Do you suffer from Nerve Troubles

Our nerves are like an intricate network of telegraph wires. They are controlled and nourished by a portion of the brain known as the nerve centres. The condition of the nerve centres depends upon the condition of the bodily health. When the bodily health is lowered the nerves suffer in sympathy. Then it is that we are tormented with "nerves," headaches, neuralgia and nervous debility. In such cases there is nothing to equal "Wincarnis," the "Wine of Life." "Wincarnis" is a powerful nerve food which acts directly upon the nerve centres and gives them new life and new vitality. The result is wonderful.

Begin to get well FREE.

"Wincarnis" is made in England, and you can obtain a liberal free trial bottle—without a name, but enough to do you good, by sending 6 cents stamps to pay postage) to COLEMAN & CO., Ltd., Wincarnis Works, Norwich, England. Regular supplies can be obtained from all leading Stores, Chemists, and Wine Merchants.

CHAPTER XII.

"We'll leave Lady Mary out of the discussion, if you please, Greyfold," said the old lawyer, stiffly. "Yes, I noticed that Lord Hatherley was very favourably impressed by the young man." And then he shut his lips close and Mr. Greyfold knew that his old friend would say no more.

After his guests had gone, Ralph stood on the terrace listening to the band which was playing merrily to the dancers in the marquee. His heart was beating fast, the blood was coursing through his veins. He was trying to realize that he was indeed and in very truth a peer, the Earl of Rattou; owner of Rattou Hall—thousands of acres—and untold wealth. Only the other day—how many days ago was it?—he had been a fifth-rate actor out of an engagement, and now he was a peer of the realm, with wealth and power at his command! It seemed incredible, a wild and fantastic dream! He paced up and down the hall, his hands gripping each other behind his back, his heart beating thickly, chokingly. Then by degrees he grew calm, and, as he went over the incidents of the evening, he thought of Lady Mary. How beautiful she was! How lovely! She was just like the exquisite women he had read of in novels and plays, but he had never even ventured to hope to see. And this exquisite adorable creature was a neighbour, a friend of his—an equal! Think of it! He was no longer a fifth-rate actor, but the possessor of an historic title and untold wealth. An equal! And this perfect creature, more beautiful and lovable than anything he had ever dreamed of, might be his—if he were free! He ground his teeth as he thought of the squalid room in the street off Waterloo Bridge Road, of Nita, the ballet-girl, his wife. If only he were free. This wife of his was the fly in the amber. There is always the fly in the amber, oh, my brothers! Sometimes it is a wife, sometimes it is a mental or physical defect. I know a millionaire who is a helpless cripple, and who would willingly barter his millions for a pair of sound legs—there is always this fly in the amber; and Nita, the girl he had married when he was worse than a nobody, spoiled Lord Rattou's perfect happiness to-night. The strains of the band in the marquee broke in upon his reflections, and, half unconsciously, he took his bowler hat from the stand in the hall and sauntered towards the tent.

By this time, beer and tobacco, the local band, and the dancing, had excited the simple folk to whom such an outing as this was rare indeed; and Ralph, as he entered the tent, was for a moment unrecognized; then, as they who were near the entrance saw him and recognized him, a whisper, a murmur ran round: "The earl! Lord Rattou!" The dancers hesitated and paused, the music faltered, a voice cried: "A speech! a speech! his lordship!" But Ralph had had enough speechifying for that night, and, with a wave of the hand, he signed to the band to continue playing, and looking round, saw a "dark-haired girl standing near him. Without a word he put his arm round her waist and began the dance with her.

If the action had been premeditated he could not have done anything more likely to make him popular. It caught the crowd at its—and his—most favourable moment; and that sound which is more significant than a cheer rose in the heated marquee. Ralph danced well; it was part of his education as a strolling player, and he and the girl out-danced the other dancers, to the delight of the party; and a loud cheer arose as, the band stopping for want of breath, Ralph and his partner ceased in the middle of the floor with every eye upon them.

"You waltz very well," he said. "What is your name? You know I know nobody here by name."

"Mabel Bray, my lord," the girl replied, panting a little.

"Mabel Bray. I shall not forget it," said Ralph, graciously. "Shall we dance this next one? What is it—a mazurka. I don't know it. You must teach me, please."

He danced it with her, and remained, choosing partners at hap-hazard, for an hour or two; and every hour his popularity increased. At last, they said one to another, a Rattou had come who was worthy of the name; and as Ralph left the marquee, a deafening cheer rose in his honour.

By his conduct that night in the marquee the new Earl of Rattou had won the hearts of his tenants and labourers, and the Rattou tradespeople; but the hearts of his neighbours and equals, the county people among whom he would have to move and live, had yet to be won.

County families are exclusive and particular. They knew very little—most of them nothing—of this new Earl of Rattou, and they—well, waited.

But Lord Hatherley came forward, as a god out of the machine, and invited the county to meet the new earl at dinner, at Hatherley Court.

"We must stand by him, Molly," he said to Lady Mary. "It is the least we can do. We know more of him than anyone else does, and I think you will agree with me that what we know is favourable to him. We'll introduce him."

So Lord Hatherley called what may be described as a gathering of the clans, at which the new Earl of Rattou was to be made known to his neighbours and fellow-countrymen; and, so curious were they, scarcely a refusal was sent the invitation.

It was indeed a great gathering. No one who does not know the county lord and squire can appreciate the significance of such a function as that which was held at Hatherley Manor. There were the Earl and Countess of Downshire; the Dowager Duchess of Lathom, with the young Duke and Duchess; Viscount Paroel; Sir Gilbert and Lady Bryan—in a word, the county was fully represented.

CRIPPLED BY RHEUMATISM

48 N.Y. Ave., Whiting, Ind., Jan. 1915. "Will you please send me a box of Gin Pills? When I sent for the last box, I was all crippled up with Rheumatism and my face was so badly swollen, that I could hardly see out of my eyes, but after taking about six of the pills, I felt some better; and after a few days I had no more pain. I have recommended Gin Pills to some of my friends who are troubled in the same way. I never intend to be without them as I have tried so many other pills and got no results."
Mrs. E. D. DEAN.

Gin Pills are "Made in Canada," 50c a box, 6 for $2.50—at all dealers. Sold in U.S. under the name "Gin Pills" (see facing) to COLEMAN & CO., Ltd., Wincarnis Works, Norwich, England. Regular supplies can be obtained from all leading Stores, Chemists, and Wine Merchants.

Parkins knew that to drive, especially in a brougham, would be a mistake. "The brougham, my lord?" he said, almost reverentially. "I am sorry, I did not order it, thinking your lordship would prefer to walk—so short a distance."

"Ah, yes; I think I will walk," said Ralph, languidly, as if the matter were of no consequence. "By the way, I shall not wear that morning suit again—the dark one—and you can save it."

"Thank you very much, my lord," said Parkins, gratefully, and congratulating himself upon having got in an exceedingly warm berth.

Ralph fought hard with his nervousness as he walked across the park to the Manor. After all, he was so good as, in many instances better, than most of the people who were going to stare at and criticise him.

What had he to fear? But he was rather pale, and his eyelids drooped as he was announced and he entered the crowded room.

He knew by the semi-silence, the pause in the conversation, as he entered, that they had been talking about him; but in reality there was no cause for his suspicion and fear. They were men and women of birth and breeding, and had not been discussing him ill-naturedly; indeed they had been listening to Lord Hatherley's favourable, almost enthusiastic, description of the new earl.

LOSING HOPE WOMAN VERY ILL

Finally Restored To Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bellevue, Ohio.—"I was in a terrible state before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back ached until I thought it would break, I had pains all over me, nervous feelings and periodic troubles. I was very weak and run down and was losing hope of ever being well and strong. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I improved rapidly and today am a well woman. I cannot tell you how happy I feel and I cannot say too much for your Compound. Would not be without it in the house if it cost three times the amount."—Mrs. CHAS. CHAPMAN, R. F. D. No. 7, Bellevue, Ohio.

1288. — A COMFORTABLE FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Plaid gingham in pretty brown, tan and green tones with facings of brown, was used to make this attractive dress. As illustrated the girde belt, may be finished with straight lower edge and the sleeve, with hand cuff at wrist length, or in cool short length, with a neat cuff facing. A smart sailor collar, trims the neck edge, cut with deep front opening. Blue galatea, with collar, belt and cuffs of red percale would be nice for this style, or any other wash material; percale, chambray, linen, poplin, ratine or crepe. In white linen, with embroidery for ornamentation, this style would make a very good best dress. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1293. — A CHARMING GROUP OF BONNETS.

For "little" girls there is nothing more attractive and becoming than a "love of a bonnet" and in the three styles here shown one will find new and attractive features. The models are all easy to develop, and will look equally well in lawn, mull, chiffon, bettise, crepe, silk, velvet, corduroy, poplin, repp or cloth. No. 1 shows a plain style with gathered head or bonnet portion. This in poplin or soft silk, or in crepe de chine, would be nice, as tiny ruche of mull could be set in under the front edge, and the strings of material or ribbon would hold the bonnet securely in place. No. 2, one could select lawn or batiste for summer, with facing of embroidery or edging, and for cold weather, velvet, or corduroy or a combination of silk and either of these materials, with perhaps a finish of fur or braid would be suitable. This style is also good for cloth, cashmere, Bedford cord or poplin. For No. 3 the same materials are attractive that one would use for the other styles. The scalloped facing on this is a good one for embroidering, and the model is a good one for lawn or poplin. The patterns are cut in 3 sizes: 6 months, 1 and 2 years. A one year size will require 1/2 yard for No. 1, of 20 inch material; 1 1/2 yard for No. 2, of 20 inch material; and 5/8 yard of 20 inch material for No. 3.

Blue galatea, with collar, belt and cuffs of red percale would be nice for this style, or any other wash material; percale, chambray, linen, poplin, ratine or crepe. In white linen, with embroidery for ornamentation, this style would make a very good best dress. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1293. — A CHARMING GROUP OF BONNETS.

For "little" girls there is nothing more attractive and becoming than a "love of a bonnet" and in the three styles here shown one will find new and attractive features. The models are all easy to develop, and will look equally well in lawn, mull, chiffon, bettise, crepe, silk, velvet, corduroy, poplin, repp or cloth. No. 1 shows a plain style with gathered head or bonnet portion. This in poplin or soft silk, or in crepe de chine, would be nice, as tiny ruche of mull could be set in under the front edge, and the strings of material or ribbon would hold the bonnet securely in place. No. 2, one could select lawn or batiste for summer, with facing of embroidery or edging, and for cold weather, velvet, or corduroy or a combination of silk and either of these materials, with perhaps a finish of fur or braid would be suitable. This style is also good for cloth, cashmere, Bedford cord or poplin. For No. 3 the same materials are attractive that one would use for the other styles. The scalloped facing on this is a good one for embroidering, and the model is a good one for lawn or poplin. The patterns are cut in 3 sizes: 6 months, 1 and 2 years. A one year size will require 1/2 yard for No. 1, of 20 inch material; 1 1/2 yard for No. 2, of 20 inch material; and 5/8 yard of 20 inch material for No. 3.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1285. — A COMFORTABLE FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Plaid gingham in pretty brown, tan and green tones with facings of brown, was used to make this attractive dress. As illustrated the girde belt, may be finished with straight lower edge and the sleeve, with hand cuff at wrist length, or in cool short length, with a neat cuff facing. A smart sailor collar, trims the neck edge, cut with deep front opening. Blue galatea, with collar, belt and cuffs of red percale would be nice for this style, or any other wash material; percale, chambray, linen, poplin, ratine or crepe. THE THO NEWFOUNDLAND FOR LANDERS

I wrote last week of being losing our assets, in island and its wealth. I faced with a new Reid Bill pretty well all that we the future map will be margin round the coast present all that is left land for Newfoundlanders.

In this deal we are our most valuable water land, and it means a monopolistic control nation of this country.

It is too much already, and objectionable from the wretched state of the way in which the country is being sold. The Reid Bill is the only chance we have to a part is another, and ment has shown its hand accepting the help of the last election, and it is that the Reids spared no money to elect Sir Ed. Some officials were days at the time and that could be brought used. Now is this the time have been paid for building way branches but have one, and now comes the act. The Nfld. Products Reid Co. More that brought home to us that administration of Bond brand land prosperity, and that perity has been shattered years, Newfoundland landers—let that be the should we sell ourselves labour? And what right barter away not only rights but the rights of fifty years' time, confidence changed and monopolistic domination will have and what a heritage are our children.

I consider this measure as important to the population, but yet we do nothing of letting the people I repeat, that the concessions and water powers should go to a monopolist, no matter how many are spent in labour, should we sell ourselves labour? Let us remember opened to Ireland and how became almost exiled birthplace.

SAVAGE LAND LAW

It is peculiar that the past, whom we term uncivilized, had views about show a spirit vastly in advance modern ideas, and a more

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS.
I wrote last week of the way we are losing our assets, instancing Bell Island and its wealth. Now we are faced with a new Reid Deal that takes pretty well all that we have left and the future map will show a small margin round the coasts that will represent all that is left of Newfoundland for Newfoundlanders.

In this deal we are parting with our most valuable water powers and it means another step for monopolistic control and domination of this country. Reids control it too much already, and this deal is objectionable from this very fact. The wretched state of the railway is one way in which the country is not treated fairly, the freights charged when Reids are the only carriers of freight to a port is another, and this Government has shown its hand plainly in accepting the help of the Reid group last election, and it is well known that the Reids spared neither time nor money to elect Sir Edward Morris.

Some officials were given holidays at the time and every influence that could be brought to bear was used. Now is this the reward? They have been paid for building the railway branches but have only operated one, and now comes the crowning act. The Nfd Products Co. is a Reid Co. The resolutions are drawn by a Director of the Products Co. to whom the concessions are given and drawn by him at the instance of the Premier? Can you wonder that Reid preferred to have Sir E. P. Morris to deal with than Sir Robert Bond? More than ever is it brought home to us that the same administration of Bond brought the island prosperity, and that the prosperity has been shattered in a few years. Newfoundland for Newfoundlanders—let that be the cry. Why should we sell ourselves for a bit of labour? And what right have we to larder away not only the people's right to the rights of the generation to be. In fifty years, less than fifty years' time, conditions will be changed and monopolies and land domination will have passed away, and what a heritage are we leaving our children.

I consider this measure to be quite as important to the people as Prohibition, but yet we do not hear anything of letting the people vote on it. I repeat that the concession of land and water powers should not be given to a monopolist, no matter what millions are spent in labour. These millions will never buy it back from Reid. Let us remember what happened to Ireland and how its people became almost exiled from their birthplace.

PROTECTION.

Apart from the main objection, why should the Nfd. Products Co. be exempt from taxation forever? What return is the Colony to get? Are the Reid-Nfd. Products Co. bound down to buy from local industries? As a matter of fact do we find the Reid Nfd. Co. encouraging our home industries? Make enquiries and you will find that only when forced does Reid buy locally, and in this connection I suspect it is largely the fault of their own system of giving the powers of purchasing to one individual who is a veritable "chief." Does this contract provide that the land used in construction should be made here or that the local made paint should be used? Not one word about it. Is there no way to stop this outrageous contract from being ratified by the Assembly? Is it to be put before Country? We are at the crisis. Are we to be rushed into this last ditch or are we going to exert all the strength of "Newfoundland for Newfoundlanders," defeat the measure, overturn the Government, and rise at last a freed people, with a Government of the People, for the People and by the People?

SAVAGE LAND LAWS.

It is peculiar that the peoples of the past, whom we term savages and civilized, had views about land that show a spirit vastly in advance of our modern ideas, and a more Christian way of dealing with land than we do in this Christian era. Take the following instance: "The white settlers of New Zealand found themselves unable to get from the Maoris what the latter considered a complete title to land, because, although a whole tribe might have consented to a sale, they would still claim with every new child born among them an additional payment on the ground that they had only parted with their own rights, and could not sell those of the unborn. The Government was obliged to step in and settle the matter by buying land for a tribal annuity, in which every child that is born acquires a share." And in these days it is possible for one man to own a continent and exclude the rest of the world! They will only live by his permission!

TAXATION.
The results of last year's trading show that an increased tariff does not always bring an increased revenue. The increase of $750,000.00 that was anticipated by the increased tariff put in force in the winter of 1914 has not materialized by any means, rather the revenue has gone back for almost a like amount, and we find that at the very least the Colony will be on the wrong side by a very large amount by June 30th. This shows that while we have been spending our money, we have got less for it, as it follows that owing to increased prices a dollar does not go as far now as it did a year ago. Consequently the imports fell off and so the revenue suffered. The fault lies exactly with the tinkering of the tariff. It shows that there is not as much surplus money in the country that some would make us believe; if there were, it would have been spent more freely than the imports show. All this proves that in governments as with business it is better to turn over a large amount of business for a small profit than to turn over a small amount at a large profit. The easier the tariff is made the more importations you will have, the people will buy the goods at a cheaper price, and buy more frequently.

Many of our tariff items are high in order to benefit our local industries. This is a desirable thing to do if the industry we protect does not take advantage of it to inflate the prices of their products and make an exorbitant profit. Unfortunately there are some industries that apparently come under this category, and so we have to pay a high price for goods, the profit on which goes to a comparatively few shareholders.

Government examination of the books of local industries so protected may well be made and is something that could be done at once. At any rate every effort should be made to lower the indirect taxation under which we labour at present, and if we could at some future date change it to a direct tax, so much the better; a form of limited Free Trade would remove the burden from the shoulders of the middle class and the direct tax would place the burden on the shoulders of those best able to bear it.

The imports of flour so far show about 40,000 barrels more imported this year than last. Now it may be easily seen that this extraordinary quantity of flour was not bought at a high price. Merchants don't usually buy flour when it is high in large quantities. From this I should conclude that the profit on flour during the last four months has been in the neighbourhood of one hundred thousand dollars. This is called good business. It may be business but is it good?

BUSINESS.

Is a man justified in getting all he can? If a man buys a plot of land for one hundred dollars and in a few years the land adjacent is taken up and built upon, the street becomes a busy one and what was a barren once becomes a city, what takes place? Why the man will be able to hire his land to another for a hundred dollars rent per year, thus getting back what he paid for it every year and still own the land. And what is this causing? The man who hired the land has built a shop on it and to his costs he has to add the hundred dollars he pays for ground rent. This in turn makes prices high and adds to the worry and anxiety of the family man, lessens his comforts and shortens the schooling of his children. And all this time the landlord sits back and fattens on values which have been created, not by him, but by those who have worked around him. He does nothing, and if by chance the man on his land is successful, then more than likely he will put up the rent.

This is a typical case of the real estate deals we heard so much about a few years ago in Western Canada and it is considered good business. And how it separates the poor and the rich. Money buys a good site, as it buys almost everything in the world, but how wrong it is. As regards land, I hold that it should be vested in the Crown and allotted out without fear or favour in small plots sufficient for house and garden and that occupation be the only title to the land. This would prevent the gambling in land and make life easier for us all.

The arbitration fees paid in connection with the railway building of late years seem to me to be some of the most extraordinary payments ever made. Men have taken $6,000.00, $6,000.00 and more for work which at the most has not taken two months of their time, and at the same time they have been drawing a regular salary from the government funds. How they square with their consciences I cannot imagine. From any point you view them the payments are unjust and unreasonable and could not be taken if men elected to conserve the Colony's interests and its funds thought for a moment of their Duty.

Household Notes.

In boiling vegetables, just enough water to cover is a good rule. Save all the discarded peckles—they may be useful for patching. Hold a hot shovel over varnished furniture to take out white spots. Drain dishes in a wire drying basket and lots of time will be saved. Sun and cleanliness are two of the best preventives of moths in woollens. Cold tea used on varnished floors or woodwork of any kind will give it a beautiful luster. Fry dripping lard in milk before frying. It will fry a nice brown and will not be hard. A charming little bonbon basket can be made by covering a finger bowl with crocheted raffia. Have an individual towel rack in every bedroom—then there is no doubt where each one's towel is. Save old quilts for the padding of new ones. Of course these old quilts must be washed first. Any floor, whatever the finish, should be dusted every day. If you would have it in good condition, baste a strip of sandpaper to a Turkish bath mat on the under side and it will keep the mat from slipping. Furs should be well sunned and aired and sent to a reliable cold storage plant at the first hint of warm weather. The most efficient housewife gets rid of all useless trash, thereby making her work easier and her house pleasanter. If iodine is spilled the stain may be removed by soaking the article in cold water to which strong ammonia has been added. BANISH THE BAR IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Vanguard, Sask., April 23.—That the Government of Saskatchewan would carry through its new temperance policy, or go down to defeat in the attempt, was the declaration made by Premier Scott at a public meeting here to-night at which the speakers were Hon. Mr. Scott, S. R. Moore, M. P. P., and Rev. Mr. Leitch. Both Mr. Moore and Mr. Leitch declared themselves as emphatically in favor of the banish the bar principles outlined by Premier Scott, and their declarations met with strong approval by the meeting.

Premier Scott dealing with the opposition to his temperance policy which has made itself manifest in certain quarters of late, said: "I have only to say that the Government will carry through and put into operation the measure which I outlined at Oxbow or go down to defeat in the attempt."

In regard to dispensaries, Premier Scott said that it is agreed that the wholesale traffic shall exist, at least, until the year 1919. "Our scheme proposes that this wholesale traffic shall not remain in private hands, but under direct Government management, to be controlled and managed by the Government which has framed and is responsible for the measure destroying the retail traffic and which will be wholly and sincerely desirous of having the new order of things become a success."

Up in Arms Against the Deal.

Very considerable opposition to the new Reid Deal has arisen among those interested in the water powers, timber areas and mining limits in the interior of the country. The powers sought by the Deal not only affect a number of firms interested in the water-powers of the Humber, but they affect the Anglo-Newfoundland Co. at Grand Falls and the Albert Reed Co., and a whole host of corporations and individuals who have timber and mining interests between Notre Dame Bay, St. George's Bay and to the north of the water shed of Burgeo and LaPoile and Fortune Bay. They consider the concessions sought, if obtained, would injure their interests. The Grand Falls people and the Albert Reed Company have already petitioned the Legislature for permission to be heard, in order to show how the proposed deal affects their properties adversely. The major portions of these objections relate to the interior. Under the circumstances, it is impossible for the Deal to be consummated in its present form. The rights of other parties must be conserved. It would bankrupt the Colony to pay for the injuries which will be done, and it would be impossible for the Colony or those interested in its development ever to succeed in floating properties in the London market, if large interests such as the Grand Falls Industries and the Albert Reed Company are to be jeopardized by the Government and by an Act of the Legislature. Newfoundland would receive such a black eye in the money market, that it would be a knock-out blow from which the Colony could never recover. The Legislature must go slowly and warily in these matters, or the results will be irremediable. The present Contract should be withdrawn and a Deal fair and square to all persons interested introduced.

GALLANT FIGHTING OF HOME AND COLONIAL TROOPS AT THE ENTRANCE OF THE DARDANELLES.

LONDON, To-day. The British War Office to-night made public an official communication, concerning the operations of the Allies against the Dardanelles. The disembarkation of the army in the Dardanelles began before sunrise on April 25th. Six different beaches were used in the operation, covered by the whole fleet. The landing was immediately successful on five beaches although it was opposed with vigor by a strongly entrenched enemy, the successive lines of which were protected by barbed wire entanglements, in some places fifty yards wide, and supported by artillery. On the sixth beach near Seddul Bahr, the troops could not advance until evening, when a fine attack by the British infantry from the direction of Cape Tekh relieved the pressure on their front. Arrangements for the landing had been concerted to the utmost detail, between the fleet and army. The result of the first day's operations was the establishment of strong forces of British, Australian and New Zealand troops in the lower slopes of Zaribar, north of Gaba Tepe, the British troops of Cape Tekh and at Cape Helles near Morto Bay, and the French force on the Asiatic shore at Kumkaleh, after a gallant attack toward Yenil Shehr. During the afternoon of the 25th, strong counter attacks by the enemy, and hard fighting took place. Meanwhile the disembarkation of the army proceeded, continually favored by good weather. At daybreak, on the 26th, the enemy was still holding a village of the position at Seddul Bahr which was a labyrinth of caves, ruins, trenches, pits and entanglements. Aided by the gunfire of the fleet, this position was stormed by the British in frontal attacks, through undamaged wire entanglement. Seddul Bahr was taken about 2 p.m., four pom poms being captured. A situation at this end of the Peninsula was thus definitely secured and the disembarkation of French and British forces proceeded. On the morning of the 27th, after repulsing a Turkish attack upon their left toward Cape Helles, the Allied force advanced at 8 p.m. and established an entrenched line running from a point about two miles north of Cape Tekh to a small plateau above De Tolt's battery. From this line an advance since has been made in the neighborhood of Krithia. Meanwhile the Australian and New Zealand troops at Sari Bair who pushed on with the utmost boldness, after the landing on the 25th, had been engaged almost constantly with the enemy who made strong and repeated counter-attacks, which invariably were repulsed. The Australian and New Zealand troops fought with fine spirit and determination. The French troops at Kum Kaleh also were four times strongly counter-attacked on the 26th, but retained all their positions. Five hundred Turks who in the course of one of these counter attacks were cut off by the fire of the fleet, were made prisoners. The operation of landing the army in face of modern weapons and in spite of wire entanglements under the sea as well as on the land, of land mines, deep pits with spikes at their bottom, has thus been accomplished. The Admiralty reports that the fleet is filled with intense admiration over the achievements of their military comrades. The casualties of the army necessarily have been heavy. The casualties of the fleet were not numerous. They appear to have been confined to torpedo boats, destroyers and boats' crews, engaged in the landing operations, in which merchant captains and officers and crews of transports also have taken part. During the operations, a Turkish warship from Nagera (in the Straits) several times have attempted to intervene, but have always made off directly the Queen Elizabeth was at hand. At noon on the 27th, however, a transport of about 8,000 tons was reported off Madros, and before she could escape, the Queen Elizabeth opened fire. The third shot hit and destroyed her. She sank rapidly, but whether she contained troops or not could not be seen. On the 28th and 29th, the Allied forces rested and improved and consolidated their positions, and continued the disembarkation of stores and artillery. All counter attacks by the enemy which were incessant on the 28th but weaker on the 29th, were repulsed. The fleet as well as the supporting army have begun to engage the batteries. The Triumph bombarded Madros which was in flames last night, the 29th. King George has sent to Acting Vice-Admiral John Michael De Robeck, commander of the allied fleet in the Dardanelles, and General Sir Ian Hamilton, commander in chief of the Dardanelles land forces the following despatch: "It is with intense satisfaction that I have heard of the success which, in face of determined resistance, has attended the combined naval and military operations in the Dardanelles. Please convey to all ranks, including those of our allies, my hearty congratulations on this splendid achievement."

THE BOMBARDMENT OF DUNKIRK—BRITISH PUBLIC GREATLY IMPRESSED.

LONDON, To-day. The British public have been greatly impressed by the German bombardment of Dunkirk, which it is believed in military circles here, must have been at a distance of eighteen to twenty miles. The "Times," dealing with the situation in an editorial, says: "The incident is of small importance from a military standpoint, but that it brings the war closer to England's shores than at any earlier period of the struggle. We have, the "Times" says, in events of the past ten days, possible proof that from being on the run, the Germans can at any moment resume the offensive in the West with great power and obstinate courage, with an ample supply of machine guns, and in a spirit that will stop at nothing. The "Times" correspondent in Northern France, says the first shell fell in Dunkirk at 3.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, almost at the same moment that three German aeroplanes were seen hovering overhead. Soon after, shells came in quick succession, and it became clear that the Germans had brought their big guns into range and that their fire was being directed by the army. The bombardment, the correspondent adds, continued 90 minutes. The inhabitants hid in cellars or fled from the town. The military authorities of Dunkirk were powerless to reply to the enemy's big guns, the whereabouts of which were unknown, but they opened a furious fire on the aeroplanes and drove them off Friday morning. All was quiet, and the bombardment had not been renewed up to noon. A despatch from Haras Agency from Dunkirk, says: British and French aeroplanes which reconnoitered during the bombardment, were able to discover no enemy ships in the vicinity of Dunkirk, although there was a light squadron off Ostend."

BOMBS DROPPED ON POSITION OF GUNS.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty announced that the position of the German guns which has been bombarding Dunkirk, has been verified by aircraft reconnaissance. It was attacked yesterday evening, 12 small and two large bombs being dropped. Reconnaissance was made also to Ostend, which was cleared of all important craft.

The Australians and New Zealand forces fought with fine spirit and determination, and after repulsing repeated attacks of a fresh Turkish division, proceeded by heavy artillery fire, resumed the offensive. The French at Kum Kaleh repulsed four strong counter attacks on the 26th, retaining all their positions and taking five hundred prisoners. Army casualties necessarily heavy; feet casualties not numerous. During operations the intervention of Turkish warships from Nagera was prevented by the Queen Elizabeth, who on the 27th destroyed a Turkish transport. College Hall Entertainment.

The entertainment given at the College Hall last night by the pupils of the Methodist College, was all that could be desired. The programme consisted of an organ solo by Mr. Gordon Christian; piano solo by Misses L. Ladley and P. Inkpen; songs by Misses G. Penney and G. Peach; chorus by the pupils as well as an exhibition of club-swinging by the boys; also the production of the sketches "The Wrong Package" and "A Dream of Fair Women." The different items received well merited applause. Misses Oates, Woods, Moore and Jolliffe took part in the first sketch and Misses Hemmeon, Woods, Gittleson, Roper, Lodge and Kendall were characters in the second sketch. In this the magic lantern was used to good effect. Mr. J. Peters then distributed prizes to the winners in the Primary Grade. The singing of the Anthems of the Allies by a squad of Boy Scouts closed the entertainment. The proceeds will go to pay for a cot for wounded soldiers in hospital.

Boy Scouts Concert.

A concert was held at the Seamen's Institute last night, in aid of No. 1 St. John's Troop of the Boy Scouts. Hon. R. Watson presided and gave a patriotic address. A delightful programme was then taken up, including recitations and vocal and instrumental numbers. The following contributed, Misses Crocker, Quick, Skinner, Garland, O'Connell and Taylor; Messrs. Slattery, Martin, Maunder, Darcy, Bidel, Cowan, Macklin; and the string band of H. M. S. Calypso. Miss Barnes and Mr. Slattery acted as accompanists. The proceeds were satisfactory.

Dr. Grenfell's Cousin Killed in Action.

Major Davidson Houston writes as follows:—"It is with the deepest sympathy on behalf of all of us that I write to say that Lionel was killed yesterday about 5 p.m., while very gallantly leading one of our companies to attack some trenches which the Germans had captured from us an hour or two earlier. He was shot just as he jumped into the trenches, the first man of them all. His death was instantaneous, and for a soldier could not have been fitter at the moment of victory, for we took the trenches and held them, though I fear his and other officers' deaths are a heavy penalty to pay. Since we have been at the front he has shown on more than one occasion his dash in times of danger, and I mentioned him specially to the G.O.C. for his pluck in dashing out of a trench in heavy fire a few days ago to pull a party of

At the House.

FRIDAY, April 30th.
The Colonial Secretary tabled the report of the International Grenfell Association.

Petitions were presented by Mr. Stone, from New Melbourne on the subject of roads; by Mr. Clift, from the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co., Grand Falls, with reference to the matter of the Resolutions before the House in connection with the Agreement between the Government and the Nfld. Products Co.; and by Mr. Morine, from the Albert E. Reed Co., of Bishop's Falls, on the same subject; and also from several sections within the Humber area on the matter of the conservation of the rights of property owners in these sections.

Mr. Morine asked for a copy of the grants of water powers to Penn Co. in Junction Brook.

The Seal Fishery and Logging Bills passed the third reading, after which the House went into a Committee of the Whole on Supply.

Mr. Coaker called the attention of the Committee to the recent appointment of Mr. M. A. Devine, as Clerk of the Peace in succession to Judge Knight, on the grounds that a legal man would have been better qualified for the position.

The Premier cited instances where laymen had filled the position satisfactorily in years gone by.

Mr. Morine endorsed what Mr. Coaker had said and reminded the Premier that brilliant exceptions were not sufficient to justify such appointments, as many complicated cases have come before the court in recent years.

When on the matter of estimates for magistrates, Mr. Clapp asked if a magistrate had yet been appointed for Bonne Bay.

The Premier replied that the delay in the appointment was due to the fact that the Government was endeavouring to secure a doctor for Bonne Bay, who would fill the position of magistrate as well.

Mr. Clapp considered such an appointment unfair to such a large territory.

Messrs. Coaker and Morine were of the same opinion, the latter stating that he thought a doctor would be incompetent to settle cases that usually came before the court at Bonne Bay in relation to fishery matters.

The appointment of Mr. Somerton as Magistrate at Trinity was also dealt with by several members of the Opposition, and a transfer was suggested.

When the reading of the estimates for the Police Department came up, Mr. Lloyd called the attention of the House to incidental information concerning some possible changes, given out by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries during the course of his speech on the day previous. To his mind the Minister had hinted at some of the doings of the inner circles of the Government, and he would ask the Premier if any changes in these departments—particularly in regard to the Inspector General of Police were in contemplation.

The Premier replied that no changes whatever were under consideration at present.

Mr. Lloyd said that the House was under the impression that the way has been prepared, as canvassing has already been going on in this direction.

The Premier, in reply to Mr. Lloyd, said there would be no change before the House met next year.

Mr. Coaker called the attention of the House to the leniency shown in the recent fox cases that had come before the court, and which were dismissed for lack of evidence. He said that the want of evidence was due entirely to lack of proper prosecution.

Mr. Kent asked if the Government had given consideration to an increase in the wages of the policemen and firemen. He spoke of the small wages given to the officials of this most necessary part of the Civil Service. He said that with regard to this matter he had received the same answer for the past three years, and the men of the Constabulary were not yet getting a living wage.

Mr. Coaker endorsed the remarks of the Leader of the Opposition, and also called the attention of the Committee to the Government's indiscriminate advertising.

Mr. Kent referred to the delay in the publication of the debates of the House and a discussion followed, the speakers being Messrs. Morine, Higgins, Currie, Coaker and the Premier.

It was suggested the matter of publishing the debates more promptly will have due consideration next week.

The Committee then rose from Supply, and a few minutes later went into Committee on the Resolutions relating to the Agreement between the Government and the Newfoundland Products Co. Mr. Lloyd occupied the attention of the committee till 6.30 p.m., when the Committee reported progress. The House then adjourned until Monday, at 3 p.m.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

I have known parents who considered their children little more than puppets to be directed at their will. They did not, in their stupidity, seem to realize that the emotions of these little folks were far more real and tragic to their small minds than many a sorrow suffered by older people.

A child's grief is very, very real. You who have weathered storms have ever the memory of conquered sorrow to afford you to hope for overcoming a present trouble. A child is not capable of such soothing philosophising, and so even a tiny trouble makes its horizon very dark indeed.

A man who loves children, and who has a wonderful understanding of childhood's pleasures and pains, said: "There is no sadness like the sadness of childhood."

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There was a packed house as usual at the cozy little theatre. All new pictures just arrived from England, the finest ever shown in this city. The two little singers in their charming Japanese costume received great applause. The show will be repeated to-day. The children's contest at Rossley's East End Theatre at to-day's matinee. Send the children; a good entertainment is assured; three prizes given.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

A friend of mine and myself recently attended a dance given at a private home. Is a party call necessary. I, so, how soon after the entertainment?" asked Morris.

"A call should be made on your hostess within two weeks after the date of the entertainment," answered his friend.

Addressing a well-attended meeting of Japanese and foreign Christians, held in Tokio last week to inaugurate an evangelistic movement preparatory to the International Sunday School Convention of 1916, Count Okuma, the Japanese premier, made the statement that Christianity had given Japan, among other things, a nobler conception of womanhood. The Premier made reference to the situation in Europe, saying: "There must be a wrong conception of the deity in Germany, otherwise this war could not have come."

Mr. Lloyd Criticizes Salient Features of Products Contract

FRIDAY, April 30th.

MR. LLOYD in approaching the Resolutions before the Committee, said that he did not propose to deal with them as a party question. He was willing to support reasonable concessions were the only ones which so far had resulted in a great enterprise in the interior of the country. Development of resources was the great need of the country.

WERE NOT REASONABLE

to increase our population, our exports and our revenue, and it must be done that public utilities like Education could obtain ampler provision. He would like to see the Education grant doubled if the country could afford it, but at the present stage the country is spending much faster than the revenue is coming in. This is all the more reason why reasonable concessions, if they were calculated to foster the development of our undeveloped resources should favourably be considered. The proposals before the Committee in their present form

WERE NOT REASONABLE

In his opinion, nor was there a clear and unmistakable assurance that definite development would take place in the near future, even were the concessions sought granted. The Reid brothers are named as the directors of the Company known as the Newfoundland Products Co., a fact that should be taken in careful consideration, not from prejudice against them as promoters, but because of their present large interests throughout the Island. The fact that they have control of the whole railway system, the greater part of the coastal service, and hold millions of acres of land in fee simple call for very serious and weighty consideration of their requests. "It must be distinctly understood," said Mr. Lloyd, "that I do not ask for

of the requests of the promoters. I ask for a close scrutiny of the concessions applied for, the returns for, and the kind of assurances offered to insure actual construction work. I ask for the elimination of highly objectionable features of the contract, and a limitation of it to actual business propositions of development within a reasonable time and concessions really necessary to enable defined industries to be established on a commercial basis. The great manufacturing industries at home owe their success mainly to the natural resources and advantages of the locations where they are established. The moist climate of Lancashire and its coal fields make that country the best location in the world for cotton spinning and weaving. The West Riding Woollen Industry rests on a coal field. The Tynesdale, the Clydesdale and the South Wales industries are all dependent on local coals. The world has now entered upon an Era of Electricity, and water power is doing the work of coal in supplying electricity for motor power and heating. Electricity is supplying power for transportation and stationary machinery, and supplies heat to operate furnaces for the reduction of ores. Newfoundland and the Labrador are rich in water flow and natural harbours.

WATER POWER WILL BE AS GREAT A RESOURCE TO US AS COAL IS TO OUR FOLKS AT HOME.

We should therefore conserve them carefully to get the best we can out of them. We should husband them economically and grant them for fair and assured returns. We should not hesitate to grant such portions of them as may be necessary to develop any particular section of forest land or ore beds. If the Reid brothers can show us that they can develop a definite section of the land they hold if they are granted certain water power concessions, we should give it to them, but at a price, and that price should be the return of other land of which they own millions of acres and reasonable exemptions from taxation might well be granted them. We should be prepared to examine each contract as a practical business proposition. If the Reid brothers make us full details of what is necessary in the way of water power and extra mineral grants to start carbide, fertilizers and sulphite works here, and give a definite undertaking that they will commence construction within two years and spend Five Million dollars within 5 years on construction work, on developing water power, building furnaces, factories, piers, etc., to make an output of calcium carbide, ammonium phosphate, ammonium nitrate and sulphite pulp, we should lose them such water powers within the Humber drainage as is in our power to demise, without injuring others interested in this water-power, on condition that if they fail to make this output on these works within five years,

THE DEMISE AND CONCESSIONS SHOULD BECOME VOID.

But no more water-power should be granted than is ample for the particular industry to be entered. The Contract before the Committee does not come within the proposition I have laid down. The concessions asked are unreasonable, and excessively unreasonably large, and there is no assurance within the confines of the contract that a ton of calcium carbide, fertilizer or sulphite pulp will ever be made in Newfoundland by this Company. The main undertaking of the Company so far as the Island of Newfoundland is concerned is set forth in clause 18 of the Contract. No definition is given of what the business or operations shall be. No condition exists that the Company shall actually construct a Coke oven, Carbide furnace, Nitrogen furnace, fertilizer plant, sulphite works.

"This true they are to begin construction within two years, but what they shall begin to construct is not stated, nor how much expenditure shall be recognized as a beginning of construction. "This true, the Newfoundland Products Company are bound to spend Five Million dollars in the way of business and operations within five years. But the Articles of Association give a wide scope to the business and operations of the Company. The business can consist of acquiring properties and interests now held by the Reid Nfld. Company, and if the Newfoundland Products Company spend Five Millions in taking over their interests and allow them to retain the demises of water-power, the grants of limestone, the taxation exemptions and other concessions, without spending a dollar on any plant at Bay of Islands for fertilizers, etc. This transaction so far as the Reid Brothers are concerned would be merely the transfer of their interest from one Company to the other, just as if one man transferred a dollar from one pocket to another pocket in his pants, and the results achieved by them would be colossal in the way of obtaining these concessions, but for Newfoundland the returns would be nil. The powers placed in the hands of the Company outside the Humber drainage are the most objectionable feature of the contract and should not be given. These powers would enable them to obtain control of most all the water powers in the Island, although they are not needed for any industrial plants at Bay of Islands, and although they do not undertake to set up any industries in connection with them. They would give them an absolute control over all development of forests and mines in the interior, whether they owned the latter or not. These concessions must be cut out. There must be no faltering about these, as they are CALCULATED TO THROTTLE EVEN THE INDUSTRIES ALREADY ESTABLISHED THERE.

"On this occasion I have no time before the committee rises to deal with the Labrador concession. In conclusion I would draw attention to the temptation held out to the Reid Brothers by the contract to transfer the landed interests of the Reid Nfld. Co. to the Newfoundland Products Company not only for the purpose of satisfying the conditions relating to expenditure to make the contract valid for all time in regard to Newfoundland, but also from the fact that the Reid Nfld. Co. may be taxed on improved land, whereas such land if transferred to this Company would be for ever free from taxation. The matter of exemption from taxation I cannot dwell upon now. In short however I would say, I consider the exemptions proposed are unreasonable and should not be granted. Exemptions for a reasonable time might be granted. As regards the contract as a whole, in its present form it should be rejected. Modified on the lines suggested it may be entertained. Let the Reid Brothers make us a fair business proposition. Let them offer us fair returns for reasonable concessions. I am prepared for a square deal, but I am prepared to oppose the contract in its present form to the full extent of my strength.

Things That Tire Us!

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"I've been having one of those broken days," my neighbour said to me last night. "I'm fearfully tired and yet I don't seem to have worked very hard. I can't see why I'm so tired."

She had been trying to accomplish something and she had been continually torn away from her task by those innumerable little demands for attention that sometimes fill up the house-mother's day to the exclusion of everything else.

More Strange If She Weren't Tired.
To my mind it would have been a far greater wonder if she hadn't been tired.

We usually think of hard work and weariness as the inevitable cause and effect, but to my thinking we don't get tired out from physical hard work half so often as we do from other causes.

Hurry, for instance. Nothing tires many people like being hurried. The sense of being pushed gets on their nerves and harries them. They accomplish less than if they hadn't tried to hurry, and accomplish it at the cost of much more energy. There are some people, to be sure, who are stimulated by a sense of being hurried and accomplish more. But—and I hope these people will take this bit to heart—the cost in nervous energy is just as great for them. They may not pay it at once, indeed, nature may not send in her bill for years, but so much the worse for them if she does delay, for she is a usurer who often exacts a cruel rate of interest.

Why Moving Day Exhausts You.

Confusion is another factor which takes more out of most of us than plain hard work. Take a moving day for example. You have a woman to help you to clean and a man to do the heavy work. You make no more actual physical exertion than you have on many ordinary days, yet night finds you utterly exhausted. The confusion, the clutter, the excitement, the unsettled state of things has done it, not the work.

Few people realize what a factory noise is in exhausting one's nervous forces. Every noise we hear uses up a little nervous force. Perhaps you know that Edison gives some of the credit for his tremendous capacity for concentration and the unbelievable amount of work he can get through, to the fact of his deafness.

Taking a Thousand Children to the Circus.

Myself, I was once my newspaper's hostess at the circus, to a thousand poor children. Every time anything happened to please those children—on an average of every sixty seconds—they all expressed their approval at the top of those thousand lungs. I had a beautiful time but I was never more utterly tired, and I haven't a doubt that sheer noise did it.

Last, but not least among factors that tire us more than work is lack of harmony. Nothing in the world tires me more than the fear of criticism or the feeling that someone is displeased with me. Nothing wears on me like an atmosphere of temper. I know a woman who utterly broke down after living a year with a mother-in-law who disliked her and showed it. I can quite understand. We often speak of people breaking down from overwork. Nine times out of ten it isn't overwork at all but an overstrain from some one of these causes.

FRANCE WANTS WOODEN LEGS.

New York, April 25.—An appeal from Northern France for artificial limbs have been received by the War Relief Clearing House for France and her Allies, whose executive offices are in New York, it is announced. The appeal states that the subject is giving great concern to the American Relief Clearing House of Paris.

It is set forth in the appeal that the time have arrived when artificial limbs may be adjusted to those who suffered amputation in the early months of the war. Most of the sufferers have been rendered necessary idle on account of their infirmities and the fear it expressed that the idleness of the people will reduce them to a state of beggary, a condition from which the statement asserts, it may be hard to retrieve them later.

The output of artificial limbs in France when all manufacturers are working, is small, according to the committee, and the French surgeons consider the American product vastly superior to the best that is made in France.

A fire which occurred in the great government dockyards at Portsmouth on the night of Jan. 31st, but of which very little was said or published at the time, is now reported to have been very serious, the great docks and other valuable properties having had a narrow escape of being wiped out. It is the common belief in official circles that the fire was the work of incendiaries, presumably German spies.

AUTHORITY.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Sivash."
Authority is the right to tell some other man what to do. It is the oldest of all rights. Long before the first man had found another man small enough to lick for disobedience, he had discovered that he was stronger than his wife.

To-day, many men who have no one in the wide world to order around, can still go thankfully home and tell some shrinking woman, in kindly tones, that dinner had better be ready a little earlier to-morrow, in order to preserve international peace and domestic calm.

Authority is harder to use correctly than an aeroplane. Some men are natural geniuses with authority, and are able to suggest the duties of the ten thousand other men in such a manner as to make themselves the recipients of affection and gold-headed umbrellas on anniversaries; but most men handle authority as awkwardly as they would a ball gown. The world is full of men who have been invested with the management of one or two human beings apiece, and are giving up holidays and other pleasures for the bliss of standing around and making the said human beings jump around a little bit livelier.

We have few real slaves in these days, but a vast number of men who are required to make a noise like a door mat under some other man. This is a very disagreeable task, and fills the human door mats with a deep and fervent desire to rise far enough in life to acquire door mats of their own.

Authority is still necessary in this world, but it should be distributed very carefully. Some men have no more business with authority than a five-year-old boy has with his father's shot gun. There should be federal examinations in the use of authority, and the man who cannot grant an employee a chance to work for a living without keeping him perpetually reminded of the fact that he may be fired at any moment when his taste in neckties, wives or humbly doesn't suit, should be enjoined from the authority business.

About the only people in this country who do not possess authority are office holders. It should always be a comfort to the man who is being bullied by his employer to think that at any time he may go to Washington if he can save enough money, and order his congressman around.

Cement From Beets.

It is now reported that a French firm is making an excellent cement from a by-product in the process of making beet sugar. The scum that forms when the beets are boiled, and which has heretofore been thrown away, consists largely of carbonate of lime and water, and from 70,000 tons of beet treated 4,000 tons of carbonate of lime are obtained; to this 2,100 tons of clay are added, the resulting product being 2,162 tons of excellent cement.

The scum is pumped into large tanks, where it is allowed to dry partially; finely-divided clay is then mixed with it; the mixture is thoroughly amalgamated by beaters for an hour and burned in a rotary kiln, much in the same way as Portland cement. The clinker is then removed and pulverized into cement.

Telephones With Memories

Devices for making a telephone "remember" what is said to it have been available for many years. The "telescribe," an instrument of this type recently devised by Thomas A. Edison, is said to be both simple and practical. A little desk instrument is used, by means of which one of the parties to the telephone talk may record the conversation on a phonograph cylinder. The process is as follows: The receiver of the regular desk-telephone is first removed from the hook and placed in the socket of the telescribe; then the user takes up a small receiver, which is part of the telescribe, and gives his call to the exchange.

He can start and stop the dictating machine by means of two small buttons on the telescribe in order to record the conversation between pauses or delays, thus avoiding any waste of running the wax cylinder meanwhile. Both sides of the telephone conversation are recorded, including all evidence of the central operator's voice in making connection. The telescribe, it is believed, will place the use of the telephone in a more serious light in business. After a conversation the dictator will turn to his dictating machine, and confirm this message in the usual manner, covering the general understanding. The wax records may be retained indefinitely for reference.

ARTIFICIAL BONES.

A new method of treating fractures has just been announced by Dr. H. J. Kauter. He dries and grinds to powder a piece of fresh bone, and this powder he mixes to the consistency of a paste with petrolatum, and properly sterilizes the mixture. After the ends of the fractured bone have been brought into proper relations, and the location ascertained by digital examination and X-ray, a syringe having a long needle is filled with the warmed bone mixture, and the needle is inserted to the seat of the fracture, and as deeply as possible between the fractured ends. The contents of the needle are then injected as the needle is slowly withdrawn to the surface of the bone, when the injection must stop. This procedure may be repeated several times at different angles, thus filling the entire space between the fractured ends with the petrolatum and bone cells, which act as a focus for the formation of new bone.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, April 30.

The French Government reports 150 of the enemy and two machine guns captured on the right bank of the Yser.

An airship, probably a Zeppelin, passed over Ipswich and Bury St. Edmund's last night, dropping five bombs. No lives were lost.

The Russian Government report further increased activity round the Niemen front, also unsuccessful enemy attacks at various points in Poland, in the Carpathians and at Strij. HARCOURT.

BIG BATTLE STILL RAGING.

LONDON, April 30.

A despatch from Rotterdam to the Daily Telegraph, dated 29th, says: The terrible battle along the Ypres-Yser fronts is still raging, with little diminution of fury and strength. The Germans are now definitely on the offensive along the whole line westward from Zonnebeke, and then along the Canal to Dixmude. The great offensive, for which the Germans made an enormous concentration of troops, and which was intended as a second attempt to hack a passage to the Channel coast, has failed. From Zonnebeke along the Ypres-Canal territory, past Pilken Hills towards the Canal, the Germans have been brought to a complete standstill. At one or two points yesterday, spasmodic attempts were made, but quite fruitlessly, against the British, who, now that the tide is stemmed, have taken up a position along the whole front close to the German lines, but in the absence of reinforcements, the latter find it all they can manage, to cling to their dearly-purchased territory in face of assaults by the British in constantly augmented strength.

received 500 shells, of which many were on the incendiary nature. These missiles started several fires, but it was found possible to circumscribe them, and to put them out quickly. In Champagne district the enemy shelled one of our ambulances, wounding a doctor. German warships have been reported at large off the coast of Belgium. Dunkirk yesterday received 19 shells of large calibre. Twenty persons were killed and 45 wounded. Some houses were destroyed.

BRITISH OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

LONDON, April 30.

A British official statement, given out to-night, says it is not true that German warships have bombarded Dunkirk.

A British official statement says that the shelling of Dunkirk is now reported by aerial reconnaissance to have been from a land gun. Reports that German warships were off that port were due to misapprehension.

ZEEBRUGGE BOMBARDED.

AMSTERDAM, April 30.

The Telegraph has a despatch saying that Zeebrugge, on the coast of the North Sea in Belgium, has been heavily bombarded. Zebrugge is the base of the German submarine fleet.

BRITISH ARMY LANDED SUCCESSFULLY—CASUALTIES HEAVY.

LONDON, April 30.

A statement given out this evening by the British War Department, regarding operations in the Dardanelles says: The Army has been landed successfully at six beaches in the Dardanelles. Casualties of the Army were heavy; the fleet casualties were confined to destroyers. A Turkish transport, off Mardos, has been destroyed by the battleship Queen Elizabeth.

MASSACRE OF CHRISTIANS.

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS.

LONDON, May 1.

An official message from Paris, says that German warships were seen off the Belgian coast yesterday. The British official story denies the report, and says the bombarding of Dunkirk was by land guns.

Another press despatch from Amsterdam, says that urgent orders were received at the Hook of Holland for immediate preparations for service of four Dutch life-boats and two red cross boats. These vessels were directed to wait with steam up, so that they could leave at a moment's notice. The message further says there was no explanation of this order or news of a sea-fight, but it was expected that the vessels would be instructed to proceed to the North Hinder light in the North Sea, near the Franconian border.

Queen of the Belgians

BROKEN WITH GRIEF.

London, April 10.—"I saw the Queen of the Belgians to-day," writes a Scottish soldier from the front to relatives in London. "I had gone up to the ruined cathedral with one of my officers for the afternoon service. While we were there the Queen arrived.

"She came unexpectedly. No one, so far as I know, dreamed of her coming. She was dressed with what I can only describe as religious simplicity—a severely plain costume and a tourist cap. Her companions were a Belgian officer and her physician. So far as I could hear no word was spoken.

"Her Majesty fascinated me. She was as one who is weighed down with grief; her eyes were the eyes of one who has cried long, and could cry no more. She stood looking at the burnt and battered walls of the sacred building, awe-inspired, broken, crushed. She acknowledged our salute with a melancholy smile."

Contest High Success.

Rossley's last night was crowded out to the lobby and such a grand contest. Several competitors. The first prize was won by a young lady named La Hooley, who sang "I'll be all smiles to-night" very well; Mr. Wheeler got second prize and a young lady got third prize for singing "The young man at the station." The contest was well conducted, as each amateur gets polite attention. The performance of Mr. Ballard Brown and Miss Madge Locke went with a swing; no such artists have ever appeared here. On Monday, they have another complete change. To-day the children's contest; three prizes will be given to the little ones. After there has been six Friday night competitions, then, Mr. Rossley will hold a contest with the six first prize winners, and the best of the six will receive a big money prize, or a week's engagement at a good salary.

PASSED NARROWS. — A large steamer, supposed to be an ore carrier bound to Bell Island, passed the Narrows last evening.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The schr. Studland arrived from St. John's this a.m. with a load of provisions, etc., to her owner, Mr. E. Simmons.

Mr. Michael Fleming is having a house built on the Carboncar Road on the site of the cottage, formerly occupied by the late Mr. John Shea. Messrs. Ronald Walsh and George Carson are the builders.

Messrs. Telford and Lee are building a house on Harvey Street next to the east of Braehed, for Mr. Edward Freeman. The house will be a very pretty one and quite an addition to the neighborhood.

A little boy named Byrne, of Riverhead met with a rather serious accident last week. Some older boys secured a pipe and placed a quantity of gun powder in it. Then a little tobacco, and induced the little chap to put the match to the tobacco. He did so and shortly after there was an explosion, and the powder was driven in the child's face. He was very much burned about the face, but fortunately the eyes escaped injury.

Much sympathy is felt here for Rev. and Mrs. Hollands, of Carboncar, in the death of their son while fighting for his King.

Mr. Edward Sheppard, who had been to the General Hospital, St. John's, for treatment, returned last night. He is very much improved and on the fair road to complete recovery.

What about the Harbor Grace Agricultural Society? It will soon be in order to offer a reward for its recovery. Surely it is not like Clementine, lost and gone forever. If so, it is about time to form another on more solid basis. There is a lot of work to be done this year especially and it is a shame to let this institution go to the wall. I would like to ask the officers what they are doing to keep the thing alive.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, April 6th, 1915.
ROYALTY AND EASTERTIDE.

The Easter-tide brought to the King and Queen some welcome relaxation, from the strenuous life their Majesties have been leading, practically without cessation since the war began. Her Majesty particularly was in need of a rest, for in the words of one who is closely associated with the Queen's daily programme, there "probably is not a busier lady in London than her Majesty when residing at Buckingham Palace." Most of her mornings are occupied in dealing with correspondence, which since the war has increased tenfold, interviewing, and personally conducting domestic arrangements at the Palace. In the afternoon there are ladies' deputations to the Queen of which the public hear very little indeed, for Her Majesty dislikes publicity—or a round of visits to workrooms, or a couple of hours at St. James' Palace with the members of the Needlework Guild. Indeed, there are very few minutes of the day which are not occupied. Latterly the strain has been felt by the Queen, and the relief afforded by absence from London was doubly welcome. Queen Alexandra decided to remain in town.

THE NEW EXPEDITIONARY FORCE.

When the preparations for the great combined attack by land and sea upon the defences of the Dardanelles are completed it will be found that—over and above the demands made upon us elsewhere—we shall have put into the field in this part of the world an expeditionary force of scarcely smaller dimensions than was at one time thought adequate for Continental emergencies. The command of this force has already been the subject of a good deal of speculation, but apparently the gossips at the front have finally settled it in their own minds. It is assumed that the command is to be given if it has not already been given, to General Sir H. Smith-Dorrien. One of the disintegrating forces which threaten to break down the Turkish defence is the existence of the great hope which has at last come to the Armenians that this solution of the Balkan question will not leave them out of account.

FRANCE'S EXILES.

The report that the Duke of Orleans has asked to be allowed to serve in the French army is not surprising, nor is the reported refusal of his request, though neither offer nor refusal has any great political importance. The Duke is of a Royal house it is true, but since it became

Splitting Pains in the Muscles Driven Out Quickly by "Nerviline."

Rheumatic Pains Go—Suffering Cases—Come Cures in Even Chronic Cases.

For aching bones and sore muscles nothing will soothe away the pain like Nerviline.

For nerve-racking twinges in the muscles, for torturing backache or lumbago, you'll find Nerviline is full of amazing power.

You see, Nerviline has the power—its about five times stronger than ordinary remedies, and can penetrate very deeply, it contains juices and extracts of certain herbs that give it a strange power to drive out congestion, inflammation or pain.

You are safe in using Nerviline. Just rub it on—it won't blister or burn, and can do nothing but good. Whenever there is pain or suffering Nerviline will go and will drive it out. It penetrates to every cell of a sore muscle; it sinks to the heart of every stiff sore joint; it searches out the pain of rheumatism quickly. Give Nerviline a trial. See how fast it will limber your lame back, how quickly it will cure neuralgic headache, how fast it will break up a bad cold or ease a sore throat.

The best family pain-remedy ever made is Nerviline. Forty years of great success proves this. For emergent ills, when the doctor isn't handy, there is nothing better than the 50c. family size bottle; trial size 25c., all dealers.

firmly established the Third Republic has not been intolerant of distinguished people whom it recognizes to be good Frenchmen though they may not be good Republicans. After each internal crisis in the last century there were always a number of banishments, but these have not usually been bitterly persistent. The Duke of Orleans owns property in France, or at any rate has revenue coming from it. The Empress Eugenie, widow of Louis Napoleon, used to spend a part of every year in the country where she had been Empress. Ardent and uncontrollable politicians less exalted in rank were exiled by the Republic for periods long or short. The picturesque and daring personality of Paul Deroudele, for instance, was kept out of French politics for a long time, but he was allowed to return to his country some years before he died. Generally the Republic compares in its tolerance of persons very favorably with previous regimes.

GERMAN WAR STATISTICS.

The Prussian General Staff has prepared and issued statistics with regard to the proportion of killed and wounded and the percentage of recovery from wounds in the Franco-Prussian war and the last Russo-Japanese war. In 1870-1871 there were 18 great battles, with 40 days of battle, and five engagements of the larger class and 228 of a smaller. In 1904-1905 there were four great battles, with 27 days of battle, and six larger and 37 smaller engagements. The losses in battle in killed and wounded on the side of the Russians amounted to 135,000, and on the side of the Japanese to 146,000. In the case of the Germans in the Franco-German war the losses in killed and wounded were 82,500. Reckoned on the basis of the total numbers engaged, there was an average loss per individual battle of the Russians 16.7 per cent., of the Japanese 20.4, of the Germans 7. The Prussian General Staff believes that it is justified in supposing that the battles in the Far East were more sanguinary than those of the war of 1870, not only in consequence of the long continuance of the battle, but also as a result of the improved action of weapons. The statement with regard to the proportion of those who died of diseases and wounds to the number of those treated for diseases and wounds is interesting. In the Crimean war 12.2 per cent. of all the sick among the British died, and among the French 16.4. In the Franco-Prussian war the proportion was only 3.1. In the Manchurian war, among the Russians the figure was only 2.1. It is yet too early to speak of the percentage of those who have died from wounds received in the war now in progress, but the above figures bear witness to the great improvement in military surgery and the percentage of deaths will no doubt be small by comparison with some of the campaigns to which allusion is made in the Prussian official statement.

LONDON IN WAR TIME.

The pageant of the streets of London in war time has all sorts of different lessons, according to the mind behind the eyes that watch it. An old Service man, for instance, in the course of a walk down the Strand or Whitehall will find a dozen illustrations of a governing idea where a person without any particular moral to enforce would see nothing but the cheerful sunlight falling on signs of war that once were strange but have already become ordinary. The governing idea in the mind of the old army officer, but by no means, of course, in his mind alone, is the need of more men for the army. Entering his club at the end of his morning's walk, he will give you a list of the superfluous occupations he has mentally catalogued on his way down. There was a strong-looking man polishing up the Duke of Devonshire's statue. Why could not the Duke have been left a little dimmed until the war was over? Another able-bodied man had been discovered in St. James' Park cleaning the winter's dirt off the penny chairs. Why should he not be helping to clean away the dirt of the trenches? The sight of a couple of fine horses pulling a furniture van suggested to him how much more usefully occupied they would be in bringing food from the docks. Passing a mechanic laying electric wires in the street, our patriot had asked himself why he was not, instead, somewhere in France laying a wire from the batteries to the firing-line. Street-cleaners, innocently engaged in making the place tidy, had prompted the reflection that we might well put up with a little dust until the dust of the great upheaval had been laid, and everywhere the sight of able-bodied men busy with the works of peace had disturbed the placidity of his thought with a certain patriotic irritation.

THE WAR AND LITERATURE.

Opportunities which I have recently had of learning the views of several important publishers justify the statement that there is a common feeling that after the war the outlook for imaginative literature of serious import will be brighter in some ways than it was before the war. For the time—there seems to be general agreement on the point—serious novels and other works of the same literary standing suffer more than lightly entertaining books. It is significant of much that so many even of our least warlike writers have thrown their energies of expression into articles on war topics. It is expected by publishers, however, that while during the war readers are driven to light literature for simple relief from too oppressive realities, there will be an even stronger reaction when the war ends. A tendency towards frivolous reading was said to be noticeable before the great event, and the expectation now is that the war will bring a deeper feeling into the literary interests of the general reader. Novelists with whom we talk about this probability had great difficulty in guessing the direction in which the new interest will turn. There can be few guesses in which the future development makes a greater puzzle than that of the novelist. The war itself must, of course, have some literary fruit, but soldiers at present are too pre-occupied with the making of history to be able to tell of it, and those who come over from the front are leave are reticent, almost as much from this inarticulateness of pre-occupation as from discretion.

THE HATED HALF-BRICK.

There is one Prussian officer now "convalescing" in his native country who cherishes a quite special hate for England and her methods of warfare. This officer—and I tell the story as it was told me by an American friend who heard it from the man's own lips—was recently in command of a small detachment who were holding a farm building against our men. The British attack was vigorously pressed, and one by one the Germans were killed or wounded. The officer almost alone remained unhurt to meet the final charge of the enemy, and he was preparing to sell his life as dearly as he could when a British soldier with a "disgusting chuckle" seized a "broken half-brick" and knocked him senseless. The officer (I forget how) subsequently rejoined his own army, and soon afterwards received in an orthodox fashion the wound from which he is now recovering. But the abrasion on his scalp is what is really troubling him, and he declared to my informant that it must be due to this not being considered an honorable wound that he failed to get the Iron Cross for his defence of the farm building.

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.

It is understood in official quarters in Whitehall that in consequence of the pressure of work which has developed upon His Royal Highness not only in his capacity as Governor-General but in connection with the organization and inspection of the Canadian forces, several officers are immediately to be sent out to Ottawa to join the Duke of Connaught's staff as additional members. These will represent each arm of the military service, and they will also be at the disposal of the Dominion Government for consultation purposes. Letters which have just been received here from members of the suite of the Duke and Duchess speak in glowing terms of the labors of their Royal Highnesses and Princess Patricia, and add that the health of the ducal family has seldom been better.

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES NEURALGIA.

A Millionaire's Wife.

(The Philadelphia "Public Ledger.") Not even the possession of fabulous wealth can stay the course of mortality. Perhaps the death of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller is of no great significance to the world, but it serves to recall that the simple life can be lived in spite of the embarrassment of vast wealth.

When one is determined to adhere to the elemental virtues and is content with the elementary pleasures, life ceases to be complex and distracting. It is they who deliberately cultivate a taste for the artificial, who accustom themselves to exotic stimulants, who permit themselves to be placed in rivalries that are extraneous, to whom life is taxing beyond endurance.

Clared Her Future Husband. Mrs. Rockefeller was content with old friends, familiar paths and normal occupations. She might have had anything else, everything else, that money could buy; but these gave her happiness, a quiet contentment, and a sphere of influence that she felt to be ample for her powers. And it is all so natural that it sounds amazing. Perhaps, however, it holds the lesson that American women need most to-day.

Mrs. Rockefeller was seventy-six, and had been ill for a year. Mr. Rockefeller and his son were away from home at the time of the death. In the grammar school at Cleveland she met John D. Rockefeller when they were fifteen years old, says the Chicago Tribune.

Rockefeller was a country boy. She was the daughter of one of Cleveland's leading citizens. His home was a little farmhouse, hers one of Cleveland's handsomest residences. Laura Spelman's schoolmates knew her as a quiet, studious girl who would rather read a good book than go to the theatre, as a devout church-goer, and as a girl who was always well dressed in good taste. At high school she caused some surprise by taking not only the prescribed course but book-keeping and other commercial studies little pursued by young women in those days.

During the days of Rockefeller's early manhood, when he saw his hopes of a college education fade away, and soon thereafter, when he tramped the streets of Cleveland for weeks in a seemingly hopeless search for work, Miss Spelman encouraged and cheered him. Soon after he had established himself as a bookkeeper at $500 a year—she left Cleveland to complete her education at Worcester, Mass. She returned when she was twenty years old and taught in Cleveland's public school.

In 1882 Miss Spelman became assistant principal of the school. Rockefeller, absorbed in business, took the books of his firm to her of an evening, and together they would go over his affairs. Both of them were interested together in church work, too; she as a Congregationalist, he as a Baptist.

Young Rockefeller prospered beyond his fairest hopes. As soon as he felt that he could ask her to become his wife he did so. They were married on September 8, 1864, the eve of her twenty-fifth birthday, and started to keep house in a little two-story brick residence on one of Cleveland's side streets. Upon her marriage Miss Spelman became a Baptist, and to her religion and her home she devoted her entire time.

To be a good wife and mother is the highest and hardest privilege of a woman, was one of the sayings accredited to her by the little circle of friends she knew at this time. The borders of her world were her home. Her whole life was wrapped up in her husband and children.

Frugal Even When Rich. When Mr. Rockefeller's wealth was mentioned in seven figures they left their first home for a residence remarkable only for its unpretentiousness, on Euclid Avenue, Cleveland's "mile of millions." Here Mrs. Rockefeller reared her four children; a fifth died in infancy.

The training given the Rockefeller children by their mother is declared to have been almost Spartan.

"AND I AM SATISFIED."

(By H. M., in the Times, London.) They told a Spartan woman long ago Her son had fallen as he faced the foe. And "bury him," she said, with steadfast face "And let the younger brother take his place."

They told a woman yesterday in France Her son was killed. She flashed a sudden glance From shining eyes. And "promise me," she cried, "Victory to France; and I am satisfied."

Germany's Torpedoes.

Germany was one of the very first nations to recognize the possibilities of the torpedo. She began to create a torpedo flotilla in the late seventies of the last century, under the direction of the present Naval Secretary, Grand-Admiral von Tirpitz. In 1880 or the following year the firm of Schwartzkopf had produced a torpedo which, it was claimed, far surpassed the best Whitehead model in speed and accuracy. This weapon, which was approximately 14 in. in diameter, was purchased by the State, and continued to be the standard German model for many years. Meanwhile the construction of fast and weatherly torpedo-boats was carried on with great energy. As early as 1892 the surprising efficiency of the German flotillas was attracting the attention of foreign observers, among them the late Sir William Laird Clowes, who paid tribute to the skill with which the torpedo was handled in the German service. A few years later an impenetrable veil of secrecy was cast over the development of this arm, and practically nothing was known of subsequent improvements.

Odd Fishes.

It is said that at one time the Icelanders taught tame bears to jump into the sea and catch seals. In China birds do equally well, for at a signal they dive into the lakes and bring up large fish grasped in their bills. In Greece the fishermen use branches of pine steeped in pitch and lighted; the inhabitants of Amorgos used cypress-leaved cedar, which served, when lighted, as a lure; and the Chinese fish in the night with white-painted boards placed in a manner to reflect the rays of the moon upon the water. These attract the fish to the boat, when the men cast a large net and seldom fail to draw out considerable quantities. Anchovies are fished for in a similar manner.

I like a rattling story of whiskered buccaneers, whose ships are black and gory, who cut off people's ears. A yarn of Henry Morgan warms up my jaded heart, and makes that ancient organ feel young and brave and smart. I like detective fiction, it always hits the spot, however poor in diction, however punk in plot; I like the sleuth who follows a clue o'er hill and vale, until the victim swallows his medicine in jail. I like all stories ripping, in which some folks are killed, in which the guns go zipping, and everyone is thrilled. But when I have some callers, I hide those books away, those good old soul enthrallers which make my evenings gay. I blush for them, by jingo, and all their harmless games; I talk the highbrow lingo, and swear by Henry James. When sitting in my shanty, to "have my picture took," I hold a work by Dante, or other heavy book. But when the artist's vanished, I drop those dippy pomes, old Dante's stuff is banished—I reach for Sherlock Holmes.

A BIG RAID ON FAKE PHYSICIANS.

New York, April 22.—Police authorities said to-day that one of the fifty-four operators of medical museums and their assistants arrested here yesterday in one of the most sweeping raids upon alleged medical imposters ever conducted in this city, had promised to appear in court to-day and make a confession. His statement, the police asserted, will reveal the workings of a system of national scope for extorting money by fraudulent physicians and false methods of diagnosis. The chief operator of the museums under arrest here is alleged by the police to have accumulated a fortune of more than $1,000,000 by operating a chain of medical offices with free museums as "feeders" in New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and half a dozen other cities.
