PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities
SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage.

That's "Purity."
"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.

CHAPTER XVII.

TWO BROKEN HEARTS.

He kissed her as he pronounced the name by which he had rechristened her, and her father entered. Chapman turned to him.

"May we have your blessing, sir?" he asked, not without emotion. "She has promised to marry me to-morrow."

"Was there ever a more heartfelt, a more prayerful one given? And the cry went up from the bottom of Lansing's soul:

"Oh, God! show me that my suffering has not been in vain! Grant them happiness!"

The sweetest of simple ceremonies took place the morning following, in the drawing-room of Meredith Lansing's own home, a ceremony that united two lives.

Also! how many times does it fail to unite two hearts as well!

But Bebe was happy! Happy with that supreme joy that comes from believing herself beloved by the man she adored, and, watching her, wondering at her pleasure, Chapman tried to convince himself that he was content, tried to make his own heart, still, freshly quivering under its recent wound, believe that he was learning to love her in return.

And, as if fearful of the interposition of some hideous ghost of the past, the rising of some Banquo of retribution, Lansing watched the scene.

There were no guests, only himself, his sister Margaret, the clergyman, and the contracting parties, and when it was all over he took his daughter in his arms with a wild affection that was almost mania.

"My Bebe," he whispered, drowning a hysterical sob beneath an audible breath, "the good God has shown me that He has forgiven me at last! He has granted the most fervent prayer of my life, My darling, tell me that you are happy!"

"I think He-ven holds no greater joy for me, dear father!" she murmured, as she returned his caress.

"And you will make him so? Remember how he has suffered! If you love him, Bebe, you must compensate by the magnitude of your devotion for the emptiness of his life. You must bear with his weakness, you must trust him before and above all the world. Promise me, dear, that you will always act for his happiness, considering it even above your own!"

If the feverish unrest of the tone surprised her, she made no exhibition of it, but smiled as she unwound her arms from about his neck.

"I promise with all my soul," she answered; "but you must take care. There are strong probabilities of my becoming jealous."

"You must never do that!" he exclaimed nervously. "I sometimes fear that I set aside the first of all the Commandments in my love for you, Bebe. There, dear. Your husband is awaiting you."

The lovely face flushed delicate crimson, but it was the crimson of perfect happiness as that masterful title was pronounced to her for the first time, and, putting out her hand, it was grasped by Edwin Chapman.

The clergyman had gone before, and, motioning to his sister to follow him, Lansing left them alone.

"You are not sorry, Angel?" Chapman whispered, holding her to his heart. "You have not yet learned to regret? You are not afraid to trust the man who has lived a life filled to the brim with deception?"

"Hush!" she cried, closing his lips with a kiss. "I would not hesitate to trust you with the soul of my body, if I only might release it from its hold and give it to you. Edwin, sometimes I have rebelled against the will of Heaven in making me blind. Even to-day I have fought more wildly against it than ever, because the happiness of seeing your face was denied me; but I was wicked, ungrateful in the presence of the unparalleled joy that God has sent to crown my life. You are mine and I am yours forever. It is the sweetest thought that life holds!"

He was silent for some moments, silent from inability to answer her, as he prayed that some day he might be able to do; but when he spoke there was a great tenderness in his voice that would have satisfied a woman of more discernment than she.

"Your father and I decided that it would be best for us to go away for a while, Angel," he said gently. "You do not object to the arrangements, do you, dear? He and Aunt Margaret will remain here to keep the old house for us until our return; but he thinks, with me, that it would be better for us to be alone just at first; that is, of course, if you agree. Aunt Margaret has consented to have you already in time for the steamer to-morrow, and we will take a run to the old country. You will go with me, Angel?"

"Do you think you need ask? As if you had not arranged it because you knew it would be for my happiness! How good you are!

She could not read his face, and since the terrible harm was done it was much better so. Before he could reply a messenger entered with a note.

Chapman broke the seal and read: "DEAR CHAPMAN: Can you spare me half an hour? I want to see you about something very special, and have sprained my ankle, so that it will be impossible for me to go to you. Do not refuse, old man, but come at once and help me out of a conjunctured predicament.

Yours in friendship,
"DONALD QUINTARD"

With some amusement Chapman read the note aloud.

"Dear Mr. Quintard!" exclaimed Bebe sympathetically. "How sorry I am! He was always so kind to me! You must go to him at once, Edwin."

"And leave you to-day?"

"We must not be selfish, dear. Remember I shall have you for always now. He is in pain! Of course you must go, but—ask him not to detain you long this time, will you not?"

Quintard's own dogcart had been sent, and into it Chapman stepped fifteen minutes after, being driven rapidly to Quintard's house.

But the doctor had come during the time of waiting, and was dressing his ankle, so that Chapman was shown into the reception room to await the pleasure of the medical man.

He stopped short as the portieres fell behind him, an expression of hideous pain contracting his features. He was about to retire when a queenly figure emerged from the shadows and quickly extended her hand.

"Do you mean to cut me because of my action toward your friend? she asked reproachfully. "Did you not tell me that I was doing right? Have you no work of congratulation to offer me upon my freedom?"

Was there a hysterical sob suppressed in her voice, or was it his fancy? He tried hard to take his heart under his control, but it was throbbing too madly.

"You forget that what brings you joy is death to me," he answered wearily. "No, Duchess, I did not mean to cut you, but I feared that I had sinned beyond your forgiveness. I hope you are happy!"

"I shall be," she replied, smiling up at him. "I wonder that you can care. I wonder that you do not despise me, feeling as the author of 'The Exile' must. I should like to hear you say once again that you do not. I should like to hear you say that you forgive me for what I have done."

Relief from the terrible itching comes with the first few applications and then it is a question of patiently applying the salve and watching the natural process of healing which is set in operation by this great healer.

There are lots of cures to refer to, but what you want is actual relief in your own case, when you will soon realize that there is no disputing its wonderful healing power.

If you have Eczema or any form of itching skin disease don't let an hour pass before sending for this treatment.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

The wedding of Mr. W. H. Noel, of the Surveyor General's Office, to Miss Lilly, of Trinity, is announced to take place about the end of the month. Congratulations in advance.

Mr. Andrew Martin has received the appointment of Assistant Light Keeper on Harbor Grace Island. Mr. Martin removes out this week.

The Agricultural Exhibition opens on Wednesday, and we are informed that a number of St. John's people will take a run over and have a look at our exhibits. They will, we feel sure, be agreeably surprised at the many and varied agricultural products of this neighbourhood.

Mr. Arch. Munn was in town yesterday, from St. John's, visiting his many friends.

Mr. John Murray, an old and well-known citizen passed away on Thursday night after an illness extending over some time. Mr. Murray was a native of St. Malo, France, but had resided here for a number of years. He leaves a widow, who is very ill at present. Mr. M. was over 80 years of age.

Mr. D. Munn, after spending a day or two at St. John's, returned home on Friday.

The Union Wood Work Company commenced operations on Friday. Their first cargo of lumber arrived on that day, and two other cargoes are expected shortly. We wish the new firm much success.

A beautifully illuminated address is to-day to be presented to Rev. Dr. Whelan, of North River, by some of his parishioners on his return from his visit abroad. The address is printed on white satin, the work being done at the Standard Office, while the finishing touches were added by our talented young townsmen, Mr. James A. Power. It is beautifully finished, and Mr. Power is to be congratulated on the excellence of his work.

Mr. Andrew Rutherford who was compelled to remain in doors through illness for a few days is, we are pleased to note, able to be about again.

Our town was plunged in gloom on Saturday when it was learned of the death by drowning at Carbonear of one of the town's finest skippers, Mr. G. Herald. Mr. H. was well known here and grief was general when the sad news of his death was made known. Mr. Herald, with our townsfolk in tendering our sympathy to his sorrowing family and friends (Twin babies (son and daughter) were born to Mr. and Mrs. John Hart of Garland Street, last week.

The Rev. T. S. Coffin, Pastor of St. Andrew's Church here, intends going to St. John's by Wednesday's train to be present at and take part in the induction of Rev. Mr. Sutherland, a pastor of St. Andrew's Church, St. John's.

Saturday's morning's storm was felt very much here, but fortunately little or no damage was done. The wind blew with terrific force in the early morning, and the wonder is that much damage was not the result. A few of the roofs of some of the branches of the high wind.

Herring were very plentiful in the market this morning, and sold for 12 to 15 cents per dozen.

CORRESPONDENT, Harbor Grace, Oct. 17, 1910.

Damaged Banker Here

The Gloucester Banker Maxene Elliott, Capt. Patrick Shea, arrived here yesterday afternoon from the Virgin Rocks where she had been fishing the past six weeks, with 250 qtls. fish. He found cod scarce and almost everywhere going to the Banks he had weather, so that for days at a time it was impossible for the men to fish. Friday night and Saturday morning the worst storm of the many she experienced was encountered while the vessel was on the Bank. In the straining, due to the high sea which ran, the Elliott parted her cable an lost 250 fathoms of it with the anchor 30 fathoms of chain and 30 fathoms of wire hawser. After she went adrift "a slop of a sea" cut the rudder away, and she had to be nursed along to this port as well as possible. The vessel was handling and has to her credit to date 2,500 qtls. fish for 39 dorics. Twelve vessels, local, Canadian and American, were in her company and all sustained some damage, losing a lot of cable with their anchors and other gear.

Capt. Shea is a native of St. Lawrence, and has been twenty-three years fishing out of Gloucester. Half his crew are Newfoundlanders.

New Boiler Installed.

The new boiler for the B. I. S. Hall which was recently installed is now in working order, and proves a great success. It is 14 feet long and 5 feet high, and is the only one of its kind in the country. At the present time it heats St. Patrick's Hall up and down stairs, and next year when the pipe connections are made it will heat the O'Donnell Wing also. The contract for putting in this boiler was performed by the R. N. Co. with the assistance of Mr. T. J. Nash who with his usual generosity and zeal gave nearly a whole week of his time in helping do the job.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"Will you please tell me how I can keep some hold upon a red-hot poker, and not be burned?"

That, in spirit, is the question a young girl has just written to ask me.

No, not in just those words, of course. This, paraphrased, is her story.

She is a girl of twenty, a stenographer in a large office. A handsome married man of about forty years of age continually pays her attention, writes to her, confides in her, and so forth.

At first she persistently discouraged his attentions, but lately has accepted some of them.

This little story, which doubtless has its prototype in every large business office in the country, she concludes with—

"I have learned to care for him more than I should for a married man. What can I do to keep him from pursuing me so constantly, and to avoid the danger of scandal, but still retain his friendship?"

In other words, "How can I keep some hold upon a red-hot poker, and still not be burned?"

Dear lady, don't you realize that you are asking me the world-old question of weak humanity?—"Isn't there some way that I can do wrong and not suffer the consequences?"

As far as I can see, you can do one of two things—

You can save yourself from being burned by letting go of that poker right off quick.

Or you can keep hold and prepare to be burned.

But you CAN'T do both. Maybe things have come to pass where you think you can't do the first.

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERRE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your druggist. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighbourhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierre, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes sixteen ounces—a family supply. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better for the most valuable component, Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in galuicic acid and the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated, often, but never successfully. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

No Separation for Mr. Redmond.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The Tribune's London correspondent cables:—The remarkable political somersault performed by Messrs. Redmond and O'Connor during their tour of the United States and Canada, by which they formally recanted their demands for Irish National independence and avowed themselves staunch devolutionists and Imperialists, has given rise to much speculation as to the causes which can have induced this astonishing volte face.

It is significant in this connection, that Mr. O'Connor, who has been the go-between in all the Government's negotiations with the Irish Party, paid a visit to Downing Street just before sailing for Canada. He then had a long interview with the Chief Liberal whip.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 12.—Mr. Redmond to-day said: "The statement I have abandoned the Irish independence movement is absurd. I stand just where I always stood, and Mr. O'Connor stands with me."

"I stand for the absolute government of all Irish affairs by Ireland. Of course Home Rule for Ireland does not mean severance of all interests with England. It could rightly mean a federation of the British Isles."

Across America By Flying Machine.

New York, Oct. 12.—Wm. R. Hearst offers a prize of $50,000 to any aviator using a heavier than air machine who within one year flies from the Atlantic seaboard at Boston or New York to San Francisco, or, reversing the direction, flies from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, starting and finishing at either of the cities named.

The contestants may be American or foreign and may use any type of self-propelled aeroplane which is heavier than air, not a dirigible balloon. He may choose his own time, season, and route, but including Chicago on the way, he may stop where and as often as he pleases, and may make any necessary repairs and replacements of parts of his machine, but the flight must be accomplished within thirty days of the start. It is not necessary that there shall be a race. If only one contestant for the prize appears and achieves the flight, the prize of $50,000 will be paid; if more than two contestants start, the one that accomplishes the feat first will be awarded the prize. There are no other conditions.

Crushed to Death At Blast Furnace.

SYDNEY, Oct. 11.—Maurice Boyd, an employee at the blast furnaces of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company was instantly killed this morning by being crushed beneath the weight of an ore bucket, which dropped from one of the cranes.

The accident happened about eight o'clock. Boyd, it appears, was climbing over an obstruction, and had been warned to look out for the bucket, but paid no attention to the warning and continued his climb, when without warning the heavy bucket, filled with ore, dropped suddenly crushing him beneath its weight.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Interim Report.

The Council of the Board of Trade in presenting the second interim report, desire to say that they could not hold a meeting in the summer owing to the absence of so many members of the Board from the city at the time when the meeting should have been held.

TRAWLING ON THE LABRADOR. This matter has received the very earnest attention of the Council during the past six months, and a set of resolutions on the matter were recommended by the Council to the Department of Marine and Fisheries last April.

As to whether it is best to establish stations for the storage of frozen squid on various parts of the Labrador, or to employ a sailing vessel as a storage refrigerator which could move from one part of the coast to another as the condition of the fishery might require, and which could be equally as well supplied as the shore refrigerator by one of the small steamers carrying bait from one part or another of the coast as obtainable, is a question upon which there may be considerable difference of opinion.

Regarding the taking of squid, the Council are of opinion that some wise regulations should be made to enable the fishermen within certain limitations to catch what is necessary as bait with nets or seine.

One of the limitations they suggest is that squid should not be used for manure in any form.

messages of a confidential character. The Council note with much satisfaction the action which the Government have taken for the erection of Marconi stations on the Labrador, and they suggest that a station should be erected at a suitable place for connection with the sealing steamers.

The Council appointed a sub-committee to consider the question of sending parcels through the post C.O.D., and afterwards a deputation waited on the Post Master General and laid the views of the Council on this matter before him.

A committee was appointed to consider a publication of a Bill of Entry on the same lines as the one published in Liverpool, England, and the Government, who met the Council in a very fair spirit, and the result was the publication of a Bill of Entry as it appears in the Evening Chronicle.

Fishery Specialist.

Dr. Hugh H. Smith, Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries, and not Mr. Alexander is reported, is the appointee of the United States to the Commission of Expert Specialists to examine into the practical effect of fishery regulations which affect fishermen fishing in the waters affected by the Convention of 1818.

The appointment of such a man as the Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries by the United States is intelligible. The appointment of the Scientific Adviser for the fisheries of the Netherlands by the Hague Tribunal is also intelligible.

The nomination of Hon. D. Morrison, K.C., Attorney General, as expert specialist to examine into the practical effect of fishery regulations is not intelligible as a reasonable and proper appointment. Why were the members of the Fisheries Board passed over. Why was Inspector O'Reilly, who has for years been associated with the working of fishery rules, passed over.

Another Meeting Held.

At noon to-day another meeting of the Licensing Board was held. The meeting had under consideration the written objections handed in by Sir James Winter on behalf of those whom he represents to the granting of certain licenses. The Board decided to hold a meeting to-morrow night at 8 o'clock, at which all the parties may be heard. We understand that all interested are represented by counsel. Sir James Winter appearing for certain temperance committees. The parties whose licenses are involved, we learn, are also represented by counsel. Mr. McNelly, K.C., appears for the executors of Rankin's estate; Mr. Furlong, K.C., for Mary J. Flynn, Ellis & Co., and Jno. Kelly, while Mr. Higgins appears for Emily O'Reilly, widow of the late J. O. O'Reilly, and F. P. Collins, son of the late Jas. J. Collins. In addition to this the Board has under review all the other applications and they have resolved to grant licenses to the applicants.

HORSE RAN AWAY.

A phone message having been received at the lockup last evening from Hayse's King's Bridge, that a horse attached to a cart, on which there was some flour and other goods, was wandering around the Cove Road, Cousins, Lidstone and Mercer were sent out in a cab and captured the animal. Later it was discovered that the animal belonged to a man named Ayward, of Torbay, and had run away. While he sought for it on the Torbay Road it had gone in to the Cove Road. It was restored to him.

When Sleep Fails You

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will bring rest, comfort and vitality by building up the nerves. Mr. Jas. Wesley Weaver, a veteran of the Panama Raid, Fort Dalhousie, Ont., writes: "For years I was afflicted with nervousness and dread insomnia, so that I never knew of three years what a full hour's sleep was, never more than dozing for few minutes at a time. Heart pain and headaches plagued me, with I had spells of weakness and cramps in stomach and limbs. "Though I tried several doctors, was money uselessly spent. But Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me. It is simply wonderful what benefit have obtained from this treatment. Sleeplessness and headaches a warning of approaching nervous collapse. You can positively remove these symptoms and prevent prostration or paralysis by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmunds Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

Fogota's Rough Trip.

The s.s. Fogota, Capt. Baxter Barbour, arrived here at 5 p.m. yesterday from the northward. The ship left here at noon Wednesday and on the run north had very stormy weather and was compelled to anchor at Bay de Verde in a gale of wind. After much difficulty and at no little risk in the high sea running the passengers were landed. An attempt was made to land some freight, but in the high sea running the anchor "jumped" and the vessel began drifting shorewards and so had to leave the harbor to escape accident. One of the men belonging to the place had to jump from the ship to get on board his boat, but fell into the water, was swept away by the sea and when rescued by his comrades was almost gone. He was in the last stages of exhaustion and had to be carefully looked after when taken ashore. After leaving Catalina she had a very rough time of it to Bonavista, where it was very difficult to land 200 barrels of flour in the high sea running. The ship owing to rough weather going north could not call at Fogo, Joe Batt's Arm and Tilton, but she touched there on the return run. She arrived at Change Islands Saturday morning and left after an hour's delay. The ship arrived at Dog Bay at dusk. She reached Wesleyville at noon Sunday and left again at 2 p.m., and coming up got as far as the "Flowers," below Catalina, but it was so stormy that the ship was forced to retreat and had to run for Elliston. She could not attempt to try and negotiate this place, as a high sea ran, and had to steam down to Bonavista and harbor there until daylight yesterday. She made all the ports of call on the return and yesterday encountered a strong westerly gale with a high sea. She brought 100 packages of oil, fish, etc., and had 50 passengers on the trip. Her saloon passengers for this port were Mrs. Hillier and 4 children, Miss Brett, Mr. Reeves and 20 steerage.

Lost Summer's Wages.

A poor fisherman who was paid his summer's wages yesterday in a cheque at Monroe's, went to the Bank and cashed the cheque of $200. He put the money in an envelope with his name on it, and lost the whole sum some where on the street yesterday evening. The finder will do a great act of honesty and charity as well by returning the money to the Telegram Office for the owner—a poor fisherman—who worked hard for this money the past summer.

Our friends are practicing for a concert under the able and energetic Mr. Mitchell. We wish them success.

School Has Silence Strike.

Bayonne Students Express Disapproval of School Board by Going Dumb.

Bayonne, N. J., Oct. 3.—Indignant because one hour had been added to their four and one-half hours of daily recitations, the High school students here expressed their disapproval by "giving the silence" to all their teachers. They answered none of the questions that were put to them, and asked none.

Impenetrable silence hung over the halls of learning from nine o'clock in the morning until quarter after three. Then the principal appealed to the board which had passed the obnoxious law. While awaiting their verdict the strike silence still goes on.

Abraham Lincoln studied by the light of a torch, but that has nothing to do with the case.

The Small Blue Button. Cable News.

By W. T. H. Salter.

Fasten on the small blue button
With its Square and Compass bright,
A memento of the evening
When I first beheld its light.
With the pleasant recollection
Of the comrades who were there,
Who have pledged their fond affection
On the Compass and the Square.

I will wear the small blue button
As I journey to and fro;
Let the lessons that it teaches
Fill my life where'er I go.
That the friends with whom I travel
May behold the emblem there,
And may gauge me by the button
With the Compass and the Square.

When my life has gone its circuit,
And my moon no more shall rise,
When no sunshine greets my morning,
And no life-beam lights my eyes;
When they lay me in the cold ground
When my dust to dust they bear,
Please be sure I wear the button
With the Compass and the Square.

When the lights all blaze in glory,
And the Master in His love
Offers me His hand in greeting
To the altars up above;
I will search the Heavenly stations
For my brothers over there,
Who have worn on earth the button
With the Compass and the Square.

Jonathan's Message.

At the banquet of the Iron and Steel Institute, which took place in October, 1890, at New York, it was my privilege to offer, as a part of my address, some verses, entitled "Uncle Sam's Welcome," which had the good fortune to win from our English guests a flattering approval; and the president of that society, in notifying me of my appointment as a speaker at the great dinner in the Guild Hall of London, on the 27th of last month, paid me a compliment of requesting that I would include in my remarks something more of the same kind. Exports in after-dinner oratory need not be told that such a request is highly embarrassing. If a man has had good luck once in a given line, it is, of course, best for him to try some other line next time. Nevertheless, in the goodness of my heart (whatever might be the inference as to my head), I resolved to do my best to satisfy the desire of my friend Hadfield, in recognition of whose services and merits I was ready, if necessary, to sacrifice my reputation; and consequently I delivered in London the verses which are printed below. In further explanation, I may add, that, in the immediately preceding part of my speech, I had emphasized the unquestionable historic fact that the war of the American Revolution was a conflict, not between England and America, but between the party of freedom and the party of despotism in both countries; that the best men of England were on our side; that the general refusal of Englishmen to enlist (even at double pay) in a war against men of their own blood necessitated the employment in that war of European mercenaries; and that the final victory won by the party of freedom in America was only the prelude to a similar victory of the same party in England. In the light of such an introduction, the following verses should be interpreted.

Sez Jonathan.

Now don't tell me the British Oak
Was split by any lightning stroke!
Bless your soft head, that wasn't a split,
But just a fork, that doubled it!
For freedom ain't no sapling limb;
A-fear'd to grow another limb;
Thar's two big branches to that tree,
An' one is you, an' one is me,
Sez Jonathan, sez he!

Your bough's the biggest up to date;
But mine has struck a lively gait,
An' fust you know, she'll shove her way
Right alongside o' yours some day,
While through 'em both, from foot to cap,
Tingles an' climbs the same old sap!
No matter whar them branches be,
Thar ain't but one trunk to that tree,
Sez Jonathan, sez he!

What's more, we're both a branchin' yet
With every blessed chance we get;
An' every limb that we send out
I welcome to grow stanch and stout,
The sky above, the sile below,
Give room and food for all to grow;
An' limbs an' leaves that flutter free
Just add more glory to the tree,
Sez Jonathan, sez he!

Grow on, O stalwart oak an' tall;
Spread wide thy branches, great an' small,
While in their nest the birds,
And in their shadow stand the herds;
Lift all thy heads to greet the sun
That crowns with splendor every one—
So men, till men shall cease to be,
May praise and bless the ancient tree,
Sez Jonathan, say we!

CHICAGO, Ills., Oct. 17.
The death of Stanley Ketchel, the pugilist, at Springfield, Mo., Saturday, has precipitated the heavy middle weight championship situation into a more or less of a muddle. Four claimants to the title stand out prominently, and of these three had feared the former champion in the ring, while the fourth would have had the opportunity before long, had not Ketchel died. This last is Eddie McGoorty, of Oakkosh, Wis., the others are: former champion Billy Papke, of Kansas, Ills., now in Australia; Frank Klaus, of Pittsburg; and Hugo Kelly, of Chicago. Papke can claim distinction by the fact that he was one of the very few who beat Ketchel. Papke knocked him out in the 12th round of a bout in Los Angeles two years ago. This is the one decisive beating the past champion suffered in his career, although he was downed for the counting in the battle with Jack Johnson, at Colma, Cal., a year ago. One of those claimants for the championship was probably in the store of Klaus and McGoorty meet in their bout at Milwaukee which was set down for last Friday night but postponed on account of McGoorty's condition.

It is estimated that 8,000 members of the Portuguese religious orders, expelled from their own country, have taken refuge in Spain, where they are being distributed among the convents and monasteries in various parts of the country. It is believed that this will render very difficult the expulsion from the Spanish territory of those people of Spanish origin. The attack on religious institutions has greatly altered the Spanish Orders in the various Provinces, and it is reported that they are strengthening the convents and monasteries with iron doors and shutters and are laying in stores of arms and ammunition. A parade of Republicans was held yesterday in celebration of the Republic of Portugal. The procession passed through the principal thoroughfares of the city and perfect order was maintained.

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 17.
The Korean people apparently have accepted annexation by Japan with complacency. The new order has been greeted by the Koreans not with opposition but with relief. The reason is not far to seek. Korea has reached the top of her misgovernment. Ten millions of peasants and poor were practically the slaves of a few nobles of the upper class. The latter lived luxuriously, spending money with a lavish hand, and caring nothing for their country or the people except as payers of the taxes. Until the entry of the Resident General and the suzerainty of Japan there was no relief for the serfs. But three years of the practical application of real government gave to the mass of Koreans a just for freedom which came from Government properly directed, an seemingly are satisfied that the future holds out much more for them than the past. Since the annexation orders went into effect there have been few disturbances. At no time have the socialist insurgents been able to gather together more than 150 of their number for a demonstration. On several occasions small bands numbering from 10 to 50 have shown some opposition to the governing authorities, but no protest of a general nature has been made in any part of the country. Lieut-General Viscount Terauchi, Resident General of Korea accompanied by his suite left here yesterday for Tokio. Conditions throughout the country are reported to be normal. Before his departure the Resident General in an interview gave assurance that every foreign interest would be amply protected. Missionaries and others in position to judge state that the condition of the Koreans is vastly improved. The Consuls are inclined to be critical probably because they have not been consulted by General Terauchi. Up to the present they have not been officially informed by the Government concerning certain changes, consequently there has been some confusion and uncertainty as to how they should act where various of their countrymen were concerned. Forty-six Koreans have been created Peers by the Japanese Government; four refused to accept the honour, and one is reported to have committed suicide because a Peerage was offered him.

The Menace of the Tank.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—After what I described in my last letter it can easily be understood how much disease is brought into the dwellings of the poor by the buckets which convey the supply of water from the street tank to the houses. There yet remains to be considered the infection which must in very many instances be poured into these same buckets from the tap itself, or carried into the houses with the germ-infested dirt of the ground in the neighbourhood of the tank. Let us take the last case first. The situation of the ordinary street tank at the mouth of a sewer which is covered only by an iron grating, which grating in its turn is usually covered with putrefying filth, must be admitted by everybody to be insanitary and dangerous in a high degree. But perhaps the danger is not fully appreciated even by those who most heartily condemn the system under which such conditions can exist. The neighbourhood of a tank must in the course of things be saturated with water to a great depth, and not with pure water, for the risings of the buckets must slip the filth of the drain and gratings over a very considerable area. With the water there sinks into the ground the contamination of the sewer and of the drain, and there is at once provided another culture bed for the growth and propagation of the germs of all manner of foul and deadly diseases. The very mud which sticks to the feet of the women who visit the tank is saturated with active, living, growing bacteria, and a goodly number of these bacteria must be brought into the dwellings of the visitants to the tank after every trip to it. Once more we see the lamentable spectacle of the mother of the family innocently conveying disease and possible death to her household while in the very act of providing for its health and comfort. But this, even, is not the whole story of the street tank as we know it. We employ a system of stop-cocks for the proper preservation of our water supply from waste, and everybody must admit that such a system, if properly designed and carried out, is most desirable. The trouble is that the system adopted has a vicious side. When the lever of the tap is raised and the water stops flowing from the mouth of the tank the pipe which supplies the tank from the main, I understand, automatically empties itself. This pipe passes, as has been pointed out, downwards through ground which is highly charged with the bacteria of disease. Assume now that the very smallest defect exists in that pipe or that the smallest corrosion of the metal takes place, and we see how the convenient opportunity is immediately offered to colonies of these germs of disease to enter the pipe itself, propagate there and thus infect every bucketful of water which is drawn from the tap. Once more I must insist that this is not a condition of things evolved from the terrified imagination of an alarmist, but a condition which facts have demonstrated to be in actual existence. Two years ago the gentleman whom I have quoted in previous letters, Dr. Tall, was impressed with the dangers of this street tank, and it was at his instance, I believe, that samples of water were taken from the tanks and sent for analysis. Furthermore, I believe that it was at his instance that a tank on Prince's Street, where the conditions I have been describing were prominently flaunting themselves, was chosen as the source of the sample of tank water supplied to Professor Starkey. We have already seen how this tank of water contained bacteria whose colonies under cultivation were too numerous to count. And this was at a time when the water in the Pond was found by one analyst to show a marked decrease in the number of bacteria present, and by another to contain none at all. It must now be perfectly clear that these street tanks are a prolific source of disease amongst the very poor of the town; that class of our people who feel most bitterly the sufferings caused by infectious disease in their homes, and who live under such conditions as make recovery from illness difficult, tedious, and in many cases impossible. I think that no one will now quarrel with me for stigmatising the street tank as we have it here in St. John's as a deadly enemy to our health and welfare. Furthermore, when a state of affairs such as I have described exists amongst us, what earthly good is it to bring a pure supply of water into the town when you contaminate it as you distribute it?

Of course there must be a remedy for this state of affairs, and it is none too soon to put that remedy in operation. What we can do now can only be a poor atonement for the hundreds of lives which must have been lost and the thousands of constitutions which must have been permanently undermined by the long-continued existence of this system of polluting of our water as we deliver it from the tank. But if we cannot make amends for the past, we can at least take some precautions for the future, and thus do something to bring this town up to a decent standard of wholesomeness. It is worth while trying to lower a death rate which is abnormal in ratio, and abnormal also for the reason that the hearty and strong contribute to its numbers as well as the puny and delicate. The first remedy to be applied obviously is to remove every tank from the neighbourhood of the mouth of a sewer. By this device you at least evade the germs of disease which the sewer continually belches forth and prevent them from contaminating the water and the buckets which hold it. By this device also you save the water in the pipes from the danger of contamination from the germ-infested area which surrounds the sewer-mouth. It is true that by so doing you prevent the easy and prompt escape of the drainage from the tap and the overflowings of the buckets into the sewer. But is not this rather an advantage than a defect? The washing of water through a drain will do something to cleanse it, and our drains stand in dire need of cleansing, as everybody knows. In winter time indeed under the system I advocate there will be a glib of ice in the surface drain in front of the tank, but that may be faced with equanimity. But perhaps you will say that every part of a drain in such filthy localities as I have been dealing with must necessarily be filthy. Let your concrete be laid in mass and not in small sections as we see them in some parts of the town. But the main point, when once you establish your tank in a proper site, is to keep the drain well flushed and swept. The labour which is lost now by illness produced by water from tanks in dirty places would more than pay for the outlay in revising this system, to the benefit of the individual protection to the lives and health of the poor which you will thus gain. From what I have already said it must be obvious that from whatever point of view we look at the question of the public health of St. John's we come back by inevitable steps to the filth of the town itself. And this it is which arouses our indignation when we see the Council perpetually casting their eyes along the distant horizon to look for the causes of the mortality and disease always present with us when these causes lie right under their noses. Let us even at this last minute give up these trifling purposeless dickerings with Twenty Mile Pond and give our attention to the dirt which infests our streets wherever we bend our steps. There lies the source of all our ills; there let us apply the remedy. When we have cleaned the town we can innocently indulge in the creation of reserves around Windsor Lake, but until we have cleaned the town and made it fit for decent habitation we have no time or money for such schemes.

Yours truly

REFORM.

SHANNAHAN ON THE PRESENTATION OF CUPS.

We never hear of any one in this country giving money to build hospitals, homes for the working girls or anything in that line, but we have big-hearted men who glory in presenting cups.

Of course we must be satisfied to make headway slowly, and maybe the generosity of the cup givers will expand as years roll on, and the man who just now feels satisfied with having a cup to his credit will later on present the city with something of a useful character.

"This cup giving is a very interesting business," said Delaney, "and if you watch it closely you'll find out that it pays well."

Of course the man who gives a cup never hints at the personal gain. He gives the cup and doesn't pretend that he thinks anything more about it, but he is shrewd enough to know that there will be a lot of dust kicked up over it before 'tis handed over with great eclat to the winner.

First and foremost the announcement is made that Mr. Samuel Notoriety has kindly offered a cup for next year, and then the papers stop there. A little later on the papers announce that Mr. Notoriety has contemplated a visit to England and 'tis understood that he will purchase the cup while on his visit. A few weeks later Mr. Notoriety is heard from again. He has arrived in England and had a very pleasant passage, and we understand he has been fortunate in securing a very pretty cup, which will be "handed over" on his return.

Then in due course he arrives and tells the reporters that he has the cup with him and that it will be on exhibition in the window of Messrs. Show & Co. in a few days. By and by the cup is placed in view and the papers announce the pleasing intelligence to an interested public.

The donor after a week or so gives out the stipulations governing the contest for the cup, which usually says that the said cup must be won three years in succession. This will mean that we will hear a great deal in the future about Mr. Notoriety and his cup, for 'tis more than likely that it will be tussled for about a quarter of a century ere 'twill be captured for the last time.

On fine sunny evenings the cup giver strolls to his seat at the upper end of the grand stand, and as he glides along we point to him as the man who gave the cup, and a buzz of approval of his generosity goes forth and that match ends; some club has made a step on the long, long road of success. Next day the papers announce that the match for Mr. So-and-So's cup was won after a hard fight by the Glengary Club. And so the story goes on, and the season, the first season of the contest for the cup, is closed by a dinner and a presentation of the cup, Mr. So-and-So's cup, and the news is again heralded in the papers.

The winter comes and Mr. So-and-So's cup is placed on exhibition in the rooms of the successful club, and Mr. Notoriety on account of his presenting the cup is invited to attend all the social functions held in the rooms, and soon he is invited to every dinner that's held in town.

He is generally a good or a fair talker, and of course on account of his giving a cup, he is given a toast such as "The land we live in," and then we get the papers telling us that Mr. Notoriety was among the guests at the dinner and made a capital speech.

Then glorious springtime, the days of sport arrive again, and we are informed through the Press that the first match for Mr. Notoriety's cup will come off on Monday evening, weather permitting. A repetition of Mr. Notoriety and his cup become as familiar to us as our breakfast.

A half a dozen more dinners and endless speeches, the cup in the meantime being exhibited in every shop in town and is as well known to the people as the sprinkling car. Years pass by, and finally the public is informed that the Mimmas have carried off the prize for two years. The jaded public offer up a silent but fervent prayer that the Mimmas will carry off the prize for good next year, for they are sick and tired of hearing and reading of Mr. Notoriety and his bulged up cup. It is bulged, for no cup could help getting bulged under such circumstances; but another club gets the bulge on the Mimmas next season, and of course the cup is free for another three years.

Mr. Notoriety's wife now takes a hand in. She tells him he is the most popular man in town. All the people whom she runs up against are talking about him. She urges him to go in for politics, and gets her friends to talk to the strong man in the running to take him on the ticket as third man. The "strong man" sizes Notoriety up a bit, and after giving the matter some consideration decides with his usual tact that Mr. Notoriety is not half as popular as his wife thinks; he knows the people are bored, from hearing of him and his mug, so comes to the conclusion that he won't take him in his own district but consigns him "this side up" to another, where he will be sure to get wiped out forever.

The wife is delighted and Mr. Cupology is charmed. He dreams, and his wife dreams, of his heading the poll. She can see him sitting on the Government side of the House, an hon. before his name. She can behold him addressing the gods of the gallery, and she can see herself supping Castoria at a dinner in Government House.

Later on she knows he'll be sent away on a mission to enquire into a new way of removing fog from the Banks, and he and she chuckles over the easy way they pushed themselves into prominence by that little cup.

Mr. Notoriety stumps the district. He is out late at night and comes home with wet feet to his wife. She doesn't growl but gives him dry socks and tells him to keep up the steam. A crowd of his committee men take full charge of him and his home and his wife sees little of him. The papers which support his side report his meetings as being filled to overflowing. The usual deafening peals of musketry and damp powder are brought in and the papers have every one hoarse from cheering for him. Torchlights and stage powder meet him on the outskirts of the town, and even the fair sex join in the jubilation. But sooner than was expected the end is reached, and polling day, a quiet, muddy day, when people yawn for their beer, arrives. Mr. Notoriety looks busy, he tries to look prosperous. All day he drives from booth to booth getting the list of the illiterate votes. If he stops to speak to you, he looks with that far away look of the busy man, and so polling day drags on, and later on after talking himself almost to death he returns to his home and his kindred.

The count commences next morning, goes on with the usual dragging gait. His intimate friends follow him into the counting room; everything is fine, but soon poor Mr. Notoriety finds he is fast falling behind. Later on he goes home to take a cup of coffee and forgets to come back. A jaded public is after getting square, and poor Notoriety is a wiser and sadder man.

Backache Suffering

A wonderful medicine in this man's description of DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Mr. Fred Gummer, Lillies, Ont., writes: "I can honestly say that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are a wonderful medicine. For six weeks last fall I could scarcely walk around for pains in the back and legs, and was almost completely unfit for work. No better. I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and bought five boxes. After I had used three boxes, I was greatly improved and by the time I had them all taken felt as well as I ever did. I would advise anyone suffering from Kidney disease to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

"We have also used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limes and Turpentine for bad colds and sore throat and would not be without these medicines for anything."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for a free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book.

A cable was received recently by the Rev. J. K. Curtis, B. A., from the Rev. Mark Fenwick who is at present attending the sessions of the Methodist Missionary Board at Toronto. The cable advised that the Rev. Dr. Stephenson, Dr. Hartwell, G. J. Bond, B.A., and Marshall would arrive here on the 29th inst. They will occupy the Methodist pulpits the next day and during the week following, it is probable a Laymen's Movement will be started here.

Back From Labrador.

The schr. Samuel R Crane, Capt. Albert Morgan, arrived here at 9 last night from Cape Harrison, Labrador. She left there on the 4th inst. and had very stormy weather the whole voyage to port. She was 10 miles off Cape Bonavista when the storm came up Friday night, she had a hard time of it and got into Trinity at 11 a.m. Saturday. In the storm her decks were continually flooded and she had to lay to all night. The weather on Labrador when she left was intensely frosty, snow storms were frequent, there was nearly two feet of snow on the ground and all the ponds are frozen over and is on the verge of being broken up. A new fireboat Station, one of the finest built yet was erected at Makovik, and one was partly erected at Cape Harrison and will be finished next summer. The vessel will be in the employ of the Government.

Taking More Land.

Yesterday by the Fogota a gentleman arrived who had been at Gander Bay for several weeks past surveying certain lumber areas owned by Mr. J. C. Phillips. We learn from people who arrived on the ship that in the not distant future this property may be transferred to the Anglo Newfoundland Development Coy., and that development of the property on a large scale may be entered into next summer.

Boy Burglars.

While the wedding of their brother was being celebrated at Brazil Square Sunday night last, the residence of the Misses Murphy, on Hamilton St., was entered by boys who got in through the coal chute. They lit the lamp in the kitchen and made a search of the house evidently for money. As the street doors were locked they had to get out the same way they entered. Nothing was missing but the furniture was thrown about and the drawers pulled open.

WRECKAGE SEEN ABOUT.—Capt. Barbour of the Fogota reports that while coming through Baccalean Tickle and off Bay de Verde yesterday morning, quite a large quantity of wreckage from stages and flakes was passed.

A Clever Trick.

Recently white fish from a western craft was being landed on a mercantile premises in the city, one of the cutlers handling it noticed some inferior goods mixed through this year's cure. When all was examined it was found that the shipper had mixed up with his two seasons' catch about 14 qtrs. caught in the fall of 1907, and which was of a very bad quality. The purchaser of the goods denounced the dishonesty of the seller. Had the fish been taken tal qual it is unlikely that the fraud would have been detected.

HURT BY FALL.—Last evening a man who was under the influence of liquor fell on the steps at Beck's Cove and was badly cut about the face and hands. He bled profusely and was taken by passersby to a doctor who stitched the wounds.

Nutritive Hypophosphites.

When a person feels “blue”—“all tired out”—“doesn't feel like doing anything”—cannot concentrate his mind on his work—feels weak mentally and physically—doubts his powers—complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness—suffers from headaches—then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic. Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to trying family cares, overstudy, etc.

Where Toronto Gets Its Fish.

MANY FROM PACIFIC COAST.

Salmon From Fraser, Halibut From Prince Rupert, Carp From Ashbridge Bay—How Fish Get Rusty.

When the Toronto housekeeper orders her cut of choice salmon to form the piece de resistance in that delicious mayonnaise and cucumber combination, or the juicy steak sliced from the boneless body of a most delicious halibut, little does it concern her whence comes the fish. So it be fresh and otherwise in good condition, she is contented to let it go at that.

As a matter of fact, that fish she has bought for supper has come a very long way to grace her table—well over three thousand miles. For practically all the salmon and halibut sold in the Toronto market are imported from British Columbia.

“We get cheap rates on them, as they are shipped in by the carload,” said a dealer. The Telegram, pointing to boxes filled with two varieties of the toothsome fish, the steel-head and the spring salmon. Nearby, lying amid broken ice, were the flat decapitated bodies of big 50 and 60-pound halibut whose heads are invariably lopped off to save excess weight in shipment. They all come from the north Pacific, caught in the neighbourhood of Prince Rupert.

From the Atlantic.

The sea is full of cod in the same locality. But it doesn't pay to ship them down here as yet. All cod, haddock and flounders consumed in the city are imported from the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland.

“No, we get none of the Nova Scotia salmon here,” declared the dealer. “and all the oysters and lobsters that come into the city are shipped through from the States.”

Eric Fish The Best.

But more interesting to the observer than the salt water fish are those from the great lakes. White fish, herring, and salmon trout are, of course, the chief of these, though a few cases of the local perch, pike and pickerel do in the season make their appearance on the market.

“Notice the difference between these two,” said the salesman, picking the gleaming bodies of two salmon trout from their bed of pounded ice. “This big fellow is a Georgian Bay fish, but just compare this Lake Ontario trout to him.” Layers of fat appeared inside the Lake Ontario one, whereas the other, though big and firm, completely lacked this strong evidence of good feeding.

“The Ontario one is by far the better fish,” informed the piscatorial expert. “But these herring of our can't touch those that come in from Lake Erie. Just cast your eye on that.” And he wrenched the lid off a box of plump beauties from the smallest of the great lakes. Likewise in white-fish, Erie beats us. The warm waters of her shallow basin make an ideal home for the fish, which breed there in countless millions. The abundance of food in submarine plant life accounts for the superiority of the finny harvest gleaned therefrom.

Some Like Carp.

A box full of carp in a corner of the ware-room caught the eye of the reporter. They had been caught not far away from the city, probably in Ashbridge Bay, where these destroyers of marsh vegetation abound. Carp is not generally esteemed, though the two fish finds great favor with the Hebrews, two of whom presently appeared upon the scene armed with a market basket.

Frozen Fish.

Tons of fish is held in cold storage. In one chamber where an ammonia apparatus keeps the temperature below 32, and where hoary frost coats the rows of piping, the scribe saw a string of salmon frozen hard as iron. Back in the semi-darkness of the room the great white side of a stiffened halibut loomed ghostly.

“We could keep them there for two years, but we can work them out as fast as we can,” observed the fisherman. “You see fish get rusty if they are held too long in a frozen condition. It may seem strange, but when a fish that has been in storage over time is taken out and thawed, rust, or what looks very like it, actually appears on the scales. It is some sort of exudation. Anyway it won't come off and it spoils the fish.”—Toronto Telegram.

About 40 passengers left here by the shore train at 6 p.m. yesterday. The local arrived at 10.50 last night bringing, Mr. Madock, Thos. Tiplie, Wm. Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield, Hon. John Harvey, Mr. John Munn, F. F. Moore, and 30 second class.

The Board of Trade Meeting.

Last night the Board of Trade met and adopted the Interim report published in another column. In addition to the discussion of matters which the report dealt with, the matter of the dissemination of reports abroad about the destitution on the Labrador, the desirability of additional local support to institutions like the Labrador Hospitals and the Seaman's Home to avoid the need of appeals abroad for funds, the matter of better hotel accommodations were discussed. Mr. Smyth moved the adoption of the report, Mr. Cooney seconded it, and on the motion being put by President Winter it was carried.

Licensing Session.

The Licensing Board met last night to consider the applications for renewal of liquor licenses. Of the Board there were present:—Mayor Ellis, J. P. Blackwood, A. H. Martin and Mr. A. W. Knight, the Secretary. Rev. J. K. Curtis, representing the Methodist Conference; Rev. James Bell, Chairman of the C. E. T. S., were also in attendance with Sir James Winter, K. C., as Counsel, who objected to having licenses issued to Ellis & Co., A. D. Rankin & Co., T. J. Atkinson, Harry J. Flynn, Elizabeth O'Reilly, John Kelly and Fred Collins. The objections to applicants will be heard and dealt with at a future meeting.

Reported Missing.

Yesterday afternoon it was reported about the city that three schooners commanded respectively by skippers Balsom, Warford and Styles, were missing. These vessels left here Friday night for Trinity Bay and met the full force of the storm. People belonging to Trinity Bay, however, believe that these vessels being large and well found managed to reach off the land and after the storm abated got into some port out of the high sea running.

We are busy these days getting ready for the Manufacturers' Exhibition. We are showing goods in various lines Toilet and Household, that will certainly attract attention. We have for years been manufacturing Lavender Water, Cream of Lilies, Essences and Baking Powder on a more or less extensive scale, and to a constantly enlarging clientele. On the occasion of the Exhibition we are coming in a substantial manner before the public as manufacturers of these and other articles for Household and Toilet use. We venture to think that our stall will not be the least attractive one in the rink. At any rate, our products will be found able to hold their own with any imported articles of the kind.

The Elenor Here.

The British surveying ship Elenor, Capt. Coombes, arrived here at 9.30 this morning from Conche, which she left Friday morning last. The ship, which is employed by the British Government has been engaged in a preliminary survey and worked at it around St. John's Bay, the Straits of Belle Isle and Hare Bay. Sunday night the ship met a severe storm which about 100 miles off Twillingate. The wind blew a hurricane from the S.W. and a big sea ran. The vessel had to lay to all Sunday night and got a bad knocking about, losing part of her cutwater but sustaining little other damage. She has a crew of 48 all told, including officers, and most of the men are Newfoundlanders. The first lieutenant is Mr. Gibson and the other officers are Messrs. Garbett and James. Messrs. White, Walter Day and Jas. Burke are St. John's boys and the two latter are Naval Reservists, as are several others of the ship's company. The Elenor will leave here for Halifax in a day or so.

Had Good Sport.

Hon. John Harvey and Mr. John Munn arrived here by the shore train last night from the Cape Shore. They were out there the past 10 days and in all their experience never met with such stormy, cold and disagreeable weather. In effect they had only 4 days actual shooting but found birds fairly plentiful and secured 30 between them.
