, by the Canadian Pacific steamer "Corsican" for the Canadian Pilgrimage to Rome under the direction of Thos. Cook & Son. The party numbered about eighty people, including many prominent church dignitaries, and have as Spiritual Directors,—Rev. Father E. J. Devine, S. J., Editor, Canadian Messenger of the Sacred Heart; Messenger of the Sacred Heart; Rev. Father Joseph Papin Archambault, S. J.; and Mgr. S. J. Doucet, Vicar General of the Diocese of Chatham, N. B.; Mgr. P. L. Belliveau of Grandigue, N. B.; Rev. Father E. J. Cornell, O. M. I. Parish Priest St. Joseph's Church, Ottawa; Rev. Father R. T. Lapointe, Vicar of the Basilica of Ottawa: Rev. Father J. C. Car-Ottawa; Rev. Father J. C. Carberry of Orillia, Ontario; Rev. Father J. B. Tetreau of St.-Pie-de-Bagot; Rev. Father Napoleon Paquette of Marquis, Sask.; Rev. Father John Mireault of St. Elizabeth Many Peres Father A. beth, Man.; Rev. Father A. J. Trudel of Lameque, N. B.; Rev. Father J. B. Bernier of Lauzon, Que., etc.

Prominent laymen have also secured membership for this interesting tour. Among these we note the names of Dr. Victor Morin, L. L. D., President Royal Society of Canada, Canadian Authors Associa-tion, Canadian Association of Notaries, St. Jean Baptiste Society, etc., Professor J. B. Lagace, M. A., Professor of the History of Arts at Montreal University; Mi. Norbert Decelles, former Senator and Director General of the French Canadian Artisan Society of Woonsocket, R. I.; Mr. P. C. Tremblay Honorary Conservator of the Chateau de Ramsay of Montreal His Grace Bishop Emard of Valleyfield, as well as Canon Laframboise and Canon Bissonnette, also of Valleyfield, will accompany the tour

On Thursday, April 20th, at eight o'clock in the morning a low Mass was celebrated in the church of Notre Dame de Bonsecours, the Mariners Shrine, by Rev. Father Archambault, to implore the Divine 123 Church St. Blessing on the Pilgrims during

HON. MANNING W. DOHERTY APPOINTED TO BOARD OF ONTARIO EQUITABLE

LIFE

At a meeting of the Directors of the Ontario Equitable Life & Accident Insurance Co., at Waterloo, on April 17th, Hon. Manning W. Doherty, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, was appointed a member of the Board, to fill the vacancy left through the death of Dr. Wm. T. Wallace.

DIED

DELANEY.—At Ottawa, Ont., on March 28, 1922, Mr. Patrick Delaney, aged seventy-four years May his soul rest in peace.

CREIGHTON.—At St. Joseph's Hospital, London, on Monday, April 10, 1922, James Creighton, in his seventieth year. May his soul rest in peace.

THE PURE IN HEART

Even while the clouds and light Besides her husband Mrs. O'Connor leaves to mourn her loss eight children, the six daughters are: Rev. Sister M. St. Patrick of the Loretto not for heaven. They see God now, HELP WANTED COOK general wanted. Four in family. No lundry work. Good wages. Apply to Box 324, CATHOLIC RECORD, London, Ont.

THE HOME BANK OF CANADA ORIGINAL OMARTER 1854

The Importance of a Dollar

Every bank considers the handling of a dollar a worth-while transaction when it registers the opening of a new savings account.

Branches and Connections Throughout

British and Foreign Correspondents in All the Principal Citles

Fourteen Branches in Middlesex and Elgin Counties

Vegetarians

NUT MEAT

Natural Foods & Products Co. 123 Church St. Toronto, Canada

Mission Supplies

Newest and Best on the Market Candles Send for Price List

VOTIVE STANDS From $50,00 up
PARISH CENSUS RECORD
CARD SYSTEM

Easter Envelopes J. J. M. LAND 405 YONGE ST. TORONTO

PreserveYour Eggs

W. E. Blake & Son, Ltd.

The Story of the Irish Race

A New History of Ireland By Seumas MacManus

720 Large Pages, Beautifully Bound in Karatol and Gold

s the story of the Irish race from the ery earliest period down to today. Written hat one critic calls "Seumas MacManus' own winging, singing style," it reads like a novel tis filled with the romance, the tragedy, the opening of the property, and the pathos of Erin's story—the most wonderful story the world ever knew. Any man who would pride himself on being octed about Ireland cannot afford to be with but this handsome volume.

t this handsome volume.

It this handsome volume.

Dies of the book for his friends, writes, ")

She every American would read this delight

I book and learn Ireland's wonderful story is a contribution of permanent value to the property of the property istorical lore."

RT. REV. MONS. CONNOLLY, New York rites, "I only took up this book to glance at , but could not lay it down again. It is assembled, I am enclosing $100 for copies." FRANK P. WALSH: "I am simply charms the this book. It is the most readable, consecutive and beautiful work that has yet been cone—a most splendid contribution to the Cause."

REV. DR. GEARY, Catholic University: "It is a work of which every man who belongs to the Irish race may well be proud."

RI. REV. MONS. KEANE. of Pittsburgh During the past fifty or sixty years, since I was a boy, herding the cows on the green hill of dear Tyrone, I have read almost every work in English by both friend and foe, about the land of my birth, but after all these years, must candidly confess I never met a work the beased me as much as this one. Children yet unborn, will bless Seumas MacManus for his beautiful work."

is beautiful work."

MAJOR EUGENE F, KINKEAD: "I am contively delighted with it. Its receipt made nemorable for me Thanksgiving Day, 1921."

RT. REV. BISHOP HICKEY, Providence. "It has refreshed and enlightened me. It is a valuable contribution to the literature of reland."

reland."

THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT: "Seumal facManus keeps as closely as possible to admitted facts. He adds to his laurels with this cook." GAELIC AMERICAN: "This book should be n the home of every Irish family."
PITTSBURGH LEADER: "Singularly uniassed and absorbing. Here is history writen by a poet, and romance written by ar istorian."

storian."

AMERICA: "A splendid book which should not its way into every Irish home—and every ther home as well" AMERICA: A splential control of the role o

Price $6. Postpaid The Catholic Record LONDON, ONT.

ISSIONS

W. E. Blake & Son, Ltd. 128 Church St. Toronto, Canada

Reinvest Your Interest Coupons

Victory Bond owners with interest due on May 1st will find their interest coupons easily and conveniently collected, and will again realize the advantages of buying securities of this type. These interest coupons will enable many such owners to purchase further sound securities. To assure that this wise course is promptly followed, we suggest that you plan at once to apply the interest towards a further attractive investment.

To facilitate this, we recommend that you write us at once for a list of suitable Government and Municipal bonds. Interest returns range from 5.40% to 6.25%.

> Wood, Gundy & Co. Montreal 36 King St. West New York Winnipeg Toronto London, Eng.

Don't Throw Your Old Carpets Away

The Famous VELVETEX Rugs Reversible—Will wear a lifetime—Prices reasonable.
We have hundreds of recommendations from satisfic SEND FOR FOLDER 46

Canada Rug Company 98 CARLING STREET, Established 1909

NURSING

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURBES MERCY Hospital Training School for Nurses offers exceptional educational opportunities for competent and ambitious young women. Ap-plicants must be eighteen years of age, and have one year of High school or it equivalen.
Pupils may enter at the present time. Appli cations may be sent to the Directress of Nurses.
Mercy Hospital, Toledo Ohio 2110-15

BOYS and young men who have a vocation and who are desirous of themselves to the service of God education of youth in the Pre Brothers' Order can now be admit further particulars apply to the Rev

Sanctuary Oil

(Eight Day Oil)

"PERPETUO" Brand Used in all Churches in Rome

Sold in 5 gallon containers and bulk in barrels. Prices quoted on application.

We can also quote favorably on specialty food products such as Macaroni, Olive Oil, etc. Send for our complete price list.

P. PASTENE & CO., Limited

Importers, Macaroni Mfrs, Wholesale Grocers

340 St. Antoine St. Montreal, Que.

To You at Cost

FREIGHT PAID AIN GUARANTEED FOR 20 YEARS

Because they are two inches shorter than the regular sized Canadian planos, the dealers cannot place them on their floors and sell than to advantage, side by side with the Canadian makes. The difference is immediately apparent. But apart, the two inches difference cannot be noticed, and in 99 homes out of every hundred it is a distinct advantage.

These pianos must be turned into money at once, and we are offering them at bur cost price either for cash, or easy payme ts-offering one of the best pianos ever made in Canada at less than it would cost you to buy a cheap second-grade instrument—a piano that the manufacturers guarantee unhesitatingly for 20 full years—an instrument you will be proud to have in your home and delighted to play on. The sounding board is rounded like the belly of a violin, and is built of the very best violin wood obtainable. In it has been caught and held the secret of that instrument's rich singing resonance.

Write us for full particulars. The price is so low that we cannot publish it broadcast, because it would cause people to think that dealers were charging too much for their pianos No good piano could be built to sell for the price we are asking, and the moment these pianos are sold the sale will be closed. This is the opportunity of a li'etime to get a good piano at a very low price and we will sell to you either for cash or on special easy payments. These pianos must be moved and we want to make it easy for you to buy one. Write us for the particulars, and when you decide to buy, tell us then how you would like to pay.

Do not delay a single day. We do not want to have to write and tell that the pianos are all sold. Write us now and we will send you the full in mation, and as soon as your order comes in, we will ship you one of t splendid pianos, guaranteed for 20 years, packed to reach you safely and freight charges prepaid. And with it goes a PIANO BENCH ABSOLUTELY FREE if you are amongst the first to write in. We have a number of very beautiful benches, designed to match the planos, for which in the ordinary way we get $15.00. We will send you one of these with your plano without a cent of extra cost. We are offering these FREE to move the planos quickly. Don't be disappointed by being too late. Fill in the coupon now.

Your Opportunity HERE