Germans are Suffering at the Hands of the British Air Forces; Tremendous Material Losses Inflicted.

With the British Army in France, August 14th. — In addition to a continuous harrassing fire from the artillery, the Germans are suffering at the hands of the British air forces. Tons of bombs are being dropped on them day and night and transports in towns and villages behind the line have been hit. Bridges across the Somme at Peronne and elsewhere have been bombed heavily.

Prisoners captured are unanimous concerning the effectiveness of the low flying British airplanes. They say the airmen have caused tremendous material losses and frequently have blocked roads completely by direct hits. They also have done heavy execution by pouring streams of machine gun bullets into enemy masses at close range.

All the prisoners mention the work of the tanks and seem to have stamped on their minds visions of steel monsters spitting death. One German company commander concluded his remarks about the tanks by saying: "They are a magnificent weapon and I can't understand why we have none to speak of."

A German aviator shot down within the British lines declared he was positive that the German aerial losses in recent weeks had been much greater than is admitted officially. He said he knew of one instance where five German two seaters crashed to earth well inside the German lines, but he added there was no mention of them in official reports.

OBITUARY.

JOHN A. BORDEN

The death of John A. Borden took place at his residence Canard on Friday Aug. 9th., after an illness of about 20 months. He was 49 years of age. The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon and was very largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. A. J. Prosser.

Mr. Borden had spent but a few weeks short of half a century at Canard and was beloved by many and most highly esteemed by all. As a boy he was trained both as a carpenter and a farmer, and he did both well. In the home he filled a place which few men excel and in the community his loss is severely felt. As a member of the Sons of Temperance and Sunday School he had filled all the leading offices and in the Baptist Church he had been treasurer for six years, and an honored deacon for four years. No good work was undertaken that did not have his energetic co-operation and kindly assistance.

Mr. Borden leaves a widow Mabel Eaton, daughter of Mrs. Levi Eaton and the following children: Jean, Levi, Beatrice, Elma and Horace.

Lieut. Col. Bauld Will Command Contingent For Siberia.

Lieut. Colonel Stanley Bauld now second in command at Camp Aldershot has been selected to recruit and command the Nova Scotia Contingent to be sent to Siberia. He will commence his recruiting at once. His recruits will be voluntary first preference being given to returned soldiers who will again be fit for Military Duty and other men who are not in Class one already called for Military Duty. Should the necessary men not be obtained among these, then draftees will be given an opportunity to enlist under him.

Lieut. Col. Bauld is a tried and well proven officer and his appointment to this position will be commended. He is a son of Mr. Henry Bauld, M. P. P., of Halifax, and is well known in local athletic circles, most notably because of his long connection with the Wanderers football team. Shortly after the beginning of the war, he obtained a commission with the 25th Regiment, with which he went Overseas. His promotion was rapid and merited, and he was finally given command of the Regiment. He returned to Canada about a year ago. This summer he has been attached to the Nova Scotia Depot Battalion and has made many friends here.

An Age Of Weak Nerves

"No heart for anything" is the cry of thousands of men and women who might be made well by the new red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually n.a.ke.

Misery day and night is the lot of hosts of men and women who are today the victims of weak nerves. Their pale, drawn faces and dejected, attitude tell a sad tale, for nervous weakness means being tortured by morbid thoughts and unaccountable fits of depression. These sufferers are painfully sensitive and easily agitated by some chance remark. Sleeplessness robs them of energy and strength; their eyes are sunken, their limbs tremble, appetite is poor and memory often fails. This nervous exhaustion is one of the most serious evils affecting men and women of today. The only way to bring back sound, vigorous health is to feed the starved nerves which are clamoring for new, rich, red blood. This new, good blood can be had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which fact accounts for the thousands of cures of nervous diseases brought about by this powerful blood builder and nerve restorer. Through the fair use of this medicine thousands of despondent people have been made bright, active and strong.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No Food to Waste

The fact that the restriction on the use of bacon and other pork products have been removed for the time being does not mean that food economies are no longer necessary. The facts are that there is not an ounce of food too much in the world and that every man, woman and child is under the sternest necessity of saving whatever he or she can of those foods most needed Overseas. Any temporary relaxation of the restrictions, such as in the case of pork, must not be construed as notice to the public that extravagance in any food is again endurable.

Knights of Columbus

The Knights of Columbus drive is now on in Kings County, and there seems every reason to believe that the full allotment here will be raised. The two former campaigns which proved so successful militates against a third one following so soon, but the good work reported by this society at the front and the high commendations of their efforts by Pres. Wilson, Governor Grant and all returned officers and men appeals to the hearts of the public even in times when money is scarce.

A public meeting in the interests of the Maritime School for the Blind, Halifax, will be held in Pastime Hall Sunday evening next at 8 o'clock. Mr. John Wier, organizing secretary, will be present and tell of the great work which the institution is doing for our unfortunate blind. The School has 138 students, and the way they are trained the different courses taken and the efficiency which they obtain in providing for their future life work will be fully explained. It is hoped that a large audience will be present.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the home and were very largely attended. Rev. A. J. Prosser of Canard officiated. During the service the Cross-Clarke quartette rendered three beautiful and appropriate selections. Burial took place at the Oaks, Kentville.

Miss Edna P. Collins, of the staff of Vassie & Company, Limited, St. John, N. B., accompanied by her mother, Mrs. T. M. Hicks, arrived in Aylesford to spend her vacation with her aunt, Mrs. Isaac Clowery.

THE ADVERTISER.

Kentville, Friday, Aug. 23rd, 1918.

Recent Casualties Bring Sorrow to Several Homes.

The terrific fighting in which our Canadian troops were engaged on Aug. 10th., and subsequent has brought to our county many telegrams of dead and wounded.

Mrs. George Lockhart, Kentville, received the official telegram that her noble son Lieut. Herbert Lockhart had been killed in action on Aug. 10th. This is a sad blow to the family. "Herb" has served his country well and deserves to live in the memory of all citizens. He fought with the Canadians all through the Boer War without a wound. He went to France early in this war with the 16th., Battalion and after two years service was wounded and returned home for a year. He left again for Overseas with the 246th Battalion and had been in service there since.

Mr. and Mrs. Thad Harvey, Chipman Corner, also received word that their only beloved son H. Clyde was killed in action on Aug. 8th. He drilled at Halifax and Aldershot with the 85th Battalion and was most highly esteemed.

Both families will have deep sympathy in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dow also received word that their son Tom of the Highland Brigade had been wounded in the thigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Barnaby received word that their son Corporal Harry had been admitted to Australian Hospital, Rouen, with wounds in left elbow.

Lieut. Murray Chipman is another of our Kentville boys reported among the wounded. He has done most noble service in the field.

Will Adamson of Mr. John Adams of Canaan is also wounded.

Another Kentville boy reported wounded is F. B. Harvey son of Maurice Harvey.

North Mountain Railway

The North Mountain branch of the Dominion Atlantic Railway was opened for passenger traffic on August 15th with a service each way on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Conductor Mansfield Nichols has charge of train, and driver Hugh Copeland usually at the throttle.

It is a beautifully scenic route of over ten miles through the most fruitful portion of our valley. The stations from Centreville westbound are Biltown, Lakeville, Woodville, Grafton, Somerset and Weston. It skirts the foothills of the North Mountain all the way, and passes through beautiful orchards, fields of ripening grain and field crops with some wooded and uncultivated land. The prosperous looking farm houses, large barns and luxuriant crops show the industry of the people the line will now serve.

In a few weeks train-loads of farm produce will be moving over this line to market, where formerly the farmers had to haul continually for months many miles to a shipping station.

The line is well built, and the stations are all handsome and convenient with large platforms and long side-tracks. Already this line has a large number of warehouses in use. It bids fair to be a paying portion of the D. A. Ry. system, and already has quite a large patronage of the travelling public.

Red Cross Campaign

In this issue will be found the financial statement of the recent Red Cross Campaign in Kings County. It shows that splendid—and most vigorous work has been done to accomplish such a magnificent sum soon after the Y. M. C. A. campaign. The President of the County, Miss A. M. Stuart, did noble executive work, and she was ably supported by all the other officers and also the Red Cross Societies all over the County.

By reference to the statement it can be seen what wards exceeded their allotment and the workers there are to be most heartily congratulated on exceeding what was expected of them.

We have bought 450 BAGS flour taken from wreck off Yarmouth coast.

Owing to the scarcity of Bran and Middlings which are unobtainable at the present time, and the demand for pig feed at this season of the year being heavy we expect this flour to sell rapidly. Many bags are probably fit for family use.

Latest War News

Allies Still Advancing Every Day Without Setback.

The news from all the battle fronts of late has been most encouraging showing a steady advance of the Allies on the Western front with a capture of large number of prisoners, guns, machine guns and war material. It looks as if this rate of progress should continue that France would be about cleared of the German armies before the end of 1918.

At all other places the Allied arms are victorious. Only along the Atlantic coast are conditions worse than formerly. Hun raiders are working havoc among our Nova Scotian and American fishing fleets sinking many vessels and evading capture.

Mrs. Dana, of New York, who has been spending the summer here left for home on Wednesday, she was accompanied by her sisters Mrs. J. E. Kinsman of Centreville and Mrs. McKinnon wife of Rev. Archibald McKinnon of New York. Mrs. Dana leaves the following week to join her husband in Texas where he is in training in the Flying Corps.

The case of small pox which developed in Kentville recently from a small family arriving from Sydney developed into another case but rigid precautions prevented any further spread. The adjoining houses which had contact with the first case had their quarantine lifted as soon as all danger was past. Of late some cases have caused alarm at Gaspereau but prompt action of the health authorities well check it there. People however should be warned in time about vaccination.

Haddon M. McLean of the Canadian Bank of Commerce Staff, Windsor Branch, reported at Kentville on Thursday last. "Mac" is a very popular young man and at Hantsport at the close of his days services at the C. B. of C. Branch there he was met at the station and presented with an address signed by Mayor Sterling on behalf of the citizens of that town. Mr. McLean has made several attempts to enlist during the last four years and on each occasion he fell below the Overseas rating. However a final examination a few weeks ago resulted in his obtaining A2 papers and now he is attached to "G" Company at Aldershot Camp. We wish a host of friends wish him good luck and a safe return home following the completion of his bit Overseas.—Hantsport Cor. to Journal.

WHEN A SOLDIER IS DISABLED

It is not always from wounds. A great many men are disabled through foot trouble. Even the bravest man cannot "carry on" if he is suffering from sore feet. Hence the necessity for Zam-Buk to keep the soldiers' feet in good condition.

A military authority in "The War Office Times" says: "If every man in the service were supplied with a tin of Zam-Buk it would, in my opinion, greatly add to the efficiency of the army."

For blisters, cuts, scratches, burns and sores of all kinds Zam-Buk is unequalled. All dealers 50c per tin.

Paris, Aug. 17th.—At Mount Notre Dame, three kilometres south of Bazoches, on the Vesle, under a hill and out of the direct fire, are the charred remains of what was once a 3,000 bed hospital of the French, which the Boche burned to the ground after killing most of the doctors and nurses and the 600 patients with their machine guns, which they brought up and pointed thru the very windows of the one-story wards.

Men of Class 1 Attention

The attention of all who come under Class 1 of Military Service Act 1917 is drawn to the Proclamation published in the papers, and posters circulated throughout Canada the last two or three weeks.

Class 1 includes every male British subject who is ordinarily a resident in Canada, or has been at any time since fourth day of August 1914 a resident in Canada and comes under the following classes:—

1. Those who have attained the age of 20 years, and were born not earlier than the year 1883 and are unmarried or widowers but have no children.

a. The Emergency Call. This call deals with the calling out for Military Duty all men between the ages of 20 and 22 inclusive who are unmarried, or are widowers and have no children. Furthermore all exemptions that have been given to such men in the above class are cancelled.

b. The 19 Year Old Class.

All men who have attained the age of 19 years but were born on, or since October 13th., 1897 and are unmarried or widowers without children and are residents in Canada must register under the Military Service Act. Any man in this class who has failed to register is a defaulter and should register with the Provincial Registrar on or before the 24th., day of August 1918.

The Proclamation mentioned, grants pardon to all absentees, defaulters and deserters under the Military Service Act in the classes mentioned in the preceding paragraphs, who shall be in the proper discharge of their Military Duties on or before the 24th., of August 1918.

Absentees and defaulters include the following:—

1. Men disobeying an order to report for duty.
2. Men disobeying an order to report for a Medical Examination.
3. Men failing to comply with the Military Service Act, that is, men failing to register under this Act.
4. Men going absent without leave after being taken on the strength of a Unit.
5. Men failing to comply with conditions of leave which has been granted them.

Furthermore, all such men who come under the Military Service Act in the classes mentioned in this article, who are outstanding absentees, defaulters and deserters after August 24th., who are apprehended will be tried by court martial and severe penalties inflicted accordingly.

Under the circumstances mentioned above and in the Proclamation granting amnesty to absentees, defaulters and deserters, it would be advisable for all such absentees, defaulters and deserters under the Military Service Act to report themselves accordingly on or before the date mentioned in the Proclamation, that is, August 24th., 1918.

For the information of all persons it is pointed out in the Proclamation that any person assisting harboring or concealing men who come under the Military Service Act who are defaulters, absentees or deserters is subject to the judgement of a court martial which will be convened to try such cases and inflict severe punishment.

Some men who have registered under the Military Service Act and have been apprehended by the police claim they have never received an order to report for duty. This will not be taken as an excuse if it is found that an order to report has been sent to him from the Registrar's office, to the address given by the man on registration as it is the fault of the man in not notifying the Provincial Registrar M. S. A. of his change in address.

If there are any men who have registered and have at present a different address than they gave the Registrar on registration it would be advisable for any such man to notify the Registrar accordingly.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

The season has already arrived when we must begin to pack and market the 1918 apple crop, and facing that fact, we are reminded that the "Inspection and Sale Act" has been considerably changed. Amendments have been introduced, and additions made which must certainly tend to further elevate the Standard of "Canadian Apples," as well as all other kinds of fruit.

One very important feature of the Act, as now amended, is the change in the size of the apple barrel and apple box. All apple barrels used in Canada, on and after the first day of June 1919, must be 26 inches between heads, 17 1/2 inches in the head, "these are inside measurements," and 64 inches circumference at the bilge, representing as nearly as possible seven thousand and fifty-six cubic inches. The apple box must be 18 inches in length, 11 1/2 inches wide, and 10 1/2 inches deep, "inside measurement," representing as nearly as possible two thousand one hundred and seventy four cubic inches. Manufacturers of barrels and boxes are given until June 1st., 1919 to use up their old stock.

Another important feature of the "Inspection and Sale Act" is the introduction of Potato Grades No. 1 and No. 2. I will not deal with this part of the Act here, but will strongly advise every farmer to get a copy of the New Regulations and Amendments to the "Inspection and Sale Act."

It is expected that our apples will be graded and packed fully up to the Standard this season, and Inspectors are instructed to be very particular and allow no fruit to pass unless it measures fully up to the Grade marked upon it. We cannot afford to put our fruit on the market in even ordinary condition; it must be first class. If any person fails to receive a copy of the Act, I will be glad to send them one, if they will let me know.

Yours truly,
G. H. VROOM,
Chief Fruit Inspector.

Unexaggerated Fishing

YOU should read this story. Usually a fishing tale is deep waters for most people to wade through; but this one deals with dry land, mountains and ripples. So you see it is different from the ordinary tale where the young hero goes forth with a tencent outfit and catches the giant trout of the deep still pool for whom anglers from all parts of the world had cast in profane vain. It is all right to tell about lying on one's stomach with the face against the water, watching the flies to learn what kind the trout were eating. It is all right to then walk to the fishing outfit, sit down and bring forth an inexhaustible supply of flies from which one selects the very duplicate of the insect the trout like at that particular instant. And it is fine to tell how the angler cast his delicate lure on the end of his silken thread, dropping it lightly as a skimming insect on the very swirl of water where the big trout lay hungrily waiting. Then the whirl of the reel and the three-hour fight, ending in the thrill of victory which comes when a well-manipulated landing net enmeshes the exhausted fish.

It makes good stuff; but many fishermen know more of broken leads, sagged hooks and snappy little eight-ouncers. I am undertaking to tell about a real fishing trip.

They told me I would get good fishing at Banff, so I took the Canadian Pacific westbound out of Calgary and went. On board I noticed an elderly person whose physical idiosyncrasies included the lean, leathery, brown characteristics of westernism. He eyed me and my outfit; he edged closer and he spoke of tobacco and rain. He accepted my pouch, filled his pipe-bowl, tamped it with a horny thumb, cast a weather-eye on the approaching mountain peaks, and predicted sunshine. Then he mentioned fishing.

It was not what I used to be declared between tobacco clouds. He remembered when seven or ten or fifty casts meant seven or ten or fifty rises of the biggest, blintziest most vigorous fish that ever lived; all cutthroats, none less than a pound and a half, many exceeding five pounds each. "Then days was real fishin'." An' them fish were game fighters. He minded one ole fellow what everyone had tried to get. This fish was granded of all of them, and he lived in a deep hole beside a perpendicular rock. He tuk ever' bit uh bait that anybody cast, but when he found himself hooked he jest naturally ran to this here wall of flat rock an' rubbed his nose agin th' stone, wearing out th' gut on freelin himself." But my informant, being more canny and wise than other fishermen of his day, beloveth the giant trout by not using gut. He tuk uh hunk uh fine steel wire, jointed it with swivels and hooked the monater. Then Bam! The fish was so astonished that he did not wiggle an inch of his twelve-pound body until he felt himself on the grass above the gravel bar. But those days were over and he did not catch any more big fish.

Eventually I reached Banff, and was told to fish either up the Spray or up the Bow. They added that the waters were rising and fish would not be hungry; but agsin I might succeed. "With weapons rigged I went up the Bow to a promising place I was told about. It had deep water with big eddies and a nice backdrift, a few big rocks, and a submerged ledge just below the feeding rapids above the pool. Fine. Feverishly and eagerly I cast. Then steadily and doggedly. Then slowly and sulkily. Then, glory! The line went out. I had a nine inch fish. Much cheered I went on casting. The sun went down, the sky began to darken, the mountainous wood black against the dimming azure. I sagged in my efforts. I sat on a log and let the line drag. B-z-z-z went the reel. A fish flashed in the rapids.

Having a new landing net I was very anxious to try it. It was a belt kind that fastens to a hook on a belt and comes off with the flick of a hand whenever necessary. I had no hook and had buttoned it on my suspender. Having passed through much brush on my way to the pool I knew the net was going to require care in getting ready for use. Having hooked a fish I very calmly bethought myself first of how to land him; so I plucked the net, and the button came, to the consternation of my suspenders.

Now my fish gave the one pound pull and the two-pound bite all right. He also was there with the scheduled weight of rusb. Things looked good for him to keep up the first scale, too, but when it came to the five pound bend—the gut broke and I went home to the hotel.

Next morning with the bright sunlight just tipping the eastern slopes of Mount Rundle and lesser peaks, I went alone up river. Here and there and everywhere I dropped the segmented fly in the rising glacial food with no results.

"Damn," I remarked. My line fell slack and uncared for into swift water and I looked up the river for some better seeming point. "Bang!" Something hit my rod like an express train and like an express train the silk ran out and out. Aghast I stood and merely checked. Something was across the swift water; then I saw a large black streak break far out in the clear of the current. "Bang!" three times the fish took the air, and the reel kept singing all the time. He sounded, he rushed, he drove upstream and then zig-zagged down. Again and again he broke, two feet clear of the current. Forty yards of line was out and I had but five left, so I hopelessly checked tight, deciding that if he was going to break my lead it was no use worrying. But lead, rod, line and hook held, and the fish swung down on the surface, mouth open and gasping. There was brush all around, and no space to either work up or down. The full sweep of the river raced by with no restful eddies. More hopelessly still I reeled in, his troutably putting up frequent but lessening furries. Finally he was close and I tried the new landing net. Praise be to oord and rod and hook and gut the net worked! As the line slackened the hook dropped out, but there was the fish; three pounds of sparkling, spotted cutthroat trout, twenty-three inches long.

There was no more fishing. I went home satisfied. The gentle reader will note that even this story ends in the usual way with the big fish safely netted.

Monument at Morristown

On Sunday afternoon Sept. 1, there will be a public memorial service and unveiling of the handsome monument erected at Morristown in honor of their five noble boys who have sacrificed their lives in this war.

Patriotic addresses will be given by noted speakers. It is expected that the band and some officers from Aldershot will participate in this service. It will undoubtedly be a great day in the history of Morristown and people will be there from all parts of the county.

Morristown has done a worthy deed in their seeking to commemorate the sacrifice made by their noble sons.

The hay crop which has been gathered in proved larger than expected in the valley. Throughout the whole province the shortage in hay is very little and will be helped out by the fine straw after the grain is threshed.
