Russian Troops Have Reached Wooded Spur Of the Carpathians

Russians Now Have Entire Railway System of Bukovina in Their Possession—Have Chased the Austrians in One Sweeping Advance and Now Have an Exceptionally Good Opportunity of Securing an Opening Into Austrian Territory—Russians Cover Fifteen Miles in Two Days and Easily Occupy Radautz Close to the Roumania Frontier.

LONDON, June 24.—In their advance towards Kovel by means of forced marches along the Roumanian frontier, the Russians have reached the extreme south of Bukovina, at Kutzy on the north Gurahumora on the south have approached the thickly wooded spur of the Carpathian Mountains. A good road, roughly estimated at about 100 miles long, runs through narrow valleys and gorges from Gurahumora, by way of Kimpelung and Dorna, Aatra and Blatitz, in Hungary, offering the Russian guerrillas an excellent opening into their enemy's country. The Russians in their pursuit of the Austrians, thus far, have crossed four rivers—the Dniester, Pruth, Sereth and Suczava. Two days sufficed to cover the fifteen miles between the Sereth and Suczava. The objective of the Russians was Radautz where the Austrians were expected to offer stubborn resistance, owing to the fact that the river forms a natural defensive line north and north-east of the town, but it appears the Austrians failed to make any serious stand here, in as much as no fighting is described in the official communications. Radautz is only five miles south-west of the important railway junction of Hadzifalva, close to the Roumanian frontier, which also is in Russian hands. Virtually the entire railway system of Bukovina is now in possession of the Russians.

Another Soldier Reported Wounded

OTTAWA, June 24.—Private Walter F. Phelan, of Newfoundland, is reported wounded, in a recent casualty list.

Bulgars Active

SALONIKA, June 24.—A despatch to the Chronicle says it is stated here on good authority that the Bulgarians are marching toward the important fort of Peapetra. From the same source I learn that the Bulgarians have crossed the River Mesta, which for some length inland from its mouth forms the frontier between Greek Macedonia and Bulgaria.

The combined British and French air squadrons bombed Qumuldjina, this being the first occasion on which British airmen have taken part in air raids in this region.

ATHENS, June 24.—A decree fixing the elections for August 7 will be issued next week. The blockade will be raised tomorrow.

GERMAN PRESS ON ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

In Commenting on the Paris Economy Conference of the Allies German Papers Say Resolutions Adopted Are of no Importance—See Nothing to Worry About in Them

AMSTERDAM, June 24.—German newspapers commenting on the Paris Economic Conference declares the resolution references are of no importance because all matters dealt with will be adjusted at the peace negotiations.

The Frankfurter Zeitung says "No peace will be concluded which does not leave to our economic strength in the fullest manner the same room for expansion which it had previously; to conclude any other would be neither wise nor humane, because it would lead in the shortest time to a repetition of the present world disaster."

ALL THE AVAILABLE AMERICAN MILITIA WILL BE IMMEDIATELY RUSHED TO MEXICAN BORDER

Secretary of War Baker Issues Orders to Army Commanders to Send all Available Militia to Mexican Border—Pope Benedict Much Distressed Over Sight of Whole World Fighting—Mexico Tries to Stir up Strife in Peru by Accusing the United States of Aggressive Intentions—Peruvian Government is Hopeful That Peace May be Maintained

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Secretary of War Baker today issued orders to all Army commanders to send to the Mexican border all militia available, immediately upon their organization, without waiting for the completion of mobilization of separate states. The commanders are requested to notify General Funston when each regiment, troop, battery, or other unit completes muster.

This announcement of new orders was made officially after today's Cabinet meeting. No explanation is offered for the change of the original plan to send only a part of the available guardsmen at present. Officials would not disclose whether news of any important developments in Mexico had caused the step.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Elicio Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, today personally informed the diplomatic representatives of the South and Central American Republics that Carranza troops in the State of Chihuahua were under orders not to attack American troops unless the Americans assumed the aggressive. He stated that he acted on instructions from his Foreign Office.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—In an amendment to the Hay resolution authorizing the President to draft into the Federal service immediately, all national guardsmen, willing to take the oath, the House today unanimously declared that an emergency now existed necessitating the call of State troops. A new section of the bill offered by Representative Hay was also unanimously adopted. It would appropriate a sum not exceeding $1,000,000 for allowance and not to exceed $50 a month for dependents of national guardsmen with no other income.

LIMA, Peru, June 23.—A lengthy note from the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs was received today at the Foreign Office. It set forth the opinion of the Mexican Government that war with the United States was inevitable on account of the methods employed by the American Government, and pointed out that all the Republics of Central and South America would be affected by the conflict.

The Peruvian Government returned a carefully worded reply, couched in friendly terms, expressing the hope that peace may be maintained.

ROME, June 23.—Pope Benedict is much distressed over seeing virtually the whole world fighting, according to information coming from the Vatican, after news of the combat between the Americans and Mexicans was received. The Pontiff entertains hopes that hostilities between the United States and Mexico may be averted by Spain, which is supported by the Holy See.

Russia Offers Czernowitz To Roumania?

ROME, June 24.—It is reported from Bucharest that Russia has offered Czernowitz to Roumania if she will join the Allies. Roumanian opinion is said to be favorable to the proposal.

RUSSIANS SWEEPING BUKOWINA

Czar's Forces Are Now Cutting Their Way Through Bukowina in the Effort to Capture the Austrian Army There—Russians Making a Dash For the Carpathian Mountains

PETROGRAD, June 23.—The Russian forces which are cutting their way through Bukowina in the effort to capture the Austrian army there, have made further advance. The War Office today announced the capture of three villages west of Radautz, 20 miles south of Czernowitz, the occupation of which was reported yesterday. Eight hundred prisoners were taken. The villages near Radautz, captured by the Russians, are Gurahumora, Straizia and Sarace. The Russians also have taken Vinsitz, near Kutzy. This announcement shows that the Russians have traversed almost the entire length of Bukowina. The town of Gurahumora is ten miles from the Roumanian border. Vinsitz is on the border between Galicia and Bukowina, 25 miles south-west of Czernowitz.

LONDON, June 23.—Tonight's Russian official confirms what had already been learned from Austrian admissions that the Russians are overrunning Bukowina, and are making a dash for the passes in the Carpathian Mountains, as they did 18 months ago, when they reached Kiribabu Pass, overlooking Austrian Transylvania. A report from Bucharest stated that the Russians had taken possession of two railways leading from Roumania to Bukowina. Information that the Germans and Austrians are being up reinforcements from the French and Italian fronts is given in a communication from Petrograd.

According to speculation in Paris the tornado of artillery fire on the Verdun sector and attacks in Champagne are supposed to be a mask to transfer troops from this front to the Russian front in view of the necessity of stemming the Russian advance towards Kovel.

Off For Mexico Border Line

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The National Guards organizations throughout the country were straining every nerve tonight to prepare for active service on the Mexican border. The entire army of 100,000 men summoned by President Wilson's call to be placed directly at General Funston's disposal, will be rushed to the Mexican border at the earliest possible moment. The Congress also took vigorous and far-reaching action in a resolution adopted by the House which authorizes the President to draft into service of the United States all members of the National Guard who subscribes the new oath for that service. The effect of the measure gives the Executive approval of President Wilson's call for state soldiers and provides for their use in or out of the United States and also furnishes new machinery with which to hasten the strengthening of the border guard. The State probably will pass the resolution tomorrow.

The Battle For Verdun

PARIS, June 24.—Whether it is true or not that the Germans have been obliged to withdraw troops from the Western front to send to Russia, the fact is by no means manifest, for in the familiar Verdun cockpit the recent attacks have been well up to the standard of intensity, and effectives deliver well nourished onslaughts in the Champagne region. Expectations raised by the furious 24-hour bombardment on the right bank of the Meuse were fulfilled. From early morn until nightfall attack after attack was launched along the short front from Thiaumont to Damloup. The object of the German command is to secure control of the Vaux ravine, without which it is impossible for him to force back the French advanced line and begin an attack upon the main line of forts between Souville and Tavannes.

Duke of Connaught Returns to England

LONDON, June 24.—King George has given his sanction for the Duke of Connaught, whose term as Governor-General of Canada expires next October, to return to England, says an announcement issued by the Colonial Office. The King also has excused Prince Alexander of Teck, whose appointment, made before the war, from being successor to the Duke of Connaught, as the Prince cannot relinquish his military duties. Nothing is known officially concerning reports that Earl Curzon, former Viceroy of India, will become Governor-General of Canada.

No Successor Named

OTTAWA, June 24.—In the Rideau Hall tonight Lieut.-Col. Stanton, Military Secretary to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught confirmed the London despatch as to the Royal Governor's departure from Canada. No confirmation has been received as to his successor either by the Duke or the Government.

The Germans Made Further Gains in the Drive on Verdun

Mexicans Surprised

NEW YORK, June 24.—An Associated Press despatch from Mexico City last night said the note of the American Government in reply to the communication of General Carranza demanding the withdrawal of American forces in Mexico had not yet been published there. Officials of the Mexican Government declared that Mexico is not attacking the American punitive expedition, but said that by no means will Mexico allow these troops to advance southward. They added that Mexican people were surprised at reports coming from the north that the United States alleged that Mexico was seeking war, especially as American forces had invaded Mexico.

Prince George at Berlin

ATHENS, June 24.—A Royal decree suspending the sessions of the deputies has been published. A London despatch from Copenhagen says Prince George, brother of the King of Greece, arrived in Berlin and conferred with the Imperial Chancellor and departed for Switzerland.

HUNS GAIN GROUND BUT PAY DEARLY

Yesterday's Fighting Around Verdun Was Awful—Defenders Worn Out and Thinned Forced to Give Way to Germans Who Paid Dearly For Every Foot Gained

PARIS, June 24.—Late details show that yesterday's fighting near Verdun equalled in fury anything yet experienced. The total German forces engaged on the two-mile front are estimated at between four and five divisions. It was only by the last overwhelming rush, when the defenders were worn out and thinned by many hours of bombardment that the enemy succeeded in rushing the Thiaumont work and adjacent advanced trenches.

Thiaumont fortifications covers the approaches to Fleury, and the enemy hoped to continue their charge and sweep away the defenders of the latter place, but the French counter attacked with such vigor that he was able only to cling to the positions first gained, which he was busily engaged in strengthening all night. In the morning papers it is freely admitted that the Germans scored a success, but they point out that this success cost more than it was worth. The enemy's losses are being placed at from 40 to 50 per cent. of the effectives engaged.

Pope Appeals to Wilson

LONDON, June 24.—A wireless despatch from Rome says that Pope Benedict has appealed to President Wilson, and General Carranza to use their earnest endeavor to avert war.

Germany in Face of Violent Fire From French Guns Carry the French First Line and 326, also Thiaumont Fort—Germans have Succeeded in Getting Within 3 1/2 Miles of Verdun—Only in Bukowina Have Russians Been Able to Continue Their Sweeping March—Elsewhere They Have Met With Stubborn Resistance

LONDON, June 24.—The Germans have gained another step in their progress towards Verdun by capturing French positions north-east of that fortress. Fighting along a front of over three miles, on the right bank of the Meuse, the German forces, following the usual artillery bombardment, and in the face of violent fire from the French guns, carried the French first line of trenches between Hills 321 and 320, also Thiaumont Fort. Fierce fighting marked the advance towards Verdun, Paris declares, in admitting the loss of trenches and Thiaumont Fort. Further along the fighting line the Germans reached Fleury, about 3 1/2 miles north-east of Verdun, but Paris says attacks on the Woods of Vaux, Châpêtre, Fârin and Cheneis and on the Damloup batteries were broken and repulsed. South of Damloup battery, in the sector of Moulain Village, and on the left bank of the Meuse in the region of Hill 344 and Le Mort Homme, French positions are being heavily bombarded by German guns.

At the same time the Germans have held back the advance of the Russian forces from Dvinsk to the Gallician border. The Russians have advanced further into Bukowina in pursuit of Gen. Pfleger's forces, but further north, in East Galicia and Volhynia, their progress has apparently been arrested by the violent attacks and counter-attacks of the Teutonic Allies. Advances for German and Austrian forces west and south-west of Lutsk, in Volhynia and the repulse of Russian counter attacks on Spokhod and Stry Rivers in the same region and along the Gallician frontier in the vicinity of Brody, are chronicled in Berlin and Vienna official communications.

Kaiser Worried

PARIS, June 24.—It is reported that the Kaiser, Crown Prince, General von Falkenhayn, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, and other leaders held a war council at Mezieres on June 19th and 20th to determine whether it is worth while to continue the attempt at Verdun. The Emperor is said to have been depressed and worn. He eventually allowed General von Falkenhayn and the Crown Prince, according to the report, to persuade him to continue the Verdun campaign. Accordingly the attack was resumed more fiercely than ever.

IS THE BRITISH NATION ONE OF THE LOST TRIBES OF ISRAEL?

Is the British nation one of the ten lost tribes of Israel? Was this war predicted in the Old Testament? These are two questions which are answered in the affirmative by the "Banner of Israel," a journal which deals with all branches of inquiry touching the interests of Anglo-Israelites. The following Biblical references and prophecies are pointed out.

The scattered Israelites would be gathered into a place of safety: Jer. xxxi, 10; 2 Samuel, viii, 10; evidently islands: Isa. xlii, 1, xxiv, 14, 15; situated northwest from Palestine: Jer. ii, 18; Hos. xi, 10.

Their land would become too small and they would spread out to the very ends of the earth: Isa. xlv, 20; liv, 3; Deut. xxxiii, 17. They had to inherit and colonize the waste parts of the universe: Isa. xxxv, 1; xlix, 17.

They would lend to many nations and borrow from none: Deut. xxviii, 12. They would rule over many nations and be ruled over by none: Deut. xv, 6.

The territory would be distinguished for mineral and agricultural wealth: Deut. xxxiii, 13-16. Regarding the main argument of Anglo-Israelism an authority says:

"God made certain specific unconditional promises to Abraham and David which they could only have understood as meaning literally what they said. Abraham's seed was to be a company of nations, and David was never to lack a descendant to sit on his throne. If these promises have not been fulfilled in the British race and royal family there seems no chance of their ever being fulfilled, and God cannot break his word. As on all points the British race alone fulfils the requirements it seems unlikely that any others are the descendants of the lost 10 tribes.

"And there are other Biblical references which seem to bear out the main contention of the Anglo-Israelites that the British nation is identified with the lost 10 tribes of Israel and that the progress of the British race is predicted in the Old Testament. It is pointed out in one of the publications on the subject that Queen Victoria, not long before her death, admitted the royal family to be descended from David, through the daughter of Zedekiah, the last of the Jewish kings. King Edward was said to have had a chart tracing the descent step by step from David and from Abraham.

"It is also claimed that the Dons and Dons of Ireland and Scotland are descended from Dan, one of the 12 tribes whom, in the Book of Judges, Deborah reproaches, while the British Coronation Stone, which for more than 700 years has figured in the coronation of England's kings and queens, is regarded by many as Jacob's pillow.

"A clear distinction must be made between the House of Judah and the House of Israel," one writer says. "After the death of Solomon the 12 tribes were divided into two kingdoms, and from that day to this they have never been reunited as one nation. The Israelites are not Jews. The Jew has a well-defined history down to the present day, but the history of the Israelites is not so clear, and that is why they have been called the lost 10 tribes. They have wandered over the world, and according to the Anglo-Israelites, moved across Europe until, under the names of goths and Saxons, etc., they ultimately settled in the British Isles."

Many books have been written on this subject by writers who have approached the question like the Rt. Rev. Bishop Titcomb, with quite an open mind. He wrote that while the question involves "mere contingencies and probabilities," it is folly to regard the whole theory as ridiculous. It is pointed out that English racial characteristics can be traced to the Israelites, and that the English language bears a very remarkable resemblance to the Hebrew.

The British coinage and weights and measures are of Hebraic origin, according to various scientists, who contend that the basis of the measurements of the Great Pyramid is the inch, now known generally as the British inch, and that the late survey of the British Isles, "25in. to the mile," is on the Pyramid scale.

These are only a few of the points mentioned by supporters of the Anglo-Israelite idea in their contention that the British nation is one of the lost 10 tribes of Israel. The later Mr. Reader Harris, K.C., founder of the Pentecostal League, wrote on the subject, for he, like many other people, was a firm believer that the British race—"a people strong and free—numerous as the sand of the sea—mighty in battle—blessing to all nations—living in islands northwest of Palestine—her home uninvadable—having colonies all over the world—mother of nations"—sprang from the lost 10 tribes of Israel.

THE HOTWATER QUESTION.

What at one time was an obstacle to the more general use of gas for cooking, namely the difficulty of obtaining hot water when the kitchen range was out of use, has been overcome by the invention of efficient and economical gas-heated apparatus, whereby a constant supply of hot water can be secured at reasonable cost quite independently of the kitchen range boiler.

THE YOUNG AND THE OLD

THE Young Man lay in the trenches, In the mud and the blinding rain, Death in the earth, and death in the air, And hunger and cold and pain, Blood on his hands and blood on his soul, From the murder that could not cease, And the Young Man said, while the guns flashed red, "Peace! God give us peace!"

The Old Man sat in the smoke-room, Withered and lank and lean, Far from the hell of the bursting shell, And the sea and the ships between, Safe his old worthless carcass, And the Old Man said, while the young men bled, "War! War to the knife!"

War Messages.

Have Grave Fears of War

WASHINGTON, June 24.—With reports at hand that nearly the entire American cavalry command, of about one hundred soldiers may have been annihilated in the fight at Carrizal on Wednesday, grave fears were expressed in official circles today that not even diplomatic representations from Mexico City can prevent open hostilities between the United States and Mexico. Up to late last night only seven survivors of the Carrizal battle had returned to their base in General Pershing's column, and they brought no definite word of the other's rate.

Relief of Poland

LONDON, June 23.—Lord Robert Cecil, British Minister of War Trade, told a representative of the Associated Press today that Britain was ready to resume negotiations if a basis could be secured by which he had attempted to obtain for the Belgian Relief Commission the opportunity to extend relief to Poland. These negotiations called for provisioning, also, the Austrian occupied districts in Poland and Serbia, Montenegro and Albania. Although officers of the Commission, with the assistance of Ambassador Page and Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, had done their utmost, they have been compelled to abandon all hope of success, but, said Lord Robert, I consider the German refusal outrageous. Proceeding, he said, this action doesn't appear accidental, but is in accord with German principles of warfare which they boldly publish. This matter is the result of calculated policy, just as their striking medals to commemorate the sinking of the Lusitania. There has been horrible suffering in Poland, but the German outcry in behalf of humanity is merely a design to get food for their own army.

Anti-Home Rulers Grow Excited

LONDON, June 23.—Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Lord Cromer, Earl Halsbury, Viscount Middleton, and the Marquis of Salisbury, who represented the extreme anti-Home Rule party, have issued a manifesto deprecating any attempt to settle the Irish question by negotiations at a moment when a sanguinary rebellion has just been repressed, and when the concessions proposed will be regarded in Ireland as premium on rebellion, and as a vantage ground for further demands. The signatories' manifesto declares it to be their conviction that the proposed settlement is fraught with infinite danger to the State.

German Gains Around Verdun

PARIS, June 23.—In fierce fighting in the region north-east of Verdun, the Germans today carried the French first line of trenches between Hills 321 and 320, also Thiaumont work, according to a French official communication issued tonight. The Germans drove their attack as far as the village of Fleury, about 3½ miles north-east of Verdun, but here they were repulsed. In other sectors of this region a heavy offensive by the Germans was stopped by French fire.

MOUNT CASHEL FESTIVAL

The Annual Garden Party in aid of Mount Cashel, which takes place on the 26th of July, promises to be even a greater success than ever. Arrangements have been made for a particularly attractive Sports Programme. In this connection the Road Race from Torbay is being looked forward to with much interest, as it is said that amongst the members of the Newfoundland Regiment now in Barracks there are some very good distance runners who will likely compete. Much interest is also being shown in the Pony Race, which was held last year for first time, and which became such a popular feature. In this event it is expected that there will be quite a number of entries from the outlying settlements.

OUR THEATRES

THE NICKEL
The great feature at the Nickel theatre to-day is a picturization of Cyrus Townsend Brady's story, "West Wind," which is produced in three acts by the Vitagraph Co. That it will be perfectly rendered is an assured fact, as the Vitagraph Co. is well known for the excellence of its pictures. It is one of the most interesting subjects ever made for the movies. There are several other high class pictures, and Bert Stanley will sing another popular song. To-day there is a specially big matinee for children, with extra pictures. The little ones should go early and spend an enjoyable afternoon.

THE CRESCENT.
One of the finest week-end programmes is on at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. "When the Wires Crossed" is a drama of political intrigue featuring L. C. Shumway and Ada Gleason. "Broncho Billy's Parents" is a strong Western drama with G. M. Anderson. "Heart Trouble" is a Biograph drama with Vola Smith and Alan Hale. "Hearst Selig News" is a reel of interesting world events, the world before your eyes; and "Snakeville's Hen Medic" is a lively Snakeville comedy. A feature of the show is the musical programme played by Professor McCarthy. Don't miss this big show to-day.

MEN ILL IN BARRACKS.
There are now some 18 or 20 men ill in the hospital at the barracks suffering from colds and other slight ailments. They are being looked after by Capt. Paterson, and Lt. Burden. Capt. Patterson sleeps in the barracks to be about if needed. L. C. Keefe and Mr. Reeves also are in attendance, the former being attached to the Regiment and having charge of the hospital, while the latter kindly volunteered his services. These patients, as well as those at Donovans, are all doing well.

FLORIZEL'S FINE CONDITION
Since the Florizel was here last she had been on a trip down to the West India Islands, taking a number of tourists and others along, and on the return to New York brought up a cargo of sugar. During her absence she was nicely painted up and had considerable repairs made and is now in splendid condition for the St. John's, Halifax and New York service.

VERY GOOD TRAP FISHING
People who arrived here by the Placentia train yesterday say that there is splendid trap fishing at Lamaline and neighbourhood the past two weeks. Fish in great quantity struck in with the caplin and traps have ashore from 50 to 150 and 200 qts. codfish. Hook and line men are not doing so well but all the bankers are making good voyages.

MEASURE TO HEALTH
On the South side of Mundy's Pond, near the road, there was recently dumped a lot of old mattresses, bedding and other material, about which children in large numbers play daily. This is a great menace to the health of this locality and we have been asked to bring the matter before the authorities. The place should be cleaned up immediately.

FAMOUS SKIPPER HERE
Capt. John Kennedy, of Carbonear, has been here the past few days on a visit. Capt. Kennedy is a veteran Labrador fish killer and will resume the voyage this year. Forty years ago it was Capt. Kennedy in the schooner "A. T. Stone," who, going to the Gulf, brought into St. John's the derelict, English brig, "Caroline," with a load of raisins. She had been abandoned by her crew and he transferred four of his men aboard of her. After her arrival there were "figgy duffs to burn" for years in St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F.L.D., JUNE 24, 1916.

CIVIC MATTERS

THE TELEGRAM last evening settled all doubts as to where it stands in the forthcoming civic election. By its utterance last evening it clearly proved that it stands for Mr. Gosling and the "Big" six.

Will the Telegram assume to tell the public that the work undertaken by the present Board of Commissioners was in accordance with popular demand? Will the Telegram say whether the public of this city understood that when they were calling out a Commission to draw up a charter for the city, the citizens understood that this Commission was to engage in all the big undertakings they have during the past three years?

Did the citizens, who asked for the appointment of a Commission to draft a charter of Municipal Government suitable for the needs of the city, instruct the present Board and its head to experiment with Tarvia payments, install new water services, erect catch basins for collecting night soil in the manner they have? In connection with the latter we might point out that notwithstanding Dr. Brehm's report, we know of several of our foremost medical men who strongly condemn these catch basins as a menace to the health of the city.

Having openly declared their preference for Mr. Gosling and his "Big" six the Telegram takes occasion to create an unfavorable impression in the minds of the taxpayers against the other gentlemen seeking Municipal honors. This is most unfair and unjust, and we think we are safe in saying that the general public will not take the Telegram's utterance seriously as regards the personage of the independent aspirants for office.

"They have given the city no outline of the platform," says the Telegram, "and until they can do so we respectfully decline to give them as such an excellent one." This is the opinion of the Telegram but it is we think one which will find few supporters among the masses of our city taxpayers.

The gentlemen who are running independent of the "Big" six are men well capable of managing the city affairs and will we feel sure, if elected, give a good account of themselves at the Council Board. It must not be overlooked that when Mr. Gosling and his Commissioners took into themselves the running of our Municipal affairs they outlined no platform. They asked for one year to draw up a charter. They were three years doing this work and now though we have it at last it will take two years more before the objectionable parts of it are removed. Why then does the Telegram deride those who have not the honor of being known as the "saviours" of the city? For some weeks back certain sections of the press were loud in their complaints that few men were offering for the forthcoming elections, and it does seem strange now that when several of our best known and respected citizens come forward to undertake the work, others have failed in their entry into the arena is met with an almost united press whose one and only object seems to be to down them.

This is a poor public spirit to adopt. We bemoaned the lack of candidates and now when they have come forward all of them having a large personal following throughout the city, instead of giving all a fair and square deal, a determined effort is made to "kill" them before they can get an opportunity to show what they can do for the benefit of the city.

This is a regrettable feature of the forthcoming election and it certainly must leave the impression in the minds of the public that the much boasted "independence" of the press is a thing of the past.

RECEIVED NASTY WOUND

The Right Rev. Thos. F. Brennan, formerly Bishop of Dallas, Texas, U. S. A., died not long since at Rome. His kindness of character endeared him to many of the people of St. John's, all of whom will sincerely regret to hear of his demise.

FROM THE WRECK.

After going to Fortune Bay the Portia again to-day went to the stranded steamer Arachne at Point Platte. The grain is being jettisoned from the fore part of the ship to lighten it and when this is finished, if the weather is fine, the Portia, Amphitrite and other ships now there will try to tow the ship off. Yesterday there was some sea running at the wreck but not enough to do any damage. The ship is 19 miles from the nearest telegraph office at St. Pierre and it is difficult to get news from her. If it remains calm it is hoped to get her off.

REVEILLE

BY CALCAR

ST. JOHN'S, for a city of the commercial and political importance, is extremely backward not alone in the condition of its streets and dwellings, but it is remarkable in its absence of public halls, where people might at any time get together to discuss public matters. We believe that had the citizens of St. John's a public hall of their own a great advance would soon be made in the matter of civic reform. Public meetings would be more frequent and people would soon form the intelligent habit of getting together on all public questions, if people had easy and free access to a public hall or meeting place. Because of the lack of such a facility people are kept in a peculiarly insular sort of existence, but rarely get together, and then as a rule just to listen to the one sided idea of some faction or party, never to talk over matters, but to be talked at.

Now this is not good enough for an intelligent people, and the City Council should see to it that a commodious building is put up. If necessary a public subscription might be opened for the gathering of the necessary funds. In the building of this hall provision should be made for the accommodation of a night school and course of lectures. To see that its citizens are given every opportunity for an education is as much the duty of a city as is the providing of light or water. The neglect of this duty should not longer be tolerated in any council that may assume direction of civic affairs. It is shameful for St. John's to see a night school being kept in a cellar, which is really all that the rooms at present available might be compared to.

Do we value the self sacrificing efforts of those gentlemen who are so generously giving of their time to the instruction of young men and boys who have been so unfortunate as to have missed a chance of acquiring an education in the regular way. Then let us give some tangible proof of how we appreciate their efforts, by giving them an airy and up to date school room. Let us in God's name throw off this selfish and unintelligent way we have and get to work as sensible people to improve our status. It is up to us and if we fail we deserve to be made the pawns and tools of designing men, who well know how to appraise a divided people.

PRESENTMENT of the GRAND JURY

The Honourable Sir W. H. Forwood, Chief Justice, The Honourable Mr. Justice Johnson, and The Honourable Mr. Justice Kent, of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland.

My Lords: The members of the Grand Jury for the Spring term of 1916, wish to make to your Lordships the following presentation and report. On April 5th the members visited the Penitentiary and thoroughly inspected the buildings and premises generally. The number of prisoners present at the time were only 35 males and 3 females—the lowest number for the past twelve years, according to Superintendent Parsons' records. We note of the 287 commitments for the year, 118 could not read or write. The Superintendent informs us of those having some education generally get longer sentences than those of the illiterate class. We are pleased to report the Institution clean and tidy, and the improvements recommended by a former Grand Jury in reference to the cesspool have been carried out. The Grand Jury would recommend that Dr. Brock, P.H.O., be asked to furnish a report on the sewerage system of this Institution, as we think the plumbing and sewerage could be materially improved. The women's partners also showed improvement and care, being newly painted and renovated. The ventilation has also been attended to, and this department reflects very creditably on the Matron in charge, Miss Dunphy. We also noticed some hand fire extinguishers installed for use in case of emergency, which is very necessary in a penal institution. On visiting the Lunatic Asylum the following week, we were more than gratified to find from all appearances everything in perfect order; the kitchen and laundry suggested by a former Grand Jury having been installed by the Commissioners on thoroughly up-to-date principles. We desire to record our congratulations to the Commissioners and the Public Works Department on the way the work has been devised and executed, and the Grand Jury have the highest praise for those responsible for it. The new modern cooking range, gas, provides the one thousand and fifty meals required, not only for the inmates and attendants of the Asylum, but also for the 140 female patients in residence and about 45 attendants. The clean and bright atmosphere, and the patients looked well clothed, well fed, and carefully looked after. The private rooms in the women's department provided for paying patients showed great tidiness, cleanliness and care. The Matron in charge, Miss Dunphy, gave us the impression of being the most capable woman, and being the right person in the right place. Miss Field explained to the Jury the different methods and systems of the work of her department, and she showed great familiarity with the necessary details. The fire escapes were also shown to us, and the lines of hose and stand pipes proved those in charge were fully alive to the dangers of fire, which in an Institution of the matter is due to the people of the Colony from the Government as to why its erection has not gone on with, as if proceeded with on the ideal site, with the beautiful and picturesque scenery and fine trees surrounding it, and with the additional privilege of allowing the patients to visit Bowring Park, the gift of Messrs Bowring Bros., Ltd. to the citizens, now completed nearby, it would be a great help to Dr. Rendell and his aides in charge of the Tuberculosis Campaign, in order to extend their work and influence unto those unfortunately afflicted with consumption, and help in a great measure to prevent the spread of the disease to those of us and our families who are not at present suffering from this dread plague.

The Consumptive Camp, Mundy Pond Road, was also visited by the Grand Jury, in order to see conditions there, and judge what progress the patients were making, as the Jury consider the matter of public health a most important feature on account of the high death rate in the district of St. John's in the jurisdiction of your Grand Jury. On our arrival there we found Doctor Rendell, Medical Superintendent, and Miss Campbell on duty, and about 20 patients in residence. The buildings are on a story shafts, neither wind or water proof, and small additions have been added to at different times, so that those in charge are working under tremendous odds. No sewerage or water system is installed, the water having to be carried from a neighboring well across the road. The Matron's bedroom is being used as a private sitting room, patients' consulting room, and office. There is no accommodation for nurses outside of a small cubicle. The kitchen room is small and congested, and the staff every day hampered by lack of facilities. Considering these difficulties, however, wonderful results are obtained by the staff, and out of 46 cases under treatment at the camp for 1915, the results were as follows, as per copy of the Medical Superintendent's report for 1915:

Table with 2 columns: Condition and Count. Cured or arrested: 13. Improved: 10. Worse: 4. Died: 1. Remained for a few days: 3. In camp 31st December: 46.

Excluding the three cases which left the camp after a few days, the results show 23 completed cases with 23 good results, and of the 11 in Camp 31st December, 14 show good evidence of ultimate recovery. The patients who are included under the heading of improved, were for the most part so far advanced toward recovery that it was considered safe to let them return home where treatment could be continued satisfactorily whilst at the same time room was made for more urgent cases.

Dr. Rendell, the Medical Superintendent, also states that these results compare favorably with those obtained in any climate. The Jury understands that since the advent of the Tuberculosis Campaign, the year 1914 showed 21.5 per cent fewer cases reported than in 1913. The good results of the Campaign or Consumptives justifies in the opinion of the Jury that the Government allow the "Connaught Sanatorium" ordered by Sir William Reid and his brothers to be erected forthwith, either in whole or in part, in order to facilitate this most important work of public health. We are fully aware of the difficulties of carrying out his work before, owing to the existing conditions due to the war.

The demands of the country whose largest number of inhabitants die from Tuberculosis surely warrants a permanent Sanatorium for the practical demonstration of curing the disease, and of the special training of nurses to combat the danger and improve in a large way what the experimental camp has done and is doing successfully at Mundy Pond Road in a small way. We would also wish to record that Doctor Rendell and Miss Campbell show great interest and enthusiasm in their work and are very valuable officials.

Your Grand Jury also visited the Poor Asylum, and found Superintendent Priddy using all the possibilities with his present facilities. The institution was clean and tidy, and the inmates looked well cared for, the men being 30 men and 62 females, with 14 attendants. The Jury however recommends that the present practice of old and often discarded persons being allowed to sleep two in a bed should be immediately discontinued and a separate bed for each inmate provided immediately, as there is plenty of room to accomplish this alteration. The buildings should be destroyed as soon as the Government finances permit of the erection of a new Asylum. The present building has not been painted on the outside for some eighteen years, and meantime this should be attended to as the outside of the building is discreditable and unsightly.

We also further recommend that as soon as the war is over and Government finances adjusted that the salary lists of the Civil Servants of the above named Institutions be revised and increases made. The Grand Jury wish to express to the Hon. Mr. Justice Kent their sincere and hearty congratulations on his being elevated to the Bench, and wish him good health and many years of usefulness in this responsible and dignified position. We also extend our congratulations to the Hon. Chas. Emerson, K.C., newly appointed Registrar.

The Jury has had unfortunately more work this term than is usual, and in presenting their report wish to express our thanks to the Court and other officials who aided and facilitated our work. Respectfully submitted for self and fellow Jurors.

GEO. B. WILLIAMS, Foreman.

THE SCIENTIFIC WORK

Of Geological Parties, from Princeton University in Parts of Newfoundland.

Department of Geology, Princeton University, Princeton, N.J., June 16th, 1916.

(To Editor of the Mail and Advocate.)

Dear Sir,—As there was some slight misunderstanding last summer of the part of the people of Notre Dame Bay and elsewhere as to the nature and aims of the Princeton University Geological Expedition, it occurs to me that it might be well to give you a short description of what we are doing and an outline of what has been done in the past. Publication of this letter, or of some favorable expression regarding our plans, will lead to a better understanding of our motives.

Since the summer of 1912, the expeditions sent out by Princeton University have been actively engaged in field work and laboratory research on the general geology and ore deposits of Conception, Trinity and Notre Dame Bays. The object of this work is to afford training to the men studying in the Department of Geology at Princeton University, and the those requiring their services are offered as a partial fulfillment of the requirements of the degree of Doctor of Philosophy or Doctor of Science. The underlying motive of the work is the solution of several most important problems connected with the geological history of the island of Newfoundland and the relation of this history to those of the adjacent portions of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick on the west and of Great Britain and France on the east, and also of problems bearing on the mode of origin of several types of ore deposits for which Newfoundland seems, in our opinion, to present highly favorable opportunities.

As a result of the work thus far accomplished, the following reports have been published in prominent and widely circulated bulletins and journals in the United States and Canada: "The Wabana Iron Ore of Newfoundland," by Dr. A. O. Hayes; "The Cambrian Manganoferous Deposits of Conception and Trinity Bays, Newfoundland," by Dr. N. C. Dake; "Pyrophyllitization, Fertilization, and Silicification of Rocks around Conception Bay, Newfoundland," by Dr. A. F. Buddington. Also several shorter articles, have been published. A memoir entitled: "The Proterozoic Rocks of the Avalon Peninsula," by Dr. A. F. Buddington is ready for publication. Other papers now underway include reports on "The Cambrian and Lower Ordovician Formation of Conception and Trinity Bays" by Professor Gilbert van Ingen; "Middle Cambrian Formations and Faunas" by B. F. Howell; "Lower Ordovician Fossils" by Gilbert van Ingen; "Fossil Algae of the Wabana Iron Ore" by Gilbert van Ingen; "Ore Deposits and Associated Altered Rocks of Notre Dame Bay" by Edward Sampson. Professor van Ingen (of Hollandah, not German ancestry) is in charge of the work in Newfoundland, and it is largely due to his enthusiasm and interest that so much has been accomplished.

During the summer of 1915, a party consisting of Dr. A. F. Buddington, W. M. Agar, and myself, was at work on the general geology and mineral deposits of Notre Dame Bay. The pyrite and copper deposits of this district and their associated rocks offer a subject of great scientific interest. I intend to visit the Bay again this summer, and will be accompanied by Mr. W. M. Agar, and Dr. A. C. Brown.

In the absence of appropriations for carrying on a governmental geological survey, the present Government Geologist, Mr. J. P. Howley, whose labors are so largely responsible for our geological and geographical knowledge of Newfoundland, has personally expressed to Professor van Ingen his hearty endorsement of the work being carried on in Newfoundland by the Princeton University.

The Department of Geology is sending, for delivery by me, to the Museum of the Geological Survey of Newfoundland, a set of labelled specimens illustrating the paper of Dr. Buddington on the "Pyrophyllitization, etc." which was largely based on work about the "Talc Mines" near Manuels. Furthermore, copies of the memoirs thus far published are being sent you, and the name of your paper has been entered on the mailing list of the Department of Geology for all publications relative to Newfoundland geology. In conclusion, I wish to take this opportunity of expressing on behalf of myself and my associates, our appreciation of the many courtesies and the kind assistance extended to our party last summer.

Sincerely yours, EDWARD SAMPSON.

Something About General Petain the Brilliant French General, Who is Making History for Himself in the World's Great War.

BY ALDEN BROOKS
DURING the opening of the great battle for Verdun the French forces were not handled with the precision the situation required. Retreats and counter-attacks were being ill-timed, too many men needlessly lost, too much ground needlessly abandoned. With characteristic decision General Joffre promptly called up General Petain from a reserve army and made him the new commander-in-chief of the armies of Verdun. Since that hour, in one of the greatest battles in history, the most colossal effort of the Germans since the Battle of the Marne has apparently been completely checked. And now everyone is suddenly asking who is this defender of Verdun who when the war broke out was only a colonel of infantry, the Thirty-third of Arras.

And the strange part of it is that no one quite seems to know. There are wild rumours, but of exact details concerning the man there is a strange absence. As it is my privilege to know two or three of Petain's officers, I have made it a point of looking them up and asking them to tell me something about him. What kind of a man is he? Are all these stories true one hears about his skipping rope every morning before breakfast and weighing his food carefully at meals, and taking cross-country runs in the rain?

A Master of Self

"Not a word!" was the categorical reply. "Everything that has been written and said about Petain lately is congerie gossip. I have lived with him for three years, and I can promise you he eats a square meal like you and me and any other man. Nor is he a food crank or an athletic crank or any other kind of a crank, but an exceptionally well-balanced man who has become what he has striven incessantly to make himself, a perfect military leader. If he is a remarkable horseman and fences admirably with both hands and keeps himself always in splendid trim, it is because all that is in accordance with his conception of what an officer should be. His physical proclivities are only a minor part of him. In fact, everything in him is subordinated to the demands of his profession. This is the key of his character, mastery and perfection of self. How often has he told us that it is the duty of an officer to think and dream battles! He told me himself that he had studied minutely over five hundred tactical encounters and that I should do likewise.

"Of course, like all of us, he has been trained in the Napoleonic classics, but his favourite military author is Ardant du Picq. Then, too, he is a great admirer of Bushido, the code of honour of the Japanese samurai. I should say that it has had a great influence upon his own education. And I know he was always hammering into us, not to worry so much about drill and formulas of command, but to perfect ourselves as tacticians and inspire in our men three things: patience, tenacity, and self-sacrifice. 'A troop becomes invincible,' he used to say, 'when, prepared in advance to sacrifice itself, it determines to make the enemy pay for its sacrifice the dearest possible price.' I think he is living up to that precept now at Verdun. And, again, he was a great stickler for speed. He incessantly advocated the reduction of the knapsack, not out of consideration for the man, you understand, but to speed up the march. 'Another favourite maxim with him was: 'The constant acceleration of speed is one of the laws of progress.' And in this respect I remember his injunction to us officers about our horses: 'You have a horse; use it. Don't just sit on it and let it carry you around. Get away from your man at times; be your own scout.' Ah, yes; just to hear Petain talk is to be impressed by the keenness and force of his intelligence. And don't get the idea that he is a one-sided man. He is an omnivorous reader of all kinds of literature and a brilliant conversationalist.

Kitchener and Nietzsche

"They say he resembles Kitchener. 'Business is business with Petain; he hates 'hot air' and he can be as silent as the sphinx, and when you are with him you don't speak first, but he is not a 'silent man.' I see little resemblance in him to Kitchener. Also, they say that he resembles Nietzsche and has a soul of iron. I utterly fail to see the resemblance, and behind his frigid exterior there is a heart, as many of us can testify personally. Of course there is a distinct line between him and his officers. We are here and he is there. He is very generous with his invitations to dine, and sociable and friendly, but when the time comes discipline is discipline, I can assure you. And that reminds me, I see they say that Petain walks among his soldiers and talks with them. More nonsense. Against all his principles. He addresses himself to his officers and holds them absolutely responsible."

I asked how it was, then, that Petain, with all his qualities, was only colonel when the war broke out and so little known.

"Because he has a horror of advertising; because he hates politicians; because he is a man of uncompromising opinions, and he has made enemies; because he believes he is right and the men who differ from him wrong; because he has always been correct before his superiors and nothing else; because while other officers, whom I could mention, were busy with the fanfarose and brass buttons and fancy ceremonies of garrison life, and were bent on getting their names and photographs in the papers, Petain was only preoccupied with one thing: training his officers and training himself. When an editor asked him for some account of his military career he sent back three dates and that was all. He has steadily refused to be photographed since the war; the only photograph I have of him comes from the Thirty-third Regiment book. He was urged to put his wonderful lectures at the Ecole de Guerre into book form, but he only replied: 'What's the use?' Then his enemies said he was jealous of his ideas. And finally, when Ferdinand of Bulgaria decorated him for these same lectures, he put the decoration in his pocket. That's why Petain is unknown; because he has willed it. Even to-day he has asked the censor to cut out all mention of his name. But now he has got to be famous in spite of himself."

The Superman

I suggested that, in short, General Petain might be the superman the Allies needed. "Exactly; tactician, strategist, but, above all and to the last moment in him, a fighter. And mark my words, before the war is over

But perhaps it is just as well to let the future take care of itself. Here are a few facts about General Petain: He is fifty-nine. He will be sixty in April. His mental and physical vigour make him appear younger. He is a bachelor.

When the war broke out he was ready. He was put in command of a brigade in the First Army Corps, though he still kept his rank of colonel. That brigade distinguished itself during the long retreat from Charleroi to the Marne by the savage ferocity with which it repeatedly turned and beat back the enemy.

Just before the Battle of the Marne he was promoted to general of division and was sent to rally the remnants of the Third Corps, badly disorganised during the retreat by General Sauret's inefficient handling. He met the Third Corps at the Marne, took charge at once, and, sitting on his horse beside the bridge, pistol in hand, made every man march calmly past him and look up at him as the embodiment of authority.

Incessant Foresight

These were the words with which he was cited in the Army Order of September 21, 1914:

"Petain, general commanding the Sixth Division of infantry, has, by his example, his tenacity, his calm under fire, his incessant foresight, his continual intervention at the right moment, obtained from his division during fourteen days of consecutive fighting a magnificent effort, resisting repeated attacks night and day, and the fourteenth day, in spite of his losses, repelling a final very violent attack."

Next, Petain was promoted to the command of an army corps. By coincidence it bore the same number as his ancient regiment, the Thirty-third, and was centered about his old garrison town, Arras. In the spring a division of Moroccan troops was added to his command, giving him an army corps and a half, and he was told to take Carency and pierce the German front. It was considered impregnable by the Germans themselves. The French high command gave him three days. He made elaborate preparations; going into the front trenches and conferring minutely with each of his captains in person; showing them not only what they were to do first, but secondly, and thirdly; instilling into them another of his precepts: "Never attack blindly, but always have a definite purpose in view." Then he launched his attack, and in three hours took Carency and broke clean through the German front. The Moroccans had no one in front of them; the way was clear. But if Petain had surprised the Germans he had also surprised the French. D'Urban answered his call for reserves by saying he was mistaken: it was impossible that he could have broken through in so short a period. Incidentally the reserves had been placed too far in the rear and could not be brought up in time. So Carency, instead of being a turning point in the war, was only a brilliant local victory. Nevertheless the whole French army was electrified. A hole had been made, and it could be done again. And if some one had bungled, it was not Petain. He was given the command of an army.

Recognition by Joffre

Last September he and Langle de Cary were put under Castelnau and told to break the German front in Champagne. It was Petain's army which smashed the Germans up and in a remarkable tactical victory took most of the prisoners and cannon. If the others did not do so well, and there was a lack of ammunition, that again was not Petain's fault. His reputation was made among the few who knew as the most brilliant of French generals.

"No wonder, when the crucial moment came, Joffre did not hesitate to promote him to command the most important group of French armies, the armies of Verdun.

The Germans so far have done all the shouting about Verdun and the French have kept that intelligent silence for which all those who love them admire them.

But it still remains to be told with what cool dexterity this ancient colonel of the Thirty-third of Arras and his Frenchmen bled to exhaustion the stuporous assault of the German Empire upon the liberties of the mankind.

DO WE REALLY FEAR WHEN THE HOUR OF DEATH COMES?

Many Eminent Physicians State that "The Dying Have No Fear; But That It Is the Living Who Fear 'Tales' of Death."

BY DENIS CRANE

In these grim days, what consolation to know that when death comes, whether to ourselves or to our loved ones, he will be shorn of terror. Happily, that consolation may be ours, for medical testimony and the witness of the war alike show that it is not the dying who fear death, but those who have no immediate expectation of it.

Not Afraid to Die

"I HAVE notes of some three hundred death-beds," said an eminent medical man to me the other day, "and I assert without hesitation that the question of the fear of death, as it relates to the dying, may be entirely ignored. It is not even a question of desiring death or not desiring it, but one of absolute indifference." Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, in his "Science and Immortality," expresses identical views. He states that he has careful records of five hundred cases, studied particularly with reference to the modes of death and the sensations of the dying. Of the whole number, only thirteen showed mental apprehension or fear of any sort, and one was afflicted with remorse, and ninety suffered bodily pain or distress of one kind or another; the vast majority—four-fifths of the whole—gave no sign one way or the other; like their birth, their death was a sleep and a forget-ting." As Dryden says: "Death in itself is nothing; but we fear to be we know what, we know not where." It is the living who fear "tales" of death. The dying have no fear.

The most distinguished of living British physicians, whom consulted on this point, is no less explicit. "The number of cases that a doctor sees of real terror when death is coming," said he, "is very small, very small indeed."

A Punctured Hero!

Nor is this due to lack of sensibility on the doctor's part. Medical men often experience emotion differing only in degree from that of sorrowing relatives, but, of course, are more practised in concealing it.

"I have never witnessed the death of a person, however obscure," says my eminent friend, "who is well advanced in years, without considerable emotion. It is, indeed, the one aspect of my professional duty from which I have a real and unconquerable shrinking." Testimony from the battle-zone amply supports these statements. Letters published in the press or shown to me by friends prove that death is often, if not always, accompanied by a great calm. Take two examples. A young officer whose case, from the first, was hopeless, turned to a comrade and, "Odd!" said he, "I don't mind saying that from a boy I have always had an awful dread of death. At school I was afraid to go to bed lest I might die in my sleep; now it has come, and I haven't the slightest fear."

Again, A young fellow was shot in no less than six places, but was lucky enough to get prompt attention. Said he to a friend:—"The doctor told me there was not much chance for me, and when I heard that there were six punctures in me, I said, 'My time's up; just let me sleep.' When I awoke alive I was surprised. The restful feeling was gone; I didn't know whether to feel pleased or not."

The Ruling Passion

A curious instance is related by Lord Charles Beresford in connection with the campaign in Egypt years ago. He was tending a brother officer who was wounded. Suddenly the dying man opened his eyes and said: "I say, Charlie, it's hard to die without knowing what's won the Derby."

So it is upon minor rather than major interests that man's mind lingers in its last conscious moments.

"It often seems absorbed in feeling out after the last thread of life," said the famous physician already quoted; "sometimes it is a prominent symptom of the complaint that engages the dying man's attention. 'My breath is going,' or 'I can't see clearly,' not some word of greater import, is the utterance that greets the watcher's ear."

All this has, of course, a physical and utilitarian basis. With advancing years the arteries become diseased, the supply of blood is diminished and corrupted, there is a merciful blunting of the sensorium, and the whole outlook is narrowed. This is one of the amenities of old age; and, from this point of view, the fear of death, where it does exist, may be regarded as a sign of youth.

Neither Terror nor Pain

In the case of younger people stricken with illness or the victims of some calamity, a condition in many ways analogous to that of age is brought about. The soul loses its hold on this world, the physical system is number, and the region beyond, all roseate and cheering, comes flooding in.

There is the classical instance of David Livingstone who, mauled by the lion, felt neither terror nor pain. And the stories of miners entombed in pits, of sailors going down with their ships, of men suddenly brought face to face with death in all sorts of frightful shapes, are singularly free from records of pain or fear. Pain may, indeed, bring cries of anguish from its victims, but the so-called king of terrors receives scant homage. Providence has implanted in us an instinctive repugnance to death, that we may hold on and make the best of life, but having at length fulfilled its mission that repugnance is taken away.

What of the Atheist?

But does fear haunt the irreligious dying? What are the facts? Says the physician with the three hundred death-bed records gathered in a great London hospital—himself a man of deep religious feeling: "Not one of the persons whose end I have witnessed was afflicted with remorse or with any religious emotion whatsoever; they showed neither exaltation nor fear; and a large number of them had been religious all their lives."

"Nor do scientific records support the view that men die any worse to-day, or any better, than in past generations. I do not suggest, of course, that the stories of what are called triumphant or penitent death-beds are inventions of the clergy."

The Abnormal.

"From the medical point of view, expressions of fear or of exaltation on religious grounds, uttered very near the hour of death, would not have much value in any case, because the physician knows that the mind, and indeed the system, is then abnormal. Pious exclamations are, for the most part, little more than a reaction of the patient's mind to the recent consolations of the clergyman."

Medical men agree, however, that in the matter of dying the sincerely religious man is at an advantage over the irreligious. "In a general way," said one, "the man

KITCHENER
OF KHARTOUM

"Know ye not that a great man has fallen this day in Israel?"

NEVER yet in Britain's need did she lack a man of might, Marlboro', Wellington, Nelson, Clive, each battled for the right.

And when the present crisis came the man to fit the hour was Kitchener of Khartoum, stern, adamant and dour.

A man like Cromwell in his might, resourceful, faithful still, He raised an army well equipped by force of iron will

And now like Roberts, whom all loved, he passes from our sight,

But we know that after darkness comes the early morning light.

He is not dead though passed away. None will their duty shirk.

The men he trained are with us yet to carry on his work, And the Teuton hosts will never gain advantage from the death

Of one who did his duty through his life and in his death. —Henry A. Ashmead.

The Reason.

Jane—What is the reason why men are so afraid of intellectual women?

Katie—I suppose because a little brilliancy always goes to a woman's head and makes her almost as dizzy as a man.

The Old Lady Again.

Mrs. Kaw'er—"Well, after courting awhile young folks will get married, you know."

Mrs. Blunderby—"True, Cupid, the god of love, must give way to Hyp-hen, the god of matrimony."

Medical men agree, however, that in the matter of dying the sincerely religious man is at an advantage over the irreligious. "In a general way," said one, "the man who believes in a future life, to whom the Fatherhood of God is a reality, faces death splendidly."

Colonel Jacobs At S.A. Citadel
 Was Formerly Connected With Army Work in Newfoundland—Has Had a Good Record in Canada Where he Accomplished Good Work For the Army
 Colonel Jacobs, the Men's Social Secretary for Canada and Newfoundland, will arrive in the city by to-day's express. The Colonel is an old friend of Newfoundland, having paid several visits to the Island some 18 or 20 years ago. He is one of the oldest Salvationists, associated with the movement in Canada, having spent over thirty-three years in the service. During that time he has spent many varied and important positions. It was during his term of Chief Secretary for Canada and Newfoundland that he paid annual visits to St. John's, and many of the older Salvationists and friends remember his eloquent and fiery addresses delivered by him. Since then he has filled the important position of Chief Secretary for the Men's Social Work in Great Britain. It was while he occupied this office that the Colonel came in touch with the lower strata of humanity, and by his toil and energy many a poor unfortunate was lifted out of despair and given a fresh start in life. Since the Colonel has taken the oversight of the Social Work in the Dominion, the work has gone forward with leaps and bounds. The following is a summary of the work done during the year 1915.

A Large and Representative Meeting Greets Candidate for Mayor Last Evening.

Mr. Kelly is Accorded Great Reception as he Deals With Municipal Matters
 A large and representative meeting of candidate Kelly's supporters and friends was held in the Star of the Sea Hall last night. Mr. Kelly spoke for more than one hour and dealt with the extraordinary sanitary system as inaugurated by the Gosling Commission. To Mr. Kelly the citizens of St. John's of every class owe a debt of gratitude for exposing, while yet it is partially not too late, this nefarious method of disposing of the audience by informing them that for a whole year this horrible insanitary stinking process has been going on in the back street of our city, spreading disease death in its wake. The average citizen thought that this procedure was started concurrently with the measles epidemic, but he showed the citizens for the first time the cause of our great diptheria epidemic, with its serious mortality. The stinking process was inaugurated shortly before the beginning of the diptheria outbreak, and now it has brought us this appalling measles epidemic with its appalling death toll. Mr. Kelly pointed out that nearly all deaths from measles have occurred almost solely in the streets in which the depth pots were placed.
 He presented to his hearers another startling fact, that those stench pots are untrapped and the escape of sewer gas is permitted into the already over polluted narrow lanes and back streets. He told his audience that in at least two cases the citizens in the vicinity of Gosling's pots have endeavoured to fit covers to same, themselves, thus bringing out the scandalous neglect of the Commission, when they unfortunately decided on this awful experiment of disposing of night soil that they did not fit covers for the various receptacles.
 A letter from Mr. Kelly, describing this horrible process of disposing of night soil was read from the Mail.

Terra Nova's Beat Collegians

Terra Novas Put it all Over the Collegians by a Score of Six to None—Good Clean Game Given Fans Who Attended in Good Numbers
 The third League game for the season was run off last night when the Terra Novas and Collegians faced each other to battle for points. From the enthusiasm of the fans it can be said that the old-time interest in football still remains.
 Referee Foster called the teams together shortly after 7 when play opened with the Terra Novas having the help of a strong breeze in their favour. This they took advantage of and from the very start of the game it was evident they were out for winning.
 Several changes were noticed in the line up of Terra Novas from their opening game with the B.I.S. and Lar Kavanagh did duty in the forward line and played a game that won for him the warm applause of the Terra Nova supporters. Jack Hart, the old reliable Star full-back, was seen on his old job again and played with his usual vim and dash.
 Play opened with a rush by the Terra Novas on the Collegian goal, which was repulsed, however, by the latter's backs who played a rattling game throughout particularly Jolliffe, who, tho' small, made the biggest of 'em go some.
 After some ten minutes' play the Terra Nova forwards, who were playing a splendid game, succeeded in netting their first goal, through P'tcher, with a well directed shot. This they quickly followed up by scoring another through Evans, who sent in a peach from the left wing. The Collegians at this juncture bucked up and worked the "pigskin" up field but could not pass the Terra Novas' backs, who seemed to be ever on the job. Quick made several attempts to break through the "enemy lines" but was challenged by the Terra Novas' "pickets" every time he came within the danger zone.
 The Terra Novas were evidently bent on increasing their score and acting on the advice of their Captain got up another spurt and for several minutes simply rained shot upon shot at the "enemy fort." At last, when he had secured the range, Lar Kavanagh let himself out and after some strategical play banged in number three to the great delight of his team's supporters. Just before half time he managed to get another opportunity, which he quickly availed of, and the teams crossed over. Terra Novas 4 Collegians nil.
 On changing ends it was thought last year's champions would do better with the breeze in their favour, but luck seemed to be against them. Drop shots skimming the cross-bar, shots striking the goal post, corners and narrow escapes from scoring were all they could register, and to make matters worse they were just settling down to business when the Terra Novas thought it was time to try for another score and up the field dashed their forwards, with the result that number five was recorded for the brown and white. This seemed to have taken the Collegians by surprise, for whilst much individual play on their part was now given, they evidently realized that they were up against it in earnest, and no attempt at combination was made. It appeared to the fans as if the orders—ran "each man for himself."
 While the Collegians were worrying over their poor luck, the Terra Novas lads determined to show them what determination could do, and it was not long before their sixth and last goal was scored from a pretty short send-in by Simms. Only a few moments were left to play, yet the boys in brown and white were at it hard, when the whistle sounded full time. The players were:
COLLEGIANS—Spoooner, goal; Jolliffe, P'tcher, backs; Barnes Drover and Spoooner, halves; Coultas, Ellis, Bartlett, Quick and Chaney, forwards.
TERRA NOVAS—Walsh, goal; Hart and Kavanagh, backs; Jackman, Kavanagh and Duggan, halves; Evans, Duff, Drover, Kavanagh and Simms, forwards.
 Mr. Foster of the Saints was referee.
NOTES ON THE GAME
 The Terra Novas played a rattling game and were a great improvement on their opening game with the B.I.S. Jack Hart is a stone wall and digs in with a determination that wins. "Toby" made everybody work and the score tells that they did not fail to make good.

Lt-Commander Howley Here

The Man of "A Hundred Wounds" Visits His Native City.
 Lieut-Commander R.D. Howley, R.N., son of Jas. P. Howley, Esq., arrived here on a visit to his parents and friends by the Florizel last night. Lieut. Howley was in H. M. S. Irresistible when she was sunk by the shell-fire of the Turkish batteries in the Dardanelles, and his wonderful experience preceding and succeeding the sinking of the ship were fully recounted in the press both in England, Canada and the United States. He was wounded all over the body by the bursting shells and was given the appellation of the "man of a hundred wounds". His escape from death from drowning as well as by the enemy's missiles was marvelous. He has been engaged at recruiting work in Halifax for some time past. His many friends here will cordially welcome him to his native city.

HELD COMMITTEE MEETING
 Mr. Gosling and his colleagues had a committee meeting in the new rooms of the C.C.C. last night. It was very largely attended and large numbers volunteered to work in various capacities for the candidates. Tuesday night next a general meeting will be held and from this anti-polling day a thorough canvass of the city will be made.

A STRANGE STORY.
 Yesterday a little girl aged about seven years, the daughter of a well known and hard-working resident of Brazil's Square, was out playing when she was suddenly seized with some kind of serious and mysterious affliction. When the poor child returned to her home so neighbours tell us, her facial expression was completely altered, had the appearance of extreme age and her faculties were greatly impaired. She was evidently the victim of a paralytic stroke, and a doctor who was called did all possible or her.

TWO FIRE ALARMS
 At 5.48 p.m. yesterday an alarm of fire was sent in from box 221 at Rawlin's Cross, bringing the Central and Eastern firemen to Miss Ashman's residence, corner of Bond and Colonial streets. The chimney smoked pretty freely as a result of the soot igniting but the blaze was quickly quenched.
 Another alarm came in shortly after 9 last night bringing the Western and Central firemen to Mrs Hunter's residence, LeMarchant Road. Sparks from the chimney caught the roof but the blaze was quenched with very little damaging result.

"Billy" Duggan is at home in the half back line, but at times gets away with a "few." But then who doesn't? The Terra Nova forwards played a good game. They took advantage of every opportunity and at times their combination was a feature of the game.
 Lar Kavanagh played a "Star" game and was in no small measure responsible for his team's victory.
 For the Collegians, Jolliffe produced the goods. Right through the game he was on the "job" and gave a splendid exhibition.
 Herb Barnes would have done better had he kept the ball more in play; but then the game is always played better from the grand stand.
 Our old friend, Art Heath, showed up well and proved that he is still able to hold his own.
 "Paddy" Coultas made several nice runs but seemed to be a bit off on shooting.
 Certainly the Collegians had hard lines in the second half. Four shots off the cross-bar would dishearten any team.
 "Quickie" seemed in poor form, but yet at times got in some of his old time dashes.
 St. Bon's and the B. I. S. will be the contesting teams on Monday night.

 If elected I shall endeavour to do my utmost to initiate and carry forward any and all measures deemed expedient and necessary for the welfare and good government of the city generally.
