Guideboard Corner's

A number from here are to-day attending the funeral of an old and highly respected gentleman of Athens, Mr. H. Case Phillips.

We were much pleased with the spirit of a little poem which appeared in last week's issue of the Reporter, from the pen of Mr. Ephraim Robeson. Its spirit suggested a helpful step towards overcoming the great unrest of the world—a human touch—a "live and let live" spirit.

Mr. Richard Wiltse, of Plum Hollow, was a week-end visitor of friends here.

Just beside our Guide Board is a beautiful field of oats, the property of Mr. Erastus Livingstone. It is much admired by the passers-by. As yet not a single mustard blossom has lifted an intruding head—a rare occurrence.

Mr. Jas. Sheldon spent Monday at Charleston assisting in adding a new verandah to "Lionetta Lodge."

"If you want to live in the kind of a town
That's the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike;
You'll find elsewhere what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new;
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town—
It isn't your town—it's you.

"Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else get ahead;
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.
And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see:
It isn't your town—it's you.

RICHEST SOIL IN AMERICA

Crescent City, Florida.
June 25th, 1919.
Florida Land Owners' Association,
Crescent City, Fla.

Gentlemen:
Coming from St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada, which is in perhaps the best fruit and truck farming belt in any of the Provinces, naturally I was more or less sceptical of lands in any Southern State, but after looking over many tracts in Florida, it remained for me to see the lands you were offering, and I must say that they are the RICHEST LANDS I have ever seen. I would be pleased to have any Canadian write me for further verification of this statement and can honestly recommend not only your wonderful lands but the Association as a whole. The easy terms you offer makes it possible for practically any one to purchase and no one need hesitate about buying before they examine the lands as I know you will select only the best, and make a better selection than the purchaser would himself.
Wishing your Association much success I am,
Very truly yours,
David Beaver.

SOUPS.

Some Pointers for the Housewife.

In making a soup of good stock it is wiser and cheaper to make enough to last two or three days. When thoroughly cooked, strain and set to cool, then remove the grease, pour on enough stock for one serving and set the rest away to keep cool.

Vegetables or any other edible garnish may then be added. Should any soup be left over strain and set aside to add to the next day's portion, but do not turn it in into the unused stock.

In making stock a quart of water is allowed usually to a pound of meat. To give body to thin soups add a little barley, rice, arrowroot, cornstarch, potato flour rubbed to a cream, with a bit of butter, gelatine or rice flour that has been worked free of lumps with a little water or stock.

If a soup made without tomato needs a little acid to flavor it add the juice of a lemon, orange or ripe grapefruit. Leeks, cucumbers, pounded celery seed, burnt vinegar and sweet herbs are all valuable additions for stock making. If one is the proud possessor of an herb garden, then all the flavorful herbs may be dried or preserved in spirits of wine for cooking use.

An odd Oriental fancy is to make a puree of beans so thick that it hardens when cold; then a clear soup is made and slices of the bean curd are put in each portion. It is delicate and very rich and nourishing. Still another idea from the Far East is to make tiny fritters, holding one or two shrimps each, serving two or three in each cup of soup. In Russia a favorite soup has sliced apples poached on top just before serving.

TREASURE FROM SEA.

The sea is full of queer things and queer tricks. At Thornspere, for instance, recently, the sea revealed treasure that had been hidden for hundreds of years. As the tide ebbed the sands were found to be littered with hundreds of coins—gold, silver and bronze—dating from early Saxon times. There were also antique bronze rings and ornaments that will fetch many pounds to their fortunate finders from collectors. At the inquest—which, by the way, is invariably held on such treasure trove—it was decided that the find was not crown property.

Everyone knows the story of how King John's treasure was overwhelmed in the Wash. Confirmation of this was given a few days ago when a solid gold circlet was cast up by the sea at Wolferton. Before Cromer became a pleasure holiday resort its place was taken by the old town of Shipden, which now lies beneath the waves. These waves brought from Shipden, on to the sands of Cromer hundreds of gold nobles and silver pennies, most of which were bought up by antiquarians, who had immediately rushed up to Cromer on hearing of the discovery.

A boy was playing along the rocky coast of North Wales a short time ago, and trying to lift many of the loose rocks saw a sparkling object lying undisturbed one of them. On being fished up this proved to be a valuable gold ring. When inquiries were made it was found that it belonged to an old resident of the district, who had lost it in the sea more than thirty years ago when bathing.

About seventy miles off the coast of Southern California lies the Island of San Nicholas, a horrible spot, all sand and loose pumice stone. No one had landed there for years, and it was always believed that it was uninhabited and uninhabitable. Imagine therefore, the surprise of those who knew this wild and desolate spot to learn, seven or eight years ago, that one man had resided there for some years.

He had been steadily collecting the treasure cast up by the sea from the many wrecks along the coast. He, perhaps, had more reason to think the sea a valuable storehouse than most people, for when he returned to civilization he brought back with him in gold and silver, both coins and bars, upwards of $150,000, all picked up on the beach. Moreover, he had a fine collection of antiques which brought him a small fortune.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

Color of Pure Copper.

The work of a Swiss investigator suggests that absolutely pure copper may have light gray color like that of moist other metals, since it is found that other coppers which have been ten times distilled in vacuo has only a pale rose color, while the yellow color of gold becomes much lighter under similar treatments.

GRIM TALE OF SEA.

Mad Captain's Suicide After Shooting at Crew.

Full of sad details, a tragedy of the sea came to light at Cardiff. It appears that the little French schooner Auguste, of St. Malo, left Swansea for Calais. The crew consisted of the master, Captain Genereaux Selgauer, about 30, married, and a native of Morthe-sur-Gironde, the mate, second mate, one A.B., and a boy, and two naval gunners attached to the gun which the little ship carried—seven all told. Shortly after passing the Mumbles they experienced bad weather, which continued until they were well down Channel, but in a sorry plight, the sails having been torn to ribbons, one of the masts gone, and the schooner making no headway, leaking, and at the mercy of heavy seas. Signals of distress were sent up and the gun was fired, but there was no sign of any approaching vessel to give assistance. When the vessel was in this helpless state the ship's boat was lowered and boarded by the mate and the two gunners. A big sea then tore the schooner and boat apart and the latter drifted away. Those left on board the schooner watched the boat being tossed from wave to wave quite out of control, and in a short time they saw one of the gunners fall out of the boat and sink immediately. Later the two survivors were rescued by the steamer Gunberk. A tug was sighted and came alongside, the mate and gunner going aboard of her in order to make a search for the Auguste, and the Gunberk proceeding on her course. As the night was falling the Auguste was sighted and the tug made for her, but when they got within hailing distance the crew of the tug were astounded to see the captain gesticulating frantically and firing a revolver at them. It was a weird, unnerving position, and the tug had to keep away instead of rendering assistance, because of the captain's strange conduct. They, however, kept the schooner in view throughout the night, and about 7.30 a. m. they approached again. This time the captain was not to be seen, and the mate and surviving gunner, together with some of the tug's crew, went aboard. An astonishing state of things met their gaze, and they were told a story of tragedy and horror. It seems that when the boat drifted away the captain became frantic because of the helpless position in which he found himself in a seemingly sinking ship. He must have lost his reason, for he got his automatic pistol and started firing at the remaining three members of his crew, who had to seek shelter wherever they could from him. One of the men was shot in the upper lip. By a subterfuge the captain was eventually secured in his cabin, where he was barricaded in, all the timber and heavy articles to hand piled up against the door and on top of the cabin to prevent his escape. It was evident that the captain had gone stark mad, for he kept firing bullets. After some time everything became quiet in the cabin, but no one dared to investigate what had happened there. The tug took the schooner to Cardiff. When the cabin was entered a terrible spectacle presented itself. The unfortunate captain was found dead on the floor, with a French service rifle near him. It was evident that he had placed the barrel of the rifle under his chin and shot himself, the bullet coming out at the top of the head. On the bed was found the pistol, which was seen to have become clogged owing to a cartridge having stuck in the barrel. The whole cabin was riddled with bullets and in indescribable disorder, the floor being covered with spent cartridges.

TOWN PLANNING.

On Compulsory Basis Adopted by Britain.

Town planning in Great Britain has so far advanced beyond the experimental stage that it has now been decided to make it compulsory for every town, having 20,000 inhabitants or more, to submit a town planning scheme for its own area to the local Government Board not later than 1926. Such a scheme must embrace the limitation of possible densities per acre, define the portion of a site area to be covered with buildings, the character of the buildings, the lines of arterial roads and the provision of open spaces.

The British people realize that haphazard growth of towns leads to serious evils, and they are determined to control it. In future, land will have to be developed so as best to serve the interests of the community, which, in the long run, is usually in the interests of the landholders themselves. Only the land speculator is adversely affected. If the public wish to put back individual out of business they cannot do it more effectively than by actively promoting proper schemes of town planning.

In Canada, the Province of Nova Scotia took the lead in making town planning compulsory in 1915. The only other Province which has a compulsory act is Saskatchewan. These are therefore the only two Provinces abreast of the old country in town planning progress, though most of our provinces have enabling acts in force.

WHEN ROTHSCHILD PAID HEAVILY.

Here is an illustration of the tricks in trade to which unscrupulous dealers in antiquities will resort to get large prices for their wares. The two parties were Alessandro Castellani, a clever dealer, and Baron Adolph Rothschild of Paris. Castellani had a superb enamelled ewer, with the dish on which it stood. The Baron on arriving in Rome visited Castellani's shop and was shown the best things the dealer had except the enamelled dish and ewer. When everything else had been inspected Castellani drew from a hidden cupboard and dish, but not the ewer. The Baron was so pleased with the lot of which it was a part. The Baron paid heavily, lamenting that there was no ewer to stand on the dish, and departed for Florence.

There he was visited by an agent would fit into the hollow of the dish, to sell several beautiful majolica pieces. He visited her house and was disappointed, as the majolica was fine enough. The old lady, seemingly chagrined, left the room to order refreshments, and the Baron saw through the open door of a bedroom an ewer, covered by a glass shade, on which rested a wreath of immortelles. When the lady returned the Baron asked permission to examine the ewer. It was brought out and the Baron saw that the enamel was of the same work as that of the dish he had bought. He wished, however, to be certain that the foot of the ewer would fit into the hollow of the dish. The Baron went back to his rooms had the fish unpacked and found that the foot of the ewer fitted perfectly. The next day the Baron sent the agent to offer the old lady a princely sum for the ewer. He brought back a refusal to sell. Eul at last the widow's scruples were overcome. Castellani, with his Italian cunning, had planned the whole affair.

Woodpecker Nests On Sale.

It may sound like a joke to speak of the manufacture of woodpecker nests, but there is actually a factory in Maine that takes many orders for such nests. The bird houses are constructed of pine blocks fifteen inches long and from five to six in diameter. The back of the block is squared to permit of the patent adjustment being properly attached to the tree or placed where the house is to be located, a canopy or top piece to keep out the weather being made like a roof. A perfect nest is drilled by a reamer. Within three inches of the bottom a corkscrew indentation is made to the bird entrance, as the toes of the woodpecker are in pairs, two before and two behind, with sharp, strong claws, the whole structure of the foot making it adaptable for climbing. The houses are sold to orchard owners, as the claim is made by the ornithologists that the woodpecker's feed consists chiefly of insects and their larvae which the birds get by digging into the bark and wood of trees. The woodpecker's tongue is an important instrument in obtaining this feed, as it can be extended far beyond the bill, its tip being horny and furnished with a barbed filament.

Vegetable Diet.

A well-balanced diet does not necessitate much meat. The leafy vegetables, like cabbage, spinach, celery, onions, etc., are now in their prime, and should be used as the basis of a number of appetizing dishes. Supplemented as they can be by a liberal allowance of milk, cereals and a limited number of eggs, the proper food values are fully maintained.

WOULD ABOLISH MONEY.

Japanese Prescription for Bringing in a Paradise of Peace. We will make here a suggestion which furnishes us a method to prevent the appearance of the rich, and avert the consequent result of the difference between rich and poor. The suggestion consists of the entire disuse of the money over the world, in order to give the struggle for existence a check, to make way with the differences of rich and poor, and thus to promote peace and equality in the public life of mankind. It is through the medium of the money that wealth is accumulated, and the accumulation entails the difference of rich and poor, with its resultant struggle for existence. This state of things is most undesirable. The end of mankind is not to be proud of individual talent or ability, but to co-enjoy the peace in the world, just as in a family, and any cause which brings about any inequality in public life must be radically eliminated. It is for this reason that we dare to suggest the disuse of the money to prevent the difference of rich and poor.

IS FIRM WITH U.S. SENATORS

Wilson Will Not Compromise On Treaty.

Little Nations Have to Be Considered.

A Washington despatch: An unyielding attitude against reservations to the Treaty of Peace was taken by President Wilson in talks today with four Republican Senators at the White House.

The four callers were Senators Page of Vermont, Sterling of South Dakota, McLean of Connecticut, and Newberry of Michigan, who advocate reservations, chiefly bearing upon Article X, relating to guarantee of territorial integrity.

Senators Page and McLean urged upon the President to undertake a compromise between the Republicans who want reservations and the Administration Senators supporting the treaty in its entirety.

The treaty has been designed as much to protect the smaller nations as the greater ones, Mr. Wilson is said to have declared.

President Wilson was represented by the Senators to have explicitly stated that he would accept no compromise with the opposition forces.

FRENCH "TIGER" WINS THE DAY

Clemenceau Got Vote of Confidence in Chamber.

Though Opponents Jubilant Over Vote.

Paris, Cable.—The Chamber of Deputies gave a vote of confidence in the Cabinet of M. Clemenceau this afternoon by a vote of 272, against 181.

Premier Clemenceau, in leaving the Chamber, said: "This is a mere skirmish. The real battle is coming."

The Premier was cheered as he departed, many officers surrounding him, and shouting "vive Clemenceau," and "Long live the father of victory."

when the vote on the food policy showed the Government to have a minority. He said M. Boret, Food Minister, who resigned, was abandoned by his colleagues who left him to struggle alone, but that it was the Government's economic policy that led to M. Boret's resignation.

After criticising in detail the economic policy of the Government, M. Francois-Fournier took up the foreign policy. He advocated a more intimate alliance with Italy, and concluded by asking the Chamber to say if it endorsed the Government's errors which he declared compromised the fruits of victory.

M. Joseph J. R. E. Noulens, the new Food Minister, in reply, outlined the Government's economic policy. He told of measures taken to increase the supply of wheat and sugar, and asserted the Government could not be taxed with lack of foresight.

M. Clement, Minister of Commerce, emphasizing the necessity of maintaining control of wheat and sugar throughout the world, and announced that the Allied Governments had decided to organize conferences, in which neutral nations should take part to reach conclusions on the critical economic situation throughout the world, and to submit these findings to all Governments.

RUSSIA UNDER THE RED TERROR

Even Bolshevik Troops Are Not Exempt.

Kolchak's Armies Fight On Four Fronts.

London, Cable.—Reuters from the Russian Telegraph Agency from Omsk, under date of July 9, "Red Terror" exists not only in the cities and villages of Bolshevik Russia, but even among the Bolshevik troops, according to date gathered by the intelligence service of the Siberian army.

Four armies of Admiral Kolchak's all-Russian Government are fighting the Bolsheviks on four fronts that extend for 7,500 miles, the general staff announced today.

Hunger is said to be general in the cities, and epidemics are reported to be causing thousands of deaths daily, as there are no physicians or medicines.

Cultivated acreage is estimated to have decreased to one-fifth of normal, and the peasants are refusing to sow crops since the Red army requisitions the produce.

These are the eastern, southern, northwestern and northern fronts. The eastern front stretches from the mouth of the Pechora River to the Caspian Sea, and along it are troops of the Siberian army and all Cossacks, except those under General Denekine.

Along the northwestern front, running from south of Pskov to Petrograd, Russian and Estonian troops are grouped. On the northern front, from Onozhst Lake to the mouth of the Pechora River, the army is commanded by General Muller.

An appeal to all the people to join the fight against Bolshevism, in this decisive hour of the great struggle, was issued today by General Peppelayev, commander of the Siberian army.

The Bolshevik leaders are making their last efforts to break the iron ring of the armies, which have surrounded them, the proclamation says.

"They have compelled all the male population from 17 years up to 45, to enter the Red army, and they have placed behind them detachments of Hungarians, Chinese and Lettish executioners. Our army had to retreat."

Useful in Camp.—Explorers, surveyors, prospectors and hunters will find Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil very useful in camp.

The Doctor Knew.—"I don't like your heart action," the doctor said applying the stethoscope again. You have had some trouble with angina pectoris.

"You're partly right, doctor," said the young man sheepishly; "only that ain't her name."

The Author Too Popular.—"The Star: 'The author of this play is a great stickler for realism.' The Manager: 'I haven't noticed it.' The Star: 'Why, he objects to my wearing diamond rings in the play where I pawn my hat to buy food for the children.'"

Famous Puns

The seeds of punning are in the minds of all men," remarked Joseph Addison in No. 61 of his famous Spectator.

Richard Steele, had two years previously in the Tatler announced that he had "several arguments ready to prove that he cannot be a man of honor who is guilty of this abuse of human society."

Old Gaunt, indeed, and gaunt in being old. Within me grief hath kept a tedious fast, and who abstains from meat that is not Gaunt am I for the grave, gaunt as a grave.

In England the written pun reached its apogee in the early and middle years of the last century, when flourished Lamb and Moore and Hook and Jerrild and the king of punsters and by merit raised to that bad eminence—Thomas Hood. Even the erudite Coleridge was drawn into the net.

Coleridge, of course, was a rank amateur of punning. From Hood, the professional, we get the ripened fruit. Let "Faithless Nelly Gray" and "Faithless Sally Brown" alike bear witness:

Ben Battle was a soldier bold, And used to war's alarms; But a cannon ball took off his legs, So he laid down his arms. . . . But when he called on Nelly Gray She made him quite a scoff, And when she saw his wooden legs Began to take them off!

"Oh, Nelly Gray! Oh, Nelly Gray! For all your jering speeches, At duty's call I left my legs In Badajoz's breaches."

"Why, then," said she, "you've lost the feet Of legs in war's alarms, And now you cannot wear your shoes Upon your feats of arms!"

Poor Ben, the soldier, hanged himself, and "though distress had cut him up, it could not cut him down."

Ben, the sailor, Sally's jilted one, had a still sadder fate: "Oh, Sally Brown! Oh, Sally Brown! How could you serve me so? I've met with many a breeze before, But never such a blow."

Then, reading on his 'bacco box, He heaved a bitter sigh, And then began to eye his pipe, And then to pipe his eye.

Everyone is familiar with Hood's famous pun put into the mouth of a barrister. "The case I've no case at all, and in brief I've ne'er had a brief." He sees a deep hole in the ground, and sighs: "It is well!"

To curb his emotions he sat On the curbstone the space of a minute. Then cried, "Here's an opening at last!" And in less than a jiffy was in it.

Next morning twelve citizens came (Twas the coroner bade them attend). To the end that it might be determined How the man had determined his end.

The jury decided at length, After solemnly weighing the matter, That the lawyer was drowned because He could not keep his head above water.

Her waist is ampler than her life, For life is but a span, And who told us . . . How Shem's proud children reared the Assyrian piles, While Ham's were scattered through the Sandwich Isles!

"These to the printer!" he exclaimed, and in his humorous way he added as a trifling jest. "There'll be the devil to pay." Equally careless of debts to the devil were Præd, with his: . . . Where are my friends? I am alone; No playmate shares my breaker—Some lie beneath the churchyard stone. And some before the Speaker.

And mendicants will sup like kings, And lords will wear like lackeys, And black eyes off will lead to rings, And rings will lead to black eyes. . . . So from the strands the empty carts are dragged, The horses homeward to their stables go, And mine, with hauling heavy logs, heads fagged, Prepare to taste the luxury of— whoa!

And we found on his nails, which were taper, What is frequent in tapers—that's wax, and even Trackeray, with his "Mrs. Roney! oh, Mrs. Roney, oh do let me go! I acted most ungrateful I own and I know. But the marriage-bell is a-ringing, and the ring you may see, And this young man is a-waitin'," says Mary, says she.

or—but they all did it. Requiescat in pace. Their gibes and their gambols spill sometimes set the table on the floor; if in their ashes lived their wonted fires, the earth would lie more lightly on them because of the description of their last resting place penned by a brother punster, James Russell Lowell:

There lie levelers leveled, duns done up themselves, There are booksellers finally laid on their shelves, Horizontally there lie upright politicians, Dose-a-dose with their patients keep faultless physicians, There are slave-drivers quietly whipped underground, There bookbinders, done up in boards, are fast bound, There card players wait till the last trump be played, There all the choice spirits get finally laid, There the babe that's unborn is supplied with a berth, There men without legs get their six feet of carter, and would lie there in repose, each wrapped up in his case, There seekers of office are sure of a place, There defendant and plaintiff get equally cast, There shoemakers quietly stick to the last, There brokers at length become silent as stocks, There stagdrivers sleep without quitting their box, And so forth, and so forth, and so forth, and so on—

Asthma Can be Cured. Its suffering is as needless as it is terrible to endure. After its many years of relief of the most stubborn cures, no sufferer can doubt the perfect effectiveness of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Comfort of body and peace of mind return with its use and nights of sound sleep come back for good. Ask your druggists; he can supply you.

HIS ERROR. "Dear John," wrote Mrs. Newlywed from London town, "I enclose the hotel bill." "Dear Gladys, I enclose cheque," wrote John, in return; "but please don't buy any more hotels at the price—they are robbing you."

CHEAP BARGAINS. "My husband has the queerest ideas of economy." "Indeed." "Why, he actually seems to think I could save money by staying away from the spring bargain sales."

Taft's Scheme FOR U.S. SENATE

Middle Course for Acceptance of League

By Means of "Interpretations," His Idea.

A Washington despatch: A plan for "interpretations" in Senate acceptance of the League of Nations has been suggested by former President Taft, in hope of uniting on a middle ground enough Democratic and Republican senators to defeat any radical amendment of the covenant, and in the end obtain its ratification.

The suggestion has been received with earnest consideration by the group of Republicans who favor the league idea, and who already are at work on a definite programme of interpretative reservations, which they declare they have reason to believe will be accepted by the Administration. The Administration leaders, however, unwilling to concede that any reservations will be necessary, still insist they will have the votes when the time comes to ratify the covenant as it is.

So confident are the League Republicans of the success of their plan that some of them believe President Wilson will publicly accept it to smooth the way to a completion of the league. Some Republican senators who have seen the President in the last few days have come away from the White House with the impression that Mr. Wilson, while not encouraging reservations if they can be avoided, might not be averse to such interpretations as would leave the league fabric unimpaired. They say, however, that this impression is not based on any direct statement by the President.

Mr. Taft's suggestion, which created a sensation in the Senate because of his well-known advocacy of unreserved ratification, was embodied in two letters to Will H. Hayes, the Republican national chairman, copies of which reached some Republican senators today. They touched upon many features of the treaty, and emphasized the former President's belief that only a completion of some reservations could the treaty be ratified.

Six specific interpretative proposals are outlined, which Mr. Taft says he is convinced will meet the objections of a large group of Republicans who favor a league.

UPPER SILESIA Likely to Be Independent Autonomous Province.

A Berlin cable: Upper Silesia, in the event that it is decided under the Peace Treaty, German, will become an independent autonomous province.

The vote will be taken in the entire Government and district of Oppeln.

Grotkau, Neisse, and a part of the Neustadt and Zuelzerland districts will remain German, and part of the Neustadt district will go to Poland without a plebiscite. State Commissioner Hoerning will retain his position.

4 1/2 PER CENT. Canada Hit Hard by U.S. Exchange Rate.

Detroit despatch: The rate on Canadian exchange quoted at Detroit banks today reached the unusual figure of 4 1-2 per cent. James A. Wilson, assistant cashier of the First and Old Detroit National Bank, said a request made to Canadian banks for a market on exchange brought the reply that there was none to be sold.

"Canada's funds here are exhausted," Mr. Wilson explained. "The balance of trade has been so much against her that she has been unable to maintain sufficient money in this country to keep exchange rates anywhere near normal. The moving of the Canadian wheat crop in the fall may be expected to relieve the situation to some extent."

FRENCH ELECTION. Clemenceau is Making His Preparations.

A Paris cable: The renewal of the Clemenceau Government's lease of life by the vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday has been followed quickly by tangible evidence of the Government's intention to arrange for the holding of elections as early as possible.

This evidence comes in the form of a bill introduced in the Chamber reducing the number of parliamentary districts in the Department of the Seine palpably in anticipation of parliamentary elections.

Some of the Radical leaders, including former Premier Combes, are starting a movement to re-establish for the election a coalition of the Left and Extreme Left, comprising the Radicals, the Radical Socialists and the Socialists.

Complete in Itself, Mother Graves' Worm Extirminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine to make it effective. It does not fail to do its work.

Torch of One's Own. As Plutarch tells us, "It is well to go for a light to another man's fire, but not to carry it, instead of lighting a torch of one's own."

A torch of one's own! That is a possession worth having, whether it is flaming beacon on the hilltop or a tiny taper in the window. We cannot tell how far a little candle throws its beams, nor who is laying his course by its flickering light. The most that we can do—and it is also the least that we should do—is to tend the flame carefully and to keep it steady.—Branded Matthews.

ASSAULT PREMIER Australian Soldier Deputation Acts Rough.

A Melbourne cable: As the outcome of a stormy interview between H. S. W. Lawson, Premier of Victoria, and a deputation of soldiers in the Premier's office today, the Premier was struck on the head and cut by an ink well thrown by one of the soldiers. The men then proceeded to pitch the office furniture into the streets and tore up important official documents. The police dispersed the rioters and arrested five of them. Later a crowd attempted to rush the watch house nearby and stoned the police, but was dispersed with several casualties.

The difficulty had its origin yesterday, when a crowd including returned soldiers and sailors attempted to rush a military barracks. Shots were fired and a passing soldier was killed. There were several arrests made and afterwards excited meetings of soldiers were held at which the police methods were denounced.

To-day, representatives of the soldiers went to Premier Lawson's office and demanded the release of the men arrested. The Premier promised to make an inquiry into the affair, but this did not satisfy the men, and the ink well throwing and other disorders followed.

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excesses away by using Holloway's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

BUY U. S. STORES. France to Make Bid On War Property There.

A Paris cable: France will offer to take over American military property in France, consisting mainly of stocks, railways and real estate, at one-fifth of its cost to the Americans, according to a statement given to the Associated Press yesterday by Louis Morat, Under Secretary of State for liquidation of stocks. M. Morat said that what seemed to be a low offer in reality is liberal, because much of the military construction will be of little value in peace time, and much of the property, such as railway equipment, was designed for use far different from that required for French operations. Foods and other movable stores, it was said, probably will be returned to the United States.

ALLIES AFTER GERMAN TRADE Cologne Flooded With Foreign Goods Now

A Berlin cable: The first results of the raising of the blockade, says the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, is the flooding of Cologne with foreign goods.

"French firms," the newspaper adds, "are offering hundreds of thousands of kilograms of cocoa powder, chocolate, coffee, ox-fat, port-fats macaroni and toilet soaps. German import companies have been offered large quantities of corn starch and cocoa, hundreds of carloads of white pearl beans, and Chinese yellow peas, and raw coffee and chocolate in huge quantities."

The American offers, include bacon, olive oil, rubber coats, steam turbines, automobile machinery, various oils, and vasiline.

"An Anglo-Japanese firm offers the direct importation of borax, paraffin, resin, flax oil, shellac and soap."

Toledo

Miss Mary McNamee was a recent visitor at Elgin and Westport.

Mr. David Rabb and party, of Smiths Falls, were guests lately of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Bellamy.

Mr. Percy Oldroyd, who left here to enlist in the war, has recently returned from the front, and after securing a situation in Almonte, he came down to this district to have a few days' visit with his old acquaintances. Mr. Oldroyd was formerly of Babcarry, England.

Mr. R. J. Seymour, accompanied by his son, Arthur, of Athens, and his daughter, Mrs. W. Weatherhead, of Hard Island, were visiting friends here on Wednesday.

Mr. Herbert Bellamy had a business trip to Athens on Tuesday.

Mr. W. J. Seymour was a Brockville visitor on Thursday.

Miss Malone, of Edmonton, Alberta, and Miss Curtin, of Almonte, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hefferman. Miss Eva Stratton, of Toledo, and her sister, Mrs. Elmer Baldwin, of Brock, Sask., were the guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McDonald.

The other night when a severe electrical storm was in progress, lightning struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Seymour, tearing the paper off the wall and causing other slight damage. The fluid followed the telephone wire. Mrs. Herbert Bellamy, who lives just across the road, and who is still quite weak from her recent illness, received a severe shock, but is now all right again.

A very pleasant social event took place on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hefferman, when upwards of twenty gathered there to bid farewell to Pte. Gabriel Hefferman, recently home from the front, and who stopped off here to visit his friends ere proceeding to his western home. A most enjoyable time was spent in social intercourse, music and dancing. Shortly before midnight dainty refreshments were served, after which the fun was resumed, the merry party breaking up in the wee sma' hours, with hearty thanks to their host and hostess and family for the pleasure given.

Mr. Ralph Wilson has returned after spending a few days in Brockville.

Mrs. H. Dunham has returned from London, where she was attending her brother-in-law's funeral.

Miss M. Hopkins, of Smiths Falls, is visiting Toledo friends.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is the positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LESSON V. August 3, 1919. CHRISTIAN WORSHIP.

Lesson V, August 3, 1919. CHRISTIAN WORSHIP. Print John 4: 1-10, 19-24.

Commentary.—The nature of worship (Matt. 6: 5, 6; John 4: 1-10, 19-24). Matt. 6: 5, 6. Jesus gives us clearly to understand that prayer is an act of worship and shows us the character of true prayer. No religious exercise that is performed ostentatiously can be regarded as worship. There was no benefit to the Pharisees from their standing in the streets praying with a view to being seen by others. True prayer is communion between the soul and God. Jesus said, "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

John 4: 1. When therefore the Lord knew—Jesus knew without being told, but John spoke of Jesus as one man would speak of another. More disciples than John. The Pharisees were displeased with John's preaching of Jesus, hence their opposition to him was great. 2. But his disciples—Jesus gave himself to teaching and preaching, and committed the work of baptizing to his disciples. 3. Departed again to Galilee—Jesus was finishing his first Judean ministry, and now withdrew to Galilee where the opposition of the Pharisees would not be as active and influential as in Judea. 4. Must needs go through Samaria—This was the direct route from Judea into Galilee, however the Jews usually crossed the Jordan into Perea and, going northward, recrossed the Jordan to avoid passing through the land of the Samaritans with whom they had nothing in common. 5. Samaritan—The name given to the region lying between Judea and Galilee. Sychar—A town between Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim, forty miles north of Jerusalem on the direct route from Jerusalem to Nazareth. The more ancient name of the place was Shechem and the modern name is Nablus. Jacob gave to his son Joseph—This parcel of ground had an interesting history. Jacob bought it of Hamor and gave it to Joseph, and the bones of Joseph were buried there, after having been brought up from Egypt by the children of Israel on their journey from the land of their enslavement to their own Canaan. 6. Jacob's well was there being in the region of the "parcel of ground" just mentioned. There is still a well there and there is no reason to doubt its being the one by which Jesus sat. Weary with his journey—it was noon, and Jesus with his disciples had probably been walking since early morning. Jesus rested there while his disciples were gone to the town to buy food (v. 8).

7. There cometh a woman of Samaria—The task of carrying water in the east rests largely upon the women. The usual time for drawing water was in the early morning or in the evening. At noon there would be few coming and going, hence the woman was alone there to receive the instruction of Jesus. This woman lived in one of the villages close by, undoubtedly Sychar, in the district called Samaria. She was a Samaritan and not a Jew. Give me to drink—Jesus thirstily and he made this request because she had the utensils necessary for drawing water from the deep well (v. 11). This request would very naturally open the way for the marvellous discourse on the living water, which he delivered to this one woman. 8. Unto the city—The present city, Nablus, is a mile and a half from the well. The ancient Sychar may have extended much further to the east. Meed—Articles of food. How is it that thou, being a Jew, etc.—The Jews claimed for themselves to be God's peculiar people and considered all others as of small value. They had Jerusalem and the temple and they accepted the law and the prophets, including the Old Testament writings as their sacred scriptures. The Samaritans held that Mount Gerizim was their religious centre and they held the writings of Moses to be only inspired scriptures. The Samaritans retain their identity still, and are objects of contempt to the Jews. 10. If thou knewest the gift of God—Jesus does not, at once declare to the woman of Samaria his Messiahship, but gradually prepares her mind for the reception of the great truth.

19. I perceive that thou art a prophet—What Jesus told her regarding her family history convinced her that he was a prophet. 20. Our fathers—The Samaritans. Worshipped in this mountain—In Mount Gerizim. Ye say—She recognized Jesus as a member of the Jewish race, hence opposed to the Samaritans in religion. Jerusalem—The Jewish religious centre. Where men ought to worship—The duty of men to worship God is recognized. 21. Neither in this mountain nor yet at Jerusalem—the time was at hand when locality did not affect genuine worship. This was determined by the condition of the heart and its attitude toward God. 22. Ye worship ye know not what—This was a serious arraignment of the Samaritan religion, yet Jesus knew whereof he spoke. The people did not know rightly the true God. Salvation is of the Jews—Jesus, the promised Messiah, was spoken of as coming through the Jewish people. 23. Shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth—No account shall be taken of Mount Gerizim or of Jerusalem, but true worship shall proceed directly from the heart of the worshipper to God himself. Father seeketh such—As the spirit of the devout worshipper thirst-

FARM AND GARDEN

BEEES, FRUIT AND HENS GOOD COMBINATION.

(By Myra Kelsey Cox, Practical Poultrywoman.) An old lady, whose name must have been Mrs. Commaensse, gave a demonstration in economics when she declined to take all her eggs to market in one basket. Though this principle may not apply to every business with equal appropriateness, its force must have been felt by poultry-growers during the past few years of difficulties. When the poultryman began to be oppressed by scarcity of feeds and high prices, by advancing cost of labor and equipment, he was lucky indeed if he had other irons in the fire.

more poultry, the better fertilized the soil and fewer insect pests. The more blossoms, the more fruit. The more bees, the more fruit from fertilized blossoms. Bees, however, are not advisable as a crop for the amateur without practical knowledge. The beginner would do well to confine his efforts to one or two hives. It is dear experience to invest in a large number of hives and have at the end of the season no honey, and hives derelictized by too much swarming or no stores for winter.

THE FINISHING TOUCH

In Which the Schoolroom Romancer Takes the Count.

Every schoolroom has its romancer. The other day the teacher in a primary grade noticed one of her small boys sitting at his desk holding one hand tightly over his left eye. "Why, Eddie," she said, "what is the matter?" He disclosed a badly swollen eye. "A horse kicked me," he replied. "No, no, Eddie," the teacher objected, "a horse didn't kick you."

"He was a wild horse," the boy stolidly persisted. "When he kicked me, he jumped over a house and ran away." "Eddie, if a horse had kicked you in the head he would have knocked out your brains." "Sure he would, teacher; but I was walking by the time with a man. And when that horse kicked me the man put out his hand—and pushed his foot back—so—and else he would have kicked my brains out, like you said, teacher." The teacher shook her head. The romancer was prepared at all points. It remained for the practical boy of the class to relieve the situation. "I guess it was maybe 'th' horse kicked Eddie 'til his tall, teacher," he confidently suggested.

Whereupon the romancer, his castle of imagination overwhelmed by jeering doubt, collapsed and then owned up that he had bumped his eye by a fall on the sidewalk.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SUNDAY AT HOME

LIFE'S TESTS. If never a sorrow came to us, and never a care we knew; If every hope were realized, and every dream came true; If only joy were found on earth, and no one ever sighed, And never a friend proved false to us, and never a loved one died, And never a burden bore us down, nor sick and weary, too, We'd yearn for tests to prove our worth and tasks for us to do.

O God, my heart is fixed, The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee; because he trusteth in Thee.—He shall not be afraid of evil tidings; his heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord. His heart is established, he shall not be afraid, until he see his desire upon his enemies.

NOBODY'S CONCERN.

(Layman, in Sheffield, Eng., Independent.) There are just now a number of things that are exercising the minds of all people interested in the religious life of the country; matters that everybody hopes something else will take in hand or give a lease that others may follow. Nobody wants the responsibility, although nobody is wholly satisfied with things as they are, and so we drift on, leaving Church matters for "Dilly" and "Dally" to look wise about and do nothing. This policy, however, is daily becoming looked on with disfavor, and men and women are bestirring themselves to find ways and means to make Church life more a matter of real concern to the nation than it has been of late years. The task is a tremendous one; but the leaven of dissatisfaction with old conditions is working steadily among all classes, and attempts are being made to infuse a wider spirit of true religion into the nation; a religion that shall be a seven-days-a-week practical Christianity, in the light of which the authority of Christ shall be admitted in business as well

MOTHERS TO BE

Should Read Mrs. Monyhar's Letter Published by Her Permission.

Mitchell, Ind.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me so much during the time I was looking forward to the coming of my little one that I am recommending it to other expectant mothers. Before taking it, sometimes I suffered with neuralgia so badly that I thought I could not live, but after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was entirely relieved of neuralgia, I had gained in strength and was able to go around and do all my housework. My baby when seven months old weighed 19 pounds and I feel better than I have for a long time. I never had any medicine do me so much good."—Mrs. PEARL MONYHAR, Mitchell, Ind.

Good health during maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., telling of health restored during this trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

as in private life. The religion of the rich man who grinds his employees down, or charges the public exorbitant prices for his goods, and then tries to save his conscience by making a gift of a few or many thousands of pounds to charity or to his church, is not a credit either to himself or to the Church to which he belongs. The example he sets is bad, and yet thousands will probably be found to eulogize him in the same breath as "a pillar of the Church" and "a smart business man." Perhaps one of these days we may see a closer connection between business and religion, a connection that may mean more honest dealings in all ways; but I am afraid there is too little of the altruistic spirit about for such a hope to be realized yet awhile.

This new age upon which the world is now entering will see many changes in religious as well as social conditions, and it is due to a great extent to the lessons forced upon us by the war. In the strain and turmoil of body and mind created by the terrible conditions under which they lived men became less concerned with dogmas and ceremonies, and more tolerant and broadminded in their outlook upon religion. They found that the religion that gave ease and rest to their minds and souls was not a rite, a thing for Sundays only, but something to be lived day by day; something to be lived in accordance with the needs of the world in the Church which do not appeal to them now. They want something that means real spiritual life and refreshment to them, and the churches will have to meet this need or they will lose their hold on the people. Beyond doubt the leaders of the church are recognizing this fact, and are beginning to consider how best to deal with the changed circumstances of the day.

To bring about a change in the religious life of the world in accordance with the needs of the time is not an easy task, but the occasion brings forward the man or men needed for it. The remarks, made by the Rev. James Wadkin, of Chesterfield, the President of the Primitive Methodist Conference at Grimsby, the other day, apply to other denominations equally with his own: "The world," he said, "had always advanced over the bridge of the bodies of those who counted not their lives dear to them if they could save the race. What sort of men were needed for the new age? The men needed were men of intelligence and view, men with a revived sense of human brotherhood, and men who could preserve the spontaneity and freedom of spiritual life. The Church was not so great as it ought to be; it was anaemic; there was not sufficient red blood in it, and they could not have a healthy Church whose veins were exhausted of good red blood." At the same time it should be borne in mind that Christianity is not in the first place a new social order, but a new spiritual life. As Professor David Smith puts it: "The Church's concern is not the reconstruction of society, but the regeneration of humanity, and in proportion as the latter is achieved the former inevitably eventuates. It was brought home somewhat rudely to the Apostles that their primary office was not to feed the poor, but to nourish the believers in the love of Christ, and send them forth to translate their affection into practical brotherhood. The Church is not at home; she is the maker and sanctifier of homes."

FLOSSIE'S RINGS. "Flossie accepts more rings from men than she can wear." "I don't understand it." "She is a telephone operator."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Wife's Salary.

The whole trouble in the domestic service of the wife (writes a London Daily Mail correspondent) is that it has not been recognized. But the director intends to be recognized in the future. "If I come home, John, what is my salary to be?" "Your salary?" "Yes. You see I am valued at £3 per week by the Government. My keep will cost you at a very moderate estimate £1 a week, so £2 will compensate me for not working in an office. Little conversations like this are going on all over the country. Men are finding to their surprise that their wives want wages."

CATHOLICISM IN U. S.

There are 17,549,324 Catholics in the United States, an increase of 133,021 since last year and of 8,471,459 since 1894, according to the 1919 Official Catholic Directory just issued under the copyright of P. J. Kennedy & Sons. Of the forty-eight states New York heads the list with 3,059,266. Last year's increase is the smallest recorded in years and the publishers attribute this to the unsettled conditions due to the war and to the fact that a number of dioceses were unable to take a census during 1918. Joseph H. Meier, who has compiled the directory for the last fourteen years, believes the real total of Catholics in the United States is nearer 19,500,000.

SIR WILLIAM'S WILL

"What about him?" "He has been on the drink again, sir," said Merrill. "He has been away nearly a week; but he has come back again to-day—well, scarcely sober; not fit to put on a machine, anyway. I told him I should speak to you, sir; and I think it's my duty to do so. I am very sorry to have to make a complaint against any man, especially against Rawdon; for he was one of our best hands, until one of the girls, Seaton, went off. He's been a changed man since then; changed from a steady, useful workman to a regular—a regular raff. You have been very good, very lenient to him, sir; but he hasn't taken advantage of it, and the time has come when something ought to be done. He has gone quite beyond the mark this time—just narrowly escaped being taken up by the police for drunk and disorderly in a row in Meadon street. He ought to go, sir; he ought, indeed."

"And fighting?" said Hesketh. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself." "Perhaps I am, when I'm sober," retorted Rawdon, morosely. Hesketh leaned back in his chair. "And you were once one of the best workmen we had," he said. "Once; that's a long time ago, Mr. Hesketh," said Rawdon, with a short laugh. "Yes; I was steady enough at one time; I had something to work for, something to live for. It is easy enough to be steady and stick to your work when it's like that. But when everything is taken away from you, when you feel as if the voice broke and his hands clutched his cap—as if the world had turned black and your life with it, it don't seem worth while to be respectable. And you want to forget; and a man can't forget such a trouble as mine, unless he's drunk. That's what makes me go on the drink and take to fighting. Why, look here, Mr. Hesketh, you'd do the same, if you was in my place." He stretched out his hand with the cap in its appealing. "If you'd lost, if you'd been robbed of your sweetheart, the girl you loved better than your wife, the girl who promised to be your wife, you'd take to drink, I can tell you."

in a ditch as lead this dog's life; but I've got a mother, as you know, it'd mean breaking up the home, it'd be hard on her. Give me—give me another chance, Mr. Hesketh," he pleaded, moistening his battered lips. Hesketh was writing rapidly now, and he glanced sideways at the man as if hesitating; suspense again. At last he said coldly, as if he were yielding against the promptings of duty: "I'm inclined to give you another chance, Rawdon, for your mother's sake. You have been at the works since you were a boy; and until this affair—but we won't hark back to that. But I will stretch a point, and give you another chance. Give me your promise that you will reform and conduct yourself as you used to do, and you may go back to your work."

Rawdon drew a long breath of relief, and he looked at the bent head gratefully. "Thank you, sir, thank you, Mr. Hesketh. You have been very good to me, better than I deserve, and I'll try to turn over a new leaf, try to forget." "Yes; try to forget," said Hesketh, with a preoccupied air, as he bent over his letter. "That's the best advice I can give you. The best resolution you can make. You may go to your machine now."

ox, and was completely cured by that temperance tonic made from wild bark and roots, and known for 50 years as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When a woman complains of back-ache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, or bearing-down, with nervousness, she should turn to this "temperance" herbal tonic, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put up in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Javalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size for 10 cents.

CHAPTER VII. "Behold, the first strawberries of the year!" exclaimed Mollie, as she burst whenever that impetuous young lady moved—a tornado followed in her train—into the dining-room, which, in the Bramley's time, had been called the ladies' boudoir, where Clytie sat writing at an antique bureau which would have brought water to the mouth of the connoisseur. "I picked these with my own hands," she extended a pink palm upon which two strawberries, scarcely more pink, reclined, "and under the forbidding eyes of Mr. McWhirtle, the head gardener. I foresee there will be trouble between the aforesaid Mr. McWhirtle and myself. He appears to labor under the oppressive delusion that the gardens, the numerous hothouses, and the fruits and flowers thereof, belong to him. That is the point on which Mr. McWhirtle and I differ. They belong to you; and I have just told him so as pleasantly as I was firm on the occasion demanded. He remarked that he was saving the strawberries until he could collect a dish for the table. I informed him, with that sweetness of tone and manner which is my chief charm, that I and you, preferred to take them singly, as spies and not battalions. Result—the great McWhirtle goes off vanquished and discomfited, and the conqueror offers you half of her spoil. Take the larger, Clytie, and leave the small one to me; and as a reward for my unselfishness, I shall have the smaller stomach-ache. No? Then I will take both and suffer in silence."

"Just can't work any more." The faded, faded, over-worked woman, with pains here and there; should ask her neighbor for advice. Ten-to-one she was dragged down by the pains and ailments of her ox, and was completely cured by that temperance tonic made from wild bark and roots, and known for 50 years as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When a woman complains of back-ache, dizziness or pain—when everything looks black before her eyes—a dragging feeling, or bearing-down, with nervousness, she should turn to this "temperance" herbal tonic, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It can be obtained in almost every drug store in the land and the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper. Put up in tablets or liquid. Dr. Pierce, of Javalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., will send a trial size for 10 cents.

answered—business letters. Mr. Granger sent me a pile of them this morning. And what can I say? I can't tell them that I'm not the actual mistress here, that I am a kind of locum tenens, a caretaker, until Sir Wilfrid returns. "No news from that mysterious young man, I suppose?" asked Mollie, as she held a kitten aloft and shook her red hair at it tantalizingly. "No," said Clytie, with a sigh. "None whatever. No reply has come from Mr. Granger's letter; no news whatever." "Perhaps he's dead," returned Mollie, as cheerfully as before. "Why should he be dead?" "I don't know. Come to that, why should he be alive. Men have a habit of dying. But the more important question is, my dear, why should you fret yourself. Here we are, as the clown at the pantomime says, installed at Bramley, the house of our forefathers, with carriages and horses, with all the necessities, and what is more important, with all the luxuries, with plenty of money with all the material for a pronounced spree—" "My dear Mollie!" "Quite so. The phrase, though graphic, is unsuited to the splendor and refinement of our elegant surroundings, not to say our lofty position. I apologize; we will say for our enjoyment. Now, why can't you enjoy yourself? Take example by your younger but wiser sister. I am enjoying every hour of the day. But set your fears at rest, or tell you the worst. But in any event to be perfectly healthy you must keep the blood in good condition, and for this purpose no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED. Thousands testify to the lasting benefit secured from CATARRHOZONE. CURES WITHOUT DRUGS.

One of the finest discoveries in medicine was given to the public when "Catarrhozone" was placed on the market about fifteen years ago. Since then thousands have been cured of asthma and catarrh. An interesting case is reported from Calgary in a letter from Creighton E. Thompson, who says: "Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh."

HOT WEATHER CHILD MENUS. Kiddies' Digestions Are Easily Upset in Summer. And These Pointers Will Be Helpful.

During the hot weather especially, it is essential that care be given to the feeding of these little people that they may receive nourishing food and at the same time foods that will not overheat the system and cause greater discomfort during the heated season, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Food must contain plenty of the right sort of material to build up and repair the living tissues of the body; enough material to use as fuel to furnish energy for heat and work, abundance of mineral matter and the other substances with which we are less familiar, which regulate body health and growth. Children, like all young animals, require more growth or body-building material relative to their size than they do when fully grown. There are certain foods which are indispensable articles of diet for children. These are: 1—Whole milk. 2—Butter. 3—Green vegetables, especially leaf vegetables. 4—Starchy foods, which are the principal sources of energy, but are not growth foods. 5—Some eggs or finely-chopped meat, including fish and fowl. 6—Sugar. 7—Fruits. Choose easily digested food for the child and see that it is properly cooked. Plenty of food should be given at mealtime and nothing between meals. A baby at one year may take a quart of milk a day. After this age, as he takes more cereal and bread with egg and vegetables, reduce the milk to three cups a day. A child will take more food if he drinks most of the milk at the end of the meal rather than at the beginning. Fruits should appear daily in the diet of the child; fruit juices for the baby, stewed apples, or prune pulp later in infancy. Raw apple at first scraped, oranges, ripe peaches and any cooked fruit may be given to the older child. Bananas are not fit food for a child to eat unless the skin is brown or the banana is cooked. Children crave sweets and they should be given these, especially in the noon dessert, as simple puddings, custards, home-made ice cream, cooked fruits, jellies or simple candy.

CLARK'S SOUPS. GOVERNMENT GUARANTEED FOR PURITY. MAKE COOKING EASY AND DINNER DELIGHTFUL. W. CLARK LIMITED MONTREAL.

"You never discovered the man, never found out who he was?" he asked, not curiously, but again as if it were his duty to show some sympathy. "No, Mr. Hesketh," replied Rawdon. "I never got any clue to him. I don't know where to look. You see I had no suspicion, she deceived me so well up to the very last; and I never saw anyone hanging about her. All the men knew that she and I were going to make a match of it; and they'd have been afraid—He drew a long breath and stretched his broad chest. "No; I haven't a thing to guide me. She went off like a thief in the night—why, she kissed me, as usual." His voice broke; then suddenly his face flushed redly, he flung his hand, still grasping the dirty cap, above his head and said between his clenched teeth: "But I'm still looking, still waiting; and I shall find him some day. And when I do—when I do!—the words seemed to choke him, he had to struggle for breath. "I'll have a reckoning with that man, Mr. Hesketh; and when I've done with him, the mother that bore him wouldn't know him!" "Tut, tut!" said Hesketh, leaning forward and taking up his pen. "All this wild talk is extremely foolish, Rawdon. You know that as well as I do. I should have thought, judging by your past, that you were too sensible a man to go to ruin because a girl, evidently not worthy of you, has deceived you and gone astray. But that is your affair. I am very sorry for your trouble, and I would help you if I could; but, as you must see, yours is one of those cases in which no help is possible. I sent for you to tell you that I cannot tolerate your behavior. If I were to do so, I should be setting a precedent that would have the most disastrous results. If I permit you to go on to drink, to misbehave yourself, I must permit every man in the works to follow your example, if he chooses to do so. Frankly, Rawdon, we shall be very sorry to lose a good hand; but I am afraid you must go."

"That's all very well," said Clytie; "but there are letters that must be an-

In Kitchen and Pantry. Home-made cinnamon buns, nice and sticky, and plentifully filled with raisins, will be found to be a welcome and healthy substitute for cake for the small child. This makes a dainty and wholesome addition to the school lunch, too. If you had an open fireplace save buying metal polishers, for wood shaves mixed with a little vinegar makes one of the best. It will bring clean very much discolored old brass where other polishers fail. At last there is to be had a stove cleaner than will actually and quickly remove rust on stoves without leaving them greasy looking. Freshly ground peanut butter, sold in the bulk, is liked better by some than that in jars, and is somewhat more reasonable. Peanut butter should be a household standby, particularly where there are children, since it is healthy and nourishing.

Slums and Unemployment. "Only the other day I saw a skilled Birmingham artisan working in his garden, and I asked him if he had a day's holiday; he said 'No, I have been out of work for three months, and I am enjoying my garden, the fresh air, flowers, the sun and the birds.' I said 'What would you do with your time if you were living in the slums?' (as he had done at one time). He said 'I should be dead! This brought home to me the hopeless condition of men out of work living in a great city, with a small house, no comfort and no garden."

"I do rejoice in the work you are doing in Canada."—Extract from letter from Mr. George Cadbury of Bourneville to the Commission of Conservation, May 19, 1919.

ROD AND GUN FOR JULY.

Anyone reading "Fish, Fishing and Fishermen" by George R. Belton in ROD AND GUN IN CANADA for July cannot help thinking of the good old days when a bent pin, a piece of string and a willow switch made the best fishing tackle for shiners, chubs and rock bass. "The Albino Bass of the Ottawa" is the title of a real fishing story from the Dominion Capital which is one of the several good stories in the national outdoor magazine for July. The six illustrations showing the capture of a Newfoundland salmon are the best this year. They accompany a splendid article on the Humber, King of Atlantic Salmon Streams. The interesting departments, Guns and Ammunition, Fishing Notes, Conservation, Kennel and Trap are all up to their usual standard and along with the second instalment of that interesting serial, "The Bear of Silver Dale" go to make up one of the best summer issues of the Canadian national sporting monthly. ROD AND GUN IN CANADA can be obtained from any bookstand or direct from the publishers, W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

BUY YOUR COAL NOW.

A survey of the coal situation by the Commission of Conservation proves that a coal shortage next winter, and possibly next autumn, is almost a certainty.

During the year ended May 24, the output of anthracite was only 1,679,000 tons. This production is 65,000 tons less than the week preceding, and is 326,000 tons less than the corresponding week in 1918. While the production is falling off, retail dealers in the United States continue to be deluged with orders from customers who are insistent upon prompt deliveries.

Up to June 7th of the present year, the total production of anthracite was only 33,349,500 net tons as compared with 42,858,000 tons in the corresponding period of 1918, a decline of 9 1/2 million tons, or 22 per cent. It is a fair assumption that the production during 1919 will be less than 80,000,000 tons, whereas the production in 1918 was 99,514,334 tons. If this prediction be verified, there will be a shortage of 20,000,000 tons, or 20 per cent.

The shortage is due to a number of causes, not the least of which is the migration of tens of thousands of Jugo-Slavs, Czecho-Slavs, Hungarians, Poles and other Europeans who are returning to Europe.

In addition, if there is such a serious shortage, we may confidently expect much higher prices for anthracite. Therefore, the Commission of Conservation advises consumers to purchase their winter supply of hard coal at the earliest possible date.
